Westmount Seventh Victory Loan Headquarters Shows Activity

In a message to the Sales Organization of the Victory Loan, the Organizers state that the slogan adopted for the Seventh Victory Loan will be "To sell the largest possible number of Victory Bonds to the largest number of Westmount Residents."

"This is our established Victory Loan sales policy. This is our war job. It is our aim and our responsibility — entrusted to us by the Government of the Dominion of Canada in the interests of the Canadian people.

"To accomplish our task we must continue to develop the public's understanding of the great need for increased individual savings. We must then see to it that these savings are mobilized for war by being invested in Victory Bonds.

"Canada's borrowing needs in the current fiscal year will be larger than ever. They are expected to exceed $3,200 millions.

Borrowing the personal savings of individuals for the use of the nation at war is the only type of borrowing which will relieve rather than increase inflationary pressures which are continuously at work.

By pursuing this sales policy with determination and by exceeding local and national objectives, we show our confidence in our fighting men and our confidence in the future of our country.

To carry out this policy, everyone associated with the National War Finance Committee must strive to reach new levels of accomplishment in the sale of Victory Bonds to Canadians."

The Sales Organization is composed of eight teams, consisting of forty-nine members including:

Team No. 1 — A. R. Porter

(Captain), A. B. Clark, R. E. Mackenzie, R. M. Moore, W. R. Watt, F. J. Wright.

The accident occurred when one tramcar crashed into another which was stationary. Police said that apparently the moving tram's wheels must have skidded.

C. P. McTague Speaks At Meeting Of Conservatives

C. P. McTague was the guest speaker at a mass meeting of the Progressive Conservatives last night, held in Victoria Hall.

This was the first visit of the new national chairman of the Progressive Conservative party to this area since his appointment and many men and women of the party from many ridings of the Montreal district took this opportunity of renewing their relationship with the organization.

The presence of Mr. McTague, former head of the War Labor Board, coincided with the opening in Westmount of a drive on behalf of Major-General C. Basil Price, Progressive Conservative candidate for the St. Antoine-Westmount riding, who is at present overseas as Commissioner of the Canadian Red Cross.

Official start of the Price campaign comes after a lengthy behind-the-scenes preparation that had been in operation since the former Westmount Councillor accepted the Progressive Conservative nomination in the riding last March.

The women's organization of the Progressive Conservative Association in St. Antoine-Westmount is particularly active, it is reported, and in addition to the regular riding association, many subdivisions have been organized, on a parallel with the poll-groups set up by the men's organization.

At the meeting an announcement was made to the effect that Mrs. Eldon Black has been appointed special women's campaign chairman for St. Antoine-Westmount riding. This appointment, it is understood, has been ratified by the men's body in the area.

Some Quick And Sound Facts About Victory Bonds

Q.—What are Victory Bonds?
A.—Victory Bonds are the best buy any Canadian can make. They show that you have loaned money to Canada to help win the war.

They are your country's promise to return your money to you — and, in addition, to pay you interest on that money every half year until you get it back.

This promise — a promise which has always been fulfilled — is backed by all the wealth and resources of Canada.

When you buy Victory Bonds, you are not giving your money to Canada. You are lending it to your country at a time of national emergency.

Q.—When will Victory Bonds be paid off?

A.—The money you lend to Canada will be paid back to you by your country when the Bonds reach their maturity date. This date is shown on each Bond.

Q.—Can Victory Bonds be turned into cash before maturity?

A.—Yes. They can be sold at any time, or if the need for cash is only temporary, they can always be used as security for a bank loan.

Q.—Is advertising and publicity needed to sell Victory Bonds?

A.—Yes. Experience in this War, as well as experience in the First World War, has proved the need for large-scale advertising programs during Victory Loan campaigns. Some people are reached best by newspapers, others through radio, and others through speeches.

There are a lot of things competing for the attention of the public these days. This means every form of publicity must be used—and used aggressively to make sure the Victory Loan message reaches and impresses every citizen.

KNOW YOUR WESTMOUNT

Q.—What kind of protection does the Police Department give to the citizens?

A.—The function of the Police is to protect the citizens and to preserve law and order.

In Westmount there are approximately 25,000 residents, 6,300 habitations, and thirty odd miles of streets, and it is the duty of the Police Department to provide protection for the citizens and their property and to control the use of the streets by vehicular traffic and other uses.

The aim of the Police is to prevent crime, and by preventing it to reduce the need for detection and prosecution.

The City provides a force of forty-seven officers and men for this purpose. The personnel includes officers, i.e., Chief, Deputy Chief, Lieutenants, Sergeants, Detectives, Identification and Fingerprint Experts, Photographer, Clerks, and Constables. The Department is equipped with five motor patrol cars, four of which have two-way radio communication, and three motorcycles equipped with radio receiving sets and one spare motorcycle. The hours of work for members of the Department are eight per day. Motor, motorcycle and foot patrols are constantly maintained, and the citizen can be confident that at any time during the day or night he is not far from the guardianship of some member of the Police Force. It is by constant patrolling and the alertness of the patrolling officers that the amount of crime is reduced to a minimum, the streets made safe for motorists and pedestrians alike, and, in general, Westmount kept as a very peaceful place in which to reside.

Perhaps it might be of interest to show some of the various things that may require the attention of the Guardian of the Law during the course of a day:

Street accidents, traffic violations such as illegal passing through traffic lights or stop signs, speeding, parking, improper parking of cars on hills, improper operation of bicycles, damage to property, burglary, theft, housebreaking, robbery with or without violence, carrying of offensive weapons or burglar's tools, vagrancy, loitering, drunkenness, common assault, persons carrying on business without a license, and sudden death.

So it can be readily seen that truly the Police Officer, if he is efficient, must have eyes in the back of his head and be alert to all things. An idea of the number of offences which occur can be obtained by reference to the Annual Report of the City, which shows that in the year 1943 there were 321 street accidents and 49 other accidents; that 112 persons were injured in the street accidents and one person was killed and 48 injured in the other accidents; that 2,269 cases were brought before the Recorder's Court—of these 1,776 were traffic By-Law violations. There were 12 cases of wilful damage, 16 for burglary, 56 for theft, 5 for robbery with violence, 5 for taking motor vehicles without owner's permission, 18 for housebreaking, 2 for being in possession of burglar's tools, 9 for receiving stolen goods, 41 for vagrancy and loitering, 40 for drunkenness, 5 for common assaults, 48 for failing to carry National Registration Certificates, 29 sudden deaths from various causes were investigated. Fingerprints were taken on 76 occasions and 197 photographs were made. 1,597 cautions were given for minor infractions of the Traffic By-law and 74 cautions were given in regard to other offences.

Most of the traffic violations are caused by people being careless or thoughtless, and a little care on the part of motorists would eliminate the greater number of these.

Asbestos Industry In Peace And War Theme Of Address

Speaking at the weekly luncheon of the Westmount Rotary Club on Wednesday, D. Stuart White, of the Canadian Johns-Manville Company Ltd., speaking from "A" Day to "Pay" Day, told the members that it was "A" Day in 1939, when his company, like many other industries, turned from peaceful pursuits to the long and arduous task of winning a war.

Five long years between that day and "D" Day, years of hard work, difficult problems, seemingly unsurmountable objects, but then finally the invasion and those glorious events that have become history itself.

"And now we hope for 'V' Day and the Victory it will represent", he said. "But there are millions, indeed," he added, "who ardently expect it, and even those who clamor for it now."

In drawing a parallel between the "A" Day and "V" Day of this war and the A, D, and V Day in the development of the asbestos industry particularly, as this industry assumes its position in the building material industry, which he pointed out, is second only in size to that of agriculture on this continent. Mr. White traced the asbestos industry from A.D. 23, when Pliny referred to asbestos materials as the funeral dress of kings, and in A.D. 46, when Herodotus referred to those same asbestos cremation cloths. Even prior to that, in fact, 484 years B.C., it was found that Plutarch referred to the asbestos lamp wicks in the temples of that day, which were thought to be perpetual.

"It is a long, long time indeed since the 'A' Day of asbestos," the speaker continued, "and it is reputed that Charlemagne staved off a war with the Moslem hordes, in that time, because they were afraid of a magician who was so great that he could transmute cloth into something unburnable, and indestructible by fire, and so they did not attack."

Mr. White spoke on the "D" day in the early eighties, when a slate miner from Wales, named Evan Williams, came across outcroppings of this fibrous, weavable rock known as asbestos, at Danville, Quebec. Then it was that the Jeffrey mine was opened, but it remained for H. W. Johns, the storekeeper of Brooklyn, who envisioned the use of asbestos as an agent in the manufacture of hundreds of materials to prevent fire, and defy the weather and its consequent wear and tear, to organize the industry and finally get into production.

Since that time there has been a constant growth and development he said, until today there are 26 miles of track, and 159 railroad cars moving the fibre from the mine to the mills and eventual production, as roofing, siding, pipe covering, brake lining and a host of other materials. Speaking on the possibilities of full post-war employment, he said, Arthur A. Hood, Director of Dealer Relations, of the same company, had given out some indications of the magnitude of the problems that will confront us all.

The speaker continued by saying that it was only logical to assume that materials that will be available after the war, will for a time be restricted. It will take time for industry to re-convert itself to peacetime production, and he concluded, "It will take the distributor, the dealer, the architect, the contractor, the salesman, the real estate man and the banker all working together as a unit, and co-operating, to bring results, and if we can do this, and I know we can, it surely will be 'Pay Day' indeed," he concluded.

F. C. Whitaker introduced the speaker and he was thanked on behalf of those present by Herb Welham. A. W. Callard, president, presided.

Place Of Youth In Future World Outlined In Talk

A very successful and well-attended meeting of the Willingdon Home and School Association took place on Tuesday evening in the school gymnasium when V. McAdam addressed the parents and teachers on the subject "Youth a Generation Hence". C. A. Morrison presided and introduced the guest speaker.

Mr. McAdam has had a wide experience with youth problems through his long association with Weredale House, and the Boys' Farm and Training School, at Shawbridge.

Mr. McAdam pointed out the almost world-wide scope of experience awaiting the youth of today as they leave school, compared with the stifling lack of opportunity met by the youth of only ten years ago; and stressed the need for vision on the part of leaders who would prepare our boys and girls to meet the uncertainties of the next ten years.

The speaker analyzed the factors, hereditary and environmental, that may lead to success or maladjustment in the life of a child, and explained how failure to adjust satisfactorily in school may lead to truancy and thence to delinquency.

There are some special classes for children of this category, but they are too few and too late. The time to recognize and help the child who does not fit into the present school system, is during his first years in school, as well as the succeeding years. But such special classes will not be provided unless there is a demand for them. The demand could and should come from such organizations as the Home and School Associations.

Mr. McAdam sketched some of the modern trends in education. It should be possible to take full advantage of the phonograph in teaching languages, as has been done so profitably by the army. Movies and animated drawings are already being used by progressive schools, but the full scope of visual education has yet to be realized.

School camps, and the employment of leisure time under the school roof, as a community enterprise, as well as more attention to youth in the churches,

ROVING REPORTER

By Rene de Carteret

Albert A. Gardiner, who has been appointed to the position of general passenger traffic manager of the Canadian National Railways, began his railway career 37 years ago and has been assistant general passenger traffic manager since 1930.

Born in Somerset, England, Mr. Gardiner was educated for the Indian Civil Service but came to Canada, instead of going to India, at the age of 20, and immediately entered the service of the Grand Trunk Railway. For five years, he worked in Bonaventure Station as clerk, stenographer and chief clerk in the district passenger agent's office. To an intimate experience of passenger traffic problems, gained during a period of such large movements as were brought about by the Quebec Tercentenary celebration, the Eucharistic Congress and the mass immigration from Europe, he later acquired valuable general traffic experience while attached to the vice-president's staff. As general passenger agent, overseas traffic, he exchanged information and ideas with transportation men from all over the world and accompanied many European dignitaries on tours of Canada. Included in these were Queen Marie of Roumania, H.R.H. the Grand Duchess of Luxembourg, Cardinals Bourne of England, Vanutelli, Papal Legate, Logue of Ireland, Verdier of France and Mundelein of Chicago, and the officials of a Hungarian mission studying the Hungarian settlements in Western Canada.

Mr. Gardiner was secretary of the English-speaking sections of the Montreal civic committees for the Royal Jubilee, the Coronation and the Royal Visit. He met Prime Minister Churchill and his party at sea and, having accompanied them to Quebec, stayed there to superintend the involved rail transport arrangements of the Quebec Conference.

In addition to being a Knight of St. Gregory and of Polonia Restituta—a high official Polish order—Mr. Gardiner has also been recognized by a number of other governments, including France.

His wide experience in the transportation field, his keen interest in education, philanthropy and international relations, and his wit and originality have made him much in demand as a speaker. He has addressed the Business School and the Summer School for the Teaching Profession, University of Pennsylvania, the Canadian Club of Boston, the Traffic Club of New York, and many service clubs in both Canada and the United States. A few years ago, he delivered the Lincoln Day address at Springfield, Mass.

Three of Mr. Gardiner's sons rose from the ranks to commissions in the Canadian Armed Forces overseas in the present war.

My Wife, the Earthquake, and Me
I am keen on natural phenomena, and that's why I feel so peeved. I wouldn't have minded nearly so much if I had slept through the damned 'quake, but to miss it just because my wife had three false alarms—that's what makes me sore.

About a month ago, I was awakened in the middle of the night by the semi-strangled cries of my wife, "Thieves in the night! Thieves in the night!" It was nightmares, of course, as might be deduced from the melodramatic and rather over-stagey calls. I confess that I was startled, nevertheless. Also, Baby woke up and was not a bit pleased at being disturbed. By the time I had soothed Baby and pacified my wife, at the same time warning the latter that three toasted cheese sandwiches for supper are rarely conducive to dreamless slumber, I was pretty red.

One week later, at precisely three in the morning, my wife with only a slipper, I crept cautiously down in the dark and inched my way towards the living-room. Snapping on the light, I dashed forward and fell over the cause of all the trouble—one of my little daughter's old mechanical toys waddling uncertainly over the floor. My anxious wife, concluding I was in furious combat with some marauder, charged down to the rescue like some fighting fury, and I really was in danger for a moment until my urgent cries assured her that everything was O.K. Then—Baby woke up!

Ten days after this, I came out of a refreshing sleep to hear the ominous whisper of my indefatigable better half, "Do you smell something burning, dear?" I certainly did, and grabbing up our long-suffering offspring, we descended hurriedly only to discover it was merely a cigarette smouldering safely in an ash-tray. It had lipstick on it, thus enabling me to assume a dignified air of patient martyrdom.

So you see, when I was aroused at 12.40 a.m. one particular Wednesday by cries of "Earthquake! Earthquake!" It was just sort of routine for me. True, I made a show of investigating, but the shaking of the bed and the house I ascribed to my wife's leap to the window. A distant rumble outside I explained away as "Thunder, my dear." I listened to my wife's excited story patiently, patted her shoulder reassuringly, marvelled at the minor miracle of Baby being still asleep, yawned prodigiously, and went back to bed again.

The morning headlines gave me quite a shock, and I slipped away to the office without mentioning it to my better half. But she called me up triumphantly, "you see it was an earthquake!" It was an earthquake all right, and I had to listen to many vivid accounts of it and yet had to refrain from relating how "Thieves in the night!" etc., etc., had robbed me of that pleasure.

Investigation into the serious studies of servicemen discloses that whereas at the conclusion of the Great War only eight per cent of the demobilized men were qualified to enter a university course, at the end of this war, Hitler's War, 46 per cent will be eligible for advanced educational facilities. This puts out of joint, a writer who has been remarkably accurate in his forecast of world developments H. G. Wells, who predicted around 1938 that the average soldier in the Second World War which he clearly foresaw would be much behind his counterpart of 1914-18 in education. The men who will doff their uniforms next year will come back to this country well-informed and well educated in social and economic matters, determined to have honest conscientious leadership in peace as they have had in war.

Westmount Rotary Presents A Cheque To Homoeopathic

Presentation of a cheque from Westmount Rotary Club to the Homoeopathic Hospital $200,000 campaign recently concluded, marked the meeting held yesterday by the club in the Oak Room of Victoria Hall.

The cheque, was formally handed over by W. F. Close to his fellow-member, Cecil T. Medlar, vice-chairman of the drive. In acknowledging the gift Mr. Medlar said that as the Homoeopathic Hospital had conducted only four campaigns for funds in 50 years, it had no permanent organization to handle business of that nature. Consequently, they had to start from scratch this year. He thought this factor may have had a bearing on the failure of the official campaign to reach the objective allotted. Subscriptions at the official end of the drive totalled something like $20,000 short of the $200,000 sought. However, generous friends had acted in the interval and brought the total considerably nearer the sum desired, and he had hope that eventually all the $200,000 would be garnered in.

The speaker at the luncheon meeting was D. Stuart White, whose topic was the asbestos industry in peace and war.

Apathy Of Public Towards Schools Assailed In Talk

Chairman of Westmount Board of School Commissioners, and a member of the Montreal Central School Board, A. Lovell Phillips spoke to the members of the Rosedale Home and School Association, at their first general meeting of the season.

"Relationships in School Administration" was the subject of Mr. Phillips' talk, in which he stressed the fact that the future of education, particularly in the Province of Quebec, depends on a quickly expanding educational budget. Speaking of the need for leaders in the post-war world who will think along more progressive lines, he felt that our present system must resolve itself into a proper balance of scientific and social education. The trouble in Germany, said the speaker, was that there had been too much importance given to the scientific, while the social was neglected, resulting in badly balanced citizens.

Mr. Phillips urged home and school Associations to get behind expanding and progressive educational ideas. He says there will be vast sums spent on education and there will be a great need for intelligent people to spend them wisely. So far, said the speaker the public has not got the proper attitude toward education and he warned his hearers that progress in educational matters, and better education for our children will not come until the public awakens from its apathy and that home and school associations can do much to advance the cause of education.

It was felt by the speaker that

Pte. E. R. Hembling Reported Missing Prisoner Of War

Word has been received here over the week-end that Private Edward (Ted) R. Hembling, Black Watch, R.H.R. of Canada, who was previously reported missing in France, since July 28, is now a prisoner of war in Germany.

He enlisted in August 1940 in Pte. Hembling the Royal Canadian Engineers, and later transferred to the Black Watch and went overseas with the unit to France.

Private Hembling, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Hembling, of 5831 Sherbrooke St. W., was educated at Wellington School, and prior to enlisting was employed for a short time at the N.D.G. Branch of the "Y" and also with the Canadian Power Boat Company.

"How much do you want for that big dog" asked the prospective dog owner.

"Five dollars, sir," replied the dealer.

"How much for that small fellow over there then?"

"Ten dollars."

"And for that very tiny one?"

"Fifteen dollars."

The customer looked puzzled.

"Then how much will it cost me if I don't buy a dog at all?" he asked.

It is not in the best interests of education to have appointed school boards—they should be elected democratically by the citizens whom they will serve. The home and school association executive is an excellent training ground for future school board members, said Mr. Phillips. The requirements for an ideal school board member are: 1. Broad vision; 2. Experience; 3. Wisdom;

4. Courage and 5. Judgement.

Where there is poor home environment there should be good school environment, Mr. Phillips told his audience. A great need exists for better school buildings in the poorer districts of Montreal, where most unsanitary and poorly lighted buildings are being used to house elementary pupils.

The speaker concluded by stating that in his opinion the world of the future belongs to the educated races, and he cited Russia as an example of the progress made under an intensive educational program.

Mrs. F. R. Hannen, president, was in the chair and called to the members' attention the fact that the school yard had been repaired during the summer. Miss Dorothea Pickel, headmistress of Rosedale School reported on the books and periodicals purchased for the school library with the $133, which had been donated by the Association last season. Mrs. C. B. Henders reported that her study group committee had already had one meeting and that their present subject is parent education, under the leadership of Mrs. T. B. Hughes, well-known authority on parent-child relationships. Refreshments were served in the library by Mrs Douglas Jones and her committee.

"Far Above and Beyond the Call of Duty"

"Leading his men across a river under heavy enemy fire to establish a vital bridgehead, this officer was wounded in the head and twice in the leg. He refused medical attention and for five hours commanded his men with the greatest coolness and courage, saving one section under intense fire by crawling to their position and throwing smoke grenades. His confidence and skill in holding the bridgehead will forever be an inspiration to the entire Canadian Army."

"CITATION FOR GALLANTRY"

Gaining and holding a vital bridgehead in the face of overwhelming odds—refusing medical aid so that he might inspire his men should they falter—risking his own life so that they might be saved.

"Yes," you may say. "I've read about men like that. They are heroes. Their action goes far above and beyond the call of duty." Fighting men don't think it so . . .

When they win decorations . . . or their widows receive them . . . it is for deeds so unselfish—so courageous they stand out sharply in action where every man is a hero.

We at home can't match such sacrifice and courage. We can't match the gallantry that wins decorations. But we can show our fighting men we would like to match them. We can buy more bonds than before.

War is no time for small men and little deeds. Regular bond buying is not enough. That is our duty. You and I must go "above and beyond the call of duty."

ST. JAMES LITERARY SOCIETY

THE program of the St. James Literary Society is always of interest to local residents, for not only are many of the members residents of this district, but the list of speakers usually includes several local names. This season's program, as announced by Secretary Fred C. Newman, is well up to the standard of recent years. B. H. Higgins discussed "The Doctrine of Economic Causation of War" at Tuesday night's meeting, while next Tuesday, Dr. Bela Eisner will talk on the situation of new Canadians. Dr. Eisner, some months ago, undertook an investigation, on behalf of the Dominion government, of the position of Canadians of foreign origin. Hon. Justice E. Fabre Surveyer will speak on "A Corner of Old Quebec" at the October 24 meeting, while the following week, R. W. Boyle, F.R.S.C., will lecture on "Science in the Brave New World." To speak later are Prof. Henry Alexander, Maysie S. MacSporran, Robert A. Speirs, Hon. J. Arthur Mathewson, L. T. Bird, Leslie Roberts, H. L. Pritchard, Neil Morrison of the C.B.C., Reverend Angus Cameron, James B. Thomson, Dr. C. P. Martin, Harold Lande, and Rev. Father Martin P. Reid.

SYNTHETIC RUBBER'S COST

THAT synthetic rubber produced in Canada will be competitive in price with natural rubber, is the hope expressed by Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Munitions and Supply, in a recent statement concerning production in the government plant at Sarnia, Ontario.

The cost of the rubber produced in this plant is estimated at 40c a pound, compared with a price of about 41c a pound for imported synthetic rubber. In a matter of weeks, said Mr. Howe, it was expected to get the Canadian price down to about 20c a pound, and eventually to perhaps 16c, at which level it could compete freely with natural rubber.

The Minister admitted that none of the undertakings supervised by his branch of government had given him more initial worry than this. It was a rush job which had to be undertaken when the rubber stockpile was dwindling and when there seemed little hope of replenishing it. There was the prospect of disaster if the synthetic rubber project did not turn out well.

The plant, however, was now completed and getting close to full operation. And there had been no "serious disappointments" in spite of the limited engineering knowledge available on the construction of such a plant. The project had been rushed to completion, and the cost would be within 10 per cent of the estimated figure. The product was "first class" and the Canadian plant was the first on the continent to be wholly integrated for the preparation of the materials required and the actual processing. The result was that the price of the product was kept down. Canadian prices compared favorably with those for a similar product in the United States. "I think," said the Minister, "we have a splendid industry."

The Minister stated that about 50 per cent of the alcohol produced in Canadian distilleries had been exported to the United States for the manufacture of butadiene, required in the manufacture of synthetic rubber, and that Canada was making her rubber from butadiene based on petroleum. In his opinion it cost about three and a third times more to make butadiene from wheat than from petroleum, alcohol from wheat costing about 90c a gallon and from petroleum about 20c.

Great strides have been made in the manufacture of synthetic rubber tires, and the Minister was of the opinion that such tires could be guaranteed as being 80 per cent as good as those made from crude rubber, this being particularly true in connection with the tires used on passenger cars.—Canadian Finance.

VOTING AGAINST THEM ALL

AT LEAST every four years the newspapers remind us that it is every citizen's duty to vote. Why? Oh, because democracy is a precious privilege and we must use it. But it also is a privilege not to vote. Sometimes we like to exercise the privilege of voting against both candidates, writes William Feather.

When a real choice is offered — once in a great while — the vote is tremendous, and the rascals are defeated. But when both candidates for an office are equally bad, or equally good, why is it the obligation of anyone to vote? Why not vote our indifference, as we do by staying away from the polls?

The old "get out the vote" editorial, rewritten a million times, occasionally fills us with a great weariness. To us, it is questionable that every man must register a choice when there is no choice. It's just as logical to say that everyone has an obligation to listen to his radio. Sometimes we try half a dozen stations in search of a program that interests us. And we tune 'em all out.

HOW TO BUILD BUSINESS

IN 1923 Deac Martin of Cleveland paid $35 for a guitar made by C. F. Martin (Co., Inc., Nazareth, Pa., established in 1833.

In 1933 the neck loosened, so Martin (no relation) sent the instrument back to the maker for repair. It was promptly fixed and returned, express prepaid, no charge.

Last month the bridge of the guitar loosened slightly. Again it was sent to the factory and again restored and returned express prepaid, no charge.

This more-than-a-century-old manufacturer has old-fashioned ideas. An official wrote Martin that the transaction was handled "strictly in accordance with regular policy and practice."

The incident is an example of good public relations, seldom encountered in these days of exact cost-accounting.

THE FORUM

Conducted by HOWARD S. ROSS, K.C., D.C.L.

In Which Subjects of General Interest Are Discussed

The opinions expressed in this Forum are not necessarily those of this newspaper, and it does not accept responsibility for them.

The influence of the Big Three powers can only be conjectured, but the most important influence will be Soviet Russia. There are two simple realities involved: In Europe, Russia is close at hand, while the U.S. is thousands of miles away; and the military power of Russia on the European continent is greater than that of the United States and England combined. Russia's aims are clear on one point: she will do everything to avoid again being a sacrifice to German aggression. This means that she will never permit the re-establishment in Germany of a social structure whose dominant element is monopoly capital. What the Russians oppose is clear; what they favor is a far more complicated question.

On the basis of this diagnosis, it is safe to assume that we must prepare for sharp conflict and a left trend in Europe. Americans, enjoying relative social stability, may find it hard to understand the alternatives in Europe. But they are plain: after the collapse of Hitler Germany the choice will be, not between more conservative and more liberal governments, but between reactionaries with one foot in fascism and a democracy with socialist content.

On the whole, American policy has been oriented toward reactionary forces in Europe, in the hope, apparently, of defeating Hitler and at the same time avoiding social change. If U.S. policy remains as it is, it will find the gap between Americans and Europeans even greater after the fall of Hitler.—Dr. Fritz Sternberg in "Common Sense" magazine.

In 1932 Sternberg wrote a prophetic book entitled "The Decline of German Capitalism." Its second edition appeared two weeks before Hitler came to power. Shortly thereafter Dr. Sternberg fled Germany. In 1938 he wrote "Germany and the Lightning War," published in London (Faber and Faber), in which he predicted much of what happened a year later. His major work is "Imperialism," published in Germany in 1926. Since May 1939 he has lived in the United States.

Projects involving $40,000,000—work to be started immediately after the war—have been approved by Co-operative Wholesale Society, Manchester, England. The Society is owned by 1,200 co-operatives which operate some 12,000 shops in Britain.

One of these projects is a co-operative mail order service. A "bazaar trading" program, similar to Woolworth and similar chains is another of the proposals which have been decided upon. In the field of meat, where the co-ops (of England) do a business of $104,000,000 annually, or about 15% of the total trade, the Society will establish decentralized abattoirs, processing and freezing plants.

The weakness of our present is again shown, by the fact that so called free enterprisers object to the co-operative movement. At first they claimed it would not work and that workers were not capable of carrying on even a small business. Now they admit by their actions that it works too well and is beginning to threaten their profits—whatever the consumers will stand or have to stand if it is a monopoly which fixes the prices.

No one should blame a number of individuals for getting together, to carry on business for themselves. Free enterprisers as a rule profess to be individualists and to believe that if you wish to have a thing well done do it yourself. Blaming either group will not help us. Surely the answer is for the world to adopt an economic system which will be based upon abundance instead of upon artificial scarcity. What are the

The mushrooming of Canada's chemical research and production, impelled by the needs of war, will make a thrilling chapter in the history of World War II; it will be the story of an astounding job by our scientists and industry. "Canada at War", August issue, lets us get a peek behind the scenes. Starting practically at scratch in 1939, Canada "merely" completed 50 projects for explosive, chemical and shell-filling plants. Only nine of these plants were privately owned, the remainder owned by the people of Canada. The whole program entailed an expenditure of $150,000,000 on properties owned by the Dominion, excluding the $48,000,000 synthetic rubber plant. By the end of 1943 this somewhat small nation of ours contributed to victory by producing some 100,000,000 rounds of gun ammunition, grenades, mines, bombs, etc., and hundreds and hundreds of millions of small arms ammunition, and our high explosives are used on every fighting front. Some record!

The busy bee takes a hand in the war effort. We didn't think about it that way until we read an item tucked away in a Department of Agriculture bulletin. It appealed to beekeepers—to conserve every scrap of beeswax possible this coming winter. Do you know, beeswax is mixable with oils and fats, plays a pro-desperately for a leader; for someone or some faith which will lift him and give meaning to life. This is an ancient problem. Long ago the Israelites made known to Samuel their desire for a king, and he failed them. Can we see in the tragedy of Saul a clue to the only kind of leadership which can aid man in achieving his destiny? What ought we to look for in our search for a master? These are some of the questions which Mr. Goth will deal with in his sermon on Sunday evening.

BLEACHED FINISH

To get a bleached effect on furniture, get a special liquid bleach at a paint store. Follow label directions. If you wish the very white finish known as "pickled", brush on a liberal coat of white paste wood filler thinned with turpentine to the consistency of a thick paint. After fifteen minutes wipe off the filler across the grain with a coarse cloth. Allow it to dry twenty-four hours. Then smooth the surface by gently rubbing with a very fine sandpaper (000) and wipe off the dust. Finish with white shellac. For a blond finish, leave out the wood filler and finish with a coat of clear lacquer.

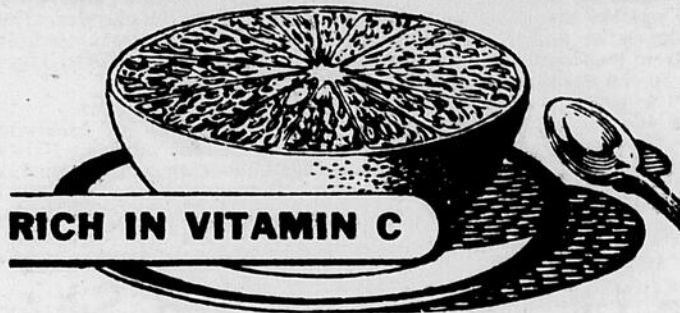

Squash and Apple Casserole

2 1/2 cups diced, cooked squash
1 1/2 cups sliced sour apples
1/2 cup brown sugar
2 strips side bacon, diced
1/2 teaspoon salt.

Arrange half the squash in greased casserole. Cover with half the apples. Sprinkle with half the sugar and add half the bacon. Repeat ingredients. Cover and bake in moderately slow oven, 325°F, for 30 minutes. Uncover and bake until apples are soft and top is browned—about 15 minutes longer. If the mixture appears dry, due to lack of juice in the apples, add 1/2 tablespoon water. Six servings.

Rabbi Abramovitz Addresses Sisterhood

A well attended opening meeting of the Shaar Zion Sisterhood was held on October 4th, at which the newly-elected president, Mrs. B. Klein, presided, and a talk was given by the Associate Rabbi of the synagogue, Rabbi Mayer Abramovitz, on the meaning and traditions of Succoths. Cantor Paul Carus, guest Cantor of the congregation, sang, with narratives by Mrs. Dave Blustein.

Plans for the bazaar, which will take place on Nov. 7th, were discussed.

Tea was served.

Muffins Are A "Must"

By MOLLIE MARTIN

WHAT makes a good cook? A good dish, of course. And almost everyone can make a claim to that distinguished title if she serves as simple a dish as sweet cherry bran muffins, chock full of the season's sweetest fruit!

Whether you pick your cherries in the orchard, or buy them at the market, they'll taste especially good in these fluffy, fresh muffins.

Try them as a special treat in warm weather menus — for breakfast, lunch, or dinner. They give variety to breadstuffs, add nutritive value to the day's requirements as well. A package of whole bran, just a few moments time — and you'll wear new laurels as queen of the kitchen. Here's a recipe that's simple and sure to earn you acclaim as an artist with muffin batter.

Sweet Cherry Muffins

- ¼ cup shortening
- ½ cup sugar
- 1 egg
- 1½ cups flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon baking powder
- ½ cup whole bran
- ¾ cup milk
- 1 cup chopped sweet cherries

Blend shortening and sugar together thoroughly. Add egg, beat well. Sift flour, salt and baking powder together; add whole bran. Add to first mixture alternately with milk. Fold in cherries. Fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full; bake in moderately hot oven (400° F.) about 25 minutes.

Yield: 12 2-inch muffins.
This is only one of countless variations on bran muffins. Here's another idea—Orange Bran Muffins with orange juice and rind to give them a distinctive and interesting flavor.

Use Of Old China And Silver Compliment To Family, Guests

We all have lovely treasures pushed back on our cupboard shelves. The cups and saucers that were Grandmother's, for example, are gathering dust because we are afraid to use them.

It does take a little more time to wash our fine pieces, but using them and seeing others enjoy them are well worth the extra minutes.

If you wash or rinse your china directly after the meal, washing will be easy. Moreover, you will do much toward preserving the luster. Be sure to have plenty of warm water, not too hot, and use only the purest soap, either flakes or powder. A soft brush for cleaning raised decorations — enamel, gold, silver or embossing — is indispensable. So are a rubber bumper for the faucet and a rubber pad for the drain board. If you cannot get either, then wrap the faucet with a soft cloth and lay several thicknesses of clean paper or cloth on the drain board.

Have ready plenty of smooth towels that do not leave lint, slightly warmed for quicker and more thorough drying. If you work out a system of washing and drying all the dishes of the same shape and size at one time, and in the order in which you plan to return them to the cupboard shelves, you will save time.

Pads of thin felt or flannel, bought by the yard and cut with your pinking shears, placed between plates and saucers, will protect the glaze and prevent chipping. Cellophane covers over the piles of dishes and the large serving pieces keep out dust and eliminate in-between washings. The cost of this equipment is negligible, and it will last for years.

Next time that you think the every-day dishes will do, get out your best things and watch the family's response.

PAINTING FURNITURE AND WOODWORK

New paint, enamel, or varnish must be applied on a clean, smooth surface. If it's a repaint job, remove the old finish by sandpaper or paint remover. Where paint or enamel has chipped, be sure all loose paint is sandpapered off, and the area to be painted is roughened with sandpaper, so as to give the new paint a good grip. Remember that paint and varnish should be applied in thin, smooth coats. When using enamel on a kitchen cabinet, for example, you should first apply an undercoat recommended by the manufacturer of the enamel.

The attitude of some of the exiled governments reminds one of the old game of grab bag.—Niagara Falls Review.

PEPPER SQUASH VARIATIONS GIVE AUTUMNAL TOUCH

It seems almost a desecration of the tender young vegetables of early summers, asparagus, peas and the rest to serve them otherwise than "au naturel." But the more robust vegetables of fall — cauliflower, squash, egg plant, good as they are by themselves, lend themselves to all sorts of dressing up and combinations with other foods.

Here are some combinations that took high honour in their rigid tests by the Consumer Section of the Dominion Department of Agriculture.

First come variations on the squash theme. Using 3 small acorn or pepper squash, wash them, cut in half lengthwise and remove seeds and pithy portions. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Lay, cut side down, in a greased baking pan and bake in a moderately hot oven, 375 deg. F., for about 30 minutes. This step is preliminary to each of the following variations.

Variation I

- 2 tablespoons butter
- 2 tablespoons brown sugar
- 2 medium onions
- 6 strips of bacon
- 1 20-oz. tin of peas.

Dot each half with butter and sprinkle with brown sugar. Cut bacon into small pieces and fry. Slice onion and saute until clear. Drain peas. Fill six squash halves with peas, top with bacon and onion rings. Return to 375 deg. F. oven for 15 minutes. Serve with garnish of parsley. Six servings.

Variation II

Scoop out the pulp, leaving ¼-inch shell. Mash and to two cups of squash add:

- 2 tablespoons butter
- 2 teaspoons brown sugar
- Salt to taste
- ¼ teaspoon ground ginger
- 2 tablespoons raisins

Refill shells with this mixture and return to 375 deg. F. oven for 10 minutes. Sprinkle with chopped parsley. Six servings.

Variation III

- 2 cups spinach or mixture of cooked vegetables
- ½ cup medium cream sauce
- 3 hard cooked eggs
- Paprika

Combine spinach and cream sauce, heat and fill squash halves. Garnish with hard-cooked egg slices and paprika. Six servings.

Variation IV

Scoop out pulp, leaving ¼-inch shell. Mash and to 2 cups of squash add:

- ¼ teaspoon paprika
- ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1 tablespoon minced onion
- Salt to taste
- 2 tablespoons butter
- Few grains cayenne
- 6 tablespoons grated cheese

Refill shells and sprinkle each half with 1 tablespoon grated cheese. Return to 375 deg. F. oven and bake until cheese is lightly browned—about 10 minutes. Six servings.

Quick Cabbage Chow-Chow

- 1 medium-sized cabbage, chopped
- 2 cups small onions, chopped
- 2 green peppers, seeded and chopped

- 1 quart vinegar
- ½ pound brown sugar
- ¼ cup black mustard seed
- ¼ cup white mustard seed
- 1 teaspoon celery seed

Mix chopped vegetables with two tablespoons salt. Let stand one hour, then drain for three hours. Mix vinegar, brown sugar and seeds. Boil this mixture one minute. Add vegetables and again bring mixture to boiling. Pour into clean, sterile, hot jars and seal. Or store mixture in closely covered earthenware crocks.

The Future After Discharge — A MESSAGE TO RELATIVES OF THOSE IN THE ARMED FORCES

When your boys and your girls come home, when they lay aside the uniform, when they go out into the world as normal peace-loving Canadians, what lies ahead? Can they pick up their lives as civilians, where they laid them down, months or long years ago? Are there plans to help them do the things they wanted to do before the war? Will they have security? Can they continue education, or receive needed training? Will they be assisted in home owning, or to establish their own business, and will they be enabled to pick up their family life once again?

These are questions which concern all those Canadians who have loved ones in the services. They are questions which this series of advertisements is designed to answer.

OPPORTUNITY IS THE OBJECTIVE

Canada has been making plans for your boy's and your girl's return to civilian life since early in 1940. These plans are in effect and operating now. The aim is that every person who has served shall have opportunity. Thousands, already back in civilian life, have benefitted by training, by maintenance grants, by advice of departmental officials, and by the social security provisions. There is ample help for those men and women who want to help themselves.

ASSISTANCE ON DISCHARGE

When your boys and girls are discharged from the services, they will be given:

1. A clothing allowance of $100.00 (if discharged after August 1, 1944).
2. Their pay to date of discharge.
3. One month's additional pay, if they have 183 days' continuous service, as a rehabilitation grant.
4. A railway warrant home or to the place of enlistment.

Dependents will receive:

1. Their normal dependents' allowance to date of discharge, with assigned pay.
2. An additional month's dependents' allowance, with assigned pay, if there has been 183 days' continuous service.

Your boy or girl will be allowed to retain certain items of uniform. They will be given a complete medical and dental examination and will be eligible for free needed treatment for a year after discharge. Those discharged not physically fit, in need of continuing treatment and unable to work, will have their pay and allowances of rank continued for at least a year if necessary and, if the disability is pensionable, for as long as curative treatment is beneficial. All are interviewed by Veterans' Welfare Officers and told of the re-establishment programme.

WAR SERVICE GRATUITY

On discharge, those enlisted to serve outside Canada, or those who served in the Aleutian Islands, are eligible for a war service gratuity. It provides $7.50 for each thirty days' service in Canada and the Western Hemisphere and $15.00 for each thirty days' service overseas or in the Aleutian Islands. For those with overseas service or with service in the Aleutian Islands, there is an additional seven days' pay and allowances for each six months of such service. Payments will be made at the end of each month in the months following discharge. Complete details of the war service gratuity will be given in a later advertisement.

RE-ESTABLISHMENT CREDIT

In addition to the war service gratuity, there is a re-establishment credit of $7.50 for each thirty days' service in the Western Hemisphere and $15.00 for each thirty days' service overseas. This is for things such as the purchase or repair of a home, the buying of furniture, a business, or government life insurance, and for certain other purposes which will assist your boy or your girl in becoming re-established. This credit, which is reduced by grants given for training or education, or under the Veterans' Land Act, is primarily for those who do not wish assistance under these three plans.

RETURN TO FORMER JOBS

If your boy or girl held a civilian position before enlisting, and was not engaged to replace somebody already in the forces, and if the position still exists, and your boy or girl is capable of filling it, it is the employer's duty, under the law of Canada, to reinstate him or her in that position with seniority. Application for reinstatement must be made to the former employer within three months of discharge from the forces or from hospital.

Veterans' Welfare Officers are stationed in key centres throughout Canada. They are the friends of Ex-Service men and women. It is their duty to advise and assist all Ex-Service personnel with their re-establishment problems. If there is anything about the Rehabilitation programme which you do not understand, consult your nearest Veterans' Welfare Officer.

TRAINING AND EDUCATION

The surest way to permanent employment—the thing your boy or girl will want—is a skill to get and to hold a job. Canada's plans give opportunity to acquire needed skill either at university or in preparation for a business or industrial career. Fees are paid by the state, along with living allowances, while training or continuing education.

WHILE ILL OR UNEMPLOYED

There is protection against illness or unemployment by maintenance allowances which can be drawn against in the first eighteen months after discharge. There is also protection under the Unemployment Insurance Act for those who enter insured employment and remain in it fifteen weeks.

HOME OWNING AND FARMING

There is provision to assist city and other workers to have homes of their own, either on small acreages of land outside the high taxation area, or in town, under the National Housing Act. Full-time farmers can be given financial assistance in full-time farming, while commercial fishermen may secure financial help in getting their own homes, on small acreages of land, and in buying needed fishing equipment.

FREE TREATMENT

In the year following discharge, service men and women are eligible for free treatment, hospitalization and allowances for any condition, even if not the result of service. Pensioners are entitled to this for life for their pensioned disability.

THE POLICY ON PENSIONS

Canada's Pension Act is administered by an independent commission, all former members of the services. Any permanent disability suffered overseas, not a result of misconduct, is pensionable. Where service is in Canada only, the disability must be a result of service.

MOTHER GOOSE FULL OF WISDOM SAYS PROF. GEORGE

"Mother Goose's Rhymes, while short and to the point, run the whole gamut of emotions known to the human race, and if they had been taught to the German people, might have developed their sense of humour and thereby saved us many wars," declared Prof. A. Robert George, lecturer, Oral English, McGill University, in his address to the Montreal West Women's Club at their opening meeting held in the Town Hall yesterday afternoon. "Her wisdom is lyrical and sometimes of sheer beauty," continued the speaker, "and is adapted to the seven ages of man. The lullabys tinged with iron and instruction in the inequalities of human life are all provided for in the nursery rhymes. All dramatic values are therein and even a school of economics." In conclusion the speaker said that Mother Goose's Rhymes, if studied, provided many lessons for humanity.

Reports were given by Miss A. Hamilton, Home and School and Local Council; Mrs. O. Parsons, rec. secretary; Mrs. S. C. Lochhead, library; Mrs. Geo. Ewing Tait, Local Ration Board; Mrs. A. S. Runciman, A.N.A. House; Mrs. Geo. Agar, Study Group; Mrs. F. M. Moody, drama group, and Mrs. R. H. Kayser.

The speaker was introduced by the president, Mrs. L. H. Burket, and thanked by Mrs. Geo. Stevenson. Mr. Edgar Davies sang, accompanied by Mrs. T. V. L'Es-trange.

THEY SCORE FASHION HITS

The big increase these days in the number of women bowlers has precipitated a wide variety of smart new outfits to help make the sport even more enjoyable for the gals. Three costumes are shown above. The girl at left wears a green and sand-colored linen mechanic's suit with western nailhead-studded belt. Next is a two-piece action costume—plain, narrow-legged slacks of red spun rayon and a jacket with comfortable long sleeves and action-pleated back. The two-piece playsuit, right, is made of chintz in tangerine red palm tree design, yellow bindings. The jacket is sturdily quilted.

Before Baby's Arrival

RUTH PECK McLEOD

"You know, Mrs. Brown," said Mrs. Cates to her neighbour, "I have often wondered how you managed not to have Tommy jealous of his baby sister. He seems to love her so much that he never minds it when you pet her instead of him. Why, my sister's little boy, Mark, is so jealous of his baby brother that he gets red in the face whenever he thinks anyone is paying more attention to the baby than to him."

"It has been easy with Tommy," answered Mrs. Brown. "Before the baby came we talked to him about how fine it would be for him to have a little baby brother or sister. We pointed out how sweet other babies were. After the baby came, no one was ever allowed to suggest that he might be jealous, so only the thought of joy was associated with the arrival of the baby. As a result, he is as much devoted to our young daughter as we are."

"Perhaps a child should be accustomed to the idea of a baby brother or sister in advance," responded Mrs. Cates. "When my sister had her second child, Mark had not been prepared for his arrival. The baby was a decided shock to him. Unfortunately, too, half the people who came to see it remarked teasingly to Mark, at least in effect, 'Now you can't be the baby of the family any longer. Little Brother has taken your place.' Some of these unwise visitors even remarked, right before the child, how jealously he acted."

"It is a great pity they did that," said Mrs. Brown. "But some adults apparently derive keen enjoyment from a child's jealous attitude toward a new baby. I don't believe any little boy or girl would be jealous of a baby brother or sister if that venomous idea were not implanted by someone old enough to know better. Any suggestion of this nature should be suppressed immediately. Jealousy is one of the worst traits that can be developed in a child, for with it is developed pure selfishness. The child who is jealous, grow up to be envious of his friends, his relations, and his business associates. He looks for satisfaction only in himself; he has few altruistic motives.

"Every child instinctively loves companions and it should be natural for him to rejoice in the anticipated arrival of a baby brother or sister. A child who loves and helps to look after the new baby develops a protective attitude—consideration for the weaker individual. The child who does not rejoice in having a baby brother or sister hinders his own development to such an extent that he becomes increasingly dissatisfied and unhappy. It will be almost impossible for him ever to become a lovable adult if he continues to be so self-centered. He will never know the great happiness one derives from sacrifices made for others."

And whose fault will it be?

And So It Goes . . .

By Betty Bruce

Many years ago the late Mrs. Rose Henderson, one of the first probation officers of the Juvenile Court of Montreal, used to hold that among the juvenile delinquents who came under her care it was "the bad boy, always in mischief, who had the making of a fine man." Her theory was that it was a boy of initiative, courage, brains and imagination, who fought against the limitations of poverty. To her there were no bad boys, only good and better boys. When a boy was brought to the court for stealing apples or candy, she didn't blame the child, but the lack of proper food which made his system crave the food that would supply the needed minerals, calcium and other nutritive values.

That was a novel way of looking at child delinquency in those days, but it has since been proved a sensible way.

Plenty of playing grounds and equipment, clubs where the children can learn to use their hands in carpentry or art work, etc., singings and the hikes and handicrafts that are part of Boy Scout training have turned the energy and ingenuity of thousands of local youngsters into the channels that lead to good citizenship. A spirited child, like a spirited horse, can be turned into a winner—or an outlaw—by the kind of treatment he receives.

On one of the recent sunny days, with the trees dripping gold, four little ragamuffins who had been using up their spare time in pestering the owners of grocery shops by snooping around to see what they could see and get what they could (lawfully or unlawfully), suddenly went into a huddle, over their booty. Curiosity got the better of me, and I snooped, too, as I casually drifted past them.

The cause of the excitement was one solitary nut, one of those small round ones. None of their fingers could break it, neither could they crack it with their teeth. Eagerly they stepped on it, each in turn, but not a single one of them had on a pair of shoes solid enough to bring the right pressure to bear on the shell. All of them wore light running shoes, their toes sticking through gaping holes. When I left them they still had not cracked the nut. Crime hadn't paid.

In a better-class district I watched the children in trim gardens. A couple of little boys were drilling in imitation of soldiers. A little girl in a beautifully hand-knitted jade green sweater and smart skirt, was tidily making mud pies. In a small patch of lawn two boys of ten or so were engaged in manoeuvring home-made boats, about a foot and a half long, made of a shaped piece of plank, funnels of small sections of broom handle or some such thing, and dekhouses of wood from other bits of planking, while a deck rail of nails and string ran around certain sections. They were most satisfactory boats, if you had enough imagination, and their captains were not just fooling around with them. They were sailing them to a purpose, some deep and intricate course that would outwit an enemy battle fleet, invisible to a passerby, but evidently, from the excitement in their voices, quite plain to the garden admirals. On another lawn little girls played house like perfect ladies, while a kitten chased leaves and a handsome dog lay nose on paws.

The ragamuffins and the well-kept kiddies were all fine, active Canadian children, but I know which I'd bet on for straying into the juvenile court. And, as a speaker at a club pertinently enquired last week, when preventable misfortune overtakes a youngster, whose fault is it?

Housewives Feel Better If There's Cake On Hand

Old-fashioned jelly roll with whipped cream and jelly cubes

Canadians are cake-eaters. When there's a first-class cake in the house, the average housewife feels happier about her menu problems. If she considers the nutrients in her cake recipes and uses them as part of her daily nutrition total, cake can be included in the economy budget.

Old-Fashioned Jelly Roll.

Three-fourths cup sifted cake flour, 3/4 teaspoon combination baking powder, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 4 eggs, unbeaten; 3/4 cup sifted sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup jelly (any flavor).

Sift flour once; measure. Combine baking powder, salt, and eggs in bowl. Place over smaller bowl of hot water and beat with rotary egg beater, adding sugar gradually until mixture becomes thick and light-colored. Remove bowl from hot water. Fold in flour and vanilla. Turn into 15x10-inch pan which has been greased, lined with paper to within 1/4 in. of the edge, and again greased. Bake in hot oven (400 deg. F.) 13 minutes. Quickly cut off crisp edges of cake. Turn out on cloth covered with powdered sugar; remove paper. Spread with jelly and roll. Wrap in cloth and cool on rack. Cover with whipped cream, if desired, and garnish with cubes of home-made jelly.

Rev. H. Mortimer Named To Parish In Peace River

On Wednesday next, the Rev. Hugh A. Mortimer will be commissioned at the Church of St. James the Apostle to serve under the Fellowship of the West in the north Peace River parish with headquarters at Fort St. John, B.C. The commissioning service will be held following the annual meeting of the Fellowship on October 18th, in the Allan Shatford Hall of the Church of St. James the Apostle.

Mr. Mortimer, who is well known in this community as he served for two years at curate of St. Matthias' Church, and for a year as assistant at Trinity Memorial Church, was recently appointed to this post in succession to the Rev. Selwyn Willis, also a former resident of this community. Mr. Willis has been at Fort St. John for the past four years during which there has been a great deal of activity due to the construction of the Alaskan Highway.

Mr. Willis who will shortly return to Montreal, emphasizes the importance of keeping at full strength the ministrations of the church in this area. Great pleasure has been expressed in local church circles that the Rev. Hugh Mortimer has accepted this important charge.

Mr. Mortimer is a native of Mount Royal, which he left in 1935 to take his training at the University of Bishop's College, Lennoxville. After his graduation in arts and theology in 1940, he was ordained deacon by the Bishop of Montreal and appointed Curate at St. Matthias' Church. After serving there for two years, he was made a priest in 1942 and later appointed Assistant at Trinity Memorial Church. Last year, he was made priest-in-charge of St. Thomas' Church, Montreal. He has also served as president of the Fellowship of the West for two years.

At the annual meeting of the Fellowship of the West preceding Mr. Mortimer's commissioning, an address will be given by one of his former professors who is also one of the pioneer priests and a charter member of the Fellowship, the Rev. Professor Elton Scott.

When a group of young Montreal clergymen and laymen decided a few years ago to provide church ministrations for isolated settlers in northwest Canada, Professor Scott was one of the first to volunteer for this work. It seemed appropriate to the executive that he should deliver the address at the send-off for his former pupil, the Rev. Hugh Mortimer. Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer will leave shortly after the annual meeting for their new home in Fort St. John.

- 1 lemon
- 1 orange
- 1/2 cup walnuts

Soak the apricots overnight in the cold water. Then add lemon juice and the whole orange chopped. Let all simmer 1 1/2 hours. Add nuts 15 minutes before it is thick as marmalade, that is, until it drips from the spoon in round fat drops.

Paris Captivates American Writer

Falling in love with Paris at first sight—a coup de feu, it was—in no way dimmed the energy and the care with which on the day of my arrival I began to put into operation the cautious and laborious Plan for self-support I had brought along. It rather intensified it. As I must begin at the bottom to build up contacts with strangers on the other side of the ocean, and there was but $150 in my pocket, there was no time to waste. . . .

I was a stranger seeking information—an American journalist, a student, so I told them. But what kind of a person was I? What was there in me they could tie to, depend upon?

Obviously I was not rich. . . . There are other things by which the French label you, a woman particularly—charm, beauty, chic, l'esprit, seriousness, capacity to work, intelligence, bonté. Those with whom I had dealings for any length of time hit perfectly on my chief asset. I was a worker. A "femme travailleuse," they said to one another, and if they passed me to an acquaintance that was the recommendation. No people believe more than the French in the value and dignity of hard work. I was treated with respect because of my working quality. . . .

My manner of living, the contacts and circumstances attending the gathering of my material for my newspaper articles brought me for the first time in my life into daily relations with that greatest segment of every country's population—those whom we call the poor, and of whom if we are well-to-do or if we are rich we are so curiously unconscious. I had belonged all my conscious life to the well-to-do, those who spent a dollar without seriously weighing it. . . . I had the American notion that the chief economic duty of the poor was to become well-to-do. The laborer, the clerk, the man who worked for others should save his money, put it into the business, or start out for himself, no matter how hard, how meager the return. Dignity and success lay in being your own master. . . .

But in the society where I found myself in Paris, there was no such contempt for the fixed job. On the contrary, it was something for which you were responsible, to which you owed an obligation. Serious workers in Paris seemed to give to the job the same kind of loyalty that serious men and women in America gave to the businesses they owned. You respected yourself and were respected in proportion to your fidelity to it. . . . To my surprise I found these, people, working so busily and constantly, were not restless. . . . nor were they generally envious. I had a feeling that my concierge, who never had been across the Seine to the Right Bank, who lived in a room almost filled by her huge bed and its great feather puffs, who must have looked long at a sou before she spent it, would not have changed places with anybody in Paris. Were not the lodgers on whom she kept so strict a watch kind, generous, and regular with fees? Had she not friends in the street? . . . And who had so magnificent a cat? The pride of the House. What more could she ask—From "All in the Day's Work," by Ida M. Tarbell. (New York: Macmillan.)

Acting as a go-between, The Salvation Army officer often gives comfort to the mother of a man serving his time in prison. He offers her advice, prays with her, brings messages from her to her son, and does countless small things to relieve her heartsickness.

A remark overheard at the end of a performance of "Twelfth Night" was, "I enjoyed that play. I must read the book."—Manchester Guardian.

 principal barriers which prevent the abundance to flow through to people everywhere? There is fortunately a growing belief that the barriers are: rent of land, rent of money and the profit incentive. When such a system is adopted our economic conflict will cease and wars will end but it will not be until thorough education shows the world that there is no need of sacrificing because no one will then be at a disadvantage and there will be equal opportunity for all. It will then be so easy for everyone (willing to do their share of the work of the world) to be honest and exploitation (now inevitable) nothing but an unpleasant memory.

 The Canadian Army is being quick to act against a rising incidence of the T.B. rate, and a survey of a 5,000 man "test group," selected from every military district in Canada, is being made. There has been a gradual increase in pulmonary tuberculosis in the army overseas, higher than among active troops in Canada. Only five cases were returned to Canada up to July, 1941. An officer of the Army Medical Service headquarters said: "Because of bombing damage to hospitals, bombing casualties and subordination of civilian interests to the war effort in Britain, the T.B. rate rose, and unavoidable exposure of the Canadian troops, through contact with civilians, led to increased incidence in our army." This survey should catch many cases in their early stages, provide information for counter-measures. Our medical men are on the job.

of his address, "The Men who Subsidise you." Mr. Kennedy, it is expected, will deal with post-war agricultural problems, upon which he is thoroughly qualified to speak as editor of one of the foremost farming newspapers in the North American Continent. Mr. Kennedy has travelled widely in rural Canada, and spent four months last year in Great Britain studying agricultural war organization and production in the mother country.

Ernest Rinfret, president for the coming year, will welcome the guests and introduce the speaker.

Worth Keeping Up

The agricultural fair in Canada has been a great factor in social and economic progress. After the war it may be a bigger and better influence than ever before. Horse Damages Car In Collision

A horse and an automobile tried conclusions on Sherbrooke Street this week, with the automobile coming off second best.

The animal was in the care of Adrien Gingras, 29, of 7551 Edward Street, Ville LaSalle, driving a wagon for the City Ice Company, of 4093 St. Catherine Street. From some cause or other the horse took fright and bolted, despite the driver's frantic efforts to hold it. Dragging the wagon behind it as if it were a go-cart, the horse bore down on an automobile, belonging to Sam Blumberg of 5169 Sherbrooke Street, and parked opposite 5165 Sherbrooke. The whiffle tree of the wagon was broken and the motor car was damaged in the rear and on the right side.

At The Monkland

If your funnybone could stand a bit of rib-tickling the place to go is the Monkland Theatre where M-G-M's movie version of the humorous side of Army life, "See Here, Private Hargrove," is playing. Robert Walker, who made his movie debut to immediate acclaim in "Bataan" and later appeared in "Madame Curie," appears as Private Hargrove. Keenan Wynn plays his buddy, Private Mulvehill.

When Hargrove, a reporter on the Charlotte News, is drafted he quickly learns he is not adaptable to Army ways. His buddies, played by Keenan Wynn, George Offerman, Jr., and "Bill" Phillips, do their best to help him, but Hargrove finds himself spending most of his time polishing garbage cans. Things change when Mulvehill, whose eye is quick to detect the means of making an extra dollar, sells Hargrove a date with Donna Reed, although Donna knows nothing of it.

Despite Donna's response to Hargrove's introduction, they fall in love and Hargrove turns over a new leaf. As a result of this improvement he is made an acting corporal but mistakenly delivers his squad to the enemy during maneuvers. Meanwhile, he has been writing a series of articles for the Charlotte News, which he believes can be made into a good book. He journeys to New York to sell the book and to see Donna. His trip is successful on both counts. On his return, Mulvehill figures out an angle to be transferred to a desk job on Public Relations. But when he and Hargrove learn their squad is to be sent overseas they manage to be transferred back in time to rejoin their comrades.

Robert Walker is outstanding as the hapless rookie, whose fumbling finally turns into good soldiering, and Donna Reed is delightful as his romantic interest.

in as wonderful a musical as these eyes have seen in many a moon.

In brief, this beauty-filled, song-crammed, laugh-packed Technicolor extravaganza is heart-lifting entertainment at its peak; more welcome now than a trunkful of red points.

There is, of course, more to "Pin Up Girl" than the nation's No. 1 pin-up girl herself, singing, dancing and being entrancing as only she can. There are, too: John Harvey to give female hearts a "jeep" ride; dynamic Martha Raye teamed with hilarious Joe E. Brown; roly-poly Eugene Pallette; the breath-taking Skating Vanities and the incredible Condos Brothers.

John Harvey, as Betty's bewitched, bothered and bewildered sailor-sweetheart; Martha Raye as the volcanic night club entertainer; Joe E. Brown as the harassed owner of the "Club Diplomat"; and Eugene Pallette as the woman-hating Chief Petty Officer all give delightfully outstanding performances. The Skating Vanities—led by dainty Gloria Nord who clearly justifies her designation as "the Sonja Henie of Roller Skates"—are seen in the spectacular "Red Robins, Bob Whites and Blue Birds" number, easily one of the most beautiful Technicolor numbers ever filmed. The high spot of the film, however, is the thrilling presentation of the military manual of arms precision routine—performed by squadrons of beauties under Betty's leadership—in tribute to our women in all the armed services.

NEWS OF THE THEATRE WORLD

At York Theatre

With a good deal of artistic acumen, the Warner Bros. have taken a popular novel and transformed it into an exciting and absorbing film, well able to hold its own in any comparison with its literary predecessor. Adapted from a well-known Eric Ambler adventure story, it's called "The Mask of Dimitrios" and it opened last night at the York United Theatre, starring Sydney Greenstreet, Zachary Scott, Faye Emerson, Peter Lorre and Victor Francen. Considering the general excellence of cast, production and story, it's a safe guess that the film will be playing to capacity audiences for the balance of its run.

With but few changes (all minor and necessitated by the transformation from written word to visual image), the story is essentially the same suspenseful tale of espionage and international intrigue originally set down by Mr. Ambler in his "Coffin for Dimitrios." Against a background which spans two decades and covers an area comprising most of pre-war Europe, the film traces the unsavory career of as remarkable a villain as has ever walked across a screen—handsome, suave Dimitrios Makropoulos (Zachary Scott) by name—by profession, a murderer, robber and spy.

Dimitrios' story begins where most stories ordinarily end—with his death. Because that death was as violent as any of the worst crimes in his life, it excites the imagination of an affable Dutch writer of mystery stories, Cornelius Latimer Leyden (Peter Lorre), who determines to retrace Dimitrios' sordid career in the hope of solving the mystery of his murder.

Leyden's search very nearly costs him his own life when his path is crossed by the fat and sinister Englishman Peters (Sydney Greenstreet), who has reasons of his own for delving into Dimitrios' past. And when the two men are suddenly faced with an ironic twist of circumstances at the end of their search, the new species of spine-chiller originally introduced with "The Maltese Falcon" gains another title for its honor roll.

An unusually fine cast contributes much to the film's enjoyment. Zachary Scott, in his first film role, acquits himself admirably as Dimitrios, leaving no doubt about the forcefulness of his personality nor about his acting ability. His characterization of the arch-villain, hateful though it is, nevertheless is extremely credible. Peter Lorre, temporarily forsaking the murderous villainy on which his reputation was built, shines with a new light of humor and warmth in the role of the meek little Dutch mystery writer.

As Peters the Englishman, Sydney Greenstreet is on familiar ground, artfully combining an unctious holiness with suave malice. Faye Emerson contributes a touching performance as Irana, one-time sweetheart of Dimitrios, a disillusioned girl who waited in vain for his return.

At The Snowdon

The motion-picture version of Irving Berlin's great soldier-musical film, "This Is the Army" photographed in breath-taking Technicolor, will commence a week's engagement at the Snowdon Theatre, this coming Saturday. The entire company of 350 soldiers, who appeared in the Broadway opening and long engagement, and during its cross-country tour, appear here with the soldiers in their original roles in the picture, which includes the entire stage production of "This Is the Army" as well as additional material from Irving Berlin's World War I soldier show entitled, "Yip, Yip Yaphank". Irving Berlin makes his picture debut in the film, singing his famed "Oh, How I Hate To Get Up In the Morning" as he did in the stage version.

Also included in the cast, for purposes of a slight story content, are George Murphy, Joan Leslie, Lt. Ronald Reagan, Alan Hale, George Tobias, Charles Butterworth, Una Merkel, and Sgt. Joe Louis. In addition, it is in "This Is the Army" that Kate Smith makes her first screen appearance in ten years, and Francis Langford and Gertrude Niesen sing new Berlin Songs, be-

WESTMOUNT HIGH LIGHTS

By GEORGE COCHRANE

Don't look so glum, I know that this is Friday, 13th, and that we play the strong Loyola aggregation out at the college grounds, this aft. But take heed to these words:

The Loyolians emerged on the wrong end of an 11-1 score on Thanksgiving Day, when they met Chesley's West Hillians. That means that Shaughnessy's boys have had only four days to recover from the battering that the hefty W.H.H.S. machine handed out to them on Monday.

That means that when the red and green sweated boys trot out on the field this aft. not a few of them will be nursing bruises, charley horses and other ailments common to gridiron warriors.

On the other hand, the Smith men, full of pep, vim and vigour after their 21-13 victory over Montreal last Saturday, are in top shape for this afternoon's contest.

So stop feeling sad, Westmount fans, and remember this afternoon's game starts at 3.30.

EMULATE EMO

From the Westmount fan who was operating the Molson Stadium scoreboard to the most insignificant H section sifter, all that could be heard last Saturday after Westmount had walloped Charlie Barbour's University street boys to the sweet tune of 21-13, was praise of Harold "Bud" Emo.

For Mr. Emo, in the starting line for the first time this season because the maroon and white board of strategy decided to put Eric Swaine back on the line, came through with two touchdowns. But the pair of five-pointers were really earned by No. 17, for the way Westmount's "surprise package" plunged and tore around right end was a delight to behold.

But the whole team played well on Saturday. Bruce Marshall, Kyle "Killer" Prescott, hooper Joe Eveleigh and quarterback Chuck McCrae earned special plaudits.

McCrae plunged over for touchdown number three while captain Prescott climaxed a good day's work by intercepting a forward and trotting over the pay-off line in the dying moments of the game.

It was a day to remember. Irony: Charles Brown, M.H.S.'s outside who snared a pass and rolled over the line for the blue and white's first touch went to Westmount schools until two years ago.

He lives on Grey Avenue, and attended the junior high until the no non-residents ban went into effect.

Hi-Y

Both the boys' and the girls' clubs swung back into action this week with Inger Jorgensen's girls meeting at the school on Wednesday, and the boys holding a supper session at the Y last night.

Biggest news on the Hi-Y front for some time is the announcement that the Y is going to take over the management of the Friday night parties that were a popular weekly feature of Hi-Y life last year.

According to new boys' work secretary Bill Kinrade, each member of the Friday night club must, if he is not already a full-fledged member of the Y, take out a social membership. In addition to this, the members will have to shell out at the door each Friday.

A committee, which secretary Bill hopes will be composed mostly of high school pupils, is scheduled to hold its first meeting today or to-morrow, and it is planned to hold the first Friday night party of the 1944-45 season in the Y's gym a week from today.

That's October 20, the night of the first joint Hi-Y meeting of the current season. For the first night all members of the two Hi-Y clubs will be admitted without having to take out a Y social membership.

The boys' Hi-Y club's first dance will be held in the senior high school's gym on Friday, November 3. Starting time: nine o'clock.

That's definite. Permission to use the gym has been granted, and a band featuring Walter Merrill on the drums, will supply the music. Arrangements are in the hands of vice-president Charles McCrae.

GRADUATION EXERCISES

Invitations to attend the graduation exercises and graduation dance, to be held this year in Victoria Hall on November 17, were received by members of the graduating class last week. The purpose in holding the affair at Vic Hall is to permit all who are interested to attend. In past years, due to the size of the junior high school auditorium, where the exercises were formerly held, many friends and relatives of graduates had to be turned away because of lack of space.

This year's valedictory will be given by 16-year-old Brian Mac-

Tennis Prizes To Be Presented Here On Monday

The ladies' singles and men's doubles' tournaments were completed at the municipal tennis courts during the past week with Kay Clifford winning the former title over Mrs. Bogart, while the Sid Quinton—Alex. Forsythe duo accounted for the doubles championship by defeating Dave Schwartz and A. Manson in five sets.

The tennis season will be brought to a conclusion this Monday night, October 16th, at the Victoria Hall, when the prizes won during the season will be presented. The presentation will also take the form of a social

At deadline time no band had been signed on to play at the graduation.

Michael John Robert Uniacke Penrose Fitzgerald, who was in 11ba last year, and who is now out in Victoria, B.C., at naval college, has let it be known that he'd like to hear from some of his old cronies. His address is: Michael Fitzgerald, H.M.C.S. Royal Roads, Victoria, B.C. . . Yvonne Bosanquet is at present studying in a convent in England. Yvonne, after spending three years in Canada, returned to the old country this spring. . . Kyle Prescott's publicity committee has composed a little lyric which they hope W. H. S. girls will sing whenever the football team's captain passes by. The words, which are sung to the same tune as "You Should Go to Westmount," are these: "You Should Play With Prescott, He's the Boy for You." . . Elementary school football gets underway at King George Park on Monday, when King's and Queen's clash. . . Len Beaton, treasurer of the local boys' Hi-Y club, was elected secretary of the Grand Chapter at the annual conference held at Ile Perrot last Thursday and Friday. Other Westmounters at the conference: John Pepper, Donald Harvie and Peter Scott. . . Representatives of the various school organizations met Wednesday to allot specific posts to their already elected executives and to choose their faculty advisers. . . A week today the football team will meet West Hill again in a single game at Molson Stadium. Argos, Panthers And Greyhounds Win First Games

The Argos, Panthers and Greyhounds all won their opening games in the pee wee section of the Westmount Municipal Six Man Rugby League. The Ken Black—Phil Martin Argos' aggregation outclassed Billie Leslie's Yanks and won out to a tune of 39-0, Ross Gillingham's Panthers shut out Brian Gallery's Westerns 10-0, while Marvin Greenbaum's Greyhounds won a defaulted game from the Wildcats.

Phil Martin and Ted Budzen were the big guns in the Argos 39-0 win over the Yanks, Martin tallied 22 points and Budzen 12, the other score resulting when Marty Kay crossed the Yanks' line for a touchdown.

Mike Barnard provided all the scoring power for the Panthers evening with entertainment, dancing and refreshments being provided. All those interested in going to this event are asked to contact either Dave Schwartz, Sid Quinton or the recreation supervisor, Jim McCormick.

in their 10-0 win over the Westerns, Barnard crossed the loser's lines for a major score in each half of the game. In the first half he recovered a blocked kick and sprinted over for a major score, while in the last half of the game he gathered in a 20 yard forward thrown by Billie Boon and travelled another 30 yards to the Westerns' goal-line.

The pee wee games are billed for to-morrow morning at King George Park, with the Westerns playing the Wildcats in a game slated to start at 9.30 a.m., while the Yanks and Greyhounds meet at 10.15 a.m. Another twin bill is scheduled for Wednesday, October 18th, the Wildcats and Panthers play at 4 p.m., and the Argos and Greyhounds at 4.45 p.m.

An Early Strategist

He was the sort of fellow who must brag.

"One of my ancestors," he was saying, "won a battle against the Normans by skilful use of his artillery."

"Don't be silly!" retorted his bored companion. "Gunpowder wasn't known then."

"I'm well aware of that, and so was my ancestor."

"Then how did he win the battle?"

"He aimed the artillery at the Normans, and the idiots, seeing the guns, thought gunpowder had been invented. So they hopped it!"

Tornados Beat Typhoons In Bantam Rugby

Richard Lord's Tornados proved to be too much class for Pete Laffoley's Typhoons in the first game of the bantam section in the Westmount Municipal Six Man Rugby League, the Tornados winning out 17-1.

The two teams battled on fairly even terms for the first half of the game with Phil Martin's long forward to Normie Kerr accounting for the only five points of the session. Kerr came through with another five pointer soon after the second half started, when he caught a forward from Allan Turner, and then Phil Martin, a pee wee up from the Argos, threw another scoring forward, this time to Bert Kelly. All attempted converts were blocked or knocked down, and this left the score at 15-0 in favour of the Tornados. Ken Black tallied the last two points of the game when he caught Pete Laffoley behind the loser's line for a safety-touch.

The next bantam game will be played on Tuesday afternoon, October 17th, starting at 4 p.m., with the same two clubs providing the opposition.

Four Junior Hostesses — Miss Peggy French, Miss Dorothy Coldrick, Miss Florence Goode and Miss Marjorie Cornell.

The Junior Hostesses are responsible each Saturday for check-room, desk, and serving refreshments.

Westmount Branch Badminton Club got off to a good start last week at the Junior High School. James McJanet will be in charge each Wednesday night and many of last year's members are out again. Friday nights the Club will play at King's School on Western Ave. The following members have already started to limber up: Mary Van Tongeren, Gladys Morgan, Dorothy Swinden, Lillias Swinden, Betty Endersby, Joyce Collins, Marion Ford, Joan Pinder, Roslyn Follis, Robert Beal and Bill Swinden.

Camp Otoreke Revue To Open Tonight

Sport Topics

The huge crowds which have been turning out to the local school football games this autumn are no surprise to those who have been advocating Americanization of the rules. Over thirty thousand fans have watched three double-headers and three single games, to date, with more turning out each game. The school games are wide open, fast and thrilling, even the one-sided ones. Montreal schools have adopted the best of both the U. S. and Canadian games, and the result is worth watching. It is too much to expect that when the Inter-collegiate and the Big Four get operating again after the war, they will follow the example of the local high schools, for it is unlikely that Toronto's antipathy to the American game will have disappeared.

The Montreal Interscholastic Football League have taken the American game, added the Canadian rouse and kick to the deadline, and are giving football enthusiasts what they've long been waiting for. Western teams, like the Winnipeg Blue Bombers, gave us a taste of open football, learned playing the American game in the west. The fact that this open football was played in Toronto didn't change the Toronto prejudice in favour of two bucks and a kick, and Canadian senior teams have made little change in the rules the past quarter-century beyond adopting the forward pass and timidly introducing a very limited interference.

On their showing on Monday, West Hill looks like the best of the schoolboy crop. Sparked by Pete Finlay, Bill Smith, and Ken Barclay, the Red and Gray rolled up seventy-eight points in their first two games, and then took the campers in the various musical and dramatic sequences.

Sponsored by the Camp Otoreke committee, the revue is under the direction of the Misses Ruby Marshall and Hazel Whittam and the cast will be drawn from the hundreds of campers who attend this well-known playground in the Laurentians.

sole possession of first place with an eleven to one victory over Loyola on Thanksgiving Day. West Hill is really worth watching. They have a fast, obviously well-coached team that could hold its own in company faster than the schoolboy grade.

Of the other two teams in the Protestant Section, Westmount High seems to have it over Montreal High, who they defeated 21 to 13 last Saturday. These two teams fell to the "T" formation of West Hill by scores of 44 to 0, and 34 to 0, respectively.

In the Catholic Section Loyola has defeated both its rivals, Catholic High and Darcy McGee. However both these wins were close, with that over McGee somewhat lucky. The Collegians defeated C.H.S. 8 to 6, and McGee 17-15, with Ed. McCarney's accurate place kicking providing the margin of victory in both cases. McGee, although beaten by Loyola, seems to the wise birds the logical eventual winner of this section chiefly because of Frank Bruneau's outstanding forward passing. It was largely because of Bruneau's fine work that McGee defeated Westmount High 30 to 0, and Catholic High 12 to 0.

West Hill is due for plenty of argument when they meet McGee.

Eagles And Greyhound Midgets Win In Rugby

Dave Binmore's Eagles and Marvin Greenbaum's Greyhounds won the opening games in the midget section of the Westmount Municipal Six Man Rugby League, the Eagles took a 15-0 decision from the Hawks, while the Greyhounds trounced the Tigers 21-0.

The Eagles divided up their scoring equally with Andy Blair, Hugh Gorman and Dave Barnard each accounting for a major score. Blair tallied his in the first half when he gathered in a forward thrown by Dave Barnard to cross the Hawks' line for the only points of the half. In the second half, Gorman caught another pass from Barnard to make the count read 10-0, and then Barnard intercepted a pass on one of the Hawks' end-runs to speed 25 yards or so for the third touchdown of the game. All three attempted converts were unsuccessful.

The next midget section game is on Tuesday, October 17th, at 4.45 p.m., when the Hawks and Tigers meet at King George Park, while on Thursday, October 19th a doubleheader will be played at the same field, with the Hawks playing the Eagles in the first game, and the Tigers and Greyhounds hooking up in the night-cap.

JERRY-BUILT DECEPTION

Very deceitful creatures, those Nazis. Photos above show two examples of elaborate camouflage found by Allied troops somewhere in France after Germans fled. Top photo shows what's apparently the stark skeleton of a bombed building. It is a complete fake, having been carefully constructed by Germans to fool Allied airmen into passing up the area. The "ruins" conceal large underground barracks. Also built to hide subterranean quarters was the "farmhouse" in bottom photo. It was painstakingly constructed of plywood and netting, elaborately painted for realistic effect.

A new version of "Boogy-woogy Bugle Boy" is Wren Bugler Dapna Purvey of Vancouver, the only bugler in the Women's Royal Canadian Naval Service. She is stationed at H.M.C.S. Conestoga, the establishment for Probationary Wrens. Tall and blonde, she has been sounding all the calls on her bugle for several months, from "Wakey-Wakey" in the morning to "Pipe Down" at night.

MISS AMERICAS HELP MISS CANADAS

Vancouver recently held its eighth Civic Stamp Day. Assisting Miss Canada Virginia Jenks, Shirley McCaig and Betty Russell were the three hefty helpers in the above picture. The three elephants, appearing with the circus at a local theatre, and totalling 13 tons of pachydermic loveliness, toured the streets of Vancouver. Every person who purchased ten dollars' worth of War Savings Stamps or Certificates received two free tickets to the circus. During the hour and a half the elephants were doing their stuff, the young Miss Canada girls sold $750 worth of War Savings Stamps. The three four-legged beauties, Julia, Jenny and Lena, have sold about $1,500,000 worth of War Bonds in the United States.

KID SALVAGE

'CAREFUL THERE, PAL'

Maybe the fox terrier in the photo above once had a sad experience with snapping turtles. At any rate, the way he's yanking the ear of his big boxer pal, it looks as if he's trying to warn him that turtles can nip canine noses. The turtle? He screams. The encounter took place at recent party at New York Children's Aid Society.
