Business Women Opposed To Amendment Of City Charter As Proposed By Aldermen

Business and Professional Women's Club of Sherbrooke Unanimous in Resolution Condemning Method by Which City Council Is Seeking Remuneration for Mayor and Aldermen.

The rising tide of public opinion against the City Council's proposed charter amendment was reflected today in the resolution unanimously adopted by the Sherbrooke Business and Professional Women's Club condemning the method by which the Council proposes to obtain remuneration for the mayor and aldermen.

The Business and Professional Women's Club is a branch of an international society and includes a representative group of Sherbrooke women engaged in business and professional activities. The club discusses matters of topical interest and in appropriate cases puts the weight of its influence for or against certain issues. City improvement is the aim of the club, whose president is Miss Alice Milford.

The resolution condemning the City Council's action was proposed at the club's regular monthly meeting by Miss Bessie Milford and seconded by Miss Leslie Fales and received unanimous approval. It will be submitted to the City Council.

This motion of censure reads as follows:

"Whereas the ratepayers of the city are not to be considered regarding a stated salary for the mayor and aldermen, and whereas the said ratepayers are responsible for the monies to be expended, the club goes on record as being opposed to the method which has been suggested by the municipal council to put these salaries into effect.

Seeking remuneration which would be retroactive to April 1, 1946, the City Council is proposing an amendment to its charter, to be submitted to Quebec, which would provide a salary of $2,000 for the mayor and $1,000 to each alderman.

Since the move was disclosed, a rising chorus of protest has been heard, and several ex-Mayors of Sherbrooke, including Dr. F. H. Bradley, A. C. Skinner, A. C. Ross and J. W. Genest, have condemned the method by which the Council is seeking indemnity for the mayor and aldermen. The Council has two methods to obtain authorization for such remuneration—through an amendment to the city charter by the Quebec Legislature, as proposed; or by appeal to the ratepayers. In the letter case the law requires that over fifty per cent of the ratepayers approve the move.

U.S. Supreme Court Closes Lewis Trial

Decision Awaited on Whether Mine Leader and Workers Must Pay Three and One-Half Millions in Fines.

Washington, Jan. 15.—(AP)—The United States Supreme Court today set about deciding whether the United States government had any legal right to bring John L. Lewis to court last November as a gesture to end the coal strike.

It may be weeks before the Supreme Court announces its findings, due to the time required to write an opinion, but the justices themselves may know by Saturday what the answer will be, along with the one to this second question:

Will Lewis and his United Mine Workers (A.F.L.) have to pay all or any of the $3,510,000 in fines assessed against them for contempt of court?

The tribunal wound up three hours of arguments on the case late yesterday.

Justice Frankfurter was leading Assistant Attorney-General John F. Sonnett through a series of questions and answers about the legislative history of the Smith-Connally War Labor Disputes Act, under which the government seized the soft coal pits last spring.

Finally, when the white signal light went on, indicating that only five minutes of the lawyer's allotted time remained, Justice Jackson interrupted to tell Sonnett he thought the lawyer ought to take another point in his argument.

As Sonnett replied with "I'll be more than happy to obey, your honor," Frankfurter wheeled in his high-backed chair.

He had grabbed a stack of documents from the bench, and as he turned he dropped them to the floor.

Sonnett went on with his argument only a moment. Then the red light beside the white one flashed on. His time was up, and the case was ended.

The point Jackson suggested that Sonnett pursue was what would happen if United States courts lacked jurisdiction to issue an injunction in a case like the coal dispute.

In that case, after Lewis had given notice of terminating his wage contract with the government, thus making a strike inevitable, the government got a temporary restraining order from District Judge T. Alan Goldsborough in an effort to head off the shutdown.

Senate Labor Group Splits On Procedure

Meets Today to Determine Kind of Hearings to Hold —May Refuse Back Pay Demands.

Washington, Jan. 15—(AP)—The New United States Senate labor committee, sharply split over union-regulating legislation, meets for the first time today to consider what kind of hearings to hold.

With more than a dozen labor bills already before the committee—some of them complicated—the 13 members must decide whether:-

1. To proceed bill by bill. This was the original intention of Republican leaders, but some members of the committee don't like the idea.

2. To proceed subject by subject (such as the closed shop, union financial reports, jurisdictional strikes, and the like.)

3. To lump all bills in one big hearing and let each witness testify on everything in sight.

Republican members of the committee, led by Chairman Robert Taft of Ohio, met Monday to discuss these points. They came to no conclusions, and in fact ran into some disagreements.

Today's closed meeting includes the Democrats, too.

Another Senate group got down to business today on the one phase of labor legislation. A judiciary sub-committee began hearings on portal-to-portal pay.

First witness is Senator Homer Capehart (Rep.-Ind.), author of a bill that would wipe out most of the $4,000,000,000 in lawsuits filed by unions for back pay to cover time spent in walking between plant gates and work benches.

Yesterday, Labor Secretary Schwellenbach provided a partial preview of the testimony he will give whenever the Senate and House labor committees ask for his opinions.

Schwellenbach said he will cooperate with Congress in any efforts to minimize labor strife but he won't go up to capital Hill just to "say no to everything."

Tomorrow Set For Judgment In Spy Trial

R.C.A.F. Squadron Leader Denies Giving Secret Information to Russia—On Stand for 75 Minutes.

Ottawa, Jan. 15. —(CP)— Judgment will be handed down tomorrow morning in the 15th of Canada's 18 espionage trials. And the 16th will begin immediately after.

County Court Judge A. Gordon McDougall reserved decision yesterday after 1½ days of evidence and argument in the case of Frederick William Poland, 37-year-old R.C.A.F. Squadron Leader, on a charge of communicating confidential information for Russia.

The Crown called nine witnesses, the defence five but both agreed that in the final analysis the case rested largely on the judge's views of the testimony of Poland himself in a 75-minute appearance on the witness stand.

The accused, an elongated, Illinois-born son of an Anglican clergyman, testified that he had known Vitali Pavlov, former second secretary of the Russian Em-

Treatment Of Jehovah Sect Is Defended

Hon. J. Paul Beaulieu Tells Toronto Newsmen Witnesses Are "A Nuisance"—More Than 1,000 Charges Before Courts.

Toronto, Jan. 15.—(CP)—Hon. J. Paul Beaulieu yesterday sprang to the defence of the Quebec government when reporters questioned him about that province's treatment of the Jehovah Witnesses sect. The Quebec Minister of Trade and Commerce was here to address the Canadian Retail Federation.

"Isn't it true that an Englishman's home is his castle?" he asked. "Must a person have religion forced on him at his front door like the Witnesses do? We refuse to allow that. Everybody is entitled to practice their religion but their homes should not be invaded.

"We don't interfere with the Witnesses holding meetings in their own halls. But they make themselves a nuisance. The Montreal police were getting so many complaints they didn't have enough men to follow them up.

"People were arrested because they broke a law. To distribute pamphlets requires a licence from the municipality which these people didn't have. If Catholics went around from home to home with pamphlets saying that Anglicans or Baptists weren't nice people we wouldn't stand for it either."

Montreal, Jan. 15.— (CP) —Witnesses of Jehovah, peddlers and public nuisances in the eyes of the law but ministers of religion in their own opinion, are making history in the law courts of Quebec Province.

Defiant of authority which seeks to keep them within the bounds of Quebec's laws, members of the Jehovah sect continue their almost daily pre-dawn distribution of tracts and pamphlets in the face of mounting court cases against them.

Already more than 1,000 charges are awaiting hearing, most for simply infractions of municipal by-laws requiring a permit to distribute circulars. Others are based on the more serious contention that some of the literature passed out by members of the sect is seditious and libellous, a contention that brought a flood of letters and resolutions in approval and condemnation.

The preachings of the Witnesses run counter to the beliefs of Quebec's predominently Roman Catholic population and last November the sect added fuel to an already smouldering fire by issuing a pamphlet, "Quebec's Burning Hate," in which it charged Roman Catholic priests were the moving force in the "persecution" of its mem-

Premiers Studying Means Of Aligning Subsidies In Dominion-Provincial Pact

Ottawa, Jan. 15.—(CP)—Success of current Dominion-Provincial taxation negotiations appeared today to hinge on the Federal Government's readiness to pay increased subsidies to New Brunswick, Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

The premiers of the three provinces met with Finance Minister Abbott yesterday and discussed various means of bringing the $15 per capita subsidies offered them into line with the $21 per capita subsidies offered British Columbia and Prince Edward Island.

The subsidies, to be paid in return for almost exclusive federal use of major tax fields, were calculated on a different basis for British Columbia and Prince Edward Island than for the other three provinces.

The difference in the rate caused Premier McNair of New Brunswick to announce last week that he was suspending tax negotiations until the Dominion was ready to assure equality of treatment.

New Brunswick's action caused Mr. Abbott to invite Mr. McNair to Ottawa along with Premier Douglas of Saskatchewan and Premier Garson of Manitoba.

It was reported that Mr. Abbott offered the premiers, shortly after the discussions opened, a new formula that would bring about some equality in subsidy payments. While the reports could not be confirmed they appeared to be borne out to some extent by a statement from Mr. Abbott's office.

The statement the minister had discussed with the premiers "various means of equating with the position of other provinces the position of their three provinces."

No one would forecast how long the discussions are likely to continue.

New Brunswick, Saskatchewan and Manitoba were the first to accept in principle new taxation agreements with the Dominion. British Columbia and Prince Edward Island came along later and the agreements with them were made conditional on the conclusion of the pacts with the first three provinces to open negotiations.

Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia and Alberta have not entered into agreements, although the latter two provinces have unsuccessfully sought to find grounds for agreement on the basis of recent federal proposals.

Mob Attacks State Leader In Georgia

By ROMNEY WHEELER

Atlanta, Jan. 15—(AP)—Defiant Governor Ellis Arnall of Georgia held his office against a yelling mob early today after rejecting claims of a rival Governor, Herman Talmadge, whom the State Legislature elected in a tumultuous, post-midnight session.

Arnall was escorted from the capital by National Guard officers and associates, who barricaded the doors of the executive chamber to save him from violence.

In a brief, dramatic encounter, Arnall told the youthful son of the late Governor-elect Eugene Talmadge: "I cannot surrender to a pretender."

Talmadge, escorted by a committee of legislators and followed by whooping, surging followers, pushed into Arnall's office at 2:15 a.m. E.S.T. It was a quarter of an hour after the legislature had named him to the four-year term which his father, Eugene Talmadge, didn't live to serve.

After a brief exchange Talmadge demanded: "Do you defy the committee and the general assembly of Georgia?"

"I do not," replied Arnall, sharply. "But I uphold the law. I cannot surrender to a pretender."

As Talmadge pushed through the crowd outside, a group sought to force its way into the executive ofice, but was blocked by P. T. McCutcheon, Arnall's executive secretary. An exchange of words led almost immediately to a fist-fight, which milled for two minutes in the Governor's reception room. McCutcheon retreated into Arnall's private office, and barred the heavy door against the mob.

Arnall, surrounded by reporters and a few close associates, refused to let anyone depart until National Guard officers and Talmadge leaders had cleared the outer chamber.

Talmadge had been sworn in before a cheering legislature and a whooping, stomping gallery of Talmadge faithful who had sat throughout the day watching the canvass of general election returns. He was elected, after a series of decisive roll-calls, 161-87.

Lieutenant-Governor-elect M. E. Thompson, who cannot take office until his election is certified by the legislature later today, said he would fight for the right to serve as acting Governor.

Arnall had announced his qualified resignation Saturday, "effective immediately upon qualifi-

Allied Drive Made Against Black Market

Illegal Activities Declared Rife in Berlin—Eighty Per Cent of Germans Plan to Emigrate.

By WILLIAN HAMSHER

But every attack made against this evil seems to infuse new life into it.

In the Soviet sector of the city, special motor patrols stand ready for instant action. One recent comb-out, planned as thoroughly as any Red Army operation, went systematically through streets and alleys, cafes and cabarets and hauled in nearly 1,400 suspects.

The German police, co-operating in the raids, found among the suspects dozens of men against whom they had already issued warrants.

But the real black marketeers arrested, according to police reports, totalled only 77, and that figure leaves out of account the host of retail buyers.

Black marketeers at the moment seem to be avoiding food but there is also a lively trade in gems among those who have acquired stocks of German marks or English cigarettes in the hope that they will soon be in a position to leave Germany for countries where precious stones would start them off on a new life.

Eight out of every ten Germans with whom one talks these days expressed determination to emigrate as soon as they can.

Refinery Is Promised By Liberal Head

Joliette, Que., Jan. 15.—(CP)—If the Liberals are elected in the next provincial election a sugar beet refinery will be built at Joliette, Adelard Godbout, provincial Liberal Party leader, said last night in an address here.

Mr. Godbout, speaking at a dinner meeting organized by the Liberal Association of Joliette county, said he considered the sugar beet refinery at St Hilaire one of the best achievements of the Liberal Government when it was in power from the point of view of helping cultivators.

The province's second refinery would be established here, if the Liberals were elected, and other refineries would be built in other parts of the province.

Mr. Godbout said he would like to see farmers provided with better farm implements.

"I would like also varied cultivation, for instance cultivation of yellow tobacco which we were the first to promote in your region, and the cultivation of flax."

Referring to colonization, Mr. Godbout said Premier Duplessis' Union Nationale Government had not founded a single colonization parish. The Quebec Government had ignored offers of equipment made to the provinces by the Federal Government.

"With the Duplessis Government, everything is for sale in Quebec," Mr. Godbout said. "It would be better to think of the future of our province. We (the Liberals) trebled the budget for education and we were only beginning. Mr. Duplessis does nothing because he is building his electoral funds, and because he understands nothing about the needs of the present generation and the different classes of society."

Mr. Godbout also said that under the pretext of autonomy Mr. Duplessis was attempting to disseminate division in the country when there should be unity.

The Union Nationale Government would be defeated in the next election, the Liberal leader said, and the Liberals would return to give each one equal chances to do their duty towards the country.

Other persons present at the dinner included Georges Emile

6 Wreck Victims Still In Hospital

Perham, Minn., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Six of 38 persons injured Tuesday when two sections of the Northern Pacific Railroad's North Coast Limited bound for Seattle collided in a blinding blizzard here remained in hospital today.

The accident occurred when the Limited's first section stopped to permit a freight train to take a siding and was rammed by the second, which was travelling at slow speed because of the limited visibility.

Traffic was resumed over the line last night.

Decision In Torso-Murder Appeal Is Expected Today

Toronto, Jan. 15.—(CP)—A decision in the appeal of Evelyn Dick from conviction and sentence of death for the torso killing of her husband last March was anticipated today from the five justices of the Ontario Court of Appeal.

And the Crown, admitting it now possesed new evidence to fill in obvious gaps in story so far unfolded of the murder and dismemberment of John Dick, today ordered postponement of one week in the joint murder trial of Donald MacLean and William Bohozuk, scheduled for Hamilton next Monday.

This, Deputy Attorney-General Cecil Snyder said, would allow the Crown time to get its case in order with regard to any decision forthcoming from the Appeal Court and also with regard to the new evidence.

The Deputy Attorney-General spoke out forcefully in his plea for retention of the verdict of last October's trial court jury in the case of Mrs. Dick.

"If Your Lordships interfere with the decision of the jury in this case there will occur an unwarranted interference with the administration of justice," said Mr. Snyder.

He said he was placed in a most difficult position because of having come into possession of "certain knowledge" concerning the case which had not come out at Mrs. Dick's trial and which, were he to bring it into the open, would place him in the position of prejudicing the trial of MacLean and Bohozuk. Further, the Appeal Court judges were bound to consider the appeal only on the basis of trial evidence.

Chief Justice Robertson said he felt the whole story of the case had not been told and questioned T. J. Rigney, special Crown Prosecutor at the trial, as to why the Crown had proceeded separately against Mrs. Dick rather than jointly against the three accused. Mr. Rigney said this was done in order to ensure the fairest possible trial of the prisoners.

Police On Trail Of 'Starch' Ring

Montreal, Jan. 15.—(CP)—Royal Canadian Mounted Police were reported last night on the trail of a ring which was said to have cornered "practically" all supplies of shortening and corn starch in the Montreal area.

Similar investigations were said to be proceeding in other cities throughout the country at the request of the Wartime Prices Board.

The investigation in Montreal was expected to result in about 10 arrests, it was learned. In addition to shortening and corn starch, the ring was said to have dealt in "important" stocks of butter.

Inspector Noel Courtois, chief of the Criminal Investigation Branch of the R.C.M.P. in Montreal, was understood to be supervising the case, with Staff Sgt. E. A. Chamberlain in charge of the special squad assigned to track down the traffickers.

Couple Convicted Of Aiding Enemy

Detroit, Jan. 15.— (AP) —Long prison terms and $20,000 fines faced blonde Joan McBride and her estranged husband, James, today as possible penalties for their aid to former German Army Private Rudolph Soelch.

A jury of women convicted them of conspiracy yesterday, to cap a six-day United States Federal Court trial marked by disputes over international law and the woman's story of love for the 24-year-old darkhaired German.

The jurors deliberated 51 minutes in finding the McBrides had conspired to help Soelch's escape from a California prison camp and also had been guilty of harboring him as a fugitive.

Federal lawyers said maximum penalties, in addition to the fines, were 10 years on each count. Judge Arthur F. Lederle deferred sentences pending the customary report from the United States probation office.

Both defendants were visibly affected at the announcement of the verdict. McBride, who has been unable to furnish $10,000 bond, was returned to jail. His wife, free on $5,000 bond, left court with friends and relatives.

U.S. Attempting To Force Decision On Atom Control

Lake Success, N.Y., Jan. 15—(AP)—The United Nations arms reduction fight was complicated further today by a United States plan to set Feb. 4 as the deadline for the beginning of Security Council discussions on specific atomic control measures.

As the Council delegates were called into session informed quarters said United States delegate Warren R. Austin was ready to propose that the deadline be added to an earlier United States resolution which would assure atomic control top priority in any arms reduction program.

Austin was said to have been moved by a desire to make sure there was no unnecessary delay in considering the atomic control proposals submitted to the Council Dec 31 by the atomic energy commission. At the same time, it was said, he wanted to give all delegates plenty of time to consult their governments on the atomic commission's recommendations.

Great Britain was reported to be hopeful, despite the new development, that the Council might combine the conflicting United States and Russian proposals on arms reduction to form an acceptable compromise.

While Soviet delegate Gromyko had insisted the Council should act immediately on his proposals for prompt action on the broader question of a general arms reduction, British sources expressed belief the United States-Russian deadlock might be broken without any major concessions on either side.

Ottawa, Jan. 15.— (CP) —Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced today five appointments of new Deputy and Associate Deputy Ministers of Government departments.

Alexander Ross, to be Associate Deputy Ministe. of National Defence.

Hollywood, Jan. 15. —(AP)— More than 500 persons, mostly women, attended funeral services yesterday for Eva Tanguay, 68, former vaudeville star, and a native of Marbleton, Que., who died Saturday.

Among them were Trixie Friganza, another star of the same era; Mrs. Gladys Correll Larsen, friend of 35 years, and her granddaughter, Micki Smith, who had been picked by Miss Tanguay to portray her in a projected movie of the "I Don't Care" girl's life; and Joe Whitehead, who played with Miss Tanguay in a command performance before President Woodrow Wilson.

End Of Strike In London Predicted By Newspapers

London, Jan. 15.—(CP)—Morning newspapers today carried headlines predicting an end to London's crippling though "unofficial" strike of 30,000 truck drivers.

Meanwhile, in its 10th day, the strike continued to spread as at least 20,000 workers in other industries joined the truck drivers protesting the use of troops in a wages and hours dispute and some quarters feared the London truck strike might become a country-wide general strike.

The Conservative Daily Mail headed its story: "Odds on the End of Strike Today." The Daily Herald, Labor, topped its story: "Strike Call-off Likely" while the Conservative Daily Telegraph headline ran: "Haulage Strike May End Soon."

The newspaper stories pinned their hopes on the new national joint industrial council established Tuesday by representations of the Road Haulage Association and the powerful Transport and General Workers Union.

Strike leader J. E. Evans, in a message to the truck drivers said he hoped that "some concrete proposals" would develop in union negotiations today.

One Labor Member of Parliament, Tom O'Brien for Nottingham West, declared at a union meeting last night that the strike might bring the downfall of the Government.

"A Labor Government cannot last alongside a discredited trade union movement," O'Brien said, "the workers of Britain cannot have a Labor Government and repudiate trade union organizations at the same time."

Evans in his message said: "We trust that after our meeting tomorrow we shall have some concrete proposals to lay before the members of this dispute."

Last Sunday with shouts of "No" the strikers booed down appeals by union leaders asking them to return to work pending negotiations.

Evans called on all workers "not directly involved in this dispute" to remain at work, "but to do all in their power to stop blackleg (strikebreaking) labor." This was in reference to the use of approximately 2,000 troops to deliver food.

Yesterday stevedores and dockers—estimated at between 3,500 and 8,000—followed the example of market workers who left their jobs Monday on the arrival of food-delivering troops and 15,000 Midlands industrial workers are threatening to walk out today.

Despite the food deliveries by soldiers, there was little food in London's larders. Food Minister Strachey said 1,400 tons of food had been distributed in military trucks since Monday. He estimated London's customary weekly ration at 5,500 tons.

Professor Albert Einstein

Princeton, N.J.
Dear Professor:

You don't know me from atom. It's probably an impertinence for a yahoo like me to even address himself to the Galileo of our times. But there's something peculiar going on and I think you ought to know about it. If it isn't stopped, there's no telling where it will end.

The last few weeks there's been an epidemic of daffiness all over the world. People are acting as if they had been kicked in the head by a butterfly. Every day the newspapers carry stories which would lead one to believe the law of averages had been repealed.

I bother you with this because I have a hunch it has something to do with the rays and electronic waves being released by scientific experiments. I'm afraid these radiations are bouncing around and making people do loony things. Forty years ago, you came up with the formula on which these experiments are based. Meaning no disrespect, I think you ought to put away your violin and figure out a way to keep these runaway rays from driving us all nuts.

Here are some symptoms:

Item: In a midwest town the other day, a baby swallowed a nickel and coughed up a penny.

Item: In West Virginia, a judge chased everybody out of the courtroom who refused to swear he believed in Santa Claus.

Item: In a fishing village in Oregon, dollar bills came fluttering out of the sky. In Kansas City, on the other hand, it rained little fishes outside a bank.

Item: At the Automat Restaurants in New York, they recently put up signs reading, "No Cream with Black Coffee."

Item: In New Jersey, when a dentist told a patient he was going to charge him $50 for filling a tooth, a patient nearly bit off the dentist's finger.

Item: In Michigan, a man went deer hunting. He returned empty handed to find his wife had shot a big buck who had blundered into her kitchen.

Item: In Utah, a woman was about to kill a chicken. A bolt of lightning beat her to it.

Item: In Yonkers last week a judge said he was too lazy to get out of bed, decided two cases over the telephone, and went back to sleep.

"ADORATION" GIVEN ENCORE AT EAST ANGUS

East Angus, Jan. 15.—In response to many requests the pageant, "The Adoration," was repeated the Sunday after Christmas, at Emmanuel United Church. It had originally been presented, to a capacity congregation, at the evening worship on the Sunday before Christmas.

Different scenes were presented, the annunciation to Mary; the coming of the angel to the shepherds in the field; the arrival of Joseph and Mary at the inn of Bethlehem; the search by Herod's soldiers for the Christ Child; the presentation of gifts by the shepherds and wise men; also a beautiful pantomime by four angels before the grotto.

The chancel of the church had been rearranged to show the annunciation chamber, the outdoor scene in the Bethlehem field, the inn at Bethlehem and the grotto. Beautiful lighting, costumes and music enhanced the whole presentation.

Taking part were Gabriel's trumpeter, Ernest Jamieson; voice of Gabriel, Rev. C. J. Gustafson; herald, Gerald Coates; Mary, Alice Dearden; the angel, Margaret Dearden; shepherds, Leslie J. MacLeod, Russell Beattie and Lyman Learmonth; Eliphaz, the caravan leader, Kenneth Kinnear; Joseph, Wesley Beattie; Herod's captain, Albert Belliveau, Jr.; the first soldier, Joseph Burns; second soldier, Robert Irving; inn-keeper, Welles Coates; lodgers in the inn, Mahlon Sutton, Chester Damon,, Muriel Miles, Mildred Currie and Mary Lou Dearden; four angels, Bernice Miles, Pearl Hall, Audrey Hall and Aleta Kinnear; three kings, Jack McLellan, Ernest Neal and Ian Ferguson; inn-keeper's assistant, Arnold Hughes.

The committees in charge of arrangements were: Scenery, Lewis Howe, R. H. Cillis, Bruce Taylor, Mahlon Sutton and Leslie J. MacLeod; the lighting, David Ferguson and Wesley Beattie; costumes, Mrs. W. A. Hall, Mrs. J. A. Dickenson and Mrs. B. Taylor; music, Mrs. R. H. Cillis and the church choir.

The duet at the first presentation was sung by Mrs. Edith Learmonth and Mrs. Robert Edwards, and on the second occasion by Mrs. Edith Learmonth and Miss Eleanor Labonte.

India At Peak Of Her Crisis Speaker Tells Rotary Club — Stable India Is Vital Need

"It is imperative that we come to a full realization of the importance to us of what is happening in the East. A billion people there are in turmoil and what happens in the East will immediately affect us. India is now at the peak of her crisis. Whichever way she goes, so will go the whole East. A stable India will mean a stable East; an unstable one will add further to the turmoil. If India fails—and with her the East—there cannot be peace for us in this generation."

These remarks were made last night by Glen Keith Cowan, Executive Secretary of the Montreal Branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society, in an address delivered before members of the Sherbrooke Rotary Club at their regular weekly meeting in the New Sherbrooke Hotel.

Speaking on "India Today," Mr. Cowan, who saw service in that country for nearly two years while with the Royal Navy during the war, described the struggle for power now gonig on there as one which would determine future world conditions. And Canada, he declared, could play a vital role in shaping India's destiny.

According to the speaker, the name of the Dominion ranked high abroad, especially in India, where a watch was being kept on the western world to see whether or not democracy was worth copying. Canada could, therefore, he felt, set an example of race accord through the application of democratic principles which would convince the Indian leaders that this way of life was at least worthy of a trial. Success or failure of democracy here was seen as determining the policy of the whole East.

"If we want a peaceful world we must work for it. We must not wait for other people to bring it about," the speaker declared.

Political conditions in India today were shown by Mr. Cowan to be chaotic. Once England's intention of withdrawing from the country had been established, there immediately began a wild scramble for power among the many races and political parties, complete distrust and fear of one another being the dominant factor in the struggle. A moral solution to this crisis was of paramount importance, the speaker felt, for "until this is settled no legal one will be effective."

The powerful Congress Party was described by the speaker as desiring the departure of Britain from the scene but at the same time as seeking a united India. Its leaders, Mahatma Gandhi and Pandit Nehru, were shown as heading two schools of thought: the former clinging to ancient customs and ideas and the latter favoring an introduction of modern ideas. Of the two, Gandhi, sincere and beloved and revered by the Hindus, was said to hold the greater power, which he exercised on occasions.

Second important party in India, the Moslem League sought the formation of separate countries, this policy best suiting their interests, Mr. Cowan stated. The League had, however, lost a number of its supporters to the Congress party. Lesser parties such as the Untouchables, the Christians (numbering six or seven millions) and the Sikhs played lesser roles in the political drama, seizing opportunity if and when it occurred.

The India of today was a country of paradoxes, the speaker showed. The old and the new were represented in vivid contrast to each other, the former by the caste system, wooden plows, ancient dress, recipes handed down for centuries and manual labor. About 300,000,000 inhabitants were said to be living today much in the same manner as did their ancestors. The influence of the western world was manifest, however, in the form of good roads, automobiles, air traffic, electricity, army tanks and factories, the last mentioned including the largest steel mill in the British Empire, and vast cotton mills. Universities and schools were patterned after those of the western world.

Another marked contrast was that of wealth and poverty, the speaker stated. Wealth not to be equalled anywhere else in the world was offset by unbelievable poverty. Pearls existed in one state in quantities sufficient to cover a street for miles, Mr. Cowan said, and one prince in particular habitually wore jowels whose value was set at $1,000,000. In the other extreme, however, 200,000,000 Indians barely existed in the very depths of poverty, never having enough food to eat. This was advanced as the explanation for a temporary interruption of the meagre food supply resulting in mass starvation. Filth and disease were by-products of these conditions, figures showing 1,500,000 lepers in the country.

Mr. Cowan was introduced by Walter Peirce and thanked by W. Nicol.

Seated at the head table were the President, W. S. Sutherland, Mr. Cowan, Bruce Abbott, of Erie, Pa., P. M. Robins, of Sherbrooke, and Harry Moffatt, Rene Langevin, Norrie Hunting, R. Tait, Walter Peirce, W. Nicol and Arthur Kerridge, members of the club.

Boy Scouts who had assisted the members in work entailed in staging the Rotary Fair in November were present at last night's meeting as guests of the club. All local troops were represented.

THAW FOLLOWS UNUSUAL COLD OF PAST MONTH

A "January thaw," considered an integral part of a normal Canadian winter, is in progress today following one of the coldest periods experienced locally in some years.

Since the beginning of the month the thermometer has dropped below the zero mark on no less than nine days or night, according to a report from the Dominion Experimental Farm at Lennoxville. Record low for the period and for the season was recorded on New Year's Day when a reading of 30 degrees below was taker at Lennoxville. This mark was nearly equalled several days ago, however, when the mercury sank to 28 below.

That such sustained cold is unusual for a winter in this district is shown by a comparison with records for the first two weeks of January in 1946. Official figures show that in that time the thermometer went below the zero level only three times.

Prediction today was, however, that the present mild spell would be of short duration. A weather forecast indicated falling temperatures again tonight, with tomorrow clear and cold.

U.S. Retains High Imposts On Luxuries

Republicans and President in Agreement on First Major Tax Problem Before New Congress.

Washington, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Republican tax managers gave a green light today to legislation continuing indefinitely high United States wartime excise rates on such things as liquor, furs and jewelry.

The surprise decision to head off an automatic $1,500,000,000 rollback in levies July 1 brought Republican lawmakers and President Truman together on the first major tax problem to confront Congress.

But Republicans expressed renewed determination to cut individual income taxes 20 per cent—a move strongly opposed by the President.

Chairman Harold Knutson (Rep.-Minn.), said the House of Representatives Ways and Means Committee may approve a bill continuing the high excises at its first meeting on Friday. Such a quick step, he said, would erase business uncertainty caused by consumers delaying purchases in anticipation of the otherwise automatic reductions six months hence.

Moreover, he added, the continued large collection of excise revenues would make it easy for the Republicans to slash individual income taxes by 20 per cent this year.

If Chairman John Taber (Rep.-N.Y.) of the House Appropriations Committee is correct in declaring "that the budget can be held down," Knutson said, then: "A 20 per cent tax reduction will be comparatively easy, and we should be able to pay four or five billions on the public debt."

Taber's latest estimate is that "three to four billions" can be spared from the President's $37,528,000,000 spending figure.

FINAL TRIBUTE WAS PAID TO MISS BOSTWICK

Final tribute was paid here last Wednesday to Miss Marion F. Bostwick by a large group of sorrowing relatives and friends. She had just pased her 70th year.

Family prayers were held at the residence of her cousin, Mrs. Alex F. Mabbett, the cortege moving on the Trinity United Church of which she was a lifelong member and efficient worker.

The service, conducted by her minister, Rev. Fred Williams, was featured by the attendance in a body of the various women's organizations of the church in which she had rendered long and faithful service.

During the service a telegram was read from the Rev. B. B. Brown, Wesley United Church, Montreal, a former pastor of Trinity, carrying glowing tribute to her character and service in the life of the church and city.

The hymns sung were We Cannot Think of Them as Dead and For All the Saints.

Honorary pall bearers were Dr. Fred Bradley, E. D. Bradley, George C. Hall, Walter Mutchler, C. E. Soles and D. J. Salls. The bearers were all cousins of deceased; Colin L. Campbell, B. C. Campbell, Murray Campbell, B. C. Howard, Alex F. Mabbett and Nelson Nichol.

Interment was held in the Prospect Street, Cemetery.

H.L. Gagnon Elected President Of Sherbrooke Country Club

H. L. GAGNON

H. L. Gagnon was elected president of the Sherbrooke Country Club Inc., at the annual meeting of shareholders held last night in the Sherbrooke Trust Company office. The meeting elected D. S. Howard vice-president and A. W Kerridge, secretary-treasurer.

Retiring President Emilien Gingras, who was in the chair, declared that operations of the past year had been more than satisfactory and that directors were looking forward with optimism to the coming season. He noted that the life insurance policies had matured and from their proceeds the total bonded indebtedness had been paid off.

Directors, he continued, wish to stress the need of many more new members, stating that if each present member of the club would bring in at least one new member during the coming season, the financial position of the club would be assured.

He referred to the club's indebtedness to Past President J. R. Sangster, who, without cost to the club, printed and distributed a quantity of attractive folders illustrating the premises and describing facilities. Concluding, he expressed appreciation to committees and to the ladies' branch for their contributions to the social and financial life of the club.

Committee reports were presented by D. C. McRae (green), and G. D. McManamy (match).

The following directors were elected: H. L. Gagnon, D. S. Howard, Emilien Gingras, Alex Allard, F. G. LeBaron, H. H. Welsh and K. C. F. Mills. Mr. Gagnon, Mr. Gingras, Mr. Allard and Mr. Mills were re-elected from the old board.

Increased Pork Produce Prices Become Effective Tomorrow

Housewives, whose weekly meat bill has long been one of the main items on the expense list, will not accord a favorable reception to the Federal Government's higher ceiling on the retail prices of pork which becomes effective tomorrow. Increases of two to seven cents a pound in retail prices of bacon and other pork products have been announced by the Prices Board and all local butchers have received new charts showing the maximum prices which they may charge.

The move was taken in an effort to halt the steady year-long decline in Canadian hog production and to bring domestic rates in line with recently-increased export bacon prices for export to Great Britain.

Bacon will take a six cent increase to fifty-seven cents per pound, smoked leg ham goes up five cents to fifty-three cents while both picnic hams and cottage rolls take a four cent jump to forty and fifty-eight cents a pound respectively. Both pork chops and pork loins will be increased five cents a pound to fifty-two cents, while fresh pork shoulder roasts will be boosted four cents to thirty-two cents a pound. Salt pork is up three cents to twenty-eight cents and green bacon is up three cents to forty-two cents per pound. Windsor bacon also took a three cent boost to an even seventy-five cents a pound. An upward adjustment in the consumer prices of sausage, wieners and bologna is also effective tomorrow.

These advances, together with adjustments made last month, will result in an increase in consumer prices of approximately six cents a pound on pork sausages, wieners bologna.

Of these increases, the Prices Board has stated they were necessary because prices of raw materials had increased to the extent where it no longer was possible to produce the products at existing ceilings. Costs of labor supplies and materials for packing had advanced substantially over the levels on which ceilings were based.

While these prices are ceiling, butchers are by no means obliged to charge the maximum. However, a survey by the Record this morning revealed that the majority of local dealers will welcome the higher ceilings because for several months they have been paying two and three cents per pound above the wholesale ceiling in order to obtain pork supplies.

A report from Montreal today states that the deadlock between buyers and sellers of hogs on the Montreal livestock markets continues.

There were rumors also yesterday that the deadlock might break soon, probably today, in favor of the buyers who have since yesterday refused to meet the demand price of $23.50 to $24 per hundredweight. Buyers seemed confident that farmers or commission men responsible for the continued care and feeding of some 930 hungry hogs unsold at closing time yesterday would not hold out much longer.

Buyers yesterday repeated their contention that prices higher than $21.50 to $21.75 meant a loss for them on every animal if sold under W.P.T.B. ceiling regulations. Even the increases in the retail prices of pork and pork products announced yesterday did not, they said materially effect the situation. By the time these increases got back up the line to the wholesale butcher or big packing houses, they said, they would be almost wiped out. "The increases are a step in the right direction," said one wholesaler, "but a step not far enough."

Meantime yesterday hogs were the only animals plentiful on the Montreal livestock market. Only 39 beef cattle were offered which was considered a big drop from a normal day's turnover of about 200 cattle. "The beef situation remains serious here," said a high packing house executive, "and I see no immediate prospect of any relief."

Ottawa Will Increase Grants In Canadian Tourist Industry

Montreal, Jan. 15.—(CP)—Trade Minister MacKinnon said today the Federal Government hopes to increase further its financial assistance to the Canadian Tourist Industry and to give "all-out cooperation" to tourist agencies of the provincial governments.

In an address prepared for delivery before a meeting of the Hotel and Restaurant Suppliers' Association, Mr. MacKinnon said last year's federal contribution—$650,000—was the largest in history and compared with $150,000 voted in 1934, when the first Senate committee was formed to study the industry.

The Minister said the government-operated Canadian Tourist Bureau was being organized and a comprehensive advertising campaign being launched for 1947. New travel films were being produced in addition to those already used by the bureau.

At the same time, he expressed belief Canada must be prepared to meet "strong competition" on this continent for the tourist dollar, not only from the 48 American States but also from the Latin American countries, who now were organizing and developing tourist traffic.

Tourist trade was one of the "greatest" agencies for the promotion of world peace because conflicts did not arise when there was complete understanding among nations. Cross-border travel, as between Canada and the United States, helped to develop this understanding.

Canada derived "tremendous" advantages from a thriving tourist industry, with all citizens benefiting directly or indirectly from the spending in the Dominion of tourist dollars. This spending stimulated the circulation of goods and services and created extensive employment opportunities.

In 1926, when government tabulations of tourist spending first were kept, $152,000,000 was spent in Canada by tourists and by last year this total had grown to $210,000,000. One witness appearing before the Senate Tourist Committee last year had estimated the sum actually was close to $600,000,000.

"If this estimate is correct, or nearly so," said Mr. MacKinnon, "it is clearly evident that the tourist industry will eventually bring a financial return to Canada greater than any branch of our export trade."

STRIKES UNDER A LABOR GOVERNMENT

The average Londoner, facing food problems more acute today than they were during the darkest days of the war, might well be excused for expressing grave fears that the introduction of a Labor Government, pledged to the application of extreme socialist measures to assure industrial peace, has tragically failed to bring about the desired restoration of a degree of material comforts. The present distress in the British capital, and certain other large cities in the United Kingdom, has been brought about by the transport workers who are striking against a Labor Government and against the advice of their union officials.

Thus it is apparent that a Labor government, or an administration overly favorable to labor, does not deter labor from using every means within its power to undermine the position of the government. The British Labor party victory in the last British election brought the hope in many quarters that there would be an uninterrupted reconversion effort, the idea being that labor, hoping to further improve its lot, would refrain from hindering the extreme policies of the government. In return, of course, the Labor Government was supposed to do its utmost to improve conditions.

Realization has been a painful process however, for there have been numerous strikes, of various degrees of intensity, since the Attlee administration took over. These culminated in the great London transport strike which has compelled the use of the armed forces to avert an actual food famine in the British metropolis.

The United States underwent something of a similar experience following the advent of the first Roosevelt Government, which made numerous concessions to organized labor. Many of the original demands may have been justified and possibly the government hoped to remedy many real grievances. Instead, however, of meaning an end to industrial disputes, the New Deal saw the beginning of the longest series of labor fights in the history of the United States. Later Roosevelt administrations passed laws which more than secured union rights but were considerably less than protective for the man-in-the-street. But before the war ended, the union reaction was to demand still more.

Before any effective agreement can be made with any group which has gained power, it is essential that this group realize a sense of responsibility. This is true whether such a group be leading a nation or whether they be leading an element within a nation.

AVOID PRECIPITATE ACTION

The decision of the Imperial Privy Council that the Canadian Government has the power to establish the Supreme Court of Canada as the final court of appeal in Canadian civil cases clears the way for the breaking of the last legal link between the Canadian judicial system and the central high court of the Commonwealth. However, it might be advisable for the Dominion Government to exercise a degree of restraint before pressing the act providing for the abolition of these appeals which was given first reading but which was never placed in effect pending the decision of the Privy Council concerning the validity of the legislation.

The right of appeal to the Privy Council has long been one of the basic rights of the British subject, dating back to the earlier days of the judicial set-up when the individual was given the right to take his complaints against the administration of justice to the foot of the throne. These rights he took with him when he left his native shores to help in the creation of the overseas empire, although the Privy Council replaced His Majesty personally as the receiver of these complaints.

Appeals to the Privy Council are no signs of colonial inferiority, but rather provide one of the greatest assurances to all groups within the Dominion that there will be a strictly impartial and disinterested body to rule upon controversial legislation which might well undermine the rights granted the minorities under the constitution. That the clear-thinking leaders of minority thought appreciate this condition is apparent from the very nature of the opposition to the Dominion measure abolishing these appeals, the Quebec Provincial Government being to the forefront in the fight.

The absolute integrity and impartiality of the Privy Council has long been accepted without argument and additional proof, if additional proof is needed, if this fact is offered by the decision just handed down which shows that the Judicial Committee is quite prepared to surrender some of its powers and responsibilities if legislation providing for this is valid under law.

An appeal to the Privy Council is a privilege to a Canadian citizen, and its abolition will do nothing to bring any benefit to this country.

TRUMAN VS. GOP ON LABOR

President Truman's state of the Union message and the Senate Republican conference labor program provide the first opportunity to see how close together and how far apart the two parties are on revising labor legislation.

Two specific references in the President's message drew applause. First was when he said there should be early legislation to prevent jurisdictional strikes. Second was when he said collective bargaining agreements should be faithfully adhered to by both parties.

But there is a lot more agreement than on those two points.

Another "unjustifiable labor practice" which the President mentioned was the secondary boycott. Labor unions use this kind of strike against an employer to make him stop handling parts or material produced by rival unions or non-union workers.

The Republican conference labor committee, consisting of Senators Taft, Smith and Ball, goes along with the President in opposition to the secondary boycott, but they go much further.

The President says there should be no blanket prohibition against boycotts. He would not deny unions the right to boycott to preserve their existence or any gains made through bargaining.

The GOP leaders would outlaw all boycotts, jurisdictional strikes and strikes conducted to force union recognition during organization of the workers. In the first draft of the revised Case Bill introduced in the Senate, these offenses would be punishable by $5,000 fines and a year's imprisonment.

The Republicans would go even further here, by authorizing anyone who suffered a loss from any of these union practices to sue in federal courts for triple damages.

Employers would not have to rehire strikers in such cases.

NO DRAFT THREAT

Still another remedy which the President asked is legislation to provide machinery for arbitrating and settling disputes arising under a labor contract.

The Republicans would handle this one by permitting either management or unions to sue in federal court for enforcement of the contract and recovery of damages.

Republican thinking goes along with the President on the need for extending Department of Labor machinery to assist in collective bargaining by mediation, voluntary arbitration and fact-finding.

The Republicans would provide it by imposing a new five-man federal mediation board on top of the present U. S. Conciliation Service. Whenever the board intervened in a dispute, there would have to be a 60-day cooling-off period. Employees who struck in this period would lose their right to be rehired. Employers who violated the restriction could be cited for unfair labor practices under the National Labor Relations Act.

All proposals are pretty sketchy on what would be done if this machinery broke down.

The President did not renew his request of last year, that strikers against the government be drafted.

The President briefly mentioned the need to broaden social legislation to lessen the causes of workers' insecurity.

In their immediate program the Republicans have nothing to match this. But separately they will introduce bills to raise the minimum wage, set up a national health program, broaden Social Security coverage and provide better housing.

WHERE THEY PART

It is on the President's final recommendation—for the creation of a temporary joint commission of 12 congressmen and eight representatives of labor, management and the public to study industrial relations—that the two parties seem pretty far apart.

The President says such a commission should be able to report by March 15.

The Republicans in their policy statement say "such an investigation would take many months, even years, to produce legislative results, and there is no time for that." The Republican approach here is to take each labor problem, make it the subject for special congressional investigation and separate remedial action.

On these specific subjects, the Republicans seem prepared to go 'way beyond anything the Democrats have in mind.

The President mentioned only the need for preventing nation-wide strikes, improving the collective bargaining process, studying underlying strike causes.

The senators have in mind limiting the rights of supervisory employees to bargain collectively, overhauling the National Labor Relations Act, amending the Norris-LaGuardia Anti-Injunction Act, outlawing compulsory membership in unions, establishing federal standards for union organization, making unions financially responsible, and the writing of a new anti-monopoly act to apply to labor unions.

Letters To The Editor

AGAINST PAY FOR COUNCIL

Dear Sir: It is unfortunate that the Mayor and Aldermen should lose the respect of the citizens of Sherbrooke by going over the heads of the people to appeal to the Quebec Legislature for authorization of remuneration.

It is very surprising that they are seeking remuneration as they volunteered to serve the city, with full knowledge of the time, work and headaches it takes to maintain the success achieved by the City of Sherbrooke. In fact, some fought hard election campaigns for the honor of serving, and I can assure you we are all very grateful for the service they have rendered.

It is a grand thing to be able to serve mankind some way or other, and while we do not always receive remuneration in dollars and cents, we feel well repaid with the honor bestowed upon us. Service is the rent we pay for our being on earth.

Now, I would like to suggest that the City Fathers could place $12,000 to a noble cause. I would like to see the Council arrange a meeting with the city employees and discuss with them the forming of a pension fund. I am sure a suitable plan could be devised, with the employees investing three per cent of their annual salaries, and the city subscribing $12,000 a year for a period of years until the pension fund carried itself.

At the age of 65 years an employee could retire on fifty per cent of his salary. A well managed plan and proper investment of the fund would put this over in a few years. As the funds increased the retiring age could be dropped to sixty years and a possible increase of benefit to the employee.

I would like it understood that I am not trying to criticize the Mayor or Aldermen, but making a suggestion, that the citizens also appreciate the services of the city employees.

Respectfully,
E. J. MARSHALL.

Q—Has a Justice of the U.S. Supreme Court ever been impeached?

A—Only one—Samuel Chase. Articles of impeachment were brought before the Senate in 1804 because of his Federalist Party activities. But he was acquitted and resumed his seat.

Q—What are the Synoptic Gospels of the Bible?

VETERANS BARRED

Windsor Star

Union craftsmen have the unquestionable right to protect themselves by keeping unqualified men out of their trades. If and when this right is allowed to assume the proportions of a monopolistic abuse, however, something should, in justice, be done to curb it.

There should be some close questioning of a situation which has come to light here, in which ex-service men are allegedly being kept out of trades for which they have been trained under the Government's re-establishment plan. The charge is made that limitations on the number of apprentices permitted in certain crafts are denying them an opportunity to make use of what they have learned.

The Government is not entirely blameless in this situation. There is evidence that it held out high hopes to these men. They were led to believe that, if they would take the technical courses, they would be virtually assured of employment at their trades. Now they are finding that there is no room for them, that they have apparently been wasting their time.

This is a case for earnest attention and study by all parties concerned. The Government should seek a method by which at least a fair chance can be given the veterans. The unions should examine their rules, to see whether they are not unduly discriminatory. Surely some reasonable concessions can be made to men who offered their lives and now want nothing more than an opportunity to make a respectable living.

ECHOES FROM NAZILAND

Christian Science Monitor

The pressure is steadily growing in the United States and Great Britain to "build up" a strong Germany against Russia. Certain American newspapers have also bewailed Allied "cruelty" to the Germans, contrasting it with the lenience of Allied policy toward Japan.

In evaluating all such claims and pressures, the public needs to take full account of a steady trickle of news items from Germany, of which the following may stand as an example: The Ministers President of the three states in the American zone have charged that civilian internee and prisoner-of-war camps, inside and outside the Reich are operated by former S.S. (Nazi Elite Guard) officers and guarded by former S.S. men, who conduct "courts martial" in the camps to pass out severe sentences to anti-Nazis.

The total effect of such news items, regardless of their individual accuracy, should be to make Americans and British ask soberly what sort of Germany they are setting back on its feet. What is called for is not a policy of "cruelty" but of dedication to the long, expensive job of de-Nazifying and re-educating Germany for the role of democratic collaborator. If this be called "unrealistic," then we suggest dusting off the prewar isolationists and appeasers as the greatest realists of them all.

SPECIAL GREETINGS

Calgary Albertan

In passing out the compliments of the season here are a group of persons who rate a special Happy New Year:

The waitress who treats a customer like a guest instead of like a pest.

The driver with enough old-world gallantry to hop out of the cab and open the door for a package-laden passenger.

The clerk who doesn't grow disdainful if a customer says: "That is more than I want to pay."

The merchant who doesn't act insulted when a customer makes a single purchase of a scarce article.

The repairman who comes when he promises to and doesn't hand out that "I couldn't possibly say" line when you want to get an advance estimate on what a job will cost.

ANT AND GRASSHOPPER

The Printed Word

An ant, who had worked hard and saved a stock of wheat for the Winter, looked with scorn on his neighbor, the grasshopper, who spent the Summer in singing and dancing.

But the grasshopper combined a fine sense of practical policits with his talent for song and dance, and because he made more noise than the ant, the insect government decided that he must be protected.

So, when Winter came, the ant found that he had to give up his surplus wheat to feed the grasshopper and take him into the ant-hill to live, because the grasshopper had been too busy to build a home for himself.

"KING OF QUACKS."

London Calling

The title of "King of Quacks" was claimed in a BBC broadcast on behalf of a certain long-dead Italian, who made a huge sum by undertaking to revive the dead.

His name was Mantacinnie, and he claimed to have discovered the elixir of life, and said that to prove it he would raise all the people of Lyons who had recently died. In due course, he announced the great day when he would revive the dead. "We shall be up all night," he said to his partner. "We shall have a lot of callers."

It happened just as he said: there was a stream of muffled figures seeking private interviews, and a clinking underneath their cloaks suggested bags of money.

"My father died a year ago," said the first. "He was a rich miser, and it will go hard with me tomorrow when he sees how much I have spent. Here is 1,000 guineas to leave him out."

The next one was a beautiful young woman in great distress. "I'll give you anything not to bring back the tryant who was my husband," she sobbed. "Last week I married my beloved Jacques, and we cannot be parted again so soon."

Some of his callers feared that the dear departed might be curious as to the sudden "illness" that had so suddenly carried them away.

But better was to come. The mayor and town council appeared, in full regalia, and begged an audience. "Learned sir," said the mayor, "I must beg of you to have pity on us. The resurrection of our predecessors in office would throw the present holders into poverty and the whole city into confusion; accept this small tribute to your powers, and go and leave us in peace."

But Mantacinnie was not yet contented. "That's all very well," he said, "but people will doubt the truth of my power to raise your dead." "That can easily be arranged," replied the mayor. "I will give you a solemn document testifying that we ourselves have witnessed your wonderful powers."

Mantacinnie was certainly the king of quacks.

NO SPECIAL FAVORS

Halifax Herald

Kurt Meyer, the Nazi general who escaped a Canadian firing-squad to become the inmate of a Canadan penitentiary, is now described as a "model prisoner" in what must surely become one of the most irritating news stories of 1947.

Let us hope, right now, that this unfortunate story is not the first of a series which we are to read "humanizing" Meyer. Let us hope, also, that he will enjoy no special favors in the penitentiary.

To many people the very presence of Meyer in this country is an affront. They felt, and still feel, that he should have been put to death.

They are in no mood to have him become a legend, a colorful character, and, eventually, an object of sympathy to be "lionized."

"IRON LUNG" MAN SCORES A "SNEAK"

Everyone was pleased to see the enjoyment that Frederick Snite, the iron-lung man, obtained both in kibitzing and playing in the recent national championships tournament at Hollywood, Fla. Fred was ably to play and kibitz, lying in his iron lung, through the aid of mirrors. He certainly gave his spectators a thrill on the hand shown today. He was playing with Milton Vernoff, one of Miami's outstanding players.

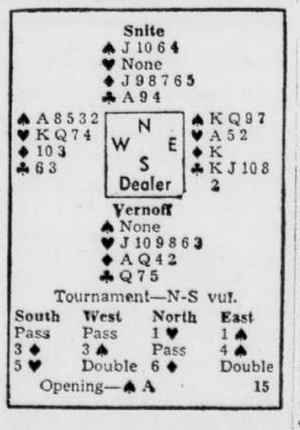

When Snite (North) opened the bidding with one heart without a heart in his hand, the spectators almost gave it away by gasping their astonishment.

Of course when Vernoff, Snite's partner, finally arrive at five hearts, there was nothing for Snite to do but to bid six diamonds.

Vernoff ruffed the opening spade lead, ruffed a heart in dummy, and led a small diamond, When East's king went up, Vernoff won wth the ace, ruffed another heart in dummy and a spade in his own hand. He ruffed the eight of hearts in dummy, the ten of spades in his hand, then ruffed the nine of hearts.

Now he led the jack of diamonds, picking up West's ten-spot. The jack of spades was led, forcing East in the lead. And East was end-played in clubs.

This hand occurred in the practice session the first night of the national tournament, and Snite enjoyed it so much that he attended the tournament almost every day thereafter.

Each pupil received a gift from the teacher, Mrs. Hastings, and in return Mrs. Hastings received many dainty remembrances from the pupils. The members of the Ladies' Guild of the Bishop Carmichael Memorial Church donated bags and oranges for each child.

'Then I will set my sights a notch higher," said John J. Robinette of Toronto. "If Your Lordships agree with my submission that the statements of the accused are not admissible as evidence then you should consider whether, on the basis of circumstantial evidence alone a properly instructed jury could arrive at a verdict of guilty of murder. If not, then the conviction should be quashed."

bassy and now alleged to have been head of the Russian secret police in Canada, from late 1943 on. He had met at least four times socially within the next year or more but had never been asked for information and had never given any.

In late 1945, his work tapering off, he had decided to look Pavlov up again after 10 months of not seeing him. He had always found him "interesting and well informed." This, he said, was why he had jotted down Pavlov's name 11 times between Oct. 30, 1945, and Jan. 5, 1946, on his office calendar pad.

Actually, Poland said, he had called Pavlov only three or four times in that time.

Of his political views, Poland said he did not believe the present Russian system would suit Canada and stated that he had voted Liberal in the 1945 general election. At the suggestion of the now Defence Minister Brooke Claxton, he had also worked in a private capacity in that election for the National Liberal Federation.

Poland denied he had ever been asked for or had ever given any information for Russian use. He had never suspected that Pavlov was a Russian spy.

Judgment in his case Thursday will be followed by the trial of Dr. Henry Harris of Toronto, an optometrist, who faces conspiracy charges as the result of an alleged attempt to get a false Canadian passport for a Russian agent.

The pamphlet also criticized police and provincial government authorities and prompted Premier Duplessis to term its contents libellous and seditious and to authorize seditious conspiracy charges against persons found distributing it. About two score persons here and in other Quebec centres are awaiting trial on this charge.

The majority of Witnesses, however, have been arrested because they refused to obtain municipal permits as required by law. Their argument is that "Witnesses do not ask man for permission to do God's work," backed by their legal contention that the law guarantees freedom of worship.

Men, women and children are included among members of the sect, and in Beauce County a 12-year-old girl was brought before the court as a distributor only to have the case dismissed by the judge because of the defendant's youth.

The question of bail has been a contentious one since the campaign against the sect began and was responsible for Frank Roncarelli, prominent Montreal restaurateur, losing his restaurant liquor licence.

BERTRAM S. GILBERT, OF MARBLETON

Marbelton, Jan. 15.— Military funeral services were held in St. Paul's Church, November 19, for Sgt. Bertram S. Gilbert, Royal Rifles of Canada, who died in St. Francis Sanatorium, Sherbrooke, on November 16.

A veteran of Hong Kong and various Japanese prison camps, Sgt. Gilbert had been confined to hospital since his liberation and return to Canada.

Canon H. O. N. Belford officiated at the funeral service and Rev. J. W. Harrison acted as organist. The 16th Reconnaissance Regiment of Bury, was represented by a party of Hong Kong veterans in battle dress under the command of Capt. P. W. Ayriss.

At the grave a firing party discharged a volley and the "Last Post" was sounded. The firing party consisted of Sgt.-Major Raymond Stoddard, of Sawyerville, in charge; Cpl. Leo Ross, of Cookshire; Riflemen Austin and Eric Batley, of Brookbury; Allan Kelso, of Cookshire; Earl Lasenba, of Bury; and Lawrence Ross, of Cookshire.

The bearers were Lance-Corporal Ernest Bennett, M. M., of Bishopton; Riflemen Earl Coleman, of Scotstown; Harry and Gordon McIver, of Scotstown; Henry Salter, of Cookshire; and William Herring, of Bury.

Sgt. Gilbert was born in Marbleton on April 9, 1905, the son of Hartwell Gilbert, deceased, and his wife, Maria Hussey. He received his education in Marbleton and lived there most of his life. For a time he travelled for the Swift Company and later was engaged in the lumber business, enlisting with the Royal Rifles early in the war.

In June, 1926, he was married to Florence Matthews, of East Angus, who survives him. They had four children, Gwendolyn, a student at Bishop's University; Lennoxville, Bruce, a student at the East Angus High School; and Beverley and Dawn residing at home and students at the Marbleton School.

Besides his wife and children Sgt. Gilbert is survived by his mother, Mrs. Hartwell Gilbert, of Leaside, Ont.; three sisters, Flora, Mrs. James Westman, of Marbleton; Edna, Mrs. Frank Sutton, of Leaside, Ont.; and Irene, Mrs. Ralph Randall, of Jamestown, N. Y., U.S.A.; Clarence Matthews, of Toronto, Ont.; Elmer Matthews, of Bradford, Ont.; and William Matthews, of Bishopton; his mother-in-law, Mrs. Hilda Lapalme, of Cookshire, as well as numerous nephews and nieces.

Sgt Gilbert served in Newfoundland before proceeding to Hong Kong, where he was taken prisoner by the Japanese. He was held a prisoner in Japan for some time and was liberated on September 5, 1945. He returned home on an American hospital ship to San Francisco, Calif., and from there by hospital train to Vancouver, B. C., then to Quebec City, where he was met by his family.

He was able to be at home with his family for two weeks at Christmas, 1945. The remainder of the time he has been confined to military hospitals in the province.

MR. CLINTON W. TAYLOR OF GALLUP HILL

Gallup Hill, January 15.—This community was shocked to learn of the sudden death of Clinton W. Taylor on Monday, December 2, 1946, at the home of Mr. Murray Gallup, where he had been employed for the past six years.

The funeral service was held in St. Ann's Church, Richmond, by the Rev. Mr. Harrington. The casket was covered with many beautiful flowers, while the choir sang "Now the Laborer's Task is O'er," and "Nearer My God to Thee."

Mr. Taylor was born in Richmond on December 14, 1887, the only son of the late Ben Taylor and Elizabeth Mountain. He was united in marriage on June 11, 1919, to Eunice J. Smith, of Melbourne, of this union there are three children, Lloyd E., of South Durham, France O., of Granby, and Howard E., who predeceased him in 1928.

Cornwall, Ont., Jan. 15.—Mrs. Campbell, wife of Albert R. Campbell, accountant in the Cornwall branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, died in the Cornwall, Ont., General Hospital at 6 o'clock, on Saturday evening, November 23, 1946, following a short illness.

Mrs. Campbell had been in her usual health until Wednesday, November 20, when she was removed to the hospital. Her condition became serious on Thursday and she failed to make the hopedfor response to treatment, passing peacefully away on Saturday evening.

Mrs. Campbell was born at Lysander Falls, Que., January 6, 1909, the youngest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Majaury, her mother being the former Miss Clementine Wark. Her maiden name was Jean Bernice Majaury.

The family came to Cornwall from Montreal four and a half years ago, since which time Mr. Campbell has been the accountant in the Canadian Bank of Commerce. Mrs. Campbell made many warm friends during her residence here, who were sorry to learn of her death at such an early age.

She was a member of St. Paul's United Church.

The deceased suddenly passed away on January 1, in her sixty-fifth year, at her home on Western Avenue. Mrs. Campbell suffered a severe illness four years ago, from which she never fully recovered. The deceased was the former Mary Ellen McKay, and was born in South Stukely on January 27, 1883. She was the daughter of the late John P. McKay and Mary Emeline Mahedy. In 1891 she moved with her parents to North Shefford, where she resided until she married Andrew Campbell, on May 19, 1902, and took up residence on a farm at Shefford Mountain, living there until the fall of 1908, at which time they moved to Warden, where they remained until the year 1943, when they moved to their present home on Western Avenue, where Mr. Campbell predeceased his wife a year later.

Possessed of a cheerful and pleasant personality, Mrs. Campbell possessed the faculty of making friends with both young and old alike, and she leaves many friends to mourn her passing.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

Sidney sat down and looked broodingly at him. She was not at all surprised. She couldn't have told how or when she'd first known, and perhaps she hadn't really known until she read the scrawl in the Ashiron register. But she had suspected. It was so like Ace, the very thing he would do. A no-good, that's what he was — and why she had come; to see for herself, to make sure. Because if she hadn't, she might never have been positive, would always have wondered. Ace Latshaw, the gay deceiver, the tin-horn sport.

He said, as if the word were squeezed from between his stiff lips: "Rose? Rose—"

"She's at home," Sidney said. "I locked her up."

He squeezed out more words: "Does your father know I'm here? The Major—or anybody?"

"Oh, no. It was a private matter involving just Rose and me." Sidney considered this query, which was unexpected. What had Papa to do with it? Then she remembered that Papa was somehow mixed up with Mr. Milgrim, who had made off with Jeff's money, and that Richard Breen was Mr. Milgrim's friend. But Sidney wouldn't worry about that now. She had tabbed Papa and his investments as future business . . . She said suddenly, "I suppose Richard Breen is your nom de plume, or something. It must be convenient, having two names. Especially when you're trying to seduce the poor, silly girls who lose their heads over you."

"I didn't intend to seduce Rose."

"Well, you certainly didn't intend to marry her—as anyone but Rose herself would have known. Rose is dear and sweet and beautiful, but dumb."

He said, "You're jealous."

Sidney assayed the taunt for what truth there might be in it. "No, I'm not. I don't believe I was ever in love with you at all, Ace. If I had been, I wouldn't have seen through you right away. The only thing I minded was that you were the one to quit writing. With other boys, I've always done that. But I stopped being really interested in you before you met Rose."

"I didn't know she was your sister when I met her," he said. "I just ran into her on the street—"

"Yes. She told me."

"And what did you tell her?"

"Not much, so far. I wanted to get the whole story. But, of course, I will tell her. Everything. I'll probably make her feel bad for a while, and then she'll despise you. I suppose that's how all your little love affairs end—with the girl despising you. In Rose's case, the despising will be worse than usual, because she's so sentimental and idealizes everybody . . . And that," Sidney said, "is what makes me mad enough to wring your neck! The fact that you would pick out Rose, of all people. Fooling her is easy as taking candy from a baby."

He laughed. "I'll bet you've fooled her plenty of times, yourself." His guardedness seemed to be wearing off; he spoke with the provoking impudence which she remembered. "You know, Sidney, you're darned attractive. More attractive than Rose. I like you a lot."

"Do you?" Her smile was superbly indifferent. She got up. "Well, I wouldn't glance twice at you, if you were the only man in the world."

* * *

"No?" he said. "Then why did you follow me here?"

"Follow you!"

"You did follow me—after locking up Rose. It's because you still care for me. A little, anyway."

"I loathe—" She paused, reining in a surge of wrath so intense it might have annihilated them both. And actually she didn't loathe him; he was ridiculous, a strutting, conceited popinjay; whatever feeling she had for him was on Rose's account. "I came," she said, "because Rose is my sister, and I love her; and before I break her heart, I had to know that you're the louse I've thought you were. Well, that's settled, isn't it? So I'll go home now."

He said, "How?"

She had turned toward the door. She stopped. "What?"

"Are you walking? Yes, you'll have to walk. No more tractions tonight, not until seven in the morning."

Sidney glared. "That's not so!"

"Oh, yes. Ask at the desk, if you don't believe me."

She sat down again in the chair, limply, her knees buckling under her. It was so; she knew it was. Just the kind of thing that was always happening to her lately. Her vaunted self-sufficiency had evaporated, she was a farcical figure. And she couldn't stay in this dismal lodge, because she had no money, nothing in her purse but the return trip stub of her interurban ticket. Unless she stayed in this very room—

She looked around at the room, noting its discomforts, the ugly metal bed, the one oil lamp on the pine bedside table, the commode with its crazed enamel pitcher and bowl. On the dresser which backed against the well was Ace's satchel, a bottle half-full of what must be whisky and a big red apple—this she eyed covetously, for she was famishing, her ribs caving in upon her spine with hunger. Above the dresser the wall was hugely splotched with moisture, where the roof had leaked and the recent heavy rains seeped through. A hideous room, smelling like a wet spaniel . . . The idea of Ace Latshaw choosing such a place for an assignation with a girl like Rose Cameron! And that was all he had wanted it to be, too, a common, garden variety assignation. Why not call a spade a spade? . . . Now Sidney would be forced to spend the night here!

The Doctor Says:

PASTEURIZED MILK CUTS ILLNESS RATE

By William A. O'Brien, M.D.

Modern commercial production of cow's milk is delivering a product superior for human consumption. While milk is the most nearly perfect human food, it should be handled with care, to prevent it from becoming unfit for human consumption.

Dr. O'Brien.

Raw milk is claimed by some of its enthusiastic advocates to have greater nutritive value than pasteurized milk, but this is not true.

The United States Public Health Service compared the rates of growth and the number of illnesses of nearly 1,800 children who were fed a regular diet plus raw milk with those of 1,800 other children who were fed a regular diet plus pasteurized milk. Those who received the pasteurized milk gained as well as did those who received raw milk, and, in addition, had much less illness.

Clean, high-grade pasteurized milk from healthy cows is the standard toward which every community should work. Milk products such as butter, cream and cheese should also be pasteurized, for they too can transmit disease.

Certified milk can be purchased either raw or pasteurized. "Certified" means that it was produced and distributed according to the high standards of cleanliness set up by the American Association of American Health Commissioners, subject to the supervision of local departments of health.

Vitamin D Milk Is Good

Homogenized milk is whole milk in which the fat has been broken up so that the cream no longer separates. Its use is a guarantee that each child will receive the fat in his glass of milk.

Vitamin D is sometimes added to milk to increase its potency in the prevention of rickets. Although a small amount of vitamin D occurs normally in milk, it is not enough to be of value.

Question: I have had ulcerative colitis for about four years. Is it ever completely cured?

Answer: Yes. Many patients with ulcerative colitis have improved after their emotional problems have been solved. In other instances, surgical removal of the diseased bowl has stopped the disease.

KIDNEY ACIDS Rob your Rest..

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss—blame it on 'nerves'—when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons and excess acids from the blood. If they fail and impurities stay in the system—disturbed rest often follows. If you don't rest well get and use Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's help the kidneys so that you can rest better—and feel better. 136

Installation Of Officers Held By Kiwanis Club At Waterloo

Waterloo, Jan. 15.—Meeting at its regular place of assembly, the Waterloo Kiwanis held its regular get-together on Tuesday evening with a goodly crowd on hand. There were four guests besides the Lieutenant-Governor on hand, including Mr. Charles Tenny, the "Grand Old Man," of Waterloo, who had celebrated his ninety-fourth birthday on January 2, Mr. Walter Legge, past president of the Granby Kiwanis Club, Mr. Herbert Whitcher and Mr. Sid Simms.

Lieutenant-Governor George Dureault, K.C., of Granby, O.Q.M. Division, District Number 6, was present to conduct the installation of officers. The following were installed: Immediate past president, Fred St. Denis; directors, Messrs. Leonard Adam, Pete Gunter, Walter Readshaw, Herbert Boyle, Roger McKergow, Bert Fisher and Rollie Boucher. Charles Robidoux was installed as treasurer, and George Dubois as secretary. Vice-president for the year is Ben Marchessault; president Bob Millinchamp was the last one to be installed by Lieutenant-Governor Dureault.

In making his remarks, the Lieutenant-Governor stated that he had been president of the Granby Club when they organized the Waterloo Kiwanis Club and for that reason he had always felt a certain pride in his "baby" club. So it was a double honor for him to be present at this time in his official capacity, as it was the first one he had had as Lieutenant-Governor of this district. He outlined the objectives for the year 1947 briefly and pointed out to the members just what their duties would be for the year, under the officers he had just installed.

President Bob Millinchamp made a few remarks asking for co-operation in his job, and stated that little kindnesses amount to more in the end than trying to do something real big. "Make somebody happy," he said, and "keep happy yourself."

The glee club rendered "Voice in the Old Village Choir," with a solo part being sung by Rollie Boucher. President Bob Millinchamp also sang a solo part in one of his own songs that met with the sound approval of all present.

Next week the guest speaker is to be Mr. Evans, editor of "The Farm and Home Weekly." It is expected to be a most interesting address and a goodly turnout is expected to be on hand.

DOROTHY DIX

Too Young For Matrimony

Boy of Eighteen In Love Should Complete College Before Thinking of Marriage

Dear Miss Dix: I am a boy of 18, in the air service, and I am very much in love with a girl of my own age. I have a leave coming up and I want to ask her to marry me, but I want to finish college after my separation from the service and I would like to have, at least, a year's experience in the business world before taking the plunge into matrimony.

Would it be unfair to the girl if I proposed to her now, seeing as I have one more year to serve and two more years in college? Or should I wait until I have graduated and have a job?

APPRECIATIVE FAN.

DOROTHY DIX

Answer: Well, son, you must have an old head on your young shoulders, for you are looking at this matter of marriage from the standpoint of not only what you long to do at the moment, but what will be the ultimate good for you and the girl later on. And when a man listens to his head as well as his heart he seldom goes wrong.

Inasmuch as you are both so young, my advice to you is to take it easy. Tell the girl that you love her, because that will make her happy and make her feel that she has a claim upon you that you recognize. But don't get engaged. Don't tie yourself down. Don't, as our colored friends say, tie a knot with your tongue that you can't untie with your teeth. Leave yourself and leave the girl a loophole to get out if you ever want to be free.

YOUTH IS UNSTABLE

It is hard, I know, for 18 to realize that its emotions are in a state of flux and that the girl that you are crazy about today may leave you cold tomorrow. But it is a fact. You are changing. You are growing. You are getting new ideas and having new experiences all the time. That is not a matter of volition, it is something that you can't help and that is bound to happen to you. And it is the same way with a girl.

Also, you show your intelligence by putting off marriage until you are able to support a wife. It takes money; it takes a settled job; it takes a sense of security to make a marriage a success. Half of the divorces are the result of youngsters marrying before they had the price of a wedding ring. Don't do it.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I had a very unhappy childhood and now that I have a child of my own I have spoiled him rotten. He is nearly four years old and he has gotten to the place where he calls me names and defies me. Should I get an elderly woman to take complete charge of him, as he has to be straightened out before he goes to school? Would this be fair to my son?

UNHAPPY MOTHER.

Answer: The only way you can be fair to your child is by separating him from yourself and to let somebody else try to undo the harm you have already done to him. Psychologists tell us that a child's character is formed in his babyhood, and certainly any child of four who defies his mother and calls her names has gotten a wrong start in life.

It is mothers like you, who are weak and foolishly fond of their children and who never control them, who are responsible for the juvenile delinquents who fill our jails. But where you are going to find the elderly woman who will reform your bad boy and give him the discipline you haven't given him, heaven only knows. But it doesn't matter, because the first time she tried to make the youngster behave you would have a fit and pity him and "mother's precious darling" him and her efforts to straighten him out would go for naught.

Dear Miss Dix: I am an ex-G.I. just returned home from service. As soon as I arrived I noticed that my wife didn't seem overjoyed to see me and that she had a man caller. The following night when I returned home from my work, she and the man were in the kitchen eating. When I went in and asked if I couldn't have a cup of coffee the man jumped up and said: "Get out of here and stay out, or else I will make trouble for you."

Now what I want to know is how CAN he make trouble for me?

S.M.P.

Answer: He probably meant that he would beat you up, and my suggestion to you is that you take his advice—that you get out and stay out and let him have your disloyal wife without arguing over the matter, still less having a fight.

The Record will be pleased to receive any letters to this Dorothy Dix column. These will be forwarded to Miss Dix who will answer them as quickly as possible.

MIND YOUR MANNERS

The Situation: In the home of an acquaintance you notice an article which you have been trying unsuccessfully to buy, and you would like to know where he bought it and how much it cost.

Wrong Way: Say, "Would you mind telling me where you bought that and what it set you back?"

Right Way: Say, "You are lucky to have that. I've searched the town for one, with no luck." (That gives the person a chance to tell you where he found it. And once you know that, you can inquire about the price at the store.)

Spring's Lady Full-Skirted

Evening fashions are undergoing mild revolution this spring. Left, extravagant skirt sweep reflecting change to fuller silhouettes dramatizes black and white dress which boasts 25 yards of taffeta. Right, bare-shouldered gown of white swiss embroidered organdy, trimmed with ribbon-run beading, features princess-style fulness.

By EPSIE KINARD

The switch-over from slinky dresses this spring to gowns as full-skirted as ante-bellum belles' marks the No. 1 change in the yeasty ferment which "liberated" fashions are undergoing.

A change long overdue also shows in the dimming out of the fiery sequin, used for five years to make up in glittering surface interest what every evening dress from satin to gingham lacked in yardage. When the little dazzler beams this spring, its flicker is as subdued as a pallid light bulb.

Up to other tricks now, designers are concentrating on a newer silhouette. Fullness either bounces dresses out from the waist or goes to hips of slender skirts in extravagant panniers, in peplums as circular as lampshades, or in a drapery which swirls like a harem queen's from hobbled hem to waist.

Unrestricted yardage, however, puts on its best show in skirts that can describe a full circle when a girl's hips swing. The floating skirt owes its dream-princess appeal to imported Chantilly lace, nylon net, paper crisp taffeta, faille or imported cottons as yummy as a baby's christening dress. Most skirts float from a tight-waisted and often strapless bodice.

This silhouette claims one of the season's most breath-taking fabrics—Swiss embroidered organdy, which is back with hullabaloo after its wartime absence. Made into a spectacular princess-style gown, the sweeping skirt bells out from the bare-shouldered bodice. This Hattie Carnegie design accents princess flare with vertical rows of organdy beading, what is ribbon-laced and bow-tied with black velvet.

Another bouffant gown flaunts escape from restrictions with 25 yards of paper-crisp taffeta. The sentimental touch of black velvet ribbon appears in hemline rows that accent the black and white stripes of this Jo Copeland dress.

MARRIAGES

BERGERON—LAURENCE

Granby, Jan. 15.—On Tuesday, December 17, at Ste. Famille Church of Granby, the marriage of Germaine, youngest daughter of the late Alfred Laurence and of Mrs. Laurence, of Granby, to Mr. Patrick Lawrence Bergeron, son of the late J. The bride, who was given in marriage by her grandfather, Mr. Alfred T. Laurence, Chancellor of the Faculty of Pharmacy at the University of Montreal, wore a street-length dress of blue crepe with matching hat of blue feathers. She carried a prayer book with a cascade bouquet of Talisman roses.

DAVIDSON—BRADSHAW

Bedford, Jan. 15.—The marriage of Penelope Smith, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Bradshaw, of Bedford, to Mr. James F. Davidson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Davidson, of Waterloo, took place in St. James' Church, Bedford, Saturday afternoon, December 28th, Rev. M. Stephens officiating.

White carnations adorned the altar and the guest pews were marked with clusters of evergreen tied with white satin ribbon. Mrs. Harry Jones played the wedding music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a graceful gown of white crepe, having a sweetheart neckline and bouffant skirt. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was held by a sequined Juliet cap and she carried a bouquet of Briarcliff roses.

Miss Audrey Bradshaw, sister of the bride, as maid-of-honor, wore a floor-length gown of turquoise crepe, fashioned on lines similiar to the bride's and a matching Juliet cap trimmed with gold sequins. She carried a muff with sprays of tea roses.

Capt. Robert Boright, of Rockcliffe, Ont., acted as best man, and the ushers were Mr. Donald Davidson, of Waterloo, brother of the groom, and Mr. W. MacIntyre Bradshaw, of Sherbrooke, brother of the bride.

A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents, which was decorated for the occasion with white and yellow chrysanthemums and snapdragon. Give Yourself a Nice Treat To Prevent Dieter's Blues

Instead of indulging in extra food when "dieter's blues" get her down, Virginia McCurdy treats herself to a new hat.

Mr., Mrs. or Miss Overweight: Here's another instalment of a seven-day New Year's diet brought to you . . .

By ALICIA HART

When "dieter's blues" make you want to treat yourself to something nice, don't let it be EXTRA FOOD. Make it a new hat or hairdo, a handbag or book. Or go to see a good movie.

"New pleasures and interesting activities can replace the exaggerated pleasure you obtained from eating," says diet specialist Dr. Samuel M. Bloom.

When hunger gets too much for you, however, he suggests the harmless trick of taking a clove-flavored candy drop and letting it dissolve slowly on your tongue. The pronounced taste of tne lozenge will diminish the degree of hunger.

FOURTH DAY'S DIET

RICHMOND AND MELBOURNE RECORDINGS

Official Opening Of Richmond Ski Club Marked By Church Ceremony

The Richmond Ski Club officially began its activities when an afternoon's skiing, blessing of the skis, and a supper highlighted this event.

At 1:30 approximately forty members of the club went to St. Bibian's Church where the skis were blessed. They then proceeded to a spot a few miles from here on the Drummondville highway where the hills provide all the necessities for an enjoyable afternoon's skiing. An accident threatened to spoil the outing, but it was soon found that the injuries suffered by Claud Tourigney were minor, and after he had been properly attended to the program continued as scheduled.

The third part of the day's activities that evening proved to be no less enjoyable than the previous two, as all the skiers came back with healthy appetites.

The Richmond Ski Club has started to give free instruction to young skiers of the town. Every Saturday morning president Pierre Langlois and Miss Norma Ross are on hand to teach young people the fundamentals of this sport. Saturday the 4th the first instructions were given, but all young ski enthusiasts can attend the ski school any or all Saturdays.

President P. Langlois explained the aim of the School in these terms: "Skiing is a great sport. It is a healthy and enjoyable sport, but it can be dangerous, so the aim of the ski school is to provide for our skiers a maximum of enjoyment and a minimum of risk. That is why we want to teach the younger children. They haven't yet developed too many bad skiing habits, and we will teach them the right and safe way to ski."

UNITED CHURCH CHOIR ACTIVITIES

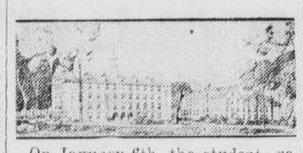

Following the regular practice of the United Church Choir on Monday evening, a business meeting, a business meeting was held, when the president, Mrs. H. N. Pierce, presided and heard the various reports which showed that this branch of the Church work, has been very successful during the past year.

It launched a drive and organized an "Organ Fund," which has steadily increased during the year by contributions and various benefit activities held by the choir, and it is now to launch an advertising campaign for a second hand Hammond Electric Organ, and has formed a committee of the president, the treasurer and choir leader, which will press forward to see what can be accomplished in the way of procuring an organ.

The election of officers for the coming year resulted as follows: President, Mr. Leland Mosher; vice-president, Mrs. R. V. Merrill; secretary, Miss Leta Dustin, and treasurer, Mr. Alfred C. Keeler, re-elected.

The officers and the congregation feel greatly indebted to the organist and choir leader, Mrs. Rexford, and her choir for the service they have given the church by their music every Sunday. Nearly al the members have nearly a one hundred per cent attendance record.

Prompt Filing Of Vital Statistics Held Necessary In Talk To Rotary

The necessity for the prompt registration of births, marriages and burials, and the way in which this registration was conducted, was the subject of an interesting talk by Rev. A. B. Lovelace of the Beebe United Church, at last week's meeting of the Rotary Club of the Boundary held at the Del Monty Hotel.

Rev. Lovelace explained that in Quebec the registration of births, marriages and burials was done by the local ministers, and that such information must be given to them as promptly as possible after the event. Birth certificates could not be secured unless the birth had been recorded, there were severe penalties for failure to comply with the law by having births recorded at once. The same regulations apply to marriages and burials. These records are made out in duplicate, one copy going to the Provincial Government, the other copy staying in possession of the recorder so that it can be consulted any time it was necessary.

The speaker's talk was rendered even more interesting by means of the illustrative anecdotes that he told, and was especially fitting coming as it did during "National Citizenship week." In closing, Rev. Lovelace asked the co-operation of the Rotarians in circulating the information he had given, and seeing that the proper registration was made in any case they knew of personally.

The speaker was introduced by Rev. J. D. MacFadyen and the thanks of the club was expressed by J. D. Ferguson. The club was pleased to have as a visitor, George T. Ames, proprietor of the Ames Garage in Derby Line. He was introduced by H. A. Rice, who had brought Mr. Ames as his guest.

Ltd., still leaving plenty of room for those who have to park their cars or trucks while undergoing inspection.

Citizens of the Boundary travelling to Newport on the afternoon Derby Line to Newport Greenwood bus on Saturday had a bit of excitement when another bus of the same company swung into the Derby Line-Newport vehicle as both turned the corner at the Causeway at the same time. The rear end of the bus proceeding in the opposite direction crashed into the Newport-bound bus as it turned the corner, sending it into the snowbank some six inches from a huge tree. Fortunately no one was hurt, the shatterproof glass being turned into shambles, and a huge dent in the side of the two buses being the only damage.

Members of the Derby Line Parent-Teachers' Club last evening enjoyed a most interesting discussion led by L. R. MacPherson of Stanstead College on the subject of dramatics. Wide interest is being taken in the Mystery Party which the International Community School will hold in the Derby Line Village Hall next Friday, the 24th. No one knows what they will be entertained with or who will do the entertaining, the whole program being left up to the committee in charge who guarantee "something different." Admission incidentally, is free, and a large crowd is anticipated.

Country Slaughter Strictly On His Own In World Series Famous Run

By HARRY GRAYSON

New York, Jan. 15.—Did Enos Slaughter carry the mail with or without the guidance of Mike Gonzalez on the Cardinal's memorable run that settled the 1946 World Series?

Country Slaughter said he was on his own from the time he passed second base in that dramatic eighth inning at Sportsman's Park last Oct. 15, deciding to shoot for the works, and failing to receive even the blink of a bulb from Coach Gonzalez.

Yet many sports writers and others tabbed Senor Gonzalez the finale's hero for waving the outfielder homeward bound—all the way from first base on Harry Walker's line drive to left-centre.

There has been so much controversy and discussion about Slaughter's daring sprint that veteran sports editor Sid Keener of the St. Louis Star-Times asked director Lew Fonseca of the major leagues' motion picture division to clear it up.

Slaughter strictly on his own, is the answer.

And, as a former player, Fonseca ventures the opinion that if catcher Hal Wagner had blocked the plate instead of moving forward into the diamond four or five feet to take shortstop Johnny Pesky's late, lazy relay, it would have been close and quite a mix-up.

Slaughter was on first base with two out and the Red Birds and Red Sox tied, 3-3.

"Slaughter was off with the pitch," reports Fonseca. "He said he was making an attempt to steal.

"Never at any time did he break stride or slow up to any extent whatsoever.

"Rounding second, Slaughter took a quick glance to his right, at which time without any doubt he made up his mind to gamble on the possibilities of scoring this all-important winning run. Approaching and rounding third base, Slaughter was moving as fast as his legs can carry him.

"Just before Slaughter reached third, Gonzalez moved in toward the baseline, but made no motion at all with his hands. They remained at his sides.

"As Slaughter passed third base, Gonzalez backed away from the baseline, giving the runner plenty of room without making any motion with his hands that would indicate a decision of any kind on his part.

"When Slaughter was past Gonzalez by 10 or 15 feet, the coach's hands moved up to about the height of his shoulders in a sort of half-hearted manner, as if to say: 'All right. If that's the way you feel about it, then go ahead'."

A bouncing slide across the plate and the plucky Cardinals had hung on to take it all.

Hesitant Bell Makes It Plain That Grid Pros Need Strong Man At Top

By HARRY GRAYSON

New York, Jan. 15.—When a jury found Alvin J. Paris guilty of offering bribes to them, Bert Bell finally got around to suspending Merle Hapes and Frank Filchock.

Although police picked up Paris, Hapes and Filchock on the eve of the Bears-Giants playoff, Dec. 15, Commissioner Bell had not yet made up his mind regarding the noble athletes. He asked for even more time before deciding their professional fate.

Testimony at the trial brought out the fact that Filchock got into the pay-off playoff because he lied to Mayor William O'Dwyer in the wee, small hours preceding the game.

Hapes was not permitted to participate because he told the truth. The mayor gave Filchock a clean bill of health when told by the player that he had no direct offer from would-be fixer Paris.

Now you hear talk that, with Bill Paschal and others out with injuries, the New York club hardly could have taken the field without tailback Filchock.

And the fact remains that Hapes and Filchock failed to tell the proper authorities about the proposition made to them.

As Commissioner of Baseball, Judge Landis gave men life for less than that.

All Buck Weaver did was sit in with the Black Sox at their first meeting. The famous third baseman told them they were crazy, would have nothing to do with the plot, played excellent ball, but was barred forever because he didn't holler cop.

There might have been an excuse for Weaver because nothing like the throwing of a ball game, let alone a World Series, had ever before been washed publicly.

College-bred, well-paid Hapes and Filchock had plenty of precedent to warn them, however—in baseball, if not fooball.

The biggest rap against the National League's current administration is that, with all the suspicious talk, the football people were spectators while the law swooped down upon Paris, Hapes and Filchock.

This despite the fact that Paris had wined, dined and otherwise entertained his intended dupes for three weeks.

"Paris was a good fellow," says Filchock, even now. "He was nice to a lot of football players."

It is all well and good for Bert Bell to campaign for further legislation against gambling on sports, but his hesitancy makes it clear that professional football needs at its head what baseball used to have—a strong man.

YELLOW TEAM TOPS KAYSER LADIES' LOOP

Of the two teams that started the last half of the schedule of the Kayser Ladies' Bowling League undefeated both in games and strings won, only one has not yet been beaten. That is Yellow, which is now alone in first place in the race for the loop title. It is out in front because it whitewashed Black two strings to none at New Wellington alleys, and it is out there by itself because the team it had been tied with for first place has lost its first string. Miss M. St. Amant was high lady of the game with a pinfall of 129 for one string and 215 for two.

Yellow was one of the three top teams in the league standing that played the three bottom outfits. Red, a second-place crew, split two strings with Green, a fourth-place squad. It was Red that had been deadlocked with Yellow for first place. It was Red's losing one string to Green that broke the tie and made Yellow the new undisputed leader of the title race. Miss B. Begin, of Red, topped both her teammates and the Green players with high single of 120 and high double of 203.

In the third meet, the third-place Blue quintet shut out the fourth-place Maroon aggregation two strings to none. The win leaves Blue alone in third place in the league standing.

Post-Season Brings Big Changes In College Football Coaching Jobs

New York, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Post-season job-swapping in the ranks of United States College football coaches continued today to provide teams across the country with new pigskin tutors.

The big turnover, marked by more than a score of resignations since the close of the 1946 season, hit a new one-day high yesterday when three berths were filled—making six additions to coaching ranks in less than a week.

A long-expected shift took place at the University of Alabama, where the ailing Frank Thomas stepped down to make room for Harold (Red) Drew, who resigned Monday as head coach of Mississippi.

Drew's successor at Mississippi is John H. Vaught, All-American guard at Texas Christian in 1932, promoted from line coach.

University of Oregon named James W. Aiken, football coach and Director of Athletics at Nevada since 1939, to the head coaching job to replace Gerald A. (Tex) Oliver.

Meanwhile, Kansas State University announced it was seeking two men to fill the dual position of head coach and athletic director vacated by Hobbs Adams.

Two other colleges took in the "help wanted" shingle last Friday after finding men for the jobs. Ed McKeever, who resigned from Cornell, went to the University of San Francisco. George K. (Lefty) James was named McKeever's successor at Cornell.

Bob Woodruff, line coach at Georgia Tech, was named to succeed Frank Kimbrough as head coach at Baylor. Head coach Bobby Dodd of Georgia Tech selected Ray Graves, former line coach at Tennessee, to fill Woodruff's old spot.

Still seeking coaches are Maryland, where T-Master Clark Shaughnessy quit for the second time; Lafayette, which lost E. E. (Hooks) Mylin; Colby, where Danny Lewis resigned; Colgate, where the veteran Andy Kerr retired; and the University of California, where Frank Wickhorst stepped down.

SHERBROOKE WHITEWASHES CORNWALL 3-0 IN P.H.L. TILT

Bishop's Boys Swamp Circo 43-17; Girls Drop Game To Y.W.C.A. 20-10

Showing great improvement, both offensively and defencively, over their pre-Christmas performances Bishop's College men swamped Circo 43-17 in an Eastern Township Amateur Basketball Association fixture at the college gym. In the other half of the double-header Y.W.C.A. topped the Bishop's girls by a 20 to 10 score.

In the men's game, Bishop's took an early lead and were never headed from then on. The Collegians ran up a 7 point lead before Clarke broke the scoring ice for the visitors. By half time they had run up an 11 point lead and increased this to 26 points before the final whistle sounded. The Purple and White's main advantage lay in their passing and they worked all their plays from close in taking full advantage of their sharp-shooters, their zone defence also proved quite effective and Rand seemed to encounter quite a bit of trouble in trying to break it.

Jim Blevins was the spark plug of the Bishop's attack as he personally accounted for 10 points. Blevins put together 3 field goals and 1 free shot in the opening half and then added 1 more of each in the second. He was closely followed by John MacFarlane and Gordie McFarlane with 7 points apiece. John MacFarlane and Harry Andrews also played an outstanding game on the defence as time and again they broke up Rand plays.

Clarke and Mackie MacLean were top men for the visitors, each amassing a total of 6 points. The Rand's other points were scored by Jim Strickland, Lloyd Gundeson and Cathcart. Strickland also was the mainstay of their defence.

The girls game was rather slow in starting but speeded up after the half-way mark had been reached. Repeatedly missed free-shots cost both teams a goodly number of points in the opening quarter and it was not till the closing minutes of this period that Joyce Audet broke the scoring ice. A field goal set the "Y" girls still further ahead and except for a short period when the score was tied that is where they stayed.

At the start of the second half the visitors had things all their own way and they outscored Bishop's 9-2 in the third quarter. In the closing minutes, however, play evened up and both teams scored only 3 points apiece, giving the "Y" a 20-10 victory.

Flo Martin, of the Sherbrooke team, proved the star of the game as she scored 9 points to lead in this department. She was followed by Marg Dean with 4 points and Rose Fountain and E. Martin with 2 points each. Lila Pharo and Louise MacDonald led the college girls with 3 points, while the home team's other scorers were Betty Mackenzie and Barbara Stevenson.

The teams:

Men's game: Circo: Strickland 2, Martin 0, Gundeson 2, Clarke 6, MacLean 6, Perkins 0, Cathcart 1, Hunting 0, Sawyer 0.

Bishop's: Johnston 4, Blevins 10, Porter 1, Stewart 3, Stanley 2, McFarlane G. 7, MacFarlane J. 7, Bailly 3, McVie 2, Andrews 4.

Women's game: Bishop's: Pharo 3, Legge 0, Burt 0, Mackenzie 2, MacDonald 3, Mitchell 0, Stevenson 2.

G.M. Young Presents Trophy For Player Most Useful To His Team

G. M. Young, general manager of the Canadian Ingersoll Rand Company, has presented a trophy to the Sherbrooke St. Francis Hockey Club. It will be known as the George Povey Memorial Trophy and will remain in possession of the club as long as they operate.

As already announced, the trophy will be awarded to the player who is judged the most useful to his club during the present season.

At each home game a committee will pick three stars with the first player receiving ten points, the second, five and the third, three. At the end of the season the player with largest amount of points will be declared the winner.

The winner's name will be engraved on the trophy and he will receive a special prize from Mr. Young, the honorary president of the club.

This is the second trophy bearing the name of George Povey Memorial in competition in the city, the other was put up for the hockey championship of the city and is at present held by the St. Charles Seminary, which won it two years ago. It was not contested last year.

George Povey was one of the city's outstanding athletes and until his death in 1933, he devoted a large portion of his time to sports, helping to organize hockey, lacrosse and baseball clubs.

Povey was a member of the famous Sherbrooke Senior Club that reached the finals for the Allan Cup in 1910, being eliminated by St. Mike's of Toronto. Sherbrooke was a member of the old St. Lawrence Valley League with Three Rivers, Grand'Mere and Westmount at the time.

Other players on the team besides George Povey, were Earl Arguin, Lee Hyndman, Harold Hyndman, Norrey Wiggett, Gerry Wiggett, Eddie Payan and A. H. Baker.

Povey also managed the local ball clubs when they were in the old Green Mountain League and played their home game at the old Victoria ball park on Park Avenue.

The three stars chosen last Saturday evening during the Cornwall-Sherbrooke game were first, Herbie Carnegie; second, Henry Hayes; third Adjutor Cote.

Harry Barefoot Registers First Shutout As Locals Down Cougars

Cornwall, Ont., Jan. 15.— (CP) — Cornwall Cougars absorbed their third straight defeat and second consecutive shutout when they dropped a 3-0 decision to the league-leading Sherbrooke St. Francis club in a Provincial Hockey League game here last night.

Following a scoreless opening period, Sherbrooke rolled up a two-goal lead in the middle session and played it safe with a sound defensive display in the final stanza when they tallied the final marker of the game.

Manny McIntyre, on relays from Ossie and Herbie Carnegie, opened the scoring just after the five-minute mark and was followed seven minutes later by Morehouse who rifled home a passout from Art Cote.

Cliff Goupille sewed up the contest for the Saints at 15:16 of the last period, making no mistake on Tony Demers' pass. Cougars carried the play throughout the final period but Hal Barefoot was unbeatable in the winners' nets.

Six penalties were handed out, four of them coming in the first period. Hodgson, of Cornwall, and Goupille, of the visitors, were the main offenders as each took two minor penalties.

EX-CHAMP ROSS IS SAID CURED OF DRUG HABIT

Chicago, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Barney Ross, former world's welterweight and lightweight boxing champion is home today with newly-found health after four months in a hospital where he declared himself victor over narcotics.

Ross, now 37, arrived yesterday from the United States Public Health Service Hospital in Lexington, Ky., where he was dismissed after receiving treatment for the narcotics habit which "slipped up" on him while fighting the aftermath of malaria. He contracted malaria while a marine on Guadalcanal.

TONY PRINCE K.O. BY WELCH

Sanford, Me., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Bobby Welch, 135, Boston, knocked out Tony Prince, 142, Sherbrooke, Que., in the fifth of six scheduled rounds of a boxing bout here last night.

Sherbrooke Laces Windsor 13-3; St. Pat's Defeat Richmond 3-2

Sherbrooke Juniors laced Windsor Mills Beavers 13-3 and St. Pat's edged out Richmond 3-2 in an Eastern Townships Junior Hockey League doubleheader at the Arena last night.

SHERBROOKE-WINDSOR

In the first event of the night, Sherbrooke was clearly too strong for Windsor Mills. In the first ten minutes of play, though they did not score, the locals had the Beavers crowded in their own end so well that when the visitors did get their sticks on the puck they shot it down the ice to get relief. Sherbrooke's first goal was scored just past the halfway mark of the first chapter. What happened after that merely bore out Sherbrooke's showing in the first half of the opening frame.

Sherbrooke had five less men in action than had Windsor Mills.

Proteau got seven markers for Sherbrooke. Faucher, one of his teammates, scored three times.

The line-up of the teams, the names of the officials and the summary are as follows:

Windsor Mills	Sherbrooke

RICHMOND-ST. PAT'S

The Richmond-St. Pat's game was just the opposite from the first bout. This second contest, at which Pat Murphy, the St. Pat's pilot, was not on hand, began for the most part in favor of the green and white local outfit. But the rest of the game was a pretty even battle.

After opening in see-saw fashion, the first period turned into a one-sided chapter. Not much time had elapsed in this stanza when signs appeared—such as the sight of what was, except for Jameson, the St. Pat's goaltender, an empty St. Pat's side of the rink—that the fixture might follow the pattern of the preceding game. Goals by Cottrelle and Cote gave St. Pat's a 2-0 lead in the first half of the period.

The second chukker was plainly the closest of the match. Here, if not in the first or last cantos, St. Pat's had its hands full. Richmond not only put up resistance; the maroon and white crew also knew how to carry the puck around. About halfway through the period, Richmond went down the ice on an attack and scored from the left side of the St. Pat's net. Lacroix got the marker with the help of Gagnon.

Apparently indignant at being pushed around as they had been in the second period by the Richmond aggregation, St. Pat's played every man up at the start of the last canto. Although they led 2-1, they kept Richmond pinned in their own end for about the first five minutes of play. When Richmond finally tore out of their zone, scoring on a breakaway, Gagnon taking Beland's pass and firing past Jameson, the St. Pat's goaltender, from just inside the St. Pat's blueline. Morneau was in the penalty box at the time. St. Pat's came back after that to storm the Richmond cage. The locals scored at the 10.45 mark, Cottrelle taking Morneau's pass in front of the Richmond net and shooting the puck past Levis, of Richmond, before the netminder could move. St. Pat's had every man up in the last five minutes of play. Richmond broke out of their end by means of breakaways, and tried to keep the locals off by icing the puck. The final score was St. Pat's 3, Richmond 2.

The following are the line-ups of the teams, the names of the officials, and the summary:

Richmond	St. Pat's
Levia	goal .... Jameson
Gregoire	defence . Gamache
Beland	defence ..... Parr
Lasonde	centre Cunningham
Pelletier	wing ..... Cote

Rutgers' White Counters With A Fast-Break Attack After Foul Shot

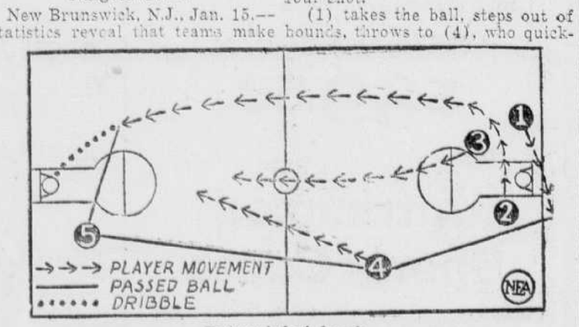

By DON WHITE
Rutgers Coach

New Brunswick, N.J., Jan. 15.— Statistics reveal that teams make more foul throws than they miss and the defense recovers a greater percentage of those missed.

The play illustrated in the accompanying diagram is employed with a fast-break by Rutgers following an opponent's successful foul shot.

(1) takes the ball, steps out of bounds, throws to (4), who quickly passes to (5) or (2). If the ball goes to (5), he can pass to (2), (3) or (4), depending upon the opponent's play.

(2) is usually the receiver.

General Manager Selke Denies All Rumors Of Shake-Up In Canadiens

Even without the customary name-calling, the two-game series that opens tonight in Toronto with Montreal Canadiens seeking to overhaul the league-leading Maple Leafs shapes up as the most crucial yet in the current National Hockey League campaign.

With Leafs on the limp and Canadiens in their worst slump in four seasons, the home-and-home engagement that concludes in Montreal Thursday night would present a mighty big four points if either team should be lucky enough to cop it all.

Given those four points, the Leafs would hold a juicy 11-point edge over the Stanley Cup Champions—almost enough to let them coast to a first-place finish.

Canadiens, on the other hand, could cut the margin to three by a double-victory but the series means more than just points to Canucks. There have been rumors of a shake up around the Canadien camp.

Confronted with keyhole reports that three veterans were due to travel down the river, General Manager Frank Selke said that "no changes are contemplated in Canadiens lineup."

Even with the return of Elmer Lach putting his Canadiens back at full strength, Coach Dick Irvin steered clear on any "fighting talk" in Toronto yesterday. He regarded Leafs as a "good team getting the breaks" and his own boys as "not getting them."

Coach Hap Day had a little more to worry about with his Leafs. The crying towel was near at hand as he referred to four players on the injury list—defencemen Garth Boesch and Bob Goldham and forwards Vic Lynn and Harry Watson.

From the Montreal and Toronto newspapers, you would hardly know it but the Toronto game was only one of the three-match Wednesday night card.

At Boston, meanwhile, the slightly shaken-up Bruins, with three newcomers on their lineup, will try to get back into winning stride against Chicago Black Hawks, last but riding a three-game win streak. Detroit Red Wings, one point behind Rangers in fifth place, can pass the Blueshirts with a win at New York.
