Unemployment

Canada to work with U.S.

By HAROLD MORRISON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)
WASHINGTON — Canada and the United States have decided to join forces in new attempts to battle unemployment.

In an unprecedented move, the two governments have agreed to set up an informal joint body, headed by cabinet members, to delve into every aspect of the unemployment problem and seek new programs to enhance job opportunities.

The new committee was announced Wednesday night after a white House meeting in which President Kennedy spoke briefly to Canadian Labor Minister Michael Starr and U.S. Labor Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg.

Goldberg later quoted Kennedy as saying he held Canada-U.S. relations in high regard and welcomed all moves to increase co-operation between the two countries.

Starr found that Kennedy was eagerly looking forward to his Ottawa visit May 16-18.

ENTERTAINED STARR

In his first Washington visit, Starr was given the red-carpet treatment, including a luncheon at the presidential guest house, Blair House, with George Ball, undersecretary of state, as official host.

During the evening Starr was entertained at a reception in the state department's plush, new drawing room reserved for top-drawer diplomatic occasions.

Goldberg emphasized at a brief White House press conference that Canada and the U.S. walk arm in arm in good times and bad.

Starr said he had invited Goldberg to Ottawa for the next informal meeting of the new labor committee, which the two cabinet members will head. Goldberg accepted and said a date would be set later.

Starr today continues his labor department talks and returned to Ottawa.

Colombo Plan inspires stamp

OTTAWA (CP) — A special five-cent stamp will be issued in June to mark the 10th anniversary of the Colombo Plan, the post office announced today.

The design, blue on a background of light brown, shows two men looking towards a hydro dam. One is in Western garb, the other in a turban and tropical clothing and holding a blueprint.

A major part of Canada's contribution to the Colombo Plan's aid program for southeast Asia has been in the power development and communications field.

The stamps will go on sale across the country June 28 in time for the formal anniversary July 1. The post office is printing 30,000,000 copies.

Still hold Tshombe

ELISABETHVILLE (Reuters) — Officials in breakaway Katanga province were gloomy today as no news was forthcoming on the whereabouts of President Moise Tshombe.

Tshombe was arrested Wednesday in the Equator province capital of Coquilhatville by central government forces. He was in the city for a meeting on a proposed federation of Congolese provinces.

Katanga Interior Minister Godefroid Munongo said Wednesday he had received direct assurances from Coquilhatville by telephone that Tshombe would be released and would leave for Elisabethville today.

But informed sources said Coquilhatville airport has been closed to all traffic, incoming and outgoing, since midnight Wednesday night. The DC-4 due to fly Tshombe home also was reported still on the ground at the airport this morning.

The news worried Katanga ministers. The Katanga cabinet, which met today, took no action, awaiting further word from Coquilhatville.

Pick Friday for ceasefire

VIENTIANE, Laos — The government today called for a cease-fire at noon Friday, but there was no indication the pro-Communist rebels will agree.

The call was broadcast by the government's radio and was transmitted to the British Embassy for relay to the rebels by way of the Russians.

As the appeal was made public, concern rose about the ability of royal troops to stand up much longer against rebel attacks despite an increase in air support.

Earlier, Gen. Phoumi Nosavanna, strongman of the government and its military commander, proposed that peace talks between the warring factions begin Friday in Luang Prabang, the royal capital.

Reliable sources said there were no reports of any major fighting since the fall Wednesday of Muong Sai, a trading centre 55 miles north of Luang Prabang.

But there was grave concern

Set toll in Angola at 1,000

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters) — Almost 1,000 white men, women and children are estimated to have died in the wave of African terrorism in Angola, according to a South African Press Association correspondent in Luanda, the capital of the Portuguese colony.

Meanwhile, authorities in Luanda have published another list of more than 200 dead and missing persons — victims of rebel attacks — the correspondent reported.

It includes the names of whole families who have been massacred together.

The Luanda authorities, however, are satisfied order has been restored in the Negro quarter of the city, and have consequently lifted an 8 p.m. curfew imposed on all civilians in the district, the correspondent said.

SHAMBLES IN WAKE OF FIRE — Pictured above is an interior view of the ruined Wellington Pharmacy at 98 Wellington Street, North, wrecked by flames early this morning in a two-alarm fire. Four other businesses in the same building suffered slight smoke and water damage. The fire is believed to have started in the basement below the pharmacy and spread quickly to the walls and ceiling above. No estimate of the damage was available. (Record Photo by Gerry Lemay)

KEY WEST, Fla.

(AP) — Fidel Castro today spoke for nearly four hours before about 1,000 captured rebel invaders in a dramatic Cuban television show interrupted once by an apparently accidental burst of gunfire.

The Cuban prime minister, in an oratorical performance ranging from soft-voiced persuasion to arm-waving shouting, appeared momentarily startled when a guard's weapon discharged.

Then, he raised his arms over his head, urged the large Havana Sports Palace crowd to remain calm and said: "Don't anybody move. Everyone put their weapons where they belong."

Minutes after the interruption, Castro continued his long political and economic lecture to a captive audience seated in bleachers and guarded by soldiers armed with automatic rifles.

THOUGHT OF DEATH? — "You all thought you were going to be assassinated, didn't you?" Castro asked.

"Yes," the prisoners shouted back.

"Instead," he said, "you have been treated politely." Most nodded agreement.

After Castro spoke of the danger of American aggression against Cuba, several of the prisoners grabbed microphones and pledged to fight off any attack. The rest of the prisoners roared their approval.

Castro was asked by one of the prisoners if his government was "completely Communist." He shouted back: "The Cuban people have a right to a Communist government if they want."

TO HONOR PLEDGE TO ASSIST CUBANS — UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Soviet deputy foreign minister Valerian A. Zorin declared Wednesday his country will stand by its promise to come to the aid of Cuba if it is attacked.

He declared at a press conference that the Soviet Union viewed the question of aid to Cuba even more seriously than Britain regarded its pledge to Poland just before the Second World War.

"If the Soviet Union says it will extend assistance, it will extend assistance," he said.

Strengthen army — CAPE TOWN (AP) — South African Defence Minister James J. Fouché Wednesday announced the army is being brought to "war strength" because of a dual threat of internal uprisings and invasions by Negroes.

Sierra Leone

Wind up 175 years as colony

By HORACE CASTELL

FREETOWN, Sierra Leone (Reuters) — The 2,000,000 citizens of diamond-rich Sierra Leone today celebrated the independence of their colony after nearly 175 years as a British colony.

Independence came to the West African territory in a dramatic midnight ceremony Wednesday night.

The colony was a haven for North American slaves who had fled to the Canadian Maritime provinces during the American War of Independence.

Some 15,000 persons jammed Freetown Sports Stadium and stood together to sing the hymn Lead Kindly Light, followed by the new Sierra Leone national anthem.

A few minutes later, at midnight, lights were extinguished. Ten seconds later they flashed on again, focused on the new green, white and blue flag that had replaced the Union Jack on the staff in front of the royal pavilion.

A great cheer from the crowd greeted independence and more cheers roared through the city as fireworks festooned the sky.

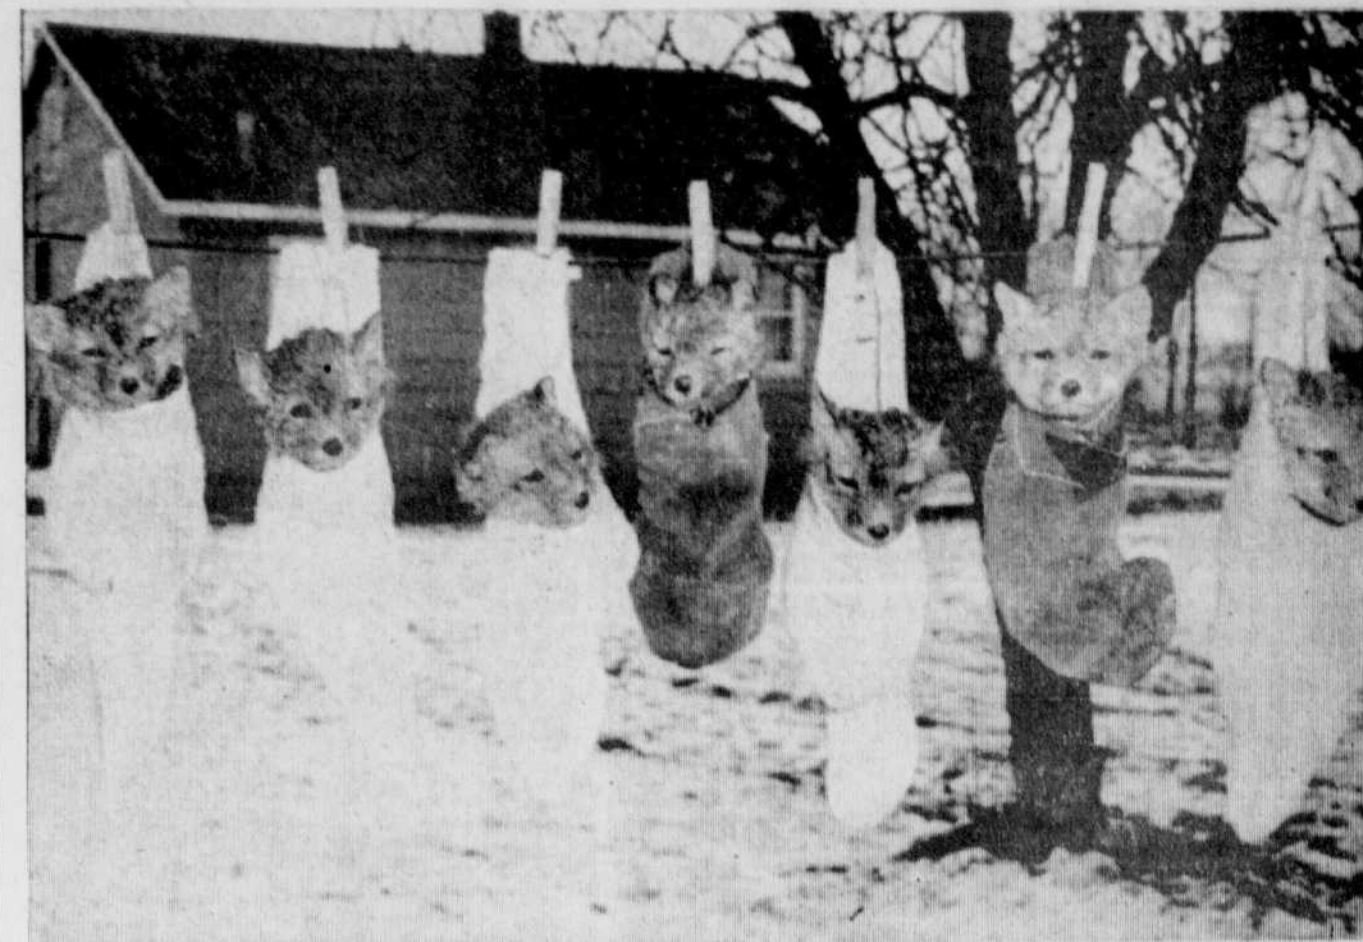

OPPOSITION JAILED — Not joining in the celebrations were 31 members of the opposition All People's Congress party who have been jailed by the government, allegedly because they planned to disrupt independence celebrations.

Prime Minister Sir Milton Margai has promised to free them as soon as the independence festivities are over.

Today, at the opening of the Sierra Leone Parliament, the 25-year-old Duke of Kent read a message from the Queen his cousin.

The spokesman said there had been fewer than 50 desertions from the two legion regiments involved in the coup. These men presumably fled to avoid punishment.

Crack down on right wing; halt recruiting for Legion

By HAROLD KING

PARIS — Reuters — The French government cracked down on right-wing extremists today and cut off recruiting for the Foreign Legion in the wake of a four-day Algerian uprising against President Charles de Gaulle.

Hundreds of known die-hard rightists were being held in custody amid warnings of possible new flareups by extremists trying to overthrow de Gaulle's policy of negotiating with Moslem rebels in Algeria.

A government order closed all recruiting offices in France for the Foreign Legion, which played a key role in the abortive revolt in Algiers.

Meanwhile, a French government spokesman in Algeria said today two Foreign Legion regiments that supported the generals' revolt may be disbanded as part of the government crackdown.

The spokesman said there had been fewer than 50 desertions from the two legion regiments involved in the coup. These men presumably fled to avoid punishment.

Quote JFK's dad at Eichmann trial

JERUSALEM — Joseph P. Kennedy, father of President Kennedy, reported in 1938 that the outlook for the Jews in Germany was "very bad," evidence introduced today in the trial of Adolf Eichmann showed.

Kennedy was the American ambassador to Britain at the time.

The court trying Eichmann received a photostatic copy of a report Kennedy cabled to the state department Dec. 8, 1938. "The results were very bad," Assistant Attorney General Kennedy cabled Washington.

President de Gaulle's policy of self-determination for Algeria—which will almost certainly lead to independence—has cast doubt on the future of the whole Foreign Legion. Under the French constitution, no legion unit can be permanently based in Metropolitan France, and Algeria is the last big overseas French possession.

The strength of the Foreign Legion is a government secret, but unofficial reports have placed the number of legionnaires at about 30,000, many of them German. The entire legion is stationed in Algeria.

GENERALS FLOWN BACK — Meanwhile, three generals who sided with the rebels during their uprising were flown back here and de Gaulle made it known that the government planned to stamp out right-wing supporters of the rebellion in France.

The president retained dictatorial powers despite the crushing of the revolt and Premier Michel Debre warned in a television broadcast Wednesday night that "flareups or new developments are still possible."

Informed sources disclosed that several hundred suspects have been detained in the last few days in a country-wide roundup of right-wing extremists.

President Charles de Gaulle still were missing. There were unconfirmed rumors that these die-hard parachute soldiers intended to take to the Algerian mountains as a "maquis" resistance group.

Meanwhile, the de Gaulle regime's tough purge got rolling here during the night under the cover of a strict 9 p.m.-to-dawn curfew.

Large forces of riot policemen were on hand and armored cars blocked roads to Algiers suburbs.

Police armed with search powers took off with orders to find about 400 civilians who played active roles in backing the junta ousted from Algiers by loyalist troops Tuesday night and early Wednesday.

Under instructions from Paris, authorities launched a similar purge in the French Army and air force of Algeria.

MOST FACE LAW — A government spokesman said that "all those who followed the rebel chiefs must face the rigors of the law."

Official sources said that an undetermined number of colonels and civilians were with the fugitive generals.

Tight restrictions were clamped down on all ports to prevent the escape of insurgents. Small craft were forbidden to leave Algerian waters.

French and British officials in Gibraltar denied a Spanish report that the three fugitive generals had reached that British Crown colony and had asked for political asylum.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Around the town in 80 days... Wonder what happened to all those English butlers who used to bottle in films... Nobody noticed Burt Lancaster wearing a tou-

It broke even first time around, hampered by the "not for those under 18" tag... Shirley Jones' family lifted its collective eyebrow when she played a fancy lady in Gantry, now heartily approves... Marie Wilson and Ken Murray are splitting their longtime act except for rare dates. Ken did some fine dramatics on Death Valley Days... Just when we were recovering from Oscar, along comes Emmy. moments when the services of an interpreter would have helped. Andy Griffith was one of Martin's guests. With Dean slurring his words, and Andy using his deepest south dialect, it sometimes sounded as if they were speaking to each other in foreign languages. The program had one bright sketch idea — a burlesque of those old movies about the dramatic struggles for success by Tin Pan Alley composers, complete with all the clichés, even the inevitable splitup or the successful team over a girl. The most unusual aspect of the one hour show, however, was a notable omission: No one made any jokes about Martin and alcohol. Maybe it's the beginning of a new era in Dean Martin's shows.

Returned to jail to 'meditate'

An 18-year-old Asbestos youth was returned to Winter Street jail to "meditate" after he pleaded guilty in Sherbrooke District Court Wednesday to a charge of theft of $50 from the Canadian Johns Manville Company in Asbestos.

"By what right can you destroy the reputation of your father in the space of a few minutes..." Judge Redmond Hayes asked the youth.

Judge Hayes suggested that the prisoner's name not be published so that his parents would not have to "suffer for the crime of their son." The latter was returned to jail where he will remain until his sentencing Saturday.

Other minors who were involved in the theft have appeared in Social Welfare Court.

To exhibit at city art show

During the Sherbrooke Arts Festival, which opens Friday the public will have the opportunity to see the works of Marie Versailles.

This young Montreal artist exhibited her paintings at the University of Montreal last February, and critics were unanimous in praising her talent as a painter and the choice of her subject: youth.

Marie Versailles has held exhibitions in various parts of the province, particularly in several art centres in the Laurentians and on the Gaspé peninsula.

She also illustrated two books, published in Montreal: "L'ombre de Dieu" and "Notre Dame de Nous". Marie Versailles belongs to a group of young painters who call themselves "Les solidaires".

The exhibition is held at the Centre Culturel et Artistique, 167 Marquette Street from April 28 to April 30th open daily from two o'clock to ten o'clock.

200 pints goal at Lennoxville blood donor clinic tomorrow

A blood donor clinic will be held in Lennoxville, tomorrow at the Gertrude Scott Hall, Church Street, from 2.30 to 5.30 p.m. and from 7 to 9 p.m. It was announced today by Ed Sims, president of the Red Cross branch.

The last clinic held on November 25, 1960, was the best of the 16 clinics held since October, 1949. Two hundred and thirty seven pints were given last fall which brought to 2,497 the number of contributions made to the Red Cross blood bank in the past 12 years.

The objective for the April 28 clinic has been set at 200 pints.

C. Labrecque and E. Mercier, vice-presidents of the branch and Mrs. Aurele Doiron, chairman of the Blood Donor Committee are helping Mr. Sims in organizing this clinic.

Mrs. Constant Chailier, Mrs. Aime Cote and Mrs. Marcel Pellerin are recruiting ladies to help Red Cross staff in registering donors and to serve them refreshments after they have given their pint of blood.

Gordon Beerworth is in charge of the publicity.

The Canadian Red Cross supplies 3,000 pints of blood to some 125 hospitals in Western Quebec. The Society also provides, free of charge, all the precious by-products obtained from the blood after it can not be used as whole and fresh blood.

Red Cross laboratory technicians in Quebec Province perform, free of charge, over 6,000 tests, pre-natal analysis, and other investigations during a single year.

"The Red Cross is not paid to supply the blood or the blood products for the sick and injured people of this province," said Mrs. Doiron. "The Red Cross acts as an agent between the donor and the patient. It is up to the healthy people of this province to give of their blood. A man can give every three months and a woman every four months," said Mrs. Doiron.

Members of the organizing committee urge all citizens of Lennoxville between the age of 18 and 65 to give a pint of their blood at the clinic on April 28. They also make the suggestion to all former donors to bring a new donor with them on that day.

Christmas night fatality

A young widow has filed a $51,948.25 damage suit in Sherbrooke Superior Court against a Lennoxville man and his son following the death of her husband in a traffic accident last Christmas night.

Mrs. Jean-Claude Gagne, represented by the legal firm of Blanchette, Pelouquin and Roberge is claiming the damages from Donat Turcotte, R.R. 1, Lennoxville and his son Fern and who was 20 years old at the time of the accident.

According to the claim made by Mrs. Gagne, her husband was riding in a car driven by his father on the night of December 25, 1960. They had left St. Marguerite de Lingwick and were travelling in the direction of Sherbrooke when their car collided with another car on the highway between Cookshire and Sand Hill.

The collision was not a serious one and the drivers stopped their cars with a distance of 400 to 500 feet between them. Jean Claude Gagne, his father and one of his brothers got out of their car and walked back to the other one to find out the extent of damages and injuries, if any, the claim states.

As the trio was walking back to their own car, Jean Claude was struck by the car driven by Fernand Turcotte and owned by his father. According to the claim, the Gagne men were walking at the side of the road and the car which struck Jean Claude was travelling at great speed with only one headlight on.

Continuing on down the road, the Turcotte car struck the Gagne car and finally stopped at the left-hand side of the road, the claim states.

Mrs. Gagne's lawyers attribute the accident to the speed of the Turcotte vehicle, to the fact that only one headlight was operating and to the fact that the driver did not have control of his vehicle.

Mrs. Gagne is claiming $50,000 for the loss of moral and financial support of her husband and $1,948.25 for medical and funeral expenses.

Move huge tree
PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP)—A 75-ton, 80-year-old banyan tree has been transplanted, but it took eight hours to do the job which cost $11,000. Millionaire John MacArthur spotted the 60-foot high, 125-foot spread tree in the yard of Mrs. Mima Hicks' home and wanted it for the entrance of his new incorporated city MacArthur built. Tree surgeons treated the huge tree for four months prior to the 10-mile move which was accomplished Wednesday.

Sherbrooke experienced its second major fire in five days as flames swept through the basement and part of the ground floor of the Belanger building, at 98 Wellington Street, North, shortly after 1:15 a.m. Thursday.

Only a week ago, a minor fire started in the shop at the rear of the second floor of the same building when some rugs had to be thrown down to the street where firemen could drench them with fog nozzles.

Last Saturday night an estimated $100,000 damage was caused by a fire at the J. S. Mitchell Company Ltd., on Big Forks Street.

Estimates of damages caused by the fire this morning were not available.

Badly damaged by the flames was the Wellington Pharmacy, located directly over the basement portion where the outbreak is believed to have started.

Two students and two elderly gentlemen living in the upstairs apartments, smelled the smoke and left the building immediately. They were able to return to their rooms this morning, where there was only slight smoke and water damage.

Other businesses in the block include the Atelier Belanger workshop and decorating salon; offices of Dr. J. P. Blouin, optometrist; Trans-Canada Shoe Ltd., and Poncelles Ladies Wear.

Some damage was caused by smoke and water in the two latter stores.

The first alarm was given shortly after 1 a.m. and the second at 2:10 a.m.

Eight pieces of firefighting equipment arrived and by 2:35 a.m. most of the smoke had cleared and the flames in the basement had been subdued.

The walls of the building in the pharmacy were badly damaged as were the ceiling and laboratory section of the same business.

Assistant Director of the fire department, Charles Audet, said that if the department had arrived just a few moments later, the entire building probably would have been destroyed.

Top heavy tax

Gasoline, like tobacco and liquor, seems to be one of the commodities selected by the lawmakers for discriminatory taxation. Every time a government needs extra revenues, it looks longingly at the gas pump, as evidenced by the fact six of the ten provincial governments have increased their gas tax levies in recent months. And it would not be surprising if the other four did not grab for additional funds in this direction.

But warnings have come from presidents of two major oil companies, addressing annual meetings of the shareholders, that the revenues available from this source may be nearing their limit.

E. D. Loughney, president of the British American Oil Company told the shareholders: "I feel I must point out that a law of diminishing return is involved — that the deterrent effect of these taxes on a provincial economy may well outweigh the tax revenues received."

The popularity of the European type small car in Canada may result largely from dissatisfaction of the motorists with the high gas tax levels, Mr. Loughney opined.

A. N. Lilley, Texaco president, protested: "Gasoline should not be looked upon as a limitless source of tax revenue. The 37 cent direct tax on this essential commodity is already greater than the tax on many non-essential luxury items."

One major reason for the popularity of the gas tax by governments is the simplicity of collection. The number of producers and distributors is comparatively limited and by the simple legal fiction of appointing them provincial revenue collectors the tax becomes direct, even if paid in the first instance by the refiners. But even if it is a direct tax, the provincial levy is never shown separately when the price is posted before the gasoline pump. The practice adopted by some companies a few years ago of listing gas price and the tax separately was frowned upon by the governments and the practice abandoned.

Thus the levy remains thinly hidden.

Books for School Libraries

The Library Committee of the Sherbrooke Home and School Association has come up with a most worthwhile project for Children's Book Week, now being marked.

It is asking for contributions of used books for the libraries of Mitchell and East Ward schools. The books are for children between six and 13 years of age.

Understandably, stocks of books that are not texts eventually become depleted in any library. Good hard use is chiefly responsible for this.

Apart from this consideration, it is always good to add to existing stocks, making many books available to as many children as possible.

Nearly every family has numbers of children's books stacked in forgotten corners somewhere. Often, disposal is a small problem.

But the Sherbrooke Home and School's campaign can solve this problem, while at the same time, enriching the store of reading matter available to our children.

As a matter of fact, it would be most heartening if the habit of giving no longer-wanted children's books to school libraries could be developed as a regular one.

It would be a fine idea to keep the school libraries in mind all the time, and donate those books that you and your children have stopped reading to them whenever they are available.

Canadians hard on golf balls

With some 375,000 Canadians beginning to feel a vague restlessness which is taking their thoughts to one or more of the 674 golf courses located across the country — and to many south of the border — some interest may be found in the fact that Canadian golfers use approximately 400,000 dozen golf balls a year, or slightly more than one dozen per golfer.

The average sale in the United States is nine balls per player per year, a figure substantially lower than the Canadian average. This is somewhat surprising in view of the climatic conditions which make year-round golfing in the United States much more prevalent than in Canada.

Whether it can be interpreted as an indication of the difficulty of Canadian golf courses or a reflection on the skill of Canadian golfers is a moot point.

Press Comment

PROS AND CONS IN INDIA

(New York Times)

A census just completed in the Indian Republic has some good news in it and some news that worries all concerned. The good news is that the literacy rate, though still low by Western standards, is increasing; that during the past ten years national income has gone up 40 per cent and per capita income 19 per cent; that industrial income is up 70 per cent and agricultural income up more than 33 per cent; that the number of hospital beds is 50 per cent higher than ten years ago; that six out of every ten children of primary school age are in school now, as compared with four a decade ago; and that life expectancy at birth has shot up from thirty-two years to forty-two years.

These figures don't reveal India as a paradise. They also reflect some bad news. In ten years the population of India went up 21.5 per cent and that of Pakistan 23.7 per cent; not bad in itself but capable of causing trouble if ample provision is not made for finding food, shelter and even standing room for the new population. India has 438,000,000 people — against Red China's 600,000,000, but in half the space. The density of India's population to the square mile is nearly eight times that of the United States.

As the earth becomes more comfortable place more people are born upon it, and those already here stay longer. We wouldn't bring back famine, war and pestilence to mow down the human surplus. Who is surplus, anyhow? But the problem stands, in India and elsewhere: how can mankind be free, prosperous and increasingly numerous?

Why we came back from Russia: Part 2

The door shuts tight behind you

This is the second in a series of articles by a Polish-born smelter worker who took his family to Russia on the strength of Soviet promises of a "better life" than they had enjoyed in Canada.

By Marian Pawinski
Distributed by Toronto Telegram News Service

After we decided to return to my wife's home in Russia, it was only a matter of months before we were steaming to Leningrad on the Baltika—the same liner that later brought Nikita Khrushchev to New York.

It's a relatively simple matter to immigrate to the Soviet Union, especially if a member of your family can be classified by that government as a Soviet citizen.

Once you're there, the door shuts tight behind you. It's almost impossible to return to the West unless one of your family is not obligated to surrender his passport and citizenship.

We were told in advance that my wife, being of Russian birth, would lose her Canadian citizenship and passport as soon as we entered Soviet territory on a permanent visa. Because I was born outside the USSR in Poland, I would be allowed to keep my Canadian papers.

I was reluctant to leave Canada, a country in which I felt an immigrant can build a future with his bare hands. Russia, I was to find, is a country where your hands earn you at best only a day-to-day subsistence.

But I stood comforted by the protection my Canadian passport would afford my wife, our two children and myself. My wife Nadiezda wanted desperately to visit her relatives and her home town. I was curious enough about present-day life in Russia to agree.

I filed an application for a permanent visa to the USSR in spring of 1957 for my family. It was confirmed by the Soviet Embassy in Ottawa in the summer of 1958, and we were on our way.

Take all the money and baggage you want, they told us. Even furniture, if we wished. It was an entirely different story when we returned.

We had some $6,000 by the time we had sold most of our belongings in Sudbury, Ontario. I had been taking home roughly $75 a week at my job in the smelter at the international Nickel Company. We had been renting a fairly old, but comfortable, semi-detached six-room home. Our decision was to sell the furniture and pack every thing else we could ship into trunks. I even packed our set of the Book of Knowledge.

By the time we landed at Leningrad the children were half enjoying the trip as a new and unusual experience, and half in tears at the thought of never seeing their school friends in Sudbury. Four days of sight-seeing made them feel a little better.

From Leningrad it was a long, tedious train ride to the very south-east section of Russia, an area we found at once drab and disenchanted.

Through the train window we saw September countryside dotted with homes straight out of the pages of a history book. Cottages of clay and straw, with thatched roofs. Some were picturesque—neat, clean, and sparkling under a new coat of whitewash. Others weren't, and our children kept calling them "chicken coops".

We passed mile after mile of grain and corn fields, by then stubble after the fall harvest.

Our destination was the factory city of Novochoerkassk, near the Sea of Azov. This was Nadiezda's childhood home.

Autumn isn't the best time of year to arrive in this factory area. A summer's accumulation of dirt lay heavy on most of the old buildings that predominate in this city of 100,000. Most of the old homes, of brick construction were pre-revolution.

The apartment districts looked a little brighter, for they were relatively new. There were about 50 units to a building. Several of the main buildings downtown were imposing: the Party administration buildings, town hall, library, university buildings. They are of traditional design, well-built, of stone and brick.

It was a normal working day, a Tuesday, as we stepped off the train in Novochoerkassk into the joyous embraces of relatives.

Our uncle had driven up proudly in his second-hand Moskvich to meet us at the station. There wasn't too much room in the small compact car after we had loaded our bags into it.

Nadiezda went with our aunt by streetcar, while I accompanied our uncle to help him unload our baggage.

I could read the disappointment

ment all over the faces of our children. Novochoerkassk was a far cry from the streets of Sudbury.

"Everything looks so primitive here," the eldest kept whispering to us.

But they were happy to see the grandparents they had only known by letter until that moment.

They were to spend a few days at their grandparents' home in Shakty, Nadiezda's birthplace, a coal-mining centre some 30 kilometres away. Larisa and Waldemar looked forward to the visit and left shortly after by train with their grandmother.

Our aunt and uncle lived in the factory community at the electro-chemical works—Budzionovskiy Zavod—some eight kilometres away from Novochoerkassk. We were to stay with them until we could arrange for our own apartment and a job.

From the moment we arrived in Novochoerkassk and made our way to the Budzionovskiy development we felt we were at another point in time.

As we drove around the factory town we saw that only two or three of the streets around the company buildings were paved. The rest were dirt roads. Water pumps jutted here and there from the streets, and the quiet road on which our uncle lived was characterized by more of the clay-straw homes we had seen in such abundance.

Their home was clean and cosy, whitewashed so thoroughly inside and out with lime that if you brushed the wall your clothes were dusted white.

We came from a mining centre in Canada to a factory town in Russia. Both workingmen's towns. But there the similarity ended.

None of the older homes in Novochoerkassk had sewers, water, indoor washrooms. Houses were generally run-down, for we soon learned no one really had too much ambition to renovate, modernize, or beautify. Not when materials are scarce or non-existent—and the property in most cases is not your own.

Our dress was no different from that of any other working family in Sudbury. But our modern fabrics, bright colors, western fashions, caused raised eyebrows. First, out of natural curiosity about the "Amerikantski" in their midst, then later out of emotions akin to jealousy and resentment. After the novelty wore off we were often criticized for our dress. Particularly the children.

Larisa and Waldemar, in their normal Canadian school clothes, stirred deep feelings in their classrooms that on several occasions classmates smeared their clothes with dirt—poked fun at their clean nylon dress or blouse, shirt or jacket.

This may not have happened in larger centres such as Moscow or Leningrad. But it happened in this north Caucasian area.

It happened because we were different from them. We were symbols of life under the dreaded "capitalistic system"—the system they are taught since birth to hate. We were intruders.

And during the two years we lived in Russia, despite the many firm friendships we developed with our neighbours, despite the faith and trust our friends developed in us and in them, we never quite ceased to be just that: intruders.

HEART FINESSE IS NOT NEEDED

South put dummy's queen of hearts on West's jack. East took his king and returned the suit and South was in dummy.

South played a few rounds of trumps; cashed the ace and king of diamonds; ruffed dummy's last diamond and slapped the jack of clubs on the table. West was ready with a small club and after a little thought South rose with dummy's king. Eventually West made his queen of clubs and South was down a trick.

"Finesses never work for me," moaned South. "Of course, I could have guessed the club, but I had nothing to guide me."

Actually, South had chucked the hand out the window through a "Hard Luck Joe" type play. Do you see what he did wrong?

The error occurred at trick one. Sometimes it just does not pay to finesse. If South had simply played the ace of hearts at trick one; drawn trumps; played three rounds of diamonds (trumping the third lead, of course); and continued by leading his last heart he could have claimed his hand right then and there.

It would not matter where the king of hearts and queen of clubs were. Whichever opponent held the king of hearts would be in the lead. If he played a red card South would ruff in his hand and discard a club from dummy. If he led a club the queen would be trapped in either hand.

Bygone Days

NO VALID CONTRAST

(Hamilton Spectator)

In New York City the police commissioner has approved longer nightsticks for policemen — and this could be because the insurance companies have found that teenagers are growing taller these days? The old batons were 22 inches long. The new ones will be up to 28 inches, and will permit more effective use of what is considered a policeman's basic weapon. The longer stick offers advantages of greater height and longer reach in struggles with suspected law breakers.

But this is a mere technical point when compared with the physical requirements for policemen in Paris. They apparently do a lot more than direct traffic with gesticulations, or twirl their moustaches on the Champs Elysees as they glance at pretty nursemaids. The Parisian policemen seeking promotion must be able to run with heavy pieces of iron, crawl on all fours through narrow tunnels, hit a target 11 yards away with a quarter-pound weight, run 66 yards in 15 seconds and walk a tightrope.

Of course it is dangerous to draw any sweeping conclusions from all this. It must not be said that because most New York policemen are of Irish descent, the Irish are not as athletic as the French. Nor is it reasonable to suggest that the New Yorker couldn't walk a tightrope if he had to. There are cynics who say that in many cities, an officer has to walk one if he wants to succeed.

Gerald Waring REPORTING

OTTAWA — Everybody's been so busy deploring the American government's part in the fiasco of the Cuban invasion that Prime Minister Diefenbaker's Cuban gaffe slipped by relatively unnoticed.

However, one can be sure that Fidel Castro and his Communist friends will be advised of the PM's bold and ringing denunciation of them in the Commons last week, and that henceforth Castro may be less prone to refer publicly to Canadians as friends of Cuba.

That at least. More, it is likely that the days of "normal relations" are past, and that Canada will experience some stickiness in its relations with the Castro regime.

In referring to the PM's statement as a gaffe, I do so only because when the political situation changed 24 hours later, he tried to back down. He quite clearly acted as though he had booked the day before in denouncing the Castro regime as a "dictatorship" which was "abhorrent to free men", and "a threat to the peace" affecting Canada. He noted that Canada has "neither the means nor the intention to intervene" in Cuba—and just stopped short of saying "much as we would like to."

It is interesting to note the circumstances, the context in time, of this statement of 474 words last week. It was made in the Commons the day after the invasion was launched, and when it looked as though the Castro government would quickly be overthrown.

The next day, when it was becoming clear that Castro was crushing the invasion, Diefenbaker made a flat, 27-word statement in the House. "Throughout the years," he said, "no matter what our disagreements may be with the other nations as far as their philosophy is concerned, we have endeavored to conduct normal relations."

The context in time of the first statement points to the conclusion that the PM was belatedly seeking to raise Canada publicly on the side of Cuban freedom and against the neo-Communist dictator, presumably for the benefit of Canadian relations with the new Cuban government that would be set up under American eagles.

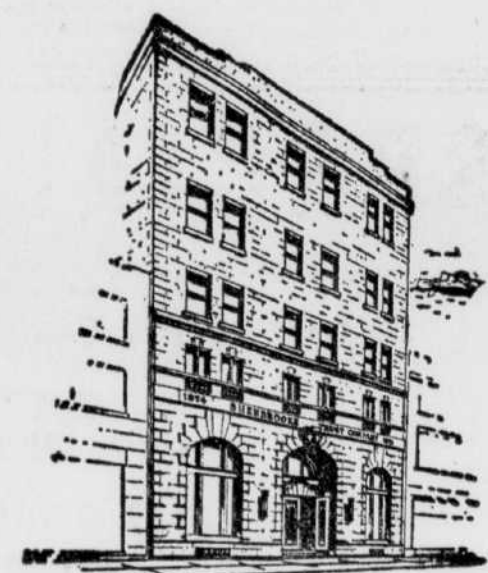

Ideologically, Diefenbaker's statement was overdue. It has been evident for months that Castro's Cuba had become the Communist foothold in this hemisphere and, as the PM put it, "a bridgehead from which the penetration of the whole of Latin America could be launched."

Diefenbaker has a penchant for doing the right things for the wrong reason, but whether this is an example of it is arguable. A prime minister's first responsibility is to the interests of his country, and it can be argued that up to a point it was Diefenbaker's duty to maintain friendly relations with the Castro regime, for the sake of Canadian trade, and for the sake of being in a position to exercise a moderating influence on both Havana and Washington should the opportunity arise.

Where he passed that point is a matter of opinion. In his mind the time was not until it seemed Castro was about to be overthrown.

But having cast the dice, and having turned up snake-eyes, it was a less than courageous denouement for him to prattle about "normal relations."

Arrest two in $1,000 robbery

DRUMMONDVILLE — The Drummondville detachment of the Quebec provincial police Tuesday arrested two Montrealers in Bromptonville in connection with a $1,000 robbery which took place on Friday night at the Caisse Populaire in St. Germain de Grantham.

Detective Albert Bisillon of the provincial police has announced that $600 has been recovered and that the two youths will appear in Magistrate's Court in Drummondville on Thursday.

The theft took place about 8:30 Friday night when two youths came into the Caisse Populaire in St. Germain de Grantham and after drawing guns demanded money. After they had obtained $1,000, they fled in the direction of Acton Vale.

Eastern farmer caught in middle

OTTAWA (CP)—The eastern farmer is wedged between more efficient production methods and burdensome surpluses, Ross Hill, executive director of the Maritime Federation of Agriculture, told the Senate land use committee Wednesday.

He said Maritime farmers were facing higher taxes on all sides.

To meet the costs "... He must buy more land — result, more taxes; increase production — result, greater surpluses. ... Competitive production, processing and marketing have narrowed the farmer's margin of profit and reduced local markets, said Mr. Hill.

He urged formation of supply and marketing agencies on the local level and federal action to ease a broadening of farm organization into world markets.

Castro's public appearance, only the second since the April 17 invasion, climaxed a five day parade of captives before Havana's TV cameras.

Previous sessions featured interviews of captives by a panel of journalists.

SEARCHED THEIR FACES

Today, each prisoner—clad in clean white undershirts and the trousers of combat uniforms—stood and gave his name and home town. The television audience was asked to search the sea of faces and telephone in if they recognized any of the prisoners as "criminals of the dictatorship."

Toward the close of the gigantic lineup, a burst of applause announced the arrival of Castro, who strode into the arena wearing a pistol on his hip and a military uniform.

Many of the prisoners said they had expected the Cuban people to rise up and join the invading rebels.

The Doctor Says

Dr. Hyman

DIABETES NOT 'DREADED' SINCE INSULIN AND SULFA

Q—"What is being done about diabetes? Of all the discoveries and many wonderful things being done today, why can't our scientists find the cause or cure of this dreaded hopeless disease?"

I don't know where you've been all these years, dear lady, or where you get your misinformation but I had to re-read your letter to be sure it was written seriously.

I know of few diseases that have been as greatly benefited by scientific research as diabetes. I know of few chronic disturbances to which the words "dreaded" and "hopeless" apply less. Indeed, if any of us had to choose a chronic disease with which to be afflicted, I imagine many would select diabetes.

Less than 50 years ago, diabetes was "dreaded and hopeless." To keep child diabetes alive, for example, it was necessary to reduce them to living skeletons. With the introduction of insulin in 1922, by the Canadian team of Banting and Best, the whole picture changed.

And within another 10 years, thousands of diabetics were leading normal lives, thanks to a combination to insulin injections usually self-administered and a modestly restricted but completely satisfactory diet.

With the chance discovery, a few years ago that one of the sulfa drugs produced a lowering of blood sugar, though it was useless as an anti-infective, many thousands of diabetics who relied on insulin injections were able to throw away their hypodermic needles and syringes and substitute these sulfa tablets. And most of the newly discovered diabetics never needed to learn to give an insulin injection to themselves. They were immediately given tablets and instructions about diet.

As a result of these discoveries diabetes is today just about the simplest and easiest of chronic disturbances to control. It does not, except in extreme circumstances, interfere with daily living. It is neither a threat to health or life although it does require special attention in the face of pregnancy, intercurrent infection, surgical procedure or any other unrelated incident or accident.

Striking examples of the "unhopeless" nature of diabetes have been furnished by baseball players and political figures who are diabetic.

If you are a diabetic and in need of more information, why don't you address the American Diabetic Assn., One East 45 St., New York City 11? They'll give you all the information you need without charge.

Women's Groups In The News

ASCOT WOMEN'S INSTITUTE
Ascot Women's Institute had an interesting showing of old documents at their regular meeting on Thursday, April 20, at the Assembly Hall, Experimental Farm, Lennoxville.

Mrs. Ashley Hatcher, president, was in charge and each member gave a short talk on their contribution to the display which consisted mainly of deeds, autograph albums, Bibles, books, and some items of handicrafts which all had to be over 50 years old and were up to 100 years.

The report on the recently held card party was most gratifying.

Mrs. Monty Sewell, Home Economics convener read a letter regarding a sewing course but no definite plans were made.

Mrs. Sewell was named to attend the leadership training course to be held at Macdonald College, May 22-26.

Mrs. John Garfat, agriculture convener, reported that government seeds would not be available this year for county school fairs and much discussion followed.

Mrs. W. T. Pearson modelled a suit she had made while attending the tailoring course held by the Lennoxville Branch.

Mrs. John Campbell, Mrs. William Howe, Mrs. Carl Sutton and Mrs. N. Majury were named to work at the Lennoxville Cancer dressings section on Thursday, April 27.

Notice was given of the annual county meeting to be held at Milby on May 11 when Mrs. William Howe and Mrs. Wallace Wingate will be delegates.

Mrs. Wallace Wingate, Citizenship convener held a sale of hand notes and also read an article entitled "My Painting."

A new ways and means committee was named with Mrs. Dawson Savage as convener and thanks was extended to Mrs. Norman Majury and her retiring committee for their efforts.

Mrs. Albert R. Parsons was heard earlier in the day over C.K.T.S. when she gave the 11th in a series of broadcasts leading up to the coming jubilee on June 29, which will be celebrated at Macdonald College.

The roll call was answered by what I would like to see on next year's program and some worthwhile suggestions noted.

Donations were made to the Cancer fund and the Red Cross and an advertisement in the local High School Lyre.

Hostesses for the afternoon tea were Mrs. Wentworth Richardson, Mrs. Carl Sutton, Mrs. Harold Robertson and Mrs. Albert R. Parsons.

letters written for the Auxiliary and one received. The latter, a very interesting one from Mrs. J. Marcoux of Ottawa, a former Guide Leader in Sherbrooke for 2 years.

Two Brownie uniforms were completed by Mrs. Connors from material donated by Mrs. Langlois, a former member. These are to remain the property of the Association.

Plans were discussed for several hikes to take place in the month of May for the passing of different badges.

It was announced that Miss Bailey will be Camp Commandant for the summer camp at Brompton Lake and that it is available to the entire Company.

Tips for parents

Article II

The prevention of accidental poisoning of children must begin within the home.

Medicines, in the form of pills or in bottles are one of the main sources of trouble. The advance of medical care has brought about a greatly increased amount of prescribing of drugs, many of them new, most of them potent, says Dr. Medovy of the Children's Hospital, Winnipeg.

Fifty years ago household remedies were fewer and more simple. The temptation to take them, however, was the same. An old lady told me that in her childhood she had been tempted to drink a delicious sweet mixture usually given her for stomach ache.

WOULD DIE

Her little brother convinced her that now she would die. To gether the small pair went into the drawing room where funerals were held. They selected a suitable spot under a large chair. There the little girl lay down and waited. She fell very soundly asleep, but wakened eventually—alive and wiser!

The first safety rule is to place all medicines under lock and key. Safes are worth a child's safety.

This is a good time of year to clear out all those loose tablets from the corners of drawers, or the back of shelves. Cleaning solutions come under this same rule. Here

Active club worker at 93

MONTREAL (CP) — Mrs. Christine L. Henderson is a club woman with a difference.

Like many women members of clubs, she is active, enthusiastic and voluble. The difference? She's 93 years old.

"I like to keep up with all the principal clubs I've worked with for many years," she says, explaining activities which often take her to three or more club meetings a week.

"Women's clubs were always a big interest of mine. They kept me very busy and sometimes when I tried to do too much, I was frantically busy."

Mrs. Henderson says she would rather talk about her books—she has had three published, mostly of poetry—than her age. "I like to think of myself as cultivated and sophisticated," she says smilingly.

Her interest in literature stood her in good stead as an active member and former president of the Women's Art Society. She used to lecture before the club frequently.

She believes married women should take more interest in clubs.

"They can make friends and, if the club has a purpose, they are bound to feel they are contributing something to a good cause."

Pledges textile support

Maurice Allard, Progressive Conservative M.P. for Sherbrooke says in a press release from his Sherbrooke office that the Canadian textile industry must continue its fight against the importation of Japanese textiles.

The federal government has already enacted legislation to protect the Canadian textile industry as a result of demands from the industry and it will continue to do so, Mr. Allard said.

The measures which the government passed in 1960 have already cut down on the amount of Japanese textiles imported to Canada, Mr. Allard said.

In 1959 a total of 11,812 million pounds of Japanese manufactured shirts, other clothes and textiles were exported to Canada. In 1960 only 7,909 million pounds were exported to Canada.

Giants Take Half-Game NL Lead, Tigers Winning Streak Stops At Home

San Francisco Sweeps Two-Game Set Before Setting Off On Eastern Tour

San Francisco Giants, scrambling for everything they get suddenly have bounced out of the makings of a slump into a half-game lead in the National League race as they take off on their first eastern tour.

They fought their way into that slim advantage with a 6-5 victory at Los Angeles Wednesday night—breaking loose after being held hitless for 5 1-3 innings, and then holding off a Dodger rally with the tying run on third base in the ninth.

That gave the Giants a sweep of the two-game set as they ran up their fourth victory in five games after losing two in a row to Cincinnati and skidding out of the lead. Three of the four victories were by one run, the other by two. Fact is, the Giants have put away five of their eight victories by a one-run margin.

Going into Friday's game at Milwaukee, after a day off, the Giants have a half-game edge over Pittsburgh Pirates, who defeated Philadelphia 3-2 Wednesday night. Milwaukee is a game behind in third, after rapping St. Louis 8-1. Chicago Cubs outlasted Cincinnati 3-2 in 10 innings in the other game.

The Giants didn't get a hit off Dodger starter Stan Williams until Charlie Hiller singled in the sixth. It followed a walk and led to a break through when Harvey Kuenn broke up the shutout with a sacrifice fly and Willie Mays and Willie McCovey added singles that cut the Dodgers' lead to 3-2.

Williams left after giving up a leadoff double by Hiller in the eighth and the Giants then came from behind with four runs off losing reliever Larry Sherry (0-2), the last three unearned after errors by Wally Moon and Maury Wills.

Singles by Kuenn and Mays tied it 3-3, and the lead run came in when Moon dropped McCovey's easy fly ball to left. Wills' error then loaded the bases, Bob Schmidt's sacrifice fly made it 5-3 and Eddie Bresnahan's two-out single brought in the clincher.

The Dodgers, who had scored three in the fifth off Mike McCormick, two on Tommy Davis' homer, chased winner Jim Dufalo (2-0) after a walk and a pinch-homer by John Roseboro in the ninth. When Wills walked with one out, Bob Bolin came on. Wills went to second on a wild pickoff peg by Bolin before pinchhitter Norm Larker struck out, then went to third on a wild pitch before Davis fouled out.

Milwaukee roughed up Larry Jackson, the Cards' ace making his first appearance since suffering a broken jaw in spring training, with five runs in two innings. A two-run homer by John Demerit, his first in the majors, triggered a four-run second inning that wrapped it up. Roy McMillan also homered for the Braves. Don Nottebart won his first of the season. He allowed just three hits, walked seven but needed Ron Piche's relief in the eighth after three bases on balls.

Gino Cimoli singled and scored Pittsburgh's first run off loser Dallas Green in the first inning, then singled home the clincher in the fourth. Vinegar Bend Mizell was the winner, giving up a first-inning run and then blanking the Phils until Pancho Herrera homered in the ninth.

Don Zimmer's homer broke it up for the Cubs against reliever Jim Maloney as bullpen ace Don Elston won his fourth without defeat. Jerry Lynch's third pinch-hit homer of the season scored the Reds' run in the seventh. Ron Santo also homered for the Cubs, now operating under Harry Craft, who replaced Vede Himsel in owner Phil Wrigley's manager rotation plan.

Alouettes To Train At St. Mike's College In Winooski, Vt., Camp Opens In July With Complete Squad

MONTREAL — The Montreal Alouette Football Club announced today that the Alouettes will train at St. Michael's College in Winooski Park, Vermont, for approximately three weeks commencing July 1. St. Michael's College is a Jesuit training camp for the New York Giant Football team for the past five years.

In making the announcement the Montreal Alouette Football club said that the decision to train at St. Michael's College came about after investigating many other facilities in Montreal and surrounding cities. However, St. Michael's staff and facilities and their experience in handling a pro football club tipped the scale in their favor after extensive research by the Alouette staff.

At St. Michael's, the Alouettes will have every facility to train in a concentrated effort to get the ALS set for the regular league games which get underway on August 11. Everything the Als will need to train with are within 150 yards of each other on the St. Michael's campus. The dormitory the Als players will live in is with in fifty yards of the practice field and the dining hall is about the same distance.

On the afternoon of July 9, the Burlington-Lake Champlain Chamber of Commerce will sponsor an intra-squad game at the University of Vermont stadium for the Alouettes.

St. Michael's College is a liberal arts college and is headed by the Very Rev. Gerald E. Dupont, S.S.E. The college was founded by six French priests in 1904 and the dining hall where the Alouettes will eat is named after the founder and former President, the Rev. Eugene Alliot, S.S.E.

Since the Burlington area is flooded during the month of July by vacationing Canadian tourists, the Alouettes look for a good turn out of Alouette fans at their practice sessions, which will be open to the public.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

Hitting—Mickey Mantle, New York, drove in last four runs with pair of homers, one batting right - handed, other left-handed, for 13-11 victory in 10 innings that ended Detroit winning streak at eight.
Pitching—Wilmer Mizell, Pittsburgh, gave up first-inning run, then shut out Phillies until ninth for 3-2 decision.

Disaster Plan To Cover All Canadian Teams

WINNIPEG (CP)—A disaster plan covering all teams in the Canadian Football League is scheduled to go into effect at the start of next season, commissioner Sydney Halter announced Wednesday.

The plan would provide for the restocking of any of the nine teams should they lose four or more players in an airplane crash or other mishap. The team suffering the loss would obtain players from the other clubs.

The number of players to be provided by each team and what teams would provide them is covered by a complicated formula.

Mr. Halter said the plan was approved at a recent meeting of football managers in Toronto. Final details are still being worked out before formal approval is given by the league.

Su Mac Lad Is Favored In National Trot

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — Su Mac Lad, winner of four straight races, is favored to win tonight's $50,000 National Championship Trot, last event of a three-race international trot series.

Masina, the French horse that disappointed last week in the United Nations Trot, will compete in a special $15,000 Gotham-UN sequel on the same program. Both races are at a mile and a half.

Su Mac Lad's chief opposition in the field of eight is expected to come from Air Record, Silver Song and The Silk.

Masina is third choice in the Gotham-UN in which Senator Frost is the favorite.

Yonkers' three-race pacing series will begin May 4 with the mile-and-a-half International mile and the Bisons added three May 11 and the National Championship May 18 complete the series.

HOURS ARE GOOD, TOO — Fred Green, towel over his head, relaxes in the bull pen. The big left-hander shows unmistakable signs of rapidly becoming more than a middle man in the Pittsburgh Pirates' pitching scheme.

Columbus Jets Take Over IL Reins With Unbeatable Hitting, Pitching

The Columbus Jets are in first place in the International League today because of those two unbeatable—pitching and power hitting.

The Jets hold a half game edge over Toronto after beating the Maple Leafs 7-6 Wednesday night in the opener of a three-game series. Richmond and San Juan are only a game out of first after the Virginians lost to Buffalo 11-7 in 12 innings. The Marlins also got fine pitching and power hitting for a 4-1 victory over Rochester. Jersey City edged Syracuse 3-2 in the other IL game.

Tom Parsons had a no-hitter and a 6-0 lead for Columbus going into the eighth inning when the roof fell in. Though he allowed only one single before being lifted the Leafs went on to tie, thanks to Steve Demeter's grand slam homer off reliever Bob Lee. It was the only other Toronto hit.

Larry Elliot's sacrifice fly scored Johnny Powers in the bottom of the eighth with the winning run. Lee 1-0 was the winner and Pat Scantlebury lost his first for the Leafs. Don Lepert, Don Clendenon and Ed Sada homered for Columbus.

Buffalo reliever Max Surkont got out of a bases loaded jam in the seventh and allowed Richmond one hit the rest of the way. Tony Asaro's error with the bases loaded allowed the winning run to score in the 12th and the Bisons added three more on Bob Morgan's double. Fred Kipp, who allowed only one hit in five relief innings

Wally Moon, Mickey Mantle Vying For April Home Run Hitting Mark

Wally Moon has been slapping home runs and getting the headlines in that other league, but Mickey Mantle literally has been banging homers right and left in the American League, and, oddly enough, with very little fanfare.

The switch-hitting Mantle unloaded a pair of two-run snots Wednesday, the first a left handed blast that tied the score and the second a right handed jolt in the 10th inning that gave New York Yankees a 13-11 victory at Detroit and ended the Tigers' winning streak at eight games.

That gave Mantle a total of seven home runs — two right handed, five left handed—in 11 games on the road and at home. Moon, meanwhile, has tied the National League record for April homers with eight in 15 games for Los Angeles Dodgers all at home. Both Mantle and Moon are within reach of the major league high of nine set by Ken Williams of the old St. Louis Browns in April of 1922.

Mickey has five games left this month, three against Cleveland beginning today, and two at Washington Sunday. Moon, who has sliced his eight over the left field screen at Los Angeles Coliseum, has four April games remaining, all at Chicago, where he hit just two last season.

While Detroit retained a half-game lead over idle Minnesota in the AL race, Cleveland moved into a third place tie with New York by beating Baltimore 6-3 Wednesday night. Washington defeated Boston 2-1 in the only other AL game.

Mantle tops the AL with seven home runs, 15 runs batted in (all but one collected with the homers) and 12 runs scored. He also leads the Yanks with 13 hits and a .342 batting average. His 10th inning sock off losing southpaw Hank Aguirre (0-1) was his third game-winning home run of the young season and ended the Yankees' losing slump at three. His tying homer came off right handed rookie Jim Donohue and capped a three-run eighth that wiped out an 11-8 Tiger lead. It was the eighth right - left homer game in Mantle's 10-year career.

Detroit, which hadn't lost since opening day, came from behind after trailing 6-0 going into the second inning against Yank starter Whitey Ford, but then blew an 11-8 lead.

HIT HOMERS
 Tony Kubek and Roger Maris each hit their first home runs of the season for the Yankees while Rocky Colavito smacked his third for the Tigers in a shabby game that showed eight unearned runs, split evenly. Reliever Luis Arroyo won his first with two hitless innings.

Cleveland came from behind with three unearned runs on Jim Gentile's fourth - inning throwing error at Baltimore. Winning reliever Barry Latman, Bob Allen and Frank Funk then blanked the Birds on one hit over the last six frames. Bill Fisher (0-2) was the loser, giving up a two-run double by Jim Piersall that capped the third inning rally.

Washington right hander Tom Sturdivant won his first as a stopped Roy (Sugar) Yalong, starting pitcher since Sept. 28, 1954, Philippines, 7.

Manila — Auburn (Flash) Copeland, 130, Flint, Mich., Sturdivant won his first as a stopped Roy (Sugar) Yalong, starting pitcher since Sept. 28, 1954, Philippines, 7.

Galt Terriers Whip Winnipeg Maroons For Allan Cup

Hysterical Fans Rush On The Ice To Cheer Homelowners' 5-0 Triumph

GALT, Ont. — (CP) — The Allan Cup rests today in this proud city which two years ago had no hockey club to call its own.

To the cheers of 3,600 screaming fans who rushed onto the ice before the game was over, Galt Terriers shut out Winnipeg Maroons 5-0 Wednesday night to take the best-of-seven series for the Canadian senior championship in five games.

It was the worst beating of the series for the Westerners, the only team to defeat Galt in 16 playoff games.

"It's a long-cherished dream come true," said coach Lloyd Roubell amid popping champagne corks in the dressing room.

"That's just the way this club is. They don't like to lose."

Winnipeg coach Gord Simpson said the Terriers were the best team his Maroons had faced all season and deserved the cup.

WAS SURPRISED

"I was surprised, though, that the series went only five games. We expected at least six games and maybe seven. But they have a lot of guts and don't know when to quit."

"They stick strictly to hockey too."

It was the first game of the series that Winnipeg failed to score the first goal — or any goal.

Three tallies in the first period and two in the third wrapped it up for the Terriers in their first year of eligibility for the title. They started as a senior B club last year and this year joined the Ontario Hockey Association eastern senior group which promptly folded.

They were accepted into the western group and rose from last place to the championship in a stunning win streak starting Dec. 28 and which, as of last night's climax, reached 32 wins in 38 games.

Two goals by Fred Pletsch and singles by Bob McKnight, captain Floyd (Butch) Martin and Bob Mader turned the trick.

GOT THIRD SHOTOUT

Harold (Boat) Hurley nailed down his third playoff shutout.

NFL Concludes Deal With CBC

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Fears that the strong might get stronger and the weak weaker brought the National Football League its first package television deal and $9,300,000 in the next two years.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle of the NFL Tuesday announced the contract with Columbia Broadcasting System, one of the biggest pacts in sports TV. Each of the 14 pro clubs will get about $300,000 per season.

In the concluding session of the NFL annual meeting today, the owners are expected to name the city which will house its Hall of Fame.

Canton, Ohio, Latrobe, Pa., Green Bay, Wis., Detroit and Los Angeles have been nominated.

In the television deal, Rozelle said some of the teams will be receiving less than they did this past year when the clubs made their own television contracts. The majority will receive more and the league road games of each will be televised into its home area.

The average home viewer will see no difference between what they had on TV in 1960.

Vice-President Bill MacPhail of CBS-TV said the network will televise the entire 98-game schedule and "we believe this is the biggest single sports series of regular season play."

Rozelle commented, "This will help us keep our equality of competition. Teams that had been making more realized this will be in the best interest of the league."

"We cannot maintain a plan which denies a team, especially a weaker team, of its fair share of television income."

Last year when the NFL had 13 clubs, 10 had contracts with CBS, Pittsburgh and Baltimore had National Broadcasting Company ties and Cleveland worked with an independent network.

St. Mike's, Edmonton's Mentors Both Agree Series Will Be Tough

EDMONTON (CP) — Rival coaches agree that the battle for the Canadian junior hockey championship starts all over again tonight although Toronto St. Michael's College Majors trounced Edmonton Oil Kings 4-0 in the first game.

The second game of the best-of-seven Memorial Cup final series goes tonight.

Coach Russell (Busier) Brayshaw of Edmonton said: "We're as good a club as them but the next game will tell."

Rev. David Bauer, Majors' coach, said:

"It's going to be close now they're strengthened."

Father Bauer was referring to Oil Kings' decision to use three replacements — defence-man Ken Stephenson of Winnipeg Braves, forward Bryan Hextall of Brandon Wheat Kings and forward Dave Richardson of Winnipeg Rangers.

Ray Caldwell To Get Free Surgery On Eyes

CLEVELAND (AP) — Ray Caldwell, 73, who helped pitch Cleveland Indians to their first pennant and world championship by winning 20 games in 1920, is nearly blind from cataracts on each eye.

But Wednesday he was offered free surgery to restore his sight. The offer came from the Cleveland Academy of Medicine.

Caldwell broke into the major leagues in 1910 with New York Yankees and was with them until 1918 when he joined Boston Red Sox.

After one season with Boston he spent the next three years with the Indians. He has a major league record of 138 wins and 120 losses.

Brayshaw said he hasn't decided yet which three who played in Tuesday night's opener will be dropped to make way for the three replacements. Edmonton's lineup in the first game was made up of all players who started the season with Kings.

The West, because of domination by Ontario teams in the past, is allowed replacements for the Canadian final but the East is not.

However, Father Bauer said his Toronto team will be strengthened for the third game Saturday night.

Stan (Sonny) Osborne, a top-notch forward who has been writing examinations at the University of Toronto, will arrive by plane in time to rejoin his team for the third game.

The annual Memorial Cup dinner was held Wednesday night and head table guests included Mayor Elmer Roper of Edmonton, Al Leader, Western Hockey League president, Father Bauer, A. R. Patrick, Alberta provincial secretary, Jack Adams of Detroit Red Wings and Jim Brown of Camrose, Alberta Hockey Association president.

Rod Laver Cops Opening Round At Bournemouth

B O U R N E M O U T H, England (AP) — Rod Laver, the Australian star who was the beaten finalist at Wimbledon last year, an into trouble Wednesday but won two matches in the British hard court championships.

Laver, weak with his back-land, saved six set points in the first set before Patricio Apey of Chile finally broke through. Laver rallied to win, 2-6, 6-3, 6-3.

Roy Emerson, another Australian, won both of his matches without loss of a set. He eliminated J. R. McGuire of Scotland 6-2 and Hugh Walton of England 6-3, 6-1.

Frank Selke Claims Canadiens Must Make Changes If They Wish To Win, Hawks Are Very Strong

By MARVEN MOSS

MONTREAL (CP) — Being a cautious man, Frank Selke balks at making predictions. The resolute little managing-director of Montreal Canadiens calls the practice downright foolishness.

But he's not exactly stepping out of character when, peering into the future, he says:

"Without alterations we can't finish first again next year."

Selke wouldn't be so bold as to say just where he thinks his club would wind up in the National Hockey League if it stood pat. But others have suggested that if Canadiens aren't strengthened they could finish as low as fourth.

To support their opinion, they point to the bright potential of the other three clubs in this year's Stanley Cup playoffs.

HAWKS LOADED
Chicago Black Hawks, who knocked off the Habs in the first round and went on to win the cup, have all the ingredients of an NHL power for years to come, they say.

Three fine lines give Chicago a balanced attack spearheaded by Bobby Hull, Pierre Pilote, a scrappy 165-pounder who likes to belt hard, anchors an aggressive defence and Glenn Hall gives the Hawks perhaps the NHL's best goaltending.

The other cup finalist, Detroit Red Wings, features a hard-rock defence with such men as Marcel Pronovost, Pete Goegan and Warren Godfrey. Up front there is slope-shouldered Gordie Howe, still tireless and brilliant.

Toronto Maple Leafs, despite their first-round elimination by Detroit, remain a power with Frank Mahovlich finally having arrived as a sharp-shooter and a strong, mobile defence bolstered by young Carl Brewer. Picking Canadiens to slide all the way from first to fourth may be a daring prediction but there are precedents. New York Rangers plunged from first to last in one year, 1942-43. And Selke remembers 1947-48 when Montreal finished fifth after leading the NHL the previous season, his first in the team's front office.

This time Selke wasted no time in plotting how to prevent a recurrence of that fiasco. On the train carrying the dejected club home from Chicago after losing the semi-final in six games, Selke said there will be changes made.

Four members of Canadiens would be replaced before the next schedule. Selke wouldn't name the likely candidates for the chopping block but said it was likely there would be new faces at left-wing and on defence.

Speculation is that Guy Gendron and Marcel Bonin will have to battle to hold their left-wing jobs and that Bob Turner and Tom Johnson are the most likely to go among the defence-men.

And Canadiens have some hungry and talented youngsters in their farm system who may give the veterans a pretty good run for their jobs. They include Cliff Pennington, centre and left-winger who led the Eastern Professional Hockey League scoring with Hull-Ottawa, Bobby Rousseau, a promising centre with the same club, defencemen Jacques Laperriere of Montreal Royals and Harold White who started out with the Royals and wound up with Hull-Ottawa, and Lou Kazowski, a strong-skating defenceman with Peterborough Petes of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

Texas Open Opens With Classy Field

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The Texas open gets underway today with the field concentrating on beating Arnold Palmer for the $4,300 top prize. Palmer, the defending champion, is a mild favorite to repeat but if he does it will be over the best entry in 35 years. The $30,000 event will be played over the par 7,616-yard Oak Hills Country Club course, which Palmer already has found to be suited to his talents. He shot a six-under-par 65 in a pro-amateur Tuesday. Gary Player, the man from South Africa who is leading all the tour players in money won — $46,417.50 — will be considered a top threat. There also are 11 others of the leading 12 money-winners, including Jay Hebert, champion here in 1957 and last weekend winner of the Houston classic. Hebert is the fifth money-earner.
