Record Sized Crowd Expected At Figure Skating Carnival

Sale of Seats To Date Indicates Large Crowd Will Be Present—Nicely Varied Program to be Presented by Skaters of Montreal Winter Club

Preparations are being made to receive a record-sized crowd at the Huntingdon Skating Rink on Saturday evening when about 30 figure skating artists of the Montreal Winter Club will present a dazzling carnival of figure skating of various kinds.

Last year but one row of seats were placed on the ice around the outside of the rink in order to take care of accommodation. This year two rows will be placed around the ice surface. Elsewhere in the rink arrangements have been made to take care of a large crowd.

Although the program was thoroughly enjoyed last year it was more or less of an impromptu one whereas the one this year has been prepared, practised and performed previously. The program this year will be different to that presented last year.

There are some outstanding artists of the blade amongst those who will be taking part here on Saturday. It is expected that the exhibition of the Club Pair Champions, Misses Audrey Joyce and Helen Marr, will be particularly good as will the presentation of the International Club Champion, Miss Patricia Gault. Miss Gwen Chambers, the Club Professional, will be turning in her usual fine performance.

Mr. W. H. Smith, runner-up in the Canadian Championships in 1935-36, will be seen in a single exhibition and can be counted on to delight with his smooth style. Acrobatic, waltzes, Jauz Jones, singles, pairs, fours, eights, ensemble, comedy, skating and other numbers have been lined up to make a well rounded program. A glance at the program showing the skaters who are to take part is sufficient proof of the quality of the skating to be presented.

There has been to date a heavy run on the seat sale and there is every likelihood that providing the weather is at all favourable there will be many who will find themselves unable to gain admittance to the rink. For this reason those who are anxious to attend will be well advised to get their tickets early. Special music over the sound system will be provided by records brought by the Montreal Winter Club.

Immediately following the figure skating carnival at the rink a dance is being held at the Chateau at which a large number of people is expected to attend.

Minister Sues Val d'Or for $10,920. Alleges Defamation Through Unwarranted Arrest—Was Acquitted Of Charge. Damages of $10,920 are sought by Rev. Donald McLeod, Presbyterian minister at Val d'Or, Que., in an action against the town of Val d'Or, alleging defamation of character, notice of which was served on the town Monday, January 23rd. The suit follows the honorable acquittal of the minister, with costs against the town, on a statutory charge. The declaration of the plaintiff declares he was arrested last July 23 by assistant police chief Pat Feeney, without a warrant, insulted and humiliated before many persons, refused bail for two days and forced to stay in a bare cell "like an ordinary criminal." Moreover, at his first appearance in court, Feeney, despite the protest of the minister and his counsel, took Mr. McLeod's picture and his finger-prints, the complaint continues. The plaintiff also asks, besides damages, the return of the originals of the picture and finger-prints.

Mr. McLeod points out his previous high standing in the municipality, and says his name was blighted by the improper prosecution, which, he says, was without basis of fact. The minister claims a monetary loss of $2,050. Besides, because of the scandal, it was impossible for the Presbyterian Church to promote him, by which fact he has lost so far $1,000 and will suffer an eventual loss of $6,000, he says. Damage to his reputation and honor he estimates at $1,000, and there were legal fees in consequence of his criminal court trial of $270, making a total of $10,920.

Remy G. Taschereau is counsel for Mr. McLeod.

POST CARD GOES ON LONG HOLIDAY ON WAY TO HUNTINGDON

It took a post card four years to come from Constable, N.Y., to Huntingdon, Quebec, a distance of 17 miles. In the fall of 1934 a Canadian farmer visiting with his daughter at Constable, N.Y., wrote to J. L. Pelletier, Huntingdon County agronomist, regarding a certain farm in Hinchinbrooke Delore who wrote the post card. The card was posted at Constable as was noted by the postmark on it.

A short while ago Mr. Pelletier received the post card. A few days afterwards he met the man on the street in Huntingdon who wrote the post card. Mr. Pelletier spoke of the card at this time and great was the surprise of the farmer when he had learned that the card had just been received.

In the meantime just where had the post card been hiding?

Police Seek Hit-and-Run Driver Here

Valleyfield Police Here Today Investigating

Sunday morning, shortly before 10 o'clock, a close call to a fatal accident occurred near Fred Desjardins on Highway No. 4, when Delore Vinet was riding his bicycle to St. Bridget's Church, Trout River Lines. Delore Vinet, aged 18, is employed at James Nesbit's and left for church in good time. Whether he was hit by a car or truck is yet unknown. At any rate Vinet is suffering from concussion which was perhaps largely caused through the fall he suffered. The bicycle was badly broken which would indicate it must have been hit. At the time of writing Vinet was unable to give any information on the accident, as everything in the past appears to be forgotten. Vinet, when found on the road, was taken to the Chateau and in the early afternoon Dr. Claude Saint-Onge was called. Upon the instructions of Dr. Saint-Onge, the father, John Vinet of Valleyfield, took the lad to Valleyfield where he was to enter the Valleyfield Hospital.

Valleyfield police passed through Huntingdon this morning on way to make investigation.

Country Boy Has Most Advantages

Such Was Decision In Debate at United Church, Robson

The Young Peoples Society of the Knox United Church at Robson held a debate in the Knox Church Hall on Tuesday evening, Jan. 24. The subject debated was "Resolved that a City Boy has more advantages in life than a Country Boy." The speakers on the affirmative side were Miss Beryl Shurman and Mr. Walter Keddy while the country boys' side was ably upheld by Mrs. G. Ward and Mr. Percy Barr. This debate proved very interesting and entertaining as some of the speakers used their humour to good advantage. The judges were Mrs. V. Rose, Mrs. W. A. Churchill, and Mr. Charles Barr who decided that although being close, the winners were the negative side, that is in favour of the country. A very large crowd was present who enjoyed it as it was certainly an improvement over the debates previously held by the Y.P.S. The latter part of the evening was spent in dancing after which lunch was served by the members of the Society.

ORMSTOWN PARTY UNINJURED IN CAR ACCIDENT. Three youths from Ormstown narrowly escaped serious injuries when they took the ditch near the farm of J. J. Tannahill on the Montreal-Malone Highway near Trout River on Friday evening.

The youths, it is reported, were on their way to a dance when one of the front tires of the car in which they were driving blew out and caused the driver to lose control of the vehicle. The Chevrolet Coupe, 1929, was damaged practically beyond repairs when it struck four elm trees on the side of the road, before coming to a stop.

Luckily, all occupants escaped uninjured. The car was taken to Kyle's garage in Huntingdon.

CHILD'S EYE HAS TO BE REMOVED. The five year old son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Sauve of Howick who has been under treatment for his eye for the past month in the Montreal General Hospital is showing very little improvement. About a month ago the child was watching his mother brother trying to saw a nail, when part of the nail broke off and struck his eye. He was taken to Valleyfield Hospital but advice was given there to take him to Montreal General Hospital. The sight of the eye is gone, but treatment was being used to save the eye. Latest report at the time of writing said the eye will have to be removed as the other eye is getting infected.

FALLING MILK CAN INJURES MAN. Mr. Wm. Gamble met with an unfortunate accident last week. While unloading milk from his car at Athelstan Creamery, a can slipped and fell striking him on the leg. After driving home he found it much worse than he had at first thought. Dr. McEwen was called and found a blood vessel broken and a wound which required a few stitches. At time of writing, Mr. Gamble is going as well as can be expected although he will have to go about on crutches for some time. His many friends wish him a speedy recovery.

Belgian Enters Into Apple Orchard Farming With Zest Near Hemmingford Village

Is Making Extensive Changes To The Farm—Makes Observations on Canadian Farming—Real Opportunities Exist Here in Canada

The world might be waiting for the sunrise of better times to appear—but Roger Van Casteel, of near Hemmingford, is simply waiting for spring to break and, consequently, opportunity.

With an enthusiasm that knows no bounds this scion of an old and wealthy Belgian family has come to Canada to take a crack at running an apple orchard farm near Hemmingford.

This 260 acre farm, lying a few miles east of Hemmingford, was purchased by Mr. Van Casteel last May for $15,000. From that time up until late fall he had a small army of men working on it to make the necessary changes he desired and even now there are a number at work.

It really won't be until Spring breaks, however, that Mr. Van Casteel will let loose his enthusiasm and direction on the making of his farm into one of the best apple orchard farms in the entire district. By next fall the thousands of dollars that have been poured into the re-making of this farm should make of it an outstanding one.

The house he built on the farm last summer for his charming wife, who speaks little English, and for himself cost in the neighbourhood of $11,000. It resembles an old English mansion in construction. Outside and inside it is a beautiful modern home with every possible convenience.

Magnificent oriental rugs grace the well polished hardwood floors, the latest in lighting fixtures throw a soft glow of light over the handsome pieces of furniture. From the walls look down picturesque oil paintings while royal blue curtains on the windows add richness to the whole setting.

A Family Crest. Distinctiveness is added by a large, cosy fire place made from large stones. Above it is seen an unusual looking crest. The Gleaner enquired of Mr. Van Casteel what this crest might be. He casually replied it was his family crest. On the crest could be seen three turrets, a "visiere" and three swords.

The Gleaner asked Mr. Van Casteel what the meaning of these words on the crest might be. He humorously gave his description of them as follows: "Well, you see, in the old days, even as today, the Jews had all the money. History proves that all down the years whenever money was scarce and the people sought to find out where it was they eventually found the Jews had it all cornered. And so, when my forefathers of centuries some by found they were scarce of money they simply grabbed their swords and set off

With the largest entry list in its history already received, the Quebec Musical Competition Festival executive now faces the intricate task of completing competition schedules and resins the programme for publication within the next two weeks.

With competitors from all eastern provinces participating in over 250 separate competitive classes, it is necessary to assign each class to one of five or six halls scattered through two buildings, the Montreal High School and the St. James United Church. The Festival opens March 6 and will run for ten days, with competitors being held morning, afternoon and evening.

Though no additional entries for the Festival will be accepted, the campaign for supporting members is still in full swing, and Miss Alice Lighthall, campaign organizer, reported yesterday that progress to date has been very satisfactory. Several types of membership are offered—some designed for individuals and others for clubs, adult groups, musical organizations and schools. Full information is available at Festival headquarters, 1265 Stanley Street, Montreal.

Charles at that time was in the dining room which opens from the living room through a wide arch. He appeared to be fumbling with the mechanism of the rifle. Apparently unmindful of the danger in which she had placed herself by going to the aid of the dying woman, Mrs. Knapp ordered Charles out and he fled through the front door, carrying the rifle. Mrs. Knapp immediately called a doctor and state police.

Village Policemen Howard Boyer and John Brownell testified to the discovery of the dead body of Charles and Policeman Brownell also told of going to the scene of Mrs. Knapp's death in response to an emergency call. Other testimony was given by Corporal E. H. Van Schack, who identified photographs he had taken at the scene, and Trooper George Y. Tripp who told of results of the investigation at the Knapp home and at the spot where Charles' body was found.

Trooper Tripp told of finding a pencil note under a road map on the seat beside Charles' body. The note told of the separation of the couple about four months ago. A box of 22 calibre maps was found on top of the road map.

Verdict Given Of Murder And Suicide. Inquest Into Double Shooting Tragedy at Malone is Held. A verdict of murder and suicide was given Monday morning by Coroner Edward A. Carrill at the conclusion of an inquest into the shooting at Malore last Tuesday night of Mrs. Mary Leves, Charles Knapp, of Port Jackson, and her estranged husband, Ralph Charlson, 43, of Malore, which story appeared in last week's issue of the Gleaner.

Testimony showed that Charlson, who was quoted as having previously threatened the life of his wife, entered the Malore home at 11:15 p.m. on Tuesday night, before 6 p.m., and shot his wife six times with a 22 calibre rifle while she pleaded for her life. Charlson's body was found an hour and a half later in his parked automobile on East Main St., a bullet through his heart and a 22 calibre repeating rifle beside him.

It was evident from facts brought out at the inquest that Charlson may have contemplated suicide at the Knapp home but was deterred by the arrival of Charles Knapp, and the appearance on the scene of Mrs. Knapp who was upstairs when the shooting began.

Testimony of Mrs. Knapp showed that Charlson had entered the front door without knocking. She heard him enter and supposed it was her husband. Almost immediately Mrs. Knapp's voice pleading with her husband. One shot was followed by a moment of quiet and then several shots were fired.

When Mrs. Knapp came down the stairs she saw Mrs. Charlson on the floor of the living room and spoke to her. "I'm dying," she quoted Mrs. Charlson as moaning.

Charles at that time was in the dining room which opens from the living room through a wide arch. He appeared to be fumbling with the mechanism of the rifle. Apparently unmindful of the danger in which she had placed herself by going to the aid of the dying woman, Mrs. Knapp ordered Charles out and he fled through the front door, carrying the rifle. HEAVY VOTING EXPECTED IN H'DON ELECTION. Election for aldermanic seat No. 1 in the Town of Huntingdon was started this morning at seven o'clock and will last until five o'clock. Patrick Montpetit who was nominated for seat No. 1 is opposed by former alderman Charles Lalonde, Jr.

Citizens from Huntingdon started to vote early this morning and all indications point to a close vote.

Lights Out! Girls Go Into Lambeth Walk. This is just exactly what four Huntingdon girls were trying to do as they walked along Chateauguay Street on Saturday night. They were returning from the Skating Rink where they had been skating. As they walked along Chateauguay Street the street lights suddenly went out. Although this was not a desirable happening as far as most people were concerned it was an opportunity for the girls to have some fun.

All was in darkness except for the beams of light from the headlights of cars parked here and there on Chateauguay Street. These beams of lights acted as sort of spotlights on the girls. So the girls went into their act. No music was on hand except the gentle purr of the motor of a new car here or the puff-puff of the engine of a car that had been much better days there. But music or no music the girls strutted their stuff.

Then came correction. A man did not like such acting on the main street even though the lights were out. And says the man to the girls, says he there's a cooler car in the County building for people like you. This was a cold rag thrown on the frivolities of the girls. But even the checking remark of this man was given just in fun.

The Town's Statement

THE financial statement for the town of Huntingdon for the year ending December 31, 1938, which appeared in the Gleaner last week was on the whole satisfactory although here and there appeared figures which served as a reminder that certain remedies were needed.

Every municipality is passing through difficult financial times and it can therefore be expected that everything is not as it should be. Despite this fact, however, the financial statement for Huntingdon is comparatively acceptable and when compared with the financial statements of other towns throughout the Province the record of Huntingdon rates well. Mayor Daniel Faubert with characteristic efficiency and despatch has again proved himself an able mayor. Every item of business that came before the Huntingdon council last year was given all due consideration and was dealt with as justly as the Mayor and council saw fit to do. All council meetings were never of the long dragged-out sort but rather carried through to their completion speedily, yet not with too much haste. There are some councils which drag their meetings over a period of three hours and more, yet accomplish no more, if as much, as the Huntingdon council accomplishes in a much shorter time. On the other hand, however, there is the possibility of the Huntingdon council discussing their business at greater length in caucuses and coming to the public meetings of the council with everything more or less "cut and dried."

The town of Huntingdon has at present a loan from the bank of about $8,000 against which the town has about $5,000 due in taxes. Should the town decide to install a new water main at the same time as the sewer is being put in it would cost in the neighbourhood of $7,000. To take care of this the town could float a bond issue of $15,000. The town could then operate very acceptably on the current tax revenues.

The municipal tax arrears for the year just closed is listed at $3,043.75. The previous year, that ending on December 31, 1937, the municipal tax arrears were listed at $3,412.85. Thus, the municipal tax arrears for the year just closed were not quite as much as were those of the previous year, which fact should be acceptable to the citizens.

The water tax arrears for the year just closed show a slight decline to that of the previous year which is also acceptable although the amount of water tax arrears seem much too high and it would appear that there is something wrong somewhere in connection with these arrears. It is possible that a closer check is needed in this connection. For the year just ending the water tax arrears were listed at $1,684.75 while for the year previous they were $1,886.85.

The insane account for the year cost the town $1038.63. This seems a very considerable amount. Of course the amount varies considerably from year to year according to the number of people the town takes care of. For example, in 1937 the amount was about $200. If the amount paid out by the town in this respect for the past ten or fifteen years was totalled it would prove somewhat of a surprise to many people.

For the keeping of peace and order in Huntingdon during the past year the expense was listed at $1,244.17. There are some who are inclined to believe that this is somewhat of an unnecessary expense and that past experience has proven trouble occurs in town only when there is a policeman. Then there are others who believe that there is work for a policeman to do here and that his very presence is in itself a power for the observing of law and order. During 1937 the cost of keeping the law and order in Huntingdon was listed at $489.97.

The financial statement for 1938 shows an expense for the purchasing of a lot for a dump at $490.00 and rent and supplies at $118.15, making a total expense of $608.15. This lot was purchased by the council last summer and service given to the citizens of the town in the way of taking away their refuse to this dump, thus assisting greatly towards the beautification and health of the town in the way of having cleaner properties.

A damage claim is listed at $520.05. This is probably one having to do with the condition of the sidewalks and serves as a warning that it would be better to pay a few men a couple of hundred dollars to keep the sidewalks well sanded when they are icy than to pay $500 or more for damages claimed by injured persons. There are at different corners in Huntingdon some nasty drops in the sidewalks. Sidewalks on different streets were laid or repaired at different times with the result that they are not all on the level from one street to another, proving a source of possible danger to pedestrians.

Huntingdon is taking care of paying off its bonds as will be noted in the following payments for the past year: Filter plant, $1,000; Tank and York Street, $1,000; Water $1,500.

The last of the water bonds for the past 40 years was paid on January 1, 1938, thus relieving the town of these payments.

The source of revenues to the town from fines during the past year showed a falling off, the amount in 1938 being $27.00 while the year previous it was $46.00.

Welcome to Ayrshire Breeders

THE Gleaner extends a cordial welcome to the members of the Canadian Ayrshire Breeders' Association who will be visiting farms of well-known Ayrshire breeders in the Chateaugay Valley tomorrow.

Prominent Ayrshire breeders across Canada are today in attendance at the annual meeting of the Canadian Ayrshire Breeders' Association at Montreal.

While in the district many of them will take advantage of the opportunity to visit the farms of R. R. Ness and Sons, P. D. McArthur and W. C. Wylie.

For this particular occasion the Gleaner has published several hundred picture pamphlets which are to be distributed to the visitors, welcoming them to the Chateaugay Valley. "The Little Scotland of America." Numerous pictures depicting Ayrshire activities throughout the district are shown together with articles showing the important part Ayrshires have played in Canada's agricultural development.

We are confident the visiting breeders will have a most enjoyable visit in the district and carry away with them a most favourable impression. To them it might be said, will ye no come back again?

Freedom of the Press

BACK in the early 1900's counsel for safety in editorial writing was expressed in the sentence, "Say what you like about the Czar of Russia, but go easy on the boys at home." Editors who followed this sage advice gained a reputation for fearless writing and still kept their papers out of libel suits.

Judging from recent events, the old advice no longer holds good. The modern counterparts of the Czar of Russia are inordinately touchy about criticism of their policies. They seem unable to understand that actions which are unanimously supported by their own controlled newspapers may appear in a different light in countries where the press is free. So we get diplomatic protests from consuls and ambassadors when dictators' feelings are hurt.

At present, such protests appear only ridiculous to those who have been brought up in the democratic tradition; but they carry with them an insidious danger. It is that, if the protests are made frequently enough, some timorous democratic leaders may begin to recommend that their countries' newspapers, in the interests of peace, should avoid giving offence by denouncing what they hate.

A voluntary censorship of editorial opinion will accomplish the dictators' ends even more effectively than an official censorship. It is more destructive of the freedom of the press, because it preserves the form of freedom, while discarding the substance.

Editor's Notes

Candlemas day—enter Mr. Groundhog!

Just about this time of the year a card usually breezes in from somebody in Florida with the teasing appendix, "Get out your straw hat and come on down."

Bell telephones in the St. Johns district have been changed to the dial system. It is reliably stated that Huntingdon will be on the dial system within two years. There is much work to be done in this district before it can be put in effect but the change is definitely coming.

Canada might well be proud of the honor conferred on the Hon. Philippe Roy, retiring Canadian Minister to France, who has been named an honorary citizen of Paris. It is an indication of the appreciable extent to which cordial relations between Canada and France have been promoted by this successful Canadian diplomat.

The Financial Post disgustingly refers to a reprint in Reader's Digest in which an American writer speaks of Sir Herbert Horn as "president of the Canadian Pacific Railways." We wonder if this writer is any relation to the American in Florida who asked a visiting Canadian friend in all seriousness if "that railway they were building in Canada from Hudson's Bay across Labrador to London, England" had been completed yet.

Since it is a recognized fact that motion pictures can have a remarkable influence on the minds of the people what an opportunity the motion picture industry has for a world-wide educational program denouncing war. A splendid example of such a program is the current picture, "Dawn Patrol." The indignation of the rank and file of people might possibly be raised to an extent that would counteract even the military dictations of those higher in power.

The Quebec government seems to be definitely of the opinion that its program of farm loans will be a great aid to the farmers. It is to be hoped that it will eventually turn out that way and not prove to be a financial millstone later on. The record of Government lending in the rural field has been somewhat of an example of public waste. Ontario tried it on a grand scale a few years ago. It loaned $50,000,000 to 16,000 farmers and right now the idea does not appear to have been a good one. At the end of January last year, two out of every three loans were in arrears. Face value of these "bad" loans were $30.6 millions. Total principal and interest in arrears was $8.2 millions. Premier Hepburn reported then that 50 per cent of the loans was in such a position that a mortgage, even if forgiven all the interest outstanding and allowed a discount on principal, would still find it impossible to liquidate his indebtedness because the amount originally loaned was in excess of the real loanable value of the property. The Quebec government has voted an amount in excess of $27,000,000 for rural credits to date.

FORTUNE IN RUBBISH

Searching for cigarette ends in a wastepaper basket at Frankfort-on-Main has brought a beggar a small fortune of £221. He fished out from the basket some pieces of paper which appeared to be torn-up bank notes. Unaware of their value he handed the pieces over to the police, who stuck them together and found they amounted to $1,105 (£221). It is believed that a Jew, who did not in possession of being found tore up the notes and threw them in the wastepaper basket.

NO BUTTING BACK

Billygoats have all the breaks in California, according to a Milpitas dairy rancher. They can do all the butting they want to, but a California law makes a malicious injury to a billygoat a misdemeanor. So discovered the Milpitas rancher who was sentenced to one day in jail for using a pitchfork on a billygoat that had butted all the paint off both sides of his automobile. "This is a serious offense," the court told him. "I could send you to jail for six months or fine you $500, but as the billygoat has fully recovered, I am letting you off easy this time."

Farm News

In speaking to Mr. Gilbert McMillan, of "Springburn", in regards to sales of cattle this winter he reports very encouraging news. If all our farmers were experiencing the same demands for cattle as is Mr. McMillan, our community would be a hive of livestock trading. The sales Mr. McMillan is effecting are undoubtedly largely due to the excellent quality of livestock he has to offer for sale. With the influx of so many buyers for purebred and commercial cattle our many farmers should certainly strive to obtain some of this cash business, and such can be had if they will make it a point to breed the best, care for them as they should be and maintain careful and accurate records of their respective achievements in regards to milk records.

In using Mr. McMillan's own words he says: "We have found inquiries for Ayrshires more numerous since the first of January, than we can ever remember for the same time of year. From our own herd we have sold Ralph Lewis, Moscow, N. Y., Spring Lady with an Honor Roll 4 yr. old heifer with two 100,000 lbs. dams and a preferential sire in her pedigree, and Birchlea Bell, a mature cow with an Honor Roll record of 9312 lbs. milk, testing 4.24%." To Lawrence Weaver, Morrisonville, N.Y. went the 3 year-old, Springdale Spotty 3rd, with a 2 yr. old record of 8542 lbs. milk, testing 4.1%. Rapid Valley Kathleen with a mature record of 11,739 lbs. milk, testing 4.4% and Elm Farm Dora, that has already produced almost 10,000 lbs. milk, testing 4.4% in eight months.

To D. L. Sattazahn, Avon, Pa., went Robblea Lady with four Honor Roll Records averaging over 11,000 lbs. of 4.3% milk. Bonnie Forest Lady with an Honor Roll 4 yr. old record of 10,364 lbs. milk, also Elm Farm Betsy and Rapid Valley Fairy, two splendid young cows, all safely with calf to our herd sire, Bois de la Roche Golden Glow.

To Leroy Hostetter, Annsville, Pa., went three very fine yearlings, one of them sired by "Golden Glow" and a dam with two Honor Roll records averaging 4.33%, another of this group, "Springburn Brown Beauty" has all the indications of making a real show yearling.

Our herd is now officially listed as free from Bangs' disease, which enables us to ship to any State. We are also keeping cleaned up on young bulls having only one on hand. Recent sales include a son of Bonnie Forest Lady to Robert McCaig, Ormstown, Que., and a son of Birchlea Bell to Arthur Taylor, Athelstan, Que. (both dams are mentioned above). To James Hunter, Ormstown, Que., has gone the Imported in dam, son of Castlemilk-town Brownie.

CAN'T FOOL COWS

A Chemung county, New York, farmer, J. S. Welles, stretched a single strand of electrically charged barb wire across a field of timothy. One side of which he wanted for pasture for his cows. The wire was effective 100 per cent in keeping the cows within bounds. After the timothy crop was cut on the other side of the fence, the wire was removed to enlarge the pasture. The weeks the cows refused to pass the lines of posts even though there was no wire on them. Welles and his help had trouble driving them through then.

BIG BAD BEAR!

A gigantic bear is forcing the terrified inhabitants of the Purenau valleys in northeast Navarre to bar themselves in their houses at night, and is causing serious damage to their property. With the young men at the front, and the use of firearms severely restricted, the villagers are helpless to deal with the menace and have appealed to the authorities. On the authorization of the military governor of the province, a series of big-scale hunts has been started, with armed civil guards and municipal guards participating.

VALLEYFIELD COUNCIL HEARS RESOLUTIONS OF JUNIOR C. OF C.

The directors of the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Valleyfield came before the Valleyfield Council at its regular weekly meeting on Wednesday evening and presented two resolutions to the members of this Council. One of these pertained to the digging of Bay St. Francis near Valleyfield so that it may be used for navigation purposes; the other resolution sought to obtain a grant for the Valleyfield Braves hockey team.

The Valleyfield Nautical Club asked for a $300 grant. This question was tabled.

Ald. Mallett informed the Council that they should increase the wages of the municipal employees. After a discussion on the question, it was decided to discuss the matter at a next meeting of the Council.

CANADIAN WINTER SPECIAL

The first snow flurries have come, and the cellar is stocked for the winter months. Of course, in these days of quick and efficient transportation, it isn't necessary to hoard a whole winter's supply at once, but the wise housewife keeps a reserve of good things for days when the snow blankets the ground with white, and the family come rushing kitchenward with keen appetites.

A simple, nourishing meal-in-a-dish dinner, that is decidedly different is this:

Canadian Winter Special

1 1/2 cups dry beans, 1 can kernel corn; 2 cups milk, 2 tablespoons butter; 1 small onion, 1 cup dried cod, or 1 can pink salmon, chicken haddie; soda crackers.

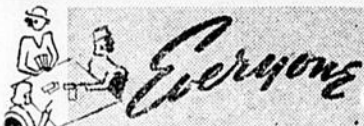

Pick over the beans, wash thoroughly and soak until they have swelled. Drain and cover with water and parboil with the sliced onion. When almost soft add the corn and fish. Cook until the fish is done. Flake the fish through the vegetables, add the milk and butter. Season if necessary, depending on fish used. (Do not boil after the milk has been added.) Crush some soda biscuits with the rolling pin, and put some in each soup plate or bowl, then pour the soup on top and serve immediately.

Sweet mixed pickles and a salad of shredded cabbage and finely chopped milk turnip, tossed in mayonnaise, make a nice accompaniment for this meal-in-a-dish dinner. The turnip, surprisingly enough adds a nutty flavor to the salad. Slices of raw carrot may be added for color and the vitamin value.

In many Canadian households a hearty fish chowder—canned or homemade—is a standby for Sunday evenings because so little preparation is necessary. For instance, the beans for this Canadian Winter Special can be put to soak the night before and the whole thing combined and cooked in a short time. Try it this Sunday night, and see if you don't agree.

Ph.D.—Do you enjoy the reflected glory of having a Doctor of Philosophy or two among your friends and relatives? The chances are that you and I shall remain Cooks of Philosophy to the end of the chapter, learning, perhaps, how to boil water by burning the potatoes. 'Tis the science which teaches age to recognize the pattern made by threads of good and ill, the science which youth does not need, for it has hope instead. Youthful hope leaves the past's loose ends in a tangle, chafes at the present's restraining cords, and clutches at the golden strands dangled before its eyes by the future.

Would you study philosophy with Diogenes in his tub and learn contentment? Would you attend the school of fables conducted by Aesop, coloured gentleman and Greek slave? Then for homework some day take this exercise: When you find yourself "simply furious," smarting under "misrepresentation and injustice," say to yourself: "This time to-morrow, or next day, or next week at any rate, your feeling of annoyance will be quite gone. Then why expend nervous energy on so transient an experience? Let others fret and fume. If you are not going to be a bit upset in a few hours, why be so greatly perturbed just now? In short, be a Ph.D.—Nurse of Philosophy.

Speaking of fables, was it Aesop who told the one about the man, his son, and his ass?—with its moral of pleasing one's self, as it is impossible to please everybody else. I have been reminded of this old fable in thinking over the history of a certain public man. One of a family of emigrants, he had very little spare cash coming in from a poor farm when he married a very pretty and talented girl. His disappointed rival revenged himself by publishing the fact that the hero of our story paid the clergyman's wedding fee by working for him several days. Thoughtless people put this down as a sign of stinginess. Years rolled round and our young man won standing and considerable wealth and was eventually appointed to a public position. Then he saw fit to recognize his supporters by giving them a banquet. But there was still the disappointed and envious element ready to pronounce this a proof of bumptious display and extravagance.

Fate's vagaries.—A few years ago Americans realized how unsafe their democratic uncertainties in relation to their social upper stores, when Col. Lindbergh and his wife took refuge in England. Now rumours are broadcast to the effect that our King and Queen may be obliged to seek sanctuary in Ottawa, which supposedly will then be the capital of the British Empire. Listen, and

REGINALD OWEN
A true cosmopolite, a citizen of the world is Reginald Owen, distinguished British player.

Born in Wheatthampstead, England, on August 5, Owen was educated at the City of London school and went immediately into the Academy of Dramatic Art in London, determined to become an actor. From the day of his debut on the professional stage he has not known a single period of "between-engage-ments" time that is the lot of most professional folk. He has always been busy.

For the first year of his professional life he was on the London stage in a variety of roles, many of them "characters." He spent a year in Paris and two years in Brussels after serving three years as a lieutenant of the Royal Garrison Artillery in France.

Shortly after the war he decided to try the theatrical field in New York. From the first he was successful, but after a few years he was attracted to the screen and made his debut in pictures in "The Letter." This role attracted wide attention, and others followed in such rapid succession that he has never returned to the stage.

An enthusiastic admirer of Greta Garbo, whom he met for the first time in "Anna Karenina," Owen has seen every picture the glamorous star ever made, in most cases three or four times. He is an accomplished outdoorsman, fond of tennis, swimming, fishing, cricket and golf, reads biography, owns cats and dogs, writes plays as a hobby, thinks "Hamlet" the greatest play ever written and "David Copperfield" the best picture ever produced—and would like to spend every spring in the forests of rural England.

MEN LOVE GIRLS WITH PEP

If you are peppy and full of fun, men will invite you to dances and parties.

BUT if you are cross, listless and tired, men won't be interested. Men don't like "quiet" girls. When they go to parties they want girls who are full of pep.

So in case you need a good general system to "remedy" for 3 generations, one woman has told another how to get "smiling thru" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It's helped her to get more pep and lessens distress from female functional disorders.

You'll find Pinkham's Compound WELL WORTH TRYING!

Ethics of Etiquette

APPEARANCE IN BUSINESS

Slovenly dress suggests slovenly habits, and carelessness in dress suggests carelessness in other things. Manner and dress mean more to the man seeking success in business than most beginners suspect—more, even, than capital. Indeed, it is capital of another sort.

Men should dress well but inconspicuously, with a regard for workmanship and material rather than style. Fingernails immaculate. Linen, especially, should be well brushed and shoes well shined. People are quick to notice such details, and the man who is faultlessly attired, carefully groomed, makes a good first impression on others.

The woman in business dresses sensibly if she herself is sensible. No French heels, elaborate coiffures, lace frocks. The smartly tailored, cleverly styled dress that is neat and inconspicuous but tasteful and becoming enough to please the most frivolous young girl.

Shawls and other finery are wholly unbusinesslike in the office environment. The well-bred young lady at business keeps her hair glossy, tidy, and neat, her nails immaculate, her dress simple and inconspicuous, her manner quiet and courteous. She knows that she is inappropriately unadorned to an office, but she shows a fine regard for the niceties of dress and permits no little carelessness. Good dressing is, after all, a combination of good taste and good sense, and surely neither taste nor sense is evident in office dress that is more suited to the ballroom or the stage.

At the meeting of the Ormstown W. I. held at the home of Mrs. C. J. Bryson, recently three books received from Lady Tweedsmuir, were passed out among the members. This was incorrectly reported in last week's issue of the Gleaner as having been received from a member.

The next meeting of the W. I. will be held at the home of Mrs. Herbert Beaudin on February 8th.

Interesting talk and movies on Farm Implements was given by the Frost and Wood Cockerill Co. last Wednesday evening before a fair sized audience in the Presbyterian Church Hall, under the presidency of their local representative, Mr. Warren Sadler.

One of the most interesting pictures was the entire process of assembling a Ten-A oil bath mower from the first process till the completed mower was cutting in the field.

Mr. James Atkinson Honored On Leaving Ormstown
On Thursday evening of last week a Ten-A oil bath mower and vicinity met at the home of Mr. R. E. Walsh, to bid farewell to Mr. James Atkinson, who left on Saturday to take up residence in Howick. During the evening games of cards and bridge were played by Mr. D. A. Barrington on behalf of those present presented Mr. Atkinson with a silver cigarette box, suitably engraved. Mr. Atkinson responded in a very feeling manner, thanking his many friends for their acts of kindness and said he would always harbor pleasant memories of the people of Ormstown, and hoped that they should call and see them. He again thanked each and every one for himself and Mrs. Atkinson.

Refreshments were served and the evening brought to a close by singing, "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

The first game on the Hawley closed on Thursday when Mr. D. A. Barrington won the trophy by a six count margin. The next challenger is Mrs. Bradley. Those who took part in Thursday's game were:

Referring to the Ten Point Programme for Agriculture quoted in this column a couple of weeks ago, is a letter from W. H. Porter, Editor of the Farmer's Advocate, London, Ont.:

"Accept our thanks for your kind letter of January 24th and a copy of 'The Gleaner.' It was very good of you to quote from 'The Farmer's Advocate' and kind of the Huntingdon Gleaner to give us this prominence. We appreciate it all very much.

"The articles are causing quite a stir, and we sincerely hope that something will come of them in a way of clear thinking and constructive action.

Education

A co-operative must organize a department of education or publicity to keep its members informed on policy. This publicity may be part of the manager's job, but generally, in large and successful organizations, it becomes a department in itself. This service, if left only to the manager, makes his job difficult. Since it requires special funds from the society's revenue, it should be closely connected with the control of the society.

Food Fashions Change

The turkey industry is expanding in Eastern Canada. Turkeys are used the year round in hotels and restaurants. Some restaurants now make nearly all their Chicken sandwiches out of turkey! The turkey the more sandwiches it will make. So says W. A. Brown, Chief of Poultry Services, Ottawa.

Collective Bargaining

Farmers who deal directly with large corporations, and indirectly with organized labour in some industries, cannot hope to sell their goods at fair prices unless and until they give up their individual method of dealing and strengthen their position through group effort.

Consumer and Producer Co-operation
A short account of the Rochdale Society's early effort is followed by this comment:

"The farmers of Canada have a peculiarly favorable chance because of the specialization that prevails in their productive practices, which are based upon the purchase of great amounts of raw material in the way of feed for their animals. The purchase of supplies may easily be as important as the disposal of their 'cash' products. Farmers can undertake two kinds of group effort—disposing of their products, and purchasing supplies which they need for further production.

Quality You'll Enjoy

"SALADA" TEA

Most interesting chapters in the book deal with Credit Unions and Co-operative Cafeterias and Apartment Houses in New York City. Chapter ten dealing with legislation on co-operation is most informative.

Part five concerns the Parliamentary Inquiry in 1907 at which Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King gave evidence, quoting from a diary made on a trip to investigate Co-operatives in Great Britain. The then Governor-General, Earl Grey, in his capacity as President of the International Co-operative Alliance, also gave valuable information to this Committee.

Sufficient Volume of Business: Co-operative creameries and cheese factories have been started where there is not enough volume to warrant such a venture. Co-operation is no panacea; it cannot be expected to inspire people to effort which sparse population or poor soil will not warrant. Volume of business is necessary in order to: (a) Lessen the overhead charges; (b) provide more rapid turnover; (c) Reduce the margin necessary to cover expenses; (d) Secure efficient management.

Management of a co-operative is a different and much more difficult task than the management of a privately owned corporation. In addition to the task of making the business pay, which devolves upon any manager, the manager of a co-operative has to keep the members loyal to the concern.

Booklets, Pamphlets and Financial Statements

When one pauses to consider the magnitude of the book printing industry today, and to reflect on its vast importance in the scheme of things, it is difficult to realize that five hundred years ago the only books or pamphlets to be had were those transcribed laboriously by hand or printed from crude wooden blocks.

The mechanical equipment of this printery is very adaptable to the printing and publishing of booklets, pamphlets or financial statements. All work is promptly executed. Careful proof-reading is our speciality.

Presbyterian Church Annual Meeting. A very successful year in all departments was reported at the annual congregational meeting of the Ormsdown Presbyterian church, held on Friday evening, January 27th. Gains in revenue were shown in the annual statement, which is a financial balance at the end of the year. Four members of the Board of Management, whose term of office had expired were re-elected also the treasurer with Mr. Wm. Roy, elected secretary. The minister, Rev. Edwin J. White presided.

The Moffat Challenge cup was again defended by the Ormsdown club, when an Aubrey quartet endeavored to have a win. The game was a tie eight all and one end to go. Skip Brunet scored a two point count to hold the trophy. Valleyfield Club is the next in line. The players and score were:

Ormsdown Aubrey
W. A. Rice S. Reddick
Frank Hope S. Robb
John Heuston F. Gruer
Peter Brunet Ray Reddick
Skip—10 (Skip)—8

Town League Hockey. On Wednesday night the Town League swung into action with Dewittville defeating Franklin 1 to 0 in overtime. The Tiltson brothers were prominent for Dewittville although in altogether different ways. Jimmy, of the Ormsdown Seniors, scored the lone goal and brother Bill, had the misfortune to lose three teeth, in a mix-up in the Dewittville cage for a shut-out.

Brysonville won by default from the Town, when the latter failed to ice a team. The teams in the Town league will be stronger this year, as senior team is sending three players to each town league entry. So come on fans and see some exciting hockey on Wednesday night.

For Eczema--Skin Troubles
Make up your mind today that you are going to give your skin a real chance to get well. Go to any good drug store and get an original bottle of Moon's Emerald Oil. It lasts many days because it is highly concentrated.
The very first application will give you relief from itching. Eczema is instantly stopped--scratches dry up and scale off in a very few days. The same is true of Itch, and other skin troubles.
Remember that Moon's Emerald Oil is a clean, powerful, penetrating Antiseptic that does not stain or leave a greasy residue. Complete relief of money back.

Rapid Changes Of Weather Damage Trees

Apple Trees in Hemmingford Area Are Damaged—Treatment Is Advised

The rapid changes in the weather over a period of about ten days caused considerable damages to the apple trees in the Hemmingford area. This has been noted by the splitting of the trunk.

This occurred first following the high temperature, on Sunday, Jan. 22nd, which was followed that night by a sudden drop in temperature of over 50 degrees and high winds. Splits noted at that time were only minor and did not cause much alarm. However, on January 26th and 27th sudden changes were again general, plus high winds, with the result that a great many trees are badly split and should be treated immediately.

Treatment recommended is to paint these splits with Bordeaux Paint, the first day. This advice is given by R. J. M. Reid of the Department of Agriculture, Hemmingford. It is as follows:

Bordeaux Paint Recipe
Add commercial Bordeaux Powder to raw linseed oil until it has the consistency of thick paint. Apply liberally with a brush. It is well to treat trees at this time in order to protect new splits from water and later fungus and bacteria.

BAT FLIES ABOUT AT TATEHURST
Probably not many of us are accustomed to seeing a bat appear in mid-winter. At the home of Mr. Thomas McGill at Tatehurst a bat is known to make its appearance almost regularly in the evening and hang from window curtains and other articles in the room. Mr. McGill, a lover of all birds and animals, always has a bat to fly about undisturbed.

Obituary
The Late Miss Elizabeth Rice
At the residence of her niece, Mrs. Gladys MacGregor, 7036 Louis Henry Street, Montreal, on January 26, 1939, Miss Elizabeth Rice passed peacefully away after a short illness. The deceased was in her 82nd year and was well known in Huntingdon where she spent the first thirty years of her life. Miss Rice was the second daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rice and she was born on the farm now occupied by William Sherry. Of a patient and gentle disposition, Miss Rice leaves many good friends who mourn her passing. For nearly thirty years she was a zealous member of St. Patrick's Parish and later moved to St. Michael's Parish, Montreal. Her home radiated happiness and she always extended a warm welcome to the poor and the stranger who came to the city.

Miss Rice spent much of her life as a companion to a younger sister, Rose, who was left a widow with four young children. These nieces and nephews grew up to love and appreciate their kind, devoted aunt, and in her declining years they repaid her amply for her kind interest in their welfare.

Those left to mourn her loss are: One sister, Mrs. Rose Liddy, Montreal; four nieces, Mrs. G. MacGregor, Mrs. M. G. MacGregor, Montreal; Mrs. J. Greig, Detroit; Miss Margaret Anne Rice, Huntingdon; two nephews: Daniel Liddy, Montreal and James Rice, Marmora, Ontario.

"The Ticker Tape Murder"

By Milton M. Propper

Suspicion

For a moment the detective had to steel himself to do his duty. His ultimate objective, he knew, must inevitably bring sorrow to the child; and he was proposing to trick these very people into betraying their loved one. Whenever his profession reduced him to such tactics, he found them extremely distasteful. Particularly in a case such as this; many people would have said that Russell Stirling fully deserved the death that was intended for him. But an innocent man had died instead—there was the difficulty. Philip Nixon, who, as against the murderer, had every right to live, had been the victim. And then there had been another death—a deliberate crime committed merely for self-protection. For these, Allen Murray merited neither consideration nor hesitation.

Gilmore introduced himself as a friend of Murray's, and stated that he wished to see him. That he was safe in making this request, he was confident; his quarry, who had but the previous day committed his second murder, would hardly likely to have returned immediately to Boston.

"I only learned recently," Mrs. Lorimer said slyly, "that Allen had been released. I came as soon as I could; and I believed I was almost certain to find him here or learn where he was."

Across the woman's features there flashed a look of doubt that was gone as he had observed it; and she answered graciously enough.

"Mr. Murray isn't here, just now—in fact, he hasn't been saying here at all." She invited him into the attractive snugness of an airy living room and began to elaborate upon her statement.

"Mr. Murray went away after visiting here just once as soon as he was"—she hesitated for a moment. "He went directly to Philadelphia on some business to which he had to attend, and I haven't heard from him since, except once."

"To Philadelphia?" It was what Gilmore had expected to hear. "Can you tell me where he went or on what sort of business?"

"Too late," he regretted the pointed directness of his question. The look of doubt returned to her face. This time mingled with suspicion. It was as though she had been warned against people who might ask questions, and she had just recalled this caution. The detective sensed her sudden hostility and the barrier that was effectively raised between them.

"I asked that," he said hastily, "because I also wanted to see him as soon as possible, on business—a most important proposition that has to do with his old line of importing."

His knowledge of her employer's past, evidence that his claims were bona fide, reassured her a little.

"TIRED" ALL THE TIME

She felt miserable—draggy—low in vitality—lower in spirits. She hadn't thought of her kidneys, until a friend suggested Dodd's Kidney Pills. At once she took Dodd's. The "washed out" feeling was soon replaced by clear headed energy and restful sleep. Headache, backache, lassitude and other signs of faulty kidneys disappeared.

Dodd's Kidney Pills

Nevertheless, her reply was not encouraging.

"I couldn't tell you why he went to Philadelphia, sir, and I can't say where you can find him since he left; and he gave us no address. We've been provided here with everything we need."

"The nurse appeared in the room, Gilmore agreed pleasantly.

"Yes, this is quite a comfortable place you have here. You've been living here almost three years now, haven't you?"

"That's right." On this subject, the nurse appeared willing to talk. "Mr. Murray made arrangements to rent this cottage for us, immediately after his wife died. As soon as the trial was over, we moved here from the Plaza Hotel, where we were staying."

Again there was a slight hesitation when she spoke of Murray, and this time some color showed in her cheeks.

"Mrs. Lorimer's Secret"

"I can tell that Allen made no mistake when he gave you the responsibility of raising Anna," Gilmore went on. "She's grown up wonderfully; the last time I saw her she was only 2 and now I'd take her for 8 years old."

Mrs. Lorimer smiled gratefully. "She's really, you know, I've done my best to raise her the way Mr. Murray would have wanted me to. He wanted Anna to know what a real home was like; and he also wanted her to get away from the place where her mother had passed away."

"I didn't know Mrs. Murray very well, I'm afraid. It was most unfortunate, her death."

"To Gilmore's surprise, her reply was almost caustic.

"Of course, unfortunate in a way, because she was taken from her husband. He was very good to her and very solicitous of her comfort; naturally, she returned his affection. It wasn't surprising, then, considering how ill she was, that the shock of his arrest and trial should have undermined her health completely. Except for that she might have recovered; as it was, she died just when Mr. Murray most needed support."

The dull, repressed monotone of her voice startled the detective; he had to study her closely to perceive the strange, unexpected stress under which she labored. For a moment he was puzzled, but then he comprehended; and her next words convinced him that his intuition was correct.

"But in another way," she continued, "she had been fortunate. After all, hadn't she won the attachment of the man she loved? As long as she lived, he was hers. That's happiness enough for any one; and a woman couldn't ask for more than that. If I could—"

Mrs. Lorimer broke off suddenly; her eyes met the detective's with a sparkle, not of embarrassment, but of honest and candid admission. In his she read a sympathetic understanding; and though no words passed between them, she knew that her carefully concealed secret had been discovered.

It was because of her love for him that she had so faithfully served Allen Murray; it was that which had impelled her to do everything at his behest. And Gilmore had been the first to find it out. But she did not seem to regret it; indeed, she passed over it in silence, with gentle appreciation for the manner in which he had accepted his information.

"I'm sorry," she said simply, after a pause. "That should never have happened. You wanted to know who you could find Mr. Murray? His wordless commiseration had successfully won her confidence; yet strangely enough, it gave him no satisfaction.

"You told me you didn't know where he was. He gave you no address when he went away?" he inquired quietly of her.

"That is true. He said he didn't wish me to write him unless it was absolutely unavoidable. He was to let me know when he would return, but until then I was to say nothing of his absence."

"You must have considered that a very peculiar arrangement."

"I didn't stop to consider it," Mrs. Lorimer replied quietly. "They were his instructions. That was enough for me."

Gilmore nodded. "But suppose it became unavoidable? Suppose something should happen to your daughter that made it imperative for you to get in touch with him? In such a case, it would have been criminal to leave you no means of doing so."

She smiled at his insistence. "As a matter of fact, he did. You remember, I mentioned that I heard from him once from Philadelphia. That was when I received a letter, telling me where I could send him one; but I was to do so only if, as you suggested, I had something to write him about. Anna, I was to address, he said; but if I followed out his instructions, he'd receive it just the same. Of course, he did not anticipate that I would have to use them; he knew that in my house, if only for his sake, the child was perfectly safe."

"Calmly Gilmore asked, 'And where was it, you could reach him?'"

"In her newborn utter reliance, caused by having shared her secret with one so quietly comprehending, her guard had fallen completely. She appeared oblivious that it was this very thing against which Murray had intended to guard. Had she known the purpose of her employer's journey to Philadelphia, the detective was certain that nothing could have dragged from her the answer she gave him."

"He wrote that a letter sent to Elbert Higgins, Apartment E3, Terrace Garden Apartments, Germantown, would surely reach him."

The Voice On The Wire

By the possible chance of ingenious scheme could Russell Stirling's butler be the man he sought. Again and again, on his entire return journey to Philadelphia, that very night, Gilmore assured himself of that fact. In the first place, Higgins' features were not those of the picture shown him in Allen Murray's prison record. It was altogether likely that his smooth-faced quarry had adopted a disguise to secure himself while he carried out his mission; the butler wore no disguise whatsoever. What militated more strongly against such an idea was the fact that the stock broker would not have been deceived. Perfectly well acquainted with the idiosyncrasies of his old enemy, he would, in such close quarters, have recognized them even though Higgins had cleverly concealed his appearance.

The fact that Higgins served as a conductor between Murray and his family, indicated, then, that he was employed in some capacity by the latter. He was acting in his master's interests; but the circumstances of this arrangement were unknown. Gilmore could not tell whether he was aware of the purpose for which he was giving aid; but he swore he would know from Higgins' own lips before he was many hours older.

The train from Boston brought him to headquarters before 8 o'clock in the morning. There, joined by Smith, he set forth for Germantown, timing himself to reach the Terrace Garden Apartments immediately after Stirling would leave for his office. Gilmore was not anxious to invite the complication that was bound to ensue did the broker learn of his call on the butler.

It was exactly quarter after 9 when he knocked upon the door of the apartment.

This time, as Higgins opened the door, there was no greeting; to the butler's intense astonishment, the two visitors stepped directly past him into the hallway. The sheer rudeness of it prevented him from voicing any objection until it was too late.

"Please, sir, you can't come in like this." This is a private house, and Mr. Stirling wouldn't like it!"

"Close the door, Smith,"—Gilmore brusquely disregarded him—"and lock it as we don't want to be interrupted. Bring Higgins along into the parlor; we'll see how easily he can lie himself out of his difficulties this time."

to round up some Jews and take back some money that had in divers ways been taken from them. Then, when they had secured the money from the Jews they locked it up in the turret to try and hold it as long as they could before it eventually found its way back to the Jews, which it always did.

Despite the ridicule, however, it was obvious that Mr. Van Casteel was proud of his family crest. He produced a large book published in Belgium—his family tree. "There you are, my illustrious forefathers," he said. "Some of them were probably horse thieves and I don't know what all." A perusal of the book, however, revealed they had been comparatively prominent figures in Belgium, Germany and the Netherlands. "The book," he stated, "was published in 1885. I was born at old Brussels in Belgium in 1896 so I am not in the book, yet."

STILL GOING STRONG

After travelling 35,000 miles in his tiny yacht, the Drac II, A. G. H. MacPherson, of Alversock, England, has arrived at Mauritius. He left Portsmouth in September 1934 and visited the United States, West Indies, India, East Indies and Australia. He intends to go to South America, and be back in England late in 1939.

The small army of men he had working on the farm since he purchased it last May numbered as many as 22 at one time. At the present time there are 7 men working on the farm. A carefully kept record book reveals that he has averaged about $100 a week in wages for labor since last May and some weeks during last November ran as high as $225. A great deal of the labor has been the clearing of the land in order to make way for the planting of apple trees this spring. In several parts of the farm the fields have been divided up a great deal by innumerable stone fences. These stone fences have been removed to make one big field near the house and the stones carried to one place at the back of the farm. As a result he has one large pile of stones. The pile of stones is about four feet deep 20 feet wide and about 200 yards long. A tractor and stone boat was used to drag back this huge quantity of stones to the back of the farm.

Farming In Canada

The Gleaner asked Roger Van Casteel what he thought of the way farming was done in Canada. "They seem to have the habit of taking everything out of the land and giving nothing back; they seem to fall to realize that the land must be given a reasonable amount of care if good crops are to be taken from it. From what I have observed there are many farmers who take all the products and consequently money

Sacred Heart Parish Loses Parish Priest

The parishioners of North Ward of Valleyfield were shocked to hear on Thursday morning of the sudden death of their parish priest, Rev. Father Aimé Hébert.

Aged 50 years, Rev. Father Hébert was the founder of the parish of North Ward where he first served as curate to be later appointed parish priest. It is under his capable supervision that the "Cercle des Etudes Hébert" and the "Garde Champlain" were founded and are still most active in that parish.

Rev. Father Hébert was found dead in his rectory at 10 p.m. on Wednesday evening and had previously attended a meeting held in the basement of his church. He had been in ill health for some time but there was no indication of such an unexpected end.

Born at Beauharnois, October 17, 1889, Rev. Father Hébert made his classical studies at Beauharnois College and Valleyfield Seminary. He was ordained priest January 6, 1915, and was appointed curate at Rigaud and later at Coteau du Lac. He also acted for a few years as Chaplain of the Sister of Jesus and Mary in Valleyfield, prior to founding the parish of the Sacred Heart in North Ward of Valleyfield.

Funeral services were held on Monday morning at 10:00 o'clock and burial took place at Beauharnois.

His experience in Canada with business men in local districts led him to believe that they didn't know a great deal about the products they were selling. It was a surprise to him that a man was allowed to be agent for some particular product without knowing more about what he was selling. "When they can not answer questions you ask about the product they represent," they simply hand you some pamphlet to read which is supposed to contain all necessary information, but the more you read of the information on the pamphlet the less you know about the product," he said.

Blue Print Of Farm

Mr. Van Casteel goes about his apple orchard farming business in a business-like manner. He has even gone so far as to have a blue print of the farm, every field, every building, etc. With Mr. J. L. Pelletier, Huntingdon County agronomist, he carefully went over the blue print and sought advice from the agronomist as to the best ways in which to use the various fields. There is a large bush on the farm from which Mr. Van Casteel is cutting no wood. He believes that in the proper scheme of things this bush should not really belong to him since he has no use for it, but rather that it should belong to the man occupying the next farm to his. So far, however, Mr. Van Casteel has been unable to convince his neighbour to this effect.

Life begins at forty!

So goes the saying.

Mr. Van Casteel, in his early forties, is entering upon his venture in Canada with real zest and from the enthusiasm he displays it is evident that the saying has truth in it for him.

Thursday afternoon the Women's Association met at the home of Mrs. Reese, who was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. Carrigan and Mrs. Sparrow. In spite of the severe cold there was a good attendance of members and visitors. The President conducted the meeting. Several "thank you" letters were read from those whom this society had remembered at Christmas time. A very splendid reading entitled "Splendid Stewardship" was given by Mrs. George Boyce, this being most appropriate as the members are again using talent money to raise funds for the Association. Mrs. Ruth Merkle entertained all present with several piano selections. A delicious supper was served by the committee in charge. Considerable sewing and knitting was done during the afternoon.

School girl injured.

While skating one night recently, Germaine Desrosiers had the misfortune to fall. In the act of breaking the ice she fell on her head and foot. Dr. P. G. McCrimmon found it necessary to place the foot in a cast.

Mrs. Moore, Valleyfield and Mrs. (Dr.) Fisk Brooks of Montreal were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Wilson.

LAMBETH WALK TOO MUCH

After shouting "O!" while dancing the Lambeth Walk, Herbert George Brennan (52), a retired civil servant, of Clarendon Villas, Hove, collapsed. He was attended by a doctor, who was at the dance, but after treatment had continued for some time he was found to be dead. The dance was being held in aid of St. Dunstan's, at the Regent cinema, Brighton.

Ormstown Curlers Win Three Trophies at Quebec 'Spiel

Ormstown Curlers Play Brilliantly

Win Holt Renfrew, City of Quebec and Garrison Trophies—J. M. Darby Skips For St. George

Ormstown curlers stole the show at Quebec's annual bonspiel which was held last week in Quebec City. Of the seven trophies which were put up for competition three of these went to Ormstown and a fourth one was won by a former Ormstown resident.

W. G. McGerrigle, one of the best skips in Canada today, won the first trophy in this annual international bonspiel on Wednesday last when his rink defeated Dr. J. M. Elliott's Quebec rink 14-1 to capture the Holt Renfrew Trophy. John M. Darby, formerly of Ormstown and skip with the Montreal St. George rink captured the Citadel Trophy on Thursday. On Friday afternoon Fred Soucy clinched the City of Quebec trophy and won the third trophy on Saturday. The final bonspiel day, J. L. G. McGerrigle skipped the Ormstown four to another victory winning the Garrison Trophy.

ARMS USELESS ON A WET DAY

Rheumatic Pains Relieved by Kruschen

Here is a noteworthy instance of the manner in which damp weather can affect the joints of one who is subject to rheumatic pains. "I had been suffering from rheumatism very badly," a man writes, "and had such pains in my joints that I could hardly bear it, on a wet day especially. It pained me terribly to use my arms, and I was hardly able to work. I tried two different remedies, but I was still as bad after the treatment. "Then I was told to try Kruschen Salts, which quickly brought relief. So of course I have kept on with it, and I am now much better and have never felt so fit for years. I used to feel so miserable and sluggish, but now it is a pleasure to be able to work."—S.B.

The pains and stiffness of rheumatism are often caused by uric acid crystals in the muscles and joints. The numerous salts in Kruschen assist in stimulating the internal organs to healthy, regular activity, and help them to eliminate excess uric acid.

HUNTINGDON MEETS BELLERIVE, THURSDAY IN FIRST SEMI-FINALS

Finishing the season in third place standing in the Valleyfield City and District League, Huntingdon Leach will begin their semi-final series on Thursday evening in the Huntingdon Arena. They will meet the second place Valleyfield Bellerive. The second game of this series will be held at the Valleyfield Arena on February 5th.

Moco will also begin their semi-final series the same evening, meeting the fourth place Tigers. The winner of this series and the Huntingdon-Bellerive will meet for the championship of the league. The championship team will have the opportunity of qualifying in the Quebec playdowns.

The winners to participate in the games which will be held at Toronto in the near future for the championship of curling in Canada.

J. M. Darby, formerly of Ormstown and a resident of Montreal, skipped his St. George rink to a victory over a Quebec rink and won the Citadel Trophy.

The Ormstown rink skipped by Fred Soucy won the City of Quebec Trophy on Friday afternoon, last of the granite events in this bonspiel, defeating Charlie Handley's Quebec Curling Club team 11-10.

At the conclusion of the bonspiel on Saturday, J. L. G. McGerrigle skipped the Ormstown rink to another victory and won the third trophy for Ormstown, defeating Dr. P. Holliday's St. George rink 16-10.

The local curlers who represented so well the Chateauguay Valley in this annual Spiel were dangerous in each of the events in which they took part. They were feared by opposition especially after W. G. McGerrigle won the Holt Renfrew Trophy, early in the week.

More than one thousand fans are expected to witness the brilliant figure skating of the renowned artists of the Montreal Winter Club in Huntingdon on Saturday evening in the Huntingdon Skating Rink. (Picured above). Among those who will display grace and form on this smart sheet of ice will be the best amateur skaters in Montreal as well as the club professional, Miss Gwen Chambers.

Huntingdon Splits Week-end Games at Lake Placid, N.Y.

Lose Saturday's Contest 7-5 But Shuts Out Lake Placid in Sunday Afternoon Game, 5-0—Opening Game Roughed up, Three Players Sustaining Injuries

The International hockey games played at Lake Placid, N.Y., over the week-end between the Huntingdon Leach team and the Lake Placid team resulted in a tie for the games but the visiting team won on points, registering ten goals on the two games to seven by the local team.

Wilson scored the first goal of the afternoon immediately after the face-off at center ice in the opening period. This first success seemed to inspire the Huntingdon six and surprised the Lake Placid aggregation to no small extent. Five men were kept inside the Lake Placid zone during most of the game and Houle had very few shots to block in the Huntingdon nets. White started in this Sunday game with two goals while Chick Fortune and Merle Smith also tallied.

Penalties were scarce in this final game with Huntingdon as only one player was sent to the cooler and this due to an accidental trip.

A few supporters accompanied the Huntingdon team on this occasion and visited the main attractions in Lake Placid, N.Y., throughout the two day stay.

Ormstown was defeated by Chateauguay in the Ormstown rink on Friday night, 7-6 in a regular Chateauguay league game. The visitors had some brilliant play throughout the game, being led by McDonald who scored four goals and was credited with one assist. Jim Smith also starred alternating on the defense and right wing with equal success, matching a goal and drawing an assist. The other, the Chateauguay players, played outstanding combination, staging power plays that brought decisive results.

Reany was effective with a back hand shot while Price in the nets made some brilliant stops when under pressure. Much credit is due Chateauguay as they had only eight men in uniform.

For the locals Tillotson with two goals was the pick on the front line; Boyle and McCartney played well, the latter with a severe cold which slowed him down considerably. Leach skated hard but could not get going as he usually does. The local boys lacked combination and experience to cope with the close-checking Chateauguay team.

The game was well handled by "Pepper" Martin and Reany of Chateauguay. A third period fight between McDonald and Boyle in which the crowd mixed in with the players added a great deal of action. Following this fracas Martin, the local official, banished the Chateauguay manager from the players' bench when the latter struck the referee in the mix-up of players, officials and spectators.

The Ormstown boys would like to see more of their followers at the games. They feel they can produce better hockey when they are assured of the support of local fans.

FANCY SKATERS IN BRILLIANT DISPLAY AT VALLEYFIELD

The first ice carnival given in Valleyfield by the members of the Montreal Winter Club, Inc., was held in the Arena on Thursday evening. A crowd of 2,000 attended.

The performance was opened by Peter Stanger, Miss Audrey Joyce, the club champion demonstrated various difficult figures as did Charles Askwith, who also showed how a beginner looks when on skates for the first time.

Valleyfield Defeat Ormstown Juniors 6-1 and Howick Scores Surprise Victory, 7-1

Ormstown High School lost two week-end encounters as both the Senior and Junior teams were downed in exhibition tilts to visiting schools.

Ormstown Juniors were defeated 6-1 in their initial start by an aggressive Valleyfield Gault Institute Junior team. Outskated from the first, Ormstown waged an uphill battle all the way, but could not seem to penetrate the heavier Valleyfield defence.

Melvin and Morris Winter starred for Ormstown on the forward line, Melvin taking brother Morris' pass in the first period to register Ormstown's only tally. Donald Hooker played a sound game in the Ormstown net, having no chances worth saving on most of the Valleyfield tallies.

Ormstown seniors were victims of a surprise upset as they lost to Howick in a return engagement, 7 to 1. Minus their star, Boyd Campbell, they were unable to do anything right and did not give included surprise. Poor covering and clearing paved the way for the greater part of the Howick scores.

Alvin Ness and Ralph Logan were most effective for Howick, also being in use during the month of December which showed still greater improvement in 1938 but tax payments had been increased $133,000, "the effect of the increasing tendency on the part of all governments to seek further revenues".

The interest rate was 4.53 per cent, a slight decrease from the 4.90 figure of 1937, and attributable to the fall in interest rates. Surplus would have been $300,000 greater had the same rate been earned in 1938. While mortgages were not available in quantity, Confederation Life had increased its total number of mortgages held. The Association had decreased, as opportunities occurred, the term of its bond issues.

Seventy per cent of its bonds would mature within 15 years. Thus, should bond interest rates rise, the effect of a fall in bond prices will be minimized and the Association will be in a position to take advantage of higher rates.

Total surplus was increased to $9, 031,963. Surplus earned in 1938 was $2,449,539. In addition, book value of assets was written down by $272, 193, not necessarily, but as a matter of sound and prudent business.

Assets reached a new high mark of $125,835,403 and were carried into the balance sheet at their book values, which were $3,000,000 less than their market value. This conservative practice further strengthened the Association's position.

Wilbert Purcell, eldest son of John Purcell, who has been serving in France for a long time, sailed on Tuesday night on the hand mail Louis Cappello and Percy McGowan. Leslie Sellar came home Wednesday morning.

At the fifth Annual Ontario Agricultural College royal exhibition put on by the students, the championship for horses was won by James Cullen, Howick. He, showing a Clydesdale mare.

At the bonspiel held last Wednesday in connection with the opening of the new rink at Riverfield, Edson McWhinnie's rink from Ormstown carried off the prizes. Three rinks were represented: Huntingdon, J. C. Boyd defeating St. Reddick, Aubrey, 14-5, J. W. Stark losing to C. Orr, Riverfield, 7-9, and D. J. O'Connor losing to J. E. Meikle, Howick, 5-17.

Despite rough weather en route, a 200-year-old grandfather clock has arrived at Sydney, N.S.W., from England without losing a second. It was shipped to Sydney for Mr. K. R. Brocklehurst, who bought it when he was in England a few months ago.

The clock was made by a Marlborough clockmaker, who died in 1740.

CAUGHNAWAGA WINS EXHIBITION, 6-3

In an exhibition game played at the Huntingdon Skating rink on Friday evening, Caughnawaga Indians defeated the local aggregation 6-3 in one of the fastest games played in that loop this year.

The game was forfeited to Caughnawaga immediately before game-time by the Huntingdon officials as they could not line-up strong enough a team and furnish a smart exhibition without the help from the other local team.

The game was fast and clean as only one penalty was meted out during the three periods of play.

67th Annual Meeting of Confed. Life

Confederation Life Association Has Strongest Balance Sheet in Twenty-five Years

Toronto—The report and balance sheet presented at the 67th annual meeting of the Confederation Life Association were the strongest in the last 25 years, according to V. R. Smith, general manager. Stronger even than a year ago, the Association's financial position offers policy-holders improved security.

New business for 1938 was $50,267,236, the best for any year since 1913. New ordinary business showed a gain of more than $1,000,000, with increases in Ontario, Quebec, Alberta, Prince Edward Island, United Kingdom, Jamaica and the Dominican Republic.

Total business in force, excluding group pensions, group sickness and accident contracts and immediate annuities, reached $421,826,682, an increase of $16,385,223 over last year. This was most satisfactory. Confederation Life increased its service to its policy owners, paying out $13,350,249 to living owners of policies and beneficiaries during 1938, exclusive of policy loans. Of this, 70 per cent went to living policyholders and 30 per cent to beneficiaries.

Referring to the growth of group welfare insurance, Mr. Smith noted that in 1938 Confederation Life had included 2,000,000 beneficiaries on their sickness and accident business and had further liberalized hospitalization benefits. New group life contracts were almost 70 per cent greater in number than in 1937.

The Association's favorable mortality experience showed still greater improvement in 1938 but tax payments had been increased $133,000, "the effect of the increasing tendency on the part of all governments to seek further revenues".

Assets reached a new high mark of $125,835,403 and were carried into the balance sheet at their book values, which were $3,000,000 less than their market value. This conservative practice further strengthened the Association's position.

Wilbert Purcell, eldest son of John Purcell, who has been serving in France for a long time, sailed on Tuesday night on the hand mail Louis Cappello and Percy McGowan. Leslie Sellar came home Wednesday morning.

Huntingdon Lose Game To Ormstown

Winners Come From Behind in Third Period to Win 4-3—Small Crowd

Coming from behind mid-way in the last period, Ormstown won another contest on Monday evening at Huntingdon, when they defeated the local aggregation by the score of 4-3 in a regular Chateauguay Valley Hockey League fixture.

Staging a four man attack in the first frame, Huntingdon scored the first goal of the evening when Helm passed to Senecal on passing the Murphy-Boyle defence of Ormstown to score, leaving the goalie no chance to save. This first success of the local clan did not discourage the visiting team, as shortly after they evening the count on a tally by Bert McCartney. The first period ended 1-1.

One of the smallest crowds of the year saw Huntingdon again take the lead in the middle frame on a tally by Allan Helm, who played one of his most effective games at centre. Helm scored his second goal of the evening late in this same period to put the Huntingdon six in the lead with two goals.

Beginning the third and last period with a two goal disadvantage, Ormstown staged several power plays in quick succession. Boyle, Murphy and McAdam each scored with the latter beating Johnson in the Huntingdon nets on a blue-line shot.

The game was fast and clean as only three penalties were meted out during the evening by referee Howie Grant. Late in the third period, R. Rodrigue and B. McCartney came to blows when sticks were carried a little high. However, the situation was soon ironed out and both players were handed a five minute penalty.

The game ended with Ormstown leading 4-3 and Huntingdon trying hard to score.

School Notes

ORMSTOWN HIGH SCHOOL
Arrangements are being made to emphasize Education week in Ormstown School which will be held February 5th-11th. Miss Tanner of Ormsby Grange has very kindly donated a set of National Geographical Magazines of the year 1938 '37 and '38. The class libraries are being used extensively by the pupils and new books are being obtained.

By way of commemorating the birthday of Robert Burns, the lieder club, accompanied by a few of its members, read a few of his poems to their pupils.

Dr. Stalker is at present making careful health examinations throughout the school.

Mr. Vernon had in his possession at the time a butcher knife, a club and a shovel. Mr. Goodwin had on his person one hatchet, an iron wrench and a iron bar. Both men plead 'not guilty,' each asserting a plea of self-defence. Have you reached a verdict?"

CONSTITIATION HOLDS YOU BACK

You cannot make much of a success in life if you are dragged down by constipation. Your trouble may be due to nothing more than a diet deficiency of bulk... eating foods which do not provide the "bulk" needed by the bowels for regular movement. If you suffer from this common type of constipation, get at the cause of your trouble by eating crisp, crunchy Kellogg's ALL-BRAN every day for breakfast and drinking plenty of water. ALL-BRAN contributes to the needed "bulk" and is a rich source of nature's intestinal tonic Vitamin B1. Try ALL-BRAN and see how differently you feel.

Reminiscences On Curling

By Onlooker

During the recent ladies Curling Bonspiel at Aubrey, as I watched car after car arrive and discharge its load of fair freight, my thoughts turned backward to twenty-five years ago and the changes which have taken place during that period of time. In our little hamlet previous to 1914, we had a curling rink—it was built in 1907—but only the men were eligible to participate in the "roarin' game". Ladies might look on but not take part. However, in the winter of 1913, some of the ladies from Ormstown, who, by the way, had a Ladies' Curling Club, journeyed to our little hamlet to inspire us with a love for and a desire to form a club of our own. Needless to say the efforts of these "missionaries" met with success. In the fall of 1914 a meeting of the various local ladies was convened, plans were made and a campaign for funds was got under way, so that when ice was ready in the rink, we were ready to begin play.

I wonder if the residents of urban centres have any idea of the difficulties to be met with and overcome by the curler in rural areas—distance from the rink, farm work, etc. However, our enthusiasm was at its height and what looked like difficulties were overcome in one way or another. If the day was stormy, we wrapped up that much warmer. Old Duncanson could be depended on to get us through the snow, for then there were no radiators to freeze, no engines to stall, and if the roads were drifted full of snow, what was an upset more or less, so long as we got there and played our game. Well, do I remember when we were playing for the extra pair of curling blocks donated us, how we played single hand games with more ends than their elders, and it wasn't an unusual sight to see a small child or two dozing on a pile of coats on a bench. At first, as our rink had but a single sheet of ice, we had only two afternoons and one evening in which to curl, for we must not encroach upon friend husband's prerogative. Later on, however, through the co-operation of both ladies and men we had our rink enlarged. Today we have two sheets of ice, a large club-room with cloak-room and kitchen attached.

Then he goes on to say, "Hi! The craters must be makin' a steer about something, so I just thought if they're racin' round the ice, they'll be less likely to be don' harm some ither place." But it should be remembered that "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy", and if curling helps relieve the monotony of rural work, why should women not take part despite what old Andy says? The fact also remains that during the winter months, the local rink is the social meeting place of most of the countryside.

Today cars play a great part in the transportation of curlers from one centre to another, especially since our roads are being kept open throughout the winter, but though cars may take our young folks far from their winter's amusement in the old curling rink and though time marches on and we lose our enthusiasm and vim of youth, yet a game of curling still has a thrill all its own.

Canada's Defense to be Given All Consideration - $30,000,000 to be Spent on Perfecting Air Defences

By Spectator

National Defence With the horizons of the world darkened by menacing clouds, the government has decided to expand very substantially this country's defence against possible aggression. In the estimates tabled in the House of Commons by Mr. Dunning, Minister of Finance, the appropriations for defence for the coming year are nearly 30 million dollars above the vote of last year. In the fiscal year now coming to a close the defence estimates totalled $35,966,524, which was approximately the same amount as in the previous year. The total estimate for the coming fiscal year is $63,447,175.

Air Service Expansion It is in the air service that most of the increase appears. Nearly 30 million dollars will be spent this year in the perfecting of air defences in construction at airports, in the purchase of equipment and in the training of pilots. For the training of pilots six million dollars have been appropriated. The present personnel of the Royal Canadian Air Force consists of 259 officers and 1955 airmen. The numbers will be increased to 273 officers and 2172 airmen. The department will buy 83 new aircraft during the year, while a considerable part of the money appropriated will be used to pay for first line planes previously ordered and now being delivered. Slightly over four million dollars will be expended on buildings and works at airports: Vancouver station $229,000; Patricia Bay, B.C. $454,000; Prince Rupert, B.C. $327,000; Allford Bay, Queen Charlotte Islands, B.C. $48,000; Kamloops, B.C. $27,000; Trenton, Ont. $185,000; Ottawa station $300,000; A central repair depot (site to be determined) $250,000; Dartmouth, N.S. $919,000; Yarmouth, N.S. $170,000; Sydney, N.S. $570,000; Truro, N.S. $258,500.

D. E. BLACK DEFENDS TRADE TREATY

Donald E. Black, member of Parliament for Chateauguay-Huntingdon in the House of Commons defended the trade treaty in the following speech before the House on Monday: "He was inclined to scoff at the fears expressed as to the effect of the new trade agreement on industry. It would bring benefits to the farmers of the country and this would mean a greatly enlarged market for all the industrial products the farmers needed."

8000 IN 'HIDEY HOLES'

Although neighbours believed her poor, ninety-three-year-old Mrs. Ann Cox, of Langlands street, Dundee, had $800 stowed away in "hidey holes" in her two-roomed house. She lived alone and a short time ago, when she called in her solicitor, he found that she had $200 in the bank, although she had not called there for 30 years. She told him that she had "bits of things about the house in 'hidey-holes,'" and asked him to call again for them. He did so—and she gave him a big parcel to take to the bank. It contained $480, including $189 in silver. The money was tied up in small bundles, with pieces of wool. Now Mrs. Cox has died—and another parcel, containing $357 in notes, has been found in the house.

The $3 million dollars above the 60 million is the sinking fund appropriation needed annually to retire this "capital" expenditure with interest at the end of ten years. The balance of the total appropriation for defence comes under "ordinary" expenses.

Debate on the Speech From the Throne

The debate on the Speech from the Throne has covered the widest range of subjects. Unemployment and the trade treaties have figured prominently in the speeches which are assuming a pronounced political slant. Every possible chink in the government armor where a rapier point might be inserted is being sought diligently by vigilant foes in the opposition ranks. By the tone of the speeches members are quite evidently hearing far off, or perhaps not so far off, "the tumult of the captains and the shoutings" of election times.

Unemployment Relief

In brief the main features of the government's proposals in relation to unemployment amelioration are as follows: It is intended to ease the burden of the municipalities by requiring them to pay only 20 per cent of the cost of direct relief, while the Dominion and the provinces will each shoulder 40 per cent (maximum). Relief of transients will be shared equally by the Dominion and the provinces. Where civic improvement measures are undertaken by municipalities, in lieu of direct relief, the direct labor costs will be shared in full on a 50-50 basis by the Dominion and the provinces while the municipalities will pay for materials and the cost of supervision. The youth training movement will be continued for three years. Single unemployed will be aided by an extension of forest conservation measures and farm employment plans which extension on a wide front will be made to a variety of projects for which appropriations have been made in previous sessions; roads and tourist highways, rehabilitation works in the West, national parks, harbor developments, airports, elimination of level crossings, parking roads, etc.

DEAF BUT LUCKY

Because, owing to deafness, she could not enjoy theatre or movie performance, Mrs. E. Barker, of Parkway, Seven Kings, has become one of the most successful greyhound owners at Harringay near White City, London. Looking round for something to take the place of customary entertainments, she decided to try "the dogs" and became so enthusiastic that her husband, to add to her pleasure, bought her a greyhound. That was the beginning of a run of luck that is making dog-track history. "Dago Ben" was the first of her runners to bring in a regular income and, after him, "Captain Cuttle" established a reputation for consistent wins. Both have brought in about £40 a month prize money. Mrs. Barker says she never tries to make anything out of her dogs by backing them. If they are not fancied she usually has a small place bet on the favorite. But she rarely has to rely on that for profit—her dogs are always in the running. Now, with this season nearly over, Mrs. Barker is making plans for next year.
