Railway unions said pressured for big pay

OTTAWA (CP)—Fifteen unions representing 100,000 non-operating railway workers are reported to be under heavy pressure from their rank-and-file membership to mount a massive wage demand on the railways this fall.

Brown rumored ready to quit active politics

By CUTHBERT JONES (Record staff writer)

Reports circulating in the corridors of the Legislative buildings in Quebec City to the effect that Glen Brown, Liberal MLA for Brome, and a number of other deputies would resign their seats shortly could neither be confirmed or denied this morning.

One informant close to the situation says the unions probably will bid for a pay increase of 40 cents an hour, "and don't be too surprised if it is even higher."

This would mean discarding the durable goods yardstick that the unions have clung to for the last 15 years. Under it, wage demands were tied to average earnings in the durable goods manufacturing industries—appliances, autos and such.

The so-called "non-ops" are those railway workers who do not actually operate the trains—telegraphers, shop workers, track crews, signalmen, porters, clerks and others.

Pressure on union leaders to go for more than the durable goods figure is reported to be mounting among railway workers in high-cost cities such as Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver. They feel they have been left far behind by the hefty wage increases won by other industrial unions in the last 18 months and are demanding vigorous action to close the gap.

Children cheerful in the chill at Sherbrooke Exhibition Monday

By BARBARA STEVENSON (Record staff reporter)

About 6,000 children bundled in heavy sweaters and warm slacks crowded through the gates yesterday despite chilly weather to enjoy their day at the Sherbrooke Exhibition.

Children's day let youngsters in free of charge to fairgrounds and the grandstand where horse racing was held. They also received reduced rates on midway rides.

Pushing and bumping into each other, children wandered about sporting sombreros or clutching trinkets they had won at take-a-chance booths. They rode make-believe motor boats, airplanes and the ever popular merry-go-round.

Many faces were hidden behind swirls of cotton candy, but not enough to cover bright, wide open eyes.

Monday was a special day for teen-agers too. Representatives of Townships calf clubs who have won at local fairs began competing yesterday for the Carlos Fabi Trophy. Judging is based on showmanship and ability to judge one class of either Holstein, Ayrshire, Jersey or Guernsey cattle. The trophy will be presented at a banquet in the arena tonight.

The winning club will then compete at the Quebec City Fair next week for the provincial championship between calf clubs. The winner in Quebec will then take part in a national competition at Toronto's Royal Winter Fair in November.

Calf clubs and their representatives competing at Sherbrooke Fair are: St. Pierre Baptist, Clement Tanguay, René Tanguay, Leeds, André Pare, André Bolduc, Lennoxville, Jeannine Divens, Brian McLeod, Hatley, Robert Johnson, Mita Smith, St. Sebastien, Jacques Lachance, Richard Belanger, St. Hilaire, Berthold Letourneau, Roland Couture, Windsor Mills, Gaetan Frenette, Engelbert Frenette, St. Malo, Lucie Roy, Alain Fontaine.

St. Paul de Chester, Benoit and Marcel Lafontaine, Costicok, André Duplessis, Richard Tremblay, St. Denis de Brompton, Rejean Beauchesne, Claude Camire, Sawyerville, Bruce Grapes, Linda Westgate, Waterloo, Stanley Coalpland, Wayne Crossfield, St. Guillaume d'Up-

Judges are Pierre Leonard of Montreal - Holsteins; Gerard Drouin of Sherbrooke-Ayrshires; Gaspard Lalonde of Lennoxville - Jerseys; Donald MacMillan of Cookshire - Guernseys. Organizers are Lionel Bombardier and Hector Rivard.

One hundred and twenty youngsters from ET calf clubs are competing in the junior breeders' contest for calves. Judging will be held today. Clubs having members participating are Hatley, Ayer's Cliff, Richmond, St. Elie d'Orford, Racine, Compton, Coati-cook, Waterloo, Sawyerville, Windsor, St. Claude, Stoke, Brome, St. Denis, St. Malo, Brompton, St. Sebastien, St. Georges, Lennoxville, St. Ludger, St. Hilaire, La Patrie, Ste. Hermenegilde, Westbury and Barnston.

Organizers are Jacques Martin of Richmond and Narcisse Dery of Coaticook.

Judging completed yesterday included: Two top trophies in the Poultry Department were won by Claude Poulin of Rock Forest with two White Rock hens. He won the Ste. Marie Trophy for the best fox and another for the best bird in the Show.

In the light horses competition Normand Lachance of Sherbrooke won for his champion stallions; champion mares, J. Ernest Laporte, of Sherbrooke; champion foal, Eileen Morgan of Lennoxville; champion Shetland pony, J. B. Pangman of Magog; champion pony other than that Shetland, male, Stanley Whitcomb, female, Emile Faucher.

Cattle: Canadians, male, grand champion, Fernand Charpentier of St. Edward, reserve, Jean Paul Verpaest of Ayer's Cliff; female grand champion, O. A. Fowler of Kingsbury, reserve, Fernand Charpentier of St. Edward.

$1,150,000 bylaw awaits approval

City plans bonds to finance arena

By DAVID WEBSTER (Record Staff Reporter)

Sherbrooke city council last night passed a $1,150,000 loan bylaw to finance Mayor Armand Nadeau's planned sports centre.

The money is to be raised through an issue of city savings bonds, issued according to the rules of Canada and Quebec savings bonds, the mayor said when he unveiled the plan last April.

LBJ DELAYS STEEL STRIKE

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson keeps a firm hand on steel labor negotiations today after winning eight days of grace from a scheduled strike he said would endanger United States economic and military strength.

Talks resume today between the AFL-CIO United Steelworkers Union and 10 major firms that produce 80 per cent of the steel made in the U.S.

"They (negotiations) will continue, hopefully, until a settlement is reached," said White House Press Secretary Bill D. Moyers.

Bonds will be sold at a fixed rate to anyone interested in buying. In this way, he said, citizens can help to build their own sports centre.

Architects and engineers were named for the project in early July and construction work should begin this fall.

Last night financial alderman Marcel Savard said that through careful control of spending in all departments the centre could be paid for without a rise in the property tax.

The Sherbrooke Catholic school commission, he noted, had after hiring an economist last week, decided to lower its mill rate from 21.6 to 21.1.

Property owners meeting to the by-law was scheduled for Monday, September 13.

The resolution states that bonds are to be sold for $100 or a multiple of $100 at an interest rate not exceeding six per cent. They are to come due over a 30-year period.

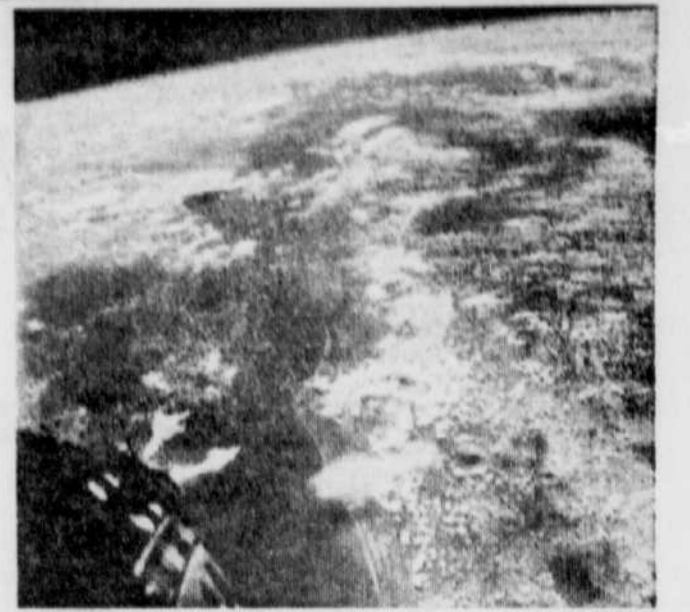

In April the mayor had specified that the bonds would be for $50, $100 and $1,000, would pay 4.5 to 5.5 per cent interest and would come due over a 20-year period.

After being submitted to city ratepayers, the bylaw will go to the Quebec department of municipal affairs for ratification.

Mayor Nadeau said this morning that he plans a trip to Quebec City shortly to draw up details of the savings bond issue with municipal affairs minister Pierre Laporte.

Last night's bylaw only outlines the plan in general form, he noted.

The publicity campaign to sell the bonds, promised by the mayor in April, will start if the loan bylaw is passed at the September 13 property-owners meeting, he said.

Astronauts fatten up as next pair prepare

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—Astronauts Gordon Cooper and Charles Conrad, quickly regaining the weight they lost during an epic eight days in space, huddled today with technical and medical experts who sought to learn everything possible about the flight of Gemini 5.

Meanwhile, two other astronauts, Walter M. Schirra and Thomas P. Stafford, were busy preparing for Gemini 6, less than two months away.

Cooper and Conrad flew here Monday from the aircraft carrier Lake Champlain, on which they had landed by helicopter after splashing into the Atlantic Sunday at the end of their record mission.

The astronauts immediately were hustled to a medical centre for exhaustive tests which did not disclose any adverse symptoms.

Dr. Charles A. Berry, Gemini flight surgeon, reported the pilots were in extremely good physical condition. But he said examinations would continue for weeks in case something shows up later.

Sees fear

OTTAWA (CP)—New Democrat Leader T. C. Douglas sees a mixture of fear of Parliament and fear that Liberal fortunes are slipping in Prime Minister Pearson's dalliance with the idea of a fall general election.

"The real reason Mr. Pearson wants an election this year is that he sees that fortunes of his party declining and his choice is between calling one now or taking his chances next year when they'll be worse," Mr. Douglas said in an interview.

Dominicans quit

SANTO DOMINGO (Reuters) The end of the four-month Dominican Republic crisis seemed closer today following the surprise resignation Monday night of Gen. Antonio Imbert's "National Reconstruction" government.

Imbert, 44, one of the two surviving assassins of dictator Raphael Trujillo, and the four other members of the civilian-military junta signed their "irrevocable resignations" during an unheralded television broadcast.

Integration calm

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Racial barriers fell quietly throughout the United States south as thousands of Negroes began attending classes with white pupils on the first day of widespread school desegregation accelerated by the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

There was no trace of the violent, bitter resistance of earlier years as the trend of quiet change became a clear-cut pattern in rural and urban areas alike Monday. Few, if any, incidents were reported in the south and it appeared the era of racial segregation in schools was coming to an end.

Old guard gets support

Anglican opposition to curriculum heard

VANCOUVER (CP)—A fiery archdeacon put the case for the Anglican old guard Monday on changes that will sweep the church's Sunday schools next month.

"Don't throw out the baby with the bath water," he admonished. "Don't throw away the glories of the old curriculum."

It was another one of the stormy contributions Ven. Alfred Abraham of Sarnia, Ont., has made regularly to the 22nd general synod of the Anglican Church of Canada. This one had a lot of support.

Many clergymen and laymen of the church believe the new Sunday school curriculum is ignoring much of the Bible's contents.

Most church leaders disagree, and consider this one of many reforms necessary to stem dwindling interest and attendance in Sunday school, young people's groups and men's and women's lay associations.

Over-all church membership is about 1,365,000 and growing slowly, but far behind the rate of the Canadian population as a whole. There are fewer Anglican families now than last year, and the church is baptizing and confirming fewer persons than it did in the 1950s.

The curriculum revision has already been 4 1/2 years in the making and it has been thoroughly tested.

"There is very little of Christ in it," said layman W. A. Finch of Dauphin, Man.

"The trouble with the church today is that its young people haven't had an encounter with Christ. I may be a low churchman, but I think it's a great oversight."

"Jesus Christ has been left on the sidelines."

Authors of the curriculum are members of a committee under the church's department of religious education. They came under withering fire from Dr. Ronald C. Masters, professor of history at Bishop's University, Lennoxville, Que.

New avalanche threatened

96 feared dead

SAAS FEE, Switzerland (AP) The threat of a second avalanche halted rescue efforts today for 96 power project workers reported buried—and feared dead—under a huge mass of ice in the Swiss Alps.

More than 1,000 rescue workers evacuated the disaster scene after the Allalin glacier began cracking shortly after dawn.

A dull rumbling sound swept through the valley. Warning sirens sounded.

The giant glacier split Monday and sent millions of tons of ice and rocks crashing down on the power project site.

With the threatened new ice fall, rescue workers scurried from the danger zone. They had made little headway hacking at the icy debris despite an all-night effort, during which they recovered only six bodies.

NO HOPE FOR THE MEN "There's no hope for the men under that mass," said one rescue worker. In some places, the ice and rocks lay more than 100 feet deep.

Ice continued to fall from the broken glacier, hampering the rescuers.

The avalanche struck near Saas Fee, a ski resort in southern Switzerland less than five miles from the Italian border.

The mass buried men, machines and barracks at the Mattmark power project near the resort. Some of the ice blocks were as large as two-storey houses.

HUNT VICTIMS OF SWISS AVALANCHE — A rescue worker and a trained avalanche dog chip away at the rock-like glacier ice which hurtled down a mountainside near Saas Fee, Switzerland, Monday, and buried some 40 to 100 workers on a hydro-electric construction project. Rescuers worked through the night to find the victims, but little hope was held for their survival. Six bodies have been recovered.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Much ado about ins and outs.

Recently an article in the New York Times magazine created a stir by naming the 100 in-people, from George Abbott to Tennessee Williams and including a parcel of Kennedys, who now mean most of New York society. Also mentioned were a few out-people, including Mayor Wagner, Dorothy Kilgallen and Jackie Gleason.

Nowhere is inmanish practiced more devoutly than in Hollywood. I am not going to name who is in and who is out because, heavens, I must go on working here.

But I can report on the habits, customs and institutions that are in and out in Hollywood today.

Hotels: The Beverly Hills is forever in, and the Beverly Wilshire is suddenly in after an overhaul.

Night clubs: The Daisy is the new in discotheque. The Coconut Grove is in for important openings.

Restaurants: The Bistro is the most in of the new spots. Chasen's of the old. La Scala, La rue and a few small Italian discover they are indeed out.

Living areas: Beverly Hills as in as you can get. Bel-Air follows. Malibu is in once more. The San Fernando Valley is far out.

Sports: Tennis is definitely in golf is out. Croquet is in—if you are invited to play at Sam Goldwyn's.

Living areas: Beverly Hills as in as you can get. Bel-Air follows. Malibu is in once more. The San Fernando Valley is far out.

Spectator sports: Watching the Dodgers is so in that Cary Grant does it. Doris Day has made the Lakers basketball team in. The Angels, alas, are out.

Award affairs: The Writers Guild dinner is the most in of the year. Attending the academy awards is out; watching it on television at a party is in.

Parties: Discotheque dancing in backyard tents is in. Barboues are far, far out.

Resorts: Palm Springs is thoroughly, continuously in, even more so in the summer. Las Vegas is out, except when Frank Sinatra is there. (Wherever Sinatra is, in.)

Dogs: Poodles are still in, though not as in as Yorkshire terriers. Collies—with all due respect to Lassie—are out.

Cars: Vintage (but not new) Rolls Royces are in, as well as imported Italian sports cars. Motorcycles are coming in.

I realize that this list may be upsetting to local figures who thought they were in and now discover they are indeed out.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

We aren't showing the East and West hands today because we want you to study the play at three no-trump from both rubber bridge and duplicate standpoints.

West opens the three of clubs and after you play low from dummy East wins with the king and returns the eight. Your nine is covered by West's ten and you go up with dummy's ace.

Some players will have no problem. They will just play out high spades. If the spades break they will make 10 easy tricks. If someone is unkind enough to hold four spades against them they will complain about bad luck.

Good rubber bridge players will also have no problem. They will concede a spade trick to the enemy by playing a low spade first. This will cost them an overtrick if spades break. It will guarantee the contract for them against four spades in either hand and one trick is a cheap price to pay for insurance.

How should a winning duplicate player handle the spade suit?

He should avoid the safety play and go after the overtrick. The duplicate expert will note that if he tries the safety play and it proves to be unnecessary he will wind up with a bad score. He will lose to everyone who has bid four spades. They will make their contracts. He will lose to everyone who has bid three no-trump and gone after the overtrick. Of course, if it is necessary

About Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The eight-day space trip of astronauts L. Gordon Cooper and Charles Conrad had all the audience-holding elements of a well-knit action-adventure show. After all the drama and danger came the happy ending.

Coverage of the long flight, even with much of it on a pooled basis, is estimated to have cost the three major U.S. networks a sum in the neighborhood of $3,000,000 — a lot when one realizes that the only real live television was the actual launching of the rocket.

The cancellation of the first launching date after hours and hours of TV coverage resulted in some public squabbling between the networks' news departments, but it did result in having CBS at least take a hard look at the common television practise of over-covering a story more to compete with its rivals than for the benefit of the viewer.

However, after the space journey had encountered some mishaps, and great public concern over the safety of the astronauts had built up over the days, all three networks went back to their old Early Bird policy and started their coverage of the descent almost two hours ahead on the actual splash-down.

COMMENTATORS FLUENT

The experienced and knowledgeable commentators of all three networks did their usual fluent jobs, filling in the time between verbal reports from the space control centre, explaining and demonstrating what was happening.

Perhaps the palm for the greatest felicity of phrase Sunday should go, not to the smooth professional talkers, but to Jane Conrad, wife of one of the astronauts. NBC's Aline Saarinen was interviewing her after the net was on board ship, and asked about her reactions as she gazed into the night sky during one of the capsule's passes over Texas.

"It seemed funny to see your husband going by looking like a star," said Mrs. Conrad.

Hollywood's masters of make-believe can make a plump star look slim and aging actresses look like young girls—well, almost.

They can erase wrinkles and double chins with cosmetics and elastic chin straps. They can fortify a receding hairline with the discreet use of a small toupee or cover a shock of hair with a hairless wig to simulate baldness.

They can manufacture dust, cobwebs and frost with a spray gun and simulate rain—from sprinkle to typhoon—with a few twists of some handles.

They can turn blazing noon on the studio back lot into the darkest night on the lone prairie merely by unrolling an oversize awning over artificial trees, bushes and plaster-of-paris rocks.

One item, and one alone, re-stits simulation: Beer.

When your favorite hero steps up to the bar in the last chance and demands whisky, he tosses down a tasty belt of cold tea. But if he orders beer, it is certain to be the real thing. No one has found another palatable potion that, when poured, makes a realistic, foamy head.

Preserve the university atmosphere

The president of the Nova Scotia New Democratic Party, speaking at an opening session of the Canadian Union of Students annual meeting at Bishop's University over the weekend, urged a greater involvement in social and political issues by university students and teachers.

In particular, he advocated greater participation by these two groups in the activities of political parties. Dr. James Aitchison then went on to point out how important it is in modern times for political activity to be of the best quality, and for all who have the means to contribute to this quality to do so.

We think his point is well taken. Unfortunately, however, it serves to demonstrate that too often today, the true role of the individual in a university environment is tending to be lost sight of.

University students and teachers (and their high school counterparts, too, for that matter) are being besieged on all sides to take an active part in this, that and the other extra curricular sphere.

They are under pressure, now more than ever, to be practical, contributing members of society even as they are scholars and teachers. Originally, this kind of pressure was designed to counter-part ivory-tower tendencies on the part of the academic community. It was meant to keep the educational processes in balance, so that as a man or woman acquired learning, he also acquired some social maturity. So far, so good. Books and theories alone do not make a well-educated person.

But hasn't the balance swung too far over on the side of action? Isn't it becoming more difficult all the time for a teacher or a student to concentrate chiefly on those very things for which a university exists?

Because it is only in a proper university environment that the average individual has the opportunity to study and to absorb learning on a full-time basis. Generally, the post-graduate world of action affords little time for true study, for true disciplined thought. Everything is participation and action.

The short executive course and the company training plan, geared to specific objectives, have their uses. But they are no substitute for the kind of development a person can achieve in the proper university atmosphere.

Most of those who attend university are participating in a once-in-a-lifetime experience. And those who teach at universities are making it possible. In both cases, valuable contributions can be made to politics and other spheres of social activities even while the university process is continuing.

But at this time these contributions are not the chief goals of a university education, and should not be made to appear so.

PM undertakes 'promising' campaign

Judging from the largesse which Prime Minister Pearson distributed, or promised to distribute, during his non-political tour of British Columbia, Canada better have a general election soon.

During the few days he was in the Coast Province the Prime Minister took time off to pledge his government to provide Vancouver with a new sports arena, under the guise of a building to house agricultural displays, a new airport for the northern section of the province and who knows how many other hand-outs in other areas.

If Mr. Pearson does call an election for this fall, the amount of his pledges will be limited by the time element. To promise more than one undertaking in a single day would be the height of political folly. The voters could not digest them so their value as vote getters would be lost.

Thus he would be restricted to something in the vicinity of 75 to 80 undertakings in a fall campaign.

On the basis of his British Columbia pledges, which ran about two million dollars each, the financial burden for the federal treasury would be between $150,- 000,000 and $200,000,000.

But if Mr. Pearson were to delay the election for two years — 730 days — there could be subsidy promises running as high as two billion dollars, always provided he does not throw a couple of Prince Edward Island causeways to the voters.

This expanded largesse in the field of public works is difficult to reconcile with the cutback ordered by his Government in the construction field recently, which he defended as a means of easing the heavy pressure of the supplies of material and labor.

Just in case the Prime Minister should decide to visit the Eastern Townships between now and the time a general election rolls round, public groups in the district should get together and decide just what they want in their stockings for Christmas.

Perhaps they might revive the century-old plan for canalizing the St. Francis river.

Admittedly it may be impracticable and of no economic benefit to the region but it would be a wonderful boondoggle.

Bygone days

TWENTY YEARS AGO (From the Record of Friday, August 31, 1945)

First day attendance at the Bedford Fair, which opened for a three-day stand yesterday, was much bigger than average, according to officials today. The Fair which is the oldest in the Eastern Townships, is marking its 116th anniversary.

The officials state that exhibits were placed early and that judging in some sections was completed during the afternoon.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO (From the Record of Thursday, August 31, 1950)

Gathering rust for the past nine days because of the nationwide railway strike which completely halted train operations throughout the country — with a very few minor exceptions — rails throughout the Eastern Townships began to resume their accustomed gait today. Trains began to move this morning on a limited basis, less than eight hours after the strike leaders issued their back-to-work order at 10:15 p.m. last evening.

TEN YEARS AGO (From the Record of Wednesday, August 31, 1955)

Three members of the Lennoxville Dead End Gang were placed on strict probation by Judge J. C. Samson of Sherbrooke's Social Welfare Court yesterday.

Sixteen others are slated to appear as the result of the hearing of a youthful gang of thieves that preyed on homes and businesses in Lennoxville over at least a two-year period. All but one — including two girls — are juveniles.

Change in ownership of La Tribune, local French-language daily newspaper, was officially announced today by Senator Jacob Nicol, M.L.C., who has owned and published the paper for many years. Senator Nicol stated that his stock interests in the company, which also controls the two local radio stations and plans the construction of a television station atop Mount Orford, have been purchased by a group headed by Paul Desruisseaux, proprietor of the New Sherbrooke Hotel and of several other large buildings in Sherbrooke, and Alpee Gauthier, for the past several years general manager of La Tribune.

finding a solution of the Vietnam war as long as Sir Robert is at the helm.

The leader of the Federal opposition, Arthur A. Calwell, who has consistently opposed conscription of Australians for military service outside Australian territory, said the Australian government's policy on the Vietnam war was based on false assumptions. "No policy, shot through with falsity as this one is, either achieves or merits success," he said.

In his reply to Sir Robert's press conference, Mr. Calwell said the prime minister had based his whole case on the theory that China had never been persuaded from a career of military conquest throughout Asia and the Pacific.

"For him the Viet Cong exists only as the instrument of Chinese aggression," Mr. Calwell said. "The people of Vietnam and indeed the people of Southeast Asia generally are important only because they represent some sort of buffer against the presumed military threat from China."

Mr. Calwell said Australia could not contribute towards the war at all.

Repeating the letter in a press conference, Sir Robert scorned "pacifists" who would be pleased to see the U.S. withdraw from South Vietnam. Bishop Moyes claims he and the rest of the churchmen who signed the letter to the prime minister were not seeking a withdrawal from Vietnam.

"We are seeking negotiations, and this can only come about if the Americans cease their bombing raids," he said. "It is impossible to get through on the Vietnam situation."

"The prime minister has an extraordinary fixation on Communism and for some reason he believes Chinese Communists will overrun Australia. In fact, according to two American ministers there is no evidence of Chinese in

Over expropriation Quebec to battle federal body

By PAUL DUNN

OTTAWA (CP)—The Quebec government has announced its intention to do battle with the National Capital Commission. Just what sort of opponent is the province taking on?

The commission has yet to lose a legal decision and it has always been on soundest ground on the issue of its right to expropriate property anywhere in Canada. This is the very issue that Quebec is contesting.

Justice Minister Claude Wagner said recently he may personally take his province's arguments against expropriation by the federal agency before the Supreme Court of Canada. The battle is scheduled to begin Sept. 8.

Thus Quebec joins the ranks of litigants who have sallied forth against the NCC. Previous contestants who have fought and lost include the Ontario government, the cities of Ottawa and Hull, Que., and numerous municipalities and private individuals residing in the 1,800-square-mile national capital region.

Mr. Wagner said his case will be based on the earlier expropriation of an Ontario farm in the Green Belt — a specially designated girdle of land around Ottawa in which development is controlled by the NCC.

CONSULTATION DESIRED The Exchequer Court of Canada decided in the earlier case that the federal government has the right to expropriate through the agency of the commission. Quebec will use the same case in the Supreme Court but seek to guarantee "respect of the municipal territory of the city of Hull."

About half the area the commission administers is in Quebec. The Ontario side is heavily built up but the Quebec half, with the exception of Hull with its 60,000 population, is mainly forests and parks.

How did the commission get its authority and what is its task? The National Capital Act—"an act respecting the development and improvement of the national capital region"—provides for appointment of the National Capital Commission.

THE PRAYER FOR TODAY FROM The Upper Room.

Whatsoever ye do in word or deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God and the Father by him. (Colossians 3:17)

PRAYER: Father, we thank Thee for work, however lowly, so long as it is honorable. We want to be co-laborers with Thee. Help our young people to lean heavily upon Thy guidance in their choice of vocation. Show us Thy plan for our lives, and prepare us for the work Thou wouldst have us do. For Jesus' sake. Amen.

Gerald Waring REPORTING

DAWSON CITY, Y.T. — The last time I saw Dawson it was a dejected and dispirited city, full of romance of its past and gloom for its future.

That was in the summer of '63. The Dawson Festival the previous year had laid a monumental egg. The festival organization had a debt of nearly $250,000, and prospects of paying it off seemed slight.

Then, too, the town — its population of 30,000 during Klondike days shrunken to 500 — was living on limited time. The only large industrial employer, Yukon Consolidated Gold Corp. (300 men in summer, 75 in winter) was scheduling a permanent shut-down in 1966 because its huge dredges would then exhaust the workable creek bottom gravel.

When Yukon Consolidated quit, Dawson appeared likely to become completely a ghost town. It would have no economic reason for existence. Long since deprived of its status as territorial capital — government offices were moved to Whitehorse in 1953 — Dawson would be left without even power or water. These are supplied by the gold mining company — power at 10 to 25 cents a KW, and heated water so it won't freeze in the pipes in winter, at $12.50 per house per month.

That was Dawson City two years ago. The romance of '98 was everywhere, in boarded up saloons, hotels, blacksmith shops, in rusted locomotives sitting disconsolately in what passed for the town park, in the stern wheeler moored at the riverfront as a tourist attraction, in the plank sidewalks, and in the old timers who remembered Dawson in its — and their — heydays, men like Black Mike, beard still black at 80-odd, who scorned Yukon Con's claim there was no gold left.

"You're walking on millions," he told me. Dawson is built on a bench of the Yukon River just down stream from the confluence of the Klondike River, the main stem of the gold creeks. And Black Mike believed, logically enough, that nuggets and dust washed down the Klondike over millions of years were under the townsites, overlooked by the '98ers and now irretrievable except at the cost of destroying the city.

What Dawson needed was new industry. High hopes that the tourist industry would supply the need had been dashed by the Festival's poor draw. Dawson seemed just too far from population centres. Socony Mobil had a trailer park at the end of town, headquarters for its oil drilling at Eagle Plain 200 miles north, but as yet not enough oil has been found to give Dawson a future as an oil city. And there was not even much optimism about Cassiar Asbestos activity down river at Forty Mile — people said knowingly that Cassiar would sit on Forty Mile asbestos while it worked out its McDame Mountain mine in British Columbia.

Well, things have changed. The government picked up the tab on the festival deficit. Cassiar is putting in a $14 millions installation at Forty Mile, which will become an economic satellite of Dawson. The government will take over power and water services after Yukon Con goes, putting in a modern plant to replace present worn out equipment. And there are so many people in Dawson this summer that you can hardly find a place to park your trailer or lay your head.

A lot of them are tourists. But a substantial number are prospectors, geologists and mining men spurred by government incentives and Cassiar's example to see if there's more than gold in them thar hills.

Other papers say:

Party interests alone dictate vote

Only party interests and, quite definitely, not national interests could conceivably be served by a decision on the part of Prime Minister Pearson to dissolve Parliament and call for a fall election.

No matter what the current advice from party strategists might be, the important fact is that an election at this time, based on 1952 electoral boundaries, will grossly misrepresent the distribution of Canadian voters.

Early next year, redistribution of seats based on an updated census will be completed. Nothing but a controversial issue of major national importance, requiring a mandate from the people, should be used as a reason for an election in the meantime. As the moment, no such issue exists or appears likely to materialize.

In referring to election talk yesterday, Mr. Pearson expressed the view that it would be no more wrong for him to call an election now than it would be for the opposition groups to cause one by defeating his government when Parliament reconvenes next month. He is quite wrong. No real likelihood exists that the opposition parties will unite at this late date to bring the government down. It is their duty, of course, to defeat the government if a situation arises which demands it. Sufficient of the opposition, however, oppose the idea of an election at this time to make one unlikely.

In any case, Mr. Pearson should not use a hypothetical situation as an excuse for a government initiative in so important a matter. Constituency representation based on the census of fourteen years ago takes no account of the great population shifts which have occurred since then. By the end of the life of another Parliament based on them, four years or so hence, Commons representation would tend to be a mere caricature of the real thing.

What this country needs before another reelection is something in the nature of

Sweetsburg Court

Sentenced to 4 year prison term for breaking, entering, theft

SWEETSBURG WARD — One man was sentenced to a four year prison sentence yesterday morning and a second had his trial set for this Friday when they appeared before the court here on charges of breaking, entering and theft at the home of Miss Vivike Grinstad of Knowlton on March 28. Seven hundred dollars in jewelry and 50 dollars in cash were stolen by five men who broke into the home in the early morning.

Two other men were last week sent to penitentiary while one remains at large, police said.

Antel Guilaffe of Montreal was sentenced to four years yesterday when he pleaded guilty to the charge.

He had a long criminal record, having served a two year sentence for theft beginning in 1952.

When arrested last week police found a loaded weapon hidden in his home, it was learned in court.

Micali Zeppatti of Montreal was given until Friday to acquire a lawyer.

He is being detained in the Sweetsburg Jail in the meantime.

Five men, two of whom were armed with revolvers, entered the Grinstad home by way of a cellar window, between 7 and 8:30 a.m. on March 28 and worked for about an hour attempting to open a safe which they suspected contained $200,000.

They failed in their aim. They then awoke Miss Grinstad and another woman and told her to open the safe. Because she was upset she could not and after spending another half an hour in the house the bandits fled in Miss Grinstad's car. Police found the car abandoned later.

A Montreal man, Patrick Tremblay, was sentenced to 15 days in jail when he pleaded guilty to a charge of impaired driving. He had a long police and court record.

He had been in prison since 1961 on charges of theft, being in possession of narcotics, and other crimes.

Jean Louis Morin, accused of two thefts and possessing an illegal weapon, is presently serving a sentence in St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary. It was learned. His trial was adjourned until next Tuesday.

Gerard Marcoux pleaded guilty to a charge of impaired driving and was sentenced to a fine of $50 and court costs. He committed the offence August 16 at Brome.

Bill Wong of Cowansville pleaded not guilty to a charge of assault and his hearing was adjourned until a later date. Wong is accused of attacking Jacques Briault with a sharp weapon on August 14 and causing bodily injury, police said.

Peter Mosdal of Granby, pleaded guilty to stealing parts of an unused airplane at the Seguin Field in Granby and causing $40 damage to the craft. He was sentenced to a fine of $25 and costs when it was determined that the craft was old and unused.

Mrs. George Marcotte of Clarenceville pleaded guilty to maintaining a gambling house and was sentenced to a fine of $25 and costs. Her equipment was confiscated by police.

Gilles Blanchette of Valcourt pleaded not guilty to a charge of travelling at an illegal speed and crossing a double white line. His trial was set for September 7.

Germain Ducharme of St. Cecile de Milton pleaded guilty to a charge of reckless driving and was sentenced to a fine of $50 and costs. The offence was committed August 15.

Raymond Guay of Lacolle pleaded not guilty to a charge of impaired driving and his trial was set for September 20. The incident occurred at Clarenceville August 22.

Kenneth Farr of Cowansville was sentenced to a fine of $50 and costs upon pleading guilty to a charge of dangerous driving. Police said he was travelling on Route No. 40 at a speed of up to 115 mph. He claimed he was not going more than 75.

Judge Delaney gave him the benefit of a doubt in sentencing him.

Gilles Laporte of Cowansville pleaded not guilty to a charge of disturbing the peace and fighting with George Clement of Cowansville. His trial was set for September 13.

Louis P. Levesseur of Montreal pleaded guilty to a charge of impaired driving and was sentenced to a fine of $50 and court costs. His driving permit was suspended for three months. This was his first such offence. The incident occurred at Cowansville August 27.

Francois Gibeault of Granby pleaded not guilty to a charge of theft. Bail of $950 on property was set. His trial was set for September 7.

He is accused of committing theft with violence upon Donat Chevrier at West Shefford and of stealing $390.

Victor Lachapelle of Stanbridge pleaded not guilty to a charge of having sexual relations with a minor and his hearing was set for Friday morning.

The girl is 14 years of age and he is accused of having relations with her for the last two years. Bail of $500 cash or $950 property was set. Similarly charged was Henri Marion of Stanbridge. He also pleaded not guilty to the charge and is to reappear for his hearing Friday morning.

Guy Moreau of Laval des Rapides pleaded not guilty to four charges of forging false documents for the transfer of cars and his hearing was set for September 20. Bail of $500 cash or $950 property was set.

Lawrence Crandall of Farnham pleaded guilty to a charge of disturbing the peace. He was sentenced to a fine of $25 and costs.

Claude Fournel of Montreal was sentenced to 15 days in prison when he pleaded guilty to the theft of a public telephone from the South Bolton area last June 14. The telephone from the South Bolton Telephone Company at $80.

Alberic Fournel, his brother, was also involved in the affair and his trial is set for September 20.

Says cart put before horse in planning Canada's constitution

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian politicians are putting the cart before the horse in talking about how to amend the constitution before determining what the constitution should be, Hazel Hansard, president of the Canadian Bar Association, said today.

The Montreal lawyer, addressing the association's 47th annual meeting, advised a policy of deliberation in changing the British North America Act and said it could take years to do the job properly.

"While there has been much vague and equivocal talk about amending it," he said, "the only concrete proposals I have seen put forward so far related (A) not to what it should be but to the manner in which it should be amended, and (B) how the spoils should be divided, in the sense of who gets to spend how much of what tax dollar."

"These two things are no doubt important, but the consideration of them first is to my mind putting the cart before the horse. Our main concern should first of all be with what our permanent constitution is to be."

Mr. Hansard says he agrees with a recent statement by Guy Favreau, president of the Privy Council and former justice minister, that no attempt should be made to hurry a new constitution onto the statute books as some sort of 100-year memorial to the old one.

AMPLE TIME NEEDED

"Ample time and due consideration, plus full, reasoned and informed debate must be given to the most important subject any of us will ever have to consider, namely the rules by which we henceforth live in Canada," he said.

"Remember," he said, "that the constitution which we have lived under with such great progress for 100 years can very well serve a few years longer without doing anyone real injustice."

"Discussing national unity, Mr. Hansard took a belt at Quebec separatists. They were of no true consequence and did not represent the views of French-speaking Canada.

His remarks were included in the text of his speech issued to the press before delivery.

Disappearing Christmas tree

Realistic artificial vinyl tree replacing natural old-timer

The natural Christmas tree during the "season to be jolly" is going the way of the Model T. One tree in five sold for the 1965 Christmas season will be of the artificial vinyl variety, says H. Thomas Beck of Toronto, president of Noma Lites Canada Ltd.

Just four years ago, about one tree in 100 was artificial—and looked it. The day is not far off when the realistic artificial tree will replace the Canadian Scotch pine in most homes, says Beck whose firm is Canada's largest manufacturer of artificial trees.

Noma's 150 employees have been in full production, on a two-shift basis, since early January attempting to cope with demand from buyers across the country. The 140,000 square feet of plant has turned out some 32,000 trees so far and is still back-ordered.

Beck, a professional engineer, says the man-made tree's popularity is growing because it's more economical, it can be folded away and used over and over again; it doesn't shed its needles; and above all, it's fire proof.

The trees come in three standard sizes—4½, six and seven feet high—and retail from about $13 to $25. The branches are formed by fitting the bristles to a spirally-wound green enameled wire. These, in turn, branch out from a central "trunk" of wood which is mounted on a metal stand.

Each branch can be pulled out from the trunk and the whole tree fits into a package about three feet high.

Beck and his mother, Mrs.

Theresa Beck, were born in Hungary, spent the war years in England and emigrated to Canada in 1950. Mrs. Beck is Noma's chairman of the board.

They parlayed an investment of $5,700 in an electrical cords company shortly after their arrival into the 1963 purchase of Noma, whose current sales "exceed $3,000,000 a year."

It came as a surprise to the Becks that the Maritimes should prove to be a good market for artificial trees.

"You know, they sell millions of real ones to the U.S. every year," he said. "We thought when they wanted them themselves they just took up a hatchet and went out into the woods."

It didn't turn out that way. East coast orders are only slightly behind the rest of the country.

Today's recipe

Even in the Pacific Northwest, when women give a luncheon party they forget about calories (for that occasion at least) and try to create beautiful desserts. This one, named after a popular hostess in the Bartlett pear country, is worth trying for your own luncheon party.

MARI'S PEAR PETAL DESSERT
(Makes 8 Servings)

1 (1 lb. 13 oz.) can Bartlett pear halves
¾ cup pear syrup
½ cup rice
¼ cup maraschino cherry juice
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon almond flavoring
½ cup chopped maraschino cherries
¼ cup slivered almonds
¼ cup chopped dates
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
Drain pears, reserving ¾ cup syrup in saucepan. Chill pear halves. Add rice, cherry juice, salt and flavoring to syrup in saucepan. Heat to boiling. Stir and reduce heat. Cover and simmer for 15 minutes. Cool. Fold rice, cherries, almonds and dates into whipped cream. Spoon into mold or small bowl. Chill. Turn out on serving plate, encircle with canned pear halves and garnish with whipped cream and maraschino cherries.

Hekley-Mahannah wedding

FRELIGHSBURG—The marriage of Beverly Esther, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Mahannah, of Frelighsburg, to John Hekley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Hekley, of South Bolton, took place recently at the Bishop Stewart Memorial Church, Frelighsburg. Rev. Richard Toase officiated at the ceremony and Mrs. Mark Whitcomb played the wedding music.

The church was decorated with baskets of red roses at the altar and the guest pews marked with rose buds.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of white nylon net over satin, her shoulder length veil was held in place by a coronet of sequins and pearls. Her only jewellery was a necklace and matching earrings and she carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses, lily-of-the-valley and fern.

Miss Geraldine Mahannah, as maid of honor for her sister, wore a light green net over taffeta dress with a matching head dress, white accessories and she carried a nosegay of pink roses and lily-of-the-valley.

Miss Lynn Rhicard, niece of the bride, was the flower girl.

Mr. Irwin Hekley acted as best man and the ushers were Mr. Donald Hekley, brother of the groom, and Mr. Cecil Mahannah, brother of the bride.

The bride's mother wore a two-piece dress of light blue lace over acetate and rayon with white accessories. Her corsage was of pink roses, lily-of-the-valley and fern.

The mother of the groom chose a two-piece green dress with beige accessories and a corsage of white roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Town Hall, attended by about 60 guests. The bride's table was decorated with red roses and a three tier wedding cake, made by Mrs. William Mahannah and decorated by Mrs. M. Boomhower. Lunch was served buffet style.

Later the couple left on a wedding trip to Niagara Falls and Ottawa, Ont., the bride traveling in a two-piece pink linen suit with white accessories. Her corsage was of white roses and fern.

Out of town guests were from Kingston and Lakeview, Ont., Cowansville, East Farnham, Montreal, Bedford, Stanbridge East, Knowlton, Brome, Ile Perrot, Granby, Pigeon Hill and South Bolton.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. Hekley will take up residence at 1907 Bois Francs, Ville St. Laurent.

Set-in sleeves are slender and small collar is overlaid with black velvet. Slender white wool dress with short jacket (right) is by Fernando Bosc for Paul Parnes. Exactly what change?

Leaders agree need of change in courses of nurses basic training, fail in solution

Educational leaders in the nursing profession across Canada agree that basic training courses for nurses need to be changed.

But a Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press shows there is little agreement on exactly what changes should be made and how to make them.

The survey shows that while a high percentage of Canada's nurses are still trained in the traditional three-year hospital school of nursing course, there is growing support for the idea that this type of training is not meeting the needs of the profession.

The major criticism of the hospital school is that students must spend a compulsory amount of time, varying from hospital to hospital, doing apprenticeship work in the wards. In this way, they pay for their nursing education and also help to reduce the cost of staff salaries for the hospitals.

Critics of the hospital school have contended for years that student nurses cannot possibly be well-prepared in their duties if they have to work long hours in hospital wards at what is often described as sheer drudgery rather than actual nursing.

Interest in nursing education is up with publication a year ago of the report of the Hall royal commission on health services.

It recommended the education of two streams of nurses in Canada.

TRAINED FOR TOP JOBS

The first stream, destined for positions as instructors, supervisors, administrators, and other top jobs in the profession, would graduate from a four- or five-year integrated basic university program.

They would eventually fill the 25 per cent of all nursing positions which the Hall report says should be held by university-trained nurses.

The second stream would be graduates of a new type of two-year diploma program and would function as clinical or bedside nurses.

The commission recommended an immediate crash program to expand the existing 14 university schools of nursing, and to create at least 10 more university schools.

These recommendations came as no surprise to most nurses. Some of the changes recommended have been suggested for many years and in some provinces, particularly Ontario and Saskatchewan, two-year diploma courses already have been set up.

Quebec's 42 English and French language hospital schools all offer the traditional three-year program. There is a university school for graduate nurses at McGill University in Montreal.

The three-year course has been standard in Quebec since 1946, but since the Hall report there has been much discussion about developing two-year courses.

The Quebec Association of Nurses has applied to the provincial government for changes in the length and content of the course.

OFFER SHORT COURSES

Newest development in Ontario is the success of four independent schools of nursing which offer two-year courses, and operate under a curriculum established by the 24,000-member Registered Nurses Association of Ontario.

Modelled after the Metropolitan School of Nursing in Windsor which ran experimentally from 1948 to 1952, the four Ontario independent schools now operating are the Nightingale School, the school at Ryerson Institute and Quo Vadis School, all in Toronto, and the Hamilton and District School of Nursing, Ontario hopes to make a similar use of independent schools and eventually replace all three-year courses with two-year programs.

Jean Watt, director of the College of Nurses, says plans in Ontario indicate that hospital schools will eventually be amalgamated with the independent school system.

Independent schools will likely be called "regional" schools, be run by their own boards, be independent financially and use the facilities of all the hospitals in their region.

The University of Manitoba has a new nursing program, started in 1964, which is divided into two parts. There is a four-year course for girls coming out of high school and a two-year plus-two-credits course for registered nurses.

Dr. M. E. Hart, director of the University of Manitoba school, said the education system there anticipated the main recommendations of the Hall report.

No new schools of nursing are being opened in Saskatchewan, but there are hopes that a second baccalaureate program will be established on the Regina campus of the University of Saskatchewan. The university already has a five-year course for nurses at its Saskatoon campus.

In addition to a number of three-year programs run by hospitals, Saskatchewan has a shorter course of two years, with one year internship, to 2½ years.

"The Saskatchewan Registered Nurses Association is getting recruits.

But while the Hall report met with cautious approval from most nursing school directors, they have been following a go-slow policy on changing their education programs or adopting new ones.

The president of the 77,000-member Canadian Nurses Association, Dr. Helen Mussallem of Ottawa, said in an interview: "We're at a point now where we can make great strides, but we don't want to go forward too quickly. Poor planning now could set back the educational progress of the profession for years."

PLANS DEGREE COURSE

This cautious but optimistic mood was reflected in developments across the country.

In Newfoundland, where three hospitals in St. John's operate the only schools of nursing and give the traditional three-year course, Memorial University has announced its plans to start a degree course in nursing in 1966.

Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick, which have a total of 27 hospital schools giving the three-year course, are encouraging more student nurses to enter the five university schools of nursing in the area.

In addition, both New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island nursing associations are making formal studies of their educational systems with a view to recommending changes.

Quebec's 42 English and French language hospital schools all offer the traditional three-year program. There is a university school for graduate nurses at McGill University in Montreal.

The three-year course has been standard in Quebec since 1946, but since the Hall report there has been much discussion about developing two-year courses.

OTTAWA (CP) — First supplementary payment cheques for farmers under their federal dairy support program instituted this year were mailed Monday, Agriculture Minister Hays announced.

QUEBEC (CP) — Dr. Alphonse Couturier, Quebec health minister, said Monday that only one case of polio resulting in death has been registered in the province since last Jan. 1.

He said this is the result of vast anti-polio vaccination campaign undertaken by the Quebec health department in October, 1963.

During the full year 1963 there were 112 victims of polio, of whom 17 died.

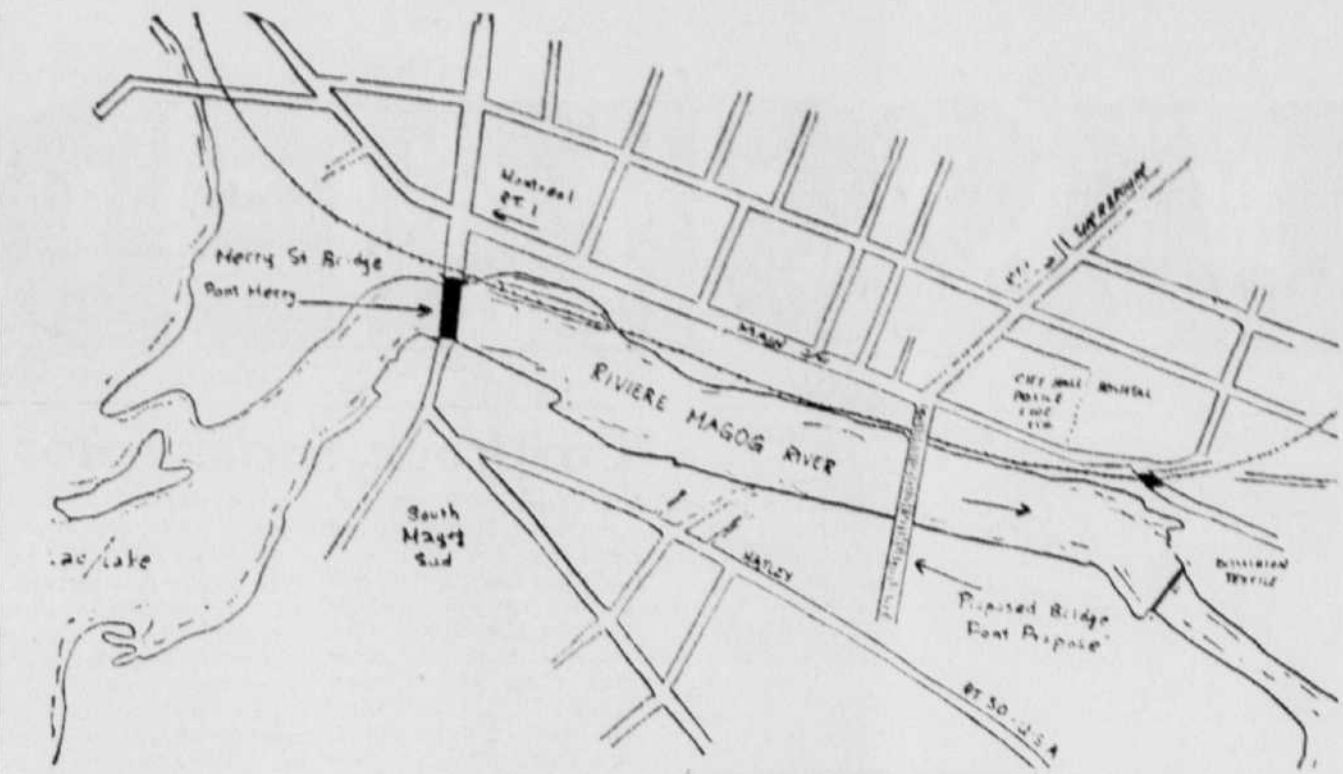

The minister's statement said the only polio death so far this year was that of a young mother who, despite all facilities now offered the public, was never vaccinated against the disease.

OTTAWA (CP) — Special Christmas stamps, designed by Toronto artist Helen Fitzgerald, will be issued Oct. 13, the post office announced Monday.

The stamps, in three and five-cent denominations, will feature a symbolic design of the traditional gifts of gold, frankincense and myrrh. The three-cent stamp will be green, the five-cent one blue.

The post office said Miss Fitzgerald's design was selected to "underscore the continuing ideals and celebrations of Christmas."

MAGOG BRIDGE PROMISED

Magog's mayor, Gerard Laurendeau has stated that a new bridge over the Magog River is assured before the end of 1967, if not before.

The proposed crossing will begin at the intersection of Main and Sherbrooke Streets connecting to Hatley Street and Route 50 in Magog South.

Presently there are two bridges across the Magog River, but only one connects with the South section of the city, and that bridge on Merry Street is frequently blocked by trains or severe traffic congestion.

People in the southern part of the city favor the proposed bridge for various reasons, the main ones being convenience of police and fire service, and access to the local hospital.

Authorities have pointed out that the Merry Street Bridge is the only link from highway route 50 to route 1, accounting for the excessive flow of traffic through the centre of Magog.

The suggested new bridge would direct route 50 traffic along Sherbrooke Street to route 1 and the Eastern Townships Autoroute more conveniently, eliminating a large portion of travel through largely residential areas.

Also, it was pointed out, with the relocating of the city's police and fire station, residents in Magog's southern section are facing even greater hazards from the lack of these services, as fire engines, police cars or ambulances would have to travel through the city's main business district, plus face possible waiting at the Merry Street bridge before reaching their destination in the southern portion of the community.

Cubs camp out

The Lovering Lake Boy Scout camping area was the site of the Annual Sherbrooke District Sixers' Camp Holiday last weekend.

Sixteen of the older Cubs from seven Packs despite unsettled weather conditions, had a busy, but happy tenting experience.

The Camp Chief, District Cubmaster Richard Tracy, stated if anything, the rainy weather spurred on the Cubs to pass tests. The boys huddled in the shelters with their leaders and passed 20 Badge Tests and 68 individual Scout Star requirements.

No fewer than 12 Scouters helped Mr. Tracy at various times. The Cubs and Leaders slept in tents and dined in the Cub Hut. This building was invaluable during rainy periods.

The Campfire activities were organized by Bill Coupland on Friday and Peter Verlinde on Saturday. On Sunday morning Bill Coupland officiated at a Cubs' Own service. The Saturday swimming activities were in charge of Ken Edgcombe.

Almost every leader had a hand in the cooking chores. A variety of games were played, and some of the Cubs passed cooking tests around an outdoor fireplace.

Packs represented were the First, Third, Fifth and Seventh Sherbrooke, First and Second Lennoxville and Waterville.

Should comment on policies

Keeping Canada affluent said responsibility of businesses

TORONTO (CP) — Industrialists were told today that they created an affluent Canada and have the right and responsibility to make sure it stays that way.

H. B. Style of Toronto, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, said industrialists have a "clear obligation" to make known their views on government policies.

"Judicious enough to be heard not only in Ottawa, but across the land," governments, after all, come and go, but the essential economic strength of this country and the very foundation of its wealth are the enterprises and industries whose profitable operations underpin our standard of living.

Canada's elaborate social services are not the least manifestation of this, he said. Mr. Style told a director's luncheon of the Canadian National Exhibition the first half of the 1960s was a period of notable economic advance for Canada because of high industrial productivity, massive capital investments and labor-management harmony.

Threatening this rise in affluency is an excessive reliance on foreign-made goods and an under-educated labor force, he said. In the last six years, industry had provided 1,000,000 additional jobs for Canadians, and there was every indication that the 1965 Gross National Product will pass the $50,000,000,000 mark for the first time in Canada's history.

HAS GOOD EFFECT Mr. Style said that for most Canadians this has meant not only higher wages but also a significant increase in consumer purchasing power. It had also made possible federal legislative action in the field of hospital insurance, a national C. of C. . .

recommandable mais peut-être tolérable" (not recommendable but perhaps tolerable). Council did not appear ready to grant Mr. Lacroix the right to build five feet over the street allowance but the two-foot distance, suggested by Mayor Nadeau, was accepted.

Council set aside, for the moment at least, a request that a discotheque (dancing establishment for young people) be set up at 116 Wellington Street South.

Montreal discotheques attract young people from 16 to 20 and are usually open from 5 p.m. to 2 a.m., a city official reported.

Mayor Nadeau dismissed the request saying that council had enough problems with out the dance-club.

Council asked for a report on the cost of installing two water meters for the University of Sherbrooke instead of the 10 it has now.

The reduction would decrease the amount the university pays for water.

Lots of people seem to think that Bell is a foreign-owned company.

What's foreign about Mrs. Reed of Oshawa?

Bell is owned — by far the biggest part of it, anyway — by people like Margaret Reed.

When we counted up recently, there were some 208,000 Bell shareholders. Over 203,000 of them were Canadian residents. And altogether, they held 93.6% of the total shares. That's how it has been for a good many years now. So if some people think Bell is foreign-owned — well, they'd better not let Mrs. Reed, or any of those 203,000 other Canadians hear them say so.

Four chartered aircraft and others will be on hand to cheer Canada's Armbrro Flight in 40th Hambletonian

DU QUOIN, Ill. (CP)—Canadian traffic at Wednesday's $122,245 Hambletonian trotting classic here has never been greater.

Four chartered aircraft, and countless other Canadians travelling by car, will produce a Canadian rooting section of several hundred when Armbrro Flight, owned and bred by Elgin, Ted and Charles Armstrong, all of Brampton, Ont., faces 10 other three-year-old trotters in the 40th edition of the world's best-known harness horse race.

Four native Canadians, including Joe O'Brien of Alberton, P.E.I. who trains and drives Armbrro Flight, have horses in this Hambletonian, Ralph Baldwin, a native of Lloydminster, Sask. drives Nimble Boy for Castleton Farm of Lexington, Ky.; Clint Hodgins of Clatskanie, Ore., who recovered from a serious spill a month ago, drives Perfect Freight for A.B.C. Stable of New York and Johnny Chapman, a native of Toronto, will pilot Poplar James for Arin Stable and Silver Pine Acres of New York and Pompano Beach, Fla.

No pre-race odds are posted for one simple reason. There is no betting on the Hambletonian or other races conducted during the week of Grand Circuit here.

If there were, odds would be even money or less on Kenneth Owen's Noble Victory with a price of about 3- or 4-to-1 on the Canadian horse, the lone filly in this field. Both Noble Victory and Armbrro Flight are unbeaten in all earlier races this year. In 1964 Noble Victory had a record of 18 wins in 19 starts, his one loss coming here in the Castleton Stake when he finished third to Marengo Hanover and Victory Cadet, two of tomorrow's field.

Armbrro Flight last season earned $107,452 off 20 wins in 26 starts and this year has earned $77,180 off 12 consecutive wins.

DOUBTS HE WILL WIN
In Toronto last Saturday where he was officially installed in Canada's sports Hall of Fame for his contributions in harness racing, O'Brien doubted he could beat Noble Victory.

"This is a tough, good race horse and I'll be happy if the filly and I can get second or third money," the 48-year-old Prince Edward Islander said. Sunday's draw for post positions didn't help the Canadian cause, either. Armbrro Flight drew the 10th post while Noble Victory, trained and driven by Stanley Dancer of New Egypt, N.J., drew the No. 6 post.

While the post position for the first heat of the best-of-three heat affair decidedly handicaps O'Brien's champion filly she could earn a better post for the second heat with a good effort. Post positions for the second heat are determined by where each horse finishes in the first heat.

Peter Turner fires 71 in qualifying round of Canadian Junior Golf play, Quebec team in fourth, 323 total

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP)—A young golfer who could not make his provincial team is the leader after the first 18 holes of the 36-hole qualifying round in the Canadian Junior golf championships.

Peter Turner, an 18-year-old from Toronto Summit, was the only one in a field of 156 to break par Monday over the 6,600-yard Brantford Golf and Country Club.

Turner shot a one-under-par 71 to take a two-stroke lead over Wayne McDonald of Milton, Ont., and John Souter of Calgary.

The second 18 holes of the qualifying round today will determine the interprovincial team champions and the 64 golfers who will continue in match play for the individual title starting Wednesday.

Four-man teams from eight provinces and a combined entry from New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island are competing for the team title.

Turner was eliminated in an area preliminary tournament in Toronto earlier this summer. He did not advance to the Ontario junior championship where the provincial team was chosen.

CARDER FIVE BIRDIES
Turner was one below par on the front nine Monday and even par on the back nine despite going two over on the 17th and one over on the 18th. He carded five birdies.

Even without Turner, Ontario compiled an aggregate score of 315 to take a two-stroke margin over Alberta at the halfway point in the team event.

Five strokes behind Alberta was Manitoba with Quebec in fourth place another stroke back. The New Brunswick Prince Edward Island team, paced by Pierre Rossignol of Bathurst, N.B., with a 74, was fifth with 326. British Columbia followed with 332 and defending champion Saskatchewan was seventh with 340.

NICKLAUS STILL TOPS ON PGA MONEY LIST

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP)—Jack Nicklaus, who finished out of the money in Sunday's American pro classic for the first time in his pro career, still is far ahead of the field in winnings, with $138,633 this year.

Case leaves the battlefield

WHO'S GOING TO DO THIS NOW? — With the retirement today of Casey Stengel as manager of the New York Mets, this old argumentative glamor that brought chuckles to the baseball fans is going to be hard to replace. At left is Casey, way back in 1955, when he had hard words and a raised fist under the nose of umpire John Flaherty. At right, in a more recent picture, and as manager of the Mets, Casey, (OLD 37), hands in back pockets, walks toward the mound for a word with a pitcher. (AP Wirephoto)

Ticats and Argos face tough jobs tonight

Two clubs angling for the top spots in their respective conferences meet in one Canadian Football League game in the West to night while another game pits the EFC cellar-dwellers against the WFC cellar-dwellers.

Hamilton Tiger-Cats, tied with Ottawa Rough Riders for first place in the Eastern Football Conference, take on Saskatchewan Roughriders, one point behind the leaders in the West, at Regina.

At Edmonton, the Eskimos meet Toronto Argonauts, a club head coach Bob Shaw says has been growing "progressively worse."

Shaw is the man who heightened Saskatchewan's reputation as a Cinderella team when he was head coach there in 1963 and 1964 and fashioned a series of great comeback victories.

Jake Gaudaur, manager of the Hamilton club, is one man who would like Saskatchewan's Cinderella reputation to go away.

FEEL SORRY
"When our clubs in Canada quit thinking Regina is too poor to afford good players — they have many of the best — and quit feeling sorry for them, we might start beating them more often," Gaudaur said prior to tonight's game.

"They're amazing. But poor!" Saskatchewan, which handed the WFC-leading Winnipeg Blue Bombers their first defeat of the season Wednesday, have five imports on the injured list — halfbacks Sherman Lewis and Ed Buchanan, tackle Dick Schnell, defensive end Nat Dye and linebacker Bob Ptacek.

Roughriders coach Eagle Keys hasn't decided whether to start Bob Good or Rocky Cameron, both of whom are just recovering from injuries, at halfback.

Keys said Wilton Manley, a Toronto player, is expected to return to the team.

Earlier on the day of Killebrew's baseline accident, ace pitcher Camilo Pascual underwent surgery on his pitching arm for torn muscles.

Twins didn't weaken after losing Killebrew and Pascual, now hold seven game lead as others take over

Remember Harmon Killebrew? The Twins were in trouble. Or so they thought. The other alleged contenders should be in such trouble.

Of 29 games since then, Minnesota has won 18 for a .621 percentage. That's slightly less than its over-all mark of .632.

Two major reasons why the Twins have maintained their comfortable margin are Al Worthington and John Klippstein, a pair of elderly relief pitchers.

Both pitched Monday night, shutting out the Tigers on three hits in the final five innings. They didn't walk anyone and struck out seven as Klippstein earned his seventh victory in 10 decisions.

The Twins won in the 11th when Don Mincher singled, was sacrificed to second and raced home as Sandy Valdespino lined a two-out single off Larry Sherry.

Mincher singled across the Twins' first run in the sixth inning after Hank Aguirre had held Minnesota hitless. Zoilo Versalles knocked in a seventh-inning run with a single while Willie Horton singled in both Detroit runs.

In the only other game played, New York Yankees defeated Los Angeles Angels 4-2. Rain washed out Cleveland at Kansas City.

Canada gets gold medal on net win
TEL AVIV (CP) — Canada gained its first gold medal and added two third-place bronze medals to its meagre total on the second-last day of competition at the seventh World Macabiah Games.

Vicki Berner of Vancouver earned the first-place medal in the women's tennis singles, defeating Esme Emanuel of South Africa 6-4, 6-4 in the best-of-three set final match.

The 21-year-old brunette, who has competed at Wimbledon and at a previous Macabiah—dubbed the Jewish Olympics—appeared in total command in the first set but had to rally under strong pressure from Miss Emanuel to close out the match.

Final series tonight

Fantuzzi, McWhorter leave Drummondville
DRUMMONDVILLE (Staff)—Granby Cardinals may have the edge over Drummondville Royals in the final series of the Provincial Baseball League, which begins this evening in Granby.

It was announced by the Drummondville Royals Baseball Club that two players, Al Fantuzzi, and Sam McWhorter, were forced to leave the club, due to other commitments.

Al Fantuzzi, playing regularly in left field for the Royals, will return to his abode in West Orange, New Jersey, to take up a position as teacher for the course of studies.

Sam McWhorter will also return to the United States, but will be serving Uncle Sam, as he begins his military service this week. The third baseman has proven a value to his club during the season and his absence will be felt in the field against Granby tonight.

Drummondville, who started in the quarter-finals of the eliminations by upsetting Plessisville Braves, and then dropping Acton Vale, will be out for their second consecutive league title, as they were playoff champions for 1964.

As for the Granby Cardinals, after clinching the 1965 league title, chances are good in their camp for the playoff title and a sweep of the league's honors, after the first nine-entry circuit.

With top sluggers backing them up, Granby will be forceful on the mound, having Elias and Pietrewicz, while the Royals can throw Andy Occhiero, or Jete Cianfani.

Second game in the best of seven final series gets underway here Wednesday evening.

National League race for pennant very close as all clubs head into September stretch, LA still tops
The National League pennant race moves into the fateful September stretch tonight with a crowd of contenders and no trace of a take-charge club.

Flag fever is running high in half a dozen cities but nobody has started printing World Series tickets. And when Ernie Banks makes a pitch for his eighth-place Chicago Cubs, he does it with a straight face.

"Even if you're a mathematician, you can't say we're out of it," Banks said after slamming 14-9, goes against Dodger case two home runs in a 10-2 victory over slumping Milwaukee Braves last Sunday.

The Cubs, in fact, are 13 games out of it but they'll remain alive as long as the leaders continue to mark time. Five teams are within 6 1/2 games of first-place Los Angeles yet none has been able to take advantage of the Dodgers' second-division pace since Aug. 15.

On that date the Dodgers were 1 1/2 games ahead of the second-place Braves. They have dropped nine of 15 starts since and still lead runner-up San Francisco Giants by 1 1/2 games.

Warren Spahn, 6-15, and Ron Herbel, 8-7, are scheduled to pitch for the Giants against 16-game winner Jim Bunning and fourth. The Giants are 8-7 and spot starter Lew Burdette.

NEW YORK (AP) — Yogi Berra, fired as manager by New York Yankees last year, may become the manager of New York Mets next year.

The dramatic but hardly unexpected resignation of Casey Stengel Monday, effective at the end of the season, left the door open for Berra to take charge of the National League cellar-dwellers in 1966.

There is always the possibility that the job will be given to Wes Westrum, who has served ably as interim manager of the Mets during Stengel's month-long absence.

Most observers believe, however, that Westrum, short of pulling a miracle like bringing the Mets home in ninth place, will be returned to his bullpen duties next year with Yogi elevated from his present job as first-base coach.

The Mets' front office, delighted by the huge crowds flocking to Shea Stadium all year, felt they must have a colorful leader following in Stengel's footsteps. Berra represents that image and Westrum does not.

AWAY SINCE JULY 24
Stengel has not managed the Mets since July 24, when he fell and fractured his left hip. Although an operation was successful, Casey has been confined to a wheelchair, occasionally allowed to walk with the use of a cane.

His decision to quit came on the advice of Dr. Peter LaMotte, the club physician who performed the successful operation.

It was not until last Wednesday that Casey finally won his mind and broke the news to George Weiss, the club president. Stengel's decision ends a career that started in 1910 when he broke into professional baseball as a left-handed outfielder for Kankakee.

He was a good major league outfielder for 14 seasons, compiling a .284 lifetime average and playing with Brooklyn, Pittsburgh, New York Giants, Philadelphia Phillies and Boston.
