FREE TRADE WITH CANADA IS THE GOAL

Says Congressman Underwood, Chairman of Ways and Means Com.

RECIPROCITY AGREEMENT ONLY A BEGINNING.

Leader of Dominant Party in Next House of Representatives Makes Frank Statement on United States' Intentions Towards Canada.

Special to the Montreal Star.

New York, March 27.—The New York World prints an extended interview with Congressman Oscar W. Underwood, chairman of the new Ways and Means Committee of Congress, who will have most to say about the new tariff laws. In regard to trade relations with Canada, Mr. Underwood says:

"There is no doubt that the reciprocity agreement with Canada will be passed by the House at an early date after the House reassembles in April. As far as it goes, the Democrats have already approved the reciprocity agreement in caucus. The Canadian agreement only covers a small portion of the scope of the tariff revision, though, which we will endeavor to put on the statute books.

"Personally I am in favor of adding a clause to the Reciprocity agreement, authorizing the President, by executive act, to reduce the tariff duties of this country, whether included in the Canadian agreement or not, whenever Canada is ready to remove corresponding duties on the same articles. In short, I advocate putting articles on the free list whenever Canada is willing to put them on her free list. This would not interfere with the present pending pact between this country and Canada, but it would be an invitation on the part of our Government for Canada to unite with us in ultimate free trade.

"I am not a free-trader, so far as the world at large is concerned, but I believe, on the contrary in a tariff for revenue only. But as between this country and Canada, I should welcome absolute free trade if the Canadian Government is willing to grant free trade to our products entering Canada."

It is understood here and in Washington that Mr. Underwood will not rest content with adding a "free trade" rider to the present reciprocity agreement, but that he will begin an active campaign to bring about the complete destruction of the tariff wall between the States and Canada.

Sir William Mackenzie Travels.

Sir William Mackenzie, president of the Canadian Northern Railway, arrived in Montreal from Toronto this morning, accompanied by Lady Mackenzie, and left on the Intercolonial at noon for Halifax.

RECIPROCITY

Straw Vote For And Against

Straws show which way the wind blows.—Old Proverb.

Four additional office buildings are represented to-day in The Star's straw vote on Reciprocity. They are the Liverpool, London and Globe Insurance Company Building, the Royal Trust Building, the Metropolitan Building and the Royal Insurance Building. In all, four buildings the vote is strongly against Reciprocity.

The figures:

LIVERPOOL, LONDON & GLOBE BLDG.

Against	42
For	12

ROYAL TRUST BLDG.

Against	11
For	14

METROPOLITAN BLDG.

Against	33
For	9

ROYAL INSURANCE BLDG.

Against	37
For	6

In the Liverpool, London & Globe, the talk, as well as the voting, was strongly against Reciprocity.

"I'm only sorry," said one voter, "that we haven't the chance to vote on the question at a regular election; the Government would surely have their eyes opened then."

In the Royal Trust Building there are several offices occupied by French-speaking firms. In these, no less than in the others, the sentiment against Reciprocity runs strong. In the offices of the Royal Trust Co., itself thirty votes were cast against and only one in favor of the pact.

The Metropolitan Building is occupied largely by lawyers. They were, as a rule, eager to vote and to talk against Reciprocity.

In the Royal Insurance Build- the same story was repeated.

The Chinese Egg Case.

Mr. Justice Weir to-day heard the argument of Mr. Harris, acting for Layton in the Chinese egg case. The city's side will be heard during the afternoon when Mr. Aimé Geoffrion will speak.

Ministers in the City.

NE TEMERE DECREE DISCUSSED FROM TORONTO PULPITS

Rev. Dr. Hincks Declares it is Worse Than Divorce Law—Father Minehan Defends It.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Toronto, March 27.—Before crowded aisles and packed benches in Broadway Tabernacle last night, Rev. Dr. Hincks returned to the "Ne Temere," discussing "Roman Catholics and Betrothals." Dr. Hincks denounced the betrothal laws included in the "ne temere" decree, and declared Roman Catholicism had included the betrothal for the first time in its history, though at the close of his sermon he showed the new marriage law was a revival of one in force 350 years ago.

"Institutionalism has no right to interfere in the sacred betrothal," Dr. Hincks declared. "The frozen statecraft of Rome is an immodest intruder where any woman's heart is involved. God, not the celibate priest, has the right to be present at the betrothal. The betrothal is not a bauble to be blown by the mouths of priests. If God does not fuse the two hearts, no unmarried, loveless priest can."

Dr. Hincks then referred to the recent Herbert-Clare case in Quebec, declaring it showed just how far the Roman Catholic Church was willing to interfere in the Government of Canada. "This shows how they infringe on the clergy by not giving equal rights to all denominations," he said. "It shows the decree to be in direct antagonism to the laws of the people as a whole. The immoral tendency is now laid bare. Such a law is worse than the worst divorce law, as divorce requires some wrong to be enacted, while this does not.

Mixed marriages formed the topic for a startling discourse, delivered before a large congregation, by Rev. Father Minehan, at St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church last night. Father Minehan said the "Ne Temere" decree had been in force for nearly three years without any adverse comment or outcry having been raised. The Catholic Church had not aroused the stir. It commenced in that reservoir of sewerage, fashionable society. Then it was taken up by a few papers.

Father Minehan denied the charge laid by the opponents of the decree that the Catholic Church desired to break up the home. No other religion, he said, recognized the home to the same extent as the Catholic Church. It loved the home and would not break it up if it could possibly help it.

"So-called Protestant marriages," declared Father Minehan, "are done in a rush and a hustle. The Minister says to the man, 'Will you take her for your wife?' And he gives a grunt of assent. (Laughter.) 'Will you take him for your husband?' he asks the woman, and she gives a nod of assent. (Laughter.) That is practically all there is to it.

"When it comes to mixed marriages there was no more sacredness in the affair than a deal at the cattle market. There was nothing at the bottom of such marriages except brute passion.

"The church promulgated this decree because she wanted to keep marriage sacred and to keep the home from being wrecked.

"The church recognized the civil law, and the validity of the civil marriage of non-Catholics. The church was not interfering with the state at all in that respect.

MR. M'GIBBON BUYS CEDAR RAPIDS POWER

Important Deal Closed for 150,000 Horse Power 27 Miles Away

Purchase Will Be of Far-Reaching Importance In Our Power Situation.

A transaction of far-reaching importance was consummated on Saturday, when the great water-power at Cedar Rapids was sold.

The Star understands upon pretty good authority that the purchaser is Mr. D. Lorne McGibbon, and that the owners of the power were paid a very handsome price for the property.

When seen this morning Mr. McGibbon admitted that he was interested in the transaction, but said that he had no details to make public at the moment.

Cedar Rapids are 27 miles from Montreal, and it is estimated will generate about 150,000 horse-power, making it one of the largest and most important power propositions in this part of the country.

The property has long been looked upon as being of great strategic importance in Montreal's power field, and it would be difficult to forecast at the moment just what bearing the deal is going to have upon the enterprises now supplying power on this island.

In view of the fact that Mr. McGibbon has recently been associated in several industrial enterprises with the people close to the Canadian Power Co., at St. Timothee, the public may, at first, be disposed to come to the conclusion that the Canadian Power interests will be more or less identified with the new deal, but some of the Canadian Power people were not even aware this morning that the Cedar Rapids power had changed hands.

Mr. McGibbon was again asked early this afternoon to reveal further details in regard to his plans, but said that he had nothing to say, apart from the fact that he has been looking into the proposition for three years or more, and that the purchase was not made on the spur of the moment. He said that one of the foremost power experts in Canada would become identified with the project, and would hereafter devote his entire time to its development.

SIR E. GREY IGNORES MEXICAN QUESTION

Foreign Affairs Secretary Declines to Ask President Taft to Arbitrate With Mexico.

London, March 27.—The group in the House of Commons who have persistently heckled the Government regarding Ambassador Bryce's connection with the Canadian-American reciprocity negotiations, is now trying to involve the British diplomatic corps in the Mexican situation.

To-day these members invited the Foreign Office to instruct Mr. Bryce to urge upon President Taft the desirability of submitting "the Mexican question" to arbitration.

Foreign Secretary Grey's reply was: "I do not know to what question you are alluding. The relations of the United States and the Mexican Governments, according to my most recent information, are quite friendly."

OUTLOOK FOR VETO BILL.

Spectator Suggests Best Course Would Be to Accept It.

London, March 27.—In regard to the Lord's Veto Bill, the attitude of the Unionist party seems to be one of frank despair. The Veto Bill must pass the Commons and then the Lords must either give the measure their sanction or defeat it outright.

The Spectator, lamenting the situation, says that in the event of the defeat of the bill by the Lords, their action will be followed by the creation of enough new Radical peers.

In this dilemma the Spectator goes so far as to hint that it would be profitable for the Lords to accept the Veto Bill, as its defeat would be followed by the formation of an Upper House that would at once pass the Home Rule measure, which could be held off for at least two years by the present chamber.

DOORS LEADING FROM FLAME-SWEPT FLATS WERE LOCKED

Inquiry Into Triangle Waist Company Fire Opened To-day—District Attorney Determined to Locate Responsibility—Eighty-five Bodies Identified—Many of Those Remaining Will Likely Never be Recognized—Mayor Gaynor Opens Relief Fund for Families of Victims.

Building in which Saturday's terrible fire occurred. The windows from which the victims jumped are enclosed in the white lines shown in the photograph.

Special to The Montreal Star.

New York, March 27.—One hundred and forty-four persons are dead as the result of the fire which on Saturday evening swept the three upper floors of the factory loft building at the north-west corner of Washington Place and Greene street. This is the latest official total given. More than three-quarters of this number are women and girls, who were employed in the Triangle Waist Company's factory, where the fire originated.

The police and firemen believe that all the bodies have now been taken from the building. The last two bodies to be removed, those of two young girls, were taken out of the sub-cellar just before eleven o'clock yesterday morning.

The work of searching for the dead was carried on all Saturday night, and was not abandoned until noon yesterday. It is believed that the girls whose bodies were recovered yesterday were among the first to jump from the top floor. Their bodies shot through a three-inch glass and iron sidewalk to the cellar and lodged on steam pipes just under the sidewalk.

Between the hours of one o'clock Sunday morning and eight o'clock last night, more than one hundred thousand persons visited the temporary morgue in the effort to identify the victims of the calamity. The bodies lay in the rough wooden coffins that were occupied by the victims of the Slocum disaster of seven years ago. A great many of those drawn to the morgue were curiosity-seekers, who used every resource to get by the police. At midnight eighty-five of the victims had been positively identified. Sixty bodies remain to be identified, but many are so badly burned as to preclude all possibility of recognition.

Twenty-four persons who were injured in the disaster are in city hospitals. It is expected that some of them will die.

DOORS LEADING FROM FLOORS WERE LOCKED.

It has been ascertained positively that the doors leading from the three floors occupied by the Triangle Waist Company, where the fire started, were locked. The iron shutters leading to the fire escape's landing swung outward, and "buckled," as they did in the Iroquois Theatre fire in Chicago, blocking the platforms when the mad rush for safety began.

Managers of the Triangle Shirt Waist Company deny to-day that the iron doors leading to the elevators and stairs were locked.

The fact that there was only one fire escape on the building will come in for a careful investigation to determine what city official is to blame.

The main stairway was narrow and ill-lighted, and ordinarily so dark that a person would have to grope his way. There were only two stairways in the building, although the law requires three.

District Attorney Whitmen will today begin an investigation of the causes which led to the disaster. He says he will exhaust every resource at his command to find out who is responsible. The grand jury is expected to begin an investigation during the week, and the fire department will also conduct an enquiry. Chief Croker reiterated his statement that the fire department had notified the building department of the lack of adequate fire escapes on many factory buildings.

Officials of the building department say that an investigation of the burned building showed that while it lacked enough fire escapes it met all the other requirements of the law in that respect.

Mayor Gaynor has issued a call for a relief fund to aid the stricken families of the victims. Many of those who perished were the sole support of wives, parents, or children. Despite the activity of the police and firemen yesterday in clearing away the gruesome reminders of the disaster, the streets in front of the building were littered with shoes, stockings and portions of clothing.

At a meeting of the Unions to which the victims belonged speeches were made denouncing the laxity of the fire and building laws, and demanding that owners of property and employers be compelled to make greater provisions for safeguarding human life in future.

FIRE MARSHAL'S INQUIRY OPENED.

Fire Marshal Beers began his official investigation to-day. It is now definitely known that the fire started on the eighth floor of the building near a window at the northeast corner of the building. The fire began under a cutting table in a scrap heap and is now thought to have been started by a cigarette.

Fire Marshal Beers summoned the proprietors of the Triangle Shirt Waist Company, and several employes of the firm to testify.

He has been busy collecting all available information regarding the conditions in the factory when the fire started and will inquire particularly in the truth of statements that doors leading to the exits were locked.

No Fire Drill in Factory.

"So far as I have been able to discover," said Mr. Beers, "there has never been a fire drill in this factory. In my opinion it would take the 700 girls three hours to reach the street by the fire escape that was used in the building. I can say that the shutters obstructed this fire escape.

"There are a thousand other buildings in this city in the same condition as the scene of Saturday's disaster. The buildings are passed as loft buildings are then converted into factories. Nine-tenths of the employes cannot read English, yet in the examination I have made I could not find a sign in the Yiddish or Italian tongues, which most of the employes spoke, pointing out fire exits."

CHIEF CROKER ON PRESENT OUTLOOK.

Borough President McAneny to-day, in reviewing the investigation made following the recent Newark fire horror, said that the Asch building was not included in the list of those buildings returned as having inadequate fire escape facilities.

"This might well be," said Mr. McAneny, "for the reason that, technically, the building appears to conform to the code. The natural conclusion is, or ought to be, that the code should suffer radical amendment."

Fire Chief Croker said to-day: "I do not hesitate to say that a more appalling loss of life in office buildings and big stores is likely to come upon New York at any minute because of the lack of safeguards."

(For earlier account of the destructive fire, see page 6.)

Missing Investment Broker Landed by Pinkerton Detectives In Pittsburg.

Admits His Identity As Soon as Pinkertons Lay Their Hands on Him

Special to The Montreal Star.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 27.—After being sought by the police all over Canada and the United States, C. D. Sheldon, alias C. D. Washburn, a broker, wanted in Montreal for false pretences, was arrested here early this afternoon by a Pinkerton detective on a downtown street. Taken to the Central Police Station, Sheldon, according to the police, admitted his identity and waived extradition. Preparations were made at once for taking him back to Montreal.

On being escorted to the police station, Sheldon was examined by Police Superintendent Thomas A. McQuaide, and Police-Detective Captain William Elmore, and then all the detectives in the Pittsburg Bureau gazed at Sheldon's features.

The man was collected and calm, but thoroughly realized the seriousness of his situation.

Following his stated admission that he is the man for whom the police of the country have been seeking, Captain Elmore entered an information against Sheldon, charging him with being a fugitive from justice. He was then placed in a cell to await transportation to the Dominion.

Pittsburg detectives have been carrying a description of Sheldon in their pockets since last fall, in the hope that they would make his arrest and participate in the large rewards, it was understood were offered for his capture.

REASON GIVEN FOR DISALLOWANCE

The Provincial Legislature Declined Amendments Recommended Through Colonial Office.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Ottawa, March 27.—The disallowance by the Dominion Government of the act regarding the chartered accountants of Ontario, as passed by the Provincial Legislature, has caused considerable comment.

It is learned that the English Institute of Chartered Accountants, through the Colonial Secretary, protested against the Act, as calculated to make a close corporation of the society and certain representations were made by way of amendment.

These, however, were not given effect to by the province, and, in consequence, the Act has been disallowed by the Federal Government, on the recommendation of the Minister of Justice.

VICTIM IDENTIFIED BY STAR SUBSCRIPTION.

Excusable homicide was the verdict rendered this morning in the case of a man killed Saturday night by a car, at the Second Avenue crossing, Lachine. A receipt for a year's subscription to the Montreal Star, from May, 1911 to May, 1912, bearing the name and address, F. Fisher, Stanbridge East, Que., served to identify him. It was shown that he was crossing the track and his view of the approaching car was obstructed by a near-by pole.

Another case at the morgue was that of Omer Cote, 25 years, killed by an engine of the Canadian Northern Quebec Railway, between the Cement Company's plant and the Montreal Locomotive works, on Saturday afternoon. The engine driver was exonerated.

BOY PLAYING WITH MATCHES BADLY BURNED.

As the result of playing with matches this morning, Antonio Ross, the five-year-old son of Mr. J. Ross, 128a Delorimier avenue, is in the Notre Dame Hospital in a serious condition. Mrs. Ross, while smothering the flames in the lad's clothing, was burned about the hands. Dr. G. H. Leblanc was called, and had the boy removed to the Notre Dame Hospital. The boy was reported this afternoon to be in a low condition.

The Glencoe Takes Bruce Route.

Mr. W. D. Reid, of the Reid Newfoundland Company, announces that the company will order a new steamer of an improved Bruce type to take the place of the vessel which went to pieces off the Cape Breton coast. The two lives lost in Friday's shipwreck, Mr. Reid states, are the first on the Reid Newfoundland system for some score of years either on land or sea.

The steamer Glencoe to-day sailed from Louisburg, taking the regular trip of the Bruce on the Port aux Basque, Louisburg route.

DIAZ WOULD GIVE PEONS FARM LANDS

Mexican President Plans a Great Scheme to Better People's Condition.

Special to The Montreal Star.

New York, March 27.—The Tribune's Washington special says: As a further step toward restoring order in the republic of Mexico, President Diaz, in a message to Congress, will recommend that approximately $40,000,000 of the surplus in national treasury be used for carrying out a plan to divide large tracts of public domain and portions of the larger haciendas not entirely under cultivation, and distribute them as small farms among peons and poorer classes of the country.

Should this land distribution plan be favorably acted on, it is estimated that from three million to eight million acres will be parcelled out as small farms, varying in size from five to twenty acres to each family. It is expected that several thousand families will thus have an opportunity to become independent land owners.

Forecast of New Cabinet.

Mexico City, March 27.—Although no official announcement has been made, it is known that five of the new members of President Diaz's Cabinet have been selected and it is almost certain that Jose Yves Limatour will remain as Minister of Finance. Other selections besides that of Senor de la Barra as Minister of Foreign Affairs, are:

Nordbeto Domingues, Postmaster-General, Department of Communications, succeeding Leander Fernandez.

Manuel Maroquin, well-known civil engineer, Department of Fomento, succeeding Olegario Molina.

Jorge Vera Estanol, an attorney, Minister of Education, succeeding Justo Sierra.

Gen. Bernardo Reyes is coming back to Mexico.

Colonel Morrison, of Ottawa, Caused Great Excitement to Germans.

Canadian Associated Press.

London, March 27.—Colonel Morrison, of Ottawa, has returned from a visit, paid by special permission of the Kaiser, to the Wesel garrison and the Elsenborn practice ground.

The Colonel was received everywhere most courteously and was given special facilities for making his inspection. He saw the castle in which Lieutenant Brandon is interred, and while riding with the German officers himself caused the greatest excitement, the inhabitants believing him to be another captured spy.

Colonel Morrison sailed for Canada on board the Baltic on Saturday.

TEN MILLION WILL WITNESS CORONATION

Preparations for Imposing Celebrations Are Well Under Way

London, March 27.—With the coronation less than three months distant all England is astir with preparations for the celebration. Brilliant pageants are being organized to emphasize the loyal love of the subjects of a great Empire for the Sovereign who, on June 22, will be enthroned and crowned in Westminster Abbey as King George V. Leading up to the climax of coronation day there will be many imperial and royal ceremonies. On May 12 King George and Queen Mary will drive to the Crystal Palace to open the Festival of Empire, which is to be an imposing exhibition of the greatness of Britain's imperial resources and a demonstration of the wonderful progress made in commerce, art and craftsmanship.

A few days later the Kaiser and Kaiserin will visit England to participate in the ceremony of the unveiling, on May 17, by King George and Queen Mary of the Victoria memorial, in the Mall. This will be followed by the assembling of the Imperial Conference, on May 22, a gathering which is expected to be epoch making, as its personnel will embrace not only the statesmen of Great Britain, but the leading men of Greater Britain in the nations and colonies overseas, who are being called together to develop a policy that will make for closer Imperial unity and greater Imperial prosperity.

In addition to the coronation ceremony on June 22, the royal progress through the streets of London on June 23, the naval review off Spithead the next day, the gala performance of opera on June 27, and the service at St. Paul's on June 29, the King and Queen will welcome 100,000 children as their guests at the Crystal Palace on June 30. Then will come the visits to Ireland and Scotland, to be followed by a journey to Carnarvon for the investiture of the Prince of Wales on July 13.

It is expected that more than thirty miles of London streets will be traversed by the King and Queen during the splendid festivities of May and June, and it is estimated that the coronation and its attendant spectacles will be witnessed by ten million spectators.

In all the colossal work of organization for the coronation celebration, the reception of royal guests and of the delegates from the oversea Dominions there is one supreme arbiter, the King, to whom are referred all intricate questions of plan and precedent, and his swift and sure decisions clarify and dispose of numerous problems every day.

As an evidence of the great influx from overseas, it is announced by the most important steamship lines that every steamship that arrives in an English port on any day from the end of March until the third week in June will be filled to her passenger carrying capacity with visitors anxious to see or take part in the festivities of the coronation.

SHEFFIELD CHOIR OPENS SEASON IN ARENA TO-NIGHT

Will Sing Elgar's "Dream of Gerontius" Before a Large and Distinguished Audience.

The members of the Sheffield Choir, who are to give the first of three performances in the Arena to-night, arrived in the city last evening from St. John, N.B. They had a stormy voyage from England on the Victorian, and arrived so late at St. John that the afternoon performance on Saturday had to be abandoned.

It is a curious but indisputable fact that when England produces a masterpiece in the realm of music it takes a very long time for native lovers of the art to grasp the fact that they possess anything out of the ordinary. No better instance of this could be cited than that splendid effort in the direction of oratorio, Elgar's "Dream of Gerontius," which will be sung by the Sheffield Choir in the Arena to-night.

Produced several years ago at the Birmingham Festival, "The Dream of Gerontius" was not heard in the metropolis until some years after its actual first performance. In less than a year from the date of its production it had been given twice in Dusseldorf within the space of four months, however, and conservative Germany hailed it as a masterpiece. Dantzig and Darmstadt endorsed the opinion, and New York received it twice with enthusiasm. In Edinburgh, Glasgow, Sheffield, Manchester, Hereford, in Australia even—at Sydney—it has been listened to with quick appreciation, and yet for all London at large knows of this one of the greatest achievements in the whole realm of modern music, with all its feeling after keen nervous effects, complex orchestration, and elaboration of the "motive" system, it might yet be remaining still in manuscript and pining for a hearing.

Both the composer and the work have an interesting history. Elgar is essentially an Englishman—his very name can be traced from Aelfgar—and he lives, not in cosmopolitan London, but in a cottage in the wood nestling between those splendid Malvern uplands which inspired Piers Plowman to write his poetry. Dr. Elgar is none of your long haired neurotics. He works hard at his desk from nine till one, and then out into the open he goes, and no weather keeps him from his beloved golf. Then, again, he is a man who has learnt his music himself. Except for five lessons on the violin—the money for which, let it be noted and placed to his everlasting credit, he saved up himself—he is self-taught. He will show you with pride, for there is not a spark of affectation in his whole composition, a set of quadrilles which he arranged for a weird combination forming the band of a lunatic asylum, which he not only conducted, but taught. This work gave him that insight into the tone color of various instruments that has since stamped such peculiar character on his compositions. It is not too much to say that since the days of Purcell no Englishman but Elgar has given us music of such depth, thought, and originality.

If one could peep behind the scenes of the London Choral Society, or, to be more accurate, see into the clever conductor's mind, it might be that this "Dream of Gerontius," was the reason for which the Society was called into being. At any rate, it redounds to its credit that such a young Society should, at the very outset of its career, have given Londoners the opportunity of hearing a most impressive work.

It was just after his controversy with Charles Kingsley, and when he was in his 65th year, that Cardinal Newman wrote his poem of "The Dream of Gerontius." Two things are told which go to show that he thouhgt very little of his effort. One is that he threw it into the waste-paper basket, from which omnivorous receptacle it was rescued by a friend, the other is that when an editor pestered him for a contribution, Newman sent him the poem, adding that he had routed it out of a drawer.

Its first appearance in book form was made in 1865, in a tiny volume, published by Burns and Oates, and not, as has been generally stated, in Newman's "Verses on Various Occasions' published three years later. The title page of the first issue contained only the initials "J. H. N." General Gordon had a copy of it with him at Khartoum, and Gladstone spoke of it in the same breath as the Divine Comedy. The church-goer of to-day knows of it probably only through the hymn which constantly occurs through the poem, "Praise to the Holiest in the Height." For those who think at all about the question of fitness with regard to worship-music. Elgar's setting of these particular lines should be compared with the weak sentimentality of the ordinary Anglican hymn-tune.

Intensely Catholic and keenly imaginative, the poem must have appealed to more than one musician at various times, but only Elgar had the courage to start and bring to a successful accomplishment such a difficult task. Briefly, the whole point was the mystic atmosphere which had to be conjured up by the music. If, on the other hand, it is not dramatic—and it could only have this quality in the way that the old morality play "Everyman," by its simple and direct strength, or the very Liturgy itself, possesses it—it is not on the same plane as oratioro in its accepted sense. It is devotional in the way that "Parsifal" is; and its pre-eminence as a work of art is that music alone, not scenic accessories or the help of action, brings before the mind of the listener the effect desired.

WOMEN NOT INTERLOPERS.

Mrs Waycott Says They are Advancing in Public Life.

"Men must learn to regard women not as interlopers in political and social movements, but as coadjutors and helpers," said Mrs. F. H. Waycott, addressing the Men's Own at Dominion Square Methodist Church yesterday. Women were not content with mere commercial and political administration of the city by politicians and business men with self-interest at heart, or even those who simply aimed at an economic policy. The advancement of women in public life coincided with advanced legislation, such as compensation to employes and better protection of the young in the labor market. There was also the cry for pure milk and the demand for playgrounds. The speaker concluded by regretting the action of the Quebec Government in dropping the Parks' Commission project, for which women had worked so ardently.

POSTAGE REDUCTION MAY MEAN CLOSER TIE WITH GREAT BRITAIN

Sir Frank Newnes Says Canada Was Never So Much Talked of as She is at Present.

Sir Frank Newnes, head of the well known magazine publishing house in London, arrived in Montreal to-day, and will visit also Ottawa, Toronto, and possibly Winnipeg, with a view to making arrangements for pushing in Canada, the English magazines in which he is interested.

The recent reduction in the postage on English magazines to Canada, he said, has very favorably affected the overseas circulation of his magazines, but he thinks that it ought to result in much greater developments in circulation than has yet been manifested, especially as so many thousands of English people are now coming to Canada to live.

"Canada was never so much talked of in England as at the present time," he remarked, "and we feel that there ought to be a greater interchange of periodical literature than at present."

Great Britain, said Sir Frank, was in a very prosperous condition just now. Her home and foreign trade were in excellent condition, and unemployment and poverty were less prevalent now than for many years past. The big tide of emigration to Canada did not by any means indicate bad trade at home. In a country of the size of England, with a population of over forty millions, there was bound to be considerable emigration, and it was most desirable that it should be so. The coming to Canada of so many thousands of people was simply the result of the great advertising schemes Canada was now carrying out in Great Britain.

"The advertising of Canada is now a business that is being carried out by very able men, and the big tide of emigrants to your country is the logical result," he said.

"Besides," he added, "the fact that London is the money market of the world, shows that England must be in a prosperous condition. Why, during the last three years England has loaned to Canada alone $500,000,000. That does not look like a country suffering from bad trade, does it?"

Being a Liberal, who sat in the House of Commons for four years, Sir Frank naturally takes a great interest in politics. He announced himself as an opponent of tariff reform and Imperial preference—first, because he was afraid it might increase the cost of living in the Old Country; but chiefly because he maintained that the scheme was in such a nebulous state that it could not properly be judged.

"It has been stated," he said, "that no tax would be put upon raw materials, but the people have never been given clearly to understand what constitutes raw materials and what do not. For instancee, are Canadian lumber and Canadian pulpwood raw materials? Some say they are and if that is so, then this Imperial preference scheme would do no good to Canada in respect to them. It is the same with other things, the whole scheme being too nebulous to commend itself."

In regard to reciprocity, he said he did not wish to express any opinion, as he thought Canada had a right to settle these matters for herself. As a free trader he deprecated any idea of restraining Canada from entering into freer trade relations with her neighbors.

Creates Hockey League.

He unveiled to them the scheme of his new plans for the Pacific Coast Hockey League, which he is creating.

There are to be rinks in Victoria, Calgary, Vancouver and Edmonton, and these are to cost a hundred and ninety thousand dollars each, and two will be provided with artificial plants which will cost thirty thousand each.

The Managers.

The two Patricks, Frank and Lester will manage and play with two teams and they are looking for Percy LeSueur and Newsy Lalonde to fill similar positions in the other rinks.

In discussing the matter with The Star, Mr. Patrick said: "The thing is not a certainty, but we have the capital, and the land, and the people especially in Vancouver are crazy about it.

To Investigate First.

We decided, however, that it would be better to spend a few hundred dollars investigating details of costs from which we can figure out the probable chances of profit before committing ourselves too deeply, and I am now expecting letters from British Columbia in response to the result of the enquiries which I have made during my extensive trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick are stopping at the Corona Hotel, and expect to be in Montreal for about a week.

EXHIBITION SITE UP BEFORE CITY COUNCIL.

A determined attempt will be made at the meeting of the City Council to-day, by Ald. Tetreau, to have the aldermen, and them alone, decide whether the exposition site shall be in Maisonneuve or Park Avenue. He will make a motion that the City Council shall cast a vote on the matter. His contention will be that the the City Council is justified in taking this action, as it is practically financing the undertaking, and as the exposition committee, after many months' of work, cannot arrive at any decision in regard to a site.

Other aldermen will protest, pointing out that the Legislature, and other bodies have voted money to start an exhibition in Montreal, and that such action would be impertinent on the part of the City Council.

MR. FIELDING'S ANSWERS

Hon. Mr. Fielding faced an audience on Saturday night containing a large critical element. It would, in truth, be hard to get together an audience in this city which was not pretty well impregnated with anti-Reciprocity views. A gathering of the Liberal party of Montreal itself would be by no means a safe assemblage for the introduction of a Reciprocity resolution.

It was quite in line with the tactics that the friends of Reciprocity have shown from the first, that they brought down an old British Free Trader in the form of Ralph Smith, of Nanaimo, B. C., to "hurrah" for Reciprocity as a first step toward the abolition of all tariffs. It is no wonder that even "a ticketed" party audience was critical.

Mr. Fielding dealt with most of the questions which we felt it our duty to put to him on Saturday. He dealt, for instance, with the query whether" the Americans expect to get anything more." He admitted that probably they do. He said that he had no doubt that President Taft gave his Commissioners instructions to offer us "free trade in everything." Then he struck an attitude and declared that "they never made a formal propsal of that sort—they were never permitted to get near enough for that."

Staunch Mr. Fielding! That was heroic, but hardly to the point. No one imagines that the Americans have smuggled "free trade in everything" into the present agreement; but the disquieting question is—Will they rest satisfied with the present agreement, or will they press for more? And Mr. Fielding practically admits that they want more.

* * * * *

Then we ask whether Mr. Fielding will steadily refuse to give themb more, Mr. Fielding was almost pathetic on this point. He told the manufacturers that he had not hurt them in the past, and begged them to "still trust us." He put himself in the position of an Easterner facing, on behalf of the manufacturers, a possibly "rash, reckless and dangerous West." He posed as Ajax defying the lightning.

And then he ran up a lightning rod! He said that the way to keep the West quiet was to give them what they wanted; and to begin by giving them what Mr. Fielding thinks they ought to want. Mr. Fielding clearly regards Fielding of Halifax as the inspired voice of the "dangerous West." The Manitoba Government says they do not want this agreement. Mr. Sifton, of Brandon, says that they do not want it. The British Columbia Government says that they do not want it. But "Br'er Fielding," he knows. He wants it, anyway. He has always wanted it.

The net result of his answer to our question then is that he will stand staunchly in defence of industrial Protection while it is popular, that he will press through this agreement admirably calculated to undermine its popularity, and that he will head its funeral procession when the "dangerous West" has slain it.

* * * * *

Undoubtedly, the most significant part of the Finance Minister's address was this open threat, hurled at the heads of the manufacturers. The threat was the more sinister—and, shall we venture to say, offensive—because it followed fast upon the heels of demands upon their gratitude and appeals for their confidence.

He had hardly finished saying to them, coaxingly, that they should trust "Codlin and not Short," when he dropped into the role of "Bill Sykes," and menacingly warned them that they must accept this agreement lest a worse thing befall them.

In two words, they could surrender at discretion, or they could prepare for war!

It was characteristic of the speech that even this threat was not made on the speaker's own responsibility. It was not the benevolent Mr. Fielding who would work the mischief. Of course not. He had always been the friend of his "dear friends," the manufacturers. He had not hurt them in 1897. He had stood between them and the voracious Taft on this occasion, when the Americans wanted "free trade in everything." He was their best friend if they only knew it. Oh, no, it would never be his hand that would tear up their factories and disperse their employes.

It was the Awful Western Farmer of whom they must beware.

He himself had reasoned with this Awful Western Farmer But it was no use. The Awful Western Farmer was inexorable.

If the Interests of the East organized and compelled the rejection of this agreement, they would create a most dangerous feeling West of the Great Lakes, and Mr. Fielding would not be answerable for the consequences. But, if they accepted this Agreement, all would be well. "We did you no harm in '97," he cried. "Trust us again!"

* * * * *

Well, let us look at this bogey man of the Awful Western Farmer. Is he as bad as he is painted? Will he be mollified by giving him free trade in what he produces, but keeping up Protection on what he consumes?

Has the grievance which certain people are always putting into the mouth of a lay figure, whom they dub the Western Farmer, been that the manufacturer will not let him market his grain, or that the manufacturer taxes the things he must buy? No one knows better than Mr. Fielding that it is the latter, and the latter alone. The Western Farmer would be the first to admit that—whatever the manufacturer may have done to the goods the farmer must buy—he has not kept him out of any markets; but has rather created for him the Home Market, the best he possesses. Hence the old grievance is against the manufacturer as a "taxer," and as a "taxer" alone.

Now will that grievance be lessened if the National Policy be cut in two, and the farmer robbed of his share of it? Heretofore he has been protected as well. Yet we are told that he has been restive under the Protection granted the manufacturer. True, he has not voted that way; but the Fieldings' have always insist that that was his attitude of mind. Will that "jealousy" be removed by thrusting him outside the breastworks, exposing his products to the competition of all the "most favored-nations"; and yet letting him see, in the midst of his struggle to keep his Home Market, the pampered manufacturers secure inside the tariff fortifications.

Mr. Fielding knows better than to think any such nonsense. If there be danger of conflict between the East and the West through the rejection of this bargain, there is ten times as much danger in any attempt to "play favorites" in this business and protect the manufacturers while denying similar favors to the men of the West.

Mr. Fielding also told us why he negotiated for Reciprocity just now at the height of our prosperity. The demand came from Washington. Washington fixed the time and Washington called the tune. Our Government at Ottawa was not thinking of Reciprocity, having formally put all such folly behind them, until the Administration at Washington "turned a very sharp corner" and whistled to our representatives to come over and talk Reciprocity.

That is, it was not Canada that wanted Reciprocity. It was the United States. This is precisely what we have always said; and now we have the authority of the Canadian author of Reciprocity for our statement. In short, the beauty of Mr. Fielding's answers to our questions of Saturday is that he invariably gave the replies at which we hinted.

* * * * *

Another case was his treatment of the question as to his "Secession" opinion. He does not deny that he was a Secessionist. He cannot deny it. He says frankly that, in regard to this matter, he has "little or nothing to say." "My opinions upon these questions," he adds, "were the opinions of my people in Nova Scotia." Very good. Mr. Fielding was a leader of "my people in Nova Scotia"; and, if he led them astray, it is hardly the course of courage at this time to hide behind the men whose mistakes he exploited.

Mr. Fielding, however, declared with much emphasis, that he is not and never has been an Annexationist. He would have torn Confederation to pieces, but he does not call that being an Annexationist. As a responsible statesman, he gives it as his opinion that this string of provinces could have been broken up into its original fragments, and still have maintained its independence.

* * * * *

However, let that go. Mr. Fielding goes farther and declares that this agreement will not lead to Annexation. And he proves it by the silliest and most dishonest travesty on the argument of those who see peril in its purpose that could possibly be imagined.

He says that our contention is that, if we increase our trade with the American people, we shall cease to be loyal; and he calls this "absurd." It is absurd; and it is, moreover, a deliberate misrepresentation of our position. The Free Trader from British Columbia elaborated the same idea—put up the same ridiculous "dummy"—and then dramatically knocked it down.

We are not opposed to trade with the Americans. We have a lot of valuable and profitable trade with them to-day. We are not opposed to harmony and friendship. We welcome the proposal for an unlimited arbitration treaty. We do not believe that buying from and selling to the American will make one single Canadian an Annexationist. We have never said so; and either Mr. Fielding is very stupid or very unfair when he pretends to think that that is our position.

* * * * *

What we say, in brief, is this: So broad an agreement as that to which Mr. Fielding has put his hand, will divert our interprovincial and Old World trade to the United States. Trade interests will grow up which would lose tremendously if that trade were suddenly to be cut off. Now we believe that the Americans mean Annexation. They will shrewdly and cautiously use this leverage on our people to increase their hold. After a while, they will begin to invade our industrial market, and insist upon cutting away slowly but surely the tariff defences of our factories. Gradually, they will get all our trade into their hands, practically make our tariffs at Washington, put us in a position where it would be absolute disaster to have our connection with the American market roughly severed, fill our West with American settlers who—with the other foreigners—will have no sentimental attachment to the idea of a permanent Canadian nation, and then—in some day of favorable conditions—give us the choice between fiscal ruin and political annihilation.

That is the argument; and we have yet to see a pro-Reciprocity attempt to meet it squarely or honestly. They are better at turning over their own straw men.

From this view of the matter, we say that Mr. Fielding—as the maker of this Reciprocity pact—is an Annexationist-in-effect. We say that he was an Annexationist-in-effect when he tried to tear Nova Scotia out of the Confederation. We say that this is a case in which deeds are mightier—and far more dangerous—than words; and that the most eloquent peroration touching "the person of the Sovereign" will not hide Mr. Fielding's signature upon an agreement which, in our opinion, makes it probable that, when some future British Prince comes to visit these shores, he will come to visit a foreign country.

ROYALS ARRIVED IN NEWPORT NEWS THIS MORNING

Gandel, French, Demmitt and Burchell Already There—Weather Is Warm.

By a Staff Correspondent.

Newport News, Va., March 27.—The Royals arrived here this morning after a rough passage from Baltimore, in the midst of a drizzling rain, which cleared later. Everybody is in the best of spirits and health. Outfielder Bailey joined the party from Montreal on board the boat at Baltimore, looking brown as a berry and fit as a new suit of clothes. French, Gandil, Demmitt and Burchell were on hand at the hotel. All are in good shape except the last named, who has been suffering from grippe. Care and sea air are expected to quickly put him on his feet.

The weather is warm. The players are resting to-day, but will do light work this afternoon. Confidence is the keynote of the party so far. Everybody is agreed that anything in the league has to go some to get ahead of this bunch.

New and Unique Features of the Dinner With Which Old Tuque Bleue Celebrated 71st Birthday

There were some unusual features about the dinner to celebrate the seventy-first birthday of the Montreal Snowshoe Club on Saturday night.

In the first place, it was held in the beautiful club house on Peel street, the nicely decorated gymnasium being used for that purpose, a thing which has never before happened in the history of the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association, and which seemed to make the affair exceedingly family like. Then, in the unavoidable absence of Mayor Guerin, an event occurred which showed the strength of the M.A.A.A. in other besides athletic matters. That was the proposal of the toast of the City of Montreal by President E. H. Brown, a Westmount alderman, which was replied to by a former president, Mr. Leslie H. Boyd, an alderman of Montreal, and thirdly, they had as a speaker, that sympathetic and witty after-dinner orator, Mr. George Ham. There were many other interesting speakers, too, and several talented vocal and instrumental contributors like Messrs. Weldon, Rice, Hamilton, King and others, and everything combined made the function one of the most successful snowshoe dinners of recent times.

Mr. Doyle Presided.

Mr. William Doyle, the retiring president, who has put in two years of hard, conscientious work, acted as toastmaster, and introduced each speaker with a few appropriate remarks.

The dinner itself was excellent, and after the usual loyal toasts had been drunk and Mr. Weldon had given two of his best vocal selections, Mr. W. F. Findlay, president of the Lacrosse Club, proposed the toast of the Association.

He sketched in a few pithy sentences the progress of the Association, and the great unselfish work that had been done by many well-known business and professional men to build it up. He paid a tribute to the rank and file of members who had made the work of the leaders possible, because they had always made good when anything was asked of them for the good of the body to which they had the honor to belong, and he begged them to remember when they were inclined to judge the doings of the officers a little too harshly, that these officers had their own interest as mere members to consider, and did what they thought was best for them as such and the other members in general. He finished by referring to the M.A.A.A. as standing for everything that was good and noble in sport. Mr. Dare gave a recitation, and Mr. Jim Fulton, who was a leader amongst the snowshoers as far back as twenty years ago, and whose brother, Tom Fulton, a former president of the Snowshoe Club and the Lacrosse Club, and now of Toronto, was also present, sang the Snowshoe Club song.

Ald. E. H. Brown Next.

President E. H. Brown responded to the toast of the Association. He paid a glowing tribute to the loyalty of the members and officers, who had made it the premier athletic association of Canada, and went into the question of the decision reached by the latter in the matter of amateur and professional, prophesying that the stand which the Association had taken in the matter and the definition they had adopted would be followed in due course by every athletic body in America.

Mr. Arthur King, a reciter of note, gave then and later some Habitant selections, which were greatly appreciated.

Mr. Sam Bayliss, author, poet, and historian of the Snowshoe Club and the Association, proposed the toast of the guests.

Mr. Bayliss referred in a jocular way to the prominent guests, which were to include the Mayor if he could come, and a representative of that great and hospitable corporation, the C.P.R.

Ham Moves the Public.

"It is generally supposed," he said, "that Sir Thomas Shaughnessy is the great power of the C.P.R., but there is a power behind him—the power that moves the public and moves the press, and we have it with us in the person of Mr. Geo. Ham."

He also referred to the many prominent men in all departments of public life who had been and were still members of the Old Tuque Bleue, and later on in the evening read a revised edition of "Casey at the Bat."

The permanent honorary president of the Snowshoe Club, Mr. C. A. L. Fisher, proposed the toast of the Canadian Snowshoe Union, referring briefly to its history, and incidentally paying a tribute to the Amateur Athletic Association of Winnipeg, which was, so to speak, an offshoot of that of Montreal.

Mr. Willy Hamilton then contributed a delightful song, after which Mr. Gordon Bowie, vice-president of the association and a former president of the Snowshoe Club and the Snowshoe Union, answered the toast to the latter body during the unavoidable absence of President Bill Petch at the union's meeting, which was being held in a room next door.

One of the Organizers.

Being one of the three organizers of the union with Messrs. Petch and Lamalice, he was in an excellent position to speak of the good work done by it, work which they hoped would end in bringing snowshoeing in the west as well as in the east up to its old standard.

And then came Mr. Ham. He kept his audience convulsed with laughter, and told them story after story, some bearing on athletics and some on the railroad business, expressing himself as being very fond of sports, like the lady who, when asked if she liked sports, replied:

"You bet I do, I married one." He also referred to his first sporting visit to Montreal, and his first taste of the hospitality of the M.A.A.A. It was thirty years ago, when he, as one of the organizers of the Winnipeg Lacrosse Club, came east for new worlds to conquer. They met a team in Chicago and beat them easily, and, as Chicago had many times the population of Montreal, they figured it out that it should be much easier to beat the Montreal team. They found out that they had mis-calculated, and they also found out that after staying for some time at the Windsor Hotel, they were utterly unknown there when they asked for their bill, which their conquerors had paid.

As it was evident that Mayor Guerin would be detained till all hours at the Reciprocity meeting, Mr. E. H. Brown proposed the toast of the City, to which Alderman Boyd responded, after the King brothers had given a nice song.

Ald. Boyd's Speech.

It was then Mr. Boyd referred to the M.A.A.A.'s representation in civic affairs. He eloquently described Montreal's progress, and said that, when after three years' labor the Board of Control would step down, the citizens would not know the city from what it had been three years ago, on account of the improvement.

Mr. W. A. Coates, also at one time a high snowshoe official and vice-president of the Association, proposed the toast of the press with some very flattering remarks anent the sporting writers of Montreal, and the toast was responded to by Messrs. Gordon, Bradley and Spanjaardt. Mr. Fred. Rogers, another ex-president of the Snowshoe Club, proposed the toast of the ladies in chaste and artistic style, and it was responded to by Mr. Louis Desrosiers, still another ex-president, who, in addition to being a snowshoer, possesses talents in the revolver shooting and fencing line which are apt to appeal to the fair sex. He proved himself an excellent champion, expressing in a modest, yet eloquent, manner, thanks on the behalf of those who not only take a great interest in snowshoeing, but make up more than half the attraction of it.

THE MAN WHO IS CHALLENGED BY WM. GENTLEMAN ("CORKEY").

Mr. Edward Payson Weston, 73 years old.

SPORTING VIEWS AND REVIEWS

A New York despatch says: President Taft probably will attend the polo contests for the International Challenge Cup between the American and British teams. He is anxious to see the games, and is trying to arrange his duties so as to give him a holiday on May 31, the date for the opening game of the series, which takes place on the Meadow Brook Field.

That Pres. Taft had decided to become a polo player.

The Meadow Brook Club committee has reserved boxes for President Taft and his staff, and for officers of the army and navy who have signified their intention of attending during the games.

This is all very interesting, but not half as interesting as a despatch would be to the effect that President Taft had decided to become a polo player himself.

TO AFFILIATE WITH THE N.H.A. OF C.

Mr. T. Emmett Quinn, president of the National Hockey Association of Canada, has returned from his trip abroad, and an American section of the National Hockey Association is now within the bounds of probability. As the immediate result of the enthusiasm aroused in the Canadian game by the professional matches played in New York and Boston, plans have been set on foot that will probably result in the formation of a professional hockey league that will embrace the cities of New York, Boston, Pittsburg and Cleveland, before next season opens.

Mr. Quinn said that he had several conversations with men interested in hockey in Boston, and that they were enthusiastic over the possibilities of the game in the United States, and asked him to send them a copy of the N. H. A. constitution, upon which they could base the organization of their league.

OTTAWAS WIN HOCKEY SERIES

Boston, March 27.—The Herald Says:

The champion Ottawa hockey team came back with a vengeance in the second game of the series with the Wanderers of Montreal in the professional hockey competition at the Arena Saturday night. The champions scored 8 goals to the Wanderers 4. The score of Wednesday night's match won by the Wanderers, was 7 to 5. Thus the total scores, which decided the series, read Ottawa, 13; Wanderers, 11.

To make sure of the match, Fred Taylor, the Renfrew player who played with Ottawa, as a defence man, Wednesday night, was moved to the forward line, taking Darragh's place at rover. He electrified the crowd by his zig-zag dashes over the surface. Whenever Taylor started into the Wanderer's territory, the crowd stood up and cheered. Art. Ross, who was at the top of his game in the first conflict, was not as brilliant, although he was by no means weak. He made several brilliant sprints down the middle, but never could score.

The Wanderers' defence was weak and the Ottawas, with a better combination play, had no trouble perforating it and banging the disc by Hearn, who played a remarkable game despite the many goals made. Percy LeSueur, as goal for the Ottawas, gave a fine exhibition.

The match was a better exhibition of hockey than that of Wednesday night. Several players received bad tosses. Darragh of the Ottawa team hit the ice on his head and turned a complete somereault without showing any ill effects. Kerr, who is the best wing player in Canada, was brilliant, knocking the rubber into the Wanderers' goal five times, making three goals in the second period. His shooting was deadly.

In the second period Jimmy Gardner felt the strain so much that Sybil Nichol, a Moncton player, was substituted. Nichol lacked the weight and could not do anything against the swift champion combination. He was only on the ice but a short time when Ross was tried at rover.

The Wanderers scored first. Small making the goal after which the wonderful attack of the Ottawas carried them to a tie, when Walsh, Ridpath and Kerr scored. With the score 8 to 8 for the four periods, three of which were played in the first game, the champions showed greater life in the second 20 minutes. While the Wanderers were experimenting with their forward line the Ottawas kept tallying. First Kerr scored and then Taylor. Then Kerr scored and then Small added a second goal for the Wanderers. Kerr made his third of the period, with 10 seconds to play, making the score of last night's match to that point 7 to 2.

In the final period the Wanderers went in with a do or die spirit. They were continually banging away at the Ottawa net and only the wonderful defence prevented scores. Then the champions managed to score once while Montreal shot three goals, two of which were allowed, the other, which was the result of a forward pass, from Ross to Russell, not being allowed.

WHAT THE MONTREALER WHO CHALLENGES WESTON LOOKED LIKE THIRTY-TWO YEARS AGO.

William Gentleman ("Corkey") when he won the English Walking Championship, and Sir John Ashley's belt and silver cup, shown in the picture.

Wm. Gentleman, "Corkey," 71 Years Old, Challenges Edward Payson Weston, 73 Years Old

The Two Men Met in a Race 33 Years Ago—Montrealer Then Became Champion of England—Always Had a Soft Feeling in His Heart for Weston—Proud of the Cup and the Medal the Late Sir John Ashley Gave Him.

Should Edward Payson Weston accept the defi which William Gentleman has issued, there will be seen the extraordinary event of a walking match between two septuagenarians. Weston recently celebrated his seventy-third birthday, while Gentleman admitted seventy-one years on the twenty-seventh day of last December. William Gentleman, whose present home is in Montreal, where he has been, and yet is a notable figure, during a score of years, has performed some remarkable feats both at heel-and-toe and go-as-you-please styles of walking, winning the championship of England by covering 526 miles in six days at the Agricultural Hall, Islington, between October 28 and November 2, 1878.

In that event Weston, a competitor in a field of twenty-six, finished nowhere. The second man, "Blower" Brown, was twenty-two miles behind Gentleman, and the third man, "Charley" Rowe, was sixty miles behind the winner.

On one other occasion did Gentleman and Weston meet and that was some months after the former had won his championship medal and belt. It was again in a six days go-as-you-please event, which took place in the same hall, but this time Brown won the event, although to this day Gentleman solemnly asserts that he was "fiddled" out of the race. George Hazel was second, Gentleman came third, while Weston was a poor fourth.

In the first race when Weston was out of it after covering 300 miles, he turned to and helped Gentleman and the latter to-day gratefully remembers the American walker for that kindness.

"I would like to walk Weston any time from an hour to twenty-four," said Gentleman to-day, "but I don't want to walk on a road. I want to walk on a track, where people can see what you're doing."

Gentleman is to-day a well known figure as he swings along Montreal's streets. Street cars have no attraction for the diminutive Englishman, he wants to use his limbs and he does. He is employed at McGill University as a rubber and an athletic attendant and none of the younger men can give a better massage than this sturdy man who has passed the three score and ten of the Psalmist. He jogs about seventy miles each week just to keep himself in trim and thinks he can reel off seven and a half miles an hour as a test.

Gentleman is about five foot, nothing in height, but his speedy legs will beat off many a younger and bigger man.

Wanderer Team and President Had Falling Out in Boston--Ottawas Accused of Bad Faith

Reports have reached Montreal of trouble between President Sam Lichtenhein, and the players of the Wanderer team in Boston.

What this amounted to is told by Mr. Lichtenhein.

"Ottawa," he says, "when they could not beat Wanderers with their own team added the pick of the Renfrew team to it. We allowed them to do that on Wednesday but we warned them and the Boston management that we would not stand for it Saturday. They insisted, and I told the team not to go on the ice. When they heard the referee's whistle, thinking everything was settled they went on, however. Ottawa and the Boston management treated us very badly.

"Is there any truth in the story that you promised them a supper and then withdrew it?

"Not a word."

"The supper took place as arranged at the Copley Square Hotel, but I was so disgusted with their foolish action of gong on the ice against orders, for after they were once on I could not very well withdraw them, that I notfied them, I would not be present at the dinner, and was not."

PROGRESS WITH THE TORONTO RACES

Toronto, March 27.—Secretary W. P. Fraser and several representative members of the Ontario Jockey Club motored down to Woodbine Park Saturday afternoon to see how things there were progressing.

The track was being harrowed and looked well for the approaching training season.

An excellent start has been made with the large pavilion, which is to replace the old bookmakers' betting shed. The pavilion will be 300 feet in length by 100 wide. It is being erected with a balcony front. The front portion is on iron pillars with steel beams and is already covered in.

The frame for the main portion, which backs up to Queen street, is being rapidly erected.

Mr. Fraser stated the building would be pushed forward as rapidly as possible with a view to its completion by the middle of April. This will allow five or six weeks for the installation of the pari mutuel machines in readiness for the opening day, Saturday, May 20, which will mark the inauguration of the French system of turf speculation in Canada.

MONTREAL DISTRICT SOCCER ASSOCIATION

The annual meeting of the Montreal and District Soccer Association held Saturday night was a most enjoyable one. Goodfellowship and harmony prevailed and the secretary's and and treasurer's reports were such as to create satisfaction.

The election of officers was delayed till next Saturday on account of the informal football meeting which is to be held Wednesday evening.

President Foster, who was in the chair said to-day:

"It is our real desire to see the bickering and fighting which has done Soccer harm in Montreal in the past, stopped, and we will do all we can to bring about peace.

Outremont Golf Club.

Scott and Bryan H. Waud. Handicap and match committee—Cecil T. Gordon, Dr. Charles F. Morison and Dr. W. H. Jamieson.

KING SEES BRITISH POLO ARGONAUTS

London, March 27.—King George gave further stimulus to the already widespread interest in the forthcoming attempt to win back the International polo cup by receiving at Buckingham Palace to-day Captain Hardress Lloyd and the others of the British challenging team, who sail for New York next week.

He told Captain Lloyd that he looked to him to bring home the trophy.

Jacksonville, Fla., March 27. — T. C. McDowell's High Brow came home first in Saturday's feature race, the Florida Juvenile Stake, which carried a guaranteed value of $1,500. Gold Mine, another consistent performer, finished second. The prospects are that the attendance for the final week of the meeting will be greater than any week this winter. Summaries:

The following officers were elected to look after the interests of the club for the coming season:

Hon. president, Mr. Patrick Murphy.

NEW PLAYERS FOR KENNEDY'S BALL CLUB

The Canadian Athletic Club of the Montreal Professional League is getting very busy. Manager Eugene Payette since March twenty-first having signed:

Babe Miron, the well known shortstop; H. Lauzon, one of the fastest and cleverest outfielders in the city; J. A. Deschamps, who has been offered a contract by Jimmy Casey for his Fort Wayne team, and George Rivest and A. Douchesnil as pitchers, the latter of whom Malachi Kittredge was sure of getting for his Saginaw Club. Owing to objections in his family, however, he decided to remain in the city.

The above line-up looks very much as if George Kennedy will have a very good, if not a championship, team for his first year in baseball.

The final weekly bridge of the season will be held at the M.A.A.A. clubhouse to-night.

School Lacrosse, for Which Montreal Star Offered Trophy, Booming Greatly all Over Canada

HE CHALLENGED EDWARD PAYSON WESTON TO A WALKING MATCH.

William Gentleman ("Corkey", 71 years old.

The lacrosse movement amongst school boys is progressing very fast. Mr. W. E. Findlay who has been exerting himself most of all the gentlemen who made up the provisional committee last year, has received the assurance from some of the schools that they are prepared to go in not only for an Inter-School Series for the Montreal Star Cup, but for inter-class series as well.

Advices from other places show that the movement has become general throughout Canada.

In the Cattle Country.

Calgary, Alta., March 27.—Calgary has the lacrosse fever, and since baseball ended in such a fiasco last season, the brightest prospects for the establishing of Canada's national game on a sound basis is in evidence.

Lacrosse had a slight foothold here some years ago, but the baseball fever gave it a setback. Now the followers of sport are discarding baseball and returning to their old love. Mr. Barney W. Collison, one of Calgary's leading barristers, has in the past been one of the strongest supporters of lacrosse in this city, and he, together with a number of prominent citizens, are again getting behind the movement, with the result that the Western Canada College have ordered a supply of sticks and are going into the game strong.

With Edmonton, Lethbridge and Regina in line, it is felt that lacrosse will supersede baseball, and that a strong league will be organized in the immediate future.

At the Sault.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., March 27.—The great school lacrosse movement, or as some papers call it, lacrosse revival, which is meeting with such phenomenal success throughout Ontario and the western provinces, has found root in this city, which at one time was so greatly given to the winter pastime of hockey. The lacrosse wave has just reached this burg and stirred up the old fighting instinct of lacrosse men whose names went to make up its history in years gone by, and they are banding themselves together to get the game going amongst the school boys. The initial work has begun, and the number of the old standbys who are behind the movement augurs well for its success. Among them is Mr. F. A. Denman, one of Sault Ste. Marie's city aldermen. Another is Mike Hayes, who was at one time one of the stalwarts of the champion Shamrocks of Montreal; while still another is Horace Watts, a brother of the celebrated Albert Lewis, who was in his day one of the king-pins of Canada's national game. These with many other lovers of the Indian pastime are turning out in force to get lacrosse thoroughly established in the schools.

Medals will be given for competition, and it is hoped that material can be developed sufficient to make an effort to secure the Mann gold cup, which seems to be the ambition of more than one amateur lacrosse team.

In the Golden West.

Saskatoon, Sask., March 27.—In common with a large number of the cities and towns in the western provinces, Saskatoon is coming to the front—and coming strong—in the old national game of lacrosse; and not only does this apply to Saskatoon, but the outlying towns surrounding this city clubs are being organized, and it begins to look as if lacrosse will be more popular in the West than it was at any time in the East. There is at present in this city a large number of eastern devotees of the great summer pastime who took an active part in lacrosse in days gone by, and who still think they have alacrity enough and retain the necessary requirements for handling the gutted stick to compete successfully with the younger element. These old warriors, wishing to indulge in the king of all exercises so dear to them in their eastern homes, are setting about to revive the game in the coming city of Saskatchewan. Among the numbers are former residents of Toronto, Montreal, Cornwall, Brantford, St. Catharines, Ottawa, and other cities whose names appear large in the annals of lacrosse history; and it is safe to say that ere long the gutted stick and rubber ball will be as much in evidence in Saskatoon as it was in the palmy days of the abovementioned places.

MOTOR SHOW WINDS UP IN BLAZE OF GLORY

The Auto Show wound up in a blaze of glory, with one of the biggest crowds of the week in attendance, to the great delight of Messrs. MacNamee and Wilcox, the managers.

Although it is impossible to obtain actual figures from all the dealers as to the sales made during the week, it is safe to say that upwards of 150 cars were purchased, aggregating in cost well up to half a million dollars.

During the seven days on which the show was open, there were somewhere between twenty-five and thirty thousand visitors to the Drill Hall.

SHAMROCK A.A.A. MEETING TO-NIGHT

The annual meeting of the Shamrock Amateur Athletic Association will take place to-night and is expected to be very harmonious.

It is understood that Messrs. O'Brien and Fennell will go in by acclamation, and that the only contests will be about the positions of directors.

For that reason there will probably be a big attendance.

Mr. Dennis Tansey, whose name has been mentioned in connection with the coming elections, announces that he had withdrawn for good considering that after all the honors he has enjoyed, some of the younger men should get a chance.

LACROSSE MOVE IN ONTARIO

Special to The Montreal Star.

Toronto, March 25.—About an hour and a half after the announced time, the meeting called for Saturday afternoon to make preliminary arrangements for the organization of the Ontario Lacrosse League, got to business. The preliminary time was mostly used by Provisional Secretary Ernie Knott, of the Young Torontos, in persuading Blaney McGuire, of Orangeville, a casual visitor, to take the chair. About thirty persons were present, the great majority being there out of curiosity, or actually opposed to the scheme. They took no part in the proceedings, and as no roll call nor any credentials were asked for, it was only possible through the statement of Secretary Knott and the speeches made to ascertain who composed the meeting for business purposes. Mr. Knott said Guelph, Brampton, Bracebridge, Woodbridge and the Young Torontos were supporting the movement. Markdale, Glen Williams, Paris and the Inter-Association League, of Toronto, were also claimed as sympathizers, but the concrete evidence of their representatives at this meeting was lacking. Mr. Machan, of Preston, declared for the O. L. A., but the only club yet organized in that town is a member of the old association. Woodbridge was not represented, as Mr. Wallace was unable to leave business, and the only clubs actually having delegates in attendance were the Young Torontos, Guelph, Brampton and Bracebridge.

Mr. Bilton, of Guelph; Dr. McGibbon, of Bracebridge, and Mr. Machan, of Preston, recited a long roll of grievances against the president of the C. L. A. The last named blamed Mr. Eby for inconsistency in not throwing out Preston and Guelph when he found them last year playing men over the age prescribed in the regulations.

The proposed constitution did not suit Guelph or Bracebridge in that part of the amateur rule which places the onus on the player whose standing is questioned. There was no residence rule in the document read, and Mr. Machan wanted the daee put at May 27, the beginning of the season.

Nothing definite was decided, the whole business being left over till the next meeting. This was fixed for the evening of April 13, just preceding the C. L. A. convention, though the Guelph man wanted it later, stating he thought others, like himself, wanted to attend the convention of the old association. Mr. Knott informed the gathering that Mr. John Ross Robertson, and Mr. N. L. Patterson had been approached to take the offices of honorary president and president respectively, and he hoped to secure their consent. The other offices would be open to contest.

Before leaving the chair Mr. McGuire stated he did not represent the Dufferins. There was seighing in Orangeville, and lacrosse had not wakened up yet, but he was assured there was a strong feeling against professionalism.

ZBYSCO READY FOR ROLLER ON WEDNESDAY.

Zybsco, the Polish giant, and aspirant for the heavyweight wrestling championship, will appear here on Wednesday night against Dr. Roller, and local patrons of the game should see one of the fastest and most strenuous bouts pulled off here this season.

The Polish Hercules is in great condition and is beating all the good men who care to come against him in order that he may get another chance at Gotch before the summer season.

Oxford-Cambridge Sports.

London, March 27.—The annual intervarsity sports of Oxford and Cambridge were held at ulnn's Club on Saturday, and were won by 6 points to 4. O. E. Putnam, a Rhodes scholar at Oxford, from Kansas, won the hammer throwing, beating the 'varsity record with a mark of 153 feet 3 inches.

In the 100-yard dash, MacMillan, of Cambridge, won by a half yard from R. L. Lang, a Rhodes scholar from Oklahoma. MacMillan's time was 10 seconds.

Shrubb Defeated Two.

Philadelphia, Pa., March 27.—Alf Shrubb, of England, defeated Gus Ljundstrom, of Sweden, and Henri St. Yves, of France, in a 12-mile race at the American Athletic Club here. Shrubb won by two laps from Ljundstrom.

DOWN SOUTH WITH THE BALL TEAM

John Dubuc, the famous pinch-hitter of the Eastern League and the positively all alabaster idol of the baseball fans here, is almost a Canadian; but alas! not quite. Mr. Dubuc was born at St. Johnsbury, Vermont, on September 15th, 1887.

JOHN DUBUC.

Our favorite has had a lot of experience in and around Montreal, before he broke into first class ball. He played at Ste. Therese in 1905, for the Ste. Therese college nine, and from 1907 to '08 he was with the Notre Dame University team.

In the year 1908 Johnny had the glorious record of 32 games won and 2 lost. In 1907 he won the Western College championship for his team, and in 1908 he won the American College championship. Harry Curtis, now one of our premier backstops, was catcher on the team. Between Ste. Therese and Notre Dame, John played for St. Michael's College, of Burlington, in 1906, when he won 17 games and lost 1.

In 1908 John was swarmed on by major league managers offering him contracts. Both Chicago clubs wanted him, as well as the Boston Americans, St. Louis Americans, Cleveland, and Cincinnati. Finally he joined the last named, and won five games and lost six during his first season. He made the trip to Cuba with the Cincinnati team during that Fall.

During the Spring of 1909, after having won two games from Pittsburg, Dubuc was taken ill with typhoid and only pitched two games that season. He was farmed to Buffalo and figured in an exchange deal in the middle of last season with Montreal.

J. Dubuc helps Eddie McCafferty to manage the Palace Bowling alleys during the winter, and in his spare time he studies medicine at Laval.

Royals are Gathering for The Spring Training Games

Special to The Montreal Star.

Baltimore Md., March 27.—After 18 hours' travelling, the Montreal baseball party arrived in this fair Maryland city yesterday afternoon—several ball players, a manager, a mascot, a lady, and two newspaper men strong. The party left last evening with three more ball players attached, Nattress, Dorner, Bridges and Allcott having joined here. The trip so far has been uneventful and quite ordinary. The party started from Montreal with Dubuc, Manager McCafferty, Morin and Aston. At St. Johns, Que., Leclaire, the Farnham twirler, who was tried last year, came aboard, accompanied by Mrs. Leclaire and Master Lewis Leclaire, a mascot of parts. Master Leclaire was instantly attached officially to the team, and having a ball of his own somewhere in dad's grip, will practice assiduously with the rest of the crowd. There is some real class to the new mascot. He is four years old, stands three feet high, has Fauntleroy curls and a red coat, and is altogether one of the cutest ever.

At the P. R. depot, in New York, the latest thing in railway terminals, a gorgeous melange of Ionic columns and grey marble paving, Frank Barberich, Charley Hanford and young Flynn, a recruit of whom much is expected, came aboard. Hanford and Barberich look to be in the best of shape, and Flynn is a clean-limbed youngster, who carries himself with all the ease and grace of a born athlete.

Bridges looks as good as any of them, and Natty still swings along with the jaunty air which all Montrealers know so well. The sudden climatic change is somewhat oppressive to the Canadian members of the party, the weather here being close and none too bright, although so far there has been no rain. The Americans do not seem to mind it.

There has occurred absolutely no hitch in the arrangements so far, the managerial genius of Eddie McCafferty showing itself in all the smooth running of the trip. Only once has the manager exhibited any show of his authority, and that was yesterday afternoon, when Fred. Ashton, seated in a rather warm railway carriage, opened a window and leaned out, with his precious right wing on the window-sill.

"If you want to catch cold in your arm," remarked Eddie, "catch it in your left."

And Fred, accordingly shifted his position with alacrity.

The party left at 6 o'clock for Old Point Comfort by boat, that port being reached at about 6 o'clock in the morning. From there the team goes to Newport News by special trolley. Several members of the team will meet the Montreal contingent at Newport News

Two Last Nights Bowling on Palace Alleys Provided Good Sport--Sutherland's Fine Work

There was a great crowd at the Palace Bowling Alleys both Saturday night and last night to take part in and watch the local tourney.

J. Sutherland, who earlier in the tournament, led in the opening singles with 247, lost his position to Morrison, the latter rolling a total of 269 a couple of days ago, but Sutherland made another effort on Saturday. Commencing with a 242, he followed this up with 257, finally creating a record of 289 and a three-string record of 788. Darling in this event rolled 256. In addition to Crescents winning the open five men team competition and Sutherland carrying off the single string event, Lapointe took the novice singles and Nationals No. 2 to novice team event.

WILL SPEND MUCH IN SEASON'S TRAVELS

The sum of $19,869 will this year be paid to the railway companies by the baseball clubs in the Eastern League for travelling expenses. The distance to be travelled by these clubs is 64,565 miles, and the total sum is worked out by reckoning the cost of the travelling at two cents a mile for an average of fifteen men to the party. In addition to the railway fares, there will of course be a big disbursement for sleeping cars and hotel bills. The total cost of all this, including the railway fares, works out, according to the books of one major league club at $1 a mile, so that the Eastern League's games this season will mean an outlay in travelling and hotel expenses of over $64,000. The number of trips to be made by the clubs range from 26 by the Montreal Club to 38 by Newark.

Charles (Kid) Cutler, of Chicago, defeated Dr. B. F. Roller, the western wrestler, at Buffalo, N.Y. Cutler secured two straight falls, the first in 52.03 by a hammerlock and head scissors, and the second in 12.21 by the same hold.

Munyon's Paw Paw Pills are unlike all other laxatives or cathartics. They coax the liver into activity by gentle methods. They do not scour; they do not gripe; they do not weaken, but they do start all the secretions of the liver and stomach in a way that soon puts these organs in a healthy condition, and corrects constipation. In my opinion, constipation is responsible for most ailments. There are 26 feet of human bowels, which is really a sewer pipe. When this pipe becomes clogged the whole system becomes poisoned, causing biliousness, indigestion, and impure blood, which often produce rheumatism and kidney ailments. No woman who suffers with constipation or any liver ailment can expect to have a clear complexion or enjoy good health. If I had my way I would prohibit the sale of nine-tenths of the cathartics that are now being sold for the reason that they soon destroy the lining of the stomach, setting up serious forms of indigestion, and so paralyze the bowels that they refuse to act unless forced by strong purgatives.

Munyon's Paw Paw Pills are a tonic to the stomach, liver and nerves. They invigorate instead of weaken; they enrich the blood instead of impoverish it; they enable the stomach to get all the nourishment from food that is put into it.

These pills contain no calomel, no dope; they are soothing, healing and stimulating. They school the bowels to act without physic.

Regular size bottle, containing 45 pills, 25 cents.

DUNLOP LEADERSHIP SUPREME

The three big Auto Shows of Canada are over, and the spirit of automobiling is broadcast as it never was before.

To you, the man who owns a car, to you, the man who intends to purchase a car, the real tire verdict of the shows is important.

Dunlop Tires made the highest total showing, just as they did last year and the year before that and so on down the line.

The Winnipeg Show proved that Dunlop Tires lead in the West.

The combined Toronto and Montreal Shows proved that Dunlop Tires lead in the East.

No other individual Canadian maker, at the Western Exhibit, has as high a showing of sets of tires equipped to cars as DUNLOP.

No other individual Canadian maker, at the combined Eastern Exhibits, has as high a showing of sets of tires equipped to cars as DUNLOP.

Dunlop Tires lead all foreign-made tires represented at Winnipeg, Toronto or Montreal Shows.

Not only is it well for car owners to know that Dunlop Tires led all others at both the Western and combined Eastern Shows, but it is also well for them to remember this fact:

There are more Dunlop Tires Equipped to motor cars throughout Canada than all other makes combined.

APPALLING CATASTROPHE BRINGS DEATH TO 141 MEN, WOMEN AND GIRLS

Italian Girls in New York Shirt-Waist Factory Leap Ten Stories to Horrible End--Stories of Heroism, Pathos, and Heart-rending Terror--Elevator Shaft Piled High With Twisted Corpses--Girls' Bodies Crash Through Vault-Glass in Sidewalks--Man Flung Many to Their Death--Law Students' Gallant Rescue of Survivors Who Had Reached Roof--Building Had Only One Fire Escape, Situated in a Court--Fire Chief Indignant.

Special to The Montreal Star.

New York, March 27.—At 4.35 o'clock on Saturday afternoon fire springing from a source that may never be positively identified was discovered in the rear of the eighth floor of the ten-story building at the northwest corner of Washington place and Greene street, the first of three floors occupied as a factory of the Triangle Waist Company.

At 10.30 o'clock on Saturday night the bodies of 130 of the 700 employees of the company had been taken to the Morgue for identification, and bodies were still being lowered from the fire-swept floors at the top of the building at the rate of one a minute.

In the airshaft at the rear there were other bodies whose number the authorities could only guess at. First Deputy Police Commissioner Driscoll estimated this number at 50; Coroner Holtzhauser at first declared that the whole number of victims would reach 250. Later, however, it was found that they totalled 141.

More than a third of those who lost their lives did so in jumping from windows. The firemen who answered the first of the four alarms turned in found 30 bodies on the pavements of Washington place and Greene street. Almost all of these were girls, as were the great majority of them all.

A single fire escape, a single stairway, one passenger elevator and one freight elevator offered the only means of escape from the building. A loft building under the specifications of the law, no other ways of egress were required, and to this fact, which also permitted the use of the building as a factory, the dreadful toll may be traced.

The property damages resulting from the fire did not exceed $100,000. Part of this was in the building of the New York University, the next structure but one. Two floors of it were swept clean by the flames, which leaped the lower building between.

To accommodate the unprecedented number of bodies, the Charities pier at the foot of East Twenty-sixth street was opened, for the first time since the Slocum disaster, with which this will rank, for no fire in a building in New York ever claimed so many lives before.

Fire Chief Croker was convinced, after a personal investigation of the premises, that the total would probably not exceed 155.

CRUMPLED BODIES LITTERED STREETS.

It was the most appalling horror since the Slocum disaster and the Iroquis Theatre fire in Chicago. Every available ambulance in Manhattan was called upon to cart the dead to the Morgue—bodies charred to unrecognizable blackness or reddened to a sickly hue — as was to be seen by shoulders or limbs protruding through flame eaten clothing. Men and women, boys and girls were of the dead that littered the street; that is actually the condition—the streets were littered.

The fire began in the eighth story. The flames licked and shot their way up through the other two stories. All three floors were occupied by the Triangle Waist Company. The estimate of the number of the employes at work is made by Chief Croker at about 1,000. The proprietors of the company say 700 men and girls were in their place.

Whatever the number, they had no chance of escape. Before smoke or flame gave signs from the windows the loss of life was fully under way. The first signs that persons in the street knew that hitherto three top stories had turned into red furnaces in which human creatures were being caught and incinerated was when screaming men and women and boys and girls crowded out on the many window ledges and threw themselves into the streets far below.

They jumped with their clothing ablaze. The hair of some of the girls streamed up of flame as they leaped. Thud after thud sounded on the pavements. It is the ghastly fact that on both the Greene street and the Washington place sides of the building there grew mounds of the dead and dying.

And the worst horror of all was that in this heap of the dead now and then there stirred a limb or sounded a moan.

SKELETONS BENDING OVER THE MACHINES.

Within the three flaming doors it was as frightful. There flames enveloped many so that they died instantly. When Fire Chief Croker could make his way into these three floors he found sights that utterly staggered him—that sent him, a man used to viewing horrors, back and down into the street with quivering lips.

The floors were black with smoke. And then he saw as the smoke drifted away bodies burned to bare bones. There were skeletons bending over sewing machines.

Nor were these—burned without a chance to save themselves—the full expression of the awful thing that had occurred. When the flames had shot their way into the elevator shaft, so that the brave young men in charge of the cars no longer dared to go up for fear the heat would snap the cables, men and boys by the dozen, utterly crazed, threw themselves into this shaft.

There was no reason in it. They were sure to perish. But it was the only place of escape from the red hell behind. It was the only place where they could breathe.

Madly they flung themselves down the shaft. It offered just another breath of life. Police and firemen turned away sick at the sight of these elevator shafts piled six stories high with the outflung, distorted bodies of the dead.

HEROIC ELEVATOR BOYS SAVED MANY.

The elevator boys saved hundreds. They each made twenty trips from the time of the alarm until twenty minutes later when they could do no more. Fire was streaming into the shaft, flames biting at the cables. They fled for their own lives.

Some—about seventy—chose a successful avenue of escape. They clambered up a ladder to the roof. A few remembered the fire escape. Many may have thought of it, but only as they uttered cries of dismay.

Wretchedly inadequate was this fire escape—a lone ladder running down a rear narrow court, which was smoke filled as the fire raged, one narrow door giving access to the ladder. By the score they fought and struggled and breathed fire and died trying to make that needle-eyed road to preservation.

Joe Zito, the elevator man at the Washington place entrance to the Asch building, says that he and Gasper, who runs the elevator next to Joe's, made more than fifteen trips to the upper floors, mostly to the eighth, after the fire started and that they brought down from twelve to fifteen girls at each trip.

Joe was sitting in his elevator at the street floor, he told reporters last night, when screams and the smashing of glass on the elevator shaft door at the eighth floor caused him to shoot his car upward. He saw Mr. Blanck, Joe says, standing near the elevator and striking at crazy men while the employer yelled to Joe to take the girls down first. The other partner, Harris, was standing near the other elevator door the first time Joe went up for a load, but he didn't see Harris after that.

It was on either his second or third trip that Joe heard the glass of the door at the ninth floor break, and so he went all the way to the top floor. There was no one around the elevator door at the tenth floor, Joe said, but he took a crowd on as the ninth.

"When I'd made almost twenty trips," said Joe, "I could see as I started up for another load that the flames were spreading all across the elevator shaft at the eighth floor. I couldn't go up into that, and at any time the fire might burn out the top ress of the cable. So I started back to the street floor, and as I did there was an awful bang on the top of the elevator and blood dropped on me. It was a girl who had jumped down the shaft; when she saw, I guess, that the elevator wasn't ever coming up again. And before I got to the bottom floor one body after another was slamming on top of the elevator cage. Maybe there are twenty-five of them piled up on top of the elevator in the shaft, maybe forty or fifty."

LAW STUDENTS SAVED MANY FROM ROOF.

Those who got the roof—got life. Young men of the University of New York Commercial and Law School, studious young fellows who had chosen to spend their Saturday afternoon in study, answered the yells for aid that came from the smoking roof by thrusting ladders from the upper windows of their class rooms to the frantic men and women on the roofs.

None of the fire-besieged hesitated an instant in going down on all fours and struggling across these slender bridges—eighty feet above the paved court—to the out-thrust arms of the students. It is a fact that none of the men on the roof, wild with excitement as they were, made a movement toward the ladder till the girls had crossed to safety.

Those who did make the firescape—and these were but the few who had, in spite of panic, first thought of it—huddled themselves into what appeared as bad a trap as the one from which they had escaped. They found themselves let down into an absolutely closed court; and when through the cellar of the Asch building they sought to make their way to the street, they encountered on the ground floor iron shutters securely clamped into place.

For a time they stood around or knelt in prayer, not knowing when the burning building might crash in upon them. Some of these dashed back and screamed, in the hope of attracting the attention of the law students in the university building. But there were so many agonized cries ringing in the air that the youths never heard the shouts from below.

FALLING BODIES CRASHED THROUGH THE SIDEWALKS

Others were in far greater peril.

Shivering at the chasm below them, scorched by the fire behind, there were some that still held positions on the window sills when the first squad of the firemen arrived.

The nets were spread below with all promptness. Citizens were commandeered into the service — as the firemen necessarily gave their attntion to the one engine and hose of the force that first arrived.

The catapult force that the bodies gathered in the long plunges made the nets utterly without avail. Screaming girls and men as they fell tore the nets from the grasp of the holders and the bodies struck the sidewalks and lay just as they fell. Some of the bodies ripped big holes through the life-nets.

The curious, uncanny feature about this deadly fire is that it was not spectacular from flame and smoke. The city had no sign of the disaster that was happening. The smoke of the fire scarcely blackened the sky. No big, definite clouds arose to blot out the sunshine and the springtime brightness of the blue above.

It was more than an hour and a half before the firemen could enter the floor where the fire started, the eighth, and they came back with the word that a quick glance showed, according to Chief Croker, about fifty dead bodies on that floor alone. In the elevator shaft also was a pile of bodies, estimated conservatively at twenty-five, girls who had jumped down the elevator shaft after the elevator had made its last trip.

Some of the girls in jumping smashed through the sidewalk vault light on the Washington place side of the building. The bodies that continued to crash upon the vault light finally made a hole in it about five feet in diameter. Just at dusk firemen and policemen were pulling many half burned corpses from this hole.

Joe Zito and Joe Garpar, the two elevator men of the building, said that there were 1,500 machines on the three floors of the building and each was being operated by a girl at the time the fire started. The total number of employes, according to the elevator men, was about 2,000. Deputy Police Commissioner Driscoll said later that from what he had been able to learn there were about 800 persons working in the place where the fire started. Among those on the top floor at the time was Mr. Blanck, one of the proprietors, his two children and a governess. Mr Blanck had just ordered a taxicab to send his children and the governess home when the fire was discovered. All got out safely.

More than an hour after the last of the girls had jumped policemen who had approached the building to gather up the bodies and stretch them out on the opposite side of Green street found Bertha Weintraut, of 205 Henry street, the last girl to leap from the ninth floor, still breathing.

MAN FLUNG GIRLS TO THEIR DEATH.

The greater number of those dead and dying outside had jumped from the east side of the corner building, and landing burnt and crushed in Greene street. One man ran from window to window, picked up girls bodily and dropped them to the pavement. Either he thought the nets were there to catch them or he believed that this was the easiest way. And when he had dropped the last girl within reach he climbed on the sill and jumped straight out, with a hand raised, as a bridge jumper holds his arm upward to balance himself.

After many girls had jumped from the Greene street side of the building and it seemed that the ninth floor ledge on this side was clear, two girls clambered out upon it. One of them seemed self-possessed; at least her movements seemed slow and deliberate. With her was a younger girl shrieking and twisting with fright.

The crowd below yelled to the two not to jump. The older girl placed both arms around the younger and pulled her back on the ledge toward the brick wall and she tried to press her younger companion closer to the wall. But the girl who was being held twisted her head and shoulders loose from the protecting embrace, took a step or two to the right from the girl who was trying to save her and jumped nine floors to the pavement.

Every one had jumped then and the solitary girl still was standing on the ledge. After her younger companion had died the girl who was left stood back against the wall motionless, and for a moment she held her hands rigid against her thighs, her head tilted upward and looking toward the sky. Smoke began to trickle out of the broken window a few inches to her left. She began to raise her arms then and make slow gestures as if she were addressing a crowd above her.

A tongue of flame licked up along the window sill and singed her hair and then out of the smoke which was beginning to hide her from view she shot feet foremost, her arms still raised and falling without turning to the street. It was Bertha Weintraut, whom the police found more than an hour later still breathing under the cataracts spilling from ledge to ledge upon the dead who lay around her.

MATERIAL INSIDE VERY INFLAMMABLE.

Concentrated, the fire burned within. The flames caught all the flimsy lace stuff and linens that go to the making of spring and summer shirtwaists and fed eagerly upon the rolls of silk.

The cutting room was laden with the stuff on long tables. The employes were toiling over such materials at the rows and rows of machines. Sinisterly the spring day gave aid to the fire. Many of the window panes facing south and east were drawn down. Draughts had full play.

The experts say that the three floors must each have become a whirlpool of fire. Whichever way the entrapped creatures fled they met a curving sweep of flame. Many swooned and died. Others fought their way to the windows or the elevator or fell fighting for a chance at the fire-escape—the single fire escape leading into the blind court that was to be reached from the upper floors by clambering over a window sill.

On all of thethree floors, at a narrow window, a crowd met death trying to get out to that one slender fire-escape ladder.

It was a fire-proof building in which this enormous tragedy occurred. Save for the three stories of blackened windows at the top you would scarcely have been able to tell where the fire had happened. The walls stood firmly. A thin tongue of flame now and then licked around a remnant of window-sash.

It was the first fire with heavy loss of life in a skyscraper factory building in this city, but it bore out Fire Chief Croker's predictions of several years' standing. These were that such a fire would absolutely mean disaster! The walls of such buildings are fireproof, but the contents of the buildings—as in this case—are highly inflammable. The fire, having no manner of eating into the walls, concentrates on all the food it can find in the interior. The result is a furnace, with the flames fighting upward till they strike the roof. Then the fire mushrooms and starts back down the walls.

This is what happened in the Asch building Saturday. Before a curl of smoke sifted outward through the windows the flames had swept and swirled around the rooms and mercilessly killed.

At about 9 o'clock a watch that was still going was taken from the waist of a woman who had died in the fire. Soon afterward a man was found alive and almost unscathed in the subcellar. The manner of his escape will be worth his telling for many a day.

He was standing in four feet of water right beneath one of the passenger elevator cars and hanging to the safety clutch of the car with both hands. He had figured that in a few minutes the water would be over his head, but he proposed to cling there until his last breath was gone.

FOUR THOUSAND OUT BEFORE FIRE STARTED.

Four thousand workers most fortunately had left the building about an hour and a half before—had tripped along toward the east side laughingly, buoyantly. For this was their fine day—pay day. These were the girls and boys and men and women from the factories and warerooms on the seven lower floors and the shipping departments in the basement.

All the places except the Triangle Waist Company's factory closed down at 3 o'clock yesterday. The Triangle Waist Company does not recognize the union. Around their big shop a strike centred not long ago. The delay in the filling of orders caused by the strike had made it necessary for the toilers to work overtime. That was why they sat bent over their machines and otherwise were busy at their tasks yesterday afternoon.

Those of the Triangle factory had many of them, drawn their pay. Detectives were placed on guard over the bodies till they were taken to the morgue, lest vandals should seek to rob. But no such creature appeared on the scene of the disaster. When darkness came upon the rows of bodies huddled under brown tarpaulins the vigilance was renewed. But no ghoul attempted to prowl among the dead.

HOLOCAUST DIRECT RESULT OF NEGLECTING INSTALMENT OF SUFFICIENT FIRE-ESCAPES

Special to The Montreal Star.

New York, March 27.—Chief Croker made this statement to-day:

"I expected something of this kind to happen in those so-called fireproof buildings which are without adequate protection as far as fire-escapes are concerned. This building had only one fire escape, and that situated in a court. This is a loft building. Under the law, fire-escapes are not required on them. To-day's consequences are to be put directly up to that fact.

"I have agitated this question of need for more fire-escapes on factory buildings for some time. Until the necessary precautions are taken along this line, I will expect other holocausts of this kind to happen in other so-called fireproof buildings."

The impact demolished both engines, two passenger cars and two box cars, the wreckage taking fire.

The injured were placed on a special train and taken to Port Arthur. The dead are:—Brakeman Kimball, Fireman T. Burgess. Missing and probably dead:—G. M. Blank, porter on the eastbound train, and a Salvation Army officer, name unknown. Injured —Harry Pullen, fireman, will probably die; MacChristy, fireman, and Ambrose Kelly, engineer.

Mr. T. E. Robinson, of New Market, with eight horses and farm stock, lost everything. The dead trainmen were residents of Schreiber.

About the Time That it Takes For a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet to Work On The Food And Bring Relief.

TRIAL PACKAGE SENT FREE.

There is no long wait between the time you take a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet and the feeling of relief it will bring to an overloaded stomach. It gets busy in a jiffy and quickly sets things to rights in that tired and disordered stomach. It goes right at the work of digesting the food it finds lodged there and in no time at all has things on the move—the gases cease forming, the breath is sweetened, the coating on the tongue disappears and you are no longer conscious that you even have a stomach.

That is one of the chief recommendations for Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets—that they don't take forever to accomplish the purpose for which you need them. It is just as if you put an extra stomach or two to work when yours needed help. You can't continually overload your stomach and expect it to always smile. It is going to get rebellious and sulky after awhile and refuse to go on being driven to do double work. You must rest it occasionally—not by starving and thereby weakening yourself physically—but by using a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet to do the work of digesting your food.

These tablets contain all the active elements of the natural stomach juices and will alone and unaided digest food just the same as the gastric juices. And nothing could be more harmless than these tablets. They do not affect the system in any way—do not cure any ailment except as they digest food. Use them freely.

Russia's Attitude Rouses Criticism

No Excuse for Talk of Force in Connection With China, Declares Graphic.

London, March 27. — The Daily Graphic draws the attention of the Pacificists who are loudly acclaiming the Taft-Grey scheme for the abolition of war to the statement that China has no alternative but to accept Russia's ultimatum.

Both China and Russia signed The Hague convention for a pacific settlement of international disputes and the Daily Graphic contends that as the questions at issue are essentially judicial questions relating to the interpretation of treaties, there is no excuse whatever even for contemplating the employment of force.

PROTEST IN SENATE FROM BONAVENTURE

Senator Domville Presents Petition of Fishermen Against Restigouche Association Bill.

Special to the Montreal Star.

Ottawar, March 27. — In the Senate yesterday, Senator Domville presented a petition protesting against the present form of a bill to incorporate the Restigouche Association. The petitioners object to the declaration in the preamble that one of the purposes of the association is to co-operate with the authorities for the enforcement of fishing and hunting regulations.

It is alleged by the petitioners that the Provincial and Dominion authorities are able to enforce the law, and that the preamble is an implication that the laws are not being enforced at the present time. It is stated that the incorporators are all non-residents, most of them living in New York; that they have promoted restrictions of fishing against local residents, to enhance the value of their own salmon pools.

The petition is signed by residents of Bonaventure County.

Ten Thousand Druggists

Unite in Their Opinion Regarding a Certain Medicine.

Druggists should know better than any one else the value of every medicine.

Therefore, when over ten thousand recommend Vinol, the cod liver and iron tonic, without oil, over their own signatures as the greatest tonic reconstructor and strength creator—and offer to return the purchase money in every case where it fails to give satisfaction, it must indicate that Vinol is a pretty reliable medicine.

We could publish columns of such testimony as the following:

C. A. Potterfield, the leading druggist of Charleston, W. Va., says he used Vinol for every member of his family and has never been disappointed with the results.

Mr. J. F. Bradley, druggist, of New Brunswick, N.J., says: "Vinol is certainly a wonderful medicine. He has proved it from personal experience."

The many years that Vinol has been on the market has served to strengthen its popularity, and proved by continued tests that it will do all that is claimed for it.

Try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not build up your strength and give you an added interest in life. Robert H. Bryson, Druggist, corner St. Catherine and Peel streets, Montreal.

OLD ROSS RIFLE TO TAKE THE PLACE OF THE LEE-ENFIELD

Department Has 80,000 of the Old Rifles In Stores and Wants to Use Them.

The local military pot is boiling, in fact it is red hot. And the cause of it is the order issued from Ottawa that all Lee-Enfield rifles be returned to stores and that the regiments be armed with the Ross rifle, mark 2, the short Ross.

The local militia men are sore, from C.O. to recruit, claiming that the change means that shooting will be seriously interfered with, if not made impossible except for those who purchase their own rifles. The Mark 2 Ross is the short arm which was so much condemned by shooting men before and after 500 yards is practically useless. As Mark 2 two-star Ross rifles, which are supposedly the arm of the militia, and the territorial rifles from Britain are both allowed on the ranges, the shots claim that a militiaman who does not wish or cannot afford to pay $45 for one of these cannot compete with those who can, and rifle competitions are out of the question for the ordinary militiaman.

No action has been taken yet, though the commanding officers have talked of having a meeting to protest against the change.

The reason of the change is given by one of the officers of high rank of this district who, however, for obvious reasons did not wish to give his name.

"The whole reason," he says, "is that the Government has 80,000 stand of the short Ross in stores and they want to use them. I do not blame them for wanting to issue them now that they have them, but what on earth did they accept them from the company for. They will not shoot and it means that shooting will die off."

THE FIELDING MEETING---SPEECHES ON RECIPROCITY

THE HON. W. S. FIELDING STARTING TO ADDRESS SATURDAY NIGHT'S MEETING.

Mr. Sifton's Name Greeted With Greater Demonstration Than That Accorded Speakers of the Evening—Mr. Fielding Hints at Election—Defends Himself Against Accusation of Favoring Annexation—Explains How the Government Expects the Pact to Work Out—Mr. Fisher Talks About the Farmers and Reciprocity—Mr. Ralph Smith Speaks for the West—Speakers Submitted to Much Good Natured Raillery and Heckling.

An audience which filled every seat in Windsor Hall and left a large fringe of men standing in the outer aisles on Saturday night, listened to three speeches in defence of Reciprocity.

The organizers of the pro-reciprocity meeting on Saturday night showed good judgment in issuing tickets to avowed friends to fill the hall. Even with this precaution, one-half of the audience who were or were thought to be good enough Liberals to be entitled to tickets were in disagreement with the speakers. In accordance with The Star's custom, it gives a full report of the meeting. If it had been an open meeting it could be easily imagined what an uproarious affair it would have been, with four-fifths of the population against reciprocity.

It is well that Mr. Fielding was allowed to deliver his speech. If it is the best defence possible for the agreement, it may be inferred that the Government itself is not in love with its work, now that it has awakened to a sense of the dangerous nature of the agreement.

As stated, admission to the hall had been by ticket, the tickets carefully distributed from the headquarters of the Reciprocity party. Stalwart ushers lined the aisles during the assemblage of the crowd and carefully separated, as far as they were able, the "pros" from the "cons," so far as the seats of vantage near the platform were concerned.

A HAND-PICKED AUDIENCE

In spite of the fact that it was thus a hand-picked audience it was early disclosed that at least fifty per cent. of those present were opposed to the Reciprocity Agreement which two of Sir Wilfrid's ministers had come to Montreal to defend. This was demonstrated when Lieut.-Col. Mackay, in calling the meeting to order, mentioned the name of the Hon. Clifford Sifton, who had spoken in the same hall on Monday evening. Immediately there arose a tumult of applause and cheers that lasted for more than a minute. It looked for a time as though the "anti's" had captured the meeting bodily. The heavy array of vice-presidents on the platform, as well as the distinguished speakers of the evening, who had arrived a minute or two earlier and whose greeting had been less enthusiastic, looked considerably nonplussed. The chairman, unable to make his voice heard, was visibly chagrined. When the Sifton enthusiasm had spent itself, however, the chairman speedily cut short his address and introduced Mr. Fielding without further formality.

The incident was typical of several during the evening. At every opportunity the audience made it clearly understood that it was at least evenly divided on the subject under discussion. This was evidenced by the fact that with each salvo of cheers to mark some point made by the supporters of the pact, there was an accompanying chorus of jeers and derision equally marked. There were many interruptions, many questions asked—the queries covered a wide range, from suggestions as to the need of an election to the price of potatoes in Maine, or the price of beef in Chicago, and many of the statements of Mr. Fielding, Mr. Ralph Smith, and Mr. Fisher were openly derided. At the close there were cheers for Sifton and Borden and against Reciprocity, as well as for the speakers of the evening, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and the Liberal party.

HINTS AT AN ELECTION.

That an election is near was a hint given by the Hon. W. S. Fielding. The suggestion came in this way: There had been considerable heckling of speakers throughout the evening, and while the Minister of Finance was telling the gathering that the farmers of Manitoba are in sympathy with the Reciprocity pact, and that this would be found out when they had a chance to vote.

"Give them a chance to vote," came the shrill demand in sharp staccato.

Turning swiftly in the direction from which the voice had come, Mr. Fielding threw back in quick reply:

"My friend, they will have a chance a good deal sooner than they wish for it."

This answer was followed by a tremendous outburst of cheering, those in favor of reciprocity and those opposed to it, joining in a demonstration that continued for a full minute.

Not another word was said on the subject of an election, but the impression was left that the Government had seriously considered the question of going before the country to learn the positive opinion of the electorate.

MR. FIELDING ON THE DEFENSIVE.

The Minister of Finance was on the defence from the very beginning. He began by a declaration in reply to the charge laid against him by Mr. T. Chase Casgrain, that he had been an Annexationist in spirit. He said that the story that he had ever been an Annexationist either in his spoken or written statements was "a fabrication without a shadow of truth." He laid down the principle that the manufacturers of the East must in some measure give way to the necessities of the farmers of the West. He issued a warning that neglect of this principle might involve the country in serious consequences.

The opinion of the Government on the question of Reciprocity was clearly defined by Mr. Fielding: "There is no question that the farmer, the fisherman and the lumberman want it," he said, "and I think they're going to get it."

Mr. Fielding made the statement that, "there is no politics in our tariff or in our industrial question."

Mr. Fisher declared: "We believe in Reciprocity on Canada's conditions granted on demand from Washington."

Later he asserted: "There is no Annexation sentiment in Canada, because we have a prosperous and contented people."

He claimed, too, for reciprocity that "we believe we have the mass of the people behind it."

The same patriotic decorations that had done duty on Monday, decorated pilaster and window for Saturday, but the painted canvas that had borne sentiments opposing the pact had gone and in their place were new ones:

"Welcome to Our Chief," read one.

"Enlarge Our Markets, read its neighbor.

"A United Canada," pleaded one vis-a-vis.

"Reciprocity, Peace and Goodwill," prayed the last of the four.

A quartette and an orchestra were there to relieve the tedium of waiting.

The quartette came forward to sing "Rule Britannia," and as the strains of the patriotic melody rolled out, some one cried: "Sing 'Yankee Doodle.'" There followed an ironical cheer and laughter.

THOSE ON THE PLATFORM:

Among those on the platform besides the speakers, were: Mr. Sargeant P. Stearns, ex-Consul, United States; Senators McSweeny, Beique, Casgrain, Dandurand, Mitchell, Mackay, and Gillmor; R. Bickerdike, M.P.; H. J. Logan, M.P.; Mayor Guerin, Recorder Weir, Mederic Martin, M.P.; Dr. Andrew McPhail, Ald. N. E. McMahon, D. S. Thornton, J. M. Robertson, Allan Brown, D. Pottinger, R. O. Aid the Farmer and Not Hurt Manufacturer, Says Minister

The chairman, Lt.-Col. F. S. Mackay, in opening the proceedings, said he had to thank the large gathering for coming to hear the speeches which were to be delivered in favor of reciprocity. (Applause and hisses.)

"Gentlemen," remarked the chairman, as a protest against the emphatic manifestation of opposition, "we are in a country of free speech."

"And of free trade," interrupted someone from the body of the hall.

"I was on this platform on Monday evening last," proceeded the chairman, "and listened to the speech delivered by the Hon. Mr. Sifton. (Loud and prolonged cheering.) And I hope that you will give the same attention to the speech that is going to be delivered to-night by the Hon. Mr. Fielding. (Cheers.)

Without further remark, the chairman called upon Mr. Fielding.

Mr. Fielding Says He Is Loyal And Always Was.

Hon. Mr. Fielding, who was given a cordial reception, said:—

"Ladies and gentlemen,

"Before I endeavor to engage your attention for a short time on the particular subject for the consideration of which we have assembled, I crave your indulgence for a few moments while in a few sentences I refer to a subject of some personal character.

"At a meeting held recently in this hall one of the citizens of Montreal with whom I have had the pleasantest relations, followed a course I regret to say, which I think was very unfair. He devoted much of his time, not to a consideration of the question of reciprocity, but to an attack upon the Minister of Finance. With that portion of Mr. T. Chas Casgrain's remarks which related to the affairs of Nova Scotia in the earlier history of the province, and to my own connection with the same events I have little or nothing to say. My opinions upon this question referred to were known to my people in Nova Scotia, who never failed to sustain me when I appealed to them, and for those opinions there need neither for explanation nor apology. (Applause.)

"But I regret to say that my friend went further and made a statement which he ought not to have made. I say there was not the shadow of a foundation of truth in his statement when he declared before a meeting in this hall, that Mr. Fielding advanced or advocated the annexation of this country to the United States. I say that he made that statement without the shadow or the ghost of a shadow of foundation of truth. (Loud applause.)

Nova Scotia Loyal When Others Were Disloyal.

"I regret that my friend did not know me better. I regret still more that he did not know the Province of Nova Scotia better. If he had known the Province of Nova Scotia he would have known that any man against whom there had been any suspicion of disloyalty could never have been permitted to occupy any position of prominence in the province. (Applause). Nova Scotia is loyal—(hear, hear.)—Nova Scotia always was loyal. Nova Scotia was loyal even under provocation, and she never forgot in any agitation that constitutional methods were the proper ones for the people to follow whenever there was couse for complaint. Nova Scotia was loyal when many in Canada were disloyal. She was loyal when people tried to burn down the Parliament Buildings; she was loyal when Montreal was signing the only annexation manifesto that was signed. Nova Scotia, I say, was loyal when the Tories of Montreal were pelting the representative of the Queen with rotten eggs.

"For nearly thirty years I have been engaged in the activities of public life. For a long period of that time—for fourteen years I represented the loyal city and county of Halifax, my native city and county, where they know my past. I represented the metropolitan constituency of the province in the local legislature, and for nearly the same time I was a Minister of the Crown in Nova Scotia. For twelve years I was Prime Minister of that loyal province, and when I ceased to play a part in provincial affairs I passed into another constituency, and now for fourteen years I have represented the loyal constituency of Shelbourne and Queen's and I say that if any of you know the history of Nova Scotia you will know that no man could occupy any one of the positions I have named if his loyalty was under suspicion. For nearly thirty years now I have been engaged in the activities of public life, and I say in all sincerity—and I shall be believed by all those who have any knowledge of Nova Scotia—that I challenge any man to show that I have at any time during those thirty years ever spoken or written a word in favor of the annexation of this country to the United States. (Applauuse.) The assertion that I have favored such a proceeding is a sheer fabrication, without the ghost of a shadow of foundation in truth.

Reciprocity Agreement Had Not Injured Business.

"We are assembled here to-night to consider one of the greatest questions that has come before our people. We have recently presented a measure in Parliament of the greatest importance to the Canadian people, and it is a pleasure to me to come to Montreal and discuss it to-night for two reasons.

"The first is because it gives me an opportunity to meet this large gathering of the citizens of our commercial metropolis, assembled for the study of this great question. Then there is another reason why I find pleasure in coming to Montreal today. After all that we have heard of the dreadful havoc which is being worked among the business of the country by this reciprocity agreement it was a comfort to find when I came here that business was still going on at the old stand as usual. (Applause.)

"I had thought of calling to see an old Conservative friend to-day, but another friend of mine told me that he did not think that I should be able to see him for, as a matter of fact, he was too busy to receive callers. 'Too busy,' I said, 'but how can he be too busy in these dreadful times?' 'Well,' replied my friend, 'he is busy one half of the day working up the anti-reciprocity business, and the other half he is busily engaged with his brokers giving them instructions to buy the stocks at steadily advancing prices' (Laughter.)

"There are a good many of my Conservative friends engaged in looking after similarly prosperous business. We do not complain. The rain falls alike on the just and the unjust, and the blessings of the Liberal Government extends to all these good citizens. (Laughter.) But as this friend is spending part of his time in such profitable undertakings, I suppose we must not complain if he spends the other part working up the anti-reciprocity business for amusement.

"We have submitted to the country what we conscientiously believe is of the utmost importance and advantage to it, and we believe that its great benefits will be experienced by every section of this Dominion. Sometimes a measure may be passed which will be limited in its operation. It may prove a good thing for one section of the community, and be of less generous interest in another, but here is a measure which we believe will distribute its advantages in every province of this Dominion from ocean to ocean.

Pact With United States Would Be of Benefit to Montreal.

"It will distribute its great advantages to this great city of Montreal. (Cries of "No.") I say it will distribute its advantages to Montreal, and for this reason: The greatest interest is in having a commercial capital of prosperous and contented people.

A voice, ("Then why chage it?")

"If you can fill up, as we believe you can fill up, the great Western prairie lands with happy and prosperous and contented people, they will be the customers of the commercial capital, and the manufacturers of Montreal will greatly benefit therby.

"On the Pacific Coast there was a scare among the fruit growers. I believe it is passing away. Lumber men were alarmed and now this scare is also passing away. The people of British Columbia are commencing to understand that the mining products of their province, their lumber and their fish—But it not necessary for me to dwell on conditions as they exist in British Columbia, because you will have an oportunity during the evening of hearing my good friend Ralph Smith on this subject, and as he comes from British Columbia he can give you some information as to the benefits which the people of his province will derive from this agreement.

"We will move on now to the Prairie Provinces. Coming into Alberta we are informed that the farmers of that province are strong for Reciprocity almost to a man. Moving on to Saskatchewan, it is true that anti-reciprocity resolutions have been passed in this province, but we know that they would almost vote for a resolution to hang Sir Lulfrid Laurier, so strong is the partizan feeling. But when you come to the Legislature of Saskatchewan what do you find? You find Liberals and Conservatives standing up and saying, 'this is a thing for the good of Canada, and we must act together.' (Cheers.)

Election Sooner Than Wanted, Says Mr. Fielding.

"Come on now to Manitoba. Party feeling runs high in Manitoba, perhaps in no province in the Dominion is it equalled, but we believe that most of the farmers of Manitoba are in sympathy with this as we will find out when they have a chance to vote."

A Voice—"Give them a chance to vote."

"They will have a chance, my friend, a good deal sooner than they want it." (Hear, hear. Cheers.)

A Voice—"Bring it on to-morrow."

"Come now down to the Province of Ontario. We deeply regret that our good friends of the city of Toronto are against us, but will my friends tell us of any occasion when Toronto was not against us. We have every reason to believe that the province of Ontario is in sympathy with us. We know that Toronto is hostile. They had to find some reason and poor little Toronto was not long in finding an excuse. We want intelligent votes!

A Voice—"They are all intelligent votes in Canada."

"We have reason to believe that the rural votes of Ontario are in favor of the agreement.

"Coming into Quebec, the city of Montreal is said to be against us. Wait and see. (Cheers, and counter cheers).

Go down to the Maritime Provinces. Is there any man so daft? Is there any man with any knowledge of the Maritime Provinces who does not look upon this as a great measure.

A Voice—"What is the price of potatoes?"

"I am sorry to tell my friend that I do not know, and one of my weakest points is that when I do not know anything about a question I never talk about it. (Cheers).

"I think I am justified in saying that while undoubtedly a measure of this kind must produce some doubt in the minds of the people, while here and there there is a section or a community which views this matter with alarm, the great mass of the people have made up their minds that it is a good thing for the Dominion of Canada."

Government Claims to Have Mandate for Reciprocity.

"We know that a great many things have been said about this agreement which are wrong. We know that a great many men have formed their opinions with relation to this measure without adequate information, and so it is our desire to endeavor to remove some of the misunderstandings that exist. Upon so broad a question it would be impossible to go much into detail, and there are some things which we can go into without encroaching too much on the patience of our audience.

"One of the questions asked is, 'What mandate have you for doing this thing?' Well those who have not been in the activities of public life might find that cry a little difficult, but those of us who have been in the game are quite used to it. We never have any matter brought before us that the cry of 'what mandate have you?' is not used. When the building of the Grand Trunk Pacific was under discussion the cry was: 'What mandate have you?' We thought that we had a mandate and the election which followed proved that we were right. Not many months ago we brought forward an important matter with a view of having Canada take some part in the defence of her shores and assisting the British Empire. Again the cry was raised: 'What mandate have you?'"

A voice—"You have got it to answer for."

"And now the latest cry is: 'What mandate have you for reciprocity?' We have a mandate. (Cries of No! No!) We have a mandate of fifty years' standing, according to Canadian history. I am sorry that my friends who oppose us in this matter have such a supreme contempt for history. Let us take the thing up to-day. Act to-day. History is a lamp which has provided us with the illumination on which we must act. We have a history in this matter and I am going to ask you to pay a little attention to it. There is a dividing line. There is a point at which history begins.

Mr. Fielding's Answer to Letter of Sir William Van Horne.

"You have all read the letter of one of your citizens of Montreal, Sir William Van Horne. (Cheers.)

"I am glad that he has a good many friends here, (hear, hear), because you will become responsible for his words, (hear, hear), and you will be able to see the force of my comment thereon. Sir William said: 'The other day, Mr. Fielding in a despatch to the High Commissioner in London said that for fifty years people in Canada had wished for reciprocity. That was true.' (Uproar.) You must let me finish that sentence. 'That was true,' says Sir William, 'in the 60's and 70's, but it has not been true since. (Hear, hear.) As I said before, I am glad there is someone to applaud him as I want to hold him responsible.

"There was much said for reciprocity in the 60's and 70's which was highly interesting and useful, but I propose to begin at the point designated by Sir William Van Horne. He says it was true in the 60's and 70's, but that it has not been true since. Then we will begin in the 80's. That is fair. In the year 1880—we have Sir William's statement that nobody in Canada wanted reciprocity—but against that I read the following from the Statutes of Canada in the year 1880: 'All the following articles: animals of all kinds, green fruit, hay, straw, bran, seeds of all kinds, vegetable, including potatoes and all roots.' (Laughter.)

"What was the price of potatoes in Maine?" Mr. Fielding exclaimed, interrupting his reading of the article. He then proceeded:

"——salt, hops, wheat, peas and beans, barley, rye, oats, Indian corn." ("Lemons," shouted someone in the crowd.) "I am afraid I did not catch my friend's interruption."

"Lemons," repeated the voice from the crowd.

"We will cut the lemons for the benefit of obstructionists," replied Mr. Fielding, who then proceeded once more with his reading of the article: "'Indian meal and oatmeal.' Don't get tired friends; I want to be fair. 'All these things may be imported into Canada free of duty, or at a less rate than provided by this Act, by proclamation of the Governor-General-in-Council, when it may be decided to his satisfaction that similar articles may be imported from the United States free of duty.' (Applause.)

"Now, we have these two statements: you have the statement of Sir William Van Horne that in the 70's, and this is not the 70's—(No, No.)—that nobody in Canada wanted reciprocity. I show you that there was a standing offer in the statute book."

"That was thirty years ago," said a voice from the crowd.

"Now, that offer remained. You remember that Sir William says that in the 70's, nobody wanted reciprocity. That offer for reciprocity remained year after year. In 1886, the Statutes were revised and that offer was crystallized into a permanent law; and Sir William says: 'Nobody wanted reciprocity.' Which will you receive? Sir William's statement, or the law books?"

But What About 1911 is Cry From the Audience.

"We come now to '87."

"What about 1911?" interrupted someone.

"I find that at that time Sir Charles Tupper says that both the Imperial Government and the Government of Canada are doing all in their power to bring about reciprocal trade arrangements with the United States. (Applause.) Sir William said nobody wanted it. The record says that the Government of Canada and the Government of the Empire were endeavoring to do all they cculd to bring about reciprocity.

"In 1888, Sir Charles Tupper went to Washington to seek reciprocity." (Hisses, and cries of Thirty years ago" and "We don't want it now." "I find that at that time, so anxious was Sir Charles Tupper for reciprocity that he offered to give the Americans, in addition to the ordinary exchanges of trade, free access to the fishing privileges of Canada. We give an arrangement which gives everything that Sir Charles Tupper wanted, but we have not given the fisheries of thee Dominion of Canada. (Applause.) We have maintained the rights of the people of Canada as owners of the fishing grounds and the Americans must have a license when they come in, and shall not have free rights to fish in the waters of Canada.

"In 1891—we are getting on now, no 60's, no 70's—in 1891, a deputation went to Washington seeking reciprocity and in the speech from the throne, April 3, 1891, I read as follows—remember, nobody wanted reciprocity at this time: 'My advisers, following opportunities presented in the closing months of last year, caused the administration of the United States to be reminded of the willingness of Canada to make representations for the development of trade between the Republic and the Dominion, as well as those questions of international character which remained unsettled. I am pleased to say that in October next, the Government of the United States will be prepared to consider the best means of arriving at a practical solution of these important questions.'

Says Conservatives Were Up to the Last for Reciprocity.

"Sir John A. Macdonald died not many weeks after that. It was the last speech he ever put into the mouth of a Governor-General, and in that last speech he declared that the Government was doing all it could to get reciprocity. (Applause.)

"Sir John passed away and others took his place, and again we find that the Conservative Government, after Sir John A. Macdonald had passed away, lived up to his traditions on that question, for they also declared that they were very anxious for reciprocity, and in the tariff act of 1894, the last tariff act of the Conservative Government, they put in their Statute book another standing offer, not so broad as the previous one, but a standing offer of very much the same kind, and I want to tell my friend who is interested in Maine that vegetables were in that offer, too.

"Altogether we have this proved, that not only in the ancient history of Canada, but down to the last day on which the Conservative party ruled this Dominion, they were, and they proclaimed themselves to be, the advocates of reciprocity.

"On one occasion, in the election of 1891, Sir John Macdonald criticized the zeal and wider policy of his opponents, but the Conservative party at that time declared that they were the champions of reciprocity, and in the Toronto Mail and Empire, in that campaign, the statement was made that tahere had been—I think that I am quoting correctly—ten offers of reciprocity made to the United States, and nine had been made by Conservative Governments. The Conservative Government passed away and the Liberal Government came into power.

"The Liberal party had by their public declaration in the convention of 1893, stated in the most positive terms that they wanted reciprocity. The Liberal platform in 1893 made it very clear that one of the planks of that platform was for a reciprocity treaty, which would develop Canada, open up resources for her trade and commerce, remove the causes of trouble between both countries, and promote the good relations between the Empire and the Republic which would afford the best guarantee for peace and prosperity. (Applause.)

Reciprocity in the Liberal Platform of 1896.

"That was the Liberal policy of reciprocity, and, yet it has been said in the resolution which I have seen—I think the resolution moved at the meeting here—that the Liberal party had abandoned reciprocity in the tariff of 1897. The Liberal party of that day did not adopt the policy of the standing offer, but in the very speech I had the honor of making in bringing down the tariff of 1897—in that very speech, I, as the Finance Minister of Canada, used these very words:

"The honorable minister said: 'We have pledged the Liberal party to use all efforts to bring about better trade relations with the United States. We are already taking the first steps in that direction by commissioning two ministers to visit Washington and make known the fact that Canada is willing to negotiate with her American neighbors for a fair and reasonable reciprocity treaty.'

"Was that abandoning reciprocity?

"'If our American friends,' I went on to say, 'are willing to make a treaty with us then we are willing to meet them on fair and reasonable terms. If it shall not succeed, we shall regret the fact, but nevertheless, we shall go on our way rejoicing, and find other markets to build up the prosperity of Canada.'

"Now, I have shown you from all this that every public man of prominence on both sides of politics was declaring that he desired reciprocity with the United States."

A Voice—"What about Laurier's last trip to Washington?"

Mr. Fielding—"Our American friends did not meet our applications in the spirit we thought we were entitled to. There grew up in Canada a feeling first of regret, and afterwards perhaps of resentment at what we regarded as unfair treatment. (Hear, hear.) We ceased to look to Washington for reciprocity because we saw no indication that we should get it. It was not a case of reciprocity having ceased to be desirable. The economic facts did not change. If reciprocity was a desirable thing in 1897, it was equally desirable in 1838, and so on for a period of years.'

"Oh, oh," and laughter.

'What happened? Does my honorable friend think that in 1897 conditions in Canada had changed so much that we did not need reciprocity?"

Voices—"Yes."

"What you mean, then, is that under the administration of Sir Wilfrid Laurier Canada had gained so rapidly in prosperity that she did not need reciprocity. If I understand my friend aright, he conveys the idea that Canada needed reciprocity desperately bad with the Tories in power, but that there came a greater prosperity under the Liberal rule and then he pays us the excellent compliment that the country was doing so well under Liberal rule that it did not need reciprocity."

Reciprocity Negotiations Known of a Year Ahead of Time.

"Then we are told that this reciprocity gave us a great shock. Nobody expected it. It was a bolt from the blue. Everybody was astonished.

"Well, let us again turn and see what the facts are. I will not give you any ancient history. Just one year ago there were some negotiations at Washington. A difficulty arose, and we made some negotiations with the United States which turned a very uncomfortable corner, and brought happiness to many business men in Canada who were very much alarmed, and at that time, arising out of these negotiations, the President of the United States declared it was his desire we should enter into negotiations for a reciprocal arrangement. The Government of Canada replied that it was glad to find the Americans in a different frame of mind and we would be very happy to discuss the question with them. If that was all wrong, if we did not want reciprocity, if that was disloyal, why did not our good friends the Opposition collar us there?

"But what happened? The arrangement was made at Washington—not for reciprocity, but the arrangement which may be called the foundation of this present agreement — was adopted unanimously in the House. And it is a fact that this intention to discuss reciprocity with the United States, and to negotiate an agreement if possible, was known publicly and was on the records of the House of Commons one year before this present agreement was arrived at.

"I do not want to worry you by reading correspondence, more than to say that delegates came to Ottawa to discuss the question, and that at the opening of Parliament in November a passage was inserted in the speech from the Throne stating that we were entering upon these negotiations, and that we hoped they would result in success.

"Was anybody shocked or alarmed? Thas was the time for alarm, but instead of that we found members in the House on the Conservative side were disposed to say they did not think we could succeed, but that they thought it would be a very good thing if we could make a satisfactory arrangement.

"You have been told from this platform these reciprocity negotiations were like a bolt from the blue. I have shown you that these negotiations are matters of public record for the last 12 months, and that nobody was shocked or startled or astonished.

John A. Macdonald, Tory, in Favor of Agreement.

"How is it that the shock came later on? I give you the answer in the words of a John A. Macdonald tory. ——— has been having some interesting interviews, and it gives the name of the gentleman I am going to quote as Mr. L. Lovekin. Mr. Lovekin says:

"I am a Sir John A. Macdonald tory of 40 years' standing, but I am in favor of the agreement with both feet." Feet seem to be useful sometimes in discussing this reciprocity matter.

My friend comes into it with both his feet. He will not sit down to take it. 'I am in favor of the agreement with both feet,' he says, 'it is for the advantage of the trade of the country and the farmer. We are going to have new markets opened to us. We are going to trade with the richest people on the earth, on an equal basis.'

"There is no occasion to beat the big drum of Imperialism. Let us look at the facts as they are. Even if we do not find new markets in addition to what we have, what can hurt us anyway? The farmers are all of the same opinion, and the friend whom I have been quoting, added, "Why, this agreement is the very thing Macdonald hoped for, wished for, and prayed for. 'It is nothing,' he says, 'but doctrine.' Well, gentlemen, speaking for myself, I do not want to be charged with advocating tory doctrine. (Laughter.) 'It is nothing' he says, 'but doctrine.' It happens, however—and this is where the shock comes—it happens that Bill Paterson and Fielding negotiated the agreement, and so are getting a lot of credit that the Opposition would have liked to have had. ((Loud applause.)

Did the Liberals Carry Out Old National Policy?

"'Let well alone.' That is the cry. 'Let well alone.' Well, there is no compliment to the Laurier Government in that. Is all well with the trade and tariff of Canada, it may be asked. If it is, contrast that with their statements when we came into power. (Interruption, and a voice, "You continued the Old National Policy.")- If we continued the National Policy what did the Conservative leader at that time mean by saying this when we brought down our policy—I did not mean to read it here but I have to read it for the benefit of my friend: 'The result is this tariff, (that is, the Laurier Government's tariff) goes into operation when the hon. gentleman knows that the interests of the country are already paralyzed in consequence.' I was reading a wail, a sillier wail than this about our industries in the Montreal Gazette, where one month after another it was declared that as a result of our policy the industries were ruined, that mills must close, and they saw ruin staring them in the face. And my friend over there now says that we were continuing the Old National Policy. (Hear hear, and laughter.) Well, if we were continuing the National Policy, what did Sir Charles Tupper mean by talking to us in this way, because we were doing it? (More laughter and applause.)

"I remember that a question something like this came up some years ago between a friend and Mr. Paterson, who shares with me the honor of having negotiated this agreement He was speaking to his friend when the latter said that his policy was the Old National Policy. Mr. Paterson had been speaking of the tremendous expansion of the trade and commerce of the country which was being experienced as a result of our policy. 'Well my friend,' said Mr. Paterson, 'let us reason together. You say that it is the Old National Policy. I do not think it is. Let us admit for the sake of argument, however, that it is. Don't you see what happened? Don't you think if it is the Old National Policy, that it is a very good thing it has now got into the hands of men who know how to manage it, and who are doing so to the benefit of everybody?' (Laughter.) The men who invented the machine could not have known how to run it. Even if it were the Old National Policy, you should be thankful that it has got into the hands of men who can run it, and they are running it for the development and the prosperity of the country.

Prosperity of Canada Has Increased Since 1896.

"But, coming back to where I was a minute ago—is all well? Has Canada been prosperous of late? Yes; Canada has been prosperous for the last fourteen years. Canada has been prosperous since the Government of Sir Wilfrid Laurier came into power. Our friends of the Opposition love to generalize. They say that this is so in a general way, but we find that it is so in details. I find that before the Laurier Government came into power the imports—and the imports of our country are the measure of our trade—in the fourteen years before the Laurier Government came into power the imports had increased—how much? Nothing. Butthey actually decreased by fourteen million dollars in fourteen years. That was the result of 'the old National Policy' before the Laurier Government came into power.

"And, the fourteeen years since, how about the imports? Did they decrease? Did they go back? Whilst in the last fourteen years of the Conservative administration the imports had gone back fourteen million dollars, in the fourteen years of the Liberal administration they had increased by three hundred million dollars. (Loud applause.) The exports of the country when the Conservative party had the management of the affairs of the Dominion increased during the last fourteen years of their power by $22,000,000. In fourteen years of the Laurier administration the total exports have increased by $171,000,000. (Applause.)

"In the fourteen years before the Laurier Government came into power the total trade of the country increased by eight and a half million dollars, and in the fourteen years since the Laurier administration commenced the trade of the country has increased by four hundred and seventy-one million dollars.

"All is Lovely," Say Those Who Once Opposed Tariff.

"A word with regard to trade with England, trade with Great Britain. Our Conservative friends are loyal just now, but let us see how loyal their policy, was in the last yourteen years of Conservative rule. The exports from Great Britain about which they are so much concerned increased how much? They fell back eighteen million dollars. In fourteen years of Liberal rule our purchases from Great Britain increased to the extent of seventy-one and one-half million dollars. Now, gentlemen, they say that all is well. They pay us a compliment, but we do not want to take to ourselves the vast difference in the two sets of figures.

The Fielding Meeting--Speeches on Reciprocity

"It is gratifying now to us to hear our Conservative friends say 'all is lovely' now that we kknow that Sir Charles Tupper used the words which I quoted a few moments ago. Our Conservative friends have been claiming that the policy was a bad one, and now they take it all back kand say everything is lovely. The tariff policy is lovely. That is a very encouraging sign. I can see great hope in that.

"Very ugly things are said just now about reciprocity, but the worst anybody can say about reciprocity is no worse than what Sir Charles Tupper said of the tariff policy of the Liberal Government. But if they can look back on the past now after what had been said and say everything is lovely in the face of the quotations I have given you, do you not think that five or six years from now the Conservatives will be coming forward in this very hall and telling you of the blessings of Reciprocity?

Reciprocity in Natural Products Good for Country.

"This reciprocity agreement is chiefly confined to natural products, to the very things that were in the standing offer of the conservative party for ages, and the statistics show that this very agreement has been pending for the past fifty years waiting for an opportunity to interest the American congress in it and pass it. Reciprocity in natural products is a good thing for this country.

"How about the manufacturers? There is no question about the farmer, the lumberman and the fisherman. They believe that it is a good thing and I believe they are going to get it. This agreement shows to every intelligent manufacturer who reads it that his interests were carefully guarded. It is on public record. Mr. Taft, of the United States, said in one of his addresses a week ago that his instructions from Congress were to secure free trade with Canada, but they never made a formal proposal of this character as they were not permitted to get near enough. We told them frankly at the beginning that in the matter of natural products we could meet them on an equal basis, but regarding manufactured products we had to be more careful. With their greater capital we were not in a position to compete with them to any large extent in manufactured products.

Claims Concessions Forced from the United States.

"There are some manufactured articles on the list. I met a good Conservative friend who said to me 'Look what you have done to the steel industry in your agreement.' What is there in this to object to? I asked. 'You say you put wire rods on the free list? Yes, I answered, but that is only part of the story. I said, my dear friend, you forget that wire rods are on the free list in Canada now. Wire rods have been on the free list for quite a number of years. What we have done is this. We have made the Americans take the duty of six dollars a ton off wire rods into the United States, and if we wish to make steel rods and sell them to the United States we can do so.

"It has been stated as a reason for opposing reciprocity that the lumber industry of British Columbia would be ruined by letting in cheap lumber from the United States. The lumber industry is a very large one in the United States and also a very large one in British Columbia, and now this agreement was going to ruin the British Columbia lumber industry. This staement is in no way right, those who are using it have been misled, and must have received their information from scare headlines. They do not know that rough lumber is on the free list in Canada and has been for some years. The admission of lumber free is of old standing and we have been suffering from it for some years, and no one has discovered it before. What have we done for the lumber industry, we have had the Americans take $1.25 off the lumber duty into the United States. That is what has been accomplished.

"We have made no concessions to the Americans. If you receive lumber up to a certain quality free of duty, they have taken the corresponding sum of $1.50 off the other classes of lumber of a higher grade. That is what we have done for lumber. Under the Payne-Aldrich tariff, shingles were increased from 30 to 50 cents per thousand. What do we find now? The Americans have reduced the duty back to 30 cents. Canada has made no change but the Americans have made a reduction. These are the things we are getting on the free list and injuring the manufacturers of Canada. Take up the whole list of manufactures that are free and you will discover that they are already free in Canada and the only change is that we are getting them free into the United States. It cannot hurt us.

No Manufacturers Seriously Affected By the Agreement.

"But I understand some of our friends are saying: 'This is only the beginning of the end.' If the end is to be of the same kind, we could all stand it, I am sure." I want to call your attention, then, to the fact that wherever manufactures are dealt with in that list, you will find that one of two things has happened, either they are already free in Canada and we are getting them free into the United States, or we are making some slight change which will not seriously affect any manufacturers.

"The most important change was on agricultural implements. It is not worth while arguing as to whether this should be done. It is one of the things which the public opinion of Canada demand. We have a large industry in Canada engaged in the manufacture of these implements. Our farmers want them free. We said: 'We cannot do that; it is not fair and we are prepared to stand up for them.' We have reduced the duties on some of these implements 2½ per cent. in some cases and 5 per cent. in others.

"The manufacturers are always a little anxious and alarmed. Why, think of the howl raised by my good manufacturing friends in 1897, compared with the satisfaction to-day! Why, they always told us we were going to ruin them, and yet large changes were made and the result is that our Conservative friends say it is all lovely and perfect.

"So the manufacturers are always liable to be a little anxious and alarmed, but I think there is hardly a manufacturing interest seriously affected. There are one or two points about which there is some debate, but I ask my manufacturing friends in all fairness, and I do not mean my political friends—there is no politics in the tariff and in our industrial questions.—(hear, hear). I think that many of the great manufacturers of Canada are friends, and though it is not always by good fortune to agree with them, I think they will do me the justice of saying that I have tried to be frank and fair with them. I want them to look at the schedule in that agreement and I say every intelligent manufacturer must admit that in fairness, and if we have done that in the past, if in this list they have come out much better than some expected, may we not say that as we have cared for your interests fairly and justly in the past, so we will care for them fairly and justly again."

Danger of East and West Coming Into Antagonism.

"Two or three years ago—four years ago, I think it was.—I had the pleasure of addressing a meeting in this same hotel at which I ventured to discuss the question of the tariff situation of the East and the West. I can give you the substance of what I said. I ventured to point out that it was a mistake for the manufacturers of Canada to array themselves in antagonism to the people of the West, and that opinion I want to express again here.

"There is a danger that East and West may be brought into antagonism, if not into hostility. There is a danger, not the danger that friends see in Reciprocity, but the danger is that the manufacturing interests in this country and the allied money interests should array themselves against the western farmer. The day is within sight of the ordinary young man, and some who are not young, when there will be more people west of the Great Lakes than East. The West is going to dominate Canada and we who live in the East, if we are wise, may as well see it and look ahead.

"What kind of a West is it going to be? Is is to be a wise and prudent and sympathetic West. Is it to be a rash, reckless and dangerous West? The answer can be given by the manufacturers of the Dominion and the allied moneyed interests connected with them.

"I do not hesitate to say that with proper care, with fair treatment, with reasonable argument, we can bring the western farmer to be a sympathetic citizen of Canada, to be willing to work in harmony with the people in this eastern country who have done so much for the building of the West."

A Voice—"There will never be any factories in the West."

"I think," replied Mr. Fielding, "that the gentleman will agree with me that while factories will grow there as they grow everywhere with population, that for the present, and in the early future, and in the future that is not even so very early, agriculture will be the dominating power of this Western country. For the present, for the future, and for the future far ahead, the agricultural interest is going to dominate this country. We must say whether we are going to antagonize that interest or meet it fairly and work hand in hand.

Farmers of the West Fear the Eastern Manufacturer.

"I was out in the West several years ago in connection with the tariff commission. I had a sort of method in my examination in connection with that tariff enquiry. As I met a manufacturer who, I thought, was an extremist and wanted the earth with a hedge around it, I tried to make him realize that there were some other people besides himself.

"Then I met a farmer who could only see what was to his own interest, and his interest was having everything free and tearing down all tariff walls. So I thought it my duty to show him that the manufacturers were useful in building up the country; and applying that method I hope that I, in conjunction with my colleagues, was able to sow some seed that did good.

"At one of the meetings where the farmers talked extreme free-trade, I told them that I did not think they were giving the manufacturer a fair show. Afterwards I met the leader of the deputation, and he said:—'Mr. Fielding, I want a word with you. I have not much quarrel with what you said. The fact is we are not complaining so much about the present tariff, but we read in the papers that the Manufacturers' Association is all the time passing resolutions and sending them to you, and we are afraid these manufacturers are getting to be a dangerous power in the country, and that is why we come here to you.'

Defeat of Reciprocity Would Anger Western Farmers.

"I believe that if we meet these farmers in the right spirit and if we reason with them and let them understand that we are not trying to oppress them,—if we give them a "kind and sympathetic hand, these men will be reasonable and fair, and become good citizens of Canada. Suppose we do not do that? Suppose the manufacturers here organize, with their money, and defeat this agreement? I want to tell you that there will grow up in that western country a dangerous feeling. Don't make any mistake.

"I beg the manufacturers of this country not to range themselves against this agreement. They are not hurt. They are more frightened than hurt. They are not frightened by anything in the agreement, but somebody tells them that dreadful things will happen yet.

"Sir, I say that if the manufacturers here will meet these western people in a fair spirit, they may hope to get them in sympathy with them. They may hope to work out a policy which will be fair and just to both. But I give it as my opinion, worth much or little, that if, by force of the manufacturers, this agreement be destroyed, there will grow up in that western country a feeling dangerous to the manufacturing interests of Canada, and dangerous to the welfare of the Dominion.

"I am told that it is urged very strongly that if we give free trade in agricultural products we cannot help giving free trade in manufactures. If that argument is used by the Conservatives, then it is a severe arraignment of the National Policy because the National Policy, in the same Act, established protective duties and made a standing offer of reciprocity in natural products.

Free Trade Would Mean Closing Up Canadian Factories.

"It has been said that to put natural products on the free list shows that we do not sympathize with the farmers. But the farmers get their compensation in a large market. That is why they want it. They have asked to have free trade in natural products, because, although they may be put to some little disadvantage locally, they know that they will get the larger market of the United States and that this market will be a great advantage to them.

"It is not so with the manufacturers. The Americans, with their greater power of capital and organization, can beat us, as a rule, in manufacturing. And if we have free trade, manufacturers would undoubtedly have to close up their factories in Canada. We want the factories here. You manufacturers were told, in 1897, that if you returned a Liberal government, dreadful things would happen. But to-day you are teeming with prosperity. Trust us again. The men who have given fair consideration to the manufacturers while dealing fairly and justly with the farmers and with the great masses of the people, the men whose policy has brought about the results which I have quoted to-day, these are the men who have made this reciprocity treaty; and these are the men who mean that in the future, as in the past, while justice and fair play, liberal justice and generous fair play, shall be done to the farming interests, they will not allow the manufacturing interests of Canada to be sacrificed.

Annexation Not Talked of By Those Favoring Reciprocity.

"Just a word more, and I will close. Annexation! Is it not a scandal and a shame to talk annexation? I would not know where to look in the whole Dominion of Canada for a man who would call himself an annexationist. If our American friends have received an erroneous impression,—if they believe that the men supporting the reciprocity agreement are talking annexation in disguise, and if they think that the thousands of people in Canada who are supporting reciprocity are doing so because they wish to see annexation can you be surprised? Our American friends are not to blame. There is disloyalty here. Who teaches them?

A voice—"The Montreal Star!"

"He says, 'The Montreal Star.' I read the other day a headline in the Star over a cable from England. That headline said:—'Annexation hurts our issues,' referring to issues of Canadian securities in London. Well, if annexation hurts our issues, who is responsible? The friends of reciprocity are not talking annexation. It is the opponents of reciprocity who are waving the flag. Heaven help us if the flag may be used for such miserable purposes!

Loyalty and Trade With United States Possible at One Time.

"I am told that if we treat with the Americans, we shall cease to be loyal. If we buy and sell from them, we shall imperil our loyalty. There comes back to my mind a memorable scene of my childhood's days. It is in the year 1860 All British America is astir with interest for the coming of the future King, the young Prince of Wales. He lands at Halifax, and a procession is formed and passes down through the streets. I can see as a child, swinging up through the streets of Halifax in grand parade, thousands of children assembled to do honor to their King and singing the National Anthem and the Welsh Anthem. The streets were decorated with flags and banners and loyal mottoes, and thousands cheered him as he passed.

"Why do I mention this? Because at the time of that splendid demonstration of loyalty and devotion to the Throne and person of our Sovereign took place, we were in the very midst of the old reciprocity treaty under which we bought and sold with the Americans. We travelled back and forth across the border, and we met them in social life. Yet nobody dreamed that because of that we were disloyal.

"And the scene in Halifax was repeated in every province of this country. You in Montreal gave precisely the same reception.

Then something else happened. Friendly trade relations brought about friendly social relations with the United States too. The Prince accepted the invitation and went through a large section of the United States and saw a large part of the American nation. He was received everywhere with honor, with respect. Millions, one may say, saw the young Prince, and were able to say, 'We bow the heart, if not the knee, through you to England's Queen. God bless her.' (Loud cheers.) The tour was ended. The Prince returned to the Mother Land and told the story of the happiness, the contentment, and the loyalty of the Queen's subjects in British North America and of the friendly and happy relations with the neighboring Republic whose people had received him with the utmost honor and respect.

Present Prince May See Same Sight as Grandfather.

"History will repeat itself. There is a young Prince to-day over there in training for the duties of Britain's future King. He will come out to Canada one of these days, as his grandfather, The Peace-Maker, came. (Applause.) And when he comes to Canada I trust that he will come in the midst of this period of Reciprocity. Then he will be able to testify again, as his grandfather did, that the people of this country are trading with the people of the United States; and that while they are buying and selling goods one from another, the Canadians are nevertheless more devoted than ever to the throne of our gracious Sovereign." (Loud cheering, during which Mr. Fielding resumed his seat, having spoken for an hour and ten minutes.)

Wider Market for B. C. Demands Ralph Smith

Mr. Ralph Smith, of British Columbia, was introduced to the audience as an Englishman of the Gladstonian school, and a leader of workingmen's organizations. He said that when the meeting was begun—having been accustomed to similar gatherings in the Old Country and to Socialistic organizations in British Columbia, which were usually excitable and contentious—he felt at once that he was in his element. He said to himself: "This is the place where I like to be." He concluded that the question under consideration had some merit in it because of the opposition that was set up against it.

"You never knew a negative, useless article that anybody enthused over," continued Mr. Smith.

"But the people do enthuse over this. And the importance of this question to this country may be calculated and measured according to the strong hostility that certain classes of people are entertaining towards it. I come from the Far West and represent here to-night the interests of the country beyond the Rocky Mountains. It has been said in the Press—said in The Montreal Star with its flaring headlines and its sensational hysterics, printed on an American press—it has been said in The Montreal Star, and it is believed, that trade with the United States is evidence of weakness to Canada and disloyalty to Brftain. (Hear, hear.) Well, when men protest this sort of thing to the extent that The Montreal Star does it, all I can say is that they ought to live up to it and not print their newspapers on American presses.

All Canada Will Benefit By Reciprocity.

"There is a lot of ignorance being displayed in discussing this question, but when it is properly understood it will be seen that under the reciprocity agreement the whole of the country will benefit. When I support a principle in Parliament I consider whether it will benefit not only the city of Montreal alone or any other single city, but whether it is for the general good of the population of the Dominion. And I believe that reciprocity will extend wide and beneficial interests among the people of this country as a whole.

"I am appealing to an intelligent audience when I say that there are men at Ottawa who are capable of legislating for every necessity of this country."

A Voice.—"They do not look after the working man."

"If my honorable friend wants to have some knowledge of the working man I can give him some knowledge of the working man. I have been a working man all my life. I worked in a coal mine when I was twelve years of age, that was before my friend was born, and under disadvantages which I hope my friend will never have to undergo. I am devoted to the interests of the working man. Every man is a working man who by the use of his physical force or his mental capacity works for the welfare of his country. As a working man and as a leader of working men I denounce the doctrine that only the man who cleans the street is a working man.

Wants Equal Distribution Of Country's Wealth.

"I am glad to say, coming from England, as I do, and looking out upon the faces of this audience, where I can see many of my fellow countrymen, that I am happy to be an adopted Canadian, because I believe there is greater equality in this country than in any other country in the world. I have stood for the working man, and I want to say this to my friend that I stand for the working man because by doing something for him you do something for the interest of Canada in general. And that is all the working man wants. He wants the greatest possible distribution, equal distribution of the wealth of this country, and I may say to my friend that this agreement is one of the things that does more to bring about this equal distribution than anything that has come before the House of Commons for many years.

"I am going to deal with three points. I am going to look upon the effect of this agreement on the great industries of British Columbia, the effect of this agreement on the city of Montreal, and third, how far this agreement will affect the independent spirit of this country, as it stands related to the greatest Empire that the world has ever known.

Mr. Fielding Went a Step Past What Mr. Foster Did.

"I am going to mention four industries and I am going to deal with details. I am going to mention the fruit industry, the lumber industry, the fish industry, and the coal industry. Fruit growers of British Columbia have advertised all over the world that they have the richest fruit of this continent. I refer especially to apples. I appeal to this audience as an intelligent audience. If the fruit lands of British Columbia are superior to the fruit lands of the United States that should be of permanent advantage to the fruit growers of British Columbia. I say the fruit growers of British Columbia buy the province lands at the most reasonable prices and lands of the highest quality and from this land they produce the highest quality of fruit, and when you have these three advantages I insist that this country should not be taxed for any further privileges which you think you should have.

"Now I will pass on to the lumber industry. Mr. McBride announced in the Daily Colonist 48 hours after Mr. Fielding made his speech on reciprocity in Ottawa, that all industries were going to be ruined."

Voice—"He is alright."

"Before the leader at the House of Commons had sufficient time to answer Mr. Fielding, Mr. McBride, 3,000 miles away said: 'I know all about it.' Lumbermen got together, we gave them Mr. Fielding's speech, and they said there was no change in lumber, the only change is in the United States. Mr. Foster took the duty off lumber 17 years ago. Mr. Foster toon the duty off in Canada, but he left the duty on in the United States. Then Mr. Fielding comes along and what does he do. After 17 years he says to the people of the United States I have given you a free market for lumber and now we insist that you give us free lumber.

British Columbia Wants Market for Coal, Lumber, Coke, Fish.

"Now I come to coke. What is free coke going to do. They tell us that the coal deposits of British Columbia and Alberta combine quality and quantity that is not equalled by any other nation in the world, and why should we not be given an opportunity to dispose of it British Columbia was exporting coal fifty years ago. She sent coal to San Francisco, and if we had not there would have been no British Columbia to enter confederation in 1870, to pay the majority of the taxes for 1911.

"Now I come to fish. I do not know very much about fish, but I want to say this, that the British Columbia fisheries equal any in the world. We send British Columbia halibut to the Boston market, and it is for this reason that we have been able to develop our fish industry. We want to send, coal, coke, lumber, fish, into the markets of the States and when we send it there, on account of its quality and quantity we can assure ourselves that his interests will be looked after.

"Free trade in natural products is bound to assist the consumers of this country. British Columbia consumes thirty millions per year and only produces fourteen millions per year.

Why Should More Business Mean Ruin to Canada.

"If we have millions of dollars worth of trade to-day, we have had to build it up and provide transportation facilities for it. Do you now we have twenty-one railways in Canada to-day carrying millions of dollars worth of business north and south. I am not going to manufacture arguments. I am going to repeat history. Mr. Sifton stated the greatest policy of this country in bringing settlers to the Northwest. Mr. Sifton brought settlers from all parts of the world into this country, and I agreed with him. From 1897 until the present time, Mr. Fisher brought 860,000 Americans into the northwest. Now I would like him to answer a question. Did he think he was placing the heads of the Canadian people in a noose when he brought these people into this country? And why should the prospects of doing another million dollars worth of business mean ruin to the people of Canada?"

Free Interchange of Natural Products is Whole Agreement

One man on the platform started a speech at this point and went as far as to say: "We have heard the grand old man of Nova Scotia," but there was such an uproar from people leaving the hall that he went no further.

Hon. Mr. Fisher, who was then introduced, said in part:

"There are a few observations on this question, which I think it is fair that this audience, mixed as it is in its political opinions, mixed as it is on this particular question, should listen to, even though it should tax their patience for a few minutes.

"We have had this question before Canada now for over a month. We have had the people of this country roused by an agitation which is not unparelelled by still very great—an agitation largely emanating from the cities of Montreal and Toronto. That agitation came with force, with suddenness, and with all the backing of the prestige and the wealth of the industrial interests of these cities. But within the last week or two we have begun to hear from the great mass of the agricultural interests of this country, and a different story is being told.

"I do not wish to address you as a special advocate of the farmers of Canada. I am one of them; I am interested in them; it has been my duty for fourteen years to try and stimulate that industry in Canada, but I want to approach this question without regard to class, without setting one class against another, and to try to show that reciprocity is in the interest of all the varied industries and classes of this country.

Free Interchange of Natural Products is Whole Pact.

"This agreement amounts to giving a freedom of interchange between the Dominion of Canada and the United States in natural products.

Practically, that is the whole of it.

"How has this question been regarded by the people of Canada in years gone by? I would like to draw your attention to the condition of affairs preceding this arrangement. It has been proved conclusively that the whole people of Canada have been in favor of reciprocity in natural products. This agreement gives us that advantage.

"What have been the obstacles to the obtaining of the advantage in days gone by? First, that our friends of the American Union have declared that in the agreement there must be included a large measure of manufactured goods. This agreement does not include any material manufactured goods. Here, then, the Americans have come to our conditions, and we have secured an arrangement entirely in line with the universal demand of the people of Canada. It has been said that if the Americans wanted to deal with us, let them bring down their tariff to our tariff. By this agreement for every article included in the agree-

☞UNLESS SIR WILFRID CAN FIND AN EXIT, THERE SEEMS TO BE NO WAY OUT.☜

THE NEW YORK TRAGEDY.

It needed the Iroquois theatre disaster in Chicago to force us to take pains to see that the theatres of this continent, in Canada as well as the United States, were made reasonably safe for those who patronize them. It was not until after the "General Slocum" burned that there was any very effective overhauling of the hulks that were being used for excursion purposes. It is possible that Saturday's fire in a New York clothing factory which cost one hundred and fifty lives in twenty minutes, will focus the attention of the authorities in other cities on building conditions which, in their way, come as close to reproducing the situation as it existed on Washington Place as physical limitations will permit.

One hundred and fifty lives is a heavy price to have to pay for indelible confirmation of the fact that city authorities were not doing their duty, or that city building by-laws were criminally inadequate,—or both, which is more likely the case. There will be a great pother in New York over this; there would have been one in Montreal if it had happened to occur here. The District Attorney is already talking of criminal prosecutions; the Grand Jury will make an investigation in which the probe is likely to go deeper than usual into the under-surface conditions which are generally undisturbed; public sentiment to-day will be at that raging point where it demands somebody's, anybody's, head on a charger.

And out of it all, there is a fair chance that something will come which will make the workers in factories safer for all time. To have given one's life in order that one's fellowmen and fellow-women may be benefited is a noble thing to have done. Unfortunately for the bright side of the picture, the hundred and fifty victims of Saturday's disaster were not consulted in the matter. Their lives were not given, they were taken. Whatever good results from the tragedy which to-day weighs on hundreds of homes, it will not wipe away the memory of the horror of that unwilling sacrifice. It does not do in thinking of sacrifices to forget that they have a three-fold aspect. We sacrifice something, to something, for something. One hundred and fifty lives have been sacrificed; we hope that the sacrifice will result in the betterment of the conditions of their fellow-workers everywhere; but to whom was the sacrifice offered? Was it to the gods of Greed and Graft, who have so much to do with the paying of dividends out of taking chances on human lives, or to blind, besotted Ignorance, or to that irresponsible Carelessness whose worship is fast displacing the older gods of business life?

We Montrealers have more than a passing and sympathetic interest in the tragedy. It is true that we have no eight or nine or ten storey fire-traps, but we have an abundance of them half that height, and it has been empirically demonstrated that women and children can be burned to death quite as effectively on the fifth floor of a building which has no proper fire-escape as on the tenth. Fire Chief Croker, of New York, made prophecy after prophecy of what would happen if the state of affairs on Washington Place was allowed to continue. Finally one of them was fulfilled. Chief Tremblay, of Montreal, has been telling us what we must expect in Montreal unless we do away with some of the most glaring of our existing menaces to life and property. Are we going to wait for a replica of the New York tragedy to show us what this means?

"GANGS" AT PLAY.

It is not one of the symptoms of an "epidemic of lawlessness" when the hoodlums who lurk in sullen gangs around ill-lighted corners until all hours of the morning begin beating policemen, but it is an indication that things are getting a little out of hand. The psychological moment for getting control of either brutes or men is when they first begin to throw off the necessary trammels of authority. As long as the dozen or score of ostensibly wicked youngsters, who comprise by far the greater proportion of the "gangs" of which the casual pedestrian knows anything, confine themselves to frowning defiance and mumbling insults at the police, there is not much cause for disquiet. The "gang," in some walks of life, takes the place of the football team in others. It furnishes the outlet for certain normal activities of youth; if it is the only available outlet, the fault is scarcely that of the youngster who knows no other. Though there may not be much similarity in either appearance or result between playing football and infesting malodorous corners of a by no means sanitary district, psychologically the two things spring from the same root. Consequently, until we can find something which we may offer us a legitimate substitute for the pleasure of corner-loafing, we are more or less constrained to tolerate it. Now, between legitimate toleration and dangerous liberty there is a very difficult and elusive line in matters of this kind; just how difficult may be judged from the fact that last week one crowd attacked and seriously injured an officer who was patrolling his beat on St. Lawrence Main street. To allow an incident of this kind to pass without notice would be to put a premium on anarchy, for concerted attack on a policeman is the overturning of the fundamental symbol of law and order. Where there are hundreds of gangsters, there is only one policeman and unless it is widely and definitely understood that behind each officer stands the whole force as well as the whole authority of the city, the chance of maintaining order will be a poor one. There have been too many incidents of this kind in the recent past to prevent the feeling that Montreal is becoming less safe for harmless and unoffending pedestrians than might be desired and expected.

SENOR LIMANTOUR'S COMMENT.

"Has he made another? There have been so many!" was the reply of Senor Limantour, the Mexican Minister of Finance, to a request for a statement of opinion on President Taft's latest explanation of the mobilization of the United States troops on the Mexican border. When we recall the reiterated assurances from Washington that no move had been made without the full knowledge of President Diaz and his advisers and nothing attempted which had not their full and specific approval, there seems to be almost as great discrepancies between inspired reports and actual conditions on the diplomatic side as in the matter of the success of the mobilization itself. It is nowhere seriously pretended that all the fuss and feathers, the grandiloquent press notices and the altogether unverified assertions of efficient staff organization were necessary to prevent the smuggling of men and supplies for the insurgents across the border into the one State of Chihuahua where alone the revolution has any real existence. Aside from this, the only two other results that have been achieved have been the exacerbation of a general and suspicious unfriendliness towards citizens of the United States throughout the whole of Mexico, and a very pronounced cooling off in the friendship which the Diaz government at one time had for that at Washington. The Hon. Philander Knox's "Pittsburg diplomacy" lacks only one thing to be as successful as it is spectacular, and that is the ability to be of benefit to the country which uses it.

A QUESTIONABLE BARGAIN.

It has yet to be seen whether the bargain made by the Provincial Board of Health with the municipalities in which small-pox is epidemic is a good one. The Board naturally desired information as to the extent to which the disease has developed, it being one of its functions to look after the public health. The disease-stricken municipalities, equally naturally, were unwilling to be advertised as disease-stricken if it could be avoided, and, to prevent this, they adopted the obvious expedient of not reporting small-pox cases to the central provincial authority. In order to obtain this very necessary information, the Board has now agreed to not make public any statistics concerning the development of the epidemic provided the municipalities will supply it with more nearly accurate statements of actual conditions. This compromise is possibly an excellent one for all concerned—except the general public. Information as to where small-pox is epidemic is usually considered of great value and legitimate interest, especially by those who have to make journeys through infected districts and wish to know what villages would be best avoided. It is creating a dangerous precedent to recognize the right of such sections to make terms; to grant their demands that the figures which should serve to warn the general public must be suppressed comes close to shirking official responsibility.

LEGISLATIVE STIPENDS.

Nowhere in Canada has there been any serious disposition to oppose an increase in wages to the devoted and hard-working members of the provincial legislatures. Legislators must eat; both the intellectual effort and the effort it usually is for our law-makers to be intellectual call, in many cases, for highly-savored food of special quality which cannot be obtained at family boarding-houses, for stimulating beverages and soothing cigars, and for frequent diversions and relaxations of a necessarily expensive nature. Under ordinary circumstances, the public does not grudge any reasonable expense in keeping the legislative machinery well-oiled and there is no reason for believing that the prosperous farmers of Manitoba and Saskatchewan will be any more ill-tempered in this respect than the residents of the other province. It is doubtless a little embarassing for the members of the two legislatures in question, in their private capacities, to convince themselves as representatives of the people that they are worth at least $500 more a year each to the country, but these unpleasant duties are part of a statesman's business. Fifteen hundred dollars is not an exorbitant remuneration for compelling any man to sit through the session of any legislature.

If Col. Hibbard speaks about the functions of the Public Service Utilities Commission in a manner that requires still more explanation, one point is well taken that it would be wiser to say less at this stage of the body's existence. The multifarious duties of the Commission cannot be fixed along certain lines; and a general principle, under these circumstances, apparently cannot be outlined with clearness and without misunderstanding, even by the Chairman. It is a safer rule to speak from experience than to speculate on the abstract, especially where contracts, investments, and the like are concerned. When the judge lectures to the law students he has a background of precedent in thousands of books on the law. When Col Hibbard speaks he has nothing of this nature to guide him.

Prisoners Like Farm Work.

Woodstock Sentinel-Review—It is gratifying to learn that so far the Ontario Government's farm prison experiment is a success. According to a statement made in the Legislature by Hon. Mr. Hanna, the vegetables grown on the farm last year were sufficient for both the new institution and the old one at Toronto, and in addition a good deal of useful work was done. The practice of placing the men upon their honor has apparently been fully justified by the conduct of the men themselves. They have appreciated, and not abused, the privileges accorded them. In the new building to be started in a few days, only twenty per cent. of the accommodation will be devoted to cells.

Quick to See the Point.

Toronto Mail and Empire—The New England Hardware Association has endorsed the reciprocity pact. Mr. Starrett, one of the more important manufacturers, told the association that "it is much better to have reciprocity than to have the manufacturers feel obliged to establish branch plants over there. Although our line is not yet included in the reciprocal list, we are hoping it will be put there."

Slaughter of the Innocents.

Ottawa Citizen—But so long as we have any kind of child labor that robs the young of life and joy, we are not in a position to read an essay on civilization to the Hindus of the past. It must be said to our shame that on the American continent we are yearly casting thousands of children into the maelstrom of industry, with about as much chance of escape from ultimate destruction as they would have if they were cast into the Niagara rapids.

China's Pathetic Cry.

London Free Press—"Give us this day our daily bread," as a part of the prayer of Christendom, has but little significance to those whose conditions of life are such as Canadians enjoy. That prayer, however, is the pathetic cry that is being raised by the starving multitudes of the famine-stricken Chinese provinces.

Strong on Generalities.

Winnipeg Telegram—The bold newspaper defenders of the reciprocity agreement in western Canada are strangely reluctant to explain to the farmer what particular interests are being deprived of their power to rob and oppress the consumer. They are strong on generalities but they show no disposition to get down to cases.

American Silver in Canada.

Ottawa Evening Journal—Last year a million and a half of American silver in circulation in Canada was shipped back to the United States, and the infrequency with which one meets American silver now in Canada as compared with a few years ago is noticeable. The $6,500 spent annually in exporting foreign coinage is money well spent.

Let the People Decide.

Stratford Herald.—It is not creditable to the Dominion Government that the people of Canada feel constrained to ask the Governor-General to dissolve Parliament and let the people decide the reciprocity issue.

THE FARMERS --AND-- RECIPROCITY

The Decline of New England's Farms--Reports From Border States Give Canadian Farmers The True Outlook

SECOND ARTICLE.

Special Staff Correspondence.

Windsor, Vt., March 27.—Those familiar with the political and social cartoons that appear in the newspapers of central Canada and of the New England States, cannot fail to observe how very dissimilar in general treatment and in point of view are the characters used to represent the agricultural population on the two sides of the line. In Quebec "Johnny Canuck," or "Jean Baptist," represents the people on the land; in the other province it is "Old Man Ontario." "Johnny" is usually a youthful fellow, light of heart even to gaiety, comfortably clad, fat, jolly, and contented. "Old Man Ontario" is made of rather sterner stuff, with something perhaps of the dourness of the Scotch about him; and, although his dress may be somewhat old-fashioned and his general appearance a bit unkempt, there is nothing that suggests want or poverty. On the contrary, "Johnny" and "Old Man Ontario" are men of substance, intelligent, wide-awake and engrossed in their occupations. They are the backbone of their provinces; the dominant element, not only because of numbers, but also because of intelligence and wealth—and numbers, wealth and intelligence are the three great factors of political power.

THE CANADIAN FARMER MASTER OF THE SITUATION

These cartoons correctly indicate the position occupied by the farmer in Ontario and Quebec, and that such is the case is admitted by every other element of the population—by the people in the villages, towns and cities. They know that the Canadian farmer is the master of the situation; that the class he represents casts more ballots at an election than any other, has more capital invested in the country, gives employment to more labor, and produces more wealth. "Johnny" and "Old Man Ontario" are not to be laughed at. Their good will is courted, and with the respect that is felt for them there is also mingled fear.

And now, turn to the cartoons that appear in United States publications and in which the New England farmer is the prominent figure. Mark the difference. He is always represented as a forlorn looking individual, clad in absurd garments, composed largely of rags, a scare-crow to look at and with pockets about as empty. He is referred to with disrespect akin to contempt, and is usually called a "guy," or a "jay." A joke is made of his poverty, his want of intelligence, his want of enterprise; and in much of the humorous literature of New England and in many of the popular plays it is the "old guy" from the farm who is the butt of the jokes and the clown of the piece.

WHERE THE DIFFERENCE IS BROUGHT IN.

This difference between the standpoint from which the farmer in Central Canada is regarded and that from which is regarded the farmer of New England, is not accidental. There is the force of facts behind it—facts that should make the Canadian farmer think twice before he accepts reciprocity and goes down into the commercial arena in which the New England farmer has fared so badly.

That he has fared badly one can see by simply travelling through his country, with eyes and ears open. In a former letter something in a general way was written about Vermont and the agriculture of that State—a State that possesses some manufacture, and that at the most is not more than two hundred miles from the most densely peopled sections of the Union, from the great cities and towns, nearly every one of which is a humming hive of industry. Reached by excellent and abundant railway facilities, and by an extensive system of water transportation, these great armies of consumers are almost at Vermont's door. If it is markets only that is required to make farming pay the farmers of Vermont should flourish indeed.

But where are the evidences of general prosperity to be found? That prosperity is wholly absent is not the case, for exceptional circumstances tend to help some and place them above the common level. The common level is what the community must be judged by, and here it is low enough to discourage any one who even for one moment, thought of sharing it.

VERMONT SETTLED BY FARMERS LONG AGO.

When surveying this country it must be borne in mind that it is not new. Vermont was settled to a considerable extent before a United Empire Loyalist felled a tree in the wilderness of Upper Canada, and even before many districts of what is now Quebec contained a single inhabitant. Almost a century and a quarter have passed since these valleys and hillsides first knew the plough.

Like all pioneers, the early settlers of Vermont had a stern and steady struggle; but they persevered and won. Farms were carved out of the wilderness, and homes established. Under easier conditions the next generation enlarged the clearings and improved the buildings, and so in time the inhabitants of the Green Mountain State became a firmly rooted, agricultural population.

Those generations have passed away, but evidences of their work remain. For the most part, they built the houses in which the farmers of today reside, and the barns, too, in which the stock and crops are now sheltered.

BUILT HOMES ON GENEROUS SCALE.

For the most part they built on a generous scale — wooden houses to be sure, for lumber was then abundant, but large substantial, sightly and often handsome. There were barns to suit; and walls were dug, orchards planted, and mile after mile of stone fences constructed. The farmers who did all that work were not pinched by poverty; they possessed abundant resources, and their courage was high and their industry indefatigable. People who accomplish such things find themselves rowing with the current; they are satisfied with themselves, with their circumstances, and their homes are their kingdoms, on which they only ask to be allowed to live and die, and hand on their possessions to their children.

But how fares it with the children—with the people on the land to-day?

Speaking generally, everywhere are to be seen signs that, so far as farming is concerned, the tide is out, but whether the low water mark has been reached or not none can tell. Through whole districts the farm houses, so well built years ago, are out of repair and in many cases falling into decay. Often the big shed, once found necessary, has been abandoned, and half the roof has bene blown away, or used for kindling wood. The barns are worse, and gaping holes in the sides disclose their emptiness. The old apple trees, planted before the Civil War, still battle against time, and the stone fences too remain, but they now present more the appearance of long drawn-out piles,—flanked by brush, than well-kept walls.

CONDITIONS THE RULE OVER A LARGE AREA.

These conditions, it is not claimed, are uniform throughout the State, but on the other hand it is not admitted that they are exceptional. Over a large part of the area of the State, and especially throughout the southern half, they are the rule. On every hand there are evidences of a former period of growth, of establishing, of building, of prosperity; on all sides are signs of decay, of hard times, of hopelessness, and even of abandonment of the struggle.

If it were not so why are so many farms for sale, and at prices too that seem to indicate that these farms are going begging for new owners? At hand is the catalogue of a company that make a specialty of New England real estate—a reputable concern, maintaining finely equipped offices in Boston and New York, with local agents in a hundred communities. During the past eleven years this concern has sold 4 640 porperties, most of them rural properties and a large proportion situated in Vermont.

Before giving details respecting some of the Vermont farms the company now offers for sale, let one quotation be made from its statement respecting the agricultural worth of the country in which these cheap farms are situated. This company claims that there are in Vermont more dairy cows to the acre than in any other State; and that Vermont produces as much butter and three times as much cheese as the other five New England States. It also produces 37 per cent. of the dairy cows for the Boston market. Such is the country in which this company offers for sale farm after farm, to descriptions of which page after page of the catalogue is devoted. The prices here given are quoted by that company and are the prices at which the properties can be purchased to-day.

45-ACRE FARM FOR SEVEN HUNDRED DOLLARS

One of the first on the Vermont list is a small farm of 45 acres, situated in the town of Bethel, Windsor County, through which passes the main line of a railway system leading into the great city of Boston. On this farm stands a seven-roomed house, with shed, barns and other necessary outbuildings. It will maintain eight cows, has standing a large quantity of cord wood, and 20,000 feet of lumber. It is only three miles from a village, but free rural delivery brings the mail daily to the door. And the price is $700, and on easy terms at that. Only part of that purchase price has to be paid down, and the balance will be extended over a term of years.

In the same town is another farm of 90 acres that is going begging for $1,300. It contains an eight-roomed house, modern in every respect, good barns, poultry house and other outbuildings, farm machinery and implements, will "carry ten cows," has 1,500 sugar maples that can be tapped, an apple orchard from which 100 barrels have been gathered in a season, and has free mail delivery. Only $1,300 will purchase it, part cash and part on easy terms.

Again in the same town is another and larger place—360 acres for $2,600; "will carry" 50 cows, contains ten-roomed house, barns, silo, poultry house, granary, has on it 2,000 cords of wood and 200,000 feet of lumber. It has level fields, mail is delivered at the door, school close by, but four miles to the railway station. Twenty-six hundred dollars will buy it—part cash and balance on easy terms.

MANY OTHER BARGAINS OF SIMILAR NATURE.

One thousand dollars will buy an abandoned farm in Barnard, Windsor County, but here seems to be a better bargain in Brattleboro, and many miles nearer the great market of the industrial centres of New England. In this farm there are 190 acres, on part of which there stand 2,000 cords of wood and 100,000 feet of lumber. In the orchard are 200 trees. The farm contains a seven-room house, two barns, a silo, outbuildings, etc. It is two and a half miles to the village. The terms are the usual ones—part cash and easy payments.

In the same town (or, as it would be called in Ontario, a township) there is another farm of 100 acres, of which 20 acres can be worked by machine, containing house, barn, and poultry house; also 1,000 cords of wood, and 20,000 feet of timber. Eight hundred dollars on easy terms, will buy this place.

And thereare many other bargains of a like kind. At Chester Depot, Rutland County a farm of 195 acres adapted to dairying and fruit growing, with meadows yielding 30 tons of hay, a sugar orchard of 1,000 trees, a six-room house, stabling for 16 cows, poultry house for 100 hens, etc., is looking for a purchaser at $2,000. In the same locality is a farm of 280 acres, on which are standing 600 cords of wood and 50,000 feet of lumber, besides a large sugar bush. On the farm is a 12-room house, painted and supplied with blinds; also barns and poultry houses. The house is two and a half miles from the railway station near neighbors and only 20 rods from the school-house. The house is handsome and in good repair, and the buildings are insured for $1,950. The entire property—land, buildings and timber—are offered for $2,500—easy terms. Not far distant is another farm of 280 acres, containing timber, 8-room house, barns, has near neighbors, and school, free mail delivery, and all the rest of it, and for this property only $1,600 are asked, and only part cash down. There is another of 225 acres for $1,300, and another of 85 acres for $900, and still another of 130 acres for $2,000.

Throughout more than one-half of the State properties such as these can be found for sale. And it should be borne in mind that these are the sellers' prices on easy terms. A buyer with money in hand to pay down could secure a place at a price much lower than that quoted here.

Where such are common conditions agriculture cannot be said to flourish; and yet a writer discussing farming in New England claims that from the year 1867 to 1906 the corn crop in these States averaged 35 bushels to the acre, whereas for the entire United States it was only 20 bushels. "But New England farms," says this writer, "are too valuable for the growing of corn." Judging from the prices just quoted, the present owners do not find their properties remarably valuable.

FARMS REVERTING BACK TO THE WILDERNESS.

And there is a darker chapter still to relate—a chapter that tells not only of farm after farm for sale, but of farm after farm abandoned—of fields being allowed to grow up to weeds and brush, of houses and barns falling into decay and no longer habitable, and of whole acres, once fairly productive, returning to a state of wilderness.

The story of abandoned New England farms remains to be told.

While these conditions of agriculture in New England are under consideration one can never for a moment lose sight of the fact that within a few hours' ride from these hopeless farms are the centres of United States industry, with their teeming millions of wage-earners and consumers, and that even in some cases the smoke of the tall chimneys can be seen from the hillsides on which abandoned farms are situated.

This market, that is at his door and has ever been free and open to the New England farmer, has not made him rich, in fact in hundreds of cases, it has not enabled him to make a living on the land.

What real attraction has it then for the farmers of Central Canada? Why should they be compelled to surrender many things incalculably more valuable than money—national independence for instance—in order to gain admittance by means of reciprocity into a market in which the farmers on the spot have not succeeded in holding their own, and in which they have found themselves steadily growing poorer? A Central Canadian farmer, struggling for a footing in the market that the advocates of reciprocity make so much of, will find that, like the dog in the fable, he has lost the substance while striving to secure the shadow.

A market that has depressed farm values to the figures quoted and that has turned the key in the door of ancient, farm-houses and left them to fall into a heap of ruins, is not one worth making a sacrifice for. The farmers of Ontario and Quebec should think twice before making their prosperity depend on the favors of a market that has proved so unkind to the farmers of New England and has driven so many of them to the wall.—I.E.S.

Letters to Editor.

Col. Hibbard's Address.

To the Editor of The Montreal Star:

Sir,— With reference to the letter of your correspondent, "Barrister," and your own remarks thereon, permit me a word of explanation. In the first place the report of my address appearing in a Toronto paper is an unrevised, and, in some respects, an incorrect report, which I have asked to have amended. It is quite evident that it is from this report your correspondent takes his ideas of the address and the extracts he quotes.

My argument was simply this—that municipal services must, by necessity and advantage, be largely monopolized; that monopolies must be under some control in the public interest, that control, under the terms of a contract merely, had not been successful, because a contract could not take into account the changes that might occur in even five or ten years, much less forty or fifty, and yet, to attract the necessary large investment there must be an extended term of franchise; that municipal franchises had generally been under corporate control, and, particularly in large American cities, such franchises had been a fruitful subject of corruption and abuse; that municipal ownership and operation upon a large scale, under prevailing conditions, was even worse than private ownership, and that, in these circumstances, public service commissions had been devised to meet the difficulty of having necessary monopolies under adequate control.

In developing this argument and speaking of control under contract, I said:—

Now a contract cannot provide for the rapid advance that is being made in all forms of mechanical development and otherwise to cover even a space of five to ten years, much lesse would it cover, twenty, thirty, forty or fifty years. So control under contract merely has largely failed.

This is, in all, but one essential, practically what your correspondent cites, and that feature is the omission of the word "that" in the first line.

Again your correspondent cites as follows:

Now that is what a Commission is for. It is there to do work of this necessary kind—to stand like a bulwark of steel around the public and those the public serve.

This is reportorial nonsense. What I said was:—

Now this is what a Commission is for. It is there to do work of this necessary kind—to stand like a pillar of steel between the public and those who serve the public.

Another quotation to be slightly corrected, and this is my last:—

I am firmly convinced that the purpose of the Commission would not be fulfilled if it were in any sense a Court of Justice.

Correct the last line to read "solely a Court of justice" and this quotation is correct.

Even as quoted by "Barrister," I fail to see anything in it which speaks "contemptuously of justice as rendered in the Courts," as your correspondent is good enough to charge against me. Courts are not intended to do many necessary things, such as forming and building railways, for instance, and, I believe, the work of a public service or utility commission. But this is not speaking contemptuously of them.

I desire no controversy with "Barrister"; he has partly been misled by an erroneous report, hence this letter. He has his opinion of the character and duties of the Commission, and I have mine. Therein perhaps we must be content to disagree, but I hope with this correction he will accept my assurance that the rights of owners of invested capital are no less sacred in my eyes than those of the public.

Your editorial appears to imply that I should not discuss the Commission and its objects. If reason is needed for my speaking on the subject of such commissions, I find everywhere an utter misconception of their nature and duty, and I am frequently asked to give an address upon the matter. In so doing I may fail to give light, but it is certainly not my intention to either mislead the public or magnify my office.

Also I have at least quite as good a right to discuss the nature and purpose of the Commission as have judges to lecture upon the law to students.

F. W. HIBBARD.

COSTLY ANNEXATION FALLS ON OWNERS

Dr. Dubeau Blames Opponent for Part of New Taxation.

The fight in Lafontaine Ward, between ex-Aldermen Dubeau and Lavallee, is considered the warmest ever been seen in that ward.

Alderman Dubeau, whose candidature is endorsed by the Citizens' Association, held a meeting Saturday night, in his Central Committee room, 625 Ontario street east, which was largely attended. Controller Ainey was one of the speakers, and said that the labor classes ought to be in favor of Mr. Dubeau and against Mr. Lavallee, because during his long term as alderman, Mr. Lavalee had always opposed the abolition of the real estate qualification, while Alderman Dubeau during his short stay in the council had backed all the claims of the working people.

Dr. Dubeau said that since his election to the City Council he had been responsible for the opening of Montcalm street on Lafontaine Park, a thing which Mr. Lavallee could not accomplish in ten years; the pavement of St. Hubert street, the permanent sidewalks on St. Christophe, Wolfe and Visitation streets. Mr. Dubeau also remarked that he was responsible for betterment in the lighting of the ward.

Dr. Dubeau said that in the future, real estate owners would have to pay for street paving only because of the extravagant annexations negotiated by Mr. Lavallee.

The last gun of the campaign will be fired to-night at a large meeting held by Dr. Dubeau in the hall of Salaberry school, corner of Robin and Montcalm streets.

Among those who have promised to address the meeting are Controller Ainey, Aldermen Turcot, Mayrand and Clement, and Mr. A. Ecrement, M.P.

MELROSE, N.B.—Benjamin Corrigan, postmaster for more than fifty years, and who claimed to be over 100 years old, is dead.

Captain Scott At Ice-Barrier

The British Antarctic Expedition Landed From Steamer Terra Nova.

Christ Church, New Zealand, March 27.—The steamer Terra Nova passed Stewart Island, off the southern extremity of New Zealand to-day, returning from the ice barrier, where the British Antarctic expedition under Captain R. F. Scott was landed.

TWENTIETH CENTURY, OR THE FIFTEENTH?

Special to the Montreal Star.

Galt, Ont., March 27.—Rev. R. E. Knowles, the preacher-author, strongly denounced the decision of Judge Laurendeau, regarding Roman Catholic marriages solemnized by Protestant ministers in his sermon in Knox Church last night.

"The finding of Judge Laurendeau," Rev. Mr. Knowles said, "is startling in the extreme. One wonders whether we are living in the twentieth century and in a British domain, or in the fifteenth century and in some principality in the interior of France.

"It is evidently high time that Canadians should ascertain how far their liberties and laws are at the discretion of any religious authority."

Wells' Latest Novel Under Ban.

Special to The Montreal Star.

London, March 27.—"The New Machiavelli," H. G. Wells' latest novel, is banned by the lending departments of Birmingham public libraries. The Manchester Free Library committee has decided to buy no more copies of the book.

Magazines by Fast Freight Next.

Washington, March 27.—Magazines and other bulky periodicals, after July 1 next, will be transported by the Post Office Department in carloads, as fast freight.

Postmaster-General Hitchcock is developing as rapidly as possible plans which he decided upon last December to utilize fast freight in the transportation of magazines when practicable, and in instances where a saving to the Government in transportation charges may be effected.

POSTMASTERS ASK INCREASE

Minimum of $50 Desired—Minister's Reply Favorable.

Ottawa, March 27.—A deputation of about forty members of the Postmasters' Association of Canada interviewed Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, Postmaster-General, and Deputy Postmaster Coulter. The deputation urged the following among other points: To increase the minimum salary for postmasters in rural offices from $35 to $50 per month, and to increase the commission from 50 per cent. to 60 per cent. in the sale of stamps, also to be granted a more liberal rent allowance, together with necessary supplies for the work of the office.

Another request was to the effect that a system of classification for the money order offices, providing for possible promotions, be made. Hon. Mr. Lemieux made a favorable reply.

MONTREAL-NEW YORK HIGHWAY PLAN

President Taft Says It Would Contribute to Business and Social Union.

Albany, N.Y., March 27.—With the proposed international highway from New York to Montreal apparently in fair way to be carried out, friends of the project are now advocating an extension of the road from New York to Jacksonville, Fla. The bill appropriating $1,600,000 to complete New York State's share of the highway from New York to Rouse's Point has passed the Senate, and probably will come up for passage in the Assembly this week.

Governor Dix has already announced his approval of the measure.

President Taft, Mr. T. Roosevelt, Mayor Gaynor, of New York; Mayor Guerin, of Montreal, and others have endorsed the project in letters to Howard D. Hadley, of Plattsburg, chairman of a committee of citizens organized to enlist interest in the undertaking.

The President Approves.

President Taft wrote: "I have your letter in which you speak of an enterprise to build a broad highway of modern construction from New York city to Montreal. Of course I should like to see such an enterprise carried out. It would contribute to the social and business union of the two countries and cannot but be of benefit in many other ways."

Mayor Guerin, commenting on the importance of the proposition, said: "I am confident that the building of the road would be a great boon to Montreal and also to New York. It is most important that the friendly intercourse between the two countries should be as free as possible."

ENGLISH FARMERS COMING TO QUEBEC.

Mr. E. Marquette, the provincial immigration agent, has received word from the manager of the Self-Help Emigration Society of London, England, of which Lord and Lady Aberdeen are the patrons, that there will be coming out on the steamship Canada, leaving Liverpool on April 1, 120 English-speaking farmers of the better class.

These young men are being sent out to take positions on farms in this province, and will only be allotted to farmers who can show that they will do the right thing by them.

Royal Edward Relief Committee.

The Ladies' Relief Committee of the Royal Edward Institute regret that in the annual report of the Institute recenly published, the name of Mrs. H. W. Raphael, of 108 Shuter street, was inadvertently omitted from the list of members of the Relief Committee. Mrs. Raphael has been one of the most devoted helpers on the committee and it is partly as a result of her labors in the cause that her present state of health will oblige her to make a complete rest until the autumn, when it is hoped that she will be able to resume her work.

Funeral of Mr W. J. Singleton.

The funeral of the late Mr. W. J. Singleton took place from St. Gabriel's Church, where a solemn high mass was celebrated for the repose of his soul. Among the attending clergymen were Rev. E J. Devine, S. J., Rev. Fathers Rottot, Donovan and Fox, S.J. The deacon of the mass was Rev. W. D. O'Byrne, of the order of the Holy Cross, a nephew of Mr. Singleton. Many old confreres of the Canadian Pacific Railway were also present.

In Quality Beds only, because of their perfect construction and improved designs, can you feel satisfied with your purchase.

So sure are we of this, that every Quality Bed is sold subject to a 5-year guarantee that is just as good as gold.

What the Times Thinks.

The "Times" says:

Signs are clear that whatever happens to reciprocity with Canada, nothing can check the progress of the United States toward larger and freer trade. The tariff is going to be lowered to the great advantage of those whose trade will be stirulated by the reduction. Canada's rejection of reciprocity would rather hasten this, instead of obstructing it.

By joining with the United States in taking the first step, Canada will sooner enjoy the advantages of a movement which will ripen into a continental Zollverein or Customs Union, and will be in a position to guide it in the direction she prefers."

No Intention to Criticise.

Canadian Associated Press.

London, March 27.—Right Hon. Lewis Vernon Harcourt, speaking at Rawenstall, declared that the proposal for reciprocity was neither initiated nor encouraged by the Government of Great Britain. Canada had been given her fiscal independence and it was neither their business nor intention to either criticize or put a spoke in the wheel of the progress which he believed the Dominion was making.

Free Grant of Fishing Rights

Special to The Montreal Star.

Halifax, N.S., March 27.—Public opinion has been aroused in Nova Scotia by the introduction of a bill allowing any person to go on any wild lands and take fish from the river. The English law as to riparian rights obtains in Nova Scotia, the owner of the bank owning to the middle of the stream and having the exclusive right to take fish.

The rivers along the Atlantic coast are splendid salmon streams, and latterly have been bought at high prices by gentlemen in Halifax, Boston and Toronto. Among other owners, Sir Donald Mann has very valuable rights on the Medway. Men with more leisure than capital have persuaded a number of members of the Legislature that it would be popular to take property from the "haves" and give it to the "have-nots," so a bill has been introduced to the above effect.

Many farmers who own lands on the rivers sell their fishing rights in the season. These and the owners and lumbermen have raised the cry of confiscation, and no question has excited so much feeling for years as the bill introduced on Friday, which has set the province ablaze with excitement.

The owners of property say that legislation of this nature is absolutely confiscatory, and that the security of all property in the province is at stake.

The Fielding Meeting--Speeches on Reciprocity

ment, the American tariff is brought down to the exact equivalent of the Canadian tariff.

"Again, this agreement has been brought about, not by a pilgrimage from Canada to Washington, but by a pilgrimage from Washington to Ottawa. It was said that the Liberal party had deserted a plank in the platform for reciprocity. It was said that since 1898, when Sir Wilfrid sent two of his ministers to Washington and the Americans turned the cold shoulder on them, Sir Wilfrid said: "No more pilgrimages to Washington to secure reciprocity." That dictum of the leader of the Canadian people has been absolutely fulfilled.

"Why did we not in 1904, in 1908, discuss reciprocity before the people of Canada, If we had done so, the assertion that we still desired it would have been taken by the American people as a weakening in that statement of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. We left them to change their opinion of their own free will. We left them to come to our terms. We left them to come to Ottawa and renew negotiations which in 1889, had been broken off somewhat abruptly. To-day we have reciprocity on Canada's conditions, absolutely what Canada has been asking for and on an earnest and friendly overture.

"The American President, impressed by an agitation against the high cost of living in the United States, impressed by the necessity of overcoming the mistake of the Payne-Aldrich tariff which was not received with favor, felt that it was necessary to do something throughout the country to lower the price of living.

Commercial War Wave a Possibility.

"People say let well enough alone, but had we to recognize our great and powerful neighbor to the south of us and the conditions that we were facing. It was not the continuation of the old duties, but the possible addition of twenty per cent. on every article coming from Canada into the United States added to the then enormously high duty. It meant absolute non-intercourse with the people who march with us four thousand miles across this continent.

"I will only quote to you what in 1888 Sir Charles Tupper, then Finance Minister in Canada, under somewhat similar conditions and circumstances, said to the people of Canada when he came back from negotiating the fisheries treaty. He had endeavored with the utmost force of his forceful character to get included with that treaty reciprocal arrangement, and when he apologized to the Parliament of Canada for not having succeeded in so doing, used these words:—'We were face to face with the immediate possibility of commercial war, and the step from commercial war to actual war is but a short one.'

"And the people of Cnada, even then, could not face with lightness of heart or with carelessness or neglect, the possibility of commercial war.

"We were face to face last year with practically the same conditions. Supposing that the maximum tariff under the Payne-Aldrich Act were imposed on Canada and we were shut out of the United States, what would have been the result?" A feeling of bitter resentment among the whole people of Canada, and I venture to say there is no Government in Canada that could for one moment have existed if it had not retaliated. And if it had retaliated, and if these two countries, bound as they are by an enormous trade between them, had entered into a retaliatory commercial war at that time, I venture to say that the commerce and trade of Canada would have suffered in such a way that these men who are now saying 'let well enough alone' would have trembled, and have so felt the pinch of it that they would have come on their bended knees to the Government, praying them to go to Washington again and sue for peace.

Claims Balance of Trade Would Be Improved.

"One of the objections largely spoken of in Canada against our trade with the United States has been the unfavorable balance of that trade. We have been abusing our American neighbors because they do not buy enough from us,—because they sell to us more largely than they buy. What are the actual conditions? In the last three years Canada has imported from the United States $630,000,000 worth of goods. She has exported to the United States in this same three years $297,000,000 worth of goods. The balance, in round figures, is more than two to one of imports, as compared with exports. What is going to come from this reciprocity arrangement? A largely increased export of Canadian products to the United States, with which to redress that evil of the adverse trade balance. Under this agreement, a good opportunity will be afforded Canadians to sell more to the United States and try to bring about a greater equilization of trade between the two countries.

"Is this going to be an evil? Then those who prate about the evils of the adverse balance of trade must reconcile these two propositions, and try to make out where they are on this point. At the present time we import from the United States largely raw materials. We export to the United States some manufactured articles and a good deal of ore, fish, and lumber. By this arrangement, we have an opportunity of exporting more of these articles to the United States. Is that going to hurt us?

"My honorable friend, Mr. Sifton, has said we must conserve our natural resources." ("Hear, hear!") I quite agree with him. But I want to point out that when the trees in our forests are cut, and put into logs, and afterwards into boards or sticks of timber, they constitute manufactured articles, and no longer one of our natural resources. And if a man who cuts his trees and works them up into lumber can get a higher price for that worked-up lumber, what difference does it make to the conservation of the original trees? The tree is gone all the same. The only difference is that the man who handled it has a larger reward for his industry. If the United States can pay our lumbermen more for goods manufactured out of the trees which have been already cut from the fortsts, so much the better for our lumbermen, and for every industry in Canada which ministers to the lumbering industry.

Middleman to Blame for High Cost of Living.

"A word on behalf of the farmers of Canada. It is said they are getting very well paid and are prosperous. It is true. But if the goods that you people, the people in the cities, pay for, that come from the farms, are higher than they ever were before, I want to say to you with some knowledge—because I have closely investigated this economic problem—that the original prices, as paid to the farmer on his land, are not so much greater than they used to be, as is the price you pay for the article. The middlemen are reaping the cream of the profit And if you are paying higher prices for the food you buy, you are paying a very large proportion of that increased cost to the middlemen who handle it.

"At the present time there is a certain trade in food products from Canada to the United States, and vice versa. I have looked up the trade returns, and on the products which are affected by this particular agreement there was in this last year over three and a half million dollars paid in duty, partly to the Canadian government and partly to the American government. That means that in the carriage of the food from the farmers to the consumers a tax, an additional expense of $3,500,000 was paid which, when this agreement comes into force will no longer have to be paid.

"If you take your food you will see that it costs so much for its production, manufacture and distribution. Then, if, in addition, you have to add three and a half million dollars for duty, it is an elementary fact that it is so much added to the cost to the consumer. And if this duty is removed, then it is so much money taken off the cost, and the people will be relieved of taxation to that amount.

Question of Hay Export Not Same in All Quarters.

My friend, Mr. Thomas Trenholme, came before a meeting in this hall a little while ago, and gave utterance to some of his views. Mr. Trenholme is a good farmer and milk dealer, who supplies Montreal largely with milk. He undertook to tell Sir Wilfrid Laurier that he was entirely wrong—(hear, hear)—and that it was wicked to tell people in Quebec that it was profitable to grow and export hay."

A Voice—("Well, Mr. Trenholme ought to know.")

"Mr. Trenholme paid me the honor of saying that Sir Wilfrid Laurier had been misled by your humble servant.

"Now, I am not going to deny that there are circumstances and conditions, such as exist for example in my own Eastern Townships of the Province of Quebec, where it would be a serious injury to the farmers to sell their hay. Undoubtedly there are farms where hay could not be grown for a number of years without impoverishing the soil. That is true. But, on the other hand, there are farms in Nova Scotia, on the Bay of Fundy, where there is continual fertility. And there are fertile lands near Lake St. Peter and on the Richelieu River where hay has been grown without a spoonful of manure within the past fifty or a hundred years, and where they are growing good and profitable hay to-day.

"The farmers know their business and they will continue to manage it in the way it is most profitable to them. The farmers have just as much right and intelligence in doing it, and in deciding what system they employ as any merchant or manufacturer has to decide what lines of business he will go into or what lines of manufacture he will pursue.

"I want to say further to Mr. Trenholme in relation to his objection to selling hay because it is crude material with a great deal of fertility in it that when he sells milk he is selling more fertility in that form than if he had made his milk into cheese or butter. If he would carry his argument to a logical conclusion, then he will never sell a quart of milk in Montreal or elsewhere, but would make it all into cheese and butter and feed his skim milk to the stock of his farms. But Mr. Trenholme, of course, has a right to sell milk and get a profit out of it. But if he persists to talks as he does in relation to hay, then let him carry his argument to its logical conclusion in regard to milk.

A Western Conservative Opinion Quoted by Mr. Fisher.

"Now let me refer to another matter. I want to tell the Conservatives here that in the West there is a leader of the Conservative party known as Mr. Haultain. (Interruption.) I want to say to my Conservative friends here that Mr. Haultain is not the kind of Tory manufactured by the Star in Montreal. He is that kind of Tory who puts the interests of the country before the interests of party. He is a man of English birth and an English gentleman. ("Hooray.") And in the speech that he made in the Legislature of Saskatchewan, when he gave his support to the reciprocity agreement, he said that he was not willig to accept the definition of Canadian loyalty as it was manufactured in the east of Canada. (Applause.)

"I recognize Mr. Haultain as a Canadian and an Imperialist and a Britisher before everything. Mr. Lake made a speech the other day, and Mr. Lake as you know represents a Conservative constituency in Saskatchewan in the Federal House. Mr. Lake is an English gentleman who came out to this country a number of years ago and since that time has identified himself closely with the West. Mr. Sifton has deserted the West. Mr. Sifton is not going to stand again in Brandon. Mr. Haultain and Mr. Lake are dependent upon the West for their public life. They represent the people of the West better than Mr. Sifton can and they do what they do to-day in the first place because it is their duty and because they know that they are pleasing the people whom they represent.

"What does Mr. Lake say? "I believe the agreement is in the interests of my people. It will be in the interests of the people of Canada, and my complain against it is that it does not include a larger measure of manufactured articles."

"Does the statement of Mr. Lake agree with the scaring statements of the Montreal Conservatives and the Anti-reciprocity League? No. Here it is opposed in certain quarters because it is feared that what Mr. Lake wants may come about.

No Annexation Movement In Canada, But Look Out.

"I want to say a word now upon a question which I consider of greater interest than the one between the Tories of the East and the Tories of the West. We have heard a lot of talk on annexation. It has been held up to us as a bugaboo. It has already been characterized by my friends and I will not say much about it. What I want to say is a warning to the men who have raised this question before the people of Canada. I want to say that to-day there is no annexation movement in Canada because we have prosperous and contented people.

"Now I want to come back again to the farmers. They see their rivals to the south of us getting a higher price for grain and for cattle, and these people see an opportunity of reaping some benefits in the markets of the country that the people to the south have. They see opportunities of placing their cattle free of duty on the American market. They see opportunities of selling their grain at the same price as it is sold for in the United States.

"If this agreement should be blocked by the people of the East. If the Canadian people should be divided and these men should be deprived of opportunities to sell where they can best sell there might rise a demand on the part of these people of the West, that if they cannot get to the American by means of Reciprocity they could get there by annexation.

"These people are playing with fire which if sufficiently kindled would destroy this great Dominion which we have been so busy laying foundations for.

"They talk of us being disloyal by trading with the Americans. We bought a million and a half dollars' worth of automobiles from the United States last year."

Interruption.—"But they paid the duty."

Another interruption.—"The farmers of Manitoba also bought automobiles."

Mr. Fisher.—"I hope they were paid for in Montreal, they were paid for in the West."

Canadian Manufacturers Spend Millions in States.

"The people of Canada bought sixteen million dollars' worth of coal from the United States. You can buy coal in British Columbia.

"Why do these disloyal anti-Imperialists dare to buy sixteen million dollars' worth of coal from the United States? I am coming a little nearer home. There are cotton factories here in Canada. They go to the United States and buy nine million dollars' worth of cotton."

A Voice.—"We don't grow cotton."

"No, but Egypt grows cotton. My friend in the crowd is a little Imperialist. He does not extend his vision beyond his own doorstep. He ought to know that under the great flag of the British Empire there are hundreds of thousands of people in India growing cotton, subjects of His Majesty, but he goes to the horrid Yankee and buys his raw cotton. We buy seven million dollars' worth of drugs. We buy three million dollars' worth of electrical appliances from our horrid rivals. We are disloyal, not only to the Empire, but to Canada. These people are disrupting the Empire."

Mr. Fisher went on to quote the supply of rubber, hats, etc., brought in from the United States.

Mr. Fisher Questioned As To Importing Eggs.

He was interrupted a little later by a remark from the crowd to the effect that the market is lower now in the United States than in Canada.

"A few days ago," Mr. Fisher replied, "I laid down in the House a comparative statement of the prices of poultry, butter, hogs and cattle, showing that for every article the price was higher in Buffalo than in Toronto. Just at the present moment there is a slump, especially in eggs and butter."

A Voice—"How many eggs do we import?"

"We import quite a lot. The price of eggs is very variable on both sides of the line, and I think the dealers are quite satisfied to sell them on the side on which they pay best. There is a slump in the New England and the New York markets in some of these articles, usually held in cold storage. It is the practice to put them in cold storage when they are cheap in the fall of the year. On the other side of the line, while they are opposing reciprocity very considerably, the business interests are adjusting themselves to it, and these cold storage people have appreciated the fact that Canadian goods would enter free of duty, and have shoved all their cold storage goods into the market to get them over, and so they have been selling them in Montreal and paying the duty. That slump will be over in a couple of months, the trade will adjust itself, and we will go on in the same course."

"I want you," Mr. Fisher continued, "to pay the difference to the farmer of Canada that the farmer is willing to pay to you. The farmer of Canada has been shut out of the American market. He has had the British market.

A Voice—"The best market."

Mr. Fisher replied that the Eastern Townships farmer had found it profitable to sell his skimmed milk in the United States with a duty of five per cent. on it.

Warns East Not to Stroke West Wrong Way.

"I want to come to the question of the East and the West," continued Mr. Fisher. "We are one country from the Atlantic to the Pacific. It has been the glory of the Liberal party, led by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, to so regulate our policy and our administration as to bind, not only the different nationalities together, but to bind the different sections of this country into one harmonious whole.

"Mr. Fielding has managed the tariff of Canada for fourteen years. We were told before we came into power that it was folly to think that we could reduce the duties and raise the revenue. Mr. Fielding, in his tariff of 1897, reduced the duty on a great number of articles, put many articles on the free list, and then he introduced the British preference. (Applause). We have always carried on the principle of the Liberal party,—lowering the taxation on the consuming class and at the same time, by scientific adjustment with the manufacturing and industrial classes, we have prospered and advanced in a way never dreamed of before in the history of this country. To-day, we are introducing another step in the same direction. We are reducing the scale of duties on a number of things exported from Canada. For the first time we have had a say and a vote in the arrangement of the American tariff. It is a tribute to this country that we have reached the stage when our great American neighbor thinks we are to be reckoned with, and comes to us and asks us to barter and trade in the adjustment of his own tariff.

"Is this an occasion for Canadians to feel humiliated? Is this an occasion to feel lack of confidence in their country? No; it is one of the greatest tributes that the nation of Canada has ever received from a foreign land. In doing that, we are extending the right hand of fellowship that was held out a year ago, and I believe that we were not only wise but right in doing that, instead of inviting the big stick of the American non-intercourse item of the Payne-Aldrich tariff.

Lower the Tariff While Maintaining Industries.

"We see overtures being made by one nation to another in favor of friendly relations. One of the most extraordinary situations has arisen in the history of centuries when our great American neighbor has made a proposal to the head of the British Empire for a treaty of arbitration, a step in favor of peace and goodwill such as has never been known in the history of the world. We have seen the unanimous outcry of admiration which greeted this action from the friends of peace the world over. And these men who are trying to decry this reciprocity arrangement are the very men who are trying to persuade Canada to put a blot in the advancement of that entente between Canada and the United States.

"We believe that this agreement is in the best interests of Canada and the Empire. We believe we have the mass of the people behind us in it. I appeal to the people here in the great city of Montreal, the great commercial centre of this Dominion which has been built up and which has doubled its population under industrial protection, under the tariff of Mr. Fielding and the Liberal government, to believe that you can have confidence still in that tariff and in that administration, and believe that in the future, as in the past, this government will care for your interests, while doing what is necessary in the interests of other parts of the Dominion. This is our keynote—the lowering of the tariff, but maintenance of industries."

The meeting concluded with the singing of "God Save the King!"

No Crowd on Square, So No Outside Meeting.

There was no overflow meeting outside of the Windsor Hotel, as had been expected by those in favor of reciprocity. All was quiet and peaceful, several policemen were stationed at each of the entrances to quell any trouble which might arise, but there was none. At 8.10 a reserve squad of twelve police arrived and were stationed near the Peel street entrance, but as it was rather chilly standing out there on the sidewalk, in the cold, they were soon detailed for duty inside, where they were more comfortable. A number of people who wanted to see all that was going to happen walked past the hotel to view the scene of the expected conflicts, but as all was calm and serene, sought elsewhere for excitement.

The only excitement was due to the departure of John L. Sullivan and his wife in a sleigh. Somebody asked "Isn't that John L.?" and all gathered around to have a look at the Master of the Ring. When he had left calm reigned supreme once more.

SEARCH FOR HEIRESS FRUITLESS SO FAR.

Mr. Howard M. Rowe, acting on behalf of Mr. Andrew Wilson, the New York attorney for the estate of James McCluskey, whose estate is valued at over one million dollars, has been in Montreal for the past ten days searching for Maria McCluskey, who, if she can be located, is heir to half a million dollars.

The search for Miss McCluskey has been going on for the past eight months, and has extended over England, Ireland, Scotland, and the Continent of Europe, but it would now seem as if the search was about ended. Mr. Rowe stated last night that he had received trace of a woman of the same name who came to Montreal about the same time the heiress was believed to have arrived here, and who after repeated misfortunes died.

Mr. Rowe is not satisfied, however, that this is the sister of James McCluskey for whom he is looking, and will prosecute the search until he has the proof.

Maria McCluskey is said to have been a woman of education, an accomplished pianist, speaking French fluently, and was well spoken of by those who remembered her in Kingston and Clayton. The late Monsignor McMahon, of the Sulpician Seminary, in this city, from 1850 to 1855, was an uncle of the girl, and he also died possessed of wealth, something over $500,000, which he bequeathed to the Catholic University in Washington, where his death occurred in 1901.

A sixteen-year-old boy, while driving from Coaticook to Eastford, Que., fell from his seat in the sleigh and was dragged to death.

Knox Gelatine is a cooking necessity. It is just as important as flour, butter, eggs, sugar or salt. It is part of the cook's stock in trade.

It thickens her sauces and gravies, garnishes her cold meats, gives body to her jells, thickens her soup and gives fineness and firmness to her ice cream and ices.

Knox Pure, Plain Sparkling Gelatine

is also the basis for hundreds of delicious desserts. Each package jells two quarts of liquid. It is economical to use. It is for the lady who has time to make her dessert RIGHT.

Gold Stocks Booming--Textile Active--Banque du Canada--Coal Barons

TEXTILE BUSY, 'SCOTIA' 100, POWER OFF

Wall Street was in its usual dull rut to-day, and there was not much doing locally either, except in the Porcupine stocks, which were again on the whoop.

Power and "Scotia" were easier, the former selling off to 148¾ and then rallying to 149¼. "Scotia" sold at 100, against 102 last week.

Shawinigan usually follows Power's ups and downs, but made an exception of the rule to-day, and, after opening at 113½, it sold at 113¾.

Dominion Textile was bought freely around 73. There were many rumors afloat about the stock, and one was that Mr. Hosmer had purchased another block in London, but nothing official was given out.

Crown Reserve has been in demand lately, due to the talk that the Porcupine claim will make good.

C.P.R. 221

Early this afternoon C. P. R. sold at 221, a new high mark.

Richelieu was off to 112¼. There was no meeting of directors to-day, but it is expected that details of the proposition to be made will be out shortly.

Profits of the B.C. Packers' Association

During the year 1910 the profits of the British Columbia Packers' Association were $294,125, against $356,527 shown in the balance sheet of June 30 for the 12 months then ended, covering the year of the big run. This represents the somewhat smaller pack—this being one of the lean years in the run—as well as the fact that the company still has salmon on hand to a value of $173,405 yet to be marketed. Up to the end of 1910, $100,302 had been expended in redemption of preferred shares, which, together with the $52,290 transferred on December 31st from earnings, left $102,161. This amount has since been used up in purchasing an additional amount of shares. Up to March 1st, 1911, 2,154 "preferred B" shares have been retired.

BEWARE OF THE GOLD "WILD-CATS"

The writer returned last week from a trip to Porcupine and cannot but admit that many of the reports of the great riches of the Porcupine district are entirely warranted.

We feel it our duty, however, to warn speculators that there will be very many "wild cats" foisted upon the public.

Already a large number of irresponsible promoters are extensively advertising shares in companies which we do not believe will ever produce one dollar's worth of gold.—Edward Cronyn, Toronto.

It's 135

It was said to-day that if there is no hitch in the merger plans, Richelieu will go in on the basis of 135.

Steel Stock

The Dominion Steel Co. will, as announced some time ago, issue bearer certificates, and these will be ready in a few days. These certificates, which have dividend coupons attached, like bonds, are popular in London and Paris.

FINANCIAL PERSONALS.

Mr. Lorne Edgar has sailed for England.

Mr. C. R. Hosmer is in Paris.

Mr. George H. Allen has returned from Atlantic City.

Mr. J. P. Morgan will be Emperor William's guest at the latter's castle at Corfu.

Mr. Elwood Hosmer is at Monte Carlo.

B. C. Packers' Dividend to be Paid in May

When The Star announced the other day that the B. C. Packers directors had declared a dividend of 2 per cent., it was pointed out later that they had made no official statement to that effect.

Edward Cronyn & Co., of Toronto, in their weekly circular, take the dividend for granted, and say that it will be paid in May.

"MEX" POWER STRONGER.

Can. General Electric Had a Big Year

Special to The Montreal Star.

Toronto, March 27.—The annual meeting of the Canadian General Electric Co. was held to-day, when a statement was issued showing that the gross profits for the past year have exceeded those of the previous year by nearly fifty per cent. After reserving $188,087 for depreciation and paying $76,820 as interest, there remains $646,300. Deducting from this dividends on preferred and common stock at the rate of 7 per cent., amounting to $494,624, the sum of $151,675 has been added to profit and loss account. The sum added to the balance at the credit of that account at the end of the previous year makes the present balance, $311,943, which the reserve fund of $1,669,531 makes a total surplus of $1,980,675.

GRANBY'S FEBRUARY OUTPUT

The February operations of Granby Consolidated resulted in a production of 1,633,300 pounds of copper, 33,181 ounces of silver, and 4,513 ounces of gold.

SMALLER SALES OF LAND.

February sales by the Canada North-West Land Company aggregated 3,177 acres, against 7,718 last year. The price averaged $11.60 per acre, against $10.50 in 1910.

GOLD STOCKS ON THE BOOM AGAIN TO-DAY

Armstrong-M'GibbonStock Over-subscribed--Bewick-Moreing Stock

Porcupine stocks were on the boom again to-day.

Hollinger made a new high mark at $10. Northern Ontario, the Bewick Moreing enterprise, issued the other day at $6.00, sold at $6.50, while Dobie Mines Co. stock, the Armstrong-McGibbon property, was quoted at $4.25. It was issued to the public at $4 on Saturday, but the allotments have not yet been made.

This company starts with $100,000 cash and 60,000 shares in the treasury, the capital being $1,500,000. It was said this morning that the issue of 120,000 shares was over-subscribed several times. A large block of the stock was taken by New York.

So far about $40,000 worth or work has been done on the property.

Of the low priced issues to-day, Pearl Lake sold at 64¾; Porcupine Gold at 68; Dome Extension, 59; Moneta, 30.

Won't Pardon Bankers Now In Prisons

Washington, March 27.—From sources close to the President, it was learned to-day that the pardon appeals of the two convicted bankers, Charles W. Morse, of New York, and John R. Walsh, of Chicago, undoubtedly will be denied.

It is stated that the Attorney-General's recommendation in both cases is adverse.

PRESIDENT OF N. Y. EXCHANGE

Mr. R. H. Thomas will again be president of the New York Stock Exchange this year.

Marconi Co. Report Shows Big System

New York, March 27.—A clear chain of wireless telegraph stations extending from Maine to Florida is now included in the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Co.'s system, the annual report of the company for the past year, made public to-day, shows.

New stations were erected during the year south of New York, and many coastwise vessels have been added to the fleet equipped with the Marconi system.

OPINIONS ON THE MARKET.

H. K. Evans.—The market is hardening all along the line. I believe the period of stagnation is nearing its close, and I do not think that Wall Street is going to wait for the decisions. I believe the market will start up before the decisions are handed down, and think stocks ought to be bought now.

G. W. Farrell & Co. — Market should be a little better on account of practical settlement of Russia-Chinese-Mexican-Japanese matter; however, cannot expect much action as yet, as the powers that are seem to be waiting for Supreme Court decisions.

Oswald Bros. — Commission houses generally are arrayed on the long side of the market in their advices.

Charles Head.—We advise buying on reactions for quick turns, preferably the better class issues.

Laidlaw & Co.—The monetary situation is sound. Indeed, fundamental conditions have seldom been more propitious at this season of the year for a long time past.

McCuaig Bros.—We would not advise increasing commitments at the present time, except in the case of stocks, where immediate developments are expected, and would be inclined to dispose of securities in which there is no prospect of an enhancement in the near future.

Henry Clews.—Good securities bought with discretion at present levels will undoubtedly yield good profits in due season.

MACKAY EDGAR'S MAPLE LEAF SHOWS CLASS.

Mr. E. Mackay Edgar's motor boat Maple Leaf III showed a wonderful burst of speed in a trial on the Solent last week, making 49½ knots, or 57 land miles, an hour. This is claimed as a world's record.

Maple Leaf III took part in the motor boat regatta at Monaco a year ago.

TOPICS OF THE STREET

The Constitutional Club in London, where Sir William Van Horne spoke on reciprocity the other day, is situated on Northumberland avenue, not far from the Star's Branch Office.

It is one of the largest political clubs in the world, having a membership of 6,500.

Brokers are puzzled to know why the banks are shutting down on them.

Figures would indicate that the banks are taking a little money out of the stock market to satisfy the ever-increasing demand for commercial money, these fluctuations in business and stock market loans in Canada since last June being significant:

	Current.	Call.
1910.
June	$649,145,520	61,598,958
July	653,008,336	60,081,256
August	657,813,770	60,427,996
September	668,976,522	62,428,576
October	679,320,039	64,561,641
November	677,617,478	62,866,513
December	677,064,829	63,983,912
1911:
January	682,506,695	60,200,781
February	689,234,781	59,132,682

According to the Witness, Jim Hill says the United States will get the best of the reciprocity deal. Mr. Hill made that statement for American ears only. The Witness must be more careful in future and not allow the truth to creep out for Canadian consumption.

Anyway, Mr. Fielding ought to be well up in the fruit business by this time as Taft handed him a lemon not long ago.

All the A. E. Rea & Co. underwriting was successfully placed some days ago at 95, with a bonus of 50 per cent. common stock.

A great many small investors have purchased the securities which will rebound to the benefit of the company as the shareholders will take an added interest in the welfare of the business.

The Rea site is, without question, one of the most valuable pieces of real estate in Canada.

BLEAT FROM ONE OF THE MANY LAMBS

Financial Editor, Montreal Star:

Sir,—What is the matter with Consolidated Mining and Smelting? What are they doing with the money obtained from the ore shipped to the Trail smelter and reported weekly in the Star?

That immense body, said to run from $40 to $100 a ton, was opened up in the War Eagle. They are paying no dividends. Another manager has taken his departure. Is it to save his reputation as a mining man? The stock when reorganized was selling at $145 per share and paying 10 per cent. If I recollect rightly, the highest grade ore in Centre Star group was about $16 at the time. The stock is now quoted on the Toronto curb at 43 bid and 47 asked.

HOLLINGER AT $10.00 MEANS $6,000,000

Of the many current reports about Hollinger, one of the most interesting is the following from the Cobalt Nugget:

"There is a very general opinion abroad in spite of the emphatic announcement that the Timmins-McMartin-Dunlap syndicate will hold the balance of power in the Hollinger Mine, that the London house of Berwick-Moreing & Co., now opening up undeveloped claims in the Porcupine area, and owning 50,000 shares of the Hollinger stock, will not be content until they have control of the Hollinger. This is one of the reasons for the advance in Hollinger stock."

While this report seems rather improbable, there are a number of people about the "Street" who attribute the remarkable strength of Hollinger stock to significant buying.

At $10.00 Hollinger's market value is $6,000,000, which is probably in excess of the ore in sight at the present time.

60,000 Tons Of Steel for Quebec Bridge

New York, March 27.—By far the most interesting feature in the steel trade at present is the announcement that the 60,000 tons of structural steel for the Quebec bridge will come to the Carnegie Steel Company.

Big Net Gains Being Made by Toronto Ry.

During February the Toronto Railway Company made gross earnings of $335,010, while operating expenses were $181,933, leaving net earnings of $153,077 which stand $14,246 over last year's figures, but $16,400 below the net for January of this year.

The inrease over February, 1910, of 10.5 per cent. compares favorably with January earnings when the relative weather conditions are considered, however. Last month the increase in net earnings was 11.7 per cent. For the year to date the gross amounts to $693,854, operating to 371,370, and net earnings amount to $322,484, an increase of $32,319, or 11.14 per cent. over the corresponding months of last year. These figures in view of the increases made last year are quite significant.

BRAZIL BONDS WENT WELL.

Toronto Viaduct Will Nowbe Built

Privy Council Decides Against C.P.R. Appeal From Original Orders.

The Grand Trunk and the Canadian Pacific Railways will have to build the long-talked-of viaduct over the Esplanade at Toronto, after all, and also a new Union Station.

This was the news conveyed to them to-day, when a cablegram was received from England stating that their appeal from original orders of the authorities calling upon them to do this had been dismissed, after three days' argument.

The city of Toronto has been fighting for this viaduct for years, and unless other legal difficulties occur it now seems probable that the huge scheme, which for the viaduct alone will cost about nine millions of dollars, will be entered upon in the near future.

At the C. P. R. offices to-day it was stated that the counsel for the Company, Mr. Creelman, was in Toronto, and that as he had been following this matter from the first, no statement could be given out in his absence. The Company would wait for the details of coming to a decision in the matter.

Mr. Fitzhugh, of the Grand Trunk stated to-day that he had not yet had official intimation of the decision, and that until the full text of it arrived, he could make no statement.

Ottawa, March 27. — The bill incorporating La Banque du Canada will be discussed in the House this afternoon.

"It looks as though we will have to compromise and change the name," stated Mr. Robert Bickerdike.

Big Balance

During the eight months of the fiscal year, or up to March 1, United States foreign trade showed an excess in exports over imports of $418,000,000, compared with an excess of $188,000,000 a year ago.

CHATS ON CHANCE.

John Rogers & Co., of Liverpool, cabled to-day that there was a decided advance of one-half a cent per pound on really choice cattle in the Birkenhead market. Prices for States steers were from 13¼c to 13¾c, and Canadians from 13 to 13¼c per pound. Sheep trade was slow and the tone weak; wethers making 14½c; yearlings 16c, and lambs 17c per pound for unclipped sheep.

Liverpool cotton statistics for the wek ending March 25th: Total sales, all kinds, 60,000 bales; American, 54,000; English spinners' takings, 83,000; total export, 18,000; imports, all kinds, 55,000; imports, American, 46,000; stock, all kind, 1,222,000; stock, American, 1,104,000; quantity afloat, all kinds, 119,000; quantity afloat, American, 83,000; total sales on speculation, 3,800; total sales to exporters, 3,400.

Commercial failures last week in Canada, as reported by R. G. Dun & Co., numbered 23 against 30 the previous week, and 27 last year.

LOCAL CATTLE HAD 15c TO 25c DECLINE

Cattle prices were 15 to 25c per 100 lbs. lower at the Montreal Stock Yards west end market to-day, with good to choice selling at $5.35 to $6, though about a dozen head brought as high as $6.25; medium steers, $5.50 to $5.85; cows, $4.50 to $5; bulls, $4.50 to $5.50.

Sheep were firm at $5.50 to $7, and lambs at $6.75 to $8.

Hogs sold at $7.50 and sows at $6.50.

Calves brought $3 to $6.

Receipts were 975 cattle, 100 sheep and lambs, 1200 hogs, and 200 calves; for the week, 2325 cattle, 1600 sheep and lambs, 2000 hogs and 1500 calves.

Prices were about on a par with the above at the C. P. R. east end market, where the receipts were 250 cattle, 200 hogs and 125 calves; for the week, 700 cattle, 150 sheep and lambs, 952 hogs and 1900 calves.

POTATO PRICES STRONGER.

The local potato market is strong, and prices have an upward tendency. The strength is due to the small supplies coming forward and the increased demand. Sellers in many cases are asking 90c per bag for car lots to arrive, with buyers bidding 85c. In a jobbing way sales were made at 1.05 to $1.10 per bag.

HAY TRADE IMPROVED.

The demand for hay is limited and the market is quiet. According to the shipments from Portland and St. John, N.B., of late, there is an increase in the trade on export account.

No. 1 choice, $10 to $10.50; extra No. 2, $9 to $9.50; ordinary No. 2, $8 to $8.50; clover, mixed, $7 to $7.50; clover, $6 to $6.50, car lots.

DISMAL STORY OF COAL BY MR. DRUMMOND

"Robber Barons" is the pleasing title sometimes given the men who operate coal mines in Nova Scotia.

The Hon. Robert Drummond stoutly asserts that they are not robbers, and to prove it he gives this doleful history of Nova Scotia's coal properties for the past year:

Dominion Coal Co., the largest operators in the province, responsible for almost half of the coal production, paid a dividend for the last three or four years of 4 per cent.

Nova Scotia Steel & Coal Co., taking the profits on their coal sales alone, made a dividend of 2 per cent. or 3 per cent.

Cumberland Railway & Coal Co. last year made a tremendous loss.

Acadia Coal Co. has paid no dividends for years.

Maritime Coal & Railway Co. has scarcely met expenses.

Inverness Railway & Coal Co. did not so much as pay the interest on their bonds.

Intercolonial Coal Co., whose shareholders did not receive a dividend for seventeen years, received a dividend of 5 per cent.

North Atlantic Collieries Co. is now in the hands of the Eastern Trust Co., with its bondholders goodness only knows where.

Port Hood Coal Co. met a loss, not a profit, of from 20 to 40 cents a ton on every ton of coal sold, so it is said.

Great Northern Co. came into Cumberland with a flourish of trumpets, and were going to produce 500 tons a day, and yet the total sales for last year was 390 tons.

Minudie Coal Co. made some progress.

Atlantic Grindstone & Coal Co. need not be mentioned. In the past they were unfortunate.

Eastern Company, after spending $100,000 or so, had to go out of business last year.

WHEAT PRICES AT WINNIPEG A CENT LOWER

Rains in the North-West and heavy receipts of wheat at Winnipeg (625 cars against 269 a year ago) were the leading bear helps in wheat to-day.

Winnipeg says there is some export business doing all the time, and millers are keen buyers of the grades that suit them. Weather all over the West is fine, and farmers in some districts are starting spring work but general seedtime is not going to be too early.

The Canadian visible supply of wheat increased 1,130,000 bushels to 11,262,000 bushels, against 8,748,000 bushels a year ago. Prices up to 1.30 p.m.:

	Open.	High	Lwo.	Close

July	93⅜	93⅜	92⅝	92⅝
October	88⅝	88⅞	88½	88⅝
Oats—
May	33½	33⅝	33½	33⅝
July	34½	34½	34½	34½

FLOUR TRADE IS SMALL.

The flour market is quiet locally. There is some enquiry from foreign buyers for winter wheat grades, but bids are out of line.

Manitoba spring wheat patents, firsts, $5.60; do. seconds $5.10; winter wheat patents, $4.50; Manitoba strong bakers, $4.90; straight rollers, $4 to $4.25; do. in bags, $1.75 to $1.85; extras, $1.60 to $1.70.

MILLFEED PRICES STRONG.

Millfeed prices are firmly maintained under a fair volume of business.

Ontario bran, $22 to $23; Ontario middling, $24 to $25; Manitoba bran, $21 to $23; do. shorts, $23 to $25; pure grain mouillie, $30; mixed mouillie, $25 to $28.

TORONTO EDUCATION CHAIRMAN ON TRIAL

Judge Winchester to Investigate Charges of Misuse of Position by Committee Member.

Toronto, March 27.—The investigation before Judge Winchester of the charges against Chairman Levee of the Board of Education accused of using his position as a member of the Board to force the sale of stock in the Dr. T. A. Slocum Medicine Company, Limited, to members of the teaching staff and officers of the Board of Education, opened this morning, with Corporation Counsel, H. L. Drayton conducting the enquiry and C. D. J. Starr acting for Mr. Levee, the local manager of the concern. The investigation is the result of a series of sensational articles published by a magazine. Levee's answer to these charges was an action for libel which has not yet been tried.

The Board of Education, however, decided that the honor of that body was at stake insisted on an investigation before the county judge irrespective of any other legal proceedings.

FAITHFUL DOG MOURNS DEATH OF KIND MASTER

Pathetic Sequel to Tragic Death of Janitor Alton of the Cobourg Apartments.

While the young widow of Edward Alton, the late janitor of the Cobourg Apartments on Stanley street, mourns at the untimely death of her husband, who was killed in Friday night's explosion of the furnace in the building, and in the house of kind friends nestle close to her her two young children, another heart, not a human one, pulses with uncomforted grief and keeps solitary vigil outside the building in which the disaster occurred.

Old Dan, the dead janitor's dog, sits wretched and forlorn outside the Cobourg in the snow and waits for the master who will never come to him again. In the wet of the thawing street all day, and throughout the long cold nights, the faithful dog has kept his lonely watch, resolutely refusing the food that sympathetic neighbors proffer him from time to time, and quite indifferent to the strokings and the pity of passers-by who have heard his pathetic story.

Watches the Door.

With eyes heavy with long watching, Dan rivets his attention on the door where he saw his master enter three days ago and only moves from his post to nose each person who enters or leaves the building. As he sees the door open, his ears are instinctively pricked up as if to catch the sound of a familiar footfall and the spaniel goes briskly to meet the outcoming one, with renewed hope that his long, weary time of waiting is at an end at last. Then, in even heavier desolation than before, he slinks wretchedly back to his cheerless place in the snow and resumes his self-appointed vigil.

All efforts to lure him to more comfortable surroundings have so far proved unavailing. Tit-bits dear to his dog heart in happier times when his master was to be found, somewhere have no delight for Dan in these days of dreary wretchedness and lonely waiting. His ears have not heard the well-remembered voice for three long days and nights that seem as years to his dumb understanding; the hand whose stroke he loved to feel upon his head has been removed in some unknown way and all is doubt and desolation since that night of the loud noise and the coming of the crowds of hurrying men and frightened women who hurried to and fro about the basement of the building where Dan lived with his master and his little family.

Forgotten at First.

In the excitement following the explosion that resulted in Alton's death the spaniel was forgotten and it was not until some time afterwards that occupants of the building noticed Dan hurrying from place to place as if looking for someone important in his doggy cosmos. As the janitor's wife with her two children had been taken immediately after the crash occurred to a house next door, and later to Drummond street, where they are still sheltered, the dog was unable to locate any of the Alton family and wandered disconsolately for some time about the building looking for his master, who had been taken to the hospital where he died shortly afterwards. Then, as if understanding in his dumb way that something was amiss, but still hopeful that his master would come again to him, Dan commenced his long, vain vigil in the snow outside, late on Friday night, and still waits patiently for the step he knows so well.

Widow's Sad Plight.

Mrs. Alton, the janitor's widow, is a young Englishwoman with no relatives and few friends in this country. At the time of the explosion she was in bed with her two-weeks-old child, from whence she was taken to a neighboring house. It was not until some hours later that she heard of her husband's death and since that time she has been prostrated with grief and weakness at the home of a lady living on Drummond street. As it will be days before she is able to get about again, it will likely be some time before she is able to relieve the faithful spaniel from his desolate watch before the apartment house where Alton met his end.

Tenants of the Cobourg who have endeavored to induce the dog to eat or to come inside the building into shelter from to-day's rain will continue in their efforts, they say, to relieve his wretchedness. Hunger may aid them to attain this end, but, in the meantime, Dan keeps his solitary watch from the snow bank outside in loneliness and misery for the master whose going from him is an unsolvable mystery to his poor understanding of human affairs.

More Births Than Deaths.

The births in the city last week numbered 274, while the deaths reached 190. There were reported 146 cases of contagious diseases.

F. H. Forkey, wanted in Detroit, on a charge of shooting, left Toronto for the Michigan capital yesterday in charge of a detective.

THINKS DOMINION SHOULD HAVE VOTE

Acceptance of Empire Responsibilities Warrants This View, Declares Sir N Moore.

Canadian Associated Press.

London, March 24. — Sir Newton Moore, the new Agent-General of West Australia, who has just arrived in England, in an interview says that in the past it might have been presumptuous on the part of the overseas Dominions to ask for direct representation at Westminster, but in view of the fact that they are now prepared to accept the responsibility of nationhood by making provision for navies and adopting compulsory training, as obtains in Australia, it should not be asking too much to urge that the citizen of Perth, for instance, should have as much to say in external questions as a resident of a village in the Old Country.

BODY GUARD FOR HON. W. S. FIELDING.

Special to the Montreal Star.

Ottawa, March 27. — When Hon. W. S. Fielding goes home from the House these nights, he is accompanied by Sergeant Giroux, a husky member of the Dominion Police, in plain clothes. The officer may be seen nightly awaiting the Minister.

Much secrecy is maintained as to the reason, and different stories are in circulation. One is that an attempt was made to hold up the Finance Minister, while another is that he has received threatening letters. Whatever the cause, he travels with a body-guard in leaving the late sittings of the House.

Trepanier Trial May be Delayed

Reported That Case May Be Heard by Special Jury in May.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Three Rivers, Que., March 27.— It was expected that the Grand Jury would take up the case of Hormisdas Trepanier, charged with the murder of Maurice Plouffe to-day, but the case was not reached.

It is now stated that it is likely that the case will be tried before a special jury in May, the exact date not yet fixed.

Practical Suits At $16.50 and $19.50

The one at $16.50 is made from Venetian Cloth, in both misses' and ladies' sizes—all wool Venetian cloth, of course, lined with serge satin and trimmed with braid, and soutache or with satin collar and fancy buttons. Black and navy only.

One at $19.50 is made from a striped all wool serge in black and white or white and black or blue and white, and besides all the new points in the matter of cut, the material itself lends a character to this suit which has already won much favor.

Uncommon Wash Voiles Swiss Embroidered And Very Fine

Just how fine they are you can judge from the prices—$1.50 and $1.75.

The foundation alone is fine enough to be worth .75 a yard, if it were plain, and the embroidery patterns are beautiful specimens of high class color-work. But it is not the price we are so enthusiastic about—it is the beauty and daintiness of the voiles and their black and white or colored embroidery.

If, however, you want something somewhat less expensive and less fine, we have two very nice lines, 32 inches wide, to offer you at, respectively, .60 and .85.

of Suchard's Cocoa has never been equalled by any other brand.

Taste Suchard's—then the best other cocoa you know—and notice how flat the other tastes.

This distinctive Suchard flavor is due partly to the use of the finest cocoa-beans grown, but even more to skill in manufacture. Roasting—blending—grinding—extracting the oil—is carried on by experts, who know just how to bring out to perfection the rich aroma and flavor.

ROVER AND SCHOLAR, FORMER MONTREALER DIES IN POVERTY

Untoward Career of Pierre Quevillon Comes to An End in Columbus, Ohio.

Though the friends and relatives of Pierre Quevillon were not in attendance at his funeral, across the border near Columbus, Ohio, there were those who were deeply interested in this former roving resident of Montreal, and letters have been sent to the Star with the object of finding, if possible, those relatives who may still be living, and acquainting them of the fact that Pierre, on the eve of St. Patrick, which was also the forty-third anniversary of his birth, passed away.

Twenty-three years ago, after having received a university education, a quarrel is said to have taken place between this cultured Frenchman and his nearest relatives here, which was the signal for the beginning of a roving life that has only been brought to a close in Franklin County, Ohio, after he had travelled almost every state in the Union, all parts of Mexico and the majority of the provinces of the Dominion.

When he left here he first went to work on a farm half way between Columbus and Westerville, and, being able to speak French, Spanish, Italian, Latin and English, he was soon a prominent, if eccentric figure in that part of the land of his adoption. He was engaged in the farm work of John B. Denune, and the frequency with which he succeeded in returning to that family, where he always made his headquarters, had long before his death, made him popular with its members. The Denunes had wired to Montreal and, in reply, had been asked to send word here if anything serious happened to the former Canadian student, but there have been no replies to messages telling Quevillon's friends of his demise.

Quevillon said that his family was wealthy and there was a fortune coming to him.

Those who have communicated with Montreal have stated that the funeral services were conducted by the Rev. Father Ewing, and that the remains were laid to rest in the Riverside Cemetery, in Franklin County, Ohio.

Double Track on Prairies.

The survey now being conducted by the Canadian Pacific with a view to the double tracking of the main line between Calgary and Medicine Hat is about half completed, and it is expected that a good portion of the construction of the double track will be done this year.

WITNESSES ADMIT HOLDING UP LAROSE AND ROBBING HIM

Judge and Lawyer Dispute Over Emancipation Lodge Connection With the Case.

The case of A. J. Lemieux was resumed this morning before Justice Lavergne, in the Court of King's Bench. Mr. N. K. Laflamme, for the defence, wished to have certain documents submitted to the Enquete Court, read once more, but Judge Lavergne objected, saying: "I refuse to have them read. If Judge Bazin permitted the Emancipation Lodge to be brought into this case, it is no reason why I should." Mr. Laflamme protested against this decision, saying: "We have the courage to defend our client and the courage to defend ourselves." Judge Lavergne answered: "I will not hereafter permit you to dispute my decisions."

Adelard Lemieux and Aldei Lemieux, brothers of the accused, and Armand Mongeau admitted the conspiracy to hold up Lemieux and take papers from him, Mongeau said that he took money from Larose, but afterwards gave it to A. J. Lemieux, who returned it to Larose. The brothers said the money was returned by the accused. Mongeau also testified that Ludger Larose made the remark: "You are not bandits."

All three witnesses admitted that a revolver was shown to arose, but denied that it was loaded or was pointed at him. Mr. H. Painchaud, an insurance broker, said he would not believe Larose under oath, because of certain letters he had written about a fire at Ottawa. The case will be continued this afternoon.

Epidemic of Fires in City

Two Families Driven Out of Homes at Midnight by Smoke.

At midnight two families were driven to the street by the smoke when fire started in the basement of Mrs. M. B. McDonald's home, 259 Bleury street. All were in bed at the time of the outbreak. Rapidly dressing, Miss Cyril McDonald, a sister, went into the basement and found the kitchen ablaze. The family of Mr. Francis O'Connor, in the upper part of the house, was awakened and were compelled to leave the house. The firemen, however, confined the actual blaze to the basement.

William Paquette's lunch room, 118 William street, was totally destroyed by fire at 12.30 o'clock this morning. The building was frame, brick encased, and when the firemen arrived was a mass of flames. Adjoining buildings which were of wood, also suffered damage.

Fire breaking out between the floor and ceiling of the basement of Alex. Watt, bakker, 173 St. Antoine st., at 6 o'clock yesterday morning, did considerable damage.

Fire broke out on the second floor of the Canadian Rubber Company, corner of Notre Dame and Papineau square last night, when the bursting of the sprinklers caused considerable damage.

Curtains in the dental parlors of Dr. A. F. Ibbotson, in the Tooke building, corner of Peel and St. Catherine street, took fire at 6.20 o'clock Saturday night. While a pedestrian sent in an alarm, Dr. Ibbotson extinguished the blaze himself.

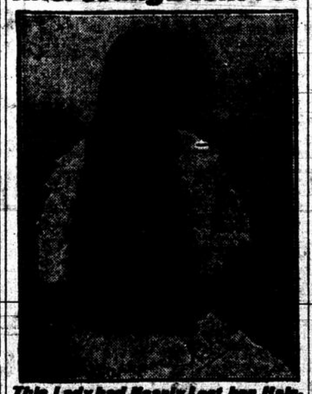
WONDERFUL Hair Growth
How Koskott is Enabling Ladies to Avoid False Hair.
Interesting Book Free



This Lady had Nearly Lost her Hair.
Miss Margaret Black's hair was nearly gone and what little was left had become thin and gray. She had tried various preparations without benefit and had nearly reconciled herself to the use of false hair, when she heard about the new and successful Koskott Method. She tried it and in a short time became the possessor of long, beautiful hair of natural shade. In a letter to us she says:
"I am so well pleased that I have no hesitancy in giving you my testimonial with my latest photograph. For two or three years I had been losing my hair. Every time I used a brush or comb it brought out a quantity of hairs. Finally, I let it go any more until I began Koskott Treatment. My head was soon cleared of dandruff and hair showed evidence of growth. I could observe the improvement day by day. After several weeks to my delight and the amazement of all my friends, my hair gradually became long, silky and beautiful. It has now reached my waist-line and is still growing."
GENUINE METHOD FOR BOTH SEXES
Koskott's aim is to eliminate the dermodex folliculorum (germs) and clear away the dandruff, promote new growth and restore the color. It is endorsed by legions of persons, both sexes. Absolutely harmless. Guaranteed. Let us send our
BIG BOOK FREE
It is filled with important information including illustrations. We mail it in plain wrapper, postpaid, gratis. Do not delay, get it now and you will be surprised at what it so clearly tells. This book explains why hair falls out, becomes thin and gray. It shows what is needed to make hair grow long and beautiful again (inexpensively, too), through the guaranteed Koskott Method. If ladies want to avoid wearing rats, puffs, turbans or wigs, they should read our new book. Men who dislike BALDNESS will find valuable news. Our Book costs you nothing.

WANTS DIVISION OF THE SCHOOL BOARD

During the course of his sermon delivered at St. Anthony's Church yesterday, Rev. Father R. E. Callaghan advocated dividing the present Catholic School Board into two sections. "The present members of the board are no doubt very capable men," said Father Callaghan, "but with no less than fifty-five schools under their control the task is becoming an overweighty one, and the only solution of the difficulty would be to divide the Board."

Father Callaghan asserted that whereas the English speaking Catholics were paying $127,000 in taxes towards the maintenance of Catholic schools, they were only receiving in return a sum equivalent to about $60,000.
