Terrorists still hold hostages

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Five armed Japanese Red Army terrorists, still holding the United States consul and 14 other hostages, were granted permission to land in Libya, a Malaysian government spokesman said early today.

A Japan Air Lines DC-8 which the terrorists and their captives had boarded several hours earlier was still on the ground here shortly after 4 a.m. EDT.

The terrorists, masked and armed with automatic revolvers and hand grenades, left behind 28 of the hostages they had held in the U.S. embassy since they invaded the building Monday.

One of those hostages reported that the terrorists said farewell to the 28 with: "Sayonara. We are very sorry we had to do this to you."

Nine others were freed earlier. Four persons had been wounded during the two days.

The raiders left the 12-storey building that houses the embassy in separate groups, each in control of some of the hostages who walked to a waiting bus with their hands clasped behind their heads.

SECURITY TIGHT

Police motorcycles flanked the bus for the 14-mile drive to the airport, where heavy security was enforced.

Among the hostages taken to the airport were U.S. Consul Robert Stebbins and Swedish Charge d'Affaires Fredrik Bergenstrahle.

At the airport the terrorists joined five radicals freed from prisons in Japan and flown to Kuala Lumpur on Tuesday on board a Japan Air Lines DC-8 in response to the raiders' demands. Four of the freed convicts were also members of the Red Army, a fanatical left-wing group, while the other was a member of a separate organization.

The terrorists boarded the plane while their five colleagues continued negotiations in an airport lounge with Malaysian officials on a possible destination.

Officials in Tokyo said the Japanese government had communicated with countries that might take the terrorists, but without success. They said Syria and Kuwait had refused, while replies were awaited from South Yemen, Libya and Algeria. But later the Malaysian spokesman said Libya had agreed to allow the plane to land there.

FOUR PERSONS SHOT

After exhausting talks, the gunmen had agreed to quit the embassy, where four persons had been wounded in scattered shooting.

Search for escapee goes north

COWANSVILLE (JM) — The search for escaped convict Rodderick Southam has moved to the Saguenay-Lake St. John area, police said.

Southam, 22, of Arvida, was discovered missing from the federal institution here July 30 at the 11 a.m. headcount.

He was serving two years for possession of burglary tools, breaking-and-entering, and theft.

A Cowansville QPF spokesman revealed this morning a car stolen near here shortly after Southam's escape was recovered in Notre-Dame-de-Lac late yesterday.

Robert Bandford, who after escaping through the penitentiary system with Southam, surrendered to Cowansville Municipal Police the following day, was sentenced to one month consecutive to the three year term he is presently serving for armed robbery, after he pleaded guilty to a charge of evading legal custody.

Meanwhile, Robert Bandford, who surrendered himself to Cowansville municipal police a day after he escaped through the penitentiary system with Southam, pleaded guilty in court to a charge of evading legal custody. He was sentenced to one month consecutive to the three-year term he is presently serving for armed robbery.

Quebec in focus

"Red Power" threat?

MONTREAL (CP) — The Gazette quotes a confidential RCMP report submitted to solicitor-general Warren Allmand in Ottawa as saying Canada's "Red Power" Indian movement has become the principal threat to the country's security.

The newspaper says the report was prepared to brief Mr. Allmand for the United Nations international crime conference that was to have been held in Toronto later this month.

The federal government asked the UN to postpone the meeting after protests about the presence of the Palestine Liberation Organization in the country.

Before the Front de Liberation du Quebec (FLQ) crisis in 1970, the Gazette quotes the report as saying, it was possible for cabinet ministers to travel freely through the country.

Seek Olympic aid

MONTREAL (CP) — The city is seeking direct aid from the Quebec government to help pay Olympic construction costs now being financed through short-term borrowing, a city official said Tuesday.

Gerard Niding, chairman of Montreal's executive committee, told a city council meeting that construction costs for the 1976 Summer Olympic Games had been financed through short-term loans since March when the province doubled the city's short-term borrowing limit to $250 million.

Quebec has acted as a guarantor of loans to the city but it has so far made no funds available to defray Games construction costs.

The city has spent $210 million on Olympic construction to date, while revenue-producing plans have yielded only $43 million, Mr. Niding said.

Transit back to work

MONTREAL (CP) — Bus and subway drivers returned to work early today without incident following a 24-hour work stoppage Tuesday to back demands for increased wages.

Drivers at a meeting Tuesday unanimously accepted union recommendations to return to the job while contract negotiations continue.

The latest Montreal Urban Community Transit Commission (MUCTC) offer, which would raise top wages to $6.53 from $5.05 over two years, was rejected at the meeting. Drivers are asking for a maximum of $7.15 an hour.

The commission has said the offer is the best it can do at this time and a higher wage offer would spell financial difficulty for the MUCTC.

A spokesman for the 3,400 members of the Brotherhood of Bus Drivers, Metro Operators and Allied Services said threat of a strike is still "our key bargaining strength."

SEEK FAIR OFFER

"We will only accept an offer that is fair and just," said union president Normand Hamelin.

"We are prepared to make concessions, but so must the commission. But we won't back down on our demands for parity with Toronto workers or on our demands for better working conditions."

Two injured in motorcycle crash

SHERBROOKE (RH) — A motorcycle-car collision at 1:15 a.m. at the intersection of Belvedere and King St. W this morning, sent two people to hospital.

Hospitalized were Marc de la Fontaine, 17, of Place Dion, Sherbrooke, and Paul Dugre, 25, of Denault St. here.

St. Vincent de Paul Hospital gave Mr. de la Fontaine's condition as serious, while Mr. Dugre is said to be in satisfactory condition. Both were on the motorcycle when they collided with an on-coming car. Police surmise that one of the vehicles went through a red light.

Golf clubs seized

MONTREAL (CP) — RCMP officers seized 50 more sets of golf clubs in the Montreal area Tuesday, bringing to almost 200 the number confiscated as part of a crackdown on possible illicit traffic in the sporting goods manufactured in the United States.

Clubs have been seized at 12 golf clubs in the last two days as investigators, working in teams of three, attempt to determine if the Customs and Excise Act has been violated.

"Depending on the circumstances," said Inspector Paul Thivierge, "there are a number of different provisions of the Customs and Excise Act that might be invoked."

Canadian retail value of the clubs seized has been estimated at $80,000. RCMP are using serial and model numbers to identify the U.S.-manufactured clubs which, if exported to Canada, must bear markings showing they are being sold at prices incorporating proper duties.

Confiscated clubs have been consigned to the custody of club professionals, who are authorized to release them only after the owners sign a document acknowledging the items have been seized and ordering them not to remove the equipment from the property.

A spokesman for one of the raided clubs said a golfer could save as much as $150 purchasing a set of contraband clubs.

Importers must pay 15 per cent duty and 12 per cent federal sales tax on golf equipment manufactured in the U.S., a customs official said.

Says bilingual airport signs dangerous

VANCOUVER (CP) — The federal policy of bilingual communications at Quebec airports is putting lives in jeopardy, Ken Maley, president of the Canadian Airline Pilots Association (CAPA) said Tuesday.

In an interview on the eve of the association's conference here, Mr. Maley said: "While English is being established as the language of aviation in the rest of the world, Canada has been going the other way" and "it's only a matter of time until French-English confusion leads to a serious airport accident."

Mr. Maley said airports in five areas of Quebec have been operating bilingually since last year and Montreal's major international airport is expected to be next.

Pilots and air controllers in most parts of the world now communicate in "a sort of aviation code" based on English and two years ago the 160 delegates to an International Pilots Association meeting unanimously endorsed that system, said the CAPA president.

Quebec hunting zones changed

OTTAWA (CP) — Hunting zones in Nova Scotia, Quebec, Ontario, Saskatchewan and British Columbia have been changed under the 1975 migratory bird regulations, the Canadian Wildlife Service announced Tuesday.

The service also said that the fall flight of ducks in the West should be as good or better than in 1974; the fall flight of geese is expected to increase greatly both in the eastern and western parts of the country.

In southwestern Nova Scotia, the Port Joli sanctuary has been replaced by two new areas—Port Hebert Inlet and the Sable River Estuary. The change was made because of sanctuary violations and enforcement problems, the service said in a news release.

The Sable River Estuary will have a limited hunting season and no hunting will be permitted in Port Hebert Inlet. A buffer zone around the inlet boundaries will further protect the area.

The Quebec southern zone, which last year extended from the Quebec-Ontario border along the Ottawa River to Mattawa, Ont., has been absorbed into the neighboring Quebec zone. The move has been taken to reduce opening-day hunting pressure on waterfowl along the river in the Lake of Two Mountains area near Montreal.

In Ontario, the southern district has been divided in an effort to manage Canada geese better.

In Manitoba, the Oak Hammock Control Area will be open to hunters this year. The season will be closed as soon as 5,000 Canada geese have been taken, the department said.

NEW BOUNDARIES

In Saskatchewan and British Columbia, zone changes have been made to reflect new boundaries of provincial game management areas.

Study says life expectancy in Que. lowest in Canada

MONTREAL (CP) — Life in Quebec has its advantages, but it also apparently has its risks.

Dr. Madeleine Blanchet of the planning section of the Quebec health department makes the point with clarity in a recent issue of the journal of the Quebec Federation of General Practitioners.

Life expectancy in Quebec is the lowest in Canada, Dr. Blanchet says.

The average male Quebecer can expect to live 68.3 years and the average woman 75.3, while the national average works out to 69.3 years for men and 76.4 for women.

Saskatchewan residents have the best chance for longevity, says the article in Le Medecin du Quebec (The Quebec Physician), with male life expectancy set at 71.1 years and women living an average 77.6 years.

Dr. Blanchet defines "premature deaths" as those occurring before 70, and establishes an arbitrary scale of 100,000 "potential life years" for purposes of her study.

She says the loss of "potential life years" through accidents on Quebec's highways is particularly striking.

The province's average for 1972 was roughly one-third higher than that of Ontario and nearly 30 per cent higher than the average for Canada as a whole.

MORE HEART DISORDERS

Cardiac disorders are another case in point, the article says.

The article indicates that in 1972 the province had an average death rate 25 per cent higher than Ontario's and more than 10 per cent higher than the national average.

Threatens to kill police

NORTH BAY, Ont. (CP) — A police official says Donald Kelly, 36, who escaped Saturday from a North Bay jail, has threatened to kill six city policemen.

"He has said he has a score to settle with them," Sgt. Ron Bailey of the city police said in an interview Tuesday.

Another police spokesman said Kelly, who has lived in North Bay most of his life, knows the six officers well.

About 150 police from North Bay, Barrie, Mount Forest and Guelph were using tracking dogs and helicopters to search through the bush areas around the city for Kelly, who escaped Saturday while awaiting trial on two murder charges.

William Wotherspoon, North Bay police chief, said Kelly is believed to be heavily armed and appears to be cutting across bush country in an attempt to reach Highway 11.

Chief Wotherspoon said Kelly, a hunter and fisherman, "is in his own backyard and knows it like the back of his hand."

A stolen car police said they believed Kelly used was found Monday on a side road just northeast of the city.

APPEARED IN COURT

Thirty armed policemen in uniform and plainclothes were at North Bay provincial court Tuesday for remand appearances by the two men accused with Kelly in connection with the 1969 slayings of Carol MacWilliams, 20, and her brother-in-law, Jack MacWilliams, 27.

James Lavin, 37, and Ian Rose, 26, were remanded one week for the continuation of their preliminary hearing—contingent with the apprehension of Kelly.

Several policemen and two tracking dogs were outside the courtroom, and a helicopter hovered overhead while a warrant was issued for Kelly's arrest for failure to appear in court.

Police said a witness in North Bay and in Edmonton who testified at Kelly's preliminary hearing during the last three weeks are under protection.

A province-wide alert has been issued for Kelly, and police officials said they are checking a flood of calls from people who believe they may have seen the man. Police have set up roadblocks on all roads out of North Bay.

"The public co-operation is good," a policeman said in an interview.

HOSTAGES HELD

Police said 10 hostages were tied up and held at gunpoint in a nearby cottage Sunday by an armed man who said he had "nothing to lose" and was "not going back alive."

Police said the man was carrying a .303-calibre rifle and a .22-calibre rifle taken from Bruce Morton of Toronto, the first person taken hostage.

The hostages managed to free themselves after the man drove away in a car belonging to Albert Blaney, an occupant of the cottage. A neighbor called police.

Anti-Communist riots spread in Portugal

LISBON (Reuter) — Anti-Communist riots spread through the conservative north of Portugal as the pro-Communist Prime Minister Vasco Goncalves struggled to form a government.

Angry crowds who had been storming Communist party offices in the northern town of Famalicao for the last four days broke through a cordon of troops Tuesday night and sacked the building.

The soldiers, jeered as "murderers" and "Communist scum," put up no resistance and left the town in armored cars as the demonstrators wrecked furniture, files and emblems and set two cars ablaze.

Tempers flared when the body of a demonstrator shot dead by soldiers during an earlier assault on the building failed to arrive from nearby Oporto for a planned funeral.

The focus of the anti-Communist violence building up in the north for the past month then switched to nearby Santo Tirso, where crowds again wrecked the Communist party offices.

WRECKED FURNISHINGS

In both towns they smashed into apartments and offices believed to belong to Communists, and destroyed everything inside.

In Lisbon, doubts arose over the vote of confidence reported to have been given to Gen. Goncalves by leading military officers on Monday.

Some military sources said the meeting of 50 officers merely asked him to continue trying to form a government, without expressing personal support.

New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Stocks faltered again Tuesday, slipping to their lowest levels in more than three months in a market still dominated by concern over inflation and rising interest rates.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials dropped 7.90 to 810.15, its lowest close since it inched at 803.0 on April 29.

With 13 declines in the last 15 sessions the Dow has tumbled 71.66 points from its 1975 closing peak of 881.81 reached July 15.

Standard and Poor's 500-stock index gave up 0.92 to 86.23 during the day. The New York Stock Exchange composite index was down 53 at 46.09.

What stocks did:

	Tues. Mon.
Advances	300 369
Declines	1,105 1,041
Unchanged	400 384
Total	1,805 1,794

NYSE volume reached a moderate 15.47 million share up from 12.62 million Monday.

The market made a feeble rally attempt late in the morning that coincided with a brief downward move in some key short-term interest rates.

Analysts noted some cautious bargain hunting as the Dow moved for a short while to a gain of about four points. But when little support developed for the upswing, the Dow quickly slipped back to the negative side and sank steadily through most of the afternoon.

Ted Bukowski of E.F. Hutton and Co. said it appeared the traders who normally might spark a technical rally during such a period of declining prices had been put off by the pronounced weakness in the often volatile glamor issues—a favored area for short-term trading activity.

Selling in those stocks continued Tuesday, with Walt Disney reductions down 1 3/4 to $42, Avon Products 2 to $38 1/4, Merck 3 to $70 1/4 and Eastman Kodak 2 to $92 1/4.

Reports of a sharp dropoff in savings inflows last month weighed down most savings and loans.

Imperial Corp. of America, the NYSE's most active stock, lost 1/2 to 8 1/2 in trading that included a 125,700-share block at $8 3/4.

Financial Federation dropped 3/4 to $9 1/4, Great Western Financial 3/4 to $13 1/2 and First Charter Financial a point to $10 1/4.

Steel stocks finished mixed following a price increase announcement by Armco Steel.

Armco shares dropped 1/4 to $27 1/4 and Republic 3/4 to $30 1/4 while U.S. Steel was gaining 3/4 to $59 3/4 and Bethlehem 1/4 to $34 1/4.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index tumbled 1.35 to 87.33. The NASDAQ composite index for the over-the-counter market dropped 81 to 80.17.

Among Canadian issues on the New York stock exchange, McIntyre was down 1 1/4 to $46 1/4, Massey-Ferguson 1/4 to $15 1/4 and Dome Mines 1/4 to $46 1/2.

Alcan was up 1/4 to $23. Campbell Red Lake was unchanged at $28 3/4 and Inco at $26.

Ford sales are up from October

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. reported today that its car sales in July were the strongest since last October, although they trailed year-ago levels by two per cent.

The other U.S. and foreign car companies were to report their July sales later today, and industry analysts predicted domestic auto sales in the month were down seven per cent from last year's levels, while imports captured a July record 19 per cent of the U.S. market.

Ford said it sold 182,174 cars in the month, compared with 185,858 in July, 1974. The daily selling rate, however, was up 17 per cent from the normally strong June pace, Ford said.

For the year-to-date, Ford sales of 1,075,427 trailed depressed year-ago levels by 20 per cent.

Analysts said the U.S. industry continued to demonstrate recovery in the new-car market last month, although sales for the year remain sharply depressed from poor year-ago levels.

Analysts predicted domestic car sales totalled 642,000 in July, compared with 690,904 for the same month in 1974.

IMPORTS SUSPENDED
BUENOS AIRES (AP) — The Argentine government has suspended imports of nearly 100 items ranging from zinc to ski shoes, the economy ministry announced Tuesday. Export duties also were suspended on wool, leather, frozen chickens and rice and a trade mission sent to the Soviet Union to negotiate the sale of 20,000 tons of Argentine meat. The import ban will apply until Dec. 3 to avoid a further flight of foreign exchange, ministry sources said.

FIRST-HALF INCOME DOWN
TORONTO (CP) — Brascan Ltd. announced Tuesday that Light Services de Electricidade S.A., its principal operation subsidiary had net income for the first half of 1975 of 22 million cruzeiros, compared with 508 million cruzeiros for the first half of 1974. Officials said the figures could not be translated directly into dollars without consolidation and adjustments, but the cruzeiro was quoted at 1235 U.S. dollars Tuesday. Overall first-half earnings are expected to be reported in September.

On Great Lakes

Slump hits shipping industry

THUNDER BAY, Ont. (CP) — Ships that normally would be busily plying the Great Lakes at this time of year have been lying at anchor, manned only by skeleton maintenance crews and with empty cargo holds.

A total of seven ships were tied up at the start of August in Thunder Bay, a result of the slump that has hit the entire Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Seaway system in the wake of strikes and the U.S. recession.

"It's just a bad year all over," said Dan O'Connor of the Lake Shippers' Clearance Association. "We've never had this problem before... not for 10 or 15 years anyway."

The ships have been waiting particularly for coal from western Canada to be distributed to hydro plants along the Great Lakes, and for Minnesota iron ore destined for the steel mills of Cleveland and Pittsburgh.

Canada Steamship Lines (CSL) of Montreal had four ships lying idle in harbor here and also had four bulk carriers tied up in such eastern ports as Hamilton.

"The general economic recession in the United States has resulted in a softening in the steel market," said John Hutchinson, a CSL spokesman. "There are huge stockpiles of U.S. iron ore not moving."

He said the Great Lakes shipping industry's troubles have been aggravated by a change in the practices of the Pittsburgh steel mills, which previously shipped by rail to Lake Erie ports for export to Europe.

ATLANTIC PORTS FAVORED
 The mills are shipping instead to Baltimore and Philadelphia, a route that is 50 cents a ton cheaper. Already this year, 10 million tons, normally handled by Great Lakes ports, has been diverted to Atlantic ports, Mr. Hutchinson said.

Great Lakes shipping has also been hurt by strikes at salt plants at Windsor and Goderich, Ont., a construction strike at Sarnia, and shortages of grain for shipment.

Frank Mazur, a spokesman for the grain handlers' union in Thunder Bay, said a big drop in the amount of U.S. grain available for export has also affected the Lakehead shipping scene.

"There is a shortage of American grain this year, and Canadian ships are simply not getting cargoes from Duluth and Superior as they have in the past," he said.

Westdale Shipping Ltd. of Port Credit, Ont., which operates five self-unloaders and two bulk carriers, had one vessel, the Judith M. Pierson, tied up in Thunder Bay at the start of August as a result of the grain shortage.

EAST JAMMED
 A spokesman for the Algoma Central Railway of Sault Ste. Marie said the mid-summer lull in grain shipping was "not so much a shortage of grain to move from Thunder Bay as it is a lack of movement down below, in the St. Lawrence terminals."

John Smith, assistant traffic supervisor for Algoma's marine division, said, "Ocean shipping is up in the air right now with grain arriving in eastern ports faster than it is leaving. I'd say the elevators down there are perhaps 75 per cent full."

A nine-week strike at Caland Ore Co. Ltd. and Steep Rock Iron Mines in Atikokan, Ont., settled late in July, put a big dent in Algoma's iron ore shipping, but that aspect of the company's operations is picking up again.

Another factor was the fact that last year's Great Lakes shipping season went on until January, and cargoes that would otherwise have been held over for the new season were cleared.

"I think the current problem is just a temporary thing," said Mr. Smith, noting a new flow of grain can be expected to result from the Aug. 1 start of the new crop year. "The spring rush is over and the fall rush hasn't started yet."

Air conditioning: Way of life

TORONTO (CP) — Air conditioning, once a luxury only for the rich, is fast becoming a way of life for Canadians, says executive Graham Whidden.

"Air conditioning is now so widely accepted as part of our way of life that thousands of Canadian motorists, who would have sneered at the idea a few years ago or laughed it off as a frivolous luxury, now are demanding it in their cars," he says.

Mr. Whidden, general manager of the York division, Borg-Warner (Canada) Ltd. that makes air conditioners, says the last major holdout against central cooling systems—the homeowner—has "apparently capitulated."

The use of central air conditioning for homes is growing at the rate of 83 per cent a year, he says. The percentage comes from industry figures based on research into unit shipments by Canadian manufacturers in 1973 and 1974.

NOISE BARRIER
 "As a result," he said, "there is a growing desire to seal up houses in order to lessen the noise and eliminate dust and dirt."

Many builders are putting up houses with air conditioning already installed, both as a selling technique and to meet demand.

Mr. Whidden says this means that many lower-income families moving into new homes have the benefit of air conditioning.

"So, while the recent growth has been centred in the middle class, it still covers the whole social spectrum of high, medium and lower income groups."

The widespread incidence of allergies in polluted cities was another reason why people turned to air conditioning. Cleaner, cooler air brings relief from allergies in many cases.

Easy and low-cost installation was another factor, he said. Central systems, use the same ducts for both heating and cooling, although modifications may be required in some instances.

SYSTEM NOT NEW
 "The growth rate, impressive in any circumstances, is particularly interesting in view of the fact that residential centralized air conditioning has been around for decades, although not widely utilized."

Mr. Whidden says continued affluence is one reason why air conditioning has come to be regarded as a convenience rather than an unnecessary frill or luxury.

A central cooling system represents about 2.5 per cent of the cost of an average house, a marginal amount considering the Royal Trust profits 81 cents per share

MONTREAL (CP) — The Royal Trust Co. announced Monday a net operating profit of $8,346,000 or 81 cents a share for the first six months of 1975, compared with $6,881,000 or 67 cents a share for the corresponding period last year.

Income increased 10 per cent to $190,308,000, compared with $173,255,000 during the first six months of 1974.

Extraordinary losses amounted to $578,000 for the 1975 period, compared with $107,000 for the first six months in 1974.

A company statement attributed the higher profits to increased revenues from savings deposits, interest on residential loans and improved cost-control methods.

INSPECTING THE interior of the thrust chamber of an engine unit for NASA's Space Shuttle, a technician at the Rocketdyne Division of Rockwell International in Pittsburgh approves it for test firing. Three such chambers will each provide about 470,000 pounds of thrust for the shuttle transportation system.

Pound continues decline

LONDON (AP) — The British pound declined to a record low against the United States dollar Monday for the fourth consecutive day. The Bank of England apparently gave the pound considerable support during the day.

The dollar declined against continental European currencies reportedly because the New York Federal Reserve Bank was buying West German marks and Swiss francs to repay currency swaps.

The pound fell to a record closing low of U.S. $2.1416 from $2.1490 Friday. During the morning, it fell as low as $2.1360. At that level, however, the Bank of England appeared to give the pound substantial support, dealers said.

As a trade-weighted average against 10 currencies, the pound's depreciation from 1971 levels widened to 26.6 per cent from 26.3 per cent.

However, the treasury announced Monday that Britain's reserves rose $61 million in July after government borrowing abroad of $69 million had been accrued. The figures indicated the Bank of England probably didn't have to give the pound any support last month.

NEW YORK SELLS
 After the dollar rose sharply against continental currencies in the morning, it encountered selling from New York in the afternoon, a pattern that has been established over the past three business days.

Though there was no certainty that the seller was the New York Federal Reserve Bank, some dealers said this seemed probable in view of the Fed's need to repay short-term debts in German marks and Swiss francs.

The dollar declined to 2.5660 marks from 2.5692 Friday after trading as high as 2.5810 during the day. Similarly, the U.S. currency fell against the Swiss franc to 2.6880 from 2.6975.

In the bullion market, a dealer was quoting gold at $166 per ounce bid, down from $166.75.

July wasn't as hot as it seemed LENNOXVILLE (RH) — So you thought it was hot in July, did you? The average fahrenheit reading for the month, believe it or not, was only 70.4 degrees, according to the Lennoxville Meteorological Research Station here, exceeding the average monthly temperature for the last 60 years by a mere four degrees. The maximum average temperature for the month, 82.4 degrees, was also only four degrees higher than we've achieved in the past 60 years. The average low for the month was 58 degrees, three degrees higher than the average low for the past 60 years.

1952. Our highest temperature, 89 degrees on July 31, was surpassed by 10 degrees on July 8, 1921, when the thermometer registered a scalding 99 degrees. Strange as it may seem as well, we had over an inch more rain in July than averaged over 60 years. A total of 5.96 inches of the wet stuff came down this year, while during the same time period last year, we received 7.65 inches. The 60 year average, however, was 4.25 inches. We enjoyed a total of 268 hours of sunshine in July, as compared with 224 hours last year, and a 60 year average of 242 hours.

Sweetsburg Court

SWEETSBURG WARD (JM) — Robert Bandford, 19, Montreal, opted for trial before a magistrate alone and pleaded guilty to a count of having evaded legal custody from the Cowansville Institution, July 30.

Under questioning by Crown prosecutor Claude Noiseux, Bandford said he had turned himself in to the Cowansville Municipal Police the following day.

"Under normal circumstances I would have asked for three months additional," Mr. Noiseux said. "Considering he turned himself in I feel one month additional will amply serve the interests of justice."

Judge Gerard Normandin sentenced the young man to one month consecutive to the three year term he is serving on a charge of armed robbery.

Richard Frechette, St. Hyacinthe, made his way back to cells pending sentencing August 5 on three counts of breaking and entering and one of willful property damage. "My lawyer isn't here and I want to get it over with. Give me a couple of years as I can't stand the heat in the common jail."

Mr. Noiseux requested a delay as he did not have the required information prior to making his demand for sentencing.

Mario Laplante, St. Valerien, and Yvon Thifault, Ville Emard, both pleaded guilty to counts of simple possession of four grams of cannabis in Roxton Falls, July 31. They were each sentenced to $25 and costs, in default eight days.

Napoleon Domingue, Bedford, pleaded guilty to a count of impaired driving in the Township of Dunham, July 20. He told Crown prosecutor Noiseux he had not been arraigned on a similar charge for six or seven years, and was fined $100 and costs, in default 30 days.

Marcel Godbout, South Roxton, pleaded not guilty to a charge of impaired driving in Adamsville, May 26. His trial was set to August 28.

Richard Gelinas, Shawinigan, and Robert Sabourin, Ste. Therese, both pleaded guilty to having evaded legal custody from the Waterloo Detention Centre. Judge Gerard Normandin sentenced them to one month, consecutive to any terms they may be serving.

Charles Benoit and Bill Hemmings, both of Clarenceville, pleaded not guilty to charges of qualified robbery and chose jury trial. Preliminary hearing was fixed to August 21. The men were allowed their freedom on the conditions they not communicate between themselves, or with the victim, and they remain in their respective domiciles between 11 p.m. and 6 a.m. They were also ordered to refrain from entering establishments where alcohol is sold for consumption on premises.

Judge Normandin upheld a motion for preventative detention requested by crown prosecutor Claude Noiseux in the cases of Armand Beaudin, Guy and Gilles Comeau, all of Waterloo. The men pleaded not guilty to charges of breaking and entering and theft from commercial establishments in the Waterloo area. Their lawyer, Claude Leveille, chose jury trial. Preliminary hearing, for the form, was set to July 31, and bail hearing to August 7.

Mr. Noiseux cited their past records and said it was in the public interest to have the trio incarcerated as they were likely to commit crimes of a similar nature if they were released.

Jean Noel Marois, Waterloo, pleaded guilty to counts of breaking, entering and theft in commercial establishments in Waterloo. His sentence was adjourned to September 8 pending preparation of a presentence report.

Yvon Gosselin, St. Hubert, was cited to the next term of the local assizes by virtue of article 476 of the criminal code on a charge of having received stolen goods valued at more than $200 through the commission of a criminal act in the District of Bedford.

James Wilson, RR 2, Cowansville, pleaded guilty to a charge of dangerous driving in Stanbridge East. He was fined $100 and costs, in default 30 days, and was prohibited to drive a motor vehicle in Canada for one month. Wilson was allowed one month to acquit the fine and costs.

Gilles Proulx, Granby, changed his option and pleaded guilty to counts of assault on a peace officer and willful property damage. He was fined $25 and costs on the first charge, in default two weeks. Judge Normandin suspended sentence on the second count and placed Proulx on two years probation with the conditions he remain at home between midnight and 6 a.m. and reimburse approximately $400 to the City of Granby for damages incurred when the accused smashed a patrol car with a steel bar when police officers were going to arrest him for non-payment of traffic tickets.

Laurent Pelletier, St. Ulric, Matane County, was ordered returned to Sherbrooke for psychiatric treatment prior to being arraigned on a charge of possession of a firearm dangerous to the public peace. No date was set for his re-arraignment.

Clement Larose, Roxton Pond, was found guilty of impaired driving. He was fined $100 and costs, in default one month, and was allowed 30 days to acquit the fine and costs.

Lucien Leblanc, Racine, changed his option and pleaded guilty to a charge of having driven a motor vehicle when his blood alcohol count exceeded 150 milligrams of alcohol. He was fined $125 and costs, in default 30 days and was allowed one month to pay the fine and costs.

Malcolm Minnis, Pierrefonds, changed his option and pleaded guilty to a charge of having refused to submit to a breath analysis in Cowansville April 20, 1975. He was fined $50 and costs, in default 30 days and was allowed two weeks to pay the fine and costs.

Municipal beach affair More action needed: SCM

SHERBROOKE (RM) — Now that the city has closed its two public beaches, it should aim at setting new water quality standards by 1977, the Sherbrooke Citizens Movement says.

In a news release received yesterday, Movement president Thomas Somcynsky said if current efforts by the Municipal Technical Services Department to find sources of pollution are just to return the water standard at both the Blanchard and Jacques-Cartier beaches, then "That is not enough." "Council should have the Technical Services Department specify what is required to bring water quality to "B" and "C" levels. Then it should by resolution make these standards a goal to be reached for the summer of 1977," Mr. Somcynsky said.

The Movement's spokesman added that Sherbrooke should join with municipalities along the Magog River and, with aid from the Provincial and Federal governments, improve water quality in the river. "We have never clearly known if bacterial contamination (in the river) began in Sherbrooke or outside," Mr. Somcynsky said.

He concluded: "The closing of the beaches is an alarm signal. A serious effort must be made to return beaches with good water to the public."

Blanchard and Jacques-Cartier beaches were closed to the public last week, after regular tests of the water indicated a hazardous level of pollution at both areas. The city said the sites, which were all but abandoned after the first reports of possible dangerous levels of pollution, would be closed "temporarily" until the situation was corrected.

It's hard to remember, but apparently the mercury dropped all the way down to 44 degrees on July 1, giving us our lowest monthly reading. It was still a comfortable 11 degrees higher than the 33 degree mark registered on July 30.

Cemetery renovated at Ascot Corner

ASCOT CORNER — The Ascot Corner Protestant Cemetery, situated on the south side of the St. Francis River at Ascot Corner, has taken on a new look.

As many descendants of the Ascot Corner families had moved away, this sacred plot had been sadly neglected.

Last summer, a project was started to shape things up. The few local descendants, about six in number, assisted by a few interested friends, started to work.

These men really worked hard practically every Saturday through the summer. Not satisfied with Long asbestos strike is indicated

THETFORD MINES, Que. (CP) — The air in Thetford Mines has rarely been cleaner.

The dust-spewing asbestos mills and open-pit mines have been shut down since March 18 by a strike of 3,500 workers and indications are the conflict may go on much longer.

Although the mines and mills are the lifeblood of this community of 22,000, the economic hardship brought on by the strike is taken in stride.

Housewives no longer need to dust daily to keep the furniture polished and the clothes on the line are drying cleaner than they did only last summer.

The awesome craters that form a half-circle around the town are silent and the mountains of greyish waste standing in naked contrast between them have stopped growing.

"Tourists stop here to eat on their way to Quebec City and they quickly leave," says the owner of the Plaza restaurant.

"They look at the waste and wonder how anyone can live here."

TRADITION STRONG
But the mining tradition here is strong and the clean

By ALEX RADMANOVICH air the men on the picket lines are savoring has symbolic overtones.

Although health conditions in the mines have improved over the years, the strikers cannot overlook the vicious circle that dominated their lives only a short time ago.

In order to make a living a man had to work in the mines and mills—at the risk of contracting fatal lung disease.

However, he didn't dare go to a doctor because if the condition was confirmed he would lose his job and be unable to support his family.

Until only a few years ago, doctors in company-operated clinics did not recognize asbestosis, an often-fatal lung condition caused by the dust the men breathe every day.

For years the government and the companies played down the health risks, even though a miner who has spent 25 years exposed to asbestos dust now is deemed fortunate not to be spitting blood every morning he wakes up.

MINERS SHOCKED
But a joint study by the Confederation of National Trade Unions (CNTU) and Mount Sinai School of Medicine in New York released before the strike shocked even the miners.

A medical team headed by Dr. Irving Selikoff determined that of 1,200 Quebec asbestos miners with 20 or more years of experience, 61 per cent showed lung abnormalities.

The study also revealed that dust levels in Thetford's mines and mills were 10 to 25 times higher than permissible levels in the United States and Britain.

But since the strike began last spring the provincial government has legislated better working conditions.

Companies have three years to meet new air-quality standards that set the maximum level at five fibres of asbestos per cubic centimetre of air in working areas. Although the new Ontario standard is two fibres, union leaders welcomed the new levels and urged the government to match Ontario in the long-term.

What the strikers describe as their most satisfying victory was scored in the Quebec national assembly in late June when a compensation formula for asbestosis victims was approved.

GETS INDEMNITY
Under the plan, a worker who has contracted asbestosis will receive a lump-sum indemnity and a pension equivalent to 90 per cent of his take-home pay until retirement age.

"We don't know how much it's going to cost us, but we know it'll be expensive," a spokesman for one of the strike-bound companies said in an interview.

"However, we don't think there are as many cases of asbestosis as the unions claim."

Union sources estimate that between 500 and 800 men in Thetford are eligible for compensation.

Meanwhile, the struggle goes on for higher wages while ironically everyone involved goes deeper into debt.

The 2,500 CNTU members are getting strike pay of $30 and $50 a week respectively for single and married men while their 1,000 counterparts who are members of the United Steelworkers of America are getting $25 and $40.

PAYMENTS STOPPED
Mortgage and car payments have been suspended by banks and finance companies for the duration of the strike but interest has been accruing.

A province-wide campaign to support the strikers has been launched. About $170,000 in cash has been collected while food and clothing valued at $25,000 has been donated.

Called Operation Second Breath, the campaign is being operated by a group called the Central Committee for the Support of the Strikers and includes union and non-union members.

At first most of the money came from other unions across the province, but lately the committee has operated "road tolls" and bank collections with much success.

To operate a road toll the organizers, with permission from local authorities, set up barricades on the highways around a town, often manning them with wives of miners. Motorists are stopped and asked to contribute to the strike fund.

The bank collections have been operated exclusively in nearby Asbestos, where workers at Canadian Johns-Manville Co. Ltd., Quebec's largest asbestos producer, accepted a two-year agreement rejected by the Thetford unions.

The strikers contend that recent government legislation was inspired by the Thetford strike, and since the Johns-Manville employees also benefit, they have an obligation to support the strike financially.

Every Friday, the support committee is present at the local bank to ask for contributions from the Johns-Manville workers when they cash their pay cheques.

During the first two attempts $1,100 was collected on each occasion. The third time the workers in Asbestos contributed $1,500.

The Thetford economy has suffered from the strike but there are no signs that anyone is leaving town.

Asbestos Corp. Ltd., the largest strike-bound employer, alone spends $22 million annually on wages and another $18 million in contracts to local suppliers.

Department stores have cut their staffs to a minimum. One major chain store gave the unions a $100,000 interest-free credit to maintain its sales volume.

Grocery stores are offering bargain prices for staples and "solidarity specials" are in evidence everywhere.

Ineffective Shot

It is difficult to see what will be gained by the federal government's ban on the use of Canadian ports by the Soviet Union's Atlantic fishing fleet. Like the recent decision on the crime congress, the fishing move appears to be neither fish or fowl nor good red herring. At best it can be taken as a warning shot across the Soviet fleet's bows — but not one that is likely to be heeded.

The cause of Canadian concern — and it is a legitimate concern — is the over-fishing of fisheries off the east coast by huge sophisticated fleets of foreign vessels; they have been compared to vacuum cleaners, sucking up everything in the waters. Quotas for fishing have been set by the International Commission for the Northwest Atlantic Fisheries; but Canada claims that these are unrealistically generous and that, furthermore, the Soviet Union consistently ignores them. As a result of the activities of these subsidized foreign fleets, the Canadian fishing industry is in deep trouble, and in recent years many fishermen have been forced out of business.

It is most unlikely that denying the Soviet fleet the use of Canadian ports will have much effect. The foreign fleets can remain at sea for months without putting in to shore, so there is no certitude that they will regard the ban as more than a slap on the wrist. On the other hand, there will be a definite loss to the ports involved. Halifax and St. John's receive around $400,000 a year in pilotage fees from the Soviet ships; the National Harbors Board gets $55,000 a year in port charges; and there is, in addition, the money Soviet fishermen leave behind when they make port. All this will now be lost.

If the government is serious about halting overfishing off Canadian shores, then it would seem that the only effective solution is for Canada to emulate countries like Peru, Ecuador and Iceland and unilaterally extend our fisheries control zone from the present 12-mile limit out to 200 miles offshore. Canada has argued the case for greater conservation in Law of the Sea conferences but has made little progress.

Any extension of Canadian territorial fishing rights would, of course, be strongly opposed by those nations which now fish here. They need the protein that the sea provides, and they claim traditional and historic fishing rights in many areas, including those off the Canadian coast. There is no reason, however, why countries which have fished in these waters for centuries should not be permitted to remain, but subject to strict quotas and restrictions which would be laid down by Canada, as controller of the area, rather than, as is now the case, by international bodies controlled by nations more interested in larger catches than in conservation. Until such a step is taken, Canadian fishermen will remain in trouble — and the legal boom across Canadian harbor mouths against Soviet fishermen will not help the situation.

Prospering settlers increased crops, livestock and buildings

(Ed. Note: The following is part two of a three part series begun on last Wednesday's Editorial Page, that describes the early settlement of the Eastern Townships. The role of the British American Land Company selling land, and the subsequent first steps taken by pioneers to settle the land were described last week. The articles are written by Dr. C.R. Boast and were first published in the Annals of Richmond County and Vicinity by the Richmond County Historical Society. Part three concludes the series on next Wednesday's Editorial Page.)

As the state of his farm progressed, the settler would raise a small piece of barley of his pigs, a piece of oats to furnish some grain for his horse and the hens when they were not picking their living, perhaps a patch of wheat to take to mill in the autumn to have ground into flour for the winter's bread. These grain fields were seeded down to hay, usually by spreading chaff laden with seeds gathered up from the barn-floor.

That brings up the annual task of making hay to feed the livestock. For several years the hay had to be cut altogether with scythes. This difficult method of haying did not last too long in the Spooner Pond area, as the horse-drawn mowing machine was introduced in the 1860's or 1870's. People of the district listened with much interest when the first farmer purchased one of these new-fangled mowers. It is reported that the first time he tried to cut hay with it, he hitched his horses on it without mishap, put it in gear, and it glided up the field cutting a four foot swath with great dispatch. Forgetting to watch the end of his reins dangling down, they accidentally caught in the mowing gears, and the sharp cogs promptly tore his reins to pieces. But he got his reins mended and he mowed happily ever after.

Similar to later horse-drawn mowers, the rapidly moving pitman rod that drove the cutting knife was connected to a series of gears near the left wheel, which were powered from the axle of the machine itself. Unlike most modern machines, the cogs and gears on the first mowers were all uncovered or exposed. The cutter bar was four feet long. The length of the axle of the machine was about the same. There was a sort of rake bolted on the outer end of the cutter bar, so improvised as to throw the hay, as it fell backward from the knife, away from the standing hay to be cut on the next turn of the field. The neckyoke and the whiffletrees by which the horses were hitched to the machine were quite short, so that the horses walked almost directly in front of the wheels. This avoided tramping into the ground the hay already cut. The mowing machine was patented in the United States in 1844.

The first mowers around Spooner Pond were made in Coaticook under certain patent rights that were secured. Of course, there were plenty of newlands, strips along brooks, swamps and beaver meadows well up to the early 1900s that had to be mown with scythes. They often did this handmowing before they started the better fields.

In the old days there was a tendency for the settlers to let the hay get too ripe. Before they started haying at all, the hayseeds would be dropping off. They allowed the hay to lie out for long periods after it was cut. It often leached and lost much of its value. Settlers in other parts of the country may have used better methods.

Around here the early settlers fed very little grain to their cattle. They milked the cows only in the Summer. The effects of the poor hay showed up on the cattle in the Spring. At each calving time in late April or May, some of the cows often had to be lifted to their feet and assisted to stand.

The newland pasture was probably better grazing than anything we have on the same land today. But the cattle were usually small and thin, probably not weighing much over 700 or 800 lbs. From the evidence supplied by measuring the tying-up space in the old stables, there was probably an average of about five milking cows on an average 50 acre farm. There was a prevalent practice of milking the cows out of doors, wet or dry weather, without tying, in the barnyard or even at the gate in the nearby pasture. It seems the milk of the herd was carried to the house in pails (probably wooden ones).

There were not any fluid milk outlets worth mentioning for some years. Butter was the marketable dairy product. The farmers' wives filled buttertubs with the butter of successive churnings and supplied customers if there were any. Hotel keepers and other villagers usually kept their own cows.

Some settlers kept oxen from time to time, but it does not appear to have been a universal practice on the small farms. The oxen could another complete, separate building, corner to corner at right angles with the older barn. This was the basis of a barnyard and no farm was thought to be complete without one. The other sides of the yard were completed by building more barns, or by filling in the open spaces with sections of zig zag rail fence. Sometimes there would be as many as four gateways or pairs of bars carefully closed most of the time, by which one could enter the yard or escape to the fields or the pasture. Like the old-fashioned garden, the barnyard has disappeared from our farms.

The horses were small by our standards. They probably weighed between 800 and 900 lbs. From their pictures, they seem to have been more leggy than the small horses so common to the French parishes in those olden days. Some were quite baldy.

The cattle were secured in their stalls in the stables by means of two upright stakes, one permanently fixed and immovable. The other stake was removable, and was designed to fit in sockets close to the immovable stake. When the cow entered her stall, the farmer put the adjustable stake in its sockets, and it was far enough from the other stake that there was room for her neck but the space was too narrow for the cow to withdraw her head. Most cattle were let out to drink once a day in the winter.

The settlers usually kept a few sheep and once the sheep were sheared and the wool was handed to the women, they knew what to do with it. That was one of their crafts. When a sheep's usefulness to grow wool and raise lambs was over, it would be butchered to help out with the meat supply.

One old Englishman remarked to his assembled guests that the meat he liked the best of all was mutton chops swimming with gravy. A polite Scottish farmer congratulated his wife Bella in the presence of guests on her good mutton soup, and an old Irishman praised the great dinner he had with a Scottish family where the meat dish was salted mutton. There was a practice on some farms when they were having a bee, to prepare for the occasion by slaughtering one of the older sheep.

LENNOXVILLE — Flames which swept through the Bown Handle Factory in Lennoxville yesterday afternoon causing an estimated loss of $50,000, left nothing but the charred frame of the building.

The Lennoxville Fire Department, comprising 20 volunteers under the direction of Sgt. Howard Smith, fought the flames for an hour before bringing them under control but by that time they had eaten away the whole interior, including approximately $25,000 worth of machinery. A volunteer group from Philip Carey also joined the fire-fighters.

Owner of the factory, Keith Cathcart, was holidaying in Old Orchard Beach when the flames broke out and the only people in the building were C.A. Martin, an employee of the Nordale Aluminum Window Co. which occupied the top floor of the two-storey frame building, and a salesman, Jack Beaulieu, of Sherbrooke, who turned in the alarm.

Cause of the fire has not been determined but is believed to have started in the right hand rear part of the building where the shop is located. The Handle Factory on the bottom floor has actually been closed for a week while the owner was away, although one employee, Douglas Pegg, had been doing occasional work but had not been in to work that day.

OTTAWA — Crime was on the increase in Canada during the year 1929, although the increase was not as great as in 1928. According to the figures compiled by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics for the year ending September 30, 1929, prosecutions for indictable offences number 29,572 as compared with 26,693 for 1928, an increase of 13.3 per cent in 1928 over 1927. Convictions for the two years were 24,097 and 21,720 respectively, the increase being 0.9 per cent against 15.3 per cent in 1928 over 1927.

There were twenty-six convictions for murder in Canada in 1929, compared with nineteen in 1928. Shooting, stabbing and wounding decreased from 159 to 143, and rape and other offences against decency from 439 to 402. There was a sharp increase in the number of convictions for theft from 7,870 to 8,777 and another in the convictions for forgery and uttering false cheques from 549 to 720. Convictions for attempt to commit suicide increased from 74 to 97.

An increase of 74.38 in Quebec was attributed to a vigorous enforcement of traffic regulations which increased convictions in the Montreal district alone from 5,000 to over 17,000 during the year.

Davidson-Currie wed

MR. AND MRS. A. DAVIDSON

The marriage of Janis Lorraine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irwin N. Currie of Chateaugay, Quebec, to Mr. Anthony John Davidson, son of Mr. James C. Davidson of Sherbrooke, Quebec, and the late Mrs. Davidson took place on Saturday, June 7 at three p.m. in St. Peter's Church, Sherbrooke, the Rev. Canon J.D.R. Franklin officiating at the ceremony. Mr. Morris C. Austin played the wedding music. White majestic chrysanthemums and white shasta daisies decorated the high altar, and white satin bows marked the pews reserved for guests.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an heirloom gown of lustrous off-white satin, fashioned with a long fitted bodice with sweetheart neckline and bracelet-length sleeves, and tiny self-covered buttons down the back. The full skirt had a front panel and fell into a train. Her full length veil of tulle illusion fell from a tiara of heirloom Belgian Rose-Pointe lace, and was bordered in the same material as the gown. She carried a bouquet of white sweetheart roses, baby's breath and fern, and she wore a single strand of pearls.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Clifford Parmeter, of Ottawa, wore a gown of apple-green jersey, having a scoop neckline, long fitted sleeves, and a full skirt. The neckline was bordered with a ruffle, as were the cuffs. The bridesmaids, Miss Joanne Currie, sister of the bride, and Miss Susan Menzies, cousin of the bride, wore gowns like that of the matron of honor, but in yellow, and with cummerbunds of the same material at the waist. They all carried bouquets of yellow shasta daisies, and they each wore one shasta daisy in their hair.

Mr. Scott Davidson, of Toronto, brother of the groom, acted as best man, and the ushers were Mr. Brian Davidson of Montreal, brother of the groom, and Mr. Glen Currie, brother of the bride.

Mrs. Currie, mother of the bride, wore a floor-length gown of powder-blue polyester knit, interwoven with a design in silver thread. She wore a gardenia corsage.

The reception was held at St. George's Club, where white shasta daisies and white carnations decorated the head table.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Davidson left for Montego Bay, Jamaica, the bride travelling in a two piece ensemble of pale green "Qiana", with white accessories and a corsage of white sweetheart roses.

Bridal Shower

DERBY LINE — Miss Diane Estabrook of Derby was the guest of honor for a bridal shower held the evening of July 23 at the parental home of Miss Sharon Davis in Derby Line.

Diane came to Sharon's home, little dreaming there was to be a shower for her. Upon entering she was greeted by some 30 relatives and friends and her sister, Mindy pinned a corsage of blue and gold mums on her frock.

The bride-elect was escorted into the living room and seated in a chair before the fireplace where blue and white garlands and a bride paper doll completed the decor.

Mrs. Ralph Estabrook and Mrs. Marcel Morin, mothers of the pre-nuptial couple were seated either side of her. The gifts from the guests attending and others unable to attend were picturesquely arranged on a table and on the floor. As these were opened, they were admired as they were circulated and placed on a table. All the gifts were lovely additions for the couple's new home.

After a thank-you speech by Diane, the hostesses served buffet refreshments of stuffed finger rolls, pickles, olives, tossed salad, and the shower cake, made and decorated by Mrs. Benoit Blais in white with deep blue, purple and gold mums encircling the base and topped with twin parasols. The buffet table was centred with a pitcher filled with blue and gold mums, a gift to Diane as a memento of this pleasant event in connection with her marriage.

The hostesses, with Sharon, were Minty Lefebvre and Nancy Bates. Guests attended from Newport, Holland, Morgan, Derby and Derby Line.

Miscellaneous Shower

ROCK ISLAND — Mrs. Norman Danneau, Mrs. Andre Gaulin, Mrs. Bernadette Roy and Mrs. Armand Vachon, assisted by others, were hostesses for a delightful shower held on Tuesday evening, July 9 in Our Lady of Mercy Parish Hall to honor the forthcoming marriage of Miss Suzanne Roy.

Her employer, J. Gaboriault and Mrs. Gaboriault had invited Suzanne out for an evening dinner as their guest. Later, they invited her to see an exhibit at the church hall. Upon entering she was completely and pleasantly surprised to find about 100 relatives and friends awaiting her.

Suzanne's sister, Helene pinned a floral corsage on her frock and amid salutations was escorted to a chair reserved for her between her mother, Mrs. Gerard Roy and Mrs. Rosario Laliberte, mother of the prospective groom, and with Mrs. Albert Audet, the bride's grandmother and Mrs. Ovida Martin, of Katevale, aunt of the groom-to-be.

The decor was carried out with garlands in colors of blue, white and yellow and balloons which with the gaily wrapped and ribboned gifts made it a picturesque setting.

The gifts included a wide array of beautiful and useful gifts for their new home on Route 5, Stanstead. These were circulated among the guests and admired, then placed on a display table.

Several games were played and prizes presented to the winners.

Buffet refreshments were served by the hostesses, the table being centered with a lovely china cup and saucer filled with flowers for the bride-elect to keep as a souvenir of this happy occasion.

Guests attended from Sherbrooke, Katevale, Toronto, Ont., and the Boundary Villages.

Suzanne and Paul-Emile Laliberte have planned their marriage to take place on August 23.

Engagement announced

Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Simpson of Melbourne wish to announce the engagement of their only daughter, Winnifred Jane, to Mr. Dale Charles Carson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy R. Carson, of Danville, Quebec. A September wedding is planned.

WI meeting

CLEVELAND — The Cleveland WI held their August meeting on the evening of July 29 at the home of Mrs. Doris Johnston.

The president opened the meeting with the Collect, and welcomed Mrs. Pollock to the meeting.

Ten members answered the roll call by bringing a vase of five to seven flowers. These were judged by Mrs. Pollock and the winners were Mrs. Lillian Johnston and Mrs. Peggy Healy.

The secretary read the minutes of the last meeting and a thank you note from the Sherbrooke Hospital.

Conventions' Reports: Agriculture: A garden quiz on jumbled names of vegetables was held, the winners being Mrs. Aline Healy and Mrs. Peggy Healy.

Citizenship: Mrs. Effie Healy gave a reading on Telephone Calls. Let the telephone ring long enough so the person has time to answer but don't continue ringing until it annoys everybody else on the line. Remnants were handed in for Save the Children.

Home Economics: Mrs. Doris Johnston read an article on Teachers.

Health and Welfare: Mrs. Peggy Healy gave an account on the causes and cures of toothaches.

The floating prize was won by Mrs. Peggy Eastman.

Refreshments were served by the hostess.

The next meeting will be held on Sept. 6 with Mrs. Gloria Pease as hostess.

MR. AND MRS. J. RAND

Rand-Crosby wed

Soft organ music was playing while friends and relatives gathered at St. Jude's Church in Nackawic, N.B., at 3 p.m. on June 21, 1975, to celebrate the wedding of Lea Crosby and Jim Rand. Sherri Lea is the daughter of David and Natalie Crosby of Nackawic, N.B., and James Argyle is the son of Lyle and Fay Rand of Lennoxville, Quebec.

Father LeBlanc, assisted by Lea's brother Doug Crosby of Ottawa officiated at the double-ring ceremony. Special passages taken from Genesis 1 and I Corinthians were chosen by the bride and groom being read by Sister Eleanor McLousky and Sister Marie Clarkin. Miss Joan Hawkins sang at intervals between the readings. Baskets of white mums and yellow shasta daisies, blue lupins and buttercups adorned the church. The guest pews were marked with little white lace doilies, blue and yellow flowers and blue satin bows.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, looked lovely in a long white sheer gown with attached hood and train edged with dainty white lace flowers. She carried a colonial bouquet of yellow sweetheart roses, blue miniature carnations and baby's breath with white satin streamers.

Miss Jill Crosby, sister of the bride, was maid of honour. She wore a long yellow dress of polyester crepe, printed with tiny flowers. She carried a bouquet of yellow shasta daisies and baby's breath with yellow satin streamers. Miss Susan Crosby, sister of the bride, and Miss Sylvia Rand, sister of the groom were bridesmaids. Their dresses were identical to Jill's and their bouquets were of white shasta daisies and baby's breath with blue satin streamers.

The groom was smartly dressed in a light-blue jacket, dark pants with white shirt. Mr. Larry Kirk of St. Stephen, N.B., acted as best man while Mr. Chris Crosby, brother of the bride and Mr. Royce Rand, brother of the groom were the ushers. They wore suits identical to the groom's. They all wore white carnation boutonnières. Ken Crosby youngest brother of the bride acted as altar boy during the nuptial mass. Miss Joan Hawkins sang a solo during the signing of the register and following the communion. She was accompanied on the guitar by Miss Elizabeth Bliss.

Mrs. Crosby, mother of the bride, chose a floor-length gown of peach polyester, white accessories and a corsage of white carnations. Mrs. Rand, the groom's mother, wore a floor-length gown of blue flowered georgette, white accessories and a corsage of deep red roses and baby's breath.

Mrs. Helen Fownes, paternal grandmother of the bride wore a street-length dress of rose printed jersey and a corsage of red roses. Mrs. Verna Hunting, great-aunt of the groom was dressed in a cream flowered dress of polyester knit and a corsage of red sweetheart roses and baby's breath.

Blue and white streamers and wedding bells decorated the Curling Club where a reception was held. A delicious salad supper was served to one hundred guests. The bride's table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake decorated with white roses, blue sweetpeas and tiny yellow flowers and other wedding symbols. The cake was made and decorated by the groom's mother.

After the usual toasts to the bride and groom and bridal party, the groom proposed a toast to Mr. and Mrs. Grant Forgrave of Foster, Quebec, who were celebrating their 37th wedding anniversary on that day. Jim said he had spent many of his boyhood summers with Grant and Evelyn Forgrave on their farm.

Lea's little sister, Jane Crosby was in charge of the guest book.

Dancing was enjoyed by everyone during the evening. The bride's bouquet was caught by Susan Crosby, and her garter by Larry Kirk as the happy couple left to spend their honeymoon in Prince Edward Island. They are now residing at 190 Church St., Fredericton, N.B., until the end of August when they will return to Charlottetown, P.E.I., where Jim has accepted a teaching position.

40th Anniversary

MOE'S RIVER — Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Haseltine will be happy to know they celebrated their fortieth (40th) wedding anniversary on July 31st.

The occasion was marked by a family supper held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Haseltine and family on that evening.

Ann Landers

Getting on with people

Dear Ann Landers: A friend sent this to me in the mail and asked if I thought it was good enough to send to Ann Landers. I believe it is. What do you think? — J.L.C.

Dear J.L.C.: I agree — and my thanks to both you and your friend.

The ten commandments of how to get along with people

1. Keep skid chains on your tongue. Say less than you think. Cultivate a soothing voice. How you say it often means more than what you say.

2. Make promises sparingly and keep them faithfully, no matter what the cost.

3. Never lose an opportunity to say a kind word to or about somebody. Praise work well done, regardless of who did it.

4. Be interested in others, their pursuits, their homes and their families. Let everyone you meet, however humble, feel you regard him as important.

5. Be cheerful. Keep the corners of your mouth turned up. Hide your worries and disappointments under a smile.

6. Keep an open mind on all debatable questions. Discuss, but don't argue. It is a mark of a superior mind to disagree and remain friendly.

7. Let your virtues speak for themselves and refuse to discuss the shortcomings of others. Discourage gossip by changing the subject.

8. Have respect for the feelings of others. Wit and humor at the expense of a friend is never worth it.

9. Pay no attention to destructive remarks and personal attacks on you. Live so that no one will believe them. Remember, a common cause of back-biting is dissatisfaction with oneself.

10. Don't be concerned about your "just due." Do a good turn for the sake of being helpful.

Dear J.L.C.: Well said. And now may I add a footnote to the Tenth Commandment — for those who seek gratitude? Look in the dictionary.

Dear Ann: Here's my entry for "Dummy-of-the-Year" award: Married 20 years, four children, working two jobs to get the kids through school. Wife starts chasing a younger guy who has money, time, cars and horses. I keep it all together for the kids, although my pride is shot. I couldn't afford a girl friend if I wanted one. It's all I can do to keep food on the table, the house up, clothes on our backs, and all the kids in school.

Our college daughter is going to Florida "for a little fun" on money saved from last year's job. My wife is going along. I stay home and try to keep it all together. Guess who'll end up driving them to the airport? — Kentucky Dummy

Dear Friend: I don't think you're a dummy. I think you're quite a guy — for the time being, that is.

However, if you continue to be a workhorse, chauffeur and chump while your wife runs around, I'd say you were a sucker. Give her two months — if she still hasn't got her head straight, see a lawyer. Insist on custody of the kids and put an end to the charade.

North's bidding has been both brilliant and successful. He could have jumped right to six diamonds, but he wanted to buy the hand there so he bid just five. Then when West went to six hearts North felt he had to save at seven diamonds.

East had no idea that there was any danger of South making seven diamonds and he was not interested in seven hearts. Hence he doubled seven diamonds.

East really should not have doubled. If he had passed the chances are that West would have bid seven hearts on the theory that it just might make. North might well have opened a club and the heart grand slam would have come in.

Ask the Jacobys
A reader from Indiana sent us today's hand with the question: "How should it have been bid and played?" We discussed it some in the article, but the answer to the question is that no one knows. Good bidding is based on the study of thousands and thousands of hands. Freak hands occur so seldom that everyone has to guess when bidding them.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

West thought a long time about his opening lead. He finally came to the conclusion that some one could ruff a heart lead, but that East's double had to be based on one of the black aces. If he held the club ace it would keep, if he held the ace of spades, it might be important to lead to it right away.

Therefore, West opened the spade. East did hold the ace, but unfortunately it turned out that dummy was void of spades. South fanned his hand for the grand slam.

HIGHBUSH BLUEBERRIES, larger than the native wild variety, could become an economically important crop in Quebec.

now that it has been proven that they survive cold winters.

Highbush blueberries may be grown in Que.

ST-JEAN — Although several American scientific publications say it is impossible to grow highbush blueberries commercially north of New Jersey, where the winter temperature drops to -30C, scientists here disagree, an Agriculture Canada press release states.

Two Quebec producers have been growing them for 12 years and have never reported any serious damage due to severe winters.

Scientists at Agriculture Canada's Research Station here are studying the feasibility of growing the crop commercially in Quebec.

"There are some advantages to growing blueberries in Quebec," says Michel Lareau, a horticultural crop management expert at the research station.

"A large domestic market already exists for the imported American blueberries. Cultivation practices have been developed and a mechanical harvester already exists. Once the bush is established, it lasts more than 40 years," the crop management specialist says.

The researcher is studying the feasibility of adding peat moss, sawdust and sulphur to improve the condition of soil for blueberry production.

The plant needs constant water supplies, acid soils (optimum pH is 4.8), and soils rich in organic matter.

In 1971, eight varieties were planted for testing at the Frelighsburg sub-station. It has been observed that frost can damage the shrub, but the damage does not affect fruit yields appreciably.

Researchers expect it will take several years to learn all the answers about high-bush blueberries.

"But we are confident that this new commercial culture will succeed, at least in selected sites," Mr. Lareau said.

Farm income stability improved

OTTAWA — Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan hailed the changes in the Agricultural Stabilization Act, given Royal Assent yesterday, as a major advance in national farm policy, an Agriculture Canada press release states.

"The legislation will encourage farmers to stay in business and to develop even more productive and efficient operations," he said.

"It is a long step forward in the development of a stable agricultural industry in this country. Stability in the food producing industry is important, not only for the farmer, but even more so for the consumer."

The amended act provides for guaranteed returns to farmers, for a list of specified commodities, of 90 per cent of the five-year average weighted price adjusted according to trends in the cost of production index. Commodities that must be supported at not less than that level are cattle, hogs and sheep, industrial milk and cream, corn and soybeans, and oats and barley produced outside the Canadian Wheat Board area.

These named commodities, combined with additional commodities supported by other legislation, means that government stabilization programs guaranteeing returns to farmers now cover products representing 88 per cent of farm cash income. The legislation also gives the cabinet the authority to apply stabilization programs to any other farm commodity as recommended by the Agricultural Stabilization Board.

Other new features of the amended act are:

- provision for regional stabilization programs for commodities that have a regional, as opposed to a national, market;

- provision for provincial and/or producer participation in stabilization programs.

Such participation, however, must not lead to one province over those in unequal treatment of producers of a commodity in stimulate overproduction.

Study to be published on classes of soil

QUEBEC (BP) — The Quebec Ministry of Agriculture's Research and Instruction Department, Soil Division, will publish a brochure showing the various classes of soil and the possibilities for agricultural uses.

The results of the study were gathered and calculated in Richmond County. The land studied covered the limits of the county, which comprises 12 municipalities and more than 340,000 acres, according to the 1971 census. Of that total, only about 30,000 acres offers any agricultural possibilities.

The classification system was introduced by the Ministry to calibrate the soil and learn which areas are better or less suited for large agricultural usage in Quebec. It will help in the parcelling of land, development of agriculture in general and be a source of agricultural production orientation.

The system distinguishes possibilities for land usage: proper or slightly improper soil for growth, improper soil for growth and proper for pasture, and soil not suitable for any agriculture.

Anyone wishing to get a copy of the brochure can write to the Information Service, Ministry of Agriculture, 200-A Chemin Ste-Foy, Quebec, G1R 4X6. The telephone number in Quebec is 418-643-2516.

TIPS ON STORING MEAT & POULTRY

As soon as you get the meat home, take off the store wrapping and rewrap it loosely in wax paper so that air can get to it. Sometimes it's more convenient to put it in an open dish and cover it loosely with waxed paper. Put in refrigerator.

If you're freezing the meat, however, it should be wrapped airtight.

If possible, take the meat out of the refrigerator before cooking and let it stand until it is at room temperature. About an hour for small cuts, two or even more for large cuts.

ROBERT MCHARG
of St. Bruno formerly of Ayer's Cliff
Friends and relatives were shocked and saddened upon hearing of the sudden death of Robert (Bob) McHarg at the Sherbrooke Hospital on Saturday, July 5, 1975.

Robert was born in Ayer's Cliff, the older son of Alice (Wyman) McHarg Mayhew of Bury, Que., and the late R. Gordon McHarg of Ayer's Cliff.

He spent his youth in Ayer's Cliff, graduating from Ayer's Cliff High School and then Bishop's University with a B.A. in History in 1958. He also continued his education receiving a Bachelor of Education degree from Mt. Allison University, Sackville, N.S., in 1963.

Robert began his teaching career at Buckingham High School and taught at Princess Elizabeth High School, Magog, Que., Lake of Two Mountains High School, Deux Montagnes and finally at Richelieu Valley Regional High School, McMasterville, Que.

He was united in marriage to Jean Fraser of Bridgewater, N.S. They were blessed with five children, Elaine, Nancy, Gordon, Karen and Hugh.

Robert was very active in community affairs, being a member of Branch 185 Canadian Legion and for three successive years was chairman of their summer Blood Donor Clinic. He coached hockey and football in Two Mountains and St. Bruno as well as serving on various community committees.

An avid sportsman, he played college football and hockey and continued to play football for Farnham and St. Eustache for a number of years. He was also an ardent curler, being a member of the Mt. Bruno Curling Club and had served as a member of the club's Board of directors for the past three years.

Visiting hours were held for friends and relatives in Ayer's Cliff on Tuesday afternoon from 2-5 p.m. and then the remains were taken to the United Church in St. Bruno, Que., where his friends and acquaintances could pay their respects on Tuesday evening.

The funeral was held on Wednesday, July 9. The service was beautifully conducted by Rev. Fred Elson who spoke of the creative power of life, which gives a way of renewal so that no disaster or trouble can separate us if we hold fast to God's love. Cremation followed and interment will take place in Ayer's Cliff later in the fall.

The pall bearers were good friends and associates: James Smith, Keith Rogers, Aubrey Marcotte, Mike Dury, Ken Cervantes and Bill Johnston.

Robert is survived by his beloved wife, Jean and their children, his mother Alice McHarg Mayhew and stepfather R.N. Mayhew of Bury, a brother Peter of Edmonton, Alta., two sisters Margaret (Mrs. Ralph Devoy) of Barrie, Ont., and Mary (Mrs. Carl Wood) of Edmonton, as well as aunts, uncles, cousins, nieces and nephews.

The many floral tributes and in memorial donations to the Richelieu Valley High School Scholarship fund were evidence of the love and affection felt for Bob by all who knew him.

Quebec Circuit draws record crowd

Patof wins in 2.04-2, two in row

TOP WINNER — Gilles Gendron is seen receiving congratulations from Robert Dupont, Quebec Loto, for winning the second division of the Loto-Quebec Export A in record time of 2.04-2 at the Sherbrooke Track last evening. On the right is Pierre Casgrain, Director of Communications for Export A with Andre Charpentier, secretary-treasurer, Guy Pelletier, racing secretary, and owners of the top juvenile Patof.

Maurice Proteau, vice-president of the Sherbrooke Racing Club.

By LEO DONNELL
 It was close to a perfect record night last evening at the Sherbrooke Racing Club when a crowd of 2,811 was on hand and they pushed the neat sum of $67,700 into the pari-mutuel machines.

betting windows this year. The record was $68,359, which was registered last July 15th.

The first division of the Circuit saw only five horses going to the gate as Jeanott Bunter was scratched at the last minute. In the ninth, the second half, a complete field of eight starters answered Starter Andre Beliveau's call.

Raymond Benoit, who announces the races at the Blue Bonnets and the Richelieu tracks, was on hand to describe the two races. He has been all over the Province attending to the Quebec Circuit Export A events.

In the opening dash the winner, Bec D'Or owned by Joe Giroux and Guy Fontaine of St. Casimir, was teamed by Alain Chartier under the wire in 2:08-1. He had no trouble in setting his mile and finished strong.

In the second division it was a little different although one of the top favorites, Patof with Gilles Gendron driving, emerged the winner. The time of the race was 2:04-2. It went to the quarter in 30-2, the half in 1:02 and then came home to register a mile in 2:04-2. It was a full second short of his winning mark this year.

J.C. Bunter tried to catch Patof along with Buxton but just couldn't get close enough to Gilles Gendron, who was sitting there just waiting. When they challenged he had more horse and just let go and his favorite Patof responded in the real style of a champion.

The record crowd had a very enjoyable evening and judging from the betting figures everybody got in on the payoffs. No high figure was registered. In the fifth the quinella of Great Success and Duke Force paid $40.30 which was tops for the evening.

In the tenth race it was battle right to the wire between Sherry Force, with R. Marois driving, and Dudley's Hero, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Tom Riddle of Ayer's Cliff. It was a close battle to the wire and completed a fine evening of racing in top style.

Expos sweep doubleheader from Mets

NEW YORK (AP) — Another two-night doubleheader has ended in a migraine for New York Mets. Small wonder their manager says he'd be content with a splitting headache.

The Expos gave Carrithers, 1-0, all the support he needed in the first game when they jumped on Kosman for two runs in the first inning, then chased him with a four-run third.

Pepe Mangual walked to start the second game against Tom Hall, 4-3, and scored on a double by Tim Foli, who came in on Jose Morales' single.

The Expos scored in the fifth on a bases-loaded walk and then added three runs in the eighth against Rick Baldwin.

It was first and 10 for Philadelphia. Unfortunately for Chicago Cubs, it wasn't football's Philadelphia Eagles they were playing, it was the Phillies. And the game was baseball.

Bill Bonham started Tuesday night's game for the Cubs. He never knew what hit him.

Johnny Oates, Maddox and Johnstone proceeded to hit him, too, and when the first-inning carnage was complete, the Phillies had 10 hits—the first eight in a row—and 10 runs. The other eight innings were academic.

Philadelphia waltzed to a 13-5 victory. EXPOS SWEEP METS
 In the rest of the National League, Pittsburgh Pirates beat St. Louis Cardinals 6-1, Los Angeles Dodgers shut out Atlanta Braves 5-0, Cincinnati Reds defeated San Francisco Giants 6-3, San Diego Padres edged Houston Astros 6-5 in 10 innings and, in a two-night doubleheader, Montreal Expos blanked New York Mets twice by 7-0 scores.

Maddox and Schmidt were the biggest guns in the Phillies' arsenal. After Cash and Bowa singled, Maddox unloaded his third home run of the season. Tom Lutzinski singled, Johnstone doubled and Hutton singled them both home.

Schmidt's two-run homer finally sent Bonham to the showers and brought up Oates, who promptly singled Phil's pitcher Dick Ruthven, adding insult to embarrassment, bunted Oates to second. Cash, up for the second time, drew a walk and, with two away, Maddox got his fourth RBI of the inning with a single. Lutzinski walked and Johnstone singled for the final two runs.

The Cubs tried to make a game of it with four runs in the third inning, three on a triple by Rick Monday, but Schmidt put an end to their hopes with another two-run homer in the fifth.

FAILED TO GAIN
 Despite the offensive explosion, the Phils failed to cut into Pittsburgh's 4½-game lead in the East Division. Pirates Richie Zisk, Duffy Dyer and Bill Robinson made sure of that, driving in two runs apiece to beat St. Louis.

Ticats stop Als for first win, injuries hit Montreal squad

MONTREAL (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats had been winless at the 33,212-seat Autostade since Montreal Alouettes moved there in 1968.

Tuesday night the Tiger-Cats, under the leadership of quarterback Jim McMillan, displayed good ball control when they needed it to score a 15-8 win over the Als, their first victory in three Eastern Football Conference games.

"It was kind of a challenge for me," admitted McMillan. "I heard we hadn't won here for a long time. I think the big thing to me was the fact we were able to control the ball longer."

McMillan and veteran flanker Terry Evanshen combined on a 20-yard pass late in the first half for the only touchdown in the game.

Ian Sunter kicked two field goals, a convert and two singles to complete Hamilton's scoring. Don Sweet had two field goals for the Alouettes and Sonny Wade had two singles.

TIED RECORD
 Evanshen's touchdown gave him 64 in his career and tied him for the all-time Canadian Football League lead with Hal Patterson who, like Evanshen, played with Montreal before going to Hamilton.

"Sure it's a big thrill," said Evanshen. "But we won here and that's a big thing. Everybody was saying we didn't have a chance. I've been playing football for 12 years and this has to be one of my biggest wins. It was a team effort."

Hamilton had a net offence of 278 yards compared with 268 for the Alouettes. The Tiger-Cats completed nine of 18 passes for 107 yards while Montreal was good on 13 of 30 for 266.

Hamilton had 198 yards rushing to 87 for the Alouettes.

"They didn't have that much in total yardage," said Als coach Marv Levy. "But the big thing was their ball control."

"Giving up that touchdown late in the first half hurt us. The thing that hurt us on that late drive was that 47-yard run by (Andy) Hopkins."

RODGERS INJURED
 The Alouettes played most of the game without star wide receiver Johnny Rodgers, injured returning a punt early in the second quarter. Rodgers had badly pulled muscles in his middle back. He was to be examined today for a further assessment.

Linebacker Chuck Zapiec suffered torn ligaments in his right knee and offensive lineman Dan Yochum may have cartilage damage in his left knee. Zapiec will undergo surgery Monday and is lost to Montreal for the season, while further examination will determine the nature of Yochum's problems.

"At this stage, I can't say whether Johnny will be ready for our game next week in Ottawa," said Levy.

He said Rodgers had a spinal compression, causing trauma, but said he should know more today.

Both Hamilton and Montreal are 1-2 and trail leading Ottawa by two points. The Rough Riders play their home opener tonight against winless Toronto Argonauts in a game to be carried on the full CTV network starting at 8 p.m. EDT.

Moorhead who was sidelined because he injured a shoulder last week against Calgary, completed 17 of 33 passes, despite a Calgary pass rush which kept him on the run throughout the evening.

"Our defence was embarrassed by the 313 yards they gained last week," Calgary coach Jim Wood said. "I think they had a little extra motivation last night."

The Stampeders had the edge in first downs with 25 to B.C.'s 14 and had 225 yards rushing compared with Lions' 107. The Lions passed for 227 yards on 17 of 33 completions by Liske while Douglas, traded to Calgary by Lions last year, completed seven of 17 passes for 71 yards for the Stampeders.

NETTLES INJURED
 The Lions were counting on a strong performance by their linebackers to stop Burden's running game. But B.C. middle linebacker Ray Nettles went into the game with an injured hip and aggravated the injury early in the second half.

To make matters worse, B.C. defensive back Rocky Long hurt a leg and missed much of the second half after playing his strongest game of the season, picking off two Douglas passes in the first half.

Cyril McFall kicked three converts and a pair of field goals with Gerald Kunyk booting a 53-yard single to round out the Calgary scoring.

Wayne Moseley got the only B.C. touchdown while Lou Harris adding a two-point conversion on a pass from Liske. John Wintermeyer kicked a field goal and two singles to account for the other B.C. scoring. —

Burden paces Stamps to 28-13 win over Lions but he didn't remember much

VANCOUVER (CP) — Willie Burden had an evening Tuesday many Canadian Football League running backs would be proud of, but he doesn't remember much about it.

Burden carried the ball 30 times, gained 180 yards and scored three touchdowns as he paced Calgary Stampeders to a 28-13 Western Football Conference victory over British Columbia Lions.

He took a pair of touchdown passes from Calgary quarterback Karl Douglas and added another on a one-yard plunge to pace Stampeders' victory. However, late in the game, B.C. linebacker Larry Cameron gave him a rap on the helmet that did little for his memory.

"You'll have to ask me about it tomorrow," Burden said when questioned about his performance. "I don't know how many yards I gained."

DOESN'T REMEMBER
 Although Burden might not remember much about the game, the Lions and 15,000 fans in attendance would have much trouble remembering Burden and the Stampeders' defence.

While the fleet running back was finding gaping holes in the B.C. defence, the Calgary defenders had almost all the answers for quarterback Peter Liske and the Lions' offence.

The Calgary defence limited B.C. to just three first downs in the first half of the game. Stampeders were ahead 21-4 at half time and didn't have much trouble as they moved into second place in the WFC, two points behind Saskatchewan. The Lions are mired in the cellar, winless in three starts.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Prosecuting attorney Gary Flakne said Monday he would postpone until Aug. 12 the decision whether to call for a new trial in the case involving Boston Bruins hockey player Dave Forbes.

Flakne had been scheduled to announce his decision today.
