Rotarians Hear Talk on Alcohol And Its War Uses

● Mr. Brian Daville, Quebec representative of the United Distillers Limited of Vancouver, addressed the Westmount Rotary Club's weekly luncheon last Wednesday. The subject of Mr. Daville's talk was "The Story of War Alcohol."

Introduced by C. T. Medlar, the speaker stressed the part that industrial alcohol is playing in the present world conflict. Revealing that "beverage alcohol" production has been stopped entirely to allow for the maximum output of raw alcohol to be turned to war uses Mr. Daville pointed out the extensive use of alcohol and alcoholic by-products in all the branches of our war machine.

Stated Mr. Daville, Commercial alcohol is, next to water, the most widely used solvent known, and has always been used extensively in the paint, dye, and chemical industries. The fact that it evaporates so quickly has made it particularly valuable in the production of fast drying lacquers, paints, varnishes, and enamels. Considerable quantities have also been used for the production of oilcloths, soaps, anaesthetics, and antiseptics. It had also many other pharmaceutical uses.

An interesting sidelight into post-war rubber potentialities was given when Mr. Daville said that "during 1944, 763,000 tons of synthetic rubber were produced in United States plants at an average cost of 33 cents a pound. The Government plants opefated for the Rubber Reserve Company by 47 Chemical, Petroleum, Rubber and Industrial concerns are now capable of producing at least a million tons a year. Some of these plants are already producing from petroleum at less than 18 to 20 cents a pound which was the pre-war cost of natural rubber."

Throughout his speech Mr. Daville gave a running account of the changing war scene and its immediate effect on the demands made on the alcoholic industry. The speaker, who is at present on loan to the Wartime Prices and Trade Board and has served on the Seventh Victory Loan Committee was thanked by Mr. W. W. Murray, Deputy Chairman of the Westmount Rotary Membership Committee.

The meeting was chaired by President A. W. Callard.

Westward - Westmount 40 Th. Year Of Rotary

When Philip Lovejoy, General Secretary Rotary International, addressed the gathering at Westward Rotary's observance of Rotary's 40th anniversary, Westmount Rotary amalgamating for the celebrative luncheon occasion, happy coincidence linked with it the birthday of Lord Baden-Powell, the late Chief Scout.

Visiting Rotarians from the Montreal Club, out of town, United States and one from Haifa, Palestine were introduced and welcomed.

The usual head table, with added background, impressive and appropriately decorated, was lengthened to provide for the many distinguished present.

H. F. Brewerton, president, centred happily between Mr. Lovejoy and the Westmount Club president A. W. Callard, enjoyed the presence of service club representatives from the Kinsmen, Lion's and Kiwanis Clubs.

H. Brewerton welcomed the Westmount Club as a body and referred sympathetically to the serious illness of a Westmount member, Chester McBride. The president spoke briefly and to the point on the 40th anniversary and, in personally welcoming Mr. Lovejoy on behalf of Westward Rotary, told the general secretary that all members were proud to wear the Rotary emblem as they glanced over the achievements of the past and looked forward to the progress of the future.

Westmount No 1 Troop Mark Scout Week Here

The No. 1 Westmount Troop marked national Boy Scout and Girl Guide Week in their own way at Stanley Presbyterian Church's Franklin Memorial Hall when Henry King, assistant district Scout commissioner, Westmount area, presented a long service medal with bar to Scout Master Fred Whittet for 20 years service and another long service medal to Miss H. I. Johnston who has been Cub Master of the No. 1 Westmount Pack since its organization 10 years ago. At the same time Mr. King presented service stars to seven scouts and special badges to five others.

Scouts Currie, R. Sough, Hyslop, Laidley, Robertson, Scriver and Winship were awarded service stars while the airman and aero engineer badge went to Charlie Scriver and John Fry, the swimming badge to Ian Smith, and the missionary badge to Jack Martin and Richard Cormier.

The presentations were preceded by a turkey dinner, a 10-minute address by the church's pro tem minister, Rev. Quincy McDowell, and an evening of varied entertainment put on by the Scouts, Guides and Cubs. More than 100 members of the three organizations and their families and friends were present.

Mr. McDowell was introduced by L. J. Dunbar, chairman of Stanley Church's Scout committee, and the minister spoke on the need for a four-fold life embodying religion and mental, social physical capabilities.

His brief address was followed by a "radio talk" by Scout master Whittet and Cyril Dendy, field secretary at Scout headquarters. Then came community singing led by Dr. E. D. Lewis, with Bert Rogers accompanying on the piano, Girl Guide leader Miss Stanfield putting on a show with some of her Guides, a skit by the Fox Patrol and the presentations.

After an intermission the program resumed with Scout Peter Aykroyd's marionette show, movies and finally Scout Master Whittet leading in the saying of the Scout promise.

Scout Bruce Robertson acted as chairman throughout the evening.

This notable cast assures an excellent performance.

The MUSICAL Score

By Ken Adams

● Esther Master, pupil of Miss Rose Goldblatt, gave an interesting piano recital of music ranging from Bach to Shostakovitch last Monday evening at Victoria Hall (Westmount). After an absence of about two years from the concert stage, this was a memorable return for Miss Master.

The main work on Miss Master's program was Beethoven's Sonata Appassionata in F Minor, Opus 57. This sonata acts at all times as a challenge to all pianists. Miss Master's interpretation was good on the whole, her attack on the second movement however was not entirely called for. This movement is one of respose, it acts as an interlude between the stormy first and last movements. Due to the heavy playing it seemed like a rainy day between two stormy days instead of creating that pastoral feeling one adventures between stormy days. It was also noticed in her interpretation that she had a little trouble with pedal leakage.

It was the performances of the first two compositionse that Miss Master proved herself an artist. The first of these two works was Corelli's "Folies d'Espagne" arranged for piano by Miss Goldblatt. This piece was a series of pictures, they almost sounded like a theme and variation. Miss Master's playing of them was clear cut and flawless at all times. It was a pleasure to listen to them. Better still was the remarkable performance of Bach's "Organ Prelude and Fugue in A Minor" arranged for piano by Liszt. The outstanding feature in this rendition was the remarkable technical power of Miss Master's left hand. Not often does one hear Bach's organ transcriptions so enthusiastically and brilliantly played on the piano. Of the entire program this was the most enjoyabe.

After the intermission Miss Master returned to play the lighter portion of her program. She opened with the well known Capriccio in B Minor by Brahms followed by the charmingly graceful Intermezzo in A also by Brahms. It was in these two compositions that Miss Master showed her ability at phrasing. Three Fantastic Dances by Shostakovitch followed, these being plated with precision lost none of their humour. Miss Master closed her listed program by playing two compositions by Liszt. In the first of these, Die Lorelei, the artist was given ample opportunity to display sentiment in music. The other Liszt composition was his Concert Etude In F Minor. Here brilliance was Miss Master's Watchword. The concert closed with two encores: Granados' "Playera"; and a Mazurka by Chopin.

WHAT THEY THINK

The Editor :

This is in regard to news items appearing in the Examiner on February 16 and 23 with reference to a new branch of the Legion at present being organized in Westmount.

While we have no objection to another branch of the Legion in this locality, yet of necessity we must take strong exception to two inferences reported in connection with the new organization. Firstly, it was stated the R.M.R. Branch is regimental; secondly, the statement that "It is felt that a good live branch can be established for the Westmount district" would by inference imply that the R.M.R. Branch is not alive and progressive.

Both the above inferences are quite unfounded and show a lack of appreciation for the outstanding work which has been and is being done by the R.M.R. Branch.

During the past three years, our branch has grown from slightly over one hundred to more than three hundred and fifty members. Though we take a natural and commendable pride in the tradition of the Royal Montreal Regiment with which we are affiliated, yet no effort has been made to remain exclusive. Our membership includes not only many veterans who served with regiments other than the Royal Montreal Regiment, but also includes the various branches of the service Army, Navy, Air Force, and Merchant Marine, bound together in one great brotherhood.

Our first Vice-President and three of the six members of the Executive Committee are veterans of this war, our object being to hand over the active direction of the branch to the young, active, and energetic veteran just as soon as he is prepared and willing to assume the responsibility.

From the foregoing you will realize that though we are the pioneer branch of the Legion in this locality and though we have a fine background of regimental tradition, yet we are far from exclusive and far from dead.

Returning veterans and also those of the last war who have not yet joined the Legion and who seek to join a branch of proven experience and service and possessing something more than mere newness and inexperience as recommendations, will be well advised to get in touch with the Secretary of the R.M.R. Association, Quebec Branch No. 14, Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L., whose address and telephone number are given below.

While in the past we have been content to contact the returned man and strive to serve him in every way possible, without seeking publicity for our efforts, we feel that in simple justice you will wish to rectify the misconceptions, which we believe were quite unintentional, by giving to this letter the same prominence as was given to the articles regarding the proposed new branch. Yours truly, Max R. LeRoy, Secretary. Telephone WI. 6307.

Westward

ferred to Mr. Lovejoy as the right man in the right place, big physically but bigger in heart and mind and the understanding necessary in installing new clubs in warring countries now denuded.

He congratulated Westward Rotary on the honours that had come their way, said they had done outstanding work and were deserving of this mark of appreciation. A reference was made in conclusion. to the number of evictions of servicemens' families from their homes and he suggested that at the meeting of the service clubs the subject of doing something about it could be profitably studied.

Westward president introduced Mr. W. Allan who went directly to the heart of a stirring appeal for Boy Scout funds for the next five years.

SCOUT FUND APPEAL

He spoke of the need of 7,000 boys of Montreal, about there being only 400 volunteer workers among them, where 600 could well be used, of only 5 professional workers employed against 7 that were essential.

The Boy Scout representative showed how only 25% of these boys were enjoying the boyish romance of camp, of practical scoutcraft, and incidentally good citizenship under the ideal conditions, as against the 80% at very least who should have these camping privileges.

Mr. Allan went on to say that the Boy Scouts had high priority with the newly formed War Assets Corporation for the supply of tents, boats, huts etcetera providing they had the money to pay for them.

That he was in the presence of close friends of the Boy Scouts he was as thoroughly convinced as he was that the quota for the next five years would be reached, which was $206,000 and that a 25% oversubscription, which would bring the sum to $250,000 could be as readily reached if all would realise that this would give a 50% profit return in boys in camp and training, which would mean the grounding of a new generation and new citizens.

Mr. Brewerton then produced a quartette worthy of a repeat anywhere, Cecil Medlar, S. Cuthbert, Jim McAndrews and Duncan Shanahan who excellently rendered 'In The Evening By The Moonlight' and 'Sweet Adeline', the title of the second, drawing, for some reason, laughter and merry comment.

Secretary H. G. Hawkings introduced the guest speaker for the 40th anniversary occasion, Mr. Lovejoy, as follows.

"It is to me a special honour to introduce the speaker today. To all Rotarians, I am sure no special introduction is needed and most of you heard him at the Montreal Club.

To all our other visitors and friends I reveal Mr. Lovejoy has recently returned from a four weeks trip in Great Britain with the President of Rotary International, Richard H. Wells."

At the conclusion of Mr. Lovejoy's remarkable speech, elsewhere in this issue recorded in full, Past-president Willard Mace thanked him for all gathered at the meeting was concluded with the national anthem.

New Bibliography Of Canadiana Is Announced Here

● Professor C. W. Thompson, a resident of 438 Strathcona avenue, Westmount, has announced the completion of a Bibliography of Canadiana representing the collection of Canadian Literature now included in the Sir George Williams College Library.

Prof. Thompson, senior English professor at Sir George Williams College, started what is believed to be the only up-to-date catalogue of Canadian Literature in existence five years ago when he, with the aid of the College Librarians, began assessing the extent and relative worth of Canadian Literature as it exists today.

Including many first editions in its pages the Bibliography acts as a milestone in the rapidly expanding national culture development that is Canadiana. Of Canadian Literature in general, Prof. Thompson says "It has been questioned that a Canadian Literature exists. There can be no question, however, that one is rapidly developing with the growing consciousness of Canada's importance as a nation. True appreciation of land and culture expresses itself in the literature of a nation, and in the collecting of that literature."

A resident of Westmount for the past ten years, Prof. Thompson holds an M.A. degree from Worcester College, Oxford University, Oxford, England. He has been connected with Sir George Williams College since 1933. Prior to his joining the staff of the Montreal college Prof. Thompson served as House Master at Ashbury College, Ottawa. He assisted the late Sir Arthur Doughty in his position as Dominion Choreographer.

JACQUELINE—SOLDIER'S DAUGHTER

Pictured above is Jacqueline Claire Saunders, daughter of Gunner Jack Saunders, Royal Canadian Artillery, and of Mrs. Saunders. Jacqueline will be three this month, but hasn't seen her Dad yet. He is with the first Canadian Army and is at present somewhere on the Siegfried Line.

The young lady with the dolly is also the niece of Johnny Holmes, whose orchestra has been playing weekly in Victoria Hall.

TALK ON PENSIONS

At the regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of Remembrance Branch, No. 75, B.E.S.L. Mr. Thomas Leigh of the Veterans' Service Bureau, spoke on the subject of Pensions in connection with War Casualties, after which a question period was held.

Historical Exhibit To Remain Open Well Into March

● The exhibition sponsored by the Westmount Historical Association that is currently on view at the Westmount Public Library will remain until the middle of March announced Miss Kathleen Jenkins, Librarian.

The display features maps and land dispositions dating back a hundred years in Westmount History with more interesting items being sent in daily. The Librarian stresses the fact that many Westmount homes contain small items that are of vital interest to the exhibition and that any pictures, maps, sketches, etc., that may be deemed "too important" by the owner may in reality be extremely valuable as an addition to the collection.

Any items of the above type will be most gratefully received by the Historical Association either on loan or as a gift, Miss Jenkins stated.

Among the more interesting items on view at the Library is an 1844 sketch of the residence on Forden, the territory between Cote St. Antoine Road to the Cote des Neiges boundary which is, to quote the accompanying caption, "One of the few extensive properties as yet unencroached by the suburban builder." A plastic model of the basrelief over the Westmount Library door presented by Mr. W. D. Lighthall.

Rotarians President Callard Urges Action

● President A. W. Callard of the Westmount Rotary Club has announced the decision of the General Council of Service Clubs to meet with representatives of the Canadian Legion and the Westmount and Westward Rotary in order to discuss the problem arising from the eviction of servicemen's relatives from their homes under the Government's current wartime housing agreements. "It is an appalling thought," stated Mr. Callard in an interview with the Examiner, "that wives and dependents of servicemen who are at present giving their lives for their country will be made to feel that the people that they have left behind will have no roof over their heads."

Announcing the decision at the Westmount Rotary Meeting last Wednesday to meet jointly on Tuesday, February 27, Mr. Callard, who first raised the question of direct action at a meeting of the Westward club held last week, expressed the opinion that the result of the coming meeting would take the form of a direct appeal to Ottawa to review the over-all housing situation. "There are times when Democracy must be forced to work properly, and this is one of those times" asserted Mr. Callard.

Questioned as to what steps he, as a representative of the Westmount Rotary thought might be taken to remedy the situation, Mr. Callard suggested that a board of appeal be set up by the Government to hear the complaints of landlord and tenant alike and thus impartially judge the relative merits of each individual case.

A second meeting will be called to air the decisions of the group meeting Tuesday and to announce what action will be taken.

Lt. Gen. Sir Wm. Dobbie To 'Remember His Lord'

BY WILFRID BURNLEY

"Sir William Dobbie, K.C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., and Lady Dobbie will attend Grace Chapel morning meeting. However it is important that there be no announcement of this, nor do they want to be singled out for attention. They come as believers in the Lord Jesus Christ", read the letter received last week by Joseph Irving Duguid, 2204 Girouard Avenue, correspondent for the Assembly that gathers in a primitive Christian way at the Draper Avenue meeting.

The gallant Defender of Malta and his wife, Lady Dobbie, who have both "endured hardness as good soldiers of Jesus Christ" thus unobtrusively gathered with other simple believers to "show forth the Lord's death till He come."

With them were received in fellowship C. Stacey Woods, General Secretary for Canada of the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship and Miss Lucille Munroe, Provincial Secretary.

General Dobbie himself chose and announced the last hymn, "I am waiting for Thee, Lord, Thy beauty to see, Lord."

There was no hurry in departure after the meeting, nor were any special seats provided at the gathering for the distinguished visitors. It was simply a meeting of believers with no thought of any of them for self, but all "of Him Whom they came to remember."

until God opens up the way, Yours Truly, W. G. S. Dobbie."

This, however, did not occasion General and Lady Dobbie's visit to N.D.G. and the letters were not mentioned in the long conversation Mr. Duguid had with the General after Sunday morning's meeting.

It was simply the nearest Assembly, nearer than Rosemount, St. Antoine Street or the Gospel Hall, Wellington Street, Verdun, and Lady Dobbie has been in Assemblies all her life. Sir William declared "I was converted at the age of 14 and have served the Lord since."

LT.-GEN. SIR W. G. S. DOBBIE

LADY DOBBIE

The Defender of Malta, who, with Lady Dobbie, as is their regular custom, gathered with a Believers' Assembly for private worship on this occasion visiting N.D.G. Draper Avenue Grace Chapel.

General and Lady Dobbie's personal worship is always in this simple manner among Believer Assembles (popularly known as the Plymouth Brethren) and he moved among them extensively in Britain before taking this tour under the auspices of the I.V.C.F. and Moody Bible Institute. His Sabbath mornings are purposely kept free for this reason.

INVITED TO CANADA

Mr. Duguid wrote General Dobbie in February of 1943 by Air Mail about the possibility of the British Government consenting to the General's visiting Canada and the U.S.A. on furlough.

"I am sure you will understand my motive;" wrote Mr. Duguid, "I do believe it would be a splendid opportunity for further service to our blessed Lord in testimony. While the epic de fence of Malta is still fresh in the minds of the people of this country the Defender of Malta would be given a very enthusiastic and appreciative welcome. I believe your visit would serve a double purpose. It would be a tonic to the people here in their all-out war effort and thousands would be blessed and encouraged by your convincing testimony to the power of God in answering prayer, and in your invincible faith in our Lord Jesus Christ."

THE GENERAL'S REPLY

To which General Dobbie replied in March 1943, "Thank you for your kind suggestion that I should visit Canada and the United States. I much appreciate it, and, for many reasons, would like to do so. I do not think it at all likely at the present unless and

"SCRIPTURALLY CORRECT"

The interviewer is both happy and proud to report talking to Sir William personally and having the pleasure of shaking hands with so God-fearing a gentleman.

The Examiner was given the honour by the General of writing this record with "no strings attached" providing care in presentation was respected concerning Sir William's activities in personal worship and The Examiner report scripturally correct in presentation of the Gospel.

With this in view, The Examiner gladly quotes the personal testimony of so humble a man exalted by his very humility.

GENERAL DOBBIE'S TESTIMONY

"I gladly give my testimony to the saving and keeping power of God in Christ.

I came to know Him as my Saviour forty-seven years ago, and all through my military service to the present day He has been my Saviour and Lord. Although I have often and often been unfaithful to Him, yet He has never been unfaithful to me, nor has He let me down. I have always been sensible of the fact that my sins, which were forgiven me when I first accepted Him as my Saviour, were blotted out once for all, and that in spite of my failures I have become 'a new creature in Christ Jesus.' That realization has given me a profound peace which none of the circumstances of army life in peace or war have been able to disturb.

I should also like to testify that to serve God and to follow Him is a very real and practical thing in the Army. The help that He gives is also real and practica as I have a habit to bring all my problems to Him, both great and small, both professional and private and I can testify that the help He gives is certain and convincing.

I have known Him for forty-seven years, and I could not face life without Him. I pity from the bottom of my heart those who are trying to live without Him. They little know what they are missing — it is no small thing to know that all the past has been forgiven, that help from the hands of Almighty God is available for the present and that the whole future for eternity is assured. I am not presumptuous when I say I know that, because it has all been given to me by His Grace—apart from my own deserts. I commend such a Saviour to all."

Culminating this forthright declaration is the following extract from the preface of Dobbie's latest book, "A Very Present Help."

"I desire to emphasize, especially to the rising generation, that it is a practical and intensely real thing to let Christ come into one's life and that today, as ever before, it is no vain thing to trust in the living God."

BEREAVED

Sir William and Lady Dobbie's eldest son, Major Arthur W. Dobbie, Royal Engineers, was killed in action in Italy. Following in his father's footsteps he had been an active member of the Officers' Christian Union and took a lively interest in the spiritual welfare of his men.

Montreal activities of General Sir William Dobbie and Lady Dobbie have been well covered by news columns and editorials.

TYPE OF CHRIST

Lady Dobbie, in her address before the Inter-Varsity and Inter-School Christian Fellowship at Montreal High School, picutred the Malta rock as a type of Christ, themselves as hopelessly lost from outside aid and the shelter found within the rock answering to the riven side of Christ. She quoted the hymn "Rock of Ages, cleft for me," in illustration.

Tse Monitor closes this story with a glimpse of the tremendous interest aroused throughout the length and breadth of the nation and in the United States possibly because a man in N.D.G., exercised about such possibilities, placed the desire to come in the hearts of General and Lady Dobbie.

ALL RELIGIONS, ALL BELIEVERS

The glimpse referred to is revealed in the following editorial from a Hamilton paper indicating the interest which the lives of faith of Sir William and Lady Dobbie have aroused in Canada, a faith which is "beyond creed or religion and which glorifies God and accepts Christ as his Son, able to save to the uttermost and acknowledges all believers in all religions as brethren in Christ."

STANDING ROOM ONLY

Wednesday night of this week provided Hamiltonians with a striking demonstration of the lamentable lack here of community auditorium accommodation. The combined seating capacities of two of the City's largest churches, Philpott Tabernacle and Centenary United, could not accommodate the citizens who sought to hear Lt.-Gen. Sir William Dobbie, the Hero of Malta.

Sir William was here to tell Canadians how faith and prayer, rather than arms, had saved

Rotary Secretary Tells World Youth HasDesperateNeed

"There can never be too many service clubs nor men enough to man them, doing the things that need to be done," averred Philip Lovejoy, General Secretary Rotary International, voicing his pleasure at the representation of Kinsmen, Lions and Kiwanis service clubs at the Rotary 40th anniversary luncheon with Westward Rotary Club as hosts and Westmount Club associating.

"I say this after listening to Mr. Allan's stirring appeal for Scout funds," the speaker continued, "and I would like to see the clubs fraternize as a whole, to expand, yet to definitely preserve their own identity."

He thought that a movement to combine would be wisely and unanimously rejected because there would be no strength in amalgamation but rather in diversity, as each had its own particular problems and approached them in different ways.

AN ALLEGORY

To illustrate this reasoning, he told the story of Barnum's pink elephant and the man alleged having twelve children figuring anxiously on his fingers when Barnum supposedly asked him his difficulty.

The man declared he was calculating whether he could afford his family seeing the remarkable pink elephant, while Barnum responded by asking if the children were all his.

On receiving an affirmative, Barnum is reported as saying it was just as important for his pink elephant to see the man's family as it was for the family to see his elephant.

"So it is with the Club representatives here at our Rotary anniversary, they can see how we operate", elaborated the speaker, then went on to compliment Westward Rotary on having a long list of commendable achievements for so short an existence.

KNOWS HER ROTARY

Speaking of his visit to Great Britain, Mr. Lovejoy recalled the remarks of a 70 year old woman who told him, 'when Rotary goes into a town or village the community grows worthwhile living in, I know Rotary, and Rotary's General Secretary volunteered it made him proud to be a Rotarian.

Montreal West Club achievements exemplify this, emphasised the speaker, and enumerated many of the benefits accruing including the Blood Donor Clinic and he deliberated that Montreal West had done so much in the way of service to the community he was in danger of becoming mixed in his references, but that he had bought a ticket for the Victory House anyway. He added that if he won it he would turn the house over to indigent Club secretaries.

Mr. Lovejoy touched commendingly on the help given the Bomb Victims of London and then referred to the Boy Scout appeal, supporting it meaningly yet indirectly by quoting from a letter from Italy containing a request for aid to revive Boy Scout work in that country, thus offsetting Fascism and teaching Democracy through Scouting.

FOLLOW-UP APPEAL

Mr. Lovejoy declared he followed up what had already been so ably outlined regarding the fostering of youth into profitable channels.

He recorded the war had been going upwards of 6 years, which had been found a difficult period full of tremendous problems.

"Well," he challenged emphatically, "We have much bigger problems yet ahead of us!"

There would be great demands for money, for personal work and self-sacrifice, he went on, and our wonderful past can only be regarded as fitting us as a base we will have to build on for the boys and girls who are giving the best of their lives on the many battle-fronts of the world.

Mr. Lovejoy declared he frequently reminded the Chicago staff, Rotary has 143 employees down there, to set the sights on the basis there's going to be more and difficult situations to be dealt with.

He mentioned the $250,000 mark suggested to care for 7,000 Boy Scouts for five years, comparing the proven fact we can raise $130,000,000 for destruction.

WHAT COMES NEXT?

Mr. Lovejoy quoted a letter from his son in the Pacific saying the job of pest extermination was going on nicely. He recalled 'Shangri La' was ably taking care of the pest, but what, in its place? He drew on Social Hygiene of Chicago figures to reveal the State of Illinois is said to have reported 11,000 cases of V.D. in girls younger than 15 years of age.

He quoted authorities as declaring the girls progressively from 17 down to 13 infected and many of them from good families. That these were weighty problems to consider when a paltry $250,000 was asked for Scouts and Guides.

VIENNA KINDERGARTEN

Mr. Lovejoy mentioned his Austrian trip and a mistake he made in suggesting the country 'poor' in mentioning the drainage cost of war, lack of material things and the toll of carnage in human lives. The Austrian showed the Rotary visitors a magnificently equipped kindergarten right in Vienna, truly in a building of unpreposing exterior, but the school itself incomparable with those in our own countries, it so surpassed them in equipment.

For the future of the children, and the coming generation, no sacrifice is too great the Rotarians were told.

Malta. His subject was not one that would be ordinarily calculated to have the widest popular appeal yet on one of the most disagreeable nights of the winter outdoors, the crowds overflowed two church auditoriums. The fact remains that Hamilton is completely lacking in anything approaching adequate accommodation for such an occasion. With suitable listening facilities it is not improbable that two or three times as many citizens would have attended. By five o'clock Wednesday the overflow attendance at the Tabernacle was assured, and long before the lecture began Centerary was filled.

It is our guess that Sir William would have been more than happy to tell the story of Malta to seven or eight thousand Hamiltonians even if it had been arranged for him to appear in a modern community auditorium with sports palace trimmings. And we imagine that the cultural sensibilities of only a very few would have restrained them from hearing him in such surroundings.

Lower Canada College Offers Scholarships

In a covering letter to The Monitor from D. S. Penton, Headmaster, Lower Canada College containing the General Scholarship announcement for the current year it was revealed two L.C.C. boys, who won scholarships into Tenth Year in 1942, were both awarded first class honours in the McGill Certificate examination and that one of them won a Sir Edward Beatty Mathematical Scholarship to McGill.

Lower Canada College is offering three Scholarships for entry in September 1945 and the examinations for these Scholarships will be held there commencing 9.30 a.m., April 4th.

Applications must be in prior to 28th March, 1945, and forms and information may be obtained from the Headmaster.

IS IT NECESSARY?

IS IT absolutely NECESSARY?

Unless it is, please do not travel during "rush hours."

War-time conditions have created a transportation emergency. There is too much demand and too little space in available trams and buses to carry all the passengers who wish to ride during "rush hours."

Naturally, those who have vital work to do and need to travel at such times—remember this is war-time—should have necessary transportation.

150,000 per hour

Including those who transfer, the number of passengers, who now demand service during "rush hours," averages 150,000 per hour.

Unless absolutely necessary, please do not use our service between 7.30 and 9.30 a.m. and between 4.30 and 6.30 p.m., because those who go to business each day—a greatly increased number on account of the War—must travel during "rush hours."

WESTMOUNT, FRIDAY, MARCH 2, 1945

CANADA AND THE WORLD

Canada's increased status in international affairs is evidenced by the important part other nations expect her to take in the United Nations Conference at San Francisco which opens April 25. It is to be one of the most important gatherings in world history and out of it will likely emerge a United Naions Organization dedicated to the peace and progress of the post-war world.

Premier King is expected to head the Canadian delegation in his capacity as secretary of state for external affairs. Already Ottawa has been informed that smaller nations of the world are looking to Canada to play a leading role in their behalf and in the framing of a world plan for post-war security and prosperity.

It is significant that the international monetary plan adopted at Bretton Woods adopted the main feature of Canadian proposals. Likewise the Air Conference at Chicago reached a compromise agreement some features of which were based on suggestions originally made by Canada.

A Canadian, Lester B. Pearson, ambassador to Washington, already heads the important Interim Commission on Food and Agriculture which will function under the new United Nations Organizations.

Canada will go to the San Francisco parley not only to work for security but also for lowering of trade barriers to permit free exchange of commerce between world nations and provide export markets for Canadian produce and manufactured goods.

ELECTION TO BE FREE-FOR-ALL

Judging by the number of candidates already in the field, and by the plans of the eight recognized political parties in Canada, the coming general election is going to be an unprecedented scramble among the largest number of candidates ever to present themselves for election in this country. It is not unlikely that there will be close to one thousand candidates in the field. There will be a multitude of three-way contests, and several ridings in which there will be five or more candidates. There are 245 seats to be battled for.

The Liberal party will enter candidates in every riding in the country. The C.C.F. is next with an official forecast of 225, and the Progressive Conservatives plan to have about 200. The Labour-Progressives will enter 75, mainly in urban-industrial constituencies. In addition, there will be Social Credit, Bloc Populaire, Union Nationale, Independent Liberals, Quebec "Canadian Party" men, and others contesting many of the seats. Union Nationale nominees may pick another name for the federal contest in order to attract support outside the straight Duplessis supporters. They hope to appropriate the position once occupied by the Conservatives in Quebec.

ANTI-HATE CAMPAIGN

One of the few true believers in national unity in Canada is Rev. A. Maheux of Laval University. Every public utterance he makes is directed toward an intelligent solution of our racial problem. His latest appeal is for Canadians to "sing the praises" of other parts of the Dominion.

It would be good if a considerable number would take him literally at his word. Suppose a few thousand people in Ontario were to resolve that, for a stated period, they would not only refuse to criticize Quebec, but would seek out the good things about that province and noise them abroad. Suppose an equal number of Quebec folk would make the same resolution in respect to the other parts of Canada. Let the campaign be arranged for only six months. At the end of the period, the habit of praise would be so strong that it would never be abandoned.

There is no way of computing what effect this might have on the spirit of the Canadian people. A movement such as this is contagious. Why do not a few of us expose ourselves to the infection?

ONE EGG, ONE SLICE BACON—$1.10

A friend of ours, who has just returned from the States, says price ceilings haven't been nearly as effectively maintained there as in Canada. The U.S. regulations leave too many loopholes for the smart guys. A minor change in specifications seems to be all that is necessary to jack up the price of an article from $45 to $80. Our friend listed the price of restaurant food as another example. In a Detroit cafe he ordered a breakfast of orange juice, bacon and egg, toast and coffee. He got a small glass of orange juice, one egg, one slice of bacon, two slices of toast with synthetic butter, and a cup of coffee—at a cost of $1.10. A ham sandwich and a glass of malted milk cost 55 cents. He states that Detroit's population has increased by three hundred thousand since Pearl Harbor, with no more than a negligible increase in building to house them. Thousands of Detroit residents find it profitable to do their shopping on the Canadian side and pay the duty back into the U.S.A.

"DISAPPOINTING, ISN'T IT? IT'S JUST DIRT!"

THE FORUM

Conducted by HOWARD S. ROSS, K.C., D.C.L.

In Which Subjects of General Interest Are Discussed

The opinions expressed in this Forum are not necessarily those of this newspaper, and it does not accept responsibility for them.

Not long ago I spoke (as I do from time to time) at a weekly dinner of that very active sehvice club the Kinsment of Montreal so well-known for their 'Milk for Britain' campaign.

After the meeting a former mmber of the club, William H. Austin, 112 Yonge St., Toronto, National Advertising Manager of The Western Producer, widely known weekly of Saskatoon, said he liked what I said about the co-operative movement and would ask the Business Manager to put me on their free list. The Producer is coming and I am glad to have it as it gives me an opportunity to keep in touch (probably more closely than othewise) with what is happening in Saskatchewan now that it has★ the first Socialist Government on this continent.

Many things have happened since I visited the officials of the Producer in 1929 when I gave 72 addresses on a Chautauqua circuit. Half of the addresses were given in Alberta and half in Saskatchewan. At that time the editor was Harris Turner who now writes an interesting column called "The S. E. Corner". "The S. E.", if I am not mistaken, refers to the South East part of our House of Commons where the Western Progressives (the so called "Ginger group") sat. Mr. Turner is a veteran of the last war in which he lost his sight and he is also a veteran newspaper man having been engaged in such work since 1907.

Mr. A. P. Waldron the present editor, interestingly stated: "At a guess I would say Mr. Turner is now about 55 years of age."

The Producer editorials are strong and trenchant and as a rule in advance of current public opinion as they should be if an editor is (as he should be) constantly making an intensive study of fundamental economics.

The Producer usually, 32 pages, is one of the principal journals of the co-operative movement in Western Canada in particular and other parts of Canada and throughout the world. I gather from reading it that the editor's feelings about the new Government are mixed. He likes many of the progressive measures passed at Regina during the first session by Premier Douglas and his associates but has in mind that, as a rule, Socialist Governments, up to now, have become totalitarian and in their desire for absolute power have absorbed the co-operatives.

The reports of the proceedings in the legislature at Regina show sympathy and at the same time a spirit of watchfulness. I doubt if any paper in Canada or any where has as many letters in its Open Forum from farmers. The letters are from, as a rule, the prairie provinces with some from the East and from B. C. They give an indication of what our farmers (those useful folk) are thinking.

I shall reproduce from time to time in my Forum a letter from The Producer's Open Forum. The circulation of The Seducer as I heard it called (because of its success in getting farmers to leave private elevator companies and join the Wheat Pools) now stands at 112,483.

Mr. Waldron wrote: "At the last breakdown by provinces, a year ago, the circulation stood at:

Saskatchewan	58,023
Manitoba	10,248
Alberta	31,088
British Columbia...	5,130
Other provinces....	1,155
British, U.S.A. and Foreign	240

Murdoch C. Carmichael of Belmont, Mass., has erected a building at Munroe's Point, Victoria County, Cape Breton, for the benefit of the community. It is fully equipped with new fishing gear, including several salmon nets, mackerel and herring nets, trawls, lobster traps, fishing lines ster traps, fishing lines and a new fishing boat.

In order that the people may have the use of this building and all the equipment for their personal use, without any cost to them, he has provided a fund for its maintenance for a period of twenty years.

Mr. Carmichael who is manager and owner of Carmichael Welding and Machine Co. (now a war production plant) Belmont, Mass., was born at Munroe's Point, St. Ann's and nothing gives him more pleasure than a holiday spent there.

As to wheat we have "too much for our own good declared Hon. James Gardiner, Federal Minister of Agriculture, at the Annual Convention of the United Farmers of Agriculture, at the Annual should be held down, he suggested, so far as could be done by substituting other crops and practising good farming by summer fallow. Canadian farmers will have to produce for known markets, chiefly the U.S. and Britain.

Both are 'hard traders' and Canada must be prepared to take their products in return. The Agricultural Prices Support Act was a recognition that farmers on family farms were not making quite as much money as they were entitled to, said Mr. Gardiner, and a fund of $200,000,000 had been set up to support prices.

"Government 'interference' in marketing, provided the Government was democratically constituted, is far preferable to 'free' enterprise, with its lack of responsibility and with enterprise on the lowest levels setting the pace, declared K. J. Scott of Toronto speaking on "A Marketing Program."

The present system of marketing, he said, is perhaps, the best synchronized method ever known in Canada. The Convention asked that Canadian Wheat Board be continued as a sale marketing agency for wheat, with an initial payment during 1945 and 1946 of not less than $1.25, and that the Wheat Board take delivery of not less than 280,000,000 bushels each year.

An Attic Salt-Shaker

By W. Orton Tewson

A CERTAIN sophomore at Harvard during Dr. Eliot's Presidency who "had a sophomore's notions of what constituted fitness"—which did not include the carrying of a package of groceries through Harvard Square—was one day, during long vacation, passing the large grocery store formerly in the Square at Cambridge, when he heard a familiar voice and looked up. President Eliot was coming from the door with an enormous watermelon under his arm.

MUCH SURPRISED, the young man followed the good doctor.

"Halfway home," says the student (in "Charles W. Eliot" by Henry James), "he put the melon down against the roots of an elm, took out his handkerchief, and mopped his brow and cheeks. But he did not rest long. Evidently somebody wanted that particular melon for lunch. So he lifted it in his arms again and moved on towards the house."

"Nothing that Harvard ever did for me," testifies that young man, "was worth half so much as that five minutes of President Eliot's life. For he knocked out of me all the nonsense there was in me—and there was a great deal."

IN HIS CHILDHOOD days, Edward Gibbon, the great historian—author of "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire"—was left much in the care of his Aunt Kitty (his mother's sister) and formed a lasting affection for her. The story goes that once he proposed to kill her.

"You see," he explained, "you are perfectly good now, so if you die you will go to heaven. If you live you may become wicked and go to hell."

"But where do you expect to go if you kill me?" inquired the aunt.

"That," replied the young hopeful, "my godfather will answer for. I have not been confirmed."

Gibbons declined to confirm the story in later years says G. M. Young (in his "Life" of the historian).

IN THE HEYDAY of William Ewart Gladstone's fame and power, he was dubbed either an "angel" or a "devil"—according to whether you were Liberal or Conservative. And thereby hangs a story told by his daughter (in her memoirs. Once when Mary Gladstone—it was after she had become Mrs. Drew—was travelling by train with her baby, two ladies, ignorant of her identity, "spoke horribly" of Gladstone, but "loved baby." Thereupon "before their very eyes" she wrote them a note and handed it to them as she left the train. It read:

"If you knew the man you just now called a monster, you would pray tonight to be forgiven. His daughter."

WHICH RECALLS the reply of Lord Morris, a staunch old Tory, when a Gladstonian said in his hearing that Gladstone was a "heaven-born genius."

"Then let us hope," remarked Morris, "that it will be a long time before heaven is again in an interesting condition."

THAT KING EDWARD the Seventh stood in awe of his famous mother he himself, freely acknowledged. And who didn't? There is an anecdote—told by Major-General J. E. B. Seely (in his memoirs, "Adventure") — of an occasion when Seely was invited by Queen Victoria to dine with her at Osborne, her Isle of Wight home. King Edward, then Prince of Wales, was also a guest.

WHEN Bill Nye—famous humorist of bygone days—was editing the Laromie "Boomerang," Eli Perkins visited Laramie and met Bill.

A day or two after the meeting Eli picked up the "Boomerang" and read this paragraph:

"When Eli Perkins was passing through Laramie he said he was travelling for his wife's pleasure.

"'Then your wife is with you?' suggested our reporter.

"'Oh, no,' said Eli, 'she is in New York'."

AFTER DINNER the Prince took the General out by a side door.

"We sat on chairs on the flagstones and smoked," Seely recalls. "It was rather cold, and the Prince explained good-humoredly that his mother so hated the smell of smoke that this was the only place where he could safely come and smoke his cigar."

"Does your son burn the midnight oil?"

"Yes, and a lot of gasoline, too."

Father: "How are your marks, son?"

Son: "They're under water."

Father: "What does that mean?"

Son: "Below 'C' level."

"The pig is a most useful animal," said the teacher. "We use its head for brawn, its legs for hams, its bristles for brushes. Now what else do we use from the pig?"

"Please, teacher," said one small child, "we use its name when we want to be rude."

Doctor: "Very well. Your ankle is still swollen, but that doesn't disturb me."

Patient: "Sure, doctor, if your ankle were swollen, it wouldn't disturb me either."

Teacher: "If you had $10.00 in one pocket and $15.00 in another, what would you have?"

Pupil: "Somebody else's trousers."

Professor: "What is a comet?"

Joe Frat: "A star with a tail."

Professor: "Good, so far. Now, name one."

Joe Frat: "Mickey Mouse."

First of all look in the window—masses of beautifully shaded tulips growing out of lush green grass adorn the whole front of the shop and once inside, flower hat creations in all the loveliest spring shades meet the eye.

Never before has Juliette had such an extensive stock of truly beautiful spring models. The new heavily loaded look being put into hats this spring, has been tempered into dainty versions of these too "bulky" French creations. There is also a wide choice in softly flattering spring felt hats, always so popular with the tailored woman.

BAD TASTE IN THE MOUTH

Bad taste is often due to the blocking of the breathing through the nose by tonsils, enlarged turbinate bones, and adenoids. This causes mouth breathing and a bad taste.

However if this is not the cause, the large intestine carrying the wastes of the body may be lazy and delay in getting rid of these wastes causes bad breath. Taking bending exercises, keeping knees straight and eating more fruit and vegetables will help move the wastes down and out the large intestine and the bad taste will disappear.

GUIDE NOTES

ANNUAL MEETING LOCAL ASSOCIATION GIRL GUIDES

Reports from the seven companies showed a slight decrease in the number of Guides in the district, but not in their work, standing or activities. The Brownies were considerably reduced in number as two packs were inactive owing to lack of Brownie Leaders.

The Badge Secretary's report was extremely interesting. For the first time in many years, a Westmount Guide, earned the coveted Gold Cord, the highest award possible for a Guide. Ann Rubenstein of the 16th Company qualified for this distinction. Four First Class badges were awarded — Heidi Eartley, Joan Parkes Ann Rubenstein and Rosemary O'Reilly. The second class badges increased nearly 50 per cent this last year. Guides studied and were tested for 24 different types of Proficiency Badges and to the examiners of these various badges the Local Association expressed great appreciation.

Dolls were dressed at Christmas time, and again given to the Boy Scouts for distribution. Donations of baby clothing — knitted sweaters, bonnets and booties — flannelette night gowns and diapers, stuffed animals, and an

And So It Goes . . .

- By Betty Bruce

When you see five dollars' worth of pigeon waddle out on to the landing sill of its home, cock an eye at you with derision and a "this is too good to be true" look before spreading its strong wings and disappearing into the blue forever, it leaves you with a baffled feeling. There is so little, in fact just nothing, you can do about it!

That was what happened once to a small boy of our acquaintance, who bought a pair of homers, kept them shut up for weeks and then on the advice of one who should have known better, released them one lovely spring day. The female had laid an egg, and it seemed natural enough to suppose that she couldn't be so heartless as to just pop off and leave it, but she did! In fact she never gave her new home and prospective family a second thought, nor did her mate. After they had made a wide circle to get their bearings, off they went to their old home beyond the next range of mountains, as sure of their course as if they had been T.C.A. navigators.

It had taken the little boy a long time to save up his ten dollars for the pigeons,—it wasn't long in disappearing. But it wasn't dead loss. We had learned something about homers, and when you come to consider things, it was the boys who fooled round with hobbies, always coaxing for some extra piece of equipment or some more boards or fish tanks, who have been so useful to us in this war. Those kids who made models of boats and planes, who plastered the walls of their rooms with pictures of Spitfires and B17's, who kept animals, who learned about homing pigeons the hard way, about wireless, photographs, guns, revolvers and old junky cars. — Gosh, haven't we been glad to profit by their specialized knowledge.

But to get back to our pigeons. We, personally, first met homers on an air station where they were kept at government expense to act as messengers when seaplane crews came down with engine trouble. The army used them too in the last war. At the moment we don't know the number in use by our Canadian forces, but we see that Richard L. Strout, in the Christian Science Monitor, recently stated that the U.S. Army is using 36,000 in this present war.

Mr. Strout says "Two things were always known about pigeons: They wouldn't fly at night, and they were one-way birds (they flew home and stayed there)" Yes, Mr. Strout.

But he goes on to tell us that now a selected strain of birds will fly in pitch darkness. He states also that "'a two-way pigeon' has been developed — believe it or not. A batch of pigeons has been educated to regard two lofts as their home, and to fly immediately from one to the other, if necessary. The army announces with a certain complacency that 'there is now awaiting graduation a flock of nearly 100 two-way pigeons'. They are the Einsteins of the pigeon world."

But we fear you won't be able to get one for five dollars. We'll just have to get along with the ordinary city pigeons who strut up and down window sills, demanding breakfast. They are rather sweet at that — in return for the grain put out for them, one of them laid an egg in our clothespin box.

And so it goes this week. Isn't that life for you! You try to keep one bird and it flies away.

And another wants to rear its family in your clothespin box!

Mrs. Worfolk Reports

An interesting feature of the program was a report by Mrs. W. F. Worfolk of the club's work for the S. S. Magdalene. This took on a greater interest due to the presence of First Lieut. Langham of that ship, who spoke briefly to the club.

SODALISTS SEE WARTIME FASHIONS AT VICTORIA HALL

Mrs. Doreen Day, Director of Eaton's Fashion Bureau, addressing a capacity audience in Victoria Hall on Thursday evening last stressed the importance of women being pretty rather than smart or chic in wartime and in the post war period, as this is a great morale builder. She stated that no drastic changes have been made in the fashion silhouette this season but that government restrictions on three-quarter length coats and three-piece ensembles have been lifted.

The talk was presented under the auspices of The Young Ladies' Sodality of Ascension Parish, Westmount, in aid of its patriotic and charitable works.

Introduced by Miss Barbara Smith, Mrs. Day captivated her audience with her spontaneous remarks and quick wit. To illustrate her talk several costumes were modelled including a black bolero dress worn with brown Sally Victor Bonnett and brown accessories, a navy suit worn with "Lime-Light" hat and accessories and a red and white candy stripe silk jersey dress.

A highlight for the bride-to-be was the introduction of "Love Letter" pastels illustrated by a pale blue suit, with shades of pink, mauve, and blue in the hat.

The talk closed with four members of Eaton's Junior Council in a bridal number, the attendants in pale grey with mauve, and the bride in white satin.

Mrs. Day was thanked by Miss Beatrice Berini, vice-president of the sodality. The Sodality Glee Club under the direction of Miss Mary Berini, scored another success with their rendition of "When Song is Sweet", "Barcarolle", "I'll See You Again", with a solo by Miss Norma Macdonnell, and "Lullaby" by Brahms.

TYGON

Hard as a bone or flexible as twine; extremely tough; highly resistant to abrasion; unaffected by acids, alkalies, and most other corrosives, oils, or solvents; not subject to oxidation like rubber and entirely non-toxic; will not affect flavors or colors—that's tygon. It has great dielectric strength and is good for all purposes when a flexible, sturdy, and highly corrosive-resistant tubing is required. As far as laboratory tubing is concerned, it is rubber's successor.

THE RE-MAKE KIDS—THEY WEAR 'EM AND LIKE IT!

Junior is wearing a pair of neat "stove-pipe" trousers made out of a pair of summer pants his father had discarded, and his real man's shirt was also fashioned from one of his dad's. Little sister is dainty in a skirt made over from an old summer coat, and the bodice was a kitchen curtain that had become worn around the edges. Both were inspired by the Re-Make Centres of the Consumer Branch, Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

Rotary Secretary Tells World Youth

and recalled a simple story he felt led to relate, concerning a WREN and a soldier.

The WREN, after a long, arduous stretch of duty was travelling from London to Newcastle in one of the old poky 6-person compartments of a war-time English train.

SIMPLE DEEDS MULTIPLIED

The WREN explained her long assignment, her weariness and regretfully excused herself as a poor companion, went to sleep and slept soundly the whole journey because, the first time she shivered, the soldier used his pullover to cover her.

She woke up nearing her destination to find the soldier gone without his pullover, and minus a shilling, he left behind with a note saying to send the pullover to his address, using the money for the purpose.

The soldier remarked in the brief note that she had looked so tired it was a shame to wake her up.

Just the simple recital of a little deed of kindness to the person next door, commented Mr. Lovejoy, but the sum total in the aggregate in Rotarian effort is going to well up into terrific results for good just when most needed.

The Governments are helpless in this line, it is up to us, he declared.

STORY OF SUSAN

Susan lived in Waltham, 7 miles from London Mr. Lovejoy said, and was 'daughter of Fred Hickson whom some of you Rotarians know'. The Hicksons invited the General Secretary to dinner, though Mr. Lovejoy stressed his reluctance to accept because of the food problem. However, knowing the family well, and figuring it a bigger faux pas not to go, he went, knowing the roast on the table meant the family ration points for a month were used.

After the meal he was playing with the four children in the parlour the family were trying desperately to heat with a small peat fire and he became particularly friendly with Susan who ended the fun with an abrupt question.

"Mr. Lovejoy, are there any alerts in America?"

"No Susan." Mr. Lovejoy explained the geographical advantage enjoyed.

The subject for a time was avoided, then:

"Mr. Lovejoy, you don't get out of bed in the middle of the night and turn the sofa and chair against the table and crawl under?"

"No Susan, not in North America!"

Said 8 year old Susan seriously:

"Mr. Lovejoy, I've been doing that for five years.

Remember that, friends. Me? I can't forget baby Susan.

Seated in the car with the radio going an announcer's question startled the Secretary so much he shut off the radio to ponder the question. Think about it gentlemen, he suggested and said quietly, the question was, "Is man good enough for the goodness of God?"

REFORMATION

Here is a grand aim he suggested further, the fellowship of man irrespective of creed, race or religion, one of us here today being from Haifa, Palestine. We, with our record of helping, the Kinsmen with their 'Milk for Britain', Lions and Kiwanis in their respective work, all looking to the future hoping to rescue for it all that is worthwhile.

BUZZ BOMB HEROES

Relating how a single buzz bomb wrecked upwards of 400 homes, 40-50 completely demolished Mr. Lovejoy told of one man, answering his question about the bombing, saying, "Oh, I guess we can take it." A neighbour whispered to the Secretary that the quietly spoken man had just lost his 17 year old son and 15 year old daughter. Filled with compassion Mr. Lovejoy turned again to the man only to gain the added information that the one who whispered had also just lost his wife.

Neither one would talk about self. This, and the tenacity of the British people, whose women at Dover took shell-shelter every 6½ minutes incessantly and refused to be evacuated, while older men folk ploughed where the shells were falling, filled him with admiration.

HUMOUR ALSO

In the buzz bomb attack the Chief Warden had accounted for all the missing except Grandpop. (As Mr. Lovejoy related this incident elsewhere, a determined old lady-knitter put down her work, folded her arms to listen and looked so worried he had to assure her beforehand the story came out all right in the end.)

Grandpop was last seen in the bathroom and granddaughter tearfully showed in the piled rubble where it could be approximately located.

The demolition squad went to work at once and under some feet of wreckage and masonry, unearthed the old man still in the bathroom, uninjured and laughing.

Asked the reason for his astonishing merriment the aged man indicated the old-fashioned pull chain, and declared that for years his granddaughter had been after him to use it, but he always forgot.

'This time I pulled it," he chuckled gleefully, "and see what happened!"

The root cause of man's trouble has been that he gives too much emphasis on his own views and ignores or doesn't try to understand others. Rotary must remedy this.

Mr. Lovejoy closed with a poem by Lou Cramton:—

I am only one
I can't do everything
But I can do something
And what I can do
And what I ought to do
By Grace of God
I will do.

Auctioned Goods Have Ceiling

In the case of goods sold at auction, the auctioneer simply acts as an agent for the original owner. The goods must not be sold for more than a reasonable price, and in no event should the auctioneer allow any article to be sold at more than the price of a new one.

Joe: "Why do you insist on pulling that wheelbarrow instead of pushing it?"

Moe: "I can't stand the sight of the bloomin' thing."

CAR CONDITION MUST BE GOOD

"Protect your automobile tires," declares the Rubber Controller emphatically, "and make them last as long as you can. They are yours and the nation's most valuable property.

"Watch the alignment of your front wheels. Any time you hit a curb or other object a hard blow, or if your tires are showing a feather edge, have alignment checked. Misalignment, resulting in excessive 'toe in' or 'toe out', may wear a new tire completely through its tread in a few hundred miles.

"Then match your two front and two back tires—tires always grow while in service. Don't judge by tread design depth. Measure the outside diameter of your tires frequently, for there should not be more than 1-4 inch difference between them in over-all diameter. Some people might tell you ½ inch, and that might do in normal times, but the expert will assure that 1-8 inch maximum difference is better. Otherwise one tire carries more than its share of the load and will fail earlier.

Mechanically your car should be in A1 condition. With alignment under control, have your garage man test the camber, caster, kingpin inclination, springs, shock absorbers, wheel balance and the ball bearings."

Again THE RED CROSS ASKS YOUR HELP TO HEAL A WAR-TORN WORLD GIVE!

• Wherever the great destroyer, War, has passed, pain, suffering and sorrow follow in its wake. Young men on the battlefield or in hospitals are tormented by sickness or wounds. Little children, mothers, aged people are homeless, hungry, cold. In every theatre of war, whole cities lie in ruins. Millions are suffering the pangs of disease, starvation and dire want.

So the Red Cross will continue to reach out a helping hand. It must heal and comfort our own sick and wounded. It must send food, clothing, medical supplies to war-torn lands.

And the Canadian Red Cross will answer this urgent call. For the Canadian Red Cross is you and your friends and your neighbors, and all the good folks up and down this fair Dominion of ours. You will send help—yes, life itself—to the stricken people of other lands. You will stand staunchly behind your Red Cross, and—GIVE!

GERTRUDE BASKINE HAS ADVENTURED FAR

Of French and Irish ancestry, Mrs. Baskine is a graduate of the Sorbonne in Paris and McGill University, Montreal, in social work. She is a journalist, radio writer, globe trotter and a musician of note, having composed musical settings for the poems of such Canadian poets as Sir Charles G. D. Roberts and E. J. Pratt.

In 1928 Mrs. Baskine travelled by car from Cadiz, Spain to Constantinople with Mrs. John Quincy Adams. This journey of about 10,000 miles through eleven countries was partly a pleasure trip and partly a search for sociological data. In the same year Mrs. Baskine represented McGill University at the International Conference on social work in Paris.

The next trip made by this intrepid globe troter was a 7,000 mile flight over South America. Mrs. Baskine was the first woman to fly over the equator in the western hemisphere, and the first Canadian woman to motor over the most dangerous road south of Panama—the 75 mile highway to Colombia which runs from Ibaque across the towering Cordilleras. For her next jaunt she shipped as mate aboard a 30 foot schooner in which she made a round trip from Jacksonville, Florida to Cuba.

After completing a trans-Canada lecture tour for the Association of Canadian Clubs during the 1943-44 season. Mrs. Baskine decided to tour the then uncompleted Alaska Highway. She was the first and only woman to receive a military permit to travel the entire length of the new highway—Dawson Creek to Fairbanks—while it was still under construction. She has been made a Fellow of the Royal Canadian Geographic Society, as a result of this Alaskan hitch-hike.

First "Shangri La" Health Centre for service-women

A VERITABLE "Shangri La" for Wrens, CWAC's and W.D's has been opened at Oakville, Ont. An attractive health centre for women of the three services is in full operation, first of its kind in the Dominion, though it has been intimated that others will follow.

Located on 23 acres in the heart of Oakville, the health centre is available to the 12,000 women in the army, navy and airforce. "The girls like it so well that our biggest problem is getting them out again after they've been restored to top condition," said Major D. S. Kober, the O.C.

There's room for 200 girls at the centre, but only 27 "under par"—convalescents occupy it at present.

Nobody calls it a hospital. It's too bright and restful to be toned down under that heading. Swimming pools, hobby shops, gymnasium, library and lounges, as well as all types of sports rooms, are provided, in addition to the regular medical facilities.

You'd never get hep to it being a military establishment to hear the routine. The gals don't have to get up until 10 a.m. if they don't feel like it.

Each room has its own radio, the girls get a generous quota of passes, (which kind?—ED.) and are even heading for a beauty parlor set-up.

Dainty bright colored bedcovers replace the customary army blankets. Pictures adorn the walls. No salutes (oh happy day!) and the usual uniform consists of slacks or shorts and sweaters.

"Regimentation is at a minimum," explained the O.C. "One of the biggest attractions for the girls is the chance to get out of uniform for awhile and to wear whatever color they like. When summer rolls round there'll be plenty of outdoor activity."

NEWS OF THE THEATRE WORLD

Starts Sunday at the Westmount Theatre!

Bud Abbot and Lou Costello are at their hilarious best in "Lost In A Harem," which opens Sunday at the Westmount United Theatre. Lovely Marilyn Maxwell has her most important role to date in the film.

AT THE WESTMOUNT THEATRE

Maisie is back in action again—and that means laughs and fun for everyone. Her newest Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer starring picture, "Maisie Goes to Reno," opens Sunday at the Westmount United Theatre. "Maisie Goes to Reno" is a fast-moving, hilarious piece of movie entertainment, a film you'll want to see.

Ann Sothern—for of course she plays Masie again—is at her freshest and buoyant best in the new picture. On vacation from the airplane plant where she holds down a welding job. Masie heads for Reno and finds herself mixed up with a gang of forgers when she comes to the aid of a young soldier whose wife is being victimized by the gang.

In the course of things she meets a blackjack dealer, played by John Hodiak, who also becomes involved in the goings-on. Their adventures will hold your interest every moment of the running time and you'll laugh and cry with Maisie as she sees the adventure through to a very happy ending.

Everyone in the cast of "Maisie Goes to Reno" deserves high praise for a job well done. The hand-picked performers include Tom Drake, Marta Linden, Donald Meek, Ava Gardner and Paul Cavanagh, among others. You'll remember Drake as the promising young actor who scored such a sensational hit in "Two Girls and a Sailor." Miss Gardner is the beautiful newcomer who clicked in "Three Men in White," and who certainly is headed for stardom in her own right.

"Maisie Goes to Reno" is a fast-moving film that spells entertainment all the way. It was directed with an eye to comedy values by Harry Beaumont and handsomely produced by George Haight.

At The Monkland

Can a man fall in love with a woman whom he has never seen?

That's the absorbing question posed in 20th Century-Fox's new psychological mystery-drama, "Laura," starring Gene Tierney, Dana Andrews and Clifton Webb, and opening Saturday at the Monkland United Theatre.

A thrilling and suspenseful story of a strange and perilous experiment in love—and murder—"Laura" is set against the dazzling background of New York's sophisticated pre-Pearl Harbor New York cafe society. In it, Gene Tierney is seen as the chic advertising executive whose every after-hours move becomes an item for the city's chatter columns.

Men loved her enough to die for her—enough to kill her! How, unattainable, she became desirable beyond all desire, and how a fateful love for her became the most fearful thing that ever happened to a woman, makes for one of the most thrilling and suspenseful screen stories of the year.

Since "Laura" is an escape story of a new type—escape into the mad luxury of pre-war cafe society life—the film provides glamorous Gene Tierney with 28 dazzling costume changes, thus providing a veritable fashion show of no little nostalgic appeal.

Also featured in the brilliant cast of the film produced and directed by Otto Preminger, are Vincent Price and Judith Anderson.

Based on the best-selling novel by Vera Caspary, "Laura" was written for the screen by Jay Dratler, Samuel Hoffenstein and Betty Reinhardt.

Desk Sergeant: "Let's have a description of the missing cashier."

Banker: "Well, he's about five feet five inches tall and $7,000 short."

I shall try to correct errors where shown to be errors, and I shall adopt new views as fast as they shall appear to be true views.—Abraham Lincoln.

If we are to believe the rumor that is spreading about "Frenchman's Creek," this Paramount Technicolor production which arrives Saturday at the York United Theatre, is all things to all movie-goers.

For those who are enthralled by great romance, "Frenchman's Creek" is a powerful love story set against a thrill-studded background. Joan Fontaine and Arturo de Cordova, co-starred in the picture, are a romantic team to rival any yet seen on the screen. For those who want scope, color and action in their filmfare, we are told that none of these elements is lacking in the picturization of the novel by Daphne du Maurier, author of "Rebecca." In the film, there are two thrilling hours of daring love and dangerous adventure.

It has been said that Academy Award winner Joan Fontaine plays the most spectacular feminine role of the year in "Frenchman's Creek," a part which demanded immense versatility. As the Frenchman, master of a pirate ship, Arturo de Cordova should be established in the forefront of male personalities.

Basil Rathbone, always a favorite on the screen when he portrays a scoundrel, plays Lord Rockingham, the meanest villain in captivity. Some of the other noteworthy actors prominently cast in "Frenchman's Creek" are Ralph Forbes, Nigel Bruce, Cecil Kellaway and Harold Ramond. According to those who have seen the picture, Director Mitchell Leisen, responsible for the recent hit, "Lady in the Dark," has done a masterful job in supervising "Frenchman's Creek."

The story tells about beautiful Lady St. Columb who yearns for a life unfettered by the callings of a London court. She gets her wish by leaving the city for her country home, Navron House, on the Cornish coast. Perhaps in the hearts of all women lurks one persistent dream that she might leave behind her all the cares and attachments of daily life and literally sail away in the arms of a romantic, adventurous man.

Miss Fontaine does just that by feigning illness as an excuse to escape in the clothes of a cabin boy. Standing before the mainmast with her daring lover at her side as the pirate ship "La Mouette" sails out of the hidden cove, she listens to the songs of the gypsy crew, the screeching cries of the gulls overhead and the spanking wind as the great sails are unfurled.

She is a woman who has chosen to live her dream. For one day and a night she will know freedom, high adventure and fearless romance with a daring man of dauntless spirit and impassioned love, whose whole life is attuned to the beat of a romantic, carefree heart.

While at sea the Frenchman decides to show his lady some sport and plans an attack on an English ship. Joan dressed as a member of the crew, joins in the raid and her pirate lover rewards her with the red wig of Lord Godolphin, master of the English ship.

If escape into a world of romantic adventure is what audiences want today, then this is the picture to see, we're told.

WESTMOUNT HIGH LIGHTS

By GEORGE COCHRANE

Air cadet dance committee chairman John Joseph Junior Pepper is worried. The dynamic little fellow, who is in charge of this year's annual ball of the No. 1 Westmount Squadron of the eaglets of Canada, fears that the chances of breaking even financially tonight are none too good.

The cadets have spared no expense in their hope of making the dance the best of the season. The place is Victoria Hall's upstairs ballroom, the band is Johnny Holmes and his Orchestra and the refreshments are definitely of the best.

But there are bad signs in the sky. Almost the entire Purple and White Revue chorus line, with friends, are migrating to the Laurentians to enjoy a week-end of what they smilingly refer to as skiing. Junior fears that a number of Westmount's High's most eligible males will be picking up skis and trailing in their wake.

Then, and Junior will slay us for mentioning this, the Lachine Hi-Y is throwing a free dance for Hi-Y members throughout the island at Lachine High tonight and probably a couple of the institution's more thrifty souls will be making the lengthy trek down there. Those that do had better leave early. The last bus leaves at some time about midnight and it's a long walk home.

With all these disturbing factors only to well known to him, Pepper is wandering the halls of WHS today with his usually happy features creased with worried lines and with a prayer on his lips.

An so, gentle reader, if you want an evening of pleasant entertainment tonight, don a uniform and head for Victoria Hall. The uniform is important. Those with get in for 50 cents less than those without. Which is a novel way of doing business.

On the air cadet dance committee are Art Veronka, publicity, David Mactavish, refreshments, Jeff Messenger, drinks, and Ian Macaulay and Eric Patterson. Even the services of "Monthly" editor William Atwood Macdonald were enlisted. WAM dashed off a sheet of publicity for the future knights of Canada's air.

CHAMPS OR CHUMPS?

Now tied with West Hill for first place in the inter-school debating league, Westmount High's most eloquent tongue-waggers will be doing their best to bring the championship to WHS this afternoon when they take on Strathcona in the last scheduled double debate of the season. In former contests, the locals won twice over Verdun and split with Montreal West, West Hill's opponents of today.

Today the debaters will be arguing the pros and cons of the subject, Resolved that twentieth century science has created more than it has destroyed. The subject was originally just that science has created more than it had destroyed but the words "twentieth century" were injected at the request of some of the negative teams competing.

Debating in the WHS library this afternoon, and upholding the affirmative, will be Peter Scott and Chippy Batshaw, who worked as a team in the season's previous two debates, winning one and losing one. Up at Strathcona, Rita Weissler and David Wood will be arguing the other side of the question.

This is Westmount's first year in the inter-school debating league and the members of the institution's debating fraternity are determined to start off by winning the cup: 'Tis possible.

HI-Y DANCE

The Westernaires orchestra, the very capable music makers who played at the hockey dance on February 2, have been signed up for the boys' Hi-Y club's annual spring dance which is scheduled for the WHS gym on March 16.

Bill Macdonald, who is already doing a large share of the males' club's committee work, will be in charge and has already started lining up his aides. Chief of them are publicity Art Veronka, decorator par excellence Charles A. McCrea, and ticket salesman James Parsons.

The indefatigable WAM has obtained a number of door prizes which should entice even Westmount High's most thrifty males onto the dance floor. The list includes 12 passes to the Kent theatre, two Victor records from the Music Bar, Harry James and Tommy Dorsey records from the Record Shop and two full-course chicken dinners at the Chic-N-Coop. All have been donated by the firms themselves, which is a pretty nice gesture.

Refreshments will be in the form of box lunches and will be more than ample.

HOCKEY

Frankie Reid and Billy Coles each bagged two goals on Tuesday when Westmount's Senior A puckchasers downed Montreal 5-0 at the Forum Tuesday. The Montrealers, who seemed to lose their early season pugnacity with the benching of the over pugnacious Tommy Manastersky, didn't put up much of a battle.

The Purple and White will be playing that postponed tilt with Loyola at the Forum at noon tomorrow. Loyola have a mighty powerful team and the locals' chances of picking up even a fraction of the two points which will go to the winner of tomorrow's inter-section match are pretty slim.

The Collegians have been strengthened by the addition of a former Toronto Marlboros junior team goalie who has just been discharged from the R.C.A.F. and now have hopes of capturing the City Championship. The newly acquired net man, who has shown sensational form in practices, has a strong defence in front of him in Junior Royal Ralph Toohey and Winged Wheeler while the Red and Green's newly - formed typhoon line of Owen Maloney, Keith English and Stan Dequoi is strictly dynamite.

With Dave Harvie now in the Army, Coach G. P. Smith had to juggle his forward lines to a certain extent. The old number two trio of Roy Hellyer, Warren Chippendale and Frankie Reid started on Tuesday while what was left of Harvie's line, Billy Coles and Jack McKissock teamed with Bobby Smith to form the local's second line.

Things remain the same on the defence with Sandy Edmison relieving veterans Eric Swaine and Kyle Prescott.

P & W REVUE

The 1945 edition of the Purple and White Revue will be on public view at Victoria Hall on April 11, 12 and 13, director-in-chief Joseph Duffin has announced. The revuers wanted to get the hall for March 21-23 but found that it had already been reserved for those dates. Opening night had to be advanced two weeks because March 30 is Good Friday and the week after that will be the Easter holidays.

The new date will give the cast

Westmount Junior High —NOTES—

by Joyce Hicks and Hector Porter

General class hockey games were played on Monday.

Tuesday saw the Junior Basketball team lose to Montreal West 25-24. The team only has one more game left to play and is tied for first place.

An inter-school swimming meet was held on Wednesday.

The Senior B Hockey team played West Hill on Friday, beating them 1-0.

An exhibition basketball game was also played against West Hill 22-18 for Westmount.

Class Volleyball has started in the school. The first games were played on Thursday in the small gym.

From seventy-five to one hundred students had permission to visit the "Progress of Canadian Art" exhibit at the Montreal Art building. W. J. H. ninth year pupils spent last Tuesday morning enjoying the exhibit which had been made possible by the efforts of The Art Gallery of Toronto. The Art Association of Montreal, The National Gallery of Canada and Le Musee de la Quebec. The paintings cover the time from 1665 to the present date, and represent the great progress in every phase of Canadian art by many well-known artists. It is regrettable that paintings by official war artists could not be included in the exhibit.

Golden Eagles Sole Westmount Team

Dougie Alexander's Golden Eagles juveniles is the only Westmount team left in the Q.A.H.A. minor playdowns, the local club downed the N.D.G. Royals 2-1 at the Verdun rink on Tuesday night to beat their way into the final round of the West zone. The Golden Eagles were slated to stack up against the Snowdon juveniles on Wednesday night at Verdun and another win in this game would mean a sudden death tilt against the winners of the South zone, either Cote St. Paul or Point St. Charles, to decide one of the city finalists.

The midget and bantam teams did not fare so well on Tuesday night, the Panthers suffered a 7-3 defeat from the N.D.G. bantams while the Golden Eagles' midgets went down by a 3-1 count.

Although the Golden Eagles (juveniles) were shorthanded for their game against the N.D.G. club, defenceman Jim Robinson being out with a sprained ankle and forward Jack Patterson on the sidelines with a sprained wrist, they made a brilliant showing to overcome the favoured N.D.G. sextette.

The N.D.G. club opened the scoring in the first period with D. Callaghan beating Fred Jones for the loser's only goal of the game. Roy Hellyer tied the count up before the period was over and Frankie Read netted the winning counter in the second period.

Although the midget Golden Eagles held their own for two out of the three periods of play, they went down to a 3-1 defeat. The winners scored the initial tally of the game in the first period with K. Booth accounting for the goal. The middle stanza was scoreless while in the last period Ted Hodgson and B. Rattray scored for the N.D.G. team while Clifford McCubbin saved the Westmount club from a shutout.

A three goal splurge in the first period by the NDG bantams was enough to send the Panthers down to a 7-3 defeat. Westmount goals were scored by Johnnie Choyce, two, and Bob Forrest, one, while B. Hall got four for the winners and S. Cunliffe, B. Duke and T. McCullough one each.

St. Leo's Meet Grosvenor's Wed.

The pee wee hockey championship of the Westmount Municipal Hockey League has yet to be decided. Unfavourable weather cancelled a sudden death game between the St. Leo's Greens, titlists in the Western section and the Roslyn Grosvenors, champions in the King George section. The two clubs have been slated to meet on two or three occasions but on all of the selected times the weatherman has stepped in and called a halt to the proceedings. The teams were expected to get the all important game off of Wednesday night at Westmount Park.

The Grosvenors won the right to meet the Greens when they played a 1-all draw with the Queen's Eagles, champions of the Staynor section, last week. As the Grosvenors had won the first contest between these two clubs by a 5-1 count, they copped the series six goals to two. Jimmie Craig scored the Eagles' goal in this game while Ian Doig retaliated for the Grosvenors.

Basement Blaze Clears Dwelling

A basement fire that rendered the cellar a total loss and partly ruined the first floor in addition to the smoke compelling rescue evacuation of at least 15 people kept a 2-alarm fire equipment in action from noon to midnight at 2048 Claremont avenue, a 35 apartment dwelling.

Mrs. Grace Baker jumped from a second-storey window into the net and had to be treated for shock at the General Hospital.

One of the Westmount firefighters suffered hand lacerations which were promptly attended to at the Homoeopathic Hospital.

News From The Westmount Boy's Brigade

● The 1st Montreal-Westmount Company of the Boys' Brigade will welcome band leader George Leith to their staff this Friday. Mr. Leith has had wide experience in band work and will relieve the strain which has been resting upon the Captain's shoulders since early autumn. The band is progressing exceedingly well under the able direction of bandmaster Arthur Smith and with this added strength, should be well away within the space of a very short time.

BEST SQUAD

Corporal James Dugan will be the proud wearer of the squad medal for the month of March as his squad topped the month's competition, beating the 3rd squad by one point. This squad has shown marvellous progress during the past month and has kept the others in hot persuit after them. Inspections from now on will include haversacks, an item which had been dropped from regular weekly parades for over a year due to the shortage of supplies, however conditions have now changed for the better and haversacks will be regular weekly equipment.

THANKS

The Company are grateful for two stretchers received this past week. One, a small collapseable type, most suitable for camp and the other a standard First Aid stretcher, complete with blankets, splints and bandages. This equipment is most welcome and the Company are greatly indebted to the donors.

POSTPONED

The Squad Drill competition was postponed last Saturday to enable all boys to attend General Dobbie's meeting at the Montreal High School, and will not be held now until April, along with the platoon drill competition.

INCREASED ACTIVITY

The steady increase in membership has made it possible for the 1st Company to increase its activities considerably, particularly due to the addition of several new officers who will operate the new Company at Fairmount Taylor Church and at the same time assist in the 1st Company. An inter-company bowling league is in the state of formation between the 1st and 11th Companies, to commence as soon as ice conditions are unfavourable. The Model Railway club of the 1st Company is also re-opening in Westmount within the next few days. Lieut. Alex Upham is busy making the necessary arrangements. This was one of the most popular bobbies, particularly of the senior boys.

Y's Chats

Basketball

The second half of the basketball schedule was started Saturday by our Intermediate team, defeating N.D.G. 44-9. The team next plays Central on our floor, Tuesday March 6th. They expect to win that game, too.

The Junior team is out of the running entirely this season. However, the boys that played did alright, and they had a good time.

Y's Talk

The Y's talk has put out its first copy and by now everybody is looking forward to seeing the next issue. The boys put out a fair paper and will be increasing the contents and quality as experience comes their way.

Park Slide Night

Unfortunately the Park Slide Night had to be cancelled. Weather conditions have stepped in as the deciding factor. So that we shan't be disappointed again, we have spoken for two days early in January and February of next year.

Movies

A great gang were out last Saturday. Bob Beal and Bert Kropp undertook to run the movies that afternoon in the absence of Bill Kinrade. As usual, Bob gave out with a song shindig. Very Good, Bob.

Juniors

The Juniors had a feed on Monday night. Not many, but we had a good time by ourselves, and everyone had plenty of beans. Maybe, more than was good for them.

Learn to Swim Group

The Hi-Y boys, under Derek Ramsay, are doing a fine job on the teaching end. The youngsters are progressing well. A few who could swim a little are much improved, and those who couldn't swim are doing a few strokes. Derek Ramsay deserves a lot of credit for his efforts.

CANADA'S VETERANS
Their Post-War Opportunities
An advertisement explaining to the people of Canada the re-establishment credit available to men and women of the Armed Forces.

The Re-establishment Credit—
AN EXPLANATION OF THE GRANT

In planning the return to civilian life of men and women in the armed forces, Canada's parliament realized that assistance in re-establishment must cover a wide variety of fields. For many—particularly younger members of the forces—the best method of effecting permanent re-establishment will be through training or through an opportunity to continue an interrupted education. Others can be assisted through land settlement—either on full time farms or on small holdings operated with some regular form of employment. In many cases a combination of these two things—training and land settlement—will be the solution. Legislation for this type of re-establishment was provided early in the war.

ANOTHER LARGE GROUP

There is, however, another very large group who do not need training and who are not suited for land settlement as provided under the Veterans' Land Act. After long months or years in uniform, these veterans will need assistance also. There will be those who normally would have owned their own homes had it not been for their service. There will be those who own homes but who have been unable to carry out needed repairs and alterations. There will be veterans who sold businesses to enlist and who want to resume them, and others who are fitted for a business of their own but who need assistance in financing. The Re-establishment Credit is designed for this latter group, and primarily is an alternative to training and land settlement benefits.

PAID UNDER WAR SERVICE GRANTS ACT

The Re-establishment Credit is made available under the same Act of Parliament which provides War Service Gratuities. It is not a loan but an outright grant, paid to an eligible veteran to aid in re-establishment if the veteran decides not to use land settlement or training benefits. It may be used in Canada only at any time in the ten years following discharge for certain specified purposes as outlined in this advertisement. The grant is called a "credit" because it is an amount carried on the ledger to the credit of the veteran for ten years until used by him for a re-establishment purpose.

HOW TO APPLY FOR RE-ESTABLISHMENT CREDIT

The re-establishment credit is an amount equal to the basic War Service Gratuity—that is $7.50 for each 30 days' service in the Western Hemisphere and $15.00 for each 30 days' service overseas. The amount is computed by the branch of the armed forces with which the veteran served, and for that reason application first must be made for the War Service Gratuity. When a statement showing the amount of the basic gratuity has been received by the veteran, application for the re-establishment credit may be made to the Department of Veterans Affairs on a form which may be secured from any district office of the department. Application for the war service gratuity is made to the branch of the armed forces with which the veteran served and forms may be secured at any armed forces depot or at any office of the Department of Veterans Affairs.

STUDY ALL MEASURES BEFORE APPLYING

It is important that every veteran shall have made a definite decision as to future plans before applying for the re-establishment credit. Payment of the re-establishment credit debars the veteran from educational and training grants and benefits under the Veterans' Land Act, since on application for the credit the veteran elects not to take advantage of these other benefits. Any benefits under the Veterans' Land Act and payments to, or on behalf of the veteran for training or continuation of education already granted are charged against the credit. Do not apply for your re-establishment credit until you have studied all other rehabilitation measures. Advice of department officials is available to assist you.

PURPOSES FOR WHICH CREDIT MAY BE USED

Grant of the credit may be authorized for the following purposes:

(a) To assist in home owning;
(b) To assist in building a home;
(c) To assist in home repairing or modernization;
(d) To buy household equipment and furniture;
(e) To buy tools, instruments, etc., for trade, profession, or business;
(f) To provide working capital for profession or business;
(g) To buy a business;
(h) To pay premiums on Dominion of Canada insurance;
(i) To buy special equipment required for educational or vocational training.

In the case of (a), (b), (d) and (g) above, the veteran must put up one dollar for every two dollars used from the re-establishment credit. If experience shows a broadening of these purposes is needed, provision has been made for it.

OUR SHORT STORY

Mr. Whirter Will Play

Though factory hours made Mr. Whirter rise earlier these days, he still shaved every morning as carefully as he did when he travelled comfortably to a city office.

Mr. Whirter's wartime breakfasts were chilly, rushed affairs compared with his leisurely meals of eggs and bacon before the war. "The war, the war," he thought, as he sat down. Everything reminded you of the war. The most fundamental reminder was that he and Mrs. Whirter sat at table without their sons, as though they were once more in the first years of their marriage. It was because this was the fundamental difference that Mr. Whirter kept his mind off it and fumed about trivialities. Most remarkable change of all, perhaps, was signified by his suit of dark blue overalls neatly folded on a chair. Not for thirty years had Mr. Whirter worn overalls or used spanners. He had superintended men who toiled in blue overalls with spanners installing the excellent ventilating systems which he designed. But for himself overalls and grimy hands were but symbols of his struggling early years.

Mr. Whirter had, indeed, few opportunities of savouring those joys that were his private haven of delight, appreciating the colouring of a rose, enjoying the lulling vibrations of the violin. By contrast he endured plenty of heart-tugging moments of the other kind, as now, when the postman pushed a letter through the box and it fell dully on the mat. He could never understand why the sound of a letter falling in a silence especially prepared to receive it, should have such an ominous, foreboding sound. And his brain involuntarily formed the words: "Dear Sir, I deeply regret to inform you that your son——." "Damn," thought Mr. Whirter, reining in his thoughts. He bustled into the hall, calling out immediately: "It's all right; it's from George." And whilst he packed his overalls into the attaché-case, formerly used to carry his diagrams and drawings, Mrs. Whirter read out George's few commonplace sentences. They gave no news and yet all the news. The sum total of their message to his parents was that George was alive—at least, he had been on the 21st. Counting on the calendar, Mrs. Whirter remarked plaintively: "It's five weeks since we heard from Alfred. At sea, I suppose," and she sighed.

"Yes," said Mr. Whirter briskly, as he departed. "dropping depth charges on the Huns," which was better surely than imagining the Huns were dropping bombs on Alfred, or that he were dying of thirst, drifting in mid-ocean on a raft.

"Don't think about the war," was Mr. Whirter's private watchword. "Don't think about it." Walking between crowded machines, small, erect, his well-shaved chin pink and rosy, his scrubbed teeth shining in a genial smile, he looked a dapper, carefree little man. And what he thought about was production, how to superimpose speed upon more speed. Dropping depth charges, eh? Mr. Whirter was professionaly interested in depth charges, how to make more of 'em in less time, how to make 'em bigger, better, more deadly.

"Crickey? You look happy! One would think the blooming war was over," said a middle-aged woman, as he passed her bench.

"We're getting on; we're getting on," smiled Mr. Whirter.

The hum of the machines, Mr. Whirter often thought, was like an orchestra. To its steadily beating rhythm some tune would suddenly spring into his mind. Chopin—the nocturne in E flat, which he could play on the violin (except the cadenza at the end). Chopin! They wern' allowed to tplay Chopin in Germany now. The Nazis had banned it.

He stopped sharply near a lathe, picked up a fitting.

"No good," he said, shaking his head over it.

The girl mechanic looked up, puzzled. Most of the mechanics in Mr. Whirter's charge were girls. You had to coax 'em, pamper 'em, drive 'em or scare 'em, according to their temperaments.

"No good," repeated Mr. Whirter. "Won't kill Germans," and carefully, good-humouredly, he turned a new thread by way of demonstration. "You got a boy in the Forces?"

There was a blush. "Well—in a way, sir."

He patted her arm. "If you want him back, turn your threads true. Remember—got to kill Germans."

He passed on, genial, smiling, the most harmless, friendly little man.

"Mr. Whirter."

"Yes."

His elderly, bespectacled assistant bent down to him. "London Philharmonic on the air tonight. Mendelssohn. The violin concerto."

"You don't say?"

"Yes, sir. At nine-thirty. Thought you'd be interested,"

"Nine-thirty," mused Mr. Whirter. He might just manage it. Eager anticipation warmed him.

"Come on now, step on it," he called, passing down the aisle between the machines. "Get a move on." The steel cases travelled past him in an endless glinting chain. Heads bent, wheels whirred. "Keep 'em moving," he ordered, and pressed his shoulders back and walked on, whilst through his mind ran the lovely slow movement of the violin concerto. Mendelssohn, like Chopin, was banned in Germany. Tonight, on his cheap old fiddle, he would himself play the slow movement (except the hard bit on two strings) with the Philharmonic orchestra and the great Bratza himself.

Round and round went the wheels and round and round went sharp-eyed, supervisory Mr. Whirter. He climbed upstairs to the office and downstairs to the despatch room, his little legs getting tired and more tired as the hours sped, his shoulders just perceptibly sagging. Sometimes, on his journey up two flights to the office, he stopped before a landing window to take six deep breaths of the fresher outer air. "No oxygen in that damn place downstairs," he murmured. "Ventilation's rotten." But what he really longed for was something to sit down on.

Fortified by his half-dozen scientific breaths, he re-entered his own department, shoulders back, legs braced, calling out (but chiefly to himself), "Come on now. Snap into it." Behind him bent heads were raised a second and one hard-driven girl confided to her neighbour:

"Blimey, the old boy loves it. What's he made of—cast iron?"

"Nine-thirty. I'll do it," Mr. Whirter told himself.

Meanwhile the depth charges had to go, the Navy wanted them to escort a special convoy. Africa, perhaps or maybe Russia or the U.S.A. Mr. Whirter didn't speculate; it was none of his affair, But they were the latest type; the biggest and the deadliest yet, and in their improvement his own mechanical ingenuity had a share.

He saw the last charge packed, the last screw tightened. The wheels went humming on.

In the bus he yawned and his eyelids drooped, but he alighted alertly and groped his way up his cercert path in the blackout to greet Mrs. Whirter.

"Letter from Alfred," she announced excitedly. "He's in port."

"Good! Splendid!"

"It's only for a day or two, he says. I've packed up the gloves I knitted for him and a bit of cake. Could you run down to Mrs. Thompson? Her boy's going up to Liverpool tonight. Alfred won't get them else."

It was nine-fifteen when he got back and sat down to supper.

"Alfred says they caught a tin fish on his last voyage," said Mrs. Whirter, reading from the letter. "What does he mean?"

Mr. Whirter looked up from his plate. Alfred, he thought, should know better than write such things even to his mother. And he remembered the special bait for the tin fish he had just seen loaded for the docks.

"It's a bit of Service slang, I suppose, my dear. Not worth repeating."

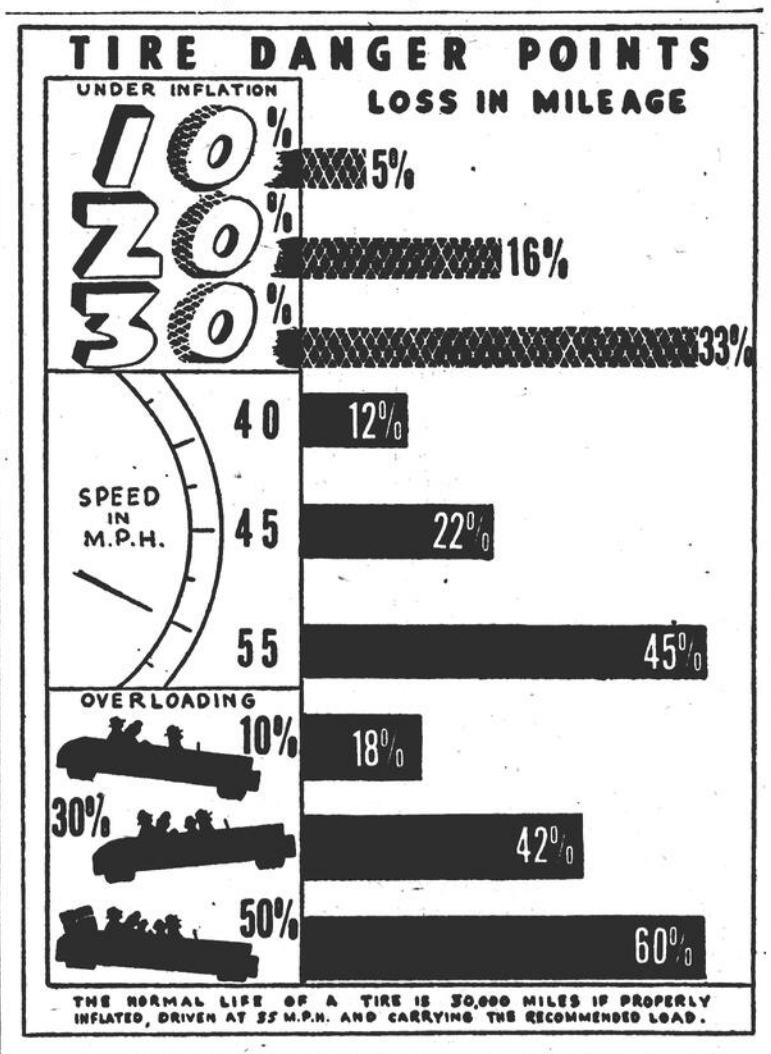
He looked at the clock. Just past nine-thirty. Of course, there'd be an overture before the concerto. He switched on and it came through.

Far away the conductor raised his baton and the soloist his instrument. Mr. Whirter heard never a note of it. Exhausted beyond measure, the little man was fast asleep in his chair with his cheap fiddle at his elbow.

What wakened him was the storm of clapping that greeter the concerto's close. He blinked at the radio set, and then at the clock. The thing was over. What he heard were the acclamations of an audience applauding those who create and interpret things of immortal beauty. And if there were any there who raised a voice or a hand, or who gave a thought to the lesser ones who work and fight to preserve these, and other, things for the common man, it may be they were applauding Mr. Whirter, too.

"Kismet"—Delightful New Technicolor Film!

Ronald Colman, Marlene Dietrich and Joy Ann Page are working out a plan in the above scene from the Technicolor film, "Kismet," which opens Saturday at the Seville United Theatre.



The Rubber Controller is trying to chart a course through a future of unknowns bristling with practical difficulties. Tires can be rationed to essential vehicles only, but it is equally certain that all essential vehicles must have tires. A limited number of tires are being manufactured, and these are capable of giving almost normal mileage. But what per cent of normal mileage they give depends on the driver. Severe reductions in mileage are the direct result of lack of proper care and attention, as our pictograph shows. If a driver runs on an under-inflated tire, steps on the gas, or overloads his car with passengers or luggage, he must accept the responsibility. There is no new tire to fall back on.

Montreal Men's Choir Give Choral Concert

The St. Saviour's Veterans' Advisory Committee is sponsoring a choral concert to be given by the Montreal Men's Choir in St. Columba's Parrish Hall on Tuesday, March 13th, at 8.30 P.M.

Founded in 1939, the Montreal Men's Choir, under the direction of Thomas C. Edmund, its first conductor, won the Chopin Trophy for male choirs at the Quebec Musical Competition Festival held in March 1940.

Mr. Edmund later proceeded on Active Service with the Royal Canadian Navy and John Robb, Mus. Bac., present organist and choirmaster of St. James United Church, Montreal, was invited to succeed him as musical director. It is interesting to record that Mr. Edmund has since returned to the city and is now associated with Mr. Robb at St. James as tenor soloist.

The Choir will be assisted by guest artists.

Art Theatre Inc. Sponsor Contest, Conduct Classes

The Canadian Art Theatre Inc., 3219 Westmount Blvd., (under the sponsorship of the Canadian Authors' Association), have announced a Playwriting Contest, for the best Play written by a Canadian writer, and the prize will be a One Hundred Dollar Victory Bond.

The Plays will be judged by Three Dramatic Critics, and judging will be based fifty per cent on the manuscript and fifty per cent on the Play as actually staged. Plays submitted must be full length (roughly 120 minutes).

The closing date for all entries will be April 30th, 1945.

At the Saturday classes of the Children's Workshop, a branch of the Canadian Art Theatre, it is reported there is much artistic talent among the young Montrealers who attend.

Here the students under the guidance of Joy Thomson, the director, assisted by experienced instructors in the Theatre of Arts are being trained in the different roles of voice, movement, mime, makeup, fencing, elementary stagecraft acting and the history of the theatre, also creative craft that will prove an invaluable addition to their education.

Juveniles who are interested in this special artistic and dramatic instruction will be able to join these classes by enrolling in the Spring Term which commences on Saturday.

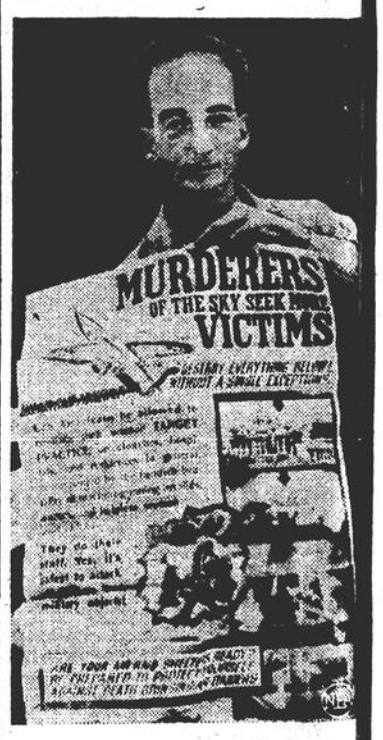
CONCERT ENSEMBLE

A concert of unusual novelty and interest will take place tomorrow night in the Rose Room of the Windsor Hotel, when Montreal Festivals will present the Salzedo Concert Ensemble. Comprised of two harps, a cello, and a flute, it is one of the most unique combinations on the concert stage.

The group takes its name from the founder, Carlos Salzedo, foremost harpist on the North American continent. The other harp is played by his gifted and beautiful wife, Marjorie Call Salzedo, Ruth Freeman, young American flutist and Ana Drittelle cellist, complete the ensemble.

Any boys interested are advised to come to the 'Y' Saturday morning with gym suit, towel, and lunch and see Roy Locke, the Boys Work Secretary.

The training of children is a profession, where we must know how to lose time in order to gain it.—Rousseau.



NIP TRICK

The Jap poster, above, held by Francis McCarthy, United Press war correspondent in the Pacific, calls American airmen "murderers of the sky" and pictures wrecked non-military buildings whose destruction Japs blamed on Yank flyers. Poster was part of propaganda barrage, in English, which Japs showered on Filipinos.

two extra weeks of rehearsal and should make the show just that much better.

Plans for the program are under consideration. This will come under business manager Gordon Pollock.

Director Joseph thinks that Norm Eaves, Jim Henderson and other members of the traditionally hard-working stage crew deserve more publicity than they have been getting. "Those boys can really wield a paint brush," says Joseph.

Then, of course, one can't forget the amplifying work of Fred Roney, 11bc's radio wizard. The thin boy has been performing in yeoman fashion.

For the first time in two weeks, the revuers will be rehearsing over in the Junior High auditorium this afternoon. Visitors are not welcome. Admission is by invitation only.

OLD BOYS

It was just a year ago today that Westmount High's Old Boys' Association held their last annual dinner meeting at the Mount Royal Hotel. The association will be meeting in the same place next Thursday when all graduates of WHS as well as any of this year's graduating class who are interested, will gather for an evening of speeches, entertainment and reminiscing.

The festivities will get underway at 6.45.

BASKETBALL

After dropping a 44-24 decision to Baron Byng on their own floor last Friday, Westmount High's Senior A basketballers will be journeying out to West Hill today with very slim hopes of victory. The West Hilliass, sparked by grid star Pete Finlay, are in first place with an unbeaten and untied record. Last time the teams clashed, back on January 26, the Red and Grey won 41-19.

Last Friday's beating came as a bitter disappointment to the local cagers for the first time they met the Byng boys this season, up at Baron Byng, they vanquished them 34-30. But last week the Purple and White had only six regulars on hand, Bob Keefler and Hugh Cameron both missing and Ray Binmore now playing hockey, and had to press Senior B'ster MacFarlane into service. Mac played a good game but the whole team was out of practice and out of condition after a week's lay-off due to the exams.

The Senior B boys, still trying for their first win of the season, played host to Montreal High on Monday and ended up on the short end of a 33-31 score. Playing another home game Wednesday the B brigade lost out to Commercial High.

ITEMS

There's more than a possibility that D. N. McRae, who left his post as Westmount High's number one chemistry teacher in June, 1943, to become an instructor in the Canadian Navy, will be back in the school next year taking J. Auderson's place as history teacher. Mr. Anderson retires at the end of this year. Last time we saw Lt. McRae was in the summer of '43 when, as Military reporter of the Herald, we went up to H.M.C.S. Montreal to witness the photographing of a group of naval officers. Lt. McR was among them. . . . And G. Mitchell, who went into the R.C.A.F. after the school year 1939-40, will likely be back in some local school. He taught music at Argyle Junior High in those days. . . . G. P. Smith, Westmount High's famed hockey and football coach, has been named official lecturer to Q.A.H.A. intermediate and junior referees and gives forth with the rule interpretations every Thursday night down at the Queen's Hotel. . . A gal by the name of Kitty is the current rage of male Westmount Highers. . . . C. H. Savage, principal-superintendent of Westmount Protestant schools, spoke to the boys' Hi-Y last night on school teaching. He was the second of a series of vocational guidance speakers. . . John Pepper chaired the meeting. . . . Derek Ramsay and his learn-to-swim committee are doing yeoman work in the Y pool. They've already taught two youngsters to swim the length. . . . The Hobby Show booklet is due this coming week. Bob Keefler was in charge of it. Charles Cook and Joan Radley looked after the advertising. . . . Students Council meets again at noon today after skipping a week. The executive met yesterday. . . . A year ago, come Sunday, the boys' Hi-Y held their annual 1944 spring dance. A year ago, come St. Patrick's Day, the gals' HiY held their spring Sadie Hawkins, an event which they don't intend to hold this year. . . . The boys' Hi-Y will be playing host to the femmes' organization next Friday. Attempts are being made to secure Gazette cartoonist John Collins as speaker. . . . Bryson Berry was 19 last Saturday and celebrated by going to a movie. . . . Laurie Hutchison left for Detroit at midnight Wednesday to bid farewell to a cousin who's shoving off for combat duty. Hutch, editor of Vox Ducum and secretary of the male Hi-Y, will be returning this Wednesday. . . . Fred Roberts, popular sports scribe and holder of more than one jitterbug contest cup, has shifted from the Gazette to the Herald.

—MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS SUPPLIED BY JUNIOR RED CROSS

• When within the cheerless confines of enemy prison camps our men break forth and sing of home . . . it may well be due to the fires of hope kept burning by the Red Cross.

Millions of Red Cross food parcels reached our boys in captivity last year!

But the 900,000 members of the Junior Red Cross have determined that Canadian prisoners shall not live by bread alone. They shall have music!

Accordingly thousands of musical instruments have passed enemy guards and barbed wire to inspire songs in the night.

Besides this work for prisoners, the Junior Red Cross war effort has also sent out millions of knitted articles and blankets to the fighting forces; thousands of splints for broken limbs; mobile kitchens, canteens and ambulances; maintenance of 14 war nurseries in Britain; relief for the war-stricken children of China, Greece, Russia, Poland and France.

Is any service more deserving of your help? Dig deep! Give generously to the Red Cross.
