

News in brief

Man killed

A man was killed in Sherbrooke last night when his car struck a post, St. Vincent de Paul Hospital reported this morning.

The name was being held pending notification of next of kin.

The accident occurred near 80 Big Forks Street South at 3:39 a.m. this morning, municipal police report.

Approve grant

The federal transport board has granted the city a $26,709 grant for the construction of the Sherbrooke air terminus. The grant is considerably less than the 50 per cent grant the city had expected to receive.

Lowest bid for the construction of the terminus, to be located at the airport near Ascot Corner, was $103,885, placed by Stanislas Grondin.

Rivard hunt

MONTREAL (CP) — Police and government officials remain confident that Lucien Rivard will soon be captured although it is four days since his bizarre escape from the Bordeaux provincial prison in Montreal.

Senior RCMP, Quebec provincial and Montreal police officials declined to comment after a 90-minute meeting in Montreal Friday.

Authorities believe he remains in the Montreal area despite reports from Toronto and Saint John, N.B., that Rivard and his escape teammate Andre Durocher may be there.

Saigon alerted

SAIGON (AP) — Saigon police went on full alert today amid reports of possible anti-United States demonstrations in the capital.

There were reports that some neutralist groups would stage the demonstrations.

The quickened pace of battle in the area around Da Nang air base, about 380 miles north of here, showed no let-up as the Viet Cong ambushed a government armored patrol and apparently captured the commander of the Vietnamese Army's 1st Regiment.

No changes

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition attempts failed Friday to make the proposed Canada Pension Plan reach the needy minority of Canadians outside its present scope.

New Democratic amendments aimed at getting more workers covered were defeated by votes of 59 to 8 and 60 to 37.

The first would have lowered to $100 from $250 the minimum amount of money a worker must receive before his employer is obliged to make pension fund contributions.

The second would have eliminated provisions excluding anyone employed less than 25 days.

Sees U Thant

NEW YORK (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson planned to have lunch today with U Thant, UN secretary-general, and private talks with other UN authorities after outlining Friday night his plan for a solution to the troubled southeast Asian problem.

Mr. Pearson said a really effective policing and enforcing agency is needed to see that international agreements about the Southeast Asian trouble spots are adhered to.

Gunboat seized

KUALA LUMPUR (Reuters) — An Indonesian gunboat has seized four Malaysian fishing boats and their eight crew members in the latest incident in the "confrontation" between the two countries, reports to Malaysian police said today.

The incident came as Malaysian and Indonesian leaders were reported about to start talks to end the undeclared war between the two countries.

Whites march

SELMA, Ala. (AP) — Members of a group called the "Concerned White Citizens of Alabama" converge on Selma today for a march protesting what they describe as intimidation of Negro voter applicants.

The group is headed by Joseph Ellwanger, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church of Birmingham and a former Selma resident.

Exiled US Negro advocates violence for violence

Robert F. Williams is an exile. He lives and works in Havana. Like most exiles, the 39-year-old America Negro is disillusioned.

In Williams' case, disillusionment stems from his experiences in the U.S. civil rights struggle where he witnessed the Negro's inability to obtain even a semblance of justice in the Deep South.

His world collapsed in the summer of 1961 and since then the advocate of "an urban guerrilla war" of self-defense by Negroes admits that he has become more radical in his outlook.

Fame or notoriety (depending on your viewpoint) came to Robert Williams when he made headlines across the U.S. with a statement that Negroes would no longer sit passively by and allow their families and homes to be brutalized by violent racists.

"In future, we will meet violence with violence," he said. And most news papers and other news media failed to pick up the rest of the statement — that this approach would be used as a means of self-defense.

The statement led immediately to Williams' suspension as head of the Monroe, N.C., chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Later, when racial violence reached a peak in Montee, Williams fled to New York. Then the FBI issued a warrant for his arrest for kidnapping a white couple for two hours, a charge that was dropped only recently.

A hunted man, Williams fled to Canada. When the RCMP joined the search, he left Toronto for Western Canada, passed through the U.S. to Mexico and on to Cuba — and exile.

Since then Williams has visited China and has moved steadily to the left in his thinking.

A portrait of Williams can be drawn from his book, Negroes With Guns, and his monthly newsletter, The Crusader.

U.S. police portray Williams as the man who engineered the recent plot to dynamite the Statue of Liberty, the Washington Monument and the Liberty Bell.

BY DONALD KERR

After returning from a stint in the U.S. Marines to Monroe (population 11,000, one third Negro) Williams was elected president of the local chapter of the NAACP.

In his first move to crack the integration barrier, he scored a surprisingly easy victory, integration of Monroe's library, without incident.

But when he organized a picket line around a segregated swimming pool, the Ku Klux Klan reacted by staging raids in cars on Negro neighborhoods, firing pistols. The Negroes began to arm themselves.

In the first major encounter during the summer of 1957, the KKK attacked and the Negroes shot it out with them. The raids stopped temporarily.

But the powerful KKK found another approach, what Williams terms "court frameups as a method of legal lynching." Three court cases opened the flood-gates to violence on a large scale.

The first was the 1958 Kissling Case in which two colored boys, seven and nine years old, were charged with raping a seven-year-old white girl. Then in 1959 a Negro mother of five working as a maid in a hotel was kicked down the stairs by a white man for making too much noise.

The man was never charged.

Another case the same year, saw the acquittal of a white man for allegedly raping an eight-month pregnant colored woman.

Incensed by the failure of the courts to render justice for Negroes, Williams made his "we will meet violence with violence" statement.

After his suspension by the NAACP, he launched The Crusader as an organ of agitation and a vehicle of communication for militant and radical forces.

of the war, despite the veil of mystery at the White House.

U Thant was able to stir up attention for his assertions only because the President, by an inept news policy, has caused a widespread feeling that we are not getting the whole story.

This has bred uncertainty and lack of confidence.

What is needed is for Johnson to brief newsmen frequently on Viet Nam and to submit himself, however uncomfortable it may make him, to searching questions from reporters experienced in the area.

At least one member of the cabinet has gone to President Johnson to urge that he do something to correct the situation.

The U Thant statement was unwise and unfortunate. The bigger problem it raises is crucial.

If the American people are to get behind the President in this tough war in Viet Nam, and maintain the patience to see the war through, then they must not only have the facts, but they also must know they are getting the facts.

U Thant's statement brought immediate action from Secretary of State Dean Rusk. For the first time since the raids on North Viet Nam, the U.S. government reviewed publicly the basis for its presence and the conditions which must precede any negotiations (North Viet Nam must stop its aggression.)

There has been a tendency at the White House to announce things only after they are decided. There is a need (within limits) for the President to let Americans know something of the agonizing appraisals and reappraisals he and his advisers are making and to let people know how the day-by-day actions in Viet Nam fit into the overall aims of the United States in Asia and in the world.

Insurance rates subjective

By STEPHEN VITUNSKI

think of more pleasant things.

Politicians, especially members of the New Democratic Party, like to take up the cudgel and ask embarrassing questions about why our insurance rates aren't as low as those under Saskatchewan's government operated scheme.

Auto insurance is one of our biggest headaches.

In 1963, the latest figures available, auto insurance companies had net premiums earned of $385 million. That is, of the premiums paid in, the amount applicable to inurance in force during that year.

Out of this, they paid over $300 million for claims and adjusting expenses.

In all, there are approximately 160 groups and individual companies writing auto insurance in Canada. They employ some 35,000 Canadians. Auto insurance is but one aspect of the general insurance business, that is insurance covering losses by fire, theft, accident, boiler, forgery, plate glass, sickness.

The basic tenet of insurance philosophy is to spread the risk. Thus, these companies like to spread it among many different perils, many people, in many countries.

To illustrate the international characteristics of the industry, $111 million or 29 per cent, of premiums earned in Canada in 1963 were earned by British companies or their subsidiaries. Approximately the same amount and proportion was earned by other foreign companies, while Canadian companies accounted for $159 million or 42 per cent of the business.

Auto insurance companies fall into three main categories in Canada . . . the board companies, the independents, and the independent-independents.

Board companies, (also called tariff companies) are members of the Canadian Underwriters Association. These companies handled some 32 per cent of the business in Canada in 1963.

Independents (non - tariff) are members of the Independent Insurance Conference, and they handled 49 per cent of the business.

There are a few small regional boards and conferences, but most of the regional companies also have an affiliation with a national body.

Independent - independents or direct writers accounted for approximately 15 per cent of the business. As the name implies, these companies are loners, usually selling insurance through their own representatives rather than using the generally accepted agency system. Prime examples of this category are Allstate and State Farm.

Capitalist-style advertising hits USSR as an economic pep pill is tried out

By LEON KOSSAR

Advertising, capitalist style, has burst upon unsuspecting USSR newspaper readers as Soviet authorities borrow another page from the Western book of economics.

Those familiar with the endless columns of news unbroken by a single advertising in Pravda, Izvestia, and all other official government papers, have been surprised by the recent facelift in Trud, the Soviet trade union publication.

Its last page in recent editions has resorted to outright copies of western advertising. Neat little borders surround appeals to buy a wide variety of goods and services — everything from TV sets to mail-order instruction in violin and piano.

The new advertising vista is another in a series of new developments interpreted by North American observers of the Soviet world as a trend to wider use of the western-oriented profit motive to develop an economic pep pill.

Soviet economists, particularly those influenced by such men as Kharkov University's Evsei Liberman, are leaning lately to theories of profit taxes, more competition between industries, and broader profit incentives.

Men like Liberman study the progress of the capitalist countries exchange views with western economists, but vehemently deny their own ideas are based on "capitalist-tie" ideas.

A trade union official recently suggested in Trud that Soviet citizens should learn to advertise, western style, with film-house, TV, commercials, and something akin to an ad agency approach in other media. The results seem to be bearing some fruit in Trud itself.

The fourth page of Trud, which carries the new advertising content, has also embarked on a series of "humorous" ads.

Titled advertising with a Smile, they contain such sparklers as:

"Night watchman Ivanov was called into the police station.

"Look here, citizen Ivanov, you're living on income outside of your own labors."

"What makes you think that?"

"Over the past year you've suddenly acquired a refrigerator, TV set, piano, and a Moskvich car."

"Watchman Ivanov smiled lightly and proudly said:

"Buy tickets in the Money Appliance Lotteries of the R.S.S.R. (Russian Soviet Socialist Republic)!"

Western experts differ on how far the new profit-bolstering reform ideas will go, but one thing appears quite certain:

Once advertising gains a foothold, it'll be hard to suppress.

1864, he was raised on the Antrim coast in an Anglo-Irish environment, and joined the British consular service in Africa in 1892.

He became British consul in the Congo, at that time virtually the private estate of Belgium's King Leopold II, administered by corrupt officials. Casement reported that Negroes on the upper Congo rubber estates were being mutilated for failing to fulfill their work quotas, and the British government prodded Belgium into reforming the system.

WAS KNIGHTED

Later, on another posting to South America, Casement uncovered and set right further cases of commercial firms' brutality against natives. For this he was knighted in 1911.

He wrote worriedly to Dublin: "Many in Ireland will think me a traitor."

After his trial he was formally stripped of his title.

Casement retired on pension in 1913, aged 48, a tall, black-bearded, handsome man with deep-set sad eyes. Now he began to work full time for the Nationalist cause and joined John Redmond's Irish volunteers.

He brooded about the impending war: "If Germany can beat England, then Ireland can shake off the yoke for evermore." He believed Ireland must have the support of either Germany or the U.S. and in the summer of 1914 went to New York to raise funds and sympathy.

Scouting and Cubbing

By KEN BARTLETT

The attendance of over a hundred fathers and sons at the Second Lennoxville banquet last Saturday evening attests to the popularity of Scouting. This large turnout may be impressive, but it is not necessarily a good thing for Scouting. As the chairman of the evening, Prof. David Smith pointed out, the Pack already on the large size, has a huge waiting list. There is room in Lennoxville for another Pack. All that is needed is for one or two leaders to lend their services to form a new unit. Sponsorship of the new group will be found, said Prof. Smith.

In his remarks, the President of the District Council Ray Thorne indicated he was delighted at the enthusiasm in Lennoxville. The District would assist in future Scouting expansion in this community. The Scoutmaster, Bill Van Horn awarded a Second Class Badge to Scout Peter Hopkins. Skipper Van Horn also announced that the Troop would be sending at least three boys to the Provincial Jamboree in Drummondville this July. He further stated that his group was planning a three day camping trip during the Queen's Birthday weekend in May. The Troop is also participating in a District overnight winter camping trip this weekend (Mar 6-7). District Scoutmaster Bob Henry is taking a group of Scouts to a location near Johnville.

Prof. Smith, in his closing remarks, praised all the leaders; and he was especially grateful to Cubmaster, Herb Pratt and Scoutmaster, Bill Van Horn. Scout Robert Rick thanked the Ladies Auxiliary for their delicious meal. Those sitting at the Head Table included Bob Henry, the Rev. Michael Jackson and his son, David, Prof. Smith and his son, Philip, Mayor Archie Mitchell, and Ray Thorne.

FIRST SHERBROOKE
The First Sherbrooke Group held a Church Parade on Lord Baden Powell Sunday. The Troop flag was carried in the Church of the Advent by Scout Alex Thomson. The Jack was borne by Michael McDevitt and Cub Flag was carried by John Colton.

The Group was presented with the new Canadian Flag the following evening during their Father and Son Banquet. The Rev. G. Rensson made the presentation in an impressive ceremony.

The guest speaker, Scout Executive, Sid Sundberg spoke about his experiences servicing the Scout groups in the Arctic. The Quebec Provincial Council has the responsibility of overseeing 300 boys scattered in a dozen localities hundreds of miles apart. Those attending the Quebec Jamboree this summer will have a chance to meet some of these Eskimo and white boys.

Those sitting at the Head Table included David Hutchison, Akela Jean Humphries, Sid Sundberg, H. Tilbury, the Rev. G. Rensson, the Chairman of the evening, Gordon Thomson, Skipper Roger Turgeon, Alex Thomson and Bill Matheson. It was also announced that Scout Steve Lepoidevin had passed his second class badge.

BULWER BIRCHTON
The Bulwer Birchton Troop now have a new indoor rifle range in which to sharpen their already keen shooting sights. The locale is the Bulwer Community Centre. The Troop's coach, Waymer Laberee states the boys have already had three practices. Several of the Scouts have won marksmanship pins. Harry Pickett has been awarded a silver pin. Bill Lackie in winning a gold pin, has become the fourth member of the Troop to have achieved this honor. Another boy, Philip Moore has earned his bronze pin. Good shooting boys!

TENTH SHERBROOKE
A new shield was presented jointly to two Scouts of the Tenth Sherbrooke Troop. Malcolm Passey and Gordon Haire were awarded the Nellie Jarjour Memorial Shield, during the Father and Son Banquet, by virtue of being judged the most improved Scouts in the Troop. A second shield, also presented by District Vice-President Vic Jarjour in memory of his wife, went to the Falcon Patrol. This group of Scouts was acclaimed the best patrol in summer camp. Patrol leader Richard Stock received the award on behalf of the following members of the patrol: Carl Pelletier, John Hughes, Gordon Haire, Richard Authier, and Donald Bell.

During the banquet, Group Chairman Ted Roberts had words of praise for the Leaders of the Groups, including Skipper Owen Phalen and Akela Duval and their able Assistants. Other friends of Scouting included Jules Beauregard, Father Beauregard Eric Passey, First Aid Instructor Pare, and Constable Lacasse.

CUB STAR WORK
Several Packs have reported progress in star work. At Fifth Sherbrooke, Dwight Dick has been awarded his First Star. Two other Cubs, Robert Ross and David Turnbull have passed their Flags and Patron Saint tests.

Second Lennoxville has been very busy. Eight Cubs have

The meeting was conducted by Mrs. E. Webb, who also conducted the devotional service. Prayer was offered by Mrs. Charles Stearns and Mrs. James A. Johnson.

During the business session reports were read and donations were voted for the following projects: Pommar, India $50; general work in India, $60; in Japan, $30; and the Philippines, $30; vehicle maintenance, $10; National Home Missions, $5; Berkshire Christian College, $10; Vernon Home, $10.

A letter of thanks had been received from Miss Beulah R. Liker, of Seattle, Wash., for the gift of money sent to her in January.

As a result of the ladies meeting to roll bandages early in February at the home of Mrs. W. Duperron, a box of bandages and plastic containers had been mailed to the Philippines.

The special project for the meeting was donations toward a new carpet for the church vestry. The proceeds were most gratifying and totalled nearly $100, with other donations yet to come in.

The meeting adjourned for the supper hour. The evening program, which followed, was prepared and conducted by Mrs. J. A. McCoy and consisted of several readings, interspersed with hymn singing, a solo by Elton Webb and a piano duet by Kenneth Perkins and Mrs. McCoy.

An interesting contest, dealing with hymns of the church, concluded the program.

The next meeting will be on March 18, when the men, who are honorary members, will be in complete charge of the Fellowship supper and the program. It will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Perkins.

FORD...Quietly takes your breath away!

With a hot new 240 Big Six and solid, silent ride!

It used to be that a Six had to be weak on power to be strong on economy. But Ford's new 240 cu. in. Big Six has changed all that! This new Six is very economical. Yet it delivers a wallop punch at the touch of your toe, especially with Ford's 3-speed Cruise-O-Matic transmission.

It is a completely new engine. It is a very advanced design. The block is lighter. There are fewer moving parts. So you get more power and you use less gas. There are 7 main bearings (most Sixes have only 4). So the crankshaft is better supported. This means a smoother running engine with less vibration, less wear and tear, greater quietness.

The new 240 cu. in. Big Six is standard on value-packed Ford Custom and Galaxie 500 models. It is more powerful, more durable, smoother running and more economical than last year's Six. It squeezes more power from a drop of gasoline than any other Six in Ford's class.

There are other advantages to buying a 6-cylinder Ford besides getting the most powerful Six in Ford's class. The 3-speed transmission is fully synchronized. You can shift into low without coming to a full stop. It's almost like adding another gear. Or for the best in automatic convenience, the Ford Cruise-O-Matic has 3 speeds—it makes passing easier and saves you additional gas. (It even has a second driving range—you start off in 2nd to help prevent your spinning your wheels in snow or mud.)

You've heard of the silent ride... everyone who's driven the new Fords comes back talking about it. It's the first thing you notice and it is wonderful. These new Fords are also smooth. The wheels soak up bumps by bouncing back as well as up—and big coil springs really cushion you.

So before you buy any new 6-cylinder car, check out the silent riding Ford with the sparkling new 240 cu. in. Big Six. We think you'll find it the most exciting Six you've ever driven. See your Ford Dealer. Ask about a six-cylinder convertible... Spring is coming.

A PAPER? — False rumors have been circulating the St. Patrick High campus to the effect that the school commission had ordered that they stop publishing their new school paper, the Patrician. School commission secretary Hector Lanctot told the Record that as long as the paper stays within its budget, it will be published free of charge by the commission. School principal Father Palumbo says he has received no directive from the commission to stop publication.

TONIGHT'S DANCE — Stewart Buckman reports that the Trinity Boys' Club will be sponsoring a dance at Trinity United Church, Court Street, Sherbrooke, at 8 p.m. tonight. The dancing will continue until 11 p.m.

PUBLIC SPEAKERS — Winners of the Sherbrooke High public speaking assembly held this Monday were Ann Chivers, Mary Leith, and Mark Steinman, says High Times reporter Daphne Nelson. Congratulations to the Sherbrooke High senior boys' eager team who will represent their zone in the Visser play-offs to be held at MacDonald College, Montreal, on March 26. Competitions will be held this Friday for the school chess trophy.

CLASS TRIP — Tentative plans are being formulated for a dance to be held Friday, March 20, to help pay for the Cookshire High class trip to Ottawa, reports Debby Todd. Proceeds from the plays presented Feb. 26 at Cookshire High by Bury High school were divided between each school. Each received $58.

GRYFALCONS — The Gryfalcons will provide the "sound" at tonight's sport dance at Cowansville High. Dress will be semi-formal and "movement" to the "sound" will be carried out from 8 p.m. to midnight.

FREDERICTON — (CP) — John Bassett, president of the Sherbrooke Daily Record and publisher of the Toronto Telegram has been named by Premier Robichaud of New Brunswick as a member of a newly formed New Brunswick Industrial Council to advise the government in its efforts to attract and develop industry in the province.

Other members of the council include Sir Max Aitken, London publisher and son of the late Lord Beaverbrook, J. Louis Levesque, Montreal investment dealer, and New Brunswick industrialist K. C. Irving.

The premier told the legislature that "for many months I have been endeavoring to establish a group with wide practical experience and a knowledge in the area of industrial promotion."

The council will have ten members from outside the government.

Mr. Robichaud will be the chairman and the government will also be represented by finance and industry minister L. G. DesBrasay.

Among other things the council would suggest policies to the New Brunswick Development Corporation, a government-industry promotion agency.

WEST EAST'S INTEREST — A Dresden Communist newspaper complains of an excessive interest among East Germans in the U.S.'s Wild West. The paper said there are American Indian clubs throughout East Germany but not a single Siberian club. "Siberia has a much bigger future and is in every way more interesting," the paper said.

PIED PIPER STUFF — JAKARTA (AP) — The villagers of Central Java, plagued by rats, have given the Pied Piper of Hamelin some competition. The Indonesian news agency said the villagers of Srandol, Sendang Guo and Pedurungan had been declared champions in a rat-catching contest for bagging a total of 65,000 rodents.

Lights recommended at Galt-St. Esprit

Sherbrooke police chief Edouard Moreau has recommended that the Galt-St. Esprit intersection in the West Ward be regulated by traffic signals controlled with two other nearby intersections.

The suggestion is made in a written report submitted to city council.

The report recommends that a traffic light tripper be installed for St. Esprit at Galt. It would be connected to the controller used for the Galt-Gauvin and Galt-Caron intersection signal lights.

At present Galt is a through street at St. Esprit.

The report was made after Ald. Antonio Pinard last week recommended a four-way stop for the intersection.

He noted that there were two accidents at that intersection this year.

Chief Moreau's report said that one of these accidents, occurring January 26, was due to Galt Street being icy.

The other, occurring February 5, happened because a motorist did not stop before trying to cross Galt Street.

The city has a problem finding parking space on a portion of King Street (as elsewhere). Building inspector Aime Gagnon reported to council that the area bordering King Street on the south, between Jacques Cartier and Vimy, is hilly and irregular. Thus additional parking space can't be found on it.

(A city zoning bylaw rules in a commercial zone that there should be one parking place for every 500 square feet of floor space.)

Both the north and south sides of King Street are commercial between Vimy and Jacques Cartier.

For this area Mr. Gagnon suggested that the city could fix the parking bylaw at one space for every 2,500 square feet of floor space.

Quebec holds contest for Expo

Quebec province has decided to hold a photography contest in order to have a good selection of pictures for their pavilion at EXPO 67.

The minister of Trade and Industry Gerard D. Levesque pointed out that the contest aims at obtaining not only good photographs, but photographs that will also be documents.

Works submitted will be judged on the double criteria of originality of form and documentary value. Contestants may illustrate natural beauty if they choose, but they must also record Quebec; human and social realities; and they are not to stay away from pointing up the contrasts between modern developing Quebec and its traditional counterpart.

The year long contest will give contestants a chance to record the four seasons. Each has its unique mood particularly to Quebec - especially the fall or the maple sugar seasons.

There will be three prizes awarded. First prize $2,500, second prize, $1,500, third prize $1,000. The selection will be done by the famous photographer Yousuf Karsh.

The committee will also include Claude Beaulieu, director of Vie des arts, writer Jean Sumarch, painter Andre Jamin, and Jean Acteau, commissioner of the Quebec Pavilion.

Sign accord on Swedish design

Under a recent agreement S. W. Hooper & Co. Ltd., producers of pulp and paper mill equipment, will manufacture silo discharge equipment designed by the Swedish manufacturing firm of Stig. O. Grafstrom AB.

There is estimated to be a large market for the product in North America, and it is expected the unit will find wide application in the wood and forest products industries as well as pulp and paper operations as an effective means of discharging wood, chips, bark or sawdust from silos.

The hydraulically-driven silo discharge is said to permit greater freedom in silo design and better utilization of space.

The agreement also covers sales, service, installation supervision as well as technical information services.

To be marketed in North America under the name Hooper-Grafstrom, the product complements the equipment of Cowan, Rauma-Repola and Hooper design which Hooper presently manufactures. S. W. Hooper & Co. Ltd., who export approximately 40 per cent of the pulp and paper mill equipment they manufacture, have their plant in Sherbrooke.

Aiding fight on mental retardation

As a fitting tribute to the late President Kennedy a group of Canadians have launched the John F. Kennedy Memorial Fund for the Mentally Retarded for the purpose of supplying money to programs in the field of retardation research across Canada.

Designed to encourage research into the cause and prevention of mental retardation and to develop experimental programs which will reveal more effective teaching and training techniques for the retarded the fund depends for its financing upon the generosity of the individual Canadian.

As part of the Sherbrooke area's contribution to the nationwide effort, district residents are invited to a gala evening at the University of Sherbrooke on Saturday evening, April 3, at which the feature attraction will be Les Feux Follets, a group which presents early Canadian folklore and music.

The success of this event requires the full support of the people of the district who are really interested in fighting the cause and effects of this dread problem which affects three out of every 100 children born in Canada.

Only by the financial support of this undertaking can assistance be given to the Memorial Fund which is strictly a Canadian fund, whose proceeds are spent on various projects in this country.

To assure that the next generation is spared much of the pain and anguish caused by mental retardation each member of the present generation must do his part.

A politician becomes a statesman when he does just what you think he should do.

Hayden S. Pearson's COUNTRY FLAVOR

Lions or lambs aside; equinox near

March may come in like a wild beast and go out like a gentle one; or it may be that the Weather Man will decide the other way around. That is the reputation the third month has established.

But there is one point that is certain. February is behind us and the equinox is not far away. Fields and meadows, hillsides and ridges may still be deep with snow but in the slanting rays of the climbing sun, you can see a tinge of red in the maples' buds while crows call from the elms along the field's edge.

There is something about the crows' voices on a windy, sunny day when a gold platter of sun is crossing the sky, that tells the countryman the worst is over and that spring is not too distant. For the Crow Month moon is a period of music that exhilarates the heart. The blue jays' bugles carry far across the countryside; the chickadees' two-note spring song is sweet in the warming breeze.

On thawing days there is trickling water coursing down the sled tracks from the woodlot; beneath the ice and snow of the pasture book one can hear the melody of singing waters. The music of March is the prelude to the arias that accompany swelling lilac buds and the golden glow of forsythias.

Gray smoke billows from old saphouses and patchwork quilts hang from clothes lines at farmhouses. Golden, windy days and tossing branches are followed by calm, clear nights when the stars blaze in the heavens. You can feel, hear and see the signs. When the crows call on these third month days, the heart lifts. The promise is coming true again, the resurrection is here; and a man knows the verities still prevail.

Sir: In preparation for Canada's 1967 Centennial Celebrations I am compiling a list of this country's drama companies, amateur and professional.

I wrote the more than 250 groups whose existence I knew of. I feel there are considerably more companies I don't know of.

May I request the use of your columns to urge secretaries or other officials to reply to my letter, if received, or write if they have not heard from me.

Maladroitness of Pearson cabinet

The maladroitness of the Pearson administration was displayed again last week when Mr. Douglas asked for an inquiry into allegations that some NDP members had been elected fraudulently.

A government with sound political instinct would have accepted the principle of inquiry at once rather than provoke a 90-minute wrangle that wound up with a decision of the Speaker overruled.

After nearly two years in office the administration still appears unaware that the public watches it.

(Ottawa Journal)
Mr. Pearson is photographed in a joke hat bearing the Canadian flag design. Liberal backbenchers hiss when Donald MacInnis (Cape Breton South) rises to speak. The Government seems not to have learned anything from the backtracking which followed the first Gordon budget. It seems not embarrassed by the crudities of Agriculture Minister Hayes, the forgetfulness of Mr. Pearson about what his Minister of Justice told him on suggestions of wrongdoing, the stalling and ill-temper displayed over the appointment of an inquiry into the Nielsen charges, the evasions over unjustified political promises, such as $2 wheat, and, in recent days, the difference between the Prime Minister who enthuses over the monarchy and Mr. Favreau who considers it "useful" for the time being.

The word cowboy first cropped up in North America in New York state during the American Revolution and was applied to a group of Tories who made a business of raiding the settlements that supported the American cause. But 200 years earlier, before the appearance of the cowboy in the United States in the 19th century, Mexican vaqueros already had perfected the art of handling cattle on horseback in the Southwest with all the tools of the trade—horse, rope, saddle, spur and branding iron.

Judas:

I WAS THERE

By REV. RON. N. NICKLE,
St. Paul's United Church,
MAGOG

Yes, I was there. I was with Him throughout his ministry, and I was with Him in the Garden of Gethsemane. Yes, I was with Him almost to the end.

Mine is now an unpopular name — it calls forth all kinds of condemnation and hatred. It is synonymous with the vilest of the vile.

And yet, is it too much to claim that I have been misunderstood? The accusation of the ages has been that I betrayed the Christ for gain, for thirty pieces of silver. They say I did it because I am inherently evil and in betraying the Christ I was running true to form.

But it's not true. That was not my reason at all. My motives were much loftier than that. Yes, even Judas can have lofty motives! You see, I was really trying to help Him. I knew what He should do in order to accomplish his mission — that is, I thought I did.

It all started on Palm Sunday. What a day that was! Jerusalem was tumultuous in its welcome; the citizens were overjoyed. It was certainly a thrill for me who were his disciples to see our Master received so victoriously. It was all perfectly clear to me then: they would proclaim Him king and He would lead us in our revolution against our hated Roman overlords. Freedom at last! The Kingdom of God was indeed at hand!

But for some unknown reason He didn't follow it through. He neither allowed them to proclaim Him king, nor did He prepare for the revolution. I pleaded with Him, I pointed out to Him that now was the time. He must strike now or forever lose his opportunity. But it was to no avail. He just looked at me with those eyes — O the depth of sadness! — and shook his head.

Then I thought of it. If He was to be crowned by the priests and Scribes, if they were to lay hands on Him, then He would be forced to fight. He would have no other choice than to precipitate an insurrection. It all sounded so logical.

It was a simple chore to convince the religious authorities that I was a traitor and that I was willing to lead Him into their trap — no problem at all. Why, they even paid me for it. The money would come in handy later on to buy arms.

Yes, it all sounded so good, so logical, so certain of success. But it failed miserably. He allowed Himself to be arrested! He didn't protest. At one point He even ordered one of the disciples to lay down a sword he was swinging. For a brief moment I thought that the revolution had begun. But He would have none of it.

When the mob dragged Him off I was left alone in the Garden of Gethsemane with my thoughts. Never before had such an emptiness, such a failure, assailed me. What had happened? What had gone wrong? I now knew that all our hopes were dashed. Now that the mob had Him, crucifixion was a certainty — as certain as the fact that the cock would crow tomorrow morning at the rising of the sun. What had gone wrong? Then it all came to me. In a flash of understanding I had my answers. In the same spot where a short while before my Master had knelt in prayer I received my revelation. My God, what had I done!

Then I understood. Then I saw who and what He really was; in a flash of insight I at last understood Him. How wrong I had been! And how right He had been!

At that very moment standing before the High Priest my Lord was doing the very thing I had tried to force Him into doing. He was proclaiming Himself a King. He was leading a revolution. But how different it was from my preconceived ideas. His Kingdom had no boundaries — it took in the whole world, it was for every man. And his revolution was no mere political skirmish; it was an upheaval of life itself. Things would never be the same again; this revolution would continue.

One of a series of Lenten articles on the theme "I was there" prepared for The Record by members of the Sherbrooke and District Ministerial Association.

Due to reverberate through the hallways of time. Values and standards and traditions, all the sacred markings of life, were torn asunder. Now the ultimate value of life was man's relationship to God, a relationship that He perfected.

Yes, He would be crowned King — not with a crown of gold in a place of splendour, but with a crown of thorns upon Jerusalem's garbage dump. He would not reign over his people by virtue of his splendour and his might, but by virtue of the fact that He suffered for his people and drew them to Him with cords of love.

How could I have been so wrong? How could I have so misjudged Him? How could I have missed so completely the meaning of what He told us, especially on our last trip to Jerusalem? My empty and shattered soul within me was too heavy a burden to bear.

Why should I live while He gave Himself so completely? I could not escape this thought. Somehow I had to pay for my dreadful error. I must pay for so misjudging Him, for so completely misunderstanding Him. Somehow I too had to share in his suffering.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Gerald Waring REPORTING

OTTAWA — A pretty young woman in the visitors' gallery of the Commons murmured a question to her escort the other day. "Which are the Liberals," she said, "and which are the Conservatives?"

"The Liberals are the ones with the red faces," he replied. His remark was witty enough, considering the jail break of Lucien Rivard, the series of embarrassing gaffes by such Liberal luminaries as Justice Minister Favreau, State Secretary Lamontagne and Postmaster General Tremblay, the Dupuis scandal, and the stench from the Pandora's box through which the Dorion commission is rumormongering. But at the moment it also had literal justification, because Tory leader John Diefenbaker had just provoked three cabinet ministers into bouncing up, their faces red with anger.

The old master's daily baiting of the Grits is one of the great fascinations of the rump session. The Liberals started the session with what I am sure was an agreed intention hatched in cabinet and confirmed in Caucus to play it cool. Let Dief rave, Grit admonished Grit, and we'll just smile blandly until he runs out of steam.

It hasn't worked out that way. One can see the Liberals' boiling point dropping day by day as the Tory opposition — and usually it's John D. himself — dips brush in the blackest paint it can find and sets to work with a will on the government's image.

For many and obvious reasons Mr. Favreau is a favorite target, and he encourages the Tories by being quick to anger. I watched him last week as Dief needed him on his "forgetfulness" and his "concealment" and his "deceiving the House" on aspects of the Rivard affair. Twice he half rose in anger, only to sink back in his seat in response to soothing whispers from Prime Minister Pearson.

All leases for lodgings, ending April 30th, 1965, or after, will automatically be prolonged until April 30th, 1966, unless one or the other of the parties opposes this automatic prolongation in the following manner:

1. A tenant who wishes to vacate the premises at the expiration of his lease must give his proprietor a written notice of his intention not later than March 31st, if his lease expires on April 30th, and not later than 30 days before its expiration if his lease expires after April 30th.
2. A tenant who does not wish the lease with his landlord to be prolonged on the same conditions (either because he wishes a reduction of the rent or a change in the conditions of rental) must apply to the Rental Administrator for a prolongation of his lease and a fixation of his rent at the latest March 31st, if his lease expires on April 30th, and not later than 30 days before its expiration if his lease expires after April 30th.
3. A proprietor who does not wish the lease with his tenant to be prolonged on the same conditions (either because he wishes to raise the rent or change the conditions of rental) must send his tenant a written notice of his intention not later than March 31st, if it concerns a lease ending on April 30th, and not later than 30 days before its expiration, in the case of a lease ending after April 30th.
4. A tenant who has received such a notice, mentioned in the previous paragraph, and who wishes to accept the new conditions from his proprietor, must do so in writing.
5. A tenant who does not wish to accept the new conditions from his proprietor must apply to the Rental Administrator for a prolongation of his lease and a fixation of his rent. The request for a prolongation of lease and fixation of rent must be made at the latest March 31st, if the notice from the proprietor was sent on or before March 20th, and within ten days of this notice if it was sent after March 20th.

WARING

But the third time he bounced up so fast that the PM couldn't restrain him. Not, of course, that he did much except blow off steam, for the bull-like justice minister is no match for the savagely graceful Tory matador, and Favreau emerges from each encounter with another banderilla in his back.

A certain lady MP who has a reputation for her sharp tongue tried to come to Mr. Favreau's rescue when Mr. Diefenbaker was demanding an answer because Mr. Pearson had spoken of the "purity of his administration".

"Unlike yours," she cried.

"I am speaking about purity," Diefenbaker shot back.

"Did the honorable lady say anything?"

The prime minister's control of his temper has always been quite good, and despite the provocation of the last three weeks it has actually improved. He may have a red face as indignation boils within him, but usually he either looks disgusted or he grins and lets it pass. Only when he considers it important for the record does he reply to some misrepresentation or distortion, and then with good control.

"IMAGES DU QUÉBEC"

Contest of Documentary Photography, held under the auspices of the
Québec Pavillion at Expo '67.

The purpose of the contest is to collect original photographic material representative of various aspects of Québec, for display at the 1967 World Exhibition in Montreal.

IMPORTANT: Contestants are reminded that mere photographic excellence is not enough. Judgement will be based primarily on the documentary value of all entries.

Entries will not be displayed in a formal exhibition, but rather integrated into the Pavillion's other exhibits to add graphic and documentary depth to such exhibits.

The distinguishing qualities of a world exhibition are originality and authenticity; entries will therefore be judged on the double criterion of originality of form and documentary value.

Contestants are free to bring out natural environmental beauty, but they should also try to record Québec's human and social values.

Contestants should not hesitate to point up the contrast between modern, developing Québec and its traditional counterpart.

CONTEST RULES

1. The contest is open to Québec residents only.
2. The contest will remain open from February 3rd to November 30th, 1965, to allow contestants to draw material from all four seasons.
3. Photographs in black and white or in colour (not hand-coloured) and transparencies will be accepted.
4. Contestants shall submit a set of five to fifteen 8 x 10 photographs, each on a stiff, slip-in mount, the size of transparencies shall not exceed 8 x 10.
5. A title and number shall be put on each photographic document.
6. Each entry will be accompanied by a numbered list containing a short explanation of each photographic document.
7. A five-man jury, whose decision will be final, will judge all works submitted.
8. Three prizes will be awarded:
1st prize: $2,500
2nd prize: $1,500
3rd prize: $1,000
9. Names of winners will be announced in December of 1965.
10. The judges may, if they see fit, award any prize to a contestant's set of photographs, rather than to a single document.
11. Award-winning works may be reproduced and displayed in the Québec Pavillion at the Montreal World Exhibition; they will become the property of the Québec Government which will have sole reproduction rights.
12. Interpretation of the contest rules is left to the discretion of the judges.

Bird watcher's notes

By J. GRAHAM PATRIQUIN

Merchants may complain about the reticence of fashion-minded but weather-conscious folk as their spring displays of gay toggerie lie unheeded on the counter, but Prairie Horned Larks come back on schedule, weather or no. Earliest report so far on these advance guards of spring is of Feb. 22; just about average, the doctor says.

The St. Francis Massawippi Bird Club is doing its best to create the illusion of warmth, and will bring a young Rhode Island, Michael Booth, first year science student at Bishop's, to show and comment on colour films from Central and South Africa. This will be the regular March indoor meeting of the Club, and the public, as usual, is invited. Nichols Building, Bishop's University, on Thursday, March 11th, at 8.15 P.M.

The window-season for birding is not been spectacular, according to reports from the Townships, from the Montreal area, and from several Nova Scotia observers. Down there, incidentally, the untoward scarcity of Sparrows, Juncos and other small inhabitants of scrub woods has started a veritable "hate campaign" against the birds. These chemicals they blame for a marked decrease in the little fellows who nest about three to four feet off the ground, in bushes within sight of highway traffic. One disconsolate feeder-owner wrote of House Sparrows and Starlings and their cheerless, but persistent visits, and longed for the sight of a Downy Woodpecker.

There has been a pronounced increase of knowledgeable feeder-fans in this region during the past year or so. Even better, many are articulate, as telephone conversations indicate.

Around the campus

at Bishop's

By DOUGLAS WHATLEY

The Deep Purples, the Bishop's University glee club (or choral society, if you prefer), presents its annual concert Wednesday evening, commencing at 8:30 in the university's Memorial Gymnasium.

Thirty-three selected voices, directed as in the past by Dr. J. W. McCubbin, will present a potpourri of choral selections.

These will include Bach, "Swingled" Bach, French-Canadian folksongs, Negro spirituals, and medleys of popular songs. Citizens of the area are cordially invited to hear the Bishop's singers, whose concerts in recent years have received considerable acclaim.

ARTISTRY

Artistic studies of the university are presenting a display of paintings, sculptures, sketches, photography, and mixed media work this Monday through Friday.

Open afternoons from two to five and evenings from seven to ten in the small lounge of the Students' Union (Bishop Mountain House), the exhibition will be without charge.

AIDES-MEMOIRE

Final performance of the poetic drama J.B., this year's major play for the Dramatics Society, will occur this evening, commencing at 8:30 in the Memorial Gymnasium.

Admission is a mere dollar and a half for adults and seventy-five cents for high school students, which may be paid at the door.

Also in its final day today, and open both this afternoon and this evening without charge, is the biology exhibition whose theme is invertebrate life.

The tenth in a popular series which began in 1946, this one features a wide variety of live, preserved, and fossil animals without backbone, plus demonstrations, experiments, and films.

Located on the third floor of the Johnson Science Building, and open this afternoon from 2:15 to 5:30 and this evening from 7:30 to 10:30, the extensive biology exhibit is open to all interested high school students or citizens.

MONEY

The brief presented in the name of the Bishop's Students' Association to the Bladen Commission on the Financing of Higher Education last Saturday declared that all students at the university level should be obliged to pay for their education as much as possible even if not able to do so until after graduation.

Most Canadian university students are believed to favour free college education.

But the Bishop's brief argued that many students are able to pay at least as much as they presently do, and that others could repay the costs of their education if such costs were paid for them by governments.

Instead of introducing universal free education, said the Bishop's submission, governments should strive to improve the existing system of bursaries and loans such that no student's needs are unmet as long as he is academically able to continue his studies.

All grants from governments to students should be considered as (interest-free) loans, suggested the Bishop's group, and the amount the student should repay ought to be determined after his formal training is completed, when his earning potential can be more accurately estimated. Most students should be able to repay it all, it was said.

These major points, and others, were reported to have been received with much interest by the commission.

CLUB?

A new club may be formed at Bishop's soon, if plans of a group of geography students under the inspiration of Geography Professor W. G. Ross materialize. The students wish to form a group to sponsor films, speakers, seminars, and field trips on geographical and related topics. Bishop's already has active clubs in most if not all of the other social and natural sciences taught at the university.

SPORTS

The basketball Gaîtiers defeated Ottawa University 98 to 48, and Macdonald College 72 to 50, last weekend, to take fourth place in OSLAA basketball standings with a 10 and six season's record.

The cagers, coached by Garth Smith, play the league's first-place team, unbeaten and powerful Carleton, this weekend in a semi-final match.

The unpredictable hockey Gaîtiers also closed their regular season last weekend, defeating Macdonald College 10 to 2. It was but their third win in 14 league games. No playoffs for these Gaîtiers.

The Bible text is from Psalms: 'What is man, that thou art mindful of him?' Correlative passages from 'Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures' by Mary Baker Eddy will include: 'The human capacities are enlarged and perfected in proportion as humanity gains the true conception of man and God. ## For and about Women

J.F.K. Memorial Fund to provide funds for the mentally retarded

The Kennedy Foundation was originally founded by the family of the celebrated late President, in honor of an elder son, killed during the second World War, to provide funds for mentally retarded children.

Aware of the strong attachment to the work of this Foundation, and of the interest which John F. Kennedy took in its work during his lifetime, the Foundation was renamed The John F. Kennedy Memorial Fund shortly after the President's assassination, that his name will be perpetuated by this worthy memorial and it would be given, as he is given, forever, world wide recognition.

As parents, we cannot rest indifferent to the ravages of mental retardation and that is why we are throwing our energies into this field. Mr. Desruisseaux is the president of the Honorary Governors of the Canadian Association for the Mentally Retarded in Quebec, and we decided together to take the initiative, and the challenge it presents, to make more people locally aware of the need for research and to bring our friends and their friends together on April 3, so we can do our share for the Foundation. Our one motive is to help all of the parents and children afflicted by this unhappy condition.

INSTEAD OF CAMPAIGN
Explaining this particular enterprise, Mrs. Desruisseaux pointed out that instead of campaigning for subscriptions in the usual way, we felt by offering the public an evening of pleasurable entertainment, and the opportunity to meet together at a local hotel, we could attract a greater number of participants. Of course, those people who support the Fund will receive receipts for tax allowance, she added.

Although, at first glance, the prices may appear to be high, the president observed, the benefits are three-fold — and surely there is no better cause than to give a helping hand to afflicted little children.

We are providing first class entertainment and a pleasant social evening she emphasized for the very practical purpose of providing money for research into the causes of this dreaded condition — mental retardation. "Everyone should understand," said Mrs. Desruisseaux, "this fund is kept strictly to Canadian projects."

Perhaps it is reassuring if I tell you that as close as McGill University, Dr. Sam Rabinovitch, has been given a five year grant to spend fulltime in the learning centre with the help of new scientific knowledge and techniques will evolve from his work and that of his colleagues. $75,000 has been provided for this purpose. Another example close to home is the support given to the research and service program development at the Montreal Children's Hospital, which, over the next few years will cost some $40,000.

FUTURE PLANS
A series of Centennial projects are being developed which will provide each Province with money for Mental Retardation Centres for Research. It is planned to distribute $7,000,000 throughout Canada for the Canadian Centenary celebration of Confederation in 1967, under this plan.

Mrs. Desruisseaux pointed out that just as in recent years, through scientific research, the means of controlling former fatal diseases, such as tuberculosis, polio, and certain forms of cancer, those medical and lay people involved in this movement are dedicated to the belief, that they will be able to provide answers to the causes of retardation. The search is on and with public support and awareness hope is being brought to thousands.

In closing her interview the president of the Sherbrooke branch of the Canadian John F. Kennedy Memorial Fund for the Retarded, left us with the disturbing but factual information that three in every hundred children born in Canada every year are retarded. Multiply this number by the parents who face the shadow of hopelessness which crosses their lives — and we realize the urgency for funds they can be helped — but they need the help of every Canadian, concluded Mrs. Desruisseaux.

The tickets for the Feux Follets performance will be on sale every day from now until April 3, at the New Sherbrooke Hotel from noon until 5 p.m. Telephone 567-2688; or mail your request for reservations to Post Office Box 761, Sherbrooke.

Homemakers will let pros get housemaid's knee

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Whether they need it or not, the homes in this country are in for a good scrubbing.

Professional cleaning contractors, those whose crews skim the everyday grime from office buildings, hospitals and schools, now see a way to make money in the home clean-up field.

If the housewife wants it, as a president of a major cleaning care organization puts it, "packaged cleaning" for the average household is virtually around the corner.

This is the era of the specialist, the head of Service Master says. "Why shouldn't controlled home maintenance encompass a wide range of services?" He sees such housecleaning or controlled cleaning uncovering more dirt than just shampooing a carpet or polishing floors. These two home services already are popular with numbers of homemakers.

Once set up, "controlled cleaning or professional housekeeping" will be offered on a cost per unit basis, with a certain number of units specified for each room. For example, the cleaning expert explains that professional servicemen will survey a room, then estimate the minimum amount of work units required. Even more important, he will estimate how often the work needs to be done to keep the area clean during the year.

Cleaning will be only one of the professional homecare services of the future. Also on the list will be deodorizing, sanitizing, pest control — whatever it takes to keep a home clean and comfortable on a continuing minimum basis.

If this seems like a pipe dream, it is the same one enjoyed by a man who started with a mop-and-pail swabbing Manhattan offices. Now a veep with City Service Cleaning Division of Kinney Service Corp., he sees commercial cleaning growing to a $4 to $5 billion industry. Four companies in the New York metropolitan area now gross in excess of $150 million annually.

"It is more than a cleaning revolution," he says. "It is a chance for both men and women to go up the work ladder. They can reach a senior, professional level. In our company we are trying to develop more pride in service work." And then he cited the money to be made—$2.25 to $3 an hour for a woman and $4 for a man. One window cleaner put a boy through medical school and recent high school grads can make up to $90 a week.

He predicts professional home cleaning will be departmentalized. Women for example, might do the bath, dusting and vacuuming. Men would do the wall washing, power vacuuming and other physically hard jobs. They would arrive in a neighborhood as crews and sweep through their specialties in each house on a block. Making all this possible are new chemical cleaners, acrylics instead of waxes for floor and wall coverings, ultrasonic and electrostatic cleaning equipment (pull a truck up to a house, attach a pipe to the door and whoosh).

Although there is a bigger push in metropolitan areas for professional cleaning because of apartment living, the New Yorker says it may be some bright fellow in a small community who will really make such a cleaning concept work.

Domestic or private household employees now number less than 8 per cent of the female labor market. Yet, acceptance of the "packaged or controlled cleaning" idea rests on the homemaker and her attitude toward the amount of work she should do in the home.

A brief summary was given by the president of each committee. At the previous meeting, a committee consisting of five members was set up to organize the yearly Tag Day, which will be held on April 23 and 24. New ideas were given by Mrs. F. Armstrong, committee head. Last year's total proceeds amounted to $327.62; it is hoped this year to double this amount. The Tag Day constitutes the only source of revenue except for a sale of African violets which was held between January 23 and 29.

Appreciation of the group is extended to all who contributed to the success of this sale.

Following the meeting refreshments were served by Mrs. P. Chalfour and Mrs. L. Conway acting hostesses.

MUSIC ON RECORDS

By JOSEPH and SUSAN WEARING

MOZART — Clarinet Quintet, K. 581; Divertimento in F, K. 247; members of the Vienna Octet. (LONDON stereo CS 6379) — This is certainly one of the best recordings of the clarinet quintet yet to appear. The melting sound of Alfred Boskowsky's clarinet combined with the elegant yet spirited restraint of the strings makes this a memorable performance, full of subtlety, colour and freshness. The Divertimento is also extremely well-played. Sometimes there is almost too much restraint, except from the horns, which are played with irrepressibly good humour throughout.

SAMUEL BARBER — Piano Concerto; John Browning, pianist. WILLIAM SCHUMAN — A Song of Orpheus; Leonard Rose, cellist. The Cleveland Orchestra; George Szell, cond. (COLUMBIA stereo MS 6638) — This exciting and spontaneous concerto by Samuel Barber is one of the most important works written for the piano in this century. The impassioned outbursts of the first and third movements are separated by a slow song-like movement of real beauty. John Browning's splendid interpretation makes him an excellent choice to present this work.

The lyrical opening by the cello in the Song of Orpheus is intended to convey the words of a song, "Orpheus with his lute" from Shakespeare's "Henry VIII". It is a very compelling piece, reaching from the simple, rich melodic to some very flamboyant brassness. Leonard Rose gives a very fine performance.

RICHARDS STRAUSS — Lieder; Hermann Prey, baritone; Gerald Moore, piano; (LONDON stereo OS 25869) — Hermann Prey has a way of injecting a certain colour into the notes and of shaping the words of songs that makes me think he is one of the brightest lights in lieder singing today. His voice is very rich, and the phrases just seem to roll out. However, I felt that the microphone has been placed too far away — some of the quieter songs, "Du Meines Herzens Klonelein" for example, because these lack the clarity that makes a Fischer-Dieskau pianissimo such a joy. Gerald Moore is in his usual outstanding form.

The coin

by

A historically interesting coin is the dollar mentioned in Treasure Island and other stories of high adventure as "Piece of Eight" and "Pirate Plunder", which was the principal coin of the Americas and forerunner of the Canadian and U.S. silver dollars.

Following the Spanish conquest of Mexico by Cortes, huge quantities of silver from the rich mines were minted into coins and this was the first coinage in the New World. Early coins were crudely made. A sheet of metal of the proper thickness was trimmed and cut by hand to make the individual coins. About 1580 the Mexican mint began coining the "cob" money (from cabo de bara — "cut from a bar"). These coins were made by slicing off parts of crude silver bars. The pieces of metal were then hammered from rough dies. The coins were undated.

Later the Spaniards struck two varieties of the eight Reales, better known as the "Piece of Eight". One issue featured two globes between the Pillars of Hercules (Straits of Gibraltar) and a later issue bore the portrait of the Spanish king. These coins became the best known and most widely circulated in the world and a medium of exchange acceptable anywhere. Even until 1857 they were legal tender in the U.S.

In some countries the Eight Reales supplied the required large silver coins and also provided the source for producing small change. This was particularly the case in the West Indies where there were many examples of the coin being cut for this purpose into various denominations. One eighth piece was the equivalent of one real or 12½ cents, and was known as two bits. From this designation we still use the term "two bits" when referring to a quarter of a dollar.

The Spanish dollars, romantic and historically interesting coins, have now disappeared from circulation and are collector's items. However, they can be obtained from dealers for five dollars and up.

Money and love were hers, but she died alone, unloved

THE VIRGIN MISTRESS by Elizabeth Mavor; 200 pp; CLARKE, IRWIN; $6.00.

Elizabeth Chudleigh lived in the eighteenth century. The Chudleigh family history covered a period of 400 years in a small village of Ashton among the wooded South Devon hills.

By the age of fifteen Elizabeth had received many advantages and developed into a very attractive individual. At this time Putney, a very famous orator and student became interested in Elizabeth's future and not only made over a small estate, her first property of many to come, but also introduced her at the Prince of Wales Court where she became Maid of Honour to the Princess with a salary of 200 pounds a year and benefits added.

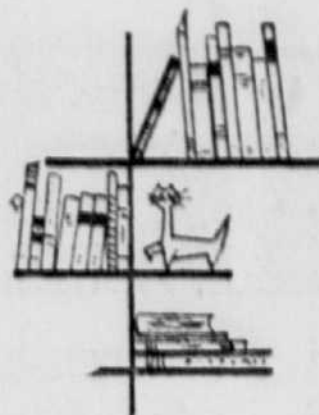

This marked the beginning of a very eventful career. The artificial life at the court influenced her deeply both as regards her morals and her desire for wealth.

She married Augustus Hervey, an attractive Naval Officer with a title expected on the death of his father. Hervey was often at sea which permitted Elizabeth freedom for further amatory excursions. While attached to Hervey, she met the Duke of Kingston who was wealthier and more influential so playing both at the one time, she married him before her divorce was final. This involved her later in an expensive and trying experience with the courts of England from which she eventually fled to Europe.

There, beset by high legal costs, betrayed by family and trusted servants, she who had amassed a fortune of 3,000,000 pounds, being wife of two pears, lover of many, and the sensation of her time, died alone and unloved and now lies in an unmarked grave.

MAY LOTHROP, Sherbrooke.

By GLADYS TAYLOR

My first introduction to the ANNALS OF MEGANTIC (reviewed elsewhere on this page) was some eight years ago when I was doing research for THE KING TREE. At that time Mr. M. Mooney of Thetford Mines, a direct descendant of Col. Archibald McKillop who led the little band of settlers from Arran to Inverness, lent me his copy.

It was later, while I was still living in Thetford Mines, that Mrs. Minnaugh told me of her plans to get the book reprinted. But it wasn't until a few weeks ago, when I received a letter from Mr. C. W. McVetty, that I learned, to my pleasure, that the book which had proved so useful to me during my research, was again in print.

Many people will be indebted to Mrs. Minnaugh for her labor of love in getting out this new edition. And that it was labor is evidenced by the difficulties she had in bringing it about. Her biggest problem was to get a publisher. She first tried to contact the firm in Lynn, Mass., which had printed the original copies but they seemed to have dropped completely out of existence. Then she wrote to the British branch of the MACMILLAN PUBLISHING COMPANY, thinking that since one of their forebears was closely related to some of the early Arran settlers they would be interested. But again no luck.

Finally she came to an agreement with the T. J. Moore Company of Quebec City but again difficulties arose. They wanted an original copy—in perfect condition—before they would undertake the project. It was not easy to find an unblemished copy of a book which, because of its historical quality was invariably much handled by everyone who owned one. However Mrs. R. L. Allan of Lemesurier, finally produced one which the publishers could use. Mrs. Minnaugh had 500 copies of it made—and now finds her days busy filling orders for the book and answering letters from grateful descendants of the Arran settlers.

Among the people most indebted to Mrs. Minnaugh are those who have long since left the Eastern Townships but still retain sentimental links with the past. One of these is Mrs. Annie McKillop of Unity, Sask., who is also a direct descendant of Col. McKillop and niece of the author of the book. It is to her I am indebted for these facts about the author, Dugald McKenzie McKillop.

He was born in Inverness in 1857, the youngest of nine children. As a young man he taught school in Inverness. Afterwards he took a business course and went to Lynn, Mass., where he went into business. He was still keenly interested in education however and wrote a book called SHORTHAND AND TYPE-WRITING early in his business career. He married Catherine McKinnon and they had two sons, Alan, who became a Doctor of Philosophy on the staff of Rice Institute, Houston, Texas, and Kenneth who stayed in Lynn. It was Kenneth who retained the closest links with Megantic County and he was compiling a sequel to the ANNALS when he died in 1932.

History of these pioneers in Megantic is one of courage, tragedy and triumph

ANNALS OF MEGANTIC COUNTY by Dugald McKenzie McKillop; 171 pp; T. J. Moore Publishers; $5.00.

This book was originally published by D. McKillop of Lynn, Mass. in 1902, but a second impression was made in 1962 by Mrs. Arthur Minnaugh of Inverness. Mrs. Minnaugh, whose maiden name was Dugald McKillop, is a descendant of one of the first families to come from Arran, Scotland to this district.

The first chapters of the ANNALS deal with the original band of settlers from Arran who arrived at Quebec on June 25, 1829, following a voyage of two months on the good ship Caledonia. The travellers then engaged a barge to bring them up to St. Nicholas, fifteen miles upstream from the Port of Quebec, where they engaged teamsters to bring them, and their belongings, in carts, by way of Craig's Road until they reached the 4th concession of Inverness, then they turned to the right, coming at last to the shores of Lake Joseph where the settlers, "houseless and lonely" pitched their tents.

It would take too much space here to relate the trials and hardships endured by the settlers at this camp, and it is quite possible that they might have all perished, had it not been for the kindness of United Empire Loyalists who had settled earlier in the Maple Grove area, who, upon hearing of the plight of those at the camp, sent down boatloads of provisions on the waters of the Thames River. In spite of all this kindness, however, fever broke out in the camp, and on the monument erected in 1919, on the first burying ground of the settlement, it is recorded that some 20 of those pioneers passed on to their reward from 1829-1844.

Succeeding chapters of this interesting book tell us of further arrivals of settlers from Scotland and Ireland — of their unflinching courage in carving homesteads out of the heavily forested countryside. We learn something also of their superb efforts to build churches, schools and roads, while enterprising men developed every possible power site on the different streams and rivers to operate mills to grind their grain and saw the lumber necessary for their various projects.

We are given the names of the various ministers, doctors and school inspectors, who, in their different fields of endeavour, contributed greatly towards the well-being of the settlers in Inverness, Leeds, Kinnear's Mills, Lower Ireland, Maple Grove and other sections of this county.

The ANNALS also inform us of the names of those who served this county in the Provincial Legislature at Que-

The great issue of our times explained with both logic and passion by Dr. King

WHY WE CAN'T WAIT by Martin L. King; Longmans; $4.50; 178 pp.

Many well-meaning, kindly intentioned persons who would refer to themselves as "liberal" sincerely wonder why the Negroes are so impatient for equality. Wouldn't it be better to be satisfied with the gains they have made? Aren't they stirring up trouble and antagonism by these demonstrations, sit-ins, marches? Why can't they wait? This book answers that question, and should answer it once and for all.

In April, 1963, Martin Luther King was confined in the Birmingham City Jail, for "civil disobedience", demonstrating in defiance of a court order. While in solitary confinement he wrote a letter to eight clergymen from Alabama who had publicly criticized his activities as "unwise and untimely". This statement is reprinted in its entirety, as Chapter 5 — and in a sense the whole book is an elaboration of the letter, which is a truly moving document.

In one vivid page, Rev. King shows us what it is like to feel "the stinging darts of segregation". He justifies the call for "Freedom NOW", as if any justification were required. He explains the non-violent approach to the restructuring of our social order, and expresses his disappointment in the church and in the white moderate, saying "We will have to repent in this generation not merely for the hateful words and actions of the bad people but for the appalling silence of the good people."

He asks for understanding and speaks of his hopes for the future. "I have no despair . . . I have no fear . . . I am not angry with the oppressors, for they are only sons and daughters of God, like myself, as are the whites who oppress them. We may be, our destiny is tied up with America's destiny."

Sometimes I feel Martin Luther King's writing is marred by an oratorical kind of floweryness, stemming from his preaching vocation. The march on Washington telecast showed what a magnificent speaker he is, in the old-fashioned emotional style.

But this letter, though long, does not say a word too much. It is a perfect and sincere expression of a legitimate aspiration, and it comes right from the heart of a man whom the world recognizes as a leader for peace. As such it should, and I hope will be widely read.

The rest of the book deals with the inside story of the Birmingham campaign, explains why 1963 was such a crucial year for the forces of revolution, and discusses the various rights groups and specific individuals concerned with the movement. The final chapter, on the political implications of the civil rights campaign is valid even though the presidential election is over.

John F. Kennedy certainly came to understand the forces at work, and recognized that the issue confronting the U.S. was a moral one, "as old as the Scriptures and as clear as the American Constitution." This excellent book explores and defines the great issue of our times with both logic and passion.

Collecting

in the Townships

A reader has asked about the symbols which appear on the current definitive set for Canada. This set differs from the usual regular stamps used by Canada in the past in several ways: the stamps are of the horizontal format rather than the common vertical type and the denominations are not followed by the sign for cents. The stamp design is based on a drawing by Ernest Roch of Montreal completed during two private sittings at Buckingham Palace arranged specifically for these stamps.

The one cent has the economic symbol of three crystals to represent our mining industry, the two cent green a tree to represent Canada's forestry and forest products. The three cent has a fish to draw attention to our fishing industry, the four cent an electric high tension tower to represent industry and the five cent a head of wheat as a tribute to our agriculture.

Many collectors do not investigate these details of a stamp and so are missing much of the pleasure to be found in stamp collecting. The dollar stamp issued in 1951 was designed to publicize our fishing industry and the border illustrates 16 varieties of fisheries products — piblof seal, clam, tuna, halibut, herring, mackerel, cod, shrimp, scallop, lobster, Atlantic salmon, sockeye salmon, lake trout, whitefish, haddock and oyster.

The stamp clubs in the Townships continue to offer collectors an opportunity to learn about philately and to exchange stamps and ideas with other collectors. Stamp clubs have a very definite place in the hobby and your membership will bring you pleasure and knowledge. You are urged to join the club in your area. The cost will be small but the rewards many.

The United Nations Postal Administration, United Nations, New York, N.Y., 10017, offers some useful material for stamp clubs and collectors. If you do write please remember the Zip Code number shown. A 35mm film strip on U.N. stamps is available without charge to stamp clubs, schools and other interested groups. In 35 frames it shows the design and manufacture of the first international postage stamps, and illustrates many of the more popular commemorative and regular issues. Panels displaying stamps and other postal items issued at U.N. Headquarters are also available on loan.

A 16mm sound film, narrated by Alistair Cook, goes back to the early history of stamps and touches on a number of philatelic curiosities before recounting the establishment of the U.N. Postal Administration in 1951 and the subsequent development of its stamps. A short "Introductory Guide to the Postage Stamps and Postal Stationery of the U.N." is also available at no cost.

The guide may be obtained by writing the address given but be sure to enclose a self-addressed, stamped No. 8 envelope, and not a Canadian stamp.

Six years ago, in 1959, during the Winter months the Coaticook Stamp Club (now the Eastern Townships Stamp Club) held a most enjoyable evening when E. J. Struthers, mayor of Stanstead at the present time, gave a very interesting and fascinating talk on communications in the early days of the Townships. The club was visited the same evening by Allen Christensen, of Montreal, and L. M. Lamoureux, present editor of the Royal Philatelic Society of Canada magazine. The writer remembers the talk by Mr. Struthers and suggests that some of the stamp clubs could enjoy his historical notes again.

In love with everyone

Emily Kimbrough's trip is ever-humorous, kind

FOREVER OLD, FOREVER NEW by Emily Kimbrough; Longmans Canada Ltd.; 241 pp; $6.25.

Narrative in the high-spirited tradition of gay Emily Kimbrough is always welcome to those who like to get away from their troubles and enjoy a good laugh. Hers is an ebullient enthusiasm; she is immediately in love with anyone who shows her kindness, all cats, dogs and even donkeys become her own and, if she could, she would take them home with her.

We remember this author when, in collaboration with Cornelia Otis Skinner, she told of her travels in Europe in Our Hearts Were Young and Gay.

Another of Miss Kimbrough's very amusing books is an account of a lecture tour, when she was wined and dined until she was almost too ill to speak. IT GIVES ME GREAT PLEASURE has so much in common with the experiences of other travelling lecturers that it was an immediate success.

In this, her latest book, FOREVER OLD, FOREVER NEW, Emily Kimbrough goes to Greece, a country she has visited previously and knows quite well. She is accompanied by a friend, Sophy, who has with her two teenage granddaughters. They have to learn to live as the Greeks do and are switched from modern living into an ancient way of life which has remained unchanged through countless ages. The old and the new Greece blend kindly, once they become accustomed to such customs as being served candied fruit, to be dipped into a glass of ice water, at five o'clock in the morning.

In between accounts of actual adventures, Miss Kimbrough inserts stories of Greece and the Greeks, told to her by her friends. She has the faculty of coming very close to people and of drawing them out to tell even of family differences. Her affectionate insight into the characters of these descendants of Homer is remarkable. Probably because she loves them all.

Emily Kimbrough can never be serious. This, therefore, is an humorous account, a splendid gift for a convalescent friend who sees nothing funny about days in bed with a bout of flu. Regard for an hospital patient with stitches should be considered, however!

Aside from the sparkling narrative, the book is crammed with most valuable information for anyone contemplating travelling abroad.

Confederation times live in excitement and suspense

THE ROAD TO CONFEDERATION by Donald Creighton; MacMillan of Canada; $7.50; 439 pages.

With his latest book "The Road to Confederation" Donald Creighton continues to deserve his reputation as one of Canada's great modern historians. He has examined a timely and absorbing period of our history encompassing the dramatic events leading up to confederation. As he tells of the visions, the dreams, the set-backs, the frustrations, the apathy, the bickering and the rivalry which influenced the final decision to become the Dominion of Canada, the reader is caught up in the excitement, the suspense and the final agreement.

Interviewed with the story of Confederation is a wealth of personal and social detail. Who could have foreseen that the presence in New Brunswick of Arthur Gordon as lieutenant-governor (he initiated the Charlottetown conference) would start such a chain of events? He was sent by Gladstone to this out of the way spot to be out of harm's way for committing an unpardonable sin. He kept Gladstone waiting 15 minutes when they were to go together to a dinner given by King Leopold of the Belgians.

The characters of the Confederation leaders — Macdonald, Brown, Cartier, Gait, Tupper, Tilley and McGee — emerge so clearly that their reactions become predictable. How typical that the irascible Brown should resign from the Cabinet in a fit of rage and not be present in England for the final decisions on the new Dominion of Canada. How foreseeable that Macdonald, subject to "bouts of drunkenness" when events became dull and frustrating, was clear in mind

Does two plus two really equal X?

Want to get the answer to 2 plus 2 equals X? Well, get a pump and tank and a camera. . . . Let Katie Mueller tell you all about it in the following fourth of five articles on the "new math." At the age of 14 she's been dealing with the "new math" for three years.

Written for The AP
By KATIE MUELLER

Mathematicians have taken pumps and tanks cameras and projectors and put them together in the "pump theory" to help explain some of the new math.

They're not saying that a pump subtracted from a tank equals a projector. What they actually do with the pump theory is explain very simply why the products and quotients of negative and positive numbers are what they are.

Let's try to explain some of this confusion.

In my previous article I explain the "real numbers" which the new math deals. That is, the concept that any number less than zero is a negative number and any number greater than zero is a positive number.

I said that a negative number multiplied by a positive number always produces a negative number, and a lot of other stuff. But, since the new math was developed to teach the "why" as well as the "how" of certain mathematical procedures, let's turn to the pump theory.

Suppose you had a pump that could pump water into and out of a tank. And suppose, too, that you could take a motion picture of the water level going up or down as the pump worked. And we'll assume that you have a film projector that runs the film both backward and forward.

Now, pump water into the tank, film the water level rising, and run the film forward through the projector. Naturally, on the screen you will see the water level rising—going in a positive direction.

But let's say you run the film backward. On the screen you would see the water level going down—going in a negative direction.

These two examples show us that:

1. A positive number (water flowing into the tank) multiplied or divided by a positive number (the film running forward through the projector) equals a positive number (the picture on the screen shows the water level going up).

2. A positive number (water flowing into the tank) multiplied or divided by a negative number (the film running backward through the projector) equals a negative number (the picture on the screen shows the water level going down).

3. A negative number (water flowing out of the tank) multiplied or divided by a positive number (the film running forward through the projector) equals a negative number (the picture on the screen shows the water level going down).

4. A negative number (water flowing out of the tank) multiplied or divided by a negative number (the film running backward through the projector) equals a positive number (the picture on the screen shows the water level going up).

Now, pump water into the tank, film the water level rising, and run the film forward through the projector. Naturally, on the screen you will see the water level rising—going in a positive direction.

Molson's crush Bean Clippers 74-47 while Bishop's JV's edge Magog, playoff action continues next week

In Thursday's opening games of the Eastern Townships Amateur Basketball Association semi-finals, Molson's Independents and the Bishop's Junior Varsity took giant steps towards entering the final series with wins over Sherbrooke's Bean Clippers and the Magog Lions.

Molson's dominated play in a roughly-played match, the second game in the ETABA doubleheader at Lennoxville High. With high-scoring guard Jeff Mills sitting on a one-game suspension, the Clippers were crushed 74-47, and so face the near impossible task of winning the second game by at least 28 points.

In the other semi-final event, Bishop's JV's put on a late-game spurt to carry them to a 70-60 victory and give them a 10 point cushion for Tuesday night's 8:00 p.m. game in Magog.

Molson's started fast in their game and never looked back as the Clippers seemed more in tent upon referee-baiting than winning. Paced by guards Al Young and Bruce Coulter, the Independents piled up a 35-19 half-time lead, and by game's end Young had picked up 23 points and Coulter 16. Al Hunt-

All teams see action this weekend as Leafs give up hopes of top spot, Imlach says Stanley Cup will stay

Toronto Maple Leafs, resigned to the fact they have little chance of attaining first place in the National Hockey League play host to Chicago Black Hawks the league leaders in Toronto tonight. Detroit Red Wings visit Boston Bruins and New York Rangers meet the Canadiens in Montreal.

Sunday's slate has Toronto at Boston, Montreal at Chicago and Detroit at New York.

Punch Imlach, coach and general manager of the Leafs, is convinced his club is rounding into form and will be at their best during the playoffs.

"Don't bet against us," says Imlach. "We're going to win it again."

Leafs have proven during the last few years not to be taken lightly at playoff time. They have won the Stanley Cup the last three years hand running.

The Toronto club finished third last season after taking both the league championship and the cup the previous year

SHS senior girls dump LHS 40-19

Sherbrooke High School senior girls basketball squad will once again represent their zone in the MacLeod playdowns to be held this year at Bishop's University March 19 and 20.

As a result of their decisive 40-19 verdict over Lennoxville High in a sudden-death tilt, they receive the right to enter the annual game competitions that include teams from the Province of Quebec in different zones.

Two SHS girls can be accredited with their upset over LHS, which went to a third game in the best of three series, as one kept pumping basket after basket offensively, while the other held a tight guarding unit. Barbara Connor and Leona Rose knew just what was needed in halting Lennoxville, as Miss Connor potted 17 points to stand out above all other players on the floor in performance. Meanwhile, Leona Rose proved her position on guard, after having been transferred from the forward line, as she tightened the strings and blocked LHS from advancing any further.

Lennoxville managed to hold a slim 11-8 lead at the end of game in the best of three series, as they threatened the SHS hopefuls in the immediate minutes of this quarter. Fouling was rather heavy on both sides, with SHS failing to capitalize on the free throws, as Lennoxville gained their points at the line.

However, what was missed on the free points was gained double on the long shots by Sherbrooke, with Barb Connor, Barb Price and Myrna MacDonald clicking on the outside set-shot.

Since a girls' basketball game is primarily a matter of excellent passing and good aims, this was evident on both sides, showing the better form of this brand of ball. LHS carried a similar line of action as that of their second meeting, while Sherbrooke turned a new leaf and advanced by doing so.

The "unsung heroes" of the game are the guards, as their absence on the floor makes a definite difference depending on the opposing offense. Sherbrooke had these in Leona Rose and Linda Clarke. Lennoxville's outstanding players were Vicki Hughes-Games pointwise with 11, while Heather Hirtle kept up the LHS attack and held their retreat.

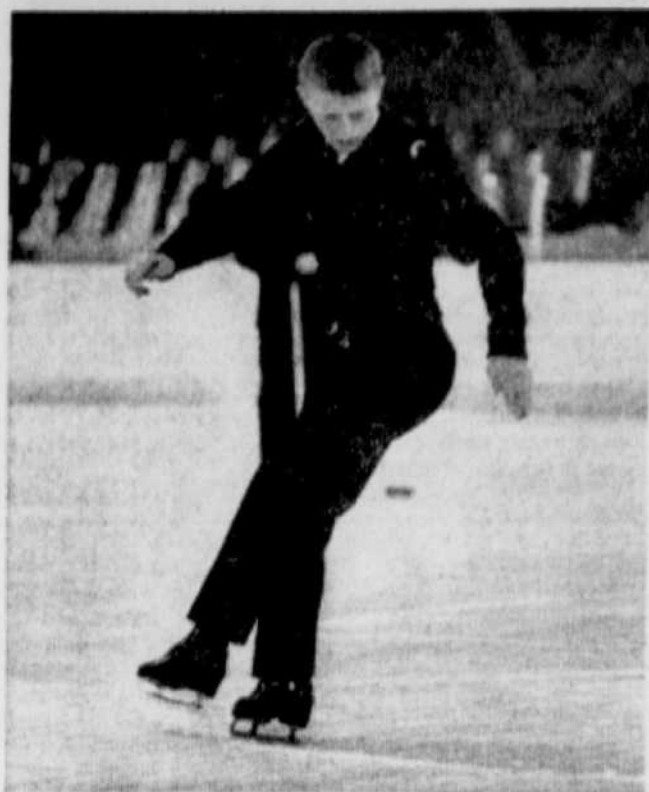

SHS JUNIOR BOYS WIN ANOTHER

Sherbrooke High School junior boys picked up their sixteenth victory in an eighteen game schedule of the Sherbrooke Basketball League last night, defeating Montcalm 42-15. The SHS crew is clearly taking a clean sweep of the honors, and as it appears, the playoffs are included in their spoils.

Victor Newton paced the victors with 14 points, while Gerry Willard and Grant Clowery shared eight apiece. Topsy or Montcalm was Pierre Gagne-

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Alain Calmat of France finished first in the compulsory figures of the men's singles Friday, brightening his bid for his first world figure skating title in the 11 years he has been competing.

The runner-up was 17-year-old Donald Knight of Dundas, Ont., followed by the European champion, 20-year-old Emmrich Danzer of Austria.

Calmat, 24-year-old University of Paris pre-medical student, received 15.5 ordinal points and 1,133.2 total points from the nine judges for the six figures.

The strongest comeback was made by the young American, 16-year-old Scott Elhan Allen of Smoke Rise, N.J., who rose to fourth after placing ninth at the halfway mark Thursday.

Fifth place went to the only Japanese entrant in the event, Nobuo Sato, 23.

REMEMBER WHEN —

First of the finals opens at 2:30 with Gauls still looking for win on local ice, teams eye Allan Cup

Sherbrooke Beavers will meet a new competitor in the Quebec Senior Hockey League finals.

A different story evolves on the ice in the hockey final playoffs beginning Sunday afternoon at the Sherbrooke Arena, as the 1964 title will not be defended.

Last year's champions, Granby Vics, were eliminated in six games by the St. Hyacinthe Gauls in semi-final action and thus deprived them of the chance to return and defend their laurels, having won last year's title over Sherbrooke.

The Sherbrooke Beavers host St. Hyacinthe tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 p.m. in the first of a best-of-seven series. The finals are expected to go the full limit, as fans have been picking up all available tickets well in advance.

The history of the two clubs in meeting one another is pretty well divided. Sherbrooke picked up a win in every league match played at the local arena, while St. Hyacinthe has dropped only one to the Beavers on their home ice.

Biggest upset seen in these tilts came in Sherbrooke, as the Gauls suffered an 8-0 lashing, this being played on Thursday, January 21. Other performances by the local club against the Gauls include a double 6-3 verdict, gaining them on both surfaces, as well as a 7-2 tilt, again on the local ice, this one played a week after the big 8-0 blast.

Claude Savary's boys have been equally as powerful in their own familiar surroundings, having taken the Beavers four times. The hosting Gauls seemed to offer better defensive opposition as well as a strong offense in front of their own supporters.

WINNERS TO ALLAN CUP The winner of this final series will head into playoff competition in the Allan Cup, which comes up as a best of five setup beginning Monday, March 29. Series "A" will see the Maritimes winner meeting Quebec champions, the Beavers or Gauls, here in Quebec. Sherbrooke hasn't seen the Allan Cup playdowns for awhile, since the Vics moved in last year. St. Hyacinthe Gauls still await a chance to move in on the Cup.

As for Sunday's tilt, Sherbrooke will no doubt have the tops out on the ice, all supporting Serge Aubry in their first meeting. Captain Rene Pepin, Claude Cardin, Renal Rousseau and, of course, Jean Levesque, will give all they have. Playing coach Georges Roy will also be in with the fighting spirit.

St. Hyacinthe will rely mainly on Andre Binette, in the nets, hoping that he can pull up another surprise like that with the Vics. A shutout over the Beavers would really have things hopping in both areas. The big Gauls could be Ted Houston, Guy Black, Claude Vinet and even Dino Mascotto pouring on all they have against the mighty Beavers.

Fans are urged to get to the arena early, since the better seats are taken, there will still be a rush for the favored general admittance.

Manitoba rink clinches 1965 title with 10-7 win to break deadlock, Saskatchewan settles for second

SASKATOON (CP) — A perfectly executed five on the eighth end Friday afternoon carried Terry Braunstein and his Winnipeg rink to a 10-7 triumph over British Columbia to clinch the 1965 Canadian curling championship.

The Manitoba quartet needed the victory to prevent a deadlock with Saskatchewan, led by Harold Worth of Edlie. Worth posted an 11-8 victory over the Prince Edward Island crew skipped by Doug Cameron of Charlottetown.

School this afternoon at 4:30.

"This is the ultimate for my rink and myself," said the young skip, who will lead the rink into the international curling championship at Perth, Scotland, March 15.

"We have to fill out our passports," he said. "We didn't do it before we got here."

Ron Braunstein will not make the trip. A medical student, he is unable to spare the time from his studies.

It was the second trip to the Canadian final for the Braunsteins and Turnbull, who forced 1958 champion Matt Baldwin of Edmonton to a playoff before bowing out.

Worth ended with an 8-2 record compared with the victors' 9-1. Nick Lashuk's Alberta representatives from Calgary and the Jack Polyblank foursome from Kirkland Lake, representing Northern Ontario, tied for third place with 7-3 records.

SHS and St. Pat's play at Scott Rink while the BCS tilt takes place at Bishop's College.

ET Ski conditions

The Eastern Townships ski conditions, supplied Friday by the Sherbrooke Tourist Bureau, show no new snowfall, with the present weather conditions hampering slopes.

Ski centres including Sherford, Mount Pinnacle, Freighsburg, Mount Gale, Cowansville, Mount Proulx, Danville, and Bromont have been closed due to lack of snow.

Other ski resorts offer good slopes, certain bare spots, with snow in operation. No new snowfall.

Ernie Terrell stops Eddie Machen for WBA title

CHICAGO (AP)—Ernie Terrell is the World Boxing Association's heavyweight champion today but whether the title means anything after his lustered bout-of-war with Eddie Machen Friday night remains a big question mark.

Terrell wants to fight the winner of the Cassius Clay-Sonny Liston title fight, set for Boston May 25. The WBA, which de-throned Clay for signing for the return with Liston, wants him to fight Floyd Patterson, the champion, next.

Terrell and his manager were scheduled to meet the WBA's executive committee today.

"We hope to straighten out the mess," said Merv McKenzie of Toronto, the WBA president. Pitching for the home town, he suggested a Terrell scrap with Canadian champion George Chuvalo in Toronto might be the mess. Chuvalo was beaten by Patterson in a thriller in New York, Feb. 1.

Terrell's snapping left jab piled up enough points to earn him the unanimous, if unopposed, decision in the 15-rounder at the International Amphitheatre. Ringside writers voted 123 for the towering, 25-year-old Chicagoan over the six-foot, 32-year-old veteran from Redding, Calif.

Referee Sonny Weisman had it 72-67 on the five-point must system.

Judge William Doty had it 70-67 and Judge Dr. A. Duxler had it 72-66. The Associated Press had Terrell in front 71-67 on points and 8-4 with three even in rounds. On rounds Weisman had it 83-4, Doty 85-2, and Duxler 93-3.

The man concerned with his waistline is Herman Franks, the new man in charge of San Francisco Giants. He stepped on scales at the club's Casa Grande, Ariz., training base Thursday and flashed a wide smile when the arrow pointed to 210 pounds.

Franks, who weighed 235 pounds when he was a Giant coach last year, has a bet going with owner Horace Stoneham that he'll be down to 200 by opening day.

Waistlines are main worry

You can tell you're dealing with a freshman manager in the early days of spring training when the guy actually wants to lose weight.

Terrell wants to fight the winner of the Cassius Clay-Sonny Liston title fight, set for Boston May 25. The WBA, which de-throned Clay for signing for the return with Liston, wants him to fight Floyd Patterson, the champion, next.

Terrell and his manager were scheduled to meet the WBA's executive committee today.

"We hope to straighten out the mess," said Merv McKenzie of Toronto, the WBA president. Pitching for the home town, he suggested a Terrell scrap with Canadian champion George Chuvalo in Toronto might be the mess. Chuvalo was beaten by Patterson in a thriller in New York, Feb. 1.

Terrell's snapping left jab piled up enough points to earn him the unanimous, if unopposed, decision in the 15-rounder at the International Amphitheatre. Ringside writers voted 123 for the towering, 25-year-old Chicagoan over the six-foot, 32-year-old veteran from Redding, Calif.

Referee Sonny Weisman had it 72-67 on the five-point must system.

Judge William Doty had it 70-67 and Judge Dr. A. Duxler had it 72-66. The Associated Press had Terrell in front 71-67 on points and 8-4 with three even in rounds. On rounds Weisman had it 83-4, Doty 85-2, and Duxler 93-3.

The man concerned with his waistline is Herman Franks, the new man in charge of San Francisco Giants. He stepped on scales at the club's Casa Grande, Ariz., training base Thursday and flashed a wide smile when the arrow pointed to 210 pounds.

Waistlines are main worry

Ernie Terrell stops Eddie Machen for WBA title

CHICAGO (AP)—Ernie Terrell is the World Boxing Association's heavyweight champion today but whether the title means anything after his lustered bout-of-war with Eddie Machen Friday night remains a big question mark.

Terrell wants to fight the winner of the Cassius Clay-Sonny Liston title fight, set for Boston May 25. The WBA, which de-throned Clay for signing for the return with Liston, wants him to fight Floyd Patterson, the champion, next.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

KING SAVED
BY END PLAY

BY OSWALD JACOBY

If North had held a really strong hand he would have shown it by redoubling at his first turn and jumping in spades later. Hence his immediate jump to three spades was not a forcing bid but South felt that his hand warranted a bid of game.

He won the first trick with dummy's ace of hearts and took stock of the situation. He had one trump loser, no losers in either red suit and two or three potential club losers, depending on the location of the ace of clubs. He could discard one of dummy's clubs on a high diamond but that would still leave three potential club losers and West's double of the one spade opening marked him with the ace of clubs. Some sort of end play was indicated and South saw that he would probably develop one by use of loser on loser technique.

He ruffed a heart at trick two and led a trump toward dummy. West went right up with his ace and got out of the lead by playing his other trump. Now South cashed his three high diamonds to discard one club from dummy. Then he played his nine of diamonds and when West played his jack South executed the end play by discarding another club from dummy.

West had two tricks in and was on lead. If he played a club South's king would become good. If he played a heart, South would discard another club from dummy and ruff in his own hand.

Card Sense
Q—The bidding has been: South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 3 ♠ Pass
? You, South, hold:
♠ A-2 ♥ K-Q-10-9-8 ♦ A-Q-6-4-3-2

What do you do now?
A—Bid four no-trump. You are on your way.

TODAY'S QUESTION
Your partner responds five hearts to show two aces. What do you do now?
