Richmond Fair A Great Success

More Than 5,000 Attend 2nd Day Of 100th Anniversary Fair

World News In Brief

NICOSIA, Cyprus — (Reuters) — British authorities today were reported planning on a one-month "wait and see" period before responding officially to the Greek Cypriot underground army's surprise truce announcement.

If anti-British violence does die out during this trial period, emergency tactics such as curfews and collective punishments on Cypriot communities may be relaxed in return, sources close to the government of this British Mediterranean island said.

JERUSALEM — (AP) — United Nations truce observers today pushed investigation of new violence along the Israeli-Egyptian frontier.

Truce team members said nine Egyptian soldiers were killed in two Israeli attacks Thursday night inside the Egyptian-held Gaza strip, and gunfire was reported continuing Friday. Egypt earlier charged Israel with the attacks.

VICTORIA — (CP) — Lt. Gen. Ernest Charles Ashton, 82, former inspector-general of Canadian militia forces, died at his home here Friday.

WINNIPEG — (CP) — Thirty-one forest fires are cutting a swath of destruction in northern Manitoba in what forestry officials describe as one of the worst fire seasons in recent years.

RICHMOND — For the second day in a row, the weatherman smiled on Richmond Fair grounds yesterday to help make this year's 100th anniversary celebration the most successful fair in many years.

An estimated 5,000 people entered the grounds in the morning and afternoon, while countless more were on hand last night.

With the midway at last in full swing, a large program of events was held yesterday and the grounds were the scene of continuous activity. Scores of youngsters, disappointed with a non-operating midway on opening day, had a special treat in store when fair officials announced a second Children's Day to be held Saturday afternoon with the usual price reductions.

During the afternoon, horse races were held in front of the grandstand, with several acts of the Gus Sun Vaudeville Show in between. G. Adamson, of Richmond, won all four heats of the race program, ending up with $160 of the $400 purse.

Later in the afternoon horse and cattle parades were held on the track. Leading the cattle parade was the Richmond Harmony Band, on hand for the three days of the fair. Following the band was Fred Gallup, director of the fair for 62 years.

The Richmond 4-H Calf Club members paraded their calves and were followed by remaining cattle exhibits, which included three Jersey herds; seven Ayrshire herds; five Holstein, one Aberdeen Angus, and one Shorthorn. The sole Canadian Cattle entry of the fair, owned by Otis Fowler, of Kingsbury, was not in the parade.

Big event of the middle day program was the huge Red and White show, put on by the St. Francis District Ayrshire Club, of which Tom Ride, of Hatley, is president. Seven Ayrshire herds, totalling 92 head of cattle, attended the affair, judging of which was held in the arena from early morning.

Earl Jess, of Howick, acted as Ayrshire judge, while Gerard Drouin, of Sherbrooke, was clerk.

Championship honors were fairly well-divided at the end of the day, although Douglas Johnston, of Stanstead, appeared to dominate the class with a total of 12 firsts, including the senior and junior herd prizes and the junior champion female.

Tom Ride and Son, of Hatley, took the grand champion female and junior champion bull prizes, while grand champion bull was owned by John Johnston, of Massawippi. (Complete results are listed at the end.)

Judging in most classes was completed yesterday. In the horses, H. E. Perkins, of Greenley, led the Clydesdale class, while Rosario Bernier led in the Percherons.

In the beef cattle, Lorne Skilken took every Hereford class, while Otis Fowler, of Kingsbury, led the Canadians. Shorthorn honors went to Robert Simpson. Ashley Stalker and Archie B. Lyster walked off with honors in the Leicester sheep class, while the Lyster brothers from South Durham took all the Hampshire downs prizes, and H. A. Fowler the Cheviots.

O. A. Fowler led the Yorkshire sowne class and Berkshire honors were divided among L. L. Healy, Clarence Pease and Ashley Stalker.

In the Women's Department, Miss Ruby Gallup walked off with the Sherbrooke Record Prize for the largest number of prizes in the specified sewing classes, while Record prizes for the fancy work went to Miss B. Blanchette and Mrs. R. Bechar. Mrs. L. Driver won another Sherbrooke Record prize for the best collection of cooking and preserves while Mrs. Leslie Healy led the preserve and pickling class.

Kefauver Gets V-P Nomination After Stiff Battle From Kennedy

By GEORGE KITCHEN

CHICAGO — CP — The Democratic party, after a forgo-and-forget windup to their national convention, headed today towards the Nov. 6 United States general election with a refurbished platform and a politically seasoned presidential team.

Heading the ticket is 56-year-old Adlai E. Stevenson, the former governor of Illinois, who scored a smashing first-ballot victory in winning his second nomination as the party's presidential candidate. He led the Democrats against the Republicans in the 1952 election.

His running mate will be 53-year-old Estes Kefauver, the Tennessee senator who scored national headlines five years ago as chairman of the U. S. Senate's crime investigating committee. He joined Stevenson on the ticket with an equally impressive win for the vice-presidential nomination.

As the Democratic convention closed up shop, the political spotlight swung immediately to San Francisco, where the Republicans open their convention Monday. They are expected to put President Eisenhower at the top of their slate, with Vice-President Richard M. Nixon in the second spot.

The Democrats, who had been fighting one another here all week, put on a big closing night in the huge stockyards International Amphitheatre.

They cheered and applauded Stevenson as he called for an end to "aimless drifting" in Washington and promised a Washington looking toward a "great, decisive era" of world progress.

Kefauver, who late Friday won a close and drama-filled race with Senator John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts for the vice-presidential nomination, shared the centre of the stage with Stevenson.

The 5,000 delegates and other party followers heard the acceptance speeches of the Stevenson-Kefauver team and a denunciation of the Republican administration by Harry S. Truman, the old fire horse from Missouri.

Truman, who launched a step-Stevenson movement in the early stages, performed a remarkable flip-flop as he came before the convention Friday night.

He was there, he said, to give Stevenson his "full" support. "Governor Stevenson is a real fighter, and I ought to know," Truman added. "Any man who can take this convention the way he did should be able to take the Republicans next fall. He's given some of us a pretty good licking, and he's going to give Eisenhower a better one."

Stevenson, given a rafter-raising 15-minute ovation as he appeared on the convention floor to accept the nomination formally, launched a blistering attack on the Eisenhower administration and called for a "rebirth of leadership" so, as he put it, the U.S. can "be herself again."

Dulles Meets Shepilov In Private Session

LONDON (AP) — Whether the 22-country conference on the Suez Canal controversy ends in an East-West split or a compromise was expected to be decided today in a series of private talks scheduled by the foreign ministers of Russia and the Western Big Three.

State Secretary Dulles of the United States was to hold a closed-door meeting with Russia's Foreign Minister Shepilov before today's conference session. They presumably planned to discuss Shepilov's major speech before the conference Friday denouncing the West's management plan for the canal.

But it was felt in advance that the private exchange might lead to some compromise.

Prior to meeting Shepilov, Dulles was slated to confer with Britain's Selwyn Lloyd and France's Christian Pineau.

In the big conference hall at Lancaster House, India's foreign minister, L. K. Krishna Menon, and Lloyd were expected to take the floor at the full conference session.

Here was the issue as it stood after two days of conference sessions.

Egypt, backed by Russia and her Eastern friends, wants to keep hold of the waterway that President Nasser nationalized July 26.

The Western powers want to get the canal management into the hands of an international authority.

Some moves were made Friday towards a compromise of views.

Apparently speaking for the West, Pineau said he would recognize the canal as Egyptian property if Egypt would turn over management to an international body that would guarantee freedom of passage.

Reported reflecting Egypt's viewpoint, Shepilov said he was ready to discuss international co-operation in applying guarantees of free passage through the canal. Such co-operation, he said, might make the whole business simpler.

But he added that all this would have to be discussed with Egypt.

In what some sources termed the only new point in his hour-long speech, Shepilov, proposed a six-power "preparatory commission" of the Big Four, Egypt and India. Its job would be to set up a 46-country canal conference as Egypt has proposed.

This Week's News In Review

The conference to find a way out of the Suez imbroglio opened Thursday in London. The Western powers are working for a solution that will protect the West's interests and at the same time satisfy Egyptian pride.

U. S. State Secretary Dulles was chosen as the West's chief spokesman. He proposed an international board, tied to the United Nations, to operate the canal. Egypt would be on it.

The Egyptian representative at the conference — not an official delegate but much in evidence as an "observer" — said Egypt never would accept that.

Egypt's idea is that an international board might "supervise" the canal. But Egypt would run it. In other words, the international agency wouldn't have any real authority.

While the two sides were far apart in their expressed positions, there were strong economic reasons for a compromise. Egypt's stated purpose in nationalizing the canal was to get the canal revenue. Without Western shipping, there wouldn't be much of this.

Egypt also needs the continued services of the engineers, technicians and pilots — nearly all Europeans — who keep the canal in operation.

At the same time the West needs the canal short-cut from the Middle East oil fields.

In the hope of whittling down Egyptian resistance to the West-ern plan, France sponsored modifications. These would give emphasis to Egyptian "ownership" of the canal. And there would be guarantees that all the profits would go to Egypt.

DEMOCRATS NOMINATE

Adlai Stevenson, a former governor of Illinois, was the strongest contender when the Democratic party met in convention at Chicago last Monday to pick a candidate for the presidency in the November election.

Stevenson accumulated strength day by day, and won the nomination the first ballot when the roll of the states was called Thursday night. It was a severe setback to the political influence of former President Truman, who backed a loser — Governor Harriman of New York.

The Republican party picks its man in San Francisco next week. Who else but Ike? So, as in 1952, it will be Eisenhower vs Stevenson when the big day rolls around Nov. 6.

CYPRUS SURPRISE
From Cyprus, a surprise. Leaflets appeared on the streets of Nicosia, the island capital, purporting to come from EOKA, the underground terrorist organization. They said EOKA was calling a truce to avoid further bloodshed and afford a chance for discussion of a solution of the Cyprus problem.

At its best, the development could mean a new opportunity to get rid of one of the West's most troublesome sore spots.

SESSION ENDS
Members of Parliament are on vacation. The parliamentary session ended Tuesday. It had lasted since early January, making it the second longest since Confederation.

There was the pipeline bill, enacted after a long and bitter struggle by the opposition against it. The impartiality of Mr. Speaker Beaudoin was called into question, but his proffered resignation was brushed aside by the prime minister.

$500 Donated By Boundary Rotary To Swim Project

ROCK ISLAND — The directors of the Rotary Club of the Boundary voted a donation of $500 to the Frontier Swimming Project, at their meeting this week.

It was felt by the club that this is a very important and worthwhile project which deserves the support of all of the people of the Boundary communities.

In its work of teaching swimming and water-safety during the past several years, a very large number of local boys and girls have learned to overcome their fear of water, as well as learning swimming and life-saving.

Unfortunately, the support of the people of the Boundary communities has not been as generous as was expected and the project would have had to be discontinued if this donation had not been made.

It is hoped that the gift from the local Rotary Club will stimulate other people and organizations to rally to the support of the Frontier Swimming Project and make it possible to continue it in 1957.

Wildlife Hereabouts

By DR. A. N. LANGFORD Professor of Biology, Bishop's University

BIRDS OF THE MONTEZUMA NATIONAL WILDLIFE REFUGE, NEW YORK
Cornell University, Ithaca, New York. The north end of Cayuga Lake the New York Thruway crosses the 5819-acre Montezuma National Wildlife Refuge. In addition to 37 species which are rare to accidental, 207 distinct species of birds may be seen quite regularly in this small area. This compares with approximately 200 species, including the rare ones, that may be expected within a 50 mile radius of Sherbrooke. Of the Montezuma birds one hundred and five species breed within the relatively small area of the refuge. Breeding in the marsh are many grebes, American bitterns, least bitterns, marsh hawks, blue-winger teal, mallards, black ducks, rails, gallinules, coots, common terns, black terns and marsh wrens and smaller numbers of ruddy ducks and other species of ducks. In the flooded timberland of the reservoir area is a large herony with both great blue herons and black-crowned night herons. In this same area a few bald eagles have their nests.

When we visited the refuge the water birds held the center of attraction. At almost any moment one could expect to see flocks of ten, twenty, or thirty or more ducks, mostly blacks and mallards, coming in from the distance or flying along above the reeds, suddenly to set their wings and drop into a stretch of water. Here and there, close to the dikes, were small families of coots, the young swimming slowly among the reeds, prying everywhere, learning to forage for food, but still receiving some from their parents. The large, conspicuous, high, white bill serves alone for the identification of this otherwise slate grey, hen-sized bird, in our waters. Hunters and birdwatchers of the Eastern Townships are more familiar with the closely related Florida Gallinule, similar to the coot in general appearance, but with a prominent crimson bill as its chief distinguishing feature. Until the deepening of the St. Lawrence began gallinules could be seen, commonly, from the St. Lambert approach to the Victoria Bridge, swimming about close to shore with head and neck moving back and forth on rhythmic fashion. Coots are rare at Montreal and on Lake Magog but at Montezuma they seemed to be everywhere and in a few hours we had seen one hundred or more.

Far out on the water were five pairs of redheads, a duck that we would expect to be well to the north and west at this time of year. Later enquiry revealed the fact that young redheads had been moved to and released at Montezuma a few years ago. In due course they migrated south, returned, stayed for the summer, some of them nesting in their new "homes." This interesting experiment in duck transplantation has also been carried out with mallards, gadwalls and the beautiful little ruddy ducks. All of these now summer at the refuge. Gadwalls have been increasing in numbers and mallards are now abundant. In a similar manner six-week-old mallards were liberated some years ago in tiny Fuertes Park at the edge of Ithaca. Now they breed freely in the area and small groups of them may be seen on the lake, close to shore, at almost any hour of the day. A small, suitable, protected area seems to be the chief requirement for a project of this sort.

As we drove along the dikes more than fifty herons flew up, often from spots very close to the road. The striking American egret, pure white, once close to extinction, have made a remarkable comeback and now wander, annually in some considerable numbers, as far as Ontario and Quebec. On this particular day about thirty of them stood out as white sentinels on the nearly dry storage pool of the refuge. Such is Montezuma's interest today but it really comes into its own during the waterfowl migrations, whose peaks are during the first two weeks of April and the last two weeks of October. Several thousand Canada geese use the refuge and as many as 10,000 ducks may be seen there at one time. That is when we would like to return to Montezuma.

See Slow-Down In Boom

The Canadian economy, now running at the fastest rate in its history, may slow down in the second half of this year, according to a Mid-year Economic Review contained in The Canadian Bank of Commerce current letter.

The report predicts that while there will be further expansion of both physical output and volume of credit in the second half, a possible steel shortage and continued restraint on credit could be major factors in a slowing up of the expansion rate.

Difficulties such as these, plus inclement weather, labor shortages, and a shortage of available funds, make it seem probable that the present $8,000,000,000 estimate of 1956 capital expenditure intentions will not be realized. "A large carryover into 1957 of expenditures planned for this year now seems likely," the report states, "and should ensure a continued high level of capital spending next year."

The Bank review emphasizes that there are inflationary dangers for the future should the supply of money outrun the supply of goods and services. "The two must walk hand in hand if momentum is to maintain its steady pace; for if one should outstrip the other, the steady growth of our prosperity could become badly distorted."

Though the overall economy may decline in the second half of the year, some degree of stability is promised by the regional outlook, the report says. With a good grain crop shaping up and wheat exports increasing, for instance, the prairie agricultural "soft spot" is improving, and resources development in the west, particularly oil and gas, is having an increased effect. The maritime economy is also showing signs of improvement, with mining and power development the key note.

In the central provinces the schedule of construction work on major projects, industrial construction and resource development, combined with good crop prospects, should promote a high level of business activity.

Public confidence in the future is reflected in the continued growth of consumer credit. The total outstanding debt has increased since the beginning of the year at a greater rate than total income, due in part to expansion of automobile loans.

"But," says the report, "the size of the consumer's personal debts, although greater than it was six months ago, does not appear to have achieved alarming proportions in relation to the sustained high level of earnings. Should it threaten to do so, monetary policy may be expected to bring the necessary restrictions into operation."

Restraints already imposed—such as the recent increase in the bank rate to 3 1/4 per cent—have exerted a downward pressure on the rate of credit expansion, and while they have not prevented a further over-all increase in bank loans since the beginning of the year, it is expected that the policy of "containment" will show more visible results in the months to come.

Scent Sense

Scientists always have their noses to the ground, as far as research goes, and one of the more out-of-the-way trails they have been following has led to some rather interesting facts regarding the smelling apparatus of the human being, and the related properties of scents.

It appears that, for one thing, women are not the owners of more sensitive noses than their husbands, despite historic and vehement pronouncements to the contrary. In the matter of smells, women may be more particular, and more discriminating, but experiments reveal that men, when called upon to do so, can pick out far smaller and more odoriferous substances than women can.

So it is no accident that most scent experts are men. Some of these have snowballed their expertise into a fortune by offering expensive little ounces of their perfume to women, who, in turn, endeavour to use it to confound and bewitch those very men whose sense of smell is supposed to be acuter.

This is a clear case of a little expertise being a dangerous thing, as far as men are concerned. On the other hand, women's powers in this direction are somewhat blunted by their continual use of perfume through the ages, it is theorized.

In spite of this knowledge, the sense of smell is still a rather mysterious attribute. The merest whiff of a certain odor can bring nostalgic memories of people, places, or some long past happy event. Conversely, it may conjure up unpleasant recollections.

But at the same time, it is really impossible for anyone to convey to someone else details of an odor sensation with which one is familiar. We can measure color in wave lengths, sound in pitch or tone, noise in decibels, but we have nothing by which to measure scents. An onion smells like an onion, and that's all that can be said about its odor.

Some of our nose-to-the-ground scientists have tried to remedy this gap in scientific description. They have invented a numerical scale built up of four basic odors—fragments, sour, burnt, and putrid.

On this scale, a rose has the odor 6423, meaning six degrees of fragrance out of 10, four degrees of sourness, two degrees of burnt, and three degrees of putrid.

Roasted coffee on this scale is 7693, and so on.

Every substance has a reference number by which everyone can recognize it.

All this has certain interesting implications. Imagine one of these scent experts coming home to his wife. "You smell lovely," he will undoubtedly exclaim, "exactly 9110. Come closer." And to his small son as he enters the room after a hard day's play. "What's this? Exactly 0119. Go and have a bath!"

Another Sea "Deep"

By Rev. E. S. Murray, M. A.

Let us get on our wings of imagination and, returning to the sea-side, continue our musings on Depth—a profound subject I grant you.

Easy isn't it?—to think of the surface which we can see but to concentrate on the depth, the unseen, which has to be skillfully measured is another matter requiring deep thought and consequently is very often avoided. Isn't it all so true that in life we too often take the line of least resistance and in our preference for scanning surfaces, pass over those eternal truths, embedded in the deep and reap what we sow, ineffective, shallow, unsatisfying living? I am, therefore, pleading for a sense of spiritual depth.

Michah's Depths of the Sea. Now there is one name in the Old Testament I always associate with the depths of the sea. It is Michah's. To those, then—who are these now—who were greatly troubled and in sorrow because of their sins, God, by the Holy Spirit, inspired the prophet Michah to write such words as these: "Who is a God like unto thee, that pardoneth iniquity...? He will have compassion upon us; He will subdue thy iniquities and thou wilt cast all thy sins into the depths of the sea!" (Michah 7: 18-19).

The Depths of the sea! There are unfathomable depths to the ocean into which whatever is cast can never be recovered, nor brought to the surface; it is beyond the reach of tides to cast up what has been consigned to the jealous hold of the deep sea. Such is the figure of the abounding love and forgiveness of God. Sad, isn't it, that there are far too many who are living in Life's Blunderland, Fools' Paradise, insisting that they have no sin? Such deceive themselves, and have not the truth. The good news the Saviour brought still stands. If we confess our sins, God is faithful and just to forgive us our sins and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness (1 John; 3, 9). Truly "Who is a God like unto Thee?"

Forgiveness Depends On One afternoon a group of young swimmers kept interrupting my thinking. They were so jolly, so full of life, so everything. Some could swim, others just splashed about. Now, in order to swim effectively one must discipline oneself and meet certain conditions. So, too, with the doctrine of the Forgiveness of Sins, we must discipline ourselves spiritually and meet certain biblical conditions. This is just where so many miss the point. I have met people and received letters from others who insist that if we know that God forgives sin, then why not keep on sinning?

Undoubtedly, these have not heard of nor been convinced by the need of the two pre-requisites for forgiveness; namely, repentance and faith. These are two musts which by the daily exercise of our spiritual muscles, we will be able to swim in, and across the sea of Life, forgiven and forgiving.

How can anyone, with a sensitive and educated conscience, keep on sinning who has heard from or read in the Bible how our Pure and Holy God so hated sin which estranged us from Him that His all-loving heart prompted Him to send His beloved son into the world to save sinners. Deliberate sin indicates a lack of clear thinking. Sin, which cost the Son of God His life on the cross is surely a serious matter.

Listen! Everywhere, from simple mission halls to stately cathedrals I hear millions of voices singing "There is a fountain filled with blood, drawn from Emmanuel's veins, and sinners plunged beneath that flood lose all their guilty stains" (Zach 13: 1)—provided they meet the conditions, repentance and faith. These demand that you repent truly for your sins past, have a lively and steadfast faith in Christ, our Saviour; amend your lives and "be in perfect charity with all men." This will not be an easy accomplishment but will require straight thinking and disciplined living. But it can be done with God's help.

St. Paul encouraged us with his declaration that we can do all things through Christ who strengthens us (Phil. 4-13). Then, too, you will find the story of One who lived as Perfect Man, the Son of God—recorded in His Book, the Holy Bible, and imitating Him and catching His forgiving Spirit go forth along the pilgrim road, forgiven and forgiving, Heavenward bound. God Forgives and Forgets. Forgiveness then does not necessarily mean the removal of the physical and social consequences of sin, or the removal of the scars that sin has left. There is no such thing as impunity, that is freedom from punishment. Forgiveness, you see, has to do with the sense of separation from God. It means that the barrier of alienation is removed and the forgiven sinner restored to the father's fellowship. Forgiveness does not take away the fact of sin nor the memory of sin; but it establishes a new personal relationship in which sin and its consequences are annulled, and transcended. And wonder of wonders all this without money and without price."

I invite you to investigate this free gift, this abounding love and forgiveness of God which Michah compared to the "depths of the sea." Yea, our God forgives and forgets. God's punishment is His pardon; His revenge; His Forgiveness.

I dare you to walk in the steps of the Master for if we walk in the light as He is in the light, we have fellowship one with another and the blood of Jesus Christ His Son goes on cleansing us from all sin.

Aware that we are forgiven, we in turn may forgive—even ourselves. Let us be ready and willing at the suggestion and under the direction of the Holy Spirit to make reparation as far as we can. Like Zacchaeus (Luke 19:2) so shall we lead the pilgrims and form our souls for heaven.

A Deep Peace Then we can know a deep peace, a great sense of release from any fear or doubt and confirmed and strengthened in all goodness, go forward, new men in Christ, heirs of salvation, purchases of God, champions of righteousness, saved by grace through faith.

If from musing about the depths of the sea, we convince ourselves of our modern need for a sense of depth which we can acquire by digging deeply in the Holy Bible and by the proper use of "the Means of Grace" with the accent on prayer, meditation, service, a need to live deeply, then I salute the sea and its message of forgiveness associated with Michah's "depths of the sea."

SOME TAKING IT EASY.

(Peterborough Examiner.) Another long session of Parliament, right into the heart of Summer. Dear, dear, the poor, hard-driven parliamentarians.

O well, some of them will remember the post-war years when two sessions of Parliament were held each year, primarily, it seemed, to allow members to draw double pay. That was before the sessional remuneration was increased. Now they sit in only one session to draw their $10,000 ($2,000 of it tax-free.)

Al! Summer? No, no: why wear oneself out? Many of the members are taking holidays anyway. In the important debate on the death penalty and automatic right of appeal to the Supreme Court the total number of members who could be mustered to vote, out of a House of 265 seats, was 99.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by Horace B. Powell

STAND UP, STAND UP FOR JESUS

Stand up, stand up for Jesus, Ye soldiers of the Cross; Lift High His royal banner, It must not suffer loss; From victory unto victory His army He shall lead, Till every foe is vanquished, And Christ is Lord indeed.

Stand up, stand up for Jesus, The trumpet call obey; Forth to the mighty conflict In this, His glorious day; Ye that are men, now serve Him Against unnumbered foes; Your courage rise with danger, And strength to strength oppose.

Stand up, stand up for Jesus, The strife will not be long; This day the noise of battle, The next the victor's song; To him that overcometh A crown of life shall be; He with the King of glory Shall reign eternally.

"Stand Up, Stand Up For Jesus!"

The days which immediately preceded the beginning of the War between the States in America were days of great spiritual awakening and revival for the city of Philadelphia. A city-wide evangelistic crusade was in progress. One of its most zealous leaders was the Reverend Dudley A. Tyng, a young preacher scarcely out of college, who in 1857 had organized a small congregation to hold meetings in a public hall.

In 1858, when the revival which men later were to recall as "the work of God in Philadelphia" was at its height, the youthful pastor made a great impression with a noon-day sermon which he preached one day in a downtown meeting hall to an audience of more than 5,000 men. He took as his text Exodus 10:11 "Go now, ye that are men, and serve the Lord!" More than 1,000 of his hearers were converted at the service.

Little did the earnest young evangelist dream that he was preaching in the shadow of death, that his days of standing up for Jesus were numbered. Less than a week after his successful spiritual rally, he was fatally injured when his arm was crushed in a corn shelling machine.

As death neared a group of Mr. Tyng's close friends gathered at his bedside. The dying clergyman called for a hymn and began himself to sing Augustus Toplady's beautiful lyric, "Rock of Ages." Some of those in the little group mastered their emotions sufficiently to join in the song and when it was ended the evangelist's father, the Reverend Stephen H. Tyng, asked his son whether he did not have some message to leave with his comrades.

The young face on the pillow was transfused as the brave soldier of the cross whispered his dying words:

"Tell them to stand up for Jesus!"

And that is how Dr. George Duffield, a member of the bedside group, came to write his memorable hymn.

On the following Sunday morning Dr. Duffield, a Presbyterian minister, preached in his own pulpit from the text in Ephesians 6:14: "Stand, therefore, having your loins girt about with truth and having on the breastplate of righteousness." He closed his sermon by reading to his congregation the words of "Stand Up, Stand Up For Jesus!"

Like many another poet of the church, Dr. Duffield wrote his hymn without effort and without the thought of turning out a religious lyric. But a Sunday school superintendent had the verses printed for use by pupils of his school and, not long afterward, a Baptist magazine came up one of the prints and published the hymn for its readers.

The finest tribute ever paid to Dr. Duffield's hymn came from an anonymous writer who said: "Strange that a short hymn, struck off in an hour or two as a fitting peroration to a funeral sermon on a young minister who had come to a tragic end, should be so honored as to overshadow all the author's works. What are all his other works compared to this martial song so hastily written, so strangely born?"

When all his other works shall have been forgotten, when the walls of the grand churches to which he ministered for so many years have fallen, this noble lyric written in the white heat of a grand elate hour will be a power in the land.

DEFEAT SEEDS IN JUMPY BIDS

South's opening bid of four hearts on a six-card suit is somewhat unorthodox, but very commendable. The hand is strong enough in playing strength and weak enough in defensive strength to warrant a shut-out bid. It is quite possible for North to have some such hand as the king of clubs and one side ace and produce a good play for four hearts when the opponents are absolutely cold for four spades! North's gambling effort. If South could produce seven running heart tricks, a favorable lead might give him 12 tricks with the aid of North's five tricks in the black suits. Moreover, South might be void of diamonds and thus have a lay-down play for the slam.

Jump bidding of this sort should always suggest the possibility that two aces are missing. An experienced player would open the ace of hearts from the West hand in the hope of seeing the best continuation of inspecting the dummy. The diamond switch would be obvious, and the slam would be defeated. When the hand was played in a recent team match, the West player didn't think of opening the ace of trumps. He stewed unhappily for a few moments and then opened a club.

South joyfully won in his hand with the queen of clubs, ran two spades to discard the diamond, and knocked out the ace of hearts. The rest was easy.

CARD SENSE
Q—The bidding has been:
North East South West

What do you do?
A—Bid four no-trump. You use the Blackwood Convention to find out how many aces partner has. You will stop at five spades, if he has only one ace; go to six, if he has two aces; and bid seven, if he has all three.

TODAY'S QUESTION

The bidding is the same as in the question just answered. You, South, hold:
Spades K-Q-J-4-2, Hearts A-K-Q-6-3-2, Diamonds None, Clubs 6-2.

Continued From Page One. the challenge of the vast social revolution that is sweeping the world." The Stevenson nomination never was seriously in doubt, though Truman tried to sidetrack his handwagon by sponsoring 64-year-old Governor Averell Harriman of New York state for the presidential prize. Stevenson after his nomination touched off a wild scramble for the vice-presidential post by turning over to the convention his prerogative of naming his own running mate. Kefauver, who twice has tried for the presidential nomination and gave up in favor of Stevenson, clinched second place Friday on the second ballot. He scored a 744-600 victory over the youthful Kennedy, whose star rose brightly and briefly during the second roll call of states, then faded quickly as sentiment shifted to Kefauver. Almost everybody who was anybody in the party got into the harmony act Friday night before the show was over. As the star of the televised presentation, Stevenson laid down the pattern of an aggressive campaign to sell a "old Truman." Stevenson told America: "I am glad to have you on my side again, sir." Truman had touched off waves of laughter by saying earlier that "some stupid fellow I won't name" had been predicting that Stevenson couldn't beat Eisenhower.

Planning For Return To Learning Is Family Affair

Careers, Clothes Involved In Preparations For Coming Term

Parents of all the children are confronted with a stimulating challenge this year, to match the enthusiasm of the youngsters themselves in planning for the start of another new school term which is scheduled to begin in just a few short weeks.

The challenge is the natural outgrowth of the persistent program of emphasis over the past ten or fifteen years, on the importance of education, as a matter of self interest and duty to the nation.

This, together with the progress educators have made in converting school time activities from routine drudgery, to exciting adventure, has made a profound impression on all age groups.

Whereas once upon a time the approach of a new term was greeted with petulant reluctance, and occasionally with open defiance from youth impatient to get out on their own in the adult world, boys and girls now show not only a sincere eagerness for more schooling; they actually begin making plans for the new term before the old one has ended.

Involved in the planning of teen agers and the college bound—those numbers mount to record peaks this year—are serious thoughts of careers, as well as the accumulation of new wardrobes and needed school supplies.

Beginners and grade schoolers, happily infected by the new trend, and stimulated by a world of exciting new subjects being taught in exciting new ways, also are looking forward to the new term.

Resurgence of family life during the past fifteen years, with its annually mounting birth rates means enrollments will surge forward at all age levels everywhere again this year. More than 3,000,000 beginners start school anew annually now. Fewer children drop out. A flood alike to a wealth of information both will need in planning to get ready for the return to learning.

First on the agenda is probably the last thing the youngsters themselves would think of—their physical conditions.

What better time than now, before school starts, for the annual check-up by the family physician, for a visit to the dentist, for an examination of the eyes or fitting of new glasses.

Then there are back to school wardrobes to be replenished, and here parents are in for a pleasant surprise. The children themselves, all over the country, are taking the initiative in leading a reform movement that means a shift from the sloppy fads of the past to neatness and good grooming.

This trend is being hailed by parents and educators alike for the fact that it is in keeping with the objectives of education instead of contrary to them.

Selecting school clothes for the children now, instead of waiting until the last minute rush sets in, is in the full spirit of the new approach to family life which grants children the right of participation in making decisions affecting them. The children are available now to go along for fittings and to have a voice in selection.

The need for school time supplies such as school bags, note books, pens and pencils—all really more than classroom needs—can be best filled most efficiently now rather than waiting until later.

Because children grow so rapidly, the time to check on brother's and sister's own room is before, not after school starts. Part of their learning is having well equipped rooms of their own for study as well as sleeping, and also to take care of.

School children need adequate restful beds, a desk at which to work in privacy, cabinets and shelves for their personal possessions, and a decor that will make them proud when their school mates visit for a gab fest or to spend the night.

This is a stock taking time for parents, for the start of a new school year is the resumption of the normal careers of children.

MAGOG'S BILL CONNOR TO COMPLETE IN C.N.E. SWIM
A projected $27,000 Lake Ontario marathon swim late this month will be restricted to 10 top-notch swimmers and among them Billy "Windmill" Connor of Magog.

This will be Billy's second attempt at the famous lake as last week he paddled 19 miles before his coach, who is his mother, ordered him out of the water. A fund is being organized to help Billy finance his attempt in the rich race and donations can be sent to the Record or direct to Mrs. Connor of Magog.

Billy completed the Newport-Magog swim across Memphremagog on the only one to go the full distance. He is a member of the Canadian Navy and has been training at Hamilton for the past few months in preparation for the coming marathon. His first attempt gave him a very good idea just what he will be up against.

The main reason why the race is being limited to ten is for safety reasons. More than thirty entries have already been received and the committee will release the names immediately after the deadline for entries. It is believed besides Billy, England's Brenda Fisher, who made the crossing last week, Tom Park, Grete Anderson and Winnie Roach will be among the chosen few. Entries close Aug. 23.

So fans who about getting behind the Magog "Windmill" with some solid support and help him in the swim. If he travelled 19 miles the first time we are sure that, weather permitting, he will be right among the top ones on Aug. 29 when the swim terminates. Donations should be sent to the Record for the Billy Connor Fund.

The P.O.N.Y. League All-Stars travel to Asbestos today to tangle with the boys from the Mining Town in an exhibition game. Judging from the local lineup we think that Coach L. Cote's squad will give a good account of themselves.

The team was picked by the coaches of the four-club circuit and seems very well balanced. It possesses plenty of power at the plate and in the field. This is the first time that the locals have travelled out of town and maybe the making of an annual event.

The annual Eastern Townships Mixed Golf Tournament takes place tomorrow at Cowansville and should draw plenty of entries. Pete Leblanc will be in charge in the place of Bart Holtham, who is recovering from a heart attack.

Connie Dion and Mrs. H. R. Cleveland of Asbestos Golf and Country Club will be on hand to defend the crown they won last year. Anyone desiring to enter this event can register tomorrow upon their arrival at Cowansville.

The Crown Life Insurance Co. has come up with another outstanding booklet on hockey statistics which will be very handy as it gives all desired information on amateur leagues throughout the country.

They have also released their annual folder on football. Both these can be obtained by contacting the local office or by writing to home office in Toronto.

See where the Quebec Bulldogs have opened their training in preparation of the coming Q.R.F.U. season, which will get underway on Sunday, August 26, against the local squad at the baseball park. Three teams comprise the loop this year. Three Rivers is the other club in the circuit.

Pee Wee Berwick is coaching the Sherbrooke entry and has been putting the boys through their paces for the past couple of weeks. This is the first time since 1954 that Sherbrooke has a club in the league. Coach Berwick hopes to have a good squad to represent the Eastern Townships.

The locals will play four home games and the executive has already been hard at work selling ads and season tickets. The success and future of the team, and football, in the City will depend on the support the club receives. Sherbrooke has the name, has been known as the "graveyard" of sport following the folding of senior hockey and baseball and we sincerely trust that football will not follow in their footsteps.

The fifth annual International Golf Tournament staged by the St. Johnsbury Golf Club will take place over Labor Day weekend commencing Saturday, Sept. 1, and finishing Monday. It is a three day event and golfers have the choice of playing on any day.

This event has turned into a very popular affair and the list of prizes is really something. The pros come in for their share on Monday, which should no doubt draw the top boys from around these parts. You can forward your entries or make them upon arrival at the club.

The Eastern Townships has a new golfing champion and he is none other than Willis Kirby, the easy-going club-artist from the Sherbrooke Country Club. Willis topped a starry field last Sunday to emerge with a one-stroke advantage over Jim Innis of Drummondville and two ahead of Granby's Val Laurie.

Willis' win we believe was one of the most popular we have had the pleasure of witnessing during our career in the sports world. He came through the hard way with a birdie-three on the last hole of the tournament, the 54th, to edge out Jim Innis, president of the E.T. Golf Association by one stroke. President Jim was the first on the green to congratulate the newly crowned champion.

During the 54-hole tourney Willis posted rounds of 76-76 and then finished with a three-over on the last round for a 74, which considering the win is pretty good golf any day. At the same time the Country Club number one team copped the Sherbrooke Daily Record Trophy nosing out their conferees from Lennoxville by 11-strokes.

Innis, who just failed in making the Quebec Willingdon Cup team, kept right on the heels of the champ with rounds of 77, 76 and 74. It was the final shot of the afternoon which wrapped up the crown for the popular Sherbrooke player and knowing that he calmly walked up and dropped his 40-footer for the big payoff to give Sherbrooke their first Amateur crown for years. Congratulations Willis for your latest success.

CARS ARE MY LINE!

by T. H. FOX

We've seen some fabulous automobile advertising in our day. So have you probably.

I'll bet you don't remember, however, the ad that is by far the most famous among automobile people. (I don't remember it either, it ran in 1912, but I've seen copies of it.)

With great blaring of advertising trumpets, and much malarky, the Reo Motor Car Co. announced in 1912 that its "Reo the Fifth" was the best car that men could ever make.

"The Car that Marks my Limit," a big headline on the ad said: "Reo the Fifth marks my limit... I call it my Farewell Car," the ad said in a message supposedly written by the car's designer.

"It comes," said the ad, "pretty close to finality." It must have been a pretty wonderful car and, I suppose, it was.

It had a 36 horsepower engine and a top speed of 45 miles an hour. Although this car "came pretty close to finality," you still had to pay extra (more than 10 per cent extra) to get a windshield, self-starter, gas tank, side curtains or speedometer.

But such is life. We've learned to make sure that what we have is good, but to recognize that something better is possible.

The line of good-looking cars on our lot, at Foxbrooke Motors, doesn't come "pretty close to finality." They're no more than the pick of the used cars for counties around, the most carefully inspected cars on any lot, and the best dollar-for-dollar value you can find in a used car.

There are a couple that have come in recently that really demonstrate our policy of sound and honest value.

John Allen Wins Olympic Yachting Competition

MONTREAL—(AP)—John Allen of Buffalo, sailed his finn class yacht to victory Friday in the first race of eight scheduled to decide the U.S. finn entry in the Olympic yachting competition at Melbourne.

Moe Norman And Jerry Magee To Meet For Canadian Amateur Title; Norman Reels Off 13 Birdies To Win

EDMUNDSTON, N.B. — (CP) — Unorthodox Moe Norman of Kitchener, Ont., and methodical Jerry Magee of Toronto decisively defeated a pair of top Americans in the semi-finals Friday to lock up the 1956 Canadian amateur golf championship for Canada.

Norman, the 1955 winner, and Magee, Ontario Willingdon Cup captain, met today at 9 a.m. in what is expected to be a gruelling 36-hole match for the title. They are scheduled to tee off at 9 a.m. AST (10 a.m. ADT).

Norman reeled off 13 birdies before setting down John Miles of Mamaroneck, N.Y., 8 and 7. He shot an approximate medal round of nine-under-par 64 over the first 18, including nine birdies.

Magee was almost as effective. He whipped New England amateur champion Art Butler of Portsmouth, N.H., 7 and 6 and was 10 under par for the day when the match folded on the 30th hole.

The last time Norman and Magee met in match competition, Magee won the 1954 Ontario amateur championship on the 19th hole.

But the tall, quiet Toronto car salesman wasn't resting on past laurels. "You don't make predictions when you're playing against Moe Norman," he said.

Norman said he is "putting much better than last year." "I wasn't missing much today, but I had a little trouble on that number seven, took a five. That one's tough."

In his record-smashing, but unofficial 64 morning round Friday, Norman fired nine birdies and parred the other nine holes. On each nine he reeled off four straight birdies.

Magee was only slightly less spectacular. After posting an approximate medal round of 69, in the morning round, he started the final 18 with three straight birdies. He picked up three more en route to his smashing triumph.

Butler and Miles—only survivors of an impressive list of American entrants—both played approximate two-under-par rounds over the first 18, but neither could match the break-neck pace of the Ontario stars.

Butler was only two down after the first 18, but faded badly in the stretch. Miles was eight down and virtually out of contention when started under a bright, burning sun after lunch.

Norman will be Magee's first Canadian opponent of the tournament. En route to the final Magee disposed of four American swingers.

Should Norman go on to defeat Magee in the final, he will become the first Canadian amateur champion to repeat in successive years since millionaire Ohio golfer Frank Stranahan did it in 1947 and 1948.

Stranahan has since become a touring pro.

Norman said Friday he would "turn pro tomorrow, if I could." "I'm just waiting for a break."

Few Rewards In Sight For First Canadian To Swim Juan De Fuca Strait; Lumsdon Receives $500

VICTORIA — (CP) — Toronto swimmer Cliff Lumsdon, who swam the strait of Juan de Fuca in 11 hours 35 minutes Thursday night, was challenged Friday to a match race by the only other person to finish the distance.

Bert Thomas, Tacoma, Wash., logger, who crossed the 18.3-mile strait in 11 hours 17 minutes last year, said: "I want to challenge him for a match any time or any place he wants."

Lumsdon is the first person to swim the straight starting from the Canadian side, considered to be the tougher route.

"You can have it. I feel sorry for anyone else who tries it. I was so cold I thought I'd die."

Capt. Ellice Cavin of Island Tug and Barge Co., who picked the tidal period for Lumsdon's swim, said: "I doubt that it will ever be done again."

He said he picked the time because there was almost no tide involved. Most swimmers have attempted to capitalize on heavy tides.

He said he was not sure how far he had to go until the last quarter of a mile.

Bob Bedard Stops Pierre Darmon In Exhibition Tilt

MONTREAL — (CP) — Bob Bedard of Sherbrooke, Que., Canadian singles champion, Friday defeated Pierre Darmon of France in a five-set battle, 4-6, 6-3, 1-6, 7-5, 6-4, to even the exhibition tennis series between the French and Davis Cup teams.

In an earlier match Robert Haillet of France won in straight sets over Don Fontana of Toronto, 7-5, 6-4, 6-2.

Bedard, ranked No. 1 in Canada, had a better back court game than Darmon, 22-year-old player ranked No. 2 in France.

Bedard, who is 24, also gave Darmon some trouble with his serves.

A doubles match will be played today and two singles Sunday.

Redlegs Claw Leading Braves; In Second Again

Old pappy-guy Larry Jansen, a happy return to homer-hitting in Crosley Field and a bases-loaded walk in Philadelphia form a three-way parley that again gives Cincinnati's Redlegs a chance to make hay in the National League race this week-end.

Jansen, a 36-year-old reclaimed righthander, performed his once-a-week chore for the Redlegs on a seven-hitter that knocked off the front-running Milwaukee Braves 8-2 Friday night—with the help of three Cincinnati home runs and a six-run eighth inning.

The robust Redlegs, who hit only four home runs in that entire four-game series they lost 3-1 at Milwaukee last weekend after Jansen had won the opener on his return from the minors, thus scrambled back into second place, just 2 1/2 games shy of the Braves with single games remaining tonight, Sunday and Monday.

The victory hoisted Cincinnati three per centage points ahead of Brooklyn as the Dodgers skidded to third on a walk by reliever Clem Labine that forced in the winning run for Philadelphia's 3-2 decision.

St. Louis defeated Chicago Cubs 2-1 on Wally Moon's two-out ninth-inning single, and the New York Giants, with Willie Mays hitting his fifth home run in five games, defeated Pittsburgh 5-3.

In the American League, a grand-slam home run by Dick Williams gave Baltimore a 6-4 edge over New York, but the Yankees retained their 9 1/2-game first place bulge as Kansas City edged a six-game slump with a 9-3 victory over runner-up Cleveland. Washington trimmed Boston 6-5, leaving the third place Red Sox only 1 1/2 games ahead of the Chicago White Sox, who beat Detroit 4-3 on Nel Fox's ninth-inning single.

All contestants are reminded that they must remain around the courts for at least fifteen minutes following the calling of a match in case the game is ordered to continue. The matches will commence at 2:00 with five singles played with several more to be played depending on the outcome of Friday's unfinished games.

Rod Laver Wins Canadian Junior Tennis Crown

OTTAWA — (CP) — Rod Laver of Brisbane, Australia, lived up to his top-seeded ranking Friday, by winning the junior men's singles crown with 6-2, 6-2, 5-7, 6-2 decision over Neil Drury of St. Louis, Mo., as the Canadian junior tennis championships neared the final stages.

The 17-year-old redhead winner of the 1956 U.S. junior men's singles used his booming service and wider tournament experience to knock off the stubborn Drury who was ranked No. 3.

Thirteen-year-old Warren Daane of Shaker Heights, O., made it two in a row in the juvenile boys' singles division with a comparatively easy 7-3, 6-2 victory over Montreal's Louis Leprohon.

Canada's eight-man senior team won the Commonwealth match from the senior British team while an eight-man Canadian cadet team won the Michael Faraday Imperial Cadet Trophy over the Imperial cadet team from Britain.

The senior Canadian win reversed their defeat at the hands of the British team Thursday in the Canada match. The British team compiled a score of 1,180 of a possible 1,200 for a 10-point margin.

The Canadian team chalked up a combined score of 751 of a possible 800 Friday, firing 10 rounds from each of the 600 and 900-yard ranges to edge the British team by only two points.

Seven Singles And One Double Feature Sunday Night's Program; Nine Classes Listed For Tonight

Seven singles and only one double is on the agenda tomorrow night at the Sherbrooke Race Track in contrary to Wednesday's fixture. All heats will go the mile, instead of the shorter distances which were run Wednesday.

Seven horses are listed to start in the Jr. Free-for-all Handicap Pace for a $500 divided purse. Colonel Wilkins has been moved into the "big class" following his first win Wednesday and he will match strides with Captain Brook G. Sturdy Allie, Mary G. Herbert, Clever Volo, Lucky G., and Direct Harvester.

A single dash in a Handicap Trot will bring together seven of the top trotters at the local track. If driver St. Denis can keep Fabi's Helen Van on her feet she should walk off with the honors but St. Denis will have his work cut out for him to keep the fast-stepping mare in high gear.

Several of the other starters should give the favorite plenty of trouble. Maryland Port, Rutherford Guy, Bobby Taylor and Lida Volo, with P. Lynaugh in the sulky, could give the field plenty of opposition before the winner crosses the wire.

This evening four doubles and a single are on the schedule with the two "DD" Handicap Paces as the main features. Eight horses are listed in each class and some tough competition can be expected before a winner is declared.

In keeping with the policy of the Sherbrooke Racing Club the executive will draw a TV set as a door prize as well as two cash prizes donated by Fabi & Fils. This will take place after the eighth race on the Sunday program.

E. T. Tennis Tournament Continues This Afternoon; No Matches Slated Tomorrow; Locals Travel To Quebec

The Eastern Townships Tennis Tournament, with one of their largest list of entries ever to take part in the annual event, continues this afternoon with another complete schedule.

No games are booked for tomorrow as members of the Sherbrooke Tennis Club are slated to clash with Quebec in the Provincial Inter-Zone League in the Capital City.

All contestants are reminded that they must remain around the courts for at least fifteen minutes following the calling of a match in case the game is ordered to continue. The matches will commence at 2:00 with five singles played with several more to be played depending on the outcome of Friday's unfinished games.

Thursday's big storm halted several matches but chairman Jean de Lesleuc hopes to have them completed so that the second and third rounds may continue without too long a delay.

Guy Durocher is booked to take on Claude Ellyson and Bill Bilodeau meets R. Charest. Claude Theroux plays Jean Paul Hamel and Claude Metras will meet the winner of the unfinished Darcy-Desmarais match. The opening single will bring together Roger Desmarais and Jean Levesque.

The tournament will continue Monday evening with a complete list of games commencing at 6:30 followed by shifts at 7:30, 8:30 and 9:30.
