Chef denies egg assault on waitress

Jacques Gendron of Ile Bizard, 25, chef at a restaurant in Chateau Maisonneuve, Claremont avenue and de Maisonneuve boulevard west, pleaded not guilty in Westmount Municipal Court yesterday morning to a charge of assault.

It is alleged that, on Dec. 11, he threw an egg at Waitress Mrs. Margaret Psihogios.

Trial was set for Feb. 5.

The School Commissioners for the Municipality of the City of Westmount Monday night re-elected Lawyer William T. Wood chairman and Physician John M. Elder vice-chairman for 1970 at their first statutory monthly meeting of the new year.

The two-and-a-quarter-hour meeting got off to its usual late start, at 8:16 pm by the Westmount High School clock. Furthermore, it was displaced from its own board room by a private meeting of the executive of the Quebec Federation of Home & School Associations and convened in the teachers' common room. The Westmount-based QFHSA was hammering out a brief on Bill 62.

The full board was present, including newly-elected-by-acclamation J. Ian Gow and re-elected, also by acclamation, Mrs. Muriel Kaplan, both of whom were congratulated by their colleagues. Mr. Wood did not arrive until 8:27 to take over the chair from Dr. Elder and be told that

Rally here on Bill 62

Westmount is to have its own public meeting to air views on Bill 62.

It takes place in Westmount High School auditorium Monday evening, Jan. 26.

The WHS, Westmount Park and Roslyn Home and School associations and the Westmount Municipal Association, together with local English Roman Catholic parents' groups, are all expected to be well represented.

Speakers have not yet been decided, but a representative of the department of education in Quebec is to be on hand.

The meeting is open to all interested persons.

14 missing kids lived in pad on Dorchester

Westmount Police investigation Saturday exposed for Montreal authorities a house on Dorchester boulevard west in the latter city in which 14 young teenagers, all missing from their homes, had been living for varying periods.

It started with two juveniles, ages 17 and 14, being picked up for loitering in Alexis Nihon Plaza.

The older boy readily admitted his identity and that he was missing from his home in Verdun, to which he was returned.

But the 14-year-old was tougher stuff. It took seven hours to get him to own up to who he was — likewise missing, for two months, from his Montreal home — and where he had been staying:

WMA tackles pollution

Pollution, in all forms including noise, is to be probed by a special committee set up Tuesday night at a meeting of the Westmount Municipal Association executive.

It will be headed by Dr. Geoffrey Lehman, 349 Lansdowne avenue, chairman of WMA's health and welfare standing committee, who gave an informal but thoughtful survey of the rising problem of noise.

"The public," he said, "must be aroused against various forms of noise so that they won't be accepted. For example, nobody tolerates a noisy refrigerator or typewriter anymore."

The study will go into ways of controlling the various forms of pollution at the provincial and regional levels.

Bill 62

The open meeting on Bill 62 to be held at Westmount High School on Jan. 26 should be conducted with factual fairness, the executive agreed. The explanatory preamble of the bill should be distributed to the audience, good speakers should appear for both sides, and there should be some discussion from the floor, it was urged.

Concern was expressed that a high school civic course suggested by the WMA may become only an extracurricular affair. The idea was that it be part of the regular studies.

Under housing and zoning, the St. Antoine street urban renewal question again came to the fore. The WMA executive is awaiting the City Council's answer.

Car jockeys own up, one sought for taking car of Square tenant

Two Westmount Square parking attendants went to Westmount Police headquarters Monday evening and told officers that they had used the 1967 Buick Wildcat, owned by a tenant who was away in California, without consent.

Up to yesterday, they had not been charged, but a search was out for a third man, also an employee of the complex, who apparently had taken out the same car a second time, on Sunday, but ran into trouble when the radiator froze and he was unable to return the vehicle. Westmount Police located it near Jean Talon and Durocher street in Montreal on Tuesday night and had it towed in to the Stanton street police lot.

The first pair admitted that they had taken the car out Friday night about 10 pm and returned it at 6 am Saturday, apparently undetected. However, their manager had noticed it gone on the second occasion, and the jig was up.

Swearings-in to mark new Council's opening

The mid-month meeting of Westmount City Council Tuesday night will have a different format at the opening.

City Clerk R. B. Seaman will report on the result of civic nomination day Monday, when Ald. G. Ian Craig and Ald. Daniel O.C. Doherty were unopposed and were declared re-elected by acclamation.

The finance and public safety kingpins, respectively, of Westmount will then be sworn and a new council will be officially inaugurated.

The mixed-bag agenda will include the naming of committees, in which no change in the "portfolios" held by the various aldermen in 1969 is anticipated for 1970.

The pro-mayor for January and February is also expected to be appointed from among the aldermen — an office which may assume greater importance with the launching of the Montreal Urban Community and the involvement of the mayor in its council, and possibly even its executive to represent the nine suburban cities or towns of the centre sector.

There was growing talk at city hall this week that Mayor Peter M. McEntyre would be a logical choice to be one of the two centre sector executive members, Mayor Garipey of Verdun being the other. If this came to pass, Westmount's chief magistrate was thought to stand a good chance of being the choice of all the suburban municipalities to be vice-chairman of the Community's executive.

Mayor McEntyre was not known to be actively campaigning among his fellow mayors but is believed to be prepared to accept an executive position if asked.

Weredale House

by BRUCE INGLIS

The past holiday has proven to be very enjoyable for all at Weredale House.

Preparations for the annual Christmas dinner started as soon as school closed on Dec. 23. That evening all associated with Weredale, as well as friends of the House, sat down to what for some may have been the first of many Christmas dinners to come.

Boys went to spend their holiday with friends or relatives in the United States and Canada. Weredale House became a silent onlooker as about 50 percent of its boys spent their holidays away.

As can be expected, it was a very gloomy group who returned the night before school resumed. From all of us to all of you, "A Very Happy New Year."

In his report, the retiring president, Mr. Nanduri, mentioned one of the highlights of the past year being the incorporation of this organization which, in future, will be known as "India Canada Association of Montreal, Incorporated."

he had been renamed chairman.

The meeting was opened by B. S. Schaffelburg, district superintendent, who noted the absence of the secretary-treasurer, Albert E. Mount, due to illness. Mr. Mount hopes to be back for the next meeting, later set for the annual second Monday of the month, Feb. 9. Mr. Schaffelburg presided over the unanimous choice of Mr. Wood and Dr. Elder as top officers of the local school board, then handed the meeting over to Dr. Elder.

Civics

The vice-chairman saw the minutes disposed of, out of which the disastrous start of the proposed extra-curricular civics course at the high school last Wednesday afternoon was taken up with some concern. Mayor Peter M. McEntyre had been on hand to lead the first session, for which only two persons appeared, and it was called off.

The commissioners discussed the future of the course, particularly the scheduled visit of Hon.

C. M. Drury, MP for Westmount, Feb. 18. They did not want to repeat the fiasco, and to that end agreed that intensive publicity should be launched within the school to assure future attendance, failing which assurance the series should be called off.

Mr. Gow said that from his experience teaching at the University of Montreal, such courses to succeed must be given within regular hours. However, Commissioner A. Reid Tilley said that this would be difficult in a subject-promotion school such as WHS.

Mr. Wood arrived. Mrs. D. Lloyd Smith still thought the course should be worked into school hours and Mrs. Kaplan reminded that it was originally conceived to be part of the history course.

... and WMA

Mr. Wood thought that the students' council should be prodded on publicity and the Home & School Association "activated" on the problem - to which Dr. Elder added the Westmount Municipal Association, with whom he credited the original idea for the course.

Mr. Schaffelburg said he hoped the burden would not be added to the heavy duties of Noel Hamilton, the principal.

The board then moved on to other items - see separate stories - and the meeting terminated at 10:31 pm. Besides the commissioners and the superintendent, there were present one representative of the press and one note-taking member of the public.

Mrs. Kaplan and Mr. Gow were sworn in prior to the meeting by Mr. Tilley, a commissioner for oaths, who also is chairman of the Protestant School Board of Greater Montreal and Westmount's representative on that body.

Eatery fire was threat to building

In a week which saw five days with no fire alarms and a sixth with a small rash of three trouble calls within two hours, (see log on P. 5), Westmount Fire Brigade had a blaze of potentially serious proportions on its hands last Friday evening.

An eating place at 4174 St. Catherine street west, opposite Westmount Square, which calls itself the "Westmount Square Restaurant" had a flare-up in its deepfat fryer just before 7:30 pm. In the absence of customary automatic CO2 extinguishers, the flames leapt up the ventilation duct over the cooker, quickly spreading into the ceiling and the floor of the kitchen of the apartment above.

The building, which includes two floors of apartments upstairs, was evacuated. Westmount Police assisting an elderly woman to safety. The restaurant ceiling had to be pulled down to get at the flames while in the room above the fire was fortunately contained by adjoining brick walls. Firemen had to contend with dense smoke in the early stages of the one-hour and 40-minute fight.

Mutual aid was called and men and equipment of the Outremont Fire Department stood by at No. 1 Station on Stanton street.

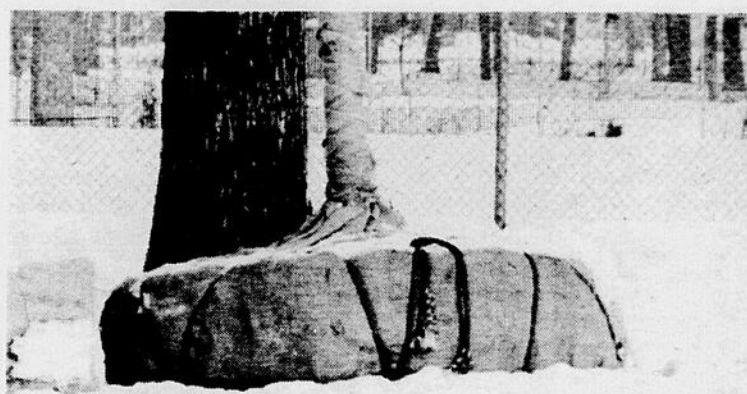

The following three days, Saturday, Sunday and Monday, Westmount's firemen were not called upon to stir from their two stations.

Bopped?

When his relief arrived shortly before 7 am yesterday morning, an overnight garage attendant at Alexis Nihon Plaza was found sprawled on the floor with a small wound on his forehead. A check of the cash revealed a small sum missing. The case is classified by Westmount Police as this city's first robbery with violence for 1970. The victim thought he merely had fallen asleep.

This one was spotted by our camera last week alongside the tennis courts in Westmount Park.

End this

Nearly four years ago we said, and still say:

Public housing, specially in Westmount, is for the birds.

Then, it was the outcry by and in behalf of the residents of Selby street.

When the provincial roads people, very prematurely as it turned out, expropriated these folks for the still awaited Trans-Canada Highway through Westmount, the city commendably located alternate homes, here and elsewhere, for them.

Label us reactionary, but that was the extent of the civic duty.

Instead, in our zeal to do more, we let ourselves in for a pack of trouble. The siren call of publicly financed housing led to looking at urban renewal on the grand scale in the southeast corner of the city.

The hard-headed excuse was that this might attract an ambitious redevelopment, boost the city's tax base and perhaps even self-liquidate the cost to the civic purse of it all.

To the contrary, we reaped a whole new lot of alarmed, upset and angry residents along St. Antoine street, the weighted if not weighty criticism of social planners, and no serious developer with the resources and the will to sink millions below the tracks.

Meanwhile the Québec Housing Corporation, zealous to grab a big chunk of federal funds and a lesser sum from a broke Québec government in our name, has left the City of Westmount with mud on its face.

We say, drop it.

Shelve the plans until there is a developer, until the Trans-Canada Highway is definitely revived, until Ottawa sorts out its housing policy, until provincial finances come down to reality, until the Urban Community's role in all this is shaped.

Let the St. Antoine street landlords make their own improvements, and return to full private initiative the rest of the urban renewal districts.

Above all, forget about public housing. The vast ma-

We Say

It has become fashionable to discuss with suitable alarm these days the increasingly pressing problem of the befouling of our environment. Westmount participates in the study of air pollution, yet corporately probably is the biggest single contributor to the menace in our immediate area. The black pall above the clean, white snow of Westmount Park in our photo above is cinders, fly-ash, carbons, sulphur dioxide and other pollutants thrown up by yet another batch of garbage being burned at the city's own incinerator on Glen road.

majority of the existing residents of Westmount should see no reason why the taxes they pay to any jurisdiction - city, province or Ottawa - should subsidize housing at up to $40,000 per unit, perhaps more, in Westmount for a new, separate class of specially privileged citizen, even if now definable as under-privileged.

Four years of hard, conscientious effort by our mayors, aldermen and city officials may have gone up the flue. But no concern and very little interest has been displayed by citizen-rate-payers not residing or working in the directly affected urban renewal zone.

Serious city hall attention might now, instead, be turned to other urgent problems, such as the subject of our picture above.

reform:
scare tactics

In the continuing debate on the government's tax reform proposals, certain elements of the financial community are using the old scare tactic again, predicting a mass exodus to the United States if the white paper proposals on personal income and capital gains taxes are adopted.

The trumpet of doom struck a high note with the American government's recently enacted tax reform bill. Things were bad before that event - now they will be disastrous.

To quote John Meyer of The Gazette: "Notwithstanding Mr. Benson's confidence in U.S. immigration laws and Vietnam as deterrents, the inducements to leave Canada for the U.S. are dangerously strengthened, particularly for the middle income man whose tax would be halved."

I would agree that a young, single man with no particular attachments may well decide to emigrate to the United States, but not usually for taxation purposes. He will go because he wants to do a little exploring before settling down (if he ever does) to married life. Or he may want to take advantage of better research facilities that prevail in certain American fields. The reason, whatever it might be, is unlikely to be taxes.

Unkind

It is most unkind of critics to suggest that the government's proposed increases in the personal income tax are in any way influenced by the effect of the Vietnam war or the present U.S. immigration laws on Canadians. By the time the proposals become law I would hope to see an end to the war in Vietnam and a relaxation of U.S. immigration laws as they affect Canadians. On the other hand, if people now are trying to leave Canada for the U.S. on the basis of the proposals only, then I am afraid these people have either misunderstood the purpose of a white paper or never really had a particularly strong attachment to Canada and its future.

It is my firm conviction that Canadians will continue to remain in Canada because they have certain ties - the land, patriotism, their family - which would make emigration to the U.S. very difficult, if not impossible.

Furthermore, the U.S. is just not Canada. Its greater productivity, with a consequent greater GNP which results in more personal amenities than we Canadians possess are, in almost every Canadian's opinion, outweighed by racial tensions, urban problems, and environmental pollution, all of which are much more in evidence south of the border than they are in Canada.

The Carter commission on the question of to what extent Canadian income taxes affect the ability of Canada to retain able and highly trained Canadians, concluded: "We are sceptical that tax factors have been a major factor in emigration."

Decrease

A Canadian knows that his economy has a lower productivity by 20 to 30 percent than the American one. Similarly, he realizes that a job in the United States comparable to his would pay 20 to 30 percent more wages or salary. Yet there has not been any spectacular mass exodus to the United States in recent years. Why? Presumably for the same reasons why a redistribution in Canadian income taxes coupled with a decrease in the American income tax rate is not going to generate substantial emigration to the U.S. In point of fact, between 1965 and 1967 there was a decrease in the number of Canadian-born persons emigrating annually to the U.S.

The figures for 1965, '66, and '67 are 37,519, 27,707 and 22,129 respectively. Equally interesting figures are those for American citizens entering Canada annually. In 1964, 11,350 Americans immigrated to Canada. In 1968 almost double that number - 19,059 - entered Canada. All of which leads one to believe that Canadians are staying home, despite the economics attractions of the U.S., and that Americans are coming to Canada in greater numbers, despite our economic disadvantages.

I am willing to predict that tax reform in Canada will not affect noticeably this trend.

New Liberal leader

On Saturday the Québec Liberal Party will choose a new leader to take over the direction of the party from Jean Lesage who has rendered distinguished service not only to his party, but to his province and to Canada, since 1958 in the provincial field.

The choice of the convention delegates is between three highly qualified and attractive candidates and at the time of writing there is no clear indication as to who may emerge as the final winner. Nor is this time or place for your correspondent to indicate a personal preference. Any prime minister of Québec within the next six months.

Robert Bourassa, at 36, is the youngest of the three relatively young candidates. Since his election to parliament in 1966 he has quickly established himself as the leading opposition critic on finance and economic matters. His legal and economics training and his long experience in government administration, make him a natural choice for those who are primarily concerned with Québec's vital problems in the area of economics as well as education.

Robert Bourassa the most appealing

Perhaps not all the would-be candidates are heard from, but to date of those who have put their names forward for the leadership of the Liberal opposition in Québec we would be happiest to see Robert Bourassa, the young, learned member of the National Assembly for Mercier, achieve the post.

Inevitably one thinks of a party leader in terms of his

one of the three contestants will be in a position to provide determined leadership to a team which doubtless will include the runners-up as well as Mr. Lesage, and which will be able to offer to the people of Québec an administration dedicated to furnish a dynamic and enlightened direction to Québec of the Seventies.

Unlike the governing Union Nationale party at their leadership convention last June, the Liberal delegates are not being asked to choose between federalist and quasi-separatist candidates. Each of the three aspirants has come out clearly for a strong Québec within an united Canadian federation. For this reason there is little likelihood that the constitutional question will be a big factor at the weekend convention. The real issues will resolve themselves into the different conceptions of the three candidates to provide good and efficient government for Québec.

DIFFERENCE

Another striking difference from the U.N. convention last June has been the relative absence of personal attacks between the candidates themselves, and there is no reason to believe that this attitude will change before the convention is over. On accepting the general chairmanship of the convention committee, Mr. Lesage declared last September that his hopes and plans would be to preside over a serious, businesslike convention which would deal solely with the job of choosing a new leader for the party.

There is no doubt he correctly judged the feeling of all Québécois that the present difficult times facing our province do not lend themselves to the habitual convention atmosphere of bands and a holiday mood. The business at hand is to choose the man who not only will lead the Québec Liberal Party, but who will have a better than even chance to become

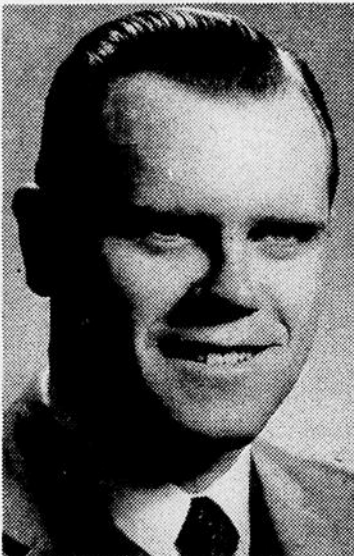

OLDEST

Pierre Laporte, at 48, is the oldest and of the three, has the longest experience as a member of the legislature. His organizational and executive ability have earned him the title of the "executive" candidate, and no one has seriously contested his reputation as the most able debater and parliamentarian in the National Assembly. His outstanding services as chief party whip and opposition house leader make him the choice of those who look to the leader as one who will take charge of the team, and who will search out the most competent persons to deal with the many problems facing Québec.

Claude Wagner, at 44, is the third "lawyer" candidate. His appointment as minister of justice in the Lesage administration climaxed a brilliant legal career as practitioner, Crown prosecutor, and judge of the Sessions Court. His widely acknowledged reputation as a fighter of organized crime and as the advocate of law and order make him the choice of those who want, first and foremost, peace, order and good government.

Only one thing is certain. The new Liberal leader will be a lawyer. Almost as certain is the fact that he shortly will be called

Sunday crash loss heavy

An 18-month-old boy was slightly injured and treated at the Montreal Children's Hospital and two cars badly damaged on Clarke Avenue, beside St. Leo's Church, at 9:50 o'clock Sunday morning. Both drivers were Westmount residents.

David Levy, 27, of 430 Clarke Avenue, was proceeding north on Clarke from de Maisonneuve boulevard in his 1967 Mercury and collided with a 1966 Buick, driven by Philippe Roy, 61, of 4506 St. Catherine street west, headed south on Clarke before making a left-hand turn toward a lane running off Clarke, into Levy's path.

The Mercury's damage was estimated at $1,000, the front end being nearly demolished. The Buick will require $300 worth of repairs. The child was the son of Mr. Levy.

PLAN WESTMOUNT CHURCHES ECUMENICAL EVENT

IN U.S. SKI HALL OF FAME

Westmount's Wurtele twins, Rhoda and Rhona, now Mrs. A.K.L. Eaves and Mrs. G. Gillis of Town of Mount Royal, as they left recently to be honored by the American Ski Association. The two champions were brought up on Lansdowne avenue. They had been advised by telegram by the president of the Association: "It is my great pleasure to inform you that you have been elected to the United States Ski Association National Ski Hall of Fame, in the Foreign Ski Athlete category. Your election was by ballot of the USSA board of directors, in recognition of your tremendous contribution to the growth of the sport of skiing. Earl D. Walters, president, U.S. Ski Association." The twins, who are also members of Canada's Athletic Hall of Fame, represented Canada at two Olympic meets, and are co-holders of the Rose Bowl, signifying their choice as Canada's most outstanding woman athletes. During their skiing career, they have won American, Canadian and Norwegian national championships as well as top awards in many international ski competitions. During her residence in the United States, when first married, Rhona was a member of the U.S. World F.I.S. team, while Rhoda coached and managed the Canadian national ladies' ski team when the latter competed in Europe in 1959-60. Both are still active skiers, as well as instructors, conducting children's programs, including the Ski Jays, and also conduct classes for women.

THEY'RE CONTINUING EDUCATION

In spite of the cold weather at least 50 showed up for an open house at the Westmount YMCA Monday night, to register for courses offered under the "Y"'s Continuing Education program. Refreshments were served and tours of new facilities, including the sauna bath, were given by Gary Boone, physical education director.

Under Program Director Douglas Devenne, the Westmount "Y" offers a variety of activities and courses including painting and drawing, creative handicrafts, yoga, modern ballroom dancing, bridge, creative writing, introductory speed and developmental reading, folk and flamenco guitar.

According to Miss Susan Young, Continuing Adult Education director, courses have been popular and successful this year.

Except for creative handicrafts and evening yoga, registration for all courses is still open. The program gets underway this Monday, and registration may continue until the evening of the commencement of a particular course. REPORTS OF MONDAY'S SCHOOL BOARD MEETING

Schaffelburg fills in particulars for month

District Superintendent B. S. Schaffelburg, in his monthly report to Westmount School Board Monday evening, said that enrolment of Roslyn School was up five from December to 808, Westmount Park School down 11 from September to 410 and Westmount High School up 3 to 1,115 from December.

Total enrolment in Westmount schools was 2,333, up nine from September.

Two invalid teachers have now returned to duty.

Board pursues health scheme

Commissioner Dr. J. M. Elder reported to the local school board Monday night the health committee had visited the South Shore area to investigate further a health development program. He also was writing to the chairman of the South Shore board for specific information.

Dr. Elder said that there was a possibility that the nurse who had acted as co-ordinator for the South Shore program may find an opening in the city's health department staff, from which post she might perform the same duties in Westmount schools.

Later, Dr. Elder expressed concern that psychiatric services now available to local schools might be withdrawn under the mistaken impression that the city's youth mental health program was in operation and made such services unnecessary. Dr. Elder undertook to advise the services concerned that, while some work had been undertaken in individual cases, the local program was not truly launched.

Unrest noted over Bill 62 among public

"Protestants generally are trying to be constructive about Bill 62 and are leaning toward the necessity for reorganization of education on linguistic lines," Chairman William T. Wood opined at Monday night's Westmount School Board meeting.

He said this as Commissioner A. Reid Tilley reported in his capacity as chairman of the Protestant School Board of Greater Montreal that a committee of four constitutional lawyers is preparing a paper on the position of Protestants in the Province of Quebec.

Also, Mr. Wood felt that the public generally was getting increasingly exercised about the changes about to be made. The Home & School associations and the Westmount Municipal Association are planning a public meeting on the subject on Monday evening, Jan. 26.

Mr. Tilley reported that the PSBGM has prepared a brief, now being translated, to be presented to a National Assembly committee in Quebec later this month. It was prepared taking into account commentaries by the St. Laurent, Lachine and Westmount local boards. He said it will be presented by advance copy to members of the government committee but would not be made public prior to the hearing. He said the feeling was that the PSBGM and West Island boards should be preserved in restructuring and linguistic rights safeguarded.

One hundred youngsters from Roslyn School had entertained residents of the Eventide Home in Montreal West over Christmas, playing recorders.

Kindergarten capacity at Roslyn had been reached; there would be a serious problem accommodating any more youngsters who may move into the school area, due to the popularity of the all-French program in that school.

Six officers from a Russian ship now in port had visited Westmount Park School, from which students were to pay a return call on the vessel. (See last night's Star, p. 1)

Parents of Grade 5 and 6 students at the two elementary schools are to be shown sex education films proposed to be seen later by the youngsters.

A scheme is being worked out for boys attending Westmount Park School from Weredale House to visit homes of fellow students in the area.

The experimental school committee at Westmount High held its first meeting Dec. 10, chaired by Principal Noel Hamilton. Among items discussed were staff turnover, subject promotion, greater liaison between the high and elementary schools, and more skill courses. Five members had toured the school. Regarding this committee, Chairman W. T. Wood later commented: "It would be a pity if the school committee became just another board of censure. I think we have a responsibility to the staff of the school to protect them."

The lunch-time theatre at the high school has been a great success. Attendance for the three productions to date had been 160, 160 and 120. Six more shows are planned.

An open Home & School meeting is planned for Jan. 26, involving all schools and to which Roman Catholic parents would be welcome, to discuss school restructuring.

Examinations begin at WHS next Thursday.

SACU tests for university entrance are scheduled for 176 students on Feb. 4.

The after-school philosophy course continues to attract a regular 20 students.

French urban summer camp plans shaped

Plans for a French urban summer camp in Westmount have been further refined, Commissioner Mrs. Sam Kaplan reported to the school board Monday night.

Three camps for 100 six-to nine-year-olds each are planned for June 29 to July 10, July 13 to 24, and July 27 to Aug. 7 with the purpose of providing an immersion-type exposure to French culture, promote French-English relationship and "to make summer in the city fun."

Mrs. Kaplan said that much interest was shown by participants at the most recent organizational meeting, which included Ald. John Birks for the city; Westmount YMCA people, and members of the Westmount Municipal Association recreation committee.

There has been discussion with Le Manoir in Notre Dame de Grace for exchanges with the French-speaking youngsters in their summer program.

How will Academy road snow get cleaned?

Academy closing deal progresses

Closing of the part of Academy road fronting Westmount Park School is proceeding.

Chairman W. T. Wood told Westmount School Board Monday night that before a deed can be prepared, transferring the section from the City of Westmount to the education authorities, an agreement has had to be drafted which has been circulated to those concerned and appears to be in order. It is to go before the PSBGM planning and building committee today, then to the central board itself and the department of education for approval before further action can be taken.

Only reservations still expressed by the local commissioners are possible problems with snow removal and concern over any storm-drain problems, which would be board responsibilities. However, these are not expected to hold up the addition of the piece of city street to the Park School's play and recreation area.

Are purple, white on the way out?

Is the traditional, rich, regal and apparently loved purple identifying Westmount High School on the way out?

Local school commissioners were fearing this on Monday night when they, nonetheless, agreed to loan the WHS Home & School Association $130 to purchase blazers for the school band - in "hop sacking" of a dark shade of blue.

In agreeing the loan - to be repaid after a fund-raising in April - the board concurred in Chairman W. T. Wood's offer that he investigate a source he thought might provide the dear old purple, despite the dye and weight problems reported by Commissioner Mrs. D. Lloyd-Smith.

Majors and Minors
By FRANCES GOLTMAN

Great mementoes

Several weeks ago, before the festive holidays, I was telephoned by a lady who is a reader of this column and told me she had some old programs. Would I like them?
Upon hearing what they were, I was delighted.

Time passed. Last Friday, I received them, very carefully packed with the following note: "Dear Miss Goltman: Perhaps you will recall our telephone conversation some time ago about the enclosed. I held them until the holiday rush of mail was over and do hope they will be interesting enough to add to your collection. With kindest regards, Eileen Gallagher."

Many, many thanks to this kind Westmounter, who resides on St. Catherine street west, for these two very old souvenirs and one of a recent Rubinstein concert which, of course, I had attended.

Now the rare one. Instead of adding it to my collection, I will have it framed - with glass on both sides. It is a Paderewski program - a picture of "The King of Pianists," (which is written beside his name) the Polish virtuoso, standing with his hands holding the top of a chair.

The date of the concert: Easter Monday, April 24, 1905; the place: Monument National. Size of the program is 8 1/2 by 11 inches. F. A. Veith was the Montreal impresario and Stewart Houston, director of the Canadian Tour.

There are two testimonials from Paderewski, one from London, 1892, to Mr. Steinway and a larger-spaced one dated, New York, May 15, 1900, to the Steinway firm. I should like to reprint here the content since many people do not realize that the greatest concert artists practise continuously. "Gentlemen: Before leaving your hospitable shore, I must convey to you my most heartfelt thanks for the beautiful Steinway upright piano that you have placed in my private car. ... In view of the fact that in my recent concert tournee we covered over 22,000 miles, and that we went through severe cold to tropical heat, I was surprised beyond words that this little piano did not show the slightest change in action, mechanism and tone under the trying ordeal. The beauty of the tone, the power of its resonance were a source of daily delight to me, as I had the instrument in constant use practising for my concerts. Sincerely, I. J. Paderewski."

Speaks for itself - doesn't it?
At that time the Nordheimer Piano and Music Co. Ltd. were the only authorized representatives throughout Canada for Steinway pianos.

On the other side there are five big ads. In the centre is a three-by-three-inch square with the program in small print. Six numbers were very long works. Bach (Chromatic Fantasie and Fugue), Beethoven (Moonlight Sonata), two works by Schumann, one the difficult Toccata, Brahms's Variations on a Theme by Paganini; six Chopin pieces, Melodia op. 16 by himself and Liszt's Rhapsodie No. 6.

The Westmount Examiner, Thursday, Jan. 15th, 1970 - 15

Underneath is a notice: "His Majesty's Theatre (Three Nights and Sat. Matinee) Beginning Thurs. Eve'g Apr. 27 Eve. at 5.30, Matinee at 11.00, Mr. Henry W. Savage's Majestic Production of Parsifal. Presented as at Bayreuth. With artists from the leading European Opera Houses. Company of 200. The most imposing Operatic production ever sent on tour. Prices from 75 cts. to $3.00."

My mother went to one of the 5.30 performances and told me they had time off for supper; some people brought lunches. I have the Parsifal libretto from that event, which was 25 cents!

$1,500 prang

Some $1,500 damage was done to two cars at 10:25 pm Monday opposite 4379 de Maisonneuve boulevard west when Peter Mitchell, 35, of Beaconsfield rammed his Pontiac into the parked Mustang of Mrs. Ginette Couillard of Pointe Claire. It was snowing lightly and the pavement was greasy. Mitchell said that he was forced to swerve by another car which cut him off.

Driver shaves
in rush traffic

Spotted on Sherbrooke street in the heavy eastbound rush-hour traffic Monday morning - a new version of the storied one-arm driver.

Except this was broad daylight and the driver was alone in his car.

Instead of being behind the wheel, this ambidextrous chap who makes every minute count, or perhaps had risen late, was sitting in the middle of the front seat, steering with one hand and using the rear-view mirror, was shaving with a portable electric razor.

And he really navigated quite well, though his is not a practice recommended by traffic authorities.

Prof. Higgins answers head-table question

Airport site story is told to Rotarians

Many factors were studied before the final choice of site for the new international airport for Montreal was made, stated Professor Benjamin Higgins of the University of Montreal who produced the economic report, to Westmount Rotary at Victoria Hall yesterday.

Factors such as its links to the metropolis and the employment it would provide, were some of the main items studied. There was more agreement than conflict between those who had to make the choice, and between the provincial or federal governments.

St. Scholastique was chosen after a comprehensive study had been made between four locations. Possibilities for employment for those living in the vicinity of each site were weighed, he said.

Consideration was also given to the type of industries to be located near the airport as well as their effect on the geographic pattern.

President Curt Ross called on Frank Kenwood to introduce the speaker. Norman R. Dobson, newest member, was again introduced to the members. Among visitors was Hugh McCormick, prominent member of the Westward Rotary Club. Good wishes for a speedy recovery again were expressed for Mike Tansey, still hospitalized after an accident in which he suffered a triple fracture of the leg. Frank Carlin was welcomed by members following a short absence, as was Dan McLuskie following an operation.

'Odd Couple' makes third hit

The ease with which the Centaur Theatre Company, that compact and talented little group operating from their open stage in the old Stock Exchange on St. Francois Xavier street, knocks out repeated successes continues to amaze.

Their third new production in as many months, "The Odd Couple," opened last Wednesday evening to a not-quite-full house - due probably to uncomfortable weather, the mid-week, and a post-holiday satiation with entertainment, albeit of other variety.

Nonetheless, we commend the Neil Simon play - made recently into a film starring Richard Burton and Rex Harrison - as a fine pick-me-up.

What particularly amazes is that this vigorous group manages to prepare one new play on top of another. Between performances they must really work for their bread.

The story is simple: two men who have split with their wives live together and find they get as much on each other's nerves as they did with their natural mates.

The opening minutes of this production suggest that unhappily this time Centaur has laid an egg, until one realizes that the four first-appearing characters, all males, fill minor roles. This quartet acted as if they had joined the cast only that afternoon.

David Schurmann and Maurice Podbrey

The more polished acting soon comes, an excellent combination of Maurice Podbrey, the artistic director of the company, as the truly masculine lead, and David Schurmann, who provided so much fun in the earlier "Prime of Miss Jean Brodie" and "Joe Egg," as his housewifely partner.

"The Odd Couple" runs Tuesdays through Sundays at 8:30, except Saturdays when there are two performances at 7:00 and 10:00 - until Feb. 1.
