

$334,800 Still Needed For Loan Objective

Stirring Appeal by Provincial Treasurer to Back the Attack

Hon. J. A. Mathewson, Provincial Treasurer, broadcasts over CBM Direct from Huntingdon Reception Tendered Guests of Honor at the Chateau

The first public gathering in Huntingdon in support of the Fourth Victory Loan Campaign, in Huntingdon, took place on Sunday, when a special broadcast was organized and originated from this point, with the Hon. J. A. Mathewson, K.C., Provincial Treasurer, as the speaker.

Prior to the broadcast a parade consisting of the following was taken through a number of the principal streets of town: Miss Alberta Braithwaite on horseback; the Valleyfield Band of 30 members; Canadian Legion and Color Party, 17 members; C.A. (B.) T. C. No. 41, 76 members; C.A. (B.) T. C. No. 41 Jeeps; Huntingdon High School Cadets, 20 members; Boys of St. Joseph's School, 83 members; Red Cross bearers; the Mayor and Aldermen of Huntingdon and Victory Loan Officials. While this parade was in progress, the Hon. J. A. Mathewson was in the town, where he was originally intended. Mr. George Dixon, who was in charge of arrangements for the parade, was disappointed at the last minute in not being able to obtain the barracks' military band and the Malcom Boys' Band. He had this all arranged on Tuesday of last week, when word was received from Montreal that the military band and a number of soldiers were to take part in the parade there. From Montreal came word that the barracks were not opening and it would be impossible to get the Boys' Band together. Thus it was that Mr. Dixon had to go over the whole ground again and obtain substitutes. However, the parade was a success and Mr. Dixon was congratulated on overcoming the difficulties.

Immediately following the parade, the citizens began assembling at O'Connor Theatre for the highlight of the afternoon, the broadcast. The theatre was well filled and the audience was not disappointed with the programme arranged for them. Previous to Mr. Mathewson going on the air, a news picture of the town, including some close-ups of the Nazi submarine base in France, Lorient. The broadcast was prefaced by an introduction by Mr. A. L. Lunn, joint chairman with Mr. J. O. McMichael of the Huntingdon County Victory Loan committee, who welcomed all present and introduced the various persons on the platform with him. These were George Paul, County Warden; Hon. J. A. Mathewson, Provincial Treasurer; Capt. W. Wright and Mayor W. E. S. McNair.

Two members of the CBM staff were present to look after the hook-up and the address was given over CBM Montreal, with Mr. Bowman as announcer. The announcer gave a few opening remarks regarding Huntingdon and the purpose of the broadcast and Mr. Mathewson began his address, which was as follows:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN: It is particularly gratifying to have this opportunity of again speaking to you, the people of the County of Huntingdon, because you have allowed me to come back and speak to you again.

On the previous occasion the subject I had to deal with was of a contented nature, but the present is a happier occasion, because there can be no division of opinion concerning the willpower of the county in the afternoon—the Fourth Victory Loan of Canada!

It may seem strange that I should come to urge you good people to do even better than you did in the previous years, but I know you are doubly determined to know this County ranks as one of the leading districts in the Province and probably in the whole Dominion in its per capita contribution to the previous loans; but that is the way of the world, and you are expected to do better, and it is wise that it should be so.

It is to you, then, as one of the leading communities in Quebec that I address myself and ask you individually and collectively to subscribe to the Fourth Victory Loan of Canada—to subscribe until it hurts!

The reasons why we all must do our part are, in a sense, obvious, but I wonder if all of you have reflected on one aspect of the Victory Loan, namely, its consolidating effect on the willpower of the county. It is the consolidation of our will to victory.

I have heard it said sometimes that a small contribution of an individual can scarcely be expected to tip the scales of victory; that the subscription of a few dollars cannot in and of itself do anything to strengthen our side in the battle for freedom.

That is a fundamental error, a great mistake. Not only is every small contribution precious in itself; it is precious because it helps to buy cartridges or bandages or shells or food. Even more important than the direct material value of each contribution is the spiritual value of such a gesture.

Everyone should deprive himself of something in order that the equivalent money may be diverted directly to the war. A dollar bill is not a spiritual thing, but the exercise of will power that makes us refrain from spending the dollar on something we want and turning that dollar to the support of our boys overseas is an act fraught with tremendous spiritual significance.

When we are building a house, every brick counts. More than that, we know the old practice used by masons in mixing mortar. Into the mixture the old masons used to add a quantity of hair. The purpose for which the hair was put in the mortar was to act as a binder; each hair

Makes False Declaration To Customs—Is Fined

Mr. William S. Hawkins, of Hemmingford, appeared before Magistrate Regnier, at Valleyfield, on Thursday morning, to answer to two accusations brought against him by the Foreign Exchange Bureau, with regards to false declarations made to the Canadian Customs, during a recent trip to the United States.

The first accusation was that of having declared to the Customs that he had only four dollars in his possession when he tried to enter the U.S. On investigation, it was found that he had $75.07 in Canadian currency, and seventy-one cents in American money.

On the second charge, he was accused of having too much money in his possession while crossing the lines. As is known, any Canadian entering the United States from Canada signs a card that he has no more than five dollars in his possession.

On the first accusation Mr. Hawkins was fined $25, and on the second he was fined $50, and costs. Cpl. A. Cahill, R.C.M.P., Hemmingford, investigated the case.

The Foreign Exchange Bureau is very severe with regard to cases of this kind, and one does well to conform with the regulations of the law when crossing the border.

Urges Potato Culture Be Increased

R. J. M. Reid Gives Talk to Victory Garden and Garden Club Committees

At the meeting of Victory Garden committee and Garden Club held in the County Bldg., on Tuesday evening, Mr. R. J. M. Reid informed those present that this year we ought to take the matter of potato culture seriously. Last year a quantity of potatoes in the Maritime Provinces were processed so that the dehydrated product could be reduced to a small packet for export to Britain. The dehydrated potatoes worked so successfully, that this year the processing of potatoes in the Maritime provinces will be carried out on a large scale. Mr. Reid pointed out that the Province of Quebec should increase its potato yield 20% over the 1942 crop. The 1942 crop of potatoes in Quebec Province was considerably larger than it was in 1941. Mr. Reid recommended that people plant potatoes, even if soil land must be used. In so planting, have the land plowed as early as possible and plant the potatoes in every third furrow when the plowing is being done. It is not advisable to harrow the land at that moment, but wait until the potatoes are shooting and then have the land harrowed. From that date on the land can be cultivated. The crop of potatoes will not be as large as though the land had been harrowed for such crops in previous years, but it will yield a profitable one, and better than if the land is now plowed and harrowed, making it impossible to plant the seed before the middle of June.

Many of our ardent forces and our Merchant Marines have paid the full last price of their devotion; they have laid down their lives for you and me. Are we to say their sacrifice has been in vain? Will we not each in our own sphere, do all that we can to further the cause for which they died? Will we not back the attack that is to come with our last dollar and every ounce of the energy that is in us?

During the last year the popular slogan was "keep the home fires burning." At this time, when we are engaged in the Fourth Victory Loan campaign, that slogan has a new significance; it means keep the home fires burning in the munition factories, in the gun factories, in the aeroplane factories and in the shipyards; it means keep the wheels of industry turning to produce more shells, more ships, more guns, more planes.

We, with our money, can help to do that. We, by subscribing our money, can do something; but it is not only in the factories of the land that the war is to be won; it is in any degree less important to cultivate the land, to produce more and better crops, to make available to our own men and to our allies the things they need. An hour's work in the fields is a prayer for victory.

I ask you to do three things: pray for victory, work for victory, subscribe for victory!

After the broadcast, Mr. Mathewson addressed the audience in the French language and made a few more remarks in English during which time he likened the Nazis and the Japs to two forces of evil trying to close the Allies in a pincers-like grip and crush them out of existence. It was against these forces of evil that we must fight and look to spiritual guidance from God. Therefore we must pledge our money to buy Victory Bonds and buy all we can.

Mr. Lunn told the audience that the results of the drive to Saturday night were good and not so good. There were three weeks in which to raise the sum of $335,000 and that so far only $150,000 had been subscribed. He felt that if a third had been raised, there might be a chance of getting another third this week and the final third in the final week. At it was, it would mean that a greater effort would have to be made and people would have to dig deeper down to raise the objective set for the drive.

Mr. Mathewson said he was pleased to extend a welcome to the guest speaker on behalf of the Town of Huntingdon.

Mr. McNair thanked the Hon. J. A. Mathewson for sacrificing his time to be present at Huntingdon on behalf of the Fourth Victory Loan campaign, and for the people of the Town and County. He also expressed the hope that the Town would have the pleasure of again meeting with Mr. Mathewson at some future date if the occasion arose. Mr. Mathewson said he was very pleased to be in Huntingdon.

"Why did you leave your last job?" "Illness."

"What sort of illness?" "My boss said he got sick of me."

For your boy and mine . . .

One of these nights soon, when darkness cloaks the enemy shores, your son and mine will be peering into the gloom, waiting nervously for the whispered signal to attack.

Our sailors will be there, manning the invasion fleet, ready for the screeching, diving enemy bombers. Our fighter pilots will be dressed for battle, ready for the grimmest test of air strength the war has yet developed.

Our boys who, not so long ago, sang in Sunday school, poked nickles into juke boxes, sat on the store steps on Saturday nights, fixed the broken board in the cottage dock, and walked arm in arm with the girl from a movie, are face to face now with death.

While their hearts and minds and bodies are steeled to the job of wiping out the cruel foe, does anyone believe for a moment that in that hour of waiting they will not be thinking about the scenes of yesterday?

Fully aware of the danger they face, that this great adventure may bring them to the end of the road and a soldier's grave, their thoughts will inevitably turn back for a moment or two to you and to me. They will have brief misgivings, little fears tugging at their heart-strings, a sudden mental question-mark as they wonder what we are doing in Canada at that moment and whether we are thinking about them.

Oh that we could miraculously appear beside them at that moment, grip their hands and say "Good luck, my boys!" If they were only some way, we say, to make them feel that we are standing behind them in spirit at least!

And yet we have just such an opportunity now. Let's not overlook this certainly, that if each of us buys all the Victory Bonds he can during the next two weeks, if we push up above that billion and one objective, the news of it will be a heartening message to your boy and mine. They will know our hearts are in the right place, that the money we put up assures them all the reserves they are going to need.

Let's make the Fourth Victory Loan a rousing cheer for our boys overseas, a message of encouragement to them at the hour of attack.

Fined For Possession of Matches in D.I.L. Plant

On April 28, Ferdinand Desrosiers, 32 Montclair street, Valleyfield, appeared before Magistrate A. Regnier, of that city, on a charge laid by the Huntingdon detachment of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, under section 38 A (1) Defence of Canada Regulations, for possession of matches at Defence Industries Ltd., Nitro, Que.

Desrosiers pleaded guilty and was fined $50, and costs or 15 days in jail.

J. H. Ferns Dies At Age 89

Was Well-known in This District—Active in the Masonic Order

J. Hamilton Ferns, for 37 years in the service of the City of Montreal who retired in 1924 as chairman of the Board of Assessors, died on Wednesday last in his 89th year at his residence, 3801 Harvard avenue, Montreal.

He was born on June 24, 1854, in Montreal and was educated at the British-Canadian School, and later attended the Panet street Protestant school, both of that city. His father died when he was ten years of age, and he, being the eldest, had to leave school and go to work, as there were others in the family to be cared for. He educated himself in many ways, learning to speak French and Italian as well as English, which he needed in his line of work. He was very fond of music, and played, self-taught, the violin, saxophone, clarinet and other instruments by note.

It was first intended that young Ferns become a notary. He was sent to work in an office but Ferns wanted to learn a trade, so he became an apprentice to a tinsmith and heating contractor and ultimately went into business for himself.

While conducting his business, Mr. Ferns became interested in real estate and the possibilities of city development.

His first connection with Montreal City Hall came when he was retained as a valuation expert. He started evaluating in 1892. In 1896, he joined the city administration staff as an assessor, and retired January 1, 1933.

Among his social activities, he found time for his obligations as a member of the Masonic craft, and was a Pastmaster of Concordia Lodge, A.F. & A.M. No. 114, Montreal. He made several visits to Chateauguay Lodge, No. 36 Q.R., A.F. & A.M., both officially and unofficially, where he was always welcome.

James Hamilton, as he was called by his intimates, spent about twelve summers in Dewittville, in the Charle-McNatissois area, from the first of May until October, each year, he commuted by train five days between Dewittville and Montreal.

He liked horses very much and always kept a good driving horse and a miniature race carriage. He also took great pride in his flower and vegetable garden. Mr. Ferns' greatest hobby was photography.

Everyone who knew Mr. Ferns spoke of him as a self-made man, and it can be truly said that this gentleman lived a good life in every sense of the word and will be greatly missed by his many friends and acquaintances.

Mr. Ferns was married to Margaret Elizabeth Fraser of Montreal on May 17, 1876, and they celebrated the diamond jubilee of their wedding in 1936. His wife died two years ago.

He leaves two sisters, Mrs. Frederick Peavee and Mrs. William Wilfrid Fraser of Montreal, and one brother, Robert Allen, of Toronto, and four nephews.

Among those who attended the funeral, which was held in Montreal on Friday, were Messrs. Harry Holliday and Robert Milne, of Dewittville, and A. A. Lunn, of Huntingdon.

$200,200 Subscribed up to Tuesday at Noon

Chateauguay Barracks Has Fine Showing Having Subscribed $40,500 as 90% of Quotient Completed

The results for the first week of the Fourth Victory Loan campaign up to noon on Tuesday, are not as good as could be expected, the total amount raised in subscription for the entire County of Huntingdon is $200,200, of this amount more than a fifth was raised at Chateauguay Barracks among the soldiers quartered there. The civilian population has raised the sum of $159,700 while the soldiers have raised $40,500 to date.

The total of the objective for this county set at $335,000, the amount raised over 37% has been raised to date, this means that the greater part of the objective is still to be subscribed. There is less than two weeks left to raise the sum of $334,800 but more may have to be subscribed by the civilian population than has been so far, or the objective will not be reached in the balance of time left for the campaign. This is on the assumption that the amount of $159,700 is the average sum to be raised each week of the campaign. The Victory Loan Committee is very anxious that every effort be made to subscribe to the campaign and that Bonds be bought in as large a denomination as possible by each and every subscriber, so that the Huntingdon County can reach its objective in the time allotted. While the committee is pleased at the results obtained so far, they really expected it to be better. Salesmen are urged to make every effort to see every man in their respective districts and explain to them the urgent necessity of purchasing Victory Bonds to Back the Attack.

The following are the results achieved throughout the County of Huntingdon:

Montreal Cottons Employees Oversubscribe Objective; Hope to Reach $165,000

2260 Victory Bonds Purchased by the Employees of This Institution—Objective Was $157,500—Result Causes Great Surprise Among Employees and Officials

Montreal Cottons Limited, Valleyfield, announced on Tuesday afternoon that the employees of this company had reached their objective of $157,500 for Canada's Fourth Victory Loan campaign. Not satisfied with this timely result, the Victory Loan salesmen at the Montreal Cottons hope to reach the $165,000 mark.

It is the belief of the officials of the company that the Montreal Cottons is the first company in the district to have reached its objective in this short period of time, as far as the employees are concerned.

Shortly before the Fourth Victory Loan campaign opened in Canada, Montreal headquarters had asked the Montreal Cottons employees to subscribe to the special prizes which either in victory bonds or war savings certificates. This objective has been surpassed, to the great satisfaction of employees and employers.

The objective of $157,500 represents 2260 victory bonds. These were purchased from practically all the employees on the payroll of this company. A striking example of what one citizen can do in such circumstances was narrated at headquarters this week. An employee was approached to subscribe to this new bond issue. He willingly contributed $100; a few days later he was asked to increase his subscription and immediately forwarded the salesman a cheque amounting to $400.

A day elapsed and the same salesman was approached by the same employee who wanted to buy another $400 bond, thus loaning Canada $800, so that it could successfully pursue this conflict.

It is also well to mention that many employees who have been on the payroll less than one year subscribed willingly and in as large amounts as possible to the Fourth Victory Loan.

To create more interest and enthusiasm among the employees a miniature race trace with six horses was erected thus giving the employees an opportunity to see how the campaign progressed during the last ten days. This idea proved to be a great stimulant.

The employees of this company are to be congratulated on reaching this objective.

"Only a mother can know what it means to have someone caring for a beloved son in prison camp." That is the comment of one Canadian mother on the work of the Canadian Red Cross in sending thousands of parcels to our prisoners of war.

Writing from Italy, 68 South African prisoners of war said that the contents of parcels sent by the Canadian Red Cross are "what our bodies have been craving."

Kensington Dairies Limited is the new name for Mr. Wilfrid Faubert's business which has been operating under the name of Kensington Creamery. Mr. Faubert has sold his business out to the new company. The new company has been capitalized as a $500,000 corporation, with $300,000 paid up.

Mr. Richard Straus will fill the position as plant and sales manager whilst Mr. Faubert will be retained as the local plant manager. It is the intention of the newly created company to go into the general exploitation of dairy products and cheese manufacture.

At the moment the newly formed company are not making any statements as to how or exactly what they intend to manufacture, but they do state that they are not going to rush into things and regret hasty moves, but to get properly established and endeavour to make steady advancements. From what is known of some of the principals in the Company we have good reason to believe they will certainly make a success of Kensington Dairies Limited. Further announcements will undoubtedly be made at an early date.

Council Successful in Obtaining Reduction in Electricity Charges

Probable Reduction of 10% of Present Costs Will Commence After May Accounts Paid—Affects Only Domestic and General Services

At a regular meeting of the Huntingdon Town Council on Monday evening, the bills for electricity for the month of April, which were held over for verification of receipt, were ordered paid.

Messrs. N. P. Manning and W. S. Brown, representing the Huntingdon Board of Trade, were present regarding the proposed reduction in electricity charges. Mr. Manning stated that a market would bring to the community as a whole, and suggested the Huntingdon Skating Rink and adjoining town property as a possible location for such a project. He stated that the majority of the members of the Board of Trade are in favor of the idea, and as the matter had been discussed at the last two meetings of that organization, that the Council should, in due time, take an agreement regarding the matter.

Alderman Picard stated that the proposed situation was not an ideal location for a market. Alderman Cappiello stated that he thought the Town was too small for a market, but that if there was to be one, that Prince Arthur Square might be a better site for it. It was pointed out to Alderman Cappiello that, in case of rain, the market could be held inside the skating rink. Alderman Picard asked if all farmers would be allowed to bring their produce to the market, or only those within a certain radius. Alderman Barrett stated that if a market would be the means of stopping pedlars from making door-to-door calls during the summer months, that he was certainly in favor of it. Other questions arose, one of which was whether or not the market would be self-supporting. Mr. Brown replied by stating that a certain number of the employees of the Town would be engaged in the market, and that the employees would take this proposal, with consent of the Board of Trade and the Town Council, as a private project.

After considerable discussion, the Mayor decided that the members of the Council would draft a letter to the Board of Trade, in which they would ask any questions pertaining to the market that might arise. Mr. Manning replied that the Board of Trade would endeavour to answer the questions.

Mr. Manning then stated that their being present had a two-fold purpose, and asked the Council if they would make a grant of $250 to the Board of Trade. Alderman Picard stated that he would not see the matter in this manner, and asked the Board of Trade to nominate a committee to canvass the Town for the money, and offered five dollars as his donation. Mr. Manning replied that he did not deem it wise for the money in this manner, and Alderman Picard stated that as the Board of Trade had done much to bring this town to its present importance, that the Council would not see them in need of funds. The matter will be discussed thoroughly at a subsequent meeting.

A number of people were present for the purpose of opposing the proposed amendment to the Town's nuisance by-law, which would, if passed, prohibit the keeping of pigs within a certain radius of residential houses. The delegation stated that keeping a few pigs was their only assurance of meat during the winter months, and stated that their animals were cleanly kept. Mr. Everett Tremblay, 24 Lorne Avenue, who was the instigator of the complaint, stated that pigs should not be kept within a certain distance of homes, and that pigs and people could not live together. It was decided that no action would be taken regarding the amendment, but that if complaints were received regarding the pigs, that the district health officer would be asked to look into the matter.

Mr. Elzevir Varin applied for permission to erect a one-story house, 30x24, with a brick power covering and a brick chimney, on Lake street, north of Clyde road. The application was not granted.

Alderman Warden stated that Mr. Henry Grant had approached him regarding the placing of a tile in the ditch between the driveway to his house and Hunter street. Mr. Grant stated that he had purchased the tile and as it was to be placed on Town property, that the employees of the Town should install it. Alderman Warden advised that it was up to Mr. Grant to make application to the Town for permission to install the tile on the Town's property, and then install it at his own expense.

Mr. Harold Henry applied for permission to make repairs on his property and to erect a building. He was

Mother's Day

SUNDAY will be celebrated as Mother's Day throughout Canada, from their self-effacing positions in the household Mothers will be raised to a pedestal on Sunday, so that all may pay homage to the greatest influence in the world—Motherhood. Flowers are usually worn, the delicate petals symbolizing a mother's tenderness, the deep color, the depth of our affection for her. A colored flower if the mother is living, and a white one if she has passed to her reward.

With the present day situation, mother is proving her worth in many more ways than before, and her place in world affairs is becoming increasingly more important. If her family is able to look after itself, you will find her in war work of all kinds, or perhaps in one or other of the many women's army services; if she has a young family to look after, then you will find her in the home part time and at the Red Cross sewing room or on some form of war service the other part of her time. Then again, perhaps her husband or a son, or a daughter are on active service, in which case you may find her busy knitting and cooking for parcels to be sent to her loved ones. There is one thing certain, you will always find Mother well occupied in one way or another. It has often been said that a Mother's work is never done. This is very true, it is a twenty-four-hour-a-day job. When a mother has small children to look after, her time is fully occupied, they need attention from the time they rise in the morning until they go to bed at night; if they are sick, you will find Mother on the job through the night. If she is sick, she often has to carry on so that her family does not suffer, yet she does it with very little complaint.

What a lot everyone of us owes to Mother. One day's admiration and thoughtfulness does not repay any part of the debt we owe. Mother should have our respect and admiration at all times. Remembering Mother on one day of the year is a very nice gesture, but if we leave it at that and forget all about it for the rest of the days, we are not fulfilling our true obligations.

If the same is true of this war as it was in the last one, many a soldier who finds himself in the midst of battle, will have cause to remember his mother in most vivid of manners. No one can take the place of mother, whether the child be young or old, she is a friend that is lifelong and true.

On this Mother's Day there will be many a mother who's heart will yearn for a son who is missing, killed in action, or just away on active service. She will bear her grief or her sadness and turn a smiling face to the rest of the world, but in her lonely moments she will have her thoughts and her memories. Such is sacrifice, just as much as when a man lays down his life for a friend. It is a greater sacrifice than just doing without some of the things we have been used to, such a form is only self-denial. But when a mother gives her son to the service of his country, she has really made a sacrifice.

Mother's Day has a greater significance at this time than in times of peace. In times of peace it means the gathering together of the family for a joyful occasion. On this Mother's day, many a member of the family circle will be missing. Let us think of all the mothers and if one needs comfort, try to comfort her to the best of our ability, that is the best way we can celebrate Mother's day next Sunday.

Victory Loan Advertising

MUCH comment has been made by people locally and others throughout the Dominion, on the amount of advertising being done for the Victory Loan campaigns. While criticism of the right kind is the greatest aid to progress, such criticism must have foundation of fact and be of a constructive nature. We fear that many persons who have criticised the amount of advertising being done to aid Victory Bond sales, have not made a study of the question or given consideration to the immensity of the job which has to be done in such a short period.

We will grant that when one picks up the newspapers, listens to the radio, looks at the billboards, glances through the various magazines, the amount of Victory Loan advertising seems appalling. But is there a person when once the campaign gets started can truthfully say, that he knows nothing of the subject? We very much doubt it. When one stops to consider this latter part, does it not become clear that advertising has been the means of making everyone conscious of the Victory Loan. Does it not also become clear that it is the intense publicity campaign that spurs people into action and sets them buying Victory Bonds and makes it possible to raise the huge sums that have been raised in all Victory Loan campaigns. Do the people buy Victory Bonds in such large quantities at any other time? No! They buy during the campaign because it is impressed on their minds to do so.

It has been said that if the canvassers were to just go around, without all the so-called "ballyhoo", they would achieve the same results. We are prepared to say that no doubt they would get a large number of subscriptions, but it would take them a considerably longer time and it is doubtful if they would raise the objective sought. When all this is taken into consideration, it would more than likely be found that the campaign had cost far more than before and that possibly only half the amount had been raised.

To show what Mr. Isley thinks of the cost of the Victory Loan Campaigns, we quote his remarks when he brought down the recent Budget, and made in connection with campaign activities: "It is to me and to those familiar with money-raising campaigns a rather remarkable fact that the over-all cost of these intensive and extensive Victory Loan campaigns, including the cost of engraving the bonds and of all publicity activities, can be kept as low as one percent of the amount of money raised." Then we ask those who are dubious as to the amount of advertising and the cost of same, whether they still think the cost is exorbitant?

It would seem from these remarks that 99 cents of every dollar subscribed to the Victory Loan is available to be used for the purpose for which it was raised. Many large firms who in the past, have advertised for capital in the form of shares, would be very pleased indeed if they could say they had raised their money as cheaply, or as quickly.

We therefore suggest to those who would criticise advertising or the amount of it in connection with the Victory Loan Campaigns, that they first take the trouble to analyse it and make sure if their views are correct. Such murmurings have an adverse effect on the purpose of the loan and hinder our chances of victory.

We would like at this time to again thank all the advertisers who sponsored space in behalf of the present Victory Loan campaign and War Savings Certificates and to commend them for their patriotism in trying to boost along a very worthy effort. They did not criticise and condemn the idea, they stood behind it and paid for the space with the idea that if it meant one more person buying a Victory Bond or War Savings Certificate, it was money well spent in victory's cause. All these advertisers are to be congratulated on their support of the National War Finance campaigns, they realise that the campaigns must be a success if we are to achieve success on the battlefields of the world.

Dig Deeper—Make More Effort

ON Sunday, the people of Huntingdon saw a parade in behalf of the Fourth Victory Loan, numbers of them saw motion pictures and heard the broadcast made by the Hon. J. A. Mathewson, K.C., Provincial Treasurer, and after broadcast speeches. Those who heard this appeal cannot but realise the urgent necessity of subscribing to the Victory Loan. Mr. Mathewson was appealing to the spiritual nature of the audience, the something inside which should be answered. He told his listeners that when this spiritual side was appealed to, it was strange how different a person felt.

Mr. A. A. Lunan, chairman of the campaign for Huntingdon County told the people that the progress of the campaign for the first week was good, and it was bad, $150,000 had been raised which was only about one-quarter of the objective. He told them they must do better and dig down deeper, recall the canvassers and subscribe again.

In this editorial we wish to emphasize again, the necessity of subscribing to this loan in as large an amount as we possibly can, even if it means pledging money we have not at the moment on hand, but which we see in the future. We owe it to the boys from Chateauguay Valley, who will be in the attack when it is made, to back that attack to the utmost. As Hon. Mr. Mathewson said, we cannot let those boys down, no matter who they are. But when those boys are our fellow citizens, sons, brothers, sweethearts, husbands, our duty becomes the more evident. Huntingdon usually does what it sets out to do, there is only another two weeks to go, we have a lot to do in that time, we must put more effort into it and we must dig deeper into our pockets, even if it means going without many of the things we have been enjoying. We must not let those boys down, they believe in us, if we let them down what will be their thoughts as they go into battle? According to the figures quoted, it means that Huntingdon County must still raise $385,000 to reach its quota. This amount must be raised in the next two weeks, or between now and May 15th. Let's all grit our teeth and say it shall be done.

Firmness With Strikes

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S stern measures in handling the strike of coal miners in the States, has produced results which will at least prevent any serious shortage developing for the time being. He appealed to the miners to return to work, and warned them of the consequences if they did not do so. The result was that the United States government stepped in on Saturday morning and took over control of the mines which were inoperative. Before President Roosevelt made his speech over the radio on Sunday night, the miners had decided upon a truce and declared their intention of returning to work on Tuesday morning. Two weeks have been specified in the truce for a period in which to adjust the differences.

Ottawa can well take a lesson from President Roosevelt's action and see that strikes in this country are stamped out immediately. Strikes in war plants or affecting war production cannot be tolerated, the workers must be made to realise this. Several strikes could have been averted here if Ottawa would stop pussyfooting around and come to the point, the same as President Roosevelt did. The President has been accused of using dictatorial powers, but actually he used only the powers invested in him. Ottawa can do the same thing while this country is at war. If stern measures had been applied at the outset, the series of petty strikes which have arisen and are still occurring, would never have taken place. The government is dilly-dallying around with all issues which may affect civilian workers as if in fear of them. It announces a labor policy and there it stays, it says a strike is illegal and there it stays.

Our neighbor to the south announces its policy and goes through with it and the people of that country appreciate their government the more for it. It is time Ottawa took a firmer stand on all questions, we are still too complacent.

CHATEAUGUAY, BEAUHARNOIS and HUNTINGDON COUNTIES

From Manuscripts of The Late ROBERT SELLAR

MRS. ROBT. FORD—Continued

We came on to our lot, and oh, but we were disappointed with all we saw; it was so different from the glowing reports of Canada we had believed in while in Scotland. McDonald had put up a new barn, and we lived in it until a house could be raised. There was nothing to be seen but log shanties—many shanty-roofed. My father-in-law, an aged man, was so affected by the change and discomfort that he got kind of useless. Our lot was all in bush except a piece in front, covered by old pine logs. I suppose unfit for rafting, and to clear away which gave more trouble than had they been standing. Our log house was a good big one and eager for its shelter we moved in before it was done. A stove we had bought in Montreal could not get up, and our only fire was one on the hearth. We had a dreadful winter of it, the house big and open, and I had to thaw and dry the blankets every morning where our breath had struck them, and we could not touch a knife or fork until warmed at the fire. I should have said, before that McDonald had no horse, and he bought from one of the Canadians who carried our stuff, a colt, my father paying for it, and McDonald repaying him by drawing boards from the village and helping to build the house. The timbers on the part of our lot were of no use for ashes, chiefly small pines, so we had nothing for the burning of them, and the second clearing, at stumping, was worse than the first.

There were a great many wet places, too. When spring came we planted corn, when father-in-law said it would never grow. I planted it however, and it came up, when a great flock of pigeons came and sat on a big stone to guard it, for the pigeons were all around, until big enough to withstand them. It was too late to ripen. The potatoes turned out abundantly, growing among the roots and the trees. As that time Canadians came up from the lower parishes to sell wheat, taking in exchange corn and peas and we bought some, but it made poor bread, being full of wild peas. Our neighbors had all enough to do, but never wanted, except Nelson's family. He was shiftless and lazy and they were often in want. We had plenty of corn meal and after a while of wheat, which was very good, though white variety. We had bought a bag of oatmeal from the city, and the neighbors got a bowlful each, for it was not to be had then at any of the mills. People were poorly clad, for sheep were scarce then and there was no money. I used to say I had no need of a pocket knife in Canada for I never saw a sixpence. Everything was trade and turning-in. The stores in Huntingdon were miserable and dirty. I could not bear to enter McFee's, it had such a smell of rum and tobacco. They had little to sell and everything was very dear. We had taken a cow with us from Montreal and it proved of great value. We first tied a bell to her neck and let her roam the bush. My husband got a yoke of oxen and a kettle and made potash back on the rising ground which was a great help. Some time after we came, a relative, Learmont, was leaving, and wanted my husband to buy his oxen. He did not need them but took them on credit. The first day he had them in the woods, where he was getting out some squared timber, a pine he was felling proved to be rotten and broke in two, part fell across the backs of the new oxen and killed them. Paying for them was a sore trial, for we had hardly any cash, and for five good cows we offered the holder of the note he only allowed $30.00. When my husband put up his workshop he had a bee on the roof and the people coming to them he would give no drink. Some were for leaving at once, but others prevailed on them to stop and raise the building. After that, several would have no drink at bees. It was a great curse and the cause of many accidents at raisings.

Lucas gave up barging and settled beside us the year after we came. He made his living mostly by ashes. Wm. Lamb had a workshop at one end of his house. The Americans were a thriftless class and left to them the land would not have been cleared to this day. It was common then for girls to go around and ask for spinning. Briggs would make a yard of cloth for a 1/4 of wool, charging extra for finishing. Mrs. Nelson had the cholera in '32 but recovered. The year of the flood in July, it rained for a week, and all the banks were flooded so that some settlers could not get at their potatoes. I don't think it was that year, we hired a Canadian to cut a splendid field of wheat we had on the ridge, when it came wet and we did not get a bushel. That winter my husband drove to Beauharnois to buy wheat, and we had to make peasecones answer much for bread. We went to church in our ox-cart, and the yoke were so smart that on getting in they would trot for half a mile. Few had ox-carts, and I remember McDonald was drawing in their grain on our ox-led when we came up. The roads were shocking; Barlow had got a grant to improve them but did little. Many a day my husband spent stumping for a road across from our lot. The river banks were green and grassy now, and not broken down as then. There were no wild beasts when we came, and I only recollect of a single bear, which was trapped on the lot east of us, its hide bringing $4.00. Deer were plentiful but none of our people were shot. My husband and Byres were both Sergeants in 1838 and being the only carpenters had the work to do in boarding up the windows of the houses at Baker's. Byres got his death from the hard work and exposure of that time. Old Mr. Wallis had an orchard on his lot and the first spring he brought down to me a number of trees, telling me he would come to see half the fruit when they bore first. It was 10 years before they bore, and then there was a single apple. We sent for him and wife to tea and they divided the apple between them. After that they bore well.

Opinions of Others

WEEK AT OTTAWA

The atmosphere of Ottawa these days reflects a growing optimism in the success of the Fourth Victory Loan, but there is also the consciousness in all quarters that there is still a heavy grind ahead and that before the goal is reached practically every family in Canada will have to put its full weight at the oars. It was not an idle phrase of the finance minister that this was the greatest financial challenge that the country was ever called upon to face. The loan of $1,000,000,000 for Canada is about parallel according to population with the $13,000,000,000 bond issue that has gone over the top successfully in the United States. Canada isn't likely to lag behind. It has just as clear a conception of the tremendous issues that hang upon the course and outcome of this world conflict as its great neighbor to the South and when the campaign is finished there will be undoubtedly in proportion to population, just as great a number of people of all grades of income who will have shown their faith in their country's destiny and their determination to see this war through to victory. The campaign has been ably organized under the direction of Mr. Spinnery, head of the National War Finance Committee and his associates. Tribute is also due at this time to the one responsible for the successful handling of the financial affairs of the nation in wartime, the minister of finance, J. L. Isley, a man who lives simply and works indefatigably, who is always anxious to give more credit to his advisers and assistants than he takes to himself, who is impatient only of wishful thinking and complacency but who, while never blinding his eyes to the dan-

REALISM

A shipyard worker in Vancouver, opposed to the recently voiced slogan of thoughtless agitators—viz, "No beer—no bonds"—points out in a letter to the press the following vicious circle:

"No beer—no bonds.
 "No money—no work in shipyards.
 "No ships—no work in shipyards.
 "No work in shipyards—no money.
 "No money—no beer."

This, he adds, "covers the situation with realism in overalls". It is a point of view humorously but well expressed. And in the ultimate analysis, there is more realism in it than humor.—Halifax Herald.

Godmanchester

At a regular meeting of the Godmanchester Council on Monday, Mr. George Finnegan came before the board with complaints regarding a ditch in front of his property. The Council authorized the road officer, Mr. B. J. O'Connor, to look into the matter.

The period from May 15 to June 1 was designated for the cleaning up of stubble and refuse in corn fields. Councillor Rankin reported the measurements of the fence along the property of George Picard, on the Seignory Line road, one-half of which must be built by Mr. Picard and the other half by Mr. Rankin.

Considerable discussion arose over the fact that several residents along the New Erin road were complaining that Mr. Arsene Charlebois, a farmer of that district, was taking rocks from his fields and placing them in the ditch alongside the road. After debating the subject for some time, the Council visited the place in a body and found that although the ditch does not drain any land, the Council felt that they might be held responsible if an accident occurred at that particular place and some person was injured. As a result, the secretary-treasurer was authorized to send Mr. Charlebois a letter informing him that he must discontinue placing stones in the ditch, and that those he had already placed there must be removed within five days.

A circular letter was read from the Quebec Fish and Game Department, Montreal, stating the seasons in which fish and game may be hunted. The following bills were ordered paid: Shawinigan Water and Power Co. $2.30; Stephen Quenneville $29.65; F. Harrigan $25.; S. Gauthier $9.20; N. M. McCrimmon $5.; Robert Milne $20.80; T. C. Paul $18.; Edgar Helm $15.00; E. L. Leduc $1.80; C. B. Ferris $8.; Robert Arnold $94.64; Luigi Spruy $26.90; E. Brunet $66.42; M. Curran $32.25.

TALKS TO 73,000 WORKERS

Using the largest private radio hook-up in Canadian history, W. M. Neal, vice-president of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, on Thursday, April 22nd, addressed the 73,000 Company officers and employees throughout Canada in the interests of the fourth Victory Loan. Canadian Pacific employees have an objective of $5,300,000 and Mr. Neal in his 'Family Chat' brought home the vital necessity of "backing the attack". The broadcast was carried into shops where skilled mechanics manufacture tanks and guns; into round-houses where powerful engines are continually being groomed to haul the war freights; into offices and, in fact, into every crevice throughout the Dominion where Canadian Pacific people carry on their transportation tasks.

Farmer is Urged to Support Loan in Substantial Manner

Dr. M. H. Brittain, Principal, Macdonald College, Addresses Message to All in Support of Victory Loan

The goal of the fourth Victory Loan drive is set at $1,100,000,000. If this huge sum is to be obtained everyone in the country who can possibly do so must contribute to the limit of his ability, and the Canadian farmer has it in his power to substantial contribution toward the success of the campaign. It is not the large sums subscribed by great business firms, important and necessary as they are, that will make the fourth Victory Loan drive a success. Rather will its success depend on the thousands upon thousands of individual subscriptions—each one perhaps small in itself, but making part of an imposing total when all are added together.

The role of the Canadian farmer in this war is a tremendously important one. In common with all other Canadians he is faced with burdens and difficulties unknown in peacetime, but his primary responsibilities are to produce as much food as possible, to reform farm debts and to lend his surplus money to Canada.

His first responsibility, that of producing food, is being faced realistically, and anyone who has examined thoughtfully the expanded programme for 1943 as outlined in Ottawa will realize the magnitude of the task. But there is a market for all that will be produced and farm incomes are increasing in comparison with pre-war conditions.

Interest on debt is a constant expense that can be removed only by liquidating the obligation. At the present time it is a patriotic duty to spend little and save much, and the sure way of reducing or wiping out a debt is to put aside a certain amount regularly for the purpose until sufficient has been accumulated to pay off the indebtedness.

When this has been done any surplus savings should go into Victory Bonds. A Victory Bond, backed by all the resources of the Dominion of Canada, is the safest investment that can be made. A farmer who is saving to pay off a debt that will fall due some time in the future can do no better than put his savings into Victory Bonds; his money will be safe and he will receive double the interest that a bank will pay him.

We are all in this war together. Some of us are taking an active part, others of us must perform the less spectacular but equally important tasks of the home front. But wherever we are, whatever our part, none of us can escape the fact that our country needs our money—all we can spare. And we can all make our contribution to victory by the regular and generous purchase of Victory Bonds.

Mrs. Stanley Currie and Miss E. Walker of Verdun, were week-end guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Waller and family. Mrs. A. Arnold spent the week-end in Montreal visiting relatives.

The meeting was in charge of the president, Mrs. Johnson, and opened with devotional exercises. Mrs. T. F. Duncan and Mrs. B. M. Johnson were appointed as delegates to the County Convention, to be held at Ornstown, in June. A delicious supper was served by the hostess, assisted by her daughter, Miss Elsie.

Mr. R. W. Stevenson, U.S.N.R., son of Mr. Alfred Stevenson of Bisbe, Arizona, is spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Fred D. Stevenson. Mr. Omar Carson, of Lowell, Mass., is also a guest at the Stevenson home. Mr. B. M. Johnson received word of the death of his sister, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Angle (wife of the late Mr. John Angle). Mrs. Angle was in her 86th year and was the daughter of the late Mr. Benj. Johnson and his wife Jane Blair.

Fuel Wood Shortage Threat Placed Before Controller

Survey of Situation Shows 8,000 Cords of Wood Will be Needed—Parity of Prices Also Sought

Fuel wood for next winter will present quite a problem if the recent survey into the question means anything at all. The survey reveals that there will be a possible shortage of 8,000 cords of hard-wood and 5,000 cords of softwood, this coming winter. This means that 8,000 cords of wood at least will be required to satisfy the needs of Huntingdon town. The question which now has to be answered is, where this wood is going to come from.

A meeting was held in Montreal, on April 22nd, with Mr. Piche, Fuel Controller and among others present were: Mayor W. E. McNair, Alderman J. E. Barrett for the Town of Huntingdon and Mr. C. W. McClatchie as a wood dealer. The meeting was a very cordial one and the matter of fuel wood shortage will be well looked into so as to avoid a famine of this commodity.

The price spread was one matter taken up at this meeting. It was pointed out that while Huntingdon and Valleyfield both purchased wood from the same source, at the same price, the ceiling prices placed on the resale of the wood at the two points was entirely different. In Valleyfield, the price was much higher than that which could be obtained in Huntingdon. Naturally, there was an incentive for dealers to sell their wood in Valleyfield to obtain the higher price. This Valleyfield was not feeling the wood shortage as bad as people in Huntingdon did. The result of this analysis brought to the fore the need for parity of prices in the resale of wood in this district. Therefore, it is quite likely that parity prices will go into effect for the whole south shore of the St. Lawrence.

Mr. Piche informed the representatives that it may be possible to obtain fuel wood from the lumber camps in the province. He held them that there was a quantity of saw wood which was not used in the lumber camps and it was possible that this could be shipped in carload lots to points where shortages had or would occur. This would help to supplement the district supply and alleviate the threatened shortage. In such case Huntingdon would be able to obtain some of this wood.

The situation with regard to coal supplies is still uncertain, and people are advised to obtain their coal whenever and wherever it is available. Local coal dealers will do their best to supply their customers whenever they have supplies on hand, but it will be well to have your order in now. In this way whenever supplies are on hand, they can be distributed to customer's orders.

Mrs. Kenneth Steele, George, Charissa and Margery, and Miss Florence Steele moved out of the city on Friday and took up residence in Mr. L. A. Waddell's vacant store building. Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Dewittville

Mr. and Mrs. George Cassidy entertained recently in honour of their son, Henry and his bride, on their return from their honeymoon. About 65 or 70 of the neighbors and friends gathered on this occasion to welcome them home. Dr. Maclean being present, was called upon and in his usual good form mentioned among other things, the number of years he had known the Cassidy family and wished the young couple many years of happy wedded life.

Mr. Wm. Graham brought in a beautiful clock, which Mr. Mac Raddock asked Henry and Myrna to accept on behalf of their friends. Mr. Raddock in his usual way, gave the groom some very sound advice. Several others also were called on to say a few words.

Barbara Cummings, of Montreal, delighted the gathering with a couple of recitations. Games were played and refreshments served. Some of the friends who attended from Montreal were: Mr. and Mrs. Francis Cassidy, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Booth, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Cummings, the Misses Mabel, Maud and Bertha Blachford, Mildred Pollock and Hazel Webb.

The W.C.T.U. met at the home of Mrs. K. Pearce on April 29th, with an attendance of 12 members and 3 visitors. The meeting opened with the singing of several hymns. Mrs. Cassidy gave the scripture reading and prayer and Mrs. Raddock read the Easter Bible lesson from the White Ribbon Hymns. An Afghan for the Red Cross was worked on during the afternoon. Collection amounted to $2.50. Mrs. Pearce and Miss Irene Holiday were hostesses and were assisted in serving refreshments by Miss Arline McIntosh.

Scouting Around

By Barnewell V. B.P.

In last week's column you will recall me saying that soon the 1st Huntingdon Troop would be getting along the highways of adventure and fun, but if the weather keeps up like was ushered in at the first of this month, bur-r-r! we'll have to put on our fur coats when a hike is in order. But to get on with the news.

As far as can be reckoned at the time of going to press, the following are the results at the conclusion of the recent inter-patrol competition: Beavers, 83, Stags, 82, Fox, 77, Wolf, 76. For a while the Stags seemed to be well out in front, but were gradually overtaken by the Beavers, who placed first, closely followed by the Stag Patrol. This week another competition will be started so let's see who is going to win this next one. Every patrol has the same equal chance, and at the end of this new contest another special prize will be given to the winning patrol.

Last week Billy Beare, Francis Brethour, Richard Rock, received their Laundryman's badge, and Jimmy Robb was presented with his Public Health Man's. There were no new badges passed last week. The Scouts spent most of their time working on weeks and first class tests. This week some more Scouts will be invested into the World Brotherhood of Scouting.

Last Thursday night practically every Scout present wore a uniform. This speaks well for this fine group of boys. Perhaps one of these fine days, a special Church Parade can be held for them.

Stuart Beattie, Danny Boyce, Jimmy Bickford, Howard Kelly, Keith Fawcett, and David Irving acted as umpires Sunday at the Victory Loan Rally. Billy Sandy was unable to attend in that capacity.

The local Scouts are eagerly looking forward for the days and evenings when they will be able to get out and go hiking and camping as a group. No one blames them in the least for that feeling, because Scouting is an outdoor game.

Last Thursday evening's meeting proved to be one of the most enjoyable held this year so far. Two of the games that were played seemed to hold the attention of the lads so closely, there were several times when a pin could have been heard, if someone had dropped one.

Scoutmaster Bickford welcomed a new recruit to the ranks of the 1st Huntingdon Troop. He was placed in the Stag Patrol. By the way, if the attendance of this very distinguished group keeps growing as it has been doing lately, a new patrol will eventually have to be started. Two of the present patrols have exceeded their quota of boys.

Did you know that this is the seventeenth consecutive column? My prayer is that there will be a good many more, because Scouting is something that will always be in my mind, no matter where I am.

Well, this is all the news for this time, so until next week when I expect to have quite a bit more to tell you, I am your loyal columnist—Chief.

FARM NOTES

Drysdale Dispersal Sale
 Lorne Drysdale, proprietor of Grand Springs Farm, at Allan's Corners, has always had the reputation of having a good herd of Ayrshire cattle upon his farm. The dispersal sale held on Saturday, under the hammer of Auctioneer T. J. Graham, produced further evidence that he had a good Ayrshire herd to sell. Throughout the sale the bidding was spirited. The stock was in good condition and as animals were brought forward Allister McArthur read the pedigrees.

The top price bid was $410 for Grand Springs Red Wings and went to J. J. Joubert, Limited. The same buyer bought the next two highest priced animals viz: Grand Springs Jeanette for $400 and Grand Springs Jean for $390. 25 aged stock brought $5,873, an average of almost $235 per animal. The young stock found ready bidders, Balquhain Barr Idealist, born June 4, 1941, went to the Dominion Government for $345. The calves sold for $53.50 to $85, each. The sales aggregated $6,628.00, which must certainly have been gratifying to Mr. Drysdale and to Auctioneer O. Laura McCartney, Teacher.

Predominant Strains
 One of the most interesting features of the two herd inspections was that members of strains which have been cultivated and developed in both herds were amongst the top scoring females. For instance the Suky family was quite prominent in the Maska herd inspections and two daughters of Deschambault Star Suky made the "Excellent" class.

At Burnside the Blossom and Darling families created considerable interest, the former especially. That famous championship winner and hundred thousand pound producer Burnside Blossom Andrietta, and founder of the Blossom family at Burnside was represented in the "Excellent" class by four daughters—Burnside Andrietta Again, Burnside Heart's Desire, Burnside Barr Blossom, Burnside Barr Andrietta. In turn, 3 daughters of Burnside Andrietta Again were also graded as "Excellent".

Ayrshire Type Classification
 Following a meeting of the Score Committee and Type Classification Committee of Canadian Ayrshire Breeders' Association, at St. Hyacinthe, Que., on April 27, the Type Classification Plan for Ayrshire females was officially put into effect.

The Committee, comprised of Prof. G. Toupin, Chairman, Professors A. R. Ness and Geo. E. Rathby; Messrs. R. O. Biggs, S. J. Chagnon, R. Brodie Ness, Wm. Hunter and Frank Napier, generally reviewed the rules and regulations, standards, etc.

As already announced each herd owner entering his herd for inspection must enter every cow in his herd which has produced one or more calves. This being a step forward from the other breeds which permit the owner to nominate his animals to be classified.

It was decided that Professor Geo. E. Rathby, Professor A. R. Ness and S. J. Chagnon be appointed the official inspectors for Ontario and Quebec; that Wm. Hunter be appointed as Inspector at large, for the Prairie Provinces and with Professor H. M. King for British Columbia. Maritime Provinces inspections will be made by either of the Eastern inspectors as arranged for by the Chairman, Professor G. Toupin, and the Secretary, Frank Napier, which two shall have charge of the direction of the inspections.

Maska Herd Inspected
 On the following day, April 28, the first official inspection was made, at the Maska Farm of the Provincial Dairy School, St. Hyacinthe, Que. A total of 36 cows and first calf heifers were thus inspected and rated by Professor Alex. R. Ness.

A total of five cows each scored over 90 per cent of the official scale of points and were therefore classified as "Excellent". Four of these cows were bred in the Maska or, as it was formerly named, the Deschambault herd. And whilst records do not figure in this classification it may here be mentioned that all had outstanding individual or cumulative records. The same also applies to the other classes, except to the first calf heifers which are, however, all making excellent records.

Sixteen of the cows and first calf heifers scored between 85% and 90% and were classed as "Very Good". It may be noted that one calf cannot be rated higher than "Very Good" and cannot be raised to the "Excellent" class until re-inspected after producing her second calf.

Twelve of the cows and heifers made scores of between 80% and 85% and were rated as "Good Plus". Three made scores of between 75% and 80% and were classed as "Good".

A total of 36 head of which 4 of the "Excellent" cows were home bred; 12 of the 16 "Very Good" cows and heifers were home bred; 7 of the 12 "Good Plus" cows and heifers were home bred; 2 of the 3 "Good" cows and heifers were home bred. A most noteworthy achievement for any breeder.

Burnside Herd Inspected
 On the following day the Committee and Inspectors proceeded to the Burnside herd of R. R. Ness & Sons, Howick, Que., where Professor Geo. E. Rathby officially

News Item, Dundee Consolidated School
 Though we could always do more, all of us, to help the war effort, our school is attempting to do its share. Some weeks ago, the Dundee Students' Council sponsored a dance at the community hall. The dance was a big success; over twenty dollars were cleared, and thirteen dollars worth of War Savings Stamps were sold. The proceeds of the dance were used to buy a number of articles of clothing, including coat, shoes and slippers, for a little three-year-old refugee girl.

Through our own efforts, and the efforts of the School Board, we have managed to buy two ping-pong tables, with the necessary equipment. This helps to banish the tediousness of our noon hours, besides giving us something to be interested in. We held a tournament to see who was the ablest player, Jean Arnold took all honours, winning against Charlie Gardiner, winner of the boys, but she lost in a friendly game with our principal, who admitted that "It was hard to beat you".

Zinnias Will Thrive in Victory Garden Rows

A Giant Dahlia-Flowered Zinnia One of the best annual flowers to grow in Victory gardens is the zinnia. They are the most widely grown flowers in this country, having taken front rank away from sweet peas, asters and petunias, by virtue of two things—their will to live and thrive under almost any conditions, and the great improvements made in them by plant breeders.

Zinnias have a remarkable variety of both types and colors, and each year sees still more new ones introduced. The latest are giant flowered strains of Fantasy and scabiosa flowered types. In size, they vary from half an inch to six inches in diameter. Among the smaller ones are flowers which few except experienced gardeners would recognize as zinnias.

Their color range includes yellow, orange, pink, and red in almost all tones and blends. Blue is lacking, but there are lavenders which go far to the blue side of the spectrum. The giant flowered types are most popular, perhaps for the reason that many gardeners are inclined to admire size, as something you can really put a value on, in inches. But in the border the giant are the least effective, because they are inclined to hide their flowers in foliage. The medium and small flowered types will make bushy plants and hold their multitude of blossoms up where they make a show. For a good border effect all types may be grown together, and they will blend in coloring and habit of growth most pleasingly. Zinnias are warm weather plants

Meal Habits Will Be Changed When Meat Rationing Appears

When any food is first rationed, there are some adjustments necessary in every home. To be forewarned is to be forearmed and having advance notice that meat rationing will come into effect sometime in May is going to make necessary adjustments very much easier.

The ration will allow about two pounds of meat per person per week which will mean a reduction of about a fifth in the amount of meat used by the average family. How best to effect this reduction is a matter that each housewife will want to decide for herself, but by doing some planning and experimenting in advance, the business of eating within the ration will be greatly simplified.

The Consumer Section, Dominion Department of Agriculture, suggests these tested meat recipes which make for good meals either within or outside the ration.

Baked Choplets with Dressing
1 pound ground beef, lamb or mutton
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/4 teaspoon ginger
1 egg
1/2 cup soft bread crumbs
1/2 cup milk

Combine meat, seasoning, slightly beaten egg, bread crumbs and milk. Form into 6 chop-shaped patties. Brown choplets on one side in a little hot fat. Turn. Pie dressing lightly on top. Bake in a moderate oven (350°F) for 40 minutes. Serves 6.

For the dressing, use 1 cup soft bread crumbs, seasoned to taste. Thin chops may be used in place of choplets.

Braised Oxtails
1 oxtail (about 2 pounds), cut in pieces
Flour
1/4 cup fat
1 1/2 cups hot water
1/2 cups canned tomatoes

1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon celery salt
4 whole cloves
1 Piece of bay leaf
4 medium carrots, diced
2 small onions, chopped

Wipe meat, trim off fat and roll pieces of oxtail in flour. Sauté in the hot fat until well browned. Add water, tomato and seasonings and cook 5 minutes, stirring well. Pour into a casserole, cover and bake in a slow oven (325°F) for 1 1/2 hours. Add vegetables and continue baking, covered, for 1/2 hour longer. Uncover and cook an additional 1/2 hour or until meat and vegetables are tender. Serves 6.

Stuffed Flank Steak
1 beef flank steak
1/2 cup chopped celery and leaves
1 small onion, chopped
4 tablespoons fat
1 1/2 cups soft bread crumbs
Salt and pepper to taste
1 cup water

Use one large or two small flank steaks. Sauté the celery and the onion in two tablespoons of the fat for a few minutes. Add the bread crumbs and season with salt and pepper. Pound and flatten steak. Spread with dressing and, beginning at one side of the steak, roll up like a jelly roll and tie securely in several places with string. Brown in a heavy frying or roasting pan on the top of the stove, turning the meat until it is browned on all sides. Slip a rack under the meat, add water, cover closely and bake in a moderate oven, (325-350°F) 1 1/2 to 2 hours. Use drippings in pan to make a rich brown gravy. Serves 5 to 6.

Flank steak may also be used for steaks or meat pies or it may be braised as a Swiss steak.

Loud Sounds Affect Digestive Functions as Well as Brain and Ear Drum

An interesting article on the effect of noise upon the human system is contained in a recent issue of "Industrial Medicine." Loud noises, it reveals can actually seriously affect the normal digestive functions and thereby cause nervous indigestion. Noise, too, it appears, has a definite effect on the brain and the ear drums. It has been found that persons living in noisy surroundings develop thickening of the ear drums a stiffening of the small bones within the ear and a loss of movement on their part. The hearing nerve itself finally becomes exhausted, resulting in a gradual loss of hearing power. Today New York cab drivers who ply in the most congested areas of the city where there is a constant blare of auto horns, are becoming hard of hearing.

The article states that occupational deafness, particularly among such people as printers, bus drivers, road makers and traffic policemen is on the increase. Not only does the continual pressure of strident sounds which these workers are subjected tend to produce impairment in hearing, but there is also a strain on the nervous system which leads to neurasthenia and other ills.

All city noises range in intensity from 45 to 75 decibels, (unit used to measure noise) and it is this range which plays havoc with almost all human functions, declares the article. The problem is one which demands the attention of engineers, it is stated. Noiseless typewriters, the elimination of gear clash in automobiles, soundproof cabins in aeroplanes and insulating materials to deaden street noises are all steps in the right direction.

The article advises workers who must of necessity earn their living in noisy surroundings to live, if possible, in the quiet retreats of the suburbs or in some strictly residential neighborhood where there is a minimum of noise. Vacations should be spent in the country. Periodical absences from noise-laden surroundings will, it states, accomplish wonders in a great many cases of neurasthenia and allied nervous trouble.

Children's Corner ...

THE FRIENDLY GULLS

More than any other sea bird, the gull is fond of human society. He will often follow a ship after it has sailed far beyond the sight of land, and around wharves and piers he is unafraid and will almost light at your feet. He does mankind a tremendous service in his office of scavenger, helping to a great extent in keeping the world clean.

Although the gull's chief article of diet is fish, he is also very fond of the worms and bugs which are turned up by the plow. Great flocks of these big white-and-gray birds will very suddenly appear on the scene at some spot far inland when the furrows are being turned. All day long they will follow behind the plow, picking up an immense quantity of insects. When the day's work is done the birds disappear, but the following morning they are back in the field again.

Ornithologists are acquainted with more than fifty species of gulls, and twenty-six of these are known to North America. There is no coast on this continent that is not familiar with some one or more of these twenty-six types. Nor do they confine themselves altogether to the ocean shores. Their harsh cry is frequently heard inland or on fresh water, far from the seacoast.

Gulls do not like to be alone, and in building their nests they make large colonies of them. The nests, which consist of a few sticks, grass, moss, or seaweed thrown loosely together, are generally built on the ground, though sometimes they are placed high up on rocky cliffs. They are placed so close together, and all look so much alike, that one wonders how Mr. and Mrs. Gull can be certain when they are in their own home built on the ground, though sometimes they are placed high up on rocky cliffs. They are placed so close together, and all look so much alike, that one wonders how Mr. and Mrs. Gull can be certain when they are in their own home built on the ground, though sometimes they are placed high up on rocky cliffs.

Busy and Slack Days
The telephone bell is ringing furiously there are several gentlemen outside waiting to be attended to. Mr. Brown wants to dictate a letter, and the office boy is out of the grand. In brief, it is one of the office's busy days.

Somewhat everything will manage to get done by the end of the day. This is the most comforting thing to remember in the midst of all the rush and hurry that is going on around. But a considerable proportion of the rush is caused by the critical moment, and a strict rule should be made to keep items such as pencils, telephone scribbles, pads, and short-hand note-books in a certain spot. Keep 'em!

An important factor in the successful handling of a busy day is the art of concentration. The whole of one's brain-power is required to cope with the work on hand. By keeping your mind on the job you are doing at the moment, instead of dwelling on the need for hurry, you will save the unnecessary mistakes that waste so much valuable time.

It is a great error to work through the lunch-hour. Even if time is so precious that only twenty minutes or half an hour can be spared, it is much better to keep these quiet, free from work, and eat only a small lunch, than to snatch bites of food during the performance of one's duties. The latter method leads to a severe headache and the inability to work accurately afterwards.

Try to avoid ruffled hair and a shiny nose. Nothing provokes a sense of fluster and worry so much as a rumpled appearance, and the knowledge that one looks calm and collected helps to keep one so. Try a "Rest Cure"

When business is slack the day will seem interminable unless an effort is made to turn it to good account. While many employers will glance askance at a novel or magazine, the majority have no objection to a study book; indeed, rather the reverse, as it denotes an interest in the work and a desire to succeed.

Winter Laundering Results in Grey Linens, Cottons

Winter laundering, particularly if the clothes have to be dried inside, may result in grey-looking linens and cottons. Each housewife feels that this is a reflection on her housekeeping.

To get the clothes white again either a home bleaching, or a trip to a commercial laundry is needed. If the bleaching is being done at home, Monday morning laundresses should remember to use the bleach sparingly. To use less than the amount given in the manufacturer's instructions is better than to use more. Clothes being bleached should also be rinsed thoroughly, and as a matter of fact given an added rinse water.

CREAMERY BUTTER INCREASES
Increase in the production of creamery butter through subsidies granted by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board has been substantial, officials say. They expect that it will be possible to build up stocks so that a reasonable ration can be assured next winter.

DAHLIA'S WHATNOTS

In an address acknowledging his election as president of the Bible Society, Lord Sanky described an Easter he spent at Mentone, many years ago. One beautiful April morning, he climbed the hill at the back of the town to an old cemetery. A glorious view met his eye—on the left, cape after cape of the Italian Riviera, on the right, the pleasant land of France. Lord Sanky continued, "I was attracted by a grave bright with flowers. I approached and read on a simple headstone the words—

In loving memory of J. R. Green, The Historian of the English people.

To this epitaph may be coupled the words of Samuel Rutherford to Lady Kemure, "Madam, you must go in at Heaven's gate with your Book in your hand, still learn-ingly."

Centuries ago, the holy English monk, Thomas à Kempis, wrote in his book, "The Imitation of Christ,"—"Truth is to be sought in the holy Scriptures, not eloquence. All holy Scripture should be read in the spirit in which it was written. We should seek profit in the Scriptures rather than subtlety of speech. Further on he wrote: "Write My words in thy heart and think diligently on them; for they will be very necessary in the time of temptation. What thou understandest not when thou readest, thou shalt know in the day of visitation."

Speaking of the Bible Society's war extension efforts, a writer says, "A groove if deep enough is a grave. We should be eager to learn of new ways in which we can serve God's kingdom ... Creeds and philosophies are under the hammer of catastrophic events; the Church of God is once more in the furnace. The Society has made its way to supply Scriptures to men of the Forces, prisoners of war, and internees ... Very soon after hostilities began the New Testament in navy blue, khaki, and air force blue bindings began to be issued. Nearly 2,000,000 Service Testaments, also many single Gospels, have been supplied. Many of our men have written to express their thanks.

Prisoners of war and internees have not been forgotten. Applications for Scriptures in various languages have all been met, and some of the responsive letters have been most touching.

The British Sailors' Society's request for New Testaments was answered by a supply of over 3,000 at cheap rates. This by last summer's report. When one reads how Captain Rickenbacker and his companions sought relief and comfort in prayer under harrowing circumstances, one appreciates the placing of a New Testament in every lifeboat and raft in lockers to protect them from the elements.

Just before General Montgomery went to Egypt he declared to members of his staff, "Gentlemen, I read my Bible every day, and I recommend you to do the same."

Transport difficulties and expenses, owing to war conditions, are now enormous. Four tons of Scriptures were sent from England to points in Africa at a postal charge of over $600. Now arrangements have been made to do considerable of the printing overseas in South Africa, Port Said, India, and other places.

Translation and revision are proceeding in over 100 languages. In China a ton of books was sent a long distance by aeroplane, and the Chinese are begging for the Bread of Life.

In France where the secretary was imprisoned, a former writer, now an old man, came out of retirement, and kept the colporteurs at work in Vichy France, but the Germany have stopped the work in occupied France.

Nearly all the South American agencies show an increase in circulation. In India, Gospels for Italian prisoners of war are available. From an internment camp in Canada there have come requests for ten Greek Testaments and six Hebrew Bibles. In the Solomon Islands two faithful women, Miss C. Waterson, 67 years of age, and Miss Deck have done valuable work as translators.

A writer said recently, referring to Papua, "It is terrible to think that, where the messengers of Christ had brought peace to rival warring tribes, now the planes roar over the villages."

The British society conducts a Stamp Corner and in 1942 this brought in more than $1200. English stamps are useful, but foreign stamps, and censored envelopes and war postmarks are specially wanted. The income from this supports seven colporteurs in China and a Bolivian who labors among miners and Indians.

We hear freedom of speech greatly stressed as a democratic ideal, and rightly so. But human speech may be stupid, futile, profane, indecent. Shall the Word of God, Divine speech, not have "free course and be glorified" among us?

Easter Thankoffering Meeting
The Easter Thankoffering meeting of St. Paul's W.M.S., was held Tuesday evening, April 27, in McDougall Hall.

Miss Elizabeth Sadler, the president, welcomed everyone with a few gracious words and the meeting was opened with the singing of a hymn. The worship service was taken by Mrs. Alfred Greig assisted by several members, the theme being "Easter and Thanksgiving."

A quartette offered a pleasing selection song by Mrs. T. S. Osmond, Miss Eleanor Orr and the Messrs. Percy and Stewart Osmond. The guest speaker, Miss Jean Ross of Columbus House, Montreal, in a few well chosen words was introduced to the meeting by the President. Miss Ross gave a very worthwhile and interesting address on the life and church work of the people of Korea and also told of the work done by Columbus House, Montreal.

Mrs. J. A. McNeil expressed the thanks of the W.M.S. to the speaker, which was heartily responded to. The Thankoffering was then taken up, the dedicatory prayer being given by Mrs. Pollock. The meeting closed with the singing of the hymn, "There is no East or West."

Miss Jean Ross, of Montreal, was the guest on Tuesday last of the Misses Bazin.

Mrs. George Upton, of Hemmingford, was the guest last week of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Millar.

A Simple Way to Help the Butter Ration

Rationing and shortages of food, gas, oil, etc., returns us to our school days—when arithmetic was a daily necessity.

How can we stretch our food rations? How can we stretch our gas coupons until the next book is received? How can we do this and how can we do that? Arithmetic is certainly needed.

Here's today's important question: "How can we stretch our butter?" Most of us are such confirmed meat eaters that with what seems to us a very small amount of butter we are going to want to stretch our butter ration.

Here's the mathematical answer: One-half pound butter, plus one-half pint top milk or light cream, plus a little cold water, a little salt and half a rennet tablet, gives us a full pound of spread that tastes exactly like butter, goes twice as far and spares your pocketbook too.

This butter stretcher spreads beautifully provided it is not too cold. It's great for bread toast and sandwiches. It's easily made and most important of all, the butter taste remains in the double-sized amount of spread.

Stretching Butter with Rennet-Custard
1/2 pound (1 cup) good butter
1/2 rennet tablet
1/2 tablespoon cold water
1/2 pint fresh whole milk (not canned), top milk or light cream
1/2 — 1 teaspoon salt

Allow butter to stand in warm place until soft but not melted. Meantime, dissolve the salt in cup of milk or cream, warm slowly stirring constantly. When comfortably warm, (110 degrees F.) get hot, remove at once from heat. Add 1/2 rennet tablet which has been dissolved in 1/2 tablespoon cold water; stir quickly for a few seconds only. Let stand in saucepan until firm—about 10 minutes. Do not chill.

Add this rennet-custard to softened butter. [If desired, add 1/4 teaspoon butter color.] Beat with egg beater until perfectly blended. Chill until firm. [Suggest do not make more than week's supply at a time.] Important—This War Economy Bread Spread is not suggested for frying, sautéing, shortening or greasing pans. Use regular butter or other fats for these.

Glass Utensils Take Place of Metal to Cook Family's Meals

As pots and pans in the kitchen are wearing out and becoming scarce, many Canadian housewives are turning to glass utensils in which to cook their family's meals. Particularly when time is at a premium these days, glass ovenware is a welcome addition, because it can be placed directly on the table, and also can be used for storage in the ice box.

Washing in ordinary soap and water will generally keep glass utensils clean, since food does not stick readily to the surface. If there are a few tough spots to clean up, a little fine scouring powder and an ordinary dish rag or brush will usually fix them up in a moment or two.

Sometimes discoloration is noticed. Water boiled with two tablespoons of vinegar, then washed and dried as usual, will remedy this condition.

It is important that housewives remember to use only a moderate heat for glass utensils. Excessive heat not only causes the utensils to crack, but makes food stick to them and wastes fuel as well. Empty glass pans should never be left over hot elements.

When dishes are in the ice box, evaporation is prevented, and the food odors cannot permeate the ice box, if covers are tight-fitting. Covers also keep the foods from losing their flavor.

Canada's Publicity Office Doing Good Job

New York. The heading of this piece should be "One Man's Opinion". It is about the work of Canada's Wartime Information Board in New York and Washington.

The weakest thing about our whole publicity scheme in the U.S. is that there are not offices in Chicago and San Francisco as well. The men in New York and Washington are certainly working hard and most people down here believe they are working effectively.

Their salaries, some of them, look big from Ottawa, but with the cost of living as it is here and considering the nature of their work it is probable that most of them should be getting more rather than less.

There is no lack of documentary proof that they are getting good results in the papers, the movies, over the radio and the public platform. Nor is there lack of indication where and when they have prevented bad publicity, arrested harmful thoughts trend or planted helpful ones. The set-up could be improved—what set-up couldn't be improved?

When surveying the field of propaganda you are dealing in abstract things and not counting lines of newspaper space. So it is not useful to publicize the achievements. In fact the best publicity worker leaves no track.

Suppose, for example, our New York office had persuaded an American paper to desist from a certain line of criticism of our people. The editor would be made to look like a victim of foreign influence and would likely assert his independence by doubling his previous criticism.

The Journal, not questioning salaries, has asked whether stories of Canadian troops in the American Army magazine "Yank" were placed there by our W.I.B. and whether W.I.B. planted the Canadian Navy story in the Reader's Digest.

The answer is that the editors of both publications used the articles because, and only because, they believed their readers would be interested in them. W.I.B. is working continually in numerous ways to arouse American interest in Canada. But specifically W.I.B. did have something to do with both these jobs. It encouraged and made it possible for Yank's own writers to see Canada's Army, and it did help to make the Reader's Digest writer an enthusiast about the Canadian Navy. In these cases an answer is possible, but in most cases direct answers could not be given, for obvious reasons.

The ideal "planting" of a story or a movie or a broadcast usually happens at a bar or over the luncheon table. Our man casually remarks that he has just had a phone call from a friend recently back from Shipshaw or Alaska or even Ottawa and there is apparently a pretty interesting piece of war work going on up there. The U.S. editor puts a few questions and becomes interested to the point where he asks whether he could send a man up to do a job. Our publicity man says perhaps he could arrange it—and a couple of weeks later the paper has five pictures and five columns of news.

Did W.I.B. put it in that paper? Certainly not. The editor's imaginative mind developed a casual remark into a good story and all W.I.B. did was open the doors for the reporter, get him beyond stuffy service officers, stickhandle him through a censor and provide basic facts and figures to support his color copy. W.I.B. didn't even pay the reporter's way to Canada, since good newspaper editors shun that as propaganda.

I mention these details for several reasons: (1) To have our men mixing with the right men in the U.S. they must themselves be good and, therefore highly paid craftsmen; (2) they must have expense accounts that won't boggle at a chance to do the right thing at the right place; (3) they must not be measured solely by the inches of Mackenzie King's speeches they get into U.S. papers; (4) they must not have to tell even a Parliamentary Committee of ALL their activities; (5) they should not be obliged to run a big-time publicity office in the U.S. on lines that might work in Toronto or Ottawa.

For several years now there has been a hue and cry in Canadian papers and in Parliament that Canada should set up a publicity machine in the U.S. In a moderate way, though rather belatedly, we have now done so. But there is still a hue and cry.

The Globe and Mail, in an editorial a column and a half long, suggests that a recent hurp of spite from Col. McCormick's Chicago Tribune indicates our W.I.B. is not accomplishing its job.

The Ottawa Citizen recalls that one member of our W.I.B. in the U.S. earned only $2,500 when he worked some years ago with the Citizen, and the inference to be taken was that W.I.B. salaries are fantastic. A "jamboree" the Citizen called it.

Well, Col. McCormick will never quiet his attacks of spite because his constitution is conducive to such attacks and his readers pay to hear him in his discomfit. A sort of national sadist, the Colonel.

And as for the $2,500 the man in question has held many jobs since leaving Ottawa and is earning from W.I.B. what he earned from his last employer.

It is not the intention here to way and the right way means expense men in The Journal. W.I.B. salaries are too high and doubtless a majority of those reading this column think so too. I am simply stating a personal opinion to the contrary. Some W.I.B. salaries in Canada are most assuredly too high, but if we are to do a job in the U.S. we must do it in the right make cracks and other papers. Some pension accounts and so-called "high living".

This week I have spent many hours with the staffs of the W.I.B. in both New York and Washington, and some time with American men from whom they must get results. These Americans are mostly in the $10,000-$25,000 bracket, or better. As but one of our men are under $10,000.

Moreover, salaries paid our men are judged by Canadian critics in Canadian currency—but what good is Canadian currency to a New York hotel demanding $1.76 for lunch or a New York laundryman charging forty cents to do a shirt?

And, finally—we deal in budgetary figures for a war effort—these days that run far beyond our ken. Munitions and Supply wallows in millions. Since the position of this country in American opinion is potentially infinitely more important to us than even a trainload of tanks is it we must be small-minded in examining W.I.B. expenses in the U.S.?

One radio hook-up in the U.S. for one half hour costs up to $20. Our W.I.B. men have wangled many such hook-ups by top-notch American broadcasters who have paid their own way to Canada, and broadcast from Canada to the U.S. about Canada. And we have paid not a cent for the broadcasts. One successful scheme repays all the cocktails and living allowances for a year of our whole W.I.B. in the U.S.

In another article we'll report the less important facts about W.I.B. in the U.S.—office management, duties, incidentals—but what counts is what I have tried to indicate today. You can't send a boy to do a man's job, particularly not if he has to beg for his board and keep. Presumably we are trying to tell Americans that we are a big country doing a big job. That is a difficult impression to create if it is left to a meek little gent with hat in hand delivering mimeographed handouts at the doorstep—Ottawa Journal.

W.I. NEWS

HUNTINGDON BRANCH
The following is an extract from an address given at the April meeting of the Huntingdon Branch of the W.I. and which it was thought would be of interest to many gardeners in the district.

"Through the season with perennials"

We think of perennials as being about as permanent as anything that can be planted in a garden, permanent as to growth, and as to the color combinations we can devise.

Prof. A. C. Hottes of Michigan, gives the following list of 25 perennials, which will give a succession of bloom from April to October and which he considers the main standbys:

April—Rock-rose, Goldentuft Alyssum and Creeping Phlox.
May—Iris, Columbine and Clove Pink.
June—Oriental Poppies, Delphiniums, Canterbury Bells.
July—Carnations, Hollyhocks, Plantain Lilies, such as Funkias or Hostas, for shady spots, Japanese Iris.
August—Phlox, Coreopsis, Day Lilies, Blue Flax, False-dragonhead, Blazingstar or Kansas Gayfeather.
September—Galliardia, Showy Stonecrop, Asters.
October—Anemones, Chrysanthemums, Azaleas.

Also the following list is recommended for various reasons.

Sahsta Daisy, Foxgloves, Dianthus Loveliness, Polyantha Primrose, Blue Gem Bearded tongue, Forget-me-not, Bleeding heart, Meadowrue, Iceland Poppy, Woolly or Silver Speedwell, Globeflower, Lupines.

AUBREY-RIVERFIELD BRANCH

The Aubrey-Riverfield W.I. met at the home of Mrs. James Bruce on Monday. The members responded to the roll call with "What I like about my garden". Plans were made for the Convention to be held in Riverfield Church Hall on Friday. Current events were given by all conversers and a paper entitled "Wife and business partner" was read by Mrs. Orr, which showed how a farmer's wife should have more than a working knowledge of her husband's business and should anything happen him, be able to carry on, or by knowledge of his financial position be able to curtail expense, if need be.

A demonstration of individual war time salads by all members followed, which were judged by Mrs. Woodwork and Mrs. Goudrey who announced Mrs. Robb and Miss E. Lorison as winners. The salads later were numbered and drawn for by the members as part of the afternoon's refreshments. Community singing, with Mrs. Angell at the organ, and saluting of the flag brought the afternoon's proceedings to a close, after which an exchange of flower seeds, bulbs and slips was held.

FRANKLIN COUNCIL

Franklin Council met on May 3rd, 1943, under the presidency of the Mayor, Mr. L. E. Blair. Members all present except Coun. Dammour.

Mr. Fred Bourgoin came before the board with regard to repairing a piece of road on the Bourgoin sidewalk, left in the hands of the road officer.

This Could Happen Once in a Lifetime

New York.—When an elderly woman, recently arrived from Scotland, asked Louis Brunette, ticket clerk in the Canadian National Railways office in New York, if he happened to know her son, "James Smith, who works for a telegraph company either in New York or Chicago, with whom I have corresponded regularly for 15 years," Brunette took a long chance—and won. He phoned the personnel department of a commercial telegraph company in New York and the man who answered the phone was James Smith—the right one. The mother, Mrs. J. Smith, had no idea that the Smith stake in New York's seven million is a pretty heavy one.

Clip Coupons From Bonds, Buy Stamps

Get out the scissors, all you people who bought Bonds in Canada's Third Victory Loan last fall! Clip the coupons marked "May 1st 1943", take them to the bank and collect your first half-yearly three percent interest on those Bonds. If you want to keep that interest working for victory and earning more money for your future, buy War Savings Stamps with it. For every four dollars' worth of War Savings Stamps you can get a War Savings Certificate which will be worth five dollars at maturity in seven-and-a-half years.

Your Victory Bond is a mortgage on Canada.

Mighty Army of Bees For Home Front Fight

Vancouver—Vanguard of a mighty army that will fight on the home front producing honey for housewives and others who can put the tasty product to good use in aiding the war effort, hundreds of crates of package bees left here for Prairies points via Canadian National Railways Express.

With thousands of these package bees in one crate, it may be well imagined how many millions of these busy creatures will be transported through Vancouver before the shipping season winds up at the end of May. Last year's movement broke records, but this season's five bee traffic will undoubtedly be heavier as honey producers have increased their orders with breeders.

"Business is more brisk," commented Harvey Boale, general agent here for the Canadian National Express, "but with the tremendous package bee traffic this season, we will honestly be able to say that things will really be humming."

How the Cost-of-Living Bonus Index is Compiled

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics has issued a revised explanation and description of the official cost-of-living index. It replaces the original statement, the supply of which, it is explained, has become exhausted. In a summary of the revised explanation the Bureau states:

"The Dominion Bureau of Statistics cost-of-living index measures the influence of changes in retail prices of commodities and services upon the cost of a representative urban wage-earner family budget. The index is specified by Order-in-Council P.C. 5963 as the basis for cost-of-living bonus adjustments authorized under the terms of this order.

"It should be already understood that the index is a measurement of price change. Many people use the term 'living costs' to indicate the total cost of things they buy. Used in this sense, 'living costs' may include different things from month to month and year to year, and likewise different amounts and qualities of the same things. A cost-of-living index based upon the value of total purchases made by everyone. In normal times it would move closely in line with estimates of national income. The Bureau's index is based upon a quite different idea. It measures changes in the cost of a family budget which includes the same amounts of the same commodities and services for considerable periods of time; it is revised only to take account of important 'long-run' changes in consumption. It

Spring Duck Hunting?

According to certain news sources, hunting ducks out of season is becoming rather common along some parts of Lake St. Francis. Although many warnings against this illegal practice have been given and penalties doled out, it still continues, much to the anger of duck-hunters who do their shooting during the authorized duck-hunting season.

Many kinds of animals and birds that were once prevalent in this country years ago, are now in many cases nearly extinct. Although it does not seem possible that the wild ducks that abound in this district will be extinct within a few decades, it is highly possible that they will in this area, if thoughtless people do not stop killing the birds as they come this way for the hatching season.

There is a meat shortage, and many kinds of meat are to be rationed in the near future; however, chickens and ducks will not be rationed. It seems that the people who are thoughtlessly killing ducks this month should look forward a few months, and realize that these birds should be allowed to multiply.

House Check-up Is Wartime Duty For Home Owners

The handyman's first warm weather job is checking and repairing the house. Particularly this spring, it is a wartime duty for householders. Neglect may only result in having to use greater quantities of scarce building materials.

One of the first things is to check the roof of the house. Trouble spots are loose shingles and faulty metal flashings around chimney and dormers.

Outside painting, if needed, preserves the wood. This springing should wait for dry weather and temperature above freezing. All metal work, inside and out, should be kept well-painted to prevent rusting.

Eavesdroppers and down spouts will last much longer if they are cleaned of accumulated leaves and dirt, and given a coat of paint.

The woman autoist posed for a snapshot in front of the fallen pillars of an ancient temple in Greece.

"Don't get the car in the picture," she said, "or my husband will think I ran into the place."

Fish to Eat, Beans To Boston Unusual Express Shipments

Montreal.—Actually carrying fuel by express would be pretty expensive business, but, according to Harry H. Whiteman, Montreal terminal agent, the Canadian National Railways Express, has been figuratively "carrying coals to Newcastle."

Recently the contents of the express car attached to "The Ocean Limited" included many boxes of British Columbia salmon, consigned to a distributing firm at Halifax. The Maritime City in normal times is the hub of a big fishing industry, but under stress of war conditions, a shortage arose followed by a hurry-up call to the trade in Montreal.

Another name for "coals to Newcastle" would be "beans to Boston." The other day, a United States Marine, on special duty from Washington, was a visitor to Mr. Whiteman's office. After disposing of his business, the Marine confided to the Express agent that he would like to take some beans back with him, as he was stopping off at his home near Boston. "Beans to Boston?" queried Mr. Whiteman. "Yes, they are very hard to get in the Hub City," was the Marine's answer.

The two went shopping with the result that some tins of Canadian beans were taken to Boston.

A very old Irishwoman was charged with stealing a loaf of bread from a neighbor's kitchen. The jury, all Irish, looked at the frail old dame before them and passed the verdict, "Not guilty," adding that they hoped she would not do it again.

Thanks to the Red Cross parcels, we eat enough to keep us alive. That is an excerpt from a letter from a Canadian Prisoner of war, Gerard Deslauriers, received by the Canadian Red Cross. Parcels by the thousands are being sent to our boys regularly.

Prices of Commodities and Services as Against Wage-earner Family Budget Forms Basis

Cost-of-Living Index

The Bureau's summary continues: "Each index is a percentage which shows the relationship between the dollar value of the index budget for a specified period, and the corresponding dollar value of the same budget in a reference period. The Bureau's standard reference period includes the five years, 1935 to 1939. The average value of the index budget for this period is represented by 100.0. The value of the same budget in August, 1939, was 100.8 per cent of the reference budget, and the corresponding value for December, 1942, was 118.8 per cent. These figures become the cost-of-living index numbers for August, 1939, and December, 1942.

"Because August, 1939, the last pre-war month, provides the bases for cost-of-living bonus adjustments, it is frequently used as a reference period. The procedure in this case is essentially the same as that described above. The value of the index budget in August, 1939, is considered as 100.0, and budget values for other months are computed as percentages of the August, 1939, value. The December, 1942, index then becomes 117.9. Indexes related to the August, 1939, budget value have become widely known as the "adjusted" indexes. They may be computed by dividing the original August, 1939, index of 100.8 into the comparable index for any other period, e.g. the December, 1942, index of 118.8 divided by 100.8 gives 117.9."

City Living-Costs

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics has also issued its monthly study of living costs in seven Canadian cities. As in previous months, Montreal shows the largest increase over the base period of August, 1939. Following are comparative index numbers (percentages of the level of August, 1939) as at the first of the respective months indicated:

	Feb. 1943	Dec. 1942	Oct. 1942	Aug. 1942	Nov. 1942
Montreal	118.8	120.3	115.5	115.8	113.7
Halifax	114.7	116.2	116.6	117.2	114.6
St. John	115.9	117.3	116.3	116.2	115.0
Toronto	115.3	116.8	114.5	115.0	113.1
Winnipeg	114.1	115.6	117.0	117.5	116.4
Saskatoon	116.7	118.5	113.8	114.1	111.6
Edmonton	113.5	115.0	115.4	115.0	112.9
Vancouver	114.7	116.8

The Bureau notes that the February 1 indexes for the eight regional cities were all lower than the December levels by amounts ranging from 1.4 to 2.1 points.

What has the St. Maurice to do with BLACKOUTS?

THE St. Maurice River, Quebec Province's chief source of electrical energy for diversified industry, has much to do with many things from artificial silk to flashlight batteries.

Acetylene is the basic ingredient of artificial silk and the carbon black in flashlight batteries. It enters into a hundred and one different articles in universal demand and draws revenue to Quebec Province from all parts of Canada. Low-cost electric power makes possible the production of low-cost carbide, from which low-cost acetylene is derived.

Directly and indirectly, since 1898, The Shawinigan Water & Power Company has contributed to the welfare, happiness and prosperity of the people of this Province. Servant of Quebec, it has created industry, attracted industry and helped its workers to find profitable employment within the borders of their native province.

The outbreak of hostilities found Shawinigan ready with sufficient power to provide instantly the driving force for the vitally important war industries now in full swing in the Province of Quebec.

Former Huntingdonian Performs Delicate Operation
On December 6 last, Dr. W. Moore Kelly, youngest son of Mr. C. B. Kelly and the late Mrs. Kelly, of Huntingdon, performed a very delicate operation on a man's heart at White Plains Hospital, White Plains, N.Y. HOME CANNERS SHOULD PLAN NOW

The importance of preserving fruits in the summer for use in the winter is greater than ever before. Housewives are urged to lay down as much preserved fruit and jam as they can—and they should plan now because they must apply for the sugar they need before April 15. The W.P.T.B. has assured them they will get enough sugar for their reasonable requirements. All they have to do is estimate what they need. The widely-distributed "Canner's Guide" will help them. If they want any extra advice, they should see or write to their nearest Local Ration Board. But the important thing is to plan now so that enough sugar will be set aside for them.

THE DEVIL'S PAIL

By Madge Macbeth

As I see it, there are just two ways of looking at this Stamp-buying business. We've got to buy more War Savings Stamps in order to help the war effort, and we've got to buy more stamps in order to feather our own nests for the future. Forgetting patriotism entirely, we are doing a good stroke of business for ourselves.

"And what," asks the sarcastic little woman who lives across the hall, "do we use for money?" There are a hundred substitutes for money, the handiest being work! Hold on you... it's not half so bad as it sounds. In the first place, we have accustomed ourselves to think that we must avoid all kind of work except executive work for which we get paid. But there's a kind of work that will help us to save money; to avoid paying somebody else to do it. Then, that money can be put into War Savings Stamps.

Think more, plan better, use your imagination. Put your wits against the needs of the day. Never say, "Oh, I can't be bothered!" This phrase has become practically a national slogan in Canada within the memory of living man.

"Aren't you going to turn off the light in your kitchen?" you ask the girl across the way. "Oh, I can't be bothered," she answers, comfortably inert on the chertier. She snaps on lights all over the place when she could see quite well without them. It's a habit. Of course, for reading, that's a different matter.

"Couldn't you mend that pillow slip?" ... Couldn't you wash Junior's play suit instead of sending it to the cleaners? Couldn't you do your own nails and walk at least one way to town?

"Oh," says she, "I can't be bothered. She simply won't realize that piling up pennies is worth while. She's a fairly good housekeeper; that is, she serves appetizing meals when she can order exactly what she wants. I don't know how she would manage when instead of buying a couple of prepared spaghetti, for example, she had to make her own. It never occurred to her that the money she had budgeted for raisins or mushrooms or fruit juice or something unavailable might be popped right into the Stamp box. I'm afraid that it didn't occur to her to buy one package of cigarettes less each week and to go to a movie less often. She, like too many of us wants to eat her cake and have it, too. Perhaps she, like many of us, can't imagine that twenty-five cents will have any appreciable effect upon the progress of the war.

"Twenty-five cents might buy just enough ammunition to save a soldier's life. Try to imagine a boy holding on to his machine gun while a crowd of Germans are attacking. He has courage plus, and he shoots well until—"I'm a goner," he mutters. "There's no more ammunition."

A War Savings Certificate might buy just the grenade that meant life instead of death to one of our boys. It's difficult to see your money in these terms. You know only that it passes over a counter and you get a piece of paper in return. But you're getting so much more than that!

Listen to the story of the Devil's Pail, those who feel that twenty-five cents is of little use. A certain girl made a compact with the Devil. He promised to free her lover if she could fill a pail with water carried a spoonful at a time from the distant river, in the space of one night. The girl despaired. The task was impossible. But the villagers offered to help, with the result that by dawn the pail was overflowing. One spoonful of water would not have been very useful, but one multiplied by hundreds... See?

APPRECIATES FREEDOM, POLE BUYS BONDS

His home town, Krakow, Poland, groaning under the Nazi tyranny and with no word from his relatives since the outbreak of war, John Majcher, section foreman in the Canadian Pacific Railway Company's coach yards, Winnipeg, did not need either explanation or urging when called on to purchase Victory Bonds. His own young family reside in Winnipeg where they are safe from the horrors of war. John Majcher buys bonds with his own family safe in Canada and to do his bit toward freeing the land of his birth. He has contributed to all four loans.

Annual Banquet Chateaugay Valley Jersey Cattle Club

Dr. W. Watson of Howick, Guest Speaker, Talks on "Bangs Disease"

The annual banquet of the Chateaugay Valley Jersey Club was held in the Dining Hall, of the Ormstown Presbyterian Church, on Wednesday evening, April 29. The interest in the affairs of this club is increasing, as shown by the better attendance at this meeting than on previous occasions. The President of the club, Mr. R. J. Reid, of Hemmingford, was chairman for the evening. According to the best authorities at the present time the only solution for cleaning up herds which are infected, lies in the vaccination of all calves when 4 to 8 months of age. If this practice were carried out in this district systematically, the disease would disappear in a very short time. At the present time there is no trouble to find buyers who prefer cattle raised under such a plan. The president of the club would like to see every calf raised by every member of the clubs, vaccinated in this way. Some club members have already been following this clean-up plan for the past 3 years.

HEALTH NOTES

Entitled "War Against Arthritis" an article by Dr. Wallace Graham, M.R.C.P., Toronto physician now Acting Surgeon Lieutenant Commander in charge of medicine at a Royal Canadian Naval Hospital, appears in the winter number of "Health" published by the Health League of Canada. Dr. Graham points out that there are many different forms of arthritis and that the patient should not fear ending his days in a wheelchair without knowing what type of arthritis he has.

Infectious arthritis, says the writer, is caused by a germ entering the blood stream and settling in the joints. It is caused either by a "strep" germ or gonorrhoeal germ joint destruction can be prevented in the early stage by treatment with sulphur drugs. Tubercular joint disease has been reduced greatly in areas where milk is pasteurized. Osteoarthritis occurs in older people seemingly due to ordinary wear and tear, causing the swelling of finger joints etc. This is not a serious disease and physiotherapy with heat and massage aid in helping the condition.

Rheumatoid arthritis, says Dr. Graham is more serious. It affects the joints of younger people and may result in loss of movement and deformity. The disease affects general health, resulting in loss of weight and weakness. The cause is still unknown. Gold salts have been used in recent years in treatment, with results in some cases being very successful. However, it is not looked upon as being a cure, and precautions have to be taken in its use as it is a toxic drug and harm might result from it if not used carefully. Rest and a well-balanced, nutritious diet are essential in the treatment of such cases. Heat and massage can be used when the disease becomes quiescent to restore the function of the joints.

Gout, declares Dr. Graham, is a form of arthritis of another type. This is caused by high concentrations of uric acid in the blood depositing their salts in and about the joints resulting in acute pain. Alcohol is by no means the only factor in contributing towards gout, says the doctor, and may equally be caused by the type of food eaten by the sufferer. This type of arthritis yields readily to treatment. Drugs are given to increase the excretion of uric acid from the blood and moderation in food and drink will keep the acid within normal limits, thus preventing further joint destruction.

Dr. Graham emphasizes the need for prompt attention in all cases of arthritis. HOW CHEMICAL RESEARCH HAS HELPED THE WORLD There is no single "cure-all" drug for every ill that flesh is heir to; even the "same" disease in different men does not always yield to the same drug. The chemist dare not generalize in drug research for the needs of a human machine which research discoveries have proved to be so delicate that the absence of five-millionths of a gramme of a vitamin appreciably shortens the life of man. Specialized research has placed so much of the disposal of the modern doctor that such a common disease as rickets can be cured by giving the patient food containing vitamin D, a product of peculiar value in strengthening weakness in the bones. Vitamin D can be made in the laboratory. Two grammes of it are equivalent to about one ton of cod liver oil in its power of curing or preventing rickets. Besides prolonging life, chemical research has done a multitude of things to make life possible as we live it. The productivity of land and factory enables enough to be grown and manufactured to meet the needs of the greatly increased population of the world. Research is primarily responsible for this. Were it otherwise, we should be faced with the terror of world shortage piled on an economic crisis.

Plans Made For Bowling Season

W. E. S. McNair, President; K. Pope, Vice-President—Season to Open With Mixed Bouspiel

The annual meeting of the Huntingdon Lawn Bowling Club took place on Thursday evening at the home of the Treasurer, Mr. N. W. Sparrow, with a number of interested bowlers present.

The minutes of the last annual meeting were read and adopted. Mr. W. E. S. McNair was elected president and Mr. K. Pope vice-president for the ensuing season. The Match Committee remains the same as last year with the addition of Captain Brace, M.O., of Chateaugay Barracks, Capt. Brace would be allowed to bring soldiers from the barracks to play on special occasions. Mr. James Fox was elected chairman of the Greens Committee. Messrs. Holmes and McNair were appointed League representatives. Messrs. G. C. Stark and Wilfrid Grant were elected to the Social Committee.

The fees were set for the season at $5.00. It was decided to hold the Fishier Bouspiel on July 10th and that the season would commence with a mixed bouspiel. The Treasurer reported an amount of $42.23 had been received from the Ladies' Club and this was to be applied on a note and to be paid on account of interest. Fees collected at the meeting and a special grant amounted to $37.00. Mr. Small is to be approached with regard to acting as caretaker for the club. All those interested in lawn bowling are urged to get in touch with Mr. N. W. Sparrow and be enrolled as members of the club. Bowling provides a quiet means of recreation with plenty of fun and is a game that both men and women can take part in.

Council Successful

(Continued from page 1) advised that he must first file a building permit before the application would be considered. As several complaints have been made regarding the water pressure on certain parts of Wellington street, it was decided that the water committee would investigate.

Tuesday, May 11, and Wednesday, May 12, will be clean-up and clean-up days within the Town. A complaint was voiced to the effect that a resident on Wellington street had placed his refuse outside his house on the day it was supposed to be picked up, but that it had remained there for three days before it was collected, during which time it had been scattered over his property. Alderman Pawcett stated that he would speak to the carrier regarding the matter, and that the latter should inform people when their garbage will be picked up, if it is impossible to make all the collections in one day.

A letter was read from the Shawington Water and Power Company to the effect that after the bill for the month of May had been paid, that a reduction would be made in the charge for electricity. The reduction, which will apply only to domestic and general services will probably amount to about 10% of present costs. After this month, bills will be presented for payment every two months. Messrs. the Mayor, Alderman Barrett and Chas. McClatchie recently visited the War Time Prices and Trade Board in Montreal regarding the impending fuel shortage. As a misunderstanding has arisen regarding the category Huntingdon is under it was decided to again contact the War Control.

An adjourned meeting will be held on May 17.

In Memoriam

The dearest sister and sweetest friend, One of the best whom God could lend. She was loving, gentle, thoughtful and true. Always willing a kind act to do. It is not tears at the moment shed That tell how beloved is the soul that has fled. But tears through many a long night wept. And loving remembrance fondly kept. In loving memory of my only sister, Emily Eleanor McPhee. Caroline Parkinson.

In Memoriam

SMALL: In loving memory of a dear mother who passed away May 6th, 1942. Ever remembered by Charlie and Edna, Harvey.

In Memoriam

ADAMS—In loving memory of a dear husband, Merritt Adams, who passed away May 7th, 1941. Two years ago God called you home. I've missed your patient, loving care. But God knew best, His will be done. Some day I'll go to join you there. With the others who went on before. And now rest free from care. Where all tears will be wiped away. And there will be no night there. Ever remembered by Clara.

Express Man Saved Money For Shipper

The keeper of a book store in Joliette, Que., and the management of a publishing house in Montreal will subscribe to the fact that honesty is not a lost virtue. Having occasion to return a parcel of magazines to Montreal, the shopkeeper sent sufficient cash to pay for magazines sold and for another consignment, putting five ten-dollar bills and a one-dollar bill in an envelope with the books.

The parcel went forward by Canadian National Express and by the time it had reached St. Catherine Street East station, the parcel had become loose with the result that the envelope containing the money was found by the express agent on the floor of the car. The occurrence was at once reported to Express headquarters, the parcel properly packed and, with the cash, sent by special messenger to the publishing house.

Wider Control Of Manpower

Amendment Gives Minister Right to Transfer Men of 19-45 To More Essential Jobs

Labor Minister Mitchell announced during the past week two recent orders-in-council amending national selective service regulations empower him to order employers in specified industries to discontinue employing persons in age classes designated for military training after a specified date, unless a special permit to do so is obtained.

For the present, he said, persons who have their discharge from the armed forces will not be compulsorily directed to alternative employment. If, however, they are engaged in low priority industry, they will be encouraged to obtain employment in high priority industry.

general way to direct men liable to call-up to accept alternative employment when, due to their medical category, they were not required for military training.

NO PERMITS Where these applicants are found eligible for alternative high priority work, they will be referred to any vacancies available, and will not be granted permits to continue employment in a low priority industry.

In special circumstances, a limited number of persons may be allowed to continue temporarily in their present employment. In all cases, those in the classes designated for military training but not in the forces, will have to apply to their nearest employment and selective service office between the issue of the minister's order affecting their present employment and the date set beyond which they cannot continue in their present employ without authorization.

The new regulations specify that a selective service officer shall not, under the terms of the order, direct any person to apply for employment which is made available by a stoppage of work through a labor dispute. The expenses of transportation will be met by the government for those being required to transfer to more essential work, and jointly by the Dominion and provinces where men are moving to farms.

In special cases, expenses for work clothing may be advanced. An order-in-council of 12 provides penalties for non-compliance with a direction to transfer given by a selective service officer. If a man refuses to comply with such a direction, he will be reported to an alternative service officer. He then will become liable for service in an alternative work camp

Canadian Garden Service - 1943

By Gordon Lindsay Smith

Most for the Money Vegetables are easily the biggest yielding crop one can grow. Not only can most lines be grown close together but with some things like radish, spinach, lettuce and carrots, for instance, a second crop can be harvested in a single season.

Small vegetables like lettuce and radish require rows only 15 inches apart. Beets, beans, carrots, peas and spinach need a little more space between, while potatoes, corn and staked tomatoes must have a couple of feet to thirty inches. Space may be saved with the latter type if something quick-maturing such as lettuce and spinach are planted in between. The bigger things will not need the full room at first, and by the time they do the early crops will be out of the way.

If room is extremely limited, then experts advise confining vegetables to such heavy yielders as beans, lettuce, carrots, beets, onion celery and, possibly, staked tomatoes. A 20-foot row of any of these will supply many meals for a small family. The expert who appreciates garden freshness will also include peas and corn. These things take up more room, and at least 25 feet of row is needed for a worthwhile crop, but only from the garden right at the door can really fresh corn and peas be obtained.

Hot Beds A hot bed for starting garden seeds early is usually prepared in March.

on somewhat the same basis as a conscientious objector, except that the restrictions covering maximum wages payable to him will not apply as in the case of the objector.

In commenting upon the amendment to the selective service regulations covering compulsory employment, Mr. Mitchell said: "With expansion in the armed forces, intensification of our industrial production and the urgent need for farm production, the time has arrived when all men of military age, still employed in non-essential lines of work, must be transferred to employment where their services will be directly in our war effort."

"Amendments to the regulations will provide us with the means of doing this. We expect very shortly to begin issuing the supplementary orders which are necessary to designate the classes of employment from which men will be drawn."

It consists of a bed of fresh horse manure, which supplies the heat, about 18 inches deep. On this, two or three inches of fine soil is placed and after the bed has heated up and then cooled down again (a matter of three or four days) the seed is sown in rows a few inches apart. The bed is protected by rough boarding along the side and on top, and sloping towards the south about 10 to 15 inches above the bed is placed a window sash well glassed. If only a few plants are wanted, these may be started from seeds sown in flat boxes indoors and placed in sunny windows.

Lawn Work Should Be Early Grass is a cool-weather plant. Any work with lawns should be started just as quickly in the spring as possible. This does not mean that the soil should be worked while it is still wet. That sort of thing never helps in any kind of gardening. But once one can walk over the ground without getting shoes muddy, then the rake can be brought into play.

In both new lawns or in patching, the soil should be raked fine and level. Authorities advise sowing only the highest quality of seed mixtures, as thick as directions specify and, of course, when there is no wind blowing. To get even results it is best to make a double sowing, one across and one lengthwise. Small patches can be protected from the birds by brush.

Both new and old lawns benefit from rolling while the ground is still soft. Grass, like any other plant, needs good soil, and an annual application of fertilizer is advisable.

ENFORCEMENT — FOOD

How do they get away with this, with that? Even your own friends say, "They can't do this to me, I wasn't hoarding!" You've heard plenty of that stuff. And Fred A. McGreggor, grey haired, soft spoken Enforcement Administrator of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, at Ottawa, tries to help find the answers. There's nothing he fears more than to have his personnel labelled Gestapo and such things.

F. A. McGreggor

He realizes, of course, that an investigator in your region, invested with new and unaccustomed power, might throw a little weight around a little and, by gosh, that's hard to stomach. But supply of men, capable, is thin, or anything else they do try to get says Mr. McGreggor. They keep checking on the checkers. Even; sometimes it takes time to find out.

Kicks—Well-Founded and Unfounded

"We have to watch our step, too, from those whose toes have been stepped on; who make spite charges against persons they may have a grudge against, many, many, many of which have been investigated and discovered to be unfounded." And in the converse, he showed me the file and memo, where he had just the day personally telephoned an old foreign-born woman in Montreal to apologize for the actions of an investigator who was too smart altogether.

"We couldn't handle the job of enforcement if the public didn't co-operate," he pointed out, "but thank heaven 95% of the people are doing a real enforcement job with us." A small percentage, of course, are defiant and won't play ball. Some of it, he claims, is pure carelessness of regulations to be observed in business.

"What of the future?" I asked. He hitched closer to me to emphasize the point as he warned that more difficult times are ahead, with dangers of "black market," etc. "Tell the people they are only helping themselves and they can be of tremendous help to us as the more critical times approach. We would rather have compliance than enforcement any time."

From Dec. 1, 1941, to Dec. 31, 1942, they had 1,552 prosecutions for the whole of Canada, and 1,438 convictions. You and I who know what's going on can reason it out for ourselves whether they are a Gestapo gang or an administration to check with firmness.

Britnell Views Foods Situation I hate to hurry on with so much material of interest available, but the series is just about finished. I might give you a few thoughts from Dr. G. E. Britnell, economic adviser of the Foods Administration, tousled headed, earnest fellow whose office walls are covered with colored charts. Butter rationing? All part of the over-all picture we had, he explained. Figure it out: more lunch pails, more sandwiches; more civilian workers, armed forces; Red Cross necessities; Alaskan Highway; U.S.A. troops in Canada; commitments to West Indies and Newfoundland. Why, the use of fluid milk increased by 10% over the previous year. Our per capita consumption of butter in Canada is 26 lbs., while that of cheese only 4 lbs., and it takes two of cheese to make one of butter.

Beef? Yup, he admitted a tight position there, but remember that in general there is nothing in its over-all position in Canada which would dictate it if we had no responsibilities to the United Nations. It is obvious that we cannot maintain higher consumption levels of meats than others of the United Nations, say the United States.

"It is unlikely that we will avoid meat rationing in the trend of events, he says, and that takes in beef, pork, bacon, veal, lamb and mutton. With the new feeding programme, however, he is certain we will have more beef in the long run. Now, co-operation is the slogan.

As I got up to leave he shook hands and said with a smile: "Remember, fellow, we are still the best fed people in the world." I said bacon, two eggs for breakfast. Could have had more. How in heck can we grouse sincerely?

About Foods Administration And now I'll finish this with a few words about talking with Foods Administrator, Gordon Taggart, who was shortly leaving his job and Ottawa to sit in the agricultural driver's seat in Saskatchewan again. Includes men of expert knowledge of the various food commodities, directly from farm and various food processing and distributing industries. "The food administration staff determines what to do," he said, and much of the action which follows may be carried out by regional offices of the Board, enforcement or rationing divisions.

You see, food supply naturally divided itself into two groups, foods of domestic origin or imports. When domestic supply is threatened as a result of lower price established under the ceiling, either of three things is done. The article can be removed from the ceiling entirely, as done with a number of fresh fruits and vegetables. The price could be increased as with beef, lamb and some other products which have a seasonal price range and which required higher prices to maintain supply, or thirdly, subsidies were added to the existing price.

You remember how the latter was done extensively in the case of milk, dairy products and a number of canned items, such as tomatoes.

Action with respect to maintenance of supply has been taken mainly in conjunction with or in co-operation with the Department of Agriculture. In the case of essential imported foods, he pointed out, the same general principle is applied, to subsidize imports if the price ceiling threatens supply or to lift ceilings from the threatened products. "There it is in a nutshell, and I hope there's a kernel in it."

And he added, did Mr. Taggart, that the most common practice of imports has been for the Commodity Prices Stabilization Corporation to bulk purchase at the best possible price and then sell into the domestic trade at whatever price is necessary to maintain ceilings.

The determination of requirements and the management of distribution has been the responsibility of the Foods Administration. They control prices and keep up supplies of food for the civilian population, and, to assist other government bodies, it also acts to requisition or otherwise acquire food for the soldier boys and girls and other priority needs in cases of particular commodities which are in short supply.

Mr. Taggart made it sound so humdrum that I lost my appetite for dinner. And there's not a secret. Subsidies are not hand-outs, and the trade gets no special benefit from them. They are only paid if there is no other way of securing a sufficient supply of an article without exceeding the ceiling price, and are limited only to essential consumer goods, and next week's article concludes the series.

This is the Sixth of a Series of Articles by Mr. Greenblat

Week at Ottawa ...

New Manpower Regulations Farm labor is the dominant issue of the hour. The most important step taken recently by Ottawa to step the situation has been through the orders in council which provide for the compulsory transfer from non-essential to essential industry of men of military age who cannot serve in the armed forces. As Mr. Mitchell, minister of labor explained the situation: "The time has arrived when all men of military age still employed in non-essential lines of work, must be transferred to employment where their services will be directly in the war effort."

If genuine "bites" is put in the administration of this regulation, and if this is done immediately, the farm labor shortage will be relieved quite a bit.

An Agency of War Few doubts can now exist anywhere in Canada of the importance of farming as an agency of war. The people and armed forces of Britain, long the fortress of democracy and now as well the rallying ground of the assault forces of the Western nations, have to be fed, and Canada is committed to a major part of this task. Our own markets have to receive adequate supplies from the farms. The fulfillment of Canada's great 1943 agricultural program of production is now becoming more generally recognized and will be one of the telling "behind the line" contributions to final victory.

Farm Labor Supply One of the most satisfactory agricultural measures that have been undertaken has been the creation, through close cooperation between federal and provincial authorities, of a myriad of community committees throughout the country. These committees explain production plans to the farmers in their district, find out about labor supplies and labor needs, and encourage cooperation in the use of labor, labor saving devices and in keeping machinery in full use and in constant repair. They also seek to supply more mobile, getting men moved about to farms where they are needed. Where labor is moved about within a province the federal and provincial authorities divide the transportation cost, and where it moves across a provincial boundary the costs are borne by the federal government. It is now estimated that the great bulk of the 175,000 farm workers who took temporary winter jobs in lumbering, mining and fishing have returned to the farms. Now that seeding has begun it will be seen now many experienced farm workers, now in the armed forces in Canada will take advantage of the six weeks' furlough which they can secure if their services are urgently required on the farms. A good deal is expected this year from the auxiliary and army to be recruited from towns and cities. Last summer 50,000 of these voluntary workers on the farms of Ontario, and others joined in fruit packing in Nova Scotia and British Columbia. This year the service is being extended to all the provinces. In the force are high school and university students and teachers and townspeople who can take up the work. A larger number of women are expected to be employed in driving farm machinery. The ranks of farm workers will be increased by some men who have been discharged from the armed forces—in all there are 100,000 of these since the beginning of the war.

And single men called for military training who have been declared unfit for the armed services but still capable of assisting on the farms. Smaller sources of labor will be Indians from Western reserves and conscientious objectors, while some Japanese from the "closed" areas of B.C. are expected to help in the cultivation of sugar beets in Alberta and Ontario. The more generous treatment which will be accorded war veterans after discharge and before re-establishment in civilian pursuits has met with general approval.

"I wouldn't advise anybody to buy more of anything than he can pay cash for—but Victory Bonds! That's different. They're the best investment in the world today. GROWN IN SUNNY, SOUTHERN ONTARIO

We must face these facts in '43

THE COST OF WINNING THE WAR is something we can neither escape nor avoid. Victory has to be paid for... let us face the price squarely. Canada MUST have Five Billion, Five Hundred Million Dollars for this fourth year of war. Where is this huge sum to come from?

(2) There must be participation by many more Canadians in every walk of life. In order to reach even our minimum objective, MORE people must buy MORE bonds.

I realize that it will call for a supreme effort on the part of every Canadian to meet this demand, that the Fourth Victory Loan will be the greatest financial challenge we have ever faced. Yet we dare not falter now. Unswervingly and relentlessly, we must work and save together. For the results of this Fourth Victory Loan will be the inescapable measure of our determination, our unity of purpose, to achieve complete and overwhelming victory.

I know the strength, the discipline, and the united purpose of my fellow-Canadians. I am confident that we can, and will, meet this challenge.

J. A. G. Halley
MINISTER OF FINANCE

(1) The amount purchased by each individual will need to be much greater than in the last Victory Loan, and...

Taxes will yield part of it, but when all taxes are paid we shall still need Two Billion, Seven Hundred and Forty-Eight Millions. And, as a first step towards meeting that need, the minimum cash objective of the Fourth Victory Loan will be One Billion, One Hundred Million Dollars.

True, leading financial and industrial concerns will take up a large portion of this sum. But the amount left to be met by individual purchasers will be very greatly increased. Two things will be necessary:

"Military Medicine"

By Capt. W. D. Brace, R.C.A.M.C.
Chateauguay Barracks

The following is the first in a series taken from an address given by Capt. W. D. Brace, R.C.A.M.C., Chateauguay Barracks, before the members of Chateauguay Lodge, A.F. & A.M. No. 36, entitled "Military Medicine." As announced in the last issue of the Gleaner, Capt. Brace has consented to the use of the article in this manner, and we feel it is an especially fitting publication in its entirety in one issue, so it has been broken up into a series and will be continued each week until the whole has been published. The first part appears below and we feel that everyone will find it very interesting and informative reading.

MILITARY MEDICINE

By W. D. Brace, Capt., R.C.A.M.C.
The aims of the Medical Officer can be divided into two channels; the first and most important objective, from a military standpoint, is securing for the Army a first class fighting man—physically, mentally and morally—and keeping him in that condition. Unremitted attention to the health of personnel and to sanitation is necessary. The Medical Officer will have to consider the very broad aspects of sanitation, food and communicable diseases.

The Medical Department has grown in importance in the Army organization. It is now the M.O. acts only in an advisory capacity to his Commanding Officer. All requests and suggestions for improving the sanitation and health of the command must go through and be issued by the Commanding Officer.

The M.O. is called upon to make examination of men for admission to the Army. At which time he is governed by the rules laid down for the examination. It is necessary to keep a keen look out for any particular characteristics of character or personality defects. Men of this character always cause trouble in group formations and group manner of living.

Health is something more than not being ill—but not being ill is the first step to health. In the past we've done much more about preventing ill-health than about making people as healthy as possible. But this war has changed our outlook. Victory demands not only more efficient arms and machines than our enemies, but more efficient human beings all along the line.

"The first difficulty is to tell when a person really is healthy. It's comparatively easy to tell if a person is unhealthy. Short sight, heart trouble, or flat feet can be detected by any doctor. But if one is faced with a group of people none of whom shows obvious ill-health it's a much more difficult business to pick out the really healthy ones. People by nature may be tall or short, thick set or thin, dark haired or light, and all equally healthy. Having excluded the minor forms of ill-health, we are driven back on general impressions. Take a hundred Army recruits. Perhaps 10 will obviously have something wrong with them. Then about 80 of them will look just average and ordinary. Finally, about 10 will strike the eye as being "super-healthy"; glossy clear skins, firm muscles, just the right amount of fat, and an easy, balanced, alert posture. It's that little extra polish on health we, as a nation, have got to aim at—not merely because it's pleasant to have, but because it increases our national efficiency and decreases our national bill of ill-health."

A great variety of disqualifying defects are found such as, Tuberculosis, Cardiovascular diseases, abdominal lesions, eye, ear, nose, throat trouble, mental disorders and disorders of the feet.

In every organization, whether combat or otherwise there is a "Sick Call" where all men complaining of any disability appear for examination. Some receive care and return to duty, others receive treatment and light duty while the acutely ill are admitted to hospital.

Military hospitals in Canada with capacities ranging from 15 to 100 or more beds are situated in all units. The majority of these handle only medical cases. The more seriously sick and all surgical cases are transferred to regular established hospitals where they are handled by doctors attached to the Department of Pensions and National Health.

Carnival Column

A cablegram was received this week from Douglas Hayter, son of Mr. Archie Hayter as follows: Mrs. Lawrence Brown, Sec., Ladies' Auxiliary Canadian Legion, Many thanks for the parcel which arrived on my birthday. Please accept my sincere appreciation to the Ladies' Auxiliary.

A letter of thanks was also received from Capt. Morris Hunter acknowledging a gift of fruit which he received while a patient in a military hospital.

Carnival committees representing the Legion, Auxiliary, co-operating citizens and organizations, will be appointed at a joint meeting to be held on Thursday.

Mrs. Lawrence Brown and Mr. Jas. R. Fox presided at a joint meeting of the Ticket Committee, on Monday night. The form for the donation drawing was submitted and approved. Arrangements were made for the canvass of the Town of Huntingdon, Hinchinbrook, Elgin, Godmanchester, Dundee and St. Anselm, Hinchinbrook, Chateauguay County and all surrounding territory will be covered within the next two weeks.

The Carnival objective is stated on each receipt. Gifts and donations are acknowledged on the back of each receipt.

Give and Take—A Chance
The generosity of all these citizens and corporations who have offered substantial proof of their sympathy with this cause will be brought directly to the notice of the people at large, by personal solicitation, in the conviction that everyone will desire to add a contribution.

A very important objective of the campaign which is to end in a Carnival on July 5th, is to bring to the attention of whole families so recently involved in the tragedy of war, the great value of the Canadian Legion to all those in the armed services, both in wartime and after.

Pte. Stanley O'Connor, who has served with a unit in Newfoundland and British Columbia, who went overseas last fall, was injured in an accident during field exercises. He is now a patient in a military hospital.

Your Privilege and Duty
Any person having news of the girls and boys of Chateauguay-Huntingdon, now overseas, is invited to send suitable items to this column and to register name, number and birthday with the Ladies' Auxiliary.

Rise in Exports Cleared Through Dundee Customs

Value of Exports From April 1st, 1942 to March 31st, 1943 Amounted to $12,580,000—11% Increase Over 1941-1942 Period

Canada's export business to the U.S.A. is setting new records these last few months, judging by reports received from J. Ward McGill, Collection of Customs, at Dundee Lines and Port Covington, who recently released some interesting facts showing the phenomenal growth in the movement of raw materials and manufactured goods through this one point alone to U.S. points. During the period from April 1, 1942, to March 31st, 1943, the value of the exports through the Dundee office amounted to $12,580,000, the bulk of which was aluminium and pulpwood. This represents an increase over the same period in 1941-42 of $11,445,000 or a total of 11% per cent. These exports are largely on

About 20 Officers and Cadets

Mr. Samuel Charters, Editor, Publisher and M.P., Passes at 79

A long life of usefulness and public service ended on Wednesday last when Mr. Samuel Charters, president of the Charters Publishing Co., Brampton, passed away in his 79th year. Starting as a printer's apprentice he became a successful editor and publisher. As Bishop Beverley said in his funeral address, "Mr. Charters was one of those men who regard public service as a duty and who believe that citizenship has responsibilities which are inescapable." Both personally and through his excellent newspaper the Conservator, of which he was editor for 53 years, he promoted the interests of Brampton and the County of Peel. Active also in provincial and federal affairs, he sat for Peel in both the Legislature and the House of Commons during over a score of years. A staunch Conservative, he was honored by being made Party Whip, and at the same time enjoyed the respect and goodwill of people of all political parties.

formed part of the Fourth Victory Loan procession on Sunday afternoon. The number of Cadets participating would have been greater if the new uniforms had been obtainable and rural students had been able to attend.

On Tuesday evening, at 8.15, a series of films sponsored by the Film Board will be screened in the auditorium. The first of the films is entitled "Great Guns", and is a film which depicts the entire story of Canada's production of guns. The second, "Five Men of Australia", is descriptive of the Australian Army in the heart of the jungles of New Guinea. "Do Unto Animals" will be shown for the benefit of farmers who raise hogs, sheep and cattle. "What Makes Us Grow" is a 10-minute picture made especially for children, and stresses the importance of proteins and minerals. "New-reel Review of 1942" will also be shown. "Plucker on Beef" is a highly interesting film. Plucker is a new comic character of the screen. In this unusual animated film, the audience is introduced to the quarry of the townsmen who wish to buy beef for his evening meal, but finds there is no beef in the butcher shop.

here and really meant it when he said he appreciated the people of Huntingdon asking him to come and address them.

A film depicting a day's war activities in Russia, in which the cameraman took part and 30 of their number lost their lives, was shown. It showed the horrors of war and what the people were facing stoutly and heroically in that country, in their effort to keep their country free.

The Valleyfield Band played a few numbers before the program and concluded with the National Anthem. The band was greatly appreciated and was witnessed by the amount of applause given.

Members of the Huntingdon Boy Scout Troop acted as ushers at the reception was held to honour Hon. J. A. Mathewson and Mrs. Mathewson. Both the guests were introduced to those present, Mrs. Mathewson being introduced by Mrs. McNair and Mr. Mathewson by Mayor W. E. S. McNair. Mrs. E. M. Wood honored those present with a solo entitled "There is a Land" and was accompanied on the piano by Mrs. N. W. Sparrow. A buffet luncheon was served, after which the guests were escorted to the Soldiers' Club for an inspection.

Georgetown Bible Class Presents Mystery Play

A play by the Georgetown Bible Class, entitled "Aunt Susie Shoots the Works," was given in the Howick Temperance Hall, Friday evening, and was a decided success. The hall was filled to capacity, some having to be turned away. The different parts were well played by all. Martha Logan gave a fine performance in the role of Aunt Susie, a man-hating spinster, who lived alone. Joy Herbert her delightful young niece was well played by Connie Salter; Scarlet Deane, Joy's colored maid was played by Helena Holmes and caused the audience to rock with laughter. Laura Dawson, another maid, was well played by Esie Whyte. Madam Zola, who sees all, knows all, and tells nothing, was taken by Jean Wilson. Mrs. Cynthia Dunning, a neighbour, was played by Kathleen Forrester. Porthia Lark a female lawyer, by Beatrice McCall; Burton Forrester who took the part of Omas Graves, a successful business man, was well played, Lesalle Johnson, taken by George McArthur, played a fine part as a negro. Johnny Rogers engaged to Joy was well taken by Allister McArthur. Slick Conway, taken by Wilburn Anderson, played the part of a detective. Much credit is due to Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Barrington and Mrs. Allister McArthur, also all those who helped to make the play a success. In between acts the audience enjoyed a solo by Mary Hudson and dancing by the Cullen children. Proceeds amounted to $130.

The Bomber Press In Great-Britain ...

Another in a series of articles written by W. R. Legge and C. V. Char- ters, who represented the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association in a recent tour overseas.

At Canadian Military Headquarters

(Article No. 19)

By Walter R. Legge

After meeting the men who control the destinies of Canada's overseas forces, one becomes convinced that each is the perfect man for his particular job, and there begins to be a feeling of admiration for the judgment of the powers that selected them.

This seems to be particularly true of the Senior Officer at Canadian Military Headquarters, Major General Hon. P. J. Montague, C.M.G., D.S.O., M.C., V.D., who was made a Companion of the Honourable Order of the Bath in the New Year's honours list.

We met him soon after our arrival in England, and he became extremely popular with the two weekly editors when he remarked that he once used to type type for Bill Fry in the Dunville Chronicle office. He went on to say that he was glad to welcome the weekly newspaper representatives because he still swears by and not at the weekly newspapers. Without them, he declared, there would be no historical records, and they represent the real power, the men from the farms. He regretted the loss of the files of the Monck County Reform Press and the Grand River Sackem.

In his talk with the editors, General Montague emphasized that there was not an ounce of politics in the Canadian Overseas Forces. He also praised the hospitals in this war.

Major General the Hon. P. J. Montague was born at Dunville, Ont., on November 10th, 1882, and is a descendant through his mother of some of the earliest United Empire Loyalists in the Niagara District. Educated at Upper Canada College, Toronto University, and Osgoode Hall Law School, he embraced a combined legal and military career, and was commissioned a Lieutenant in the 4th Field Battery R.C.A. at Hamilton in 1905.

Moving to Winnipeg, which he now calls his home town, he transferred to the 18th Mounted Rifles, and when the first world war broke out he was a Lieutenant in the Fort Garry Horse. His combined legal and military training made him a valuable officer. He had a distinguished record in the last war, and was decorated three times and was five times mentioned in despatches.

After the last war, he re-organized the Fort Garry Horse, and is now its Honorary Colonel.

Equally outstanding was his rise in the legal profession. In 1932 he was appointed to the Court of King's Bench for Manitoba.

At the outbreak of the present war he took the Headquarters personnel overseas in 1939 and is now Senior Officer at C.M.H.Q., and

Judge Advocate General. In this position he is the highest legal authority both for the R.C.A.F. and the Canadian Army Overseas. The bomb-scarred building in which Canadian Military Headquarters is housed is usually referred to as "Fort Montague."

Not only Dunville and Winnipeg, but all Canada should be proud of him.

"Fort Montague" or C.M.H.Q. situated close to Canada House, was a place that the editors frequently visited. On the outside there is little to suggest that it is a military building. The entrance is protected by heavy brick buttresses, and in the doorway stands a sentry.

Inside all is hustle and bustle. Just inside the entrance, to the right, is the Public Relations Office, in charge of jovial Major Wm. Abels. Major Abels was a Canadian advertising executive, who went to England some years ago to popularize a well known brand of soup, previously unknown in England. How well he succeeded is a story in itself.

The staff is made up of a grand bunch of men, including Capt. Gibb, Lieut. Wm. Austin, and Lieut. A. M. Stirton. Lieut. Austin travelled with us, and looked after us in a most efficient way during most of the six weeks we were overseas. We frequently referred to him as our "keeper", and grew to have a very high regard for him. It must have been a trying ordeal to look after twelve editors with twelve different temperaments for six weeks, but "Bill" never let anything ruffle his serene good nature.

Lieut. Stirton, who comes from Calgary, was our photographer, and both as a photographer and travelling companion he was "top".

On our first visit to C.M.H.Q., we were taken deep into the basement, where our photographs were taken individually for our various passes. Probably the most insignificant looking pass we had was the one issued by the British Ministry of Information. This bore our photograph and a number of

Maple Leaf Grange

The Proceedings of the New York State Grange was the subject of a programme at the Maple Leaf Grange. Interesting reports of various officers were given. It is to be noted that on the political front the National Grange is opposed to all attempts to impose upon farmers minimum wage scales and maximum hours regulations and fixing of arbitrary limit on radius of distribution by motor trucks.

Mr. Fay Haggood paid his official visit as Deputy State Master, and gave good advice on the conduct of projects for the year. These include Food Production Programme, Home Safety and Fire Prevention, increased membership in Grange and co-operation in war activities. Mrs. Madeline Fallon, of Westville, Lecturer for Pomona Grange, outlined the programme for coming sessions, the first of which will be held at Maple Leaf Grange, in June.

Plans accompaniments were by Mrs. W. F. McDonald and Miss Margaret Wilson gave as a solo, "Beneath the Cross." The Hospitality Committee, Mrs. Douglas Cooper, Mrs. Chas. Gavin, Mrs. Fred Berger and Mrs. Gordon Cairns, and Mrs. McFarlane Percy Nesbit served delicious refreshments.

A discussion on Food Production is arranged for next meeting with Mr. Gilbert McMillan as speaker.

ADVERTISING'S THE THING!

A man consulted a real estate agent for a write-up of the property he wanted to sell. When the agent submitted his description of the property, the owner exclaimed: "Read that again." After the second reading, the owner said:

"I don't think I'll sell. I've been looking for that kind of place all my life, but until you read that description I didn't know I had it."

signatures. That pass, we soon found out, would work wonders, and take us any place. On one occasion, I was visiting some relatives in a restricted area, and unknowingly tried to return on a day when only those holding a priority card could travel. That little pass not only allowed me on the train, but got me on board ahead of anyone else.

The R.C.A.F. has its own Public Relations Office in the R.C.A.F. Headquarters in another part of London, and here are Squadron Leaders R. MacInnes and Roger Irwin, and P/O. Clare, the last named being a travelling companion of ours for about three weeks.

C.M.H.Q. does not now show many signs of the air raids, but on at least one day during the blitz, General Montague's desk was covered with jagged bits of masonry blown there by bombs which landed in the neighbourhood. On one side of "Fort Montague" now stands a temporary one storey building erected on the site of a large building which was demolished. Another bomb landed just across the street. Today the bomb scars in the vicinity are more or less removed even if repairs and replacements are not completed.

"Well, sir, the war changed a lot of things. Many of the plans we had worked out for 1943 just won't happen this year. There are bigger, more important things to think about. This was the year we had planned to do some spending, but we're going to do a lot of saving instead—saving and hoarding to win the war.

"If you had told me before the war that I would pay the taxes I'm paying, keep up my life insurance, and still keep going I wouldn't have believed it. But here I am, doing all these things, and besides that I'm buying and hoarding more and more Victory Bonds and War Savings Certificates. The sacrifices we make are little enough to pay for freedom and a future for the wife and kids."
