New Secretary Huntingdon Fair

MR THOMAS BROOKS has been accepted as the new Secretary of the Huntingdon Agricultural Society, Division "A" and of Huntingdon Fair. He has already assumed his duties and will be on hand for matters to do with the Society.

Chateauguay Valley Historical Society Meets May 17th.

The Chateauguay Valley Historical Society will hold its Annual Meeting at Howick High School at 8.30 on the evening of May 17th, 1963. This meeting, which would normally have been held late in April, had to be postponed due to a series of organizational problems.

Minor amendments to the Constitution of the Society will be placed upon the sesbership by mail prior to the Annual meeting. It is proposed to alter the organization of the society to provide greater emphasis on the geographical distribution of members. At the same time several committees will be created to handle major projects which have been initiated.

Main emphasis this year will be placed upon the sesquicentennial commemoration of the Battle of Chateauguay, which is being planned by a committee under the chairmanship of Ian Watson M.P. In order to provide maximum opportunity for participation by the members, other projects some of which will supplement the "Battle" program are planned. In addition at least two speakers of note have accepted invitations to speak at meetings during the summer.

After a winter unmarked by significant progress the Society will again appeal for broader membership in order to carry out an ambitious program.

Two Traffic Accidents Occur at Week-End

An accident occurred at the intersection of the Plank Road and Highway No. 3, Port Lewis, on Saturday about 5:45 p.m.

A 1963 Comet Sedan driven by Miss Susan Lefebvre, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Lefebvre, of Huntingdon came in collision with a 1959 Pontiac Station Wagon driven by Marcel Boisvert of Montreal.

The injured Miss Lefebvre and Miss Pam Connolly of Montreal, a passenger in the Lefebvre car, were brought to the Huntingdon County Hospital by ambulance. Both girls were found to be suffering from shock, minor cuts and bruises. Miss Lefebvre was able to return to her home the same evening while Miss Connolly remained in hospital overnight but was able to return to her home with her parents on Sunday. Extensive damage was done to both cars.

Another accident occurred on Sunday at 4 a.m. at the intersection of Highway 52 and the Lost Nation Road. A 1963 Oldsmobile Sedan owned by Keith Rodd and driven by Sherman Robb of Huntingdon collied with a 1960 Chevrolet Sedan driven by James Callaghan of Dannemora, N.Y. No one was injured but considerable damage was done to both cars.

Variety Concert Draws Large Audience

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Huntingdon Branch Canadian Legion sponsored a variety concert in the Legion Hall on Fairview Road, Saturday evening which drew a better than capacity house. Tickets for this event were sold ahead of time, but there were still a large number of door admissions.

Mr. Leo Cappiello acted as M.C. for the evening and right from the opening number kept the program moving along. The opening number was one by Michael Roberge, an accordian solo. This was a number of selections which were mostly well known and well played. It was quite an enjoyable opening number. A piano duet, "Cuckoo Clock", played by Charlene Cameron and Marlene Smith, was another enjoyable musical piece by these two instrumentalists. Stanley Currie with his magician tricks mystified most of his audience, if not all of them, as he went through a number of tricks with cards eggs, colored squares and so forth. His jokes in between and while doing the tricks kept the audience in merry mood.

A folk dance by the wee folks made a change in the program and these youngsters in their Irish costumes gave an excellent performance.

Another piano duet, this time by Janice Goodall and Sharon Kelly, "Sonatina Op. 3" again pointed up that we have a number of accomplished musicians developing in our midst.

Mr. Rupert Hawley followed with his skit entitled "The Specialist". In this he was a carpenter specializing in the building of privees. Of course there were moments of great hilarity as he described the circumstances and so forth of his special business. Young Camel Frederick that piano playing "Whizz", delighted the audience with a piano solo entitled "Wild Horseman and Sonatine by Beethoven". This young man is certainly a clever one in the way he can play these pieces on the piano.

Intermission time brought a sale of home-made candy which appeared to have excellent results and also the sale of tickets for a special drawing. The winner of the drawing was Mrs. Richard Proudfoot and the winner of the door prize was Mrs. James Ferns.

With the continuing of the program a one-act play was presented entitled "Advice to the Lovelorn" and the following was the cast of characters and those taking the parts: Jackson P. Jones, Editor, Irvin McWhinnie; Pierre Leblanc, Office Boy, Marcel Benoit; Miss Melissa Meow, Maiden Lady, Mrs. Joan Rottenstein; Gertie, Teen aged fifteen, Miss Jeanne Gardner; Jake Hayseed, a Farmer, Mr. John Cunningham; Newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Tuttledove, Mrs. Rosemary Cosgrove and Mr. Gordon Small; A charming young widow, Mrs. Gotroy, Mrs. Marie Valdemar.

This play involved the trouble which developed when the editor of a column on Advice for the Lovelorn was taken sick and the editor of the newspaper decides he will act as stand in. The advice he offers causes more trouble until he marries one of the "clients" himself.

The program ended on this happy note and with an introduction of all who took part in this play. Also introduced were the behind the scenes organizers of the program, who are so often unknown. These were: Mrs. Winnifred Napier, Mrs. Merle Ferry, Mrs. Joan Middlemiss and Mrs. G. Brown, Ways and Means Committee; Mrs. Elva Moore, Director and Mrs. Grace Cappiello, prompter.

All who took part did an excellent job and the audience was well entertained throughout the evening.

B.M.H. Driveway Lighting Draws Favourable Comment

Something over a year ago, following a generous donation to be used towards the cost, the Governors of The Barrie Memorial Hospital installed 8 lights around the semi-circular driveway from entrance to exit, and all who have seen them agree that not only do they contribute greatly to the appearance but they also perform a most important function.

Prior to the installation of these lights, the driveway was lighted only from the street light and by spotlights placed over the hospital entrance, which was somewhat blinding to both pedestrians and motorists as they turned into the driveway. Many were the complaints registered but, because of the cost involved, remedying the situation was not easy. With the financial assistance given for this special purpose, the project became possible and was carried out.

Contrary to what some may think, we learn that the additional cost for electric current is not high. Hitherto these lights were kept on only from dusk to 1 A.M., turning off and on automatically, but with the increased patient use of the hospital, and particularly for emergency admissions, it has been decided that they shall be allowed to remain on all night. The cost to the hospital, according to figures submitted by the Shawinigan Water and Power Company, for six hours additional each night will cost but $24.00 for a year's consumption. And this seems to us but a small price to pay for the convenience and safety afforded to those who may during the hours of darkness, have to get to the hospital. The hospital governors are to be commended for their constant efforts to give the best service possible to all who have occasion to enter the hospital.

Since the proposed expansion, now under consideration by the Board of Governors, will not affect the entrance to the hospital, this attractive functional lighting set-up would not be disturbed; future needs in this respect having been taken into consideration when the present installation was made.

Special Speaker for Home and School Meeting

The annual meeting of the Huntingdon Home and School Association is being held at the High School Cafeteria on Wednesday, May 8th, at 8. p.m. Besides the regular business a special speaker will be present to address the gathering.

The speaker will be Mr McGrath, Associate Director of the Montreal Trade School, who will speak on "Technical Education in the Province of Quebec" Parents with children who may be leaving school before completing their high school education, should make a special effort to attend this meeting.

Education is an important matter and many of these talks are helpful in securing other forms of education that can make for success or failure. If children are unable to proceed further in school on an academic level, then something should be done to see if a technical education would be more suitable. Plan to attend on May 8th.

New St. Mark's Dedicated At Valleyfield

The dedication of the new St. Mark's Anglican Church in Valleyfield, took place last week with a large attendance of friends of the Roman Catholic faith attending the service.

St. Mark's was lost by fire in December, 1961, and has since been rebuilt. The fund to help rebuild the Church was subscribed to by a large number of Roman Catholic people and organizations and thus made it possible for a fast turn to the rebuilding. It was a case of Great Christian Unity in a community effort that held no barriers and will stand as an ever lasting monument to what can be accomplished if only there is the will to do it.

The Gleaner will carry a more complete story in the next issue and this will be accompanied by photographs, etc.

Rotary Speaker Tells of Curling Tour of Scotland

It was a very full meeting at the Huntingdon Rotary Club, on Monday, at the Chateau. A few reports were given on items held, or to be held, and among these was a splendid report of the Easter Seals campaign. It was shown that more contributions had been received for this worth-while cause this year, although there was far from a 100% response.

Rotarian Dick Tinker gave this report and he also reminded that an amount was due for the recent prizes for the curling bonspiel. Mr. Guy Belanger of the St. Anicet Golf Club announced that facilities were in readiness for playing golf with two courses for use. Each is equiped with club rooms and have reception halls.

The speaker for the day, Mr. Aubrey Legge, was first introduced by Rotarian McGerrigle and finally by Dr Johnston Abraham, Past Charter President of Westward Rotary Club and now an honorary member of that club. Mr. Legge is Past President and member of Westward Rotary Club. He is area Labor relations and Safety Superviser with the Bell Telephone Co.

Mr. Legge gave an account of a curling Tour that he and other Rotarians made of Scotland in 1962. He said the tour was first organized in 1956 and consists of a three week tour of Scotland. A feature of the tour is that all the visitors are guests in the homes of other Rotarians while in Scotland. This group also received a trophy which is given when all provisions have been lived up to. The trophy is known as the Bob Mcintosh Trans-Atlantic Trophy. Mr. Legge was responsible for organizing the tour in 1962 and became Captain of the group of about twenty curlers.

The early response was not too good, but with more effort being put in the required number was finally rounded up. When finally they left Montreal and arrived at Prestwick in Scotland, they were met there by the Scottish Rotarians who were to be their hosts. As soon as they arrived, each were given air mail letters and it was insisted that they write a letter to home as to their safe arrival and so on. There was no escaping this. At other times also air mail letters were supplied at no cost, for letters, to be written home. Each one was also presented with special wallets containning places for cards, etc., a writting pad and pencil. This proved to be a very handy item as the time progressed.

Later the group attended a Rotary dinner and then were shown some notable spots in the area. The next day they curled and more spots were shown to them and they met and were guests of the Lord Provost of Glasgow, who is a lady. This was a most interesting experience. During all the period except for the last three days, curling and sight seeing was the order. They all visited various places of interest and note and at no time was there any expense to themselves. There was a great show of friendliness and a wonderful spirit of hospitality. Some of the homes had central heating, but mostly they were equipped with fireplaces. As it was winter, some of the Canadians claimed they were roasted on one side and froze on the other, but everyone had a most enjoyable time. The last three days were spent in London before embarking on a plane for the return to Canada.

Each member of the group was presented with a special badge and Mr. Legge had secured one of these which Mr Fred Soucy, of the Valleyfield Rotary Club and who he presented to as a souvenir is also Vice-President District No. 3 Royal Canadian Curling Club. Mr. Soucy thanked Mr. Legge and said the badge would be treasured at all times.

The next tour will be held in Canada in 1964 and then in 1966 it will again be held in Scotland. Mr. Legge said he hoped that when the Scottish tour came to this country that Rotarians would show their hospitality to the visitors and that he would be pleased to give anyone any information possible about these tours.

Rotarian N. Bourgon thanked Mr. Legge for his most interesting talk and presented him with a little momento from the Huntingdon Club.

Mr. Thomas C. Collocott, a member of the Rotary Club in Edinburgh, Scotland was a visitor at the meeting. He said he had written up a report of the curling tour in the Rotary Bulletin, but that he had to come here to Canada to hear the other side and see the trophy.

Canada's Centenary

It's Importance To The Chateauguay Valley

Starting a series of articles this week

by DOUGLAS R. LAMBIE

Editor of Waiting Room Digest, freelance writer, and President of the Chateauguay Valley Historical Society.

PART 1.:

"WHY PLAN AT ALL?"

"Canadians should be enthused about the Centenary, but they're not"... "Nothing's been done yet".. "It's getting late"... "There's been no leadership"...

If you read the press comment, as I did, during the recent Third annual meeting of the Can. Centenary Council held in Montreal —or, if you saw and heard TV coverage, about which friends told me — — the impression you received was probably negative. An inestimble amount of harm may have been done by this coverage. Presumably these members of the press felt that criticism would help to rouse people to do something about it, for the coverage was good and it was wide.

The pity of it all was that so little was said about the very real, positive side of the conference.

True... but..:

It is true — the conference got off to a depressing start rampant with pessimism, discontent at apparent lack of progress, and air vibrant with sensitivity about the 'Two-Language problem. But we progressed through discussion workshops alternatively spiced with heated words, rollicking good humour, a growing spirit of bilingual comraderie — to a finale stamped with better understanding, renewed enthusiasm, and a determination to help our fellow Canadians to realize the true significance of 1967's possibilities.

That was one question which was not asked at the conference. The well over 200 delegates who attended from all over Canada knew why, and knew that it was a complex answer.

Across this great country — geographically one of the largest in the world — with its predominantly defiant climate, are spread more than 18,000,000 people in clusters. Many of these population clusters, as a result of the history of immigration, are composed of specific ethnic groups — whether large or small whether they be French, Scottish, Ukrainian, Chinese, Italian or any other of the many other origins. And some are integrated clusters on the Canadian vine, representing two or more cultural groups living together in harmony.

The people of British Columbia, under tremendous influence from the Pacific Coast States and separated by 2000 miles from the main centres of Canadian population, have little in common with the Maritimers who are so strongly bonded to their New England neighbours, nor to the many of those living in the southern parts of Ontario and Quebec who look toward centres like New York City as travel Meccas.

Yet, in spite of these differences; despite an abysmal lack of understanding between these groups in many ways; despite disproportionate population groupings which give Canada a population of about 100,000 in one province compared with close to 2,000,000 in each of the two larger city complexes... yes, despite these factors and many others in this Canadian potpourri — Canada has stayed together as one entity for almost 100 yrs. A century of progress during which Canada has grown and developed tremendously.

Is this enough reason to plan a great celebration for our national Centenary ? If not — there are others. We can think back as members of organizations such as the Women's Institutes or the Rotary Club, and recall the achievements of our associations. We can dwell a while on the growth of our industries — of the specific industry of which we may be a member. We can be proud of pioneering forefathers who cleared the bush, and drained the land, and built the foundations of this nation of which we should be more volubly proud. First generation Canadians, who came here because we wanted to become citizens of this country, can think back over our time in Canada — realise the contribution it has made to our lives, and in retrospect wonder if we have made sufficient contribution to the Canadian heritage.

We can look to the almost incredible hydro-electric developments, the great bridges spanning the St. Lawrence, the unique Seaway, the enormous development of the West, and countless other achievements — the vast majority of which have taken place entirely within this Century of Progress.

There is valid reason for planning a celebration — no matter how, as individuals, we wish to think about and celebrate it.

What will 1967 mean to us in the Chateauguay Valley ? We cannot help being affected by it. We will be on the threshhold of the World's Fair at Montreal — the greatest single influence in Canada's history upon the influx of tourists. In the Chateauguay Valley this could be of great benefit. It is not difficult to be a prophet about some matters. During 1967 the traffic on the roads — all roads leading from the U. S. border toward Montreal — will be unprecedented. Does this conjure thoughts of a nightmare ? How easily it could. How wrong it would be to look at it that way. This is the greatest single opportunity on which to capitalize that has ever come to this valley — or is likely to for many a year to come. Yet — if the people of the Valley do cash in — through intelligent planning — the momentum reached by 1967 could well carry over (on a more reasonable basis) for years to come.

This is not a time to think selfishly, inwardly, to shy away from the inevitable. It is not a time to sit back and 'wait for someone else to do it'. Too many people have done that about the Centenary for more than three years now. Leadership must come from the top in any group, but participation for total success must come from every one. Literally every Canadian has been invited to submit his or her ideas as to how this national celebration should be planned. Obviously — if everyone does submit their ideas to one centre the task of sorting them out would take more than the 43 months which remain before 1967.

Today We Have Leadership

The leadership has been lacking — but enough or too much has been said already on that score. Today we do have the leadership at the top, but what we need is the sound structure of people who will contribute toward the task of the leaders, provide their own local leadership, and participate actively in carrying out the plans. What is the national leadership ?

It is two-fold. The National Centennial Administration and the Canadian Centenary Council. Later in the series I will outline in more detail the functions of the two leaders in Centennial planning and how they can assist at the local level. One of the points that was clarified and emphasised again and again at the conference was the part the two leadership organizations will play.

They are very different in every sense, but will work closely, and are dedicated to the same purpose — The intelligent and imaginative planning of a commemoration which will raise the international prestige of Canada, accomplish a great many worthy objectives, and ensure that as many Canadians as possible are rewarded with a sound degree of fun in 1967.

Fundamentally the Administration is a federal government body, while the Council is composed of many private organizations who have united to supplement the government's efforts.

In the succeeding articles I shall outline the ways in which individuals, voluntary groups, municipal bodies, business men, and the men and women — and children — of the whole Chateauguay Valley, as a region, could spend the next four years ensuring that the whole area does benefit, and that our inevitable influx of visitors leave us with happy memories and a desire to return.

Part II "The Leaders and Ourselves" in next week's Gleaner.

Hospital Day at the Barrie Memorial

Students of Grades 10 and 11 of the High Schools of Hemmingford, Howick, Ormstown and Ste. Martine, with their teachers, are invited at 2:00 P.M. on Wednesday, May 15th, to tea at the Barrie Memorial Hospital.

The tea and a conducted tour of the hospital and nurses residences is being sponsored by the Bursary Committee of the Women's Auxiliary of the Hospital with Mrs. Marjorie Fearn in charge.

The tour and tea will be followed by a discussion and question period when members of the group will have a good chance to get sound inside information about careers in nursing.

The Women's Auxiliary sponsors a Bursary for girls entering the nursing profession and, naturally, they hope that a large group of students will come from each of the four invited high schools. This will be a pleasant afternoon for any girl who thinks of entering the nursing profession.

But — those who have ideas should submit them to a voluntary organization of which they are a member, to a municipal body where they live, to a regional group who can sort, select and co-ordinate the wealth of ideas and plans which — given a chance — will flow toward fulfilment.

Rockburn

Mr. Jeffery Cooke is spending a few days with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Maither.

Visitors From Scotland

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C Collocott of Edinburgh, Scotland are presently visiting with Mr. and Mrs. J. Telfer in Huntingdon. They arrived at the week-end by plane at Dorval and were delighted to see the sun shining and our warm spring weather. Mr. Collocott said that it has been some time since the sun was shining in Scotland and he was quite pleased with our weather. Mrs. Collocott is a sister of Mr. Telfer. Mr. Collocott is General Manager of the Chambers Publishing Co and is presently here on business in connection with his company. He is also mixing a little pleasure and visiting a few relatives and friends. This is the first time the Collocotts have visited Canada so they are naturally very interested in all they see and what is done here. He visited The Gleaner plant and was quite interested in the work carried on here. He was also a guest at the Rotary Club meeting and he himself is a Rotarian in Edinburgh. He found the meeting very interesting and entertaining. Mr Collocott is responsible for editing the Rotarian Bulletin in Scotland and no doubt some of his experiences will be appearing in that club publication.

Report on Library Fund

The people are responding very well to the appeal for contribution to the Huntingdon High School Library Fund. To date $453 has been subscribed to the fund and the past week has seen 106 donors send in their gifts.

The committee is gratified with the interest that is being taken and hopes that many more will send in a contribution to this worthy cause. Since the promotion of the library several years ago, it has been noted that more and more children are becoming interested in books and reading. Now that the library is available for adults, there is a further interest being manifested and no doubt as time goes on this will grow. Keep up the contributions for they are needed to keep new books and replacements coming into the library.

Annual Congregational Supper At Huntingdon United Church

T'is meet that men should meet to eat", such were the sentiments of Robbie Burns, the Great Scottish Poet, and the large number who assembled on Thursday evening, April 25th, in the United Church Hall to partake of the bountiful meal prepared and served by the United Church Women could testify to the truth and sound logic of this saying. Socially and financially results were gratifying.

Prizes Presented at Closing of Howick Curling Club

On Saturday evening Howick Curling Club closed an other successful season with a delicious turkey supper. From the number of members and friends that turned out (120) it is needless to say that the evening was a success.

From seven o'clock on there was a steady stream of people making a bee-line for the turkey. The men of the entertainment committee proved again what good organizers they are, so next year fellows, be prepared to do all the catering while we women take a year of rest.

After supper Pres. Archie Roy made a short speech in which he thanked the appropriate people in the Club for making the past year a success. Archie reminded us all of one member who was not with us this year for the first time in many years. This member being Bruce Ness so our one message to you Bruce — get well soon.

Archie then called on Ladies' President Mrs. Agnes Brown to give a short report on the ladies' doings for the year. With the help of match committee chairman, Mabel Smith, Agnes gave out the prizes. It was a pleasure to see quite a few new people getting prizes this year.

Archie and Mike Ness then proceeded to give out the men's prizes. Although the prizes ranged from big silver trophies to small porcelain trophies with fur seats everyone receiving them seemed happy and pleased.

A ladies' and men's door prize given by Geo. Menard were drawn for. The lucky winners being G. Craig and G. Barrington.

The evening closed with a dance and quite a few members stayed to enjoy themselves.

The yearly closing of the Howick rink is always a sad event but it is also one of the most enjoyable evenings of the season.

Hemmingford Red Cross Campaign Outstanding Success

The annual Red Cross Campaign, which opened in Hemmingford on April 2nd, wound up this week-end. This year's objective was $700 for this district. The Campaign Manager, Miss Ernestine Fournier, is delighted to be able to announce that this has been exceeded by almost 50%. The figure to date on Sunday evening is $1,009.30 with still another small sum to come in. Miss Fournier spoke highly of the excellent co-operation she had received from all who were approached to canvass the various roads both in the village and the surrounding countryside and the public gave generously. A list of the amounts brought in, together with the canvassers, follows: Mr. V. Ellerton $30.50; Mesdames Dey and Wilson, $26.05; Mrs. Roland Laplante, $27.; Miss MacCuaig, $33.; Mr. Donald Prevost, $12.; Mrs. Fred Greer, $19.; Miss Yvonne Stringer, $9.30; Mrs. Henri Barriere, $25.60; Mrs. Roger Prieur, $27.55; Mr. Joe Coupal, $47.75; Mr. John Emerson, $8.50; Mr. Lawrence Tobin, $8.75; Mrs. R. J. M. Reid, $38.70; Mr. Roman Lussier, $18.60; Miss Aurea Dauphinais $10.; Mr. Russell Pa[illegible] $36.50; Mrs. Hazel Kyle $1[illegible] Mr. F. Gobeille, $33.50; Mesdames R. Bourgon and E. Rorison, $23.; Miss K. Perras, $20.; Mr. Rene Poissant, $10.; Miss Mabel McAllister, $15.25; Mrs. Alfred Cookman, $40.35; Mr. Gilles Gagné, $26.75; Mr. Peter Reid, $25.; Mesdames R. and A. Lavallee, $36. From Havelock, Mrs. George McKee, $29.70; Mrs. Calvin Edgerton, $23.50. From Barrington, Mr. Norman McCrea, $21.. Collected by Miss Fournier, $60.50. A collection made at the door of St. Roman's Church on Sunday last yielded $51.50. Chamber of Commerce $25. Eastern Star, $10. The Ladies' of Ste. Anne, $5. Cercle de Fermieres, $5.; From the Catholic Schools, $17.55: The merchants of Hemmingford via Mr. J. Tourigny and Mr. Gaetan Fortin $145.

A splendid effort on the part of all concerned and the success of this campaign is in no small measure due to the excellent organization set up by Miss Fournier who in addition, not only canvassed herself, but supplied the transportation on several occasions for other canvassers. Hemmingford has, indeed, celebrated the 100th anniversary of the founding of the Red Cross in no uncertain manner.

Changes Being Made In Some Montreal Street Names

A number of streets in Montreal are being renamed or changed and among them is Clark Street. This will become Sewell Street in due course. This has a connection with Huntingdon and therefore is of interest to people here. The street nam committee said Sewell Street would commemorate Steven Sewell (1770-1832) one of Montreal's best known lawyers and a former MLA for Huntingdon and later Montreal East; attorney- general for lower Canada; one of the principal founders of the library of the Bar in 1828 and its first president.

Thus when we see this name of the street in the future, we shall know that it is connected with Huntingdon of the early years.

The Canadian Red Cross Blood Transfusion Service has estimated almost 300,000 patients received free transfusion therapy during 1962. Surgeons in hospitals of six Canadian provinces performed 916 open heart operations during the year. The heart-lung apparatus used during such operations required more than 20,000 bottles of whole blood.

Contribute to the blood bank at the next Red Cross Mobile Clinic, which is scheduled at

on MONDAY, MAY 13th
from 2.30 to 5.30 P.M.
and from 7.00 to 9.30 P.M.

The Red Cross blood bank needs 4500 bottles of blood weekly to supply the 187 hospitals affiliated to its free Blood Transfusion Service. Do your share when the Mobile Unit visits us — the life you will save might be your own...

Not Good Brewers Of Tea

A reader of The Gleaner, who likes a good cup of tea feels that the deeper one penetrates into the United States, the less likelihood is there of getting good tea there. The following is the view taken by this reader.

If anyone asked me what seemed to me to be the chief distinctive basic difference between Canadians and Americans of the United States, I would say — tea.

Once you are fifty miles of the Canadian Border, it becomes impossible to get a pot of tea. What you get is a pot of hot water — or what may have been hot when it left the kitchen; a cup and saucer and on the side of the saucer lies a little tea bag. You are supposed to pour the tepid water on the tea bag in the cup. What you get is as much like tea, as swamp water is like spring water. It is nauseating. If you complain, the waitress assures you that the water was boiled.

From childhood, in school, the Americans are taught about the Boston Tea Party and how the patriots threw all King George's tea into the Boston Harbour. The true American is therefore suspicious of tea and maybe a little suspicious of those who ask for it.

Estimate 2,000 Children Killed By Accidents

More than 2,000 children under ago 15 die in Canada each year from accidents and around half a million are injured, the National Safety League of Canada estimates. Most of those accidents occur around the home, and most of the more needless, according to NSL's general manager Gay McLaren.

"This," said Mr. McLaren, "is why we join enthusiastically in the promotion of Child Safety Day, Sunday May 5. It is a one-day campaign to make Canadians aware of the growing danger to their kiddies and to do something about it throughout the year."

The League blamed adult carelessness for most of the accidents to children. "Most of them could have been avoided," Mr. McLaren stated. Accidents are Canada's greatest killers of children, he added. "Safety isn't something inherent nor does it just happen. We have to work at it, and many young Canadian lives can be saved if we do."

Adult example is the best teacher of safety for children, NSL claims. Bad example can distort a child's thinking and acting and could lead to his suffering or death. Good example might well permit the child to live to the 65 years he can expect from today's outstanding aids to his health and well-being.

CANADIAN PRESS NEWS SPOTLIGHT

Fidel Castro was the first man to raise the banner of Communism triumphantly in the Western Hemisphere and at week's end citizens in Moscow were preparing to greet him ecstatically.

The bearded leader arrived secretly at the Soviet Arctic port of Murmansk Friday — unannounced to the world — but apparently his arrival was no secret to the local populace. Castro commented it appeared the entire city population had turned out to greet him.

The Castro revolution has been genuinely popular in Russia and he was afforded an ear-splitting welcome on his first trip to the Soviet Union.

Diplomatic sources regarded it as certain that his visit would not be allowed to go by without some spectacular display of unity between the two nations.

There have been reports that Castro was irked by Premier Khrushchev's abrupt agreement with President Kennedy's demand that he withdraw Soviet rockets from Cuba. The reports said Castro felt he should have been consulted.

His visit should provide a good opportunity to pacify his alleged ire.

Before he left Havana, the Cuban leader demonstrated that he was not happy with the number of persons entering agriculture — on which the Caribbean island depends for its livelihood.

In an unscheduled visit to Havana University he announced : "There is not a devil left who wants to milk a cow. Gentlemen no one shows up here to study agriculture when we are a country that lives off agriculture."

In less belligerent vein he said of the United States : "We must not close the doors on them."

He had been asked if President Kennedy's curbs on Cuban exiles could bring about a lessening of U.S. - Cuban tensions.

"One must always be distrustful but never waste an occasion to lessen tensions," he replied.

Support Neutrality

Both Khrushchev and Kennedy reiterated their support of a neutral and peaceful Laos.

Under Secretary of State Averell Harriman, sent to Moscow by Kennedy, was hopeful Saturday that his talks with Khrushchev will lead to improvement in the situation in the Southeast Asian kingdom. But while the Communists charged the Laotian trouble was instigated by the United States, Kennedy made it clear that the United States blamed pro-Communist Pathet Lao troops for reopening the fighting after an uneasy truce.

In a move interpreted as a show of strength, the United States announced it is sending two battle groups to Thailand a neighbor of Laos.

Despite the Soviet and United States accord, Laotian Premier Souvanna Phouma failed at week's end to reach agreement with the Pathet Lao.

Following his talk with Khrushchev Harriman was asked about rumors the Soviet leader might step down as chief of state or head of the Communist party.

Harriman said : "He impressed me as being vigorous and strong as captain of the ship of state."

Businessmen Meet

The world's business leaders concluded a week-long congress with a ringing declaration that "International cooperation is today a condition of national prosperity."

In a manifesto adopted at the closing session in Mexico City of the 19th annual congress of the International Chamber of Commerce, they said there is "everywhere" growing awareness that no nation or group of nations can go alone economically.

The manifesto said : "It would be regrettable if economic regionalism became economic nationalism on a larger scale."

It was reported unofficially that France's delegation to the 48-nation congress was unhappy with the tone of the declaration.

Throughout the congress, theme of which was "Economic growth through world interdependence," French delegates defended the European Common Market against any and all attacks.

Meets Herter

Trad ewas also the main topic of discussion between Prime Minister Pearson and United States Ambassador Christian A. Herter in talks at Ottawa.

Mr. Herter, President Kennedy's special representative for trade negotiations, said he hopes Canada and the United States can get together on finding ways to expand international trade in the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade negotiations next year.

Mr. Pearson said Canada was certainly in accord with progress being made on removing trade barriers.

Besides the GATT ministerial conference they discussed the London meeting this month of the Commonwealth Economic Consultive Committee.

Liberals in Again

While the new Liberal federal government was taking over in Ottawa, New Brunswick was voting to return the provincial Liberal government of Premier Louis Robichaud.

Mr. Robichaud won personal election in Kent and his party took 31 of the 52 seats in the Legislature. Progressive Conservatives had 21 seats to leave the standings unchanged.

Mr. Robichaud said the next session of the Legislature would start this month and the same budget that was presented at the last session would be tabled again.

Battle of The Atlantic Sunday

With head bowed a sentry at the National War Memorial in Ottawa symbolizes the observance of Battle of the Atlantic Sunday, May 5. Special services will be held on board RCN ships at sea, and across Canada serving and former naval personel will join in honoring those who gave their lives in the war at sea. Battle of the Atlantic Sunday will mark the beginning of Navy Week, sponsored annually by the Navy League of Canada.

The Beef Cattle Enterprise in Quebec

There are three different aspects of a strictly beef operation:

1) Cow — calf proposition — Purebred cattle;
2) Feeder production;
3) Steer production.

1 — In an economical and efficient purebred beef breeding herd that will provide enough annual revenue to support a family, a minimum of 40 cows is required. These must be healthy and produce a calf a year. The calves (male and female) will be sold as breeding stock, generally at 6 to 18 months. Prices range very widely and depend on the quality and pedigree of the animal in question. This type of enterprise calls for cattlemen interested in making constant selection to improve the breed of cattle with which they are working.

2 — Feeder production means the rearing of animals for sale at 6 to 15 months of age to cattlemen for fattening. Such an enterprise requires a herd of at least 50-60 cows. These cows may be grade animals or commercial purebreds. However, they should always be mated to a purebred bull. Prices for feeders follow the slaughter-cattle prices. The demand is usually greatest in early spring and early fall. Here in Quebec, in order to gradually accustom farmers to beef cattle, we urge owners of grade dairy herds who ship their milk for manufacturing purposes, to breed at least half their cows to a beef bull. Now that beef bulls are in service at the St-Hyacinthe A. I. unit, cross breeding has become an invaluable tool in the hands of the cattle producers of the Province. The calves resulting from this cross are larger, grow faster and command a higher market price than a straight dairy calf. The male cross-bred calves may be castrated and sold as feeders, while the females may be kept for the eventual development of a beef herd after 5 or 6 generations.

3 — Steer production involves a feedlot operation, with all cattle (feeders) being bought. In order to be economically advisable, at least 200-300 head would have to be marketed a year under these conditions. The feeders are usually purchased when weighing 700-750 and marketed at 1000-1150 lbs. It is in this weight-range that well-finished cattle command top prices on the market and grade Choice and Good (Red and Blue brand beef). In Quebec there is a tremendous shortage of beef of this quality, amounting to about 250,000 head a year; this is part of a current deficit equivalent to about 575,000 head of all kinds of beef in Quebec. It is estimated that, in another 10 years, beef consumption in the Province of Quebec will equal 10 times the quantity of beef produced in Quebec in 1961. It must be understood that steer production is not confined to the large enterprise. Many purebred males unsuitable for reproduction, as well as young crossbred males, may be castrated and marketed as finished steers on any farm.

The market price for steers is usually favorable in late spring and early winter. Steers require 700-800 lbs of grain for every 100 lbs of gain. When on full feed, they will consume 16-18 lbs of grain per day and should gain between 2 and 2.5 lbs per day. Depending on market conditions, profit per steer may vary between $20 to $40. This information is supplied by Mr. Hugh Peckham of the Quebec Department of Agriculture and Colonization.

NICKEL IN ELECTRONICS

In the field of electronics, nickel forms the base of cathodes in practically all small and moderate size radio and television tubes, and is used in the deep sea portion of the Trans-Atlantic telephone cable.

A recently developed, four cylinder, nickel stainless steel engine supplies 175 horsepower although it weighs only 175 pounds. It is being tested in sports cars and boats.

LIGHTWEIGHT POWER SATELLITE CONTROLS

Satellites are controlled by computers and guidance devices which often have electrical printed circuits plated with rhodium — one of the platinum metals — which provides a hard, tarnish-free surface.

TRAVELING-WAVE TUBE

The Telstar communications satellite's one-foot-long traveling-wave tube, which amplifies incoming signals 10,000 times, contains an oxide-coated nickel cathode. When heated to moderate temperature, this cathode makes possible the emission of large quantities of electrons for long periods of time.

"Problem" Water Can Be Treated Effectively

You're a fortunate rural homeowner if you have a plentiful supply of soft, iron and sulphur-free water. Many a Canadian family with their own water supplies — or even on municipal systems — have long tolerated "problem" water, says George Freeman of the Culligan Water Institute.

He points out that most Canadians live in areas where the water contains either excessive hardness or heavy deposits of iron or sulphur.

Little need to point out to housewives the damage these impurities cause. Iron tainted water leaves rough red stains in porcelain sinks and bowls, on laundry and dishes. Hydrogen sulphide gives water a disagreeable rotten-egg taste. Hardness caused by calcium and magnesium, clogs up plumbing, water heaters, steam irons and kettles with scale.

Today, Mr. Freeman states, no family need suffer from these problems. Modern, space-saving water conditioning equipment is availabl to treat and remove impurities and hardness found in water supplies.

Here are the most common questions concerning water problems asked by homeowners.

Why change tap-water?

Authorities approve water supplies with less than certain limits of dangerous impurities and bacteria. Impurities, says Mr. Freeman, that won't make you ill can still annoy you. Most municipal systems treat water to make it safe for drinking purposes, but do not usually remove hardness or other nuisance impurities.

When is softening worthwhile?

If your water supply measures ten grains of hardness per gallon, it is really hard.

That's as if two aspirin tablets of dissolved hardness minerals were dropped into each gallon of water, points out Mr. Freeman. However homeowners with even as little as three grains of hardness would find softening worthwhile, he states. Water from a private well besides being hard can have sulphur, iron or organic impurities.

What so bad about hard water?

Hard water plays havoc with normal housekeeping operations. Some samples: bathtub ring; dull film on silverware, glasses, dishes; dingy washes from soap residue, poor sudsing. Hardness elements cause waste when mixed with soap. Instead of sudsing, culds are formed.

How does a softener work?

These units remove hardness by running water through a tank containing ion exchange resin — a substance which removes calcium and magnesium. The water is then returned to the home system ready for use. Periodically depending on how much water is used, the resin must be recharged by rinsing with common salt, says Mr. Freeman. Systems are available which also remove iron, sulphur, or turbidity.

Will softened water save money?

Soft water should save money for any family in a hard-water area. Mr. Freeman cites an experiment which produced the following results: to wash one washing-machine load of clothes in water onegrain hard cost four cents worth of soap; in water 10 grains hard, the cost was seven cents; Thirty-grain water cost 13 cents.

Every modern farm operator is faced with an unseen enemy which is causing him incalculable hours of extra work and expense.

It's an enemy which makes dairy processing more difficult; hampers pesticide control; impedes spray residue removal; and adds problems to livestock care.

The enemy? Hard water.

George Freeman of the Culligan Water Inst. states that a good water supply is one of the most critical factors in running a successful farm.

"Hard, untreated water can multiply by many times the care an operator must take in maintaining cleansing and sanitizing standards," he says.

On a dairy farm, for example, hard water makes every cleaning chore more difficult. It can produce scale, spots and film in utensils, milking machines, milk cans, pipelines and tanks.

Perhaps the most familiar problem caused by hard water use in dairy operations is "milkstone". This occurs when milk solids and proteins mix with mineral deposits found in hard water.

Undesirable taste and odor in the milk can also occur because hard water minerals hold and protect bacteria.

With soft water, Mr. Freeman points out, dairy cleanliness and sanitation efforts can be simplified.

Soft water prevents limestone scale, formation of milkstone and the formation of hard water soap curd. In soft water, dairy cleaning compound go directly to work removing milk soil. There is no need, says Mr. Freeman, to use additional compound to fight water hardness.

Hard water also interferes with other farming operations. Disinfectants, fungicides, insecticides and weed killers will not dissolve completely when diluted in hard water resulting in uneven applications and clogging of spray equipment.

On the other hand, hard water also interferes with the removal of spray coatings from fruits and vegetables. Soft water, says Mr. Freeman, requires less washing solution and fruits and vegetables retain their fresh, natural appearance.

Hard water also causes problems in washing, grooming and disinfecting livestock. Mineral deposits prevent proper cleansing and disinfection.

Soft water leaves the coats of show animals softer, cleaner and more lustrous just as it does human hair, says Mr. Freeman.

Today's modern water softening equipment is compact, easily installed and requires minimum attention The water conditioner removes calcium and magnesium by running water through a tank containing ion exchange material. After the hardness is removed, the water is returned to the system ready for use.

Periodically, depending on how much water is used the resin must be recharged by rinsing with common salt.

Water softening equipment will provide a standard hardness-free water for faster and better cleaning in the milk house, dairy barn and farm house; prevent scale in water heaters and water cooling systems.

Soft water, states Mr. Freeman, will pay for itself in savings and soaps, detergents, cleaning compounds, longer life of fabrics and equipment, fuel savings in water heating and through less labor and effort for farmer and farm homemaker.

Chance For Fishermen To Fish And Win Numerous Awards

Amateurs of perch fishing in the Vaudreuil and Valleyfield area will shortly have the opportunity to win a wonderful trophy while enjoying their favorite sport.

Eudore Pilon of Gaspard Crepin Ltée and Jacques Lamarre, Dow distributors for the Valleyfield and Vaudreuil district, announced that a thousand perch specimens have been labelled and will be thrown in the rivers and lakes of the area during the current week. Each fisherman lucky enough to catch one of these marked specimens will be awared a Dow trophy.

According to Mr. Pilon, the operation of releasing the perch in the Laprairie Basin, Lake St. Louis, Lake St. Francois, Lake of two Mountains, Ottawa River will take at least three days to complete.

The Dow premium-fish competition is open to anyone. It will last throughout the year as there is no particular season for perch. Only rules in effect are those of the Department of Tourism, Fish and Game.

"We decided to use perch for this competition", said Mr. Eudore Pilon, "because of its popularity in the area and because it can be caught by children as well as adults".

The Dow Brewery distributors also pointed out that trophies will be awarded regardless of the place where the marked perch is caught.

According to water-bailift, Maurice Vébert, perch has a "wandering nature" and fishermen of neighboring districts have just as much a chance in this interesting competition as their confreres in Vaudreuil and Valleyfield.

Thus while enjoying their favorite pastime, sportsmen have now a good chance to complete their haul with one of the thousand attractive Dow trophies at stake.

Federation of Fish and Game Makes Recommendations

MONTREAL — Early in January, when the Quebec Federation of Fish and Game Associations was made aware through the press and radio that some considerable organizational changes were to take place in the Department of Game and Fisheries, Federation hurriedly offered its collaboration to the provincial Government.

Federation was invited by the Government to present a brief which was soon done.

This brief, before being presented to the Government, was studied and prepared with care by our directors and we feel this coordinated the thinking of most of the fishermen and hunters in Quebec.

The purposes, in preparing this brief, were to obtain for the residents of Quebec an efficient administration of fish and game resources.

BRIEF: Presented to Honorable Jean Lesage Prime Minister of Quebec concerning the Organization of the department Responsible for the Administration of Fish and Game Resources of Quebec.

Federation Recommends:

1 — That the Deparment of Fish and Game remain as a Department and does not lose its identity.

2 — If is is deemed necessary the ary by the government to combine with another department, then Federation suggests that it be combined with the Department of Lands and Forests. The suggested name of combined department be the Department of Forests and Wildlife.

3 — That the Provincial Parks remain under the jurisdiction of the Department of Fish and Game or the new combined Department.

4 — That commercial fishing in fresh water lakes and for salmon in Coastal water remain under the jurisdictions of the Department of Fish and Game or the new combined Department.

5 — That Fish protection be directed by the Department of Fish and Game or the new combined Department.

6 — That management of all functions of the Department, except research, be decentralized to the Forest District level and all policy matters emanate from the Quebec office to the district managers.

7 — That a non-governmental advisory council of 4-6 members be appointed. This body to meet with the Minister whenever he believes it to be necessary and at least once a year. Its function to be purely advisory.

Federation is opposed to:

The combining of the Department of Fish and Game and Tourism under one Minister.

HOME AND SCHOOL MEETING NEXT WEDNESDAY

Mr. J. R. McGrath, Associate Director of the Montreal trade school, will speak to the Home and School on Wednesday, May 8th, at 8 o'clock in the cafeteria of Huntingdon High School. His subject is "Technical Education in the Province of Quebec."

It is not generally known that both technical and trade school educations are available free of charge to pupils of Quebec province. At the last regular meeting of the Home and School, Mr. L. Sontra of the Montreal Institute of Technology, outlined to parents and pupils the opportunities offered to pupils by technical schools. Mr. Mc Grath's talk will be concerned primarily with trade schools, a subject of interest particularly to boys who leave school in Grades 7 to 10.

The Montreal Trades School offers courses in electricity, machine shop practice, carpentry, cabinet making and sheet metal work. The minimum entrance requirement is Grade 7.

Many boys to-day leave school before completing Grade XI, because they are not gifted academically. Such boys and their parents would do well to explore the educational opportunities that exist in the province, particularly trade schools where a highly marketable skill can be learned.

Parents and pupils are invited to attend. Lunch will be served as usual.

Been Swimming Yet? — These Fellows Have

Gerry McCartney, Keith Frost and Dave Taylor, three Ormstown youths who are looking forward to swimming and water-skiing this summer, are doubtless the first trio to swim in Lake St. Francis in '63. The lads were at the summer home of Gerry's father, Mr. Bert McCartney at Ste. Barbe on Sunday, for the purpose of putting one of the family boats in the water. After this was accomplished, they stood around on the wharf and the conversation went something like this:

"Gee, that sun is sure warm". (Keith).

"Yeah, just like summer." (Dave).

"Plenty of swim suits in the camp, last one in's chicken." (Gerry).

That's what happened at Ste. Barbe on Sunday. The lads dried off by lying on the deck of the boat in the warm sunshine. "My feet were so numb I couldn't tell where the bottom was when I stood up," Gerry told The Gleaner on Sunday. None caught pneumonia but no doubt Wednesday's snowflurries will dampen plans for another dip this Sunday.

Congratulations (?) fellows.

The Driver's Condition

All accidents are not caused by mechanical defects. On the contrary, "Prudentia" stresses that 90 per cent of traffic accidents are the result of a physical or psychic failure of the driver. For instance, an ordinary headache or toothache may be the cause of an unskilful movement at the wheel or of an untimely acceleration of the speed. One second is enough to provoke a catastrophe. Along that line, persons inclined to cramps, for example, willingly should renounce to drive. This kind of gasping pains brings on involuntary dangerous movements inciting the driver to let go the wheel all of a sudden.

Sound Hunting — A New Kind of Hobby

Did you know that the sound of an ant eating is like that of a man hurriedly munching his breakfast toast? This is just one of thousands of intriguing sounds being produced by the international fraternity of sound-hunters.

Armed with tape recorders instead of cameras, these enthusiasts are the equivalent of amateur photographers in the world of sound. As photographers were liberated from their bulky equipment by the miniature camera, so the arrival of the transistor has held to compact battery-powered recorders. Small enough to be slipped into an overcoat pocket, they enable amateurs to make instant snapshots in sound.

Strange and offbeat sounds lure sound-hunters. One amateur includes in his tape library beatniks singing and a flea trainer talking about his three star performers.

Another amateur came away from a trombone-players' congress in Basel, Switzerland, with a recording of 1,200 massed trombones. One of the most exceptional recordings ever made traced the sound of life inside an egg before hatching, says Reardee's Digest in an article.

The hobby need not concentrate on the exotic. Tapes of children's laughter, bedtime conversation, and birthdays are more exciting to distant grandparents than letters or photographs.

For the enthusiast, however, it is the unexpected event which is most rewarding. A Belgian sound-hunter caught on tape a tragic moment in the history of Paris. While recording celebrations in the Place de la Concorde on New Year's Eve, 1962, his microphone picked up four shattering explosions — plastic bombs detonated by the terrorist OAS.

Peat For Fuel

Mr. Siegfroy Cuierrier of Ste. Barbe is sold on the idea of using peat fuel. There are literally thousands of acres around Ste. Barbe on which the peat is found. Using a spade he digs up the peat in lumps. It is quite damp and soggy but when it is placed on racks it dries into good fuel material. It takes about a week to dry out. The peat varies in depth from 2-3 feet. The upper layer is sort of brown in colour while the lower layer is black. The lower black layer burns best.

Spelling Contest

Twenty-four boys and girls from grade 7 took part in the Spelling Contest sponsored by the Women's Institute and held in the Huntingdon Academy on Friday evening. Cash prizes were awarded the winners, viz: first, Roberta McDermid; second, Isabel Elliott; third, May Shackleton.

Improvements for Fair Grounds

The directors of the Huntingdon Agricultural Society at a meeting on Wednesday decided to make an effort to secure the services of a caretaker for the grounds for the summer months. The repair work is to start with a "bee" after seeding time. The old "Merry-go-round" has become so dilapidated and hazardous to operate, it was decided the whole thing should be scrapped and have the building repaired and utilized as deemed suitable and advisable.

Softball League

The Southwestern Quebec Softball League which suspended its activities two years ago when a decline in interest in softball seemed to predominate, will operate again this year with teams from Huntingdon, Ormstown and Valleyfield taking part. Games will be played twice weekly in the evenings.

Land Purchase

The officials of Ormstown Exibition have purchased about 4 more acres of land adjoining the exibition grounds. This extra territory will enable the officials to re-arrange their plans for additional stabling required. It will also provide for a new entrance to the grounds which it is felt is badly needed.

RUST RESISTANCE

The resistance of nickel to corrosion in the atmosphere and in many corrosive media was established early in the history of the nickel industry and was responsible for the first large use of nickel — in electroplating.

ROCKET POWER

Rocket motors of the hydrogen peroxide liquid fuel type use catalyst packs of nickel wire gauze. The nickel wire is plated with silver which breaks down the hydrogen peroxide by catalytic action and produces superheated steam and free oxygen.

SEMAINE DE LA

CROISADE EUCHARISTIQUE

La Croisade Eucharistique est toujours bien vivante à l'école Notre-Dame et intéresse les jeunes de la 2e à la 6e année. C'est avec un bel enthousiasme qu'elles célèbrent la Semaine de la Croisade soit du 21 au 26 avril. Elle a débuté dimanche par la vente des papillons (tags) à la porte de l'Eglise. Les paroissiens ont su encourager les petites mains tendues. Lundi le 22, séance à la grande salle sous la présidence de Mgr. J. A. David. Les élèves de la 5e et de la 6e année ont présenté 2 choeurs parlés d'ont l'un de nous faisait voir un interview dans les jardins du Vatican; et l'autre nous montrait les débuts du Concile. Les élèves étant placées un peu comme le sont nos évêque à St-Pierre-de-Rome, nous nous croyions au Vatican. Le thème : "Vivons notre concile la main dans la main", faisait retentir les murs de l'école et nous émouvait.

Vive ce beau mouvement ! Puisse-t-il garder nos jeunes dans une atmosphère de beauté printannière et les faire grandir dans une Eglise, qui grâce aux discussions du Concile, va rajeunir tous ses enfants.

Edmour McSween remporte le tournoi régional Dow

Edmour McSween, un quilleur de Valleyfield, a remporté les honneurs du tournoi éliminatoire régional Dow, samedi dernier, le 20 avril, à la salle Venise à Valleyfield.

Ce tournoi a déterminé les trois représentants de notre région qui auront le privilège de participer au grand tournoi organisé par la Société Radio-Canada au début de l'automne prochain pour choisir les 34 participants au programme de télévision : "L'Heure des Quilles".

Le gagnant de l'élimination de samedi dernier a maintenu une moyenne de 163.2 en abattant un grand total de 1,469 quilles au cours des neuf parties réglementaires. M. McSween s'est ainsi mérité le fameux trophée "DOW" emblème du championnat de notre district.

Les deux autres quilleurs de notre région qui auront le privilège de s'enregistrer au tournoi qui se déroulera à la salle Leader à Montréal, sont : André Gendron, de Beauharnois, qui s'est classé deuxième avec une moyenne de 162.3, soit 1,461 quilles, et Richard Latour de Valleyfield, 1,430 quilles pour terminer au troisième rang avec une moyenne de 158.8.

Les autres quilleurs qui se sont classés dans le "gros dix" sont : Lucien Mallette, 1,381, venant de Beauharnois, Rosaire Brassard, 1,404, venant de St-Constant, de Valleyfield, Gaëtan Mainville, 1,379, Jean-Guy Aubé, 1,376, Maurice Frégeau, 1,373, Lionel Moyen, 1,356, L. Corsi, de Chateauguay, avec 1,353.

80 quilleurs de la région ont participé à l'élimination. Les gérants et propriétaires de salles de Bowling du territoire, ont rehaussé ce tournoi par leur présence. La Brasserie Dow était représentée par MM. Pilon Gérant, Tod Campeau, gérant des Promotions sportives, et Gilles Leduc, préposé à la section Bowling.

A l'issu du tournoi, il y eut une réception pour les joueurs et organisateurs, et on profita de cette occasion pour remettre les prix aux différents gagnants.

Nos frères, les prisonniers et les malades mentaux

Par:Louis Beaupré, m.s.s., directeur, Service Social de

Sous la plume des plus éminents journalistes on trouve parfois des mots difficiles à comprendre, des opinions pas facile à digérer. Voici un extrait d'un éditorial, paru dans une revue importante au mois de mars: "Il en va des prisons comme des hôpitaux psychiâtriques. Les gouvernements, faute d'argent, se résignent à leur pourrissement. Ce qui s'explique si l'on songe aux besoins de l'éducation, du réaménagement économises dont les vivants, les vrais que amorcé et des mille choont besoin." Ca sonne faux. Tout d'abord, l'éditorialiste met dans le même sac les malades et les criminels, et puis, il sous-entend que les exigences ordinaires de la société doivent passer avant eux. C'est ce qui est, d'accord, mais est-ce vraiment ce qui devrait être. D'ailleurs, l'éditorialiste ne fait qu'émettre des opinions entendues communement dans nombre de miliepx et non des moindres. C'est une approche facile qui ne règle rien et qui finit par drainer des sommes fantastiques parce que le moindre des malades psychiâtriques et de criminels non guéris ou non réhabilités s'accumule sans cesse.

L'éditorialiste parle des "vivants" et des "vrais" comme si les malades et les prisonniers n'étaient pas eux aussi des citoyens vivants et vrais. Je comprends mal, surtout quand on parle ainsi des malades. Une personne sur dix souffrira à un moment de sa vie de maladie psychiâtrique et il parait que la proportion continuera d'augmenter à cause de la vie trépidante, anxieuse de nos contemporains. Faut-il se résigner au "pourrissement" dans nos hôpitaux psychiâtriques devant l'ampleur de ce problème qui frappe les gens de toute les classes de la société: des pères et mères qui ont "trimé dur" pour bien préparer leurs enfants à la vie, des professionnels qui se sont usés à la corde pour mieux servir. Il me semble qu'eux aussi ont le droit de figurer sur la liste des vivants, des vrais.

Oui, le bien-être et la réhabilitation de tous ces gens qui pourrissent dans nos prisons et hôpitaux psychiâtriques coûteraient cher, mais il en coûterait encore moins cher à la longue (puisque la planification à long terme est à l'ordre du jour dans notre province) que l'abandon, l'oubli, le rejet actuels. Et puis la conscience chrétienne peut-elle accepter de voir tous ces pauvres car ils en sont, croupir dans pareilles conditions alors que l'approche évangélique est faite d'aménité, de générosité de charité à l'endroit de malades, de pécheurs ... Oh! peut-être ne vivons-nous plus dans une société chrétienne ? Et puis, il y a cette vieille mentalité capitaliste pas facile à déraciner qui veut que les dépenses pour le bien-être social constituent un luxe qui vient après tout le reste, un cadeau qu'on offre à des électeurs la veille du scrutin.

Heureusement que dans notre milieu, deux oeuvres de Caritas pensent de facon spéciale à ces gens oubliés. En effet le Service Social et le Centre Psysho Social n'hésite jamais à assister les malades psychiques, à secourir les brebis égarées. Grâce à la charité de la communauté, manifestée à l'occasion de la campagne de la Fédération, le personnel des agences fait comme le Divin Berger; il va à la rescous se de tous les malheureux quels qu'ils soient !

Dewittville

The April meeting of the Dewittville W.C.T.U. was held at home of Mrs. Irwin Todd, on Thursday, April 25 at 2 P.M.

Mrs. Beattie presided and opened the meeting with hymn 297. The Scripture, St Matt. 7: 24-29 was read by Mrs. Irwin Todd. Three readings dealing with the Theme, "Testing of your Faith." were read by Mrs Richie, Mrs. Martin and Mrs Wm. Todd respectively. The devotions closed with a prayer from the Tidings.

The Roll was called. The treasurer gave the annual financial report.

We were pleased to have Mrs. R.A. MacIntosh with us She recorded the letters, cards, visits and birthdays.

Mrs. Wm. Todd read her L.T.L. Report. The arrangements for the County Convention and luncheon were discussed in detail. Mrs. Ritchie has kindly offered her home for the occasion, date probably May 23rd. Our regular May meeting will be united with the Convention.

The clip sheet "Recreation and Alcohol" was studied Many worthy facts were noted. eg. Recreation, has come to be, in modern society, an individual and social problem. Many organizations outside the family environment and commercial agencies cater to the free time needs of young and old The automobile enables the leisured youth to find recreation miles from supervision of the home. Many studies show that (Quote) "Delinquency is largely the incidental result of deliberate attemps by young people to find recreational outlets for their normal needs and desires. "The problems of leisure time are aggravated by the wide-spread use of alcoholic beverages in modern society. Surveys and observations indicate that they are being used by adolescents to an extent which is the cause of alarm. The responsibility of adults is their example They must in their choice of recreation seek to give worth while guidance to the young. There are many ways of demonstrating that good wholesome recreation may be obtained without indulging in beverage alcohol John Dewey stated "Boys and girls should be instructed so that they can discriminate between the enjoyments that enrich and enlarge their lives and those that degrade and dissipate". There are three groups: the young the adult and the senior citizen who should be able to obtain happiness and satisfaction from leisure shared. Personal worth while pursuits are necessary for everyone. It is well for all of us to take note, early in life, that the time will come when we will not be so active and will need to be prepared to supply our own recreation. Psychologists have long been aware of the tremendous value of personal hobbies integrating personality and giving solidarity to character.

It is said that interest in a hobby early in life is an insurance for recreation later in life. Group activities and individual interests are both essential to encourage the worthly use leisure time."

The business part of the meeting closed with pledge and benediction.

Delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. Todd, assisted by Mrs. Ritchie and Mrs. Martin. Everyone enjoyed a social hour.

Semaine nationale des jeunes ruraux

Chers amis, du 5 au 12 mai prochain, ce sera la grande semaine nationale des jeunes ruraux et nous devons bien la préparer afin qu'elle puisse réaliser ses buts importants.

Depuis le mois de septembre, les jeunes faisant partie du mouvement de la Jeunesse Rurale Catholique, ont étudié le programme qui portait sur l'amour et la vie sentimentale. Un secteur touchant de très près la vie des jeunes et l'on constate que l'amour est mal compris et surtout mal vécu dans notre milieu.

La Semaine Nationale des Jeunes Ruraux veut crier partout: "Parlez-nous d'amour" mais du vrai. Ce thème est ressorti des problèmes constatés dans la vie sentimentale des jeunes ruraux. Dans nos familles, comment parlons-nous et échangeons-nous avec nos parents? Dans les endroits de loisirs, gars et filles saisissons-nous l'occasion de se connaitre et de dépasser l'aspect physique de l'amour. Dans les techniques de diffusion, est-ce que l'on choisit et juge ce qu'ils nous disent sur l'amour.

Alors la S.N.J.R. veut être une semaine de réveil sur notre situation, sur un de nos problèmes, sur la vie de telle ou telle autre paroisse Elle sera un point d'arrêt sur notre rôle de vrai chrétien à jouer partout.

Pour nous tous jeunes ruraux une grande occasion s'offre devant nous pour se faire connaitre dans la paroisse, dans la région, auprès des adultes, des organismes, des autorités.

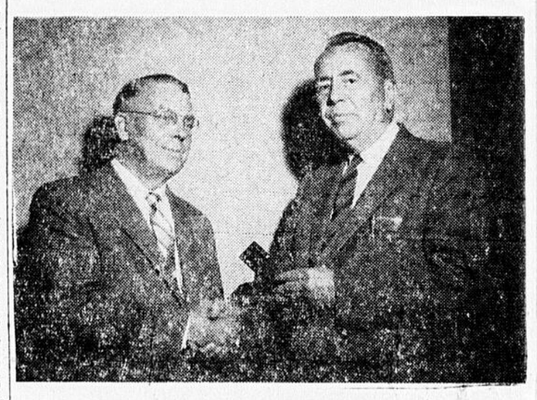

Une grande occasion de demander l'aide nécessaire pour une vie présente et future solide. Dans le diocèse, cette semaine se réalisera dans une vingtaine de paroisses. Elle débutera par une MESSE COMMUNAUTAIRE ou chacun participera d'une manière active aux intentions de tous les jeunes de la paroisse. RENCONTRE DE JEUNES est prévu pour rechercher ensemble quelques solutions face aux problèmes découverts au cours de l'année. RENCONTRE D'ADULTES ou les autorités paroissiales doivent être au courant de la situation actuelle des jeunes qui ont besoin d'aide pour en arriver à des lignes d'action. SOIREE PAROISSIALE qui est pour tous, jeunes et adultes, qui auront le plaisir d'assister à une soirée bien organisée par des talents de chez nous.

Toi, jeune de 16 à 25 ans, qui lit ces lignes, tu dois te faire un devoir de collaborer avec les jeunes de ta paroisse afin que la Semaine Nationale des Jeunes Ruraux soit un succès.

Bonne chance à tous.

Raymond Lemieux,
Président diocésain de la J.R.C.

L'ECOLE DOIT S'ELEVER ET S'INSTRUIRE

L'unité et la formation

Par FLORIAN TARDIF, principal à l'école Secondaire St-Joseph, d'Huntingdon

L'école la plus humble doit être une école de culture, former des hommes; elle doit transmettre au peuple le meilleur de la civilisation, le faire bénéficier du bien que les générations antérieures ont accumulé pour lui; elle doit élever autant qu'instruire. Mais ce double rôle de l'école est hiérarchisé parce que "les qualités du coeur sont encore plus nécessaires que celles de l'esprit." L'éducation vient en premier lieu, l'instruction ensuite.

L'éducation est-elle à la baisse?

De nos jours, (c'est le sentiment de plusieurs penseurs) il est remarqué chez les maitres une tendance à accorder à l'instruction la prépondérance sur l'éducation. Ils mettent une ardeur si grande à l'enseignement de leur programme, qu'il est à douter que la formation morale, la formation de la conscience et du sens social reçoivent une attention proportionnée à leur importance. Ceci est regrettable et constitue ce qu'on pourrait appeler le DANGER DE L'HEURE qui diminue l'importance de la formation générale de l'élève, celle du caractère et de l'âme, pour limiter son action à la culture de l'intelligence.

Un enseignement qui se borne au développement de l'intelligence et de la mémoire ne pénètre pas au fond du coeur, il ne s'inquiète pas des besoins de l'âme et n'est guèère plus que la mise en marche du mécanisme, il ne forme pas l'être entier, il ne formera pas non plus un chrétien, car le tyran Raison peut bien garroter le coeur et l'âme, mais laissé à ses propres forces, il ne saurait dompter les penchants de la nature animale." (Mgr Keppler).

Cause de cet état de chose:

Le maitre, dont le travail est contrôlé par les autorités scolaires, surtout en fonction des diplômes à obtenir chaque année, consacre une très grande activité à leur préparation.

Mû par un sentiment de légitime fierté il tient à soutenir l'honneur du corps auquel il appartient et dirige vers ce but ses plus nobles efforts. Autour de lui règne la même fièvre qui grossit encore l'importance du terme poursuivi; restreint par le temps, fort occupé à couvrir un programme chargé, acculé à une impossibiilité de nouer les deux bouts, le mairtre traverse au cours de l'année scolaire des phases angoissantes. Il se voit bientôt serré de près par le temps et forcé à sacrifier quelque chose; tout est important, et il ne faut rien risquer du succès aux examens. De là nait une forte tentation de substituer en faveur des études des moments dérobés à l'éducation.

Par malheur, les concours d'examens touchent de trop loin à l'éducation: pour cette raison, il se produit dans notre esprit un rabaissement, une diminution d'estime pour une formation aux résultats impondérables en pourcentage. Cette absence de contrôle officiel relègue au second rang, ce qui, de par son importance, se place au premier; peu à peu, il se fait dans l'esprit des maitres une lente transposition des valeurs réelles de l'objet de son labeur quotidien; l'idée de réussir aux examens devient obsédante, envahit tout l'être; à la faveur de l'intérêt personnel, l'importance de l'instruction devient prépondérante, et bientôt, cédant pas à pas le terrain sacré où il avait placé son idéal, le maitre délaisse le travail humble et lent de la formation morale, de la conscience et du coeur; alors il se préoccupe moins des âmes, s'inquiète moins de les baigner à la fontaine d'eau vive des enseignements évangéliques; il place ailleurs son succès ...

Et pourtant, n'est-ce pas un succès enviable que d'inculquer, par des leçons concrètes, le goût de ces vérités, de lui exposer les questions actuelles qui mûrissent ses idées, de développer sa personnalité par plus d'urbanisme, d'aplomb, de sens réfléchi? ...

C'est la menace d'empiètement d'une instruction solide sur une éducation sérieuse. Si l'on trouve de nos jours tant de déclassés instruits, ce fait n'est-il pas dû à ce que l'école ne leur a donné qu'une partie de la formation qu'ils auraient dû y recevoir?

Condition essentielle à la formation: L'Unité

Le maitre doit garder l'unité des facultés, leur hiérarchie, leur hygiène, leur épanouissement harmonieux. C'est en tirant parti de l'homme entier, de la variété de ses moyens qu'on apprend à diriger ses diverses puissances, les énergies latentes dont il est le dépositaire N'est-ce pas en examinant un mécanisme complet que nous comprenons mieux le rôle spécial joué par chacun de ses rouages, leur utilité, leur importance relatives? Ne pas connaitre l'ensemble, c'est n'avoir des détails qu'une connaissance imparfaite, imprécise. C'est pourquoi le maitre ne saurait fractionner la formation, prendre à charge la formation de l'intelligence pour laisser à d'autres, celle de la conscience; notre rôle est proprement de suppléer à l'impuissance morale des parents ou du maitre; c'est la raison pour laquelle ils nous confient la jeunesse.

Les maitres qui bornent leurs efforts à l'instruction ne voient pas l'objet entier, ils rétrécissent leur action; les jugements qu'ils portent sont étroits, ils n'embrassent pas le vaste champ humain, ils ne pénètrent pas la nature humaine jusque dans ses profondeurs. Le corps et l'âme réclament notre attentive sollicitude, le constant effort de notre direction éclairée, le dosage proportionné aux maux, à l'âge du patient, car les enfants sont des malades dont la santé trop faible réclame nos soins les plus dévoués.

CONCLUSION:

Les maitres ne sont pas seuls chargés de l'éducation des jeunes mais il ne sauraient se soustraire à ce devoir évident.

La mission de l'école ne se limite pas à l'instruction des élèves; elle est complète à condition qu'elle soit une préparation à la vie par l'éducation du caractère. Le maitre qui s'impose un programme quotidien pour l'avancement de ses élèves, doit, pour des raisons plus fortes encore, se tracer et suivre, pour l'avancement morale et physique de ses mêmes élèves, une semblable ligne de conduite. Cependant, que l'on diminue un peu, la pression faite sur lui, par l'interprétation des examens de fin d'année ...

Again The Call For Blood Donors

WHAT is today a very important part of our needs to living, is the giving of blood for blood banks. Many people used to die due to loss of blood and there being no replacement. Today this is not so much the case and in fact when people are to have operations and their blood is poor or low, blood transfusions are given ahead and then followed up after. Blood has also been typed so that doctors know what type of blood suits each person. This very thing was found of great benefit on the battlefield and many a wounded man has been saved due to blood transfusions.

Back many years ago, the practice of blood-letting as it was called, was followed and it was considered by this means that certain types of illness could be cured. In fact this operation brought the Barber Pole into being, as it was practised by certain barbers and the pole was a sign of the trade, so to spreak. However, it is feared that in those days, no one was too certain of the benefits of this practice, if any. There are many factors as we know today that could be the cause of serious re-action.

Many people were afraid when blood transfusions were first started that some terrible sickness would follow through giving a pint of blood. They were afraid this would never be made up again in their lifetime. However, all this is now in the past and more and more people are now cheerfully and willingly giving their blood and knowing that there is little effect upon themselves, but it may mean saving the life of some other person.

It is thus that once again the call is going out to the people of Huntingdon to offer their blood to the Red Cross for its blood bank. The Blood Donor Clinic as it is called will be held in Huntingdon on May 13th and it is hoped that as many as possible will offer their blood for this worth-while cause. This is truly a personal gift and one that only you can give. You cannot ask someone else to do it for you like giving an article, or cash, you must go yourself and make you very own contribution. You will be well taken care of and your contribution will be gratefully received.

This will be the fourteenth Blood Donor Clinic to be held in Huntingdon and we will give a run down of former clinics just to show how they have gone:

August 25th, 1950, 63 donors; April 24th, 1951, 291 donors; April 24th, 1952, 261 donors; April 21st, 1953, 268 donors; April 13th, 1954, 303 donors; April 12th, 1955, 270 donors; April 17th, 1956, 205 donors; March 19th, 1957, 266 donors; May 8th, 1958, 250 donors; June 8th, 1959, 199 donors; May 12th, 1960, 94 donors; May 5th, 1961, 118 donors; May 14th, 1962, 196 donors; May 13th, 1963 ? ? ? ? ?

It will be seen from the foregoing that 1954 had the record for number of donors. It steadily decreased until last year, 1962, when the figure rose to 196, but still 107 below the record. It would be nice this year if once again a record could be established. There is a greater than ever need for blood today because the use of transfusions in cases of accident or surgical operations is a regular part of the medical practice. No doubt many people will be called upon to volunteer to make a donation of blood to this forthcoming clinic and it is the hope of the committee in charge that there will be a generous response. Remember this is your very own personal contribution, no one else can give your blood.

These clinics are held under the auspices of the local Red Cross Branch and the Red Cross Society. All work is done on a volunteer basis and blood transfusions are free to those who may need them.

Huntingdon County Hospital Annual Report

LAST week the annual meeting of the Huntingdon County Hospital was held and the report was published in this newspaper. We believe we would be right in saying that the various reports given were very encouraging and that the deficit of $971.34 was nothing to worry too much about. However, it could have been larger except for the fact that many people kept up their annual contributions to the amount of $1995.51. This goes to show that while the Hospital is operating under the Q.H.I.S. it still needs help from our local and other interested citizens.

The hospital is serving a very worthwhile purpose and its services are much in demand and will be in demand. For a long time now it has been known that sooner or later something will have to be done to improve the facilities at the hospital. Much of what is there was placed there in the early beginning when there was less pressure on the hospital than today. As a consequence a large part of the hospital today is inadequate to give the service being demanded. While the new Clouston Memorial Wing is better fitted than the original part of the hospital, it still lacks certain accommodation that today is found necessary. Principally, however, the old part is where most of the trouble is. This is mainly used for Maternity cases, except for the ground floor and for the most part it is too small. It lacks proper facilities for this kind of hospital care and has no place for a waiting room. The rooms are of course not laid out in the most suitable manner as they were not originally built for a hospital.

It would therefore seem that an entirely new hospital is now required and one that will be laid out on truly modern lines to take care of both the present and the future.

Both the medical superintedent, Dr. F. G. McCrimmon and the matron, Mrs. Hawley stressed in their reports the need for something to be done along the lines of improvement of the hospital in the very near future. Premier Lesage when he visited Huntingdon during his election campaign was most interested in the matter and hinted that something might be done in the way of a new hospital. It would be necessary to choose a new site and then a new hospital could be built without disturbance to the present one. No doubt the present building could be used as a chronic hospital for those patients who are in need of such care. The present building would certainly not be abandoned for there would be a use for it, at least the newer portion of it.

With better facilities there is no doubt that even more economical operation would result. By this we do not mean that expenses would not be high, because they would, but time lost now in making do with what is at hand would be gained with a more modern layout. With the greater use to which the hospital is being put to that for which it was intended has brought about the necessity of more facilities and improvements. This is not all to do with the fact that Hospital Insurance is now operating, the need for improvement was seen and known before this came about. Some planning had been done in this direction in the fact of trying to work out a solution of using the present site. It was found that it would be impossible to use the present facilities for many reasons. This has been discussed with hospital authorities, who are more or less in agreement with the findings. The next move is for permission to be granted for a new hospital to be built and this is probably what will happen sometime in the future.

If and when that happens, no doubt the citizens will be called upon for some assistance and we feel sure that all will be willing to do whatever they can which will be for the betterment of all concerned. Meantime the help that so many have given to the hospital in the past and during the past year, needs to be continued for in this way the cost of operation can be kept to a minimum.

The New Prime Minister Wants To Get Things Done

THE Hon. Lester Pearson, the new Prime Minister of Canada, is moving about the tasks he has set himself very fast and it would seem that by the time he calls his first parliament into session, he will have plenty to report.

He is losing no time in meeting with heads of governments such as in the United Kingdom and the United States. Such meetings are imperative in the interests of our economic improvement apart from producing more friendly relations. In the matter of legislation it would appear that Mr. Pearson has also made arrangements for promises he made during the election campaign to be carried out. The matter of calling an early session of Parliament is one, and the matter of a change in Old Age Pensions is another. The early session as we know has already been set and the pensions matter has received attention also. This means much already got underway in a very short time. In most cases of Government business too much time is lost in discussion and figuring out the course to take. We must say that we feel that if Lester Pearson continues to show this trend to speed in getting things done, that he will soon win the hearts of the people who want these matters attended to without loss of time.

The new Prime Minister will have a new budget to bring down early in the session for much of what has to be done will depend upon the type of budget which can be introduced. Many important matters need attention and agriculture which was due for some new legislation by the past government will still need attention by the new government. With such speed at the outset, it is hoped that there will not be a slowing down later on. In this day and age the speed for getting things done counts much for the success or failure of what is being undertaken.

We believe that Prime Minister Pearson will do well to take an early peak into the matters of the Quebec Taxation Sharing. This may bring about some controversy with other Provinces and it may be that to end this bickering the Federal Government should return to all the Provinces the taxation rights which were taken over as a purely war time measure. This may call for some adjustment for new or added taxation in the Federal field, but the public would be glad to have an end to this controversial matter.

SUGAR and SPICE

By Bill Smiley

Animal life, wild, domestic and in-between, has been giving me a bad time of it lately.

First of all, a lady in B.C. wrote a letter giving me the devil for the way I dispose of kittens. She doesn't know quite how I did it, but she suspects they suffered. Lady I can assure you that I suffered far more than they did.

My daughter conned a classmate into taking the last pair of the last batch of kittens As soon as they were weaned, the little girl picked them up My wife and I sent her off with cookies, pats on the head, and our blessing. As soon as she was out the door, we did a triumphant fandango in the kitchen, and opened a bottle of bubbly.

Twenty minutes later, the kid was back. You guessed it. With the kittens. It seems she hadn't cleared things with the authorities at home. She did not get any cookies or pats on the head this trip. She was lucky to get away without a punch in the nose.

My correspondent in B.C. reproved me for not having our cat "neutered." We've been into that, thoroughly. It's a costly business, for one thing. These lady cats have to have a complete hysterectomy, like all modern women. After every batch of kittens, we discuss it, plan to have it done, get involved with getting rid of the kittens, and before we get around to putting Piper into hospital, that feline nymphomaniac is in trouble again.

However, the kittens are gone. I probably won't get to heaven, but I swore to two different people that the kitten they took was a male. Nobody seems to know the difference. We called Piper "him" until "he" got slightly pregnant for the first of many times.

Next we had trouble with the dog, Playboy. He's a backward spaniel, and no animal can be more retarded. He's comparatively friendly. That is, he's friendly all the time, more friendly when he's hungry, and most friendly when he's soaking wet.

You see, we had planted grass seed in a large, bare patch in the backyard. Gently, and with infinite care, we had turned the soil, weeded it, seeded it, scratched it, massaged it, patted it, and enriched it with chicken manure acquired by somewhat dubious means. It looked like a pie ready for the oven.

Our dog is not only too stupid to get out of the rain, he is too dumb to bury a bone, because he knows perfectly well he'd forget where he put it, so I had no fear of him disturbing the masterpiece. But he does like to chase things.

Next morning, my wife looked out at her newly-seeded lawn. She screamed, I ran to the window. The "pie" looked as though a troop of cavalry had bivouacked there for the night. Holding the old girl up by the armpits, I watched with horror. In a minute, two ruddy robins drifted in and started gobbling grass seed. Out of nowhere hurtled Playboy, making dirt and robins fly joyfully. He stood in the middle of the graveyard of our hopes, pawing the dirt like a bull and bellowing his triumph.

Then the black squirrels and the starlings go into a donnybrook over who was going to have the attic for the summer. The starlings had it last summer, and the day they left for the south, the squirrels moved in. The other day, a couple of starlings, tanned and arrogant, just like all those southern tourists, sailed insolently through the eaves, into their penthouse.

Talk about bats in the belfry. There was hell to pay. We all stood about in the bedrooms, looking at the ceiling, mouths open. I was cheering for both sides. I think the squirrels won, because one mean-looking starling limped out, cursing over his shoulder. He'll be back. With relatives.

Then came the hardest blow of all. Opening day of trout season loomed. My wife teaches piano to a little guy from the country. He's about six. He confided to her that he and his brother had been fishing. Speckled trout. Before the season. They saw lots of big ones.

Next day, I drove past his farm. Sure enough, there was a stream. Likely-looking. Last week, I was on hand, with a chocolate bar, a half dollar and my kindliest expression, when Danny arrived for his music lesson. He ate the bar, slipped the half in his pocket, and agreed to show me the Spot Where the Big Ones Are.

All week, I chortled and rubbed my hands, when nobody was looking. Opening day, I picked Danny up early, told his mother I'd look after him, and off we went. He told me, excitedly, that the Big Ones were just below the dam, in a deep hole. I did a few little dance steps as we swished through the wet grass. With the utmost hilarity, I envisioned my friends fishing those worn-out holes, with hundreds of others.

"There it is!" shrilled Danny. "That's where the Big Ones are!" And they were. All 728 suckers of them.

Provincial Capital Report

QUEBEC (CP) The shape of the future Quebec could be seen in announcements made in the Legislature last week as the session resumed after the Easter recess.

The end of the vaunted separation between education and politics was evident in the conclusions of the first volume of the Parent Royal Commission Report on Education.

Its main recommendations were that a cabinet-level Department of Education be created and that the 66-member Council of Public Instruction that now governs Quebec's public schools be turned into a 16-member "Higher Council of Education." It would advise the new department and provide a non-political forum for expression of public opinion.

"To put education in the very forefront of political pre-occupations is to give it the importance it deserves," The Royal Commission said. "Why should it seem dangerous or inconvenient to discuss education policy before the electorate and in the Legislative Assembly?"

Premier Lesage made it clear he could think of no valid reason. He said he intends to read the 121-page report without delay.

There was speculation the recommendations might be put into effect during this session, expected to extend into June, or possibly in another session next fall. Premier Lesage said "It is unlikely" legislation will be introduced this session.

Meanwhile, it was also announced that the Provincial Royal Commission on sources of revenue — in other words taxation, a prime topic in the house this week — will begin public hearings next fall.

Chairman Marcel Belanger, a Quebec City economist, said the Royal Commission has been ordered to study the sources of revenue of the Provincial and Municipal Governments as well as school commissions.

By defining Quebec's revenue requirements at these levels, the commission report probably will have impact on Federal-Provincial Fiscal relations.

The Royal Commission announcement came on the same day Resources Minister Rene Levesque termed the next 12 months — the time limit Quebec has given Ottawa to return certain taxation rights —a critical period for Confederation.

"If the limit of one year is a waste, there will be terrible disappointment here," Mr. Levesque said. "I think the last chance of Confederation will have been missed."

Quebec wants "An absolute minimum" 25 per cent of personal and corporation income taxes and all succession duties for Quebec. It now collects 16 percent of personal taxes, 10 per cent of corporation taxes and 50 per cent of succession duties.

Another announcement tied in with Mr. Levesque's successful one-man battle to form an integrated, publicly-owned power network in this province.

Premier Jean Lesage told the legislature that the "immense majority" of shareholders in seven private power companies have accepted the Government's offer. The average was 90.2 per cent in each firm.

Some companies already have notified employees that they will be working for Hydro-Quebec, the publicly-owned power giant, by May 1.

Three small private companies involved in the 600,000,000 take-over have been offered $881,000 by Hydro-Quebec with Government approval.

The take-over will double Hydro-Quebec's manpower to 10,000 employees and will give Quebec full ownership of one of the largest hydro-electric networks in the world.

Report From Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — An atmosphere of hustle and bustle pervaded the capital last week as a Liberal government took over in the second changeover only since 1935.

As the Liberals promised "first 60 days of decision" began ticking away, the new government announced the first steps in its attack on three major problems:

1—Relations between the two language groups.

2—Trade and the economy as a whole.

3—Nuclear armament and defence policy.

Prime Minister Pearson said, in a national CBC radio and television broadcast Tuesday night, that the paramount challenge will be "taking action to heal the strains and tensions within our country."

He said his government is determined to do everything possible to ensure that the partnership of English — and French-Canadians "will become richer and be truly equal."

To this end, the government launched plans for a comprehensive royal commission study of biculturalism. It was announced that the 10 provinces would be consulted within two weeks for their views on the terms of reference and the membership of the inquiry.

Mr. Pearson also announced that Maurice Lamontagne, the new president of the Privy Council (an honorary title) would have special responsibilities for developing closer federal-provincial relations and bilingualism in the federal civil service.

Plans Top Meetings

The prime minister announced a little more than 48 hours after he was sworn in that he will meet Prime Minister Macmillan in London and President Kennedy in Hyannis Port, Mass early in May.

Mr. Pearson will be in London May 1-2 and at President Kennedy's ancestral home on Cape Cod May 10-11.

Informants said the chief topics will be the lowering of trade barriers within the Atlantic alliance and the proposed NATO nuclear force.

The Pearson-Kennedy talks are also expected to touch on acquisition of U.S. nuclear warheads for Canadian armed forces and the ratification of the Columbia River power treaty, which has been pending for more than two years.

In another move, this one on the economic front, the government set up a cabinet committee to deal with unemployment, tariffs and trade and other economic issues.

Has Broad Scope

The committee will have far reaching scope in co-ordinating government economic policies and will have a permanent staff of researchers.

Observers saw the committee as the embryo of an "inner cabinet" that would make most of the broad policy decisions. The other ministers would have more time to concentrate on the administration of their respective departments and on Commons' debates.

With 25 ministers in the cabinet besides Mr. Pearson, the largest number on record, the need for a small inner cabinet was becoming more apparent.

Mr. Pearson is chairman of the new employment and economics committee. As with all cabinet committees, names of the other members were not announced.

However, key members are understood to be Finance Minister W. Gordon and also Trade Minister Mitchell Sharp, both Toronto businessmen with public service backgrounds; Labor Minister Allan J. MacEachen, and Mr. Lamontagne, both economists and former staff advisors to Mr. Pearson when he was opposition leader.

The new cabinet, with an average age of 52, includes 13 lawyers and four economists. Eleven were government officials in various capacities before going into politics.

Sought Balance

There are 10 from Ontario eight from Quebec and two from British Columbia. Each of the other provinces has one representative except Saskatchewan, which elected no Liberals April 8.

In religious balance, there are 14 Protestants and 12 Roman Catholics. There are 10 ministers of French origin, including seven from Quebec.

Five are holdovers from the previous liberal government defeated in 1957. They are Justice Minister Lionel Chevrier, External Affairs Minister Paul Martin, Defence Minister Paul Hellyer, State Secretary and government leader in the Commons J. W. Pickersgill, and Senate leader W. Ross Macdonald.

Health Minister Judy LaMarsh, 38, becomes the second woman minister in the federal government. Mrs. Ellen Fairclough, postmaster-general in the Diefenbaker cabinet, was defeated April 8.

Several veteran Liberal members of Parliament were chosen by Mr. Pearson. They are Fisheries Minister H. J. Robichaud, Transport Minister George Mellraith, Postmaster General Azellus Denis, Revenue Minister J. R. Garland and Mines Minister William Benidickson.

New Faces

New faces include Immigration Minister Guy Favreau, Veterans' Minister Roger Teillet and minister without portfolio, Rene Tremblay, who will be named agriculture minister for Eastern Canada when the necessary legislation is passed by Parliament.

The government also announced that a new department or industry will be set up with Defence Production Minister C. M. Drury at its head.

Mayor Harry Hays of Calgary, a cattle breeder, was named agriculture minister. The other cabinet members are Northern Affairs Minister Arthur Laing, Associate Defence Minister Lucien Cardin, Works Minister Jean-Paul Deschatelets, Forestry Minister Jack Nicholson and Solicitor-General J. Watson MacNaught.

Alan Macnaughton, bilingual Montreal lawyer, was nominated as Commons speaker and Lucien Lamoureux, M.P. Stormont and also a bilingual lawyer, was nominated as deputy speaker.

Hon Robert Taschereau, 66, justice of the Supreme Court of Canada since 1940, was named chief justice. He succeeds Chief Justice Patrick Kerwin, who died Feb. 2.

"FIRE"

Doctor Kaye Lamb, Dominion Archivist and National Librarian, recently told me that he was microfilming file copies of a number of weekly newspapers, including the Gleaner, in order to provide source material for writers in generations to come. He added that he had not acted fast enough in one instance: a fire had destroyed records stretching over 125 years.

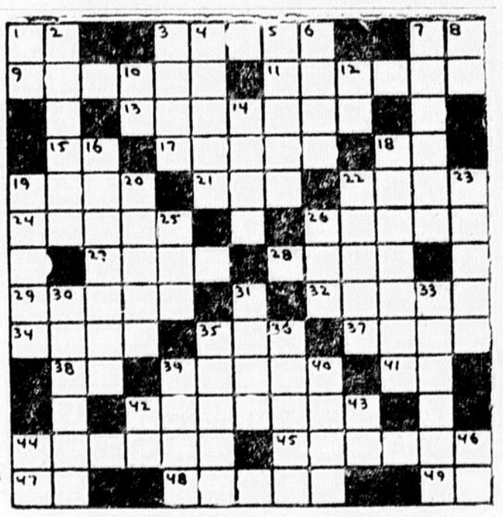

The Gleaner files used to be in good shape, but his remark about a fire made me think of Huntingdon ways when I was a small boy. One fire clearly recallable — probably because it was in daylight and at our end of the village — was the burning of Tom Cunningham's barn. That would be around 1905, give or take a couple of years.

The Pringles and the Lunans had milk routes, but many people still kept a cow — I can recall thirteen at our end of the village. Most of them were pastured on the Cluff farm, with a Millar boy (in turn, Raymond, George and Walter) bringing them home for milking. Tom Cunningham, a retired farmer, naturally had a horse and cow and owned the place now occupied by Gilbert MacMillan. He used the field behind his barn as a pasture, so bought the hay in the field stretching from his house to Lake street. It was poor stuff fit only for the cow) and put in the mow before properly cured. Smoke around the eves of the barn one summer evening gave notice of spontaneous combustion.

There was a fixed routine when we had a fire. It was, of course, taken for granted that the building would burn down, but the furniture, etc., might be carried out. Therefore, the first thing was to sound the alarm. If a fire started in the back village (as it generally did), the village was aroused by blowing the whistle on the roof of the condensed milk factory and, if a freight train happened to be around, the engineer also tooted his. Should the fire be in the area of the Catholic Church, its bell was rung. If elsewhere, dependence was on the Methodist Church bell — the one of the new St. Andrew's Church could not be heard around the corner. Johnny Hunter had bought sight unseen on the strength of an advertisement in a Sunday school paper; the price was right, but the bell was a dud. Not so the one on the high steeple of the Methodist Church (since burned down). It was high up and had a sharp metallic ring. The front door of the church was kept locked, but a wire ran down the brick wall from the bell to just above the reach of small boys.

The alarm having been given, the next thing was to alert the Powerhouse in order to have the pump connected directly to the water main. The old wooden tank was not high enough to do more than fill the fire hose and squirt the water a few feet in the air. This fire started at an

Ste. Agnes

Spring Clean-Up

STE-AGNES — With the coming of spring everyone is busy with outside clean-up chores; taking off double windows, digging in the soft brown soil, raking leaves and burning rubbish. How simple it is with the strike of a match to set fires here and there, with no thought of how fast those fires travel when unguarded, and with a brisk wind to fan them along dry stretches of long uncut weeds and grass.

On Wednesday afternoon someone across the American border started just such a fire, and with the strong southwest wind blowing at the time the flames were soon well on the Canadian side where they quickly spread over a large section of rough land south of Ste. Agnes.

The flames soon reached a small summer house belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Bill Daws, a Montreal family. Had it not been for the timely arrival of a local resident and his son the house would have quickly been destroyed.

The fire burned quite briskly all evening, buring itself out near a brook sometime during the night. This type of thing happens almost every spring and fall and always gives one the same uneasy feeling of having flames ready to leap and spread toward the village if there should be a sudden gust or change in wind direction.

His work keeps him very busy, but not too busy to stroke off, on a calendar nearby, the days left for overseas service. He expects to be home sometime in early September.

Life Long Resident Passes Away

George Alexander Whitford lifelong residents of this area died in the Barrie Memorial Hospital, on Saturday afternoon, April 20th.

Hemmingford

Hemmingford High School

HEMMINGFORD — After weary months of bad weather bad roads, many varieties of the arch-enemy, 'the Flu bug' plus the usual bouts of measles and mumps, the glad news brusting forth from the High School this week makes us realize that the school year is 'almost' over. Of course there are a few details which still need a little attention, such as 'Final exams' and so-on but these will be taken in our stride!! In the meantime there are several exciting things coming along right now, such as the Year Book (ready) the School Play, (this week) the Graduation Ball and Baccalaureate Service (very soon). The Service this year will be held in the Anglican Church and a very distinguished speaker will be present. More news next week. And for the gardeners the seeds have arrived and will shortly be distributed by the new Convener of Agriculture, Mrs. J. Robertson.

The Old Town Hall

A crowd of about seventy people gathered around the old Hemmingford Town Hall on Saturday afternoon, April 27th, when the building, together with the old Fire Station at the side, was offered for sale by Auctioneer Mr. Bill Hooker. The building, of red brick with field stone trim, was erecteed in 1867 It was eventually sold to Mr Gaetan Fortin for the sum of $61. As the building must be removed from the site by May 22nd, it is understood that demolition will commence almost immediately. The office of the Secretary of the Township will, in future, be in the new Town Hall. The contents of the building were not sold and the large grey stone set in the wall high over the front door, on which is inscribed the name of the hall and date of erection was not included in the sale.

The C.G.I.T. Entertain

On Saturday afternoon April 27th, the members of the C.G.I.T. held a 'Friendly Hour'. They invited to tea, at the United Church Hall, the senior citizens of the community. As each guest arrived Joanne Simpson presented and pinned on a dainty rose bud, then other members escorted the guests to the daintily-laid tea tables. Before serving tea the girls gave a short programme of songs and then they, and the guests, all joined in a singsong together, accompanied by Mr. Parker. Tea was then served to the thirty guests present (the cookies were made by the girls themselves), and a very pleasant hour was spent. The Leaders Mrs. Glen Clark, Miss Anne Northup, Mrs. R. Lee and the girls would have been pleased to see more present and hope that next year, as this first party was so well enjoyed, a far greater number will accept their invitation.

WANDERING WITH WADLEY

Most of us, at some time or another, watch the news on television. At times it is rather soggy, at others it is really interesting and even, on occasion, the news editors excel themselves both to their own astonishment and to that of the viewers.

But, have any of us solved the mystery of the alleged musical accompaniment which is dubbed in on every occasion, most of it being completely unsuitable, when a brief film report of some recent event is being shown. At most times, when a running commentary is being made, the words are drowned out by the discords. Lurking somewhere in the studio must be a Vice-President in charge of worn out disk jockey platters and who grabs a handful as the janitor wheels the garbage truck past the door.

Nobody has, as yet, come up with a clue as to the identity of the music (!) being played nor is there any evidence as to who asked for it in the first place.

Probosis is a noun used to describe a protuberance of various insects and animals but, for the purpose of this not very profound lecture, it is simply the human nose. So, let use treat it with levity. Leafing through a book a few days ago we came across a whole series of colloquialisms in which the word "nose" was used to convey many meanings. Here are a few of them:—

Follow one's nose.
Cut off one's nose to spite one's face.
Turn up one's nose at.
Keep someone's nose to the grindstone.
Count noses.
He did it under my nose.
A big nose never spoiled a handsome face.
He cannot see beyond his nose.
Plain as the nose on your face.
Bite or snap one's nose off.
Pay through the nose.
Put someone's nose out of joint.
Can you "nose" out any more? We will be glad to receive them.

And now, and for no good reason that I can think of at the moment, up comes another reminiscence. It goes way back to a few years after the end of the First War and I was living in Halifax. Lord Byng of Vimy was Governor General at that time and he was coming to Halifax on a formal visit and was going to visit the Provincial Legislature. The Veterans were called upon to set up a guard of honour and, in due time, we paraded at a suitable spot. Again, in due time, the G. G. and his entourage gave us the usual inspection. He was attired in full formal civilian attire, top hat, Prince Albert coat and all the other trimmings. Just as he passed us the man standing next to me and who had a whisper which could be heard from Huntingdon to Dewittville said to me out of the side of his mouth: "Gorblime, he looks like a bl . . . undertaker". The G. G. stopped in his tracks, turned round, walked back two or three paces and then said: "and he feels like one, too." The ensuing silence could be cut with a slice of butter.

Here is another reminiscence of my Berwick, Nova Scotia days. It was the time of the mink farm craze and everybody who could scare up a few dollars had shares in a pair of mink which we all devoutly hoped would mate in due season and present us with a beautiful and large litter of baby mink. Needless to say, the pair in which I was interested never did have any progeny. At least, that was what the mink farmer always told me. His own pairs were always prolific. One farm was located quite close to where I worked. If I wanted to go into the town of Berwick after working hours I had to walk and as it was a three mile trip I got plenty of exercise. One night, walking back along the lonely and unlit country road I suddenly beheld what appeared to be an apparition and I was scared stiff. I was given three choices. Either beat it back the way I had come, make a dive into the orchard at the side of the road or keep on walking towards what turned out to be a stark naked man. Before I had a chance to make up my mind a reassuring voice called out "Its alright Wadley, its only me". As I knew of no ghosts who were familiar with my name I plucked up courage and, with eyes modestly averted, went close and recognized the man to be the mink farmer. It turned out that he had gone to the cages to check that all was well and had had the misfortune to run right into a skunk which promptly deluged him with all his might. Deciding that the best way of getting rid of the odor would be to bury his clothes, he had completely undressed and done so, heading for home in the hope that, at that time of night he would be able to make it unseen. My appearance was as disconcerting to him as his was to me. He begged me to keep the incident to myself and this I did for the whole time I lived there.

Return From Florida

Our good friends from across the border, Mr. and Mrs. Engene De Gowin of Fort Covington have returned to their home after having spent the winter months in Clearwater, Florida. They had a nice apartment and enjoyed visits from many area friends who visited in Florida at different times during the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. De Gowin took several side trips to such places as Daytona Beach, Marine Land, St. Augustine and Inverness.

Mrs. De Gowin, a collector of antiques who has many beautiful pieces in her home enjoyed especially a visit to the "Litner Museum" where she viewed the extensive collections of marble and glass.

The De Gowins left Florida on Easter Sunday and arrived home about noon on Wednesday, April 17.

Suffers Injury In Fall

Mrs. J. B. Quenneville is at present a patient in the Huntingdon County Hospital being taken there on Monday afternoon, April 22, after having fallen off a table upon which she was standing while washing a ceiling light fixture. It was found upon X-ray that she had chipped the knee-cap and she presently has her leg in a cast.

Best wishes for a speedy recovery go out to you Lottie from all your friends in the community.

Hurts Hand in Wringer

Mrs. Ida Rafter sustained a very painful injury to her right hand when she accidently caught it in the wringer of the washing machine. She was taken to Huntingdon County Hospital where Dr. Cameron found it necessary to place twelve stitches in the wound. Although Mrs. Rafter's hand has begun to heal, needless to say it is very sensitive.

Best Wishes

Best wishes from all of us to Miss Jean Fraser for a speedy recovery from an emergency appendectomy which she underwent on Saturday evening at 6.30 in the Huntingdon County Hospital.

With final exams drawing ever nearer I can imagine how much Jean, who is a Grade XI student, must begrudge being away from classes even for a comparatively short time.

PURITY IN PROCESSING

HEMMINGFORD LEGION NEWS

The general monthly meeting was held on April 19th, followed by an executive meeting. A nation-wide membership drive is being held by the Branch needs and requires the help and support of all the Legion this year and our members it can get. For this purpose, Comrade Frank Pelletier was elected membership chairman and all present members are asked to give him their strong support.

The main topic discussion at the executive meeting was the building of a Legion Hall. Progress would appear to be slow, but with a project of this size there are many points to be discussed and thoroughly thrashed out before a decision can be reached.

The 'H' club winner this month was Mr. Bud French.

District Meeting

On Saturday, April 20th, the District Meeting was held, for the first time, in Hemmingford. District Commander Bob McGlashan was in the chair and in the absence of Comrade Hartland Rowell, District Secretary, Comrade W. Kirnan, President of Branch No. 244, was Acting Secretary.

The Ladies Auxiliary Spring Tea

The annual Spring Tea was held in the auditorium of the High School on Saturday, April 20th. The sale of Veteran's handicrafts was, again, very successful, and all purchasers of the hand-made articles from this table not only received good value for their money but also the knowledge that every purchase they made helped a disabled veteran. The home-made Bake Table was well-filled with a bigger and better than ever display of home baked goods which were all rapidly sold. The entertainment was kindly supplied by Mrs. D. Rogers and her two pupils, Valerie Pelletier and Gavin Farmer. Valerie sang 'The Ladybird' by Thirman and Gavin sang two solos, 'Angels ever bright and Fair' by Handel and 'Sailing' by Thirman. Prizes, which had been donated to the Auxiliary, were won by, 1st Mrs. Clifford Greer, the Esmond blanket, 2 nd, Major H. Short and 3rd, Mary Cooper, Coffee Percolator.

Members of Lacolle Auxiliary were made very welcome and their support greatly appreciated.

To all, who by their gifts or attendance, helped make this, their second annual Spring Tea, a success, the Ladies Auxiliary of Branch No. 244 extend their sincere thanks.

"Break - Up"

This is the time of year when every clothesline in the valley from Trout River to Chateauguay sags with curtains and bedspreads, when each pin-up dangles in the breeze as loose-jointedly as a puppet on a string. It is a time when mops and pails, detergents and scrubbing brushes, and sundry tools of the homemaker's trade move into high gear; when screens replace double windows and winter duds are stored away for another season. It is bonanza time for the dry cleaner, and backache-sore-feet time for the housewife.

It is a time for decisions. Now is the time to decide, once for all, whether to hang on to Dad's old corduroy jacket which hasn't warmed his shoulders in ten years, or whether or not the cracked chamber pot (the one with the roses), stored under the eaves in the attic, is old enough to fetch a good price from the antique dealer; and whether or not the children's out-grown clothes are too scruffy for the Mission bale.

To keep or not to keep? A pesky question that, sooner or later, demands an answer. Perhaps this is the worst phase of spring cleaning — this business of decisions which must be made. Sometimes, it can be as knotty as a pine board. Nothing, however, can be more disasterous than indecisiveness.

For instance, take the case of a friend of ours. It's pitiful. Or rather, it was pitiful until Easter Sunday. For years, she has fought a losing battle against her family's inability to make up its several minds about what to keep and what to throw aside. No amount of persuasion has been effective. Apparently, it was easier to stuff half a pair of rubbers into some dark corner (as negative an operation as ever there was) than to toss it out. The stubborness with which each member has adhered to his or her tattered holdings would make a mule blush. They have held on to their out-worn, out-grown possessions as tenaciously as a dog clings to a bone, and even the excuse "you never know when it might come in handy" has become threadbare, too. Our friend says the whole lot of them were afraid the quip some wisecrack coined was true: namely, that junk is a seven-year accumulation which you have need of the day after you discard it.

The result was, the stuff which had amassed over the years had reached such proportions, they were faced with a crisis. Bureau drawers wouldn't shut, cupboard doors refused to close, and you couldn't get into the summer kitchen for the litter. In fact, you couldn't get in anywhere — they were just about crowded out.

Such was the sad state of affairs at Easter. Then, in church on Sunday morning, our friend heard the minister announce that the Salvation Army truck would be in town the following Wednesday to collect donations. Thumbing through the pages of the Hymn Book while the organist acquainted the congregation with the tune, she prayed her fight with the family would be won at last, that now she might succeed in persuading them to relinquish their relics. Imagine her surprise when everybody joined in singing "The Strife Is O'er, The Battle Done". She felt it to be a good omen, for sure.

And it was. Whether the timing of the announcement or the mess they were in had anything to do with it, she doesn't know. The fact remains, that later in the day when she brought up the subject of the Salvation Army and mentioned the astronomical contribution they could make to a worthy cause, the entire family, with one accord, surrendered to a Grand Decision: Everything must go — a clean sweep of the works.

We happened to pass by on Wednesday morning when all of them were stacking cartons and crates in a big pile outside their gate. It made quite a heap.

"Behold! Operation Pitch Out, " our friend called. No general, heading his victorious army, could have sounded more triumphant.

We congratulated her on the happy outcome to her dilemma. "Think of all the room we have now," she beamed. "Our house is big again."

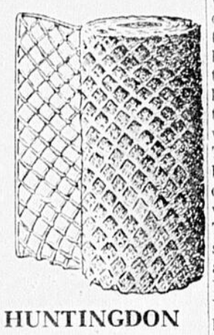

We've done some thinking about that last remark of hers. Perhaps it's time for all of us

COVERING THE ACTIVITIES OF THE "LITTLE ROYAL" EXHIBITION CENTRE

This Is Festival Week

ORMSTOWN—All the hard work is over. The finished product is ready for presentation. This is the week of the second Chateauguay Valley Music Festival. There will be many an elated performer and many more, not quite so elated when the week is over. This second Festival is something more than a mere competition. Teachers and pupils learned much from the adjucators last year and have put that knowledge to good use. This week will be one of observation and keen attention, for each participant knows how much work he had to do to improve his last performance and he will be most interested in knowing how he rates with those who compete with him. On Saturday evening the very best performances of the Festival will be presented at a concert in the Ormstown High School. Programmes are on sale at the School each day and all performances except the sight reading classes will be open to the public.

Mrs. A. Thompson of Ottawa spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. M. McCartney.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brighton and Barbara of Cornwall were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Cullen.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Widdowson of Hemmingford were the Friday guests of Mrs. Wm. Perry. Mr. Ed. Perry and Miss Emma McCuaig of Covey Hill visited at the same home.

Mrs. Roger Crete, Anne Marie and Richard of Plattsburg, N.Y., are spending this week with Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Cullen and Nancylyn.

Dundee

The U.C.W. of Zion Church meeting was held last Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. D. Fraser. The co-hostesses, Mrs. J. Colquhoun and Mrs. Lyle Currie served dessert and coffee before the regular meeting. Mrs. Frank Rutledge and Mrs. Robert Steven led in the worship service using a missionary scene. The story of the Good Samaritan was read and Mrs. Rutledge read a commentary on it. Jesus' concept of a neighbour is any child of the human race or anyone who needs our help. The Hymns, "Jesus Shall Reign" and "In Christ There Is No East or West" were sung. For roll call each member answered by giving a fact or showing a picture about some country in the rim of East Asia. This proved to be very informative.

Guest speaker for the afternoon was Mrs. W. E. Black of Huntingdon. She spoke about the countries in the rim of East Asia, Tai Wan, Korea, Okanawa and Hong Kong. She said it was easy to be a Christian in Canada but very difficult in these countries. We think we've had a hard winter here but it wasn't nearly as bad as there. We have warm houses, warm clothing, and plenty of good food. These people do not have these. Their land is poor, most of it mountainous and especially South Korea and Hong Kong. Crowded with refugees Christianity is growing faster in Hong Kong than any other rim country. She is the doorway for trade to Red China. She is not cut off from us any longer for through radios she soon learns what is going on in the rest of the world. These small countries have been picked out for our study for they are very important to the whole world. If Christ and His followers cannot provide the answers to their problems, someone else will.

Mrs. Black told about these countries through pictures, maps, charts, blackboard, word pictures and she taught the hymn "Jesus Loves Me" in Chinese.

During the business meeting Miss Thelma MacMillan reported that over $30 had been realized from the Crokinole party. It was voted that she send $5 to the Chateauguay Valley Music Festival. A bale is to be packed at the next meeting which is to be held at the manse. Two social events were planned for the near future, a Spring Tea and Musical Entertainment. Two committees were named for these events, Mrs. Earl Gardiner, Mrs. N. D. McPhee and Mrs. Robert Steven for the Tea and for the musical event Mrs. Donald Fraser, Mrs. James Clinton and Mrs. Lester Fraser. The program booklets for the coming month have been prepared by Mrs. Bill Leslie and Audrey. These were distributed.

Last Thursday night Jean Ann and Barry Fraser, Karen Elder and Edith MacDonald went to Montreal in company with other Huntingdon High School pupils to see the show Music at Midnight. A limtied number of free tickets were sent to the school.

to engage in spring cleaning not only our homes but our thoughts as well; to hang old musty ideas on the line in order that they may be refreshened by a good wind. Perhaps it's time to make a clean sweep of the bigotry and intolerance, the prejudices which clutter our minds; to pitch out all the odds and ends — the indecisive, shilly-shally thinking that can crowd our brains. Perhaps it's time to make our houses bigger.

Leadership Training

The spring Leadership Training Day of the Frontier Branch of the Council of Education, held at Georgetown Church on Saturday, April 27, was found to be most interesting and inspiring to the teachers who were present. Rc. David Estey of Lacolle was the chairman.

During the morning there was a two hour period, under the direction of Miss Margaret Quigley, about difficult questions pupils ask. Group discussion followed and findings were given. A film strip was shown, First step in Religion.

At noon lunch was served by the Ladies Aid under the direction of Miss Laura Robertson, the president.

At 1.30 Mrs. Muriel Geddes, St. Lambert Church, taught for 45 minutes as one class, a group of sixteen children of the church known as C.O.C. An experienced leader is used with this method and several helpers. By a system of questions, comments and answers between pupils and leaders they learn about God and other subjects relevant to life and Church School.

The pupils were interested and the teachers impressed by the opportunity to learn this new approach to teaching. Miss Quigley was Mrs. Geddes' helper. A film strip followed, Reason for being.

Those present were grateful for help they received but were sorry all the teachers in the district could not be with them for this Leadership Training Day.

Spring Dance at H.H.S.

The annual spring Dance was held on April 26 at Howick High School. The music was supplied by Billy Welburn's Orchestra. The decoration and food committees were under the direction of Margaret Whyte. The proceeds of this dance will go to the aid of the Student Council. Although the crowd was small a good time was enjoyed by all.

Called To Mind...

awkward time. Arthur Chambers, his ten hours of duty done was across the field at his father's place and the night man had still to come on duty. Pressure had to come from the pump, but the boiler fire was banked, so steam had to be raised before the pump would operate. In those days we had electric light in the winter from 5.30 to 8 a.m. and from dusk to midnight the year round. However, the state of the mill pond decided when it was 'dusk' and 'midnight' so far as the Hunter brothers were concerned — John Hunter & Sons had the contract, and the power needs of the saw mill came first. There wasn't an electric motor or gadget in the village.

In the meantime, men had gone to the combined "coop" and fire station for the two-wheeled reel, which had a bell on top and was dragged by hand. By the time it reached the nearest hydrant, Alec Henry had arrived with the wrench to turn on the water. A firm rule of the village council was that only by special resolution could a water connection be larger than half-inch; but, the pressure being what it was, people were not above making deals with plumbers. As a result, Eben Henry was given the exclusive right to repair breaks and make new connections. He was a skilled mechanic but rather slow moving. On the other hand, Alec, his son, was a live wire and therefore entrusted with the custody of the hydrant wrench.

The other important individual was self-appointed. Jack Thornton always made a beeline for the nozzle and generally got it. Jack was a true "character": short, fun-loving and an extrovert Englishman. Officially, he was a cobbler, but he would tackle anything. He always had a live grey squirrel racing around a revolving wheel in a cage — I never figured out how he caught them, nor how he got a goose egg (intact) into a small-mouthed bottle. No shoe repair shop in this world ever had such an assortment of things to interest boys as had that of Jack Thornton.

It was their hang-out, with Jack willing and adept in forging "excuses" when they played hooky. My elder brother Leslie was a steady customer and was the cause of a visit by Principal Caleb Holiday. The Principal, a kindly man, had cultivated a queer little cough which he sounded before opening classroom doors — to give time to get to proper place before he turned the knob. This call was brief. He coughed, mildly remarked that Robert Sellar always signed his name by initial only, turned and walked away. Jack was quick on the uptake, so Leslie had better marks than usual that year.

In time, Jack tired of Huntingdon and moved to Hamilton. A year later, he sent his picture to Mrs. Jim Fortune, who lived across the street and was a good gossip. Jack, ever untidy in dress, had rented a dress suit, including top hat and cane, visited a barber shop for 'the works' and then hied himself to the photographer. For weeks, Mrs. Fortune carried it around saying: "Guess who this is?" and stumped all.

Getting back to the fire, it was burning nicely and the hose was streched out, but the water pressure had still to come. The mayor was in charge and W.S. Maclaren, Andrew Philps and J.C. Bruce — they shared the fire insurance business — had informed him that Tom was insured for $150, This amount put him in solid position, so decision was to concentrate on the Parsonage barn a few feet away.

A daring fellow, with axe in hand, was straddling the burning roof. I forget his name, but he drove the Central Hotel bus and was quite bowlegged. He kept shouting for water and, as luck would have it, was turned the opposite way and bent down when the pressure suddenly came. Jack scored a bull's eye and he rolled to the ground via the manure pile.

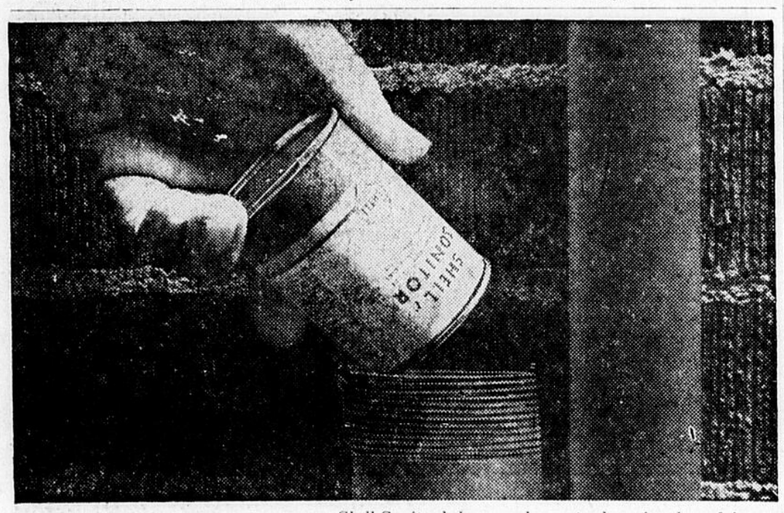

The barn was destroyed but, surprisingly, the Methodist minister's was saved. The hose was left where it was — there would not be another fire for a year. John MacCrow, the village handyman rolled it up the next morning and hung it in the fire station tower until Jim Will declared it dry. Jim was on the Council and chairman of the Water committee and would be held accountable were the hose to rot on the reel. Taxpayers then spoke their minds.

Tom Cunningham hired Dave Kinniburgh to haul the debris away. Dave went West shortly after, selling his exceptionally strong horse to Andy Chambers of the N.Y.C. section gang. In time, Andy decided that his forte in life was that of tonsorial artist, so sold out to Frank Reil one week and was behind a barber's chair the next. He later took over Charlie Lamb's barber shop.

Most men in those days got a shave only on Saturday — price ten cents (no tip). Andy Philps, to show that he could afford it, was shaved daily; and few, Tom Pringle was one, twice a week. There were those who shaved themselves, but only the doctors, the clergy and those who prepared to run the risk of being called a sissy made it a daily practice. One was Walter Shanks, who introduced the safety razor to Huntingdon. That would be around 1910, with the price tag $5. Most of the stores continued to stock only straight razors — the Braithwaite brothers and E.C. McCoy had the best assortment — leaving the newfangled Gillette to Shanks Jewellery store. Until it came into general use, it was a waste of time on Saturday for a boy to go to a barber shop for a haircut with fifteen cents in the knot of a handerchief. F... "Cock" Hanley would tell... to come another day.

Stagemasters' Presentation — Delightful Comedy —

(by Mrs. M. Mc Cutcheon)

In commenting on this play it is of course of first importance to indicate that to me the occasion was one of some sadness, owing to lack of audience. There is little doubt that great satisfaction must have been felt by all members of the cast in their roles, because the performances given were excellent and this should have been an outstandingly successful production in all directions. Peter Dann, the producer is to be congratulated on having achieved speed of movement and the pointing of lines which made it easier for the actors to keep the interest of the audinence sustained throughout.

The unfurnished setting proved to be interesting and the lighting was excellent. One almost felt the rays of sunlight which came through probably unnecessary to scale one's praise. The whole cast performed with enthusiasm. Perhaps to some, the most pleasurable performance was that of Laurie Tester as the Rev. James Reilaway. Mary Blondall as his daughter-in-law Anne gave a very polished performance, young Erica Tester as Evadne was a treat, indeed all players deserve the highest of credit. The house was far from packed (on Friday evening), but the warm appreciation of the audience was felt as they laughed heartily at this delightful comedy presentation.

As regards individual performances it is difficult and the window.

A vote of thanks is extended to the following ladies who took capable charge of the Sherry Party held at the Recreation Club following Friday's presentation, Eileen Chartrand, June Oliver, Enid L'Ecuyer, Emma Artagnan and Madeleine Wright.

On behalf of the cast, Miss Erica Tester presented Director Peter Dann with a cuff and tie-clip set at the conclusion of the presentation on Saturday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Dann entertained the cast and friends at a party at their home on Saturday evening, following curtain call.

Sod Turning Ceremony of Maplewood Presbyterian Church Here

(By Mrs. R. Young)

On Sunday morning, April 28th., 1963, approximately 300 persons gathered together for Worship Service at Maplewood Presbyterian Church. As this was the day for the Sod Turning Ceremony, the Minister and congregation of St. Edward's Presbyterian Church, Beauharnois, were guests.

The Rev. G. E. Doran, Minister of St. Edward's Church, preached the sermon "All Things New" and at the end of the Hymn "Lead On O King Eternal", the Congregation, led by the Choir, filed out of Maple School on McLeod Ave., where services are presently held, across the street to the site of the new Church building. The Rev. John F. Allan gave a short address, after which, he led the congregation in prayer. Mr. B. Swan, Chairman of the Building Committee, then spoke on the various details pertaining to the new building and presented the "Silver Shovel", a gift of Mr. and Mrs. C. Fullerton of St. Catharines, Ont., to Mr. MacKay Anderson, senior elder and for many years Session — Clerk of St. Edward's for the turning of the "first sod". Rev. J. West End H.O.A. Holds General Meeting and Elections

(By Mrs. Mitchell)

The Gen. meeting and election of a new executive for '62-'64 took place at the Town Hall on Tuesday, April 22, at 8.15 p.m. with 22 members present.

President W. B. Hulshoff opened the meeting by asking each chairman to give their yearly reports.

Treasurer Larose gave a report for the period since the last meeting and as returns were not completed was asked to give his complete financial report at the first meeting called by the new executive.

Sports chairman G. Rankin read his yearly report. As we all know by now the Mosquito team of hockey players was in the playoffs and although they lost to the Park, they still brought home a trophy to West End. Also Mr. Rankin gave a report on baseball and the sports expenditure. He also thanked all who coached and in any way assisted in the sports program and a hand was given him for his good job well done.

Mrs. E. Rankin was asked to read her report of the Ladies Committee but as there were still two social and one purchase outstanding she was asked also to give a full report of the year's activities at the next general meeting.

Mr. Hulshoff thanked these chairman and the meeting was then proclaimed open for election of officers for the coming year. The following nominees were elected to the following positions.

Pres., Mr. H. Hillock, Vice Pres.: Mr. John Fuller; Treasurer, Mr. Y. Larose; Secretary, Mrs. Lee Fuller; Ladies Committee, Mrs. D. Mitchell Sports Chairman, Mr. B. Gauthier; Social Chairman, Mr. P. Poupart; Membership Chairman, Mr. R. Emard; Public Relations, Mr. P. Muir.

Mr. Hulshoff thanked the past executives and congratulated the incoming executives and wished them a good year and was tendered a hand for himself and his committee.

Mr. Hillock then said a few words and stated he would be calling an executive meeting very shortly. The meeting adjourned at 9.20 p.m.

The recently appointed executive of the West End Home Owners Association held its first meeting this week. One of the proposals presented was to make this the "Teenagers Year;" to try to supply recreational activities especially for the teenagers. We now have a small group of teenagers, but it was noted that in several years there would be a large group, and it was so noted that as of now there is little for them to do out of school and week-ends and of course holidays.

There also followed a discussion of decentralization of funds. Each Committee would be completely responsible for their own funds

The social committee headed by Mr. P. Poupart, has tentative plans to hold a dance in the immediate future, a picnic, Hallowe'en dance, golf tournament, New Year's party, etc.

The Sports Committee headed by Mr. B. Gauthier, plans baseball, football, track and field, ice hockey, etc. He will ask the entire executive for its full cooperation, also that parents and members, for without this, nothing will or can be accomplished.

A General Meeting will be held in May and your executive asks that when you receive the notice of the date of the meeting there will be a full turnout. Please come and bring all the matters that interest you to the attention of the Committees for the success of the W.E.H.O.A depends on every member This means YOU.

C. Meeting

The ladies committee of the W.E.H.O.A. met at 140 St. Denis on Monday evening. Mrs. Golden retained the position of secretary and our new position of treasurer is now held by Mrs. J. Langdale who was nominated and having accepted the nomination was voted in unanimously. Mrs. Mitchell outlined some of the plans of the new president of the H.O.A. and then the L.C. made their plans for the next three months. Please watch coming events column for dates and times and places.

Louise Couillard Found Alive and Well in U.S.A.

An investigation that was going on for months finally permitted the detectives from the Bureau of missing persons of Montreal to clarify the mysterious disappearance of a student of 18 years of age, who was believed to be assassinated at a certain time.

We have learned that Lucille Couillard, 31 Boyer St., Beauharnois, was located last week end in a small United States town where she works as an apprentice-intern in a hospital. The pretty young student was in rhetorique at the Convent Jesus-Marie in Outremont when she disappeared on Oct 31st 1962. She was last seen coming out of a drug store on Maplewood Street, where she had bought a large quantity of aspirins.

After her disappearance, a vast search was made on the mountain. The Montreal missing persons bureau called upon the canine corps and for many days, the Mount-Royal

Notes and Jottings FROM Robert Sellar's Historical Writings

The magnificent cut of timber that surrounded their shanties appeared to those American squatters to be a source of inexhaustible wealth, and potash-making was their constant avocation. Bees were of almost daily occurrence, for as soon as one had a sufficient quantity of timber chopped, he called in his neighbors to log and burn, when there was a jollification, but nothing to that when the barrel was filled, hauled to Laprairie, and the proceeds brought back in the form of provisions and a replenished keg. It was working in the woods by day, and fiddling and dancing at night. Had they gone soberly to work, and cleared the land for cultivation, they would have become comfortable, instead of leading a careless life with only the potash-kettle between them and starvation. Patches of corn, wheat, and potatoes were raised on the knolls, but what they grew was sufficient, and the bulk of the provisions was brought from Montreal. Of the difficulties of the journey thither it is impossible to now form any conception. There were no bridges save a floating one across the La Tortue, and long stretches of swampy land had to be traversed. With an auger and axe to replace the runners as they wore out, the settlers started with his barrel for Laprairie and often a week passed before his return. A fair day's journey for a yoke of oxen was 16 miles, and 20 was counted good. Horses were useless, for, owing to their stepping quickly, they smashed sled or cart against the succession of obstructions. If the ground was dry, causing the sled to rub hard, and he did not intend to bring a return load, the barrel was laid on a sort of cradle, cut from a large log, which was left behind at Laprairie, and the oxen returned light. The bush in those days differed from the present, in being so free of underbrush that in an hour's travel the axe would not have to be used once. Winding out and in between the forest monarchs, the settlers drove their ox-sleds in every direction, as fearless of losing themselves as the Arab in his native deserts.

The first impulse to the prosperity of the settlement came in 1820, when an American, James Duncan, quietly threw a dam across the English river at St. Chrysostom, and raised the frame of a sawmill. He knew he was breaking the law, that it was illegal to build a mill in the seigniories without the consent of the seignior, but he relied on a decision lately given, that where a seignior neglected to build a mill where required, or when a mill was in running order when he became cognizant of it, he could not compel the owner to remove it. Duncan acted in concert with James Allen, and as soon as the frame of the building was ready, Allen floated down upon a raft the machinery of a small sawmill he had failed to work from want of water. Long before word reached Beauharnois, the mill was going and had cut boards to enclose itself. The agent, Richardson, was furious and threatened all manner of penalties, but Duncan defied him. According to law Duncan could not renew or rebuild the mill after notification by the seignior, but this difficulty he got over by quietly replacing each timber as it showed signs of decay, which he did without difficulty, being an excellent mechanic. For over a quarter of a century the mill was a thorn in the side of the seigniory people, not only because it absorbed profits they elsewhere monopolized but because it sawed the timber which the settlers plundered off the ungranted lots. Up to this time the settlers had roofed their shanties with elm bark and floored them with split basswood, but now they got boards, and entered into the profitable business of rafting sawed lumber to Montreal. For a long while Duncan was the only resident of Chrysostom, and did a large business. He did not confine himself to the lumber trade, for he erected an ashery and built a canoe large enough to carry down to Reeves's 7 barrels at a time. The existing gristmill is on his mill-site and Mr. Boyd's residence stands where his shanty did. About 1828, an American shoemaker, Ichabod Munsill, set up beside Duncan, and on the south side of the road, where Robert Stewart now is, an Englishman, John Parnby, opened a blacksmith shop. There was no apparence, however, of a village until after 1840. On the double concession the first Old Countryman to take up land was John Severs, who had been a butcher in Hull, England, and lived, on coming to Canada, for some time at La Tortue before moving to Edwardstown, which he did about 1820, opening a tavern and store as the needs of the country required them and being the means of bringing many immigrants in, until the lots between the English river and Norton creek were, with few exceptions, occupied by English and Irish families. Among the first of the latter, was that of Andrew Currie and of the former Geo. Toynton, whose grave is near the Episcopal church. William Creasor, with his sons Philip, William, and John, all stout Yorkshiremen, were prominent settlers. In 1828 the population was sufficiently large to justify the erecting of a school, when Capt. Severs gave the land for it, specifying in the deed that part was to be used as a burying-place and that the schoolhouse was to be open for the preaching of the gospel by any Protestant minister. Robert Hope was teacher and had 36 scholars during 1829. A large and prosperous school was maintained during the week, with service on Sunday's, conducted by Methodist, Presbyterian and Episcopalian clergymen for over a score of years when, owing to the English speaking ratepayers having become outnumbered by the incoming French, the school was appropriated by the Catholic commissioners, who, despite the stipulation of the granter of the land, refused the use of it for worship, and now (1887) are taking steps to compel the Protestants to pay their rates towards its support, although, from the sectarian character of the tuition imparted, they cannot send their children to it.

Hello, again! You'd better have a tube or bottle of linament handy. This past weekend saw many people outside their homes, raking, painting, digging, and generally cleaning up in preparation for the summer.

I understand that residents on Langlois and St. Francis are having a problem with rats in their area. During the week-end I held conversations with our alderman, Mr. Sottiaux and residents who have had to cope with this problem.

Apparently this danger of rats often comes after flooding. Many suggestions were made which I will pass on in the hopes that it will be of some help.

Health Authorities in Valleyfield can be called in, but everyone directly concerned must call. One telephone call or letter from one resident will not bring results for obvious reasons. Even at that, the Health Authorities will only advise how this problem can be eliminated, nothing more.

There is very little that the Town can do because they cannot be held responsible for absolutely every problem that arises. Residents must also be prepared to take some initiative action themselves. However, let me point out that there is a bylaw that every empty lot must be kept clear of all underbrush, garbage, etc., by the owner. Letters are sent to these owners every year requesting that they do not neglect to clean their property at the risk of being billed by the Town for this service.

I understand that the owners are known by the residents so why do not each of you call and request (or demand) that they (the owners or contractors) clean up the debris. Your persistent calls and the Town's letter will surely bring results. Make sure too, that all garbage is well covered. In the meantime, rat poison purchased and used as the labels direct will be most effective. A strong word of caution, though. Rat poison as most of you know is lethal to humans too, so do be extremely careful. The older children deserve a word of explanation on its dangers and as parents, you must keep your younger ones away from the danger area until the problem is solved.

Professional help by exterminators may be required. That is your decision although who would pay for this service is something you would have to discuss amongst yourself and perhaps the Town. However, please note that this problem is prevalent in many areas of Montreal and most residents do tackle it on their own as the City Fathers can do no more than what residents themselves can do.

It is regrettable that these dangerous rodents have appeared in an area where there are so many children. Cooperation and help from all quarters, even the Town if necessary, should bring about a solution.

-o-

The ever present problem of dogs running around loose is still with us. The police are stating emphatically that they will now pick up any stray dog and fines will be imposed on the offending owners. Mr Sottiaux has advised me that if this situation continues much longer, a dog-catcher will be hired by the Town. As you realize, our policemen must have a difficult time trying to catch strange dogs and their patrol cars are certainly not equipped to carry wild bundless of furry animals!

What is so aggravating about this is the fact that there are people who do abide by the law and keep their dogs on a leash. If these dogs do break away (and it can happen even to the most conscientious owners) it will be these dogs who may be blamed for damage caused by other wanderers!

One question was asked of me and quite frankly I'd like to know the answer, too. One irate taxpayer reported damages by a neighbour's dog to the police who came to view the debris. The address of the dog's master was given and to this day no action has been taken. Again I say, if you are bothered by dogs persist in your demands for action by the authorities. As a taxpayer I believe you have every right.

In a growing community there are bound to be growing pains and I can't help but wonder if everyone is really doing their share. For several years the old railroad bridge has been the source of at least one ever-occurring problem, which at times looms very serious. Reports have it that young girls and women have been frightened by hoodlums. I know that the police cannot be everywhere at once. Anytime that I've gone past that area, there has always been several loiterers around. Why is not a more careful watch kept in this matter? Until something can be done, why do parents allow their daughters to cross this bridge at night unaccompanied by an adult? You see, nothing is the sole responsibility of any one group. Cooperation is necessary from everyone. That's only plain common sense!

It's too bad that more residents didn't attend the C.H.O.A. Annual Meeting (see full account elsewhere in this paper). You missed a very interesting evening. The aims and objectives of the association are not fully known and understood by many people, particularly the newcomers to the area. I understand that this is to be one of the first things to be discussed at the Executive Meeting. I'll have more news on the results of his gathering, next week.

I'm sure Les Harris spoke for all new members of the club late when he thanked those in attendance for their vote of confidence. I personally would like to say that my new job as Secretary will not be easy, simply because it has been so expertly handled by Mrs. Yvonne Rockwell who has worked so diligently on this task for the past three years. Not only will her experience in this field be missed, but also her knack of enlivening any group with her wit and humour! Congratulations, Yvonne, on a job well done!

Well, those are the topics that were brought to my attention this past week. My thanks to all those who took time to give me a call.

If you have anything you'd like to discuss, please feel free to telephone 692-2659.

Below are the Modern Bowling League Standings. Next week, I'll have the complete list of prize winners.

My husband and I went to see 'Here we Come Gathering' a play put on by the Stagemasters at Julius Richardson School last Saturday night. The bride who was given in marriage by her father was very lovely in a floor length gown of white chiffon over taffeta with a bell-shaped skirt, and long lace train. Her small pillbox hat held a shoulder length veil. She carried a bridal bouquet of pink carnations and white roses.

Mrs. Sherril Morgan, as matron of honor, in yellow and Miss Sandra Thomas, Miss Louise Fortin and Miss Lesley McIntyre in blue short gowns with the bell-shaped skirt. They wore bandeaus with veils and carried white and yellow mums.

Mr. Donald Brown was best man and ushers were Mr. Lorne Linton, Mr. Peter Banting and Mr. Wesley Morris, brother of the bride.

The mother of the bride wore a two-piece pink silk shantung dress with a lace top, a pink flowered hat and corsage of pink carnations, and white accessories.

The bridesgroom's mother was in an olive green silk dress, white flowered hat, white accessories and wore a corsage of pink carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Holiday Inn at St. Laurent, with the bride's table centered with a three-tiered wedding cake. Later the bridal couple left via Toronto for a honeymoon trip to Bermuda and Tobago, the bride travelling in a beige linen dress topped by a beige wooien boucle coat, straw

LETTER FROM SEIGNIORY PARK

(by FERGUS HORSBURGH)

Well, I'm afraid this will not be a very long column this week. Like most of Seigniory Park, we've been hard at work in the garden all of this lovely weekend, and Sunday night, which is Letter night, finds us pleasantly tired out and not very enterprising. Watching Bonanza is about the height of our ambition.

A word to newcomers to Seigniory Park. There is a lot of good black earth, rich in humus, to be found in any area where there are trees and where the bulldozers have not yet been. Any house in Seigniory Park has a source close enough if you look for it.

Seigniory Park is in the middle of the greatest influx of new homeowners in its brief history. We welcome the following families who are in process of moving in : Mr. and Mrs. G. Robitaille, 358 Montcalm ; R. Oliver, 373 Montcalm, P. Ogden, 379 Frontenac; C. Masson, 383 Frontenac; J. Palkauski, 385 Frontenac: J. Lafon, 389 Frontenac : H. Wells, 393 Frontenac : R. Renault, 397 Frontenac : and in Montmorency, the following families, Mr. and Mrs. L. Stone, 353 : P. Pettigrew, 359; G. Upton, 361 : E. Mates, 363 : M. Guymond, 365 : J. Kinnear, 367 : A. Poirier, 369 : N. Clapp, 375 : V. Kobernick, 377 : Beardin, 379 : L. J. Robitaille, 382: G. Hostatter, 384 : R. Poirier, 387 : G. Titherington, 395.

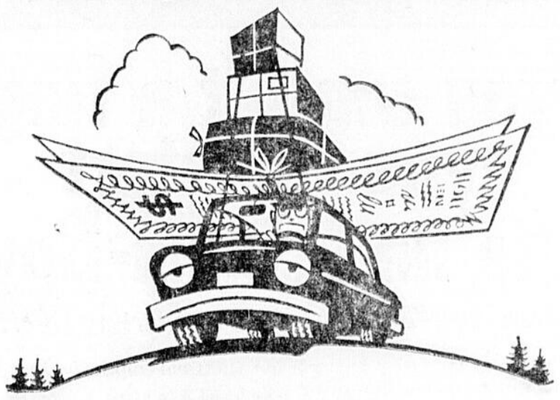

Gerry Fortin is now engaged in removing the taps he so generously fitted on Maple trees throughout Seigniory Park a few weeks ago. That was a marvellous idea, Gerry, and we hope you sell 200 houses between now and next Maple syrup season.

The first nomination for Seigniory Park Man of the Year 1963 has been received. Bob Ellis tells me that following a judicial recount, it was found that the motion to postpone the painting of the ice rink boards until the fall was approved by about 27 votes to 0. Apparently the Sports Association now feels that that will give the wood a better chance to age properly. You know, you can rationalize anything but being hanged by the neck, if you try hard enough!

The monthly meeting of the Seigniory Park Home Owners Association will be held Wednesday, May 1st at the Clubhouse at 8.15 p.m. Let's hope something is done about this wretched business of the water supply being cut off without notice. H.O.A. Secretary Keith Strike reminds us that water previously saved against a cut-off MUST be boiled before being drunk.

At the St. Lambert Music Festival last week the Grade I choir of The Mary Gardner School under the direction of Mrs. E. Stokowski took first place with 87p.c. The winning songs were Wind Elves and Robins in the Rain. Children from Seigniory Park singing in the choir were Caroline Nash, Heather Rutter, Michael Raine, Robbie Bedard and Lar-

12 Years, Lash Given in Assault

Six strokes of the lash and 12 years each in penitentiary were meted out on Friday by Mr. Justice Roger Ouimet to two young Valleyfield men, found guilty of criminally assaulting a 15-year-old girl.

Maurice Leboeuf, 28, and Jacques Bourgouin, 21, both with police records, gave no sign of emotion when sentence was pronounced in Court of Queen's Bench.

Said Mr. Justice Ouimet: ".... The brutality used and the seriousness of the crime must be taken into account in the sentence.... there can be no pity or clemency shown you and, for the first time in my life, I am ordering imposition of the lash."

Each was then sentenced to 12 years and six strokes of the lash, to be imposed in two sections of three strokes each.

A third accused, Andre Cousineau, also of Valleyfield, is to be tried at the next term of Court of Queen's Bench.

The young victim was forced into a car and driven to Valleyfield last November 18. She had just left her Rosemount home and was headed for a show when the crime was committed.

Leboeuf and Bourgouin were found guilty following a three-day trial earlier this month.

C.H.O.A. Elects New Slate of Officers

(By Mrs. E. Vetland)

Chateauguay Home Owners' Association held a General Meeting last Thursday evening, April 25th at the Chateau-Gai Motel and a new slate of officers was elected.

Past President Roy Vetland reviewed the events held during the 1962-63 year and it was noted that there were a few new undertakings. Mr. Vetland gave a report on the following activities: Entertainment such as four dances, a Corn Boil, Field Day, Winter Carnival, Labatt's Tour, Adult Bean Feed and Skating Party; Sports which included, boys and girls Softball teams, entered in the Chateauguay Minor Sports Association, Men's Exhibition Softball Team entered a tournament and placed second; Hockey, again within the C.M.S.A., and Men's Broomball. This latter was also quite successful considering that it was the first year for the team in league competition and they placed second in the seven-team league.

The Santa Claus Parade buses were also discusssed, with credit given to those members of the association who volunteered to undertake to make the arrangements for this event. It was well received by both parents and children.

A summary was given on the progress made in obtaining from the Town Fathers a new shack and materials to improve our rink site facilities.

The ball park on Salaberry Boulevard at the foot of St. Francis Street was obtained, made available and improved upon for sports activities due to the cooperation of our Sports Committee and the Town Officials.

Town Planning and Civic Action are awaiting the completion of a zoning plan by Mr. Cole, the Town planner. When this is available, our Association may be able to continue its interests in the topic concerning a civic center in conjunction with the Town and other civic-minded groups. However, it was noted that this is not in the immediate future but it is hoped that C.H.O.A. will continue to attend any meetings in connection with this very important subject.

With the baseball season upon us, the Financial Statement shows the need for more funds to be able to provide necessary equipment, and also to continue giving our members and friends the benefits of such an association as ours.

Mr. Vetland urged the upcoming executive to have an all-out Membership Drive to meet the needs. To the past board of management, coaches, referees, umpires, all the men and women within and without the organization who assisted in the activities during the year Mr. Vetland expressed his most sincere appreciation and urged everyone to continue to work with the new officers in a spirit of willing cooperation.

The 1963-64 Executive is as follows: Mr. Les Harris, President; 1st Vice-President, Mr. Pat D'Arcy; 2nd Vice-President, Mr. Jim Lindsay; Secretary, Mrs. Elvi Vetland; Treasurer, Mrs. Millie Downing; 5 Directors, Mr. Art Keech, Mr. Mel Applebee, Mrs. Gertie Hughes, Mr. Tom Cairns and Mr. Bill Sottiaux. (Mr. Lyn Reid had declined the nomination for a directorship, whereby, Mr. Sottiaux was then nominated by Mr D'Arcy. This was unanimously seconded and Mr. Sottiaux very graciously accepted).

Mr. Harris in his first speech thanked all those present for their vote of confidence and expressed the desire to see even greater cooperation from everyone towards continuing the work of C.H.O.A. He called for the first executive meeting to be held on Wednesday evening, May 1st to map out the plans for a door-to-door membership drive and other enterprises for the coming year.

The meeting came to a close at 10:30 P.M. but was followed by a brief period of discussion on many matters concerning the association.

A word of thanks should go out to the very patient Mr. Sottiaux. He had attended the meeting as a member of C.H.O.A. but as alderman of the Town of Chateauguay he very kindly answered questions about the Town put to him by those in attendance.

All in all it was a very informative evening with many thought-provoking ideas expressed regarding matters concerning, not only our vicinity but the whole of Chateauguay.

I, too, add my voice to the plea of C.H.O.A. President, Mr. Harris, for you to show even more interest in the association that does, and can do, so much more, if you give your full support.

mountain was searched in every corner on the Outremont side. With no results, the search was extended. Lucille's father offered a $500.00 reward to anybody finding his daughter and circulars with Lucille's photo were sent throughout all America.

For many months, detectives followed many trails which led to nowhere. Finally, last week-end, due to certain information, the detectives from the Missing Persons Bureau located the young girl in the U.S.A. and hurried to get in touch with her parents who had almost given up hope of finding their child alive. Congratulations are due officers who did a such a wonderful job in finding Lucille. —

Hi everyone, wasn't the weather perfect this past week-end? Let us all hope it continues. We can use some warm weather after our long winter. Isn't it good to see the flowers in bloom and the trees budding again.

On Saturday afternoon, The Colonia Pixies, were given a party at Vetville Hall, at which time they were presented with their bowling trophies. In this second year of bowling for the girls the Popeyes walked away with the honors. Captain of this team was Brenda Sonne, and other members were Sandra Jennings, Ann Baylis, Caroline Ritchie, Kathy Cooper and Christine Russell. The girls received plaques as a reward for their very good work. The high average trophy was presented to Margaret Brunet and the high single to Linda Morrissette. Mrs. B. Blenkhorn, attended the party, and organized all the games. The girls along with Mrs. S. Robbie would like to take this opportunity to thank Mrs. Blenkhorn for her interest. Congratulations to this young bowling league and to Mrs. S. Robbie for her wonderful work with the youngsters.

Home and School Association News

On Wednesday, April 24th, the monthly meeting of Maple Home and School Association took place. Mr. D. King, Interim-President, presided over a brief business meeting, during which time he asked for a motion from the floor for the gift of $350. to be given to Maple School toward the purchase of a new day light projector. Mr. C. Harrowing, Principal, thanked the Home and School Association on behalf of his staff, pupils and himself. Mr. Doug McVie, Guest Speaker for the evening gave a very interesting talk on the Cuisenaire Method of teaching arithmetic. This method is being taught in various schools in Montreal and has been proven very successful. Mr. McVie stated that often a child will have a wrong answer simply because the conventional style of teaching presents no challenge, but with this new method, the children must stop and think and in this way are more apt to come up with the right answer. Questions were invited from the floor and Mr. McVie took great pains in answering each one. Mr. Theo. Black, thanked Mr. McVie for giving us this very enlightening talk, which certainly has given us all much food for thought. The elections for 1963-64 then took place with the following persons being elected to office. Pres. Mr. D. King; 1st Vice-Pres. and Programme Chairman, Mr. R. K. Condy; 2nd Vice-Pres. and Membership Chairman, Mrs. E. Bate; Sec. Mr. Theo. Black; Treas. Mrs. M. Cowell; Parent and Child Education Chairman, Mrs. B. Blenkhorn; Publicity, Mr. Sinnett; Refreshments, Mrs. H. Black, Representative from Home and School to School Board, Mr. MacInnes.

W.O.C.

On Thursday evening, April 25th., the regular monthly meeting of the Women of the Church took place at the home of Mrs. J. Lavictoire, Lockhart St. After the worship service and general business meeting, a Penny Auction took place, this is the second time this has been tried and it has proven very successful both times and a lot of fun besides. Mrs. B. Jordan, President of this group started the auction off turning it over to Mrs. J. Lavictoire who did a wonderful job as auctioneer.

The men of Maplewood Presbyterian Church will be visiting the Congregation next Sunday, May 5th, on a Friendship Visitation.

Best Wishes

Judy Cowper is out of hospital and all her friends are so pleased to see her out and about again. Nice work Judy.

H.S. and P.H.

A very nice Hymn-Sing and Prayer Hour was held last Wednesday in the home of Mrs. B. Blenkhorn, Lang Ave. As usual some very favourite hymns were sung after which Mrs. Marg. Allan gave a talk on prayer and how we should set aside some time each day for Bible reading and personal prayer. It was so nice to have Mrs. Allan Sr., with us at this meeting and hope that she enjoyed it as much as we did.

Visitors

Mr. and Mrs. J. Shearer and daughter Betty of Verdun were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. Robinson on Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Shearer came out to Chateauguay to attend the Sod-Turning Ceremony of Maplewood Presbyterian Church, young Master Grant was delighted to have Grandma and Grandpa visiting along with Auntie Betty.

Household Hint

Mix jelly powder in a pitcher and it will pour into small moulds without spilling. I have often heard that if your home gets very smokey when having some guests in, a lighted candle will help clear the air, or a small dish of vinegar placed discreetly behind a picture or vase of flowers will also do the job.

See you next week.

Prudential

Belated congratulations and very best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Roger Dion of Bernard St., on the birth of their first daughter born March 13th. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emile Dion also of Bernard St. The baby was chirstened Denise at St. Jean Baptiste Marie Vianney Church, the maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lussier were godparents and Miss Linda Gagnon was the carrier. A reception was held later at the Dion residence on Bernard St.

Mr. and Mrs. John Louis Ouellette of Bernard St., spent Easter week-end with their parents in Cabana, P.Q.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Janes of Brampton, Ont., former residents of Prudential, paid a visit last week-end to their old friends and neighbours, it was nice seeing them again.

The regular monthly meeting of the Valleyfield United Church Women was held on Monday evening, April 22nd, in the church hall. Mrs. H. N. Riley presided. Following the devotional period Mrs. C. McCuaig introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Douglas Montgomery, who spoke on "The Civil Rights of Women in the Province of Quebec". Mr. Montgomery pointed out many matters of interest in women's legal rights and many questions were asked following this most interesting address.

Mrs. J. R. Bell thanked Mr. Montgomery for giving of his time to come and enlighten the group on a subject which was of such great interest to all present. A business meeting followed with plans being made for the May. Regional Workshop to be held in Valleyfield and also for the June Garden Party.

The meeting closed with the benediction and refreshments served by the hostesses.

A miscellaneous shower was held on Friday evening, April 26th, in honour of Miss Dianne Garwood of Montreal, at the home of Miss Mary Johnson, her aunt in Valleyfield. Diane was completely taken by surprise as she was brought into the room filled with friends from Montreal and Valleyfield.

The bride-to-be was the recipient of many beautiful articles and the best wishes of her many friends for her future happiness.

The meeting of the Valleyfield Toastmasters' Club 1125 was held on Monday evening, April 29th, at 6.15 p.m. at the Chateau Salaberry. The toastmaster was Jacques Guilbeault; the topic master Ernest Neumann, the general evaluator Bob Ponting, the timer was Gerry Cadieux.

Six-minute speeches were presented by Jean Devaux, Bob Lang "apprentice, improver and Journey man, George Luney. The man who might never have been born" Stan Clendenning "schedule".

Miss Ann Wilson has returned home from a three-week vacation in Florida. She was accompanied by Mrs. M. Spencer of Quebec City a former resident of Valleyfield.

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Jones spent a week-end in New York City recently while there they were joined by son Selby of North Carolina State University.

Mrs. F. Wyatt of Preville, Que., is spending a few days at the home of Mrs. R. D. McEachern.

Miss Janet Robinson and Miss Gail Cordell of Montreal were week-end guests of Miss Elaine Stewart.

Nitro

Measles, mumps, chickenpox — all missed me as a child. Even when Lawrence came down with measles and chicken pox a few years ago I missed them, then BUT last week out of nowhere I came down with the mumps! Now I'm hoping no one else "caught" them from me! A shot from the doctor seems to have helped but I had a rest I wasn't expecting. How thankful I have been that Nanna's nephew and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. D. Robinson of Hull, England arrived in Montreal this past week and not the week before. Although face was still a bit on the swollen side we enjoyed a wonderful two days with them at the Sherston-Mount Royal Hotel

A week ago Saturday, the Brownies held a most successful PEANUT SALE and would like to thank everybody who bought from them.

Again a week or so ago — The co-workers of the "Lab" at C.A.L. had a get together at "Fortiers" to honor one of their members who was leaving for a new position. Mr. J. Halliday was presented with a beautiful Golf sweater, tie-pin and cuff links with golfing emblem. The Church Board of Nitro Protestant Church held a meeting at the church when Mr. Halliday was presented with an initialed briefcase.

The Halliday family have been in Nitro for over seven years, now Mr. Halliday has accepted a new position in Stratford, Ont. Mrs. Halliday and the girls will not be leaving for awhile. School for the girls and the necessity of nearness to hospital for Mo their in case of need will keep them in Nitro.

"Nanna" has been keeping Susan Clendening company while her Dad and mother had a holiday in England wich included a visit with their son Jim. Poor Mrs. C. was laid up with a beastly cold most of the time and no doubt was very glad to get back to Nitro. There's no place like home when one isn't feeling well!

Mrs. Jagura asked if I would please thank all the good friends and neighbours who were so kind when her father passed away.

Have lost track of many birthdays but do know that Barbara Ann Hay was a year old on the 22nd and helped her Daddy celebrate a birthday two days later. Then today Mr. Laurier Martin is celebrating. To these and all the others I've missed, we wish a very Happy Birthday.

There are three little kittens at the Hay home looking for GOOD homes. And I'm looking for my curlers. Anyone reading this know who I loaned them to and then have forgotten ??????

I was very interested to read an article by Mrs. M. McCutcheon entitled The Sleepless Ones. I too, am very often one of those, instead of two cats for company I have a beautiful German Shepherd, who always comes from her bed to lie at my feet and one cat. Fluff likes a cuddle also but if he decides to go out — out he goes and I don't see him again for hours! Me thinks Jody and Puff must be "ladies" to be thoughtful enough to come back and be company AND hot water bottles that stay warm and don't spill !!!!!

Seventh Seasonal Showing Heights Art Group

(By M. McCutcheon)

Happy are the painters, for they shall not be lonely, light and colour, peace and hope, will keep them company to the end, or almost the end of the day: this says Sir Winston Churchill.

Well here it is — the end result of a Winter's enjoyment received by pupils of Mr. Willy Hovermann, some seasoned, some beginners and also entries from outside groups which were received with pleasure and anticipation.

Mr. R. Fair, Director of this Group, a talented member with 'a feeling for art' encourages one and all to participate and attempt to put their feelings on paper and canvas. The standard of entries in this Seventh Annual Show was in this writers humble opinion — the best to date.

In the Contemporary Compositions Mrs. M. Mosher was awarded 1st prize for "Collage No. I" Mr. R. Fair received Honorable Mention for his "Fugue" and Mrs. L. Poland Honorable Mention for her "Autumn."

In the Oil Paintings and Pastels, B. Sheppard was awarded 1st prize for her "Books and Apples" and more life like apples would be hard to find. One could almost feel the crispness of these apples in an imaginary bite. Honorable Mention for Street Scene in Montreal was received by L. Chappell. In the Black and White Drawings, 1st prize went to Georgette Gurholt and Marlene Beck received Honorable mention.

Mr. Stanley Tressider of Montreal was the Judge and Mr. Willy Hovermann was the instructor. There were fifty-five entries in all.

LEGION NEWS in CHATEAUGUAY

Meeting for the month of May. In particular we shall observe the 7th, Tuesday, our meeting night.

If you haven't contacted George Willsmore yet regarding your pledge for our new premises, you could help brighten his report by doing so before then. Call 692 4628.

A very successful Broomball and Curling Dance was held Saturday past. Trophies were presented to Hans Vendenwoude and Jerry McVeigh in honour of great effort and good results.

Unfortunately Cribbage and Dart fans were unable to be present due festivities at Caughnawaga. We expect to hear more about that from Bob McGlashan.

The ladies too were active. They report a highly successful bazaar which was held in Maple School on Saturday A noon. Tables cleared quickly, and over $300.00 was made. Mrs. Lil Willsmore, convener wishes to thank all who contributed articles for sale, also all those who so generously gave time and effort. The drawing winner was Al MacLean of Mc Leod Street.

Incidentally, ladies, don't forget your Wednesday meeting.

Mr. Motorist, we know you welcome the bare roads and fine weather. But remember the kids are out in force too, and the few seconds you gain may put them in hospital, if they are lucky. We trust that our new grounds may take some of them off the roads, but recreational facilities are inadequate so please take care.

And remember both Vet and citizen, that in fact and with faith,

We Serve, in Peace as in War.

CANDIAC — DELSON — LAPRAIRIE

Candiac United Church News

The Board of Stewards of Candiac United Church sponsored a social evening which was held in the Community Hall last Saturday, April 27th. All Protestants in Candiac and Laprairie were cordially invited. A special invitation was given to all new residents of the area in order that they might get to know their neighbours. This "Get Acquainted" night was most enjoyable for everyone and the Board of Stewards are to be complimented on their thought and effort to promote friendship and goodwill, which is a true example of christian stewardship, following the teachings of the Bible where we read, "Let us consider one another, to provoke love and to good works: not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together, as the manner of some is, but exhorting one another: and so much the more as ye see the day approaching". (Heb. x. 24. 25.) Our good wishes to all concerned.

Delson Y.P.S. Tour CFCF TV Studios

The members of St. Andrew's United Church Y.P.S. were taken on a tour of CFCF Television Studios last Friday evening, April 27th. Miss Margaret knowledge able young lady who gave a clear commentary regarding various aspects of T.V. technology. Studios One, Two and Three provided great interest for the group. The set for "Like Young" was being prepared and everyone took advantage of the opportunity to see "Surprise Party" was formed. Jules is also retiring actively from sport this year. He will be sadly missed by the C.V.J.H.L. as well at the Loisirs St. Joachim.

I'd also like to thank the Town of Chateauguay Centre and the Loisir St. Jean de Baptiste, who furnished the money for last Saturday's Banquet. Without their fine donations, the Banquet would not have been a possibility.

The group lastly visited the Art Dept. where they were shown the basic plans and sketches which are drawn up to introduce programmes. The young folk returned home after refreshing with hot dogs, hamburgers and soft drinks at the home town restaurant. Mr. D. J. Burden thanked the parents and friends who provided thans portation for the group. Councillors, Mrs. H. Jacob and Mrs. Harold Ball Sr. also accompanied the group and Mr. D. J. 50 Pupils Sick At Brossard, School Closed

The elementary school in southshore Brossard was closed by a provincial epidemiologist on Monday after about 50 children were taken to St. Lambert General Hospital for treatment of nausea.

Many of the pupils were those who had been taken to the same hospital Friday with the same ailment. At that time, a leaking dry chemical fire extinguisher on the school bus in which they had been riding was blamed for their distress.

Yesterday, authorities were not to sure.

The victims of the latest wave of sickness began to complain after they had left the bus and entered class in the morning. All were treated in hospital and sent home. None was seriously affected.

Little League

This past Saturday saw the first practice of Little League Ball in Chateauguay. A little over 100 youngsters showed up and were broken into four groups. Batting, fielding and pitching practices were held under various coaches. Another practice is slated for this coming Saturday, same place, same time, Garden Field, Lang and Salaberry at 10 a.m.

Minor Football

Minor Football will hold its second meeting Monday, May 6th at 8 P.M. at the home of Jack Cushing, 110 St. Louis St., Chateauguay Centre (West End). All interested parties are invited to attend, as work must be done now if minor football is to be a reality in Chateauguay this coming fall.

Junior Banquet

The C.V.J.H.L. closed out the regular season Saturday night with their second annual banquet, held at the Chateau-Gai Hotel, one hundred and fifty persons were in attendance. 26 trophies were awarded to outstanding players in the League. The Mighty Mohawks and the Western Warriors, two of Montreal's leading Western bands made guest appearances. Pro-Mayor, J.A. Gauthier, represented the Town of Chateauguay Centre. Minor Sport was represented by Pat D'Arcy and Bill Simmon. George Young, on behalf of the C.C.R.A., Jean-Paul Bourcier represented the Loisirs St. Joachim; Gilbert Biron, the Loisirs St Jean de Baptiste; Andrew Delisle, the C.Y.A. of Caughnawaga with Bill Soles representing the press.

Mr. Robert Wall, the League's official scorer and timekeeper, was given a plaque by the players in appreciation for the fine service he rendered to the League. Mr. Wall stated "It was an honour and a pleasure to work with the players this season and the honour bestowed on me tonight is most appreciated and will be treasured in my heart for a lifetime."

This reporter as President of the C.V.J.H.L. the past two seasons, was also honoured with a gift, a transistor radio, by the referees of the League, a gift that was most appreciated. Wes Holmes, referee in chief of the League, who is being transferred to Ontario by his firm, was presented with a watch as a going-away present by the referees and the League. Wes expressed most sincere thanks to all concerned.

At this point I'd like to take the opportunity to thank the sponsors of the four teams in the C.V.J.H.L., the players, the coaches and the League officials for the fine cooperation I have received throughout the past two seasons. It has been both an honour and a pleasure to be associated with the League as its president.

As I stated this past Saturday at the banquet, this has been my final year with the League, a position I must leave with sadness. Running a League of this sort requires a good deal of time and energy and in giving this time and energy, I find that I have been neglecting, to some extent, the most cherished thing in my life, namely, my family. So in order to spend more time at home, I have decided to curtail my activities during the coming year. As a reporter I have mentioned praise throughout the past couple of years to men of sport here in Chateauguay, men who sacrifice time and energy so the youngsters can have the opportunity to play sport. This week I'd like to mention the wives of these men, the women who stay at home while the husbands are coaching youngsters or organizing events for the youngsters. Without the understanding of these fine women, the men of sport here in Chateauguay would be handicapped.

The man most responsible for the C.V.J.H.L. coming into being is Mr. Jules Lacasse of Chateauguay. It was through his efforts and determination that the League

L'origine des paroisses dans les Cantons de Godmanchester et Hinchinbrook

Saint-Malachie d'Ormstown

En 1857, le 15 décembre, des habitants de la sengneurie de Beauharnois demandent l'érection d'une paroisse de 15 milles de front sur 7 de profondeur, comprenant 50 terres parmi lesquelles celles qui appartiennent à la paroisse de St-Malachie dite, car il n'y y a jamais eu là d'érection canonique et régulière, mais une simple mission. Le procès-verbal de M. le chanoine Moreau, chargé de l'enquête de commodo et incommodo, ne trouve aucune objection à l'établissement de la dite Mgr Bourget, sous le titulaire de Saint-Malachie érige en paroisse tout le territoire borné comme suit: Au nord par le trait-quarré des terres de la 4e concesion de Georgetown-Nord, en suivant dit trait-quarré, jusqu'au bas du trait-quarré qui divise les terres de la concession nord de la rivière Châteauguay d'avec les 4e, 3e, et 2e concession de Georgetown-Nord jusqu'au chemin de ligne de la 2e concession de Georgetown-Nord susdit, et continuant de là jusqu'à la dite rivière châteauguay; de là, descendant la dite rivière Châteauguay, jusqu'au confluent de la Rivière aux Anglais, par la rive gauche, jusqu'au village Howick (village de la Fourche inclusivement; au sud-est et sud, par le chemin de ligne qui conduit au 3e rang de Georgetown-Sud; de là par le trait-quarré des terres du 3e rang de Georgetown-Sud susdit, jusqu'à la ligne qui sépare Georgetown-Sud susdit de Jametown; de là par le trait-quarré des terres de la 5e concession de Jamestown suslit, jusqu'à la grande ligne qui sépare la seigneurie de Beauharnois d'avec les cantons de Hinchinbrook et de Godmanchester; et à l'ouest, par la dite grande ligne seigneuriale. La reconnaissance civile de la paroisse est du 21 août 1858.

Les nouveaux paroissiens, le 31 janvier 1859, demandèrent la construction d'une église et d'un presbytère. Le procès-verbal de l'enquêteur M. le chanoine Moreau, détermine qu'il faut changer le site de l'église qui est actuellement trop éloigné du centre et au désavantage de l'ensemble des paroissiens; accepter à Durnham un terrain promis pour la nouvelle construction de l'église; qu'il a determiné l'endroit des églises et sacristie; que les constructions seront en bois ou en briques; que les dimensions de l'église seront de 80 pieds anglais de long sur 45 de large et 23 de haut; que celles de la sacristie seront de 30 par 25, le tout sur un bon solage de pierres. Ce par Mgr le 4 avril 1859.

(par (DOUGLAS R.)

Sur la page ( ) de cette publication je commencerais cette semaine une série d'articles au sujet le l'Anniversaire Centenaire du Canada — 1967. Je regrette quand j'écris en francais, c'est terrible! Malheureusement — parce que ce message est pour tous les Canadiens. Je veux expliquer quelques raisons de cette fête. Si nous faisions des programmes intelligents et si nous travaillions ensemble nous pourrions faire, et recevoir des bénéfices assez importants.

J'espère que mes amis de langue francaise me pardonneront si j'écris mes articles seulement en anglais, et que ceux qui liront et comprendront les messages, que j'écris en anglais, pourront traduire à leurs amis le sens de mes intentions.

NOMBREUX COMITES EN BLEINE ACTIVITE

Le succès de la campagne dépend d'abord des solliciteurs.

Les présidents des nombreux comités de la campagne 63 de Caritas sont à la recherche d'un plus grand nombre de solliciteurs. Ces derniers sont les piliers, les artisans de la réussite. Les présidents de chacun des 7 comités généraux et 58 comités paroissiaux sont en pleine activité afin de trouver le plus grand nombre de solliciteurs convaincus et convaincants. C'est à cause du trop petit nombre de bons solliciteurs que les campagnes précédentes n'ont pas toujours donné les résultats attendus.il faut une armée de solliciteurs pour recueillir $142,200, objectif de la présente campagne. C'est pourquoi les responsables des comités invitent tous ceux qui désirent participer à cette croisade annuelle de charité de se mettre en communication avec le président de leur paroisse ou un des présidents des comités généraux de la campagne.

Un évenement unique

5 mai, journée mémorable pour la paroisse de Huntingdon. En effet, les anciennes et anciens élèves ont organisé la célébration du centenaire de l'arrivée des Religieuses de la Congrégation de Notre-Dame à Huntingdon. Le Conseil de l'Amicale de Notre-Dame-de- l'Espoir s'est dépensé sans compter pour organiser une rencontre inoubliable. C'est avec joie que les élèves actuels de l'école Notre-Dame souhaite à tous ceux qui auront le bonheur de célébrer cet anniversaire, une rencontre heureuse, tonifiante.

Comme il fait bon revivre les jours, les années d'études! Comme il fait chaud au coeur de retrouver ceux avec qui on a travaillé, prié, peiné et joué! Parfois, c'est le point de départ d'une vie plus riche, plus donnée, plus heureuse.

Si, par malheur quelques anciens élèves n'avaient pas reçu d'invitation, qu'ils veuillent bien considérer celle-ci comme personnelle. Nous vous indiquons le programme:

9.00 a.m.: Inscription à l'école Notre-Dame.

Des Anciennes seront à votre disposition pour vous remettre l'album - souvenir, l'insigne du jour, ainsi que vos billets de participation au diner. Ce dernier point est très important, car pour le banquet du midi, vous devrez présenter votre billet d'admission. Réunion de
L'association Parents-Maîtres

Un nombre imposant de membres intéressés prenait part, mercredi, le 24 avril, à la deuxième réunion régulière depuis sa fondation de l'A.P.M. de Huntingdon. L'on remarquait avec plaisir la présence de plusieurs parents d'Ormstown.

Partie administrative

Le président, M. Tardif dit un mot de bienvenue à tous et demanda à la secrétaire de lire le compte-rendu da la dernière assemblée. La trésorière, Mme Renée Brunet, fit ensuite la rapport de l'état financier de l'Association pour laquelle un compte a été ouvert à la Caisse Populaire. Les cartes de membres sont maintenant imprimées et tous sont invités à se procurer la leur.

Partie éducative

Le grand sujet à l'étude était la "Nouvelle Structure du cours secondaire". Une feuille, donnant un schéma très clair de cette structure, avait été préparée et distribuée à tous. M. Tardif expliqua donc les différentes avenues où peuvent se diriger nos enfants, à partir de la 7e année. Je suis sûre que tous les parents en auront tiré une plus grande compréhension de notre système scolaire. Après une discussion libre, il fut question des problèmes particuliers du Cours Secondaire à Huntingdon, le manque de locaux adéquats, le mauvais éclairage dans certaines classes. Tous ces problèmes seraient réglés par la construction d'une Ecole régionale; on attend des nouvelles de Québec à ce sujet très bientôt.

Pour la deuxième partie de la partie éducative, l'on étudia le cas de l'enfant paresseux. Tous furent invités à discuter à ce sujet et à préparer des questions. M. Tardif enchaina avec la définition de la paresse, ses causes, les remèdes pour en guérir un enfant, en insistant sur le besoin de faire travailler l'enfant par lui-même.

Ce fut une soirée bien remplie et enrichissante pour tous.

LA "SEMAINE ETUDIANTE"
CHEZ LES
Jeunes et les Dominiques

Cette semaine fut épatante vu le sujet intéressant de cette année "La vie affective et la famille", chaque équipe a choisi un membre de la famille avec qui elle désirait travailler, soit le père, la mère, la grand-mère, le grand-père, le grand-frère ou la grande soeur.

Dès la première journée les élèves se sont données entièrement aux sujets proposés, et elles réussirent d'une façon particulière.

Pour débuter voici un résumé de cette semaine formidable qui, nous l'espérons, portera des fruits.

Premièrement, lundi, nous avons demandé aux filles ce qu'était à leur avis, le rôle de chaque membre de la famille par la suite elles ont demandé l'avis de leurs parents à ce sujet.

MARDI, elles nous ont donné les réponses aux questions posées. Elles étaient très sensées et voulaient dire à peu près la même chose que celles des filles, mais en d'autres termes.

MERCREDI, ce fut le compte-rendu des cartes d'identité. Ensuite nous avons demandé aux filles ce qu'elles pensaient de chacun des membres de la famille Anderson. A cette question, de très bonnes réponses nous furent données. Pour compléter l'enquête nous avons interviewé nos parents sur divers sujets que chaque équipe choisissait. Voici quelques-uns de ces sujets : l'amitié, les adultes et les adolescents, l'orientation des phénomènes de l'adolescence, garçons et filles ou les "mass-media".

JEUDI, résultats de l'interview. Là encore nous avons obtenu de bonnes réponses. Naturellement, tout cela a été inscrit dans le journal d'équipe. Les kiosques étaient en marche depuis lundi et tout allait pour le mieux.

VENDREDI, chaque équipe a terminé son kiosque pour le dimanche, jour où s'effectuera la visite de la magnifique besogne accomplie par l'entraide et la bonne volonté de toutes les filles.

Naturellement, la journée de dimanche, les parents sont venus admirer et aussi constater combien leurs enfants, quand ils le veulent, peuvent faire quelque chose de vraiment bien.

Mais il ne faut pas que cette magnifique semaine s'arrête là. Il est absolument indispensable qu'elle se continue dans chacune de nos vies, pour qu'enfin elle produise des fruits abondants!

PAS UNE CAMPAGNE COMME LES AUTRES

Il faut donner assez pour huit oeuvres

La campagne de la Fédération des Oeuvres de Charité n'est pas une campagne comme les autres. Il ne s'agit pas d'aider une oeuvre mais huit d'un seul coup. Le don est divisé entre les huit oeuvres subventionnées pour la Fédération. C'est donc dire que si la souscripteur ordinaire donnait $1. à chaque oeuvre individuelle, il lui en coûterait $8.00 par année pour aider les huit oeuvres essentielles de la Fédération.

Les autorités de la campagne ont cru bon de faire cette mise au point car en ce temps de l'année où il y a tant d'autres souscriptions, le public peut être sous la fausse impression que Caritas est une autre oeuvre, c'est probablement cette fausse impression qui a fait dans le passé que trop de souscripteurs ont donné un don à caritas, soit 0.12 cents par oeuvre et que les campagnes précédentes n'ont pas réalisé leur objectif.

Cette année, l'objectif est de 142,200. L'an passé, la campagne a remporté 76,000. Il faudra doubler ou presque ces dons si la campagne 63 doit réussir.

Si chaque foyer donnait $5 l'objectif serait atteint.
