

TROUBLE AHEAD FOR SPEEDSTERS

Sherbrooke street, in early morning proves worst spot

Westmount Police — and especially those particularly connected with traffic matters — have been placed on an extra alert to watch for speeders.

The main spot they are watching, it is understood, is Sherbrooke street throughout its entire length in Westmount.

Commenting on the situation, a top-ranking officer of the force said on the weekend: "What are you going to do — many a midnight, or thereabouts, we pick up cars speeding through Westmount, along Sherbrooke street. It isn't really unusual for some of them to go through four red lights before we nab them".

The situation, it is agreed, is serious.

A general tightening of the night traffic patrols, a tightening of enforcement generally, a heavier hand by the local magistrate in dealing out punishment — all these things are to be brought to bear, it is understood, to get the message across that Westmount is a bad town in which to be caught speeding.

Certainly, at or around midnight, anyone who travels at 75 miles an hour through a built up area like Westmount, can expect little mercy at the hands of the law, and Chief Harper and his men are anxious to get their hands on these speed maniacs.

Most of those apprehended, Chief Harper says, are from out of town, and so probably will not see an article of this kind, warning against speed, and particularly speed on Sherbrooke street — late at night.

By-law meeting set for tonight

Public meeting has been called for 8 p.m. tonight at city hall as required by law in connection with an alteration of a by-law. The by-law in question is No. 655 — "to regulate residential, commercial and industrial zones." Copies of the by-law are available at the office of the city clerk.

Next week's weather By ERIC NEAL

JULY 16 TO 23

Normally this is a very hot, dry period, although a hurricane is making trouble in the Gulf of Mexico and tornado conditions will develop in central and southern States.

Pleasant everywhere through the middle of the week, lasting to Saturday.

However, disconcerting conditions can prevail from the day before the Moon First Quarter to two days after. Probability of gale winds and hail in all Eastern Canada and along Atlantic Coasts.

Temperature range: Southern counties, Vermont and New England States, 60 and 90 to 95°F; Laurentians 55-85°F; Gaspé 55-90°F.

As for running a string of red lights — the Westmount Police are ready and waiting.

Selby St. study starts

Westmount's council members, together with city staff professionals concerned, have begun to hew at the red tape that lies enmeshed around the possibility of municipal housing for persons who may be evicted from their Selby street homes, and unable to find other quarters.

While it is generally believed that aid must come from the superior governments for renewal housing, the council wishes to leave no stone unturned and is exploring every avenue.

Architectural experts are at work, engineers are delving into the aspects of the problem that may concern them as the study progresses, traffic authorities are dealing with their angles of the project and welfare officials are wrestling with that aspect of the situation.

As shown in the adjoining photograph, members of council met Monday night with city officials, including city manager Norman Dawe, and got right down to business.

The study will continue until all avenues are exhausted, and that may be well into next year, if those close to the red-tape are right in their predictions.

4-yr.-old accident victim

Four-year-old Kerry Yates of 65 Selby street was killed by a truck in front of her home, Sunday morning.

According to witnesses the tot was on the playground when she decided to run home.

Apparently while running along the sidewalk next to the kerb she lost a shoe and this may have tripped her.

In any event she pitched in front of a truck.

The vehicle was driven by Real Pelletier, 34, of 3161 St. Antoine street.

Witnesses testimony revealed that the man had no chance to avoid the accident. He was travelling, witnesses said about 15 miles an hour and police measurement revealed that the skid, when he applied his brakes, was less than a foot in length.

Tax hopes not always what they may appear

When Westmount's mayor and aldermen take a look at the assessed valuation total of $178,656,815, with a view to figuring out a tax rate — they have to bear in mind that more than one-fifth of the total — $37,002,560 in fact — is non-taxable.

Of the latter amount, $17,000,002 is land and $20,002,360 is the value of buildings.

A Westmouter in Great Britain

"A Friend in Need," etc.

by Stephen Schofield

"Barney" lived on Holton avenue, Westmount. Since then he has been in the news many times, for his behavior, as he apparently prefers it to be, is often spectacular.

But one of his achievements is unknown — and most remarkable.

A tall man with a sunny smile and hot temper, fair-haired, handsome and clever, Barney was also competent and graceful at sports, especially tennis: that is, graceful in style, though not in temperament. As a student at Bishop's University, he was, at 21, already towering in the confidence of 30.

At Bishop's he had a friend, "Peter", who for obvious reasons must be anonymous. Coming from a small town in the Eastern Townships, where his mother operated a grocery store, Peter was poor financially and puny in health. He adored his mother and helped her in the shop whenever possible. She could ill afford to send him to Bishop's; but she was bent on his becoming a clergyman, and so was he. In theology he was very devout, studied hard and passed his first year.

Barney, naturally warm and gregarious, was very friendly with Peter; and Barney, whose parents were comfortably off and who knew very well that Peter hardly had a dime to spend, occasionally slipped him a five-dollar bill.

FAILED

Alas Peter failed his second year. He could not afford to repeat and the Principal told him bluntly that this would be just too bad — if he could not pay.

Barney soon learned of this and the next morning he boarded a train for Montreal and went straight to see the chancellor of the university, Sir Edward Beattie, in his sumptuous office as president of the CPR.

Although a little apprehensive at first, treading over the lush carpet to shake hands with the eminent Canadian, Barney at length related the plight of his friend Peter: his poverty, his devotion, his efforts — his failure.

Sir Edward proved sympathetic and contributed $50 in cash toward Peter's fees for another year. The same day, thus armed and encouraged, Barney gained access to the four governors of the University, to whom he repeated his plea, and elicited $50 from each of them.

"THERE"

That evening, back in Lennox-ville, Barney called on the university principal: a handsome man, somewhat studied in speech and sometimes inclined to be pompous, but who invariably behaved in obedient awe when Sir Edward graced the campus.

From his hip pocket Barney withdrew his wallet and removed five $50 bills, one after another, placing them on the principal's desk. He gazed at them in astonishment.

"There," said Barney, "is the money for Peter's fees."

As Barney explained the source of the bills the principal's jaw dropped, his eyes widened and for a few moments he appeared dumbfounded . . .

Thus through the precocious gumption and kindness of Barney toward a friend to whom he was in no way bound or obligated, Peter repeated and passed second-year theology, and then his third.

In due course he was ordained and for some years served a parish in the Townships until he died prematurely in his late twenties, possibly at 30 years of age, but no older. He had never been strong and was certainly exempt from military service.

Barney's real name is John Bassett, now publisher of The Telegram, an evening newspaper aimed to lure the lowest common denominator of intelligence in Toronto, a large city in Ontario, rather cold and aggressive and void of character, and quite unconscious of it.

And most ironically, it would seem, on this admirable voluntary quest to obtain fees for Peter, Mr. Bassett was assisted to some extent — just what extent is not known — by a close friend,* the most versatile athlete at the university and a fine scholar, later a Rhodes Scholar, who is now principal of the university, Ogden Glass.

* — One summer Glass and Bassett worked together in a laundry in Nova Scotia.

Bulletin from Birdland:

A Handful of Bird

Have you ever held a very young bird in your hand? Few songbirds are pleasing to the eye for the first days after birth because they are born featherless, or with only a little tuft on the tops of their heads. However, shore birds and a number of other kinds are covered with down when they break the shell.

Howks, Owls, and Bitterns have fluffy white down, Cormorants black, and Terns are mottled. Perhaps the most attractive baby is the Killdeer, a downy ball of browns and pearl grey, a delight to hold and examine carefully.

A Killdeer nest is located in old ploughed fields or barren land, well away from shelter, and is really just a natural depression lined with a few grasses or weed stems. It is often placed near some prominent object such as a rock. The four eggs, pale buff blotched and scrawled with blackish, are hard to detect even though in plain view when the bird flies off. The pair rely on this camouflage.

But if we happen to tread too near the home, the Killdeer tries to distract our attention, leading us away from the nest and loudly calling "Kill-dee, kill-dee." If we actually appear to find the nest, its wings are spread, and it flutters over the ground, dragging one wing as though it had been broken, all the while keeping up its noisy distress call. Then we can see the orange feathers of the rump which at ordinary times are not noticeable.

Watch bar-b-q fires

A strong word of caution about the hazards of barbecue fires is sounded by the U.S. National Fire Protection Association as the cook-out season shifts into high gear.

Festive barbecue get-togethers all too often turn into occasions of tragedy, NFPA records show, because the wrong liquids are used on charcoal fires or because even acceptable fire starters are mishandled.

In selecting a fire starter, stick to commercial products intended for this purpose or use kerosene, NFPA advises. Do not use gasoline under any circumstances.

Some of the worst barbecue accidents happen when the backyard chef "freshens" an already-started fire with kerosene, paint thinners, alcohol or the liquids sold as aids to starting charcoal fires.

The moment one of the liquids hits a live coal, there's a woosh of flame which can envelop the arm and face of anyone nearby in searing, blistering fire.

So play it safe. Never add any kind of starting liquid to perk up a sluggish fire.

Keep youngsters at a safe distance too, the NFPA cautions. Light weight summer clothing, especially the frilly party dresses little girls sometimes wear, can be hazardous around any fire or open flame.

Parking Damage

Due principally to the salary cost for car jockeys, some garages are going into the "park it yourself" business. Although car jockeys are more proficient car parkers than ordinary motorists they also are more careless. The combination of self parking and car jockeys results in many minor scratches and dents. The side moulding on many cars is so light that a slight tap results in a dent. It is notorious that for these minor damages it is almost impossible to establish responsibility as nobody sees it done. But individual owners can save trouble by taking care both in driving into a parking stall and in opening car doors.

Progress seen as a 'must'

THIS IS the neat and tidy property where W. Chamberlain has lived for 17 years at 87 Selby street — and from which the Trans-Canada highway is evicting him.

There's a happy man on Selby street by the name of William Chamberlain.

He has a property at 87 Selby street, and he's been there for almost twenty years.

He had hoped to spend the rest of his days there — but progress has caught up with him, and now his property is going to be wiped out by the new stretch of Trans-Canada Highway.

Is he downhearted — not a bit of it.

Is he joining in the claque that suggests Westmount owes them a municipal miracle — not at all.

"I'm not getting what I feel the property is worth" he told The Examiner this week, "but then who does?"

He is sorry, of course, that his life-plans have been altered. He realizes that he may not be able to find something that will be as 'old-shoe' no matter where he looks — but he realizes too that he is only one of a great number of people who are being evicted by progress.

"Progress is something you can't stop" he told The Examiner, "and I guess I'm in no different position than a lot of people being shoved out of the way by this highway, and the people in other places being shoved out for the new CBC building, or anything else."

A lot of the people on Selby street who are crying poor-mouth are making $5,000 a year or better, he indicated, and a lot of them haven't been in Westmount as long as Mr. Chamberlain, he added.

We Say

City of Westmount can't stand still

CITIZENS will draw from the financial statement of the City of Westmount (see last week's Examiner) their own conclusions.

Perhaps most significant, however, is that as with most any business, nothing stands still: costs mount and you must run harder and further to stay ahead.

There are a dozen or so items which exceeded the budgets by notable margins. Most have to do with what the casually interested resident would regard as relatively fixed from year to year in a well-developed city such as Westmount.

Fire, police and parking lots all cost more, boosting the protection of persons and property;

Public works shot up, sidewalks and roads and administration taking an unexpected $138,000 more, though a welcome $33,000 was saved on winter roads;

Sanitation and waste removal took an unscheduled $23,000 more;

Even recreation and community services climbed;

And debt charges mount with new investment in the city's future.

Unless growing expense is to become an intolerable burden, growth of the assessment base must continue. Another way of looking at the burgeoning apartment houses in the lower section of Westmount is that these and other new construction offer the prime hope of keeping taxes in check.

Westmount must move ahead, if only to stay in the same place.

Biography of Streets Sydenham avenue

Charles Edward Poulett-Thomson, first Baron Sydenham (1799-1841) born at Wimbledon, England, was privately educated. He entered the House of Commons in 1826, during Earl Gray's ministry. He was made Treasurer of the Navy and occupied himself with international affairs. He succeeded Lord Durham as Governor-General of Canada in 1839, and carried out many of his recommendations. He was a key figure in the passing of the Act of Union in 1840, uniting Upper and Lower Canada, which had been separated by the Constitutional Act in 1791, and he set up the machinery for responsible government.

His regime was admirably suited for bridging over the period of transition to responsible government. As a reward for his services he was created Baron Sydenham, of Kent, England and Toronto, Canada, 1840, and in 1841 he was made a K.C.B. He did not live long to enjoy his honours. He died as a result of a fall from his horse and as he was unmarried the title became extinct.

Sydenham avenue runs from 4353 Westmount avenue north to 3705 Westmount boulevard.

The following was taken from the minutes of the Westmount Council meeting of Nov. 10, 1908.

"Execution of deed, whereby Dame Elizabeth Bowman, on her behalf, and as institute with the children, under the last will and testament of the late Charles Bowman, did ceded unto the City of Westmount two emplacements of land running from the Boulevard to Westmount avenue, on certain conditions.

YOU SAY Would like Library open on Saturdays

Sir: Over the years since I have had the privilege of being a resident and property owner in Westmount I have become increasingly impressed with the Westmount library. The range of books improves all the time, and the staff is devoted, efficient, and courteous.

But for about a quarter of the year, during the summer months, the library is virtually useless to me, since it is closed on Saturday. There must be thousands of Westmount residents like myself, salary earners, heads of households, taxpayers, who find during the summer that the doors of the library are closed to them the one day in the week that they can comfortably go.

I accept that the library is opened on week day evenings, that theoretically we could ask our wives or send servants over on our behalf. But this concept surely misses the fact that many serious readers do not know what they will want to read. They like to browse around for an hour or so; it is often a question of mood that will decide what they want eventually to pick out. Those of us who come home these hot evenings after an arduous day at the office are simply too tired, following a drink and dinner, to venture forth to choose books, which Charles Lamb said should be a leisurely undertaking.

Westmount is undoubtedly the best-administered community in North America. Its administration is flawless and its public officials dedicated to the magnificent community it serves. Westmount also collects quite high taxes from us, and we benefit from the services they provide.

Would it not be possible, in the summers of the future, to arrange to have the library open — even with a skeleton staff — so that a very large segment of the population could use it the one day it is convenient to them.

Yours Sincerely,
FRANCIS ALLEN

Editor:
Examiner:

Dear Sir:

Today's "Examiner" expressed very clearly the obligations assumed by the Provincial Govt., (not the City of Westmount), in connection with the Trans-Canada Highway project as it affects the residents of the Selby street district of Westmount.

If preferential treatment be given to Selby street why not to persons dispossessed on Decarie Blvd., etc.?

It seems to me there is a limit to philanthropy when it necessitates spending the public funds of Westmount. Of course, if on a plebiscite, the people of Westmount who are property owners, wished to add to their already extremely high taxes, an amount to cover the rehabilitation, within Westmount, of all persons of necessity displaced by the operation of the Trans-Canada Highway through Westmount, then I think there would be no dispute, providing the Plebiscite was favorable to such action, but, to arbitrarily decide to make such provision with public funds appears to me to be questionable, especially when the displaced persons admit to annual incomes of around $5000.

Yours truly,
James R. Macken

Canadians pay less for ethical drugs

Canadians pay less for their ethical drugs than other peoples, according to the chief spokesman for the Canadian drug industry.

Dr. William W. Wigle, President of the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association of Canada, told the House of Commons Special Committee on Drug Costs and Prices recently that "a Canadian citizen is obliged to work fewer hours than the peoples of most other countries to pay for the drugs needed for the maintenance of family health."

Dr. Wigle made this statement during the drug industry's initial appearance before the parliamentary committee, which was impanelled to study ways and means of reducing the costs of drugs to Canadians.

He pointed out that members of the drug industry have explored "every conceivable means" of reducing the prices of pharmaceuticals.

"The chief executives of our member firms are well aware of the advantages that can accrue to any company able to pare its costs and prices in a highly competitive industry," he stated. "But there are stern realities that must be faced by any company doing business in Canada."

CONTROL

He indicated that various factors help account for the present level of drug prices, such as the high cost of quality control necessary to ensure the safety, strength and therapeutic effectiveness of pharmaceuticals, as well as distribution costs that are "a geographic fact of Canadian life." Added to these, he said, are the heavy costs of sending highly-trained professional representatives into the field to make medical people aware of new drugs, of their indications, side effects and therapeutic potential.

"But the greatest concern, without question, is the matter of pharmaceutical research and the patent position of the pharmaceutical manufacturer in Canada," he said.

The industry leader explained that various commissions have suggested the abolition or sharp reduction of patent protection as a necessary move to reduce drug costs.

NO FREE RIDE

"I can think of no more misguided step for the government of this country to take," he said. "Canada can not have a free ride.

"If we stand to one side and wait for the United States or Europe to develop new drugs with the notion that we then import them, we may wind up paying more than we should for questionable products and we will wait longer to receive them. We must pay our way."

Dr. Wigle stressed the fact that research is on the up-swing in Canada. He noted that one large international firm, Ayerst, McKenna and Harrison, does all of its international research in Montreal, and that several firms have recently built new laboratories in Canada.

"If this trend is to continue," he said, "we must foster the incentive that gave rise to it in the first place. Above all, we must not set up conditions that would destroy that incentive. The cost of drugs, whether we like it or not, is very closely linked to the maintenance of laboratories that will provide new drugs."

NO DAMAGE

The industry spokesman offered some recommendations which, he said, would reduce the cost of drugs without damaging an essential industry. Among these were: abolition of the federal sales tax on prescription drugs; a wider availability of drug insurance to prevent catastrophic drug expenses during medical emergencies; and the establishment of an independent source that would provide doctors and pharmacists with accurate and up-to-date information about pharmaceutical products and their prices.

Because of the importance of safety and reliability of the industry's products, he made the added recommendation that a properly qualified tribunal be established to decide the merits of compulsory licence applications from would-be secondary manufacturers.

"If we are to reduce the cost of drugs," he said, "we must not do so at the expense of the very health of the industry itself or to the hazard of the consumer."

In closing his introductory remarks to the parliamentary committee, Dr. Wigle, a former president of the Canadian Medical Association, referred to his pre-occupation with the quality of medical care being received by Canadians during his years with the Ontario Medical Association and the C.M.A.

"I wish that during those years," he said, "I had been aware of the problems that beset this industry and the dangers that threaten therapeutic advance.

"I would have strongly urged all of the support I could have mustered to help solve the difficulties of an industry on which my profession at this point leans very heavily."

Drive first, eat later, safety tip

On a long trip this summer, eat a snack before an early start, drive an hour or so, then stop for a good breakfast, warns the Canadian Highway Safety Council. The combination of rising early, plenty of food and relatively light traffic could lull a motorist into dangerous drowsiness or put him to sleep at the wheel. CHSC says the breakfast stop after driving a while breaks the monotony and helps wake up the driver.

Other ideas for a safe journey offered by CHSC include:

Picking up a hitch-hiker, unless he is known to the motorist, could end in robbery, assault, even murder.

Have tires checked before leaving. If the load is extra heavy, ask the dealer to recommend proper tires to carry it safely.

Be sure windshield wipers have "live" blades and work efficiently. Nothing, except failure of headlights at night, is as dangerous and as frightening as wipers that fail to work in a heavy downpour.

Use turn signals at every opportunity. Don't keep the others guessing. They could guess wrong.

First drops of rain turn a dry pavement into a menacing oil slick according to the Rubber Association of Canada. Heavy rain encourages the car to "water ski" at high speed. Common sense driving will eliminate those risks.

Peter Kerrigan heads Montreal Rotary Club

Peter F. Kerrigan, well-known local resident and one-time Federal Conservative candidate here, has been installed as president of the Montreal Rotary Club.

Montreal Rotary Bulletin, commenting on the accession of Mr. Kerrigan to the presidency, says:

"It is nowadays a commonplace to assert that if one is seeking a candidate for citizenship honors, one needs look no farther than to the Rotary Club of Montreal.

In Peter F. Kerrigan our club possesses one of outstanding merit. The chief reason, we suspect, is that he graduated from that great "training school," the Montreal Junior Board of Trade, of which he was president in 1947-48.

But while he has been successful in business life, he has distributed his talents over a very wide field of community affairs. He has worked for numerous Red Feather campaigns in various capacities, was honorary treasurer of the Montreal Council of Social Agencies in 1955; and is a past president of the University Settlement of Montreal.

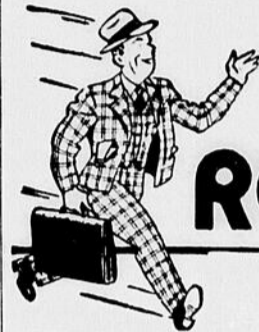

His decade of Rotary service has been marked over the years by a tenacity of purpose and by the contribution of progressive ideas. As an example was his chairmanship of the Public Affairs Committee of the club, which was responsible for the successful anti-water pollution campaign carried out jointly by the Montreal and Richelieu clubs. As a result he was appointed a member of the advisory committee of the Water

Purification Board by the Provincial Government.

What little time he has on his hands he spends in sailing in the summer, and skiing in the winter. He is a member of the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club.

Take care of Animals during the dog-days

Dog days are here and if anybody knows it, it's the dog himself.

The local SPCA urges all the owners to pay a little extra attention to their pets during the hot summer weather.

The first thing that should be done is to have plenty of water available for the dog both inside and outside the house.

Lack of water will cause the dog to become very weak during hot humid weather.

If a dog is allowed out in the back yard the owner should make sure that the dog has a place to lie down in the shade.

When families go away on trips or even when they go for a short ride they sometimes take their dogs with them. They must be extra careful not to leave the dog in the car with all the windows closed when it is parked in the sun.

The heat that collects in the car is enough to kill the dog within a few minutes.

During the summer, strenuous exercise for the dog should be reserved for the cool hours of the day, either in the early morning or in the evening.

A dog should never be allowed to chase after a car or bicycle.

It will result in exhaustion for the dog and a hazard for the motorist. It will also form bad habits that are almost impossible to cure.

Summer is the time when dogs pick up insects, especially fleas. If these are not watched for, the dog may get a case of summer eczema.

Dogs need a lot of brushing in the hot weather. Long haired dogs such as the cockers or poodles should be brushed about twice a week.

The SPCA urges that all dogs have their distemper shots. This is a painful disease which usually kills the dog.

TWO MINUTES WITH THE BIBLE

BY CORNELIUS R. STAM, PRES.
BEREAN BIBLE SOCIETY
CHICAGO 33, ILLINOIS

Many religious people take the Lord Jesus Christ as their pattern in life. They call Him "The Great Example." When problems arise they ask themselves: "What would Jesus do?" They seek salvation by "walking in His steps."

While our Lord's moral and spiritual virtues are indeed worthy of emulation, there were many details in His conduct which we should not imitate. For example, none of us would be in a position to pronounce upon the religious hypocrites of our day the bitter words which our Lord pronounced upon the Pharisees of His day — simply because we all have so much of the Pharisee in us.

Certainly we cannot be saved by "following Christ" or striving to live as He did. His perfect holiness would only emphasize our unrighteousness and condemn us. He came to save us, not by His life, but by His death. "Christ died for our sins" (1 Cor. 15:3) and sinners are "reconciled to God by the death of His Son" (Rom. 5:10).

But God has given us a pattern for salvation. It is none other than the Apostle Paul, the chief of sinners saved by grace. Hear what he says by divine inspiration:

"This is a faithful saying, and worthy of all acceptance, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners, of whom I am chief" (1 Tim. 1:15). Paul, as Saul of Tarsus, remember, had led his nation and the world in rebellion against God and His Christ. He was "exceedingly mad" against the disciples of Christ and "breathed threatening and slaughter" against them. Why then, did God save him? He goes on to tell us in the next verse:

"But for this cause I obtained mercy, that in me first Jesus Christ might show forth all long-suffering, for a pattern to them that should hereafter believe on Him to life everlasting" (Ver. 16). The moral: Take your stand with Paul. Admit you are a sinner and his Savior will save you too.

Christian Science

Sunday Sermon Subject for July 17, 1966 The differences between the physiological concept of life and the teachings of Christ Jesus about life as derived from God, will be brought out at the services in all the Christian Science churches this Sunday, in the reading of the week's Lesson-Sermon on the subject "Life." Relevant Scripture will be keynoted by this verse from John: "This is life eternal, that they might know thee the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom thou hast sent." Explanatory passages from the denominational textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will include: "The way is straight and narrow, which leads to the understanding that God is the only life. It is a warfare with the flesh, in which we must conquer sin, sickness, and death, either here or hereafter, — certainly before we can reach the goal of Spirit, or life in God."

19th Century Psalm for Salvation Army

(In looking through old volumes of "The War Cry," Colonel Gilbert Best (R) came across this ingenious effort in the issue dated March 10th, 1894.)

- I was glad when they said unto me, Come let us go up into the Salvation Army Barracks; there will we give our testimonies, and declare what the Lord hath done for us.
- What! do the devils rage and the people imagine evil things? Is not God with us? performing great things in our barracks?
- Therefore will we rejoice greatly, and do a jig occasionally. The people shall behold the wonder if that is salvation.
- Blessed is the man who sticks to the Army, wears his red guernsey, and sitteth not in the back seats of the lukewarm; who walketh not in the council of the kickers; nor layeth abed at seven o'clock on Sunday morning.
- But his delight is in saving souls; and in the prayer meetings he doth pray as if his head would fly off.
- Cry out and shout, thou soldier of Winnipeg, for great is the Holy Ghost, Who is with us, (Volley.)
- Lift up thy head when prayest, oh, soldier, and try not to put it between thy knees on the floor, looking as if thou werest trying to stand on thy head.
- In Thee, O Lord, do I put my trust; keep Thou me well saved, and deliver me from ever being a milk-and-water kind of a soldier (Volley.)

- Truly, God is good to Salvationists. Never since I was saved have I lacked any good thing; yes, I have had an abundance of necessities.
- As the prairie is round about Winnipeg, so is the Lord round about every soldier who prays.
- Though pay-day cease, and there be no sound of pennies in my pocket, and hard hard times stare me in the face, and poverty would slay me, yet will I trust in the Lord (Volley.)
- Yet in the day when Thou, O Lord, doth give us a good job, and cause our purse to be fat, yet do we be stingy, and forget to put in our cartridges.
- Purge me from my tobacco, and then shall my mouth be clean to sing and shout They praises; O Thou most adorable Saviour.
- Create in me a desire to sell War Crys, and help me to buy one for myself every week, O Lord, The Captain shall hear thereof and be glad. (Volley.)

Unity says Thanks to Benefactors

By CHARLIE HOWES

Weeks come along and go one after the other, and soon another year has gone. Boys and Girls come and go into the Club called Unity and soon another year has gone.

While waiting for opening time one afternoon last week, a number of the Club members had gathered outside the building and were eagerly anticipating the time when the doors would open so that they could be involved with the program of the day.

Once in the building they would scatter to the various parts of the Club. Perhaps some would venture into the gym to throw a ball around, do some skateboarding, play a game of field hockey or just sit and watch others play. Others would find their way to the craft department to create a wall plaque, a gaucho belt, a colorful self portrait or something very modern in clay. The games room always a popular spot would attract many to take part in a variety of table games, or listen to the latest "pop tune on the radio or purchase a cool drink from the snack bar. Time to seek out one of the staff members or volunteers, to carry on a few moments of conversation would keep quite a number occupied and so it goes, the Club is open again for another time of fun, creativity, friendship, guidance, conversation, excitement, laughter and even a few tears or a violent argument. All part of the world of growing up and the experience of living. These experiences make up the days that turn into weeks and months and at this time we would like to thank all those that make this possible.

Who makes this possible? People just like you who in any way contribute of your time and talents and finances to the Community Chest. From all of the Club members and the staff may we say Thank You, it is very much appreciated. May we remind you all that there is always an open invitation to drop in and see us any time. It will be our pleasure to show you around and let you see for yourself what takes place in a Boys' Club.

CONGRATULATIONS: We see by the last issue of The "Examiner" congratulations are certainly in order for two young men in the Community. Melvin Grimes a former member of Unity and Robert Vaux an active member of the Club are attending Loyola University and both have earned a place on the Dean's Honor list. Once again gentlemen, congratulations, and may all of us here at Unity wish you both continued success with all of your scholastic endeavours.

PROGRAM NOTES: The latest swinging musical group to hit town landed on the Unity Boys' Club Summer stage recently. The "Grasshoppers" completely astounded the audience with many and varied musical instruments. Head-Hopper, Jimmy Green Blade promised that the Green Ones would return, after much more practice... the audience sure hopes so.

The first series of completed passports were issued by Uncle Tom Stephens who did an excellent job taking the passport photos and developing them in the Club's dark room. We anticipate a real rush for these attractive Summer Souvenir items, so sign up now and watch for the Birdie.

Welcome to Darlene Hogan a Club member who is volunteering her services at the Club this Summer. Darlene is looking after our Snack Bar and will also assist in other areas of club program. Laurie Maxwell, a young lady who was a volunteer with us during the winter will also be with us once or twice a week to help with the supervision of groups out on trips; to both these ladies, thank you very much, your time and interest is appreciated.

Local Foster home recruiting centre first in Canada

Montrealers are justly proud of their Foster Home Recruiting Centre for it is, in fact, the first and only bureau in Canada, and one of only half dozen in all of North America devoted entirely to the job of recruiting foster homes for children.

The idea of the Centre was first conceived in 1962 when the English-speaking Catholic Welfare Bureau, the (Protestant) Children's Service Centre, and the Jewish Child Welfare Bureau agreed, that, despite all their efforts, locating the number of foster homes they needed each year was becoming a formidable problem. In the belief that a single, joint enterprise might overcome the problem more forcefully, the agencies appointed a committee to look into the matter. The committee duly studied the foster home recruiting centre in Cleveland, Ohio, examined methods and budgets, and, in time, recommended that a three-year test project be tried along specified lines.

When a private foundation and the Junior Jewish Welfare League provided funds to meet the first two years' expenses, the sponsoring Montreal Council of Social Agencies gave the nod; the Rotary Clubs of Montreal and Westmount furnished offices; Miss Eileen B. Griffin was appointed Executive Director; and on May 1st 1965, the Foster Home Recruiting Centre of Montreal was born.

Just a baby itself, the Centre is already hard at work. Through television, radio and the printed word, through service clubs, churches, synagogues, home and school groups and so forth, the Centre is engaged in describing the role of foster parenthood as often as it can. It invites couples to visit the Centre; it encourages them to ask questions; it guides them in thinking the matter through; and it helps them weigh their strengths and weaknesses before committing themselves to this challenging work.

Eventually, when couples ask to become foster parents, the Centre turns their names over to the child placement agencies of their choice—Catholic, Jewish or Protestant—and, from that moment on, the Centre's job stops and the agencies' begins.

THE DEPARTMENT OF NATIONAL HEALTH AND WELFARE TELLS US:

Water quality may deteriorate quickly, according to the weather or changing conditions in the terrain. Where water used for drinking purposes is taken from natural sources as in rural areas or resorts, it should be tested regularly for purity, since spring thaw may wash pollution into wells or streams. Your local or provincial health department will supply information on the procedure to follow.

Repairing Silversmiths and Electro Platers, Operating Canada's Largest High Class Job Shop. WE CALL FOR AND DELIVER 1437 Aylmer St. V1. 5-7947 (A few doors above St. Catherine St.) Opposite Henry Morgan & Co.

MR. and MRS. FREDERICK ARTHUR HISCOCK, photographed following their wedding which took place on Saturday in the Church of the Ascension of Our Lord. Mrs. Hiscock was formerly Miss Clara Delany, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Delany, of Western Avenue, and Mr. Hiscock is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur F. Hiscock, of St. Laurent.

MISS MARGARET CAROL MANN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Mann, of London, England, formerly of Westmount, and MR. JOHN KILVINGTON EVANS PELTON, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Pelton, of Wood Avenue, whose marriage has been arranged to take place on Friday, July 22, in the Chapel of St. Matthias Church.

We see and hear

WE SEE that the Oneida Indians of Ontario have elected MRS. VIRGINIA SUMMERS as their first woman chief. Mrs. Summers will lead a 12 man council at monthly meetings for the next two years. She is not the first distaff chief however. The Chippewas elected a woman eight years ago.

WE HEAR from MAYNARD GERTLER of Church Hill Avenue, that PETER LUST'S new book 'Two Germanies: Mirror of an Age' is about to be launched by Harvest House Ltd., of Greene Avenue. Mr. Lust is editor of the German language Canadian weekly 'Montrealer Nachrichten'. Harvest House is also publishing 'My Newfoundland' by ARTHUR SCAMMEL who wrote what has become the unofficial national anthem of his native province, 'the squidjiggin' ground', at the age of 14. Mr. Scammel is now a high school teacher in the Town of Mount Royal.

WE SEE that pianist OLGA LIEBER who has a studio at 4470 Sherbrooke St., Westmount, has finished her teaching season for this year and has begun to fill a summer of concert engagements in the United States. Starting with Middlebury College, Vermont, on July 10th, this week she will play for the Ogunquit Club in Maine, and later for other educational clubs in the area of the northern states.

WE HEAR from the CSPCA shelter manager JAMES E. ST. ONGE that the society would like to hear from those who witness instances of cruelty to animals during the summer vacation period. This is the period of the year when pets, especially cats, are abandoned at summer resorts, with the idea evidently that they can 'live off the land.'

WE SEE in the Financial Post that by 1970 one out of every three Canadian workers will be female. The Post feels that this is due to the growth of service industries and the invasion by women of traditional male strongholds. We feel that this growth and this invasion are bound to happen if one out of three Canadian workers are women.

WE HEAR from Scotland that MRS. MOLLIE PORTER will lead an all women expedition to the Arctic Circle this summer. Perhaps Scotland is having a hot summer too.

Hiscock-Delany

The marriage of Clara, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Delany, of Western Avenue, to Mr. Frederick Arthur Hiscock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur F. Hiscock, of St. Laurent, took place recently in the Church of the Ascension of Our Lord, Westmount, the Rt. Rev. Edward J. Lapointe, D.P., P.P., officiating. Arrangements of pink and white gladioli decorated the church.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was in a gown of white Brussels lace, the skirt, having a front panel caught by a satin bow at the waistline, falling into a train of similar lace. Her shoulder-length veil of tulle illusion was held by a floral head-dress, and she carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses and stephanotis.

Miss Orla Delany, as maid of honor for her sister, and Miss Deborah Hiscock, sister of the bridegroom, as bridesmaid, were in frocks of pink organza and chiffon. They wore bandeaux of pink rosettes in their hair, and carried bouquets of pink and white Sweetheart roses.

Master Steven Hiscock, brother of the bridegroom, was ring-bearer.

Mr. Gary Hiscock, acted as best man for his brother, and the ushers were Mr. Faolan Delany, brother of the bride, and Mr. J. Campbell Kavanagh.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of the bride's parents, where pink gladioli, and pink and white carnations were used as decorations.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Hiscock left for New Hampshire.

Johnny Newman's Beavers:

Russ Blackwell named trainer

It has long been an accepted truth that the invisible hand behind the success of every group of athletes has been a proficient trainer.

Montreal's eager Beavers of the Continental League this week secured their invisible hand. Beavers' Executive Vice President, Russ Scrim today disclosed the signing of ex-Alouette trainer, Russ Blackwell to the same position with the Beavers.

Blackwell, a man of medium height and fine physical mettle, is quietly enthusiastic about his new job. "Look", he says earnestly, "When I was with the Alouettes, I met a lot of coaches, made many trips around the Canadian circuit. During those travels I met no man or organization which impressed me more than this one."

The forty-four year old father of four is a native of Montreal. For the past five years Blackwell has been associated with Canadair as a buyer.

"This is really a serious hobby more than anything else," said Blackwell. "It was during my six year spell in the army that I first became interested in physical fitness." His first role as a trainer came in 1958 when he handled the Montreal North Bears of the old Intermediate League. In 1960 he moved up to the Alouettes serving under Ernie Mackenzie. By 1964 he was appointed Head Trainer with the departed Quebec Rifles. And last year he served a similar position at the University of Montreal.

Asked his impression of the Club's training facilities at Loyola Blackwell replied that there was "room for improvement in the training room itself, but the overall setup is marvelous. The accommodations are comfortable and the food is great."

"We don't anticipate too much trouble during training camp, because all our boys know well enough and will be hungry enough to report in shape. The weather shouldn't be too much of a problem as most of our personnel are from the United States. And with our smaller camp of 60 candidates we will be able to give more attention to any individual ailments."

Blackwell stated that his arrangement with the Beavers was a mutually happy one. "I was sure after them," he said, "and I'm told that they were after me."

Red Cross seeks 4

The Canadian Red Cross Society in searching for four missing persons last seen in the Montreal area. Anyone having any knowledge of the whereabouts of any of the following is asked to call the Red Cross at 937-7761. Those sought are:

Erzsebet Beni, 27, born in Budapest, Hungary, whose last known address was in Montreal; Takov Bogdej, 71, Russian-born, last seen in Montreal;

(formerly Alexa Sirtaine), 61, born in Romania, last known address 3241 Forest Hill avenue, apt. 18, Montreal;

Bronislaw Wisniewski, born in 1918 in Poland, last address 1188 Sussex street, Montreal.

Honor-Laden Lawn Bowling Champ; John Henderson seeks new titles

John Henderson of Westmount Lawn Bowling Club continues to bring honors to his club.

Recently he won the Province of Quebec Singles Championship and will represent the Province in the Canadian Championships in Winnipeg, August 22nd to 24th.

Since coming to Montreal in 1955 from Toronto, John, who is Manager of the Bank of Montreal's Peel Street Branch, has been Provincial Singles Champion four times and also in 1963 skipped the Westmount rink that tied for runner-up position in the Canadian Championships at Hamilton, Ontario. In the singles championships he tied for first place at Vancouver in 1964, losing out in a deciding playoff game and in 1958 was runner up.

His biggest successes were in 1962, 1963, and 1964 when he played in the American Association Open Tournaments.

The first year he went to Seattle, Washington, for a World Tournament and, competing against players from Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, Rhodesia, England, the United States and Canada, won seven straight games to bring the singles trophy home to Westmount.

The next year he successfully defended this trophy at Chicago and also won the doubles and the second event rinks. His record was 15 games won and one lost.

Travelling to Los Angeles in 1964 to defend his trophies he had another successful run only losing two games out of 21. He was trying to be the first player in the American Association's 49 year history to win the singles three years in a row but he was unsuccessful, losing a game to his American doubles partner whom he had beaten in 1963.

However, he only lost one more game in all three events to win two more trophies and at the finish of the tournament was given permanent possession of a trophy donated by the Mayor of Los Angeles for the player with the best performance in all events.

Following the Canadian Championships next month John is going after even greater honors.

... the banker ...

Early in October he is off to Sydney, Australia, as playing captain of a Canadian team of five players selected to participate in the first-ever World's Championships being operated by the Australian Bowls Association.

Sixteen countries — Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, Rhodesia, Fiji, Hong Kong, Kenya, Papua-New Guinea, Japan, Scotland, England, Ireland, Wales, The United States, and Canada — are each sending five players to compete in four events for individual trophies and the Leonard Cup to the country having the best overall record.

With the expectation that other countries will host World Championships every few years in the future, it is hoped this trophy will become as symbolic in the lawn bowling fraternity as the Davis Cup is in the tennis world.

Mr. Henderson does not confine himself to the playing side of lawn bowls. He was president of the Province of Quebec Lawn Bowling Association in 1959 and 1960 and at present is Vice-President of the Canadian Lawn Bowling Council, which governs the game throughout the country.
