ONLY NEWSPAPERS SELL TOILETRIES FROM CHEMIST TO CUSTOMER

TOILETRY MANUFACTURERS spent over $34,000,000 in 1958 in newspapers to reach their millions of men and women customers. This kind of spending, year after year, helps to pay off handsomely for the toiletry business because, according to the Bureau of the Census, the industry's sales are highest ever.

Retailers of toiletries, too, know the value of steady, strong newspaper advertising on the local scene. They can easily see the effects—their sales of toilet preparations are up, also. Most local advertisers are firm believers in the retailers' number one medium, the Total Selling newspaper. That's why they invested an overwhelming $2,375,000,000 last year in newspapers—six times as much as in radio; nine times as much as in TV!

Put the combined national coverage and local impact of the Total Selling daily newspaper to work on your products. It sells goods—at all levels at the same time and in the same medium.

Fine Address By Rev. N. Rawson At Meeting Of Waterloo Kiwanis Club

WATERLOO — The Kiwanians heard one of the most inspiring talks of the year when Rev. N. Rawson, of Montreal, visited the club.

In his opening remarks he reminded the members and guests of the fellowship that is found in a small community and lacking in larger centers and cities. He commended the Kiwanians for honoring their wives in celebrating Mother's Day.

"If we are falling down in this world it is in the area of our homes," the speaker said. "In spite of all of the wonderful things that we have, such as jet planes, nuclear power, automatic machinery, these will not determine the future of the world. The future will be determined in the homes. A nation is only as good as its homes. Parents should spend more time with their families. If we are alert in making our homes as good as they ought to be the future will be better."

"Make your home a cell, a growing living cell, not a prison. Listen to your family and show them your love. Discipline is a necessity, it may be stern but if it is given with love, it will be accepted by the child, who benefits and gives love in return."

Mr. Rawson commended the modern mothers for the wonderful job they are doing in raising the present generation. He feels that they are better informed and capable of raising the children to become good citizens.

The Family Council is a wonderful way to hold a family together and to further the understanding between the parents and children. Once a week the family gets together and discusses the family happenings. To keep a family together, they must pray together.

The speaker was introduced by Vice-President Walter Hughes and thanked by Past President, Alden Perkins.

During the dinner, President Wally Jenks commended three Kiwanians, John MacAskill, Samuel Waye and Thomas Gardner, for the fine work they are doing with cadets at the High School. He also thanked Mrs. Florence Dunlavy, Mrs. Eileen Campbell and Mrs. Joliceur for making the corsages worn by the ladies.

Art Reed, chairman of the song program, assisted by John MacAskill, Bill Johnston and with Roger McKergow at the piano, led the group in a lively sing song.

Seated at the headtable, and introduced by Art Reed, were President and Mrs. Wally Jenks, vice-president and Mrs. Walter Hughes, Kiwanian and Mrs. A. Russell, Mr. Rawson and past-president Alden Perkins. The other members, their wives, and guests were introduced by George Tetreault in his usual witty manner.

Quebec Vice-President Addresses Convention Of Compton County W. I.

COOKSHIRE — Mrs. Ossington, Provincial second vice-president of the Q.W.I., was guest speaker at the annual convention of the Compton County Women's Institute, held in Trinity United Church.

The speaker assessed the work of the year from the reports of the conveners and felt that numerous projects had been attempted and a vast amount of good accomplished. She suggested that members continue to work on "new members drive", school fairs, education for adults as well as juniors, to keep in touch with C.A.C. News and to keep in mind the Leadership Training Course at Macdonald College.

Mrs. Ossington also urged the members to have discussions in their branches on "Holiday House" plans, to raise money so as many members as possible could attend the 60th anniversary of Q.W.I.'s in 1961 at Macdonald College. She made special mention of the F.W.I. stamps and solicited ideas for the kind of gifts to send to the C.W.A.C. convention.

She suggested that names be sent in to the nominating committee for provincial officers' vacancies and also that resolutions be sent in in good time.

A condensed version of the minutes were read by the county secretary, Mrs. Wells Coates, also the correspondence. An invitation was received from the Sherbrooke County W.I. to attend its annual meeting, when Mrs. G. Taylor, the author, would be the guest speaker.

A motion was made that the rules regarding the suggested amendment of Article 14, paragraph 6, be left unchanged. The secretaries were asked to notify Mrs. G. Parsons of their lists of life members. It was stated that the Smith Memorial Hospital in Scotstown had been sold to a doctor.

A committee is to be appointed to study the further needs of the Sherbrooke Hospital, and this committee will bring in their information to the fall meeting. The members were asked to work this summer on such projects as civil defence, picnic tables and traffic safety, and to report at the fall meeting.

The yearly project is clothing for "Save the Children Fund" and donations should be brought to the annual convention of the county, the members of the entertaining branch to be responsible for sending the clothing on to its proper destination.

Scotstown, Brookbury and East Clifton are responsible for the radio broadcasts this year. The Home Economics conveners were asked to look after the plans for the tea-room at the County Fair in August. The special W.I. feature at the Fair will be a large map of the Eastern Townships and Compton County area, showing the population, early settlers, industries, a model farm, and other pictures.

Cards of sympathy are to be sent to the families of the late Mrs. E. C. James, the Mrs. A. W. Pratt and of Mr. Sam Campbell.

Mrs. G. Parsons gave a resume of what will be expected for exhibits for the 1961 pageant at Macdonald College and requested that committees be appointed to work on the project.

The semi-annual county meeting will be held at Scotstown in the fall. It was stated that the Dietetic Association would be glad to send out brochures, speakers or pictures to Home and School Associations or to Women's Institutes, so as to interest the young people in that vocation.

Reports were given by the secretary - treasurer, auditors, standing committees, also the special bursary committee. A motion was made to give $20 to the Compton County Bursary Fund, if the County funds permitted, at the end of the year.

At noon, a turkey banquet was served in the Church Hall by the Cookshire ladies. During the noon hour Mrs. G. Learned and Mrs. D. MacRae played a number of piano duets, and Miss Veronica Hall sang a solo.

The meeting then reconvened in the church and was opened with the singing of the "Hymn of All Nations". Miss Palmer introduced the guest speaker, Winston Fraser, a recent winner of the Public Speaking Contest held for the county high school pupils, also gave his interesting speech. Mrs. Philip Boy, County president, made a few remarks, and thanked the officers for their co-operation and loyalty.

Mrs. Ossington presented the slate of officers for next year, and also installed them as follows: - President, Mrs. Philip Boy; 1st vice-president, Mrs. R. B. Leonard; 2nd vice-president, Miss L. Palmer; secretary - treasurer, Mrs. Wells Coates. Conveners: Agriculture, Mrs. Sterling Batley; Education, Mrs. C. Kendall; Home Economics, Mrs. O. Dougherty; citizenship, Mrs. Mallin Westgate; welfare and health, Mrs. Percy Coates.

RH BLOOD FACTOR NEED NOT TERRIFY PROSPECTIVE PARENTS

Several puzzled or distressed parents or prospective parents, have inquired about the meaning of the Rh factor of the blood and about a kind of jaundice in infants known as erythroblastosis. Complicated as this subject is, I shall try to give it quick run-down.

First, the Rh factor is an obscure substance which is present in the blood of some people and not in others. It can be tested for and today it is almost always included in examination of the blood, particularly of prospective parents.

Certain unfortunate combinations of Rh factor in the parents may result in miscarriage, or the disease of infants known as erythroblastosis fetalis.

The Rh factor is complicated by the fact that it consists of several types. Stated most simply, however, 87 per cent of us have an obscure substance in our blood which classifies us as being Rh positive.

The other 13 per cent are called Rh negative. Those with this type of blood can become sensitive to Rh positive blood with possible dangers not only in pregnancy, but also from blood transfusion.

If a woman has Rh negative blood and becomes pregnant with an Rh positive child (because the father is Rh positive), the child may be stillborn or have erythroblastosis fetalis.

However, this does not always occur. The first child is usually healthy (and often later ones) unless the mother has previously received blood transfusions with Rh positive blood. And this is becoming rare due to greater care in giving transfusions.

Furthermore, only about one woman in 25 or 50 with Rh negative blood and an Rh positive husband gives birth to a baby with erythroblastosis.

It should be pointed out also that even if a child does have erythroblastosis, much can often be done by giving blood transfusions after birth. Three-fourths of the infants with erythroblastosis formerly died, but now nine out of ten can be saved with the right kind of transfusions.

To summarize the situation: If both parents are Rh positive there is little to worry about. If the mother is Rh positive and the father Rh negative, there is nothing to worry about. If the mother is Rh negative and the father Rh positive occasional trouble can be anticipated.

Although erythroblastosis in an infant is a serious thing indeed, one should remember that the possibilities of its development can be anticipated if the blood of the parents has been tested. Much can be done for it by blood transfusions if identified promptly. There are also many infants who develop jaundice for short periods of time who do not have erythroblastosis.

It is wise, therefore, to use appropriate precautions rather than to become panicky about the possibilities.

Soviets To Cross Antarctic Ice Cap In Plush, Hermetically-Sealed Vehicles

By VINCENT BUIST

MOSCOW (Reuters)—The Soviet explorers who will trek across the Antarctic ice cap this year will do so in foam-rubber armchairs and in air-conditioned comfort.

Russian engineers have built a new, advanced type of Antarctic vehicle which is hermetically sealed and can sleep six people. Three of the vehicles already have successfully passed their trials near the South Pole and will be used by the fourth Soviet Antarctic expedition when it sets out later this year.

This will be the longest Antarctic trek in history—more than 1,000 miles longer than the Commonwealth journey led by Sir Vivian Fuchs and Sir Edmund Hillary.

The builders of the new Russian snow tractor claim that its crew can travel across the ice cap and carry out a complicated program of seismic depth recording and other research without stepping outside the cosy interior of the vehicle.

At the end of the day's work, while blizzards rage outside, the crew will be able to take warm showers before signalling the cook to serve dinner.

Mail from home, dropped by aircraft, can be read under the tractor's own electric table lamps.

Although the tractor is, in fact, a travelling laboratory, every effort has been made to preserve the home-like touch.

Curtains strung across the nine portholes through which the crew view the world of ice and snow outside serve both to keep out the glare and to remind the men of civilization.

Green synthetic leather covers the walls of the living compartment, which is cut off from the radio room, the navigator and driver and other purely functional sections of the tractor.

Powerful air conditioning plants send jets of warm air through nozzles into every corner of the interior and between the double-thickness glass portholes to prevent frosting.

Warmth is kept inside by eight layers of capron cotton, each layer covered with airproof cloth, attached like skins to the duraluminum and steel frame.

Automatic fire extinguishers complete the devices installed for the comfort and safety of the explorers.

BUILT FOR COMFORT

Even more important for the crew is the fact that apparatus for carrying out a broad program of Antarctic research is fastened to the exterior hull of the tractor so that the scientists can jot down their data in the warmth inside the vehicle. Even seismic recordings with the use of explosives can be effected from inside.

A perspex blister mounted on the metal roof of the tractor provides for astro-navigation without letting in the cold.

If they care to erect a portable radio mast, the explorers can talk to Moscow—or the North Pole.

Day-to-day radio contact with the main Soviet Antarctic base is to be maintained by a fixed radio transmitter using a 20-foot mast attached to the tractor's flat top.

Before it left the Soviet Union the new tractor was named "Kharkovka," after the plant which produced it. But after a workout with specialists at the south polar station of Mirny (which means "peaceful" in Russian), it was renamed "Hero."

WEIGHS 35 TONS

Although this tractor is the most sophisticated Antarctic vehicle yet produced by any country, it is a solid piece of engineering which seems certain to claim some new records for the Russians in south polar exploration.

It can operate in temperatures down to 94 degrees below zero Fahrenheit—which is just about as cold as it gets anywhere in the world, although lower temperatures have been recorded at rare moments in Antarctica.

Its 12-cylinder diesel engine can send it churning through thick snow at anything up to 28 miles an hour, provided that the weather is good and there are no crevasses.

Special broad tracks with knife-like gripping edges about one yard wide give the Hero exceptional traction performance and keep it going in soft snow when other vehicles would be halted.

Although the vehicle weighs 35 tons, its broad tracks spread the load so lightly that at no point is pressure on the ice heavier than that of a man's foot.

Theo. Langlois Ltee Opens New Warehouse At Magog

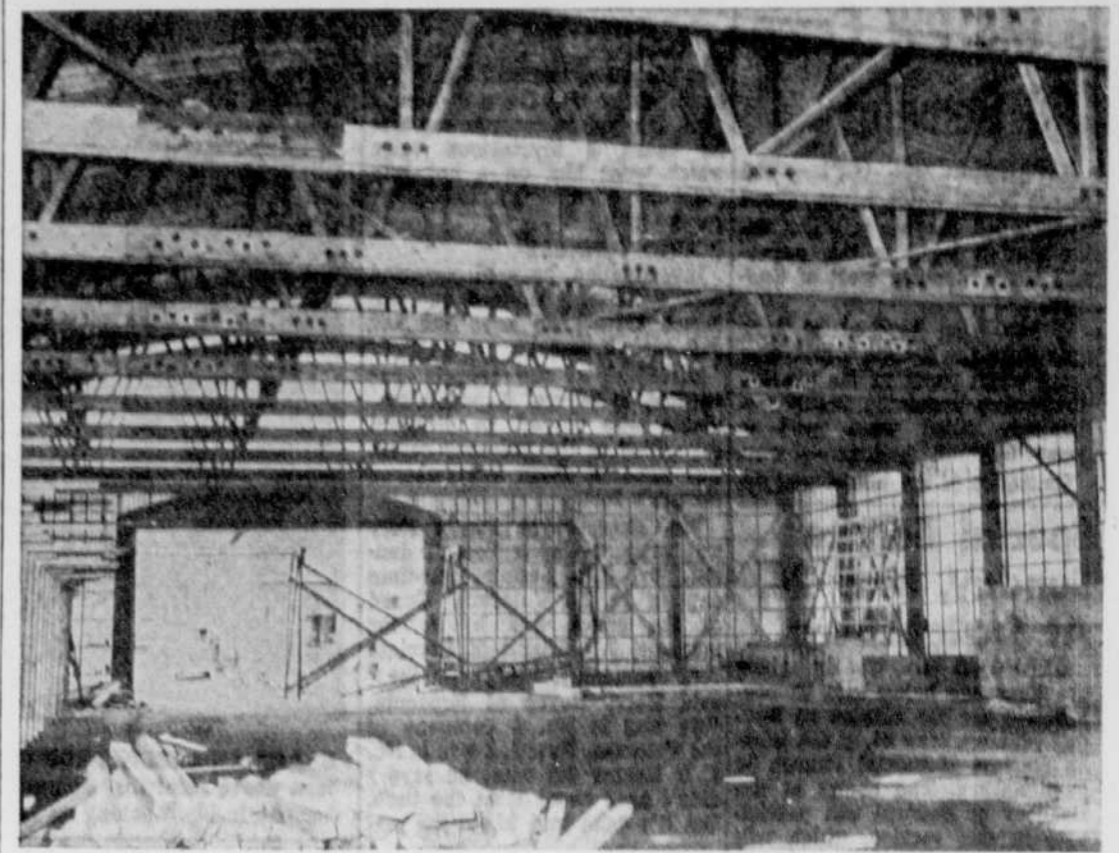

Modern Addition Made To Old Town Landmark

MAGOG — A stranger driving down Magog's Main Street, or St. Patrick Street which parallels Main, is quite likely to ask what a factory is doing right in the centre of the city's business district.

Theodore Langlois Limitee is a sash and door factory and builders' supply house, which had its beginning before the turn of the century, and is one of Magog's oldest landmarks. Until recently, the general appearance of the plant had altered very little in its 50 years existence. Today this place of business has taken on a modern look, with the completion of a giant modern warehouse.

EXTERIOR VIEW OF THE NEW LANGLOIS WAREHOUSE

When Magog was competing with Cherry River for prominence, the A.D. Martin lumber mill went into production. At that time Magog was a very small village, at the outlet to Memphremagog Lake, and on the main railway line from Boston to Montreal. Its major importance was its location, and the only industry of consequence was lumbering.

At the time it was built, Martin's mill was conveniently located in the main section of the small community, where lumbermen would bring their logs to be sawed. A large portion of this city has been built from lumber processed, and materials supplied from this plant, and as this community grew, so did the Martin enterprise.

In 1910, Aaron Martin sold the thriving business to his son, Earl A. Martin, and Herbert Wallace, and in 1920, Earl Martin bought out his partner. By this time, it was without question one of the busiest places of business in Magog, and still growing. But in 1924, the enterprising owner was accidentally killed. Two years later, Earl Martin's widow sold the business to Olivier Langlois. The new owner was also an excellent manager, and under his guidance, the firm continued to prosper.

The name Martin, though, is still very much related to the building and construction trade.

ADDERLEY —

Miss Joyce MacKenzie has returned to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth MacKenzie after completing her studies at Sir George Williams College, Montreal.

Mr. Prescott Walker spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. C. Wright in Thetford Mines after returning from the Plessisville Hospital where he had been confined for two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Logan, of Thetford Mines, were visiting at the MacKenzie home.

Miss Janet Kelso of Birchton spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Kelso. Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Dezan of Maple Grove were visiting Mr. Prescott Walker.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Kelso and Master Ronald Kelso were visiting Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Logan in Thetford Mines.

as Earl Martin's two sons, Kenneth, and Earl Junior (Bill), have gained reputations of their own as Martin Brothers, general contractors and builders in this city and region.

Twelve years ago, Theodore Langlois bought the business from his father. He has also been a splendid manager, and a man with sound ideas for advancement. The firm which has grown up with the city, like the municipality, is also taking on modern appearances.

From old wooden buildings, to modern cement and metal housing, this old mill is gaining the big factory look. Several years ago, Theodore Langlois constructed a cement building, after a fire destroyed one of the original two-storey sheds. Last fall, realizing the need for a warehouse, plans for their newly completed building went into effect.

In a few days, this ultra modern warehouse will be complete, and according to Mr. Langlois, packed with building supplies. It measures 162 feet by 85 feet, and is 30 feet high. The outside is covered by aluminum sheeting over wood framing, with round arch roof topped with sheet metal. The building has a hard surface floor, without support pillars, allowing wide variation in the use of floor space. At each end of the building there is a full width clear fibre-glass window in the roof arc, which lets ample daylight enter the structure.

It's ideal for this factory, which has a heavy stock, and of prime interest to the people of Magog. Indeed another mark of progress in this city.

Escape Tunnel In Old PW Camp Still Remains

ESPANOLA, Ont. (CP) — An escape tunnel which never served its intended purpose still lies under Station Road in this paper-mill town 45 miles west of Sudbury.

It has been blocked at both ends since the Second World War years when parts of the present Kalamazoo Vegetable Parchment Company plant were used to house German prisoners-of-war. Existence of the tunnel was recalled when a former prisoner-of-war guard recently claimed credit for preventing a mass escape in 1941. Earl Harper, now 62 and living in Bracebridge, Ont., claimed that his gift of "second sight" led to discovery of a German escape plan. He told an interviewer that he heard a mysterious voice which woke him on a hot July night to warn of an impending escape plot.

FOUND TUNNELS
Investigation, he said, revealed that German prisoners had obtained knives and keys and had dug escape tunnels.

Discovery of the tunnels was verified by several Espanola residents who served in different capacities at the prisoner camp. But none of them remembered Harper's role.

The Bracebridge man's story was supported by a Toronto dentist, Dr. J.E. Lappin, one-time captain in the Veterans' Guard at the camp, and by former Sergeant J.B. Nixon of Toronto.

"I remember this Harper," said Harry Boyce of Espanola. "He was in No. 6 company of the Veterans, Guard. I was in No. 7. If Harper did what he says I didn't hear about it at the time. But it's quite true about the tunnels being dug."

AUSTIN —

Mrs. L. C. Jacobs who is recovering from pneumonia is at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. MacIntosh.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Channell, Mr. and Mrs. C. Allan and Mr. C.C. Juby attended a Liberal Committee meeting and dinner in Knowlton.

Mr. Douglas Taylor of Sutton spent the weekend at his home here.

Special Service Sunday, May 24, At Frelighsburg

BEDFORD — Weekly choir practices are being held in preparation for the service on Sunday evening, May 24, at the Bishop Stewart Memorial Church in Frelighsburg. The choirs in the Deanery of Bedford will participate in this service, which will commemorate the 100th anniversary of the holding of the first meeting of the Synod in the Diocese of Montreal.

The Lord Bishop of Montreal will be present at the service, at which the Archdeacon Naylor, rector of Trinity Church, Montreal will be the special preacher.

SELF - SERVE

Cafeterias, self-serve restaurants, were developed in Chicago and other U.S. cities before 1900.

EARNs THIRTEEN PROFICIENCY BADGES — Cub Danny Mullins, who recently became a Scout in the First Knowlton Troop, is seen above receiving congratulations from District Commissioner J. A. Fanning on earning 13 Proficiency Badges, the highest number obtainable. Looking on is Mrs. C. Lorne Taylor, Cub leader.

nels being dug."

Mr. Boyce said one tunnel led to the main guardhouse, another to within a few feet of the Espanola Hotel. Neither tunnel had been finished to the surface when the escape plan was discovered.

Edward Beaudoin of Espanola, who blocked off the tunnels after they had been inspected, said they were about four feet square.

"They had them all shored up with orange crates and other bits of wood," he said. During the day the diggers kept the tunnel entrances, inside the building, covered with boards topped with sand. Digging was done at night.

As many as 1,600 prisoners-of-war were kept in the Espanola camp—from July, 1940, to December, 1943. All escapes were accounted for within 36 hours of their getaway.

"Harper's right about the tunnels," said Mr. Boyce, "but I never heard anything about his 'second sight.'"

Parents' Night Held By Knowlton Scouts, Cubs

KNOWLTON — The First Knowlton Boy Scout Troop and the First Knowlton Wolf Cub Pack combined with their leaders to hold a Parents' Night in the High School.

At 7 p.m. the Flag Break took place followed by the Grand Howl. W. R. Clarke, president of the Boy Scout Committee, welcomed the many parents present, after which games were played by the Cubs and Scouts.

Akela, Mrs. C. Lorne Church, reported on the year's activities and introduced her assistants, Mrs. J. E. Martin, Peter Crowe and Richard Beerworth.

The Cubs then enjoyed a game with their mothers, after which First Stars were presented to James Stockwell and Dale Patch and the Athlete's Badge to Michael Mullins.

Scoutmaster L. K. Eden gave a report of the Scouts' activities for the past year and this was followed by a game played by the Scouts and their fathers. John Armitage reported on his trip to Quebec City, when he received the Queen's Award from Lieut-Governor Gaspard Fauteux.

In a Going-Up Ceremony, Larry Fuller went up to Scouts and was presented with a Scout money pouch by W. R. Clarke. The entire assembly joined in a song, then the Scouts presented an amusing skit.

W. R. Clarke reported on the activities of the Group Committee and introduced District Commissioner J. A. Fanning who addressed the gathering.

At another Going Up ceremony, held at the Boy Scout Hall, Danny Mullins went up to the Scouts. Danny is the second Cub in the Wolf Cub Pack to earn 13 proficiency badges, which is the maximum number of badges possible to earn.
