War Weapons Cavalcade, Led by Fully-Armed Universal Carrier, Tours This District

Mayors Faubert, Larin and Roy Sign Scrolls as Cavalcade Passes Through Huntingdon, Valleyfield and Beauharnois—Mechanized Equipment in Parade Cost Over $100,000—War Savings Joint Chairmen Urge Greater Pledges

The citizens of Huntingdon and district were given a practical demonstration of the value of their War Savings on Sunday afternoon, when Quebec's War Weapons Cavalcade, led by a fully-armed universal carrier, arrived on its tour from Montreal.

During the cavalcade's visit to this community the War Weapons scroll was signed by the mayor and passed on to the next community, a further pledge of this district's determination not only to meet but exceed its objectives in the War Weapons Drive. During the brief ceremonies at which the scroll was signed and the public was enabled to see the universal carrier and other equipment, a moving picture illustrating these carriers in action and showing other features of Canada's war effort was also exhibited.

The War Weapons Cavalcade gave the public a dramatic picture of the cost of waging modern warfare. The mechanized equipment included in the parade here, it was stated, was manufactured at a cost of well over $100,000 and it forms only a small part of the equipment required for one mechanized division.

The cavalcade arrived in Huntingdon from Valleyfield at about 10:30 a.m. and proceeded immediately to the Chateauguay Military (Basic) Training Centre where the members were met by Lt. Col. C. C. Brooks, O.C., and other officers of the training centre.

The tour of Huntingdon started shortly after noon and the cavalcade passed on Chateauguay street to Lake street and then on to King street. It assembled on Prince Arthur Square where citizens of Huntingdon and vicinity were given an opportunity to view this mechanized unit.

At the cenotaph, Mayor Daniel Faubert, of Huntingdon, read the scroll and later signed it. Major Prud'homme, formerly of the Huntingdon training centre, gave a brief address which was followed by an appeal by the joint chairmen of the Huntingdon County War Savings campaign.

Remembrance Day

NOVEMBER 11th; 11:00 a.m. These words have a significance to British people the world over that the years have not dimmed and will not dim. The experiences of War years may be lived over again at this time. Our thoughts, however, cannot help but linger on the friends and relations of yesterday who did not return but sleep forever in Flanders fields.

Remembrance. Remembrance of the joy tinged with sadness that thrilled every heart when word came that the terrible ordeal was ended. Remembrance of the needless, wanton waste of the youths of the world; of all ghastliness and futility of war. Remembrance, too, of the comradeship of the war years which time cannot efface.

To the growing generation, the World War is but a story that is told. Many have little or no recollection of the father or other relatives who offered their lives on the altar of patriotism. They have but fading memories of the homes made desolate and of the anguish that tugged at so many family heart strings.

Youth soon forgets. Remembrance Day is made a symbol of a country's loyalty to the memory of brave men who served it well. A symbol also of patriotic pride in the part Canada played during a time of intense peril to the Empire.

The Remembrance Day service under the auspices of Chateauguay-Huntingdon Branch 81, Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L. will take place on Sunday, November 9th. This will be our opportunity, not only to honor the memory of the fallen, but also to consecrate ourselves anew to the high ideals for which they died. The service will be held at 2:00 p.m., standard time, from the Drill Hall at Chateauguay Barracks. A detailed detachment of Legionnaires will march together with soldiers of Chateauguay Barracks to Prince Arthur Square where wreaths will be placed at the War Memorial monument, after which a service will be held in the Drill Hall. The clergy are being invited to be present and lend assistance. Captain Andrews, Chaplain of Chateauguay Barracks is to deliver the address.

The Drill Hall is of such proportions that accommodation can be provided for all who can possibly attend. Though the first Great War came to an end on November 11th, 1918, the Remembrance Day service to be held on Sunday afternoon might rightfully be expected to be one of the most largely attended since that date.

Attend! "Lest We Forget."

Valleyfield's Growth

OF the many industrial communities throughout the Province of Quebec, Valleyfield is one centre that is making many forward strides. True the industrial development is largely due to war work, but in connection with this war work industrial plants had to be erected and now a great number of houses are being built. This augurs well for the future of Valleyfield.

When the depression years came upon us, Valleyfield suffered. The Province of Quebec aided the citizens of Valleyfield through creating "Parc Sauve", which gave employment to a great many men. When the park was being built, influential and far-seeing business men of Valleyfield, of whom there are many, proclaimed that the Park was but a temporary relief to labor and that if industrial buildings had been erected, manufacturers might have been secured to occupy them and thereby give labor steady employment.

The war industry plants may not be used for war purposes once the war is over, but the buildings will remain and will be serviceable for other types of industry. Of course this same situation will prevail in many other places across the Dominion of Canada, but few places in this country have natural facilities to offer industry that can compare with the Beauharnois District. In order to insure our future business activity let us make sure everything is kept running on an even keel; labor being sincere and give of their very best to the employers. If labor establishes a good reputation during the war work, the news will spread and either the present employers will create a commercial business after the war, or they will be able to spread the good news of contented and industrious labor to their successors.

With Valleyfield erecting a great number of houses it means that labor and executives will be able to secure housing accommodation in years to come. This is a problem which has to be met in every town that seeks industrial development.

Valleyfield has gone ahead by leaps and bounds, and it can continue to do so. With an abundance of horse power so near at hand, close to Montreal, water and rail transportation, it would appear as the essential facilities are found amongst our natural resources for industrial expansion. The ravages of war will certainly induce many firms to create industrial plants in Canada and the St. Lawrence River Valley in the Beauharnois District might well expect substantial and permanent development.

Work Accidents Kill 4,500 Farmers

SAFETY-FIRST is a subject of a great deal more importance to the average individual than the same individual perhaps realizes. He or she will perhaps realize that "safety-first" propaganda is only worth while when an accident occurs to them personally, or to a very close friend. Were "safety-firsts" not worth while, industrial corporations would not have men devoting their entire time toward educating the employees to use care and discretion when going about their chores.

In the Valleyfield area is a munition plant that not only has a "safety-first" department, but also publishes a monthly newspaper which, to a considerable extent, is published with a view to spreading "safety-first" information. At the Montreal Cottons Company Limited they have had a nurse and doctor in attendance for a great many years, in order to render "first aid." First aid kits are found in every industrial plant, and to a lesser degree in all the retail stores, etc. First aid kits were almost unheard of 25 years ago, but they are now general. Safety-first propaganda is the natural thing to follow the first aid kit.

Accidents take a large toll in the way of life and are accountable for a great deal of lost time amongst adults. Accidents occur to infants as well as adults; as a matter of fact amongst 100,000 children 4 years and under in the United States, 24 have an untimely death due to burning, 17 due to motor vehicles, 16 to mechanical suffocation and 9 due to poisoning (except gas), a total of 66 deaths. This percentage of untimely deaths might well be considerably reduced if the adults were trained to be more careful in the way of "Safety-First" and ability to render efficient "First Aid."

A prominent business man of this district informed us last week of how his son met with an accident in his home that might very easily have resulted in a fatality. The boy had jumped off a high table onto a rocking chair, and hit his head, thereby creating a deep gash in the forehead. The boy did not have the gash treated until the parents returned home from Ormstown Exhibition. Had the person left in charge of the children been properly posted in first aid, the boy would certainly have had essential medical attention at once. The doctor was called just as soon as the parents arrived home; the boy is none the worse of the accident today, but he might just as easily have been killed.

As we refer to "Accidents Facts," 1941 edition, we find that in the United States only four diseases kill more people than accidents. For people between the ages of 3 and 24 years, accidents kill more than any disease. For males between the ages of 3 and 38 years, accidents kill more than any disease.

A graph in this publication informs us that taking the two sexes in consideration, out of 100,000 population, 275 deaths are due to heart diseases; 117 due to cancer; 88 to cerebral hemorrhages; 83 to nephritis; 71 to accidents, 59 to pneumonia and 47 to tuberculosis. Men are more subject to heart diseases than women. Fewer men have cancer. Men have 98 accidental deaths whereas women would have 43 deaths.

Our district being an agricultural area, it may be that many of our readers will feel accidents are not so likely to befall them as would be the case if they worked in industrial plants. To the contrary, work accidents kill farmers and approximately 4,500 farmers were killed during 1940 in accidents occurring while they were at work—in fields, in farm buildings, on highways while transporting products or supplies. The facts here recorded are based upon the facts gathered by the Kansas Board of Health, from 1931 to 1940. This fatality total was the largest recorded for any industry, amounting to 26 per cent of all worker deaths. However, as farming also includes about 24 per cent of all workers, the indicated frequency of fatal accidents appears to be about the same as the average for all other industries. Agriculture had a much better record than mining, which had eleven percent of the deaths but only two percent of the workers; but a poorer record than manufacturing, which recorded only 12 per cent of the deaths while employing 22 percent of the workers.

During the ten year period the Kansas State Board of Health recorded 904 accidental deaths amongst farmers. Machinery accidents occurred more frequently than any other type, including 28 per cent of the deaths. Accidents involving animals totalled 19 per cent and vehicular accidents 11 per cent. Deaths from sunstroke or heat prostration, and falls each made up 10 per cent. All other types of accidents amounted to 22 per cent of the death total.

From the foregoing statistical information, which we have every reason to believe is correct, and can be similarly applied to a population of similar proportions in Canada, it is all evident that "Safety First" and "First Aid" can achieve a great deal in the way of prolonging the natural span of life. If we all endeavour to avoid the possibility of an accident, first aid will not be called upon so frequently, but irrespective of how careful we may be some accidents will occur, the thing is to reduce the possibility of accidents occurring.

Canadian Legion Membership

FROM now until the end of December a drive is being conducted throughout this province for eligible members of the various branches of the Canadian Legion. Chateauguay-Huntingdon, and Valleyfield constitute the Legion Branches in this area. Those eligible for membership are all who have worn the King's Uniform during war service but presently in "civies." You may have served in the army, navy or air force, thereby making you eligible for Legion membership.

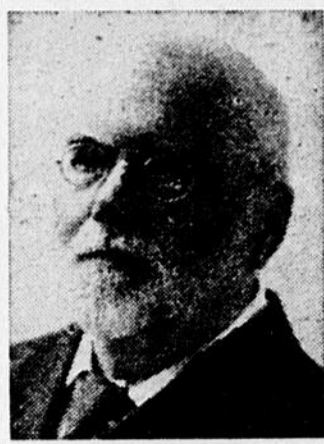

Legionnaires can and are performing a worthy and commendable service to King and Country today. The Legionnaires have been doing their utmost to provide services for soldiers now in the King's uniform and in performing this service they are doing what they can to make army life a bit better than when they themselves were wearing the clothes of a good soldier. The Legion has been responsible for creating a system of education whereby soldiers in training and on service can follow a course of studies so that when they leave the active services they will be better prepared to follow their lifework in whatever channel it may be. The call of the Legion for all eligible to join the local branches is now being broadcast. The Legion has been responsible to a very considerable extent, for the observance of "Remembrance Day" as a public holiday, "Lest We Forget."

Three of us have been born in it, and I am the youngest—77. His shanty was built opposite Capt. Barr's and he had a small house behind for his workshop, for he had learned to be a blacksmith. Hamilton was my first teacher. He had a small house back of James McDiarmid's lot and taught us in young Tom Stafford's house. Palmer Stafford moved to John Hamilton's lot and died there. Wm. Bristow built the first church and schoolhouse. It was a black log house and stood where the Union church now is. That would be about 60 years ago. Bristow was a Methodist, but any minister was free to preach in it, and Free Will Baptists and Presbyterians also came, from the other side of the line. Wild beasts were very plentiful. I have heard my father say the only time he was really frightened by them was one evening with a bushel of flour on his back when returning from Champlain a band of wolves rushed out in the bush very near him, when he was close to his home. The Bristows settled from Pennsylvania. There were two brothers, James lived on Lake Champlain; his wife and my mother were sisters. Bristow came to the Hill a few years after my father. John Perry now lives on this lot. The Bristows came after my father and so did Green on Sam Barr's lot, and was succeeded by Gordon. Gray was on Geo. Hamilton's lot before Stevenson. Gray was Irish and was the first to settle on the Hill. He, although he was first in Shelburne, Ontario. The first time I went to the city was when I was 13 years old. I went in company with my brother Henry and my stepmother. The first school was on the Hill. Our first halt was at John McNaughton, an American, who lived on the Beech-ridge, where we renewed the runners of our sleds, having brought with us an auger and axe. My mother made a good deal of butter and she sent it to the city on horseback, a tub in either end of a bag, slung across the beast. One time she had three tubs, and to balance the load one stone were put in the other end of the bag. She rode one horse and I the other. In coming back we found a storm had swept away the bridge across the English river. David Goodwell, who then lived on the Lambe place, heard us, and took our goods across a hemlock tree that had been felled, and ourselves, and swam the horses across. The fire in 1825 did no damage on the Hill, but I remember distinctly that the lamp of a beast we killed soon after for our winter provision was black from inhaling the smoke! Provisions were often scarce with us, particularly in the spring and before harvest. My stepmother in making a Johnny cake, used to use the fat would cut it into equal portions, and each got their share and no more. One time we had only bran bread and ate along with them some turnips that had been frozen in the cellar. We used to dig wild leeks and cut greens to help out with our diet. My stepmother both spun and weaved, for she had a loom, and made each of us a woolen suit for winter and a linen one for summer, for we raised flax. Our clothes were generally pants and shirt, with a blouse sometimes. In summer we always went barefoot. My stepmother's name was Smith, and she came from Hemmingford. My father said that when he was a boy he did not care for business and left the management to his wife. He was a good scholar and when the neighbors had any writing to do, they came to him. He always did work in his line, but I am afraid got little pay for many years. He did not make potash for a long while after settling, probably from difficulty in sending it to Montreal. James Giffelov came soon after my father. James Allen now lives on his place. Sam Covey came, I think, the year before my father, and his shanty stood near a little east of where Chas. McDiarmid's house is. The shanty was built on a hill, north from his door passed Giffelov's and turned West at Stockwell's Colson now runs it. My father was buried in the graveyard at the Union church which is the oldest in this section. My brother was called to the sea during the war, but my father did not leave home. The shanties were roofed with bark, stripped off in the spring, when it comes early. Covey was a short and very tough man. He lived by hunting and trapping, and stayed several years in the Hill. The Staffords came in a good while after us. (McDiarmid's lot in 33).

LUKE DeWOLF—I am a cabinet maker. In 1830 I was employed at Champlain, and like everybody else there, sympathized with the Rebels. One morning they came to me to carry a message to Dr. Cole, who had left the night before with a small force, to the effect that the British had word of his movements and that Col. Seriver was advancing with a strong body to meet him. I got on horseback and rode as hard as I could, but it was nearly 10 before I reached the invading force. I had hardly given my message when the Volunteers came in sight. Instead of withdrawing his men to a swamp in the rear and giving them shelter, Cole let them stand on the road. I kept on horseback to see what would occur. A big Frenchman had charge of the cannon and showed much courage. I only know his nickname. He was not a Canadian woman had sought refuge across the line, and a number were staying at Ashman's. He and a Dutchman named Henshman got on a horse and rode to get the news, the women being anxious about the result. Although women, they were fired at, and Henshman was killed. Ashman got shot in the ankle.

A THOUGHTLESS WASTE

(Granby Leader-Mail)

Attention is being drawn to the wasteful practice in the fall of burning fallen leaves. These leaves contain all the essentials that make for complete fertilizer. If carefully gathered up and practically treated instead of being wasted, they would make a valuable contribution towards the fertility of farm and garden lands.

Surrounded with an abundance of so many things, the people of this country have become too wasteful, and we should learn one lesson at least from the people with whom we are at war, who have for years practised efficiency in every direction.

However, the lesson of salvaging waste materials is being gradually learned, and perhaps as time goes on the spirit of thrift may be apparent in greater measure.

This Week in OTTAWA

South American People Are Strong Supporters Of Democracies in the World Struggle—Wartime Prices and Trade Board Marching Ahead in Plan to Put New Control System in Operation on November 17th

The atmosphere in which the new parliamentary session has met here in Ottawa is different from that of previous wartime sessions. Not only on government front benches but along the opposition front benches and dotted throughout the house are members who have visited Britain during the parliamentary recess. For them the iron curtain of war has been rolled up. They have seen war's ravages in the cities and towns, and have talked to those who have suffered and who face the menace of the future with such unflinching courage. They have felt the heat of the blaze in their faces where previously they have only dimly seen the smoke of war from across the Atlantic. The session may be a short one, but it is certain to be an important and businesslike one, stripped of partisan politics, and with the single aim of furthering the war effort. Realism will hold the floor of the house and inside and outside parliament, the members who have visited Britain, and discussed the situation with leaders in government and armed forces may be expected to do their utmost to drive home the truth of the war and its issues to the heart and conscience of the Canadian people.

Shortly before the opening of parliament minister of labor Norman McLarty with departmental officials attended an international labor meeting in New York where postwar labor problems were discussed. A few days before, minister of munitions and supply, C. D. Howe visited Washington to make sure that Canadian war industry particularly ship construction which is rapidly forging ahead will get its full quota of steel and other metals from American priority officials. Word was given out that the prime minister intended to pay President Roosevelt a personal visit over the week-end. It is geography which interlocks the economy of the two countries, but it is the growing appreciation of common danger to all democracies which links Britain, Canada and the United States. As Churchill once said of the intermingling of interests, "Let it roll on" and as Thorson, minister of war services asked a Windsor audience a few days ago: "Is it too much to hope that before it is too late our partnership may be merged into a great union of the remaining free nations of the world?" The hour-glass has run out too far to make us hide any longer the depths and scope of our wishes for aid from the United States. A very encouraging report of Canada's relations with South American countries was given by minister of trade and commerce, MacKinnon when he returned with other members of his trade mission from their Southern tour. What was particularly cheerful news in view of some disturbing accounts of Nazi infiltration, was that he found the "overwhelming" sentiment of South American people in favor of their democracies in the world struggle. There had been a great change in sentiment in the past three months. The minister brought word of the signing of trade treaties under "most favored nation" terms with Brazil, Argentina, Chile and Ecuador with removal of surtaxes and exchange restrictions which had been in force against Canada in some of the Southern countries. With shipping troubles and other dislocation caused by the war there wasn't much hope for great results from trade treaties until the end of the war, but the basis was laid for post-war commercial relations. The Wartime Prices and Trade Board is marching straight forward with its plan to put the new price control system into operation on

A DOG'S INTUITIVE POWER

He would never take a prize for his looks. Plain shepherds usually don't, you know. But the dog's brain would do justice to a blue blood of the first water. His traits never fail to amaze me. In fact, his intuition is sometimes uncanny, which is more than can be said of the majority of humans. But I have learned that this quality is not uncommon in dogs. One scientist of the Pavlovian Laboratory at Johns Hopkins states that a dog's brain is very much like a man's, both in structure and function; one reason being, he said, that because of their association with man they have acquired "human" habits, both in thought and action.

The incident I am about to relate (apropos the intuitive power), proves that dogs are more than just "dumb animals"; and they have, shall we say, a sixth sense.

"Keno's" master went on a long trip across the continent. The dog was very dejected for a few days but eventually adjusted himself to the man's absence. Now, it happened that there was a particular chair in which the man always sat. One evening Keno nosed around the chair, visibly uncomfortable. Then he whined unpleasantly, which was unusual for such a happy dog. His mistress, from some unknown reason, glanced at the clock, noting the exact time, 6:30 P.M. She was somewhat nervous herself and called to the animal, "Come, Keno, let's take a walk."

He paid no attention to her but continued to stay near the chair, meanwhile annoying her with "throaty" noises. "For goodness sake, Keno, be quiet, you are getting on my nerves," she finally ejaculated.

A few hours later a telegram came reporting the man's death. And, strange as it may seem, he died at 6:30 P.M.

Since we are unable to account for this psychic quality in human beings, certainly it is difficult to understand the same mental workings in a dog. But we who love them, realize that by some unknown power they are very much like us; especially when it comes to having a premonition of an impending tragedy.

Some Prophets Foretell an Early General Election—The Farmer is Chronic Kicker and Pessimist—His Lot is a Happy One During Election Time—He is Then no Longer the "Forgotten Man"

Elections in General.
 If so be that some man should stray near enough the "Whatnot" shelves to read my heading and should stand aghast at its comprehensiveness, let him not be unduly alarmed, I beg. In "Pride and Prejudice" Jane Austen makes Elizabeth Bennet say, in reference to her brother-in-law, Wickham, "There is no end to the impudence of an impudent man." But surely there is no woman quite impudent enough to attempt ink-slinging in proportion to the vastness of the electoral fabric organised by the male sex. I expect to do little more than saunter up the walk and, possibly, peek into the portico of the noble pie.

Since the dust of dispute, the paeans of praise, and the trumpet-blasts of triumph raised by our own by-election have quieted down, there have been provincial contests in B.C. and Nova Scotia, and some prophets foretell an early general election.

As a member of a farming community, I love an election. The farmer, without cause, is a chronic kicker and pessimist. But as soon as an election campaign starts, his lot becomes a happy one. If he attends a meeting of the party then in power, he learns that he is best above every other class; if he attends one of the opposition, he discovers that his future happiness is assured. He has the delightful conviction that both parties function for his especial benefit. No longer is he the "forgotten man."

Another pleasant thing about elections is that everybody gets letters, and letters, mind you, that don't need to be answered. You know how well people like to get letters but how they often hate to answer them. People who have given no letterless for years and have envied other people when they saw them reading their letters, now receive one. And what a letter!

Why, it tells them, perhaps, that the world and the whole world are watching them. Do they feel stage-struck? Oh, no, just excited in a pleasant kind of way. You see, very few of these people who get the letters will ever have money enough to travel around the world and see the next finest thing is to feel that the world sees them.

One woman, an ideal homemaker, I fancy, thinks that every woman should vote the same way as her husband. If so, what signifies the right to vote? Why not expect the husband and somewhere that a wife should yield to her husband's opinion in trifles, but stand firm when it comes to a matter of principle. One hopes that we women entertain principle, and not mere prejudice, in this business of voting.

When I heard we were to have a couple of by-elections, I supposed that it was because the Government considered that a constituency would go to pot without its own "chickens." I was wrong, however, and was also a means of feeling the public pulse. The other day in a broadcast a very "pleasant-spoken gentleman" tried to count the public's heart-beats by putting Mrs. E. Hammond through a catechism. One of his questions was, "Do you find that people in the rural districts are as war-conscious as people in the cities?"

I wanted to call back to him, "If you mean us, we farmers are prettily patriotic, fairly war-conscious, and extremely tax-conscious, and we expect to be excessively so by the time we begin to pay for the census, all the elections, all the trips by officialdom, all the cost-of-living bonuses to civil service employees first at Ottawa, and now at Quebec, on top of all the direct war expenditures. Please see if you can do anything to hurry that freight-paid feed East here."

But Mrs. Hammond answered him so agreeably to the effect that the reaction of the farmers was perfectly normal that I never said a word.

During elections there is a strong expression of the idea that if you don't elect a member who lends to the successful party, you won't get any favors for your district. Yet all the voters, if not now taxpayers in a direct way, are contributing in some manner to the expenses of the Government. Is this democracy?—and justice?

Another thing in election editorials and speeches which has always puzzled me is the attitude on the question of Opposition. They tell us that to have healthy politics we need a strong Opposition, and yet they go to the greatest lengths to make it as weak as possible. On one "hurry up" speaker, all voters, and all parties are agreed, viz. the member must be a good mixer. When it comes to age it does not matter so much. Some youngsters show signs of capability which others will never have, not if they lived to be a hundred. Experience does not always bring results. A friend has been telling me of a farmer out West who ran and was elected. Initiated at his provincial capital, he found politics so "rotten" that he got out.

The hide-bound partisan is a discouraging element in every effort to elevate the political atmosphere, but he is not so absolutely sickening as the man who says: "So-and-so will give the boys a good time if elected; nobody will get much out of So-and-so." Yes, let us have Adult Education.

It is comforting to turn from the noble lawgivers the world has seen, from Moses down, including Romulus, Greeks, and others of long ago, as well as the great statesmen of modern times, and some of Canada.

WEDDINGS

Hagen-Taylor
 The marriage of Erma Agnes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Taylor, of Millington, to Mr. Douglas Robert Hagen, son of Mr. William Hagen and the late Mrs. Hagen, of Valleyfield, took place recently in the east Belton United Church. The Rev. Philip Matthams, of Magog, conducted the ceremony, assisted by the Rev. Graham Barr.

A profession of gladness was used to decorate the church. The bride's sister, Mrs. Evans, of Georgeville, played the organ. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a model gown of white sheer over tulle, made with fitted bodice trimmed with sequins, long full sleeves, and very full skirt. Her head-dress was a coronet of orange blossoms from which fell a long veil of tulle illusion. She carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses and bouvardia. Her only attendant was her sister, Miss Marion Taylor, who was gowned in powder blue sheer fashioned on the same lines as the bride's. She wore a matching turban and carried a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums.

Mr. Norman Hagen was best man for his brother, and the ushers were Mr. John Taylor, brother of the bride, and Mr. Donald Jenks.

Mrs. Taylor, the bride's mother, was gowned in a model of navy blue crepe, with silver fox fur, and a corsage bouquet of deep red roses.

During the signing of the register Miss Teresa Fitzgerald, of Magog, sang "O Promise Me." The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Later Mr. and Mrs. Hagen left to spend their honeymoon in the Laurentians, the bride travelling in a blue bouffant suit trimmed with grey fox collar and grey accessories.

Deschamps-Rousselle
 A quiet wedding was solemnized in St. Joseph's Church, Huntingdon, on Wednesday, October 29th, when Miss Marie-Jeanne Rousselle, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Zephirin Rousselle, of Huntingdon, was united in marriage to Mr. Armand Deschamps, of Montreal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Deschamps, of Trout River, Que. Rev. Father Pigeon, parish priest, officiated at the ceremony.

The bride wore a brown costume with accessories to match. She was given in marriage by her father, Mr. Z. Rousselle. Mr. Joseph Deschamps was witness for his son. The choir was under the direction of the Sister of the congregation with the vocal selections.

Following the ceremony a reception for intimate friends and relatives of the families was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rousselle, at 66 York St., Huntingdon. Later the couple left on a trip through the Eastern Townships.

On their return they will reside in Ville St. Pierre, Montreal.

Gold receipts at the Royal Canadian Mint in the first eight months of 1941 totalled 3,423,941 fine ounces as against 3,290,803 fine ounces in the corresponding period of 1940.

Valleyfield Girls Die in Car Crash; Five Others Are Injured As Auto Smashes Into Tree

Auto Strikes Tree Near St. Timothée as Driver Loses Control of Car—Majella Couillard, of Valleyfield, Died Instantly—Jeannine Couillard Died On Sunday Night—Crashed Near Curve

Two Valleyfield girls were killed and five other persons were injured—two seriously—when an automobile in which they were riding left the road and struck a tree near St. Timothée, five miles from Valleyfield, at about 2:30 a.m. on Thursday.

The dead girls are Majella Couillard and her sister Jeannine, of 10 Academy street, Valleyfield. The latter died on Sunday night at Hotel Dieu hospital in Valleyfield.

In a serious condition at Hotel Dieu Hospital at Valleyfield, is Alfred Lapierre, 37, of St. Timothée, driver of the auto. Mr. Lapierre is suffering from a fractured skull, cuts and bruises.

Other victims of the crash—not seriously hurt—are Lucille Couillard, 24, another sister of the dead girls, who has a broken leg; Helene deRopigny, 30, of St. Timothée, who has a fractured wrist, and Louis Philippe and Jean Tremblay, brothers, of St. Timothée, who escaped with comparatively minor injuries.

According to Provincial Det. Henri Pinard, the accident happened on a curve just outside the village of St. Timothée at 2:30 a.m. on Thursday. Lapierre was driving his Valleyfield friends home from a party at St. Timothée. It was learned, and apparently lost control of the auto as it rounded the curve.

As the vehicle hit the tree, the victims were hurled out of the car into a nearby ditch. They were found a short while later by Dr. J. Guay, of St. Timothée, who was called to the scene by another motorist.

Dr. Guay said Majella Couillard had died instantly. He administered first aid treatment to the others pending their removal to hospital at Valleyfield.

A funeral service for the two sisters was held in Valleyfield on Tuesday.

HUNTINGDON HIGH DOWNS GAULT IN EXHIBITION

On Saturday morning the Huntingdon High School football squad had their first encounter with an outside aggregation when they met Gault Institute, Valleyfield. Both teams had some very near plays, but the Huntingdonians proved heavier and more experienced with the result a little one-sided.

The play in the first half of the game got third and fast until Leslie Kapla broke away from the scrimmage line; with the ball tucked under his arm he made the first touchdown of the game. This early score inspired the boys to greater efforts and before the second half started, Julius Boyd and Harry Hoy had also crossed the line.

In the second half, the Valleyfield players put up some tough opposition. The Huntingdon players were driven back close to their own posts more than once, but luck returned and Mac Arnold made the final touchdown of the day. Leslie Kapla succeeded in making the convert to this play. Huntingdon obtained four touchdowns and one convert.

This happened to be not only the first game of the season for Huntingdon but the first game of its kind ever played by the local boys. The game was of the new six-man type and proved popular with the Huntingdon team.

NEW TYPE TORPEDO BEING DEVELOPED

Great Britain has developed a highly secret, new type torpedo which will be manufactured in the United States with money from the second lease-lend fund.

Rear Admiral W. H. P. Blandy, chief of the bureau of ordnance, gave a House appropriations subcommittee some information about the new torpedo but indicated that production could not be started for almost a year.

Although there has been no hint as to how the secret new torpedo would differ from those already in use, naval officials long have talked of the need for torpedoes which would be invisible when fired—that is which would not leave the wake of telltale air bubbles which sometimes gives surface ships enough warning to enable them to manoeuvre out of the way.

Another criticism of present-day torpedoes is that those fired by compressed air produce a large air bubble on leaving the submarine. When this bubble reaches the surface, it guides destroyers and other anti-submarine craft to the submarine's position for a depth charge attack.

SEA LIONS' TUSKS IN UNUSUAL CARGO

Nasopie, Hudson's Bay Company supply ship which recently completed her annual voyage to the Arctic and sub-Arctic deserts.

The Nasopie called at a port in Northern Quebec, and there landed 51 pieces addressed to Governmental Departments and Hudson's Bay Company officers.

RAISE MORE & BETTER HOGS

The SHUR-GAIN way means bigger profits

Most farmers to-day can raise MORE HOGS and BETTER HOGS and at the same time they can make bigger profits for themselves.

By feeding a well balanced ration you can produce a better finished hog at less feeding cost. Use your own grains and balance them with SHUR-GAIN 41% HOG CONCENTRATE.

The Shur-Gain Way Makes More Profit

Authoritative tests show that it takes 5.5 lbs. of feed to put on 1 lb. of gain if only grains are fed. BUT by balancing that grain with Shur-Gain Hog Concentrate, you can get 1 lb. of gain with only 3.5 lbs. or less of balanced feed.

The result is threefold:

1. You save the extra grain that requires extra grain feeding requirements.
2. You get your hogs off in 5 1/2 to 6 months instead of 6 1/2 to 7 months.
3. You save money in feeding costs.

These are important factors in raising hogs. See your Shur-Gain dealer without delay.

HUNTINGDON SCHOOL NOTES

HUNTINGDON HIGH SCHOOL

Brother Fallon, Director of St. Joseph's High School, Huntingdon, will give an address on the teaching of mathematics to the Huntingdon High School teaching staff at their next regular discussion meeting.

The film, "On to Victory" sent to the Huntingdon High School at the suggestion of the local War Savings Committee, was shown to the pupils of the High School grades on Monday and Tuesday.

The winter time schedule was put into effect on Monday. School closes at 3.30 p.m. and other adjustments were made to enable country pupils to return home before dark.

Mr. Crawford Anderson, convenor for inter-school sports, has invited the High School Teachers Basketball team to play the Howick High School.

Under the direction of Miss McEwen, the girls of the senior classes spent Friday afternoon doing needle-point and other handwork.

The girls prepared and served a hot dinner to approximately 35 boys. On Friday afternoon, the Home Economics Club will have the pleasure of observing an exhibition of fancy sewing.

The sewing and cooking lessons in the junior classes are beginning to show results. These pupils are showing great interest in the work.

On Saturday morning, the Institute sent a six-man football team to oppose a six-man team from the Huntingdon High School. This game was greatly enjoyed and both teams are looking forward to another game on Wednesday afternoon.

This new type of football is popular with smaller schools as it reduces many of the open hazards that make the regular football seem rough.

The Huntingdon football team will clash with Mount Royal at the latter's diamond on Saturday. The game will take place at 11 o'clock.

District News Notes

Rockburn

The Rockburn Church Hall was the scene Wednesday evening of a very pleasant gathering; ostensibly a Halloween party—but in reality a shower in honor of Mrs. Jessie Beattie. In the early part of the evening the many good and amusing costumes provided amusement and entertainment for those not in Halloween garb; and in the midst of the games an opportunity was provided for arrangement of the many lovely gifts during the momentary absence from the room of the recipient. Mrs. Beattie's amazement upon her return was genuine. When seated in a prettily decorated chair she was presented with the gifts and best wishes of the friends of both Franklin and Rockburn—and some from Riverview and Ormstown—by Mr. W. G. Gibson on behalf of those present; and made a brief but appreciative reply. When the event of the evening had been performed a parade of the costumed to music was asked for and the judges—Mrs. Sharp and Mrs. N. Brooks of Franklin and Miss F. Johnston of Rockburn, awarded the prizes. The winners were (among the children) Beverly Mather, Lilly Barr and Patricia Lindsay. Adults—Alice Sloan and Winnie Douglas, John Sloan and Mr. McClenaghan and a sing-song closing with the National Anthem brought a happy evening to a close. There were about 125 guests present.

Powerscourt

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hendrickson entertained a few guests on Saturday evening in honour of their daughter Marjorie's ninth birthday. Guests attending were Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Mr. and Mrs. John Dickson of Howick, were Sunday guests at the home of Mrs. Boucher and family. On Thursday afternoon the Woman's Missionary Society and the Lent-A-Hand Mission Circle of the United Church held their Autumn Thankoffering meeting with Miss Lamb, a former Missionary in China, as the special speaker. Her address was most informative and interesting, being on "The New Life Movement in China." Mrs. K. MacMillan of Montreal, also spoke briefly to the Mission Circle and on their behalf presented a life membership pin and certificate to Mrs. George Boyce. Mrs. J. McDonald of Valleyfield in a few well chosen words also presented Mrs. W. R. Wilson, President of the W.M.S., with a life membership pin and certificate from the local Auxiliary. Several auxiliaries were represented. Special musical selections were given by Mrs. E. M. Wood and Mrs. Reese. The offering received was most gratifying. A social hour when refreshments were served was enjoyed by all, at the close of the meeting.

Rev. H. Lindley of Dundee, occupied the pulpit of the United Church on Sunday afternoon and most acceptably presented the Missionary and Maintenance programme, arranged for by the exchange of ministers throughout this locality.

Mrs. Chalmers and daughters of St. Lambert, were Sunday guests of her mother, Mrs. Saunders. The Gleaner readers extend their best wishes to Mrs. Saunders, who reached her nineteenth birthday on Tuesday, Nov. 4th, when she was visited by many of her village friends and neighbors.

LONG DISTANCE DIALING SPEEDS UP SERVICE

Dialing a telephone number in a distant city directly is the latest method introduced to speed up long distance service. In the early days of the telephone, when it was not possible to speak to a person more than a hundred miles away—except when "atmospheric conditions" were extraordinarily good—a call from Montreal to Toronto was a lengthy undertaking. On some occasions, the message was relayed from operator to operator in the various towns and cities along the route until it reached Toronto, and the reply came back by the same method. The relay system was soon made unnecessary by the rapid advance of the telephone art, but there was still the difficulty of obtaining the connection. Not many years ago, a caller had time to go out and play a game of golf in between asking to be connected with a subscriber in a distant city and actually talking to him. Gradually, year by year, improved methods and equipment have reduced that waiting time.

Last year, 90 per cent of all long distance calls handled by The Bell Telephone Company of Canada were completed while the calling subscriber remained at the telephone. The average time for making the connection was 87 seconds! Experiments are still under way to cut a few more seconds from the connection time. Special circuits have been provided to enable a Montreal operator to dial a Toronto number herself, instead of asking an operator in Toronto to do so for her. She plugs in on a Toronto circuit, listens for the dial tone in the Toronto exchange, and dials the number required, just as one would make a local call! Although for the present this system is still on an experimental basis, it is expected that it will be extended as the dial system is introduced in more and more towns and cities. In the not-too-distant future, perhaps, an operator may be able to dial direct a number in Sydney, Australia, for a caller in Montreal!

What's in the Wind

By PAULA DICKS
Sixty Members of Canadian Women's Press Club Met in Ottawa Recently to Obtain First Hand Information on Canada's War Effort and Especially Facts Which Are of Interest to Canadian Women—The First Article Appears This Week

Mr. L. R. Lafleche, Deputy Minister of War Services, declared that to win the war we must have the absolute support of the women, in addressing Canadian Women's Press Club members in Ottawa last week.

Voluntary Speaker
This was the theme also of the address given by Prime Minister Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, at the banquet in the Quebec Room of Chateau Laurier on Saturday evening. It created a sensation when the Prime Minister arrived. He had been suffering from a cold and began by apologizing for his voice. He continued:

"When I heard of this gathering this evening I felt I would like very much to join Mr. Thorson in extending a very hearty welcome to all who are here to-night.

Only those of us who have to do with the work of administration can appreciate what it means to have the war effort as widely and as favorably known as possible. Those of us in public life are naturally sometimes embarrassed when speaking on some subjects because it may appear that we are only displaying our own wares.

I would like it to be clearly understood so far as the Government is concerned that all we can do depends upon the extent there is of co-operation and willing effort from the people themselves. Our work is embarrasing of the work and effort of the people of the whole country.

The war effort is not the war effort of those on Parliament Hill. It is the war effort of the great majority of the men and women from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

You ladies who are here to-night are perhaps in a better position to interpret to the communities from which you come, to the country at large and to other countries, the services being rendered, than any other people to-day."

Mr. King sketched the progress of events in Europe, Asia and Africa that were extending the rule of tyranny and slavery throughout the world.

"The thing that women can do is to bring home to others and even to men the true nature of the great moral struggle in which the world is engaged. It is something challenging our standards of life. We have all learned the Ten Commandments and appreciate the great beauty of the Beatitudes. Ask yourself where Germany stands in relation to these two great fundamentals? Instead of worshipping the true God, the German must worship the god of iron, force and might. Young men will respond to an appeal made by the women of this country. Instead of looking to the Government to do this and so, what a lot depends on men and women, on ourselves, to help to make public opinion.

Mr. King recalled how things were done in his student days in Chicago, where he lived with a group attached to the centre established by Jane Addams. "It had to do with young men and working men's clubs, and all of us, men and women, were engaged in the activities going on about us.

And protect you from all harm; May it's Good Luck never fail you. May it see you through the War. Till the time when you're returning Safe to Canada once more. Following is a detailed statement on the work done by the Victory Group, as well as expenses:— Receipts— Cash Subscription received 'Hdon. Town, incl. $5.50 bal. from First Aid Class ..... $143.66 Ladies of St. Ann ..... 65.75 Dewittville ..... 16.00 Ridge Road ..... 15.05 St. Anicet ..... 19.00 Lost Nation Road ..... 9.50 Cazaville ..... 5.00 Kensington ..... 4.30 $272.76 Expenditures— Contents for 49 boxes ..... $132.10 Postage for 49 boxes ..... 41.04 Cigarettes for 47 boys ..... 47.00 $220.14 This left a balance of $52.62 which has been used to send 300 cigarettes later on to the boys "over there." The Victory Group wishes to thank all those who helped with cash contributions as well as other donations for boxes.

What impressed us was that all that was being done was not by the government or anyone connected with it. None of us were interested in our fellow men and our work was voluntary work and voluntary effort.

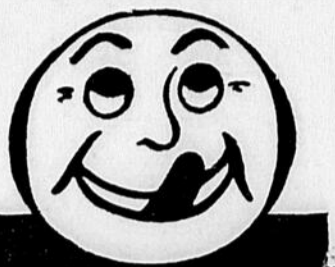

There is a tendency to look increasingly to governments for everything and this becomes greater in time of war. There is that danger, speaking as so many do of today, of the multitude looking to Parliament Hill instead of looking around them. If we are to have total effort, as indeed it is needed, it will be by increase of government duty of course, but even more will it come on a wider appreciation on the part of the people themselves what this war means, what it signifies and what in the way of co-operation for voluntary action may be developed thereby."

Social Hour with Cabinet Ministers
Cabinet Ministers and department officials mingled informally with their guests after dinner. The Prime Minister seemed particularly to enjoy himself.

The use of airplanes has crashed into the formerly placid existence of our Capital City. Mr. King told me when we met casually in front of the fireplace in the reception room of the Quebec Suite. He was in a genial mood as he described his trip on a bomber to England and back. It simply shattered any other experience to eat breakfast in London and tea in Montreal. Reflection, contemplation or planning for events ahead was almost impossible, when diplomats and delegations crowd in so fast. Yesterday, said he, Sir Somebody arrived from Australia for a conference. Today Lord Halifax was to have come. But Lady Halifax had a cold so the trip was postponed. A message comes that So-ard So, thousands of miles away is coming to Ottawa and before you turn around, here they are in front of you.

When I mentioned Huntingdon and the Gleaner, the Prime Minister recalled at once that this District had made an important contribution to the administration of the country in Watson Sellar. "He seems to be just about running the country", he added, laughing.

But Just Can't Get Going

You say you are not the man you used to be? Check up on yourself in the mirror. If your eyes are muddy and dull and your tongue's coated as well, then you're not as well as you should be.

But there are other symptoms. Food doesn't interest you. Little things get on your nerves. You fall asleep when you should be awake. You try to get out of visiting friends or going to the movies. Worse, you are too tired for your job. You're not lazy—you just can't get going.

What's the cause? Your bloodstream isn't clear. There are toxins in it. Poisonous waste is in your system. Get rid of it. Kruschen is the thing for that.

There are several mineral salts in Kruschen, balanced in exact proportions to assist the organs of evacuation to get rid of waste matter every day. Kruschen is more than a laxative. It is a diuretic as well—helps flush the kidneys and at the same time keep the colon moist, so that action is easy and gentle. A pinch of Kruschen every morning is all you need.

Kruschen costs only 25c or 75c, at all druggists. Good health for less than a cent a day.

Drive on Russia Seems to Have Lost Its Punch—Possibility of Taking Moscow by Direct Assault Has Dwindled—Americans "Are in it Now"—Developments Are Overshadowed

By DONALD C. MACDONALD

Russia has always been a strange land, and Russians a somewhat baffling people. Though unquestionably European in many respects, her territory stretches clear across Asia to the Pacific. The forces of history and geography have mingled with the result that she faces both east and west, part of each, but suspected by both. For to the east, Russia with her communistic way of life based on western philosophy (such as that of Marx), is definitely European, while to the west, Russia with her teeming millions and a national mind that works in a mysterious way, is definitely Oriental.

The impressions of the first newspaperman to have visited Russia since the war, where he was accorded an hour-long conversation with Stalin. In his reports, Ralph Ingersoll, editor of the New York newspaper PM, is most reassuring. Not only does he completely confident that the Russians will never capitulate, that a negotiated peace between Stalin and Hitler is completely out of the question, but he reports that the morale of Soviet troops is high. "Rocky" is the adjective he uses repeatedly to describe them. The Russians realize that they are outnumbered in both tanks and planes, he states, but they have adopted tactics which take that superiority of the enemy into consideration; and although they are forced to withdraw, they do so only after inflicting heavy losses on the enemy and meanwhile, retain their armies intact. A year from now, Ingersoll feels certain, the Russians will still be fighting along some front—where, he has no idea, for that will depend on many factors beside the Russians' ... but they will still be fighting.

But in the south, the situation is critical. After battering for weeks at the narrow peninsula at the head of Crimea, the Germans at mid-week broke through and their panzer divisions fanned out over the level plain to the south. The importance of Crimea, as a glance at the map will reveal, lies in its stepping-stone position toward the Caucasus by way of the Black Sea. It should not be concluded that the Black Sea is now a Nazi lake. Far from it, for the Soviets have a fleet, with at least one battleship and over 25 destroyers besides an undetermined number of submarines, and there are several alternative bases from which they can carry on, even if Sebastopol is lost.

But the fact still remains that with Crimea in Nazi control, it is possible for the Nazis to attempt an air blitz eastward, in the fashion of the Crete attack. They are still reaching distance. Meanwhile, on land, the German forces have mopped up the Ukraine rather completely and are now battling at Rostov, whose position, as another glance at the map will reveal, has been well termed "the gateway to the Caucasus." Winter does not come with the same ferocity so far south. Taking all in all, the situation is shaping up to a new and more critical phase of the war.

An Allied Caucasian Front? Strengthening that belief were the consultations held last week between Russian High Command and General Wavell. The world concluded, rightly or wrongly, that plans were being laid for a combined Russian and British front in the Caucasus, something for which preparations have been under way for months. Taking all in all, the situation is shaping up to a new and more critical phase of the war.

On the Russian Front The situation at the moment in Russia provokes the usual mingled encouragement and apprehension. The German army, which has been in the East since the beginning of the war, has lost its punch, and possibilities of taking the city by direct assault have dwindled.

and find a place to rest, or write, or sleep. To the visitor, the impression is that every one of the normal population is just as busy as he or she can be on some kind of war work, and this impression is about right. There are so many varied activities that the volunteer workers need only decide which undertaking they favour and start right in to work.

One of the places visited soon after the tour of Halifax was started was the old North End Canteen and then the new Canteen. Formerly the only one was a pitifully small hall with a very limited kitchen accommodation, yet here a group of handworking but cheerful women have been serving 25,000 meals a month, nearly a thousand a day. The new canteen which certainly was badly needed is very much larger and more modern and with excellent facilities. But the old one will not be pulled down, it may be needed yet.

A real eye-opener visited later in the day was the Ajax Club. This club, also operated by volunteer women, is a building which at one time must have been one of the finest residences in Halifax. At the rear, French door and a splendid stairway leads to the large garden, where there is a great number of tables set among the trees; and there are large beds of beautiful flowers, which apparently thrive much better in the damp atmosphere of Halifax than they do here. There were many groups of sailors sitting at these tables drinking beer. More about that

Inside the building, upstairs were rooms for reading and writing, and a canteen. The reading room had shelves built on all walls and right up to the ceiling, and these shelves were filled with books and magazines all of which had been sent to the clubs by individuals from all parts of Canada. Every book has the name and address of the donor inside the cover, and the guide said that every day some reader was delighted to find a book which had come from some one they knew in their own home town.

Regular meals are not served in this club, but sandwiches, chocolate bars, soft drinks and beer are sold at cost prices to the sailors. The lady who was conducting the club stressed the fact that this was the only club in Halifax which had a license to sell beer, and she called attention to the condition of the walls which were spotlessly clean and in perfect condition despite the fact that over five thousand sailors had visited the club every day for the past ten months. The condition of the walls and furniture was so perfect that it was difficult to believe that such a number could have been in the place without leaving more evidence of use.

If anyone desires to send books for this club they could be addressed direct to the Ajax Club at Halifax and they would be greatly appreciated. Time did not permit visits to the other clubs and halls, but there are large branches of the K. of C., Y.M.C.A., Salvation Army all doing yeoman service in helping the men on active service. In addition such service clubs as the Halifax Kiwanis Club are at work continually, and there is a Naval Reading Service which endeavours to keep a li-

Having dealt with War Industries the Army, the Air Force and the Navy, we will describe a little of the work of a most important war effort, the war auxiliaries, such as the Red Cross, the K. of C., Y.M.C.A., Salvation Army and other workers. Everyone knows that these services are necessary, that there is at least one of these at every camp, but few people have much conception of what they are actually doing.

Naturally, the work of the Red Cross in camps in Canada is limited and will be that way unless there is some kind of an attack upon the country. The others, however, are present with a helping hand for the man who needs it. They also do their best to provide some entertainment for the men in training.

The best place in Canada to observe auxiliary war work is Halifax. This city has mushroomed and its population has about quadrupled since the war began. In addition it is crowded with soldiers, sailors, and airmen, from nearby camps, ports, and ships, and there is a good sized army of extra workers of all kinds.

There are sailors from both the navy and merchant marine on shore leave, men from various services just going through on their way to different places, and trainees. Thus it is a serious problem to provide places where they can eat, and this is the work of the War Labor Board, which will administer the new wage control system. The duties of this board and the five regional labor boards which will assist it, were outlined by the minister of labor in a press interview and a broadcast. The plan differs little from the policy which the labor department attempted to put into effect by persuasion. Now it has become mandatory. It is a necessary part of the control system, and its success like that of price control depends on the co-operation of the Canadian people.

As the prime minister said recently this is true of the whole war effort. It can only be as big "as the amount of co-operation put into it by the people of Canada." The most vital, perhaps, of all questions which will be discussed in parliament will be how to make the most effective use of the man and woman power of Canada. It is the persistent and pressing problem. Its existence implies the criticism of the wonderful effort that Canada has been making, but it does imply the immediate recognition by all Canadians that this is a war which demands the utmost in sacrifice and effort of every citizen.

QUEBEC PROVINCE IS GOOD MOOSE COUNTRY Moose hunting in those areas of Quebec Province now enjoying an open season has been exceptionally good, according to C. K. Howard, Manager Tourist and Convention Bureau, Canadian National Railways, who has been in receipt of many excellent reports. This is particularly true of the Lake St. John area and of territory North of the Canadian National Lines in Northeastern Quebec. Nine moose bagged by visitors North of Quebec had an average antler spread of 54 1/2 inches while one fortunate sportsman secured a head near Lake Edward with a spread of 61 inches.

Obituary

THE LATE MR. I. EATON

Known to thousands of Schenectadians as the city's "grand old man," Commander Irving Eaton, sole surviving Civil War veteran in Schenectady, died Tuesday afternoon, October 14th, at the age of 98 at his home in Schenectady.

Commander Eaton had been ill but three days and his death from the complication of old age came as an unexpected shock to veterans, city officials, civic leaders and the public at large. The holder of many citations, Commander Eaton told on his last birthday, Feb. 21, that he felt he would live to be 100. "I may be old," he said, "his eyes twinkling, but I'm as full of hell as ever."

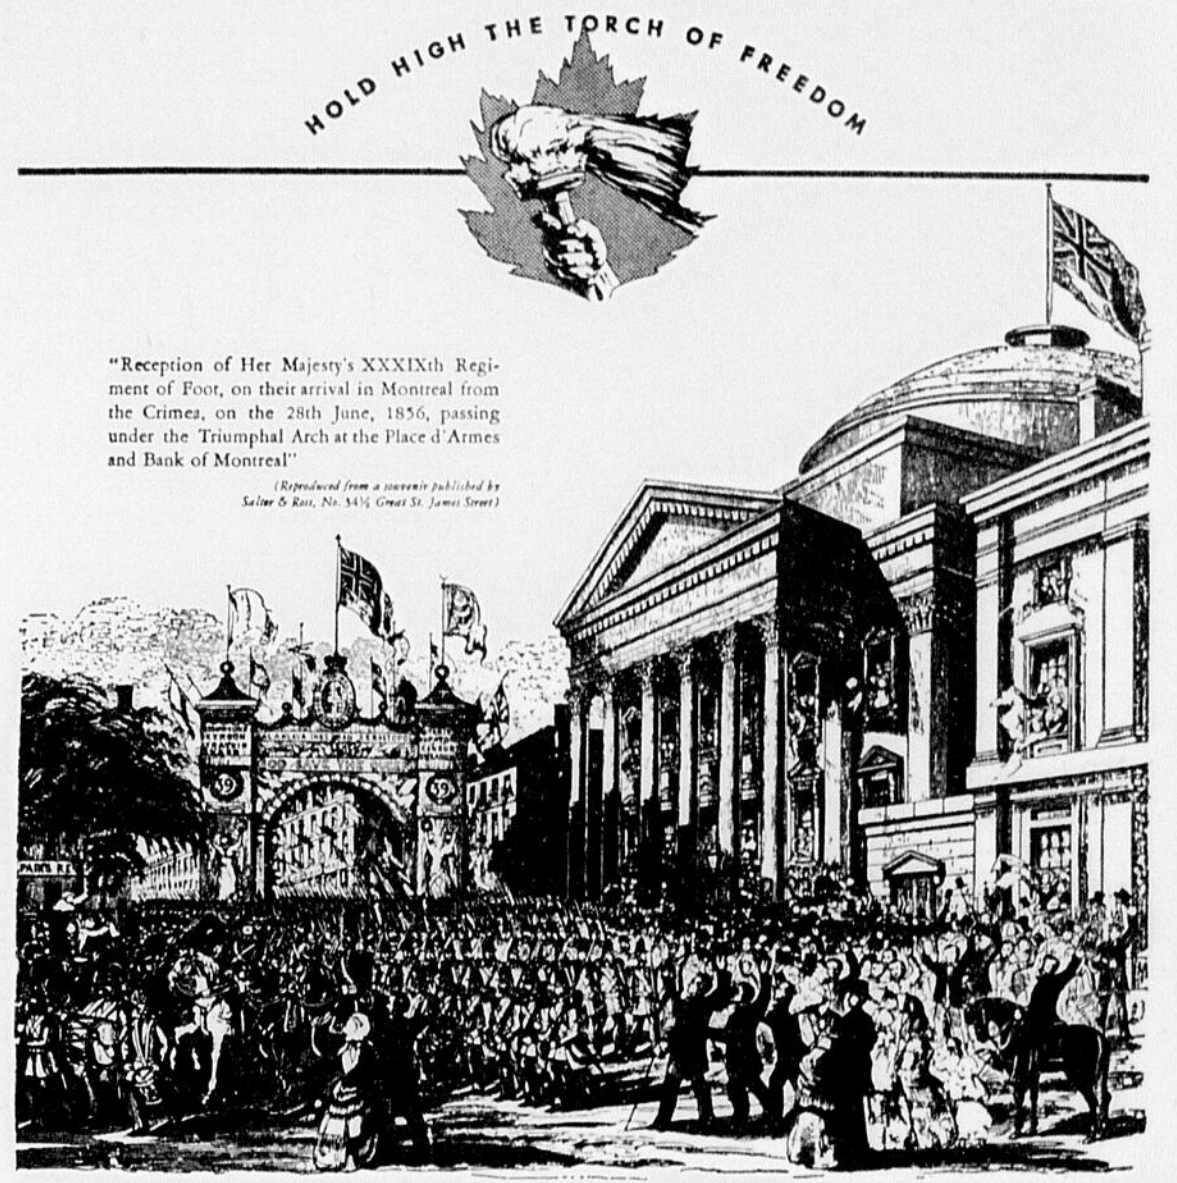

Commander Eaton is survived by his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Connors Eaton whom he married in 1882; two daughters, Mrs. Peter Cramer and Mrs. Lawrence Nesken, both of Schenectady; a son, Irving E. Eaton, and numerous grandchildren, great grandchildren, nieces and nephews. The deceased was a brother-in-law of Mr. B. J. O'Connor, of Huntingdon.

On every naval vessel and change the books every time the boat docks. In all of these activities, the need for additional workers was stressed. Most of these volunteers work for incredibly long hours, and without thought of self. These workers are unsung heroes and heroines. More power to them.

Shortly after the war, Commander Eaton went to Schenectady and had lived there since. He was a foreman at the American Locomotive Co. until his retirement about 25 years ago. In June of 1938 Commander Eaton revisited the Gettysburg battlefields to participate in the ceremonies marking the 75th anniversary of the battle.

Kidney Acids Rob Your Rest

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss—lie awake and count sheep. Often they blame it on "nerves" when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons from the blood. If they are faulty and fail, poisons stay in the system and cause sleeplessness, headache, backache often follow. If you don't sleep well, try Dodd's Kidney Pills—for half a century the favorite remedy. 103 Dodd's Kidney Pills

Living Historic Times With Canada

For just one year short of a century-and-a-quarter—124 dramatic, dynamic, historic years—the Bank of Montreal has lived, worked and watched with Canada. The Bank has seen war come and peace go, peace come and war depart; shared Canada's struggle through every night of economic depression since 1817; rejoiced to see Canada always triumph over all adversity. Founded two years after the Battle of Waterloo, the Bank witnessed the Crimean War, the Indian Mutiny, and, with other loyal Canadians, enlisted for the duration in the South African War and World War I, and now marches with the Dominion and the Empire in World War II. Always, Canada has come through stronger, better, triumphant. May she so come through the present fiery trial. To this end we work and dedicate the institution's service, just as our 6000 loyal employees are working and dedicating their personal services.

Sixty Students Enrolled The official opening of classes at the Ste. Martine Agricultural school took place on Monday morning when sixty students were enrolled. Most of the students are residents of Chateauguay County with a few from Huntingdon and Beauharnois Counties. The teaching staff at the school includes:—Notasque April, B.S.A., Director; Rev. Father Marc DuLude, Rev. Father J. Edgar Holman, Fernand Dufour, L.S.A., Adrien Côté, L.S.A., M.S.C., Gérard Ampleman, B.S.A., Lucien Crevier, Conrad Toupin, Jean Bégin, B.S.A., Louis Bossé, Gérard Lagacé, B.S.A., and Aldo Huot. Appointment Foreseen Mr. P. N. April, regional agronomist at Ste. Martine, stated on Monday that the appointment of an agronomist for Huntingdon to replace Mr. Peter Nadeau, who was transferred to Ottawa, will in all probability take place this week. The announcement will be made by Hon. Adélard Godbout, prime minister of the Province and Minister of Agriculture. Halloween was celebrated with more quietness than in years past on Friday evening. The fountain near the Bank of Commerce on Chateauguay street, which was usually well stocked with old cars and farm implements on such an occasion, was as neat as ever on Saturday morning. Children called on many householders on Friday evening to claim the traditional treat.

WEEK AT OTTAWA

November 17th. This has been described as the "greatest task ever placed on a Canadian government board," and few could be found to question that statement. The appointment of E. G. Burton of Toronto as Administrator of Retail Trade is the first of a series of appointments under the plan. It will be a complicated machinery, as the prime minister said when he outlined the blanket control, but the experience of the board and the character of its personnel assure the Canadian people that the program will be carried out with foresight and steadfastness. At the time of writing the announcement is awaited of the personnel of the National War Labor Board, which will administer the new wage control system. The duties of this board and the five regional labor boards which will assist it, were outlined by the minister of labor in a press interview and a broadcast. The plan differs little from the policy which the labor department attempted to put into effect by persuasion. Now it has become mandatory. It is a necessary part of the control system, and its success like that of price control depends on the co-operation of the Canadian people. Let's not take too much for granted! IT MATTERS little where we happen to be... we all have a very important part to play in Canada's and the Empire's war effort. Every one wants our way of life defended—freedom saved—and every one should play a part to this end—no one should "take for granted" that this war can be won without his or her help. How can you help? Buy more war savings certificates today—keep on buying them—the money provides ships, shells, planes, tanks and guns. ### AN ENGLISH LAD ENJOYS CANADA

Ernest Brown, Minister of Health, London, England, read the following essay received from a 10-year-old London East End boy who had been evacuated to the country: "Birds and Beast"

The cow is a mammal. It has six sides, right and left and upper and lower. At the back it has a tail on which hangs a brush. With this he sends flies away so they don't fall into the milk. The head is for the purpose of growing horns and so his mouth can be somewhere. The horns are to butt with the mouth to moo with. Under the cow hangs milk. It is arranged for milking. When people milk, milk comes and there never is an end to the supply. How the cow does it I have not yet realized but it makes more and more. The cow has a fine sense of smell and one can smell it far away. This is the reason for fresh air in the country.

A man cow is called an ox. The cow does not eat much but what it eats it eats twice so that it gets enough. When it is hungry it moos and when it says nothing at all it is because its insides are full up with grass.

The Y.P.S. held their annual Halloween frolic in the Community Hall on Friday evening. All those attending arrived in costume about 8 o'clock. Disguises of all descriptions were in evidence; ghosts, hobgoblins, the flannel "underwear" grandpa used to wear and even they paraded before the hall entrance. The guests were admitted one by one to the spooky interior of the hall totally dark except for the odd flash of light. Each guest in turn was given the works, shocks, dousing with water and a final tumble into a mattress heap were administered to each unwary visitor in turn by those in charge of the evening's fun. After all were admitted a suitable prize was given for the best costume, the winners being the team of Dorothy McGibbon and Miss Leah of Ormstown for the flannel underwear grandpa used to wear. Other stunts including games, apple bobbing, fortune telling were tried after which refreshments were served. A short period of dancing followed in which all participated, music being supplied by local talent.

In the United Church on a recent Sunday evening, the Misses Doris Fraser, Edith Currie-Mills and Howard Fraser gave very interesting reports on the Y.P.S. convention held in Ormstown, Oct. 18-19.

DECISIONS OF BOARD ON MILK QUESTION DELAYED BY ORDER

The Quebec Dairy Commission order for an increase in price for milk on the Montreal markets is still before the Wartime Prices and Trade Board and in the words of the chairman of the Board "no decisions or rulings are given at present juncture."

Apparently agreements for various milk prices on various city markets in Canada are held up along with the Montreal market and many other city markets in the Province of Quebec and Toronto, Hamilton and other cities in Ontario as well as cities in the West.

It is possible that all decisions of the Board are held up pending the going into effect of the price ceiling announced by Premier King recently and since implemented by Order in Council which is to become applicable on Monday, November 17th.
