

HUNTINGDON FAIR OPENS TOMORROW MORNING

Tomorrow night (Thursday) the Huntingdon Fair will be officially opened. However earlier in the day judging in various departments will be going on so that many of the awards will be seen by patrons in the evening.

The route of the Parade will be, muster at Huntingdon High School, then move off along King Street, Bouchette Street, Chateauguay to the bridge, over this along Henderson Street to the Fair Grounds. On arrival at the Fair Grounds, the parade will enter the arena where judging of the floats will take place. Presentation of the prizes will follow and the Ormstown Band will give a concert with the Majorettes and Moppets doing a routine performance. The evening will continue with events of the Horse Show.

Friday will bring a further round of judging cattle and other departments during the morning and afternoon. At 1 p.m. the Tractor Rodeo will be held which should provide an event of interest for all. In the evening a cattle parade will be held and the first of the Tug of War contest. More Horse Show events will round out the evening.

Saturday will be another full day with 4-H Club shows of judging contests and showmanship classes. At 1 p.m. the Pet Show will be held in the arena and this will be something for the boys and girls to get a kick out of. In the evening the Stars of Notre Dame Majorettes will give a performance of routines which should be a real good show. Finals of the Tug of War will be held events of the Horse Show and a closing dance.

Entries have come in well for the various classes and the horses have a large entry. According to the program there are 153 entries for the Horse Show classes. Secretary Tom Brooks says that entries are even better than last year and entries in some classes will be coming in right up until tonight (Wednesday). It is possible the number may exceed previous years.

Be sure to see Kermit Saxton and his oxen and covered wagon. Don't forget the drawing for the pony on September 3rd. Tickets are on sale now and during the Fair.

A good number of entries have been received for the Tractor Rodeo and this event should attract a lot of attention. It mainly teaches safety to be used in handling a tractor and attaching implements. An obstacle course is run in order to test driving and handling the tractor. This is on Friday at 1 p.m.

A full midway will be on hand to provide some fun and a few thrills in the rides and shows. All-in-all there will be something to keep everyone occupied.

4-H Achievement Day At Ormstown A Success

4-H Achievement Day was held on Saturday, August 27th, at the Exhibition Grounds and drew about 35 competitors in calf classes, handicrafts and a special feature of a safety driving tractor rodeo. Several parents followed the proceedings with much interest, watching their juniors in the various competitions.

Oakley McKee judged the Holstein classes as well as Showmanship. Janet Caver acted as judge for Avrshires and Jerseys and helped in the showmanship classes. She also judged the written reasons in the Judging Competition.

A Fine Birthday Present

When Leslie Keddy of Hemmingford and Fraser's Point went fishing Wednesday evening, he didn't expect to land a 33-lb. Muskellunge on his 33rd birthday, but that's exactly what happened. Trawling for Dore almost directly in front of the Keddy summer home on Lake St. Francis at Fraser's Point, the beauty shown here struck just before dark. Minutes later, another Muskie jumped clear out of the water less than 20 feet from where Les was fighting this fish, which was caught on a U-20 Flatfish and heavy trawling line. It took 45 minutes to bring this fighter to the side of the boat and then it straightened the small gaff Les had with him for Dore. A friend brought him a heavier gaff and it was all of one hour before the fish was taken into the boat. Game fish like this are plentiful in Lake St. Francis and this is the time of year they strike. Being fortunate like Leslie Keddy means being at the right place at the right time and knowing what to do if one of these great game fish takes a lure: Les knows and the picture proves it. Congratulations!

Local Child Wins Playhouse For Prize

The young son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Thurston, Route 4, Huntingdon, is a very happy boy these days. Back in June of this year, the boy aged six, entered a contest sponsored by CFCF Radio Station in Montreal and he also appeared on Magic Tom's Surprise Party on T.V.

Lyndon Thurston, recently became aware that his drawing of his impressions of summer, which was the subject of the contest, had won him a prize. (Continued on page 2)

Apple Festival Banquet Held At Franklin Centre

Some 350 persons attended the ninth annual Franklin Centre apple festival banquet held at Dorea Hall Sunday evening.

Guest speaker Roland Dugré, vice president of the provincial Chamber of Commerce praised the people of south-western Quebec for their "vigorous support of local Chamber of Commerce groups".

The banquet, organized by the Franklin Centre Chamber of Commerce, has grown into an important annual get-together coming as it does just before the serious work of apple harvesting begins, later in September.

Plans were unveiled for next year's celebrations which will span five days and offer several evenings of diversified entertainment. Reason for the splurge is that next year marks the 10th anniversary of the apple festival and conveniently coincides with Canada's Centennial and Expo 67.

Among the dignitaries at the head table Sunday evening were: Ian Watson, M.P.; Ken Fraser, M.P.P.; Wilbrod Bourdeau, Mayor of St. Antoine Abbe; Father Grouard of Dorea; Father Leves of St. Antoine Abbe, Jerry Flynn, president of the Ottawa St. Lawrence regional Chamber of Commerce; and Mr. Andre Corneliier, French director of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

The recently chosen Queen of the Franklin apple festival, Loise Ann Moise, was also honoured.

Guests munched on chicken dinners prepared by Mr. Sarrazin of Valleyfield and sipped champagne from Franklin's own orchards. Most of the guests remained after the banquet for an evening of dancing.

Hemmingford W.I. Tours Cleyn and Tinker Plants

By Mrs. D. B. WOOLLEY

Members and friends of the Hemmingford Branch of the Women's Institute had a most enjoyable tour on Wednesday August 24th, when they visited the Huntingdon plants of Cleyn and Tinker. This firm manufactures basically Terylene worsted fabrics, and is the largest in Canada. Cleyn and Tinker have two mills, one in Huntingdon and the other in Sherbrooke — known as Paton Mfg. — employing in total over 1000 people.

In these plants suitings, worsted 85% and Terylene 35% combined, are manufactured. Fine wool staple highest grade wool, originally from Australia and pre-processed in England, together with Canadian-made Terylene fibre are spun and twisted and woven into cloth.

On arrival at Huntingdon our party was formed into three groups for separate but simultaneous tours under the capable direction of Messrs. Leblanc, Thomas and Frank Cleyn Jr., and a very interesting and sometimes bewildering afternoon commenced.

Eyes, noses, and ears were assailed and distracted, and oh yes, our legs got tired too. Our eyes were challenged to follow the fine threads, our noses offended by dyehouse odours, and our eardrums seemed to split at various times. We saw 5000 spindles whirling at incredible speed, then experienced the ear-shattering rhythmic throb of over 150 looms weaving the cloth, thread by thread, inch by inch, foot by foot, yard by yard. Some of the looms were weaving yarns already processed in the dyehouse, and others wove undyed or grey cloth. We were privileged to see a highly technical specialized process rarely practiced in North America, in fact Cleyn and Tinker is one of the few plants in the world where the dyeing of tops is accomplished. Tops dyeing is the dyeing of fibre before spinning into yarn, an intricate operation.

Some of us were fascinated by the washing machine (not household variety) which removes identification tint and dirt from yarn in woven cloth in preparation for the dyeing process. Molecular change in wool by chemical action was discussed, a process which confers different properties to the fabric. The addition of sheen by heat and pressure (3,000 lbs. per sq. inch) was just another surprise to many of us.

We were impressed with the cleanliness of the mills.

We were impressed with the cleanliness of the mills.

We were impressed with the cleanliness of the mills.

Mr. Ruby Shreffren Leaving Ormstown

(By Bernice Cullen)

It is almost thirty years since Ruby Shreffren first came to Ormstown. In those days, times were lean, but many young men of Ruby's ambitious calibre got into the business world. There were many stores in the area selling goods of all sorts, and after some consideration the meticulous inspections carried out after each process; the perpetual guarding of quality; and the modern equipment. The intricate and expensive machines (some we saw cost over $100,000) are a far cry from the pioneer methods which used the spinning wheel and hand loom, which in turn are far advanced over primitive methods still in use by some countries at the present time. Now we know when we see a "Made in Canada" label on suitings, we are buying goods produced by modern methods, under quality control, using Canadian made products. After the tour was completed our party united at The Chateau for coffee, cookies and cake. Mrs. Fred Greer, on behalf of all present, expressed sincere appreciation for the time and hospitality so graciously given by Cleyn and Tinker. Mr. Frank Cleyn in reply invited us for another tour in the near future in order to see machinery, presently being installed, in action.

Shreffren decided to get into the fruit business. He bought himself a truck, and went on the road, visiting all the grocery stores in the valley. Competition was keen and the young fruiterer had to be on his toes. He did well, in fact so well he did, that in 1940 he decided to marry. Shortly after his marriage he tried a new venture, that of the clothing business. It was in 1947, just eighteen years ago that Mr. and Mrs. Shreffren and two children, Rhoda and Billy moved to Ormstown, to open, Shreffren's Clothing store on Lampton Street.

During those years Mr. and Mrs. Shreffren have endeared themselves to the people of Ormstown. The path has not always been easy, business fluctuated with the times, but always... there was Mr. Shreffren, willing to help out, and many a suit or dress has been sold with a, "I'll pay you next week".

Both Rhoda and Billy received their education in Ormstown. Rhoda was a particularly brilliant student and was most active in the dramatic field at Ormstown High School. Both children are now married and Mr. and Mrs. Shreffren are grandparents, Rhoda having presented them with two healthy grandchildren.

Shreffren's Clothing Store will hold an auction sale on Monday and Tuesday of next week. All goods will be sold by auction with good natured Bill Hooker trying to get the highest prices for his friend Ruby Shreffren. The main reason for the complete sell-out is ill health. It is possible that another reason is the man is ready for a rest. In all

While we were touring Cleyn & Tinker, Mr. Francois Cleyn, as a member of the Canadian Economic Council, is touring in the vicinity of the North Pole, a trip we hope he enjoys as much as we enjoyed our visit to his Huntingdon plant.

Ormstown Lions' Club Resumes Regular Meetings

With many members from fresh from summer holidays, and all glad to be back in the fellowship after a cessation of the regular meetings for several weeks, the first regular meeting of the new season was held in Le Vieux Moulin last Tuesday with a good attendance, and the recently elected president, W. (Bill) Lawrence in the chair.

The usual Roll Call of members was changed somewhat for the first, and perhaps the only time, when members in stead of being fined for attempting to get in a little advertising for their respective vocations, were called upon to publicize their services or products. The results in some cases were a little startling or humorous but there was no mistaking the messages which were entertaining, to say the least.

After the president's opening remarks, the business of the club followed. One of the main subjects discussed was that of Recreation for the children and youth of Ormstown and vicinity and whether it could be handled efficiently without professional leadership. After a limited debate the proposal was made and carried that a committee be set up composed of representatives from various organizations, as well as from town and parish councils, to make a thorough study of the situation for this area.

The speaker of the evening was the immediate past president of the club, Lion Adonis Beauchamp, who gave a report of his recent visit as a delegate to the Lion's International Convention held in New York recently when representatives of 800,000 members from 135 countries of geographical areas met to discuss the progress made by the world's largest service club during the past year, and to plan for even greater service in the year ahead.

This convention of which past-president Adoris spoke was the Golden Anniversary of Lions' International, and in his inaugural address, the newly-elected president, Edward M. Lindsay, offered the challenge of the Golden Anniversary Year as "The Search for Peace." Since Lions all over the world are practising fellowship in their relations with each other and those with whom they come into contact, it was fitting that the president should urge even greater efforts to all Lions to combat prejudice and to provide the musical notes of love and compassion wherever their influence could be used.

Past President Adoris told of new friendships made while at the convention and of the pleasure that was his and his wife's in being able to entertain the Lion Delegate from Algeria at their home in Ormstown, when the latter decided to visit Canada, particularly Montreal and Quebec, before returning home.

A line-up of the various committees for the ensuing year was presented for the Ormstown Club's approval, the Chairmen of which are as follows:

Ways and Means: Bill Greig
Music Festival: Dr. Andy Kelen
Finance: Lindsay Cullen
Publicity: Victor Curtis
Health and Welfare: Camille Boyer

Membership and Attendance: Bill Greig Sr.
Program and Entertainment: Burrie McGerrigle
Youth Recreation: Serge D'Amour

Education: Cliff Moore
Inter-Club and Conventions: Frank Anderson

The next meeting of the Lions Club takes place on September 6th.

those eighteen years Ruby Shreffren has never had a holiday. He tells us he would like to go to Florida this winter, but is not sure that he will know how to relax. His friends in Ormstown wish him and his family many years of health, happiness and relaxation.

Mr. Shreffren wishes to sincerely thank all his friends and clients for their support during his years in Ormstown.

Check the advertisement in this week's Gleaner for times of auction sale.

Special Notice Re: Gleaner Copy

All advertisers, correspondents, readers and subscribers are asked to get all copy in to the Gleaner Office early, on account of the Labor Day holiday. The Gleaner will observe the holiday, on Friday, September 2nd and the office and plant will be closed on that day. It will be open on Labor Day, September 5th for regular business.

We therefore ask that all copy for the September 7th issue be in as early as possible — none later than Tuesday, September 6th at noon.

This and That in Town

As mentioned in this column some weeks ago, the Women's Auxiliary of The Barrie Memorial are sponsoring a Monster Party at 8 o'clock on the evening of September 14. There will be tables for Bridge, Euchre and '500' with prizes for ladies and gents as well as door prizes and special prizes. This is the big 'Hospital Night' for the current year and it's hoped that all friends of The Barrie and the Auxiliary will make a sincere effort to make the event successful. Members of the W.A. have entertainment planned for those who don't play cards, so please keep the date in mind and help the W.A. and the hospital.

Road crews have started work on Highway No. 4 which is good news for everyone. The fences from Moniqui's curve to Huntingdon Town limits have been moved back and bulldozers have been busy preparing the new roadbed. West of Georgetown, the same work is going on. All of No. 3 Highway from Cazaville to Dundee Lines, with the exception of a few hundred feet, is now A-1 blacktopped road. Congratulations to all responsible.

Roger (Pit) Lessard of Ourtown leaves for England by boat next Thursday. This young man will be studying textile operations on behalf of Cleyn & Tinker Ltd. and expects to be gone a year.

Have you ever ridden on one of those electric golf carts, such as the ones at the St. Anicet Golf & Country Club? They're pretty keen. In fact, it's a wonder more teenagers don't join up so they can have fun on the carts. Fact is, they're as good as go-karts that made such a hit a year or two back.

Remember when old-timers used to brag that it took them an hour to walk to school every day? Well, some of today's youngsters will be able to say to their grandchildren that it took them an hour to ride to school on the school bus. Frankly though, there shouldn't be any complaint from any quarter with the new schools to be built at Huntingdon and Ormstown.

Did you know that A. M. 'Mac' Brockman carried away top honors, a plaque and cash prize for his studies at Bishop's University this summer? (See elsewhere).

See the picture of the 33-lb. Muskie caught at Fraser's Point last Wednesday evening by Leslie Keddy of Hemmingford. As the caption says, he landed it on his 33rd birthday, at that, so we tip our sombreros twice. Les.

Final note: the members of the Ladies Auxiliary of The Huntingdon County Hospital wish to remind everyone of the Parcel Post Booth at Huntingdon Fair this week. Parcels for sale may be left at the booth any time during the Fair.

Talking about the Fair: L. M. 'Mac' Kelly and Castro are again sponsoring the Tractor Rodeo, one of the main attractions for junior farmers and others capable of handling a tractor. Some young fellows displayed remarkable skill last year and we understand there's quite a list of competitors this year, so it should be quite a contest.

SEE . . . the NEW TRAVEL TRAILERS and TRUCK CAMPERS at HUNTINGDON FAIR

SEPTEMBER 1-2-3 Mullarney's Sales & Service Tel. 518-483-1111 North Bangor, N.Y.

Special note for children under 14: Don't forget admission is free all day Thursday, including Thursday evening. Right after the street parade featuring Ormstown Band leading the parade of floats, decorated bicycles and Hondas, you can walk right onto the grounds without paying a cent, where you can watch the Ormstown Majorettes and Moppets go through their paces. The Firemen's tug-of-war should be fun, too. The Pony Potato Race will be one of the highlights after the cattle parade on Friday night. Entries in the Ken-L Ration & Puss and Boots Pet Show, sponsored by Quaker Oats and local merchants, gets underway sharp at 1 p.m. Saturday. The Pet Show is something really big at Huntingdon Fair and we've gotten wind that quite a few youngsters from the lake are bringing their dogs and cats in, so it should be better than ever. At 7 p.m. Saturday the Stars of Notre Dame will perform in the Arena. All in all, the programme entertainment committee has worked hard to get a good programme lined up for this week and this part of Huntingdon Fair is bound to please. Entries in all classes have steadily increased for a number of years and this year Sec. Thos. Brooks has a longer list than ever, so Huntingdon Fair is growing every way. Hot meals will be served in the dining room. Oh yes, don't forget to see Kermit Saxton and his yoke of oxen and covered wagon from Brushton, N.Y. Bobby Hill and His Canadian Country Boys will play for the big dance Saturday night.

It has been rumored that a number of businessmen are interested in starting a school for advanced baggiping at Dundee. We do know that the July 1st bagpipe concert in Huntingdon will be repeated next year and on a larger scale.

Norbert Bourgon Jr. and Robert Hart, two members of R.C.S.C.C. St. Francis who spent the past seven weeks at H.M.C.S. Cornwallis in Nova Scotia, returned home last Wednesday. They weren't due back until Saturday, but because of the rail strike they shipped out three days early.

For smokers only: cigarettes may be going up another cent. This time the increase is from the manufacturers.

Everyone tests at home at Havelock fair, especially at dinner time. The date is Saturday, Sept. 10. Keep that day open for Havelock fair where more activity is packed into one day than any place else around, more next week, but don't forget Havelock fair, s.v.p.

If this doesn't go down in history as the Strike Age it's only going to be because the end of the world is coming before the end of the 20th century. With the bottom dropping out of the stock market and signs of tight money everywhere, striking workers are going to price themselves right into dire times. We may not have passenger trains around here, but we're all going to feel the pinch from the rail strike because the cost of living index will climb. Even if the strike isn't warranted, costs don't seem to go back when the cause has been overcome. Be assured of one thing: John Q. Public always ends up paying the shot in one way or another. How long can we afford it?

Twenty-five copies of the Centennial issue of the Gleaner (1700) will be offered for sale at the Gleaner booth at Huntingdon Fair. The price will be 35 cents, same as in 1700, and will be sold to 25 individuals on a first come first served basis. Seller histories will be available at the price that has prevailed for two years, $10. Both the Centennial issue and The Histories are valuable keepsakes and are ideal anniversary or Christmas gifts. We're sorry we can't offer more Centennial issues. These are from a small stockpile set aside for fellow publishers on special request.

We made a real booboo out of Mr. Lucien Latour's Public Notice last week. Mr. Latour, Special Superintendent of the Fraser Discharge in Dundee, wanted to advertise a public meeting of all persons interested to be held at 10 a.m. Thursday, Sept. 1st on the Ferguson Side road at the bridge where Br. No. 3 crosses the road near the John Dagg residence. Well, somehow or other we fouled the advertisement up and put the bottom half at the top and this has caused Mr. Latour considerable concern. Sorry, sir, and it was our fault, not yours.

Members of the various Masonic Lodges in the community will be interested to learn that Mr. Herb Pickering, one-time secretary of the Grand Lodge and Grand Chapter (Quebec) is convalescing at Riverview Terrace in Huntingdon and would welcome a visit from some of his friends.

Too bad we can't mention the lights on the new bridge in Huntingdon. Too bad we can't say it would have been nice to see them working for Huntingdon Fair. Let's hope we won't be saying this when the streets are lit with festive lights at Christmas.

Now it seems the boys at St. Joseph's School in Huntingdon aren't too interested in the $100. bursary offered by the P.T.A. Either that or they don't know about it. At any rate, see the article elsewhere.

Two young children friends who spent most of the summer here with our last week as they were leaving our town. Asked why they were leaving that way they replied that they hated to leave the teenagers who they think are the most friendly group they have ever met. They accepted us and made us feel at home. We admired the true friendship which prevails among them and how they go out of their way to help and please others. We think that is worth mentioning for we are usually quick to criticize the younger set and feel we should praise them when they deserve it.

Next time the horse show at Huntingdon fair will be very interesting. It is scheduled for the weekend of Sept. 2-3. There will be at least 20 entries in the Western Pleasure Class. Some of the Appaloosa horses will be shown tomorrow (Thursday) afternoon, among them "Yankee Chief", winner of the recent National Appaloosa show at Syracuse, N.Y. "Yankee Chief" is owned by the Seven Plus Two Stables, Moores, N.Y. and is the high point gelding of eastern U.S. Thomas Stables of Malone will be showing Appaloosas, as well as Scott Duneme of Huntingdon and the K. & W. Stables of St. Chrysostome and Eric Keynolds of Burke. This is only a brief report about the Horse Show at H/H. . . . come on along and see for yourself.

Like Father like Son: Now we really take our hats off to 12-year-old Mark Proudfoot of Ourtown who placed second in the Youngsters Golf Tournament at the Malone Golf Club on Monday. As local golfers are well aware, the Malone Golf Club boasts a long list of junior members and at least 80% of them took part in the tournament, so Mark did exceptionally well. Who's your instructor, Mark? We won't tell Safety Sam.

The Moores, N.Y. volunteer fire Dept. is having a Chicken Barbecue at the Fire House from 12 noon to 6 p.m. Monday, Sept. 3. It just may be that some readers from Memmingford and area will be eating chicken that day!

Around 2 p.m. Tuesday (yesterday) Huntingdon experienced a severe electrical storm. Popular grocer Gerry Biseous reports that a clothesline near the rear of his store, owned by Arlene Keita, was struck.

Leypup, cigarettes ARE up in price.

Religious Radio Broadcast, September 4 — How every individual can increase the value and importance of the work that he does, will be discussed in the next Christian Science radio program in the regular weekly series "The Bible Speaks to You" which is heard on Station CKVL (dial 850) every Sunday morning at 9:45.

TEST OF DRIVING SKILL ON TELEVISION SEPT 6 — After The Canadian Drivers Test was broadcast in May there was a nation-wide demand that it be repeated. Many had missed parts of it, some missed it entirely, others simply wanted to try again. The demand will be met when the CBC, in co-operation with the Canadian Highway Safety Council and Shell Canada Ltd. sponsoring, repeats the Test on its television network September 6. The program, an hour long, will begin at 9:30 p.m., CBC's French language network will carry a repeat of the French version, first aired in June, on the evening of September 8. It has been estimated that more than 3,000,000 people watched the original Canadian Drivers Test in May.

Still more recently the prize arrived in the shape of a playhouse, size 6 x 8 feet and 9 feet high, with doors, windows and flower boxes.

It makes a wonderful playhouse for Lyndon and the other small members of his family and the boy is quite pleased with his prize. If he does not actually realize that he must be quite an artist at this time, perhaps it will be something he will develop as the years go by.

Wedding

BULLARD-GARDINER

The marriage of Diane Gail, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gardiner of Huntingdon, to Sp/4 James Frank Bullard of Camp Drum, son of the Rev. D. E. Bullard of Bombay, N.Y. and the late Myron Bullard, took place on August 20th, in the Huntingdon United Church, the Rev. H. Lowenberger officiating. Mr. Gary Blake played the wedding music. Miss Ann Marie Mitchell of Hogsburg sang "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register. Baskets of white gladioli and lighted candles decorated the church.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was in a gown of white crepe fashioned on empire lines, with a lace bodice having long sleeves ending in points over her hands. Her train was of lace edged with crepe. Her veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a coronet of seed pearls. She carried a cascade of white chrysanthemum daisies.

Miss Roberta Middlemiss, friend of the bride, acted as maid of honor, while Debbie Bullard, sister of the groom, and Patricia Gardiner, sister of the bride, were her attendants. They were gowned in similar dresses of organza over taffeta on empire lines and having lace bodices and long sleeves. They wore matching headpieces. The maid of honor was in lemon yellow and carried a cascade of white and green chrysanthemums, the two bridesmaids were in pale green and carried nosegays of white and yellow chrysanthemums.

Mr. Myron Bullard acted as best man for his brother. The ushers were John Currie, uncle of the bride, and Holly Mattaw, nephew of the groom.

The bride's mother wore a pale aqua sheath dress with a white lace duster, a matching hat, white accessories and a corsage of red Sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Bullard, mother of the groom, wore a beige and rose flowered dress, bone coloured accessories and a corsage of white roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the Church Hall. Later Mr. and Mrs. Bullard left on their wedding trip, the bride travelling in a beige sheath dress with a matching coat, bone coloured accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

On Sunday night there was a bonfire by the river side. The special occasion was a family gathering with sons and daughters from Hawkesbury, Ont., St. Jerome, St. Bruno, Montreal and Ottawa and their numerous children. The guest of honour was the youngest son of Mr. St. Amour who has just returned from military duty in Germany and will now be stationed in Ottawa. The guests numbered fifty. They were fortunate that the weather was co-operative, the day being exceptionally fine.

These are the two new filtration tanks which form a major part of the recently installed equipment. Each tank is capable of handling up to 500,000 gallons of water daily. The consoles in front give automatic readings on the rate of flow of the water through the tanks and the amount of dirt in the filters. In addition, the consoles are equipped with hydraulic controls for opening and shutting valves. Filter tanks are cleaned about three times a day by reversing the flow of water through them. See article for explanation of the filtering system.

Huntingdon's Own Golf Course Trout River Golf Club Appeals For New Members From The Local Area

The Trout River golf club has announced it is recently bought land and is planning an addition to the present course to create a 27 hole complex, hopefully within two seasons.

The club, situated almost on the border between United States and Canada on Highway No. 4 has undergone extensive reshaping this summer and now offers golfers a good, challenging, 9-hole course.

Allowed to languish unused for a number of years, the greens and fairways deteriorated to a point where, at the beginning of this year, many of them had weedy patches and rocks on the fairways were a problem.

This is all in the past now for under the hand of Roger Lapierre, the pro at Trout River, work began this spring to bring the course up to a more respectable standard. Weeds were sprayed, grass was fertilized and teared, greens were enlarged and improved, and a stone picker rig the course of the problem of rocks.

Those who have golfed at Trout River this summer call it a first rate club now. Gerry Proulx, the Canadian pro who will represent Canada in the British open this year, played the course earlier this summer. "The layout is beautiful," he said, "and there is a good possibility that this could become a championship course in the future."

Proulx managed a 70 game on the par 71 course. Lapierre, the club's pro has edged his game down to 74.

Roger Lapierre is hoping to attract golfers from the Huntingdon area and as an incentive, he is offering a free lesson to all those who try out the course. "I hope the people of the Huntingdon area wake up and try out their new course," he said.

In order that the expansion plans can be carried out, the club needs the support of the area golfers this year. Green fees are only $2 on weekdays and $3 on weekends and, as Roger Lapierre said, "people are always surprised at how good the course is — especially those who knew the course before it had been fixed up."

At present, all nine holes, with the exception of number three are in first rate condition. The third hole, often wood finish with an all glass front. Each room will have a double Anderson Beautyline unit of Thermopane. The interior will be done in pre-finished paneling and each room will have wall-to-wall carpeting.

No matter how dull the actual weather is, I can usually find something special to make just a little Sunshine and the weekend of the 20th and 21st brought an extra ray of that type of 'Sunshine' when I was rudely awakened at 6.30 the Saturday morning with a noise at the front door and "Hey! Anybody home?" and I recognized Lawrence's voice. He and Barbara were expected for Labour Day weekend but Friday p.m. they just decided to go "home" and they drove all night with just a short snooze by the wayside part way here. Lawrence was out visiting his old friends and needless to say Barbara and I had lots to talk about. We closed the store after dinner and the four of us just visited then went out for supper and then on up to "The Lake" for a visit with my old friends Stuart and Vi MacDonald. Lawrence went off to find Stuart Gordon and Helen MacCartney at their cottages and brought them back so then we all had a rare old visit. The MacDonalds and Helen had just returned from P.E.I. and Sam and I had been to Kingston to visit my Godmother and the rest of the family; also taken Mr. Chevrier - better known to all in Nitro as "Archie, the Shoemaker" to St. Pierre de Wakefield to visit old friends there and we had such a visit with the Leo Dorion family who used to live here in Nitro, SOOOOOO - we had a confab.

Sunday afternoon we took off for Vercheres and a visit with Mr. Short and Silver.

Naturally we had our Boston Bull puppy with us - he was going back to the place of his birth! Mr. Short didn't recognize us as we drove up but as soon as I held Priceless up to the window he knew who we were right away. We were lucky to find Mr. Short not too busy so we had such a nice visit. Shortly after we arrived, another car drove in and Mr. Short turned to me to tell me this was something to interest me. In the car were a couple, in their early twenties, who were deaf-mutes. And here is where I got what is called in the newspaper business a "Scoop" and this write-up for the Gleaner will just be the first of articles in the paper and over T.V. concerning the training these two young people and their nine month old German Shepherd are getting from Mr. Short. The young man and his dog had only had one lesson and I can tell you it was really something to see those two and what they had learned together in only one week. Last Sunday they were being taught how to "Sit and Stay." Old friends know I was brought up with deaf people as both Joe and Crawford McLeod were deaf but they hadn't been born deaf so both had learned to talk. Here in Nitro, one of my little customers went deaf before he was old enough to learn to talk but French and English languages make no difference to us. Some adults who don't know him look at us in amazement when I am serving him. So naturally I was more than a little bit interested in watching this lesson. Mr. Short wanted the young lady to also show what she had learned to do during the week and here quite a problem showed up.

She is lefthanded! So their doggy friend will have to be trained with his Master and learn all the signals right-handed and then learn them all over again and opposite with his Mistress. I has been a long time since I have sat so quietly as I did last Sunday without a word being spoken by anyone. Later on, I am hoping to see these two young folk and their four legged "ears" again.

Now for a short visit with Silver. He was just back from giving another Show for umpteen children at a Camp. He got his usual hug from me and then we were introduced to the family he had adopted. Three dear wee kittens whose mother had left them. Mr. Short had him carry one across to me, in his mouth. Well I've seen him carry a fresh egg in his mouth and not break it so you can imagine how gently he carried the kitten. Then we went into the house to see the other two with him also to see the new litter of puppies belonging to Silver and a new wife "Day". These puppies were only three days old and I was surprised to find Silver and the kittens roaming around the room where Day had her new family. I saw Silver licking and nuzzling those kittens and eating out of the same dish with them and not being forced to do so, he would be when on a T.V. show. They are his adopted family. Whatever next will that Silver be doing, I wonder. After our visit we went on to the village of Vercheres and had our supper then a nice drive home in the early evening.

Monday morning came too soon when we had to say goodbye to "the children" again. Matamoros, Pa., is a long way away and we don't get together too often but a surprise visit like this one surely brought lots of sunshine our way.

Since writing the above item about Silver and the kittens I was amazed to see in the Gazette this a.m., Saturday the 27th, another article about Silver and the same kittens and about how cruel he was to them. All I can say is "stuffy and nonsense".

I saw Silver at home with those kittens. I also read the article in the Gleaner this week about the "cad" (and that is much too mild a word to use) who dashed the kitten onto the pavement from a car. — and I gather he was — nothing will be done. Well, sooner or later he will have to meet his Maker and will be taken to task for this horrible deed. I'm thankful I won't be in his shoes when that time comes.

There were approximately 457,000 births in Canada in 1964, compared with 465,800 in 1963 and the record high of 479,300 in 1959.

Liturgie — Vous ne pouvez servir Dieu et l'argent. La parole du Maître est tranchante comme l'épée. Impossible de miser sur les deux tableaux: Dieu et l'argent. Le service de l'un exclut le service de l'autre. Le souci, l'inquiétude, le désir insatiable d'assurer notre vie matérielle, contre tous les risques nous fait oublier bien vite que Dieu est Maître de notre vie. Nous nous confions à l'Argent, au lieu de nous en remettre au Père. Pourquoi, nous dit Jésus, cette préoccupation exagérée pour la nourriture et le vêtement? Si le Père nourrit les oiseaux du ciel et habilite la fleur des champs, à plus forte raison prendra-t-il soin de chacun de ses enfants. Jésus n'encourage ni la paresse ni l'insouciance, lui qui a travaillé de ses mains à Nazareth. Recherchez les choses d'en-haut, là où se trouve le Christ. Là où est son trésor, là aussi est son cœur. Liturgie — Every once in a rare while, the electricity fails in a community. It's only then that we suddenly realize and miss the silent power that is usually flowing through the wires into our homes. Even these wires, however, we usually conceal inside the walls. Silently, constantly, at work in each of us is another Power. Much of the activity of this Power is hidden; we are often unaware that it is going on. We have to look for evidence of its action, but if we look, we can see it clearly. The Power is the Holy Spirit. He works quietly in our souls, sanctifying us, leading us towards holiness via circumstances of our life. In the Offertory of the Mass, we urge Him: "Come, almighty Sanctifier, eternal God, and bless this sacrifice prepared for the glory of Your Holy Name."

Le Ormstown Lions' club reprend ses activités

Les activités reprenaient mardi dernier pour une autre saison pour les membres du Ormstown Lions' Club. Frais et disons après leurs vacances, les membres se réunissent au Vieux Moulin sous la présidence du président élu récemment, W. (Bill) Lawrence.

La formule usuelle de l'après midi chantée pour la première fois en ce sens qu'au lieu de raconter leurs vacances, les membres durent relater les services rendus. Les résultats en certains cas furent un peu étonnants mais les messages furent compris et très intéressants.

Après les remarques du président, on procéda aux affaires ordinaires. Un des principaux sujets discutés fut les loisirs pour les enfants et les adolescents d'Ormstown et de la banlieue. On se demande si on peut y voir efficacement sans avoir recours à des professionnels. Après un débat, il fut proposé et accepté qu'un comité soit formé pour faire une étude approfondie de la question. Ce comité serait composé de représentants des diverses organisations et de représentants des conseils de la ville et de la paroisse.

Ormstown NOTES SOCIALES

L'orateur invité était le président sortant du club, Lion Adoris Beauchamp qui fit un rapport de sa récente visite en tant que délégué à la Convention Internationale des Lions tenue récemment à New York alors que 800,000 membres de 135 pays ou régions géographiques se sont rencontrés pour discuter des progrès accomplis par le plus considérable club de service au monde au cours de l'année dernière et de préparer l'année qui vient.

Cette convention à laquelle Adoris Beauchamp adressa la parole marqua le 50ième anniversaire des clubs "Lions Internationaux". Dans son discours d'inauguration le nouveau président, Edward M. Lindsay proposa comme thème de la 50ième anniversaire "La recherche pour la paix". Puisque dans le monde entier les Lions pratiquent la socialité il était approprié pour le président de les inviter à

LA FETE DU TRAVAIL

Lundi prochain nous célébrerons la Fête de tous les travailleurs. Nous de Huntingdon et de la région devrions en profiter pour remercier le Seigneur de la prospérité dont nous jouissons. En effet, notre secteur est parmi les plus privilégiés puisque on ne connaît pas ou à peu près pas de chômage depuis de nombreuses années.

Nous voulons rendre hommage à tous les travailleurs de chez nous. Qu'ils soient ouvriers, employés de bureaux, vendeurs, tisserands, ou débauchés. Grâce à leur travail notre ville jouit de la prospérité, même si elle ne grandit pas aussi vite que certaines autres.

Profitez de cette dernière longue fin de semaine de congé de la saison. Peu importe la façon dont vous emploierez votre temps, que ce soit en voyage, au lac ou à la maison que cette Fête du Travail soit agréable pour chacun de vous. Le lendemain vous retourneriez à votre tâche avec sérénité. Les écoliers eux-mêmes reprendront le collier puisque dès mardi prochain, ils de vront s'acheminer vers l'école. Nous espérons que tous ont passé de bonnes vacances et entreprendront le nouveau terme scolaire dans les meilleures dispositions. Qu'ils sont des maintenant que pour réussir en juin, il faut se mettre au travail sérieux en septembre.

VIVE L'AMITIE

Deux jeunes américains qui ont passé une partie de l'été dans nos parages, visitant leurs parents retournaient la semaine dernière à Baldwinsville, située dans la banlieue de Syracuse. C'est avec des larmes aux yeux qu'ils disaient au revoir et quand on leur demanda pourquoi ils étaient tristes, voici ce qu'ils ont répondu. "C'est de quitter le groupe de jeunes de Huntingdon. Ils sont vraiment formidables et ont su nous mettre à l'aise en nous acceptant parmi eux. Nous avons admiré surtout la camaraderie qui règne parmi tout le groupe; personne n'est laissé de côté; ils se dérangent pour se faire plaisir entre eux. C'est vraiment le meilleur groupe de jeunes que nous ayons rencontré à date et nous les manquerons d'ici notre prochaine visite".

EN PELERINAGE

Samedi un groupe de près de quarante personnes se rendaient à Notre-Dame du Cap pour le pèlerinage annuel.

MEILLEURS VOEUX

A Son Excellence Monseigneur Alfred Langlois à l'occasion de son anniversaire de naissance qui sera célébré dimanche prochain.

BON VOYAGE

Nous voulons souhaiter un bon voyage à M. Roger "Pit" Lessard qui s'embarquera pour l'Angleterre ces jours-ci. "Pit" y passera un an pour étudier les différentes opérations du textile. Nous sommes fiers de ce jeune qui a su mériter la confiance de ses supérieurs et sommes assurés qu'il ne les décevra pas. Bonne chance à ce gars de chez nous qui sera certainement un bon ambassadeur de notre ville.

Congrès régional de l'U.C.C. St-Jean-Valleyfield, le 12 septembre

La Fédération de l'U.C.C. de St-Jean-Valleyfield tiendra son congrès régional le 12 septembre prochain à St-Rémi de Napierville. C'est à leur congrès régional qui aura lieu à St-Rémi de Napierville lundi, le 12 septembre que les cultivateurs de la région de St-Jean-Valleyfield verront à prendre les moyens nécessaires pour améliorer leur situation actuelle. Les résolutions venant de quelque 50 syndicats locaux de la fédération seront étudiées et élaborées par les membres pour être ensuite soumises au congrès général de l'U.C.C. en octobre prochain. Des représentants de la Confédération de l'U.C.C. viendront exposer aux cultivateurs de la région la façon de franchir la deuxième étape d'organisation vers la parité de revenus des cultivateurs en 1966 avec 56,75 membres à travers la province.

Ne manquez pas de vous rendre à l'exposition, jeudi, vendredi et samedi Demain soir, jeudi, 1er septembre, la parade à travers les rues de la ville marquera comme chaque année l'ouverture de l'exposition locale. Vous ne voudrez pas manquer de voir le défilé et ensuite de vous rendre sur le terrain où les invités d'honneur procéderont à l'ouverture officielle. Vous pourrez ensuite assister aux compétitions hippiques qui se dérouleront dans l'enceinte où si le cœur vous en dit visiter les nombreux kiosques installés dans la bâtisse industrielle.

A l'étage supérieur vous pourrez admirer les nombreux exhibits floraux, travaux d'artisanat et autres. Pour les plus jeunes, il y aura comme chaque année différents manèges où ils pourront s'en donner à cœur joie. Durant les trois jours de notre exposition, les juges seront fort occupés car nous informons, les exhibits dans chaque classe sont très nombreux que précédemment. Ceux qui s'intéressent à d'autres animaux seront servis à souhait. Cette année, les spectateurs pourront s'asseoir autour de l'arène clôturée car pour la première fois on installera des banes à leur intention. Vendredi, sera le jour noir et blanc qui attire toujours un grand nombre d'éleveurs de Holsteins. Il y aura aussi d'autres races en évidence et on croit qu'il y aura beaucoup de bétail à vendre. Il semble que les fermiers se tournent de plus en plus nombreux vers ce genre d'élevage. Sur le terrain vous pourrez voir Kermit Saxton et son couple de boucs tirant une charrette couverte. Les enfants pourront monter dans la

CONTRACT AWARDED FOR WIDENING ROUTES 3 AND 4

(By Fergus Horsburgh)

It has been announced that Hon. Fernand Lafontaine, Minister of Roads, has awarded the contract for the widening of Highways 3 and 4 to Messrs. P. Baillargeon Limited of 7140 Park Avenue, Montreal, for $295,104. Messrs. Baillargeon were low bidders of some seven prominent construction companies to bid. Work is expected to start within the next two weeks. Highway 3 and 4 between the Caughnawaga Traffic Circle and Chateaugay has been the scene of a succession of fatal accidents in recent years. The most recent multiple fatality crash occurred last Spring when four died. The highway widening to four lanes will extend from Caughnawaga Traffic Circle to the Junction of Routes 3 and 4 at D'Aujou Boulevard.

Completion of the project is scheduled for October 31st, 1966.

New Fire And Police Station For Town Of Chateaugay

(By Fergus Horsburgh)

Public tenders are being called for September 20th, for construction of a new Fire and Police Station for the Town of Chateaugay on St. Francis Boulevard.

The building will be close to the present site at 25 St. Francis and will be designed to house the new fire truck now on order. A special 75% grant from the Provincial Government has been awarded for the purchase of this second fire truck for the Town of Chateaugay on the basis that amalgamation between the Town and neighbouring Town of Chateaugay Heights is expected within coming months, probably later this year. A normal Provincial grant for a project of this nature would have been 50%. The enlargement of the Town's fire-fighting equipment has been undertaken on urging by the Provincial Government, and the increase of 25% over the normal grant reflects that Government's expectation of economies which will result from the amalgamation of the two neighbouring municipalities.

I understand that the cost of the new fire engine and building is expected to total approximately $80,000. The present building, when vacated would, or could be used by the maintenance staff of the Town's parks development programme and for storage purposes.

The Flibustiers of Chateaugay Centre

Congratulations to our own Chateaugay Band, the Flibustiers, who on Sunday evening at the Verdun Auditorium won the Trophy in the B Class with their rendition of Land of Hope and Glory. The director of the band is Mr. Bernard Gauthier and the Musical director Mr. Yvon Lacoste and Mr. Jean Mireault and Mr. Robert Leduc are also assistants. The trophy was presented to the band by Mayor Sutterlin. To all those folks who listened all summer to the band practising and wondered how long they would have to endure it, now you can feel proud of the wonderful achievement of these young men who range in age from 12 to 18 years.

CENTRE ZONING BY-LAW BLOCKED

(By Fergus Horsburgh)

The Elector's Meeting was held last Monday for Chateaugay Centre's Zoning By-Law to permit the construction of a recreation hall in Sutterlin Park on St. Ferdinand and Sullivan.

Some 18 ratepayers registered their opposition to the By-Law. A Zoning By-Law in Chateaugay Centre requires passage at an elector's meeting with fewer than six ratepayers objecting. The By-Law is thus blocked. It is not known at the press deadline if the Town will now proceed with a referendum, or if the By-Law will be dropped.

Weds Chamberlain Ross Margaret Amaron

(By Fergus Horsburgh)

Mr. Ross Gilbert Chamberlain of Chateaugay recently married Miss Margaret Amaron in St. Patrick's Church, Grande Allee, Quebec. Rev. John Corkery conducted the service, and Miss Cecile Juneau played the wedding music. The bride was given in marriage by her father, Mr. Robert Campbell Amaron of St. Lery, Quebec and was attended by Miss Barbara Reid of Chateaugay, as maid of honour, and Miss Geraldine Sutton of Ormstown and Miss Anne McAllister as bridesmaids. Little Miss Liane Chamberlain, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl.

Mr. Donald Robert Boucher was best man and ushers were Mr. Barry Chamberlain, Mr. Wayne Chamberlain, brothers of the groom and Mr. Campbell Amaron. Mr. Chamberlain, who is an officer in the Montreal Police Force, is well-known in local softball circles. The couple spent their honeymoon in Prince Edward Island, and will take up residence in Ville de Lery.

Federal And Provincial Grants For Cultural Centre Here

(By Fergus Horsburgh)

It was announced last week by Miss Judy LaMarsh, Secretary of State and Mr. Yves Gabias, Provincial Secretary, that a grant will be made toward the cost of Chateaugay Centre's Cultural Centre under the Federal Provincial Grants Programme. The two Governments and the municipality will share the cost of the project.

Passage of the municipal by-law some weeks ago followed a referendum called when the requisite number of ratepayers blocked the by-law. A majority of ratepayers voted for the by-law.

The cultural centre will feature a 300 seat theatre, stage facilities and an exhibition hall.

Education In The Valley No. 11-19

1. Final purchase of Wylers Farm for site of Zone A school concluded on Tuesday August 23rd, 1966. Landscape and playing field consultants are now preparing plans in co-operation with the architect for the area extending from the highway back to and around the buildings to be erected. We shall attempt to provide a sketch in the near future.

2. The administrative staffs of both the Protestant Regional School Board of Chateaugay Valley and of the local Protestant School Municipality of Chateaugay will be moving to temporary leased quarters at Place Chateaugay at 75, St. Jean Baptiste Blvd., on Sept. 1st. This move is necessitated by the continued expansion of Chateaugay High School, where two additional classrooms will be ready for school opening next week.

3. Members of the Regional Board are busily studying Vol. IV and V of the Parent Report in preparation for a brief which is proposed to be submitted in October.

4. Mr. Templeton, Assistant to the Director General, will be contacting local Boards shortly in the preparation of a study on school transportation needs for September 1967.

5. Students writing supplemental examinations in high school leaving subjects at Chateaugay High School have just completed and are now anxiously awaiting to hear their results.

6. Lettering on the signs at the two regional school sites is still incomplete. The weatherman has not been

MORE COMMENT ON THE PARENT REPORT

(32) We recommend that a school committee be set up for each elementary or secondary public school. As noted in our previous bulletin there are good and sufficient reasons for the transfer of many of the responsibilities of local boards to regional boards in order to make it possible to organize an elementary and a secondary education of good quality, and thus to eliminate the pronounced local discrepancies in elementary school services which are conspicuous today. — "teachers are not chosen in accordance with the same standards; equipment and auxiliary services vary in quantity and quality; the services for exceptional children vary widely."

It is important that some of the responsibilities of local boards be transferred to regional boards with the least possible delay. There is a legal basis established by Order in Council whereby this may be effected and already, within the area of the Protestant Regional School Board of Chateaugay Valley the local boards have taken advantage of this clause. They have passed resolutions requesting the regional board:

1) to appoint a director of studies to serve in the elementary schools of the Valley in order —

a) to supervise the standards of instruction being given in the schools;

b) to provide leadership in the development of curriculum and methods of instruction;

c) to provide guidance and assistance to teachers in the classroom;

2) to assume responsibility for the education of exceptional children.

We are not convinced that the creation of a new organ such as the proposed school committee is the wisest course of action. A proliferation of committees for each school within a regional school commission would constitute a development of sectionalism and create pressure groups with conflicts of interest which would tend to exhaust the time and energies of the regional commissions. In short, they would waste time and cause undue friction.

However, if the regional commission is to administer both elementary and secondary education, confessional and non-confessional, parents must have a more important role and participate more actively in the organization of schools than has so far been the case. To this end it would seem to be more practical, and certainly more acceptable, to work from what is known and acceptable; to revise the organization of the local boards, their representation and their duties. This re-organization should not be attempted in one move but should be a gradual process, with the more vital services that should be the responsibility of a regional commission transferred without undue delay.

(33) We recommend that each school committee consist of five members, elected annually by the parents of the pupils and by the students enrolled in courses for adults and that, in addition to all those having the right to vote, any person of full age resident in the region shall be eligible for membership on it.

We are particularly concerned with the last clause of this recommendation. One of the most serious deficiencies in the complement of many of the local boards in the province is that they have failed to attract members who are competent to serve. It is inconceivable that a board or a committee may be able to give good guidance or direction when some of its members are barely able to read and write. It is for this reason that we feel that there should be some qualification requirements on such a committee as proposed.

(34) We recommend that the principal and a representative of the teaching staff be associated with the school committee as consultants.

If the principal and a staff representative are to be merely associated with the committee as consultants their interest and their consequent contribution will be limited. They should have the status of full membership.

(35) We recommend that the following functions be vested in the school committees by law:

1 — to watch over the quality of education given in the school and the welfare of pupils and teachers;

2 — to make certain that pupils receive religious or moral instruction corresponding to their parents' wishes;

3 — to accept or reject any regulation proposed by the school authorities or by the directorates of Roman Catholic, Protestant or non-confessional education, as the case may be, affecting the specific applications of confessional or non-confessional in the school;

4 — to stimulate new projects and co-operate in any undertakings connected with the organization of extra-curricular recreation, and, in a general way to support anything which may promote popular culture.

5 — to maintain the interest and co-operation of parents and of the community in anything which may serve to improve educational services;

6 — to express opinions on the selection of teachers, on modifications in the curriculum and on the choice of textbooks and teaching material;

7 — to present to the regional commission any recommendations concerning financial or administrative problems.

To the third clause it is felt that the express right to accept or reject any proposed regulation is too much.

The school administration and the board has a much broader and more comprehensive knowledge of the whole educational structure. If their actions are to be governed by a relatively less informed committee it would be to the overall disadvantage of the pupils in many cases.

In the sixth clause we find the wording inadequate. We would be content if the proposed committee were empowered to express opinions on the selection of teachers, textbooks and materials and on modifications in the curriculum with reference only to moral and religious education of courses. Again we feel that a broader scope would be to the disadvantage of the educational system.

In general we are sympathetic with the views of the Parent Commissioners which led them to formulate recommendations 31-35. It is our feeling, however, that some of these recommendations represent a too drastic departure from the established system of local school boards; that any considered implications of these recommendations are very carefully reviewed; that any proposed legislation be submitted to the various educational bodies and associations for study for a period before any government action. We are convinced of the need of the best possible education for all. We must be equally convinced that changes proposed represent steps to achieve this end.

Chateaugay Centre United Church

Would you believe the good fortune which befell our Church this week started on Steinberg's Bulletin Board? Well it did. One of our U.C.W. ladies noted that a couple wanted a room for three weeks and called the number listed. The couple took the room — and came along to the family Bar B.Q. held at the church. The gentleman, who had an interest in music, introduced himself to the organist — and naturally the need of an organ was discussed. Said gentleman stated he knew of a United Church in Sherbrooke recently closed down, and perhaps the organ might be available.

Seignior Park will be well represented in the Stagemaster's next production in late September. Taking part will be Julie and Colin Keleher and Martha and Keith Strike.

Poles have been erected along St. Francis Boulevard, from Northern Circle to Maple. It is planned to have this stretch of St. Francis supplied with adequate lighting in the near future.

A get-together was planned for last Monday evening at Maddie Karch's house between members of the Nursery School executive and Mothers of children who will be attending the school for the first time this fall.

Woodbine Park will be seeded with grass by mid-September, and assuming seasonal weather the Park will be green before snow falls.

The Town is reported not to have made up its mind yet as regards erecting a wire fence around the Park. Original plans called for a fence for all parks now being developed in Chateaugay, but apparently only opposition showed it. Apparently some home-owners, when they laid out and completed their gardens, encroached on Town (Park) property and built their own fences. This creates a dilemma for Town Hall, as erection of the park fence might force the private owners to remove the privately owned fences. The case FOR a publicly owned

Chateaugay News Notes

by Fergus Horsburgh

Mr. Earle M. Kyle arrived in Canada by B.O.A.C. from London, England on August 10th to spend his holidays at the home of his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Mitchell, 42 Desrochers Street, Chateaugay Station. Mr. Kyle is Display Manager of the Peter Robinson stores in the Strand and Oxford Circus, London. He will visit Boston and New York City before returning home. He is presently visiting friends in the Laurentians. Happy visit, Mr. Kyle.

Miss Margaret Jane Amaron of Sillery, Quebec, married Mr. Ross Gilbert Chamberlain of Chateaugay recently in St. Patrick's Church, Grande Allee, Quebec.

The rail strike is affecting some Chateaugay residents — those who travel daily by auto into Adirondack Junction and take the train into Central Station — leaving their cars parked at Adirondack.

Construction on two new elementary schools under the Protestant Board is expected to start around December. One is to be situated in the Terrace, north of Jeffries corner of Melba. The other will be built in Seigniory Park on the site of the old ball park.

The Town's Police Chief is reported to be improving health-wise and is now home from Hospital, for a convalescent period.

News from both Town and Centre's Police Dept. scarce as hen's teeth. Very quiet times for crime and accidents.

Moving day for Protestant Regional and Local Boards will be tomorrow September 1st. Temporary leased quarters will be at Place Chateaugay on St. Jean Baptiste Blvd. corner of Dunver. This is the administration only. Two additional classrooms will be available for opening of the High School on September 7th.

Speaking of schools, it might be a good idea to remind motorists of the law concerning parked school buses. The following regulation applies everywhere in the province, including cities, towns and villages.

"When meeting or overtaking a parked school bus, duly identified as such and from which school children are alighting or — on to which they are embarking, motorists must bring their vehicle to a FULL STOP and must not proceed until the school bus is again in motion."

A correction is in order — concerning the species of trees described in last week's notes as having fallen at rivers' edge. Sorry about that — it was not an elm tree

Ann Landers...
Answers your problems

Dear Ann Landers: Is it possible that a person can bring on the hiccups in order to get out of a place that is boring to him? My boy friend does not like concerts, the opera, lectures, or sad movies. Also, he does not care very much for our minister. Whenever he must sit through something that does not interest him he gets the hiccups and excuses himself.

I notice that he never gets the hiccups when he is watching Batman or a cowboy movie. Also, he never gets the hiccups during a poker game, or a football game, or when he is at the races.

He insists that it is not possible to bring on the hiccups but I am suspicious. Please give me the facts. Also any suggestions you might have to out-fox him. — BAM BOOZIED.

Dear Ann: After 14 years of what I thought was a wonderful marriage I found out that my husband was having an affair. I was angry, hurt and humiliated.

I discussed the situation with friends and they all agreed that I should divorce him. I went to a lawyer and started proceedings.

When Stanley heard from my lawyer he begged me for another chance. He made me see that divorce was not the answer and that we really belonged together. Our children were so happy when they heard he divorced me that they wept.

Now I realize that the people I thought were my friends were really trouble makers. I am also mad at the lawyer. He is a money-hungry devil interested only in a fee. Not once did he suggest reconciliation.

Our marriage is stronger now than ever, but I shudder to think of what my "friends" and a rotten lawyer tried to do to me. Please warn others not to fall into the same trap. — FAITHFUL READER.

Dear Reader: That's right, lady — blame your friends, blame the lawyer, blame everybody but yourself.

If you've been reading this column faithfully, as your signature suggests, you should have known better. I've published dozens of letters from sorrowing wives who blabbed to "friends" and ran to lawyers, and insisted on amputation when a bandage might have done the job.

I'm printing your letter in the hope that others will learn from YOU what your failure to earn from others.

Dear Bam: The hiccups can be brought on at will, but not everyone can do it. It's a rare talent — like wiggling your ears.

Carry a paper bag in your purse. When Foxy starts to hic, hand him the paper bag and ask him to breathe in it for a few minutes. If he won't try it, your suspicions are well founded!

Cook's Corner
BY MARY FABIO

For those of you who find a kind of joy in "putting up" one or two special treats, into which you have put love, care and if for you home-made is still a magic word, a couple of new and interesting recipes you might like to try. The first is for Harvest Special.

HARVEST SPECIAL
4 quarts ripe tomatoes (quartered)
3 cups chopped celery
3 cups diced onions
1 quart water
7 sweet peppers, diced
2 tablespoons salt
2 tablespoons sugar
1 bay leaves
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce.

Cook together 20 minutes. When it boils, place in hot mason jars and process in hot water bath for 30 minutes for quarts, 25 minutes for pints. Seal jars and set on rack in the canning kettle in boiling water that comes 1 inch above the lids of the jars. Cover the kettle and keep the water boiling. Makes 7 to 8 pints.

(The above recipe is from a book entitled Gladys Taber's Stillmeadow Cook Book) and she notes under the recipe for Harvest Special that it was one of her first attempts at canning and that the recipe came from an old country bulletin before the days of pressure cookers and deep freezers. It is a very versatile product which you can use as Creole sauce or Spanish sauce. It is excellent to bake fish in and fine as a casserole with cubed beef and potatoes.

CAPE COD CRANBERRY RELISH
1 lb. fresh cranberries
2 oranges
2 apples
2 cups sugar
Put the fruit through a food grinder using medium blade (include rind of oranges and some of the apple skin). Stir in sugar and let stand

Huntingdon Annual Fair

Thursday of this week sees the opening of the annual Huntingdon Fair, at the Fair Grounds on Fairview Road. This event is eagerly looked forward to by the whole populace of Town and Country whether young or old. The oldsters look to it as a fair they have been in the habit of attending over the years and as a meeting place of their friends. The youngsters look forward to it as a place where they have some fun as well as enjoying entering some of the many events for children in the various sectors. To everyone, it is a holiday to be enjoyed in one way or another according to taste.

The parade is always a feature attraction and the streets of Huntingdon will be lined along the route to be taken and into the fair grounds. Of late years some very fine floats have appeared in this parade and they are well worth going out to see. It makes opening night something different and also helps to make it one of the best nights of the Fair.

The Horse show has brought many attractions, this made possible by the Huntingdon War Memorial Arena, since it was built. There is no doubt but what this arena has greatly enhanced the attractions at Huntingdon Fair and it is all under cover. With a cattle Parade coming up this year, still another drawing card will be added. The kids will have plenty of chances in both these events to do their "stuff". Then there is the pet show on Saturday afternoon, this has been increasing in entries steadily each year. The tractor rodeo will no doubt attract more entries this year as it is an important part of farming operations today.

The three days and nights of Huntingdon Fair should provide plenty of excitement for everyone. It is understood there will be an extra big midway this year in addition to all the other features. The industrial building has been renovated and of course there will be a dining room upstairs in this building. Local organizations will be offering items both of interest to the patrons and to build their own local funds. Help these worthy causes, for indirectly they can help you.

Secretary Tom Brooks has had a busy time of it of late getting everything in readiness for the opening, and looking after all the publicity material an event of this kind needs. He has been helped by the various committees and on Fair Days these committees will be in further evidence as they check on the various departments of the Fair.

Plan to attend this annual event and bring a friend.

The Railway Strike and More?

As this article is written, the threatened railway strike is on and yet another strike is being threatened, that of the Postal workers. Things happen so fast that perhaps one or both may be over by the time this gets into print. If that is the case, so well and good, but at this time it does not look that way.

Today, Monday, Parliament convenes in a special session to consider the problem and try to get railways moving once again. Those in the know, say it will not be possible to get the railways working under 7 days after a settlement has been reached. They expect the strike to maybe last longer than that. The striking workers appear to be determined not to accept any settlement less than their demands. It is hinted they may even defy a back to work order by the Government if such is given, unless the demands are met.

The postal workers may go on strike also and this of course would be a drastic action and further disrupt our communication system. No doubt trucks would be called into service to continue the delivery of mail and such as much as possible and more air mail would be put to use, but it would be a slow process just as it was in the previous strike. Most mail under such circumstances would be held in the local smaller offices and probably none would be collected or sorted in the larger offices.

The reported demands of the postal workers would not likely be met with the same approval as previously, for at that time, most of the people felt these workers were entitled to more money. There is some dissatisfaction with the railway workers demands at this time and this is not likely to be viewed with any degree of affection. In fact, the railway workers could well do for themselves what coal miners did for themselves many years ago, price themselves out of the business. If road transportation proves to be a possible answer, it could well be that this type of transportation could take over. At the moment we do not think it is entirely feasible, but something, or somebody may come up to make it so.

The miners lost out to oil and the railways, one of the biggest users of coal at one time, succumbed to oil in the change-over to diesel type locomotives. There are some very large air transports of late and if there was sufficient volume to reduce costs by this means, this could be another way, and faster, of transporting goods.

In addition to these facts, there is the prospect of higher prices for all goods forcing a creeping inflation into a raging inflation. This could mean loss of many markets on account of not being able to compete price wise. If the strike is prolonged and other strikes come about, there will be bound to be lay-offs in many lines of manufacturing. This means large numbers thrown into unemployment and relief — a disastrous situation for this country to be in, pending the events scheduled for the Centennial year of 1967.

If the government gives in to the workers as they have in other such cases, then there will be more and more strikes and only the government will be called upon to settle them. By that time this country will be in economic chaos.

It would then be hard to place the blame as to who made the wrong move — the government or the strikers.

Labor Day

In the United States the Knights of Labor fought for and won among other things, a special holiday in 1894. That was the first Labor Day in this part of the world. The same year the Canadian labor movement followed suit and from then on, the first Monday in every September became Labor Day.

No one could have imagined the hatred and bitterness that would fill the next 72 years in the continuing struggle of labor and management in this so-called classless society. From the beginning when the adversary system of solving labor problems was established with "the men" on one side staring flinty-eyed across at "the bosses", equally flinty-eyed and unflinching, there has been little else but open warfare in the working field.

It is time we realized that the adversary system does not work. Until labor and management learn to cooperate and become aware that they are both on the same side, serving the same firm, the crippling strikes will continue and both sides will be the losers. We must devise a system of granting a concrete share of the company to its working men so that they have an interest in the welfare of their firm. Some companies have bonuses and profit-sharing, it is true. But too often the profits go to the foremen and supervisors and not to the men who run the machines, the girls on the switchboard, or the elevator operators.

If it truly becomes their company and their product, the loyalty of the working men will be strong. With the upswing of the business cycle, their gains should increase too, and they should have to do without the extras when times are not so good.

Unions do not call strikes if their members are well treated in every sense of the word. The indignity of punching a time clock like a child does little to lift a man's spirit as he begins and ends his day. The harshness of having to fight for every benefit and every pay raise only perpetuates the adversary system.

It is time companies were run in a spirit of cooperation with shared interest and responsibility for all. The class distinction of management and labor must be eliminated if such a spirit is to flourish.

Then Labor Day truly will become a day for all of us who labor together for our daily bread.

Letter To The Editor Re: Fluoridation

Huntingdon, Que.
August 27th., 1966.

The Editor,
The Huntingdon Gleaner

Dear Sir,
Reference last week's editorial on Fluoridation of the Town's Water Supply, and also the letter from Dr. Lefebvre published a week or two back in which he suggested Fluoridation as a centennial project, these items have presented only one side of the story.

There is another side, and for the main purpose of provoking some discussion, I would like to present it.

With all due respect to Dr. Lefebvre, I do not consider this to be within the true nature of a centennial project. The latter should surely take the form of some tangible object that can be readily appreciated as commemorating the occasion. Fluoridation is essentially a matter of Public Health that the Town Council should be prepared to undertake at any time the need is justified.

The main part of my presentation however, is directed towards the fact that there are just as many arguments against Fluoridation as there are for it. This controversial subject has been debated for many years in some Town Councils, and for your particular reference, Mr. Editor, I enclose a copy of a Council discussion on the subject taken from a Scottish newspaper.

Arguments on Fluoridation being going on for 4 years there, and the subject is still being debated.

To present some counter arguments briefly: —

- 1) Fluoride compounds are toxic. Many people object to taking such substances knowingly, and with administration of Fluorine into a public drinking supply they have little option.
- 2) Fluorine only helps arrest dental decay up to the age of 12 years — thereafter it has no appreciable effect. Therefore, adults gain no benefit, and there is some evidence, in fact that mottling of the teeth can occur in some cases.
- 3) How much water does a child actually drink, anyway? In this country, with milk so plentiful, and soft drink machines so readily available, it is very doubtful if a child drinks water to the extent desirable.
- 4) If Fluoridation is so beneficial to the under 12's, why not merely supply it to them in tablet form, or through a school milk supply? This would provide it exactly where it was wanted without everybody having to take it like it or not.

I trust these few points, together with the enclosed news, paper cutting, will offer a fair presentation of the other side of the story, and I hope it may lead to further discussion on the subject and reveal what other members of the public think.

Yours truly,
K.F.S.

FLUORIDATION DELAYED INDEFINITELY Council Not Convicted

After a three-month delay Peebles Town Council at their monthly meeting last week discussed the question of adding fluorine to the water supplies, but by majority vote both in committee and in Council, have agreed to postpone the matter indefinitely or at least until it was certain that the health of all sections of the community would not be affected by fluorine.

A recommendation of the Water Committee was as follows: —

"While accepting that the addition of fluorine to water supplies in the strength of one part per million would be effective in the reduction of dental caries in children, the committee remain unconvinced that fluoridation of the public water supply would have no possible injurious side effects on the health of the community and accordingly recommend that this step be indefinitely postponed or at least until the Council as local water authority could be absolutely certain that the health of all sections of the community would not be affected as a result."

In presenting the recommendation Dean of Guild Pender stated that the decision was contained in the minute was only reached after a lengthy discussion and enquiry. The basis of the decision was that the Water Committee remain unconvinced that the fluoridation of the public water supply would not produce injurious or side effects and they accordingly agreed that the step be indefinitely postponed.

Councillor Mrs. Cowen said that she would like to learn of any further steps taken by the Water Committee to make more certain about any effect to the health of the public by fluoridation. Mrs. Cowen felt sure that there were other places where fluoridation had been adopted and information would be available from these sources. Had anything more been done to find out about it? In view of information already received how much more absolutely certain was it possible to be?

Councillor Hervey: I think possibly the simplest way to answer this would be to point out, without going into a great deal of detail which has all already been thrashed out by this and other Councils who have considered the matter, is that the majority of major councils are so unconvinced by the evidence which has been put forward and by the terms of the Ministry's recommendation that fluoridation has either been squarely rejected or simply left in abeyance indefinitely. This action has been taken by the councils of Glasgow, Edinburgh, Aberdeen, Dundee, Paisley and Greenock, to mention the four counties of cities and the two largest burghs in Scotland. The only major community to accept the idea has been the city of Perth, where it was carried by majority vote and the Lord Provost, a doctor, being very much against it.

Police Judge Mrs. Davidson said she still took up the position she had taken at the meeting in committee when the whole Council considered the matter. She was quite convinced that the Council ought to take the advice of the Medical Officer of Health, all the local doctors, and the dentists.

Police Judge Preston said that in his view the matter was one for the Central Government. If the Government was convinced fluoridation was a good thing, then they ought to pass an act introducing the system compulsorily.

Police Judge Mrs. Davidson then moved against the recommendation, saying that the Council should accept the advice of the experts and introduce fluoridation immediately. This was seconded.

Treasurer Smith said that nothing was final so far as fluoridation was concerned. He was always open to be informed and open to be educated. The Treasurer said that he had changed his mind, having supported the scheme initially. He was convinced that the dental case has been proved, but he was not convinced that it had been proved without doubt that there were no accumulative side effects. The Treasurer felt the Council was entitled to decide what was after all a political question by maintaining the status quo, which is always a good decision when there is such a fineness of feeling on a subject. The Ministry of Health had complained recently that only about half the local authorities in the country were adopting fluoridation and blamed this on a particularly vocal minority. Surely this proved that the Ministry of Health were not handling their propaganda as they ought to. It seemed unfair to ask laymen to adjudicate on a matter on which even the experts seemed to differ and until such time as the "water cleared" the Treasurer said that he was not prepared to support the scheme.

Baillie Walker said that he had been very much in favour of fluoridation until he discovered that the Ministry of Health was not prepared to guarantee that there would be no repercussions from the introduction of the scheme, so he had changed his mind. The Ministry showed a keenness for the introduction of fluoridation, but were only prepared to support a local authority faced with trouble financially but in no other way.

Police Judge Mrs. Davidson said that Dr. Riddell had been present at a Council meeting together with the local doctors and dentists and all were completely in favour of fluoridation. Mrs. Davidson recalled that the same kind of discussions and arguments had resulted from the proposal to introduce chlorination, then it became an accepted fact. She was very much in favour of fluoridation, which she was certain would do much for the dental health of the children.

Dean of Guild Pender said that the Council had already delayed for three months to enable members to sound public opinion. The only opinions received were against fluoridation, with no one in support of it. Apart from the doctors and dentists, all the evidence was against it.

On a vote being taken, Mrs. Davidson's motion to introduce fluoridation was defeated by seven votes to five. Voting for fluoridation were Police Judge Mrs. Davidson, Councillors Mrs. Cowen, Taylor and Kyd, and Baillie Melrose. For the

ROUND BYRE and RING

By Frank Napier

We were aware, from having passed by same on the Malone part of U.S. Highway No. 11, that the Malone, or rather Franklin County, N.Y., Fair grounds and buildings are quite extensive. However, it was not until a week ago, (Tuesday, August 23) that we actually became aware of the extent of same. Also that, while it is still classed as a Fair, it is larger than are most of our Quebec and Ontario County or Regional Fairs, could well be classed as an Exhibition. However, such modesty is in line with that of Malone itself. On this side of the line any such would be in either the large Town or small City class, but it is officially the Village of Malone, albeit also the County (Franklin) Seat.

Extensively Up-To-Date

Malone Fair has its inevitable Midway, and judging by what we saw when wending our way to the Cattle buildings, an extensive up-to-date one. By "we", we mean our host driver, Gilbert Macmillan, O.B.E., and this writer. By the way, the former is undoubtedly a well-known, popular visitor there from across the line with a wide circle of livestock people over there. That is judging by the salutations and handshakes accorded him when we reached the cattle section.

The cattle exhibits, housed in an up-to-date, double-barn was (according to catalogued entries), comprised of some 60 Ayrshires; 10 Brown Swisses; 26 Guernseys; 88 Holsteins; 35 Jerseys — a total of 223 catalogued entries, plus several added entries in the open classes; plus 124 head of 4-H Club calves.

New Display and Judging Arena

A new building, parallel to the cattle barn, is a recent, laudable innovation, with one half of same making an adequate show ring, in addition to excellent seating accommodation for the ringers. The other half houses not only 4-H Club exhibits (of projects other than livestock) but also an extensive 4-H Club sponsored lunch counter, of which, more anon.

Since they were not to be judged until the following day, we didn't see the Guernsey, Holstein, and Brown Swiss on parade before the judge, but, judging by their appearance in their stalls, the some 128 animals of these three breeds were, collectively, a most worthy group. In the case of the Holsteins, including several exhibits from well-known Northern New York herds which frequently exhibit at Ormstown Exhibition, particularly commendable were the informative herd and individual animal signs, and the spacious tidily kept alleyways between the two rows of cattle, likewise the tidy stalls.

Ayrshire Show

As already indicated, the Ayrshires and Jerseys were shown on the day we were there, with the regular or open classes and the 4-H Club classes of each breed being shown alternately. Our interest was, naturally, mostly in the Ayrshire show, but we were nevertheless favourably impressed with the Jersey show, particularly with several of the senior female classes.

In the Ayrshire regular or open section the exhibitors included Marshall and Winfred Cheesman, respectively; Norman W. Cook & Son; Melody Lane Farm (Fred Bova, Jr.); Robert Sherman, and Sun-E Hill Farm (Thomas E. Robinson); all of whom are well-known to Ayrshire people of the Howick-Huntingdon Club area. And in that connection, Gilbert Macmillan voiced his opinion that, as a whole, and particularly the cow classes, it was a worth-while exhibit. He also made complimentary comments about the fitting and presentations, in the latter instance to quite a extent by 4-H Club members of the firms exhibiting in the regular classes.

The junior champion female of the Ayrshire section including regular and 4-H, was a remarkably fine 4-H Club heifer shown by Miss Reta Marlow of Melody Lane Farm. That herd also won the senior and grand female championships at Meadowcroft Milk, a really outstanding cow with Gengary bloodlines on both sides in both instances, likewise an outstanding individual, was also a Melody Lane exhibit. She is a grand-daughter of the former Royal Winter Fair and Ormstown Exhibition grand champion Minstead Grace, and in that connection it might be mentioned that the dam of the reserve champion and another daughter headed their respective individual classes.

The senior and grand champion of the 4-H section was a very fine cow shown by Thomas Marlow, step-son of Fred Bova Jr. While we didn't have time to meander over there it was also apparent that Malone had quite a large light horse section, with harness etc., racing, on the opposite side of the grounds from the cattle sheds. And, of course, there were other agricultural exhibits.

The 4-H Club Show

With further reference to being felt in this area. For want of roads, the Village of Dundee is separated by an impassable swamp a mile wide over which it is impossible to build a road. In order to get food it is necessary to pass into U.S. territory and the rapacity of the American customs officers is that they demand a duty of 16 1/2 per cent on all goods. What is worse they detain the goods if payment cannot be made at once. We are asking a grant of $400.00. To this no notice was given. Mr. Davidson made reference to much smuggling over the border. Before the coming of the railroad to Ogdensburg all the freight had to be hauled by teams from Plattsburg and Rouses Point to supply the entire area in between these points. This added much to the cost and goods could be brought for less by way of Montreal so it was that much smuggling was done and no notice was taken of this by American customs.

INSTALLMENT 4 — INDIAN LANDS

In the season of 1821 Father Brunton as he afterwards came affectionately to be called arrived at Ft. Covington from Scotland and began preaching to the people, they being greatly encouraged by Robert Buchanan, who was looked upon as a leader in society in the settlement. When in 1822, the church was organized, Mr. Gardner was chosen one of the Elders. The same year that he took up his land there settled a short distance west of him on lot 30-31 on Broken Front, Jas Farlinger of U.E. descent, who in 1823 became his son-in-law. The settlers along the lake in St. Ariceit and Dundee had difficulties peculiar to themselves to contend with. The many marshes hindered the building of roads and up until 1835, there was hardly one fit for wheels. The grist had to be shouldered by the settler, and to drag his barrel of potash he had to use an ox sled. Horses were few and of little use in this swampy land, the first to own one, was Jonas Schryer. Mr. Davidson's store was situated on the banks of the Salmon River and behind it was a deep swamp impossible to cross only when frozen hard. Thus in this way, settlers could get to it only going around by Ft. Covington. The custom officers were vigilant and took duties on everything. A petition was sent to the Legislature dated Nov. 12, 1820, and Mr. Davidson alleged that the prosperity of the settlement of Indian lands now designated as Dundee was being retarded by the want of a public road. In the situation of many of the inhabitants it was necessary to go into U.S. Territory to get to a store in Dundee. And they were subject to duties at this point. We pray for aid to open a suitable road on the British side of the line. No notice was taken and 2 months later, Mr. Davidson sent a petition asking for aid in building a road across the swamp to Davidson's store and wharf which was their outlet during navigation. The Assembly was not disposed to give aid to the Townships. On the 17th of February, the committee to whom Mr. Davidson's Petition was referred reported that the petitioners ought to have considered all these possibilities before they settled in such places. That in the country to which they came, the law was that all roads were a charge on the soil on which they were built. Therefore no aid from the public purse would be forthcoming. Undismayed by this rebuff, Mr. Davidson in the winter of 1822, renewed his request telling the Assembly that a serious inconvenience was being felt in this area. For want of roads, the Village of Dundee is separated by an impassable swamp a mile wide over which it is impossible to build a road. In order to get food it is necessary to pass into U.S. territory and the rapacity of the American customs officers is that they demand a duty of 16 1/2 per cent on all goods. What is worse they detain the goods if payment cannot be made at once. We are asking a grant of $400.00. To this no notice was given. Mr. Davidson made reference to much smuggling over the border. Before the coming of the railroad to Ogdensburg all the freight had to be hauled by teams from Plattsburg and Rouses Point to supply the entire area in between these points. This added much to the cost and goods could be brought for less by way of Montreal so it was that much smuggling was done and no notice was taken of this by American customs.

Only the ridges were tilled for many years, growing what was needed for home use and the main industry was lumbering and making potash. What the settlers would have done had there not been a market for potash would be hard to realize, it seems that Providence provided this means for the settlers to bring the land into production. On the pine plains were great stands of huge pine that withstood the ravages of the woodsman's axe for 20 years. Later, it became a desert of sandy soil as the litter of centuries wore away when it should have been allowed to grow again. This was the folly of many in those early days it seemed that to them there was no end to the timber. Men who were familiar with the woods in the Ottawa

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Thomson Feted

On Sunday, August 28th, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Thomson of the Beaver, charming bride and groom of 50 years, were "At Home" after noon and evening, to welcome some 230 guests who came to convey their best wishes on this happy occasion.

The spacious home, noted for its hospitality, was beautifully decorated in gold and white chrysantheums, and a most enjoyable afternoon and evening was spent socially by relatives, neighbors and friends from Montreal, Cornwall, Martintown, Belleville, Waterloo, Ont., Fort Covington, Potsdam and Syracuse.

The table was centered with a three-tier wedding cake in propelled by 4 oarsmen and steered by a captain with a long oar. When the wind was favourable a square sail was set. On a downward trip they would carry 15 tons, upstream only 5 tons. Being open, the cargo was exposed to damage by rain or water, at which time the crew would tie up at shore and wait out the storm while they rested. The French Canadians who mostly manned these craft, endured great hardships, and many times died in great danger of their lives. Many lost their lives running the rapids.

EARLY DAYS

area declared that they had not seen anything to compare with the pine West of Huntry Bay. This is of course now Cazaville Pines so straight and tall up to 80 and 120 ft in length for masts, were taken out each winter by way of Moquins Bay St. Anicet. Back of the 2nd range was a mast road. These masts were straight and smooth as they had to be, and up to 7 and 10 yoke of oxen were used. The roads were a good outlet in after years if it was necessary to go in that direction. Angus R. McDonald and Bag and Waight, brought over as many as 20 horses to hitch in tandem on to a single mast these came from Cornwall, Perault and Moquin of Quebec City, merchants, were the last to take out masts. At the coming of steam this was abandoned.

The making of potash was far too profitable a trade to allow the storekeepers of Ft Covington to monopolize, so shortly after the coming of Mr. Davidson, he added an ashery with a pearling oven to his establishment. Chas. Marsh, who had opened a store beside him, did likewise. He was an American and had been a clerk in Frothinghams in business. He entered into partnerships with Peter Cameron who had made a soap race course on Portage Is land, and after a fast and short career failed. Frothinghams then started him anew, he proved that he was a changed man, and did a large business. As long as Dundas retained its trade, the ashes and the making of potash did well. Other early storekeepers McCutchen, Wells, and Clayland — the first named committed suicide from despair over losses in lumbering. Then his clerk, Norman McDonald, took over the business and soon after Patrick Buchanan added a store to the number taking his brother-in-law David Baker into partnership in 1840. Up to 1848 all these stores did a big business, which was not confined to settlers only. In those days tea, tobacco, and whiskey and a few lines of dry goods, were cheaper in the U.S. than in Canada so these stores all on, or close to the border, sold more to customers in Glengary than Dundee during the war when the importation of spirits from the West Indies was stopped. The American distillers received a great impetus and they discovered the art of making mash of potatoes. By 1817 the country was spotted with distilleries making potato whiskey and their product had a ready market in Ontario as well as elsewhere on both sides of the line. The people of the low-Montreal, who had started J-him in business. He entered into partnerships with Peter Cameron who had made a soap appetite for the more firey type of drink. From 1822 whiskey began to take over the trade, and the importing of Jamaica Rum ceased. St. Lawrence Co. early became famous for its whiskey, and Franklin Co. at one time could boast of 17 distilleries, the chief one was Parish, Parishville whiskey was known far and wide. The importation of spirits was illegal at any time, but there was no serious attempt to curb it, and on summer nights barrels were rolled by the hundreds from the wharf at Dundee lines on to boats on the Salmon River. These were consigned to dealers on the north side of St. Lawrence River, and in winter long lines of teams were seen crossing the ice to the Glengary banks with liquid cargo and also to Stormont. This exchange for grain, pork, for whiskey, tobacco, tea. By the barrel, Parishville whiskey sold as low as 18 cents the gallon. It is a striking fact that not one of these merchants, after long years of business seem to prosper to any extent. The contraband was not the only trade out of Dundee Lines. Large shipments of Potash, lumber, were made to Montreal, in all kinds of craft, Barges, Durham boats, so called, as they were modeled after a type of boat built in Durham, England, used in the canal traffic there. I have found references to them in military dispatches, during the war of 1812 by the Americans but they were rarely used on the St. Lawrence until 1817. Then they began to be used extensively and proved far superior to the batteaux used before, being of a much larger carrying capacity.

In 1817, the collector of customs reported that 835 Batteaux had passed Coteau and only 268 Durham boats. In 1820, the position was reversed, 561 Durhams and 430 Batteaux, and the former carried 4 times the freight load, the Batteaux were about 20 ft long 6 wide and 3 ft deep, sharp pointed at both ends

A Gun Platform Unearthed At Coteau-Du-Lac

The Canadian Historic Sites Division archaeologists, who have been working since April 15 of this year at archeological excavations at Coteau-du-Lac, have just unearthed a 24-pounder platform, the construction of which goes back to the Rebellion of 1837-38.

The platform is alleged to have been built during February 1838, according to the Notes of an Old Soldier, written by Captain George Bell, who had participated in the defeat of the 'Sons of Liberty' at Saint-Eustache, before eventually taking up the command of the Coteau-du-Lac fortifications.

Prior to the battle of Saint-Eustache, the rebels had threatened to take Coteau and occupy it because the site commanded the main road linking Upper and Lower Canada. For want of troops to occupy the fort, the Government had the Coteau artillery spiked and submerged. A colonel of the Militia and a few volunteers later occupied the fort until the author of the said Notes took command on January 3, 1838.

His first initiative was to restore discipline, as the worst confusion was then rife at Coteau. A month later, as the author commanded a group of well trained men, it occurred to him to lift the guns out of the water in order to prevent any potential aggressor from passing the canal at Coteau, this canal being the sole means whereby ships could by-pass the Coteau rapids.

Having managed to salvage four 24-pounders weighing approximately 5,000 pounds each, the same officer summoned an artillery expert, who stated that the guns were useless because they were spiked with a special kind of nails. Later on, two enterprising individuals offered to bore in the vents (an opening to set off the charge) of the spiked guns, at a set price, a bargain which was agreed upon. Following three weeks of arduous labour, the vents were freed from their spikes without getting damaged in the process. The other guns were removed from the waters and the men built platforms upon which to set up batteries.

The platform just laid bare by the Canadian Historic Sites Division is the one which covered the south-west end of the canal. Laboratory tests have made it possible to determine that the lumber used was a coniferous species, probably spruce. Experts are of the opinion that the corrugations marking the surface of the platform may have been caused at a later date by the storing of gun barrels which, let us recall, may well have exceeded 5,000 pounds each.

Thanks to the studies conducted by the Chief Archaeologist at Coteau, Mr. Roger Fermières held a successful display of their work on Friday afternoon, August 26th, in the Municipal Hall in Ste. Agnes. All tables testified as to the excellent quality of their handiwork.

The Gleaner, Huntingdon, Que.

Dear Sirs, I have been reading the story of the Fenian Raids, and want to let you know how interested I was in reading the names of my Grandfather, George Anderson and my Father, James Fortune. My father had told me about being in the Fenian Raid, but I didn't know the year.

I have just visited my Uncle, George Anderson in Portland, he is 86 years old and has a wonderful memory of the early days there. "Thank" you for printing this story, as I'm sure many people have enjoyed it as I have.

I remain, Very sincerely, Gertrude Burtch.

COVERING THE ACTIVITIES OF THE "LITTLE ROYAL" EXHIBITION CENTRE

Evening Adult Group
ORMSTOWN — The Evening Adult Group of the Presbyterian W.M.S. met on Wednesday evening in the church hall, under the leadership of Mrs. Lindsay Cullen, with Mrs. Alan Hooker as secretary. A very timely topic on the church and youth was read by Mrs. Alvin Guer. Discussion took place and it was decided that the group would lend moral and financial support to the Young People's Society, which will be under the leadership of Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Greer. Letters were read and dealt with and plans were made to cater to an "At Home" early in September. There is an urgent need for support in all churches and the Ormstown Presbyterian is no exception. It is not financial support so much, as it is moral and physical support we need in all our church endeavours.

Mr. Carl Rember and Mr. Johnnie Brown of Howick left on Monday for Stellerton, Nova Scotia, where they will be employed for the next few weeks erecting a barn for the Henderson projects.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Edson of Ottawa and Mrs. Stanley Keir of Montreal, were supper and overnight guests on Wednesday of Mrs. James Anderson and Miss Mildred Hay.

Our best wishes to Mr. Walter Beattie, who has been a patient in a Montreal hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Art Henderson and Master Barry MacMillan called on Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Harvey and family in Stanbridge East last Wednesday. Miss Margaret Harvey returned with them to spend one week with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. McNeil, and help them get settled in their new home at 20 Lampton St.

Miss Floris Henderson is spending a holiday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Henderson having returned from a vacation with friends in Old Orchard Beach, Maine.

What Is Ormstown Doing

(By Bernice Cullen)

The residents of George Street are wondering if that promise for repaving their street will ever be carried out. Patching jobs, much needed, have been done to several streets in town, but George street is still waiting for that face lifting. The government surveyors have completed their appraisal of the old dam area and are about to prepare a profile for future study. It is possible that we might get action soon. And while we are in the dam area, what happened to that promenade, it was never completed, should we have a petition to get the thing finished or are going to leave the job half done?

Look for the weekend magazine this week-end . . . or next . . . the complete Ormstown Friendship Week will be covered.

Welcome back to Father Jose Larocque, who has been away during the summer, trying to get a much needed rest. We are pleased to know that he now has an assistant in the person of Father Pafard. Welcome to Ormstown, Sir.

To your GOOD HEALTH

Dr. Joseph G. Molner

I plan to marry soon and would appreciate advice on premarital examinations, etc., not only those required by law, but any concerning personal health and safeguards for my children. — THE FUTURE Mrs. L.W.

Your question is most welcome, because I have long contended that premarital physical examination plus some counseling can avoid a host of troubles.

In general, the law requires an "examination" in many states, but too often this is a perfunctory blood test to detect venereal disease, and that's all.

I'll outline what I think would be well worthwhile, and still not overly costly. It will cost more than a routine blood test, but will pay dividends in years to come.

1 — A general health check-up, including a chest X-ray. A moderate examination will show up such things as tuberculosis, diabetes, urinary infections, heart disease and a host of others. The best safeguard for children-to-be is healthy parentage. Obviously both members of the couple should have a checkup.

2 — Ideally, both partners should have some basic counseling in such things as the role of menstruation as a normal physiological process; and the so-called "safe period" when pregnancy is not likely, but with a warning that this is not a reliable contraceptive measure. Depending on religious or personal preferences, the doctor can quickly outline practical contraceptive measures. Contrary to general belief, "the pill" has not completely displaced other methods.

3 — Despite the presumed sophistication of young people these days, most of them still reach marriage age woefully ignorant of the true nature of sex, its naturalness and its rightness. Healthy sex is a part of love, of life, of marriage.

My advice as to this counseling: If something worries or puzzles you, ask the doctor about it. He may have some reluctance about wasting your time and his own on things you already know, but he is also aware that some of the simplest questions go unanswered because nobody asks. So ask!

4 — Many doctors can refer you to good books on the subject, and I have no wish to specify which one is best. However, I have just been going through a review copy of a new book, published this spring, which strikes me as being as good as any I have yet seen.

It is called "Personal and Private", and written by Grace Naismith with the help of a number of physicians. It is accurate, sane, written in plain language that is readily understood, and it is carefully kept non-technical. At the same time, it answers just about every question that is likely to arise.

A word of warning: Don't try to order it through this column. I have nothing whatsoever to do with the book except that I've read it and think highly of it. If your bookstore doesn't have it, you can order a copy: The publisher is David McKay Co.

How Was Your Weekend — Deadly?

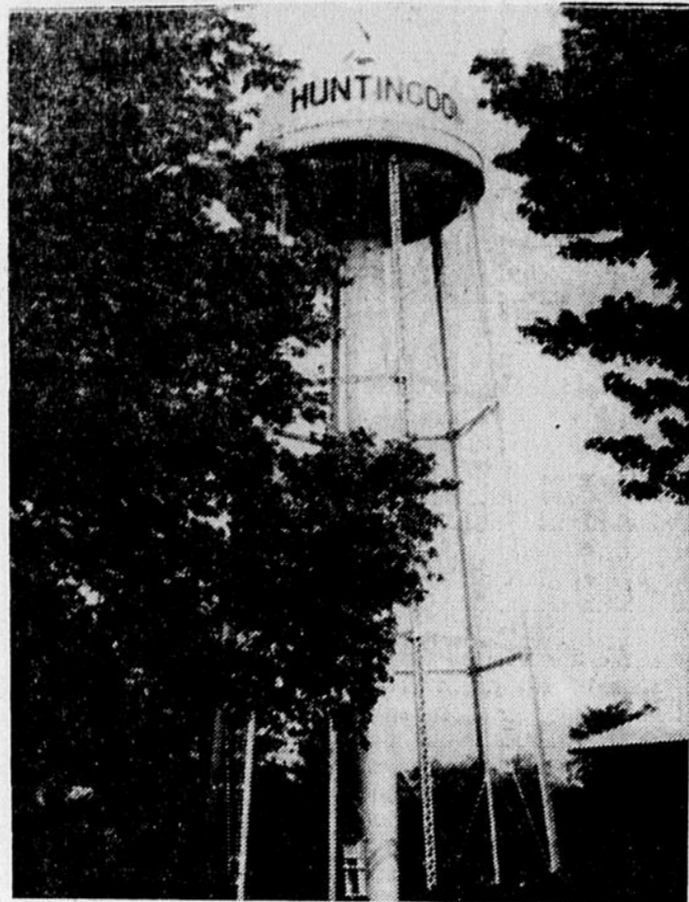

A pre-Labor Day program on safe driving entitled How Was Your Weekend — Deadly? will be heard on the CBC Radio network on Friday, September 2nd, at 7.03 p.m. Bob MacGregor, well-known host of RPM, the Montreal-produced show for motorists, and Toronto broadcaster Phil Murray will be offering safety tips, discussing the responsibilities of the drivers, and advising listeners how to keep out of trouble and survive.

"On the program, we will be analyzing typical accidents, explaining the background of each, and offering suggestions on how such smash-ups could have been avoided."

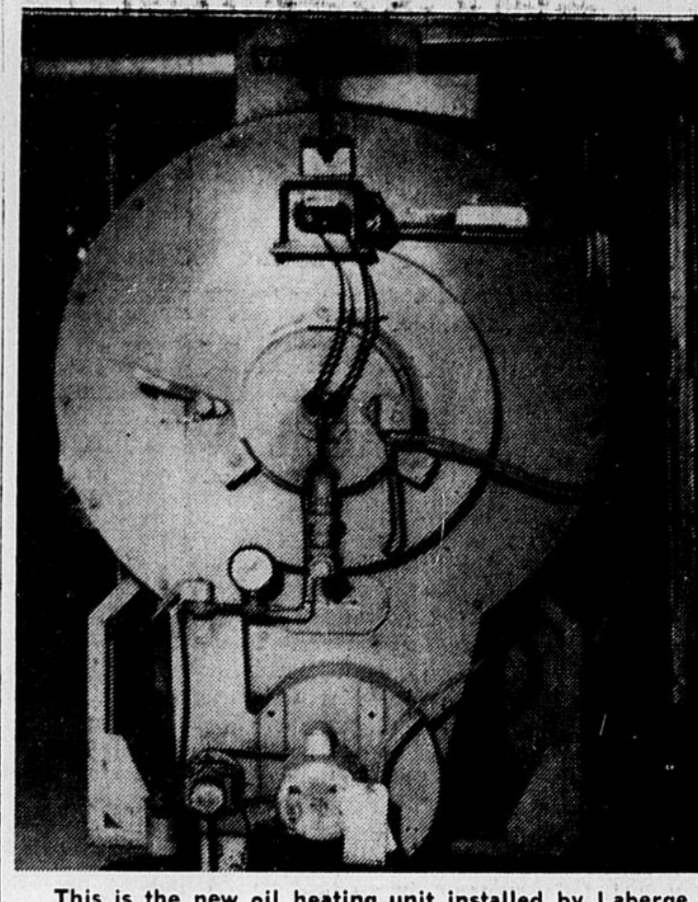

"If a head-on crash is imminent, you may not have the seconds needed to correct some minor driving fault. Simple safety measures can make the difference between life and death on our crowded highways." Bob MacGregor says. "For instance, do you always keep both hands on the wheel, sit well back from the wheel, and use your seat belts at all times? As well as reminding listeners about basic driving skills, we will be going into more constructive suggestions to help CBC Radio listeners get through Labor Day weekend alive."

In the six years that RPM has been heard on CBC Radio, Bob MacGregor has made himself one of Canada's best known authorities on the topic of motor racing and rallying. For two successive years he has received the Canadian Racing Drivers' Association award for outstanding coverage of motor sports events. Last Spring he also received the annual award of the Canadian Automotive Sports Club (Ontario region) for outstanding radio broadcasting — the first time anybody outside Ontario has been so honored.

Participation is the key word in Bob's success story. He usually enters Canada's two big events — the Canadian Winter Rally and the Shell 4000. He is also an experienced racing driver.
