Quyon

The Pontiac Pride went a little more uptown this year, but it never lost its down-home feel.

The roster of entertainers in Quyon's fifth annual showcase of local music and dance included quite a few seasoned entertainers.

But their talents blended smoothly with the hometown favourites to create an enjoyable and professional two-day celebration.

"We went with the roots of Pontiac," explained organizer Lorne Daley backstage.

All the acts who took part include people who live in, or trace their families back to, Pontiac.

Mr Daley is one of the people who came up with the original concept for the Pride, which has raised thousands of dollars to date for Pontiac Community Hospital in Shawville.

"We had lots of good comments on the quality of the entertainment," says Laurie MacKechnie, a member of the Quyon Lions Club and chairman of the Pontiac Pride committee.

In fact, he adds, "Everything went over very well," thanks to the some 300 volunteers who staff the event.

The charitable cause behind the event, as well as the local content of the show, Mr MacKechnie says, make the Pride unique among musical shows in the region.

"It's not a business venture," he points out.

Tributes

Every year, Sunday afternoon at the Pride show includes a special tribute.

This year, in observance of International Year of the Family, organizers decided to celebrate a local family. They chose the family of Francis and Ada Daley.

"They are a good representation of the old Irish families of Pontiac," says Mr MacKechnie.

Francis is one of the original old-time fiddlers who put Quyon on the map as a vital centre of Irish music.

His wife Ada is a weekly correspondent for THE EQUITY.

Parish priest Father Gary Cain began the tribute to the Daleys by saying that "The future of humanity passes by way of the family."

Quyon singer and songwriter Gail Gavan read a special narrative that recounted how a young Francis met Ada Muldoon at the Beechgrove skating rink when she fell down on the ice and he picked her up.

They were married on August 22, 1942. Forty-eight of their children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren gathered on and around the stage as Francis led the gang in a few fiddle tunes.

Lorne sang a song he had written years before, when he was a homesick boy working up north.

After the tribute to the Daleys, there was another special presentation to Father Cain, who is leaving Quyon after 19 years. Gail Gavan sang a song she had composed in honour of Father Cain.

Entertainers

Entertainers who volunteered their time and talent to the 1994 Pride included: Ambush (house band for the weekend), the Old-Time Fiddlers (Francis Daley, Danny Dolligan, Murt Fahey, Ervin McCann, Jackie Sammon, and Joe Teevens), Sharon Presley, Brian Crooke & Doug McKenna, Michelle Beale, Gary Young, Claire Queale, Cal Cummings, Dale Bean-Culley, Rick Allen, Hugh Scott, Paul & Jessie Muldoon, Gary Fairburn & Donna Moon, Friends in Harmony, Alex Cobb, Richard & Denise Dubois, the Daley Family, Joe Teevens,

Lightning suspected in farm death

Clarendon

Lightning is suspected as the cause of the sudden death of Geraldine Larivière, 54, Monday afternoon.

A family member reports that the deceased was working in the hay fields with her husband Romeo at their farm on the 5th concession of Clarendon when a sudden storm came up sometime after 4:30. Romeo went back to the house while Geraldine stayed in the field to finish the haying.

When the storm got worse, Romeo returned to the field to find his wife lying under a tree. He rushed to the house and called an ambulance.

Shawville-Clarendon Fire Chief Bill Black reports that the firefighters got a call at 5:15 and responded with their rescue van. When the van arrived, ambulance technicians were already at the site.

The technicians and the firefighters administered CPR to the victim until they reached Pontiac Community Hospital in Shawville, where Ms Larivière was pronounced dead.

Corporal Yvon Chaussé of the Campbell's Bay detachment of the Quebec Police Force says the cause of death cannot be confirmed until an autopsy is complete.

He says the victim showed no sign of having been burned, which is often the case after being struck by lightning.

The victim's daughter said that her mother was afraid of storms, and had suffered from chest pains in the recent past.

These factors lead the family to believe that it is possible the victim could have died without having actually been struck.

Morning accident kills two, injures one

Stark's Corners

Two Ontario men are dead and another seriously injured following a single-car accident on Highway 303 in Stark's Corners, early Tuesday morning.

Dead is Harold Henry Hodgins, 26, and Marc Ferland, 23, both from Renfrew. An 18-year-old Haley Station man is reported in very serious condition in Ottawa General Hospital following the 4 am incident.

The 1982/3 red Camaro was found overturned in a deep ditch alongside the highway. Skid marks, stretching some 120 feet, traced the route of the northbound vehicle as it careened into the wrong lane after negotiating a moderate S-curve. The sports car swerved onto the wrong lane and plunged into the deep ditch. It continued to travel about 10 or 15 feet before reaching the side of a farm driveway, which bridged the ditch.

The Camaro, still moving at high speed, flipped over and landed on its roof.

June Cameron, whose farm was less than 300 meters from the accident didn't hear the 4 am crash. It was nearly three hours later, at 6:40 am that a passing motorist spotted the obscured wreck and asked her to call for assistance.

Ms Cameron later ventured over to the site and saw emergency crews battling to save the injured.

She says one person was thrown forward, to the right of the overturned vehicle. A second was found in the driver's side of the car, and a third was thrown forward to the left and rested on a farmer's fence.

Ms Cameron says a towtruck was needed to lift the vehicle enough to extract the victim still partially in the car.

The accident remains under Qubec Provincial Police investigation.

Three long-serving priests bid farewell

Father John McElligott in front of St John the Evangelist Church in Campbell's Bay.

Pontiac

Pontiac will soon lose three priests who have served their communities long and faithfully.

Pastoral appointments announced at the end of June by Most Reverend Brendan O'Brien, Bishop of Pembroke Diocese, will result in three departures.

Father Gary Cain of the Parish of Quyon will be moving to Mattawa. Father John McElligott of Campbell's Bay and Vinton will be reassigned to Bonfield and Grand Desert, near North Bay. Father Pat Tait of Otter Lake and Lac Cayamant will become rector of the cathedral in Pembroke.

Two other local priests will be moved to new posts within Pontiac, with some re-shuffling of responsibilities. Father L M Ethier, currently of Portage du Fort and Bryson, will now be in charge of Campbell's Bay and Bryson. Father J T Fitzpatrick, now of Griffith and Esmonde, will take over Portage and Vinton.

The appointments will come into effect on August 22.

Father John McElligott came to the parish of Campbell's Bay-Vinton in September of 1971. Prior to that he had served 10 years as an assistant priest in Temiscamingue and in his home town of Mattawa.

It is unusual in today's church for a priest to be in the same parish as long as Father John has been in Campbell's Bay. He has seen children he has baptized come back to him to be married.

One of his jobs here has been to serve as pastoral animator in the local schools. He says he has been impressed with the depth of faith shown by the young people he has ministered to. "In the (school) celebrations, they act as though they are there for a purpose," he says.

Father John says the most significant change he has seen in his 23 years here is "a change in the attitude toward the French fact in the community and in the province."

Even though the program at St John the Evangelist Church in Campbell's Bay has always been bilingual, he sees an increased interest among anglophone families to have their children educated, at least in part, in French.

But, he points out, in a small village, "We don't deal in statistics, we deal in people."

Father Gary Cain not only sang at the Pontiac Pride Jamboree on July 17, he also received a sepcial tribute.

And those people, Fr John insists, have strengthened his own faith as much as he has theirs. "I've seen a lot of people handle tragedy through the strength of their faith," he says. "You wonder what people without faith do, sometimes."

For over 25 years, one of Fr John's outside activities was playing left wing for the Flying Fathers, an exhibition hockey team organized by Father Les Costello, formerly of the Stanley Cup-winning Maple Leafs.

"I was playing on the third line and happy to be there," recalls Fr John.

He says the activity provided great camaraderie, and gave the public a chance to see the human side of the player-priests.

In spite of how long he has been here, Fr John feels his job has never become boring or routine.

Next month, he will return to the region he grew up in, but he says he has no real family connections there any more.

"Home is here," he says fondly.

At the parish picnic, Father Pat Tait was joined by Pontiac MNA Robert Middlemiss, his wife Lorraine, and former municipal mayor Rhéal Racine (right).

Fr Gary Cain

When Father Gary Cain was assigned to the parish of Quyon 19 years ago, he felt very much that he was coming home.

Father Gary's father and mother both came from the Bristol-Onslow area, and, between the ages of four and 11, he spent every summer at his grandmother Hannaberry's at Maryland.

People in the entire community know Fr Gary as the musical priest; his duties as pastoral animator in local schools includes serving as song leader.

On stage at the Pontiac Pride on July 17, he showed that his musical stylings go beyond the spiritual songs used in the priesthood and include a sampling of country and rock 'n' roll.

His spirited performance there came immediately following a heartfelt and moving tribute to the departing father delivered by Quyon's Gail Gavan, with a special song she wrote for Father Cain.

Surprisingly, Fr Cain never played until he came to Quyon. The music that is such a prominent part of the Quyon community grew out of the old family gatherings and sing-alongs that used to be so common there.

Those family ties, he says, are still as strong as they ever were, there is merely more miles between the members.

The joie de vivre, the tendency to pursue "the simple things in life that money can't buy" demonstrated by the people in his community have served as an inspiration to Fr Cain.

"I'm impressed by that daily," he says. The people in his parish, he says, "have nourished me more than I've nourished them."

"It's not easy saying goodbye."

Fr Pat Tait

When Father Pat Tait came to the parish of Otter Lake and Lac Cayamant in 1982, there was no church – only a hole in the ground where the church had been.

The church of St Charles Borromeo had just recently burned down.

Fr Pat sat down with the pastoral committee and helped design the new church that serves as the centre of the Otter Lake community today.

That community, says Fr Pat, has demonstrated a "very generous and cooperative community spirit" in the 12 years he's been there.

This spirit is demonstrated in the annual parish picnic, which took place on July 17. Through the efforts of dedicated parishioners, over $10,000 was raised in a single day's activity.

The three main cultural groups that make up the community – Irish, French and Polish – seem to live and work together in perfect harmony.

Father Pat's parish is one of the few in Canada in which the local priest must pass through two other dioceses in his journey from one of his churches to another.

Father Pat says it will be difficult to leave the community, but he acknowledges that it might be time to allow a successor to take up where he left off.

He looks forward to his new assignment at the Cathedral of St Columbkille in Pembroke, helping to serve one of the few dioceses in Canada that spans a provincial border.

"You're a priest – and you're serving people – no matter where you are," says Father Pat.

Firefighters give to St Mary's

On Sunday, July 17, Quyon firefighters Denis St Laurent (left) and Tom Murdock presented a cheque for $465 to St Mary's Parish. On the right, accepting the cheque, is Father Gary Cain. The money was raised from the fire department's food concession at the annual parish picnic held on July 10. The firefighters insisted that the proceeds from their efforts be donated to the parish.

Artists' tour

The Laurentian Shores Arts Council will be holding its first artists' studio tour on July 23 and 24.

Eighteen artists and craftspeople from west Pontiac will be contributing works for the tour. Most of these will be on exhibit in the Old Barge Ark Gallery, a century-old Ottawa River barge that has been converted into a gallery.

The barge now sits on dry land, next to the home of Paul and Betty Ryan, on Old Highway 8 between Waltham and Chapeau. Ms Ryan is the founding president of the Laurentian Shores Council.

The aim of the Council is "to integrate arts with tourism," explains Mrs Ryan, who, in addition to her painting, works as a freelance writer and photographer.

Pontiac MP Robert Bertrand and MNA Robert Middlemiss (in back row) showed up at the Luskville mall on July 16 to help Paul Piché and Joanne Backs, owners of Marché du Centre, cut the ribbon to open their new youth centre. The owners saw a need for a place for neighbourhood young people to spend their free time, so they renovated a back room at the store and installed a pool table and a couple of video games. Now that he has opened the centre Mr Piché has offered to let the young people name it and set the rules for operation. "I'd like to see the kids put this one together themselves," he says. Pontiac municipal councillors Gary Trivett and Hélène Belisle were also present at the opening.

Bristol Memorial packed for 75th anniversary

Richard Wills
Equity editor — Bristol

Those who couldn't fit into the crowded church sat outdoors, enjoying the breeze under the maple trees.

Nearly 150 people turned out on a beautiful summer Sunday to attend the 75th anniversary of Bristol Memorial Presbyterian Church on July 17.

This year marks three-quarters of a century since the brick building – located at the south edge of Bristol village – was built; the congregation itself is actually much older than that.

The Presbyterian Church of Canada traces its roots back to 1560 with the Church of Scotland (Reformed). The first church in Pontiac was built by the Church of Scotland in Litchfield in 1825.

On November 24, 1846, Reverend A Melville founded the pastoral charge of Bristol, Clarendon and Litchfield, in connection with the Presbyterian Church of Upper and Lower Canada.

For some time, winter services were held in the old No 1 school on the corner of what is now Alfred Russel's farm near Bristol, with summer services being conducted in Angus McKillop's barn.

The first church was a frame building erected near the site of the present St Andrew's-Knox United Church.

This church burned on a Sunday morning, March 13, 1904. Afterward, services were held in a hall in Bristol village, which also burned in 1919.

Present church built

The present Bristol Memorial Church was built that same year by Walter Cross of Hull. The completed church was dedicated on January 9, 1921.

A sum of $2,000 had been borrowed to finance the church; this loan was completely paid off by September of 1924.

In those days, Rev Melville is said to have preached two long sermons in the same service every Sunday, giving the congregation a ten-minute break in between.

He never earned more than $400 a year, and most of this was paid in farm produce.

Four present

In 1921, the new church was dedicated to the memory of soldiers who had been killed in the First World War, hence the name Bristol Memorial.

Four ladies who attended last Sunday's anniversary service were also present at the original dedication of the church in 1921. They were: Bessie Armstrong, Bea Drummond, Peg Carmichael, and Josephine Russell Hodgins Wilson.

The July 17 service was conducted by Rev Gordon Fresque, with special music performed by The Proclaimers from Trenton, Ontario.

A baptismal font was presented and dedicated to the church in memory of the late Rev Newton Reid, by Mrs Reid and their daughter Janet.

Many of the pioneer families of Bristol were represented by visitors from as far away as British Columbia.

After the service, a catered lunch was served in a tent on the grounds.

McNab new Rotary president

Richard Wills
Equity editor — Shawville

On July 11, Byng McNab chaired his first meeting as 1994-95 president of the Shawville Rotary Club.

The new executive, which took over on the first of July, also includes Ross Beck as vice-president, Bob Binder as secretary, Eason Russell as treasurer, Cliff Stevenson as sergeant at arms, René Latreille as chairman of the club services committee, Dave Conrod as chairman of the vocational services committee, Bill Pirie as chairman of the community services committee, and Don Dods as chairman of the internal services committee.

Past president is Leslie Kehoe.

President McNab expects that supporting the Shawville arena renewal project will be top priority for the local Rotarians this year. The club has pledged $5,000 to the project, of which $1,000 has already been paid.

A barbecue at Shawville Loeb-IGA on July 29 will help with proceeds for this project. A second one is planned for August 19.

In the past year, membership of the Shawville Rotary Club has held steady at 23, with some lost and some gained.

"We're always looking for new members," says the president.

P Q battles with the truth

With an election call expected in the next few days, the people of Quebec are only weeks away from making the two most important political decisions in their entire history. The first of these is whether to allow a separatist party to form the next government. If the province elects the Parti Québécois, the second important decision will be made soon afterward, in a referendum on separation.

All this has been made perfectly clear by the PQ. Or has it? The party stands in the frustrating position of holding a ten-per cent lead in the polls in a province where fully 90 per cent of the people feel that Canada – not just Quebec – is the best country in the world in which to live.

How can one explain this political paradox? Misinformation. PQ leader Jacques Parizeau has promised to re-educate the 42 per cent of his supporters who absurdly believe that his sovereign Quebec would somehow remain a part of Canada. It is frightening to realize that the separatist threat is built upon such a degree of ignorance.

For a party that enjoys such a comfortable lead going into an election, the PQ seems oddly uncomfortable. Perhaps its leaders know that the party's platform of lies is in real danger of being exposed. Parizeau has promised to come clean with the people of Quebec about what separation really means. But, if he were to tell the truth to his millions of misinformed supporters, he would lose their support.

While Parizeau tries to look like Honest Abe, his rank-and-file workers continue to spread falsehood. Back in early May, PQ leaders came out of a policy session announcing boldly that they would begin negotiating sovereignty immediately upon being elected – that they wouldn't even wait for a referendum.

Speaking in Fort Coulonge on June 12, Pontiac's Liberal MNA Robert Middlemiss said that a vote for the PQ is a vote for sovereignty. Of course it is. Separation has always been the main tenet of PQ policy, and the urgency of the party's agenda has been strongly advanced in recent months by Mr Parizeau himself.

That's why it was surprising when the local PQ riding president wrote to THE EQUITY this week, accusing Mr Middlemiss of misinforming the public, and claiming that separation will not be the central issue in the coming campaign. It is not Mr Middlemiss, however, but the PQ that is spreading misinformation.

We agree with Mr Middlemiss and Mr Parizeau: a vote for the Parti Québécois is a vote for separation. The PQ proclaimed this proudly to the entire world until polls showed that the majority of voters in Quebec were not in favour of separation. Only then did they begin to play down sovereignty as the central issue of the campaign.

This is why Mr Parizeau is uncomfortable, even while he leads in the polls. Time is not on his side. Given enough time, enough Quebecers will receive enough information to see that his party's platform is a sham. The PQ's worst enemy in the coming campaign is not the Liberal party, it is the truth.

Separatists: Hit them hard And where it hurts!

Dear Editor,

In the last 10 months the political scene has changed dramatically. Since the constitutional crisis (Meech) and the federal referendum, almost all provincial governments have fallen to the opposition. The federal government has changed. The opposition has also changed from a defender of Canada to a powerful force designed to further the cause of Quebec separatists, and, if and when the time comes, to destabilize and immobilize the federal government at the most critical time. So one could say the pattern that has developed in Canada is for change, while trying to predict the outcome of this historic election in Quebec you could say the odds are in favor of the Parti Québécois. The stage has been set and the show must go on.

Jacques Parizeau wants power and will immediately call his new parliament to begin the negotiation process of dividing all assets and debts between Quebec and the federal government promising that a referendum on the results of this process will set the democratic stage for Quebeckers to vote for or against Quebec independence, and will prove his mandate by displaying the PQ Party's election platform. The federal government has no mandate to negotiate anything, and will claim that over and over again. This is the nightmare scenario that could result and will happen if this pattern of change continues throughout the human conscious. The resulting stalemate and uncertainty will send interest rates soaring and the currency downward again. Two things are only possible at this stage. The PQ will hold a quick referendum, putting the blame on Prime Minister Chretien for his non-negotiation stance and Quebeckers right to self-determination. The other option would be a declaration of right out independence unilaterally without a vote, which would lead to seizing border points, issuing a new currency, and collecting provincial and federal taxes. If the PQ takes the last option the response to the separatists is to hit them hard and where it hurts. The only non-violent action the average citizen who wishes to remain Canadian must do is refuse to pay any taxes to the separatist government. By the law of the land, if a government fails to collect tax, in the international world's eye it cannot govern. This will no doubt try to be enforced by a police state mentality which threatens tax evaders with fines and prison terms by the regieme of the Parizeau government. The first person jailed will start the beginning of a process that will put troops in the streets to defend Canadians in Quebec to the dismantling and disintegration of the Parti Québécois in regions loyal to Canada.

We must remember that we are dealing with a prime minister who will not back down from the separatists when the time is right, and I quote him from the past: "Look in your history books. Find me a country that broke up with everyone singing their own national anthems and kissing each other".

Danny Poole

Open letter: To Middlemiss from the PQ

Come now, Mr Middlemiss! Stop it right there! Stop spreading disinformation. The dark ages have been gone for a few years now...

It seems that you are going around, as proves your address at Bowers Motel, pretending that Mr Parizeau has said that a PQ majority would be a vote for separation. WRONG !

While it is a well-known fact that the PQ's goal is Québec's sovereignty, the next election will not be about separation. It will be about the choice of the next government, period.

The Liberals, who have been in power way too long, and of whom our MNA is a good representative, have only one goal: to remain in power. To what purpose? To keep the province in a disastrous financial situation? To serve as doormat to higher powers that be, namely the federal Liberals? To make sure that Québec does not rise above the crowd, and Lord forbids, gets full control of its own decisions?

Québec needs a PQ government. It needs it now. The PQ has a program that is ready to be implemented. A PQ government will develop the regions. It will make sure that our youths do not have to leave their community to find work. It will give more powers and money to regional instances. It will put people back at work. In other words, it will do what should have been done years ago to improve the situation.

What the PQ will NOT do is declare Québec's independance the day after the election. It will not interpret the results of the election as a vote in favor of sovereignty.

The PQ will get to work. And, yes, while so doing, it will prepare for the referendum to come. It will throw down the basis for the discussions on the practical aspects of a positive vote, IN THE REFERENDUM. It will try to convince the citizens of Québec that sovereignty is the best solution. It will then be up to the people to decide, democratically, where its future lays. In a democratic manner. While it is working hard to put an end to the liberal fiasco of the last nine years.

That is what you should be telling your constituents, Mr Middlemiss. That is what Mr Parizeau is saying, as everyone who can read the newspapers already knows...

A celestial drama unfolds

Today, there's a brand new hole on planet Jupiter — a hole with the diameter of Earth.

This astonishing announcement was made by Heidi Hammel, the leader of the astronomical observation team at the Hubble Space Telescope. The hole, appearing as a black "dot" on Jupiter's surface, has a diameter as wide as our planet's.

This enormous scar was created by what scientists have called Fragment G. It is the largest piece of Comet Shoemaker-Levy 9, a group of 21 comet fragments some of which are still, as I write, hurtling towards Jupiter.

Although this celestial event is not visible to the naked eye, here in the Pontiac many of us have been glued to the television's late night news to catch the latest views from satellite. And, the enthusiasm of the scientists is infectious. Hammel's excited commentary of this once-in-a-lifetime event brings science alive to all of us.

For this is truly a historic event. We are told that such an occurrence only happens once in 1,000 years.

Terrence Dickinson, Harrowsmith magazine's "resident" astronomer, wrote that the fragments used to be a single, immense comet. As it hurtled towards Jupiter, the planet's gravity broke it into the 21 fragments observed today. In Dickinson's words: the pieces, one to four kilometres across, are the result of a breakup caused by Jupiter's gravity when the original body made a swing near the giant planet in July 1992.

Just a minute! One to four kilometres across? That's huge!

We should all be relieved that Shoemaker-Levy 9 is hitting Jupiter, not Earth.

For it is only human to wonder what would happen to us, here on Earth, if anything the size of Fragment G hit us.

Again, Terrence Dickinson advised:

If Earth were the target of this comet-chain onslaught, life on our planet would be devastated. But Jupiter is huge: 12 times the Earth's diameter and 318 times as massive. The collisions will be like mosquito bites, affecting only the upper skin of hulking Jupiter's global ocean of gas and clouds. All evidence of the collisions should dissipate in a few weeks.

Monday night, an earnest astronomer said such impact would jettison such an amount of debris — rocks, dust — into Earth's atmosphere that our entire planet would be plunged into total darkness for four years. This might be his "best guess" but it informs us of the enormity of what is happening far away on Jupiter.

Others commented that the fragment would leave a hole the size of Prince Edward Island on the surface of Earth.

Tuesday's Ottawa Citizen printed a useful graphic called "Human bangs and Nature's blast". (The title alone indicated that the devastation we human beings create in our bombs is mere child's play compared to Nature's powers.) The graphic made these comparisons: the Atomic bomb dropped on Hiroshima at the end of WWII represented 13 kilotons of TNT; Trident 2 submarine-launched missiles 96 megatons of TNT; the total power of the world's nuclear arsenals is 12,000 megatons of TNT — and the impact of comet fragment G on Jupiter is measured at six million megatons of TNT. (Citizen, page A5, July 19/94) A megaton is a million tons.

The Citizen compared Monday's Fragment G to Saturday's first Fragment A. Upon impact, both comet fragments sent an immense plume of material into space: the plume from G was 1,500 kilometres high — twice that of Fragment A's plume. In addition, the energy released from G's impact was 25 times that of A. Eugene Shoemaker, one of the comet's co-discoverers, commented that the force of impact was equivalent to detonating 225,000 megatons of high explosives.

The enormity of all of this is placed in yet another context by Shoemaker. Consider this: Shoemaker remarked that Fragment G pales in comparison to what once hit Earth. He said Fragment G was about a third the size and had only one twenty-seventh the energy at impact as the object that struck Earth 65 million years ago and, according to popular theory, wiped out the dinosaurs.

Phew!

If you haven't been watching this celestial drama unfolding, I suggest you turn on the television tonight to see not only the images of Jupiter from space, but also to observe the scientists' excitement.

Laurentian Shores Council holding first artists' tour

says. "There is so much unspoiled wilderness, tourist resorts, and talented people here. There is a lot of past history to paint and write about."

On this coming weekend's tour, Claire Benoit will be displaying her work at her florist shop in Fort Coulonge. Diane Belec will show her oil paintings from her Mansfield home on the outskirts of Fort Coulonge.

Two of the Laurentian artists, Ruth Hearty and Laurette Romain Spencer, will be showing their works at Nan 'n' Gramps, a store located in the Manoir Mansfield at the west edge of Fort Coulonge, a short distance before the covered bridge.

Margaret Lynch Beauchamp will be exhibiting her paintings at her home on the River Road, across Old Highway 8 from the Old Barge Ark Gallery.

The balance of the Laurentian Shores artists and craftspeople will be exhibiting their works at the Old Barge Ark Gallery. They are: Frances Cook Giroux, Pamela Dempsey, Arthur Gagnon, Doris Hobbs, Lilian Lacroix, Marion Marshall, Grace McGuire, Mary Nadeau, Rose Rochon, Lise St-Jean Lafrance, Marg Vocilka, Claudette Spence, and Betty Ryan.

Ms Ryan says that, since it opened on July 2, the old barge has been drawing considerable tourist traffic since it opened as an art gallery.

She has had Canadian visitors from Ottawa, Montreal, Kingston, and Quebec City, as well as tourists from Australia and Germany.

"They're attracted to the historical aspect of the boat, as well as to the arts," she says.

Ms Ryan also sees it as part of her job to give her guests directions to tourist attractions in the area.

"I'm promoting the Pontiac," she says.

The Arts Council has issued a brochure giving directions to the sites on their tour. For information, call (819) 689-2966.

Outaouais Alliance answers Goodfellow

Dear Editor,

It was with great interest that we read Mr Goodfellow's letter to The Equity (July 6 edition). The Board of Directors of Outaouais Alliance needs feedback such as this so it can make an accurate, objective evaluation of its decisions and projects. However, there are a few points that Mr Goodfellow makes which we feel need clarification.

Firstly, Outaouais Alliance is a non-partisan volunteer organization. It does not "align" itself with any political party. OA did advocate a strong "Yes" vote to our community in 1992, and contrary to Mr Goodfellow's assumptions, not only did West Quebec respond with a "Yes" majority vote in all five area ridings, but OA's membership and support was greater in 1992-93 than ever in its history.

It is important to re-iterate that OA is a non-partisan body funded by the same federal department (Ministry of Canadian Heritage) as the Quebec Community Newspaper Association or QCNA. Surely Mr Goodfellow understands that as a political advocacy group we have to consult with our federal officials to get the concerns of our community understood and addressed. Like the QCNA, Outaouais Alliance has also been lobbying for the feds to examine the discrepancy in the funding of Quebec's minority language associations compared to those of other provinces.

Outaouais Alliance's new relationship with the Post & Bulletin came out of a series of meetings after we were approached by Mr Phillips, publisher of the P&B. Before entering this agreement, Outaouais Alliance spent more money publishing its quarterly newsletter than it recouped in membership fees. With shrinking funds, OA had to find a way to minimize cost and maximize distribution of its newsletter. With the P&B arrangement, our newsletter is now monthly, and a larger audience, including Mr Goodfellow, reads our news. Before this, people like Mr Goodfellow who were not on our mailing list did not have access to OA News. The Board regarded the arrangement as good business, and that's all; it does not change the way we deal with any other newspaper. In fact, OA's support of the regional weeklies has increased; in 1993 OA spent $1500 in advertising, and so far for 194, we have spent over $2000 evenly and fairly distributed among all the English Outaouais community newspapers.

Hoping this clarifies certain matters, I thank you for your attention.

Sincerely,
Robert K May
President
Outaouais Alliance

The Twelfth. The Twelfth Celebration at Brown's Grove, near Campbell's Bay, brought together one of the largest gatherings seen for some years at events of this kind. The facility of automobile transport no doubt contributed largely to the dimensions of the crowd, judging from the very large number of those vehicles which flanked the grounds.

A short program of field sports, including a baseball match, was run off during the afternoon.

Steers Shipped. Last Thursday witnessed what is said to have been the choicest shipment of steers that ever left Shawville station for the Montreal market. There were some 45 head in the bunch, and the average weight was estimated at 1,300 to 1,500 pounds.

Born. At Shawville on July 12th, to Mr and Mrs Austin McDowell, a son.

Returned Men. A pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr Thos Dale, Clarendon, on July 5th, when about 150 persons gathered to welcome home his son Selisley, who returned from overseas on Friday.

Thursday evening, neighbors and friends from Clarendon and Bristol to the number of 200 met at the home of Mr and Mrs Norman Campbell to show honor and respect for their son, Pte Fred Campbell, lately returned from overseas.

A large number of friends gathered at the home of Mr Thomas A Elliott of Yarm on Tuesday evening, to extend a welcome home to his son Herbert, who has seen over three years' service overseas.

Lime Light. A lime light exposure of World's Fair views was given in front of the Pontiac House on Tuesday night. After the performance the enterprising proprietor of the "show" went around with the hat, but the most of the audience disappeared as if by magic.

Married. Our esteemed young townsman, William A Hodgins (eldest son of Edward Hodgins, Esq.) joined the G. A. B. – in other words, the grand army of benedicts – on Wednesday last, by uniting his fortunes in matrimony with Miss Mary, daughter of Mr N Armstrong of Radford.

Accident at the Slides. A bad accident happened at Calumet Slides on Saturday, the nature of which was as follows: A man named Cosgrove of Allumettes Island, and a French Canadian, whose name we did not learn, were engaged running timber for Moore Bros., and whilst passing near the dangerous reef known as the "Roch Minie" the crib someway swung out of the proper channel and got wrecked in taking the pitch. The end of the crib swung so quickly that it knocked Cosgrove down and he fell between the sticks of timber in the bottom of the crib. The result was that both legs were broken in by the terrible jamming he received.

Cosgrove was brought up to Bryson as speedily as possible, where Dr Gaboury set his fractured limbs.

The Twelfth. Notwithstanding the threatening character of the morning of 12th July, followed up by frequent heavy showers during the day, the members of the Order in large numbers, attended by their wives, cousins and aunts, wended their way to McCord's grove, North Clarendon, to take part in the demonstration about to take place under the auspices of North Clarendon lodge.

About 11 o'clock a procession was formed, the following lodges falling in line: Sheppard's (Leslie), Sparling's (Thorne), Coles Creek (Thorne), Thorne Centre, and Campbell's Bay-Litchfield, plus Clarendon lodges from Radford, Workman's, Starke's Knox's, Yarm, and Shawville.

It is estimated that 400 members of the Order were present. Proceeds of the day, which amounted to $240.54, are to go toward the erection of a new hall at North Clarendon.

Local athlete finds sports career rolling along nicely

Drew Gilmour
Equity reporter — Pittsburgh

For most of his 24 years, hockey has been an article of faith for Kevin Meisner. He, along with other purists, have braved the dark of countless blusterly mornings en route to the rink to demonstrate their devotion to their sport.

For Kevin, hockey has a certain elusive beauty. Nothing felt more right than the sound of blade slicing fresh ice.

A May phone call changed that forever.

"I was shocked more than anything," he claims rather sheepishly.

"It came out of the blue."

Roller hockey. A fledgling sport had come calling, asking him to come play professional roller hockey in Pittsburgh during the summer.

Pittsburgh? Roller hockey??

"I really didn't know anything about it," he admits with a chuckle.

A defenceman with the Dalhousie College hockey team in Halifax, the third year business major was contemplating yet another long summer of coaching hockey school until this new option rolled in.

He was intrigued. After all, he stood to make 180 American dollars for each of the season's 22 games — an important consideration for someone contemplating graduate school.

And the travel. While the roller hockey league is just two years old, 20 American and four Canadian cities field teams.

With this in mind, it didn't take long before the Shawville native was having the blades of his skates replaced with wheels.

The die cast, he had to re-learn how to skate less than two weeks before the first game June 1. But no problem, right? After all, it's the same principle.

Wrong.

"It wasn't pretty at first," he says, chuckling, "but most of us were in the same boat."

Kevin found out that his new summer team, the Pittsburgh Phantoms, was crewed by refugees from the ice hockey world.

"The guys are of very high calibre, most of them were semi-pro, a lot ex-NHL," he says.

"It's a learning process where everyone is finding their way."

The Phantoms, then, must be paying attention in class for they hold the number one spot in their division. Not bad for a team in its first year.

This is just gravy to Kevin who was happy to get paid to have fun in this new sport, room and board included.

"Quite honestly I like it a lot better than hockey," he says, sincerity dripping from every word.

"It's a lot more aggressive, high scoring and I think the fans like it a lot more."

Unlike ice hockey, this summer sport fields four players and the goalie on the ice, ahem, playing surface.

This, and liberal icing rules, conspire to keep business moving. Most games see more than a dozen goals scored.

He sees nothing but a rosy future for the sport.

"It's really starting to catch on," he says.

"In California, it's really big and recreational skating is a popular sport."

"The game, itself, is a good time," he says.

So for Kevin, the lazy days of summer may not be so lazy, but what the heck. He's having fun, making a few bucks and seeing the continent. His love of hockey can now be a year-round passion.

"You, know, it's really a good sport."

Ukraine an eye-opening experience for local man

Drew Gilmour
Equity reporter — Otter Lake

While most of us can only read of the often depressing, sometimes magic transformation which is overtaking the former Communist world, Gerald Mielke has seen it first hand.

An Otter Lake wood producer, Mr Mielke has recently returned from a two-week jaunt into the Ukraine. It was, he admits, an eye-opening experience.

"It was certainly something else to see how those people live," he says recounting his trip.

Mr Mielke, along with Norway Bay man Norm Wiggins were persuaded by a Toronto entrepeneur to travel to the former Union of Soviet Socialist Republics to consult on a wood producing venture.

This was an unusual situation for Mr Mielke for he doesn't exactly fit into the conventional image of a world traveller. A man who had never ventured past Canada's borders, Mr Mielke was a tad hesitent about journeying into that eastern land. However, his dormant sense of adventure was awakened and would not be denied.

Accordingly, on June 17 he boarded the airliner heading east.

First stop: Amsterdam. As luck would have it, the stopover took longer than anticipated and Mr Mielke was able to take in the Dutch capital's sites. He was impressed.

"It's really a beautiful city," he says, "while it has its problems, its very wealthy — all the taxis are Mercedes."

The next day, his group boarded the jet and within three hours they were in what seemed like a different world, otherwise known as Kiev, the country's capital.

"Just getting off the plane you could tell that things weren't going so good there," he recalls wincing at the memory of the ailing airport shuttle.

"We were wondering if it was going to make it."

"Things are a little bit

B-52s still only one loss

Dave Moore
Sports — Pontiac

The Bryson' B-52s' record still improves going into the final two weeks of the Lower Pontiac Men's Fastball League.

They have notched two more wins bringing their record to 13-1.

Last week, Tuesday, July 12, the B-52s doubled Bryson 14-7 and then the next night dumped the Bryson Blue Jays 12-0.

In the other two July 12 matches, Berard's of Calumet Island nailed Campbell's Bay 23-14 and Otter Lake took Portage du Fort 10-7.

On Wednesday, July 13, Otter Lake creamed the Bay 16-2.

In the two Thursday night games, the Bryson crew blew out the Blue Jays 12-4 and Berard's blanked Portage du Fort nine-zip.

Tonight's games have the Bay facing the B-52s and the Island against Otter Lake.

Thursday, July 21 has the Jays on the Island, versus Berard's Grocery. Portage du Fort will be facing Bryson.

With two weeks left in the season the B-52s have the strongest lead with 13 wins and just one loss. Bryson and Berard's are competing for second spot at 9-4 and 9-5 respectively. Next is Otter Lake at 6-7.

Campbell's Bay is 5-9, three places out of last place while Portage and the Blue Jays are tied for last spot, each at a 3-11 record.

This year the play-offs will be just the top four with the first round going as a best of five. The final it will be a best seven play-off.

the Rocka Fellas, Troy Young, Joanne Dubeau, Ron Trudeau, Tammy Plouffe-Stewart, Ralph Carlson, Father Gary Cain, Black Jack, Christienne Thibault & Robert Wills, Sharon Stanton & Special Blend, Debbie Bay-Shaw, and Racoons on Ice.

The dancing side of the show included an appearance by the John Langford dancers, and a group line dancing demonstration by the Kennedy sisters (Sally, Betty and Kathy).

Radio and TV personalities such as J J Clarke, Brent Corbeil, Fred Innis, and Dave Henderson offered their services as stage announcers, as did Dominic D'Arcy, the singing cop from Sheenboro, a last-minute addition to the line-up.

Each year, many of the performers and organizers spend the weekend camped at the site, taking part in campfire singalongs that sometimes usher in the sunrise.

"They're all happy to do it," says Mr MacKechnie gratefully.

Ukraine an eye-opening experience

different in the Ukraine," he says.

His hotel, while a supposed luxury facility, suffered, with the rest of the city from an electricity shortage. Refrigerators, he observed, were in short supply and locals tended to add salt to meat to keep it from spoiling. He also noticed that a pervasive dank smell, which he couldn't really get a handle on, seemed to cling to all buildings.

The water supply was tainted and everyone — residents included — drank bottled water.

After some meetings in the city, the travellers went north by train to Odessa, a large port city on the Black Sea.

"That train was unlike anything I've ever been on," he recalls with a chuckle.

"We were supposed to be first class. Well . . . I'd hate to see what second class was like."

He paints a picture of a train in the final acute stages of a terminal illness. Nothing seemed to work, least of all the carriage shock absorbers as the train painfully negotiated the decrepit stretch of tracks.

He noted that for most of the entire 500 kilometer route, the railine was shrouded by a section of brush and trees in otherwise open prairie.

Why the trees? The better to keep your nose out of other people's business, he was told.

Odessa proved to be a welcome destination for Mr Mielke. Anything to get off that train, he says.

He said once, it was likely a beautiful, dynamic place. The city's boulevards are lined with grand mansions and buildings, most of which, he continues, are in desperate need of repair.

A constant hazard for pedestrians, he says, is to avoid falling pieces of brick and concrete as the nineteenth century building slowly fall apart.

He says Odessa may be poor in wealth, but by any standards its people are rich in hospitality.

"They are incredibly generous, incredibly friendly," he states, adding it's impossible to get any work done without host and guests pounding back a few shots of vodka for luck.

"I get the sense that they are a little embarrassed by how poor they are because they know what we have, and what they don't."

Notwithstanding this sentiment, he says many Odessans, and he suspects many Ukrainians have little regard for a strong work ethic.

"They got that from the Communists," he explains. "In the old system, you really didn't have to work if you didn't want to. What was the point? You got paid the same."

He says the Communist structure seemed designed to discourage iniative and hard work.

"I asked a professor how much he made a month. He told me about 12 dollars — less than what a labourer would make."

Mr Mielke says it will be an uphill battle for this generation of workers to learn how to become productive. He says its more likely the new generation, free of the communist culture, will be the one to get back to work.

"You know, we just don't know what we got, how good it is here," he says, safely back home. While he wouldn't have missed the trip, he does have one regret.

"I wish every one of those separatists who never stop whining could go over to the Ukraine. They would stop their complaining pretty quick.

THANKS

Prayer to the Blessed Virgin

(Never known to fail). Oh, most beautiful flower of Mt Carmel, fruitful vine, splendor of Heaven, Blessed Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, assist me, in my necessity. Oh Star of the Sea, help me and show me here you are my Mother. Oh Holy Mary, Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and Earth, I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart to succor me in my necessity (make request). There are none that can withstand your power. Oh Mary, conceived without sin, pray for us, who have recourse to thee (three times). Holy Mary, I place this prayer in your hands (three times). Say this prayer for three consecutive days and then you must publish and it will be granted to you. Grateful Thanks. CD bjy20

IN MEMORY

Cluff - In loving memory of my dear. husband, father and grandfather Hubert James Cluff who passed away July 20, 1973.
We lost a husband, father and grandfather with a heart of gold,
How much we miss him can never be told,
His life was unselfish, for others he lived,
Not to receive but only to give,
What beautiful memories he left behind.
Sadly missed by wife Muriel, children and grandchildren. xjy20

Plager - In loving memory of Charlie, who passed away July 25, 1989.
There is a special corner in our hearts,
We keep it just for you,
As long as life and memory lasts,
We will love and remember you.
Wife Olga and family. bjy20

Frost - In loving memory of a dear wife Thelma who passed away July 12, 1990.
Oft I think of you dear Thelma,
And my heart is filled with pain,
Oh this earth would be a heaven,
Could I hear your voice again.
Four years have swiftly passed away,
But still I don't forget,
For in the heart that loved you best,
Your memory lingers yet.
Always remembered Dave.

Jackie Callaghan left Vancouver by tandum, twenty-one speed bicycle, on June 20 and eighteen days later arrived home to Kitchener. He spent one night in a motel because of rain and hail the size of golf balls. Through Saskatchewan he experienced 100 km winds but there he only went 80 km. The longest day was 310 km. He really enjoyed his trip. His bicycle had two seats and he and his friend couldn't get over how friendly the people were along the route. The hail and rain were in Alberta.

They had a wonderful two weeks renewing old acquaintances as they had lived in Kamloops for quite a few years before settling here in Clarendon.

Congratulations Jainie and Wolf and may you enjoy many years of health and happiness.

First of all, I would like to congratulate Katherine Fletcher on her weekly write ups. Just a note to tell you how I've conquered the porcupine destruction. I bought myself a box of real old time moth balls and put them all around my flower beds and tomato plants. As they lose their strength with rain and weather I replaced them as needed. The porcupines were really making a nuisance of themselves upsetting my potted plants rooting them out etc. At the same time you

The annual church picnic was held on Sunday July 10, after mass, with a Parish filled with attendants, it was nice to see so many parishioners present as well as many visitors, and hear the choir sing out some hymns.

Due to rainy weather, the event was held in the Lions Hall. It was filled to capacity. The firefighters had hamburgers, hot dogs, potato salads and drinks. Proceeds would be picked up by The Quyon Fire Fighters.
