Canada celebrates its 104th birthday

OTTAWA (CP) — Music and sports shared the spotlight in Dominion Day celebrations in the national capital, where overcast morning skies gave way to a sunny 79-degree afternoon.

About 20,000 persons applauded enthusiastically at Lansdowne Park in the morning as the Canadian Forces staged a 700-man display of music, marching, artillery drills and flypasts.

The other major event came in the evening, when the bells of the Peace Tower began an open-air variety show featuring choirs and bands from across the country.

Gov.-Gen. Roland Michener, who opened the military display in the morning, welcomed Ottawa school children to a garden party in the afternoon. Highland dancing, judo, karate, fencing and a circus were the fare for the youngsters.

More than 30 capital-region sports organizations put on displays in Sportex 71 at Lansdowne Park in the afternoon, while the city of Ottawa held a picnic in Brewer Park.

DUAL PURPOSE

The morning's military display had a dual purpose, marking the 100th year of Canada's regular armed forces as well as the 104th year of Confederation.

The Canadian Airborne Regiment from Edmonton provoked gasps from the crowd as their 25-man team went through a realistic simulation of unarmed combat.

Death of spacemen remains a mystery

MOSCOW (CP) — Tens of thousands of Russians, many of them daubing eyes with handkerchiefs, filed solemnly past the flower-heaped biers of three fallen spacemen Thursday. High Soviet officials formed guard of honor.

The cosmonauts, Georgy Dobrovolsky, Vladislav Volkov and Viktor Patsayev, died mysteriously at the controls of their Soyuz 11 spaceship early Wednesday as they plunged back to earth after a 23-day space mission.

Their bodies lay in state for eight hours in a hall of the Central Army House in a tree-shaped section of midtown Moscow.

What killed the men has not yet been disclosed. Their bodies, found by a recovery crew, were still strapped into the seats of their spaceship after an apparently flawless soft landing on the steppes of eastern Kazakhstan.

MRS. ANN BEAULIEU'S ANTIQUE SHOP IN NORTH HATLEY (Record Photo: C. Cotton)

Antique shop source of unusual specialty

By CROSBIE COTTON

NORTH HATLEY — High on a hill overlooking majestic Lake Massawippi near the sprawling golf course at the outskirts of panoramic North Hatley sits a white, frame building known to many far and near as The Lampshade Shop.

The Lampshade Shop is a small, quiet antique store which specializes in a very original type of product. Inside, Mrs. Ann Beaulieu, an efficient powerful-looking woman sits working, scissors in hand, on one of her well known lampshades.

Mrs. Beaulieu is the owner of The Lampshade Shop. She opened the shop in North Hatley nearly 14 years ago.

"Although I carry the normal type of antiques, what I am most noted for is my old lamps and different kinds of lampshades," Mrs. Beaulieu said.

As you walk around the store you are amazed at the many different types of lamps for sale. There is an old wool spool which has been transformed into a lamp and an old seasoning can which now lights its surroundings. The walls are lined with old oil lamps, with candlestick lamps and many others original in their selves.

The lamps are only a minor factor in Mrs. Beaulieu's operations. Most of her time is spent making lampshades. Most of her shades are made to measure according to the whims of her customers.

The lampshades are made of silk bought in Paris, other materials bought from around the world, and parchment. Mrs. Beaulieu sometimes leaves the lampshades plain, but most of the time she decorates them with portraits, cutouts and paintings.

The cutouts she laminates to the sides of lampshades range from recent to 100 years old. Most of them she gets from rare old books. Some are hand-painted, others prints, but most of all they are old, beautiful and fascinating.

Beginning by making the outer structure of the lampshade and ending with the finished takes over a week for Mrs. Beaulieu, although she makes several at the same time.

Sometimes it takes an evening's work just to cut out the print which will be placed on the lampshade.

Mrs. Beaulieu is the only woman in eastern Canada who makes lampshades using antique prints. She has shipped her shades to points all over North America. Last week she had an order from the North West Territories.

She has been associated with the antique business all her life. "My father was a dealer so it was brought up in the family," she said.

Her technique of making lampshades was learned from an older antique dealer in the United States.

Mrs. Beaulieu will be one of the persons who will have a display at the Eastern Townships 11th Annual Antique Show July 8-10 in North Hatley.

E.T. REPORT

Armed robbery nets $35,000

THETFORD MINES (PT) — An armed robbery of an estimated $35,000 took place at about 9 a. m. Wednesday, from a postal truck in East-Broughton Station, a tiny hamlet about 15 miles from here.

According to information obtained from local authorities, a solitary bandit stole a 1965 brown Chevrolet from the parking lot of Asbestos Corporation in Thetford Mines. The car was owned by Jean-Marie Plante, an employee of that company.

The thief then drove to East Broughton Station, where he waited for the truck to arrive to deliver the mail to the local post office.

The minute the driver got out of his truck, carrying three mail bags, the bandit approached brandishing a gun and ordering the man to drop the bags.

He then escaped with the money, all cash, in lots of $100 and $1,000 bills.

St-Joseph-de-Beauce detachment of the Quebec Police Force, in charge of investigations, refused to make any comment on the affair, confirming only that there had indeed been a robbery, and saying that detectives were already on the trail of the bandit. No arrest had been made as of Thursday night.

Man electrocuted to death

LAMBTON (PT) — A young man from St-Robert-Bellarmin was electrocuted at about 10:20 Wednesday morning while he was doing surveying work for the department of roads.

The victim, who was identified as Denis Hamel, 21, inadvertently touched a Hydro-Quebec high tension wire with a metal pole he was holding. The death occurred almost immediately.

One of the victim's fellow workers, Leopold Breton of Stornoway, received a minor electric shock at the same time.

The accident occurred about 1,000 feet from a bridge crossing the Riviere Sauvage.

Denis Hamel was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henri-Paul Hamel of St-Robert-Bellarmin.

Bromptonville man drowns

BROMPTONVILLE (PT) — A young man of 21 drowned here Tuesday at about 8:45 p. m. in the St. Francis River near the bridge crossing it.

Michel Lepine, son of Gerard Lepine of St-Jean-Baptiste Street, Bromptonville, drowned shortly after the canoe in which he and Michel Jolin, also of Bromptonville, hit the rapids just above the new bridge here and capsized.

Jolin, wearing a life jacket, reached the shore, but Lepine vanished beneath the surface of the water while trying to swim ashore.

A search was started immediately by Richmond detachment of the Quebec Police Force, but even after a two-day search, the body has not yet been found.

"We may have to wait about 10 days before the body comes to the surface. The water's about 75 feet deep and very dirty," an attending police officer explained.

Burning sensation may be caused by nerves

Dear Dr. Lamb—Something very strange is happening to me. The tips of my fingers get burning hot. The first time it happened I thought I had burned myself, because my husband's pipe was on the counter at the time I placed my hand there. But now it's more frequent and happens just anytime. What is it? I also have varicose veins and arthritis. Should I see a doctor or is it one of those things if I ignore it it will go away?

Dear Reader—Yes, I think you should see a doctor. The burning sensation is probably secondary to irritation of the nerves. Sometimes changes in the vertebrae in the neck can cause pressure on the nerves that go to the fingers and cause burning.

Any point between the spinal cord and the hand where pressure is exerted can cause this type of problem.

Arthritis of the neck could be a cause. Even changes in the tendons at the wrist (called a carpal tunnel syndrome) can cause it.

Sleeping habits are sometimes responsible—the person who sleeps with the arms above the head in such a way that the nerves are under pressure or stretched.

When iron beds were common some people would grasp the rods at the head of the bed. This would cause pressure on blood vessels and the nerves to the hand. Occasionally such a person would come to the doctor with atrophy of some of the muscles in the hands.

The only thing to do, is have your doctor do a good examination to see if there is any cause for pressure that can be found.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I am a 13-year-old girl and in the eighth grade. The reason I am writing is because I weigh 180 and am five feet tall. Can you suggest anything that I can do?

Dear Reader—You are right to start doing something about this now. You probably should have a checkup by a doctor or even an endocrinologist (a specialist in gland functions) to be certain you don't have a medical problem like low function of the thyroid gland located in the neck. Usually the weight problem is caused by too many calories and not enough exercise.

Often it is not how much you eat but what you eat that makes the difference.

Try to eliminate as much fat and sweets from your diet as possible, cut down on bread if you are eating it and start a regular walking program each day in addition to your other activities.

Perhaps you can build up to doing some regular sport you might like—tennis would be a good game to learn. If you follow this program faithfully EVERY DAY it should help you a great deal.

Police veteran retires

SHERBROOKE (PT) — Capt. Armand Genest of the municipal police force Wednesday retired after 33 years service for the City of Sherbrooke.

His departure was confirmed by associate director Jean-Paul Pelletier.

Capt. Genest, who started working on April 28, 1938, worked his way up bit by bit.

According to Mr. Pelletier, Capt. Genest was greatly devoted to the population of Sherbrooke as well as to the police force, and has won the respect of all for the services he has rendered.

His departure leaves two big gaps in the police ranks, the other having been vacated by the death of detective captain Roland Gaboriault.

Mr. Genest started off as constable-fireman. He was promoted to corporal on Nov. 24, 1971.

Following the separation of police and fire department in 1944, he became sergeant.

SOON TO BE A BEEHIVE OF ACTIVITY — The North Hatley Community Centre will host the 11th annual Eastern Townships antique show next weekend. (Photo: Crosbie Cotton)

Antique show grows in popularity and quality

NORTH HATLEY (WC) — The North Hatley Community Hall will be overflowing with antique collectors, admirers, lovers and dealers next Thursday night, July 8, as the community club holds the gala opening of its 11th annual antique show.

The Victorian building, which could be classified as an antique itself, has served as a school and a town hall before becoming the community meeting place. Early Thursday evening visitors from all over eastern Canada and the northern United States will congregate in this village 13 miles south of Sherbrooke for the opening of the Eastern Townships Antique Show.

The show will open at 5 p.m. Thursday and will stay open to 10 p.m. Friday the doors will be open at 11 a.m. and close at 9 p.m. Saturday, July 10, everyone will be able to visit from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The best antiques of 26 eastern Canada dealers will be on display at different booths which will turn the two-story building into a miniature marketplace.

"This is truly the prestige antique show in eastern Canada at this time of the year," show convener Ann Beaulieu told The Record earlier this week.

The best of all the antique dealers will be on display. "The dealers who are going to operate the individual booths know that each antique which is on display is an advertisement for their store. A person buying something at the show will probably return to the dealer's store to inspect the goods," Mrs. Beaulieu said.

She pointed out that many of the dealers collect their best antiques throughout the year to bring to display and to sell at the annual show.

Since a humble beginning in 1960 when there were only 15 booths, the show has not ceased to increase in popularity, in quantity and in quality.

"We felt there was a need for an antique show every year in Quebec. We knew that the dealers needed a place to display their best merchandise and the public needed a place to buy antiques," Mrs. Beaulieu explained.

Eleven years ago Mrs. Beaulieu and Miss

Emily LeBaron set about to organize a yearly antique show. The first year it took a lot of effort.

Although there were 15 dealers at the show the first year, it was only because of persistent persuasion generated by two women dedicated to a cause that the first show was a success.

Last year's show attracted 23 dealers to hold displays. Over 3,000 people attended, bought antiques or just admired the beauty of the offerings on display. This year 26 dealers are scheduled to participate.

"Last year the women sold meals in the hall. This year the meals will be catered in the elementary school. The space vacated because we changed the meal site has given us space for three more booths," Mrs. Beaulieu said.

There are more than 15 dealers awaiting a chance to display their antiques at the show but "there is just no space," according to Mrs. Beaulieu.

The show will get underway with a bang Thursday with a gala opening. The opening will include a buffet supper as well as first chance at the antiques.

Tickets for the opening will be by reservation only. "We can only accommodate 300 people Thursday-night. Already we are nearly sold out with people coming from as far away as North Carolina in the States and Toronto in Canada," Mrs. Beaulieu said.

Tickets for the gala opening are six dollars each.

All the profits raised from the Eastern Townships Antique Show will be given to the Community Club, which manages the community hall and is composed of one representative from all the organizations in the village.

The money will be used to maintain and to heat the hall which is available to everyone in the village.

Mrs. Beaulieu, along with an army of diligent workers, has been working since January to assure the success of the 11th annual show. But once the show starts, it will be the dealers and visiting prospective buyers who determine the success of the event. Mrs. Beaulieu will have done her part.

Granite workers agree to contract proposals

BEEBE (IH) — Workers at the various granite stone companies here returned to their jobs Wednesday after voting 53 to 31 to accept proposals offered by union negotiators and representatives of the six companies of the Granite Guild of Stanstead County.

Local union 7550 of the United Steelworkers of America had been on strike since June 16.

The contract agreed upon is of three years duration, providing an increase of $1.11 per hour, including fringe benefits, a 20-cent increase to be paid immediately, retroactive to Jan. 1, 1971, and another five-cent raise to be paid on signing the contract.

The contract also calls for another 27-cent increase, and a drop to a 42-hour work week.

effective Jan. 1, 1972, and a further 33-cent increase and change to a 41-hour work week starting Jan. 1, 1973.

Many grievances, however, remain unsettled. Article 203 of the existing agreement, which states under which conditions persons outside the bargaining unit are permitted to displace union members on the job, is in dispute, and union representatives claim the companies are abusing this clause of the contract.

The six granite stone companies, which employ 114 workers in Stanstead County, are Fairmount, owned by Rock of Ages, of Barre, Vermont; Adru Granite; Beebe Granite; Border Granite; Eastern Granite and Dominion Granite.

Boardinghouse termed 'refuge'

SHERBROOKE (PT) — The boardinghouse at 55 Brooks Street seems to be in many people's bad books currently, and so a Sherbrooke journalist Wednesday visited the premises to try and find out exactly what is going on there.

The residence will have been going for three years this November, and is administered by Robert Roy. To begin with, Mr. Roy didn't know what to do with the residence, which didn't seem to be 'any good to anyone, so he decided to make it into a boardinghouse for the down-and-out in Sherbrooke.

At the present time, about 30 people live there, all on welfare. The house is capable of lodging about 40 persons.

"As far as I'm concerned, it's a place where the less fortunate can find a refuge," Mr. Roy said.

The proprietor also said that to date there has been but one drug problem at 55 Brooks, and that a certain local resident's accusations concerning this matter were completely unfounded.

"Just to begin with, we had all kinds of people here, but now I have learned to choose my boarders," he added.

ALCOHOLICS? Several known alcoholics live at the house, but it is completely forbidden for them to bring any kind of alcoholic beverage there.

"Originally, the residents were on their honor about this rule," Mr. Roy stated, "but I have been keeping close watch myself on the situation since January. When a boarder is caught trying to sneak booze into the house, I take it away from him and empty it into the sink."

The law will never move as rapidly as a bullet, nor will its dispositions ever be as demolishing as a bomb. Justice should be reasoned, and reasoning takes a certain length of time.

—Eduard L. Wright, president of the American Bar Association

"But, please note that I'm not trying to play the part of a policeman."

DRUGS

Mr. Roy said that although there has been only one drug case at his house, drugs and pills are freely available for those who really need them, at the OPTAT and the Centre Hospitalier Universitaire.

He added that it was not his fault if his boarders chose to overdose themselves with such medication.

Other medicine, prescribed by Dr. Paul Michaud, attending physician at the boardinghouse, are under the control of Mr. Roy and another person, both of whom say they ensure that excessive quantities are not taken of any medicine.

Price of boarding at the house is fixed at $108 per month, including meals. Several advantages to the place are apparent: three solid meals per day, smokers' room, television room, grounds outside, etc.

Struck by car

SHERBROOKE (PT) — A little girl visiting Sherbrooke suffered several scratches when she was hit by a car Wednesday about 10 a.m. on Alexandre Street.

The driver of the car was Conrad Gosselin, of 367 Marquette Street, Sherbrooke.

At the moment the accident occurred, Michele Fortier was crossing the street. She was taken to St-Vincent-de-Paul Hospital.

Michele comes from Ste-Rose, Quebec. Sherbrooke police made the usual investigations into the affair.

Graduates

Miss Wendy Pauline Trew, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald E. Trew of Magog was one of the 76 graduates of the final internship year to be offered at the Kingston General Hospital School of Nursing, Kingston, Ontario, on June 25. The hospital has converted to a two-year nursing course.

Court briefs

SHERBROOKE (PT) — An American visitor who ventured to the Eastern Townships with two pistols and a jackknife escaped lightly with a fine of $50 or three days in jail.

Karl Laidlaw, 19, of Portland, Maine, also faces deportation to the United States because of illegal entry into Canada.

He explained to Judge Benoit Turmel that the weapons were necessary since he had recently been robbed.

His lawyer, Claude Beauchamp, pointed out that it was his first offence.

Three individuals were sent to assizes court Wednesday to answer charges of extortion of $300, a diamond-studded set of false teeth and a receipt for a car sale.

Jean Cloutier, 26, and Dale Hamilton and Gerard Bolduc, both 20, all of Rock Island, were admitted to their preliminary hearing before Judge Benoit Turmel, and will remain free until their trial.

They were arrested following a complaint by Ferand Mongeon of Longueuil, the principal witness in the case.

Resting under the protection of the court, Mongeon recounted his story to the court.

He had gone to a Sherbrooke hotel on June 21 to keep an appointment made by Cloutier, and launched into a discussion about television sets, which led the two men into the woods later that night.

Mongeon was asked to return Cloutier the sum of $1,500, which he had invested in pornography.

The pressure got heavier as Hamilton and Bolduc joined the duo. Mongeon, who had been willing to cooperate that night, made certain concessions to his threateners.

He gave them $300 which he found in his pockets, his own diamond-studded dentures, worth $1,200, and a receipt for the sale of his 1970 Chrysler, estimated worth $3,000.

Mongeon was supposed to be returned his false teeth and car after having paid his debt.

He was taken to a telephone booth where he tried in vain to obtain some fast cash.

Mongeon returned home and received continuous threatening calls, after several of which he notified the authorities.

After the budget

Parliament has passed a budget designed in theory to reverse the nation's economic gears but it has left most of the public's practical questions unanswered. Business does not know, and will not know without weeks of study, what the revised and complex white paper on taxation really means, apart from a proposed cut in corporation taxes over a five-year period. Private taxpayers are relieved of the income surtax now, many are promised exemption from income taxes altogether next year and various reductions are planned for the middle brackets. But all these changes of detail must depend upon the final decisions of Parliament in the autumn with the possibility of an election overhanging them and with the probability, meanwhile, of basic changes in the entire federal-provincial revenue structure. Given all these factors, the budget, as a fiscal document, is full of uncertainty.

As an economic document its meaning is even more uncertain, for a variety of reasons. In reducing most tax rates, Finance Minister Edgar Benson accepts a direct loss of revenue to be covered partially by a capital gains tax but mainly by a very rapid rate of economic growth. On the assumption of that growth the whole policy of the government, and the whole prospects of the nation, will turn.

It is a large assumption and large measures have been taken to make it good. The increased spending of about $1.2 billion in a single year, the deficit estimated, or underestimated, at $750 million and the massive expansion of the money supply show that the government intends to inflate the economy, make it move under forced draft and let prices move up with it. All hopes of stable prices, for the next year at least, have been abandoned, all Prime Minister Trudeau's warnings against the "disaster" of inflation quietly forgotten.

Will the new stimulants, with their obvious costs, actually achieve the desired result of adequate economic growth? That is the central question, unanswered in the budget.

It cannot be answered in advance, of course, because it involves too many imponderables. How will business react to the tax changes when they are finally settled? How much will it invest under the Canadian five-year plan and how much profit will it earn for investment? How much of his tax reductions will the private consumer spend or save? Above all, since they are the underpinnings of the economy, how will the great export industries meet the competition of the world market when their production costs, already high, are raised again by the planned inflation?

These imponderables combined reduce Mr. Benson's forecasts of growth, revenue, employment and prosperity to nothing more than a hopeful guess. If that is the best he can be expected to do at the moment, the example of the giant economy next door is not reassuring. The American government, elected on the promise of a balanced budget, is incurring a deficit this year proportionately larger than that of Canada. It is expanding the money supply on a huge scale. Yet with all the stimulants the economy has not grown according to plan in the first half of the year, unemployment rose in the spring and a nervous stock market refuses to count on any sudden improvement in the fall.

Meanwhile, prices have risen faster in the United States than in Canada (though the Canadian rate seems to be catching up with the American). The Federal Reserve Board, appalled by the recent figures, is urging some form of incomes policy to curb the wage-cost spiral. But President Nixon, facing the prospect of an early strike in the bell-wether steel industry, has rejected this advice, so far, and more serious than the immediate internal strains are the effects on the United States' balance of payments. The simple fact is that American goods of many kinds are being priced out of both domestic and foreign markets, the dollar weakened and the world's monetary system gravely distorted.

When the magic cure-all of deliberate inflation has failed to work in the largest and richest of all economies, the government of Canada cannot be sure that a similar policy will work here. Nevertheless, the nation is fully committed to it in the budget, with further instalments to follow in the autumn. And up to now the only criticism of this policy heard in Parliament from the Conservative, NDP and Social Credit parties is that it does not go far enough, that still more inflation is required. The government may be reckless in its economic gamble. The opposition, scenting an election, is totally irresponsible.

French press opinion

This is a selection of editorials on current topics, translated from the French-language press of Canada.

Ottawa Le Droit: Bowing to the blackmail of activists who claimed to speak for groups they had not even consulted, Premier Robert Bourassa said no to the constitutional charter drafted in Victoria.

He may have avoided a bloody St. Jean Baptiste Day holiday in Quebec in 1971, but only time will tell whether he really served his province well.

The charter proposed in Victoria wasn't perfect, we agree. But accepting it in principle would not prevent amendments and improvements later. Short-sighted nationalists opposed it for the pleasure of being negative, as they usually are, and Mr. Bourassa gave in.

These nationalists, up in arms over the principle of consultation, want governments and municipalities to consult the people nearly every time they want to change a comma in an official text, but they themselves are careful not to consult the members of the groups they speak for.

It was even more wrong of Mr. Bourassa to give in when, as he admitted himself, the only serious obstacle was the question of income security. The question is a serious one for Quebec, but serious and civilized people would have been able to settle it following an agreement in principle on the proposed charter.

Fortunately, all is not lost. With a little goodwill, the Quebec-Ottawa dialogue remains possible. But it would have been even more possible if Quebec had accepted the Victoria document in principle. Marcel Gingras, June 24.

Montreal Le Devoir: When Anglo-Canadian opinion, practically unanimously, condemned the "no" of Mr. Bourassa, the federal NDP leader became the first to declare that he did not see how Quebec could have given a different reply to the Victoria ultimatum.

Of the four federal party leaders, David Lewis is the one who most clearly understands and accepts Quebec's distinct situation in the constitutional imbroglio which the Victoria conference brought to a head.

Mr. Lewis doesn't hesitate to state he would have given Quebec certain powers that it claims. The NDP leader limited himself to listening, the three areas-family allowances, manpower training allowances which had been made the basis of a pseudo-entente at Victoria.

In protecting himself from all criticism, he also insisted on the necessity of maintaining certain "national standards" under the authority of the central government.

If he had been prime minister of Canada would Mr. Lewis have agreed to Quebec's over-all demand at Victoria? One could not infer this from his replies. What could be grasped was the clear recognition of the existence of a distinct situation in Quebec and the clearly expressed awareness of having a united and stable Canada for any length of time without having recognized the particular needs and aspirations which pushed Quebec into seeking precise powers in areas bound up in its distinct personality.

The David Lewis who speaks in this way isn't the one from the April leadership convention. He is a politician, we have known since last October, who is the most capable among federal leaders in being quick to understand — while a crisis looms over Quebec — the elements which are at the roots of the problem. Claude Ryan, June 28.

Sherbrooke La Tribune: Many people applauded warmly when the Quebec education minister, Guy Saint-Pierre, attacked certain students recently and described them as "parasites" on the system.

Yet the young people of 1971 want to contribute, as the previous generation did, to the development and advancement of the society in which they live.

They also want to explore new paths, insofar as they have a chance to do so.

The most evident proof of this is the implementation of the federal opportunities for youth program.

For once, government authorities are showing they understand that the young people of 1971 have ideas and personal objectives. And the over-all result so far is simply extraordinary.

Nearly all the projects approved have direct implications for the whole population.

Sure, parasites and profiteers exist among students as among other groups in society. Sure, there are some dishonest people and hotheads among students as among politicians, professionals, civil servants and workers. But is this enough to implicate the whole group?

Some politicians have raised questions in the Commons about one or two opportunities for youth programs which appear to be negative. In one such case, grant money was to have been used to grow marijuana in British Columbia.

But if students and the government can be reproached for only one or two projects, the argument is weak. We should give the authorities a certain margin of error in the awarding of grants, without challenging the principle of the program.

If over-all government spending had as small a margin of error as is charged to the opportunities for youth program, taxpayers probably would enjoy a substantial reduction in their taxes. Alain Guilbert, June 23.

Victoria's gut issues

By
HEWARD GRAFFTEY

Constitutions can often be overly legalistic documents, and constitutional discussions invariably leave the non-legal layman none the wiser. In the past, federal-provincial conferences usually brought together the Prime Minister of the day and the provincial premiers with their Attorneys-General and Ministers of Justice close at their sides to guide them through the seas of "jargon."

The Victoria conference, in many ways, broke from tradition. True to form, Mr. Trudeau had his justice minister beside him throughout the proceedings, but other than the Prime Minister himself and the ten Premiers it's safe to say Quebec's Minister of Social Affairs, Claude Castonguay, drew most of the attention. Why?

In many ways, it is more unfortunate that the time-worn language issue got so much ink in the press during the conference. As important as the language question seems to be, Castonguay was talking about a "gut" bread and butter issue not so much in the traditional Quebec ultra-nationalist vein of complete Quebec sovereignty for sovereignty's sake, but in the vein of making a social program work.

Quebec's demands for complete jurisdiction over social security programs, perhaps, provoke many valid objections on the part of Ottawa, but questions must be asked. Why were they made? Why did Castonguay make them, and why, in the end, did he get an astonishing amount of support from his provincial colleagues? The conference was hardly under way, when Premier Bourassa made it known that many questions under the general heading of "Social Welfare" were negotiable, and in fact, he clearly recognized Ottawa's role in many specific areas. Notably absent from the list of social welfare programs where negotiation was acceptable was Medical and Health Care Services. It is here where we must examine Quebec's position and try to understand why Castonguay received such support from his provincial counter parts.

Before Ottawa introduced Medicare in 1969, it became only too apparent that if governments were going to vote billions of public dollars to put into people's pockets to buy medical and health care services, there would be a huge increased demand for these same services. In order to meet the demand, more doctors would be needed and hospital regionalization would mean increased costs for building hospitals, clinics, convalescent homes, old age homes and the like. More para-medical personnel would have to be trained, and more medical schools and health training centres would have to be constructed. In other words, the personnel and resources would have to be made ready to meet the increased demand for services brought about by Medicare.

Before Medicare was enacted in 1969, it was pointed out time and time again to the government that personnel and resources were incredibly inadequate to meet anticipated demands.

In all fairness, it might be correct to say if the government enacted Medicare only when personnel and resources were ready, it might have had to wait forever. This fact alone does not excuse Ottawa from abdicating its responsibility in getting ready for increased demands, or for making it impossible for the provinces to do so.

In the past five years we have seen costs for medical and health care services skyrocket, and they are still galloping on out of control, putting an intolerable burden on provincial treasuries. What else could we expect when all of a sudden after 1969, approximately four billion dollars have been voted in the form of income supplementation to buy services that just plainly are not there.

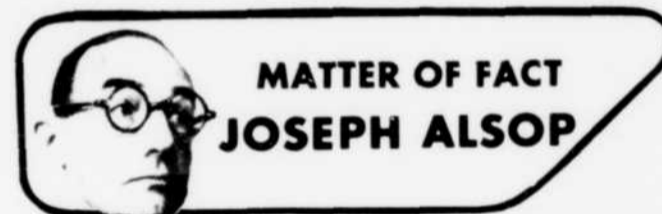

Provinces, rich and poor, had little choice about joining a shared cost program, the basic principles of which were dictated from Ottawa. Then Premier Robarts was among the first to find this out. Quebec was in the same boat as the other provinces. Medicare was about to increase the demand for services that were not there.

Claude Castonguay was a noted actuary in the City of Quebec when in July of 1967 as Chairman of the Commission of Inquiry on Health and Social Welfare he tabled his now famous report. In the area of health insurance, he made it quite clear that personnel and resources would have to be made ready immediately in order to meet anticipated demands brought about by Medicare. Some of his outstanding recommendations involved progressive schemes of joint financing between Ottawa and the provinces. Ottawa's reaction was a "deaf ear."

If Ottawa refused to listen to Quebec and the other provinces, Castonguay and the other Ministers of Health had reason to look to the Federal Government's Health Resources Fund with some degree of optimism. This fund program was created in 1966 to help provide money to meet capital costs of constructing, renovating, acquiring and equipping health training and research facilities. Five hundred million dollars were made available for use over a fifteen year period. The fund was to pay up to fifty per cent of costs with the rest provided by the provinces or some other source.

In the fund's first nine months from July 11, 1966, to March 31, 1967, federal and provincial health officials agreed that $14.9 million should be given to various projects but only $4.7 million was actually paid out by March 31, 1967. In the following fiscal year, another $66.3 million was committed and payment totalled only $32.6 million.

Not only Claude Castonguay, but all provincial health ministers have been affected by this state of affairs. It has surely conditioned their attitudes. While language issues seem more easily to explode into national headlines, it would be well to consider that provincial leaders are also aware of the sound of management of "gut" programs such as medical and health services as they make up their minds in the next number of days on the question of constitutional agreement with Ottawa.

WASHINGTON — It would be pleasanter to celebrate the anniversary of United States independence in the traditional manner, which may have been self-satisfied but was at least not depressing. Instead, if one is realistic, it is necessary to report that we are face-to-face with a revival of McCarthyism — left-wing now, with right-wing to follow later, perhaps.

The horror of McCarthyism did not lie in Sen. Joe McCarthy himself, who was a drunken, aimless though shrewd guttersnipe from Wisconsin. The real horror lay in the surrender to the changes made by this unpleasant and empty man by many of the people in institutions occupying the commanding heights of American society.

Sen. Robert A. Taft, who hoped that his brand of Republicanism would be aided by McCarthy, is only one example. The great newspapers, university boards of trustees, other groups, institutions and persons who ought to have known better, had better be passed over in decent silence.

It is enough to say that the promotion of an allegedly Communist Army dentist from captain to major long occupied a large share of the front pages of most newspapers in this country. Even if you accepted the argument that "this is the news" (which it probably was, horrifyingly enough!), editorials seriously denouncing such twaddle being "the news" were few and far between — with certain honorable exceptions like the Washington Post.

Researchers are recommended to examine the coverage of the real test-case of that era, the case of Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer, by the newspaper that claims preeminence. It reminded you of the letter written by the dentist's wife, against whom the late Capt. Joseph Patterson tried what had best be called a rather forcible approach.

"I am not angry, only a little sick at heart," wrote the dentist's wife to Capt. Patterson, from amidst her ripped and tattered flounces. The result of this view of the Oppenheimer case, as firsthand witnesses can testify, pleased the victim of that case even less than it pleased the dentist's wife.

The same newspaper, working the opposite side of the street, has now produced charges, presented as a statement of fact, that a "consensus" of the Johnson Administration favored bombing North Vietnam as early as September, 1964. This is a very grave charge, since this was when President Johnson and his opponent, Sen. Barry Goldwater, were so sharply opposed on Vietnam policy in the electoral campaign.

The charge was presented as a statement of fact on the basis of a study of a shockingly incomplete though enormous, collection of documents made in the Pentagon by members of the internal opposition to his own policy, who Secretary of Defence Robert McNamara somewhat oddly chose to keep on the payroll, presidential, Security Council, State Department and other documents were entirely absent from the collection, except by accident.

The kind of person who eventually stole these Pentagon documents mainly drew conclusions from military contingency plans, almost all flatly rejected at the time, and by no means representing any kind of consensus. Such conclusions have the approximate interest of that angry question, so much headlined when the Army dentist's promotion was the great issue!

"Who promoted Dr. Peress?"

When the charge against Johnson and his advisers was presented as a statement of fact it had not been checked for accuracy with the ex-President, or former Secretary McNamara, or former Secretary of State Dean Rusk, or anyone else who knew about the true consensus in 1964 and 1965. The Johnson Library, where the really indicative documents are now stored, was never queried, either.

The result was public mendacity, not in detail, to be sure, but in broad thrust and effect. A current story by a national news agency, for instance, treats with perfect bewilderment the publication of still another national document by the able and courageous Philip Potter of the Baltimore Sun, for this document shows, of course, that there was nothing remotely resembling the claimed presidentially agreed consensus in 1964. For the time being, then, the lie will be self-perpetuating, as the McCarthy lies were for the time being.

There was indeed a consensus in the period in question. It included the New York Times. If you can believe what was printed, this consensus-in-principle was that national interest demanded prevention of a Communist takeover in South Vietnam. There were differences, inevitably, about what to do in order to serve this end.

In 1964, however, there was not a shadow of an Administration consensus in favor of major, sustained military action against North Vietnam. Some, but by no means all, of President Johnson's higher advisers had come to favor this kind of action by January, 1965. President Johnson, quite demonstrably, rejected these advisers' views until he was driven to take token action on the basis of the above mentioned consensus-in-principle, in February, 1965.

So McCarthyism has come back!

Celebrations planned at Derby

DERBY (IH) — An all day and evening celebration at Derby, Saturday, July 3, will begin with a parade at 10:30 a.m. and conclude with fireworks in the evening.

This is the sixth annual Fourth of July celebration, sponsored by the United Church of Christ, with many organizations and businesses in the area participating in the various events.

There were 53 entries in the parade last year, and general chairman, Mrs. Peter Christiansen expects about the same number. This will include decorated cars carrying the 18 girls who will enter the Miss North Country contest in the evening. Also, there will be floats, mini-dune buggies, go-carts, horses, marching groups and bands, with Mrs. Ernest Mack and Kermit Smith handling arrangements for the parade.

It will begin on Cemetery Road and continue to the Derby Academy grounds.

Horse pulling and pony pulling is a new event with Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Oviatt of Island Pond in charge. There will also be cart rides for children and rides for young and old in hay wagons all day.

Area artists will have works on display at the town library, another new feature of the day being planned by Miss Mildred Hay and Miss Elizabeth Coffran.

Aprons, fancy work, and handicrafts as well as a secondhand table are being sponsored by the Women's Social Union. Together with the United Christian Women, they will also have a food sale beginning at 11 a.m.

A chicken barbecue begins at noon with Roger Whitcomb and Silas Houghton in charge. There will also be other food concessions including a lunch booth operated by Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Fox.

The Girl Scouts, directed by Mrs. Henry Sanders, and the Boy Scouts, directed by Donald DeRoehn, will handle the pony rides and sale of balloons.

A sugar shack, moved here from Montpelier, will serve sugar-on-snow under the operation of the Everett Willard family.

On the program schedule is a talent show at 1 p.m., of which the chairman is Mrs.

George Waters. Youngsters and adults will perform on the stage of the school auditorium.

An auction at 2 p.m. with Jack Sloan as auctioneer, is sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Taylor.

In Memoriam

BURNHAM — In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather Edison Burnham who passed away suddenly July 1st, 1967.

We little know when we wake that more the sorrow that day would bring. It brought a day we'll never forget. The call was sudden, the shock severe. To part with one we loved so dear. No tears can show, no words can say how much we lost on that sad day. We wonder why he had to die. Without a chance to say "Goodbye".

AUSTIN — The June meeting of the Austin WI was held in the Town Hall on Thursday evening. The meeting was opened by repeating the Creed and Salute to the Flag.

Roll Call was answered by 22 members and one visitor, by reading interesting items from newspapers.

The new County Programs were distributed. Minutes of May meeting were read and approved.

Thank you notes for gifts and flowers were read. A card was signed to be sent to Mrs. Frances Hopps, who is still in hospital. All bills were ordered paid.

Mrs. Patterson thanked all who had helped prepare and serve the meal at the County Convention, and those who had helped with the decorating of the tables etc.

Fifteen dollars was voted to the Sherbrooke Hospital Campaign.

Mrs. Patterson presented Mrs. P. E. Corbett with a 25-year pin, and also presented Mrs. Bell with a farewell gift. She is moving to Sarnia, Ont.

Details of the charter bus to WI Convention were discussed. Those desiring to go are to contact Mrs. Patterson, who will be the local delegate and Miss Pike a visitor.

Mr. T. Bean, principal of the P.E.E. School in Magog was introduced. He spoke on the various teaching aids used in the school and the need for more.

Instead of the three bursaries, as in former years, the money will be given for the purchase of additional teaching aids. This will benefit the whole school instead of just three students.

An invitation was received from the South Bolton WI to attend their July meeting.

The forthcoming Garden Party prizes were discussed. A hand-quilted quilt, an oil painting; a shellerant rug; and a ladies hand-knitted cardigan were decided on. Tickets to be sold on same, were handed out.

Mrs. Bell, publicity convener, had a short program. Mrs. L. Cochrane was the winner in a word game.

Mrs. E. Shurock had brought several rose colored primrose plants. These were sold for the benefit of the Health and Welfare Committee. Three dollars was realized.

The surprise package donated by Mrs. L. Willey was won by Mrs. G. Catchpugh.

How do YOU look?

Being well dressed, as you quite realize, means knowing that you look "just right", and this means from top to toe. Being well dressed is not determined by the number of outfits you have in your wardrobe, it is determined by the whole look of you. This, as I mentioned in my last article, includes the expression on your face, your grooming from head to toe, and your posture, that special attribute for which there is no substitute. If you how to stand and walk with your shoulders back and stomach in, you will look and feel confident even in blue jeans and a sweater.

There is a vast difference between a person with 'clothes sense' and a 'clothes collector'. A 'clothes collector' has one objective; to acquire as many garments as possible. You know the type, her closets are bulging and her drawers overflowing.

Yet her favourite expression is, "I haven't a thing to wear!" Her life is one continuous round of shopping sprees, but she is never satisfied with her wardrobe. Each garment may be as crisp new and beautiful but it does not help solve the question, "What am I going to wear tonight?", if there is a bright orange skirt and new red slacks hanging in the closet. One must always have their wits about them when the impulse to buy descends.

In contrast, there is the woman who has clothes sense. No matter where or when you see her, she always looks her best.

It would seem that she, too, has an endless supply of pretty clothes, yet she may be on a strict budget. If you listed each of her outfits for a week, you would probably discover that she frequently wears one or two items more than once, but still portrays a different look. How does she do it? Not by chance, you can be sure, but by careful planning.

She has found out what colours, styles, and lines look best on her. She has taken her activities into consideration, knows what she needs for each, and has colour-planned her entire wardrobe. You can too. But first, before any wardrobe planning can begin, you need some fashion know-how.

Just the word "Fashion" is exciting! It is a fascinating business that provides thousands of jobs for people who design, manufacture, advertise, write about, and sell the latest creations to you. You, as a buyer, can enjoy all the benefits of this vast business, or you can become fashion foolish by trying to copy instead of creating your own look.

The easiest way to acquire a basic, working knowledge of this glamorous but often confusing field of fashion is to learn from the influences all around you. Make it a daily habit to check what's new on the woman's page, to leaf through at least one fashion magazine each month, to eye critically the fashion displays in clothing stores and to note what important, well-dressed women are wearing for what occasions. The result of all this? A firsthand knowledge of the latest trends which will enable you to adapt the best of the new.

With this background behind you, you can begin creating a new, exciting wardrobe. Each garment within its particular style can assist you in producing interchangeable outfits and thus extend your wardrobe to accommodate whatever situation arises. Even such accessories as scarves, belts, chains and other jewelry can dress an outfit up or down as you wish. Remember, in today's fashions, accessories are all important, so make use of this helpful trend.

Pointers for lost to follow

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I am writing a letter which should be rerun in your column twice a year—every spring and every fall. These are the seasons when people enjoy hiking, camping out and exploring wild areas. It is always heartbreaking when someone does not return alive. Some of the most tragic and senseless deaths are caused by getting lost.

The following pointers could save a life. Please print them, Ann.

If you are lost, never go upstream or across country. Keep out of the thick timber and secluded areas. Stay in the open. Walk toward the areas where the light is brightest. Carry a whistle—and use it. Build a fire; searchers can see signs of a fire miles away.

It is not a disgrace to get lost. It has happened to the best of them. Should you become separated from the others, remember these pointers. They might save your life. And good luck.

—E.K. of Wyoming
Dear E.K.: Here are the pointers and my thanks for sending them. Take heed, nature lovers.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 17, six months pregnant and not married.
I want to put the baby up for adoption for two reasons. First, my parents and I never got along. Now that I am pregnant we fight all the time. You wouldn't believe the names my father has called me. I don't think this setup would be very good for a baby.

Another reason I believe adoption is the best thing is that I am anxious to go back to high school and graduate. After graduation, I want to get some kind of training so I can support myself. I know I should have thought of all this before I started to sleep with that jerk, but it's too late to change things. Now the best thing I can do is think of the future. What are your ideas? Should I keep the baby or not?

—Temporarily Loused Up

Dear Temp: A 17-year-old girl with no husband in sight can't offer a child much. I agree you should put the baby up for adoption. There are many childless couples who desperately want a child. It would mean a great deal to them to have a baby—and the baby would be dearly loved.

Too often the unwed mother keeps her child to fill her own needs—with no concern for the needs of her child. I applaud your decision and I wish you luck.

Dear Ann Landers: I own two automobiles and live in an apartment building. There is no garage nearby so I have to park the cars outside. The couple who lives above me has a miserable cat. They let the cat out every day and don't care what he does. This might sound like a petty complaint to you but to me, it's a serious matter. That goldam cat climbs all over the roof, the hood and the trunk of my cars and has scratched them so bad I've had to repaint twice.

I've complained to the people but they could care less. They insist there is nothing they can do. The best solution I can think of is to shoot the damn cat. Can you come up with a better idea?

—Annoyed in Massachusetts

Dear Annoyed: I sure can. The law says people are responsible for the damage done by their pets. If you shoot the cat you will have to hire a lawyer to defend yourself. So why not hire a lawyer to make these people pay for the paint jobs?

St. John's ACW meets

Plans were completed for an Ice Cream lawn social, July 10, at the home of Mrs. C. Hawse. In case of rain this will be held in Jubilee Hall.

Sunshine bags were distributed among members to be handed in at the October meeting.

ASTRO-GUIDE By Ceean

Monday, July 5

The Day Under Your Sign

ARIES (Born March 21 to April 19) — Some problem suggested, but still rather vague. Play it by ear until you get the drift of things.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) — Maintain your poise no matter what happens to upset things around the house. It will blow over soon.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) — Give others all the latitude they need for self-fulfillment. You need to learn to delegate authority.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21) — The way other people perform their duties has you shaking your head in disbelief. How times have changed!

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Although someone tries to influence you, do your own evaluating based on fact, not fancy. Be alert.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Virgo judgment is good now and optimism is justified under benefic rays. Profit seems indicated, too.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — You have to act with great wisdom if you are to make the gains you've set your sights on. You can do it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Even though someone tells you something quite bluntly, you'd be wise to listen as he or she makes a good point.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Self-confidence—or lack of same—could be your problem. Don't think you have less on the ball than the next person.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Time to get together with good friends—also to make new ones. Your life can be greatly enriched.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Avoid person who talks too much and distracts you while you're trying to concentrate on driving, reading, or working.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) — A unique idea should not be shelved aside without consideration just because you didn't think of it yourself.

three of his hearts. He had to give West the last trick but he scored game and rubber.

George had been about as generous as a man giving ice to an Eskimo in mid-winter. If he had won the first trick, he would have had no way to keep East from getting in with a diamond. Then, if East had led a heart, his partner would cash two heart tricks and save the rubber.

Oh, yes, George's play has a name. It's called an avoidance play. It avoids letting the dangerous hand get the lead.

ittle league oop
 By Ted Anderson

The Orioles and Senators are slowly creeping up on the league-leading Indians as a result of this week's action. Each game is increasingly important for the contenders with the Red Sox and White Sox also bidding for a playoff spot. The White Sox have been the team lately that has been showing some of its early season form and they are, at the moment, making a serious attempt for a post-season berth.

July is the month the regional playoffs get underway and all leagues in the province have by now lined up their all-star teams. By mid-July, the dates of the games will be announced and the procedure this season will follow that of last year—a two-game elimination.

Districts to have all-star teams include—Zone 1 (Bedford, Chateaugay, Cowansville, Granby, St. Martin, Sher-Lenn, Valleyfield); Zone 2 (Beaconsfield, Chomedey, Dollard, Dorval, Kiwanis, Kiwanis South, Lachine, Laval and Rigaud); Zone 3 (Anjou, Cote des Neiges, Kiwanis East, Quebec, and Rosemount); Zone 3a (St. Antoine, St. Jerome, Val David and Val Morin); Quebec Regional playoff winners will meet the Maritimes for the right to take part in the Canadian final which will be held in Montreal this season.

Stars for the past week are Jeff Coates, Twins; Claude Morin, Tigers and Alan Watkins, Senators.

Gym clinic in Magog

MAGOG (F) — The Magog Sports Committee is organizing a gymnastic clinic, for which the sum of $900 has been set aside. The clinic, under the direction of Jean-Guy Breault, will begin tomorrow, July 3, at 9:30 a.m. at the East Park.

All those 13 years and over interested in this clinic of individual competition are invited to register Saturday at the park.

The committee has also organized a baseball clinic, for all youngsters between the ages of 7 and 13 years who are not presently part of an organized team.

Those enrolling will be divided into teams and will play throughout the summer season, in these teams, on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 4:30 p.m. and on Saturday at 9 a.m.

All youths interested should report to the park at the hours indicated, for registration. The baseball clinic is under the direction of Denis Asselin.

Baseball day at Coaticook

COATICOOK (PT) — About 1,000 persons were present at the opening parade of Coaticook's amateur baseball day.

Of these, about 500 flocked into municipal stadiums to take part in the various minor league baseball games taking place organized as part of amateur baseball day.

In the Bantam category, Brompton lost for the first time in five or six matches when Coaticook dumped their team 13-5.

In the Bantam "B" category, Windsor team reversed Coaticook's earlier victory by limiting them to four points while Windsor sent 10 men home.

Other games took place also, in the PeeWee and Mosquito categories.

Ninth inning uprising dumps Expos

MONTREAL (CP) — Ralph Garr's second triple was the key to a four-run uprising in the ninth inning that carried Atlanta Braves to a 7-3 victory over Montreal Expos in National League baseball action Thursday.

Sonny Jackson opened the ninth for the Braves with a walk, took second on a sacrifice, moved to third on a grounder and, after pinch hitter Hank Aaron walked, scored the tie-breaker on Folix Millan's single. Garr then collected his third

GET TOGETHER — Sports organizers, newspapermen and Camp Grand-Maman all came together Wednesday afternoon at a lunch held at the camp just outside Sherbrooke, to discuss the Paul Brouillard Open golf tournament, which will be held July 17 and 18 at the Sherbrooke Country Club. Proceeds from the tournament will go towards Camp Grand-Maman, a summer retreat for underprivileged children initiated and run by a Sherbrooke priest. ## Tigers continue Sher-Lenn climb

SHERBROOKE (TA) — The high-flying Tigers chalked up another win while the Yanks forfeited a game to the Orioles in the Sher-Lenn Little League action Wednesday night at the Parade Grounds.

Scheduled encounters were cancelled last night due to the wet condition of the playing field.

The race for playoff spots has tightened up considerably during the last week and the Redbirds' easy win now puts them only two points behind the Indians.

The Senators are sitting all alone in third spot while the White Sox are holding down the fourth spot.

TIGERS STRIKE EARLY
 An explosive second inning propelled the Tigers to a 5-1 lead. The Twins had scored in their half of the inning on hits by Rejean Marquis and David Simmons.

The Tiger tallies were the product of a two-run double by Claude Morin together with a

Knudson one stroke back

MONTREAL (CP) — Four regulars on the United States professional golf tour—Rod Fungeth, Lou Graham, Rolf Deming and Phil Rodgers—fired first-round 67s Thursday to share the lead in the $150,000 Canadian Open golf championship over the par-72 Richelieu Valley Golf Club's Rouville course.

The four touring pros thus equalled the course record previously held by Jack Bissegger, the host pro, with their sparkling five-under-par performances.

Toronto's George Knudson, himself a tour veteran, and young Rod Curl of Redding, Calif., were grouped one stroke back of the leading foursome with four-under-68s.

Seven others, Ralph Johnston of Jackson Heights, N.Y., Don Bies of Seattle, veteran Lionel Hebert of Lafayette, La., Ben Kern of Clarkson, Ont., DeWitt Weaver of Atlanta, Herb Hooper of Richmond, Va., and Hal Underwood of Humble Tex., were locked with identical 69's.

hit, a two-run triple, and romped home on Mike Lum's double.

Bob Bailey, who homered in the second inning for the game's first run, pulled the Expos into a 3-3 tie in the eighth when he singled for his third hit, driving in Clyde Mashore. Mashore singled with one out and took second when Garr fumbled the ball.

Garr put the Braves ahead 2-1 following Bailey's homer when he tripled in Millan in the third inning and scored himself on a throwing error by Gary Sutherland.

The Expos tied it in the fourth on singles by Bailey, John Bateman and Sutherland but Atlanta took a 3-2 lead in the fifth when Millan reached second on Ron Fairly's error and came around to score on Garr's single and an error by Rusty Staub on the play after five innings.

In other National League action, Cincinnati Reds swamped Philadelphia Phillies 5-1 in a night game that was delayed by rain. San Francisco Giants edged St. Louis Cardinals 8-7. Atlanta Braves took Montreal Expos 7-3 and Los Angeles Dodgers ripped San Diego Padres 2-1.

The Pirates' five-hit victory, in which Willie Stargell drove in his 80th run of the season, lifted them to a three-game lead over the Mets in the NL East.

Race on again in American League

The on-again, off-again race in the American League East is on again.

Rico Petrocelli of Boston Red Sox and Cleveland Indians Vada Pinson provided the latest ups and downs Thursday night with ninth-inning home runs that pulled Boston within 2 1/2 games of Baltimore Orioles.

Petrocelli's homer, a three-run shot with one out in the ninth, sent the Red Sox winging past Detroit Tigers 8-7, about one hour after Pinson's blast with two out in the ninth gave the Indians a 3-2 conquest of the Orioles.

Boston's latest upswing has put new fire into the race.

The same can't be said in the West where Kansas City Royals beat California Angels 7-2 and still stand 9 1/2 games behind the idle leaders, Oakland Athletics.

In other games, Washington Senators trimmed New York Yankees 3-1 and Chicago White Sox stopped Milwaukee Brewers 6-4.

HIT BY PITCH
 Petrocelli's 12th homer into the upper left field deck came after Luis Aparicio was hit by a pitch and Reggie Smith singled, and marked the second time in the final two innings Boston came from behind.

Two runs had pulled the Sox even 5-5 in the eighth. But Detroit went right back ahead on run-scoring singles by Dick McAuliffe and Al Kaline in its half of the inning.

Then Petrocelli sent the Red Sox winging again, only one week after they had fallen eight games behind the Orioles and appeared lost.

Meanwhile, the Orioles sank to their sixth defeat in eight games after appearing to have things well in hand as Jim Palmer took a 2-0 lead into the eighth on Frank Robinson's homer and Don Buford's runcoring single off Sam McDowell.

But Frank Baker doubled in two runs with two out to tie the game in the eighth, and then Pinson unloaded.

Palmer, who struck out 13, and McDowell, who fanned 11, each left after eight innings.

BELTS 13TH HOMER
 Amos Otis did the heavy hitting for Kansas City, belting a two-run homer, his 13th, in the first inning and doubling in one of four runs in the ninth. Dick Drago ran his record to 8-3 with a six-hitter as he beat the Angels for the third time this season.
