

SOVIETS RUSH TROOPS TO TURKISH FRONTIER

Soviets Showing Deep Concern On German Actions

Balkan Quarters Believe that Soviets are Attempting to Prevent German Attack on Turkey and Perhaps Greece by Suggesting that Red Army Would Come to Aid of Turkey—Yugoslavia Gives Limited Support to Axis.

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, March 10.—(P)—Week-end advices to diplomatic quarters asserted that Soviet Russian troops were moving into positions along Turkey's Eastern frontier—between the Black Sea and the Caspian—as a German troop thrust into Greece, and perhaps Turkey, was feared imminent.

At the same time reports circulated that Yugoslavia would send Foreign Minister Aleksandar Cincar-Markovic to Berlin or Berchtesgaden tomorrow to sign a friendship treaty with Germany.

This would mean Yugoslavia's alignment in the German sphere but would not place the country in the same class with Rumania, Hungary, Slovakia and Bulgaria as adherents to the military alliance of Germany, Italy and Japan.

The reports of Russian troop movements in the Caucasus, coinciding with the strengthening of Red Army forces along the Prut river frontier of German-occupied Rumania, were said to reflect the Moscow Government's desire to make sure of Russian defences if Germany should strike at Turkey.

Concentrations on Turkey's Asiatic border also might mean a Russian effort to bluff Germany out of a stab at the strategic Balcans, some sources said by suggesting that the Red Army would come to Turkey's aid in such a case.

With the Greek forces on the Central Albanian Front, March 10.—(P)—Captured Fascist officers declare Mussolini visited besieged Tepeleni in an armored car last week before a renewed Greek drive which Greeks claimed smashed two of his elite divisions.

The Greeks predicted the heavily fortified town, where the Italian Eleventh Army has held on since last December, was about to fall under the stepped-up drive in which 2,335 prisoners were reported taken in the past three days.

At least two high Fascist officials sent from Government duty at Rome to the fighting line were said by Italian prisoners to have been killed or wounded over the week-end.

That attack was credited in Greek reports with smashing the Julia division, and the Ferrara Division. Both divisions were said to have been sent into the line with orders to hold out to the last.

Captured officers said Mussolini arrived early last week and stayed at the village of Dragoti, a few miles from Tepeleni which is twenty-eight miles Southeast of Valona.

Italian Government officials reported killed or captured during the week-end.

R.A.F. BOMBERS ATTACKING PORT OF BOULOGNE TODAY

Southeast Coast, England, March 10.—(P)—A formation of bombers sweeping over the Dover Strait in brilliant sunshine indicated that the Royal Air Force was raiding the Nazi-held French port of Boulogne today.

Explosions were heard from the direction of Boulogne soon after the bombers sped across the water. R. A. F. fighters patrolled constantly overhead.

Ottawa, March 10.—(P)—An area around Arvida and Isle Maligne, Que., has been added to areas in Canada over which civil aircraft are not allowed to operate, under an Order-in-Council made public last night.

British Army Moves To Cut Vital Ethiopian Rail Line

British Force Which Has Captured Town 145 Miles Inside of Ethiopian Frontier Appears Headed to Railway Linking Addis Ababa with Jibuti—Approximately Thirty Per Cent of Italian Empire in British Hands.

Cairo, Egypt, March 10.—(P)—A British force driving out of conquered Italian Somaliland has captured a town 145 miles inside the Ethiopian frontier and a military spokesman said the unit appeared on its way to cut the vital railway line running from coastal Jibuti to Addis Ababa.

A British communique yesterday announced the fall of the Ethiopian town of Gabre-Darra, about 270 miles Southeast of Dire-dawa.

This thrust into another portion of Italy's East African empire began March 5 after the capture of Ferfer, just inside the Somaliland border. British troops moved at the rate of almost fifty miles a day in reaching Gabre-Darra.

British dispatches from this region said they could see white flags 100 miles in advance of the British troops.

Successes also were reported in the Gollan district Northwest of Addis Ababa, where a communique said, native Ethiopian forces were pursuing retreating Italians.

A military spokesman said approximately thirty per cent of Italy's East African empire now lies in the hands of the British after two months of fighting in which he said more than 21,000 Italian prisoners were taken.

(The Italian high command last night reported that the Italian dead in the East African fighting in February totalled only 127. In North Africa, a communique added, 140 were killed in the month, including thirty-five in the navy and thirty-seven in the air corps. The number of missing in North Africa was placed at 12,280.)

In North Africa, British authorities reported a bombing attack on the harbor at Tripoli and on air-dromes in Tripolitania, while other bombers in East Africa struck at Cheran and Asmara. South African fighting planes machine-gunned and burned two oil dumps at Asmara.

The Italian high command said it had been shot down twice in battle. Once, almost blinded by spraying oil, he landed on a field that turned out to be an air-drome. He and the same plane were back in the air a few days later.

Other arrivals included many machine tools were idle or working less than eight hours a day.

The O. P. M. took the first step toward its spread-the-work campaign by discontinuing the old Office of Small Business Activities and creating the Defence Contract Service.

John D. Biggers, O.P.M. Production Chief, named Robert L. Mohornay, Kansas City industrialist, to head the service and Mohornay has put up the framework for a national organization and started a series of regional meetings designed to stimulate sub-contracting. He formed thirty-six field offices to survey manufacturing facilities and co-operate with holders of large contracts in sub-letting part of the work.

Concern over contraction of orders was attributed chiefly to fear of bottlenecks developing as additional contracts are awarded. But one official said that production would not be delayed if work could be sublet promptly.

FORMER MONTREAL NEWS-PAPERMAN DIES

BRITISH TURN DOWN HOOVER RELIEF PLAN

No Form of Relief Can Be Devised Which Will Not Assist Enemy, British Officials Declare on Plan.

Washington, March 10.—(P)—The British Government has rejected Herbert Hoover's plan for establishment of soup kitchens in Belgium as a test of possible similar relief for other Nazi-occupied countries.

"No form of relief can be devised which would not directly or indirectly assist the enemy's war effort," said a statement made public yesterday by the British Embassy.

Hoover, who had received an advance copy of the statement, asserted in a reply released simultaneously that none of the food shipped to Belgium would go to the Germans and that adoption of the plan "would result in no military losses to the British, or military gain to the Germans."

Hoover, as honorary chairman of the Committee on Food for Small Democracies, made his proposal on February 16th. It provided for feeding 3,000,000 persons at soup kitchens, using supplies from the United States and 1,000,000 bushels of bread gains per month from German sources. A neutral commission would have supervised the relief and the Germans would have been pledged.

Renewed Raids On Britain Taken As Indicating Defeat Of German Diplomatic Campaign In Balkans

By GUY RHODES,
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Germany's Balkan diplomatic offensive appears to have been at least a partial failure, for she has not taken Yugoslavia into the Axis nor frightened Turkey into a promise of neutrality. Furthermore, Greece is still fighting and winning victories over Italy.

Failure of the German diplomats and clearing weather have brought a renewed air onslaught on Britain, an onslaught staged by low-flying bombers, difficult for anti-aircraft gunners to hit. These aircraft employ the old system of attack, however, fire bombs to start guiding planes and high explosive bombs thereafter.

Reasons for the German diplomatic failure were not clear. Efforts to coerce Yugoslavia into the Axis resulted only in a non-aggression pact and efforts to "look after" the interests of Turkey brought a retort that Turkey could look after her own.

It was significant that Germany launched its diplomatic pressure in full force at a time when the British Foreign Secretary, Anthony Eden, was visiting the Middle East, going from Cairo to Athens and then returning to the Egyptian metropolis.

It became increasingly apparent that Mr. Eden had arrived in time to spike the German talk offensive after it had obtained a bloodless surrender from an already pro-German Bulgaria.

The comparative settlement of the Balkan situation looked unfortunate for Mussolini. For one thing it spelled an apparent German plan to rescue his Albanian forces by launching a pincer move through Bulgaria and Yugoslavia simultaneously, a move which would have engaged a large Greek or Anglo-Greek force on the frontier of Thrace and Macedonia. Some such development may yet occur, but it appears to be held up for the moment.

Meanwhile Greek successes against the Italians continue while British, Dominion and colonial forces in Africa chase the Italians out of their recently acquired Empire.

Noted Canadian Aviator Predicts Early End Of Night Raid Menace

An East Coast Canadian Port, March 10.—(P)—Servicemen representative of many facets of the Allies' war organization spread through Canada today, newly-arrived from across the Atlantic to take up new tasks or enjoy respite from battle.

Distinguished Canadian officers, including Wing Cmdr. Ernest McNab of the Royal Canadian Air Force and other decorated fliers, field commanders of Canadian units and scores of soldiers inviolated home were among the arriving group. Hundreds of airmen arrived to become instructors, or go into training, and navy men came to assume new duties.

Capt. George d'Argenlieu, officer-in-charge of the French Navy who led the "Free French" landing party at Dakar and was wounded there, arrived on special mission. He will explain to French-Canadians and Frenchmen living in Canada the objectives of Gen. Charles de Gaulle's movement.

Wing Cmdr. McNab, besides carrying back stirring stories of the exploits of Canada's fighting airmen over Britain, brought with him a prediction that night bombing of Britain will have been "wiped out" in the next month.

"We stopped the day bombing, and within the next month you will see the night bombing wiped out," declared the former leader of the first R.C.A.F. fighter squadron, who holds the Distinguished Flying Cross. "The Nazis have been whipped in the air."

He was proud of his squadron, and the Allied air fighters generally. "When you see these young fellows go into the fight they way they have been doing it," he observed, "you know Britain has the upper hand in the skies."

McNab's squadron accounted for fourteen German planes September 16, the day 183 were downed over Britain. Since then, he said, the Germans had not come over looking for a fight.

The Wing Commander said he had been shot down twice in battle. Once, almost blinded by spraying oil, he landed on a field that turned out to be an air-drome. He and the same plane were back in the air a few days later.

Other arrivals included many merchant seamen to take over ships Britain has acquired on this continent. Britain's Fleet Air Arm sent a contingent to be trained in the Dominion.

Brig. Armand Smith, commander of an Infantry Brigade in the 1st Canadian Division, returned from special treatment after an automobile accident. His condition forced him to abandon command in the field, but he expressed the expectation he would be serving in an administrative capacity in about a month.

Col. E. A. Dupuis of Quebec, who Commanded "C" group of Canadian holding units in Britain, came home en route to Ottawa. Col. C. H. Hill of Ottawa, Deputy Provost Marshal of the Canadian forces in the United Kingdom, arrived to take up new duties.

But Col. Edmund Blais, who gave up his New York job to rejoin the Royal 22nd Regiment of Quebec, came back with "the war over" as far as he is concerned. A heart attack forced him out of service while he was in charge of officer training for Canadian non-commissioned soldiers in Britain.

Capt. d'Argenlieu had little to say about his Dakar experience. But it was recalled that it was he who, though wounded, stood erect in a small boat under machine-gun fire and directed the withdrawal of the Free French landing party when it was fired on.

He had been taken prisoner at the time of the fall of France but eluded captors by leaping from a car. He crossed the Channel to Britain with some French naval ratings.

The officer told newsmen he had no intention of stirring of enmity against Vichy in this country, he said, was in complete accord with the idea of his trip.

MONTREAL SQUARE FLOODED
Montreal, March 10.—(P)—Several streets near Yoville Square in downtown Montreal were covered with water to a depth of two feet and many cellars were flooded, when a water main burst early today. The flood was stopped after an hour when the valve of the broken main was closed.

WAR BULLETINS

Berlin — Nazi spokesmen said today that passage of the British Aid Bill by the United States Senate caused no surprise at the Wilhelmstrasse.

There was no official German comment, however, and it was indicated there would be none until the bill becomes law.

"Only when the birth of the child is completed," these sources said, "will we be in a position to say something."

Marseille, France — The United States Red Cross relief ship Cold Harbor docked here today and was greeted by a group of officials and journalists.

The ship unloaded part of $1,000,000 cargo of food and supplies at Seville, Spain, Feb. 26, and left for Marseille with the rest.

London — Unfavorable weather was reported today to have prevented any major British bombing operations over Germany or German-occupied territory last night.

BALLOON BOATS HAVE EXCITING CHANNEL TRIP

Mines, Airplanes and Shore Batteries All Combine to Make Life of Barrage Operators Interesting.

By EDDY GILMORE
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

London, March 10.—(P)—Towing a balloon at the end of a cable attached to a boat sounds like one of the dullest jobs in the world. It isn't—in the English Channel, where the balloon is supposed to keep German bombers from diving on convoys.

Here is an extract from the log of a balloon barrage officer in charge of such a "Balloon Boat."

"09:50: (a.m.) mine sighted, port bow, necessitating change of course. This followed by sighting others, we eventually zigzagging through 23. Obviously they had broken loose during storm."

"18:56 (6:56 p.m.): Vivid flashes French coast."

"21:43: (9:43 p.m.): Enormous flashes French coast. Followed 80 seconds later by heavy explosions."

London Sirens Again Sound After Heavy Week-End Raid

London Received Mid-Morning Alarm After Heaviest Week-End of Air Attacks Since Fire Bomb Raids Reported Unusually Light—New Defences Developed.

London, March 10.—(P)—The scream of sirens warned of Nazi raiders over London in mid-morning today after the heaviest week-end of air attacks since the fire bomb raids of last December 29.

One daylight raid machine-gunned the streets of an East coast town, then was driven off by anti-aircraft fire from a ship it attempted to attack off the coast.

Rescue crews dug into the bomb-strewn debris of a three-story London building, looking for fire watchers believed on the roof when the bomb hit.

Another explosive damaged a theatre last night. Four policemen were killed in a hit on a station house. Another building was destroyed by 150 persons, mostly women and children, escaped unhurt from a shelter in the basement.

Some Londoners regarded the raid, concentrated on the capital for two successive nights, as signalling the start of a full force spring air siege.

The capital had three alarms last night. Sections along the South coast also were bombed and the rear of planes was heard overhead at scores of communities from Northeastern Scotland to South Wales. In many of these places, as at Liverpool, which had its longest alarm in two months, there were no reports of bombings. Liverpool's anti-aircraft barrage was credited with beating back raiders there.

Reports from Southeastern England indicated the attackers came in large numbers.

A British communique declared, however, the night's casualties "were not numerous."

More were killed Saturday night, when bombs exploded on a highway near a number of pedestrians and one heavy explosive crashed through the roof of a popular West end cabaret.

Among those killed in the cabaret were two Canadian officers and other informed Canadians. A social centre for Canadian soldiers also was hit, but some forty men in the building escaped injury.

An Admiralty communique asserted a German Heinkel bomber was "hotly engaged and almost certainly destroyed" Saturday by the destroyer Nadine. Visibility was poor, but the plane was last seen enveloped in flames and diving out of control.

DEVELOPING NEW TECHNIQUE
London, March 10.—(P)—Rohlfal British observers said today the Royal Air Force is rushing work on a number of new tactical and technical "tricks" to hold off the German "sky armadas" expected to appear more frequently in Britain's skies as the spring opens up.

Immediate Supply Flow To Follow Approval Of British Help Measure

With House Approval of Senate Amendments Expected by Tomorrow at Latest, Administration Is Studying Plans for Immediate Transfer of Certain War Materials—Food Shipments May Be Speeded Up.

Washington, March 10.—(P)—

Final United States Congressional action on the British Aid Bill appeared today to be but a matter of hours, and informed persons considered it probable that the vast supply of war materials thereby made available to Britain would start moving across the Atlantic within a few days.

Small naval vessels were reportedly to be the first defence articles slated for delivery immediately after the bill becomes law, with food supplies to follow.

Only House of Representatives approval of relatively minor amendments inserted by the Senate before it passed the legislation sixty to thirty-one Saturday night was needed to speed the momentous measure to the White House. Speaker Sam Rayburn and Chairman Sol Bloom (Democrat, New York) of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, predicted the approval would be given Tuesday.

Unless the House leadership runs into an unforeseen snag, the bill, therefore, will be ready for President Roosevelt's signature by midweek. Once it is signed into law, the President is expected to make swift use of the authority thus gained to "sell, transfer title to, exchange, lease, lend or otherwise dispose of" guns, planes, ships, tanks, and all other armaments and food supplies.

Signing of the bill, too, will clear the way for him to ask Congress for the billions necessary to carry out the programme.

Some authorities estimated today that during this year and the next two the total cost of lease-lend assistance would be substantial, exceeding $10,000,000,000. Not only Britain but any other nations "whose defence the President deems vital to the defence of the United States" may benefit. These may include Greece and China.

The great bulk of supplies, however, will go to beleaguered Britain with all speed possible. One authority said the first weapons to be furnished would be a number of navy mosquito boats, sixty-miles an hour, torpedo-bearing craft, and probably some submarine chasers.

Both types of vessels, it was said, will be of great value to Britain in what her officials have termed the "Battle of the Atlantic" and in event of a Nazi invasion attempt.

The second major item in the Administration's present plans for helping Britain—plans which President Roosevelt has been forming with cabinet and other advisers for several weeks—was reported to be foodstuffs, release of which the Aid Bill specifically authorizes. Arrangements for shipping these commodities were said to have been perfected by the Secretaries of Agriculture, War and Navy.

TREATY READY IN INDO-CHINA THAI DISPUTE

Formal Initialing of New Agreements Expected to Take Place in Tokyo Sometime Tomorrow.

Tokyo, March 10.—(P)—Formal initialing of the peace agreement settling the border dispute between French Indo-China and Thailand is scheduled to take place at Premier Fumimaro Konoye's official residence at 4 p.m. (3 a.m., E.D.T.) tomorrow, informed sources reported today.

French Ambassador Charles-Arson Henry conferred with Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka for ninety minutes today, after which some observers said some modifications in the phrasing of the agreement were likely. The exact nature of these remained undisclosed.

Thailand's chief delegate informed Matsuoka yesterday of his country's acceptance of the agreement in its latest form.

Thailand was reported to have asked originally for as much as one-third of the Provinces of Cambodia and Laos. These demands were said to have been paired down gradually to obtain the Vichy Government's acceptance of the terms.

(Dispatches from Bangkok today said a Thai communiqué declared that there had been new outbreaks between French and Thai forces along the disputed frontier in the past two days. The terms of an extended armistice provided that armed forces should be withdrawn from the frontier during the conferences.)

The "tricks" are generally described as matching ideas and initiative against the weight of greater German numbers until factories around the thousands of planes Britain hopes to get, particularly under the United States lease-lend measure.

Major problems of the R.A.F. command are:

1—Beating the Germans to development of a method for handling great numbers of fighters, both day and night, in single formations while under fire.

2—Forcing the Germans to vacate their Channel air bases for fields deeper in occupied territory and Germany, thus reducing their striking power.

3—Springing one or two new air weapons on the Germans at the strategic moment.

4—Distributing available planes in the right proportions to match German air strength from Iceland to Greece and Africa.

One of the most urgent problems of air strategy is to devise methods of using great numbers of planes together without the formations becoming unwieldy.

Thus far in the war major air clashes have broken up into a series of dogfights, with the formations unable to work as such.

What the experts are hoping for is progress in organization to the point where the formation can be kept, and act with the precision of shock cavalry of the old-time ground armies.

Both day and night attacks are being used by British bombers to make German airfields near the Channel coast untenable. At night two-motored Blenheim fighter bombers hover over the German fields waiting to pounce upon German bombers as they return from raids.

By day, the British squadrons make patrol sweeps of the French coast, with fighting planes protecting the bombers.

British sources say they have been encouraged by the refusal of German interceptors to give battle on these sweeps.

There is strict silence among authorities on any new air weapons in store, but one respected expert, Maj. Oliver Stewart, said: "We have only begun to develop the means of achieving technical surprise," where, as German secret weapons "have mostly been exploited and exploded."

The British air command is said to have put new heavy bombers—four-motored Short Stirlings and two-motored Avro Manchester—in service before the Germans reinforced their Dornier 215's, Heinkel 111's and Junkers 88's with newer craft.

In disposition of their available air force, the British command has its biggest problem in the Balkans.

The Germans are reported to have about 1,000 planes there (reports from Sofia, Bulgaria, have claimed 1,700 in Bulgaria alone), including Messerschmitt fighters, twin-engined bombers and Junkers dive bombers.

CHAPTER ONE

HUSBAND WANTED

Diana Kendrick stood before her dressing-table mirror and put the finishing touches to her toilette as Yvonne, her maid waited with an evening wrap. Her husband, Barton, spruce in evening clothes, entered.

"Ready darling?" He idly fingered a manuscript spread out on the table. "Anything in this novel?"

"You wouldn't publish it, dear," she answered banteringly. "It's much too grim and earnest."

Kendrick, a rather handsome man somewhat over forty, grinned good-naturedly. "You're too tough a critic, Diana."

"How lucky for you," Diana, an attractive thirty-five, calmly applied her lipstick. You know perfectly well that if it weren't for me, you'd lose your shirt."

"Oh, I agree."

As they moved toward the stairs from her room, they made a very handsome couple. As partners in a "modern" marriage in which they had agreed that each had liberty of action, they were now exercising it as they started off in separate engagements for the evening.

"Present?" She indicated a neat package he carried under his arm.

"Present," he replied noncommittally, adroitly changing the subject as he surveyed her admiringly. "You look charming, Diana."

They paused for a moment on the top landing of the stairs of their home, situated in one of New York City's exclusive residential districts. A limousine was pulling up to the curb. An attractive, well-dressed man in evening clothes stepped out with a casual air.

"Hello there — you two," he sang out cheerfully.

"Hello, Arthur," Kendrick cordially greeted his wife's escort. They passed a few pleasantries, then Diana turned to her husband.

"Goodnight, Bart. Have a nice evening."

"The same to you, darling."

"Can we give you a lift?" asked the lamina Arthur Stafford politely, as he started to follow Diana into the car.

"No thanks, old man," said Kendrick. "Just run along. We mustn't keep my wife waiting, you know," he pleaded pleasantly.

As the limousine moved off, a cruising taxi swung to the curb on the other side of the street. Kendrick crossed, and jumped in as the driver opened the door. The next moment he was being whisked away in the opposite direction taken by his wife and her escort.

Meanwhile Arthur Stafford was banteringly grumbling to his fair companion that her husband was much too broadminded. He asserted that under the circumstances he should be jealous. To be jealous was the traditional thing for husbands, Diana protested that Bart and she didn't believe in tradition. They had a modern marriage. And she liked it.

"It's just the way I want it," she said with a shade of defiance.

"You lie, thank goodness," smiled her companion.

And she made no denial, only stared ahead.

About this time Kendrick's taxi was pulling up before the canopied entrance to an apartment house.

A minute later he stepped out of the elevator, and paused expectantly before a door as he rang the bell. A maid opened.

"Good evening, Mr. Kendrick," she said.

"S-s-s-h, Frieda," he cautioned, finger to lips. "I don't want Miss Jones to know I'm here," he whispered.

Handing her his hat, he tiptoed into the living-room, unwrapping his package like some mischievous little boy. Placing the package on a table, he disclosed to the smiling maid a music-box on which a tiny doll in Austrian peasant costume was doing a little revolving waltz to the tinkling music.

The doorway of a bedroom opened. A girl with a face of cameo-like beauty framed in dark hair stood there with her animated features expressing delight. She came toward the doll, smiling with pleasure.

"I thought you two would like each other," he beamed.

"Oh, Bart, it's charming!"

"She was born in Vienna, too, Johnny. And I'm madly in love with her."

"When did it happen?" asked the girl, demurely.

"The moment I saw her."

He opened his arms. "May I?" he asked, smiling down at her as they glided into the waltz.

"That's the way it should happen — at first sight. Isn't it, Johnny?"

"Yes," she murmured happily. The music came to an end. He still held the girl in his arms. "Do you think she knows I never want her to leave me?" he asked, continuing the little game.

"Yes, Bart. She knows."

"We can make it forever, Johnny," he pleaded, as she moved back to the music-box and stared moodily down at the quaint little figure. "If you want it that way."

He looked up at him with earnest eyes. "I want to be sure that our happiness means that someone else will not be — unhappy."

"I promise you," he said simply, "that no one will be hurt, Johnny."

She flashed a radiant smile. "I think I'll cry a little now. I'm so happy!"

"I don't want to wait till after dinner," he suggested, like one humoring a little child.

"All right, I'll get my things."

As she passed into her room, the bell rang. Frieda crossed to answer it, opening the door on a thick-set man of obvious Irish countenance, fumbling with the brim of his soft hat.

"I want to see Miss Janss. Miss Johanna Janss."

"You have made a mistake," said Frieda, starting to shut the door.

"I'm sorry —"

"Okay," retorted the visitor, blocking the door. "Then make it Miss Jones, if she likes it that way. This is official," he added, flashing a badge. "I'm an Inspector of the Department of Immigration."

At he pushed his way in, Kendrick who had been listening in alarm, moved quickly into Johnny's room as she stood there with her wraps.

Taking her shoulders in both hands, he said tensely, "Johnny! They've found you."

The girl swayed slightly, and her face went ashen.

"A man from the Immigration Department is talking to Frieda. I can't let you go back!"

"They have to send me back," she said hopelessly. "My temporary pass was up three months ago."

"If I could only do something!" he cried desperately.

Frieda was standing in the doorway, frightened. Johnny moved forward toward the living-room, nervously herself for the ordeal she had dreaded. Kendrick was at her side.

"Miss Janss?" queried the Inspector.

"Jones," she smiled weakly. "It's more American."

"You sure picked a tough name to pin down," the man smiled back. He nodded and hawed, embarrassed.

"My name's Grogan. It's Irish. Please to see you, Miss Jan — Jones, down at the Department in the morning."

"The girl took a deep breath. 'I'll be there,' she said.

As he passed into the hall, Kendrick started impulsively after him. He took the Inspector's arm pleadingly. "Isn't there some way out, Inspector?" he asked in desperation.

"She can't go back. She can't!"

"Why?" asked the other man.

Kendrick told the story, graphically, simply. Her father, a political figure, had been liquidated in the purge. If she was sent back, she might suffer a similar fate.

Inspector Grogan was obviously perturbed. Suddenly he snapped his fingers. "Hey, wait a minute!" he exclaimed, and started toward the living-room, as Kendrick followed.

Awkwardly, the Inspector addressed the girl standing helplessly in the center of the room. He said that maybe it would take him a whole week to find this Miss Janss, or Jones.

"In about a week he thought that he would find her. By that time she could be all set by getting herself married to an American citizen. Grogan looked slyly at Kendrick. That would give her a quota number so she could stay here.

Dashed at this unexpected break, Johnny thanked him with a grateful nod. The Inspector waved his hand in friendly farewell, and disappeared.

He looked at each other, knowing exactly what the other was thinking.

"I — I feel so helpless, Johnny," he said miserably. He took her in his arms fiercely. "I can't lose you now, I can't!"

Her voice broke. "Just tonight we said it would be forever. Now it's only a week."

A desperate gaze seized her. She pulled herself together.

"We're going to take what's left to us," she cried recklessly. "We have no money, no home, no being sad. Come on, Bart! We've got to hurry!"

Downstairs, the doorman had summoned a cab, and held the door open. As Johnny started to enter, she drew back with a sudden reaction from her high emotions.

"I'm sorry, Bart. I can't go through with it."

He nodded gently. "Tell me what you want to do, Johnny. I'll understand."

"I just want to walk. By myself — very fast — and very far. So I'll come back too tired to think."

Reluctantly, he consented, telling her he would call her in the morning. They bade each other goodnight. She turned and walked down the street.

He watched the small, lonely figure as it groped its way into the night. With a heavy sigh, he entered the cab, unmindful of the doorman's cheery goodnight.

Does Johnny and a husband within a week so that she can avoid being deported? And if she marries a perfect stranger, what will become of her romance with Kendrick? Read tomorrow's chapter.

ARRIVAL MOVING VAN

A huge Bristol bomber troop-carrying aircraft serves as an aerial van for No. 1 Fighter Squadron of the Royal Canadian Air Force. When the Canadians, now veterans of the air battle of Britain, recently moved from one fighter station to another, the ground personnel made the transfer in this Royal Air Force monster while pilots flew their own Hawker Hurricane fighters.

Immediate Supply

The small naval vessels and other types of munitions to be sent to Britain in the next few weeks will be of necessity come from existing military and naval stores or those now being built for early delivery.

The bill empowers the President to release up to $1,300,000,000 of such equipment.

The other billions which the programme will require for munitions manufacture must be requested of Congress by the President. One authority reported that Mr. Roosevelt would ask, within a short time after signing the bill, for at least $1,000,000,000 in cash and $1,000,000,000 in contract authority.

It was understood, however, that some of his advisers had urged a request for larger sums, their recommendations ranging up to $5,000,000,000 in cash and an additional $5,000,000,000 in authority for future expenditures.

Even among those who fought the bill to the last ditch Congress it was generally predicted that it would be largely routine. The opponents prepared, therefore, to carry their speechmaking to the country.

"We've lost a battle but we haven't lost the war," said Senator Burton Wheeler (Dem-Montana), one of the Opposition leaders. "We are going to carry on crusade from one end of this country to the other to counteract the propaganda that is going to be unloaded right away for 'all out aid to Britain.'"

Such propaganda and such aid, Wheeler contended, would take the United States into war.

The Senate approved the British aid legislation shortly before 9 p.m. (E.D.T.) Saturday after debating it for seventeen days and making a few changes in the House-approved version, including insertion of a provision that future army and navy appropriations cannot be used in the lease-lend programme unless Congress has so specified.

Among the last amendments to be defeated was one by Senator David Walsh (Dem-Massachusetts) which would have prevented release of any naval ship or plane that could not be replaced in three months. It was defeated fifty-six to thirty-three, and a substitute bill offered by Senator Robert Taft (Rep-Ohio) to authorize $2,000,000,000 of war loans instead of the lease-lend programme failed sixty-three to twenty-eight.

Subsequent fighting were identified as the Minister of Education, Giuseppe Bottai, battalion leader in the Julia division; and the Under-Secretary of Corporations, Tullio Cianetti, captain of a Julia artillery battery.

Besides these, it was reported that National Councilor Pellegrini had been wounded and captured.

(He was not otherwise identified. Gen. Aldo Pellegrini, Fascist official and member of the Italian-French anti-fascist committee, was reported officially to have been killed last December in a plane crash in Northern Italy.

Prisoners said also that Gen. Ugo Cavallero, Italian Chief of Staff, had been called home. His command was said to have been taken over by Gen. Carlo Geloso, commander of the Eleventh Army.

BRITISH SHIP SINKS ITALIAN ARMED RAIDER

Vessel Which Is Believed to Have Caused Considerable Damage in Indian Ocean Wrecked by Cruiser.

London, March 10.—Destruction of an Italian sea raider, mounting four 4.7-inch guns and masquerading as a British merchantman, was announced Sunday by the Admiralty, which said the 7,270-ton cruiser Leander smashed her with five salvoes in the Indian Ocean.

The masquerader, identified by the Admiralty as the 3,667-ton Ramo I, owned by the Italian Government, was hauled down her red ensign—symbol of British merchantmen—when challenged by the Leander and immediately opened fire.

Eastern Townships Highways Kept Open Despite Snowfall

In spite of the fact that this district has experienced one of the heaviest snowfalls so far this season, vital highways leading to and from this city have been kept open to traffic with little difficulty. With the exception of one Montreal-Sherbrooke autobus which was delayed about two hours at Marieville yesterday afternoon, Provincial Transport vehicles have been on schedule, it was learned this morning from Arthur Lapierre, Superintendent of the Sherbrooke City Transit, Limited. The autobus was scheduled to arrive in Sherbrooke at noon yesterday but was two hours late.

In connection with the condition of the roads from this city to Montreal, Mr. Lapierre stated that the highways were well maintained with the Eastern Townships Winter Roads Association keeping the route from this city to Granby open, Ball Brothers Transport maintaining the road from Granby to Rougemont and the Provincial Government continuing from Rougemont to Montreal.

Yvon Sirois, President of the Eastern Townships Winter Roads Association, who is also connected with the Sherbrooke Warehousing and Transport, Limited, stated this morning that the middle of the highway from here to Waterloo is cleared and he expected that by noon today the snow from the sides of the route would be removed and the full highway opened to traffic. He added that the centre of the artery is firm and that one truck of the Diamond Trucking Company made the journey from Montreal to Sherbrooke, arriving about nine o'clock this morning. Two trucks of the Sherbrooke Warehousing and Transport, Limited, set out between four and five o'clock this morning and so far have had no difficulties.

Regarding the maintenance of this highway Mr. Sirois said that the cost of keeping the route open has been about $125 a mile and with the Provincial Government's grant of $35 per mile, the E. T. Winter Roads Association has a deficit of between $500 and $600.

Three other trucks left for Montreal early today and have reported the highway to be firm and well cleared.

It was learned from the Bell Telephone Company that although the local and long distance lines are heavily covered with snow no communication breaks have occurred. The reason for this is probably because the snow is light and flaky and there has been no high winds.

W. R. Baker, Secretary of the Southern Counties Roads Association told the Record this morning that the highway from here to Morby Line is accessible with snow ploughs now in operation. Although a strong wind Saturday night, crissed the snow at some points along the route, the road has been maintained.

The snowfall so far this month has been 11.35 inches with four inches falling during the course of the day yesterday, it was learned from the Dominion Experimental

MAPLE SUGAR EXPORT RULES ARE OUTLINED

Certificate of Analysis by Authorized Chemist Must Accompany Shipments to United States.

With the opening of the maple sugar season only a few weeks away, officials of the Quebec Department of Agriculture today issued a communication reminding producers of the new regulations covering exportation of maple syrup and sugar to the United States.

A certificate of analysis made by a duly authorized chemist must accompany all shipments, this measure applying to quantities equal to six gallons or over of syrup and to fifty pounds or over for sugar. Where quantities to be exported are less than this, the usual procedure is sufficient.

In order to assist producers, the Ministry of Agriculture will make all necessary analysis free of charge and will supply all certificates required upon request. It is to be noted that only products practically free of lead are exportable. The manufacturer carries all confiscation risks on goods in transit.

Producers should deduct all samples themselves and the following procedure is suggested:

1st: Put into some container all the syrup required to fill order desired for exportation—this so as to insure uniformity of product.

2nd: Stir or mix well, and with a small dipper, extract syrup from different levels.

3rd: Put into some container all the syrup required to fill order desired for exportation—this so as to insure uniformity of product.

4th: In the case of sugar, mix the syrups so as to have a uniform product and choose a piece of sugar weighing about eight ounces, which will be representative of the product to be exported.

The following information should accompany each sample sent to the laboratory: Name and address of the shipper; name and address of the consignee; quantity to be shipped; (a) syrup in imperial gallons, (b) sugar by the pound; Identification and packing; in the case of syrup, declare: Nature of contents (metal containers or glass bottles), capacity of the container, type of packing (cardboard or wooden boxes), contents of each box or carton.

In the case of sugar, mention kind of sugar, size of cakes, type of packing, and total number of parcels.

If shipping by freight, give the name of the company; if by truck, the name of the truck-owner and licence number.

Describe method by which samples were taken.

URGENT BRITISH PEER DIES
London, March 10.—(P)—The death of Lord Braybrooke, eighty-five, was announced today. Born Henry Neville, he became the Seventh Baron Braybrooke on the death of his father in 1904. His seat, Audley End, Saffron Walden, Essex, was one of the most historic in England.

Great Britain Called Upon To Free Europe From Bondage Of Oppressor

Rev. J. A. Johnston, Minister of the Westmont Baptist Church, spoke yesterday at the anniversary services of the Sherbrooke Baptist Church. In the morning he took as his theme "Crisis in the Desert" and showed that in every life there must be crises—man must meet God—before his life can become of maximum usefulness. In referring to the experience of Moses in the wilderness he drew attention to three things: the bush; the voice; and the rod. "It would be a good thing," Mr. Johnston said, "if we all had the curiosity to investigate the bush. It would be a better thing," he went on to say, "if we could hear the voice of God speaking to us, and it would be the best thing if we could see that the rod in our hand was an instrument which God could use provided we allowed Him to do it."

In making reference to the present conflict, Rev. Mr. Johnston expressed his conviction that as Moses had been called by God to lead the children of Israel out of bondage, so God in this present conflict had called Britain to release Europe from the bondage of the oppressor. Britain was the rod which God had ordained.

In the evening, Rev. Mr. Johnston addressed a well filled church, speaking on the theme, "A Soldier's Last Message to His Son." He took Paul's last message to Timothy and pointed out that the Christian soldier should make an intelligent entrance into the service of the king. This service, the speaker went on to say, is voluntary, it is for active service, and it is for the duration of life. From this approach the speaker urged those present to re-consecrate themselves to the service of the Kingdom of God and not to shrink their responsibility. He then said that it was the duty of every soldier to avoid those things which hindered his efficiency and that it was the duty of the ideal soldier to satisfy his commanding officer. These principles of military life were then applied to the life of the Christian.

Rev. Mr. Johnston pointed out that Christ offers certain things to those who declare their allegiance to Him. He offers comfort of soul, the comradeship of His presence, the cross of His suffering, and participation in the great moral and spiritual crusade of the Kingdom of God.

Special music was provided in the morning by the members of the choir under the direction of Miss Bean and in the evening the guest singer was Miss Thelma Crawford, who sang very acceptably, "There Were Ninety and Nine."

Others on the platform for the evening service included Rev. W. R. Northridge, of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, and Rev. S. R. Weaver, the Minister of the Baptist Church.

The evening Rev. Mr. Johnston will speak at the anniversary supper on the theme, "The Cross and the Swastika: the real issues underlying the present conflict."

"A CHRISTIAN AND THE WAR"
The Fireside Fellowship Group was fortunate in having as their guest speaker last evening, Rev. J. M. Kirk, Pastor of the Campbell Memorial Presbyterian Church, Montreal.

Rev. Mr. Kirk spoke on the subject "A Christian and the War." He stated that we must realize that war is going to effect the lives of the nation as well as the lives in the community and the church and that there is danger of lowering our standard of life.

The speaker pointed out that there are ways by which we may strengthen ourselves for any crisis that may come and brought to us as an illustration the lives of four young men, Daniel, Hananiah, Michael and Azariah, who faced the problem of lowering their standard of living or maintaining it. He stated that we would discover early in life the secret of Christian victory in times of crisis found in Daniel 1:8.

ONE OF Q. C. R.'S OLDEST EMPLOYEES LAID TO REST
The death of Mark Hayes, on March 5th, at Levis, Que., has removed an esteemed and familiar figure, and one of the oldest employees of the Quebec Central Railway, who up to his superannuation about three years ago had served that company over a period of some forty-three years. For some twenty years he had made his home in Levis. The deceased, son of John Hayes and Bridget Connolly, was born in Sherbrooke in June, 1873.

Final obsequies took place at St. Patrick's Church, Sherbrooke, on Friday morning, March 7th, when relatives and friends gathered in silent sympathy to pay a last tribute to one who by his kind, upright and sterling qualities of mind and manner had endeared himself not only to his co-workers, but to all with whom he came in contact during his many years of faithful service with the Quebec Central Railway Company.

To quote one of the men on the road, "I don't believe Mark ever had an enemy," is to pay fine tribute to his outstanding friendliness and personality.

The body of the deceased was received at the Church by the Pastor, Rev. Canon J. C. McGee, and Rev. Canon Napoleon Codere sang the Requiem Mass, with Rev. Canon McGee as deacon and Rev. Father Pepin as sub-deacon. Mrs. Maurice Shea presided at the organ.

The bearers, all fellow-engineers, were Messrs. Thomas Johnston, Charles Price, C. S. Armstrong, F. A. Cutter, Benjamin Dean and F. O. Harvey.

The near relatives present included his only surviving brother, John P. Hayes, and Mrs. Hayes, of Bath, Me.; Harold Hayes and his daughter, Marguerite, of Drummondville; Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Hayes, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Hayes, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Hayes, and Albert Hayes, of East Angus; Mrs. A. B. Smith and son, Alex., of Montreal, nephews and nieces; Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Tobin, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Doherty, of Sherbrooke, cousins. Nieces and nephews who were unable to be present included Mrs. Lamarre, Port Alfred, Que., Helen, John and Mark Hayes, of Bath, Me., Sumner Hayes, of Porto Rico, and Paul Hayes, of Boston, Mass.

The deceased was reverently laid to rest in St. Anthony's Cemetery, Lennoxville, in the family lot, beside his parents who had predeceased him about sixty-four years ago.

WOMEN'S AUXILIARY STUDIES CHINESE MISSIONS

Following necessary routine business the Women's Auxiliary of St. George's Church at its monthly meeting heard a very interesting resume of a chapter in the year's study book on missionary work in China, "Facing the Storm," which was reviewed by Mrs. E. L. Atto, an interesting discussion following. The President, Mrs. Robert Neill, was in the chair.

Rummage sale, St. George's W.A., Saturday, May 3.

Salad tea and food sale, St. George's Guild, April 16.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Smiley were host to the members of the Ascot Discussion Group at a meeting held recently at their home. Farm management was the subject discussed by the Group with Mrs. D. McElrea as leader. Messrs. Gordon Adamson and Morris Hecht, who were visiting the Group, gave many helpful suggestions. In the quiz contest which followed, Mr. Morris Hecht and Mrs. W. S. Richardson carried off the prizes. At the close of the evening, refreshments were served by the hostess, who was assisted by Mrs. W. S. Mitchell and Mrs. D. McElrea.

MILLFIELD

Master Bobbie Wright, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wright, had a narrow escape from drowning while playing with playmates, Bobby, who is three years old, fell into the well. His mother was the first to arrive on the scene and was just able to reach him as he came to the surface. It is reported that Bobby is none the worse for his experience.

Rev. Mr. Peleher and Miss Annie Johnson were visiting members of his parish here.

The Messrs. B. Gibb and Jean Ferguson were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Little recently.

Mrs. Guy Davidson is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Talmadge, of Theford Mines.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Leamonth were recent guests of Mr. Walter Cook and family and Mrs. Margaret Wright, of Henderson Vale.

Miss Rita Porter spent the weekend at Audley, visiting Miss Frances Walker.

Mr. Andrew Bullard spent a recent Sunday at Audley with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Bullard.

There he spends the greater part of his free time, moseying around through the estate for hours on end—picking his way through the shrubbery with the large feet which were the butt of good-natured humor through out France.

The only cause in which he remains active is that of charity. He likes to distribute donations widely, — to prisoners of war, to Lorraine refugees, to national winter relief, to wounded soldiers.

In addition to his income from pension as retired President, Lebrun has some properties of his own and his son-in-law is a well-established machinery manufacturer.

Yet Lebrun still, in many ways, is the "man who doesn't know when he's licked" and still is firmly convinced—and makes no secret of the fact—that the Government should have gone to North Africa.

His firmness on this point leads to continual rumors that he is going to exile abroad. But he never does. His exile is on the grounds of the Chateau Vizille.

'Boost Quebec' Campaign For Western Canada Recommended

Richmond Farmer Tells Record Reporter of His Observations on Three-Month Trip to Coast—Says Westerners Know Very Little About Quebec Province.

In the opinion of Charles E. Taylor, a Richmond farmer, there is a great need for a "Boost Quebec" campaign in Western Canada. He bases his belief on his findings during a three-months' trip to the West Coast.

"Once I got past Ottawa River," Mr. Taylor told a Record representative, "I found, in my conversations with people, that their knowledge of the Province of Quebec is sketchy, to say the least. The farther West I went, the worse the situation became."

Mr. Taylor said that about all Quebec means to Westerners is a place where they can go to board a ship for Europe, and that you wouldn't believe, if you stayed in the West long enough, that Quebec had joined Confederation in 1867 and is a full-fledged Province of the Dominion.

All across Canada, and on the West Coast, Mr. Taylor found that people and conditions are no more advanced than they are here, Quebec's roads, markets, crops and manufacturing are fully as good as those in Western Canada, and he could find little difference between living conditions here and in the West. As far as he could determine, there was more unemployment to be seen.

Mr. Taylor feels that citizens of Quebec should be awakened to the need for advertising their Province, and that the West should be taught that Quebec is no back-woods territory. Every resident of the Province who travels West should become a missionary for Quebec, and the Provincial Government might well produce films of various activities here and have them shown in the Western Province, Mr. Taylor feels.

Quebec has every reason to feel proud of its war effort, Mr. Taylor said. He visited almost every recruiting office between Montreal and Vancouver on his extended trip, and found that recruiting in the West is just about the same as in this Province. He feels that both English and French-speaking boys of Quebec are keeping up with the Westerners both in numbers and quality as they flock to the colors, and that Quebec's contribution to the nation's

DOCTORS CHECK KIDNEYS FIRST

Because they know that healthy kidneys remove from the blood the waste matter—the excess acids and poisons, formed by the ever-changing human body as it decays and rebuilds itself. EX-PRESIDENT LONELIEST MAN IN ALL FRANCE

Albert Lebrun Lives Life of Recluse in Chateau Near Village of Ziville Outside of Grenoble.

Vichy, March 10.—(P)—Pacing every day up and down the grounds of the beautiful Chateau, he refused to accept as a gift is "France's loneliest man"—former President Albert F. Lebrun.

He and his wife have been living since last July within a stone's throw of the Chateau at the home of his son-in-law and grandchildren outside the Village of Ziville.

Although completely at liberty, Lebrun seldom leaves the immediate neighborhood of his home. Occasionally he strolls into the village but only rarely is he seen in the nearby town of Grenoble.

Villagers who pass him near his house lift their hats and murmur respectfully, "Good day, Monsieur le President." But this is the only homage he receives from his compatriots.

Otherwise, the Third Republic's only President to be re-elected after serving a full term receives no attention outside occasional attacks in the extremist press because he did not dissolve Parliament.

Lebrun really is a forgotten man. The Government has ignored him. He visits and is visited by no important figure. He is granted no honors and is subjected to no official accusations.

He appears weighted down with sorrow and incomprehension. Always a moody man, he now feels he has been overtaken by the doom which he felt had pursued him since he assumed the Presidency nine years ago.

At the time he replaced the assassinated Paul Doumer his intimates knew he feared the same fate would overtake him, yet when his Republic fell with six years of his second term to go, he did not know when he was "licked" and remained in Vichy until it was hinted strongly that it was desired he should leave.

Then it was the sixty-nine-year-old Lebrun retired to his son-in-law's villa.

At the time the Government offered him the Chateau he visited it and fell in love with its spacious grounds. When he went to Vizille to live he obtained special permis-

THE LEND-LEASE BILL PASSES

The overwhelming majority accorded the Lend-Lease Bill by the United States Senate removes the last legal obstacle in the way of all-out American aid to Great Britain in the desperate battle now being waged to preserve liberty and democracy in the world. The vote, sixty-to-thirty-one, indicates that the vast majority of the Senators, as do members of the Lower House, believe that the people of the United States realize that the Battle of Britain is also the Battle of the United States. They are convinced that should Great Britain fall, the United States will have to carry on the struggle alone against an even stronger enemy. They know that even if the Nazis are prevented from making an actual invasion of the United States, they will so surround it that the economic system of the country will undergo a dramatic change for the worse.

This conviction is proved despite a well-organized campaign against the measure in which every hoggy used and disproved for the past twenty-five years was produced and called upon to recite its piece. There were the isolationists who sincerely believed that the United States could continue down the long path alone. There were the outright Nazi sympathizers who openly expressed the desire that Britain should not win the war. Then there were the short-sighted politicians who hoped to make political capital out of opposition to the measure. Common sense was responsible for the rejection of the first two groups, while the attitude of the minorities, especially the German-Americans put a crimp in the plans of the third. To the surprise of some of the isolationists, the leading supporters of the bill and the main advocates of quick action were German-born Senators who fully realized the dangers that the Nazi culture held for the people of the United States. Perhaps they understood the Nazi mentality better than did the Anglo-Saxons, but in any case they were the loudest in denouncing Hitler and his works.

The debate has been extended, but leaders are convinced no time has been really lost. Now that the bill has passed, the help will start to flow rapidly. But passage of the measure offers a real challenge to Canadians. They must increase their effort to a point never reached before. They must show that they appreciate this assistance and are determined to deserve it. No time can be lost in the United States—and no time can be lost here.

A DESIRABLE MOVE

The movement at present being taken by W. L. Reford Stewart and other leading business men of Sherbrooke to revive the moribund Sherbrooke Chamber of Commerce is one which deserves the full support of the commercial and industrial leaders of the civic life, and the meeting called for tomorrow evening at the New Sherbrooke House should be well attended by everyone who has the real interests of the city at heart.

An active Chamber of Commerce is essential for the progress and development of any municipality, and this is especially so when the ever-changing conditions caused by the hostilities in Europe place special burdens upon the individual business man and offer special opportunities for industrial development.

To properly accomplish the duties of the Chamber, the services of a full-time secretary-manager are required with a properly-equipped office. No man, however willing, is able to carry on the duties of this office if he must earn the major portion of his salary elsewhere. Of its very nature, the position requires considerable travelling and the undertaking of extensive research work which cannot be done in a few hours a day or perhaps one day a week.

A definite opportunity is offered the citizens for the re-creation of this important body and it is to be hoped that the call issued by Mr. Stewart will meet with a generous response.

ARE YOU AIR-MINDED?

By Grenville Kleiser.

Captain Edward V. Rickenbacker, President of Eastern Air Lines, says, "People think that they can get fat salaries with a college degree, but the children today must be taught how to soil their hands . . . We're all going back to learn how to work again and how to co-ordinate our hands and heads."

The air transport industry has grown by leaps and bounds. Last year over a million people were carried by airlines of this country.

Opportunities in this growing industry are most promising, according to Paul E. Richter, Executive Vice-President of Transcontinental and Western Air Inc., of Kansas City.

Comparatively new, this business needs young men of capability and enthusiasm, but in no other industry is exact attention to detail and absolute accuracy more essential.

As to opportunities, Mr. Richter said to me recently:

"I think it true that a young man has here a much better than average chance of receiving recognition of demonstrated ability."

Somewhat similar to railway and other forms of transportation are the airline sales department, rates, schedules, handling of reservations, public relations, passenger service, advertising and sales.

The selling of air transportation requires specialized knowledge on the part of the salesman, in which the personal touch plays an important part.

There are many other positions open to men properly trained to fill them: Pilot, mechanic, inspector, electrician, radio operator, meteorologist, navigation engineer, airport engineer, accountant, telephone and teletypewriter operator and aerodynamicist.

It is a growing and fascinating industry, to succeed in which requires the most thorough training. The degree of specialized knowledge involved is comparable to that required of a doctor or a lawyer.

J. A. Herlihy, Executive Vice-President of United Air Lines, of Chicago, tells me that in the aviation industry the demand for able men today far exceeds the supply.

Speaking of success in general, he says: "My advice to a young man looking for a job would be:

(a) To get the best possible preparation in the way of an education that he can afford.

(b) I would suggest that whenever practicable young men include a course in typing in their educational work as this often will mean an entree into a new business at some beginner's job, which would not be open to a man who did not have the ability to type well.

(c) I think it is most important that a young man make up his mind what he wants to do and then go after a job in that line of work. Even if he later finds that he has made a mistake and has to start over again he will benefit greatly from having made a definite objective to work for and will be in a much better position to land a job if he makes a definite application for some work for which he is qualified."

This is wise counsel from one who speaks from practical experience.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

LET FREEDOM AND FAIR PLAY REIGN

To the Editor of the Record.

Dear Sir:—There has been much resentment among English-speaking people here at the high-handed action of local Catholic organizations in taking the steps which resulted in the cancellation of a film which was to have been shown at the Granada Theatre.

What makes it more non-understandable is the fact that the picture had already been passed by the Quebec Board of Censors, whose standards are very rigid as we already have good reason to know.

If the Catholics decided that the morals of their flock were about to be undermined they could have been forbidden from the pulpit to attend.

Of late months there has been much talk in many French papers of the raw deal that the poor down-trodden Frenchman in Quebec receives from his English-speaking compatriots and appeals for a better understanding and co-operation on the part of the latter.

It is to be hoped that here in Sherbrooke the Catholic section entirely dominates our civic life. With very few exceptions, no English-Canadian is to be found in the employ of the municipality. Our English-speaking mayors and aldermen may as well not hold office. We close our stores, at times inconveniently, for even the possible saints' day known and unknown, and yet for some peculiar reason we continue to hold the Lansdowne Market as usual every Good Friday!

In a hundred and one ways we are made aware of the fact that we are only a minority here, and now these powers that be take it upon themselves to choose our diversions for us. Like beauty, it would seem that evil is very much in the eye of the beholder, and perhaps more good would result if these eyes were turned elsewhere to other moral aspects of this town at the present time.

AN OPPORTUNITY TO HELP DEFEAT HITLERISM

To the Editor of the Record.

Dear Sir:—We are at WAR. Our freedom of thought and action, our religion, our civilization, are most seriously threatened by the greed, the tyranny and the atheism of those who have risen up against us.

It is not only the British Empire, but the glory that was France, but the liberty and welfare of every man of every nation all round the wide world, which are at stake. Nations like Czechoslovakia, Poland, Denmark, Norway, Holland and Belgium, which the Nazis have enslaved, have been brought low and almost obliterated. They no longer have the right to call their souls their own. Other nations are being drawn into it and are in danger of being crushed beneath the coils of this fearful dragon of evil. We, you and I, are in danger. This is not a matter of petty politics, but of our individual happiness, of our every hope for advancement and improvement. Every man, woman and child is called upon by God and his fellow-man to struggle, to fight, to die, for his life, for his nation, his institutions, his laws and his religion.

And, because every effort, however small, however feeble, is so well worth while, it has been suggested that the citizens of the City and County of Sherbrooke shall gather all their forces to provide at least one unit, one holy and humbly dedicated weapon, for the maintenance of our great struggle. An appeal is being made to you all, rich and poor, to contribute according to his, or her, means towards the purchase of an aeroplane, to carry, in the name of Sherbrooke, the sword, the flame and fire of God, against our common foe. This appeal is especially made to the workers in our shops, that they may assist in paying this small premium for insurance against the worst disaster that has ever threatened the civilized world.

A public meeting will be held at the New Wellington Hotel at 8:30 p.m., March 12th, when it is earnestly hoped you will show your patriotism, your sense of the tremendous importance of this cause, not only by your presence, but also by bringing your friends.

Yours truly,
G. BREEZE.
Sherbrooke, Que.

HELP THE GOVERNMENT AND HELP THE CHURCH

To the Editor of the Record.

Dear Sir:—May I ask for space in your valuable paper for this letter, the purpose of which is to bring to the attention of a large part of your readers, United Church people generally, a matter of great interest at this time.

At the meeting of The General Council, held in Winnipeg last September, a plan for the payment of the church's debt, a matter of $1,700,000, was originated, developed and later passed down through the lower courts to our membership generally for our co-operation and support. As we all know, every Canadian is being asked by representatives of our Government at Ottawa to buy War Savings Stamps and Certificates to the limit, this is in our effort to defeat Hitler and preserve for future generations our civil and religious liberty and everything we hold dear. The success of this Government plan is assured. Thousands of wage-earners in our industries have already pledged themselves to buy certain definite amount of the certificates each month. Many others, including those of only moderate means, are investing in the certificates to the limit, so, I believe, we may be confident that as Canadians generally we will not fail in this our duty, as well as privilege, of helping our Government to carry on.

The United Church, while co-operating in every way in this general effort, is, with the authorization of Parliament, asking its people to travel this road of sacrifice just a little farther, and, while lending to the fullest possible extent to the Government, to give some portion of these certificates to their church in order that in the dark days which may follow the war, even when the most optimistic fear there may be a period of depression such as this world has never seen, it, along with the other great branches of the church of Christ in Canada, may be able to go forward in its great unfinished task of making Him Who is the Light of the World known to all people. The appeal here is to joy in our Divine Master and such devotion to the cause for which He suffered and died that we will be glad to make sacrifices, without which no worth-while objective was ever attained, in order that others following after us may be blessed as we are today.

May I entreat every United Church member to show his loyalty to his King and country by buying War Savings Certificates to the limit of his or her ability and his devotion to his church by making some considerable part of these payable to that church and thus contribute to the upbuilding of the Kingdom of God upon the earth.

Sincerely,
DR. ROBERT ELLIOTT,
of Bishopston.
Chairman, War Savings Committee,
Quebec-Sherbrooke Presbytery.

PRESS COMMENTS

HITLER RETURNS TO THE OLD WEAPONS

New York Times

Nearly six months have passed since Adolf Hitler told a wildly cheering crowd in Berlin's Sportpalast that an invasion of the British islands was imminent. "The people of England," he said with scorn, "are very curious and ask: 'Why in the world don't you come?'" And his answer was: "We are coming."

He did his best to come. On the day he spoke these words, an afternoon early last September, the German air force had just begun its series of furious daylight and day-long attacks on Britain—attacks in which, according to Germany's own claims, as many as 2,000 planes were used against a single objective. Those attacks were beaten back. The losses inflicted on the German air force by the R.A.F. were so heavy that Hitler halted his daylight raids. Not since last September has he made another attack by day with anything remotely like the numbers he then used.

Day before yesterday Hitler spoke again to the German people. This time there was no prediction in his speech of an early invasion of Britain. There was no repetition of his bitter joke at the expense of the British people: "Keep your shirts on—he is coming." There was no boast, as there was last September, that the Luftwaffe can "drop 150,000, 180,000, 300,000, 400,000 kilograms of bombs and more" on British cities in a single day whenever it chooses to do so. There was, instead, the promise of a new submarine campaign.

Hitler cannot be trusted in anything he says, or fails to say. It is quite possible that his failure now even to mention the possibility of an invasion and his failure to boast of German air power as the decisive factor in this war are intended deliberately to divert attention from plans he has in view. Nevertheless, for what his words are worth, from the point of view of the morale of the German people, it is at least significant that he now promises no early end of the war, to be achieved by a miraculous new weapon. His emphasis is back on the same old weapon of the same old regime that once before led the people to complete disaster: the submarine and the slow war of attrition.

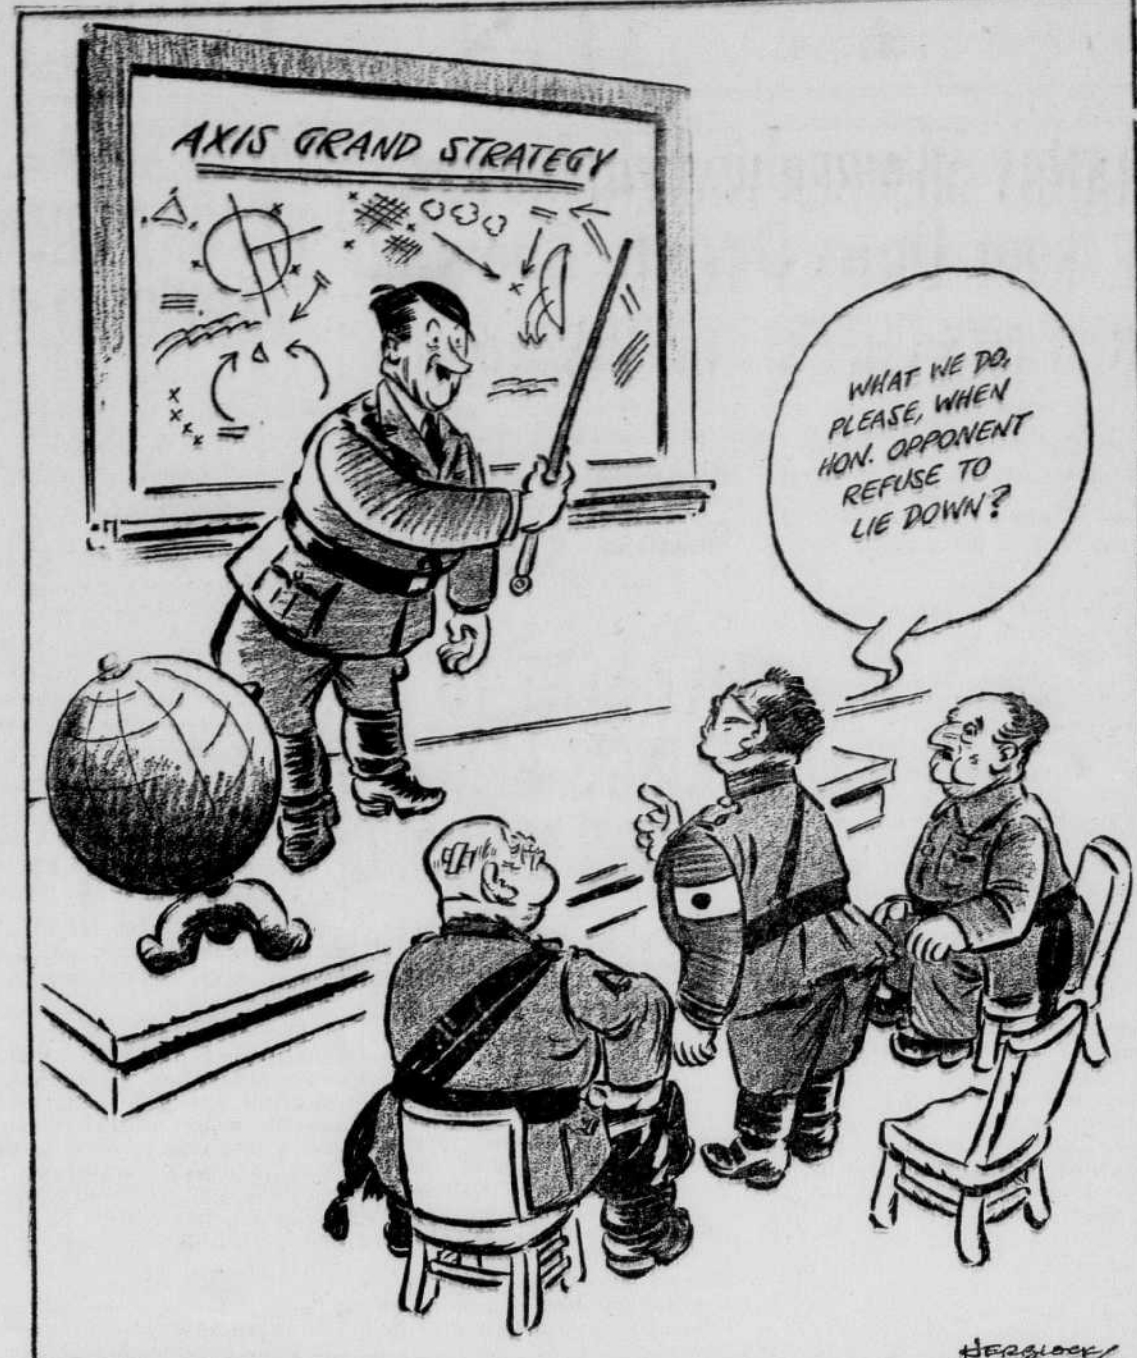

PATEROSTER ROW, WHERE MONKS LIVED

Brandon Sun

In the great German attempt to destroy London the city proper suffered grievously. It seems St. Paul's Cathedral was the centre aimed at and that is the Heart of London. Around it are thousands of commercial houses and stores which were burned, streets of narrow ways known only to business men, the printing trade is around the churchyard, too. Pateroster Row, where once monks walked to and from the great church at the top of Ludgate Hill was practically demolished. One great building embraced two firms which printed the Holy Bible and it may be the plates are lost, a grave loss indeed, for the plates are perfect samples of typographic made by intense care and study. Then it is estimated something like five million books were destroyed in Pateroster Row alone. The losses may be reckoned by the names of the publishers who have suffered. They are: Blackwoods, Collins, Eyre and Spottiswoode, Nelson, Sampson Low, Ward Lock and Hutchinson's. The latter is the publisher of the only unexpurgated edition of Hitler's Mein Kampf.

Pateroster's Row is supposed to have been named because it once, some seven centuries ago, had stalls in the narrow lane where prayer beads and religious articles were sold, which dealers were termed "paterosters." It continued to be a centre for the sale of religious literature until now. It consisted entirely of bookshops and the publishing houses. One great firm of wholesale print distributors was there, Simpkin Marshall's. Stationers' Hall backs onto the Row and that was established on the same site before the other Great Fire of London in 1666. Most of all these places were little known to tourists and were crowded into a very small section of Old London. The religious element of the territory is preserved in the names of other streets or lanes, such as Amen Corner and Canon Alley. All of which was a picturesque bit of history to be destroyed by loutish German bombers. None were military objectives.

CANADIANS SHOULD BE THANKFUL

Le Soleil, of Quebec.

In times of grave difficulties, we undoubtedly react according to our individual temperament and particular circumstances. There are optimists and pessimists. But, considering the situation calmly, it would seem that the Canadian Government and the Canadian people, in the manner of the government and the people of Great Britain, have more reason to chant hymns of gratitude rather than recite psalms of penitence. Canada is at war, but it enjoys interior peace and unity. Famine is rampant over one half of the world. Canada is a country of abundance. While great perils menace other continents, the North American continent is beyond the reach of those immediate dangers, and the prophets of despair should not be tolerated in Canada.

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

By Wm. E. McKenney, America's Card Authority

BRIDGE FANS VIE IN WORLD OLYMPIC GAMES APRIL 17

The World Bridge Olympic is perhaps the most unusual bridge contest held during the year. At 8:01 p.m. Thursday, April 17, bridge players throughout the world will sit down to play sixteen selected hands. Immediately after the contest, the scores of all the players will be mailed to the Olympic committee in New York for grading—and thus the winners of the World Bridge Olympic will be selected.

The hands are taken from several thousand gathered by the committee during the year. Here is hand No. 4 of last year's Olympic. The committee did not prescribe the bidding. The intended contract is three no trump by West.

If North opens the queen of spades, declarer should see that it is advisable to duck one round of the suit sometime. The general plan is to develop the clubs first, and for this purpose there is some temptation to put the king on the opening lead, so as to start the clubs at once. What happens if this temptation is not resisted was discovered by many players.

The first club lead from dummy rides to North's queen. North leads another spade, forcing out the ace.

Now some players tried leading the jack of hearts. North covers and the ace wins. The other club is led and West wins with a finesse. The ace of clubs is cashed, but the suit does not break. Now if declarer clears the clubs, the carnage is terrible. South wins, puts North in with a spade to cash two tricks.

TESTED RECIPES

MENU VARIETIES OFFER TEMPTING BREAKFAST TIPS

Muffins put the taste of plenty into any breakfast menu. And they have excellent food value, especially when made with whole grain cereals.

BASIC RECIPE FOR MUFFINS
Two cups sifted flour, 4 teaspoons phosphate or tartaric baking powder or 2 teaspoons combination baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 to 4 tablespoons sugar, 1 or 2 eggs, well-beaten, 1 cup milk, 2 to 4 tablespoons melted butter or other shortening.

Sift dry ingredients together. Combine eggs, milk and melted shortening and add all at once to dry ingredients. Beat barely enough to dampen all flour, about 20 to 25 seconds, leaving dough lumpy, not beating until smooth. Spoon into hot well-greased muffin pans and bake 20 to 25 minutes in a hot oven (400° F.).

Good muffins should be only slightly rounded, without knobs, and have an even texture without the "tunnels" or long holes produced by overmixing.

WHOLE WHEAT MUFFINS
Substitute whole wheat flour for white flour in original recipe. Brown sugar or molasses may be used in place of sugar.

CORN MEAL MUFFINS
Use 2/3 cup of corn meal and 1/3 cups of flour in place of all flour in original recipe. Use maximum amount of shortening.

TOMORROW'S MENU
BREAKFAST: Mixed stewed fry fruit, cooked cereal, marmalade, coffee, milk.
LUNCHEON: Bacon, corn pudding, bread and butter, stewed peas, tea, milk.
DINNER: Minced chicken and gravy on toast, buttered noodles, canned peas, green salad, rhubarb pie, coffee, milk.

COOKED CEREAL MUFFINS
Use 1 1/2 cups flour and 1/2 cup of cooked cereal and decrease the milk to 1/2 cup in original recipe. Combine the cereal with the egg, milk and shortening and mix as usual.

SOUR MILK OR BUTTERMILK MUFFINS
Substitute sour or buttermilk for sweet milk in the original recipe. If milk is very thick (clabbered) increase to 1 1/2 cups. Use 1/2 teaspoon of soda and decrease baking powder to 2 teaspoons of phosphate or tartaric acid or 1 teaspoon of combination. Sour milk is particularly good in corn meal and bran muffins.

BRAN MUFFINS
Use 3/4 cup of bran and 1 1/4 cups fine ground whole wheat flour in original recipe. Decrease milk to 3/4 of a cup. Substitute molasses for sugar.

MIND YOUR MANNERS

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1—Is a patient in a hospital expected to tip the nurses who take care of him?

2—Is it customary to tip the nurse who unpacks or packs one's bag on arriving or leaving the hospital?

3—If a nurse is particularly good about wheeling a convalescent patient around, should she be tipped?

4—If a doctor who takes care of a very ill patient in a hospital is especially kind and considerate to members of the family, would it be all right for one of them to write him a note expressing their appreciation after the patient leaves the hospital?

5—Is it correct for a patient to call his doctor, "Doc"?

What would you do if—
You receive flowers from a friend when you are in the hospital—
(a) Tell the friend how much you appreciated them when he comes to see you
(b) Tell the friend how lovely the flowers were when you see him, and write him a note of thanks as soon as you are able?

ANSWERS

1—No.
2—No.
3—No. Though if a nurse is especially thoughtful and helpful it is nice to send her a gift when one leaves the hospital.
4—Yes, it would be the gracious thing to do.
5—No.

Coaticook, March 10.—The Pastor and officials are making a special effort during the Lenten season to increase church attendance by impressing upon the congregation their responsibility to Christianity, which can only be shown by constant and regular attendance. BRUINS HEAD FOR THIRD ALL-TIME RECORD

Three Straight N.H.L. Titles Sought By Art Ross And Boston Lads

Unbeaten-Game Mark and Cowley's Assist Record Behind Them, Bruins Take Stranglehold on League Title by Drubbing Canadiens 8-0—Last Four Playoff Berths Virtually Settled.

The history-making Boston Bruins, two records already behind them, drove today toward a third all-time mark of becoming the first team ever to win three straight National Hockey League titles—with the final obstacle presented by Toronto Maple Leafs growing smaller as the time to hurdle it neared. Beaten only once since starting their record sequence of twenty-three games without a loss December 21, the Bruins crushed Montreal Canadiens, 8-0, last night in a week-end that also saw ownership of each of the last four playoff berths virtually decided. The best the Leafs could do meanwhile was a split, losing 8-5 to New York Rangers after beating the Americans, 6-1.

The results left Toronto facing a "do or die" effort in their final game with the Bruins at Boston Tuesday. Two points behind the Bruins, the Leafs could pull into a tie by winning but Boston would still have an extra game to play. A loss or tie would all but eliminate Toronto for the championship.

Two other games were played during the week-end, with Detroit Red Wings defeating the Canadiens, 4-0, and Chicago Black Hawks playing a 2-2 draw with the Americans, and the results decided the final standing of the last four teams to all but one mathematical possibility.

Chicago's draw made them sure of finishing fifth ahead of their first-round playoff opponents, the Canadiens, certain of the last berth. Detroit's victory left them needing only a draw in their final three matches to keep their place from the Rangers, two points behind the Wings with only one more match to go.

The race for the Vezina Trophy, awarded to the goalie with the least goals scored against, was thrown wide open, however, by the eight goals Rangers poured by Walter (Turk) Broda of Toronto last night. From the leading candidate, Broda fell into third place—with one more tally marked against him than

COWLEY ALMOST SURE OF N.H.L. SCORING CROWN

Boston Bill Runs Assists to 41 and Total Points to 55 to Lead Closest Challenger by Healthy Margin.

Bill Cowley, of Boston Bruins, already holder of a new assist record, added three more during a free-scoring National Hockey League week-end to virtually clinch the individual scoring crown. Syd Apps, of Toronto, 11 points behind Cowley, is out for the rest of the season while Bryan Hextall, of the Rangers, remained in third position by bagging one goal during the week-end.

Syd Howe, of Detroit, picked up a goal and an assist to hold the next berth and two Rangers, Lynn Patrick and Neil Colville, tied for fifth place when Patrick scored two goals and an assist and Colville got three assists.

Gord Drillon, of Toronto, took over the last Big Seven berth by scoring three goals and helping in two others.

WEEK-END STARS

Johnny Mowers, Detroit, turned in his fourth shutout of the season to back the Wings to a 4-0 triumph over Canadiens in Montreal Saturday night.

Wilfred (Bucko) McDonald, Toronto, played a steady game on defence and rushed for two tallies to help the Leafs to a 6-1 victory over the Americans in Toronto Saturday night.

Frankie Brimsek and Aubrey (Dit) Clapper, Boston, the former getting sixth shutout and the latter lending able support on the defence while figuring in three goals as the Bruins beat the Canadiens, 8-0, in Boston last night.

Lynn Patrick, Rangers, clinched the verdict with a pair of late goals in the Rangers' 8-5 triumph over the Leafs last night.

Gord Drillon, Toronto, scored twice and played an outstanding game despite the Leafs' loss in New York.

Doug Bentley, Chicago, figured in both goals, scoring the second one unassisted, as the Hawks tied the Americans, 2-2, last night.

Buzz Boll, Americans, duplicated Bentley's performance to pace the Amers at Chicago.

Tribe Plays In Quebec Tonight With Return Clash Tomorrow

Roger Cormier herded his Indians into a Quebec-bound train late this morning and the Tribe, now in the provincial intermediate hockey semi-final round, settled down for the long ride to the Ancient Capital, where they will come to grips tonight with Quebec Beavers.

Unexpected week-end developments brought about a default by Irberville and the cancellation of the scheduled game here yesterday afternoon between Sherbrooke and Quebec. Five goals behind in the two-game, total-goal round, Irberville, champions of the Mansfield League, stepped out of the picture in favor of Sherbrooke, and thus the tilt at the Verdun Auditorium Saturday night between the Indians and Irberville was called off.

It was expected Quebec would come here yesterday afternoon to open a similar series for the night to tangle with St. Jerome for the provincial intermediate crown, but apparently the Quebec players did not learn soon enough that they were to come here and consequently could not get leave of absence from their jobs.

The present arrangements, with the first game in the Ancient Capital and the second here tomorrow night, should be welcomed by the Sherbrooke team, who will have the advantage of home ice on which to make up any deficit should they be beaten by the Beavers tonight.

Apparently faced with four games in as many days, the Indians benefited from two days of rest as a result of the changed plans, and will be fresh and ready to go in Quebec. The team is at full strength and the players free from injury, so Quebec will probably be given a real battle.

Windsor Noses Out Richmond 12-11 In War Services Game

Windsor Mills, March 10.—(P)—Bettering their Friday night total by seven goals, Windsor Mills and Richmond piled up no less than 23 goals in a War Services hockey game played here yesterday afternoon in the Canadian Paper Company Arena, the decision going to the home team by a 12-11 score.

A disappointing crowd of less than 300 people attended the game, proceeds of which are to be turned over to the Canadian War Services Fund, Inc., whose Dominion-wide drive in aid of the work of the Knights of Columbus, the Y.M.C.A., the Canadian Legion, the Y.W.C.A., and the Salvation Army will take place from March 24 to April 7, inclusive.

With nothing at stake, the players were out to enjoy themselves, and not one penalty was administered by Larry Pergau, who spent most of the time facing the puck at centre ice after the goals were scored.

While Windsor was at full strength with the exception of the starting centre, Henri Payette, the Monarchs were minus the services of "Hank" Harris and Jack Campbell, two of the team's sparkplugs. Galipeau, an East Angus lad, manned the Richmond nets, while Gosselin, Lepitre and Dupin, of the Pirates, also performed for the Monarchs. Anatole Coulombe centered Windsor's first line.

Windsor was outscored 9-2 in the opening frame, then took the long end of a 6-2 count in the second session and held the lead although outscored 6-4 in the final 20 minutes.

BISHOP'S GIRL CAGERS SWAMP LENNOXVILLE

Bessie MacDougall and Helen Kelly Set Pace as Co-eds Down L.H.S. 28-7 in School Gymnasium.

Bishop's Coeds' cage quintet defeated the Lennoxville High School lassies by the score of 28-7 on Saturday in the school gym in Lennoxville.

Bessie MacDougall and Helen Kelly were too much for the L.H.S. girls to cope with as they ran amuck to score fourteen and twelve points each. Kay Witly scored the other two points for Bishop's. Geneva George was the most effective player for L.H.S., scoring six points on three field goals while Marg. Stuart got one point on a foul shot.

The Bishop's girls capitalized on their ability to break fast and in the first half Bessie MacDougall broke away to score eight points while Helen Kelly added four more. In the second half the College girls stretched their lead with Helen Kelly scoring eight points and Bessie MacDougall six. Geneva George got her points in the first half.

REDS' MANAGER WORRIED ABOUT ST. LOUIS CLUB

Warren Giles Expects Cincinnati's Biggest Threat from Cards Rather Than Brooklyn Dodgers.

Tampa, Fla., March 10.—(P)—"I'm not worried so much about Brooklyn as I am about St. Louis," said Cardinals manager Warren Giles of the world champion Cincinnati Reds.

"If some of their young pitchers come through the Cardinals are going to be mighty tough. Here's something a lot of people don't realize. From last July 8th until the end of the season the Cards played better ball than we did."

"I mean, if the race had begun that day they would have finished a game and a half in front of us, with Pittsburgh third and Brooklyn a poor fourth."

"However, I'm not worried about it. We're going to be stronger ourselves and we're still the club that's got the pitching."

"Not that we particularly need more pitching, but don't be surprised if Monty Pearson turns in a dozen or fifteen wins for us."

ROYALS CRUSH SENATORS 8-2

Montreal, March 10.—(P)—M-Teal Royals crushed Ottawa Senators, 8-2, here yesterday to square their best-of-five series for the Quebec Senior Hockey League title at one game apiece.

The teams play back in Ottawa Tuesday, where the Senators took the first game of the series, 6-2.

CLEARPOINT IN 20-1 ROUT OF PINARD SQUAD

Montreal, March 10.—Pinards of Sherbrooke were shoved out of the Provincial Junior Hockey playoff picture with emphasis here on Saturday afternoon as Clearpoint Maple Leafs handed them a 20-1 drubbing. It was a semi-final game between the Eastern Township winners and the champions of the Mount Royal League, and the Clearpoint team now moves into the final against the Royals.

Outweighed and outskated, the Sherbrooke lads did not have a ghost of a chance from the minute Latchmore, assisted by Clarson, slammed home the first Clearpoint counter after thirty-three seconds of play. Sweeping through almost at will, the Mount Royal monarchs pounded a steady stream of rubber at Dupont, pinard reminder, who was injured in the second period but came back after a rest to last the distance.

Dale Rediker took a pass from St. Cyr to nab the only Pinard marker with only one second of play remaining.

STANSTEAD IN 34-25 VICTORY OVER BISHOP'S

All-Stars, Runner-Up in Senior Basketball League, Outlast Collegians as Eddie Duggan Stars.

Stanstead, March 10.—Stanstead, runner-up in the Sherbrooke District Basketball League to S.W.C., tangled with the Bishop's cage quintet in an exciting game in Stanstead and came out on the heavy side of a 34-25 count.

The game had no effect on the league standing but it did offer an excellent brand of basketball with the Bishop's squad matching the Stanstead boys basket for basket and it was anybody's game right up to the last two minutes.

Stanstead's shifty Eddie Duggan was the high man with fourteen points while Ivor Richards, playing his best game this season for Bishop's, tangled with twelve points. Tubby Smith was also effective for Stanstead, sinking five field goals for ten points. Bishop's complete their schedule this week when they meet the Fusiliers on their home floor Tuesday night and the "Y" Bombers on Thursday night.

In the first half Stanstead started fast and took a 4-0 lead on baskets

Voisard Dominates Ski Meet At North Hatley, Collecting Two Firsts

Young Star of Chalet Club Speeds to Victory in Downhill and Slalom Events—Cross-Country Event Captured by Godfrey Cote, of Hillcrest Club—Woodward Twins, of North Hatley, Best in Ladies' Races.

North Hatley, March 10.—Johnny Voisard, of the Chalet Ski Club, North Hatley, dominated the ski meet at North Hatley yesterday by sweeping the downhill and slalom events. Voisard duplicated his brilliant performance last week at the Mount Shefford meet in the face of less keen competition due to the fact that Lester Tomlinson was competing in the Kandahar downhill at Mount Tremblant and his brother, Dick, and Jack Peake, of the Bishop's team, were practising on Mount Orford for next week's champion downhill run. Nonetheless, the young red-head was in fine form and should be a threat next week at Mount Orford.

Godfrey Cote, of the Hillcrest Ski Club, took first-place honors in the cross-country run and Normie Brown, of Bishop's, was second. The ladies were given a chance to show their ability in the cross-country, downhill and slalom runs and several future stars were uncovered.

In the cross-country run Miss Bergeron, of North Hatley, led the field to victory. The Woodward twins, Barbara and Betty, of the Chalet Ski Club, dominated the slalom and downhill races.

Cote led a comparatively small field to victory in the cross-country run with the good time of twenty-one minutes and forty-three seconds. Not far behind Cote was Norm Brown, of Bishop's University, with a run of twenty-two minutes and twenty seconds.

D. Deshaimes, of the Hillcrest Ski Club, Young Denis Kezay, of the Sherbrooke Fusilier Regiment, was fourth, while F. Rudd, of Chalet Club, was fifth and Johnny Voisard of the same club was sixth. Lieut. Doug. Bradley and Maitland Soles were seventh and eighth respectively.

MCNEILL SEEKS INDOOR CROWN

Oklahoma City, March 10.—(P)—Don McNeill, who returns to his home town as the country's first-ranking amateur tennis player in quest of the National indoor crown, found himself seeded No. 2 in the tournament which opened today. Ahead of him was defending champion Bobby Riggs.

Chicago's bounding Bobby, who lifted the indoor crown from McNeill's blond head last year, topped a field of 64 participants. Fifty-two will play first-round singles matches today.

Elmer Layden was surprised to learn the limit on poker games is a jittery. "Even at Notre Dame, when I was there, we were allowed a time limit," said Elmer.

No use talking

Mr. Picobac removed a fresh-lit pipe from his mouth, exhaled a blue, fragrant cloud of prime-cured Canadian Burley, and burst into an exclamation of honest pleasure.

"Boys! Boys!" exclaimed he. "There's no use in talking. It's a mild...cool...sweet smoke."

"Seems to me I've heard you say that before," remarked Mrs. Picobac, who happened to be the only "boy" present.

"You'll hear me say it again, too," declared Mr. Picobac. "That's what they all say. Everywhere throughout the length and breadth of Canada men are telling themselves...telling each other...telling their wives—that Picobac is the pick of Canada's Burley crop and a mild...cool...sweet smoke."

"Must be something in it," smiled Mrs. Picobac.

"You bet your life there is," replied her lord and master. "All anybody has to do is try it."

"It DOES taste good in a pipe!"
