Customs Authorities at Ottawa Make Startling Discovery in Baggage of Soviet "Trade" Emissaries—Find Bolshevik Propaganda and Visitors Must Explain

OTTAWA, April 17.—(Star Special by Own Correspondent)—The Soviet trade delegation which came recently to Ottawa to secure Government recognition of its mission for the development of trade between Canada and Russia was back here yesterday afternoon on a somewhat different errand. Its members were asked to do some explaining and the process is still in progress.

It appears that the Customs authorities, going through cases of books addressed to the delegation, and which supposedly were to be presented to private libraries, discovered a very large proportion of Bolshevik propaganda literature. Some of it is an attack upon Christ and the Christian religion. Other parts of the literature are in derision of the monarchial or even republican, forms of Governments and of the countries where such exists and in eulogy of communism. Those who have seen the samples declared them to be a peculiarly lurid "Red."

Canada Will Follow MacDonald's Lead And Allow No Camouflaged Bolshevik Campaign

Yesterday afternoon a part of the delegation was haled before some high authorities here and asked to explain the importation of such quantities of questionable matter. The explanation, it is understood was that it was for private libraries and, in fact, some of the works were text books on Russian geology and the like which might be acceptable for such a purpose. The explanation does not so satisfactorily cover the other literature, and especially the flaming posters in propagation of Bolshevism and authorities are now engaged in conducting a further investigation. It is said that the delegation has been in touch with a sympathetic element in Winnipeg and other cities and generally its activities are being checked up.

While there is a willingness to trade with Russia, if they have the money —and it does not appearto be prolific —it is being made clear here as it was to a similar delegation by Premier Ramsay MacDonald in England, that the dissemination of Bolshevik propaganda is not to be carried on under any camouflage of trade expansion or otherwise. It is doubtful if the literature, which is said to be peculiarly offensive in many respects, is allowed to reach its intended destination.

The development is not a helpful factor in the trade movement for the promotion of which the delegation recently got an official "recognition" to which due publicity was given. There are varied reports as to the purchasing power which is represented but so far transactions do not appear to have been on any scale of great magnitude.

TO DESTROY RELIGION.

WARSAW, April 17—(Special Star-World Cable, Copyright) — Archbishop Zepliak, the released Catholic Prelate, who was first sentenced to death and then imprisoned by the Soviets, granted an interview here Wednesday night. Emaciated and extremely nervous he plainly showed the effects of his imprisonment of more than a year for his religious beliefs.

"No matter what they say the Soviet Government intends the total destruction of religion," he said. "The new Red church is an absurd farce — may God forgive them. Complete Atheism is being taught the children and all forms of religious instruction are being rigidly suppressed. Instead of getting better matters are growing rapidly worse."

Questioned as to his treatment in prison, he said:

"Never could I picture such tyranny. The third degree examinations were conducted at midnight. We were frequently waked up in the middle of the night out of sleep, so that we would be dazed when the questions were propounded. All priests were treated as common prisoners — or worse, for the common prisoners I saw fared much better."

Archbishop Zepliak spent four months at Butyrak, the most dreaded prison in Russia. Later he was transferred to the Cheka headquarters at Lubyanka.

CURRIE WOULD HAVE MATTHEWS "KICKED" HOME

Suggests U.S. Government Be Asked to Have Wanted Official Ejected

PEPALL WITH HIM

Hon. F. C. Biggs Tells Ontario Public Accounts He was Shadowed

TORONTO, April 17—(Star Special)—At this morning's session of the Public Accounts committee Col. Currie moved that the committee request the Government to communicate with the Immigration Department of the United States in the hope of having Charles A. Matthews and Andrew Pepall, "kicked out of the United States."

Charges by Hon. F. C. Biggs, former Minister of Public Works that he had been "shadowed," during and since a trip to Detroit two weeks ago was the feature of principal interest at the closing session of the committee.

The committee received a further statement from Mr. Biggs, with reference to his dealings with Morgan-Dean, Harris and Mulveny, and with Browning, Harris and Northey, and also on his view as a former Minister of the Crown, on the policy of redeeming succession duty free bonds, which he defended as sound business for the province.

Col. Currie inquired whether the ex-Minister had not met Charles Matthews, suspended deputy treasurer, while in Detroit. It was then that Mr. Biggs told the committee he was being shadowed.

"Why don't you ask the man who shadowed me?" he demanded, telling of one occasion on which he had offered the man trailing him a lift, "in order to save the Government the price of a taxi."

One of the important decisions of the committee was to have the bank account of Charles Matthews, the missing deputy treasurer, probed by the Clarkson firm. This was done on motion of A. Belanger, Liberal.

A. E. Nash, of the Clarkson firm, is also to go into the affairs of the Harris Companies and to report what he finds to the Attorney General, George R. Harris, of Hamilton, went to that city last night to get his wife's bank account, but he was delayed this morning in taking it off the bank's records and therefore could not come before the committee.

He was to have a conference with the Chairman and Col. Price as soon as he arrived.

Further evidence regarding the Bank accounts of J. Cooper Mason, late General Manager of the Home Bank, was given to the committee by A. E. Nash, representing the liquidators of the Bank. He told of numerous deposits of thousand and five hundred dollar bills in Mr. Mason's account in the Central Canada Loan Company, and also touched upon the account of the late James Mason, father of Cooper Mason, in the same institution. Cooper Mason, Mr. Nash testified, had been indulging in heavy speculations up to the time of his death.

RAMSAY MACDONALD TALKS OF TROUBLES OF LABOR MINISTRY

Rather Bitter From Recent Defeat British Prime Minister Declares That Unless "Ordinary Decency" Is Observed In Parliamentary Tactics House Of Commons Will Be Brought Into Contempt

LONDON, April 17.—(Special Cable by Staff Correspondent of Montreal Star and New York World. Copyright, 1924, in United States, Canada and South America by New York World, (Press Publishing Company); in Great Britain by New Leader; in France by L'Information; in Austria, Germany, Czecho-Slovakia and Hungary by Neue Freie Presse; in Australia by Melbourne Herald.)—Ramsay MacDonald, like his predecessor, Lloyd George, keeps early hours as well as late and it was half-past eight in the morning, just after a hurried breakfast, that he received your correspondent for a brief, exclusive interview. Access to the Premier's work-room at No. 10 Downing Street is only gained after climbing a great stair-case whose walls are a pageant of British political history. Portraits of Premiers of England—Lord North, of American fame; Pitt, Canning, Wellington, Walpole, Russell, Peel, Palmerston, Salisbury, Disraeli, Gladstone, Rosebury, Campbell-Banerman, Balfour, Asquith, among others—are hung in a long process leading up to the historic suite of rooms now occupied by Labor's first Prime Minister.

MacDonald sat at his desk in a room simply fitted as a work-shop overlooking the Horse Guards' Parade. Books, papers, despatch cases, documents were everywhere, but the room is almost bare of ornament, excepting for two portraits on each side of the fire-place, one of Charles the First, the other of Oliver Cromwell, and in a corner is a plaque bought by MacDonald of H. M. Hyndman, Labor pioneer, who recently died. Above the mantlepiece MacDonald has placed illuminated verses from Asidah of Hazi Abuel Ysdu that his glance strays to as he works. The verses are these:

"Be true to nature and thyself;
Fame nor disfame count nor fear
Enough to thee the small still voice
That thunders in thine inner ear."

MacDonald began inauspiciously by recounting recent disagreeable experiences with alleged interviewers, but when asked for comment on the defeat, the night before, of the Government's eviction bill in the House of Commons, he replied, with some feeling:

TALKS OF DEFEAT.

"The first thing is, that unless there is going to be some sort of ordinary decency in Parliamentary tactics, it is not only the Government which will suffer, but the House of Commons itself which will be brought into contempt. I have never known, in all my life, such a meaningless, factitious attitude as was taken up. Liberals and Tories all professed to be anxious to get the bill through excepting for the first clause. They knew perfectly well that they were in the majority against us on the committee and could there have done what they liked. They did not take this course. Why? The real reason is that they were out to humiliate the Government and to mete out a sort of school-marm discipline. But when all their leaders had thundered, they only succeeded in defeating the Government by a magnificent majority of nine."

"What do you think of the attitude of the Liberals?" your correspondent asked MacDonald.

He replied:

"I am very gratified to see that a majority of the Liberals who voted flouted the little-minded appeals of their leaders, and remembering principals and sound Parliamentary tactics, came into the lobby with us."

The Premier continued:

"This kind of obstruction makes legislation practically impossible, and," —stated with emphasis—"the Government is going to eat out of no party's hand and will not tolerate such pettifogging humbug as its opponents are trying to impose upon the ministry. I hope that the friends of Labor are watching very carefully the recent actions in the House of Commons and will see that, from every platform in the land, the truth about Monday's discreditable performance is told."

After some discussion of the difficulties of legislating under the limiting and obstructive conditions imposed by the fact that Labor is in the minority in the House of Commons, your correspondent asked Premier MacDonald to define what Labor is seeking to achieve in its legislation this session.

JAPAN DIVIDED IN OPINION OVER EXCLUSION BILL

One Faction Would Resent U.S. "Insult"—Other Would Be Friendly

MISSION PROTESTS

Jap Premier Hopes for Better Terms But Will Not Quarrel

TOKIO, April 17. — (Associated Press).—If the Japanese exclusion provision is made a law by the United States "we Japanese will feel that the Americans have spat in our face," Sadatsuchi Uchida, former Japanese Ambassador to Turkey, declared today at a luncheon of the Pan-Pacific Club.

Another speaker, Viscount Shibusawa, eminent financier, asserted that the action of the United States Congress in adopting the Japanese exclusion clause has tempted him to revert to the "Americanophobia" of his youth. In explanation he recalled the wave of anti-foreign feelings which swept Japan 70 years ago on the occasion of Commodore Perry's visit. Viscount Shibusawa, then 14 years od,, shared the anti-American feeing, he said, but after repented and became an ardent worker in the interest of Japanese-American friendship.

"Now, seventy years later," he continued, "I am tempted to revert. However, I am not yielding to this temptation. I am still optimistic."

He said he hoped for adoption of his proposal for a joint high commission to seek solution of the California-Japanese immigration question. Opinion is said to prevail, however, that the Japanese Government does not approve Shibusawa's commission idea, for which agitation is reviving in some quarters.

A mass meeting of Osaka citizens, in protest against the proposed exclusion of Japanese from the United States was called today by the Osaka Chamber of Commerce.

PREMIER HOPEFUL.

TOKIO, April 17.—(United Press).—Friendship between Japan and the United States will remain unbroken although the record may be "impaired" by the passage of the Japanese exclusion measure by Congress, Premier Kiyoura said today.

The Premier indicated that the letter of Ambassador Hanihara which created such a sensation in the United States may have been interpreted in a way not intended by Japan and pointed out that it was written in a "language foreign to us."

"I deeply regret passage of the measure," Premier Kiyoura said, "for such drastic action seems unnecessary.

"The whole history of international relations between Japan and the United States indicates a reasonable spirit.

"We were hoping for only a nominal privilege."

He then declared that if Japan's position was not clear it might have been because Ambassador Hanihara was forced to write his letter in English which to him is a foreign tongue."

The Premier emphasized that even though this incident may impair a long record of unbroken friendship between the two nations, it in no way seems there will be a breach of friendship.

"If concessions on the immigration question are denied us," he said, "we will regret it and we will hope for further consideration."

He added another expression of appreciation of the "impressive sympathy" Japan received from America during the earthquake disaster and the financial support given Japan at that time.

"These are things we shall never forget," he said.

MISSIONARIES PROTEST

TOKIO, April 17. — (Associated Press.) — The American Baptist Mission of Japan to-day adopted a resolution condemning the proposed exclusion of Japanese from the United States as "unnecessary and un-Christian."

PARIS, April 17. — (Associated Press.) — Viscount Ishii's visit to Premier Poincare yesterday is given much prominence and various interpretations in the French press, where the belief is expressed that the Japanese Ambassador made an effort to get Premier Poincare to offer mediation in the difficulty between Japan and the United States over the immigration question or at least refer it to the League of Nations. This is positively denied, however, on the authority of the Japanese Embassy.

TOKIO, April 17—(Associated Press).—Japan, the emigration of whose nationals constitutes such a thorny problem for the United States is having immigration problems of her own.

Just as Japanese laborers are barred from the United States, Chinese laborers are barred from Japan. Certain classes of Chinese, however, are permitted to immigrate. Two years ago Japan was inundated by a flood of Chinese umbrella peddlers, most of whom, according to Japanese police, entered Japan as merchants, but later became manual laborers. Now the trouble is with cooks. Chinese cooks hitherto have been admitted, but the police say that many who enter as cooks have later become coolies. The metropolitan police of Tokio are conducting a round-up of Chinese cooks for deportation.

Discussing the immigration controversy with the United States, the Yomiuri Shimbun, usually one of the mildest Tokio newspapers, says editorially:

"Congress insulted the Japanese nation in the most public manner. Japan will not hesitate to respond to the challenge. She will remember the insult, and take the first opportunity for retaliation."

DRAYTON TOLD FIELDING HE WOULD HAVE TO DO THE SAME TO SAVE HOME BANK

Former Finance Minister States Fielding Was "Horrified" When He Told Him True State Of Affairs Regarding Toronto Bank — Says Quebec Bank Would Have Gone Under Were It Not For Help Given By Dominion Authorities

OTTAWA, April 17.—(Star Special by Own Correspondent) Sir Henry Drayton, former Minister of Finance, told all he knew about the Home Bank when giving evidence today before the Royal Commission inquiry into the institution.

He produced a file of correspondence showing that when he was Minister he was keeping in touch with the Bank, being suspicious of the condition of three of its accounts. Reports were made to him from time to time, designed to show that the liabilities in question were gradually being liquidated. Frequently, he said, by Mr. Daly, the president, who was continuous in his assurance that the Bank was pulling through. It developed according to allegations that Mr. Daly had "touched" the Bank for a million.

Perhaps the most interesting part of Sir Henry's evidence was his account of an interview with Mr. Fielding when the latter was taking over the office. He was most careful to be fair to the present Minister. He says that he told him that under the Act of 1914 advances up to over eight millions had been made to save La Banque Nationale. Mr. Fielding expressed himself as shocked at the risk thus taken

"I told him," says Sir Henry, "that he would have to do the same thing for the Home Bank. I did not mention these accounts I have spoken of." Later, Sir Henry said, that Mr. Fielding so far as he knew had never seen the file of correspondence to Sir Thomas White about the Bank.

Sir Henry expressed the view that banking men now believed that they should have taken over the Home Bank. He defended the Bank being allowed to open new branches stating that either they had to be allowed to go ahead or be closed up. He did not consider the latter course warranted on the facts as they were submitted to him.

Sir Henry's examination occupied about two hours. Afterwards the Commission adjourned to meet in Toronto Tuesday, but only to examine the Liquidator. Government counsel want all the inquiry possible to be held here and stressed this on the Commission.

Among the other astounding statements made were one by Sir Henry that a million dollars of Canadian National Railway funds were "switched" to save the Home Bank from going under, and one by W. T. J. Lee, the Toronto solicitor, who is acting for the depositors and was examining the former Finance Minister that "Daly got into the Bank to the extent of a million dollars."

"I was amazed when I heard of it," said Sir Henry.

Explaining the "switching" of the Railway funds Sir Henry said it was that or a crash.

Fielding Warned By Witness That He Would Have To Financially Bolster Up Home Bank

The examination of Sir Henry Drayton was begun when the Commission resumed this morning. He was first questioned by W. T. Lee, and stated that it was in 1919 he first became Minister of Finance. He had first found the correspondence touching the condition of the Home Bank in January, 1920.

"How did you come to go into the matter?"

"Sir Thomas White called my attention to it."

Sir Henry went on to say that on January 5th, 1920, Sir Thomas had written to his secretary to put the papers before him. (Sir Henry.) On the 7th he had written to Z. A. Lash, K.C., asking him the position in regard to the accounts of Sir Henry Pellatt, A. C. Frost and the New Orleans Railway. He asked to have a statement of the accounts in question.

A reply was forwarded by Miller Lash, saying that his father was very ill but that from his own knowledge the position of these accounts and the bank generally had improved considerably in 1919.

Sir Henry then wrote confidentially to Sir Thomas White enclosing a memorandum from Mr. Finlayson (Superintendant of Insurance) regarding the loan to the Prudential Trust Company. The memorandum reviewed the conditions attending the loan and its present position. "I would like your views on the situation as a whole and what action you think the Department ought to take." Sir Henry wrote Sir Thomas.

Sir Thomas White replied on April 23rd advising that the president and general manager be summond to Ottawa to discuss not only the New Orleans account but two others—the British Columbia timber concern and the loans to Sir Henry Pellat. The former should be written off every year till the limit was sold.

FEELING OF DISTRUST.

Sir Thomas advised the Minister to "keep in continuous touch with the bank" adding "you can well understand what may occur."

Sir Henry next asked H. J. Daly to come down to Ottawa to discuss the accounts in question. Daly said he would come but before doing so wrote that still further improvements in these accounts was being made. Daly came and discussed the matter with him.

UNIQUE DECISION IN ALIMONY CASE

Judge Holds That Mothers-in-Law Partly Liable for Son's Alimony

QUEBEC, April 17. — (Star Special.) — A judgment which should endear mothers-in-law was rendered this morning by Justice Dauteuil, when he held that they may be held liable for the neglect of their sons to pay alimony to their wife by sustaining partly a claim entered by Blanche Bernard against her mother-in-law for a monthly pension of $90.

Through Fernand Choquette, Attorney, the plaintiff had contended that her mother-in-law should pay her the amount mentioned on the ground that she was not supported by her husband and that she was unable to work to support her four children.

Some time ago she added, she had obtained a judgment against her husband obliging him to pay $50 per month for her support, but the latter was insolvent and she could not get the money. Her father-in-law in view of those conditions had paid the alimony, but passed away a few months ago, and since then she was without help.

Justice Dauteuil sustained the claim of the petitioner to the extent of $20 per month, stating that in such a case a mother-in-law was responsible for the support of her daughter-in-law and her children.

SAYS CANADIANS FAVOR QUOTA LAW

WASHINGTON, April 17.—(Canadian Press.) — Secretary of Labor Davis backed the move to apply the immigration quota law to Canada in a letter put into the House record today during the debate on the quota provisions of the new immigration law.

Secretary Davis said that he had been advised by prominent men in Canada whom he does not name, that the Canadian people would gladly submit to a uniform rule with reference to admission of aliens to the United States if that rule would exclude large numbers of people with low standards of living.

Living Cost In Great Britain Shows Decline

LONDON, April 17. — (Canadian Press) — The cost of living in Great Britain fell five points in March and was 73 above the cost before the war.

BRITISH BIRDMEN OFF; U.S. HELD UP

MacLaren Makes Getaway from Athens Straight to Cairo

ATHENS, April 17—(United Press)—The British round the world flight was resumed today when the big amphibian 'plane commanded by Major Stuart MacLaren took off from the aerodrome at Old Phaleron for Cairo.

The airmen hoped to make the long trip in a single non-stop flight, one of the longest legs of their world-girdling effort.

Weather was favorable and a big crowd cheered the aviators as their 'plane winged its way out across the Mediterranean.

U.S. FLIERS HELD UP.

CORDOVA, Alaska, April 17—(United Press).—The United States Army's round the world flight was held up at Chignik today as the three planes which reached that fishing station Tuesday waiting for arrival of Major Frederick Martin in the air cruiser Seattle.

Martin and his mechanician, Sergeant Harvey, were with their plane, which was reported being towed to Kanatak after being forced to descend near Portage Boy.

Radiograms from the destroyer Hull, which found the two airmen, said the Seattle would need repairs before it could proceed to Chignik. A leaking crank case was reported as the cause of the big plane's forced descent, which caused hours of anxiety before the air cruiser was located.

ONE WEEK'S DELAY

WASHINGTON, April 17.—(United Press.) — A new motor for the 'plane Seattle, flagship of the round-the-world flight, is on its way to Alaska, the War Department said to-day.

The flight will be delayed a week or more until the engine is installed and other repairs made to the Seattle, which was forced down on the Alaskan coast.

Latest advices to the department from Major Martin, commander of the squadron, who, with his mechanician, was lost for 24 hours in the Alaskan wastes, are that he is none the worse for his night of exposure.

Martin is forwarding a detailed report of the trouble which caused his forced landing. Brief dispatches from Lieutenant Smith, second in command, indicated Martin's trouble was due to faulty lubrication.

POSTAL ROBBERY NETS $35,000 CASH

ST. PAUL, Minn., April 17.—(Associated Press).—Three bandits held up a postal clerk and messenger at the Chicago, Great Western depot at South St. Paul today, and escaped with five pouches of mail said to contain $35,000 in currency and other registered mail.

MONTREAL WOMAN TO STAND TRIAL

Alleged She Drugged 18-Year-Old Sister-in-Law in Quebec City

QUEBEC, April 17—(Star Special.)—Reina Pageot, formerly of this city, but now of Montreal, was committed for trial at the next term of the criminal assizes, this morning by Judge Lachance, as a sequel to a charge of sequestrating her sister-in-law laid sometime ago.

In the course of the preliminary investigation evidence was heard tending to prove that the complaining party, who is only eighteen years of age, had been enticed to leave her home to visit the residence of the latter and there, according to the Crown, an attempt to drug her had been made. Although the girl had left the house of her sister-in-law at the time of the preliminary investigation she was still under medical care, apparently due to the alleged drugs, the nature of which had not been definitely established.

The accused was released on bail pending the term of the criminal court, which is only set for next October.

OLIVER BALDWIN MAY OPPOSE L.G.

Ex-Premier's Son May Run as Laborite in Welsh Riding

LONDON, April 17 — (Associated Press) — Oliver Baldwin, Socialist member of Parliament and son of former Premier Stanley Baldwin, is said by the newspapers to be contemplating opposing David Lloyd George as the Labor candidate in the Carnavon district at the next parliamentary election.

It is stated that branches of the Socialist party have been established in most of the towns through the constituency and that Mr. Baldwin has spent several months there learning the Welsh language.

This is apparently one of the many "hostile acts" of which the Liberals are complaining, and in regard to which the Liberal newspapers today carry caustic editorials.

MUSSOLINI HITS AT PAPAL TITLES

ROME, April 17.—(Special Star-World Cable, Copyright.)—Premier Mussolini's decree against the abuse of titles of nobility is having a bombshell effect among the Roman aristocracy, which mostly consists of Papal titles.

Italy's heraldic laws recognize that only the King of Italy can confer a title. It is hotly argued in Roman social centres that the Pope is undoubtedly a sovereign, but it is remembered that he is not the Italian sovereign. Moreover, Italian law cannot recognize him as a foreign sovereign, so that the holders of Papal titles are not able to benefit by the Italian King's occasional permission for his subjects to accept titles from foreign sovereigns, as when Marconi was invested with knighthood by the British Sovereign and the Bandinis family were made barons of Newberg in the British peerage.

So it happens that many dukes and marquises, some of them with American wives, are now heartily wishing and piously hoping that Mussolini will relent at least in favor of Papal titles conferred on their ancestors in the days when the Popes were temporal as well as spiritual sovereigns. Only thus will it be possible for various ancient titles to be used after this year.

LONDON, April 17. — Associated Press).—Brig.-Gen. Charles G. Bruce, leader of the Third Expedition for the conquest of Mount Everest, is reported to be returning to India from Tibet because of illness.

MUSIC DIRECTOR GIVEN FOUR YEARS

OWEN SOUND, Ont., April 17.—(Canadian Press). — F. W. Timms, former organist of Knox Presbyterian Church, and former director of music in the Public Schools here was sentenced to four years in Portsmouth penitentiary this morning by Police Magistrate Creaser.

He had pleaded guilty to two criminal charges in connection with his relations with two young girls under sixteen years of age, both of whom were music pupils of his.

The four years cover both charges and the sentences are to run concurrently. A telegram received by Crown Attorney Dyre from the attorney-general's office stated that the report of the alienist who examined Timms, was to the effect that the man was sane and fit to be sentenced.

THREE MONTHS' FOR IMMORAL ORGANIST

QUEBEC, April 17—(Star Special.)—Ludger Fortin, organist of the parish of Metabetchouan, Lake St. John District, arrested in March on the charge of distributing immoral pictures, and who, at the time the provincial detectives called on him, was religiously playing the organ in the parish church, was sentenced to three months imprisonment this morning by Judge Lachance in the Court of Session following a plea of guilty.

Jupiter Pluvius Not Expected To War On Easter Finery In Montreal Sunday

TORONTO, April 17. — (Star Special)—As to what the weather is likely to be on Easter Sunday, Sir Frederick Stupart is taking no chances. "It would not be safe to say anything about it for publication. As a matter of fact, we don't know yet," he told The Star.

"Those who are preparing to don their Easter finery may take comfort in the knowledge that the storm which is raging in Winnipeg today is not heading towards the East. The rain which we are having in Toronto today has been produced by and is a part of that storm, but we are not likely to get anything like the kind of weather they are having in the west," said the weather man, who added that his prediction for Toronto area would also stand for Montreal.

Refuse To Argue The Point With Mr. Justice Monet

OTTAWA, April 17—(Special)— "I have no intention of getting into an argument with Mr. Justice Monet as to the use of the lash," said Hon. E. J. McMurray, Solicitor-General, today regarding the criticism of the Montreal Judge of his action in suspending the lash from the bank bandits.

It is understood the clemency branch has drawn a distinction between a short and a long term sentence with the lash, favoring it in the former, but not in the case of practically a life sentence, as was that given to the Montreal criminal by Mr. Justice Monet.

NEW YORK, April 17.—(Star Special).—Sir Vincent Meredith, president of the Bank of Montreal, who has been spending a week in New York, returns to Montreal tomorrow.

COLLIER FORMS LABOR MINISTRY

Sir Campbell Stuart, the managing director of the London Times, arrived in the city this morning and is the guest of Sir Frederick Williams-Taylor.

Sir Campbell is a member of the Arrangements Committee of the Third Imperial Press Conference, to be held in Australia in 1925, and has been asked by his English colleagues to discuss the question of Canadian representation while in this country.

Sir Campbell is a governor of the Imperial College of Science and Technology in South Kensington, London. This college has recently offered two Canadian scholarships of the value of £300 each. Each scholar will be required to pursue a year's post-graduate study in pure or in applied science at the Imperial College.

The academic year 1924-25 begins on October 7 and ends about the beginning of July, 1925. The selection of scholars is to be made in any manner the Government of Canada thinks fit. Intending candidates should, therefore, inquire in the first instance of the authorities of their own university.

STUDENTS' UNION

Sir Campbell is also a member of the Council of the National Union of Students, which is inviting one representative of the students of each of the universities of the British Empire to take part in an Imperial Conference of Students to be held in London and Cambridge in the latter part of July of this year.

Sir Campbell hopes to take definite steps while here for the organization of the Canadian branch of the Canadian History Society, whose English and French branches have already been launched with much success on the other side of the Atlantic.

Sir Campbell has been asked by the Empire Press Union, of which he is a member of the council, to discuss with the Canadian weekly editors their itinerary in England this summer. He has arranged to entertain the entire delegation—150 in all—at Windsor on July 5. ## WHY THE WEATHER?

DR. CHARLES F. BROOKS, of Clark University, discusses.

STORMS FAR SOUTH

The unusual prevalence of southern storms since last October has been attended by severe cold and snowiness over large areas of Canada and the United States. A great many lows originating, apparently, over exceptionally warm water in the tropical Pacific south of Mexico have appeared in the Western Caribean or Gulf of Mexico, or in Texas. These lows developed into storms of great intensity as they moved northeastward into the region of great temperature contrasts. While early in winter these storms commonly passed northward or northeastward through the central lowlands of the continent, they have of late, especially since mid-Februtry, been held south till reaching the Atlantic seaboard. As a result, both early and late, the central and southern Rockies and the adjacent Great Plains have suffered from cold northerly winds and heavy snows, while not till January did hard winter weather become established in the Middle West, or till February in the East.

This general change of storm track seems to have followed the more or less progressive eastward creep of extensive snow-cover with its attendant supply of cold, dense air, and also the progress of what seems to have been an unusually warm flow in the Gulf Stream. Dense, dry air at near zero temperature readily keeps pressures high. Hence active flows are maintained from the cold interior towards the warm Gulf Stream, only a few hundred miles away. The Gulf Stream water at temperatures above 70 is constantly expending the air by warming and humidifying it. Lows move most readily toward such warm, moist regions and tend to avoid the cold and dry.

Montreal—At the High School there has been for some weeks past a new order of things at the noon recess, a delightful change from the cold and dreary luncheon hour of the past. Two lunch counters, each in a spacious and airy apartment, furnished with numerous long, narrow tables and an abundance of chairs, are in charge of a caretaker, who provides large, steaming cups of coffee, cocoa, beef tea, bouillon, glasses of milk and appetizing rolls and butter at a price very little in advance of cost. These rooms are in opposite ends of the immense building and are in charge of the respective caretakers of the Boys' and Girls' Schools.

London—The Budget was introduced in the House of Commons yesterday by Sir William Harcourt, Chancellor of the Exchequer. Sir William said that the total revenue for the last year was only £507,000 under the estimates, proving the solidity of the national finances in view of the depression of trade. It was estimated that the expenditures for the coming year would be £95,458,000, which will leave a deficit of £4,502,000. This deficit, he said, would not be met either by borrowing or by abandoning the fixed provisions for the liquidation of the national debt.

EASTER-TIDE IS SPRINGTIME FETE

Social and Religious Communities Vie in Its Observance

TURNING POINT

From Winter's Thrall, to Fashions—Many Church Programs

Madame opens the ribbon-tied box with fevered expectation, almost with apprehension. Carefully the tissue-swathed shape is lifted from the container, the wrappings fall to the table, and there, in all its glory, is the Easter hat. On Sunday she will wear it to church. "Not even Solomon in all his glory etc."

Year after year the feast of Easter marks the recognized departure of winter and the arrival of spring. Itself one of the greatest fesats of the year from an ecclesiastical standpoint, it has come by social usage to be a strong competitor, in our modern life, with the old established celebrations of Christmas and the New Year.

The origin of Easter is too well known to need any reference here, and will probably form the subject of the vast majority of the sermons to be preached on Easter Sunday morning. It is noteworthy, however, that this feast of the Resurrection, should mark, even in the purely material and social sense, the arising of society from the depression of winter, and its entry once more into the galeties of the spring and summer seasons.

"That Spring feeling" notwithstanding, the golf-links and the tennis courts look very near when viewed from the vantage point of Easter, which is annually recognized and looked forward to by humanity at large, as the crest of the hill which leads down the wide steep road to the smiling valley of summer.

In the churches of all Christian faiths Easter holds a most important place in the calendar. It is essentially the great day of rejoicing, of bright flowers, and of glad music, and, coming after the forty days of Lenten meditation, of re-entry, newly-armed into the battle of life.

Throughout the city in the Roman Catholic churches, today Maundy Thursday, marks the practical opening of the Easter feast, and between now and tomorow morning thousands will make the time-established pilgrimmage of "the seven churches." Tomorrow only one mass will be sung in each church, after which the altars will be stripped, the doors left open, and until, Saturday morning, the wheels of the Church will officially cease to function. All this in memory of the Event of the first Good Friday.

GOOD FRIDAY SERVICES.

In many Catholic and Protestant churches a special service is held between noon and three o'clock in the afternoon on Good Friday. Saturday, in Catholic Churches, marks the opening of Sunday's celebrations, and is remarkable for the blessing of the fire and water to be used in connection with the services of the Church throughout the year. Sunday in all churches, marks the climax of the feast.

Like most of its companion-feasts of the year, Easter has a special meaning for the youngsters. The Easter egg holds joys untold, and keeps a place for itself in the hearts of the kiddies long after Santa Claus has ceased to be a mystery. Other institutions, satellites of the Easter Egg, are the Easter bunny and the Easter chicken. Let not Eastertide pass without honorable mention of the time-honored hot-cross bun, the origin of which is a story in itself.

Socially, the feast of Easter spells vacation. Good Friday and Easter Monday are both federal holidays, and in many business houses arrangements will be made to dismiss the staff as far as possible on Thursday evening to return on Tuesday next. Banks will, of course, be closed on Good Friday, and so will the stores of the Quebec Liquor Commission. The thirsty ones will, however, be compensated by the stores being kept open until three o'clock on Saturday afternoon.

Affirmative Must Have Mesmerized Judges of Debate

At a meeting of the "Cercle Francais" of the High School of Montreal, held last Tuesday, Mademoiselle L. Touren, assistant professor of French at McGill, gave an interesting talk on "Three French Types." The types chosen by Mademoiselle Touren were the Norman, or Northerner, the Meridional or Southerner and the Parisian. The talk, illustrated by typical anecdotes proved a decided success. A. Primeau-Robert, M.A., head of the French Department at the High School, in thanking the lecturer, gave her the praise she so well deserved.

Later in the evening there was a debate on th following qustion: "Resolved: "That The Press Does More Harm Than Good." The affirmative, held by Messrs. Caron and Urquhart, won against Messrs. Barsha and Kovett for the negative.

The meeting was closen with an act of "Le Voyage de M. Perrichon," of Eugene Labiche.

ARMED WILD MAN SCARES VILLAGERS

BRANTFORD, Ont., April 17.—(Canadian Press.)—Scotland Village, about ten miles from Brantford was kept in a state of anxiety yesterday afternoon by an armed madman who, with a gun, a long knife and a razor, held possession with three dogs, of the upper part of a shed at the hotel, having a fancy that he needed protection against his enemies. He was finally coaxed away with offers of something to eat.

For some time he lived near Vanneck as a wild man and when finally located by his relatives, had entirely lost control of his mind. He was placed in an asylum, from which he was recently released as cured.

TWO MEN SENT UP FOR TRIAL ON MURDER CHARGE

Sequel to Hold-up of Bank Car Advances Another Step

WOMAN APPEARS

Male Prisoners to Stand Trial at May Assizes—Bills Identified

Giuseppe Serafini and Ciro Niegro will go before a grand jury at the next term of King's Bench on the charge of murdering Henri Cleroux, the chauffeur of the Bank of Hochelaga collection car, who lost his life on April 1 fighting in defence of the bank's money, against a gang of hold-up men.

The two will appear for voluntary statement before Judge Perrault, on Wednesday next, and will, at the same time, face their preliminary inquiry on a charge of murdering Stone, alias Peter Ward, alias Brandon, whose dead body was found in the abandoned car after the hold-up.

They will be joined by Mary Serafini, who will also face preliminary inquiry on the murder charge on Wednesday.

Judge Perrault cut short the inquiry this morning, by telling R. L. Calder, the Crown Prosecutor, that he had heard enough identification evidence, and a few minutes later adding that he was quite satisfied as to the proof of a prima facie case for sending the men up for trial.

TRIAL CERTAIN.

Alban Germain, for the defence, was anxious to argue the merits of the case, but Judge Perrault, while agreeing that he had the right to argue if he wanted to, assured him that the accused were going for trial anyhow. Mr. Germain therefore decided to save his energies.

When the court ordered, "Take away the men and bring in the woman," Mrs. Serafini stepped briskly into the dock, looking decidedly smart in a big wrap-around Hudson seal coat closed up to the neck, her hat adorned by a big bunch of violets.

She looked around with an air of quizzical interest, until the clerk of the court informed her that she would appear for preliminary inquiry on April 23.

Detective Pusie again took the stand when the court re-opened this morning. Examining a plan filed by the architect since yesterday, he identified it as showing the entrance, vestibule and staircase of the house at 57 Coursol street. Another plan showed the rooms upstairs.

Witness went to that house about 8:30 p.m. on the day of the crime, with other detectives. They opened the first door, entered the vestibule, and knocked at the next door, which was closed.

When they got in, Mrs. Serafini was reading in a bedroom, along with Miss Lebeau. They made they search of the place, and had the women searched by the police matron. The latter found sixteen $100 bills on Mrs. Serafini among others. On the woman Lebeau they found a packet of money also.

Later he went back to 57 Coursol street about 11 o'clock, with the other detectives. They found the piece of cloth which was shown in court, and which witness identified. Later he went back and found a reel of thread and a pair of scissors, produced in court.

Shown the separate pieces of a cloth mask, he identified them. He himself had unsewn it in Dr. Derome's presence. He produced a leather valise he had found at 57 Coursol street on his last visit.

SAME CLOTH.

Lyon W. Jacobs questioned the witness closely on the cloth exhibited, but Detective Pusie firmly insisted it was the same cloth as he had seen in the house.

Detective Savard told how the police rapped at the door of 57 Coursol street and waited a minute or two, during which they saw shadows running back and forth upstairs. A man looked over the banister. Witness recognized the man as Niegro. Later a man came to the door, said he had forgotten his keys, and was again away a minute or two. All the time the shadows were moving back and forth. They arrested Niegro and Serafini, Mary Serafini and the girl Lebeau. The two men were searched in the presence of witness, and money taken from them.

Witness went to the C.P.R. station to get the prisoners' trunks. The checks for these trunks were found in Mary Serafini's handbag.

The men were sent to different stations meanwhile.

Witness met Mr. Swail, the owner of the house, and asked him to look over the house and see if there were any hiding places in it. Later Mr. Swail took them to the house and showed a partition which had been built up in the wardrobe. Three shelves had been put in the wardrobe against the partition, and one of them was so placed that it had the top of a door which had been made in the bottom of the partition. There were two rows of coat hooks on the door, much lower than in an ordinary wardrobe. The two hooks to the extreme left were so arranged that when turned horizontal, the door could not be opened, but when turned perpendicular, it could be pushed open.

FOUND BILL CASE.

When he entered the hiding place, after taking the shelves down, he found a briefcase inside, which he marked with his initials. Later the two accused were taken to the house, and the valise taken out and opened in their presence.

As soon as the money was shown, Niegro said "How do I know you did not put that there yourself?"

"He was over estimating the wealth of the average detective," suggested Mr. Calder.

The door to the hiding place was then brought into court and identified by the witness, who showed how the hooks turned to lock it or to allow of opening it. The door appeared to be about two feet wide and three feet high and had the appearance of being passably efficient amateur woodwork.

Cross-examined closely by Alban Germain as to whether he had spoken to the woman Lebeau since her arrest, witness admitted having said "good morning" to her at the Coroner's Court, but had held no other conversation with her.

Witness told of counting in Inspector Egan's office the money found in the brief case taken at the Coursol street house. He identified packets of money shown in court, as the same packets which had been then counted. He had initalled the wrapper of each packet. These packets did not contain all the money found in the case. They contained the bills that could be identified. Witness also identified the packets of money taken from Serafini and Niegro.

Mrs. B. Charron, matron of the City Hall Annex declared she had searched Mary Serafini and taken a quantity of money from her. She identified the money, which was in the woman's stocking.

Witness also identified a packet of money which she found in Emma Lebeau's coat pocket.

CASHIER ON STAND.

R. Beauchemin, branch cashier employed by the Bank of Hochelaga, identified a $20 bill, which had been torn and repaired. He remembered having noticed it when he was making up his bundles of money to send to the head office. On April 1 that bill was in his parcel for head office.

Another bill of $10 he recognized by the figures "36" in one corner, which he had put on it.

A $100 Banque Nationale bill found in the possession of Mary Serafini, he identified as one he had taken on March 27, and which he had kept until he handed it out to be sent to head office. He recognized it by an inscription in a foreign tongue on the back of the bill. Other employes had also noted that inscription.

Cross-examined by Alban Germain, witness said that he paid out only Bank of Hochelaga notes; the other bills were sent to head office, but this was not done every day. The car came every day to collect money, but he did not always send any.

On April 1 he sent 13 small packets, assembled in one large parcel. He made them up in bundles according to denomination and bank, on Monday. He did not remember how many $20 bills he had the next day, his counting was checked by two other employes. The $20 bill he had repaired must still have been in the parcel next morning, as no one had access to the packets except himself.

At this point Judge Perrault announced that he had heard enough in the way of identification evidence, and asked if the Crown had evidence to bring on any other points.

Mr. Calder declared that the only witness he had to offer on any other point for the moment, was Emma Lebeau. Mr. Germain expressed the opinion that the examination and cross-examination of Lebeau would take a whole day. Some debate seemed likely to develop between counsel on this point, when Judge Perrault ended it by assuring counsel that he had sufficient evidence to justify him in ordering voluntary statement.

Mr. Germain suggested that it was customary for the court to hear argument of counsel for the defence before rendering a judgment at this stage in the case.

COUNSEL'S ARGUMENT.

Judge Perrault pointed out that a decision ordering voluntary statement did not preclude the defence from raising any objections it might have, between then and the actual trial. Mr. Germain objected to this, on the grounds that he would then have to bring evidence to support his objection to the prisoners going for trial, whereas, by law, he said, he had the right to lay his legal arguments before the court at the close of the inquiry. He insisted that legal authorities and precedents gave him that right. Nevertheless, if he were informed that his arguing would be useless, he was not the man to waste his time.

Judge Perrault conceded the legal right to argue. "This is the magistrate's inquiry. Its object is to satisfy the magistrate, and I am satisfied. Still, you have the right to argue no doubt if you wish. Have you anything to say?"

Mr. Germain: "I have nothing to say. The court has declared that judgment was rendered before I had time to speak."

Mr. Calder then raised the question of the safeguarding of the money and other exhibits in the case and was supported by Mr. Germain.

SAFETY OF RECORDS.

Mr. Calder declared that a vault in the Bank of Hochelaga was at the disposal of the court. The judge made several inquiries as to the nature of the vault and its guarantee of safety, and on being assured that it was closed with one seal bearing three signatures, and that it was rented from the bank by High Constable St. Mars himself, the judge agreed that it was a thoroughly acceptable place in which to keep the court records and exhibits in this case.

The charge against the two prisoners in connection with the death of Stone was then read, and preliminary enquiry set for next Wednesday.

"Take away the men. Bring in the woman" was the order of the court, and after a wait of a couple of minutes Mary Serafini stepped in, was informed that she also would appear for preliminary inquiry on Wednesday and was taken back to the cells again.

Three cheers for the Solicitor-General!

FASHION PARADE THIS EASTER MAY CALL FOR LATEST IN FUR COATS

Things look dark for Sunday's Easter Parade on Sherbrooke street. If Western weather prophets are correct, Montreal will wake up Sunday morning with a bitter blizzard raging over the city.

Despatches from Winnipeg indicate a storm, that would be considered unusually severe even in mid-winter, raging there today, is headed in the general direction of this city.

Eight inches of snow have already fallen there, while cold, bleak winds have piled it into huge drifts. Street railway service is disorganized, and pedestrians move with the greatest difficulty.

This is what Montreal may be like on Eastern Sunday.

New suits and hats may have to be laid away in the old cedar chest among the moth balls for another week or so until Old Man Winter really makes up his mind to retire for a few months.

The progress of the storm indicates that its force is far from being spent, Hamilton, Ontario, had a snowfall that tied up the street service and was admitted to be the worst of the season.

"That northwest depression" feeling so glibly reported in weather and meteorological forecasts may give a sad tilt to the Easter bonnet if it does not ruin it entirely.

Today's forecast indicates still a little respite from these gloomy predictions.

Weather today and Friday—Cloudy and showery.

But—it may be bright by Sunday.

DUPLEX FLAT ISSUE

Is Before Notre Dame de Grace at Meeting Tonight

The Property Owners' Protective Association of Notre Dame de Grace will discuss the duplex flat issue at a meeting to be held this evening in the Fire Hall, Betrel street and Cote St. Antoine Road. The meeting will request the civic administration to leave Notre Dame de Grace by-laws in their present condition and to bar duplex flats on streets north of Sherbrooke street west. The protest of the property owners against any change in the construction laws will be backed by a petition signed by 700 landowners, asking for the retention of the regulations drawn up in 1921 after much study.

Speakers will be Mayor Duquette, Brig.-General C. A. Smart, M.L.A.; Ald. Watson, Ald. Desaulniers, Ald. Trepanier, John Macnaughton, T. Rheaume, Louis Dupire, F. W. Stewart, of the Civic Improvement League, and Mrs. James Bielby, of the Notre Dame de Grace Women's Club.

BROADCAST MUSIC OF CATHOLIC CHURCH

The first radio concert ever transmitter from a Roman Catholic Church on this continent, as far as local fans can discover, was enjoyed last night when the choir of St. Leo's Church, Westmount, held a general rehearsal of their Good Friday music. No liturgical offices were conducted, explained Rev. Father Gauthier, when asked about the innovation.

The concert included the singing of the Seven Last Words of Christ, with baritone and tenor solos, which were much enjoyed.

Father Gauthier said he was not sure whether the concert had established a precedent in North America; but he had been informed by the Northern Electric Company, which broadcast the religious music from Station C.H.Y.C., that it was the first instance of its kind in this province, at least. There are 150 voices in St. Leo's choir.

ACQUIT RICHARDS.

Joseph Richards, arraigned in the Recorder's Court last week on a drug possession charge, was acquitted when he appeared for trial this morning before Recorder Geoffrion.

A report on the alleged drugs found in Richard's possession submitted by the City Analyst showed the narcotic content to have been very small. For this reason, the Recorder stated, the case was dismissed.

FIND BABY'S BODY ON VACANT LOT

Crossing a vacant lot between Mount Royal avenue and Marie Anne street on his way to work this morning, Rodolphe Roy, of 224 De Lanaudiere street found the body of a newborn baby boy, wrapped in a newspaper, in the rear of the school building on Garnier street. The police were notified and the little corpse removed to the morgue.

Coroner McMahon opened an inquest this morning, and adjourned it for a week to enable the police to make further inquiries. Death was shown to have been due to lack of proper attention at birth. There were no marks of violence on the body.

The average yield an acre of land and crops in the United States has not increased during the last twenty years.

HON. E. J. McMURRAY GUNMEN'S FRIEND, SAYS JUDGE MONET

Considers Remission of Lashes on Bandit is Insult to Bench and Interference With Administration of Justice

A strongly worded protest against the remission by Hon. E. J McMurray, solicitor-general, of part of the sentence imposed on Raoul Beauchamp, convicted bandit, was issued today by Judge Amedee Monet.

Beauchamp was one of the men who held up and robbed the Cote des Neiges branch of Molsons bank recently. For this he was sentenced on Tuesday afternoon to 25 years in the penitentiary with 20 strokes of the lash. A few hours after the passing of sentence, word was received from Ottawa that the solicitor-general had remitted the 20 strokes of the lash.

BANDITS' PROTECTOR.

In commenting on this act, Judge Monet visualizes the solicitor-general as the official protector of bandits in general while the judiciary of Montreal are attempting, by the imposition of severe sentences, to stamp out outlawry.

He considers it is unwarrantable interference with the bench, conduct liable to render abortive the administration of justice and an insult to the judiciary. At a time when citizens are violently disposed towards bandits who show a merciless disregard of human life, the judge adds that the action of the solicitor-general is regrettable.

His statement follows:

"I learn by the newspapers that the bandit, Raoul Beauchamp, condemned by me Tuesday last to 25 years in the penitentiary and to receive 20 strokes of the lash, will not have to submit to the lash, the Solicitor-General, the Hon. E. J. McMurray, having judged it apropos to amend my sentence in that manner.

"That news greatly surprised me. Without contesting the right of the Honorable Solicitor-General to act as he has done if news despatches are well founded, his intervention in the circumstances appears to me inopportune and his decision excessively regrettable.

"At a time when hold-ups in Montreal are growing, when the public rightly is demanding greater protection, when all right-thinking people are demanding that justice be very severe toward bandits of all sorts who are invading us, and when the penalty of the lash, if an ignominious dole, is not a chastisement too severe for the offence such as that committed by Raoul Beauchamp, it is, in my opinion, regrettable to see the Honorable Solicitor-General intervene as he has just done in the administration of justice.

INSULT TO JUDGE.

"For my part, I consider the decision that the Honorable Solicitor-General has just made as an insult to the judge who pronounced sentence and to the entire bench as a serious blow to the good administration of justice in this country, and, for bandits of the calibre of Beauchamp, a manifest encouragement to them to continue their life of crime and to carry on the execution of their plans.

"How our bandits of all kinds, from pickpockets to hold-up men, must have applauded the good news regarding the decision of the Honorable Solicitor-General! All that remains now for them to do so is to elect the Hon. E. J. McMurray, honorary president of their association and patron of their organization.

"So far as I am concerned, I shall continue on the bench to fulfil my duty, following my conscience, respecting always the oath I took when nominated. I shall be lenient when it is possible for me to do so; but I shall be pitiless toward certain offences. In the future, I shall apply the law to the limit of its vigor with regard to criminals found guilty before me of grave offences. When the guilty merit the penalty of the lash, I shall not, for one minute, hesitate to inflict it on them.

"There will always remain for those bandits the privilege and the right of recourse to him who seems to wish to constitute himself their official protector—the Solicitor-General, the Hon. E. J. McMurray."

EASTER TRAVEL IS MAINLY TO CITIES

C.N.R. Puts on 30 Extra Sleepers for Toronto and New York

Canadian damsels are going to make a strong effort to claim their share of admiration at the annual Easter parade at Atlantic City, and will be there in force, if the number of travellers who are making New York their Mecca can be taken as an indication. The Canadian National Railways report that at least 30 extra sleepers will be used for the traffic going out of Montreal, the majority of which will be routed on the lines going to Toronto and New York.

Those staunch Canadians who prefer to display their finery in Canada, are planning to go to Toronto, where on the Queen City's two and a half miles of board walk, the Atlantic City fashion drama will be enacted on a small scale. Traffic is particularly heavy from the rural districts of Ontario, it is reported, with country-folk and townspeople moving citywards; for, unlike Christmas, the Easter movement is mainly city-wards.

TO ALL POINTS

While Toronto and New York are the most popular holiday places for Montreal travellers, traffic is likewise heavy from here to Boston and Springfield. Residents of Toronto are going to New York, Buffalo and Detroit, while a large number are expected here. The Maritime Provinces will have their quota of holiday visitors, for seven extra sleepers are destined there.

AUTHORS MEET APRIL 24.

The annual meeting of the Authors' Association will be held on Thursday, April 24, not on Wednesday, April 23, as announced.

Government Indicted For Slender Progress In Law-Making —Ordinary Business Clogged — May Not Be Reached Until Mid-May — Income Tax Cuts And Child Immigrants Discussed

By J. E. MARCH, Star Staff Correspondent.

OTTAWA, April 17. — Anticipating the Easter recess, a majority of the members of the House of Commons were absent from their customary places yesterday. A few of the more adventurous far Eastern and far Western members left early, in order to assure spending the holidays in the bosoms of their families; most of the Progressives went on a personally-conducted voyage of discovery into the Maritime Provinces, and the small platoon who carried on with their parliamentary duties were either within a few hours' journey of their homes, or so far away that it was useless to start.

With the Chamber in a state of suspended animation, and certainly wearing that deserted look, the Government granted surcease from the flood of tariff arguments and permitted prosy discussion of two rather important problems, the possibility of further reducing the income tax, and the advisibility of keeping a closer check upon the number and type of child immigrants brought in from Great Britain. Both resolutions were fostered by Joseph Archambault, of Chambly Vercheres, and have long been pet subjects of his. The net result was to commit the Government to consider both, which may mean anything, and an amazing spread of opinion which, in the last analysis, meant nothing at all.

Mr. Archambault has long been at odds with the Income Tax Act, and therein has the sympathy of the general public. He is not altogether satisfied with the Government's move to increase exemption for children up to $500 and has come forward with a plan, which, it is safe to indicate, the Government will not adopt. Mr. Archambault would increase the tax upon income from invested capital and lower the rate upon earned income, such as salaries and wages; and would grant the same exemptions to those married under community regime as now granted to those married under the regime of separate maintenance. Separate maintenance involves a marriage contract and results in a double exemption, as far as the Income Tax Act is concerned.

QUEBEC MEMBERS PLEAD FOR CANADIAN-BORN

The resolution, which merely asked the Government to consider the idea, was vigorously supported by the French-speaking members from Quebec, who broadly based their position on the arguments that the Income Tax Act penalized parents who were endeavoring to educate their children, and that the best type of immigration was found in Canadian homes, after the busy storks dropped their happy bundles down Canadian chimneys.

Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen brought his legal mind to bear upon the problem and decided against Mr. Archambault inasmuch as his plan would hit the poor man who had saved a modest sum for his old age, and as for the married problem, he was sure it would mean such a complicated calculation that the income tax officials and the public would be farther apart than they are at the present time.

The remainder of the afternoon was given to a discussion of the advisibility of bringing child immigrants in from Great Britain. In this there was a serious division of opinion, J. S. Woodworth contending that more care should be taken of Canadian-born children now being kept in homes before others were brought in. He also charged that child immigration was just another method by which cheap labor was introduced in certain sections of Canada. The immigration scheme was defended by Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of the Interior, who emphasized that so far the plan was working out well.

The outstanding impression of the day was caused by the fact that the first stage of the session had been completed without the Government doing any constructive work in the way of rectifying conditions in the House.

Commencing with the Speech from the Throne and ending with the Budget, it is broadly realized that the Ministry has given its time to saving its own political hide and placating the Progressives, without a proper regard for the welfare of the country as a whole.

Surprisingly little progress had been made with the legislative program in spite of the fact that the Budget is before the country much earlier than usual, and owing to the forthcoming Budget debate immediately after the Easter recess, there is small prospect of ordinary business being reached before the beginning of the second week in May. The branch line railway program is still buried under a weight of criticism, and has the gauntlets of the Commons and the more severe passage of the Senate to run before the remnant receive approval. As was the case of the Speech from the Throne and the Budget, an avalanche of opposition met the branch line bills and their fate is a matter of speculation, although it is practically assured that the Senate will kill all but the most essential.

A survey of estimates approved so far shows that only those which the Government wanted before the Budget have been touched, such as the sum of $1,300,000 for the purchase of the Union Club in London, the vote of $600,000 for the tower in the Parliament Buildings and a few others from the Department of Interior.

Church union, which will prove a particularly contentious subject, has only progressed as far as the private bills committee, while the redistribution bill seems to be hopelessly buried in the tumultuous depths of the redistribution committee, in the latter case it is believed that the Government has passed along a private command to speed up as much as possible, although the dispute about the re-alignment of seats in Ontario is more than likely to take considerable time during ensuing weeks.

SERIOUS PROBLEMS TO BE ATTACKED.

The problem created by the failure by the Home Bank and the Dominion-wide campaign by depositors for re-imbursement, while productive of one scorching debate, has not yet been adequately dealt with by Parliament and the action of the Government in relegating the matter to the committee on banking and commerce is generally regarded as an open attempt to shelve anything in the nature of a parliamentary inquiry.

The session so far has been marked for the reliance which the Government is placing in the Progressive vote in the House and all its moves so far have been calculated to achieve that end. The Progressives were first held by the promise of tariff reductions contained in the Speech from the Throne; were carried along by the branch line railway bills, and were finally bound in their allegiance by the Budget. On the other hand, it is generally recognized that the Government has travelled so far along the Western route that it is impossible for them to withdraw and return, and that they have sacrificed strength in the East for momentary advantage in the West.

Much work yet remains to be done. After the completion of the Budget debate the tariff resolutions will take up considerable time, at least a week, and in addition there remains the bulk of the estimates, the supplementary estimates, the final discussions on the branch line railway program, the redistribution bill, the church union bill, a host of less important pieces of legislation and numerous dress debates such, as the promised discussion on the Lausanne Treaty.

It is not expected that the session will end before the first week in July and if obstruction develops not before the middle of that month or later.

TODAY IN OTTAWA HOUSE OF COMMONS

OTTAWA, April 17.—(Canadian Press.) — Commons and Senate is adjourned over Easter.

YESTERDAY IN PARLIAMENT

The Commons adopted Joseph Archambault's resolution recommending to the consideration of the Government an increase of the exemption under the Income Tax from $300 to $500 for each child in the family.

Mr. Archambault also brought up a rumored agreement by which the Government would bring in fifty thousand children from homes and reformatories in Britain. It was extensively discussed and generally disapproved. Government spokesmen assured members no likelihood of wholesale immigration of delinquent children. Motion withdrawn.

THROWN OR JUMPED FROM CAR TO DEATH

Tragic Demise of Jean Ferguson in Toronto Will Be Probed

TORONTO, April 17 — (Canadian Press)—Miss Jean Ferguson, aged about 22, was almost instantly killed late last night when she jumped or was thrown from a speeding motor car. There is no clue to the identity of the other occupants of the car in which Miss Ferguson was a passenger.

Miss Doris Slade was a witness of the tragedy. She told the detectives that she was walking along the street when the motor car, travelling at a high rate of speed, shot past her, and Miss Ferguson was hurled into the roadway. The young lady alighted upon her head on the sidewalk, right at Miss Slade's feet. Horrified at the sight of the prone, bleeding form, Miss Slade, almost at the point of collapse, was able to call for assistance.

Miss Ferguson was carried to a doctor's office nearby, but she was found to be dead when examined. She came from Scotland about a year ago.

NO SLASHING IN NOVA SCOTIA BUDGET

$400,000 Increase in Province's Estimate Spendings

HALIFAX, N.S., April 17.—(Canadian Press.)—Estimated revenue for the present fiscal year of $5,454,879.06, against expenditures of $5,448,827.21, were shown in the budget brought down in the Nova Scotia Legislature yesterday afternoon by Hon. D. A. Cameron, Privincial Secretary and Treasurer. The corresponding figures for last year were revenue $5,052,381.66, expenditure $5,037,029.63. This year's increase over last year is, therefore, revenue, $402,498; expenditure, $411,797.58. Last year total actual revenue was $5,317,325.27 and total actual expenditure $5,208,210.53.

Mr. Cameron said that increase in estimated expenditure was largely concerned with the highways, agriculture department and public charities.

The agriculture department would require an increase of $31,000 owing to the loss of the Federal grant. The most substantial increase was in highways expenditure, and that, he declared, was uncontrollable. It would not be in the interest of economy to drastically cut down the work.

Mr. Cameron did not believe the Maritime Provinces were receiving fair treatment at the hands of the Federal Government in Dominion subsidies. The amount, $661,866.66, for the present year, he said, was unholly inconsistent with the grants to Western Provinces.

SHIPPING BOARD MUCH IMPRESSED BY QUEBEC PORT

Sir Halford MacKinder Calls it Dominion's Summer Ocean Port

BOARD'S DUTIES

Now Engaged in Studying Transportation Facilities of British Empire

QUEBEC, April 17. — (Canadian Press)—The Imperial Shipping Board, in Canada to study the flour rates of Canadian flour in United States ports, was here yesterday from St. John, N.B., and was received by the members of the Harbor Commission in the afternoon, while afterwards they were escorted through Quebec harbor.

Speaking at a dinner at the Garrison Club last night, Sir Halford MacKinder, chairman of the board, said that the board was out here at the invitation of the Federal Government and was studying the general transportation facilities of the British Empire. Their work was the superintending of the ocean trade routes and the Imperial Shipping Board had been formed by the Imperial Conference of 1919, while it had already adjusted a number of cases in New Zealand, Australia, Colombo and other outposts of the British Empire. The purpose of the board, he declared, was to study and suggest methods of improving trade between the distant parts of the Empire by adjusting differences in ocean freight rates.

The Shipping Board never interfered with the internal affairs of the Dominion. Interest was centred in the ocean highways. The ocean highways were the links that bound the Empire together; they were common property and as common property he felt they should be superintended on behalf of all. That, in a measure, was what the Imperial Shipping Board was doing.

In regard to the claim that there was a preference shown American flour, the board would settle the question, declared Sir Halford, and would either find a way to amicable settlement or prove one party or the other to be wrong.

He expressed himself as amazed at the port of Quebec and declared it was the summer port for ocean vessels.

The dinner was attended by the members of the Imperial Shipping Board, Sir Halford MacKinder, Mr. H. Larkin, of Australia, and the secretary, Mr. R. D. Penaully, and Hon. Gerard Power, chairman of the Harbor Board; Hon. J. E. Caron, Minister of Agriculture in the Provincial Government; Ed. G. Tangday, president of the Quebec Board of Trade, and many others.

The Australian representative on the board stated that if the Canadian exporters were paying higher freight than those of New Zealand or Australia they were in need of Divine assistance. As a matter of fact, he thought that if the Minister were to look into the cases he would not find such an anomalous position existing.

SETTLEMENT ACT

Committee Has Assisted 6,195 Emigrants to Locate in Canada

LONDON, April 17.—(Star Special Cable by J. E. Poole, Staff Correspondent.)—Since the creation of the Overseas Settlement Committee, 44,260 emigrants have been assisted under the Empire Settlement Act, 31,255 to Australia, 6,839 to New Zealand and 6,195 to Canada. These represent only a portion, however, of the total migration under other voluntary and assisted schemes, including 85,034 to the United States, 75,866 to Canada and Newfoundland, 31,583 to Australia, 7,188 to New Zealand and over three thousand to other parts of the Empire. It is significant that the yearly increase of population in Britain since 1870 has been four hundred thousand.

NEW LODGE MASTER.

NEW GLASGOW, N.S., April 17.—(Star Special.) — James A. Hislop, of Pictou, was installed Master of New Caledonia Lodge, A.F. and A.M., Pictou Tuesday night, and the other officers installed by P.D.D.G.M. Gregor MacLean, assisted by Past Grand Lodge officer John D. MacDonald and Past Masters John R. Davis, J. W. Heighton, and H. C. MacLellan. There was a very large gathering, followed by a banquet.

CANADA LEADS WORLD IN EXPORTS OF WHEAT TO BRITISH KINGDOM

LONDON, April 17.—(Canadian Press.) — The imports of wheat from Canada in the 12 months ended in March, according to a review of overseas trade by the Board of Trade, amounted to 30,437,600 hundredweight, compared with 29,559,000 from the United States.

Argentina sent 22,122,000 hundredweight of wheat to Great Britain; India, 9,849,000, and Australia, 6,218,000 in the same period.

LOWER LAKES BY EIGHTEEN INCHES

More U.S. Cities and States Bitterly Fight Chicago Plan

WASHINGTON, April 17.—(Associated Press).—C. S. Ferris, water-power commissioner, of New York; Fred C. Repp, corporation counsel of Buffalo and Harvey Goulder, of Cleveland, general counsel for the Lake Carriers' Association, appeared today before the House Rivers and Harbors Committee in opposing the Hull bill providing for a diversion of 10,000 cubic feet of water a second from Lake Michigan for Chicago's sewage system.

Mr. Goulder described the great lakes' importance as a means of transportation and said that anyone would be justified in protesting against a one and half foot reduction in depth. Development of waterways must be carried on, he said, carefully and temperately.

Representative Voigt, Republican, Wisconsin, read a protest signed by the eleven Wisconsin representatives against the Hull bill on the ground of common right and justice. Mr. Voigt added that he thought passage of the bill would violate article two of the Treaty of 1910 with Canada.

Will R. Hopkins, Cleveland, city manager, declared any lowering of the lake level would constitute a direct tax on the people of Cleveland, who, he said, were already under expense afor harbor dredging. The deviation of water for Chicago would mean loss of power from the Niagara power plants, upon which Cleveland and the surrounding territory depend.

Mr. Hopkins further claimed that the whole project was unnecessary as Chicago's system of sewage disposal was "antiquated." Cleveland, at an expense of about $13,000,000, had erected plants for sewage disposal and filtration of its drinking water, and Chicago should do the same.

Bigamist's Legal Wife Arrives With Confetti And Hinders Honeymoon

BALTIMORE, Md., April 17. — (Associated Press.)—Coming to Baltimore on hurried notice from a friend that her husband was about to be married here, Mrs. Jennie G. Reid, of Philadelphia, arrived too late to prevent the marriage, but halted the couple as they were about to start on their honeymoon.

Her investigations led to the home of the new bride, where she obtained her husband's arrest and subsequently placed a charge of bigamy against him. The arrest came just before the newly-weds planned to leave the city and while guests not yet departed from the wedding party prepared to give them a confetti send off.

While detectives visited a half dozen other churches, Mrs. Reid's husband, Reginald R. Reid, was married to Mrs. Katheryne Gleim in St. John's Lutheran Church.

Mrs. Reid based her charge on the assertion to police that she had not been divorced from her husband although proceedings were instituted in September, 1923. Reid, on the contrary, told the police that he thought the decree was to have been signed today and that he was within the law.

WILL RECOGNIZE GREEK REPUBLIC

PARIS, April 17. — (Associated Press.)—The French Government has sent instructions to its Minister in Athens to extend recognition to the Greek republic as soon as he is officially notified that it has been established.

PERSIA WORRIED BY TEAPOT DOME

Fears Sinclair Can't Raise Money Now for Oil Concessions

LONDON, April 17. — (Special Star-World Cable. Copyright.) — The United States oil scandal is perturbing Persia, according to information today from a diplomatic source.

American agents for months have been angling for the North Persian oil fields and Sirdar Spah, the Persian Premier, sought to capitalize this by suggesting a United States loan to Persia. Learning this was impossible, he offered Harry F. Sinclair a monopoly of all the North Persian fields, provided Sinclair would pay $10,000,000 cash in advance. Sinclair sent an agent to Teheran to negotiate terms.

Now, however, the Persian Government, having learned of Sinclair's connection with the oil scandals, fears cash in such large amounts will not be obtainable from this source and is opening negotiations with other aspirants.

BRITISH LIBERALS ANGRY AT LEADERS

Labor Thinks This is Real Reason for Present Activity

LONDON, April 17. — (Star Special Cable by J. E. Poole, Staff Correspondent.) — The Liberals threaten before long to stir up Labor. The Labor press this morning says that Liberal speakers have hinted at their intention to turn Labor out two months after Easter and adds that the Liberal grievance is deeper than mere resentment against Labor and in reality rests on the disappointment felt at the present leadership.

It forecasts that Asquith will retire and become Master of Balliol and also suggests that Lloyd George is seeking the backing of big interests to regain political power.

The Daily Express declares that the insurrection of the Liberal party has attained a scope which it terms a crisis and is developing hourly malcontents determined to put an end to what they term invertebrate leadership.

HONOR BIRD LOVER IN BIRD'S REFUGE

England to Erect Memorial to W. H. Hudson, Noted Naturalist

LONDON, April 17. — (Associated Press.) — The memory of W. H. Hudson, English naturalist, is to be perpetuated by an unusual memorial in Hyde Park, near where for a time Hudson lived a commonplace existence while his wife tried and failed to make a living by keeping a boarding house.

It was during this period that Hudson labored on the nature studies which are now almost a cult in England, but like many artists his work is being appreciated only after the death of its creator.

The Hudson memorial will be a small precinct of trees and shrubbery, with a decorative wall and panel in deep relief as a background. In front of the wall will be a long, shallow bird pool and a small lily pond. The little enclosure which in summer, and even during England's mild though disagreeable winter, is expected to become a refuge for the birds Hudson loved and wrote about. The sculptured panel on the decorative wall represents a maiden surrounded by birds in upward flight.

LIGHTNING FATALITY.

PORT ARTHUR, April 17.—(Canadian Press.) — Adolphe Mathot, single, 23, was burned to death shortly after the noon hour yesterday when lightning struck and fired his home in McIntyre township, eight and a half miles out. The house, a frame structure, was burned to the ground.

CHESS MASTERS IN THE FINAL ROUND

Interest Centres in Struggle for Third, Fourth and Fifth Places

NEW YORK, April 17. — (Associated Press.) — With first and second prizes definitely won by Dr. Emanuel Lasker, of Germany, and Jose Capablanca, of Cuba, interest in the final round of the international chess masters' tournament today rests upon the disposition of third, fourth and fifth places which include the last money awards.

Alexander Alekhine, of Russia, holding third place by a half-point margin over Frank Marshall, of New York, is favored to retain the position as Marshall faces Dr. Lasker, while the Russian meets Dr. Savielly Tartakower, of Austria. Richard Reti, of Czecho-Slovakia, tied for fifth with Eldfin Bogoljubow, of Ukrania, holds a similar advantage. Bogoljubow meets Capablanca and Reti faces David Janowski, of France. Cesa Marocezy, of Hungary, if he defeats F. L. Yates, of England, would tie Reti and Bogoljubow should they both draw, or pass them if they were defeated.

Tartakower, Yates, Ed. Lasker, of Chicago, and Janowski trial outside the money.

A camera man out in Los Angeles wore an asbestos suit when he rode on the front of a locomotive through a raging forest fire in order to secure some spectacular film footage.

Of course every Bride needs accessories for Bridge — cards, score pads, ash trays and these necessities make material for a shower that is a bit out-of-the-ordinary.

Joan's Shower

The crowd were in conclave. Its subject, Joan's shower. "How about cups and saucers?" suggested Anne. "A Bride simply can't have too many."

"Or sterling silver," put in Babs, "trifles too small for wedding gifts but useful things that she will remember."

"A Bridge Shower," "A Boudoir Shower," were other ideas that were met with enthusiasm.

All are good suggestions and easy to arrange if the conspirators know what a wealth of suggestions a dollar bill evokes on the shower tables at Birks.

WORLD'S BIGGEST GRAIN EXPORTER

James A. Richardson Tells of Vast Volume of Shipment

NOT ONE KICK

Shipped 67,000,000 Bushels to Europe Without Single Complaint

WINNIPEG, Man., April 17.—(Star Special.)—Not only is Winnipeg the largest grain market in the world but here resides the head of the Canadian firm that last year was the biggest exporter of grain on this continent.

This is James A. Richardson, president of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange and head of James Richardson and Son Ltd., whose head office is at Kingston, Ont.

They exported to world markets for the crop year ending August 31, 1923, a total of 67,000,000 bushels and for many years this company, established in the early history of the grain trade, has been among the largest shippers of grain from either coast.

The facts were disclosed before the Turgeon Commission when Mr. Richardson was testifying yesterday. It is significant that this huge business "worked back" as he explained, from the exporting branch to the producer. Originally the firm shipped grain, then it extended Westward as grain was grown in the Canadian West and ultimately embraced all departments of the trade from the country line elevator, terminals and overseas export, covering the markets of the world.

It was a striking picture Mr. Richardson drew of the development of the colossal production of the Canadian Prairies and the ramifications of the machinery necessary to render economical service from producer to ultimate consumer in remote regions—a Canadian-made machine to handle a great Canadian basic industry.

Under examination he said tht in his estimtion "the reputation of Canadian grain on the world's market was never as high as today. This opinion is based upon the absence of complaints as to our grade qualities and my knowledge of world trade in the industry. While my company exported 67,000,000 bushels of grain to world markets last year, which is the high water mark for any company on this continent, I did not receive a single complaint as to quality or grade."

He read a letter from Chas. Y. Hayward, of the great Liverpool grain handling firm of Proctor, Garth and Marshall, Ltd., in which he wrote, November 23, 1923, that "Your Canadian wheat this year is of very high quality, up to the usual excellence of grading. It reflect credit on the Government Department in control."

If witness had any doubt about the future of the Canadian grain trade and the continued marketing of all the country can produce in competition with that produced in other parts of the world, there was no hint of it in his evidence.

He uses the western grain route and would, he said, utilize it more in future as he found it economically sound and expeditious as an all year round port for the United Kingdom, the Continent or the Orient.

GROUP SETTLEMENT ON C.N.R. LAND

OTTAWA, April 17 — (Canadian Press).—British settlers are to be located on lands owned by the Canadian National Railways in groups of twenty families, under an arrangement entered into by the railway and the overseas settlement committee of the Colonial Office, under the British Empire Settlement Act, it was stated in the House of Commons yesterday in answer to a question.

The Canadian National undertakes to have advanced an amount not to exceed £300 to enable the settler to purchase stock and equipment and the British Secretary of State guarantees payment of the full amount of any loss incurred through such advances, but the total guarantee will not exceed 50 per cent of the total amount advanced to all settlers.

SIR THOMAS WHITE RETURNS FOR PROBE

TORONTO, April 17 — (Star Special.)—Sir Thomas White and Lady White who have been for some time in South America are expected here about 9 o'clock tonight and will be available for the Commissioner in connection with the Home Bank probe next week.

The arrival of Sir Thomas White adds to the speculation as to the successor of the late Sir Edmund Walker as President of the Canadian Bank of Commerce. Sir Thomas White, who is one of the vice-presidents will attend the board meeting of the bank on the 25th.

From the Movie Offices

THE joyous spirit of Easter will synchronise with the feeling of merriment which will permeate the Capitol theatre next week, for Harold Lloyd will be the big attraction there, and no comedian on the screen can more surely create good humor and hearty laughter than the man with the horn-rimmed glasses. "Girl-Shy" is the title of his latest effort, and it is totally different in theme from either "Grandma's Boy" or "Safety Last." Mr. Lloyd plays the role of a bashful youth from the country who makes a secret study of the fair sex, and dreams wonderful dreams of being a conquering Romeo, but who, immediately he is brought into contact with any girls, becomes scared and resorts to all kinds of amusing subterfuges to get away from them. Harold writes a book on the secret of making love—such as he has dreamed about—and on the way to the publishers sits beside a starry-eyed girl who taught the nervous youth more in a short while than all his book contained. The action is rapid and in a mad merry whirl of laughter, love and thrills such as have never before been packed into seven reels. Dainty Jobyna Ralston takes the heroine's part, and as she was in "Why Worry" knows just how to use her skill to the best advantage. Richard Daniels and Carlton Griffin are also in the cast. The overture will be selections from the King Henry VIII. suite of dances, the Morris and Torch dances.

* * *

Everybody enjoys a film that is crammed full of excitement. Next week at the Palace theatre there will be shown the most exciting motion picture ever screened in this city. It is entitled "Sporting Youth," and it is a tale of an adventurous young chauffeur who runs a race with death to win the love of a beautiful girl. It is simply packed with sensations, and the great automobile race with which it ends has made audiences rise in their seats with excitement wherever it has been shown. Briefly, the story, from the pen of Byron Morgan, author of the famous "Roaring Road" tales, tells of Jimmy Wood, a romantic chauffeur, whose ambition is to become a famous racing driver. Sent to Del Monte, California, by his employer, he finds himself welcomed, having been mistaken for a certain "Splinters" Wood, a famous English racing driver. He took a chance and went through with the thing. The fact that the real "Splinters" Wood showed up for the race, with a price on his head, and detectives on his trail, added to Jimmy's predicament. Then comes the most sensational climax in the history of Sporting Youth and its daredevil exponents in the screen. The role of Jimmy is taken by Reginald Denny, who achieved a worthy reputation for fast action in the early rounds of the famous "Leather Pushers." Laura La Plante has the role of the heroine.

* * *

Patsy Ruth Miller has come to the fore rapidly in pictures. She is one of the most vivacious young beauties of the screen, and one of the most talented. Miss Miller plays the lead in "My Man," one of the feature films at the Strand for the balance of the week. She has the role of a modern girl who brings the political boss of the town, a modern caveman, to his knees. Miss Miller's most recent picture was "The Hunchback of Notre Dame." "The Eagle's Feathers" is the added attraction on this bill. The cast includes such favorites as James Kirkwood, Mary Alden, Elinor Fair and Rosemary Theby.

* * *

"The Spider and the Rose," with the principal roles handled by Gaston Glass and Alice Lake, and Katherine Macdonald in "Refuge" are the chief film offerings at the Regent today until Saturday. What should prove another popular double bill will be shown during the first three days of next week, when Thomas Meighan and Lois Wilson will be seen in "Pied-Piper Malone" and Lloyd Hughes in "The Old Fool."

* * *

Today's programme at the Papineau, which will have its final presentation tonight, includes William S. Hart in "Wild Bill Hickok" and "The Net," with Barbara Castleton. "Pied Piper Malone" will be screened on Friday and Saturday along with a number of shorter films, including two comedies. The Melody Kings will appear as usual on Friday night.

* * *

The Belmont are offering on today's bill "Flaming Barriers," with Jacqueline Logan and Antonio Moreno playing the leading roles, "Foolish Parents," and a Mack Sennett comedy called "Sinbad the Sailor." Friday and Saturday's double programme will comprise "Black Oxen" and Wesley Barry in "The Printer's Devil."

* * *

"Thundergate," a Chinese mystery romance featuring Sylvia Breamer and Owen Moore, will be screened at the Corona today for the last time, along with "The Printer's Devil" and Snub Pollard in "Sold At Auction"? a very clever comedy creation. "The Next Corner" will be the outstanding attraction for Friday and Saturday. Conway Tearle, Lon Chaney and Dorothy Mackaill are the principal players. The Harmony Girls will be a special added attraction on Saturday night.

* * *

Corinne Griffith, Conway Tearle and Ben Turpin are featured players on today's bill at the Plaza, the two former in "Black Oxen" while the man with the funny eyes provides the comedy in "Asleep at the Switch." The Gumps will also be seen in "Uncle Bill's Gigt." Richard Barthelmess in "21" and "The Net" will be shown on Friday and Saturday.

From The Theatres

AMONG the many dancing acts in vaudeville, there are a few stand out prominently, marked by distinction of grace, of personal charm in the dancer, and by originality and refinement. Of these, the dancing repertoire given by Florence Walton is undoubtedly the most attractive. Miss Walton is the finest exponent of ball-room dancing on the vaudeville stage, and she has no more connection with jazz than a gazelle has with a buffalo. She enjoys a popularity on both sides of the Atlantic that grows with each successive season. Her partner, Leon Antrim, is with her this year, and they will provide the headline act at the Princess theatre next week. Other acts include Harry Watson, Jr., one of the cleverest burlesque artists on the stage today, who takes popular incidents familiar to everybody in ordinary life, and makes little gems of comedy, which he portrays with a fidelity very few actors can excel; Miss Juliet, whose skill as a mimic is remarkable, and whose stage impersonations and caricatures are always enjoyed; Jack "Rube" Clifford in "Camera-Eye Carter," a skit on the modern detective; Freda and Anthony, Italian comedians, in "Bartchakalloop" an argument which keeps up at a furious pace; David and Pelle in an athletic exhibition of astonishment feats, and Raymond Wilbert in a comedy novelty of a surprising nature.

* * *

The line up of vaudeville artists booked for Anniversary and N.V.A. week at the Imperial next week includes Al. Moore and his U.S. Jazz Band, featuring Eddie Mahoney and Edwin (Boots) McKenna; J. Francis Dooley and Corinne Sales; Marguerite Padula; the Four Diamonds; Charles Senna and Helen Dean and Crissie & Daley, and Tom Moore in "Harbor Lights," said to be the greatest sea melodrama ever filmed. The United States Jazz Band is a group of eleven ex-sailors who sing, dance, and make comedy while they play. "Will Yer, Jim?" is a skit for J. Francis Dooley and Corinne Sales, a melange of fun and song. Miss Padula is an artistic entertainer with a smiling personality. She sings, plays and whistles. Most of these abilities are revealed in her song studies of boys, but she has other numbers just as attractive and just as well rendered. The Four Diamonds are one of the best known families in vaudeville—three brothers and a sister in a combination of singing, dancing and acrobatics. A comedy skit called "Charlie's Night Out" will be presented by Charles Senna and Helen Dean, a couple well versed in the art of spoofing and lyric singing. Crissie & Dean are comedy pantomimists and impersonators of dolls and animals, among which they include some dancing dolls.

* * *

Strongheart, the wonder-dog, will be seen on the screen at Loew's theatre next week in "The Love-Master. "Strongheart selects his own master, irrespective of the party who has the legal title to him. The story is laid in the sparsely settled northwestern regions of Canada, centres around the mystery of a young man who has just arrived with Strongheart, and ends with the solution of the mystery and the victory of the young belle of the settlement along with the youth. A dog race provides some real thrills. The headline feature of the vaudeville program will be the Band Box Revue, featuring Ruiz and Bunnie, two charming dancers, accompanied by Gell Mann's jazz band. The City Empire Four will be represented by one member, Harry Mayo, who will appear as a character-monologuist. J. C. Lewis and Company will present "A Family Affair," a new comedy sketch, Telnak and Dean in "Calling," a new skit; Racine and Ray in songs and stories; Mack and Manus in aerial feats; and a new screen comedy, "The Half-Back of Notre Dame," will complete the bill.

* * *

For the special entertainment of the ladies who frequent the daily matinees at the Gayety theatre, Jean Bedini's "Chuckles of 1923" will display an array of beautiful costuming and brilliant scenic effects in the unfolding of a revue type of burlesque featuring Cliff Bragdon and "Coo Coo" Morrisey as the shining lights of comedy. The London Oxford Girls in stunning displays of styles will be featured for their dancing in unison, while Edna White and Norma Barry will lead the various musical interludes of song and dance. The Sterling Saxo Four will jazz; Pat Kearney and the Four Pashas and Henri Permane will also be prominent in the cast.

U.S. NAVY LAUNCHES ANOTHER CRUISER

PHILADELPHIA, April 17 — (Associated Press.) — The fourth of five light cruisers of tremendous speed, built or under construction at Cramps shipyard for the United States navy was launched today. She was christened the "Memphis." The new cruisers combine the duties of scout cruiser, flotilla leader, mine layer and airplane carrier. Their speed is 35 knots an hour.

The main battery consists of twelve 6-inch rapid fire guns, while the secondary battery consists of two 3-inch anti-aircraft guns and two 3-pounders.

National Vaudeville Association Benefit Week Opens Monday

Next week will be known as "N.V.A. Week" all over the vaudeville circuit, both throughout Canada and the United States. At every vaudeville theatre in the country collections will be taken up in aid of the Benefit Fund of the National Vaudeville Association. Last year these collections, with three big benefit performances in New York City, amounted to nearly $250,000. This money is distributed with the maximum of efficiency and the minimum of red tape, in a profession where the need of funds is often very pressing. There are 20,000 names on the N.V.A. books, representing every vaudeville circuit in America and every nationality in the world.

An average of fifty letters containing appeals for help is received daily by Henry Chesterfield, Secretary of the N.V.A. These letters tell of accidents, illness, or business troubles. They are immediately investigated by the nearest responsible vaudeville manager or agent, at the telegraphed request of Mr. Chesterfield, who also authorizes the investigator to advance money on his own discretion, to be refunded by the N.V.A. In cases of desperate need the case is investigated and the money given often within twenty-four hours of the request, thus doing away with the delay and the formalities which are the horror of many organized charities.

The N.V.A. carries on its lists 153 persons who are permanently disabled, through illness or old age, and who will receive monthly cheques as long as they live. These cheques amounted to $6,650 during the month of February last. For the same month $4,500 was paid out to tubercular patients in Asheville, Saranac and Denver, in cheques varying from $40 to $200 per patient. Emergency cases vary from temporary aid of a few dollars to such a sum as $2,500, recently paid to care for a man accidentally injured in target practice with a revolver, and obliged to undergo serious operations. Artists stranded abroad are brought back to this country at the expense of the N.V.A. and cared for until they are on their feet again. Not all of this charity is in the form of outright gifts, for the N.V.A. also lends, without interest, over a hundred thousand dollars yearly to members in temporary straits. It is a charity deserving of generous public support.

Return Noted to the Imaginative in Drama, Says French Dramatist

The tendencies of modern drama are towards a return to the imaginative and to fantasy and away from realism and the naturalistic movement, in the opinion of Francois Porche, French dramatist and playwright, who lectured last evening in the Royal Victoria College under the auspices of the Alliance Francaise.

The theatre will have its best chance with a renewal of the imaginative, towards which there has been a steady movement since the war, particularly in France, where the naturalistic movement appears to be coming to an end, Mr. Porche considers. Naturalism grew out of pessimism, he pointed out, and in France, now surrounded by the uncertainties of peace, the desire was for the diversion of farce and satire. Not only in France was this movement seen. Plays in which the imagination was given full rein had proved successful in New York and in Rome.

Touching on fantastic works of the theatre, Mr. Porche stated that he considered "The Tempest" the best example of Shakespeare in the romantic vein. He also instanced the works of de Musset and Moliere as works in which the fantastic touch had full rein.

Ruth St. Denis And Denishawn Dancers In Choreographic Poems

A notable feature of the dance programs to be given by Miss Ruth St. Denis, Ted Shawn and the Denishawn Dancers at the St. Denis theatre on Monday afternoon and evening and Tuesday evening next week will be a new choreographic poem, entitled "The Spirit of the Sea," in which Miss St. Denis will portray the varying moods of the sea, with five members of her ballet. "Istar of the Seven Gates" is a ballet based upon Babylonian legend and incorporating some of the ancient Babylonian dances. It will be given with an elaborate Oriental setting.

FINE CONCERT BY NEW ORCHESTRA

Montreal has a symphony orchestra, it played, at the Windsor Hall last night, a good program of excellent music; it played it splendidly, —and, for all the audience that it had, it might as well have been playing at Dominion Park on a wet evening in October. Of course one goes to hear a new orchestra prepared to make certain allowances; it is generally supposed that it takes some time to find just the right people and to get them working well together; but last night there were no allowances to be made. Few people,—perhaps no one but Mr. Gagnier,— can have know that so many good orchestral players could be got together in Montreal, and it was quite startling to discover that so fine a body of performers could be produced here in a short time. The number of them is not very large, but it is quite enough for the hall, in which, for want of a better, it must at present play.

No fault could be found with the program. It began well with Weber's "Euryanthe" overture, which was followed by a "Petite suite" of Henri Busser,—fairly light music, but very graceful and charming. The big thing of the program was Schumann's first symphony in B flat. This, for some reason is not often played,—has perhaps never been played in Montreal before,—but is none the less worth hearing. It is very interesting for its conflict between classical forms

Pierre Monteux

Who will visit Montreal, for the last time as director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, on Wednesday, 23rd.

and romantic tendencies, and is full all through of the sort of beauty which Schumann never failed to put into anything that he wrote. Ravel's "Pavane pour une Infante defunte," is quite delightful, with an odd, rather melancholy, charm, and it gave the orchestra an opportunity of showing how well they could do in a thing that requires delicate playing. The "Suite Algerienne," very characteristic of Saint-Saens, contains a little of all kinds, especially, of course, of oriental imitation. Particularly pleasing, both in itself and its performance, was the "Reverie du soir," and nothing could have been better than the life which the orchestra put into the military march which ended the suite and the concert.

* * *

There was too, for good measure, some very fine singing by Miss Ethel Denault in two groups of songs. The first song, Saint-Saens' "Printempts qui commence," was accompanied by the orchestra, the others on the piano by Mr. Jolicoeur. They were "Danny Boy," which is the Londonderry air with new and not very good words, Cowen's "Snow Flakes," Gretchaninoff's "My Native Land," which is perhaps too evidently the native land only of a Russian, the old French "Bergere Legere" and two of the songs which Miss Denault sang so successfully at a recent recital,—Dalcroze's "Chere Maison," and Pesse's "Dreams." If Miss Denault takes second place it is only because we all knew how well she can sing, but we did not know how good an orchestra we have and can have. She helped to make it possible to say that everything in the concert was good except the audience.

* * *

Such an audience!

A theatrical company was once playing in a small town, and, when it was time to begin, the manager looked out through the curtain and then, turning to his actors, said, "It's all safe boys, we still out-number them." This happened in a small town in Ontario, but Mr. Gagnier could almost have said the same thing to his players last night. Yet the Montreal public likes orchestral music. Every one knows that it likes it,—at least when it is foreign and expensive. Of course it is a good thing to let the best orchestras come here to play to us occasionally. It keeps up the standard and shows us what we may hope to have some day, —if we deserve it; we shall not deserve it if we treat a good Montreal orchestra as we did last night. This was the first concert of a series; there are three more still to come. The next will be at the Windsor Hall on the evening of Wednesday, 30th. Everyone who professes to care for music should try to be there, not merely to help towards the founding of a permanent Montreal orchestra, though this is a good reason, but to enjoy a good concert of really fine orchestral playing. If this sounds too good to be true, just ask any one who was there last night.

Frank Priestland Goes To Tackle The Business Of Baseball

After a year in the exacting position of manager of His Majesty's theatre during one of the most trying periods in the history of that house, Frank Priestland leaves today for a long holiday as business manager of the Maple Leafs baseball club of Toronto, owned by L. A. Solman, the well-known Toronto theatre magnate. Mr. Priestland has been a baseball enthusiast for years, and his experience in the manipulation of difficult situations should be of value to him now that he is about to embark on a period of plain sailing such as every baseball club manager's job is well known to be.

Duffy Players Will Present Melodrama For Opening Sunday

The new Stock organization at the Orpheum, known as The Duffy Players, will make its bow to Montreal on Sunday night in a popular melodrama, "The Cat and the Canary," a thriller well worth seeing, if you enjoy having your spine made to feel chilly. The role of Annabelle West, the heroine of this spook drama, will be filled by Miss Margaret Knight, well known to and popular with stock patrons here. The hero who is no hero, Paul Jones, will be portrayed by Mr. Duffy himself. There will be matinees on Monday, Wednesday and Saturday of next week. Rehearsals are proceeding smoothly, and with new equipment both on and off the stage the director, Mr. Frawley, hopes to make the opening successful in every way.

PUBLIC HEALTH AND SAFETY ARE MAIN OBJECTIVES

Mayor Duquette Delivers Inaugural Address Before City Council

ELECTIONS

Jarry Replaces Turcot on Executive—Sansregret is Council Leader

(From Last Night's Night Edition.)

Volleys of cheers from a crowded Council Chamber greeted Mayor Chas. Duquette as he made his official bow to the public at three o'clock yesterday afternoon, at the first meeting of the new council.

Without preamble he commenced the business of the day, calling for reading of the minutes of the last meeting, April 3. Immediately these were accepted as read on motion of Aldermen Sansregret and Vandelac, the clerk then proceeded with the reading of the official report of the elections.

Acclamations, fourteen in number, were read first, after which the contested wards were announced, to the number of 21. The official proclamation was read by Rene Bauset, City Clerk.

The seven new aldermen were present, as well as the old members re-elected.

Ald. Trepanier moved, at the completion of this report, that the council go on record as recommending that radical measures be taken to prevent corruption during elections. He suggested that only those positively identified as qualified voters should be permitted to receive a ballot.

Ald. Sansregret drew attention to the fact that the Mayor had not as yet delivered his inaugural address, and the speaker desisted.

HEALTH AND SAFETY.

In his first public utterance, Mayor Duquette, speaking from his chair, pleaded for unity among all races and creeds, economy in administration, and hard, conscientious work on the part of the new council.

He thanked the public for its confidence, and promised to acquit himself of his task with devotion, and asked for the co-operation of the council, executive and public.

Public health and safety would take first place in his efforts, coupled with the objective of making Montreal the most beautiful and most progressive city in America.

"I count on all to help maintain and encourage this object," the Mayor said in closing.

He then read the same address in English. Cheers broke forth as the First Magistrate concluded.

The council then officially began its order of business.

MAYORAL ADDRESS.

Mayor Duquette said:

"Your first thought, as well as my own, at this moment, must be for the population of our great city of Montreal that has honored us with her confidence and our first words should, therefore, be expressions of gratitude. The honor bestowed upon us includes a mandate—and we must more or less forget the honor to remember only the mandate which binds us to devote our efforts to the best interests of the city.

"I have the pleasure of being personally acquainted with most of the members of the new council, and I am confident that harmony will reign among us, as it exists between the various ethnical groups that make up our population. Our city is famed for its broadmindedness and the kind consideration which each race has for the other races—and this mentality, this spirit should be reflected by the members of this council. Progress is well nigh impossible if such an attitude is not adopted by us—and our city, which is already Canada's metropolis, should also predominate by its model administration and its exemplary "bonne entente." It is my sincere desire that during the term of office which is just beginning, all of us work with this one purpose in view, and I have no doubt that we will.

"I urgently request the heads of all municipal departments as well as the rank and file of civic employes to spare no efforts in the faithful accomplishment of their respective tasks. I firmly believe that municipal employes should be treated with justice and equity. Because of their positions most of the civic employes come in direct contact with the citizens, and it is my desire that any and all persons who call at the City Hall be received courteously, be given any and all reasonable information and guidance they may require, and receive the best possible attention.

PUBLIC SAFETY.

"One of the new Council's principal tasks will be to assure an economical administration. Though our credit is good, we must not abuse it. You must not conclude from these remarks that I am in favor of so restricting expenses that the development of the city may suffer thereby. No — between economy and parsimony there is a vast difference. I hold the opinion that our city should be administered with the same care and prudence as is a well organized business enterprize —and I know the new Council shares this opinion with me.

"Public hygiene is a point on which I desire to insist particularly. It is of the utmost importance that the Public Health By-laws be strictly applied and that additional By-laws be added, if deemed necessary, in order to effectively prevent contagion or infection. Our streets particularly in the early spring, are generally in a most lamentable condition and are often microbe-breeding media. Possibly our lanes are not as free of garbage and dirt as they should be. I express the hope that before long our city will be among those that are pointed to in pride for the sanitary condition of their streets and lanes and their advanced methods of preventative hygiene.

"It is evident that if I attach so much importance to the protection of the citizens' health, I must attach much greater importance to the protection of their lives and property. Recent and very sad events have caused considerable anxiety and uneasiness among our population. In many quarters people are wondering if the citizens are sufficiently protected against outrages such as are daily reported in the press. This is a question which must be given careful study to determine whether or not it will be necessary to improve the police service or modify it so as to assure maximum protection to our citizens.

"We cannot ignore the general movement throughout the country for the beautifying of the cities and towns. Montreal already is the Mecca for tourists and it is important that those who visit our city take back with them a good impression and excellent recollection of their sojourn among us. Are we quite sure that, at the present time Montreal is as beautiful as it could be? Is it not so that if each and everyone of the citizens exercised a little bit more of civic pride in the upkeep of their individual properties, the streets would present more creditable appearance?

"I urgently recommend the preparation and adoption of a model plan for the entire Island of Montreal, so that the city may continue to grow and spread out beyond its present limits, follow in a pre-established plan and thus avoid useless and extravagant expenditures.

"Your first, and possibly most important duty, is to appoint the members of the Executive Committee, who, according to the Charter, are the real administrators of the city. In selecting these members it is of the utmost importance that you be guided only by the general interest of the citizens and forget local interests or personal preferences.

"But in order to accomplish the improvements which I have briefly outlined, I must not only have the support of the members of this Council, of the heads of municipal departments and of the city employes generally—but, above all, I must have the support of the public. I therefore request that the citizens help me in the accomplishment of the task I have set for myself. If I have public support, with the help of Providence, I feel confident that I will have no difficulty in reaching the goal I have set for myself in my work for the city and that the meetings of this council will be fruitful in results which will be advantageous to our dear City of Montreal, which we ardently desire to see even more prosperous and greater than it is."

BRODEUR CHOSEN.

Ald Brodeur was elected chairman of the executive committee, and Ald Bedard, Desroches, O'Connell and Jarry, members by a vote of 28—7 this afternoon.

Ald. Nap. Turcot, former member, is the only one of the old board to be dropped. The slate was elected en bloc on motion of Aldermen Rubinstein and Mongeon.

Ald. Riel, St. Eusebe Ward, was unanimously elected pro-Mayor for the coming three months.

Ald. Sansregret was re-elected leader of the council by acclamation.

MURDER TRIAL OPENS; STORY OF BANK CAR HOLD-UP IS RETOLD

Guns, Rifles, Masks and Money Feature Exhibits in Evidence Presented Against Serafini and Niegri, Alleged Bandits

(From Last Night's Night Edition.)

Joseph Serafini and Ciero Niegro faced the preliminary inquiry in the charge of murder laid against them by a coroner's jury last week, in connection with the killing of Henri Cleroux in the recent hold-up of the Bank of Hochelaga collection car before Judge Perrault this afternoon.

A separate indictment lies against Mary Serafini, on a similar charge, and defence counsel insisted that the two indictments be dealt with separately.

Several witnesses were heard during the afternoon, repeating mainly evidence given in the Coroner's Court a week ago, relative to the details of the hold-up, the finding of the bandits' car with the dead man Stone in it, and the various exhibits which were shown as having been collected by the police and detectives in connection with the case.

The two accused were freshly shaven, tidily dressed, and presented a distinctly less repulsive appearance than they did in their rough garb and with unshaven faces at the inquest.

At the opening of the hearing, Mr. Calder asked to have the prisoners tried together, as if there were only one indictment against them all, but Alban Germain for the defence, objected to this, and Mr. Calder withdrew his request.

Mr. Germain asked that all witnesses for the Crown, including the police and Crown officers be excluded. The order was given by the court, and all witnesses withdrew.

Dr. Wilfrid Derome, morgue medico-legal expert, gave similar testimony to that which he gave at the coroner's inquest. He described the wounds he found in the body of the victim Cleroux, and produced the bullet he had found and which apparently caused the death of the victim.

A Winchester .32 rifle shown him by Mr. Calder, seemed to the witness to be capable of having fired such a shot. He identified bullets which were produced, as bullets of the explosive, soft-nosed type. The bullet which killed Cleroux seemed to be of the same type as far as he could tell.

DR. DEROME'S EVIDENCE.

In addition to the various exhibits which Dr. Derome showed at the Coroner's inquest, he produced a Smith and Wesson .45 revolver and a .32 gun of the same calibre, which had been handed to him by the detectives who had gathered up the weapons believed to have been used in the bank holdup.

The other arms produced were a collection of repeating rifles, shotguns and revolvers, with quantities of ammunition suited for use in these arms.

The doctor produced a mask made of pieces of two stockings and a piece of muslin, sewn together, an empty cartridge case, a pair of scissors, the glass frame produced before the Coroner, with the separate pieces of a mask and a piece of dark cloth spread out on the glass.

He drew attention to the resemblance between the different pieces of cloth, and pointed out that the pieces of mask corresponded clearly to the places where pieces had been cut out of the bigger piece of cloth. He also produced a long narrow cutting of similar cloth, which could also be matched to the cloth on the frame, as regards quality and texture.

Cross-examined by Mr. Germain, the witness declared that he had examined the powder found in the barrel of one Winchester rifle produced. It seemed to have been fired recently, but it was hardly possible to fix to a day the time that might have elapsed.

DEATH CAME QUICKLY.

The victim Cleroux must, from the nature of his wounds, have been shot quite near to where he fell. Death must have been very rapid.

Dr. D. D. McTaggart, morgue autopsist, next testified that he had assisted Dr. Derome in the autopsy, and agreed with him that the bullet wound in the body of Cleroux was the cause of the victim's death. He agreed with Dr. Derome that the bullets found were soft-nosed bullets.

Joseph Avila Cleroux, 584 Colombe street, father of the murdered chauffeur, testified to having identified his son's body at the morgue.

Maurice Thibodeau, messenger of the Bank of Hochelaga, told the story of his day's round on the day of the murder, naming in order the various branches of the bank he and his colleagues had visited, to collect the funds for the head office.

When his story brought him to the Ontario street subway, he declared they suspected nothing till suddenly they found themselves covered by men with rifles, and heard firing. Two men came to the door of the car and took bags of money out. So far as he could see, there were six or seven men in the attacking party.

He thought he recognized Coro Niegro as one of the men, but he could not see the face, and was mainly guided by the build and size of the man.

SAW CLEROUX FALL.

Constable Israel Pelletier told how he had followed a car which aroused his suspicions on Ontario street east, and the chase had led him into the battle around the bank car in the subway.

He saw Cleroux come down from the car, firing on the robbers, until he fell backwards to the ground. The constable produced the revolver he had taken from Cleroux's hand, with three cartridges which were still in the magazine.

He produced the revolver he used in the fight. When his weapon was empty and he found he had no spare ammunition with him he turned to another constable who had arrived, and the latter went to get more cartridges. When they got ammunition they started in pursuit of the robbers who had made off in their car.

MONEY IN COURT.

Alphonse Hart, an employe of the Bank of Hochelaga, produced a parcel of bank notes carefully wrapped up and sealed, opened the parcel and filed the notes.

Arsene Lapointe was called but did not answer. With the consent of the defence, his deposition before the coroner was read, telling how he had found the abandoned car of the hold-up men.

Constable Theobald Mercier testified that he was the first policeman to see the abandoned car with the dead man inside. He had not interfered with the arms, or anything else inside the car.

Detective Laberge told how he went with Detective Beauchamp to see the abandoned car, and found Constable Mercier guarding it. He identified the revolver he had found in the pocket of the dead man Stone, whose body was at the rear of the car. He also identified two masks he had found in the car. One of them was, as far as he could tell, the mask which Dr. Derome had since taken to pieces and laid out on a glass frame.

Detective Pusie identified various arms, ammunition and other exhibits which had been brought to him by various detectives, and which he had handed over to Dr. Derome.

He produced four bank of Hochelaga statement forms showing the amounts of packets of money, two of them original and two carbon copies. These had been found in possession of the dead man Stone; also a mask apparently made from a woman's stocking.

Albert Sincennes, architect, produced plans of the Ontario street subway and also of the house at 57 Coursol street.

WOULD TAX WAGES LESS THAN INCOME OF INVESTMENTS

Government Will Consider Differentiation in Rates Assessed

SALARY CAPITAL

Quebec Members Scheme Provides Three Rates for Income Tax

(From Last Night's Night Edition.)

OTTAWA, Ont., April 16. — (Canadian Press.) — The House of Commons this afternoon adopted a motion proposed by Joseph Archambault of Chambly-Vercheres favoring consideration by the Government of amendment of the Income Tax Act:

(1) To increase from $300 to $500 the exemption granted to each child.

(2) To differentiate in the amount of taxation against invested capital and that placed against revenue derived from salaries or wages.

(3) To grant to people married under the community regime an exemption equal to that which is granted to people married under the regime of separate maintenance.

OTTAWA April 16. — Star Special by Own Correspondent.) — Four petitions on the subject of Church Union — two in favor of it and two against — were presented in the House this afternoon by Mr. Elliott of Dundas and Dr. Rankin of North Perth. There was a further petition from the constituency of Weyburn, asking relief for depositors of the Home Bank.

It was agreed unanimously that when the House adjourns tonight it will not resume until Thursday, April 24.

This is the last private members' day of the session and the resolution taken up was that of Joseph Archambault of Chambly-Vercheres who proposes reform in the income tax under three heads: (1). To increase from $300 to $500 the exemption granted for every child; (2), to differentiate in the amount of taxation against invested capital and that placed against revenue derived from salaries or wages; (3), to grant to people married under the community regime an exemption equal to that which is granted to people married under the regime of separate maintenance.

Mr. Archambault said his task was simplified by the fact that during the week the Government had given notice conceding the first point of his resolution.

He went into an elaborate argument to show that income which comes from wages should be taxed to less degree than that which comes from the possession of invested capital. The salary of a man, he held was his capital. When he died his family might be left nothing because of the domestic outlays that are necessary. It was unfair to tax $5,000 derived in salary at the same rate as $5,000 derived as a return from $100,000 of invested capitol. One disappeared with debt while the other went on.

Mr. Meighen thought it unfair to tax a farmer who had laid up a little money and was living quietly on it at a higher rate than was paid by the salaried man.

Mr. Archambault favored taxation on the basis of 6 per cent on invested capital, 4 per cent upon those who without much capital had saved up a certain amount, and 2 per cent on the ordinary salaries or wages.

Dr. Fontaine, of Wright County, seconding the resolution, made much the same argument as Archambault. He also congratulated the Government on the increase in the exemption for children.

Mr. Meighen expressed himself as in accord with the increased exemption for children. He was not convinced that there was any difference between income, whether from salary or investment so long as it was honestly obtained. It would be impossible to distinguish between different kinds of income derived from investment. Such as was suggested by the member for Chambly.

He thought that in the Quebec case cited where husbands and wives get two exemptions if they own property separately, but only one where they own property. Jointly the seeming anomaly might be rectified by a common basis of exemption.

Paul Mercier, of Westmount-St. Henri, supported the resolution strongly.

GRAND CLEAN-UP CAMPAIGN NOW PLANNED FOR CITY

City Improvement League Has Week Set Aside and Immediate Start

CITY HELPS

Definite Object for Each Day of Clean-Up Week Allotted

(From Last Night's Night Edition.)

A whirlwind campaign to usher in clean-up week which was set for May 18-24 by the Civic Improvement League at its meeting yesterday has been planned, to take effect immediately. The special clean-up committee of the association met at the City Hall with members of the civic administration and directors of the various departments and decided upon the above date. The week proper has been set apart for demonstrations in various phases in civic health and cleanliness, and this will be preceded by talks, films and communications from the different departments heads and interested promoters.

The meeting was presided over by Dr. W. G. Kennedy, while Dr. W. H. Atherton secretary, assisted, with H. A. Terreault, Director of Public Works; Jules Crepeau, Director of Public Services; Chief Raoul Gauthier, of the Fire Department; Deputy Chief Leggett, of the Police Department; M. J. Nantel, superintendent of Roads; Dr. S. Boucher, Director of Public Health; Ald. Desaulniers, treasurer of the League; E. Bernadet, Superintendent of Parks and Playgrounds; W. J. Delaney, representing Montreal Publicity Association; Harry FitzGerald, of the Lions' Club; John Mulcair, of the Kiwanis.

At the outset May 18-24 was definitely chosen for a general clean-up of the city in every way, and every day is to be set apart for some particular object.

Thus, Sunday is "Sermon and Education" day, when churchmen and teachers will be asked to impress on their congregations and charges the necessity of cleanliness and the manner of observing the week.

On Monday, public health and hygiene will receive particular attention. Tuesday is reserved for fire prevention and protection; Wednesday is "law and order day," when civic by-laws regarding health and cleanliness will be published and commented on, and incidentally, more particularly enforced.

Streets and lanes will receive their attention on Thursday, and Friday is reserved for painting, varnishing and polishing.

Saturday will be devoted to beautifying lawns and gardens. Citizens are urged to keep their minds fixed upon the above schedule and co-operate with the league in making the week a success.

The Mayor will be asked to publish a proclamation setting this week aside for the above purposes, and monster parades are planned for May 14-15 in which the firemen, with band and equipment will take part. Manufacturers and merchants are asked to equip vehicles to take part in this turnout. Police, mounted and afoot, will lead the way, and city department equipment, including road cleaning apparatus, etc., will take part.

On each day of the week, a particular division of the fire department will parade its own territory.

The meeting adjourned until Wednesday next.

BOGUS MINISTER SENT TO PRISON

Two-Year Term Given "Assistant Pastor" of Toronto Church

(From Last Night's Night Edition.)

TORONTO, April 16—(Star Special) —The adventures of a man who broke into a Methodist Church, stole a box of tools, returned a week later and while interviewing the pastor managed to steal a church collection box and a pack of concert tickets, after which he went around Toronto representing himself as the assistant pastor, was described in the police court before Judge Jones today.

William Durham, the accused, of no fixed address, called on many parishioners of the Bond Street Methodist Church selling the tickets he had stolen. Finally he called on Mrs. G. Smith, of 250 Jarvis street, and while she was taking the ticket it is charged, he managed to steal her purse with $10 in cash. He was sentenced to two years in the Kingston Penitentiary.

Detectives Jones and Williams arrested him after he had been chased through the streets in the early morning in his bare feet.

LAYMEN MET HERE ON CHURCH UNION

(From Last Night's Night Edition.)

A meeting of lawmen called to consider the Church Union Bill and the effect of the recent action of the Private Bills Committee in the Ontario Legislature, was held at the Y.M.C.A. Drummond Street, this afternoon.

G. A. Warburton presented a statement to the meeting in which he explained that the time had come for the people of Canada to realize that the present situation of the Church Union movement is not a contest between two groups of Presbyterians, but a fight for majority rights in which the entire body of Congregationalists and Methodists and the vast majority of Presbyterians are concerned.

The issue raised through the action of the Private Bills Committee involves one of the rights of the State to decide as to the action of the Church in spiritual matters.

There is no doubt but that the issue had endangered the whole Church Union movement, and if it proceeded further will involve the country in agitation that is neither desirable nor necessary. The co-operation of the laymen is being secured to bring the gravity of the situation to the attention of the legislators.

CITY IS GRANTED SUBWAY RIGHTS

ATWATER CASE

Decision is Delayed—Telephone Dispute Heard by Board

(From Last Night's Night Edition.)

At yesterday afternoon's sitting of the Railway Commission it was stated that with regard to the Tramway Company's application to construct a line across the C. N. R. tracks on Atwater, the representatives of the Tramway Company and the C. N. R. had agreed that no part of the cost should fall upon the C. N. R. should the proposed line be constructed.

There was no indication given as to when the Board will give the decision but it is not likely to be for some time. It is understood that the whole matter will be brought up before the City Council within fourteen days' time.

The Board's judgment in the Chateauguay case (No. 1) was that the municipality should have permission to construct the road crossing when they were in a financial position that would enable them to do so.

An application was made by the C. N. R. for permission to cross St. Marguerite, St. Phillip and St. Ferdinand streets with two switching leads to serve St. Henry coach yard.

On behalf of the C. N. R., Mr. Frazer stated that at present switching is done on the main line tracks. This would enable switching to be done elsewhere and so increase safety.

Mr. Butler, for the city, stated that he opposed it because it would be an additional track and increase the danger and inconvenience to the public.

The Board on consideration granted the application.

Mr. Frazer, for the C. N. R., drew attention to a request for tracks to cross Rose de Lima St. This was the only way to reach the proposed freight shed there. We hear that the city opposed this.

This application was granted on condition that shunting should be done between 7 p.m. and 6 a.m.

SUBWAYS ALLOWED.

The application of the city to construct a subway beneath the tracks of the C. N. R. to join Shearer and Congregation streets, was again brought before the board. It transpired that the C. N. R. had no objections to the application to this and to the proposed subway at Greene Ave., providing that the C. N. R. had right to construct false work to carry its own traffic, to have its own engineer there, and that the work should be done in 60 days. The cost to be borne by the city.

The board granted the two applications.

An application of the C. N. R. for an order granting that company permission to cross Sicard avenue, with a spur line to serve Alex Bremner, Ltd., was granted.

A cross suit by the Quebec Farmers' Telephone Company and the Bell Telephone Company was heard. Each party to the application applied for an order that the other party should comply with the conditions of its contract.

According to the representative of the Quebec Farmers' Company, Mr. Marcotte, they entered into a contract with the Bell Company by which messages from their subscribers were carried on the Bell lines through a Bell Company wire. Mr. Marcotte alleged that owing to the growth of his company the one set of wires was insufficient to carry the messages and that the lines were overloaded and required duplicating.

In reply, Mr. Beulac, for the Bell Company, pointed out that the overloading was due to Mr. Marcotte commuting his message payments. He should make his subscribers pay the Bell Company rates as they should by their mutual agreement. The cheapness of messages was the cause of the overloading of the line and not insufficient facilities for ordinary messages, and they were under no obligation to erect another line.

Mr. Marcotte contended that the Quebec Farmers' Telephone Company had the right to make whatever charge they pleased on their own lines as long as they were taking nothing from the Bell Company, and it was his opinion that they were not. He claimed that the agreement between the two companies upheld this view, and cited figures and instances in support of his case.

Mr. Beulac cited the case of St. Jude where the local company charged a flat rate of $5 a year, instead of the Bell rates of 10 cents a message. The Quebec Public Service Commission ordered the local company to enforce the 10 cent payment and the congestion on the lines immediately ceased, and he suggested the same would be the result in this case.

The Bell Company were willing to put another line in if it was proved there was congestion with the 10 cent per message payment.

The decision of the board was left over.

EMPRESS LINER GIVEN NEW NAME

C.P.R. Atlantic Greyhound is Christened Mont Royal With Ceremony

Never again will the C.P.R. steamship, Empress of Britain sweep the main on the Atlantic lane between Quebec and Liverpool.

Yesterday, the liner converted from an all-first class passenger carrier passed into the cabin-and-third class division, and changed her name to that of Mount Royal, out of compliment to this city.

Befitting the occasion, Vernon Cardy, manager of the Mount Royal Hotel, yesterday broke a bottle of champagne over the bow of the model of the re-named steamship, outside the Mount Royal Hotel wherein the miniature will be housed for all time.

Hundreds of citizens awaited the arrival of the model from the paint shop, where it had received a general renovation and when the truck, bearing the 'ship' finally arrived, after a lengthy delay, the space in front of the hotel was a packed mass of humanity, with police compelled to make a clearance for the moving picture operators and camera fiends who had been apprised beforehand of the auspicious occasion.

When the model was finally taken from the truck and placed on a pedestal, Manager Cardy, standing at the bow of the ship, delivered himself of the words: "I have now much pleasuring in christening you, the Mont Royal" suiting the action to his words by breaking a bottle of wine over the ship—and nearby witnesses.

Following the ceremony, the model was conveyed into the vestibule of the hotel and placed in its permanent location, with the glass panelled sides later fixed over and around it. The model is insured by the C.P.R. for $20,000.

The model was built by a workman in the Clyde, Scotland, yards where the original Empress of Britain was constructed less than three years ago.

In the opinion of experts, the model here is, without exception, the finest in existence. Built to scale, it measures 11 feet from bow to stern and is complete in every detail.

Among those present at the ceremony today were Lieut.-Col. McRobie, vice-president of the Canadian Transfer Company; William C. Cottingham, son of the president of the Sherwin-Williams Company; Allan Seymour, tourist agent of the General Pacific; Alfred C. Ray, and William J. MacGowan, manager of Marine Sales Dept.

MUSIC AND PHOTO TAX.

QUEBEC, April 17. — (Canadian Press).—According to a by-law before the City Council, "every transient musician, transient photographer, mechanical piano player, or of any other instrument, shall before exercising his trade or business obtain a license for which he shall pay $10, "while a license exceeding $50 is imposed on every person soliciting or taking orders for exercising the art of photographer or preparing photographs for a benefit, in any other place than a business place entered on the valuation roll, provided that, in this last case, the rule does not apply to persons whose names are entered on the roll or to their employes.

The bylaw comes up for second reading next week.

For carrying a milk bottle there has been invented a wooden handle fitted with wires readily snapped in place around a bottle's neck.

Bad Boy "Nick Carter" Jumped Into Arms of Orthodox Detectives

"Has Nick Carter turned movie actor?" asked detectives Maloney and Tourville yesterday as they pointed to a young man, 17 years of age, who answered to the name of the well known de-tec-a-tive, the elusive sleuth of the dime novel.

The answer was "No" judged by the fact that the Nick Carter pointed to was under arrest. The original Nick had a better reputation and was more apt to be on the other side of the fence.

Clinging to him like a vine were some of the stunts attributed to Old Nick for a quest for bold bad villains of the "Give me back those papers" brand.

The 17 year old prisoner took a fancy to spout climbing on Tuesday at the University Settlement building, 179 Dorchester street. He failed to scan the surroundings with the caution of his namesake and failed to see two detectives looking his way at the moment he started his ascent. Up and up the spout he clambered until he reached a window on the second floor.

He was not going to get down, for as soon as he heard orders to that effect from Maloney and Tourville of the city detective force, he grabbed the window sill and went inside the room. The youth decided to get out some other way, and got down by a flight of stairs which ended at the back yard. He took in the situation slipped out of the yard, passed through two more and reached the Refuge building. Over this walled-in place with a ten foot high spike fence he made his way. The spikes proved his undoing and letting go his hold he dropped into the waiting arms of the two detectives who were parked outside pending Nick's appearance.

Yesterday morning he came before a judge charged with breaking entrance at the University Settlement and was held in the sum of $500 for his appearance at the enquiry next Tuesday.

BAPTIST ANNUAL

A large number of members and friends attended the supper and musical entertainment which featured the first annual meeting of the St. Lambert Baptist Church, held at the City Hall, St. Lambert, on Monday evening.

Rev. G. S. Smith, pastor of the Temple Baptist Church, addressed the gathering. A vocal solo was rendered by Mrs. E. Wilson, and other musical items were well received.

Sydney Lawrence, B.A., pastor of the church, presided at the business meeting, which followed. Officers elected for the ensuing year were: Church Clerk, George Bayle; treasurer, Hector W. Comber; trustees, J. K. Duncan, F. Harwood and W. P. Gaudry; deacons, J. B. Bunn, Chas. Comber and R. M. Walker. Gordon Jones, B.A., was appointed Pastor for the summer. Encouraging development of all church activities was shown in reports submitted.

MRS. BASIL WILLIAMS ELECTED PRESIDENT

Women's Canadian Club Chooses New Officers

Mrs. Basil Williams was elected president of the Women's Canadian Club at the seventeenth annual meeting of the organization held yesterday afternoon in the Ritz-Carlton Hotel. The other officers elected for the ensuing year are: Vice-presidents, Mrs. Pierre Casgrain and Miss Jane Fleet; secretary, Mrs. Harry P. Wright; treasurer, Mrs. Edward B. Savage; committtee, Mrs. A. W. Cochrane, Mrs. J. C. Kemp, Mrs. R. E. MacDougall, Miss Lilian M. Hendrie, Mrs. Ross McMaster, and Miss Margaret Sutherland. The report of the nominating committee was presented by Lady Drummond.

Mrs. F. H. Pitcher, the retiring president, occupied the chair. The honorary secretary's annual report stated that the Club has a membership of 2,000. During the year 86 new members were admitted, 39 resigned, and 51 memberships were cancelled for non-payment of fees. There are 373 applications on the waiting list. During the season there were given seventeen lectures, with an average attendance of 354.

The treasurer's statement showed total receipts of $16,225.48 (this including the balance of $4,056.13 from the previous year); disbursements, $13,886.13; balance in bank, $2,339.36. The sum of $500 had been voted to the League of Nation's Society in Canada.

Reference was made to the fact that at the last annual meeting the Club had endorsed a scheme for a permanent cenotaph. The project was now under way, and it was hoped the cenotaph would be completed before next Armistice Day. Mrs. J. B. Porter, for the Cenotaph Committee, stated that $1,700 had been received since the decision to erect this memorial to the soliders had been made public. The Canadian Club, had given $10,000, and the Women's Canadian Club $9,000. If the Cenotaph cost $30,000, as was expected, more money would be needed. There was to be no public appeal, but it was felt that many would like to contribute. Twenty-one designs have been sent in by competing architects, and it is hoped that by Easter the decision of the judges will be known.

A suggestion had been received that some place be provided at the Exhibition at Wembley where Canadian Club members from any part of the Dominion attending the Exhibition might meet. This had been sent to the Association of Canadian Clubs to be dealt with.

In a few remarks as retiring president, Mrs. Pitcher, on behalf of the officers and committee, expressed gratitude to the members for their co-operation and the appreciation they had shown.

THE BANDIT AND THE LASH.

THE annals of justice in this country could be searched in vain for a parallel to the scorching, stinging, contemptuous and yet stern condemnation that Judge Monet metes out to the Honorable, the Solicitor-General, for his astoundingly swift intervention on behalf of a convicted bank robber. As a comment by the trial judge on the man supposed to be his "superior officer" in the administration of justice, "Monet on McMurray" is bound to pass into a classic.

Yet there will not be a thinking man in this community but who will feel that the Judge is entirely justified in his indignation. More than that, every responsible citizen will regard Judge Monet as fighting his battle for him—the old battle in defence of reasonable safety for life and property everywhere. For that is the whole point at issue. Mr. Justice Monet no more likes to sentence a human being to the lash than does any other humane and decent man. But, having as "trial judge" heard the evidence and seen the prisoner — being therefore in a position to estimate the personal as well as the purely legal side of the case—he believed it to be his duty to impose the lash.

Yet Solicitor-General McMurray, away off in Ottawa, who was not present at the trial and —so far as we know—never saw the prisoner, intervenes in twenty-four hours, tells the judge that he was quite wrong in the most dramatic feature of his sentence, insists that he knows by instinct more about the case than Judge Monet learned by sitting on the bench and trying it, and autocratically strikes from the proposed punishment of the guilty bandit the one penalty which would shock the imagination and paralyze the evil will of the entire fraternity of thugs.

* * * *

The Solicitor-General cannot know that Montreal, in common with other Canadian cities, has been suffering of late from a murderous epidemic of crimes accompanied by violence. We are just putting on trial two men and a woman who are accused of participating in a "hold-up" at high noon on a public street with rifles as well as revolvers, in which two human beings were shot dead! It was indistinguishable from a bandit raid in a mining camp or in any community with relaxed law and order. And yet that was just one case.

Beauchamp—who was sentenced to be lashed—was one of four men to rob a branch bank at Cote des Neiges. He did not sneak into the bank at night, hoping to avoid opposition. He was not a mere safe-breaker, seeking nothing but money. He entered in broad daylight with a revolver in his hand, and THREATENED TO DO MURDER unless the bank officials submitted to his orders and allowed him to steal the valuables entrusted to their care.

When a thug sticks a revolver in the face of a peaceful citizen and orders him to stand and deliver either his own property or the property of others that thug is a POTENTIAL MURDERER. If he does not commit murder, it is only because his victim does not resist, as he has every right to do. Poor young Henri Cleroux, the plucky chauffeur of the Hochelaga Bank, did resist; and he was shot dead.

* * * *

There is an agitation in this country—which, although it is not political, even a politician like Mr. McMurray may some day come to hear about — in favor of extending capital punishment to men found guilty of robbing with violence. The feeling behind that agitation is that the reckless criminal who will risk having to commit murder—not only to get the booty he is after, but to get away if he meets with vigorous opposition—is at least as guilty as the man who, under the sway of passion or stung by some intolerable provocation, does actually take life.

It is surely quite as important for the safety of the community that the coolly calculating robber-with-violence shall be dissuaded from including "murder" in his kit of tools, as that the victim of sudden passion shall be similarly dissuaded. Moreover, it is probable that the death sentence will have more effect upon the class of cold-blooded plotters and planners of crime, who have plenty of time to think of possible consequences, than upon the murderers on impulse who often have no time to think or else care nothing for death.

If Mr. McMurray's action in refusing to permit the use of the lash in a case where presumably nothing but the ready compliance of the bank custodians prevented a murder, gives a new impetus to this agitation for the rope, it is to be feared that even Judge Monet's kindly nomination of the Solicitor-General to the post of "honorary president and patron" of the bandit association will fail to ensure his election. The substitution of the rope for the lash will not be popular with the "ready revolver" fraternity—and that is precisely why some of us would like to see it made.

* * * *

One of the features of the case which our citizens find it most difficult to understand—or even to stand—is the excessive speed with which Mr. McMurray acted. The sentence was hardly pronounced until it was cancelled. Why this astonishing hurry?

It was not at all necessary to save the convicted bandit from the bite of the one punishment he would dread. Mr. McMurray could have ordered the postponement of the first lashing until he had had time for consideration. Then he could have read the evidence, asked for and examined a report from the trial judge which would have been only decently respectful to His Honor, and at least acted on the fullest information.

That would have done two things:—(1) It would have given time for the terror of the sentence to have spread over the Continent and broadcast the news that Montreal is a bad place for bandits; and (2) it would have lent some dignity to the action of the Solicitor-General.

Parliament should find out why he acted, why he acted in such a furious hurry, and on what principle he allows some thugs to be lashed and not others. The matter cannot be left in the uncertainty that now surrounds it. The administration of criminal justice in this city would be most seriously impeded and the prestige of our judges gravely compromised if so insulting a rebuke from high officialdom were left unchallenged and unexplained.

WHAT BEATTY CAN DO.

MR. E. W. BEATTY, of the C.P.R., the head of one of the two great transportation companies of the Dominion, is qualified to discuss the practical side of immigration by reason of the special opportunities he has had for investigation. Speaking last night at Windsor, Mr. Beatty outlined a comprehensive plan of immigration under thirteen special heads. In brief, his plan is to mobilize all the various agencies engaged in the work of bringing settlers to Canada and those interested in the promotion of such a plan, in order to prevent overlapping of effort and to assure a greater volume of achievement by concentration.

In the meantime there is a practical way in which the Canadian Pacific Railway and its president can further the cause of intensive immigration.

The C. P. R. is today holding land in the following provinces:

| | Acres. |
|---|---|
| Manitoba (agricultural lands) . . . . | 135,529 |
| Saskatchewan (agricultural lands) . | 1,250,206 |
| Alberta (agricultural lands) . . . . . | 2,205,502 |
| Alberta (irrigated lands) . . . . . | 359,595 |

In addition to this the railway holds more than a million acres of unsold land in British Columbia and there are thousands of acres more in the prairie provinces classed as townsites.

The Canadian Pacific Railway has done a work of great benefit for the settlement of Canada. Mr. Beatty has himself estimated that the efforts of the railway company alone have been instrumental in bringing over 100,000 to Western Canada. Yet it is hindering the development of Canada to have three and a half million acres of agricultural land, much of it within close proximity to the railways which is held by the transportation company because the settlers have not the money to purchase. A catalogue of these lands should be compiled and distributed throughout the country, through the United States and in Europe, showing what homesites are available. Then when a settler of the right type has selected his farm he should be helped by the Government to purchase on the easiest terms at the lowest price.

No willing settler should be allowed to fail, none should have his task of success made superhumanly difficult by being forced back twenty miles from the railways (there to agitate for branch lines) while there is a single available acre of land held out of use.

MAYOR'S INAUGURAL ADDRESS

A WIDE range of subjects, each of particular interest to the citizens, was briefly touched upon by Mayor Duquette in his inaugural address before the new City Council. Incorporated in the reforms which His Worship will aim at bringing about is the administration of the city generally on strictly business-like and sane lines.

There will be ample scope for the Mayor's desire to improve health conditions in the city and to cut down the infant death rate. It is to be very sincerely hoped that special attention will be paid to the very pressing problem of lessening the spread of tuberculosis, and the provision of suitable accommodation for those whose humble means leave them pitiably helpless when attacked by the dread malady.

There will be marked opportunity for the First Magistrate in his expressed desire to work for cleaner streets, more sanitary lanes, better paved thoroughfares, the compilation of a modern town plan, and the more adequate protection of the public against the lawless. In regard to the problem of better police protection no time should be lost in ascertaining whether or not this important branch of the civic service is—as has so often been complained—very badly undermanned.

With so well an intentioned Mayor, a competent Executive Committee and City Council working in harmony, a brighter era can surely be hoped for. In the very nature of things, there will be a keen interest among our citizens to note as the months go by the marked betterments which aldermen, as well as His Worship, have pledged themselves to bring forth.

THE WORLD'S PRESS

Recognizing the Facts.

Louisville Courier-Journal: America's policy of isolation, practiced for the last five years, must be reversed. In this day of close intercommunications anything savoring of national aloofness is an anachronism. It is belied by all tendencies in the life of the modern world. What needs to be done is frankly to admit the error that was made when this policy was adopted, and to act in the light of that admission.

Slaves of Formula.

London Morning Post: The open sesame to power in these days is not a program, but a phrase. A rattle wins the attention of an infant and some mystical combination of words, brief, resounding, and meaningless, attracts and subjugates the children of democracy. We have free education, but at the same time we have enslaved minds. Whatever else democracy has done, it has not destroyed the fascination which absurdity, whether it be expressed in words or symbols, has for the average human being.

A Childlike Faith.

Manchester Guardian: The international position in the Pacific is much easier than that in Europe, and we have the advantage that in all fundamental points the right policy for this country to pursue is that in which we should have the sympathy of the United States. The creation of a base at Singapore, with its attendant fleet, looks in the other direction from the policy of understanding and conference to which we pledged ourselves at Washington. It belongs to the age of what we call, vaguely but intelligibly enough, the Old Diplomacy. We are still in that age in Europe; in the Far East we have made a bold effort to escape from it, and we must not lightly allow ourselves to be led back into the prison.

Order in Spain.

London Times: Spain is governed by a Directory which is clearly sincere in its aim and which makes not the slightest pretence of disguising its will or its decrees in the forms of Parliamentary procedure. Spain has not suffered from the change. The Directory, being most obviously human, has made mistakes, has failed in some respects to appreciate inevitable intricacies and complexities in the conduct of public business. The necessary adjustment between order and freedom has not on every occasion been wisely made. Certain arrests and banishments have been of a nature to cause misapprehension and disquiet. On the whole, however, the new regime in Spain compares very favorably with those that have preceded it.

For Germany's Advantage.

Boston Transcript: If Germany accepts and "plays fair" in the matter of the Dawes plan, she has an opportunity to become one of the most prosperous, and incidentally one of the happiest, countries in Europe. The burden put upon the country by the plan is very great, but it is well adjusted to the public and private resources; it leaves the Germans perfectly free to govern themselves and to manage their business; and even in its severest application it will not outweigh the burden, all things considered, which the people of Great Britain, France and Italy must bear for the next two generations or more. And at the same time Germany will escape, as it is now escaping, many exhausting and economically wasteful conditions to which all those countries are subjected.

Trade and Isolation.

Los Angeles Times: The official export figures for February show that we sold to the outside world $60,000,000 more products than for the same month last year and that Europe is still our best customer, that the Europeans buy more from us than all the rest of the world combined. . . . Let those who ask whether we have any personal interest in the reconstruction of Europe study and reflect on these foreign-trade figures. Unless stability is soon restored, and sound economic conditions, Europe cannot continue to buy. Take Europe from the foreign market and we would have a term of financial stress and enforced idleness in this country without parallel. We cannot continue to do business with Europe on extended credits; for the American manufacturers and agriculturists must pay for their labor and material with cash. Whether we will or no, on the prosperity of Europe depends our prosperity at home.

Keeping One's Powder Dry.

Auckland Weekly News: To limit the term "producer" to those handling tangible commodities, and to scorn as non-producers, merchants, bankers and agents of all sorts is absurd. Even soldiers and sailors, if their services are essential to keeping open and inviolate the roads between supplies and wants, are engaged in tasks economically productive. No one can reasonably say that their occupation is yet gone. The world is still restive. War is not impossible. Mr. Ramsay MacDonald has announced that part of his policy is the fostering of the League of Nations. That we all desire. Yet, when we find him, while willing to trust the League, also determined to keep his powder dry, we acclaim his common sense. He sees and acknowledges that the Royal Navy is a vital part of our national assurance scheme for keeping wants and supplies in effective relation, and is willing to spend money on it by way of necessary premium.

Violet Day.

"Buy violets! Buy violets!
And help the cause along!"
The slit mite-boxes seem to say,
Which are carried round today,
To the pavement throng.

"Here's the finest recipe
For joy o' Spring we know,
A little bit of sacrifice
(A dime or dollar is the price)
And yours her potent glow.

"Buy violets! Buy violets!
Of mauve and purple hue!
For pell-parting do not grieve,
All the silver we receive

CANADA'S STORY DAY BY DAY
By Blodwen Davies

(Copyright)

April 17

Three times was Sir Isaac Brock accorded funeral honors, though more than forty years intervened between the first and third ceremonies. On his death in October, 1813, at the Battle of Queenston Heights, he was interred while the guns of both armies sounded a sad requiem, the one for an adored leader, the other for a gallant foe. Twelve years afterwards, when Canada had erected a monument on Queenston Heights, his body was carried in solemn procession to the resting place in it. On this day in 1840 an Irish-American miscreant blew up the monument. The act that was intended to dishonor the memory of Brock resulted in a meeting around the ruins, two months later, the greatest military and civil display in Canadian history. The Canadians resolved to erect a greater and stateller memorial to one whose memory was so precious. The public subscribed $50,000 for it, and while it was being constructed Brock's body was removed from the spot. In 1854 another great procession wound its way to the new memorial and Brock's body was again interred with all the honors Canada could heap upon the memory of a great and good man.

1874 AND 1924—A PARALLEL?
The Editor, Montreal Daily Star:
Sir,—In 1874 conditions in Canada were the same as they are now. There was over-production in the United States; the Mackenzie Government reduced the tariff; and, as a consequence, between the years 1874 and 1878 the Dominion was the dumping-ground of United States products and almost went bankrupt. The stock of a great bank dropped from over 200 to 126. What will the year 1924 show? VERBUM SAP.

LOOK AFTER THE CAT
The Editor, Montreal Daily Star:
Sir—In recent letters on cruelty to animals, someone suggested giving the children in schools a lesson each day on the subject of kindness to animals; another said to give the lash without the option of a fine for cruelty to horses. Both of these suggestions are splendid; but what about the people who leave their cat or dog behind when moving-time comes? Going into a house a few years ago I found a cat with her kittens which had been left by the previous tenant in the empty house. Being a lover of animals I of course looked after the cats; but that is only one case out of many. I know of another person who left a cat she had had for ten years! All people have to do if they don't want their animals is to telephone or to write to S.P.C.A. The officials will promptly attend to the matter.

THE FLOOD OF OPIUM
The Editor, Montreal Daily Star:
Sir,—Have the good people of Montreal ever taken any really business-like step to suppress the "drug-trade?" Do they for one minute suppose that the arrest of poor little weak-minded addicts and peddlers will dam the mighty flood of opium rushing in from British India? In spite of these pitiful little local arrests there is a continuous increase in addicts. If one consults the British-India Government tax collection records one sees that millions have been collected for opium. Instead of futile punishment of the already weak and miserable, why not take up the matter with those responsible Governments which are as strong as (if not stronger than) ours? Why not go to the fountain-head and stop or capture the flood of drugs at its source? Why not do something instead of merely thinking about the subject, and get into communication with the Opium Committee of the League of Nations? If that committee got to work and actually stopped the British-India production of opium, nine-tenths of the danger would be eliminated. I for one should like to see the time when the British Empire ceased to be a partner (to the extent of taxes collected) in this horrible trade.
Montreal. NARCOTIC.

IMPARTIAL ECONOMIC SCIENCE.
The Editor, Montreal Daily Star:
Sir,—Sir Campbell Stuart's recent interview with press representatives at New York is particularly interesting. According to Sir Campbell, the British Chancellor of the Exchequer, Philip Snowdon, has no intention of reversing traditional British practice in deferring to expert advice in matters of trade and finance. Chancellors may come and go but all avail themselves of the services of able men trained in the universities and thoroughly versed in the mysteries of economics. This is in line with what Sir Arthur Currie has recently advised. Economic science must necessarily be as impartial as other sciences; it is not to be determined by mere voting at the polls any more than is the distance to Venus. Moreover, Britain, as Sir Campbell Stuart reminds us, being the great international monetary centre, has studied economics and fiscal policies more closely and with vastly less prejudice than any other nation. Her economists are the wisest in the world. I submit that Canada would do well to follow British practice, and the sooner the better. The man on the street, on the farm, in our mines and woods or by the sea would like to know authoritatively from impartial economic science what is best for Canada as a whole. Appeals to prejudice, self-interest and unintelligent and uninformed prepossessions are mischievous. Sir Campbell Stuart made only one mistake in his interview and that was in describing Adam Smith, author of "The Wealth of Nations," as an Englishman. All the world knows, of course, that Adam Smith was a Scotsman; but Scotsmen, although said to be unusually clannish, do not as a rule parade their nationality.
Montreal. J. STANLEY WEIR.

BRIDGE OR TUNNEL?
The Editor, Montreal Daily Star:
Sir,—The directors of the Montreal Central Terminal Company have had their attention drawn to an announcement on the authority of their acting chairman, that the Harbor Commissioners of Montreal will in a few days apply to the Parliament of Canada for power to issue bonds to provide funds for the construction of a highway bridge across the St. Lawrence. As the harbor of Montreal belongs to the Dominion, and as any bonds issued must be a charge on the Government property and the Government will be responsible for the payment of the bonds, it is simply an addition to the public debt, in the same way as Canadian National Railway bonds guaranteed by the Dominion. If the Harbor Commissioners of Montreal are allowed to borrow ten or twenty million dollars to spend on work which has nothing to do with the Harbor, Vancouver, which is asking eighteen million for harbor improvements, must be allowed to borrow money in the same way. Then, there is Toronto wanting thirty-four millions to improve its harbor front and railway terminals. Why should bonds not be issued by the Harbor Commissioners and the Canadian National Railway for their proportion of this really needed improvement? Then, coming East, there is Quebec. The Quebec Harbor Commissioners have never been backward in borrowing, though they have been somewhat backward in paying interest. The increase in the number of large steamers coming to Quebec will necessitate additional harbor facilities and the Commissioners could probably negotiate a round amount of their bonds. Then we have St. John and Halifax cities—that cannot be ignored, and a hundred millions could easily be added to the Dominion's obligations. The Montreal Board of Trade has taken a leading part in calling for reduced Government expenditures. What has it to say about this proposal? Members as a rule do not like to oppose expenditures in their constituencies; but what do the Montreal members think about this expenditure? Now, as to the necessity of it: The Montreal Central Terminal Company is prepared to build at once a tunnel, which would much more than double the highway accommodation now supplied by Victoria Bridge. The tunnel would start from a central point in the city. It could be completed in eighteen months and the company asks no aid of any kind from the Government. If the National Railways will assure it of a portion of their traffic, it is prepared to build a railway tunnel as well and give the Harbor Commissioners all the facilities they require for transfer of traffic between the two shores. In this way the public will get all the accommodation required without increasing the country's obligation.
C. ROSS DOBBIN,
Secretary, Montreal Central Terminal Company.

THE PASSING HOUR

THE PEOPLE THEMSELVES.

It was an open-air meeting, and a member of Parliament who arrived late, found himself on the outskirts of a huge crowd. Being anxious to get to the platform, and presuming that he was well known to the spectators, he tapped a man on the shoulder and said, "Make way there!" "Garn! Who are ye pushin'?" was the unexpected reply. "Do you know who I am, sir, said the indignant M.P. "I'm a representative of the people!" "Yah!" said the other. "But we're the people ourselves."

An old Scotsman was threatened with blindness if he did not give up drinking.

"Now, McTavish," said the doctor, "it's like this. You've either to stop the whiskey or lose you eyesight, and you must choose."

"Aye, weel, doctor," said McTavish, "I'm an auld man noo, an' I was thinkin' I hae seen aboot everything worth seein'."

A clergyman who advertised for an organist received this reply:—"Dear Sir,—I notice you have a vacancy for an organist and music teacher, either lady or gentleman. Having been both for several years I beg to apply for the position."

JURY ASLEEP.

Elihu Root, the famous lawyer, tells many anecdotes of the law courts. "Don't be long-winded," he said at a lawyers' banquet in New York. "I once fought a case against a long-winded man named Blank. Blank, in his closing speech, spouted for three hours, and then began repeating himself. Finally, on toward the end of the fourth hour, the judge interrupted him.

" 'Really, you know, Mr. Blank,' he protested, 'you've said all that before.'

" 'Have I, your honor?' said Blank. 'I beg your pardon. I'd forgotten.'

" 'I can readily forgive you, Mr. Blank,' said the judge, 'for forgetting. It was such a long time ago, wasn't it?' ".

"What is that you keep in your locket, Mrs. Smith?" "That's a lock of my husband's hair," "But . . . . but surely your husband hasn't gone, has he?" "No, my dear, but his hair has."

"What kind of a husband do you advise me to get?" "You get a single man and let the husbands alone."

In a saloon bar favored by members of the theatrical profession, two actors met one day.

"Hello," one of them said, grimly, "you're a fine fellow! Why didn't you meet me here last Friday evening as you promised?"

"My dear laddie," replied the other, "you are talking through your hat; I don't recollect having promised to meet you here."

"Of course you did," persisted the first, indignantly; "you made the appointment with me a fortnight ago."

"Well," put in the other, "I can't remember anything about it."

"But you must remember it, dash it all," went on the first man. "You made a note of it on your cuff."

The bewildered actor glanced guiltily at his cuff, and then held out his hand apologetically. "You're right," he said. "I beg your pardon."

I SHOULD SMILE!

Pussyfoot Johnson had made two converts, MacGregor and MacDuff had decided to become teetotal. They agreed, however, that a bottle of whiskey should be kept in the cupboard in case of illness.

Thee days elapsed; then MacGregor fell sick.

"Sandy, I'm ill," groaned he.

"Ye're too late, mon," came the solemn reply, "I was ill all day yesterday.

A famous barrister was examining an Irish witness whom he had reason to suspect of deliberate perjury.

At length becoming impatient, he asked the witness very impressively: "Do you know the nature of an oath, sir?"

"I do."

"Are you not aware, sir that you are commanded in the Decalogue not to bear false witness against thy neighbour?"

"I am; but sure, I'm not bearin' false witness agin him. I'm bearin' false witness for him."

U. S. CULTURE.

Now that he is safely back in England, Lloyd George is telling what he really thinks of us, and though the joke is at our expense, one can forgive him for the laughs they bring.

"In going from New York to Chicago," says the ex-Premier, "I observed a pretty little girl chewing gum. Not only did she chew it, but she insisted in pulling it out in long strings, and then letting it fall back into her mouth again.

"Finally, when the thing was beginning to get on my nerves, the child's mother leaned over and in a very audible whisper said:

" 'Marcella, don't do that! Sit up and chew your gum like a little lady.' " —Am. Paper.

Diner — "But this menu is in French." Waiter—"Quite so, sir, but the prices are in English, and that's all most of our customers read."

Brown had just been introduced to a man who stuttered. "Did you ever attend a school for stammering?" he asked. "No," replied the other, "I just picked it up."

HOW IT HAPPENED.

"And how's Mike today, Mrs. Flanagan?" inquired the doctor.

"Faix, an' he's dead, sorr."

"Dead!" said the horrified medico. "Never. Did you give him that powder?"

"I did, sorr. Yez tould me to give him what 'ud go on a sixpence, an' as Oi didn't have a sixpence Oi guv him what wint on six pennies, sorr, and — and the funeral's tomorrow, sorr."

A visitor was being shown over a village church in Essex, and was delighted with all he saw.

As he prepared to leave he said to the verger:—

"You've shown me your church, and I am charmed with it. Now, what kind of a parson have you got?"

The verger dropped his voice, and said: "You wouldn't be charmed with 'im — leastways, not when he's in the pulpit. We calls 'im a 'pudd'n-spoiler.' "

OF COURSE!

Venerable Archdeacon: "Now, my dear children, I will ask you a few questions on your Catechism. Which of you can tell me the two things necessary in baptism?"

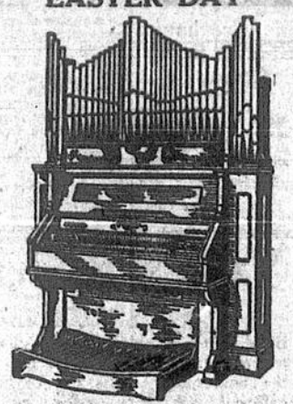

Little Girl: "Water."

"Quite right, 'water.' Water is one thing, and what is the other? What. Can none of you think what else is necessary? Well, little girl, what do you say?"

"Please, sir, a baby!"

Ethelred: There's a certain question I've wanted to ask you for weeks. Alfredda: Well, get a move on; I've had the answer waiting for months.

Next Sunday Will Be EASTER DAY

At Easter time many churches install new organs. We are constantly receiving enquiries. We have had six new organs specially built for us by the Old Reliable Dominion Company which has 100,000 organs in use. This new organ is well suited for a congregation of 500 to 1000 people, being Double-bank and electrically operated.
Also small organs for chapel use and classrooms in variety.

LIKES CANADIAN GIRLS

I am 27 years old and have travelled much in the last ten years. My roaming has taken me all over Europe, where I will make my third trip this summer. I have been all over the United States and Canada, from coast to coast, and by the way, isn't our own city of Montreal the greatest little spot under the sun? But I must say that you can't beat the Canadian girl for her attainments in the various fields of feminine activities, and say! for looks, she's unsurpassed. Oh! yes! some of 'em use paint and powder, but what of it? Is not a powdered face much better than a shiny nose or oily skin? If they want something more than a walk in the park, are they not entitled to some enjoyment in life as much as their brothers or sweethearts. If a fellow expects to spend nothing but his time with a girl, whose good years he's wasting, he'll wake up some day and find himself without her, who has gone where a little more cash is spent along with time. So give the girls a good clean form of entertainment, you'll enjoy it yourself, the more so when you realize they like you better for it. Is not variety the spice of life? So chair-warmers and lay-walkers take heed!

Serious men call me fickle when I say I love and practice most outdoor sports, am very fond of dances and parties and still in the quiet of my nook like to enjoy a good book by such as Ibsen, Hugo or Kipling.

May God bless 'em all for without the girls would not this be a sad world?

He meant woman to be the companion of man, a queen in his kingdom, not a slave at his feet. Woman was made to share pleasures and pains alike, so why not give her what the Almighty intended her to have, a full share not a half-ration.

SCOTS WHA HAE

(For "Bon Ami")

You are a good sport "Bon Ami" for coming forward to defend the Scotch against that popular myth which seems to be circulated quite freely here, about the meanness of the Scotch race in general, with the hard pedal on the Aberdonians!

That "funny" story of "Fluffy Jimmy's" sure did make me feel like having his scalp. He certainly needs to have that fluff brushed out of his thinking apparatus right away before he gets the chance to spread around any more of his "funny stories." If he is a Scotchman, as he pretends to be, we will certainly be only too pleased to disown him, and the best thing he could do is to crawl into a hole and stay there. We won't miss him in the least!

A great many people seem to confuse the words meanness and thrift. There is a very great difference in the meaning of the two words—meanness is a vice, while thrift is a virtue. I have often wondered who was the originator of that false opinion regarding the Scotch race. I have come across people belonging to different races who could leave the meanest Scotchman a hundred miles behind, and among the different races I have mingled with, I have found none so generous as my own race. I have also been told by returned soldiers who had no Scotch blood in them, that among all the warring nations in the "Great War" that they had found the people of Scotland the most hospitable. No matter how poor a Scotch family may be, they are always willing to share what they have with the stranger and nobody need go hungry or want for a place to sleep if there are Scotch people around. I would rather sit at the table of the poorest Scot than sit at the groaning banquet of a millionaire, where the atmosphere would chill the marrow in your bones.

The majority of the Scots are warm hearted and kind, and very sincere in their sympathies towards those who are in distress or in trouble of any kind; and they are very willing to help if they possibly can. Anybody with any common sense surely must understand that it is impossible to be mean with characteristics like those I have mentioned. We are not the ones to proclaim to the world the extent of our giving all the time in every good cause that helps the masses. We even give our blood sometimes for the British Empire—Britons never shall be slaves while there are "kilty sodgers" to lead the armies—and yet there are people who say we are mean.

Take this country of Canada for instance, and turn back the pages of its history and you will find that Canada owes much of its prosperity to those hardy Scottish pioneers who faced death many times and endured hunger and cold and terrible hardships in order to develop this land from a vast forest into a "Land of Promise" for the benefit of those coming after.

No Scot is ever "pushed or pulled" to the top. It is only through his own efforts and dogged determination that he gets there. He fights against obstacles every inch of the way and endures suffering and hardships with a grit that no other race possesses and with the will to win he eventually reaches the "dizzy heights." He then begins to shower down his wealth—which has accumulated during his trip upward—to build and support hospitals, colleges libraries, churches, and institutions of every kind for the benefit of all races and all creeds. You have only to look at the names of the organizers and financial backers in any important campaign for a worthy cause—to have these facts confirmed. Yet, in spite of all that we have done for this land of our adoption, there are many people who doubt our generosity and lose no opportunity of throwing in our face this slur about us being tainted with meanness.

You Canadians, who are born and bred here, do not understand what it means to be an immigrant. To leave behind you forever your homeland, the friends and associations of your youth, and to come to a strange land, poorly equipped in worldly goods, but rich in courage, where everything is so different, and to find on arriving here that instead of receiving the hand of welcome, you are frowned on as an intruder by selfish "Young Canada," who thinks you are going to steal from them some of their prosperity. You don't know anything about the trying experiences and the awful pangs of homesickness that these lonely immigrants have to contend with during the first years of their sojourn here. It does not take them very long to adapt themselves to the country and the people and then they can hold their own with anybody.

"ABERDONIAN."

THE BRIDGE.

(For a Scotch-Canadian)

I stood on the bridge at midnight,
As the clocks were striking the hour,
And the moon rose o'er the city,
Behind the dark church tower.

I saw her bright reflection
In the waters under me,
Like a golden goblet falling,
And sinking into the sea.

And far in the hazy distance
Of that lovely night in June,
The blaze of the flaming furnace
Gleamed redder than the moon.

Among the long, black rafters,
The waving shadows lay,
And the current that came from the ocean
Seemed to lift and bear them away.

As, sweeping and eddying through them,
Rose the belated tide,
And, streaming into the moonlight,
The seaweed floated wide.

And like those waters rushing
Among the wooden piers;
A flood of thoughts came over me
That filled my eyes with tears.

How often, O, how often,
In the days that had gone by,
I had stood on the bridge at midnight,
And gazed on that wave and sky.

How often, O, how often,
I had wished that the ebbing tide,
Would bear me away on its bosom,
O'er the ocean wild and wide!

For my heart was hot and restless,
And my life was full of care,
And the burden laid upon me
Seemed greater than I could bear.

But now it has fallen from me,
It is buried in the sea;
And only the sorrow of others
Throws its shadow over me.

Yet whenever I cross the river,
On its bridge with wooden piers,
Like the odor of brine from the ocean
Comes the thought of other years.

And I think how many thousands,
Of care-encumbered men,
Each bearing his burden of sorrow,
Have crossed the bridge since then.

I see the long procession,
Still passing to and fro,
The young heart hot and restless,
The old subdued and slow!

And for ever and for ever
As long as the river flows,
As long as the heart has passions,
As long as the life has woes;

The moon and its broken reflection
And its shadows shall appear,
As the symbol of love in heaven,
And its waving image here.

—Longfellow.

CHOCOLATE FUDGE.

(For G.B.)

Two cups brown sugar, butter the size of an egg, ¼-cup cream or rich milk, large square of chocolate. Let boil until it forms a soft ball in cold water, then remove from stove, let partially cool, and beat until creamy. Quarter to half-teaspoon vanilla may be added, according to taste. Pour into buttered tin and mark in squares when cool.

The following method of making Mocha Cream Fudge is often recommended instead of Chocolate fudge: The ingredients used are: One cup coffee, two squares chocolate, four cups brown sugar, a quarter cup cream, one tablespoon vanilla. Method: Dissolve the chocolate in the coffee, add the sugar and stir occasionally to keep from burning. When it will form a soft ball when dropped into water, add the cream and boil slowly until it will form a ball again. Add the vanilla, then beat until beginning to harden, pour onto buttered platter, and mark in squares when cool.

If your potatoes are dark when boiled, put a little vinegar in the water while boiling.

How to Keep Well. By Dr. W. A. Evans.

Questions pertinent to hygiene, sanitation, and prevention of disease, of matters of general interest, will be answered in this column. Where space will not permit, or the subject is not suitable, letters will be personally answered, subject to proper limitations, and where a stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed. Dr. Evans will not make a diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases. Requests for such service cannot be answered.

CONSTIPATION.

Some cases of constipation are due to irritable bowel, displaced bowel, or strictures, or something similar. These cannot be cured by simple procedures, and what I am now writing does not apply. In the majority of cases constipation is merely a bad habit, and, as such, can be corrected. The harm done is great and far-reaching. Headaches and a multitude of minor but disabling disorders are among the direct effects.

Among the indirect effects charged against constipation from time to time are some of the seven organic diseases.

The habit of taking purgatives is among the principal causes. The first step in cure consists in cutting loose from all purgatives. This includes soda, salts, calomel, laxative waters, and all forms of laxative pills. If, during the period of formation of new habits, after the use of pills and other purgatives has been discontinued, it becomes necessary to use anything, employ an enema. If enemas are used, it should be only under special need, for the enema habit is almost as bad as the constipation habit.

DRINK—Drink two glasses of water of arising. Take it warm or cold, as is preferred. Some people add salt to the water, but salt is a saline laxative. At least five more glasses of water should be taken during the day, preferably between meals, though moderate water drinking at meals is harmless.

FOODS—Eat fruit freely, both cooked and raw. Some people get good effects from eating them at night. Eat bran bread, or bran as a cereal instead of ordinary bread or ordinary cereal. Bassler's recipe for bran gems is:

Dissolve one-half teaspoonful of soda in one-half cup hot water; add three-quarters cup of molasses, tablespoonful of butter, salt to taste, two cups wheat bran, one cup bran meal, one cup milk. Mix and bake.

Stewed prunes can be eaten night or morning. The prunes are best when cooked in molasses or honey. Eat an abundance of such vegetables as onions, celery, radishes, turnips, beets, squash, pumpkin, cabbage, lettuce, peas, beans, and all kinds of salads. In addition to apples and prunes, eat all kinds of berries.

A heaping teaspoonful of lacto dextrin, taken in a glass of water half hour before breakfast, is good.

EXERCISE — All forms of exercise are good, but bending exercises are best. Nothing is better than the setting up exercises used in the army.

MASSAGE—Place the ball of the hands below the ribs at the sides of the abdomen, the fingers meeting in the middle line over the abdomen in front. Manipulate the small intestines in front with the fingers. Wait thirty seconds. Press in deep and hard with the butt of the hand for five seconds. Wait thirty seconds. Repeat.

If these measures fail, consider using agar and mineral oil.

FUMES ARE DANGEROUS.

Mrs. J. H. writes: We live in a three-room apartment, first floor, and our bedroom is directly over the furnace room. The walls are badly smoked and at night, even though the windows are raised, the room seems full of gas. Is it well to sleep in a room like this and would it affect a baby in any way?

Reply:

There is some danger. In Evanston, Ill., an entire family was recently made unconscious by fumes in a situation something like the one you describe. Two members of the family died.

WHAT SHE SHOULD WEIGH.

Miss M. K. A. C. writes: What should my proper weight be?

I am a girl of 24, height 5 feet 1 in.

Reply.

One hundred and eighteen pounds is the weight commonly given. One hundred and ten to one hundred and fifteen is a better weight for a woman of that age and height.

HOT WATER AND STEAM.

J. C. R. writes: A few weeks ago you compared the heating of dwellings with hot water and with steam. I would be glad to know the advantages and disadvantages of heating with warm air. How does it compare with hot water and steam heating in economy of fuel and healthfulness?

Reply:

Heating with hot air is inexpensive for installation, but is expensive for operation.

It is difficult to ventilate when heating is done with hot air. While it is difficult to humidify in this quality hot air is intermediate between steam and hot water heating. Humidifying is easiest where steam heat is used.

As compared with stove or open fire heating, hot air heating is more expensive to install, but less expensive to operate.

It is more comfortable than open fire heating and, on the whole, more wholesome.

A THOUGHT

The tongue is a little member and boasteth great things. Behold, how great a matter a little fire kindleth.—Jas. 3:5.

HOW IT STARTED

By JEAN NEWTON

"BRIGHT'S" DISEASE

Rarely indeed does a man earn the distinction of having his name given to a disease, as did Dr. Richard Bright. Dr. Bright, we are told, was not a great man, nor a great physician; but his career is an illustration of what may be accomplished by persistence and hard work.

The discoverer of Bright's disease was born in Bristol, England, in 1789. After having been graduated in medicine he journeyed to London, where he started to practice. He soon began specializing in diseases of the kidney. Naturally studious and careful, he collected and recorded all the information within reach, on his hobby. His observations took him into almost all of the better hospitals on the continent, where he was constantly making notes.

It was not until after the Battle of Waterloo that Dr. Bright first really gained recognition. He assisted in caring for the wounded in the hospitals of Brussels and was the first to handle intelligently affections of the kidneys. Then it was that because of his devotion to the subject and pre-eminence in its treatment that his association with it was commemorated by calling it "Bright's disease."

Dr. Bright's success was due to his powers of observation, and of course to his indefatigability. A brother physician has said of him: "Bright could not theorize, but he could see and work."

FORTUNE'S FOOL

By RAFAEL SABATINI

Buckingham did not dissemble his annoyance. "May one inquire his name?" he asked, and the question was a demand.

Albemarle hesitated. He realized the danger to Holles in naming him at this unfortunate juncture. "His name would not be known to your grace. He is a comparatively obscure soldier, whose merits, however, are fully known to me, and I am persuaded that a fitter man for the office could not be found. But something else will, no doubt, offer within a few days, and then . . ."

Buckingham interrupted him arrogantly.

"It is not a question of something else, your grace, but of this. I have already obtained His Majesty's sanction. If your grace requires more explicit instruction I shall be happy to obtain you His Majesty's commands in writing."

Albemarle was checkmated. He sat there grim and impassive as if he were carved of stone. But his mind was a seething cauldron of anger. It was always thus. The places of trust, the positions demanding experienced heads and able hands that England might be served to the best advantage by her most meritorious sons, were constantly being flung away upon the worthless parasites that flocked about Charles' lecherous Court. And he was the more angered here, because his hands were tied against resistance by the very identity of the man he was appointing. Had it been a question of any other man of Holles' soldierly merit, but of such antecedents as would permit the disclosure of his name, he would clap on his hat and step across to the palace to argue the matter with the King. And he would know how to conduct the argument so as to prevail against the place-seeking insolence of Buckingham. But, as it was he was forced to realise that he could do none of this without perhaps dooming Holles and bringing heavy censure fruitlessly upon himself. "Oddsfish!" the King would cry. "Do you tell me to my face that you prefer the son of a regicide to the friend of my friend?" And what should he answer then?

He lowered his eyes. The commission which was the subject of this discussion lay there on the table before him, the space which the name of Randal Holles was intended to occupy still standing blank. He was defeated, and he had best, for the sake of Holles as much as for his own accept the situation without further argument.

He took up a pen, dipped it, and drew the document to him.

"Since you have His Majesty's authority, there can be, of course, no further question."

Rapidly, his quill scratching and spluttering across the sheet, he filled in the name of Sir Harry Stanhope, bitterly considering that he might as profitably have filled in Nell Gwynn's He dusted the thick writing with pounce, and proffered it without another word. But his looks were heavy.

Buckingham rose, smiling, and Sir Harry bounced up with him, smiling also. For the first and last time in the course of that short interview Sir Harry spoke.

"Your grace's devoted servant," he professed himself, bowing and smirking. "I shall study to discharge my office creditably and to allay any qualms my youth may leave in your grace's mind."

"And youth," said Buckingham, smiling, to reassure Albemarle, "is a fault that time invariably corrects.

Albemarle rose slowly to his feet, and the others bowed themselves out of his presence.

Then he sat down again heavily, took his head in his hands, and softly loosed an oath.

Holles came an hour later, radiant with expectation, a gay, youthful-looking, commanding figure in his splendid red coat, to be crushed by the news that proved him Fortune's fool again, as ever.

But he bore it well on the face of him, however deeply the iron was thrust into his soul. It was Albemarle who inveighed in most unmeasured terms against the corrupt influence of the Court and the havoc it was working.

"It needed a man for this office and they have constrained me to give it to a fribble, a dolly in breeches, a painted dawcock."

Holles remembered Tucker's denunciations of the present government and began to realize at last how right he was and how justified he and his associates might be of their conviction that the people were ready to rise and sweep this Augean stable clean.

Albemarle was seeking to comfort him with fresh hope. No doubt something else would offer soon.

"To be snatched up again by some debt-ridden pimp who wants to escape his creditors," said Holles, his tone betraying at last some of the bitterness fermenting in his soul.

Albemarle stood sorrowfully regarding him. "This hits you hard, Randal, I know."

The Colonel recovered and forced a laugh.

"Pooh! Hard hits have mostly been my portion."

"I know." Albemarle paced to the window and back, his head sunk between his shoulders. Then he came to a halt before the Colonel. "Keep me informed of where you are lodged and look to hear from me again as soon as may be. Be sure that I will do my best."

The Colonel's glance kindled again. It was a flicker of the expiring flame of hope.

"You really think that something else will offer?"

His grace paused before answering, and, in the pause, the sorrowful gravity of his face increased.

"To be frank with you, Randal, I hardly dare to think it. Chances for such as you are, as you understand, not . . . frequent. But the unexpected may happen sooner than we dare to hope. If it does, be sure I'll not forget you. Be sure of that."

Holles thanked him steadily and rose to depart, his radiance quenched, despondency in every line of him.

Albemarle watched from under furrowed brows. As he reached the door the Duke detained him.

"Randal! A moment."

The Colonel turned and waited whilst slowly Albemarle approached him. His grace was deep in thought, and he hesitated before speaking.

"You . . . you are not urgently in need of money, I trust?" he said at last.

The Colonel's gesture and laugh conveyed a shamefaced admission that he was.

Albemarle's eyes considered him a moment still. Then, slowly, he drew a purse from his pocket. It was apparently a light purse. He unfastened it.

"If a loan will help you until . . ."

"No, no!" cried Holles, his pride aroused against accepting what amounted almost to alms.

Even so the repudiation was no more than half-hearted. But there was no attempt from Albemarle to combat it. He did not press the offer.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE

TO A GRASSHOPPER

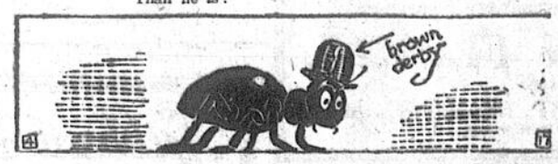

We never doubted Aesop's word,
That you were but a wastrel oaf,
Who, while your betters toiled, preferred
To sing, or lie around and loaf.
We thought our feet were well employed,
When on your form we chanced to trample;
We taught our children to avoid
Your bad example.

With Aesop we have praised the ant
Who does his work all summer long,
And never takes out time to chant
An idle, foolish buzzing song.
Although his face is somewhat grim,
The while he plies his occupation,
We've frequently extended him
Our admiration.

But now that aviators learn;
While watching your erratic flight,
The surest ways to wheel and turn
And guide their whirring planes aright;
We see, oh skilful loop-the-looper,
That you've been cheated of your glory,
For you are really not so super-
Erogatory.

As for the ant—though like a horse
He grunts and sweats the summer through,
He only follows nature's course,
And what good does the creature do?
And you, who emulate the slug,—
Whose life too dissolute and free is,
We hold you're still a better bug
Than he is!

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

LITTLEST BEAR COMES TO GRIEF.

By Thornton W. Burgess.

A harmless thing will often scare
The one who would real danger dare.
—Old Mother Nature.

If ever there were three happy young Bears they were the three in the clearing in front of Farmer Brown's sugar house, greedily gobbling up the sugar and syrup which Farmer Brown's Boy had put for them in three pails. Each had a pail. The first one to finish what was in his pail and lick it clean then dropped it and made for his brother. He was so greedy that he wasn't satisfied with his share. But by the time he reached his brother the latter was licking out his pail.

Then the two turned toward Littlest Bear. Littlest Bear was gobbling away as fast as she could. At the same time she was keeping an eye on her brothers. She saw them start toward her, and she knew they would try to take that pail away from her. She knew that they were selfish enough to do just that.

So Littlest Bear didn't wait. With the edge of the pail held fast in her teeth she started to run. Her brothers started after her. Now ordinarily Littlest Bear could run faster than her brothers, but with that pail in her mouth she couldn't see where she was going, and almost right away she ran right smack bang into a stump. It knocked the pail out of her mouth. There was only a little sugar left in the bottom of it. Littlest Bear plunged her head in and began to lick it up just as fast as she could make her tongue go. Then as her brothers reached her, she lifted her head quickly to snarl at them. When she did this the handle of the pail slipped back over her head and there she was with the pail hanging around her neck. It happened to be a tight fit. One of her brothers grabbed at the pail. Littlest Bear dodged. Then she started to run. It wasn't until then that she discovered that she couldn't let go of that pail. Somehow that pail had become attached.

This frightened her. She tried to back away from it, but, of course, the pail went right along with her. Her brothers saw something was wrong, and they, too, became suspicious and a little frightened. They sat up to watch her. Littlest Bear backed until she came against a stump with a thump. She shook her head with all her might. She couldn't shake off that dreadful thing. She stood up and got hold of the edge of it with her claws and pulled. But she simply pulled it on more tightly than ever.

Every second she was growing more frightened. She struck at it with one paw, and this knocked it around so that it was up over one ear. She looked as if she were wearing that pail for a hat on the side of her head. Then, because all her short life she had always sought safety in a tree when frightened, she made for the nearest tree, and scrambled up it as only a frightened young Bear can scramble.

It knocked the pail out of her Mouth.

The pail banged against the branches and added to her fright. She climbed just as high as she could, but of course the pail went right along with her. Then she began to whimper and cry.

GOD'S MINUTE

Great is the Lord ,and greatly to be praised.—Ps. 145:3.

WE rejoice, O gracious Lord, that Thou art willing to hear Thy children call upon Thee. No earthly ruler is as open to his subjects as Thou art to us.

From any place, not merely from a temple or a church; at any time, not only upon sacred days set apart for Thy worship; with any need or desire, Thou dost bid us open our hearts to Thee, and never dost Thou send us away without an answer.

Therefore, made bold by Thy promise and by our own experience of Thy blessings, we come to Thee once again. We praise Thee for Thy mercies, so great and numberless. We beseech Thee, O Lord, to forgive our sins, for Thou delightest to pardon: whether sins of wrong-doing, of evil passion, or of duties left undone. Forgive them all, we pray, and stamp the assurance of pardon, of peace, and of acceptance upon our hearts.

Bless us in making us more like Thyself, conformed to the image of Thy Son. Stand beside us in the hour of temptation to give us victory, and at last bring us to Thyself, to dwell with Thee forever. Amen.

FLOWERS RADIATE TRUE SPIRIT OF EASTER IN SHOPS

Fragrant Lilies, Roses in Abundance, Vivid Hydrangeas and Many Other Varieties Send Out Call of Spring and Beautiful Thoughts

Once it was Eostre . . . the golden-haired Saxon goddess, whose feet upon the April hills brought the festival of Spring. It is a more solemn and sacred holiday now, but now, as then, the symbol of each year's resurrection from the grave of winter . . . is flowers.

Spring flowers . . . "Say it with flowers" . . . the pen of the publicity man has made the phrase trite and commonplace, but how else can you say, "Easter time"?

In every florist's shop the flowers are on exhibition, each lovely variety displaying its colors in orderly rows. There are lilies . . . thousands of them . . . long stemmed and whiter than snow, radiating their fragrance and truly expressing the spirit of Easter. At this time of year they rank high in the Kingdom of Flowers, because they are more closely associated with religion than any of the rest. It is their privilege to adorn the altars and chancels of churches with their virginal freshness and purity on Easter morning.

Baskets of rambler roses bank nearly every florist's window. They are next in abundance and in popularity to the lilies and there are a dozen varieties, each with a pretty name like Dorothy Perkins or Diana. The shades range from the purest white to the deepest vermilion, and their fragrance recalls memories almost lost forever of muffled arbors, sunshine and June.

Artistic arrangement and pretty baskets of contrasting colors bring out the individual charm of every flower. Some are tied with bright ribbons and have little Japanese butterflies perched on the handles.

A vivid new variety of French Hydrangea is being shown in some of the stores. There are deep shades of pink and rose, and even some blues. The Rhododendrons and Azallas are larger and more exotic in color than ever before. Then there is a laburnum with honey-colored blossoms whose tremulous branches seem almost unable to bear a beauty like as theirs.

Everywhere in the florist's shop there is the rich odor of roses, the fairest flowers of all. They have furnished inexhaustible themes for poets and musicians for many centuries, and have played their part in wrecking and making empires. In the proud toss of their heads and the curled tips of their perfumed petals they seem to hold a secret that no one has yet ever discovered. But if they are the most mysterious of flowers they are also the most beautiful and this Easter there is an abundance of them and many new and lovely varieties. There are little cream colored "sweetheart" blossoms, with pink flushed petals, rich crimson American beauties, Cordelias, Ophelias, butterflies and sunbursts.

The late Easter this year has made roses more plentiful than they generally are at this season. They are cheaper too. In New York, the flower girls are selling them on the streets. The potted flowers bloom early and are consequently very nearly finished, although there are a good many that were late, and just in their prime now. Violets also were more numerous a few weeks ago, and florists say that if the weather had been a little warmer during the last few days there would have been no violets for Easter after all.

Cut flowers are plentiful and most effective for Easter decoration are Darwin tulips in reds and mauves, gold-dusted snap-dragon and daffodils. There is a unique and graceful bloom called Russia Heather, a novelty, that, is particularly lovely when combined with pale pink roses. It belongs to the good old heather family but lacks the homely cottage smell of the Scotch variety.

Orchids, pale as the mist of morning, lily of the valley, delicate and dreamlike, sweet peas, mignonette, tiny rosebuds, and little tender stalked violets are used to fashion the quaintest and most exquisite corsage bouquest that ever lent their beauty to adorn the dainty waist of the fairest of the fair on Easter morning.

The demand for flowers this year seems to be greater than ever before, and the prevalence of the charming custom of sending Easter flowers is shown in the large orders that are coming into the flower shops every day. Some of them come from England, Germany, Japan, and other distant places. There was even an order from Cairo yesterday at one of the stores. There are many orders being sent out to all parts of the earth, some to little towns hundreds of miles away from nowhere.

Last Easter a woman came to one store and asked where they had received an order for pink roses that were sent to her. It had come from a little village way out in the middle west somewhere, from a son that she had not seen for twenty five years.

COUNTERFEITERS USE COSTLY HOTEL

PARIS, April 17.—(Associated Press)—In an expensive room in one of the most luxurious hotels in Paris, the police believe they have found the source of a recent flood of counterfeit bills.

A large department store was one of the greatest suffers and eventually set a special detective to collaborate with city police. The trail led to the exclusive hotel where police found in a closet more than $100,000 in "queer" money. Four men, with nearly as many allases, and all hailing from various countries in Central Europe, were placed under arrest and the police expressed the belief that they had broken up the gang.

STRONG PROTEST AGAINST ACTION

Ontario's Move on Union Bill Reverts to Dark Ages

AGAINST DELAY

Vigorous Criticism of Legislature's Attitude is Freely Voiced

"Not since the days of Henry IV has any British Government dared to act as the Ontario legislature has done, and what Englishmen would not stand for, Canadians should not permit," said Col. G. W. Birks at a meeting of laymen called yesterday in the Central Y.M.C.A. to discuss the present situation in regard to the Church Union Bill. It was decided that a delegation should be sent on April 30 to put matters before legislators at Ottawa and counteract the propaganda of Anti-unionists. A motion that petitions be circulated in all the churches to be signed and submitted in order to give backing to the delegation was passed unanimously.

W. B. Wood, the chairman said it was remarkable that legislators should assume the stand taken by half of the Ontario Legislature that the officials and members of the uniting churches did not know what they were doing and needed to be kept in their place by the Legislature. The question of the church's right had thus become a greater question than even church union. There were two things that be thought were paramount. The Ontario people should show their legislators what a great mistake they had made; and, the Quebec members of the Private Bill Committee should be informed regarding the effect of the Ontario Legislation if this principle were applied to legislation at Ottawa.

Mr. Budge announced that petitions bearing on the subject had been prepared for circulation among the church people and it had been suggested that a delegation go to Ottawa on April 30 to present the case for the unionists.

W. H. Goodwin declared that the amendment advanced in the Ontario Legislature, if allowed to prevail would multiply the entire Union Bill and destroy the objects sought by the three negotiating churches. He said the subject would have to be dealt with seriously and the right of churches to govern themselves in such matters conserved at all cost.

EXPECT CATHOLIC SUPPORT.

Dr. W. D. Lighthall, K.C., declared that the Roman Catholic Church stood strongly for their rights as against Government interference and he felt sure that if the Catholic members on the Private Bills Committee numbering one third of that committee were shown the effect of the principle involved in the present situation they would vote and vote right on the question.

John Hyde remarked that he had heard that there was a suggestion that the question might be "tabled" in the House until a further session "in order to prevent a religious war." He thought that instead of improving matters delay would cause worse turmoil and strife. The question of church union had been settled in a constitutional manner. All that was needed was that the civil legislation be passed constitutionally. Rights, not favors were being demanded.

R. L. Werry moved that the petitions bearing on the subject be circulated in all the churches, signed in the proper manner and forwarded to the House in order to give backing to the delegation it was proposed to send to Ottawa. This was carried unanimously.

The chairman announced that the petitions were to be signed by both members and adherents in duplicate and forwarded to Alex. Smith, M.P., House of Commons, who would hand one copy to the elected member and the other to the senator in the division from which the petitions originated. It was advised that all petitions be forwarded not later than next Thursday.

On motion of W. H. Goodwin a committee was named to arrange for a mass meeting to be held at an early date in the city.

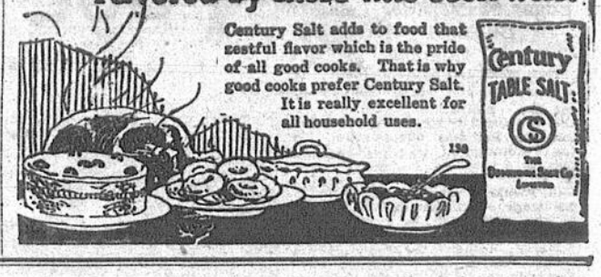

There were over sixty persons present called at short notice by phone and personal invitation, many of whom spoke in approval of the movement to counteract the propaganda of the anti-unionists. It is expected that a special train will be engaged to take the delegation to Ottawa at the end of the month.

Experiments seem to prove that spiders can call to one another. Several spiders have on the underside of their abdomens a round depression containing small, hardened projections, which is suggested to be the calling organ.

"Walnut!" exclaims the delighted visitor. "I do love walnut."
"Yes, we like walnut, too," replies the hostess. "This is only a moderate-priced suite, but it is solid. Bob says he'd sooner have a Gibbard Solid Walnut suite, no matter what it cost, but really, you'd be surprised to know how moderate in price Gibbard Solid Furniture is."
"Solid! Is this Solid Walnut? Why, solid walnut used to cost a small fortune! And it's a lovely Chippendale design, too. Really, I am in love with it. Solid Walnut—do you mean it?"
"Yes, guaranteed genuine, solid walnut," repeats the hostess, smiling.
And she opens a drawer and shows the guarantee reproduced below, which is attached to every piece of Gibbard Furniture sold.
By specializing in the solid woods, Gibbard has brought good solid walnut, solid mahogany and solid oak furniture within the reach of people of moderate means.

NEED NEW SPIRIT IN JEWISH CHARITY

Edgar M. Berliner Talks to Business Men's Council

New spirit and new enthusiasm and a more humane outlook is required for the philanthropic endeavors of the community, Edgar M. Berliner, told the Business Men's Council of the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies, at a luncheon held by the council at the Windsor Hotel yesterday. The speaker referred specifically to the work undertaken by the Council in the raising of funds for Jewish charities.

Harry Rother, chairman of the council, stated that the approaching Passover should be made a period of joy and comfort to the widow, the orphan, the aged, sick and all unfortunates and urged the members to live up to the best Jewish traditions.

Nathan Gordon also spoke briefly stating that direct contact with the problems of the poor would create a better understanding and more sympathy. People could not visualize the reports of professional investigators and therefore did not understand fully the needs of the poor, he declared.

The Business Men's Council has a membership of thirty six who act as the head of the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies which has a membership of two hundred and ten.

EGGS NOT MARKED

The Pure Food Stores, Limited, proprietor of a chain of 19 stores in the city of Montreal and suburbs, was found guilty yesterday afternoon before Judge Enright on three charges of failing to mark eggs the grading on that line of goods they offered for sale. Judge Enright, in condemning the company to pay fines of $25 and costs on the first count, and $10 and costs on the two other charges, said he was of the opinion that the Pure Food Stores, Limited, had offered for sale eggs which were up to the standard as required by the Federal Department of Agriculture, but, however, the law was that eggs for sale should be marked according to their grade when offered for sale. This the defendant had not complied with, and a penalty was in order.

Michael Latsky, Joseph A. Magid, Joseph Scharfrin and Max Climan were acquitted on similar charges as that brought against the Pure Food Stores, Limited.

J. L. Pouliot appeared for the Federal Department of Agriculture, and R. G. de Lorimier, K.C., defended the accused.

A souvenir program is being printed which will be distributed locally and also sent to all branches and friends all over the world. Vernon G. Cardy, manager of the Mount Royal Hotel, is the honorary president; D. Mulligan, general manager of the Windsor Hotel, and Mr. Davidson are honorary vice-presidents. Ch. Muhlbauer, banquet manager of the Mount Royal Hotel, is chairman of the ball committee.

PROPERTY OWNERS WIN IN OUTREMONT

Their Protests Against Erection of Duplex House Carried Council

Outremont City Council turned down a application by Mr. Wiseman last night to be allowed to erect a duplex house at the corner of Van Horne and Hartland avenues. It was the most important item of their proceedings and much time was devoted to the discussion of the subject.

Strong opposition was made to the proposal by a delegation of residents on Dunlop, Wilder and Hartland avenues who urged that the erection of such houses would only tend to depreciate the value of the property in that district. They were headed by Alex. Cinq Mars, 815 Hartland avenue, and their arguments finally decided the Council against the scheme.

Permission to build an apartment house on Mount Royal boulevard was also refused after arguments against the proposition had been adduced by a group of property owners represented by Alderman Grothe. Approval was given to the program of public works to be carried out this year at a cost of $423,000.

MOVE OFFICES

The general offices of the Quebec, Montreal and Southern Railway and the Napierville Junction Railway Companies were moved today from the Imperial Bank Building, 286 St. James street, to the Keefer Building, corner of St. Catherine and Mackay street, rooms 412 to 417, inclusive.

HONOR ARTHUR SAUVE

At the Mount Royal Hotel on the evening of April 29, Arthur Sauve, leader of the Opposition, will be formally presented with his portrait done in oils, by members of the Arthur Sauve Club. At the function, Mr. Sauve will be accompanied by many of his colleagues, including Hon. E. L. Patenaude.

WOMEN'S WORK

OBLIGATIONS TO PAY WAR DEBTS

Attitudes of France and Germany Contrasted by Mlle. Clement

The Ruhr policy of Premier Poincare, particularly in the light of the Dawes report, was dealt with by Miss Marguerite Clement, Fellow of the University of Paris, in the course of an address before the Women's Canadian Club at a luncheon in the Ritz-Carlton Hotel yesterday afternoon. Miss Clement spoke in French, on "Politique Francaise et Hommes d'etat Francais, 1923-24."

That the Poincare policy has been justified by the findings of the Dawes report was claimed by Miss Clement, who put tersely the arguments from the French point of view. From a booklet printed in English she contrasted the attitude of France after the war of 1870 with that of Germany since the Versailles Treaty. In 1871 France had considered it a point of national honor to pay to Germany the indemnity imposed, and the people had responded to the appeal of the Government, without talk of vengeance. Germany, on the contrary, had evaded payment, and had talked of future vengeance. The German attitude in the Ruhr had been one of passive resistance, paying the miners not to work.

Germany, the speaker held, had deliberately created a condition whereby she could appear as bankrupt and unable to pay her debts. She had placed her gold, estimated by the Dawes report as between seven and eight billion gold marks, in banks and investments in all countries but Germany, while she paid her own nationals in paper marks, practically worthless. After the war, Germany had been in need of raw materials, which she had bought with paper marks, selling her products for dollars and placing these in foreign banks. She had gone on building public works and re-establishing industries, preparing herself to compete with the other nations of the world, but without regard for her obligations. The attitude of France in 1871 had been to pay her entire indebtedness before undertaking internal building and reconstruction.

CONFIDENCE IN PREMIER.

Miss Clement gave a character sketch of Premier Poincare and of President Millerand. She expressed her confidence in Poincare, who, she said, is hated by the Germans, an attitude it was easy to understand. When the French Premier went into the Ruhr, the matter was felt to be one of vital importance for France, and it was so still. Of the sixty-two billions of francs due to France, Germany had paid only a fraction of her indebtedness. The task of repairing the destroyed areas of France had been carried on with domestic short term loans, and everyone had assisted by subscribing to these loans. If Germany did not pay the reparations which are due to France it would mean that these domestic loans could not be repaid. Poincare cannot be satisfied without some guarantee that Germany will fulfil her undertakings.

Miss Clement believed that the disagreement between France and England in the attitude towards Germany had been not on principles, but on methods to be followed. France and England were united by similar interests. The best guarantee for peace, Miss Clement concluded, is that England, France and the United States should stand together.

Mrs. N. K. Laflamme presided. Guests at the head table at luncheon were the Baronne de Vitrolles, Mrs. Frank D. Adams, Miss Lucie Touren, Mrs. F. H. Sproule, Mrs. Charbonneau, Miss Mary Idler.

AMERICAN WOMEN'S CLUB ELECTIONS

The annual meeting for the election of officers of the American Women's Club was held in the Blue Room of the Windsor Hotel yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Eugene Sherwin presiding. The following officers and conveners of committees were elected: President, Mrs. E. B. Luke; first vice-president, Mrs. Frank Laing; second vice-president, Mrs. J. C. Laird; recording secretary, Mrs. R. A. Carter; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Eugene Sherwin; treasurer, Mrs. David Ogilvy; membership committee, Mrs. T. S. Simpson; music, Mrs. F. A. Heywood; tea, Mrs. H. R. Mallison; reception, Mrs. J. W. Long;; social service, Mrs. J. H. Elliott; program, Mrs. D. S. Whittall; drama, Mrs. B. A. Greenslit; visiting, Mrs. R. B. Hayes; press Mrs. P. E. Pepe; tickets, Mrs. R. E. Bostrom; courtesy, Mrs. F. M. Frederick; printing, Mrs. E. M. Seale.

Mrs. J. H. Elliott was appointed delegate to the National Conference on Social Work, to be held in Toronto, June 25 to July 2. Following the business proceedings, a short program of music was given by Mrs. Raymond Gartnell, pianist, and Miss Helen Millay, soprano, accompanied by Mrs. W. D. French.

It was announced that the inaugural luncheon will be held in the Rose Room of the Windsor Hotel on Wednesday, April 23. The speaker will be Mrs. Genevieve Lipsett-Skinner, LL.B., of Vancouver. Mrs. Lipsett-Skinner is an honor graduate of the Manitoba Law School, and is the only woman member of the Press Gallery in the Ottawa House of Commons. She will speak on "Woman, the Highest Common Factor."

BIBLE STUDY CLASS.

Mrs. Ritchie Bell will address the Home Study Bible Class tomorrow afternoon at three o'clock in the lecture rooms of the American Presbyterian Church. Her topic will be "The Mighty God of Jacob." The class is open to anyone wishing to attend.

VISITED EXCHANGE.

Members of the St. Lambert Women's Club were entertained at the Main Exchange of the Bell Telephone Company on Tuesday, and spent an instructive and enjoyable afternoon under the guidance of several of the supervisors. Tea was served in the cafeteria. The general manager, F. G. Webber, extended a cordial invitation to any other members of the Club who would like to avail themselves of the opportunity to visit the Exchange.

CLOSED FOR FRIDAY.

The Child Welfare Health Centre, on B street, Cote St. Paul, will not be open on Good Friday.

GOT $3,000 DAMAGES

Damages of $3,000 under the Workmen's Compensation Act, were awarded Dame (widow) Philidor Boucher, for the death of her husband, who was killed while employed by Ernest Hamel. The widow alleged that her husband was working for the other man driving a team of horses when at noon-time, he started to feed them. In some way he slipped and fell between the team, the horses became frightened and stampeded, crushing the man to death.

NEW EXCHANGE

Amherst to Take Over Some Belair Subscribers Saturday

The Bell Telephone will open a new exchange on Saturday night, making the thirteenth exchange in Montreal, which will be known as the "Amherst" exchange. The additional office was required to handle the big increase in the number of telephones in Montreal, Manager Frank G. Webster stating that these had grown from 50,000 subscribers in 1918 to 110,000 at the present time.

Four hundred subscribers will be switched from the Belair exchange to the new exchange. The switchboard, from which they will be temporarily served will be located in the Clairval exchange building on Pie IX. boulevard, but construction work has already been started on the Amherst exchange building at the corner of Papineau and Sherbrooke. This exchange will have an automatic service but it will be a year before this can be fully used, officials of the company state.

When the exchange is running fully it is expected that it will serve about 6,000 subscribers and provision will be made for extensions so that ultimately 40,000 subscribers may be handled from this exchange.

"CALL OF THE NATIONS"

"CARRY ON" TO BE VERDUN'S MOTTO

School Board Decides it Must Continue as Long as Possible

TEACHERS' SALARIES

Other Boards Say They Cannot Give Any Assistance

"Business as usual" is to be the motto of the Verdun School Board it was decided last night at their meeting when they discussed the replies that had been received from the Montreal, Westmount and Outremont Protestant School Boards in answer to Verdun's request for help.

Secretary Andrew Pollock submitted the replies to the meeting, all of which were to the effect that they could not help Verdun financially, but that they were willing to meet them in a joint conference of Protestant School Boards to discuss the Verdun School crisis. In the discussion that followed it was stated that the crisis had already been discussed to the uttermost and that they thought no good purpose could be served by any further discussion unless the subject of some change in the present law was introduced.

Rev. F. Williams called attention to the position of the Board with regard to the signing on of teachers for the ensuing year. Although they had done everything in their power to get the state of affairs remedied they had been unsuccessful owing to the apathy of the authorities at Quebec. They were heavily in debt and there would come a time, they could not tell when, when the bond holders might come on them for interest on their coupons. He wanted to know whether the teachers would have first claim on the assets of the Board for the payment of their salaries, for if not the Board had no moral right to engage any teachers for the following year if they were not sure that they could fulfil their contracts with them.

KEEP SCHOOLS OPEN.

The feeling of the majority of those present was summed up by the chairman, H. J. Garrity, who said that they must keep the children in the schools and keep the schools open as long as it was possible. They had done everything to get their position altered and failing any action on the part of the Government or the neighboring boards, it was their duty to carry on as long as they possibly could. Somebody was going to send the children to school next year for he could not imagine them being left to run about the streets without any education at all. If they were forced to close the schools owing to the action of their creditors then they should be able to say that the initiative was taken by some other body and that they had kept the schools open as long as they could.

In reply to the question of the salaries of the teachers it was his opinion that they would form a first charge in the case of any action being taken to force them to liquidate.

TEACHERS MOVING.

It was pointed out that the unsatisfactory state of affairs was tending to drive their best teachers away and that if were not to engage their teachers for next year as soon as possible they would lose many, if not all of them. At present some of them were going elsewhere, the Board was losing its best teachers and only getting expressions of sympathy in exchange.

It was finally decided that the matter be left over for further discussion at a later date. In the meantime it was hoped that some action would be taken that would render their way more clear. At any cost they would carry on.

A motion was passed that the contents of the information contained in the letters from Montreal, Westmount and Outremont School Boards be forwarded to the Authorities at Quebec. It will be pointed out that all action up to the present had failed and that an inquiry should be made to them as to whether the Government were going to take any further action in the matter.

The meeting was presided over by H. J. Garrity, and there were present H. L. Barnewell and Rev. F. Williams, trustees, and the Principals of the Verdun schools, W. G. Dormer, L. Harrison, G. E. Dryburgh, and J. G. Samson.

ROTHERMERE MAY RETURN TO CANADA

Site of Newspaper Baron's News Print Mill Not Divulged Yet

Lord Rothermere may return to Montreal before the end of the year, he intimated before his departure yesterday for New York. "I have no information I can give you," he said, when asked as to the site selected for the newsprint plant, which, according to the agreement, is to be erected in connection with pulpwood leases recently acquired below Quebec. The English newspaper proprietor is very favorably impressed with Montreal, which he has visited many times, and was surprised to learn how it had grown in population.

Lord Rothermere spent much of the day yesterday engaged with legal counsel, and left at 9 o'clock last evening for New York, leaving Windsor station on his private car with the Messrs. Clark.

TALKED ON ORIENT

Secretary of Toronto Y.M.C.A. Covered Wide Field

"No longer can the land of the Orient be considered as a country of mystery where the mandarin weaves a spell over the coolie and the coolie rickshawa the traveller takes through darkened and unsafe streets where the people all dress as Japanese prints and live in hate of the visitor. No, Japan today is a far different country. Christianity has left its mark and Japan has linked herself to civilization's commerce chain where competition requires science and where science for its own sake requires Christianity." So stated George A. Warburton, Y.M.C.A. secretary of Toronto, who addressed the members of the local association last night in the Central "Y" last night.

His address was for the most part on Japan where the life of a great and powerful people is hemmed in a small area where food distribution is a infrade but where a patient Government meets the problem of giving to all in the congested millions their share of the good things of Japan.

Every available piece of land had been set aside for agriculture and the nation was growing great. Though Japan had not as yet been called a Christian nation, there were, however, at the helm of the national ship great Japanese Christian minds—men who had seen the doing of the Christian church, the strides that Christian nations had made and the great contribution of education, national spirit and a true sense of brotherhood which Christianity made.

He dwelt at length on the work of missionaries and stated that their's was a work of not only converting the Japanese to Christianity but one of guiding the trend of Japanese thought for the good of Christian nations. Japan and the Japanese according to the speaker were far too fine to be lost to the Christian world.

Then dealing with India, Mr. Warburton stated that the British Empire in sending forth her missionaries had created one of the most effective means of holding, not only India together, but of binding all parts of the Empire to the Mother Land.

LABOR CONFERENCE

Montreal Brotherhood at Lachine, August 30-31

During next Labor Day week-end the ninth annual Conference of the Montreal and District Brotherhood Federation will be held at Lachine, and it is anticipated that it will be the largest in the history of the Federation.

This is the second time that the Conference has been held at Lachine, and it marks a departure from the usual custom of holding it at Knowlton, on the shores of Brome Lake.

The days of the meeting are Saturday and Sunday, August 30 and 31, and Labor Day, Monday, September 1. The proceedings will open with an open-air concert given by the combined orchestras of the Brotherhoods, which will be followed by a banquet tendered by the Lachine Brotherhood, at which the opening addresses of the Conference will be made.

Sunday will be devoted to Brotherhood Day in the churches, and the services at St. Andrew's will be addressed by prominent preachers. In the afternoon a mass meeting will be held in the large hall of the High School. Monday will be taken up by a discussion of the business of the Brotherhoods when questions concerning the welfare of the assembled parties will be the order of the day.

The Joyous Years From 7 to 15

AT the age of seven the boy leaves kindergarten and starts to school. At fifteen he is getting ready to climb into long pants.

The eight years between seven and fifteen are the joyous years of his life. They will pass all too quickly.

Why not help your boy crowd all the enjoyment possible into them?—help make them the memorable, fadeless years of his life.

Like all boys, one of his dearest desires is to possess a real, classy bicycle—a C.C.M. Then he can join in all the boyish games and sports that require a wheel.

How a real boy does love to get out into the open spaces where he has room to let himself loose. How he loves to fly along on his easy-running C.C.M., imagining he is an express train as he coasts down a hill.

And when he comes home happy as a lark, bright-eyed and rosy-cheeked, how glad you'll be you got him a C.C.M. Bicycle.

A bicycle is a mighty good thing for a boy or a girl—especially a C.C.M. — with its smooth, easy-running Triplex Hanger, its quick, sure Hercules Coaster Brake, its strong, sturdy frame of English Seamless Tubing that stands the rough and tumble wear of care-free boyhood, the bearings of tough flint-hard steel that a file cannot cut.

Drop in and see the new, dashing, sparkling C.C.M. models for Boys and Girls—including the Curved Bar model, the bicycle a boy won't outgrow. Prices are $15 to $20 less than the "peak" prices. A Big Dollar's Value for every dollar you invest in a C.C.M.

C.C.M. JOYCYCLES, too, for the little folks too young for bicycles. Joycycles are high-grade tricycles, built to run as smoothly and easily as C.C.M. Bicycles. They've made a wonderful hit! Just the thing for birthday and other gifts.

BOOTLEG GRAFT BROUGHT HOME TO DAUGHERTY

Gaston Means Brings Up New Charges of Crookedness

WHEELER INDICTED

Jake Hamon's Widow Defies Oil Probe and "Just Won't" Testify

From Last Night's Postscript Edition.

WASHINGTON, April 16—(Associated Press)—New charges of crookedness in the United States Department of Justice, this time reaching up to Harry M. Daugherty himself, were brought before the Daugherty investigating committee today by Gaston B. Means, former Department agent.

He testified that Jess W. Smith, on the night before he committed suicide in the Daugherty apartment here, asked Means to "return" $200,000 to a New York whiskey ring.

"Didn't Smith tell you he had made a division with the attorney-general and the attorney-general would not return it?" asked Senator Wheeler, the committee prosecutor.

"He did," replied the witness.

Means also declared Smith has told him that Daugherty knew he could indict A. Mitchell Palmer, attorney-general under the Wilson administration, but decided not to because he wanted to "blackmail" him into using influence in Congress. He described a meeting between Daugherty and Palmer, from which he said the latter emerged "scared to death" at proposition Daugherty had put up to him.

WHEELER'S INDICTMENT

Switching to the indictment of Senator Wheeler in Montana, the witness asserted he had information not heretofore disclosed regarding the activities of the Department of Justice in the case. The men sent from Washington really did the work of collecting evidence, he said, had worked under cover and their identity had not been revealed.

During the Daugherty impeachment proceedings in the House more than a year ago, Means said, he "knew" Department of Justice agents had "investigated" Representative Woodruff of Michigan and other members of Congress.

"Did Daugherty tell you to take orders from Jess Smith?" asked Senator Wheeler.

"He told me to do anything Jess Smith ordered me to do. And he said he liked me because I never let my left hand know what my right hand was doing."

"How did Jess Smith handle money?"

"In a roll—the most I ever saw him have was $100,000—I brought that to him."

"How much did you pay him altogether?"

"Oh, anywhere from $225,000 to $250,000. The night before he died Smith told me that he wanted me to return some money to New York bootleggers. I wouldn't have anything to do with it, and told him to see their lawyers.

"Manington, on other deals did turn back $20,000. The bootleggers wanted $200,000. Everybody knew Manington and Smith represented the attorney-general in the whiskey permits."

George W. Storck, Department of Justice accountant, who preceded Means on the witness stand, declared that Martin E. Kern, purchaser of the Bosch Magneto property from the alien property custodian, had paid Joseph F. Guffey, a Democratic leader in Pennsylvania, and a former director of sales of the alien property custodian, the sum of $10,000 "to influence the release of liquor."

Reading from Department of Justice files "by permission of the new attorney-general," he said Storck declared he had been told by Kern himself of the $10,000 transaction.

PHILIPPINE GRAFT.

Storck then testified that the property of a German tobacco company in the Philippines was sold by the alien property custodian, with Francis Burton Harrison, former governor general of the islands acting as agent, to a group at such a "raw price," that President Wilson ordered the sale set aside.

He said that later the same group bid in the property for an even lower price.

The books of the alien property custodian show a loss of $449,000 on the sale, Storck said.

As Storck continued to reel off alleged crooked deals in alien property in the Philippines, Senator Jones, Washington, asked where he got his facts.

"All from the records of the alien property custodian," said Storck.

Storck said that Fred Berry, confidential secretary to Former Governor General Harrison went to a German internment camp in 1918 and told the prisoners they could be released if they would agree to sell their property. He said a clique, led by a Philippine bank, organized a system of Second Sales of the German property which resulted in huge frauds.

There were so many embezzlements in the bank, Storck said, that he advised Crim that it was unsafe to keep the alien trusts there. He said that Archibald Harrison, brother of the governor general was interested in the bank.

Storck said that scores of Germans in the Philippines were forced to "sign on the dotted line" and sell their property to the Philippine clique in order to get out of internment camps.

"In other words, they were blackmailed?" said Wheeler.

"Yes."

"Has there ever been any prosecution of these cases—either civil or criminal—by the Department of Justice?" asked Wheeler.

"No, sir."

All his efforts to get the Philippine cases before Attorney General Daugherty were fruitless, Storck said. He said that he found the files of the alien property custodian in "deplorable shape," and evidences, "that someone had culled papers from them."

Cross examination by Chamberlain brought out that all of the "irregularities" related by Storck were committed during the Wilson administration.

"But," Storck added, "my reports of these irregulars went to the present administration."

TO CALL BROTHER "MAL."

WASHINGTON, April 16. — (United Press.) — The Senate Daugherty investigating committee has decided to hale Mal Daugherty, brother of the former attorney-general, and Howard Mannington, occupant of the "Little Green House on K Street" before the bar of the Senate for contempt.

Foregoing the course followed by the case of Harry F. Sinclair, who was indicted by a grand jury for his refusal to answer questions of the oil committee, the Brookhart committee intends to bring them directly before the Senate to answer for their alleged contempt, Mal Daugherty for his refusal to produce the books of his bank and Mannington for refusing to appear in answer to a subpoena.

If adjudged guilty by the Senate, they may be committed to a common jail until they consent to testify. They may resort to habeas corpus proceedings, however, and appeal to the Supreme Court. Their only escape would be to claim immunity on the ground that their testimony might incriminate them.

WHEELER CASE.

Arrest of Senator Wheeler, Montana, indictated for alleged unlawful receipt of money in connection with procurement of oil leases and drilling permits from the Department of the Interior, was expected today.

When the warrant is served on him, Wheeler will be taken before the United States commissioner to give bail. Attorney General Stone is said to have examined the evidence on which Wheeler was indicted and to have declared that he believed the indictment was warranted.

DEFINES PROBERS.

CHICAGO, April 16—(United Press) —Mrs. Georgia Hamon Rohrer, widow of the late Jake Hamon, slain Oklahoma politician and oil millionaire, today defied the Senate oil investigating committee to force her to testify.

John L. Oros, Deputy United States Marshal, found Mrs. Rohrer after ten days search and by a ruse served a forthwith subpoena. Mrs. Rohrer indignantly declared:

"The former Attorney-General didn't pay any attention to their old forthwith subpoenaes and I'm just as independent as he ever was. The Senators down there are acting like a lot of schoolboys."

Mrs. Rohrer was found at the Allied Arts Club, and Oros gained entrance by posing as a lover of the arts.

"What nerve!" exclaimed Mrs. Rohrer.

"Well, I'm not going," she declared.

"I've always been a good Democrat and Jake never told me any of his Republican secrets. And as for the papers the committee wants, well, they were burned up months and months ago."

THAW WAS CRUEL TO PET RABBITS RECORDS SHOW

Millionaire Bit and Caressed Pets Until They Fell Exhausted

DOCTORS SAY SANE

University of Pennsylvania Physician Given Gruelling Examination

From Last Night's Postscript Edition.

PHILADELPHIA, April 16 — (United Press.) — Records were read at the Thaw sanity trial showing the millionaire caressed, pinched, slapped, chased, beat and bit his pet rabbits until they squealed and fell exhausted, but the court was only concerned with the evidence as bearing on Thaw's sanity.

Many people wrote in to the S.P.C.A. headquarters, protesting on behalf of the rabbits. Officials, however, said the authorities at "Kirkbride's," would see that similar occurrences were made impossible in the future.

Looking younger and more vigorous than at any time since his trial started, Thaw came into court today prepared for the ultimate test of his sanity, his own appearance on the stand.

Thaw appeared eager to go on. His counsel expected to put him to the test late today, unless examination of medical witnesses who preceded him dragged.

The first witness, T. R. Phillips, a court stenographer, testified to taking a deposition of 30,000 words made in a single day by Thaw in May, 1918. Dr. George Wilson, of the University of Pennsylvania, gave evidence that Thaw was sane.

Cross examination of Dr. Wilson delved into Thaw's whole life, his infancy when he suffered from insomnia, the St. Vitus dance of his childhood, his killing of White and his practice of flagellation.

Dr. Wilson was pressed to say what he thought might happen if Thaw were released.

"I'm not a soothsayer," the doctor replied.

"Did you ask Thaw when you examined him, about his killing of Stanford White?" William Gray, attorney for Evelyn Nesbit, asked.

"Yes."

"What did he say?"

"He refused to answer."

"Did you ask him about beating young girls—one of them so severely that when he was through the pieces of her shirt-waist had to be picked out of her flesh?"

"No."

"Did you ask him about the Gump matter?"

"Yes, but he evaded the question." (Thaw's alleged assault on the girls occurred as long ago as 1905.)

The witnesses said hethought there was no truth in this charge.

Gray ripped into the witness with all the fire that has established his reputation as a great trial lawyer, attacking the doctor's argumentative attitude.

Gray demanded that the doctor assume that there were seven instances of insanity in Thaw's family in giving his opinion on his sanity. He forced the witness to admit he had interviewed no one but Thaw himself.

The witness was forced to admit he would "take Thaw's rabbits away."

U.S. OLYMPIC BOARD'S APPEAL

Faces Crisis and Must Raise $150,000 by Public Subscription

From Last Night's Postscript Edition.

NEW YORK, April 16 — (United Press)—With the announcement that it is "facing a crisis that can be met only by instant and ready response from the American public," the American Olympic committee today appealed for public help to raise $150,000 that will be required on June 1 to send the American team to Paris.

The second payment of $40,000 on the charter for the liner America, which is to take the team to the games was made today and the payment practically left the committee out of funds. Another payment of $40,000 is due May 15 on the ship charter and the final payment must be made before the ship sails. Another $60,000 will be necessary to provide for the maintenance of the team in Paris.

TWO ARRESTED FOR POSING AS POLICE

Alleged to Have Colletced Hush Money From Law Violators

From Last Night's Postscript Edition.

QUEBEC, April 16—(Star Special) —On the charge of impersonating, Quebec Liquor Commission Inspectors and collecting "bribes" or "graft" under menace of reporting alleged violations of the liquor law, Charles Tapp and Albert Kirouac, two residents of this city were arrested in their homes this morning by the Provincial police. They appeared later before Judge Lachance, pleaded not guilty but were remanded to jail.

For two months past the Quebec Liquor Commission inspection bureau in the district of Quebec had been suspicious of mysterious activities of some parties, who were threatening licences or others of all kinds of trouble unless they consented to buy their silence.

The operations of the parties referred to, were apparently not confined to the city and finally one of the victims of these alleged attempt of blackmailing reported to the case to Chief Inspector De Saint Victor and his assistant Major Langelier.

Yesterday afternoon, the genuine inspectors and the two suspects visited the same establishment at only a few minutes interval and the owner of the place reported the matter stating that he had been obliged to pay something and inquired whether it was a custom.

An investigation is being conducted by the Quebec Liquor Commission to ascertain if possible, what sum might have been collected in bribes by the two alleged guilty parties and this matter will also come up before the court.

CAMPBELL-STUART PRAISES SNOWDON

London Times' Managing Director Pleased With Labor Chancellor

SAFE AND SOUND

Says British Credit Will Be Improved Under Snowdon's Handling

From Last Night's Postscript Edition.

NEW YORK, April 16.—(Star Special).—Business conditions in England are slowly improving, according to Sir Campbell-Stuart, managing director of The London Times, who reached New York on the Majestic Tuesday and is at present staying at the Vanderbilt Hotel. Sir Campbell-Stuart leaves tonight for Montreal, where he will be the guest of Sir Frederick and Lady Williams-Taylor. He returns to New York on April 24 and will remain here until May 10, when he will sail for home on the Adriatic. Before he leaves again for England, Sir Campbell will deliver an address to the English-speaking Union in New York, on May 8.

The head of The Times had made up his mind, before arrival that there were certain subjects upon which he would not be interviewed and chief among these was politics. Asked what he thought of Labor's chances of returning to power in the event of another general election in England Sir Campbell replied: "I am sorry, I cannot say anything about that for I do not wish to discuss politics. You see, I represent The Times." Neither would he make any comment on recent newspaper amalgamations in Britain and possible future developments.

PRAISES SNOWDON.

The business situation in England today, Sir Campbell characterized as "pretty good," adding that he believed there was evidence of a slight improvement in conditions. This led him to a discussion of Philip Snowdon, the Labor chancellor of the exchequer, whom he praised highly. There need be no fear of radical changes in the British financial policy in Mr. Snowdon's hands, Sir Campbell said, for its main essentials would remain intact. He further predicted that under the new Chancellor British credit would be improved instead of being impaired.

The British had been compelled to make a closer study of economics than other nations, owing to the situation of England as a great international monetary centre and had produced, as a result, some of the ablest economists known to the world, among whom he numbered "the father of political economy," Adam Smith.

Centuries of experience had taught the British that a Conservative policy was their greatest asset in the world of finance, especially as experiments in certain instances with which might be described as "advanced" principles had invariably spelled disaster. Financiers of the latter school did not last long in England.

"Philip Snowdon," said Sir Campbell-Stuart, "is a Socialist of the intellectual type, a strong, incorruptible and thoroughly honest man, and he is assisted by a body of able, university-trained men, thoroughly versed in matters of finance."

The beneficient influence of such a staff could not but be felt by any chancellor of the exchequer and Mr. Snowdon was not likely to prove an exception.

KNOWS FINANCE.

The new chancellor's first budget, which will be introduced on April 29, was being awaited with the kneest interest, Sir Campbell indicated, as it was on this that he would be generally judged. "He has a good grasp of the fundamentals of sound finance and his actions have been wise and statesmanlike since he took office. That is why I believe that his budget will show no intention of discarding good financial principles though there may of course, be certain adjustments made. This, it should be understood, is only conjecture on my part.

Sir Campbell added that Mr. Snowdon had appointed a non-political committee to enquire into the whole questions of taxation and the national debt. The task would be long and it was unlikely that a report would be submitted before next year. Meantime Mr. Snowdon had made public a scheme for placing the national debt upon a lower interest basis. As nearly one half of the budget is required to meet the service of the debt, this was a very important matter. The boldness of the scheme took London financial circles by surprise, as a similar one had been projected two years ago but rejected as impracticable though it could then have been effected upon easier terms than it can now.

The effect of this step by the Labor Chancellor had been a marked appreciation of all fixed interest bearing securities and immediately the offer of holders of the 5 per cent war loan was opened it had received a favorable response, with a resultant general improvement of all investment values and particularly British funds. "This," said Sir Campbell, "has prepared the way for another similar operation on more favorable terms to the taxpayer. It is for this and the other reasons I have enumerated that I have every confidence in Mr. Snowden and his ability to enhance British credit."

Sir Campbell stated that his visit was purely for pleasure purposes.

LABOR'S NOMINEE TO BOARD CHOSEN

To Deal With Dispute Between Longshoremen and Shipping Companies

From Last Night's Postscript Edition.

The Minister of Labor has approved the nomination of C. Bujold, secretary-treasurer of the Syndicated Longshoremen of the Port of Montreal as representative of the employes on the Board of Arbitration appointed in the wage dispute between shipping companies whose boats run to the Port of Montreal and those of their Syndicated Longshoremen.

Mr. Bujold will confer today with Bernard Rose, representative of the employers on the Board with a view to the appointment of a chairman.

The board of arbitration was appointed by the Minister of Labor following application by the shipping companies.

A dispute between the companies and the longshoremen over the season's rate of wages was responsible for the application. The longshoremen ask seventy cents an hour for a day's work and eighty cents for night work. Rates offered by the companies are fifty cents for day work and sixty cents for night work, the same rates as were paid last year.

Some 4,000 men are affected.

The diseases most likely to attack people born on this date are headaches, affections of the eye, and stomach trouble with paralysis. However, all these ailments and every other known to man can be entirely dominated, forever cast out, by those who realize that mind is the master and body the servant of man.

As Aries people are usually very sure that their conclusions and criticisms are unassailable, they should keep a strict count of the time when facts prove them to be wrong. They will find themselves frequently mistaken.

MATTHEWS DODGED POLICE; NO TRACE NOW, CHIEF AVERS

Cannot Locate Ontario's Suspended Deputy Treasurer—Warrants for His Arrest—Thomas McGarry, Provincial ex-Treasurer, Grilled on Home Bank Monies

TORONTO, April 17. — (Canadian Press.) — If C. A. Matthews, ex-assistant Provincial Treasurer, suspended sensationally on evidence that he had split commissions, has gone to the United States, he can be brought back, declared Hon. W. H. Price, Treasurer, in the Public Accounts Committee of the Legislature yesterday afternoon.

This statement followed the revelation by Inspector of Provincial Police, Alfred Cuddy, that police had been shadowing Matthews, on Mr. Price's instructions, but that he had evaded them by entering the front door of a downtown office and leaving at the back. The inspector added that they could find no trace of Matthews and doubted if they would get him in a few days, as desired. Warrants for his arrest were ready.

Chairman Finlayson declared one witness, George R. Harris, was "deliberately trying to fool the committee," and had him placed under police surveillance until the night session.

"Please Make No Imputations," Says McGarry — Haney Gives Flat Denial

G. T. Clarkson, liquidator of the defunct Home Bank, stated he had been told last week by an officer of the bank that J. C. Mason had informed the officer that $25,000 in legals had been paid to M. J. Haney, president of the bank, in December, 1919, and he was taking it to the Parliament buildings. Mr. Clarkson, following this, saw Mr. Haney, who is sick at home.

J. C. Whittaker, the supervisor of the Home Bank who made this statement to Mr. Clarkson, was called and repeated it under oath as having been told to him by Mr. Mason, former general manager. He admitted he thought now Mr. Mason had told him such a story as a blind. He would rather believe Mr. Haney than Mr. Mason.

Thomas McGarry, Provincial Treasurer in the Hearst Government, said he know nothing of any commission of a loan of $4,000,000 floated by him with the Home Bank just a few weeks before his Government resigned to make way for the U. F. O. regime.

Mr. McGarry, under examination by W. E. N. Sinclair, Liberal leader, said representations were made to him when he was Treasurer that the Home Bank was not getting its share of deposits from the Government and in 1914 he increased them by $200,000.

"What reason had you to favor the Home Bank?"

"None, except that the directors were co-religionists of mine."

"There was no other reason?"

"None at all. The bank was perfectly solvent at that time."

Mr. McGarry said he would make no excuses for putting money in the Home Bank, as none were needed. In 1919 he had put money in the Home Bank near the end of the fiscal year of the bank.

"Was it to make a better showing of the bank in its report to the Dominion Government?" "Yes."

BOLSTERED BANK'S POSITION.

"You shifted provincial funds to bolster up the funds of the Home Bank for their fiscal year?" "Yes."

Mr. McGarry said he did not do the depositing for the Province personally. He denied that any special inducements were offered in the loan made through the Home Bank late in 1919. He said no one but himself and Col. Mason of the Home Bank knew anything about the loan although certain officials knew he was negotiating. The Province, he said, had to have a promise of money because other big loans for other governments were being arranged about the same time. The money on the loan was not paid while Mr. McGarry was Treasurer.

"Was there any arrangement for a commission?" "None whatever."

"Was anybody entitled to any commission?" "No."

"You and Mason were the only ones who knew anything about it?"

"Please make no imputations."

"There was $25,000 in legals drawn at that time. Did you hear anything of that?"

"No. The first I knew of it was the evidence here the other day, before this committee."

Mr. McGarry said he would be glad to find out where the so-called commissions totalling $24,400 on this deal went. No rebate was ever intended when the loan was made. He would like to hear Mr. Matthews give evidence.

Mr. Clarkson, then called, said that last Friday afternoon an official of the bank had told him that Mason told him in 1919 that $25,000 in legals had been paid to Mr. Haney, the bank president, who was taking it to the Parliament buildings. "I saw Mr. Haney today and I may say he has been a very sick man for two months and unable to do business. He told me he had never got any such money from Mr. Mason and that he had never taken any to the Parliament buildings."

"Was there any doubt concerning Mr. Haney's statement?" he was asked.

WANTS THAT MONEY.

"No, it was an absolutely positive denial."

Mr. Clarkson said that as liquidator of the bank he figured that the $42,400 was bank money and he wanted to get it if possible. He also thought the missing $15,000 cheque was bank money, if there had been no arrangement about commission. He also told the committee that in June, 1919, Col. Mason drew $10,000 in $100 bills. Nine of these bills were traced to Mr. Mason's personal account but 91 bills disappeared.

The deposit of the $900 was in Mr. Mason's account in the Central Canada Loan Company. Mr. Clarkson was asked by the committee to make an investigation of this account and report to the committee.

J. C. Whittaker, former supervisor of the Home Bank, was then called. In September, 1919, he said, when the $4,000,000 loan was going through, Mr. Mason told him that $25,000 just drawn in money was being taken to the Parliament buildings by Mr. Haney. Witness had not seen the money.

"Did Mr. Mason tell you how the money was going?"

"He said it was going to the buildings via Mr. Haney."

Witness said Mr. Mason said nothing beyond that.

"Where were you when he told you this?

"In my own office."

"You didn't remember that when you gave evidence before?"

"No."

"What brought it to your memory?"

"Inspector Greer asked me if the bank had a chauffeur and I said the bank had one and remembered that he drove Mr. Haney on the day I think of."

"Where is the chauffeur now?"

"He is in California."

NOT TO BE RELIED ON.

J. A. Currie asked if Mr. Mason was a reliable man, when he made statements around the bank, and witness said he was not.

"Would you rather trust Mr. McGarry than Mr. Mason?" asked Mr. Currie. "Who would you believe first?"

There was much objection to the question but witness said he would rather believe Mr. McGarry. Witness remembered that Mr. Haney saw Mason that day.

QUIT THAT CHEWING.

At this stage the witness was told to take the gum out of his mouth and answer questions more promptly. He declared he had seen from his window the car leave with Mr. Haney in it.

At the time he accepted Mr. Mason's statement that the car was then leaving for the parliament buildings with Mr. Haney, who had $25,000.

Witness told Mr. Price that there was nothing unusual about Mr. Haney being driven away in an auto from the office.

"It was what Mr. Mason said to you that brought it to your attention?" "Yes."

Mr. Mason's remark might have been a blind?"

"I am inclined to believe now that it was."

"Would you believe Mr. Haney if he said he did not go to the buildings and didn't have the money?" "Yes."

"You came to the conclusion that Mr. Mason was yarning?" "Yes."

CAN'T FIND THEM.

Inspector Cuddy, on request of Mr. Sinclair then made his first statement concerning Mr. Matthews and L. C. Mason, who is married to a step-daughter of Mr. Matthews.

"I am sorry I cannot find them," he said. "We have done everything to serve them and searched everywhere we thought they might be."

"Can we expect them in a day or two?"

"I don't think you can expect Matthews in a day or two," was the reply.

George R. Harris, of Hamilton, the main man in the Provincial Securities which made big profits selling bonds to the Ontario Government, was then recalled. Out of the $31,000 profit on one deal he had sworn previously that certain accounts were paid and Mr. Price showed him from the books that these accounts were not paid out of this profit. Mr. Harris said he had so many accounts and deals he could not remember them.

"Out of the profits of the Provincial Securities you bought bonds that cannot now be traced. Who did you give them to?" asked Mr. Price.

"I kept some myself and gave some to my wife."

"Was that the whole amount?" "I think so."

"Were they bearer bonds?" "Yes."

"What amount did you take and what amount did you give your wife?"

Witness didn't recall, stating that he handled so many bonds in his business he could not remember such details. Mr. Price asked him concerning several bond purchases but witness could not remember what he did with any of them.

"Did you give bonds to some of your friends?" "No."

"Did Peter Smith get any?" "No."

"Did your friend Mr. Biggs?" "No."

"What we want to know is the final disposition of these bonds you bought with your profits?"

"FOOLING QUESTIONERS."

Witness said he could not tell without consulting his wife's accounts as he was handling thousands of securities.

"Did you tell Mr. Biggs of your big profits?" "No."

He was aware that Mrs. Biggs had been a shareholder in his brokerage company, which had gone smash. Mrs. Biggs had $10,000 stock in it. Witness said it would be a complete loss and he lost $20,000 himself in the company.

Mr. Harris said he had secured no introduction to the Government, to sell his bonds, and had got into the deal because it was common knowledge that the Government was buying in bonds and inscribed stock. Witness could not tell why he had started a separate account for business done with the Province and why this account was not audited by the auditors who audited the company's other transactions. He persisted that he could tell no reason and the chairman warned him that he was rapidly putting himself in a position where he would be responsible to the Legislature.

The witness still failing to answer the question, the chairman stated that he was satisfied that he was deliberately trying to fool the committee.

"I think he should be left with Mr. Cuddy or one of the officers of the Crown," said Chairman Finlayson. An officer was despatched to stay with Mr. Harris in the lobby and Mr. Denman, a present partner of Mr. Harris, was called. He knew nothing of deals with the Government, he said. He stated that Mr. Harris was still trying to clear off old debts and he could not remember certain deals because of the bad shape of books and documents.

Mr. Price suggested that Mr. Harris be left with the Provincial officers until the night session of the committee.

It was decided to have a medical man examine Mr. Haney and see if he was capable of giving some evidence about the $25,000.

Col. Currie stated that, in view of the fact that there were some who thought that the committee was trying to stop certain information coming out, the committee should go on as long as there was anything to investigate. "I think the Treasurer should lay this matter before the Cabinet" he said," and arrange further sittings if necessary." Mr. Price said he would bring the matter before the Prime Minister. Mr. Sinclair thought the committee should not rise until C. A. Matthews and L. C. Mason had given evidence.

At the suggestion of Hon. W. F. Nickle, Attorney-General, inspector Cuddy then made a statement concerning Matthews and Mason.

"On March 27," he said, "we were instructed to shadow these two men. We detailed two men for the job. They saw him home and watched his house that night. On March 28, they followed him down town. Between five and six Matthews got out of a car on Bay Street and went into an office. The car remained on the street until 2 or 3 o'clock the next morning. The vigil was kept outside his house for the next two days. Matthews apparently went out of the back door and got away. We have searched everywhere."

"What steps were to be taken if he were found?" was asked.

"Warrants were ready to be sworn out and the instructions were, if he tried to get away, to hold him."

"The bird has flown?" asked Sam Clarke. "Yes."

"Can he be brought back from the United States?" asked one of the committee.

"Yes, I think so," said Mr. Price.

The committee adjourned then at 7 o'clock until 9.

Before the session Chairman Finlayson announced that he and G. T. Clarkson had seen M. J. Haney and secured a statement from him, in part as follows:

HANEY'S DENIAL.

"That I never at any time in September, 1919, or any other time received $25,000 or any other amount from the said J. Cooper Mason or anyone in connection with the Home Bank for any person or party at the parliament buildings or to be sent there.

"That I never at any time paid any sum whatever to Thos. McGarry for commission or any other payment or contributions either directly or indirectly or for any contribution to any party funds."

This statement was sworn before Mr. Finlayson, a notary public.

Mr. Sinclair said the statement was valueless as evidence and would not be accepted in any court of law. There was no chance to cross examine and he left it to the committee whether it was valuable or not. Mr. Finlayson said the declaration was taken fairly and Mr. Clarkson also told of the incident.

Mr. Harris was recalled. He could not tell why papers and accounts which the committee wanted were missing nor where they went. These included Mr. Biggs' account and the accounts of members of the firm. J. A. Currie asked why sometimes the big profits were credited to the Hamilton house and other times to Provincial Securities. Witness said profits went to both places. Some bonds were bought at higher than current rates by the Hamilton house; sold to Provincial Securities at a profit and sold again to the Government by them at another profit.

DON'T BELIEVE HIM.

Witnes said Mr. Biggs had a fairly active account with the firm even before 1919. "Was it large before he became Minister of Public Works?" asked Mr. Currie. "Yes, he had some fairly large accounts."

All the leaves in the cash book, he said, were loose in the vaults and were constantly being referred to. Witness said he did not know who took the missing sheets. They were placed in the vaults and everybody in the office had access to them. There was practically no check on anything in the vaults. The keys were there and any one of the office staff could go through them. Witness admitted that, through another firm, advertising was done for bonds, so that the firm could sell them to the government.

Browning, Harris and Company sent a representative to the old country to buy succession duty free bonds.

"You had a guarantee you could sell them, so you bought on a big scale?" asked Mr. Price. "Yes."

"Your evidence, Mr. Harris, has been such that the commission does not believe half of it," said Mr. Price. "We want to know what you did with the stocks you bought with your $31,000 profits?"

"I am telling absolute truth, I can't tell you the ratio," said witness. "If I had my wife's account I could account for several thousands of dollars."

"Have you got any of those securities now?" "No."

"Were they given to anybody?" "Except my wife and myself, no."

A. Belanger asked if anybody in the Government got anything directly or indirectly from him.

"Not to my knowledge."

The Chairman—"Answer the question. You know whether they did or not."

Witness then answered "No, sir" to Mr. Belanger's question.

To Russell Nesbitt, witness could give no reason why the special Provincial account of nearly $1,000,000 was not audited when the other books of the company were audited. He did not remember giving instructions to audit the account or not.

This answer brought a warning from the chairman that if the witness was not careful his replies would be reported to the House.

Witness said the reason might have been to have the profits of the Provincial account go into capital, to avoid the income tax. Mr. Price pointed out that it did go into capital.

Witness said he had talked the matter over with Mr. Browning since he gave evidence. He paid nothing for the transfer of Mrs. Biggs' stock to himself. He did not understand that Mrs. Biggs was to be repaid for the stock. He had heard nothing from Snyder. He had written him in Florida but the letter had been returned.

Record Productions in Nova Scotia—Big Orders Placed

NEW GLASGOW, N.S., April 17.—(Star Special).—Alex. MacNeil, of Glace Bay, general superintendent of collieries for the British Empire Steel Corporation, is spending a few days in Pictou County, inspecting local coal mines. He advises that the mines in both Cape Breton and Pictou County are reaching a much higher state of efficiency than for years, with record outputs.

Work at the collieries at present is only at the rate of about three days a week but Mr. MacNeil looks for much better employment conditions with the opening of navigation. He attributes the better efficiency to more satisfactory relations between management and men.

SYDNEY, N.S., April 17.—(Star Special)—Over 100,000 tons of coal have been contracted for in Newfoundland for delivery this summer from the Dominion Coal Company, A. W. McMaster, district sales manages, told your correspondent today on arival from the ancient colony.

The compauy has sold to the Government between 50,000 and 60,000 tons which will be used by its various boats, railways and other services. A similar amount has been sold to local dealers at St. John for domestic purposes.

The New Zealand Shipping Company's steamer Tremeadown sailed from Louisburg today with 1,000 tons of steel products for South Africa. She will call at St. John, N.B., for the remainder of her cargo.

"What!" he said, to a friend who prides herself on her dinner parties. "Another new cook? Why, what's the matter with the last? Thought you said she was good?" "Oh, yes," was the reply, "She was quite a good cook, as cooks go, and as good cooks always go, she went."

BEATTY'S PROJECT FOR POPULATING CANADA AND REDUCING DEBT

C. P. R. President Details Minutely Broad Plan To Get Rid Of Railway White Elephant, Put Farmers And Manufacturers On Their Feet—Calls On Nation To Help

WINDSOR, Ont., April 17.—(Star Special.)— Addressing 600 members of the Chamber of Commerce at a dinner in his honor at Prince Edward Hotel here last night, E. W. Beatty, K.C., president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, laid down a broad scheme for immigration to build up Canada.

Mr. Beatty dealt principally with the need for a more energetic policy which would ensure for this country a sound basis of colonists from abroad.

He suggested floating a $10,000,000 bond issue to be used in assisting newcomers, by means of loans, to establish themselves upon the land.

Government Should Co-operate With Provinces And Transportation Bodies

Immediate steps should be taken by the Government, he said, to complete a survey of the country's resources and British and European capital should be invited to come in. Provision should be made for more co-ordination between Provincial Governments and the transportation companies for the reception of settlers.

It was President Beatty's first visit to Windsor in a number of years and he was given a most cordial reception. He arrived here at six o'clock by special train from Montreal, accompanied by half a dozen C. P. R. executives. Mr. Beatty said in part:

What the country is suffering from is too great railway mileage, and too great overhead for the amount of traffic available. It is the same with a great many of our manufacturers. Their problem is to find a market sufficiently large to reduce their overhead to reasonable proportions. At this time of the year when the voice most frequently heard in the land is not the voice of Moses, but of his rival, the income tax collector, we are painfully reminded of the cost of Government. There is a heartfelt demand for national economy and if the demand is sufficiently vociferous, some retrenchment will undoubtedly be made.

SPREAD TAXES

While, therefore, a certain hope may be entertained of relief, throughout national thrift, much more may be expected from a policy which will spread the burden of taxation over a larger number of shoulders. Canada is at present in a particularly favorable position to do this, as there are a great many people willing to undertake their share. They are not citizens yet, but they are knocking at the door and the only reason why the Ottawa Government has not been more active in thus broadening the field of taxation is that sufficient pressure has not been brought to bear upon it from all sections of the country to ease the burden in that particular way.

Our records show that of the immigrants who have entered Canada, in Canadian Pacific ships, since the New Year, 85 per cent. were destined for the West and of these 90 per cent. were destined for farms. The individual farmer undoubtedly produces much of the wealth on which taxation ultimately falls and in that respect, therefore, the sooner we can populate the still unoccupied farm lands of the West the easier it will be for the taxpayers of Ontario cities. Your cities will be next also in the enlarged market easily accessible, which you will have for your manufactured goods. Every wheel of the Westbound immigrant train is helping to turn the wheels of Eastern factories, for under the standards of living which the poorest European peasant quickly adopts in our Canadian West he becomes a first-rate customer for what you can produce.

BALANCED IMMIGRATION

But what about the immigrants who are not farmers and who are not bound for the West? Is it right to open the doors to the skilled mechanic or to the factory hand? The answer is governed by the question of supply and demand. If a large immigration of farm population is to increase the demand for manufactured goods, are you going to drain once more the younger generation from the farms of Ontario and tempt them with higher wages to the city? Is it not more sensible to take advantage of any surplus of skilled labor among those who wish to immigrate and keep our own rural population on the farms? Is not the theory of a balanced immigration a wise one, in which the existence of Canadian industry is frankly recognized and its requirements met?

The chief drawback to any heavy movement of immigration is the difficulty of assimilation. If there is any Province in Canada which evidences solidarity of feeling, it is surely Ontario and yet quite a large percentage of that population is of German origin. Few realize, unless they examine the census figures, that 340,000 Canadians are of German stock, owing to the fact that this originally foreign-born element has been successfully assimilated. The same process is going on in the case of the other foreign language stocks. Particularly in the second generation, where the influence of school is paramount. What we have to do is speed up this assimilation by showing a neighborly attitude to those who have come to plant new homes here.

CONCRETE PLAN

After a great deal of consideration and consultation, I have prepared a concrete statement of the steps I think should be taken to establish policies and to result in the proper increase in this country's producing man-power. In the last three years the immigration to Canada has been, in 1921, 67,400; in 1922, 70,400 and in 1923, 137,800. During this period it is estimated 225,000 Canadians left the country and during the same period the normal increase in the population is estimated to be from 15 to 17 per 1,000. Fortunately, we think that the tide has turned and many who left the country are now returning. There is no doubt in my mind that we can without danger absorb a minimum of 200,000 and a maximum of 500,000 new people per year. The following is suggested as the policy which should be immediately adopted by the Government and actively and aggressively administered.

(A)—Immediate steps should be taken in co-operation with the Provincial Governments, transportation companies, professional organizations and others, to complete a comprehensive survey of the Dominion which should include not only the vacant improved and unimproved lands available for colonization but all undeveloped resources, and the information obtained by such survey should be issued in the shape of a comprehensive book of reference for distribution through all media interested in the development of Canada.

(B)—The Dominion Government should forthwith issue an invitation, through advertisements, literature, lectures, moving pictures and exhibitions to the people of Great Britain, United States and selected countries of Northern and Central Europe, to come to Canada as colonists and assist in the development of our unoccupied lands — and this invitation should also include an invitation for the investment of the necessary capital to develop our latent natural resources. It is further understood that the Government will take all steps necessary to aid those people now resident in Canada to take up improved or unimproved lands for the purpose of engaging in farming, and will render all necessary assistance to enable such people to carry on their farming operations successfully.

(C)—The Dominion Government should at once provide a proper and qualified staff of the Department of Immigration and Colonization at headquarters at Ottawa and throughout Canada, in Great Britain, the United States and selected countries of Europe, to select and forward colonists who may accept the invitation to come to Canada. It is further suggested that the physical and medical examination of colonists desiring to come to Canada shall, as far as possible, be carried out at the port of embarkation.

(D)—An immediate amendment to the existing regulations should be made to remove the provisions with regard to the "non-continuous passage," so as to permit of the entry into Canada of selected colonists without reference to the fact that they may have come on a non-continuous passage from the country of their origin. It is understood that in so amending the regulations, the "non-continuous passage" clause shall be most strictly enforced against immigration into Canada of undesirable nationals.

HELP COLONISTS.

(E)—Provision should be made for a proper and widely distributed staff throughout the Dominion and for more co-operative action with the Provincial Governments and transportation companies for the reception, proper distribution and subsequent care of colonists coming to Canada—and in this connection, additional Government immigration halls and hostels should be provided to ensure better care and distribution of colonists.

(F)—A sum of at least $10,000,000 should be provided by the issue of special bonds to assist in the settlement in Canada of British colonists in co-operation with the Overseas Settlement Committee of the British Government, it being understood that amounts advanced towards assisted passages or in enabling colonists to become settled, will be advanced as a loan and not as a free gift.

(G) — Immediate arrangements should be made for the utilization of the existing Dominion Government experimental farms throughout Canada as receiving and training centres for British colonists, especially boys and girls, to enable them to obtain the necessary training in Canadian methods before undertaking farm work.

(H)—The immediate provision of a better system in co-operation with existing bureaux for the preparation of reliable statistics with regard to immigration into and migration from Canada.

(I)—The extension, in conjunction with Provincial Governments and private organizations, of the existing regulations with regard to the reception and training of boys for farm work.

(J)—The adoption and enforcement of more stringent regulations against the immigration into Canada of undesirable nationals.

DISTRIBUTE LABOR.

(K)—The adoption of a policy, in co-operation with the Provincial Governments, industrial organizations, transportation companies and others of a labor survey throughout the Dominion including skilled and unskilled labor, and the providing of the necessary staff and regulations to select and bring to Canada from time to time, and properly distribute such labor, skilled and unskilled, as may be needed to meet the developing needs of the Dominion. It is understood that in carrying out the labor survey herein provided for, the distribution of skilled and unskilled labor shall be carried out in co-operation with the Federal Department of Labor.

(L)—The extending of financial aid to the associations that are now engaged in stimulating the movement of desirable colonists to Canada. Their proper distributions on arrival and their subsequent care. The policy contemplated by this clause includes the granting of assistance to individual or organizations who are operating under the provisions of the British Overseas Settlement Committee.

(M)—Upon the adoption of a policy as outlined above a convention should then be called by the Dominion Government in Ottawa, to be attended by representatives of the Provincial Government, transportation companies, Boards of Trade, bank mortgage companies, labor organizations, to permit of the policy being discussed in detail and to ensure that all interest would then be undertaken to support the Dominion Government in the carrying out of the policy adopted and in providing the necessary grants to ensure its success.

MONTREAL REVELATIONS.

The Montreal Board of Trade has issued a pamphlet which, for conciseness and illuminating figures in respect of the obligations of the people of Quebec, is as unique as it is valuable. It shows, for example: The position of the public debt, and how it has grown in 10 years from $32 millions to 3,714 millions; that the debt per head, Dominion, Provincial and municipal, has grown from $248 to $612; a family of five now owes $3,060; a family of ten, $6,120; and whether they know it or not, they are being taxed for it in high prices.

What is the principal factor which keeps up our high cost of living? I reply that the high scale of wages is that factor. We seem to be moving in a circle, due to outside and internal influences, which preclude the possibility of our reverting to more normal cost conditions. On the one hand we are affected by a rather marked condition of prosperity existing in the United States, which has the twofold disability of attracting our workmen from Canada and also of keeping our own scales of wages on a higher basis than are justified. Great population and extensive internal trade in the U. S. can, for a period, permit them to enjoy great industrial activity, with correspondingly high costs of labor.

Canada has not enjoyed this prosperity and our wage scales are in a great many cases relatively low to those in the United States.

Deflation has not taken place. In fact, during the past few months the effort has all been towards greater inflation and when the cost of living, according to index figures of the Department of Labor, increases, applications for further increases in wages are usually made.

WAGES RAISE COSTS.

By a peculiar anomaly, tribunals dealing with wage scales fix them in accordance with the cost of living and, as you know, so long as this is the yard-stick there can be little reduction in the cost of living because these wages themselves are the greatest factor in maintaining it.

I am very hopeful that in Canada, where the excuse of great prosperity does not exist to the same extent as in the United States, it will be able to maintain its own wage scale, consistent with the commercial conditions which exist here, and not be compelled to adopt other scales because of their adoption in other countries.

In referring to these questions which are, I think, now receiving general consideration, I can do so without any lack of optimism in the future of this country. We must admit that some of our troubles have been due to too great optimism, and over-spending, which is the natural consequence. We have no place in the country for those attractive but un-thinking gentlemen, who preach in and out of season that careless optimism which contains nothing of constructive merit but only serves to tickle our ear drums and lull our senses into a state of complacency not consistent with effort or initiative.

The future of this country will depend in a large measure upon the elements which have contributed to its past success. We require much capital, if our enterprises are to be furthered and extended, and our natural resources cannot be even partially developed except with the assistance of Canadian and foreign investors. The financiers in Great Britain or the United States will look upon this country as a good prospect if its industrial progress has been adequate and its own enterprises have been reasonably successful.

STATE TRADING BAD.

The credit of this country is related in a very vital way to the success of individuals and corporations who have made Canada the scene of their commercial activities. And this is one of the reasons why I think state socialism, in any of its varied forms will not receive a very great foot-hold in this country. It was a perfectly natural result of the extraordinary and necessary powers conferred upon Governments during the time of war and immediately after, that there should be excursions by them into enterprises which would not under normal conditions be either necessary or permissible, but the war has passed and we are all endeavoring to re-adjust ourselves to the new conditions to which we have fallen heir. If a remnant of the view that Governments should assume a greater control of business or, indeed, embark upon business itself, still exists, it is probably the not unnatural consequence of these abnormal activities which had to be undertaken by them in a time of national peril. As the necessity for those conditions ceases to exist it is being replaced by a sense of self-reliance, of confidence in the people themselves to work out their own business salvation and contribute to the country's prosperity.

I speak with feeling on this subject, in view of my association with a corporation which has never lost its identity as a national enterprise, though it was permitted to enjoy the blessings of private administration. It expanded with the country and, by reason of the manifold character of its operations, it has probably touched the life of the Canadian people in more ways than any other corporation. It became an example of Canadian progress and its credit became the yard stick of Canadian industrial credit. Its success has probably invited more new people and new capital to Canada than any other single agency and its progress has been considered as typical of the progress of Canada itself.

LOTS OF WORKERS.

OTTAWA, April 17 — (Canadian Press.)—There will be no difficulty in getting workers from the European continent for the farmer or any other Canadian industry as fast as Canada can absorb them, according to W. J. Black, European manager of the immigration and colonization for the Canadian National in London, England, whose address was broadcast from the C. N. R. radio station here last night.

SLAYS WIFE OVER SUPPORT OF BABY

SOMERVILLE, N. J., April 17 — (United Press).—A four year old boy, innocent cause of the death of his father and mother, sobbed in the home of his grandmother yesterday as police investigated the double tragedy in East Somerville which led Andrew Fellows to kill his young wife and then take his own life.

Papers found on the body of the man indicated Fellows killed his wife, because she had threatened court action if he did not contribute toward support of his son.

The man dashed into the home of Mrs. Fellows' mother late Tuesday, fired several shots at his wife, killing her instantly, and then escaped in a truck he was driving.

Police found him on a lonely country road with a bullet in his brain. He died in a hospital yesterday.

Reports that Fellows was accompanied by two other men were not borne out by police investigation. It was established Fellows went to the house alone.

GIVES OWN LIFE TO PREVENT BLAST

ACTON, Mass., April 17 — (Associated Press.)—August Eore, of Concord Junction, died at a hospital in that town from burns received earlier in the evening when he threw himself on a bag of blazing powder in an attempt to prevent an explosion at the American Smokeless Powder Company plant here.

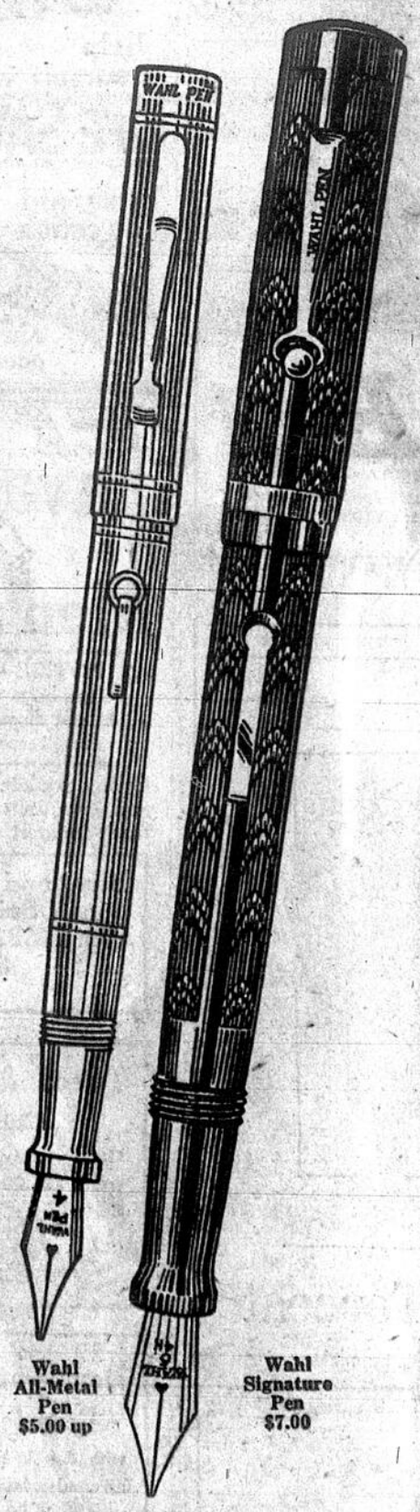

He was working in a small dry house 500 yards from the main building when the fire started among the bags he was piling. Despite his efforts other bags ignited and an explosion of the gases blew him through the door.

Fire apparatus was called from Concord, and Concord Junction to assist the mill department. The main building was saved but five other dry houses containing about 2,000 pounds of powder and ten acres of woodland were destroyed by the flames.

Eversharp was the first successful mechanical pencil. Eversharp was the first pencil you could use day after day for years. Eversharp was the first pencil you would not throw away. Eversharp was the first pencil beautiful enough to become the standard writing gift of a continent.

Wahl Pen is made by the makers of Eversharp. The same inventive genius which gave Eversharp the rifled tip, the engine-turned barrel, the jeweller precision, has eliminated fountain pen faults.

The hardest writers are using Wahl Pen and say it is perfect.

Men who had stopped carrying fountain pens now use Wahl Pens.

Men who write all day long say it has forever eliminated any need of thinking about the pen. They just write.

Wahl Pen you can use for years—without a mutter or a grumble.

Note its ten exclusive features—found in no other pen. Study its construction. Select the pen which seems to suit you most. If you like the glistening black, select a Wahl Signature Pen. You'll never have a finer writing instrument. Holds lots of ink. Never tires the hand. Writes on any kind of paper. For about the same price you can have the indestructible Wahl metal pen in silver or gold—the pen which holds more ink than any other pen of the same size. Ask the Wahl dealer to show it to you. Or write us for further information.

Why Wahl Pens are Better

All-Metal Construction

Only in the WAHL All-Metal construction can you secure an Unbreakable Pen. The metal cap and metal barrel can't crack or break. Metal threads can't strip. This construction also permits greater ink capacity.

The Wahl Nib

To no other part of the pen has the Wahl Company given more thought than to the Wahl nib.

We are one of the very few pen manufacturers making their own nibs.

Wahl nibs must pass the most rigid inspection in the pen industry.

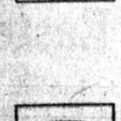

The iridium used in Wahl nibs is selected with extreme care. We pay more for it in order to get the best. Then we reject a large part of what we do get as not good enough for Wahl nibs.

The Wahl Comb Feed

The nib makes the Wahl Pen write smoothly—for a lifetime. But the famous Wahl Comb Feed makes it write instantly—without ever a blot. Just touch the pen point to the paper—and ink awaits your words. You'll never need to shake a Wahl Pen if you give it an occasional washing-out. You'll never find the first initial of your signature only partly written.

Yet there's never a blot. The ink never comes to "gobs". Just an instant, even flow, when you want it, but never when you don't.

The Air-Tight Cap

The Wahl Pen can't leak in your pocket. When the cap is on, it's absolutely air-tight. Precision-made parts and an inner cushion of rubber insure this.

The Wahl Locking Lever

When you've filled your Wahl Pen, a little pressure locks the lever.

The Wahl Designs

Only in Wahl Pens can you get the beautiful, engine-turned designs which have won instant favor everywhere. No beauty such as this was ever offered in pens before. You'll be proud of your Wahl Pen—and it's something new.

Wahl All-Metal Pen is the greatest value offered you today.

The Wahl Signature Pens

To give those who like a big pen all the advantages of Wahl design, we have produced the Wahl Signature Pens. ## NEW HYDRO HEATS MALLEABLE STEEL

NEW GLASGOW, N.S., April 17.—(Star Special.)—Hydro power from the Malay Falls development was used for the first time in a commercial way yesterday when a heat of steel castings was produced in the electric furnace of J. W. Cummings and Co., Ltd. It was an experiment which proved successful and in a few days the firm will use the power from a direct line. Cummings are the only firm east of Montreal to manufacture malleable steel castings, having put in an electric furnace two years ago. Competition has been keen and the company has been operating with a narrow profit.

At a meeting of the Pictou County Power Board, John F. MacDonald, for some years town clerk of Pictou, was appointed chief accountant and business manager and it is understood that John Preston, engineer since the inception of the hydro project, will manage the distribution. The power board will formally take over the distributing plant of the Pictou County Electric Company May 7 if a bill now before the Nova Scotia Legislature goes through.

CUSTOM SURPLUS.
MELBOURNE, Australia, April 17.—(Canadian Press). — It is anticipated that the customs surplus for the year will amount to £6,000,000. The Government proposes to allocate the surplus to the Australia's export trade. This assistance will include freight subsidies.

RADIO KNIFE TO CUT CANCER GROWTHS

Virtually Bloodless Operations of Great Delicacy Claimed

CHICAGO, April 17 — (Associated Press.) — A "radio knife" which may render virtually bloodless operations for cancerous growths, was demonstrated here yesterday by Dr. L. E. Schmidt, in two operations.

A low power radio transmitter is used to generate current. The "knife" resembling a knitting needle forms one terminal. A sheet of tin foil on which the patient lies forms the other terminal. The human tissue, offering resistance to the current when the knife is applied, causes the generation of heat. The knife burns itself through skin and muscle quickly and without pressure.

Dr. Schmidt said the tissue was seared for a depth of a thirty-second of an inch, making the operation virtually bloodless.

Very delicate operations are possible with it, he added.

RAMSAY MACDONALD TALKS OF TROUBLES OF LABOR MINISTRY

Premier MacDonald replied:

"We are carrying out our promise to make unemployment insurance more satisfactory and to bring it into closer relationship with the living requirements of working class families than we found it, but this is not constructive, although it is a necessary piece of patching.

"The housing scheme is our most important legislative item. It is really the biggest piece of constructive industrial organization which has, probably, ever been attempted. It is not only a scheme for building houses, but for the co-operation between all interests concerned."

MacDonald, evidently aware of the sharp criticism of the failure of the Government so far to produce concrete projects of social reform, continued: "There are some people in the House of Commons who seek to obtain fame or notoriety by putting impatient questions as to the Government's program. They seem to be annoyed that we haven't created a new world since January twenty-third. My answer to them is that if we succeed with this scheme for building houses by scientifically organized industry, it will be looked on in time by some as the most important contribution yet made to industrial peace and stability. There are many obstacles to overcome, and there will be still more, but it is worth while going on. It is this sort of work that will remain as creative achievement long after we have handed in our seals of office."

FOREIGN POLICY.

The correspondent asked the Premier to discuss the state of Europe and his own policy abroad. There was added seriousness in his voice when he said, "As to my foreign policy, I am still very hopeful, but readers of The Star must not imagine that I am the overly optimistic person that some newspapers represent me to be. I cannot promise an immediate and comprehensive European settlement. All I can do is declare that conditions are more favorable for such a settlement than they have been, and that the advent of the Labor Government has had an enormous influence for good.

"On the other hand, the influence of the mischief-monger is still lamentably great. A recent speech made by Mr. Lloyd-George in the House of Commons might have seriously affected our good relations with France. Luckily it was simply a partisan attack on our Government and would not be likely to influence our policy one way or the other.

"Reparations, the Ruhr debts, and security are problems still to be solved, but the Government has taken an important step toward that end. It has established confidence that they are being considered by people who will do their very best to come to fair and workable agreements."

GERMANY!

Mr. MacDonald was asked: "What about Germany?"

"I have never made any secret of my firm conviction that in any settlement Germany must play the part of a nation voluntarily co-operating," the Premier replied. "It is folly to imagine that we can impose conditions upon other peoples. We must bring them along with us and establish a determination on both sides to carry out mutual obligations. Our policy hitherto has destroyed the democratic and the pacifist sections of Germany. I should like to persuade my foreign colleagues to stop all that and to give ourselves as well as Germany a change. It is terribly slow."

When asked to explain his position on world disarmament, Mr. MacDonald said, "The position regarding armaments is simple. Until there is an international agreement a certain nucleus of forces must be kept in existence. Until we get such an agreement it is futile to assume that we are out of the military stage. Absolutism in this respect is neither more virtuous nor wiser than the humdrum method of working out details of the problems and being loyal to both the facts and the ideals. But for this method of approaching the subject, absolutism would remain forever in the air.

NEW WORLD WAR?

"There's no use shutting our eyes to the fact that if our foreign policy fails, armaments will return. Then there would be a new grouping of the powers, in which Russia and Germany would play no inconsiderable role, and finally there would be a new world war. That at any rate was the condition of things that was being created up to the time we took office—perhaps not always consciously, but as a matter of evolutionary inevitability."

From world affairs the conversation turned to the industrial situation in England, and the Premier was asked to say something about the prevalent epidemic strikes and disputes here. He replied:

"After the cruel way in which wages have been reduced by the power of a dominant profiteering class, particularly around about 1920, these troubles were inevitable. Delays in examining and negotiating the claims of the men, and, as in the dock affair, insults given to their leaders, were the prelude to these strikes."

"I should not be doing my duty, either to the Parliamentary party or to the movement outside, however, if I did not mention some aspects of the present industrial unrest which are creating difficulties of very serious character.

CAUSES OF UNREST.

"I hope I do not need to give any assurances about backing demands for fair conditions. Some recent developments and methods, however, seem in practice and result to be those of mischievous syndicalist communism. Far from helping the worker or his trade union, they are likely to involve the one in misery and the other in disaster. One strike like that which took place at the Wembley Exhibition does the working class movement more harm, and inflicts on the wage-earner more misery, than can well be described. In the Wembley case the blunder was soon rectified, but influences were revealed that must be watched.

"All my life I have been opposed to the sympathetic strike. It has no practical value; it is simply beating the air. It has one sure result — a bitter and blinding reaction. It looks so heroically effective in the heat of battle, and it is so subversive. Once the poor miners always had to be in it; now it is the transport men.

"I know what I am talking about when I say that as the result of some recent occurrences, the code of law which has 'protected the workingmen's organizations for generations has been in greater jeopardy than I have ever seen it in before."

"Liberty is far more easily destroyed by those who abuse it than by those who oppose it."

ON DRESS.

The correspondent ventured to call Mr. MacDonald's attention to criticisms about the Labor Ministers' wearing levee dress, and he took up the subject with great spirit.

"I hear and see that some people are interested in these vanities," he said. "I would have forgotten that I possessed a ceremonial suit if I hadn't seen mention of it in the press. What a silly thing it all is. I have known people who showed their vanity by the clumsiness of their clothes. Tattered hat and red tie, a certain tone of voice, and the religious repetition of Marxian phrases are just as indicative of the man who has sold himself to appearances as is possession of ceremonial dress, to enable one to attend ceremonies that may be historical parts of one's duties.

"Perhaps it's some defect in me, but I regard those who make these criticisms, by reason of the emphasis they lay on the matter, as being far more lost to qualities of self-mastery and single-minded devotion to the cause of labor, than those who, when occasion demands it, put on ceremonial dress without troubling about it."

The Premier was looking apprehensively at his watch. There were uneasy movements outside the door. Dropping less serious matters, the correspondent asked for the Premier's views as to the practicability of Socialism, after his experience in office.

"Socialism is much more than the exposition of an idea," Mr. MacDonald said. "It will never succeed unless the idea is worked out in detail, is applied to existing conditions and habits, and is used for the purpose of changing the evils of today into a state more in conformity with the idea itself. We must have the larger vision so that we may not only know how far short we are, but also have energy to go on toward our goal. But without troublesome and patient work on details we would never do anything beyond creating a critical minority. This might serve many useful purposes, but it would never bring about Socialism."

Chevrolet Is Easily Within Reach of All

NEVER before in the history of the automobile industry has such car value been possible. And it is possible now, only, because the Chevrolet Car and Chevrolet business principles have been so universally and so favorably received. Chevrolet production has as a result, rapidly grown in volume until now Chevrolet is the world's largest manufacturer of quality automobiles.

Chevrolet quality is more than apparent. For, the more closely Chevrolet is examined and the more severe the tests demanded, the more convincingly is Chevrolet quality demonstrated and proved.

Moreover, day by day continuous service brings out another economy equal, if not greater in importance, than Chevrolet's remarkably low first cost. Chevrolet is more economical to operate than any other car built and its maintenance cost is the lowest in the world.

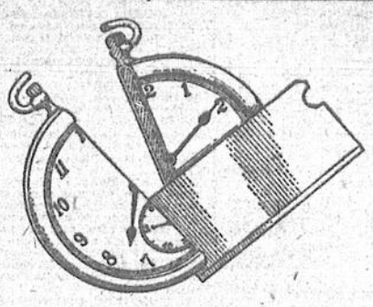

Investigate Chevrolet yourself. Call on your dealer and have him demonstrate the model that suits your needs. He can arrange terms that will surely fit your circumstances.

But with the application of Mennen's lather Dermutation begins and the hairs become—

SOFT! LIMP! PLIABLE! —THEY CAN OFFER NO RESISTANCE TO THE RAZOR.

Men! Read this remarkable achievement in Shaving Discovery

Absolute Beard-Softening now an accomplished fact—science calls it DERMUTATION.

"Dermutation" is the transformation of the hair of your beard from wiry stiffness to a soft, pliable condition. Hairs under this new Mennen process offer no resistance at all—the razor blade simply sweeps right through them.

Mennen Dermutation works, regardless of the hair's position

It is only necessary that the hair be outside the skin for Mennen lather to be brought in contact with it and dermutation starts. The hairs lose their horny, stiff character and become soft and limp, offering no resistance to the cutting edge of the razor. Hairs in this condition need no props or support to jack them up so that the razor can cut them. If the hair is on the outside of the skin, the razor is sure to get it.

And Dermutation, or absolute beard-softening, is not the only point of superiority of Mennen's.

It is a Universal Product—Works in Any Water—Any Clime—At Any Temperature

Mennen Shaving Cream softens the beard equally well, whether you use cold or hot water. Mennen's keeps uniform under any climatic condition of heat or cold. It will also yield a copious lather in hard or soft water, for certain elements in its composition will soften the hardest water and neutralize the irritating, drying salts in alkaline waters.

Boro-Glycerine, Too!

The Mennen beard-softening principle safeguards the skin during the shave, and Boro-glycerine provides unique after-effects.

This splendid emollient, compounded by skin specialists, feeds and stimulates the facial tissues. By relaxing the pores, the skin is enabled to throw off the hidden, oily deposits that form blackheads. This gentle action improves the skin and circulation. Your face is cleaner after a Mennen shave—your skin is smoother—softer—more comfortable.

Get a tube today. Test Mennen Dermutation for yourself. Test Mennen's for a speedy shave. Test it for the comfort that follows its use.

The daily use of Mennen Talcum for Men is a pleasure as well as a real protection for the skin.

It never looks chalky or conspicuous. That is because Mennen Talcum for Men is toned to match the color of your face.

Annual Meeting of Co-operating Colleges Reviews Achievements

Two hundred and eighty-two students were registered at the co-operating Theological colleges during the session 1923-1924, Rev. D. J. Fraser, Dean of the co-operating Theological colleges, stated in his annual report submitted at the meeting of the Joint Theological Board yesterday afternoon in Divinity Hall, University street.

Undergraduates in Arts numbered 46; there were 18 in the Matriculation class; 20 partial students; 56 students in Divinity, of whom 16 were graduates and 40 non-graduates; eight registered in medical missions, and four students training as Y. M. C. A. secretaries.

There were also 26 graduate students in theology in attendance; 54 extra-mural students, (post testamur), 49 extra-mural students, and 25 special students in Religious Education, not registered.

Reporting on relations with McGill, Dr. Fraser stated that seven of the courses offered by the Joint Faculty had been accepted by the McGill Faculty of Research and Graduate Studies as minor courses for the degree of M. A. The recently organized Faculty Club of McGill afforded a welcome opportunity to the professors of the Theological Colleges to meet socially their colleagues in the various departments of the university, while the Students' Theological Society which was on a level with the undergraduate societies of McGill had given the Divinity students of McGill the opportunity of participating in the manifold activities of the student body of the university. He was pleased to report that the theological students had taken a worthy place during the past session in the academic, social, athletic and religious life of McGill.

The students who were entitled to the Board's generous award of the Universal Fee at McGill, were distributed in the four colleges as follows: Congregational, six; Diocesan, four; Presbyterian, fourteen, and Wesleyan, twenty-six.

NEW VOLUMES.

More than 900 volumes were added to the library during the year, those making gifts including Prof. G. Abbott-Smith, Prof. E. M. Best, Prof. Charles Bieler, Dr. Buscarlet, the Congregational College, Prof. A. R. Gordon, Georges P. Grosjean, G. R. Lighthall, W. D. Lighthall, T. B. Macaulay, Dr. S. E. Silcox and Prof. R. E. Welsh.

The report submitted by Principal Ritchie, D.D., stated that the Summer School for Rural Improvement held at Macdonald College last summer had been one of the most successful yet held, 106 registering, of whom 86 were ministers and 20 lay-students. Of the latter 17 were women. The Alumni of the four Co-operating Colleges were well represented, Ontario and Quebec sending equal numbers. The United Board, gratified by the success of the school, had resolved to increase the number of bursaries from 80 to 100.

The report on religious education submitted by Prof. E. M. Best showed that six students are now enrolled in the Y.M.C.A. courses and are making satisfactory progress. H. F. Hall, of Sherbrooke, will graduate this year and begin work with the Montreal Central Y.W.C.A.

During the year the Secretary Training Committee of the National Council of the Y.M.C.A. had decided to extend the course from four to five years and to send all their students to McGill for training. Professor Best has been appointed honorary director in charge of training.

A number of theological students are specializing in religious education in churches, it was reported, and in this connection it is noted that A. H. McLean, winner of the travelling fellowship in 1923, is now taking advanced work at Union Theological Seminary and Columbia University, and is a candidate for the Ph.D. degree.

A report submitted by Prof. Charles Bieler, D.D., on the School of Christian Missions showed eleven students registered.

Essays presented by students this year were of a high grade and showed general interest in foreign missions. The committee of the School of Missions were considering an application from a student for a preparatory course for the career of agricultural missionary. A report on social service from Prof. C. A. Dawson stated that the affiliated theological colleges had played a prominent part in creating a Department of Social Service at McGill, both through financial support and assistance in organization given by Principal Fraser and Dr. Howard.

MISSIONARY SOCIOLOGY.

Dr. Fraser announced that the Rev. Prof. Christopher Outerbridge, M.A., B.D., of Union College, Kobe, Japan, would give a course on "Practical Missionary Sociology" throughout one term of next session. The Wesleyan College will entertain Prof. Outerbridge during his visit. The Rt. Rev. Arthur C. Headlam, D.D., Bishop of Gloucester, England, will also give a course of lectures during the opening of the 1924-25 session. On October 7, Bishop Headlam will deliver the inaugural lecture on "The Work of the Intellect in the Development of Religion."

On the three successive days he will give afternoon addresses on "The Life of our Lord"; and on Sunday, October 12, he will preach the University service in Christchurch Cathedral.

Motions of regret at the departure of the Rev. George Duncan, D.D., from Canada and at the loss sustained in the death of Rev. Hugh Pedley, B.A., D.D., were included in the Dean's report.

The Joint Theological formally approved of the ward of the Travelling Fellowship open to all four Theological Colleges to Robert Hall, of Cornwall, Ont., student at the Presbyterian College.

AVIATORS FLY BY COMPASS ALONE

ALBANY, April 17. — (Associated Press.)—Two aviators, hopping off from Dayton, Ohio, yesterday morning, headed their plane in the direction of Albany, kept the needle of a new long distance compass bearing on zero and, without reference to maps or topography, landed some seven hours later within a short five miles of their destination.

The distance covered was 570 miles, of which more than 200 was travelled above the clouds and out of sight of earth. The maps in the plane were sealed at Dayton and unsealed in the presence of newspapermen here. The aviators depended entirely upon the compass and declared at the end of their flight the new instrument is a success.

HARDING PAINTING IS ON EXHIBITION

Canvas Displayed Birks Store This Week-end

The celebrated painting depicting the late President Harding on Canadian soil reached Montreal this morning and is now on view to the public on the main floor of Henry Birks and Sons' store. This huge canvas will be presented by the Vancouver Sun, on behalf of the Canadian nation, to the National Press club at Washington, D.C.

When the store closes today, the picture will be moved so that it will be visible tonight and Good Friday to passers by on St. Catherine street.

Large numbers flocked to the store today and expressed very favorable comment, not only on the beauty of the setting—which is in Stanley Park, Vancouver, but because of the sentiment it represents. Mr. Harding is seen extending his arms in fraternal greeting to Canada—making a plea for a brotherhood of the new world.

He was the only U.S. president to visit the Dominion.

Grimsby, England, is now the greatest trawling centre in the world. Between five and six hundred steam trawlers alone are now registered at this port, in addition to many other vessels.

WILL NOT ORDER CONTRACT CHANGE

Quebec-New England Hydro Company Made Application

It is highly probable that next year the Montreal Light, Heat and Power, Consolidated, will employ a different form of contract to that now in use. Although the Public Service Commission this morning dismissed the demand of the Quebec New-England Hydro-Electric Corporation asking that the contract be ordered altered from its present duplex form, the chairman, Adrien Beaudry, asked that before new contracts are printed, which will be sometime before the end of this year, the comptroller of the company confer with him on the future style.

The Quebec New England company based their petition on the fact that the present contract is liable to be misleading as both gas and electric services are included on the one form and in such a way that mistakes might easily occur.

The Montreal L. H. and P. denied that any inconvenience arose out of the present style form, and pleaded that to alter the contract and furnish two sets, one for each service, would practically demoralize the office routine and system.

The Commission heard both sides and rendered judgment dismissing the appeal without costs. However, the chairman asked that the M. L. H. and P. send its comptroller to interview him on a possible change before next year. Mr. Beaudry suggests that the company might retain one form, but divide it in the middle, reserving half the sheet for gas, the other for electric. Each could then be signed separately as required.

A monument has been completed to mark the birthplace of General Pershing's mother, in Blount County, Tennessee. Its dedication probably will take place on Mothers' Day of next year.

"In banking circles" added the witness, "the Home Bank was not looked upon as a flourishing institution. I made it my business to learn all I could of its situation not only from Daly but also casually. I did not wish to create an atmosphere of distrust. I was in pretty close touch with the general feeling. Daly always took the position that business was improving."

"In what way?

"In the actual reduction of debt."

"In deposits as well."

"In the condition generally."

"Were you satisfied?"

"The only two banks we were watching were the Home Bank and Nationale. To say we were satisfied is begging the question."

"Did you get a statement of the accounts from Daly?"

"I got it from Mr. Lash to whom Mr. Mason had written that the Pellatt and timber accounts were being gradually reduced. The security was considered adequate."

"Sir Henry then read extensive figures submitted to him by the bank to show reductions made from month to month in the Pellatt,

Local Baseball And Racing Prospects And Dates Very Undecided As Yet

INTERNATIONAL RACE MEET FOR WHIPPETS HERE END OF JUNE

Whippet racing on a large scale is assured for the latter part of June in Montreal, according to an announcement made today by "Wilty" Warren, well-known all round sportsman, and entertainer, who is arranging an international meet for the fastest creatures of dogdom.

Whippet racing has long been popular in the Old Country, and for some time has created great interest in the United States and certain parts of Canada. Toronto is the centre of the Canadian end of the game to date. But, as announced some time ago in The Star, plans have been under way for sometime to start meetings in Montreal, and now the plans have taken definite shape.

Mr. Warren leaves tonight for Toronto and other Ontario points, later going on to the United States, in an effort to bring together in Montreal the fastest whippets of the Continent for a meeting here in June. He will among other things try to arrange a match race between an American and a Canadian whippet of note. Already he has arranged for Man o'War, former Canadian champion, and now one of the fastest dogs across the border, My Play, Belle Mahone and others to be shipped here for the occasion.

HELD ON RACE TRACK.

The local promoter is going into the thing in a pretentious way, but he feels that if the sport is to become popular in Montreal, the public here must be given the best racing. On his return he will have further announcements to make.

The meeting, which is to be run here, will be at one of the race tracks, and Delorimier Park, on account of its central position, is mentioned at the present time.

LACHINE RACING CANOE 500 MEMBERSHIP OBJECTIVE PASSED—HEADING FOR 1000

The greatest enthusiasm reigned at the joint-executive meeting of the main body and the ladies' branch of the Lachine Racing Canoe Club, held last night, when it was finally announced by Commodore Valiquet that the ten day drive for 500 members had resulted in 608 members having been enrolled up to the sixth day of the drive. The White Division, including eight teams of the ladies' branch, and the Red Division, including eight teams of the men's section were competing closely for divisional honors, while the keenest competition exists for team honors and particularly for the individual competitions which latter include valuable prizes for the maximum number of individual members secured.

Last evening's meeting was presided over by Commodore Chas. N. Valiquet and was attended by White Division Commander Mrs. Art. Weir; Red Division Commander Skip A. Keyworth, and fourteen of the team captains each of whom made their confidential team reports to Secretary Frank Clement and the final total of both divisions announced by the Commodore as being 606 up to last evening. Wild enthusiasm reigned on hearing the announcement and the keenest interest expressed by division commanders and all team captains that notwithstanding the objective of 500 having been reached and passed in six days instead of ten days allotted, the ten day drive should be continued with full pressure up to the closing hour of nine o'clock on the evening of next Wednesday, April 23rd, and the objective raised to a full thousand members. Keen gratification was expressed at the splendid support that was being given to the membership drive, which it was felt was in a large measure due to the result of the splendid foundation created for the club by previous executive and the hard work put in all season by the present executive, combined with the harmony and co-operation existing among all members of the executive and club members who were all making every endeavor to give the community good clean amateur sport.

Westmount High School Gym Display

The annual boys' gym. display of the Westmount High School was held last evening before a crowd which over-taxed the capacity of the school gym. From start to finish the display was carried off without a hitch.

The exhibition last night reflects great credit on G. P. Smith, the popular coach and physical director of the West End school. The boys' appreciation of Mr. Smith's efforts was shown by a presentation of a purse of gold.

The display was the most successful ever carried out by the school. The program was varied and took in every form of exercise for the physical development of the boys.

At the conclusion of the program it was easily understood why Westmount High School has won such prominence in athletics.

The display was presided over by Dr. Nicholson, of the Board of School Commissioners. Dr. Nicholson made a few remarks, complimenting the school for its wonderful record.

R. E. Howe, principal of the school, reviewed the achievements of the boys in the past year. Dr. Lorne Montgomery, whose addition to the staff as medical adviser to the boys was announced last night, made a few remarks about his future work with the students. Mr. Howe presented the championship trophies which have been won in the past year. He stated that he was never more pleased in presenting trophies of athletic excellence to the boys as those who represented the school on the field this year are also good students in the class-room. In the past year Westmount High established a record which has never been equalled, and which is likely to remain for a long time to come.

In football, Westmount annexed the senior and intermediate championships, scoring a total of 399 points against 9. In hockey the school was victorious in every league, senior, intermediate and junior, scoring 38 goals against 11. The junior team was not scored against during the season. The senior team won the junior hockey championship of the province by defeating M.A.A.A., the City League champions, a team of boys three years older than the school boys. In basketball the school won the intermediate championship of the city and the junior championship of the western division. The junior ski cross-country race was also won by the purple and white.

The exhibition last night was interesting throughout, the boys receiving well-merited applause, after the fine display of precision of movement and form. This was especially so on the parallel bars and horizontal work. The self-defence item gave a clear display in the different guards and blocks and parries used in boxing, as well as a series of different breaks for protection against all manners of attack. Owing to the overcrowded condition of the gym. the basketball game was cancelled.

Miss Josie Cleary was at the piano. The program was as follows:—

1. Free gymnastics, Form 1 a and b.
2. Games, Form 1 a and b.
3. Gymnastics, Form 1 c.
4. Dumbell drill, Form 2 b and c.
5. Gymnastics—Benches, Form 2 a.
6. Wall bars, Form 3 e.
   Parallels, Selected.
7. Marching tactics, Form 3 b and c.
8. Heavy gymnastics, selected.
9. Fencing, Selected.
10. Self defence, Form 4 a and b.
11. Presentation of trophies.
12. Basketball—Senior vs. Interned.

CRAIG CAMPBELL'S SOCCER NOTES

The first big event of the local soccer season takes place at the Rose de Lima grounds tomorrow afternoon at 3.30, when Carsteel, the local representatives of the Inter-City League meet a picked team from Toronto and thereabouts.

While they are running in opposition to the rest of the local soccerdom, they have captured a fair team and will show their wares tomorrow. How they will fare later on is another matter, but they hold the centre of the stage just now.

The game is, or the gate receipts, to be exact, are for the funds of the Players' Benefit Society of the C. F. A. and given a good day the Society should gain considerably as most of local soccer followers are more or less anxious to see the opposition "do their stuff."

The team from Toronto will take the night train which lands here at 7.45 or thereabouts, depending on the fates as to its promptitude, and will be looked after by the M. A. A. A., the club house being put at their disposal.

The C. F. A. president and Mr. Farrant, president of the Inter-City League are accompanying the visiting team.

While it has not been decided who will referee the game it seems almost certain the Nelson, who is coming down with the team will do the job, but, at the same time, a local man Beaton, is spoken of as a possibility. The team to represent Carsteel will contain many faces well-known to the local public and also a newcomer or two.

For those not already acquainted with the location of the grounds, the following directions as to the routes necessary to follow, may be of some use. The ground is situated between Notre Dame street, and St. James, immediately east of St. Henri station on the C. N. R., it is in fact only a few blocks west of Atwater. The Notre Dame cars going both ways stop almost in front of one of the entrances, while both St. Henri and Lachine cars are just across the railway. Remember, Rose de Lima, is the street.

MAY 5.

VIENNA CROWDS LINE STREETS AND CHEER CARP. ON ARRIVAL

VIENNA, April 17.—(Associated Press.) — Georges Carpentier was given a great reception on his arrival here yesterday for his fight on April 27 with Arthur Townley, British light heavyweight. Delegations representing sporting organizations and the French colony welcomed him at the station, while three airplanes circled overhead. Crowds lined the streets and cheered the former champion as his flag-bedecked carriage passed on the way to the hotel.

Connaught Park Getting Track Ready

OTTAWA, April 17.—(Star Special.)—The first race meeting of the season on the eastern division of the Canadian Racing Association circuit will be that of the Connaught Park Jockey Club. It is to take place at Connaught Park, on the Aylmer Road, and with only a few weeks intervening preparations are already being rushed. The board of directors of the club house met and officially accepted the dates announcing that they would distribute about $45,000 in stakes and purses during the seven days' racing which will take in Ascension Thursday, a Saturday and the King's Birthday.

These are among the best dates that the Connaught Park Jockey Club has ever had for its spring meeting, and prospects are bright for a very successful week's sport.

Racing will again take place under the patronage of their Excellencies Lord and Lady Byng, and the program will again include steeplechase events, at least five of which will be carded. The Connaught Park meeting follows that at Woodbine, and while practically all the big Canadian stables will be represented at the big Toronto meeting, many of the American owners will ship from Havre-de-Grace and Pimlico, direct to Connaught Park, after which they will continue on the Canadian Racing Association circuit to Blue Bonnets and Dorval. Secretary Gorman will go down to Havre-de-Grace next week to complete arrangements for entries from Maryland and other points south, and it is announced that Joseph McLennan will again act as racing secretary.

Work is being hustled through at Connaught Park, and though it was buried under tons of snow, the track has been drying out rapidly and will be in shape for trials about May 1. The Connaught Park race meeting will, of course, take place under the auspices of the Canadian Racing Associations which will appoint officials for the important positions.

St. Rose Boat Club Keeps Its Identity

At the annual meeting of the St. Rose Boat Club the following officers were elected for the coming year: Honorary presidents, C. R. Cornell, Alex Nelson, sr., Thomas Harkness, sr., and Ald. Thomas O'Connell; president (re-elected.) Riley Hern; vice-president (re-elected), Arthur Lesage; secretary-treasurer (re-elected), James Baker; auditor (re-elected), Raymond Allan; committee, Harry Boon, Frank St. Armand, John Mulcair, Thornton St. Pierre, James Leonard, Edwin Kelly, Colin Soutter and T. Olivier. It was resolved that the club should not become amalgamated with the Ste. Rose Swimming and Canoe Clubs. James Baker, secretary, outlined to the members what he had done in bringing the three clubs into one unit and asked for an expression of opinion. C. R. Cornell, honorary president declared that such a proposition would be suicidal if carried out; that the club had nothing whatever to gain, but had something to lose in the resignation of the president, Riley Hern, which might follow.

In this connection it was pointed out that were the club to open up its arms to the canoe club. Mr. Hern would, in order to comply with the regulations of the Canadian Canoe Association, have to resign as an official of the club owing to his having been interested in professional sport. Harry Boon reminded the members that the club had already been rejected by the C.C.A., owing to Mr. Hern, and that therefore no further request should be made.

Mr. Hern made it very clear that he had nothing but the welfare of the club at heart. If it was the members desire to join up with the other clubs he would willingly resign without. In any way withdrawing any of his interests.

WATCHING THE BIG LEAGUE SCOREBOARD

Yesterday's hero—Casey Stengel. The homerun hero of the world's series took hold of one in the tenth inning and rode it out of the park, the Braves beating the Phils, 4 to 3.

Max Carey, antique Pirate outfielder, singled in the ninth, went down on a sacrifice, stole third and went home on Traynor's single with the run that beat the Reds, 1 to 0.

Hooper scored from second on a single by Eddie Collins in the tenth inning and the White Sox won from the Browns, 3 to 2. Sisler got a double and two singles.

Whitehill, rookie pitcher, who beat Cleveland out of second place in the American League last Fall, out-pitched Coveleskie in a pitchers' battle and the Tigers beat the Indians, 5 to 1. Hellman hit a homer with one on.

After copping the first game, the Brooklyn Robins returned to normalcy and were beaten by the Giants, 7 to 1. Frisch and Southworth hit homers.

Five runs were piled up by the Yankees in the ninth inning but they got going too late and the Red Sox won, 9 to 6.

Working hard on three pitchers, the Cubs beat the Cards, 13 to 4. Alexander filled the bases in the ninth inning and got the side on a force out by Hornsby and a doubleplay.

The Athletics knocked Mogridge out of the box in the first inning and beat the Senators, 6 to 1.

MARBLE SHOOTING GAINING GROUND IN CANADA AS JUVENILE SCHOOL SPORT—DOMINION FINALS TO BE HELD IN TORONTO NEXT MONTH

Marble shooting which has for considerable time been looked upon as a juvenile school sport in the United States, is being adopted on similar lines in various parts of Canada, although in Montreal it has not yet been started on organized lines. Various provincial organizations have been formed and the Dominion finals will take part in Toronto next month.

GREAT INTEREST IN OTTAWA.

OTTAWA, Ont., April 16.—(Star Special).—Tremendous interest has been aroused among the school children of Ottawa in the marbles' competitions, which the pupils of the Ottawa Public and Separate schools. The first round of matches will take place about the latter part of this week and the various competitions will be continued until the finals have been reached.

These will decide which of the local players shall represent Ottawa in the Dominion championship finals, which are to take place at Toronto early next month.

Every school in Ottawa now has its competitions in full swing. Teams have been chosen to represent the various schools and they will meet this week in the preliminary stages. Teams in many cases have been very carefully selected and are practicing nightly to get their shooting eyes and arms down to the finest form. Every capital will be strongly represented and it will be surprising if at least a share of the honors do not come to Ottawa.

The personnel of the various teams and the draw for the succeeding rounds of the competitions will be announced in the course of a few days by those in charge. There is keen rivalry among the Ottawa schools and teachers calculate that this will help the boys immensely.

Rules and regulations governing the competition have been drawn up and by the time the championship finals are reached interest will be at fever heat.

NOVA SCOTIA CONTEST.

HALIFAX, N.S., April 17.—(Star Special).—There is wide interest in the provincial marble competition here tomorrow. Represented will be Truro, Windsor, New Glasgow, Bridgewater, Pictou, Oxford, Hantsport, Wolfville, Middleton and Antigonish. They will meet the Halifax and Dartmouth winners to decide as to who shall represent Nova Scotia in Toronto in the Dominion championships.

Last Saturday with ideal April weather, hundreds crowded the City Hall parade to witness the Halifax contest, among them eager juveniles, tired business men, woman and aged citizens, all elbowing for vantage spots to witness the events. So eager did the struggle become that the police had several times to reprimand the eager onlookers and rebukes were by no means confined to the younger element.

All the contestants were 13 years of age or under and some showed excellent skill. Deputy Mayor Colwell presided, and 140 boys formed up. After almost three hours' play George Simms won, defeating George McGlone by a score of five points.

This took place in the two-player game following the semi-finals when the winners of each pitch, ten contestants, were matched. R. Dooks is the Dartmouth champion. The events were conducted along lines laid down by the Toronto board.

MAISONNEUVE MAY HOLD RACE MEETING MAY 17 TO 24, IF MOUNT ROYAL DOESN'T WANT DATES

The slogan of Provincial horse racing promoters today is: "After you, my dear Alphonse."

The reason for this is that no one seems anxious to be the first to open up locally.

Formerly Tom Duggan had announced that in all likelihood Mount Royal race track would start on May 17. Later on he said this was not at all certain.

Then as there seemed to be no willingness on the part of Mount Royal to go ahead, M. C. Dewar, who looks after Maisonneuve, came forward and announced that if Mount Royal did not take the May 17 to 24 dates, he might start out with a meeting at the east end track.

"GO AHEAD," SAYS DUGGAN

When told of this Mr. Duggan seemed pleased. "Let Maisonneuve go on," he said. "Mount Royal will gladly wait."

While Mr. Dewar has not definitely decided to run the Maisonneuve meeting first, it is expected that something definite will be announced in the near future. It seems pretty safe, however, to say that with this new angle to things, there will be racing after all on Victoria Day.

SPALDING CANADIAN BASEBALL GUIDE OUT

The Spalding Canadian Baseball Guide, 1924 edition, has just been published by the Canadian Sports Publishing Company, Montreal. The Guide is again edited by that indefatigable impresario of amateur athletic activities, Champlain Provencher.

This old reliable publication presents a very attractive appearance and contains in addition to the major league and world series details all the data and information of baseball from every province in the Dominion, amateur and professional, including pictures of the leading teams. The official baseball rules, together with the instructive "knotty problems" addenda, are published in a separate detachable section, a most desirable feature. No baseball player or follower of the game can do without this official publication.

C.C.A. REGATTA NOT FOR GANANOQUE YET

TORONTO, April 17.—(Star Special).—Aubrey Ireland, Vice-Commodore of the Canadian Canoe Association, called on The Star this morning and stated that the announcement that the annual regatta would be held in Gananoque this summer in August is hardly correct. Gananoque is one of the places being negotiated with on the matter but no definite arrangement has been completed. Mr. Ireland, along with one man from Ottawa, and one from Montreal are a committee to look over the locations and they will visit Gananoque as well as other places.

WHAT THE PRESS AGENT OF THE BOXERS AND WRESTLERS SAY

NEW YORK, April 17—The New York State Athletic Commission yesterday refused a request of the Connecticut Boxing Commission to suspend Harry Wills, negro heavyweight, because he declined to meet a substitute opponent for Jack Taylor, Omaha negro, in a bout at Hartford, Conn.

Quintin Romero, Chilean heavyweight, applied for a license but, after being weighed and measured, his request was tabled until the next meeting.

The suspension of Frank Churchill, manager of Pancho Villa, world's flyweight champion; Georgie Marks, California flyweight, and Charley Cook, his manager, were lifted.

PARIS, April 17.—Jack Walker, United States middleweight, last night defeated the French boxer Albert Lepesant, on points in a ten-round bout.

NEW YORK, April 17.—Augie Ratner, of New York, has been matched to meet Mickey Walker, world's welterweight champion, in a ten-round bout at Boston on April 30. Charlie Johnson, Ratner's manager, announced. On April 23 Ratner will meet Jock Malone, of St. Paul, at Boston. Johnny Dundee, world's featherweight and junior lightweight champion, will meet Billy Ames at Canton, Ohio, April 28, and Rocky Kansas at Buffalo a week later.

NEW YORK, April 17.—Negotiations are under way for a six-round match between Young Stribling, Georgia, light heavyweight, and Paul Berlenbach, New York knockout sensation, as one of the features of a card for the benefit of the Milk Fund, probably on June 25. Berlenbach, it is said, has accepted terms, but Stribling has not yet agreed to the match.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 17—Three world's swimming records were lowered by the members of the women's swimming association of New York in Carnegie pool at Yale University last night. The records were the 400, 500 and 600-yard relays, and the time in each respectively, 4.32 4-5 seconds, 5.40 3-5 seconds, and 6.30 2-5 seconds.

The records were established by Gertrude Ederele, Aileen Riggin, Adelaide Lambert and Helen Wainwright in the 400-yard relay; Doris O'Mara in the 500-yard event, and Agnes Geraghty in the 600-yard event.

CANADIENS WILL BE IN BASEBALL, BUT LEAGUE CHANGING

The Quebec, Ontario and Vermont Baseball League schedule may not be ratified at the meeting on Saturday, owing to developments which have arisen in league circles, it was learned today.

At the meeting which is called for Saturday here there is likely to be a change in the make-up of the league. Just what form this change will take, is not announced as yet, but a change in the make-up means the substituting or laying-off of teams. This will become known when the ball club owners gather here. At any rate the schedule at present drawn up is not likely to be approved, as changes will be necessitated.

At a conference between A. O. Gadbois, of the Montreal Royals, and Leo Dandurand, of the anadiens, at the offices of A. Perodeau, notary, today, final touches were put to the contract by which territorial baseball rights here will be transferred to the Canadiens. Everything is satisfactory as far as this is concerned, but the contract has to be made as agreed upon today and then the signatures will be affixed.

The Canadiens interests are going ahead with their plans in the meantime. It seems certain that Pete Parrand will be signed on as manager on Saturday when he arrives here. Letters have been received by Mr. Dandurand from French-speaking players all over the United States, so he does not anticipate any difficulty in lining up a French team.

MOUNT ROYAL ANNUAL MEETING PEACEFUL—TO BUILD AND IMPROVE

At the annual meeting of the shareholders of the Mount Royal Arena Company the same directors as last year were elected with Hector Racine as President and Thomas J. Duggan as Managing Director.

It was announced that a start would be made shortly with the erection of the artificial ice-plant.

Although the taking away of several arches and beams which obstructed the view of the spectators last year, cost quite a lot of money, it is expected that at a meeting of the directors which will be held soon, further improvements referred to in The Star some time ago, may be inaugurated.

Oscar Benoit, manager of the Arena, who has been for a couple of weeks in seclusion in the mountains, recuperating from the nerve-wracking strain of Stanley Cup matches is on deck again, laying out a campaign for the summer and autumn.

M.A.A.A. Skiers Elect H. L. Orkin, President

The Montreal Snowshoe and Ski Club (Old Tuque Bleu), held their 31st annual meeting at the M.A.A.A. last night. The financial report showed a credit balance, while a feature of the evening was the award of prizes to the winners of the ski-ing contests held at Piedmont in the winter months. The winners included: J. S. Findlay, A. E. Diplock, T. E. Barlow and C. R. McDonald, the former being the highest point scorer.

Officers for next year were elected as follows: President, H. L. Orkin; vice-president, E. E. Barlow; second vice-president, W. J. Ross; secretary, E. C. Pewter; committee, Percy Speak, W. E. Houston, E. A. Venning, J. S. Findlay and G. Wighton.

OTTAWA FOR O.A.L.A.

OTTAWA, April 17.—An application for membership in the Ontario Amateur Lacrosse Association will be made by the Ottawa Shamrock Lacrosse Club at the O.A.L.A. annual meeting in Toronto on Friday. T. T. Shields, secretary of the local club, will attend the meeting and will make formal application. If granted membership in the league, Ottawa is expected to put out a strong team, having over 20 senior lacrosse players in this city to pick a team from.

Bluenose In Curling Had Fine Success

NEW GLASGOW, N.S., April 17.—A. Stanley Fraser and William MacDougall, were presented by the members of the Bluenose Curling Club with smoking seats in recognition of services rendered to the club during the past winter. The semi-annual meeting of the club was largely attended, and the prizes won during the past winter were awarded. The rink skipped by Judge Patterson, who two years ago captained the Canadian curlers in their visit to Scotland, won the president's prize this winter. Dr. H. G. Dunbar, H. B. McCulloch and Warren F. Lockhart won the cups for point competition. The Bluenose Club had a most successful season, winning the majority of the curling bonspiels in the counties of Antigonish, Pictou and Guysboro, and losing out by only one point to MacCann for the Johnston Cup, emblematical of the curling championship of the province. J. A. Mutch is the club president.

CHANCE OPERATED ON.

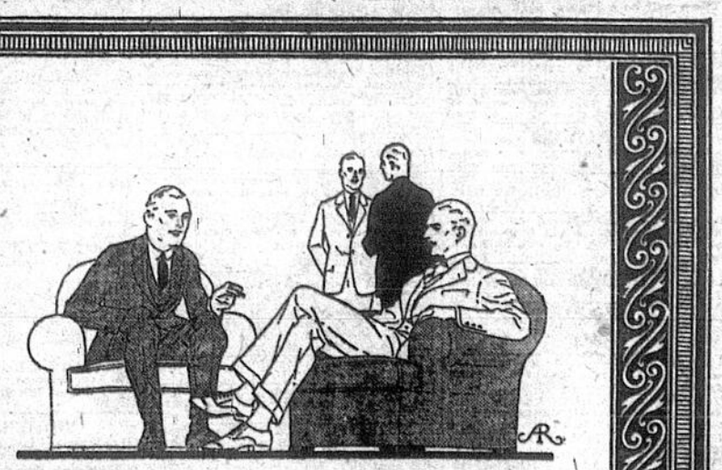

CHICAGO, April 17.—Frank Chance, manager of the Chicago Americans underwent an operation esterday and said he felt immediate relief from the Asthmatic condition troubling him since an attack of Influenza several months' ago. He will be able to leave thehospital in a short time, surgeons said.

WANT PERMANENT GROUND FOR SENIOR AMATEUR BALL GAMES

The annual meeting of the Montreal City and District Amateur Baseball League will be held Monday night, when schedules for the season will be drawn up and the plans for the coming season definitely decided upon.

A permanent ground for senior fixtures will be discussed and an effort will be made to have it situated as centrally as possible. The distances which the teams have to travel at the present time are too great, it is felt.

The C.P.R.A.A.A. has decided to enter a team in the senior league this year. Different clubs are already starting their workouts.

TIGHT PITCHING IS FEATURE OF FIRST TWO BASEBALL DAYS

(By Henry L. Farrell, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

TIGHT pitching, unusual for this time of the year, has been a feature of the infant season in the major leagues.

The good form shown by the pitchers may be the result of good conditioning in the South, or may come from the new rule curtailing use of new balls, or may be a combination of both.

Low score games prevailed in the two opening days. Lefty Cooper, the Pittsburgh veteran, let the Reds down with five hits yesterday. Jack Bentley, the Giant southpaw, gave the Robins four hits and held them hitless for six innings. Jack Quinn, the veteran Red Sox spitballer, held the slugging Yankees to six hits, three of which were scattered over the first eight innings. Ed. Rommell, the athletic star, stopped the Senators, with five hits, and Whitehill, the Detroit rookie, made the mauling Cleveland Indians content with seven hits.

STRANGE APPEARANCE.

With the Boston Braves on top, the National League standing presents a strange appearance today. Pictures of the standing probably will be taken by Christy Mathewson to be hung on the walls of the club house for balm late in the fall. When the Brooklyn Robins were on top yesterday. Squire Ebbetts told them—"You're out in front now, my lads, and stay there." But they had only one day of their glory. With the Phils in last place, the older league has one familiar appearance at least.

The American League also is slightly upset with the Cleveland Indians in last place and the Detroit Tigers on top. The other clubs are all tied for second place. The Tigers probably will remain within striking distance of their present position, but the Indians will not trail for long.

CHAMPS MUST LOSE SOME.

The Yankee in losing to the Red Sox yesterday started to bear out some of the predictions that were made about them. The Yankees have to lose some games, but champion teams do not fall asleep so soundly that they allow two double steals to be perpetrated on them in one inning.

George Sisler, the star manager of the Browns, again caused joy to the thousands of fans who are pulling for his come-back when he hit a double and two singles, scored a run and accepted eight chances perfectly. Getting such a good start will mean everything to Sisler and the entire club.

Predictions made from the Giant training camp that Jack Bentley might be the leading pitcher of the league this season were based on some good logic if Bentley's form in beating Brooklyn yesterday is to be his regular form. He might have had a no-hit game if the Robins had not started riding him about in semi-balk motion.

AIRDRIE ARE LIKELY WINNERS OF SCOTTISH CUP OVER HIBERNIAN

There will be a regular spate of soccer over the week-end. Tomorrow there is almost a full program, both in First and Second Leagues and when the dew has fallen on Saturday night, the tables will have got a bit of a shakeup. It is bordering on a certainty that Sunderland will maintain their supremacy, but of the underdogs, they have been and will remain a mystery to the end. The teams having to travel a goodly distance to play on Saturday are likely to go under as is usual at this season, and if you will look at the league table today, compare it with that which will appear in this or another column on Monday, you will get a shock.

In soccer circles last night there were keen debates as to the issue of the clash between Hibs and Airdrie in the final for the Scottish Cup. The fall of Aberdeen must have been as great a shock to Scottish people as it most certainly was to the majority of us here. We did cling to the belief that their defence was good enough for anything which the Hibs' attack could put up, but it could not hold out.

Money was passing 16 to 4 that Aston Villa would not win the English Cup and that Airdrie would not annex the Scottish trophy. It is the double which I fancy.

To settle quite a lot of arguments, it was in season 1913-14 when Hibs last appeared in the Scottish final. It was a Hibernian final with a vengeance their opponents being Celtic. At the first meeting the score was 0-0, but when it came to a real trial of strength and stability Celtic won by 4-1.

As to the result on Saturday much will depend upon the state of the ground of which on this side we know nothing. It is obvious that the Hibs are capable of adapting themselves to rugged methods, and there are those who will claim that Airdrie won't have a look in when it comes to a case of Greek meeting Greek. Certainly the apparently robust methods of the Hibs. lends a tendency to the belief that they will emerge triumphant, but much as I admire the Dunn and Ritchie powerfulness—in a playing sense—am of the belief that the Onians will carry the cup back with them frae Glesca tae Airdrie. Then the band will play.

The only hope which Hibs have of getting a "reception," should they win, is that a trans-Atlantic aerial flight can be arranged to convey Billy Brown with his tin whistle. He would play it till a' the seas are dry, Airdrie, all the same, for the Scottish cup. It will be a near thing, just the same.

But to tomorrow's games. In the First Division of the English League:

Bolton will beat Newcastle.
Burnley won't hold Huddersfield.
Chelsea will whack Liverpool.
Everton a cert against Arsenal.
Manchester City will divide with Birmingham.
Notts C. will draw with Blackburn
Preston can wallop Notts Forest.
Sunderland should snaffle West Brom.

In the Second Division tomorrow:

Blackpool should beat Hull City.
Bristol City will beat Wednesday.
Bury will conquer Barnsley.
Clapton to score against Manchester U.
Crystal Palace to put one over Southampton.
Oldham will see to Fort Vale.
South Shields should beat Bradford C.
Stockport will draw with Leeds U.

* * *

On Saturday, in the First Division of the English League, results may turn out something like this—

Aston Villa should whack Notts F.
Birmingham to draw with Sheffield U.
Bolton won't beat Blackburn.
Burnley will divide with Cardiff City.
Chelsea may defeat Newcastle U.
Everton will look after Tottenham.
Manchester C. vs. Huddersfield—one each.
Notts County will beat West Brom.
Sunderland will frazzle Arsenal.

* * *

In the English League Second Division:—

Barnsley will beat Stoke.
Blackpool should beat Leicester City.
Bristol City are going to beat Oldham.
Clapton O. vs. Fulham—a divide.
Coventry City ought to beat Southampton.
Crystal Palace to trim Manchester U.
Derby County to draw with Leeds U.
Hull City will beat Bradford City.
Port Vale will beat Nelson.
Wednesday to dray with Bury.
Southampton to beat Stockport.

* * *

In the Scottish League, there will only be seven games played. Clyde are sinking fast. They will go under to Rangers. Clydebank will at least draw with Dundee. They must know by now that they are doomed to relegation, but the players having an eye to the future will be desirous of putting their best foot forward. Motherwell ought to be quite good enough for Third Lanark and Trust Hearts to get a point at any rate when they visit Partick Thistle. St. Mirren ought to be good enough to beat Ayr. Aberdeen can safely be trusted to dispose of Kilmarnock and you shouldn't be surprised if Queen's get a point at Falkirk. Some football feast for Easter.

Johnson Got Decision Over Dorval at N.A.A.A.

In the National Amateur Athletic Association Boxing Tournaments some of the results were given out erroneously and reversed. It appears that Merrill Johnson, of the Grenadier Guards, got the decision over Dorval, of the Imperial Barsalou, and that Bryan, of the Verdun A. C., knocked out Champagne, of the Nationals in the beginning of the third round.

Westmount A.A.A. And Its Progress

In a manifesto to its members, T. C. Holland the president says:

The following is an outline of the activities of our Association for the year just ended, and taken in conjunction with the Financial Statement enclosed, gaves a complete record of our year's work.

We did not get our new grounds open as early as we had anticipated due to the late spring, and we were further handicapped by having the designs for our Clubhouse turned down by the City Executive. A great deal of time was spent by your Executive in trying to arrange for this Clubhouse as we had very limited funds to do anything with and it was finally found impossible to build anything suitable with the money available.

It was then decided to try and raise funds with a bazaar and though we had only some two months to do all the preparatory work we were successful in netting the sum of $1,157.54.

Several different propositions came up during the course of the year regarding a building, and it seemed impossible to arrive at anything definite, but the best course to adopt has now been decided upon, and we then feel certain that our Clubhouse will go ahead rapidly and be ready for use early in July of this year.

The Association balance sheet on the 31st March, 1924 read:

WARNING ISSUED TO SOCCER PLAYERS

The following manifesto was issued yesterday and published in yesterday's night edition of The Star by President James Keith, of the Province of Quebec Football Association.

"There seems to be prevailing at present a misunderstanding among local soccer officials and players who intend joining, or have already joined up with the Carsteel Soccer Club. The opinion seems to be that these officials and players may, if they desire, return to clubs (either as officials or players) under the jurisdiction of the Province of Quebec Football Association. I therefore deem it advisable to make the situation clear. The Carsteel Soccer Club having joined the Canadian Football Association (an organization under the ban of the Dominion Football Association), automatically compels the P.Q.F.A. to suspend any official or players who join the Carsteel club. When the football season opens this ban will come into effect.

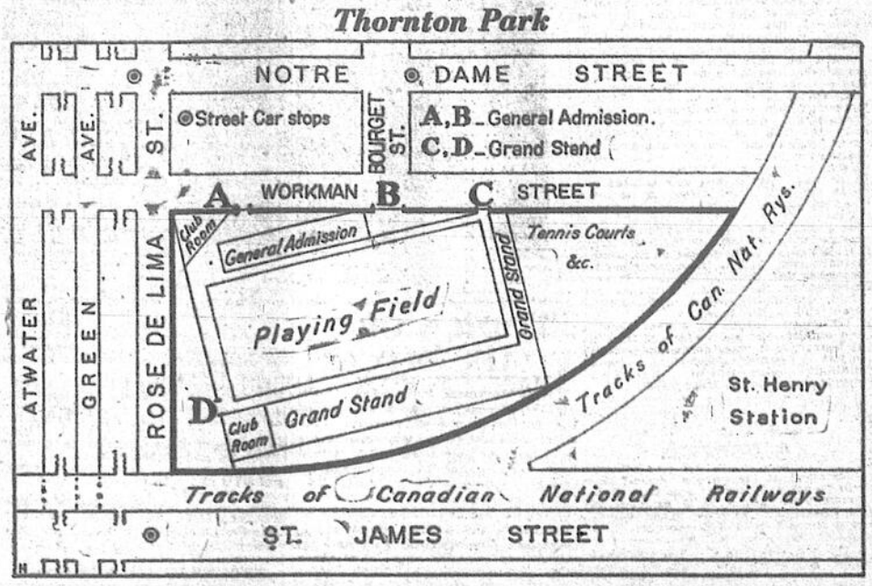

"This is not intended as a threat either to players or officials who join the Carsteel, but is rather an endeavor to be fair to all and to give a clear indication of the future status of those concerned."

WILL ENTER TITLE BOUTS.

NEW GLASGOW, N.S., April 17.—(Star Special).—Billy Cavanagh, Maritime champion 108 class boxer, will enter the 112 and possibly 118 pound Maritime championship tournament in Halifax next week and George Wright will enter the 147. Both Westville boys won New Brunswick championships in their classes last week in St. John. Cavanagh is regarded as an Olympic possibility.

BOSTON, April 17.—Final details were arranged today for a ten round contest here Saturday between Harry Greb, middleweight champion and Kid Norfolk, negro light heavyweight champion.

Thornton Park

These are old Rose de Lima Lacrosse Grounds transformed. As the Car-Steel's efficient press agent says: "It is the most centrally situated field in Montreal, being served by the street car lines of St. James, Notre Dame street and Atwater avenue. The majority of the followers of soccer football are absolutely unaware of the location of this ground, and much less the entrances to the grandstand and general admission, which are marked on this map. This field has previously borne no recognized name, but Sir Henry Thornton, President of the Canadian National Railways, has consented that this be known in future as 'Thornton Park.' The ground is in perfect condition, and a whole day's rain would not harm it in the least. Alterations to the ground and additional stands are not fully complete, but sufficient has been done to demonstrate to the public that the field will be the best equipped in town.

SIR HENRY THORNTON CAN'T SEE SOCCER GAME

The following letter has been received:

Montreal, April 14, 1924.

L. A. Peto, Esq.,
General President,
Carsteel Amateur Athletic Assn.,
507 Craig St. W., Montreal, Que.

Dear Sir,

I have your letter of April 9th, and am happy to accede to request of your association, that I permit the athletic grounds which you contemplate establishing on the land at St. Henri, which you have leased from the Canadian National Railways for that purpose, to be known as "Thornton Park."

I am sorry I cannot be present at the opening football game on Good Friday, owing to absence from the city, but I take this opportunity of extending my best wishes to your association for a successful season in all departments.

Faithfully yours,
H. W. THORNTON,
President.

W. J. Boyle, General Works Manager of the Canadian Car and Foundry Co. will kick-off tomorrow at the match between Carsteel and Toronto.

SOCCER AND RUGBY.

LONDON, April 17.—Wigan defeated Hunslet 39 to 5 in a Northern Union Rugby fixture, played here yesterday.

In a friendly soccer game, played yesterday between Tottenham and Combined Universities, the former won the match by a score of 7 to 1.

THE "CLOSE-UP"

CROWDING THE MEN OUT

Something will have to be done about the enthusiasm of those athletic girls. It is reported that in Toronto they are actually crowding the men off the bowling alleys.

BACK TO NORMAL

Hilton Belyea seems to realize now, that while exceptionally sized boats and oars may make for exceptionally successful efforts occasionally, the use of the average kind of implement is the safest.

He therefore has abandoned his home-made boat and is having one built at Putney, together with some 6½ inch oars instead of the 7½ he used last year.

THE CHAMPION

Here is a bit of wisdom fit
For any fighting man:
You'll never win a championship
Unless you think you can.
Don't stop too long to think how strong
He is—reflect instead
That once the crown he's wearing now
Adorned another head.
'Tis fearlessness alone can press
Where glory's to be won;
It always takes a champion's heart
To beat a champion.
—Walter Trumbull.

SLEEP.

You occasionally find that you can't sleep and wonder just what is the cause thereof. Very often you can trace it to some business proposition that is on your mind. Possibly some family worry. It might be due to drinking some strong tea or coffee before retiring. When you can trace it definitely in this way there is of course nothing to do but put up with it for the time being, and try to be more careful thereafter.

However, you may perhaps find that you are getting the habit of wakefulness, and then it may begin to be a source of real worry to you. Now as a matter of fact most people get more sleep than they actually need, and many get more sleep than they think they get. There can be no question but that the continuous loss of sleep is a serious matter, because it means that with the brain active, and the body more or less active, that the fatigue products are not thrown out of the system, and therefore each one is bound to be tired all the time, and utterly unfit for mental or physical effort.

The big point to remember is that if you do go to bed at ten o'clock, and wake up at five or six, you've already had all the sleep you need. Perhaps after waking at five, you doze off a number of times, and about the time you should get up, you are quite drowsy.

This gives you the impression that you have lost some needed sleep, because you have the feeling that just as long as you are in bed, you should be sleeping.

In a former article I said that many people could not sleep because they were afraid they could not sleep, and this very fear of what sleeplessness would do to them mentally and physically, was keeping them from sleeping.

Another thing for you to remember is that Nature generally tells you when you need anything.

Do without food for a day or two and your appetite will come back. Do without sleep for a day or two and your sleep will come naturally. In this case of eating if you decide not to eat and just drift along without food, your appetite comes back because you've stopped thinking about food.

With sleep however, you think it, worry about it, try to coax it, and it is no use, as in your mind that is simply keeps you awake. Go to your physician. Have him go over you and question you. If there is no physical ailment causing your sleeplessness go home and forget about it.

Every person has occasional periods of sleeplessness during his lifetime.

The suggestions given before should not be forgotten.

Lie down as if completely exhausted with arms and legs slightly bent.

Breathe naturally and deeply

Before retiring perhaps some light exercise, a bowl of hot milk.

Sometimes warming up the feet will draw the blood down from the head.

In any case don't worry about it. People don't die from lack of sleep.

EVERETT SCOTT IS STILL GOING STRONG

NEW YORK, April 17.—By starting off the 1924 season in his regular post at shortstop for the Yankees, Everett Scott, baseball's "iron man," now has stretched to 1,140 his streak of consecutively played games that stands out as one of the most remarkable achievements of the game. Scott began his record breaking string on June 20, 1916, while he was with the Boston Red Sox, so that this year he is entering the ninth season which figures in his performance.

Scott has had several narrow escapes from breaking his long string, but fortune, in the form of rain or taxicabs, always has been in his favor. In reality his streak is much longer than the figures show, for they do not include exhibition and world's series games.

The previous record for playing in consecutive games was made by George B. Pinckney, of the Brooklyn club of the American Association and the National League, who played in 577 games.

Goodwin's Paying Dividend Arrears—Wall St. Rally Continues—Local Firm

SPANISH RIVER ACTIVE FEATURE; GENERAL RALLY

Canada Steamship was also active with over 1,000 shares, and was unchanged at 15. Other issues were much less active.

The paper group was uniformly firmer. Abitibi was up 1 at 58, after opening at 57½. Brompton opened unchanged at 35½, and advanced ⅝ to 36¼. Laurentide was the strong spot of the session with an advance of 2½ points to 89¼, while Spanish River preferred was up 1 to 110. St. Maurice Paper did not appear in board lot quantity.

M'INTYRE PORCUPINE EARNINGS INCREASED

TORONTO, April 17.—(Star Special.)—McIntyre Porcupine Mine in the nine months ended March 31 last showed earnings before taxes and plant depreciation of $1,146,850 as against a total of only $971,848 for the entire year ended June 30th, 1923. After taxes, net for the nine months ended March last was $1,078,655.

The March quarter showed slightly lower production than the previous quarter the total being $851,142, a decrease of $13,753. In comparison with the figures for the September quarter of last year very substantial gains are shown, net then being only $277,548. In the September quarter it cost $407,550 to produce $681,-038 whereas last quarter $851,142 was produced at a cost of only $466,087.

REVIVAL SHOWN IN U.S. STEEL INDUSTRY

NEW YORK, April 17.—A sudden revival of buying has come in the market for structural steel and orders are being received by leading steel companies and some of smaller concerns from various sections of country. Estimates place amount of business put on books of Steel Companies during past week at more than 65,000 tons in the east alone with an equal tonnage at least pending and likely to be closed within a week or ten days.

Sales of fabricated structural steel in March based on figures from principal fabrications with a capacity of 232,045 tons per month were 164,020 tons or 71 per cent of capacity according to Dept. of Commerce. Shipments by firms reporting were 169,000 tons of 65 per cent of capacity against 153,400 tons or 59 per cent capacity in Feburary, estimated bookings in March for entire nation are put at 184,600 tons against 189,800 tons in February.

Reports of decided declines in steel bookings have obviously been greatly exaggerated. While independents did not do as well as U. S. Steel in the past two weeks, one large independent reports bookings, so far this month only slightly below those of the same period last month. The situation varies with the different companies. Those making railroad material, or with widely diversified production, are still taking in a good deal of business but there are a few companies whose production is confined largely to special lines which have not been as active as might be desired and these have suffered from paucity of orders.

It is estimated that railroad orders constitute fully 33 per cent of the business on the books of the larger and more diversified producers.

BEARS FAILED IN FURTHER EFFORT TO DEPRESS LIST

NEW YORK, April 17.—(Special to The Star from Our Own Wall Street Correspondent.) — With many traders preparing to remain out of the market until Monday despite the two hour session that will be held on Saturday the stock market ruled rather dull at times. Cheap call money which touched 4 at noon after renewing at 4½ steadied the list at mid-day when professionals endeavored to concentrate on a few of the more speculative industrials in the hope of forcing the entire list lower. These tactics were employed earlier in the week, with the well-known success.

However, the professional element did succeed in hammering American Sugar to a new low despite the improvement in refined sugar prices yesterday. Congoleum also broke to a new low.

The feature in bonds was the exceptional strength in Liberty issues, most of which went into new high ground for the year. The first and second 4¼'s touched par in the first few minutes of trading.

Foreign bonds were fairly steady, a firmer undertone ruling in the Japanese issues despite the affirming of the Japanese exclusion policy by the Senate.

A steady foreign exchange market was a source of satisfaction to traders in stocks who are interested on the constructive side, inasmuch as this steadiness indicates a feeling that there is improvement in the European situation.

Some weeks ago one of the largest commercial banks here was quoted in this column as expressing the belief that the war time and after-war speculative era was over and that from now on operations of manufacturers and merchants of necessity will be carried on on a basis of merchandising profits.

The extent to which Germany was sending us all kinds of manufactured goods and under-selling our manufacturers because of lower "over-head," was then pointed out and attention was then called to an advertisement of very cheap passenger rates by one of the larger German steamship companies. Today, one of the oldest and best English lines is meeting this competition with advertisements of third class passage between here and London on three of its large ships for $170, with a one-way fare of $85. This fare which is considerably less than half the fare which has been charged for first class includes meals. It is safe to predict that this company will fill its rooms for there are still many people who can get along for a week without dressing for dinner and hence are willing to travel third class. Evidently the company in question figures that with the overhead as high as it is it is better to carry a large number of passengers at a small profit than to run part empty.

Of course the action of both Congress and the Senate in passing the Japanese immigration restriction bill is a factor in the decline in exchange on Japan to the lowest level on record. But that proposed legislation is only aggravating a foreign exchange market situation which was already bad from the viewpoint of Japan. The real cause of the incline in the yen is that despite the credits recently obtained here and at London for $300,000,000 through sale of Government bonds, Japan is being forced to make heavy sales of her exchange to pay for goods to repair the damage done by the earthquake. The last monthly foreign trade statement showed a balance running heavily against Japan. This unfavorable foreign trade balance necessitated by the earthquake is the real reason for the weakness now being witnessed in the yen.

Short covering, based on publication of increased earnings by independent steel companies and other favorable trade reports, supplied most of the buying power and brought about fractional advances in leading industrials. American Can, Baldwin, General Electric, U. S. Rubber and National Lead all moved ahead, motor shares also improved in tone, with the exception of Yellow Cab and Studebaker.

An increase in American Water Works participating preferred dividend stimulated activity in the common stock, which advanced 1⅜. Active selling caused a two-point decline in Congoleum, while scattered liquidation of less active issues carried American Sugar pfd., Union Bag and Paper and National Enameling down fractionally to 1924 low levels.

Pre-holiday dullness characterized the morning session. Prices continued to strengthen, however, as the short covering movement assumed larger proportions. Buying orders were well distributed over the list with the steels maintaining leadership of the advance.

Further recovery was made by the Wilson Company shares, the common moving up 1¼, and the preferred 3 points. Gains of a point or more were registered by more than two score issues, including U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Crucible and Republic Steel, Baldwin, American Can, Dupont, General Electric, U. S. Cast Iron Pipe, American Tobacco and the B. stock, Chandler Motor, Norfolk and Western, Lackawana, Frisco pfd., and New Orleans, Texas and Mexico. Call money opened at 4¼ per cent.

Some reactions took place in the early afternoon, while others retained the advance on the recovery. Features up to 1:30 included:—

ANOTHER DECLINE IN MONTREAL CLEARINGS

Bank clearings for the week ended today again showed considerable declines when compared with the corresponding week of last year. This may be due in some measure to the fact that last year at this time the Stock Exchanges in Montreal and Toronto were very much more active than they are at the present time. A further cause of the lower clearings is the reduction in the number of chartered banks, brought about by several amalgamations and one failure.

Montreal clearings for the week under review were $18,292,963 lower than those of the corresponding week of 1923, being a decrease of 16.5 per cent. Toronto clearings were also lower, being off $3,062,389, or 3.2 per cent. Other centres showed smaller changes.

Following are bank clearings for the week ended today, compared with the corresponding week of last year:

Topics of the Street

The improvement in the tone of the local stock market was more marked this morning in the early trading than at any time since the improvement made itself manifest this week. This was in large measure due to the further recovery of values in Wall Street.

It is generally conceded that the local is in much better technical shape now than before the decline set in a few weeks ago. Insecurely held stocks have passed into stronger hands, and there is no lack of confidence in the local situation with respect to those issues which have been regarded as enjoying a sound position for some time back, while there has been nothing outside the tariff to accentuate those which have been included in the doubtful group.

Even Steel common, which was viewed as representing conspicuously those which would be as seriously affected by tariff reductions as any on the list, shared in today's rally, indicating that the selling had been carried to a point where it might be safely termed excessive in its influence on values.

People who were sceptical about the newsprint situation not long ago can safely be said to have revised their views owing to change for the better which has come over that industry. In any event the most marked buoyancy was noticeable in that group. Spanish common again crossed par and the preferred recovered to 110, both being a point above yesterday's closing, although the opening today was fractionally lower than last night's close.

St. Maurice Paper was neglected in the early trading today following yesterday's sharp rally to 89, but Abitibi recovered one to 58 and Brompton was up close to a point at 36¼. Laurentide had the sharpest rally of all moving moving up to 89½ for a recovery of 2½.

A very large proportion of changes were gains and the exceptions were so unimportant as not to call for comment. Steel of Canada, which touched 70 on the recent break, extended its recovery another point to 73⅛. The newly listed Frontenac Breweries moved up nearly two points further to 63¾, the buying evidently being due to dividend prospects.

Montreal Power was again a strong spot, moving up to 152½, but Shawinigan reversed its form reacting ½ after moving up 1½ yesterday. Southern Canada Power did not develop any change, holding at the early high of 89.

Detroit United gave a better account of itself today, following the declaration of the regular dividend on Tuesday, rallying 1⅛ to 56⅛.

Canada Steamships issues were firm at the recent advance, the common at 15 and the preferred at 52. In the textile group Wabasso Cotton rallied two to 63, but Dom. Textile was quiet and easier at 87½. Dom. Glass worked up a fraction to 105. Winnipeg Electric preferred common, which has been under selling pressure for some time, recovered one to 25.

Wall Street brokers' loans now approximate $1,320,000,000. This is the lowest figure in about two years. On April 30, 1922, the total was $1,250,000,-000.

On March 21 this year, such loans stood at about $1,350,000,000, so that present figure represents a contraction of about $30,000,000.

Brokers' money borrowings have been declining ever since the first of the year. In January they were about $1,-400,000,000; February 20, $1,380,000,000; March 6, $1,375,000,000; March 21, $1,350,000,000, and April 10, $1,320,000,000.

The peak point for brokers' money loans was in February of last year, when the total was about $2,000,000,000, or $680,000,000 above the present level.

Many large borrowing houses report that their money loans are below the October, 1923 level, while others report slight gains. In that month brokers' loans were $1,325,000,000.

A year ago this time brokers had money loans amounting to about $1,-800,000,000.

National Brick to Pay Dividend on Preferred

At a meeting of directors of National Brick Company of Laprairie, Limited, yesterday afternoon, it was decided to begin payment of dividends on the 7 per cent. cumulative preferred stock at the rate of 4 per cent. per annum, payable quarterly, commencing with the period starting May 1, 1924. A dividend of 1 per cent. for the quarter ending July 31, 1924, was declared, payable August 15, to shareholders of record July 31. It is intended gradually to increase the dividend rate, as earnings warrant until the full 7 per cent. will be paid. Dividends are now in arrears since three years.

The action of the directors in placing the stock on a regular dividend basis was taken, according to a statement issued by the secretary, in view of the higher earnings of the company and its improved financial position during the past two years. Sales during the current year are running well ahead of 1923, and the outlook is promising.

Nipissing's March Output Shows Well

HOCALT, April 17.—(Star Special).—According to the regular monthly report by Hugh Park, manager of the Nipissing Mine, to the president and directors, the Nipissing produced $179,020 during March, made up of $166,400 in silver, and $12,620 in cobalt in the form of a by-product.

This compares with a total output of $165,983 in February. This shows an income at the rate of a little over $2,-000,000 a year, including interest and exchange. About 50 p.c. of the gross income is going into the treasury for dividend purposes and is sufficient to meet the regular disbursements which amount to 18 p.m. annually.

Nothing unusual is reported in March developments, other than the fact that shaft 80 has been re-opened after being idle for a number of years.

CANADIAN BOND SALES UP

The $12,000,000 C. P. R. bond issue brought total Canadian bond sales for the week ended April 12 well above the sales in recent weeks. According to the weekly summary issued by A. E. Ames & Co., total Canadian bond sales during the period under review amounted to $13,445,064, consisting of $1,295,064 municipal bonds, and $150,000 corporation bonds, in addition to the railroad bonds already mentioned. In the previous week total sales amounted to $8,-627,983.

GOODWINS WILL RETIRE ARREARS ON PREF. SHARES

At the annual meeting of Goodwin's Limited, this afternoon, President J. W. McConnell announced that the arrears on the 7 per cent preferred dividends, amounting to $563,500, or 40¼ per cent of the outstanding stock, would be retired in full by the issue of additional preferred stock to shareholders of record June 1, 1924, dividends to be paid on the new stock from July 1, 1924. There is sufficient preferred stock now in the treasury for this issue. This was ratified by the shareholders.

The president referred to the excellent financial position of the company as shown in the last annual report, which was analyzed in these columns some time ago. The report showed current assets at $2,433,527, and current liabilities at $339,264, leaving net working capital at $2,094,263. This strong cash position might perhaps have justified the payment of the arrears in cash. The president pointed out, however, that the annual report appears at the time of year when the inventories are at the lowest and that consequently the cash is required for financing later in the year.

The president added that as a result of the financing during the past year, the company has been put upon a financial basis which the endeavors of the previous ten or twelve years had failed to accomplish on an economical basis, and that he therefore did not wish to do anything which might in any way detract from the company's strong liquid position. The issue of the new stock will mean the addition of $39,445 annually in charges by way of additional preferred dividends, and the earnings of the company will

FIRM TONE WAS MAINTAINED IN LOCAL MARKET

The final hour on the Montreal Stock Exchange before the Easter holiday was not productive of very much activity, but a firm tone was generally maintained. Spanish River was the least inactive and it moved up another small fraction, being ¼ at 100½. Abitibi and Brompton each declined ¼, the former to 57⅜ and the latter to 36. St. Maurice appeared at 89½, up ½, later moving up another point to 90½.

Lake of the Woods, making its first board lot appearance since March 3, was up 5 points at 180, on a turnover of around 50 shares. Another strong spot was Wabasso Cotton, which rallied two points to 65, making a total recovery of 4 points today.

WILL HOLD RUHR UNTIL GERMANY STARTS TO PAY

France Will Only Relinquish Control as Debt is Reduced

STILL FAR APART

Germany Expects Rule of Reich Territory to Earn Payments

PARIS, April 17.—(United Press). —The Reparations Commission met at 10:30 a.m. to discuss the German communication accepting the Dawes report in principal as a basis for settlement of the tangled reparations question.

The German acceptance, delivered late Wednesday, is a brief document accepting the Dawes report as a basis for solution of the long-argued problem.

France's acceptance of the experts' report as "a base for negotiations" is now assured, but Premier Poincare will maintain a number of reservations on political phases of the report when the moment for negotiations arrives.

The United Press learns authoritatively that these reservations will embrace the following points:

France will not surrender or modify her grip on the economic control of the Ruhr until Germany has passed the laws necessary for execution of the experts' proposals, and has actually started to execute the proposals.

She will insist that the question of debts to the Allies and the United States be linked with the total of Germany's reparations indebtedness.

She will reserve the right to negotiation with the Allies regarding retaining a certain control of Rhineland railways as the surest guarantee of France's military security unless other and broader guarantees are provided.

She will hold to the viewpoint that the Reparations Commission is the sole authority on questions of reparations.

On this last phase it is pointed out that France will maintain that the jurisdiction of the Reparations Commission must not be infringed upon in working out the decision of the experts' report.

Strong objections are being raised here to the experts' proposal for a so-called "reparations dictator." All the experts projects it is said, must be studied from the angle of their relationship to the Treaty of Versailles, it is said, for Premier Poincare will insist that the settlement reached must be within the terms of the treaty.

Meanwhile Germany's acceptance of the report has been handed to the Reparations Commission here. The German answer comprises only five lines, which says:

"The German Government has the honor to acknowledge the acceptance of the note of the Reparations Commission of April 11 concerning the report of the committee of experts. The German Government also considers the said report, as a practical basis for a rapid solution of the problem of reparations. Therefore it is ready to assume its collaboration in the experts' projects."

THE GERMAN VIEW.

BERLIN, April 17.—(United News). —Just what Germany envisaged in accepting the experts' report in principle has been outlined to the United News by Chancellor Marx in an exclusive interview, the first he has given since Germany accepted the terms.

Outstanding points in the chancellor's assertions are:

1—Germany expects "complete and unrestricted disposal over the whole Reich territory within the boundaries set by the Treaty of Versailles," if the amounts demanded by the experts' terms are to be achieved.

2—The Chancellor suggested that fulfillment of the report would be endangered if the immediate threat of disturbing influence continues to exist, whatever may be the form the threats take.

3—"Oppressive and peremptory guarantees for the fulfillment of the plan's provisions are demanded from Germany, and they will be granted," Marx said, adding: "Hence I deem it not improper if Germany wants to see that it will not be threatened with military interventions, which, even with the best of intentions of fulfillment, would form a serious hindrance to an attempt to convert the plan into deeps."

The chancellor voiced marked approval of the main lines of the report, however, in discussing the experts' work.

"The work of the experts' committee, in which, as the German nation thankfully recognized, American representatives played so prominent a patr ,is undoubtedly the most promising attempt to solve the reparations problem which has hitherto been undertaken by the powers which signed the Versailles Treaty." Marx said.

"Its essential merit consists in excluding all political motivation and considering, with pure, sober, business-like method, the question of German capacity as well as that of adjusting indispensable requirements of German economy."

Marx said that even if the report had been concerned with only immediate temporary regulation of the reparations problems for the period in which Germany was returning to normalcy, its effect in removing tension from the monetary situation would have been a blessing to Europe and the world."

"I welcome the fact that the experts adopted the first requisite feature of German deliveries, namely, the full restoration of German sovereignty in economic and fiscal matters," he declared.

Marx did not appear to be entirely satisfied on the question of the French occupation of the Ruhr, however.

"Even though I quite comprehend the embarrassing position in which the experts were placed in this matter, I would have liked to have seen more emphasis placed on that part of the experts' report which dealt with the continued presence of bodies of troops in the Ruhr," the chancellor said.

POINCARE BITTER

LONDON, April 17.—(Star Special Cable by J. E. Poole, Staff Correspondent.)— Poincare's intransigeant speech in which he said "There can be no question of withdrawing from the Ruhr before the payment of that which is owed to us, nor can there be any question of releasing our hold without safeguarding the means of restoring it in the case of need, with certainty and without delay. We shall confer with friends on these momentous questions which the awakening of German imperialism forbids us to neglect. The apotheosis of Ludendorff ovations, the Crown Prince's daring denials and official lies regarding war responsibilities, the hindered control of Allied commissions, the secret increases of military bodies and societies for revenge are symptoms which make it our duty to remain on the alert."

This gives little room for optimism regarding the immediate settlement of peace in Europe unless the speech is mere electioneering talk. It makes a strong contrast with Britain's prompt acceptance of the experts' plan and the German reply that considers the report a practical basis for a rapid solution, though the Germans make certain reservations.

Memorial oncert To Guy Ambrose

The late Guy Ambrose made many friends for himself in Montreal in the comparatively short time that he lived here as organist of the Church of the Messiah. He was not only a highly accomplished organist, but, in addition to that a thorough musician who achieved some distinction as a composer. Some of his compositions were church music made for the Church of the Messiah and still in use there. In spite of ill health he succeeded in joining up for overseas service in the war and, even after being discharged as unfit, he returned again and died a few months after the armistice, while on service in Belgium.

It was highly appropriate that a concert should be given to his memory last night in the Simpson Hall, attached to the Church of the Messiah. It was also appropriate that two of his compositions should be performed, —one a song "A Naid's Song," by Miss Jessie Clark, and the other a piano Etude "Ecstacy," by Mr. George Brewer, who, at short notice, took the place of Mr. Eckstein who was unable to be present. The program was given by a number of the best of the musicians in Montreal, including Miss Mary Isard as violinist, Mr. J. B. Dubois as 'cellist, and little Miss Locke-Langlois as pianist. The singers were Miss Jessie Clark and Miss Irene Gagnon, soprano, Mr. Fraser Guthrie, tenor; Mr. Romeo Morency, baritone and Mr. Harold Hodgson, bass. The accompanists were shared by Miss Jennie Stanley and Mr. Brewer. There was an audience which filled the hall.

THAW ON STAND FOR SANITY TEST; NOT QUESTIONED

Expected Sensational "Climax" Did Not Materialize Today

OPPOSITION CAUGHT

Leaves Stand Without Giving Word of Evidence Except His Age

PHILADELPHIA, April 17. — (By United Press.) — The "climax" of the Thaw sanity trial turned into an amazing anti-climax today when the slayer of Stanford White took the stand and left it without being questioned.

Thaw's counsel announcing that Mrs. Mary Thaw, Harry's mother, was ill, immediately rested their case.

Parties opposed to Thaw's release, caught unawares by the action of Judge Patterson in putting Thaw on the stand and then turning him over to the opposition, announced "no questions" and court adjourned until this afternoon.

A murmur of interest ran through the crowd in the courtroom as the tall, portly, gray-haired figure strode forward. Men and women leaned forward or rose to catch a glimpse of Stanford White's slayer as he entered the little enclosure beside the judge's bench.

There was a tense moment before he uttered his first words giving his name "Harry K. Thaw" to the clerk of the court.

Thaw was on the stand but a few minutes. He spoke with a pronounced impediment in his speech that seemed to give him a foreign accent.

Judge Patterson merely asked his age and then turned him over to the other side for examination.

"You asked me to put you on the stand so that the other side might examine you," Patterson asked Thaw.

IN DEFIANT MOOD

"Yes," Thaw answered in a low voice. Then he sat glaring defiantly at the opposing counsel table, where the attorneys had been thrown into confusion by the unexpected move. They kept him waiting while they chatted with alienists at their elbows.

Thaw, who was dressed in a grey Oxford and tie, crossed his legs at ease, and turned to smile at the jury. Pronounced sane by those called in his behalf, he was ready for the supreme test—his personal appearance on the stand. He had heard the worst said of him that cross-examination of his witnesses could produce and was almost boyishly eager to fire and answer the questions himself.

Evelyn Nesbit, fighting for the heritage of her boy—the boy she claims to be Harry's as well, off-spring of days before their love died—was prepared to prompt, at her lawyer's elbow, other questions.

These questions arise from long passed incidents, things known only to Evelyn, things that happened when she was wife of the youth, who now a portly, paunchy man, is the centre of all eyes in the stuffy court-room.

BOTH CONFIDENT

Evelyn believes that the questions she can prompt may unnerve Thaw and sway the jury to oppose his release from the asylum in which he has spent the past seven years.

Just as the millionaire is confident he will come through the storm of questions that awaits him so is Evelyn certain that she holds a clue to certain kinks in her former husband's brain.

Noted alienists have testified to Thaw's sanity; yesterday they refuted the suggestion made by Attorneys for the committee of the estate that Harry would return to his old malpractices if freed; one asserted there was no danger his sexual perversion would lead him to homicidal excesses. But the other side has equally eminent doctors ready to swear him insane and dangerous to be at large.

The balance must be swayed by Thaw himself.

His confidence is buoyant.

"I out-witted District Attorney Jerome of New York," Thaw said "He tried for three days to break me down but had to quit. I'm sure I can prove myself sane."

But Evelyn, fearing for her boy — she seeks to prevent Thaw's release lest he squander a heritage she claims for Russell, her 14-year-old son — thinks differently. "I'll bring out things no one ever knew," she said. "These things were locked in my heart. I didn't hate Harry; I pitied him. But he mustn't be freed, to do them again."

RIVER CHANNEL CLEARED TODAY

No Stationary Ice Between Montreal and the Sea

CANAL LATE

Will Flood Lachine Canal on Sunday or Monday Next

The channel in the St. Lawrence from Montreal to the sea was this morning reported entirely clear of stationary ice.

The long-awaited break-up came during the night and carried away ice jams near Three Rivers and Sorel and started on the downward move packs of heavy ice in Lake St. Peter.

By the middle of this morning such a steady stream of ice was coming down the channel that the ice-breaker, Lady Grey, reported from the neighborhood of Sorel that she would not attempt to battle her way up to the Port of Montreal until most of the heavy packs have passed her on their way to the Gulf.

At the same time reports that the Lachine Canal will not be ready for shipping for at least four days, removed the necessity for haste in bringing the ice-breaker through the port on her way to fight jams and battures above the city at such points as Prazil and the large stretch of water between Ile Perrot and the entrance to the Soulanges Canal.

Small battures holding all along the shores of the St. Lawrence offer no obstacle to incoming shipping, it is stated, and, in consequence, the St. Lawrence will be in a condition to receive its summer quota of vessels by tomorrow at the latest, as far as the stretch between Montreal and Quebec is concerned.

In the waters around the entrance to the Gulf there is still much floating ice which would prove a serious menace to shipping, and mild storms are brewing over parts of the Gulf waters.

FREIGHTER NEAR.

The steamer Airedale, which came through the Gulf during the past few days, apparently slipped through just in the nick of time, and today the little freighter from Sydney, N.S., is reported close to Quebec, where she will no doubt dock in the course of the day.

FLOODING THE CANAL.

While the work of repairing and cleaning the Lachine canal is reported to be progressing satisfactorily, officials stated today that the channel will not be able to receive shipping until late on Sunday or Monday next.

M. Parizeau, Canal Superintendent, stated this morning that he would start to fill the canal, if all goes well, on the afternoon of Sunday. This would mean that the waters would be at a proper level about noon on Monday.

Ottawa will be informed of this slight delay, Mr. Parizeau stated, and if it is decided at the Capital to send the Lady Grey against the ice packs in the neighborhood of the Soulanges canal, it is probable that the ice-breaking vessel will be passed through the canal on Tuesday next.

IN THE HARBOR.

While small freighters and tugs are on the move in the basins of the harbor clearing moorings for incoming shipping, the first actual sailing of the port will take place this afternoon or tomorrow when the Harbor Commissioners will take the visiting British investigating commission at present sitting here, for a tour aboard the tug Sir Hugh Allan.

Today there are still many dredges and small craft moored to the city-side of the docks and basins, where room will have to be made for the ocean-going vessels in a few days. The ships are being cleared from their moorings, and in some cases removed to the tie up points on the north side of the Guard Pier, as fast as possible.

TO LAY BUOYS.

The work of laying lights and buoys to mark out the ship channel in the St. Lawrence and its tributaries, will be commenced about Monday morning if the river ice has all flowed out, R. A. Wiallard, agent here for the Federal Department of Marine and Fisheries, stated this morning.

Mr. Wiallard stated that he was optimistic regarding the early opening of the river. Although the channel is clear of stationary ice today there is too much ice floating down the river to allow of the placing of buoys yet, he said.

The six Government river boats equipped for this work will, it is being arranged, put out from Sorel where they have wintered, early on Monday and some of them will work towards Quebec while others work this way to lay out the channel.

CHILD TRAVELS ALONE.

With a capacity list of first and second class passengers, the Panama Pacific liner Manchuria leaves New York at three o'clock today bound for Havana, Panama, Los Angeles and San Francisco. Montrealers on the Manchuria include Mrs. C. W. Hayland, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Turner, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Craig, Miss D. Kennedy and Mr. and Mrs. A. Cunningham.

Derrick Brown, the four-year-old boy who arrived at Portland on board the White Star-Dominion liner Doric, having made the voyage from Liverpool alone, will start on the second leg of his 8,000 mile journey to California on the Manchuria, travelling to Los Angeles en route to Hollywood to appear in motion pictures. Derrick was met at New York by his mother, who is escorting him to the Pacific coast.

It was stated this morning that all the ships of the line are now sailing with full cargo both east and westbound, while on their voyages from the Pacific coast to New York they are carrying full cargoes of California fruit, some of which is periodically consigned to Montreal wholesale fruit houses. Pacific coast shippers favor the all water route on account of it being considerably cooler and cheaper, while the passage is made in a little less than fifteen days.

ASSYRIA SAILED.

Among the passengers who sailed on the Anchor liner Assyria, for Londonderry and Glasgow yesterday were Mr. and Mrs. Roger Howson, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Rowan, Mrs. I. M. Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Henry, Mrs. Jennie Sutherland, Miss Bessie Menzies, Duncan McLachlan, J. R. Sprague, Mrs. Elizabeth Campbell, Miss Esther Maloney, Miss K. H. AUSONIA COMING.

For the last time this year the Cunard liner Ausonia sails from New York tomorrow for Plymouth, Cherbourg and London. On her return trip the Ausonia will make her first sailing of the season up the St. Lawrence, resuming the sailings to the winter port about the end of December.

The Ausonia is scheduled to sail from Southampton on May 9 for Montreal via Queenstown, thus inaugurating the Cunard line's new Ireland-Canada service. She will call at Quebec on this side of the Atlantic and is due at Montreal harbor in time to make her first eastbound sailing down the river from this port on May 24.

The Ausonia with her sister ships the Andania and Antonia, was specially constructed for the Canadian service, making Montreal her summer port and calling at Halifax en route to New York in the winter. She is of the oil burning "A" class of cabin steamers and will play a prominent part in aiding Montreal to build up a record shipping trade this season. The three sister ships commence their third season in Montreal trading with the sailing to this port of the Ausonia.

MONTLAURIER'S PASSENGERS.

Sailing tomorrow the S.S. Montlaurier will be one of the last ships out of St. John this year. The ship takes a record passenger list and many are making for Wembly for the early preparations of the great exhibition of 1924.

Many of these passengers have come through Canada from the Orient while many are Westerners and making rush trips to London in connection with exhibits of the natural resources of the Dominion.

From Montreal there are Mr. F. H. Brockington, Mrs. George Duncan, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Cyde, Mr. Donald Deeks, and Mr. R. B. Shaw accompanied by Mrs. Shaw.

Toronto has a long list of passengers in the following: Mrs. F. Armstrong and Master Eric Armstrong, Mrs. S. T. Blackwood accompanied by Mrs. Blackwood; Mr. V. W. Bladen, Mr. E. C. INTER-CLASS RADIO.

Those who travel first class at sea in future will not have all the fun—at least not aboard the steamers France and Paris of the French line.

These vessels have now been fitted up with up-to-date radio sets to allow passengers in the second and third classes to enjoy concerts put on exclusively, formerly, for the "upper ten" aboard.

The headquarters of the company at Paris has ordered these radio sets to be installed in the common social rooms of the vessels. It is declared that a large number of famous operatic and concert singers travel on these ships and often graciously volunteer several thousands of dollars' worth of musical genius at a ship's concert—for the first class.

In like manner the ships' orchestras of trained musicians give daily concerts and at night dances for the first class passengers. The others will, by the aid of the radio, now be able to dance to the tune of the orchestras and enjoy many daylight hours listening to good music.

The France, of the French line, is being converted into an oil burning steamer and, reconditioned, will return to the trans-Atlantic service about the middle of next month. Other French line vessels will be fitted up with the radios in due course, it is stated, the contracts for the work having been let to the Maritime Radio Company of France.

FAMOUS SHIP COMING.

The famous Cunard liner Carmania which proved the worth of the British armed merchantman during the Great War, when she sank a large German vessel during a gun battle at sea, will be a familiar sight on the St. Lawrence river this year, the liner, with her sister ship the Caronia having been placed on the Canada-Europe run this year with Quebec city as their western ports.

The Carmania sails from Liverpool tomorrow on her initial trip up the river. She is due at Quebec about April 24. The "pretty sisters" as the Carmania and Coronia have been nicknamed on account of their stately lines and steady sailing, have been reconditioned for the St. Lawrence service. Formerly first, second and third class vessels, the two ships have been converted to the mono-class cabin type and, burning oil instead of coal fuel, will be the largest vessels of this type on the service to Canada.

This four-masted schooner of 972 tons, built at Parrsboro in 1918, was rendered helpless, her captain and one sailor were washed overboard and drowned, when she ran into a bad storm on her way from Ingramport, N.S., to New York, with a cargo of lumber.

STEAMSHIP AGENT FOR OCEAN PORTS

Canadian National Railways Announce Appointment of John H. Corcoran

Steamship passenger traffic to the port of Halifax has increased so rapidly during the first three months of this year, that the Canadian National Railways have found it advisable to place a special agent in charge of the port staff there. As some of this traffic will be diverted to Quebec during the summer months, this agent will have a division of his duties, being in charge of the Halifax port staff during the winter and the Quebec port staff during the summer. Announcement to this effect was made today by H. H. Melanson, general passenger traffic manager, Canadian National Railways. At the same time, he announced the appointment of John H. Corcoran to be general steamship agent in charge of port staffs at Halifax and Quebec.

Mr. Corcoran has had long experience with the passenger traffic department. He entered the railway service in 1890 as a clerk in the mechanical department of the Intercolonial Railway at Moncton, but in 1892 transferred to the passenger department where he remained until June, 1911, when he joined the Grand Trunk Railway System as travelling passenger agent with headquarters at Moncton. On the amalgamation of the Grand Trunk Railway System with the Canadian National Railways, Mr. Corcoran was appointed general travelling passenger agent and it is from this position that he is being promoted to be general steamship agent.

FRANCE TO IMPORT CANADIAN PORK

PARIS, April 17. — (Associated Press.)—A decree by the Ministry of Agriculture, promulgated in the Journal Officiel, authorizes the importation of cold storage pork from Canada, the United States, Brazil, Argentina and Uruguay. The measure is provisional, expiring September 1.

The decree coincides with the action of the Prefect, announced yesterday, in setting aside 142 stalls in the Paris open markets for the sale of refrigerated meats. Attempts in the past to induce Parisians to eat such meats have been futile.

DANE LOST AT SEA.

HALIFAX, N.S., April 17.—(Canadian Press)—T. Johnnsen, Dane, 23, was presumably drowned on the night of April 12 from the American Schooner Charles Whittemore. Johnnsen, according to Captain Knealy, signed on at Baltimore, the day before the ship sailed for Halifax with fertilizer. Captain Knealy says he is at a loss to know how the man fell overboard as the sea was smooth, only light air blowing, and there was no call for help.

U.S. SHIP BLAMED.

LONDON, April 17. — (Associated Press.)—Sir Henry Duke, in the High Court of Justice, yesterday handed down a decision finding the United States freight steamer American Merchant entirely responsible for the collision in the Thames river March 24 with the British steamer Matatua, in which eight persons were killed and three seriously injured.

An airplane being built in France is expected to do 250 miles an hour.

SWISS ALPINISTS FOR JASPER PARK

Canadian National Railways Engage Two Mountain Guides

Alpinists, experienced and amateur, visiting Jasper National Park this summer will, in their attempts to ascend the mountains, have the benefit of two Swiss Alpine guides. These guides are being brought to Canada by the Canadian National Railways and will be stationed at Jasper Park Lodge.

Not only have these guides had considerable personal experience in the Swiss Alps, but they are members of a long line of Alpine guides. One, whose name is Albert Streich, is a son of Kaspar Streich, the noted guide, who was killed in the Caucasus in 1889 with two well-known members of the Alpine Club, Messrs Donkin and Fox. The second is Hans Kohler, son of the chief guide of the Hasltal and the grandson of a very well-known Swiss guide.

Both men come very highly recommended by members of the Alpine Clubs of Europe and like most of the mountain dwellers of Switzerland, they have other valuable accomplishments. They can both speak English fluently and are acquainted with cheesemaking and timber cutting. Streich is an experienced skater and ski-runner.

The two guides will be stationed at Jasper Park Lodge and will be available to guests there. They will come under the jurisdiction of Walter Pratt, general manager of the hotel department, Canadian National Railways.

GIRL SENTENCED FOR FIRING HOME

NEW GLASGOW, N.S., April 17.—(Star Special.)—Judge Crockett yesterday afternoon in juvenile court sentenced Marion Chisholm to the Home of the Good Shepherd, Halifax.

She confessed, to Chief of Police Osborne, to having set the Fraser home on fire on April.

She is at present the ward of the Children's Aid Society and will be taken to Halifax on Saturday.

AN EASTER TRIP

The unusually fine weather now prevailing will go a long way towards inducing a large number of people to avail themselves of the Easter holidays as a means of getting back home for a few days or of taking the trip they have been putting off all Winter. The Canadian Pacific are making special arrangements to handle this extra travel, and it is expected to be very heavy this year. Additional equipment, coaches, parlor cars and sleepers have been arranged for, and a number of trains will go out as extra sections of regular trains to various points, such as Toronto, Hamilton, Detroit, Chicago, Boston, Ottawa, Sherbrooke and Quebec, as well as the Laurentians. The Canadian Pacific offers you superior train service to all points. Any agent of the Company will give you full information re train times, tickets and sleeping accommodation.

TOKIO IN TURMOIL OVER EXCLUSION

Slashing Roman Criticism Against U.S. Immigration Law

TOKIO, April 17 — (Associated Press.) — Dissatisfaction in high official circles with Ambassador Hanihara's handling of the immigration situation at Washington is reported by the vernacular papers. Other Japanese ambassadors are said to have rallied to the support of the Washington envoy and will oppose any possible efforts to make him the scapegoat of the exclusion bill.

The Hochi editorially terms the attitude of the Japanese Foreign Office invertebrate." The Kokumin frankly states "Ambassador Hanihara's letter fully represents what the Japanese nation wants to say."

While it is officially denied there is any difference between the views of Tokio and Hanihara, it is admitted that "considerable annoyance" is felt regarding the Ambassador's use of the phrase "grave consequences."

Editorials of the morning newspapers, written prior to the news of the Senate's acceptance of the exclusion act, were markedly moderate in tone. Although they admitted the probability of the Senate voting for exclusion they were of the opinion that President Coolidge will veto the legislation.

Numerous public bodies, including the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Japan, the American-Japan Society and the Japan Economic Society have called urgent meetings to discuss the immigration situation.

Officials do not deny the probabilities of unpleasant popular reactions.

ONE-SIDED LAW.

ROME, April 17 — (Associated Press.) — The Corriere d'Italia, in a leading editorial yesterday, entitled trenches set by America against Italian labor, says that the reduced immigration to the United States is the result of a crisis from which the whole world is suffering and which is felt in the United States perhaps more than in many European countries.

Italy's lesson, it declares, should be to improve the quality of her exported labor. It characterizes the United States immigration law as unjust, one-sided and advantageous to Anglo-Saxon, German and Scandinavian emigrants to their jury of Slavs and Italians as well as to the yellow and black races." "These curious nationalist theories, it asserts, "are due to a group of pure Anglo-Saxons and intransigeant Americans mixed with puritanic, theosophic, vegetarian and anti-alcoholic elements."

Picks U.S. Ground To Suicide in Order To Give Money Away

SOFIA, Bulgaria, April 17. — (Associated Press.)—Choosing the United States Consulate as his place of sacrifice, Nikola Guenoff, a former high Macedonian official, today committed suicide that his estate might go to the Macedonian cause.

Guenoff had been desirous of turning over his entire fortune to the Macedonian organization, but found he was unable to do so, under the Bulgarian laws, unless he did on foreign soil.

Fifty thousand levas and $4,000 in currency were found on his body, together with a will leaving it all to the Macedonian cause.

VIOLET DAY HAS FINE RESPONSE

1,500 Workers Busy from Early Morning in Charity's Cause

The "shrinking violet" is enjoying its annual field day in Montreal today and, judging from the unofficial returns at headquarters at noon the childrens' hospitals and educational institutions of the city will reap a greater financial harvest than has been recorded since Mrs. W. Henry Bell started the laudatory work of charity five years ago.

When Mrs. Bell conceived the idea of a Violet Day for Montreal, with returns from the sale of imitation flowers, going in their entirety to the deserving institutions of the city, she could not have foreseen the magnificent response her appeal would make in the years to come.

From a band of thirty-five workers who returned tired but happy with a few hundred dollars, the plan has progressed at such a pace that today, 1,500 young women are stationed at practically every street corner throughout the city pressing their floral wares on passers-by.

The violets, stamped originally from a die by Mrs. Bell, have taken three months to assemble and together with the stems and small leaf which go to make the complete button-hole have occupied the undivided attention of 300 matrons whose labors of love are being answered today in a manner that presages the accumulation of a record sum.

FINE WEATHER.

The weather was on its best behavior from early morning and made the work of the flower sellers easier of accomplishment, the sun's rays shining down on the violet-hued boxes that held the offerings and making an instant appeal to those whose charity was asked.

Corporations, companies and heads of concerns as in former years, made purchases of large floral horseshoes and wreaths, each order being accompanied by a cheque of big denomination.

Headquarters at St. Catherine and Drummond streets were hustling, bustling busy scenes from early morning, members of committee making up and despatching repeat orders all over the city, answering telephone calls and in general occupying what they were pleased to term 'spare moments' by making extra flowers when the supplies ran short.

Mrs. Bell is being assisted at headquarters by Mrs. J. H. Garth, K. C. Campbell, Gordon Hyde, Harry Oswald, Robert Armstrong, Miss Laura Trenholme and Miss Kathleen Nichol.

J. D. Molson, who is honorary treasurer of the now incorporated Violet Day Sale, will meet with the workers tonight, receive their financial return and on Saturday announce the sum collected.

COMMITTEE LIST.

The Directors and Committee of Violet Day Inc., are as follows: President, Mrs. W. Henry Bell; hon. treasurer, J. D. Molson; directors, Mrs. A. D. MacTier, Mrs. Duncan McIntyre, Mrs. W. de M. Marler, Mrs. G. Gordon Hyde, Mrs. W. H. Clark-Kennedy, Mrs. T. S. Gillespie, Mrs. H. C. Oswald, Mrs. Walter Stewart, Mrs. D. Lorne McGibbon. Committee, Mde. Alfred Thibadeau, Mrs. J. W. LONDON, April 17 — (Canadian Press.) — At an inquest here on the death of a prosperous man who had thrown himself under a train the coroner remarked: "In this country we all are now suffering from the want of sunshine which is causing general depression."

The coroner's remarks about the lack of sunshine might apply to crops in Great Britain which are suffering not only because of the dull, grey weather but are being retarded by cold winds and heavy snowstorms.

Be Careful What You Wash Your Hair With

When you wash your hair, be careful what you use. Do not use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much free alkali, for this is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It is inexpensive and beats anything else all to pieces.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any drug store, and a few ounces will last everyone in the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified. Beware of imitations. Look for the name Watkins on the package.

FAMILY TROUBLES AIRED IN COURT

Alleged Elopement and Gunplay Explained and Reputations Cleared

A woman charged by her husband with eloping with another man, the husband charged by the other man with vagrancy and the other man charged by the police with illegally possessing a revolver cleared their reputations to everyone's satisfaction when they appeared in the Recorder's Court this morning to settle a row that started as a mere domestic affair but developed to much larger proportions by the time the police arrived.

Last week James Morgan, ex-circus proprietor, had Gaston Robert, Craig street, arrested on a vagrancy charge. In the Recorder's Court Robert claimed Morgan had eloped with his wife and had afterwards fired a revolver at him when he attempted to recover his spouse. Morgan who was in court at the time as a police witness against the husband, was immediately arrested on a charge of possessing dangerous weapons.

This morning Mrs. Robert told Recorder Geoffrion she had left her husband because of his brutal treatment, and not, as he alleged, because of any regard for Morgan.

She rented a flat on Panet street, she claimed, and went there to live after deserting her husband. She admitted having borrowed money from Morgan to furnish the flat. She knew her husband would pursue her, she said, so she asked Morgan to protect her.

Morgan, in giving his evidence, stated he worked in a garage beneath Mrs. Robert's flat. When she asked for his protection he remained in the garage until late at night.

When the husband came to the house Morgan thought he was a burglar, he claimed, so fired six revolver shots at him.

Morgan pleaded guilty to the charge of possessing a weapon, and was condemned to pay the costs of the court. Robert, found guilty on the vagrancy charge, was released on suspended sentence.

INSPECTORS' PLOT ENDS IN SHOOTING

Liquor Commission Men in Shooting Affray—L. Boudreau Hit

Suspected bootleggers opened fire on inspectors for the Quebec Liquor Commission at 11.15 last night and were answered by return fire from the inspectors, with the result that Lucien Boudreau, one of the suspects, was taken to the Notre Dame Hospital. Boudreau was found upon examination at the hospital to have been hit twice in the right leg with no serious results, it was stated this morning. The inspector upon whom a volley was expended by three men escaped unhurt.

Two of the inspectors were working on a case in which the sale of liquors figured. The police had $800 to hand over to a man who was to place in their hands liquor to that amount. When the deal went through an appointment was made for a house on Bourbonniere street last night.

The two inspectors making the case had the money ready for the suspected bootleggers, one of whom recognized the buyer as a Quebec Liquor Commission employe. The three men who journeyed to the rendezvous in an automobile, attacked the recognized inspector and shots were exchanged during which Boudreau was injured. Constables Nantel and Robitaille, of the St. Catherine street east station, placed the suspect under arrest and took him to the hospital in the bootleggers' automobile.

No charge has been laid as yet by the police, who claim they shot in self-defence. The police recovered no liquors.

CHASED TOP AND KILLED BY TRAIN

Playing with a peg-top at the corner of St. Catherine east and Parthenais streets about 4.50 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Antonio Warren, aged three, of 89b Parthenais street, chased his toy into the street and was instantly killed by a St. Catherine street tramcar.

Georgiana Tessier, aged twelve, of 91 1-2 Parthenais street, this morning told the coroner how she had been playing with the little fellow on the way to a store at the corner, and had called out to him to look out for the car. He had answered that he was not afraid. She had tried to grab him to pull him back, but had only succeeded in getting a hold on his hat, which she pulled from his head.

In evidence given by other witnesses it was shown that the child had been knocked down and probably killed before the wheels passed over him, in spite of the motorman's efforts to stop.

J. Perron represented the Montreal Tramways.

WORKMAN KILLED IN ONTARIO MILL

WOODSTOCK, Ont., April 17 — (Canadian Press.)—Robert H. Darling of Harrington village, was the victim of a fatal accident in the sawmill near there late yesterday. Operating a circular saw he fell against the blade, receiving terrible injuries. His right arm was severed near the shoulder and his left almost severed. He died before medical aid could arrive.

HOLD-UP SUSPECT WANTED IN STATES

Joseph McGinnis, Alias White, Bank Car Suspect, Held Here

Joseph McGinnis, alias White, of Providence, R. I., arrested during the round up of ten suspects in connection with the shooting of two men and the robbery of the Bank of Hochelaga car to the amount of $142,000 will now face a charge of theft of an automobile which the local authorities hold over him. He gave the name of Joe White when caught here.

He is alleged to be wanted for a hold-up at Providence, R.I., last March when the manager of the Guarantee Loan company, Charles street, "Little Italy," was held up and the cashier forced to hand over $900 to three men, armed and determined to shoot if resistance was offered.

This morning word came from Newport, R.I., that under the name of McGinnis the prisoner was wanted for breaking jail at the Rhode Island summer capital. He is fighting extradition to the States and has already appeared before Judge Choquet denying his guilt. He claims that he had no hand in the hold-up. Detectives Maloney and Tourville made the identification of White and McGinnis as the same man.
