Separatism rejected, Levesque quits

QUEBEC (CP)—Quebec's opposition Liberals rejected separatism and Rene Levesque, endorsed federalism as party policy and sang O Canada a lot during the weekend.

More than 1,200 delegates at the annual meeting of the Quebec Liberal Federation voted almost unanimously to seek to increase powers of the Quebec government within Canadian federalism.

Purged as a separatist was Mr. Levesque, 45, whose proposal for a sovereign separate state of Quebec was rejected by an overwhelming majority.

Mr. Levesque, former minister of welfare and resources, resigned from the Liberal party where he served at the rebel of Quebec's Quiet Revolution.

He said he will continue to sit in the legislature as an independent member and plans to campaign across Canada for acceptance of his sovereign-state theory.

He was among the prominent members of the former Liberal government often leading the way for revolutionary social change in Quebec during the six-year term until it was defeated by the ruling Union Nationale in 1966.

About 150 Liberal party members resigned with Mr. Levesque. Among those leaving were two former chairmen of the party's political committee, Marc Briere and Rosaire Beaulieu.

The federation endorsed a federalist resolution seeking special status for Quebec within a new Canadian constitution.

Work on defining this special status begins this week in the federation's policy committee, leading to a special conference in 1968 to determine detailed party policy.

Former education minister Paul Gelin-Lajoie is expected to lead a determined battle for a strong special status involving major changes in federal-provincial jurisdiction.

Among other things, Mr. Gelin-Lajoie advocates abolishing the constitutional monarchy within Quebec which he thinks should become a republic within Canada.

Liberal Leader Jean Lesage closed the three-day annual meeting Sunday night by challenging the Union Nationale government to hold a similar meeting to clarify the Union Nationale's constitutional policies.

Mr. Lesage said the government's present policies are ambiguous and ambivalent and have undermined both political stability and economic security in Quebec.

The convention began in a tense atmosphere Friday night when Mr. Lesage issued an ultimatum which Mr. Levesque later described as "you believe or you die."

If you accept Mr. Levesque's theory, Mr. Lesage said, "I will resign without delay." If Mr. Levesque's theory was rejected, he should resign.

Mr. Lesage said the choice is between federalism and separatism.

The crunch came when the Levesque forces lost a bid to get votes by secret ballot. The majority insisted the voting would be by show of hands, in the open where separatists could be seen. The massive majority of delegates showed their anti-separatist sentiments by immediately giving Mr. Lesage a vote of confidence and showering boos on the Levesque group.

Mr. Levesque went through the formality of debate Saturday, he and his supporters getting equal time to argue the sovereign state theory with the federalist forces.

Mr. Levesque outlined the theory advocating elimination of MAKING THE POINT — Rene Levesque, using one finger to emphasize a point, tells how he resigned Saturday from the Quebec Liberal Federation after his resolution suggesting the party follow a road that would lead to a Quebec state did not get the consideration he thought it should. (CP Wirephoto)

City man owes life to accident victim

A young Sherbrooke man, Yves Lagace, 20, owes his life to a young man who died in Montreal Friday afternoon. Lagace has been suffering from uremia, a kidney ailment, for the past ten years and has spent the last 15 months in Royal Victoria Hospital in Montreal.

Arabs give up

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP)—Under unrelenting pressure from Israeli security forces, Arab saboteurs appear to have given up hope of starting a guerrilla war in Israeli-occupied areas west of the Jordan River.

Sources here said El Fatah gangs backed by Syria are pulling out of bases from which they have carried on a terror campaign for the last six weeks.

Guns for Viets?

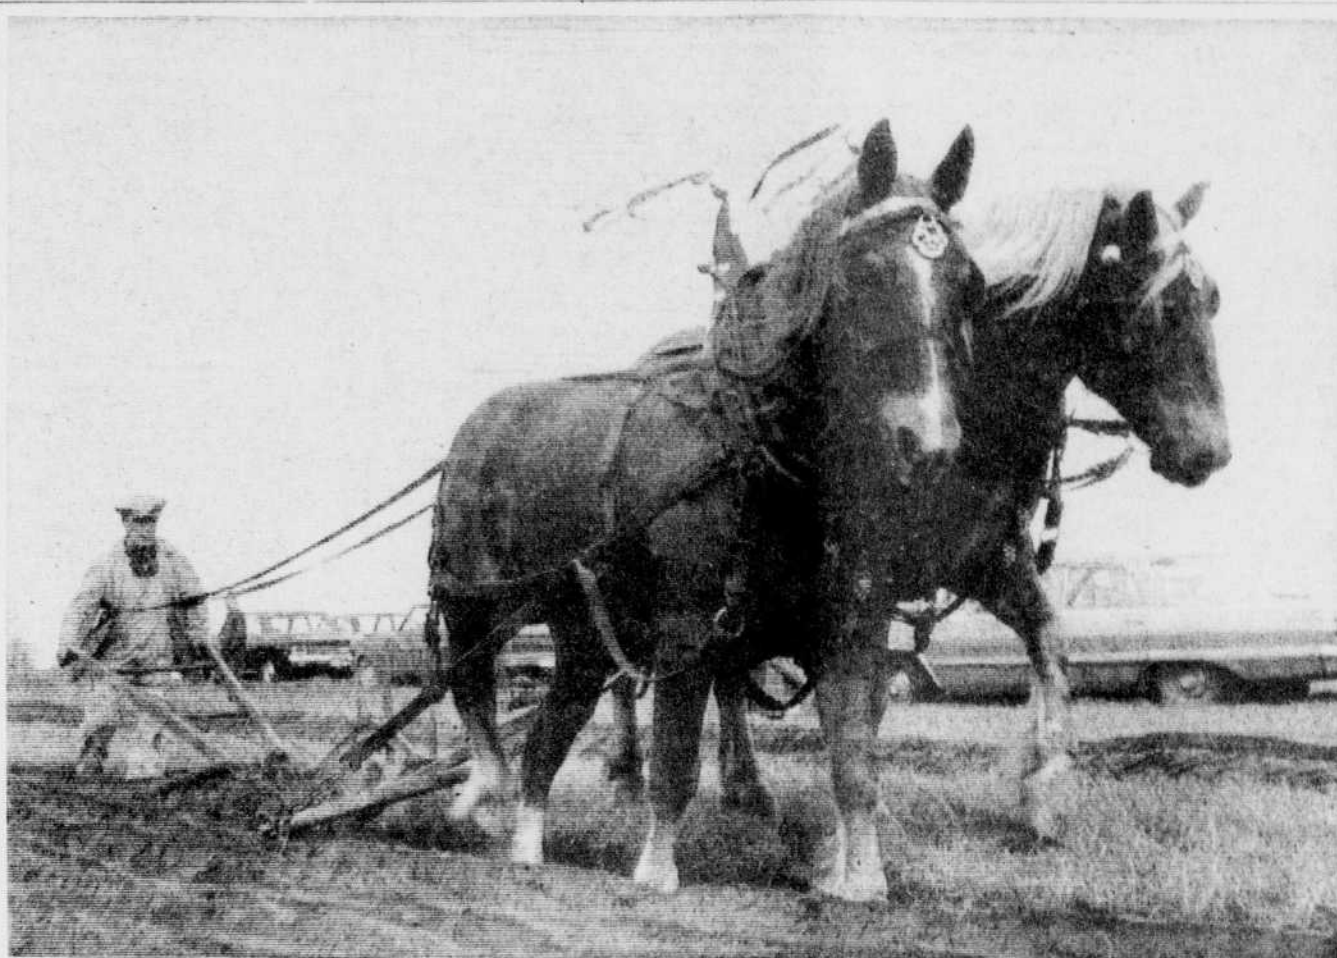

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. intelligence experts are puzzling over mysterious shrouded shapes spotted in a Chinese railway yard just above the North Vietnamese border.

Sources say there is a growing belief the objects may be heavy self-propelled artillery, possibly bigger than any guns yet used by the North Vietnamese.

Office bombed

MONTREAL (CP)—A home-made dynamite bomb did heavy damage to five floors of an office building in the northern suburb of St. Michel Sunday.

There were no injuries in the blast. The building houses the Cuban trade mission to Canada as well as a number of business firms.

PREFERS THE OLD METHOD — For 74-year-old Willard Harrison the old method of plowing suffices as he demonstrated Saturday at the 48th annual Stanstead county plowing match. The match which was held at the farm of Douglas McKinnon near the Barnston Road featured

12 classes. The annual banquet will be held Wednesday night, served by the Hatley women in the United Church hall and the program will be held in the Hatley Village hall when prizes will be awarded and films shown. (Record photo: Doug Gerrish)

MTC union meets today

MONTREAL (CP)—Union officials called a meeting for today in the face of a Quebec government threat to hold an emergency session of the provincial legislature to end Montreal's bus and subway strike.

Officials of the Confederation of National Trade Unions, which represents the five striking transit unions, plan to study their next move in the dispute which caused 6,000 workers to leave their jobs Sept. 21.

Acting Premier Paul Dozois, who obtained court injunctions last week ordering the strikers back to work, said the cabinet will decide today whether a special session of the legislature should be called in view of the workers' refusal to obey the court orders.

Such a session would be aimed at adopting emergency legislation which would force the unions to suspend the strike pending settlement of their dispute with the Montreal Transportation Commission.

Lucien Saulnier, chairman of the executive committee of the Montreal city council, called a Friday night meeting for tonight of the committee and the mayors of the 19 suburban municipalities affected by the strike.

About 60 MTC employees obeyed the court injunctions Friday afternoon and got 35 buses and the three-mile subway line from Montreal to the Expo 67 site operating briefly.

MTC officials said they could not continue the partial bus and subway service because not enough workers showed up to their jobs Saturday. The officials blamed telephone threats against the workers for their refusal to come to work.

The workers who had showed up at their jobs Friday had done so because of the court orders and against the wishes of union officials.

The unions are demanding $3.50 for their bus and subway drivers in an 18-month contract — $3.35 to be paid immediately

Reject BNA Act?

QUEBEC (CP)—Members of the Quebec Federation of St. Jean Baptiste Societies, a French-Canadian nationalist group, are being asked to reject the British North America Act as a shack on the aspirations of French-speaking Canadians.

In a manifesto made public Saturday, the general council of the federation called for a new Quebec constitution "drafted by the people"—either through a constituent assembly or by referendum.

Son returns

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—A missing nine-year-old boy returned home with his parents to Binghamton, N.Y., Sunday after a routine traffic check near here Saturday night turned up the boy and the man accused of kidnapping him nearly six months ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Burton Layton of Binghamton had a happy, tearful reunion with their son William at police headquarters Sunday before returning home.

RCAF searches for 'whatever it was'

CALGARY (CP)—A spokesman for the RCAF may send a helicopter to look for whatever it was that fell out of whatever it was in July.

Whatever it was was seen by three prospectors near Nanton, Alta., and was photographed by one, Warren Smith, 27, of Calgary. Sgt. Ldr. E. B. Chase of Calgary says Mr. Smith's photograph is the best one yet to an unidentified flying object in the RCAF files.

And he said other reports of UFOs in the Calgary area last week "have the ring of authenticity."

Sgt. Ldr. Chase said enlargement of Mr. Smith's photographs show a domed, saucer-shaped object about 40 feet across with a red light on top and what appeared to be bluish exhaust.

One prospector said he saw something fall from the UFO and the RCAF spokesman said a search may be staged. The three gold prospectors say the object was seen west of Nanton, about 50 miles south of Calgary, July 3.

The latest in a series of UFO sightings was reported Thursday by Nora Tibbs, a High River, Alta., housewife, who says her car stalled when a UFO circled over it Wednesday night. She said she was driving on Highway 2 near Aldersyde, 25 miles south of Calgary, when her car lights, radio and motor cut out.

"I stepped on the gas to pull her over to the curb but there was no power, no lights, no radio or anything," she said.

Then, she said, she saw a brilliant light she took for the chill. "I didn't thaw out until 1,000 feet up, began to circle her car."

"It circled around the car four or five times and then went away. I was just frozen, a real cold, right-to-the-bone actual chill," she said.

LA fires

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A series of brush fires spread patchwork pattern of destruction over the dry Los Angeles area Sunday, leaving one person dead and 40 homeless and blackening 26,000 acres.

The worst of the fires — a 10,000-acre blaze at suburban Chatsworth in the San Fernando Valley 20 miles northwest of Los Angeles — destroyed 22 homes and raged through the night.

noon the next day."

She described the object as oval-shaped with "a kind of a dome shape" on one side. She thought it vaguely resembled a dirigible.

Forestry lookout Russ Hill, described as reliable and trustworthy by his colleagues, has reported four sightings—the latest Tuesday—about 35 miles west of High River.

On Sept. 18, he says he was awakened by a humming sound and from his lookout tower saw a reddish object with a green light which hovered for about three hours before climbing and disappearing.

He said he tried to start his power generator but found it shorted out. Later, Mr. Hill said he saw the object on a nearby plateau.

On Oct. 7 he heard a "throbbing, pulsating sound" and with field glasses saw a bowl-shaped object, 75 feet in diameter, sweep down a valley below his forest tower.

He said the lights in his cabin seemed to flicker as the object passed. It had two light exhaust flames, a green neon-like ring around it and a dome with a pulsating yellow-green light.

TIMID PLAYERS LOSE OFFENER

You don't get to be a great bridge player by sitting back in a rocking chair and waiting for sure thing bids. You have to take calculated risks from time to time.

If Eric Murray's eight-point vulnerable double of South's one no-trump response had backfired at him, we can see the chorus of criticism from the defeatist players—who criticize beautifully and never win when and if they get to the table against tough competition.

Anyway, this double in the World's Championship Match worked to perfection. North saw no reason to run. Sammy Kehela with his nice East hand was delighted to pass. South had reason to think that a run-out to diamonds would be a case of out of the frying pan into the fire. Actually two diamonds would only go down one trick but South could not tell that North held a good five card diamond suit.

West opened the queen of spades and continued the suit after South ducked in both hands. South's nine of diamonds drew the queen and ace. Kehela won the next diamond with the ten and led a low club to Murray's ten. Murray cleared the spade suit and eventually the defense collected three clubs, three spades, two diamonds and 500 points.

Scarborough, Ont. couple honored by family to mark silver wedding

SOUTH STUKELY — Mr. and Mrs. Donald McLellan, formerly of Waterbury and Lennoxville, now residing in Scarborough, Ont., who celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary August 19, were feted at a surprise gathering of many old friends at the South Stukely town hall, when they were here on their holidays.

When the couple entered the hall with Mr. and Mrs. Gamache the groom's brother-in-law and sister, everyone sang, Happy Anniversary, while Mrs. Junior Harvey pinned a corsage of yellow gladioli to her sister's aqua colored dress.

The evening was spent in reminiscing with old friends, and dancing to music supplied by Mrs. Junior Harvey at the piano. Several of the guests also enjoyed playing cards.

The tables and hall were beautifully decorated with summer flowers. The table of the wedding party was centered with a three-tier wedding cake, made by the groom's mother, Mrs. Cecil McLellan of South Stukely, and decorated by the bride's sister, Mrs. Junior Harvey of Dunham. The cake was topped by a silver trophy, filled with white flowers. Over the table, written in silver letters, hung the words, Happy 25th Anniversary.

Seated at the table with the guests of honour were the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. McLellan and Mr. and Mrs. L. Tibbitts, the best man of 25 years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Junior Harvey, sitting in for the bride's mother of honor, another sister, Mrs. Alvin Henderson, because of distance, was unable to be present.

At one end of the same table was a small tree sprayed with silver to which money was pinned.

Following serving of refreshments, the bride's youngest brother, Mr. George Norton, on behalf of those present spoke briefly wishing the happy couple many more happy and fortunate years.

Mrs. McLellan, on behalf of his wife and himself, expressed appreciation for the money tree and extended a special thanks to their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Asa Squires and family, who were mainly responsible for organizing the party and who did all the serving.

Boundary residents honored by week of entertainments on anniversary

DERBY LINE — Mr. and Mrs. Walter Curtis were feted by friends on the occasion of their 47th wedding anniversary.

Sunday, Sept. 24, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis were dinner guests of Mrs. Earl Jacobs, Derby Line, and Mrs. Byron Ellis, of Rock Island, at the Royal Cafe in Newport.

After dinner the foursome motored to Craftsbury and at Hardwick, enjoying the Vermont scenic autumn beauty, then to St. Johnsbury where they were tea guests of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis' son, Mr. Donald Curtis, Mrs. Curtis and family before returning home.

Friday evening, Sept. 29, the actual date of their anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis were evening dinner guests at the home of Mrs. Raymond Grow in Derby Line, where other guests included Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Judd, Sr., and Mrs. Earl Jacobs. After dinner the evening was spent playing cards.

Saturday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis were again honored at dinner by Mrs. Millicent Adam, where other guests included Mr. and Mrs. Tom McCune, Mrs. Byron Ellis, Rock Island, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Hull, Mrs. N. W. Scott and Mrs. Raymond Grow.

Dinner was served at the family dining table, centered with an arrangement of autumn flowers, the same flowers as I so decorating the home. Following the harvest supper, an anniversary cake, made and appropriately decorated by Mrs. Adam, was served.

During the remainder of the evening 500 was played, prizes being won by the celebrants, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis, much to everyone's delight.

Mrs. Adam, on behalf of the friends present, presented Mr. and Mrs. Curtis with congratulatory cards and money.

Sunday evening, Oct. 1 they were visitors at the home of their son, Mr. Larry Curtis, Mrs. Curtis and family, Derby Line, where refreshments were served during the visit.

The couple were the recipients of gifts of flowers, money and items for their home, as well as numerous congratulatory cards.

Former resident of Richmond dies in B.C.

RICHMOND — Miss Lois Boast, staff associate at the Christian Leadership Training School of the United Church of Canada at Naramata, B.C., died Thursday, Sept. 28, at Vancouver.

Miss Boast was the daughter of the late Dr. C. R. Boast and Mrs. Boast of Richmond.

She is survived by a sister Jean, Mrs. J. Allan Bagnall, Mr. Bagnall and family, of St. Lambert and aunt, Miss Mabel Boast, and uncle, G. A. Boast, of Richmond, and other relatives.

Funeral and interment took place at Naramata.

Says separatism is a hazardous, doubtful policy

Speaking to students of the University of Sherbrooke at the University today, Maurice Allard, independent MP for Sherbrooke, said that despite its attractiveness, separatism in Quebec is very doubtful and very adventurous.

He said he had spoken to many separatist leaders, including Pierre Bourgeault and Gilles Giguere, had studied their principles and he has concluded that none of them can logically minimize the grave disadvantages which would result from separatism for Quebec and Canada.

Mr. Allard said separatism is a hazardous adventure on three aspects: the existence and advantages of long and short-term economics in Quebec, the survival of the 1,300,000 French-speaking people throughout the other nine provinces and the Yukon Territories and because of the resistance to the hold the Americans exercise in the cultural and economic affairs in Quebec.

"I propose a new federal constitution in Canada, a federalism authentic and bicultural, with the implication of particular consideration given to Quebec," said Mr. Allard.

By authentic, he said he meant a federalism with ten characteristics including free and equal provincial governments, a clear division of taxation rights, the supremacy of the Constitution, and a senate in which the provinces could appoint their delegates.

By bicultural he said he meant official recognition of both cultures from one ocean to the other.

He said that Quebec would be recognized as the capital of a French-Canadian nation which would be able to enjoy the culture and economics of a proud and meritorious people.

Mr. Allard affirmed that Quebec already has a special status which is different than the other provinces which is found in the Quebec Act of 1791 and the B.N.A. Act of 1867, because Quebec is the capital of the French-Canadians who are of a different mentality than other Canadians and have a different culture, education and institutions.

He said Ottawa does not always respect this statute although it is vital that they do because of the needs of the Quebec people.

He said, "It is therefore necessary, that we define as soon as possible, the special statute for Quebec before we can create a more coherent, more secure Canada."

Mr. Allard said the principal needs of Quebec and French Canada were full authority in civil and judicial matters, influence in making constitutional decisions, priority for the French language and culture, control of immigration in Quebec and over its people, financial aid to help perfect our education system and to develop our natural resources, and a role in preparing the federal budget.

He said French Canada wants equality of culture and language, the cessation of discrimination in fiscal and financial affairs and consideration given to educating the French-speaking people in French schools in the other nine English-speaking provinces and the northern territories.

Entertain staff of Wales Home at dinner party

RICHMOND — A dinner party was held recently at Mar Lodge, Danville, at which 27 nurses of the Wales Home staff were present.

Several toasts were made during the dinner: one to Mrs. Mary Patrick, a former nurse at the Home, who has adopted a baby; to Miss Elizabeth McConnell, who was recently married; to Miss Norma Montgomery, who has retired after twelve years service as a nurse; and to Miss Francoise Rondeau, who was celebrating her birthday.

A prettily decorated birthday cake centered the table and several table games were played.

Magog school teaches both Catholics, Protestants

THANKSGIVING DAY GOBLERS — Although these school children in the primary unit in the Princess Elizabeth High School are busily drawing multi-colored turkeys, the real story can't be seen. This school is the first in the Magog district to have instruction of both English-speaking Roman Catholic students and Protestant students on a large scale. Above Miss Beryl Beckwith supervises the drawing session.

MAGOG — The little blond-haired boy with his tongue stuck out of one corner of his mouth, was nicely rounding the drawing of a purple Thanksgiving Day turkey into shape.

With a final flourish of a slightly squashed crayon, he held the drawing up for critical examination and beamed his approval.

His classmates were similarly busy at work hunched over their drawings of yellow, green, red and blue gobs.

Yet, there was a difference to this class that you couldn't see just looking at them.

The Princess Elizabeth High School in Magog is the first school in the area to instruct both Protestant and English-speaking Roman Catholic students in both the elementary and secondary levels on a large scale.

But, the English-speaking Roman Catholic students who are in the high school grades at the school, are there of their own choice. The Regional Roman Catholic School Board of L'Estrie pays the Magog Protestant School Board approximately $300 for each English-speaking Roman Catholic student enrolled in the high school grades.

Principal B. G. Hodge, after solving the problem of a leaky water fountain for a thirsty group of little boys, explained how the new system was organized and put into operation in September.

"It was an agreement between the Magog Protestant and Roman Catholic School Boards. We're operating on a per cost basis where the Protestant School Board charges the Roman Catholic School Board $250 for every student who attends Princess Elizabeth high school, in the elementary grades," he said.

There are approximately 88 Roman Catholic students at the school, and Mr. Hodge said they haven't run into any problems. "We've always had a large number of English-speaking Catholic students at the school."

Yet, until this past September, the parents of these students had to pay a tuition fee to the Protestant School Board to send their children to the Princess Elizabeth High School.

There are about six Protestant students attending Roman Catholic elementary schools in the area. And in this situation, the Protestant School Board has to pay the Roman Catholic School Board $275 per child.

Roland Laforest, chairman of the Roman Catholic School

By PETER VERRAL
(Record Staff Reporter)

Board explained the $25 difference in the prices between the two Boards. He said the Catholic School Board charges $25 more than the Protestant one because, "it is larger and consequently needs more money to operate."

He suggested one reason may be that each of the school boards arrived at their figure independent of each other.

Mr. Hodge outlined a number of reasons why the English-speaking Catholic students have come to his school. "There have been a large number of mixed marriages in Magog," he said, and added that some parents believe their children will get a better grounding in science and technology here. Last Spring, some Catholic parents petitioned their school board to allow their children to attend Princess Elizabeth High School.

What about religious education? This apparently doesn't raise any problems. Mr.

Hodge said Roman Catholic students may be exempt from religious instruction, and there has been an effort to de-emphasize the importance of this instruction for Protestant students. He added that Protestant students may also be exempt.

For those students wishing religious instruction in the first three years, a Catholic teacher and a Protestant teacher respectively instruct their own study classes.

Miss Beryl Beckwith, who has taught at Princess Elizabeth High School for 15 years, sees no radical difference in teaching methods under the new system.

"Catholic and Protestant students are both taught the same way. I suppose it does give some of the Catholic students a better opportunity as we have a larger school here than the one they were in before," she said.

About 50 or 60 students from grades one to six transferred to the Princess Elizabeth High School last September from the Francois Hertel elementary school in Magog.

There has been one headache in the new system, according to Mr. Hodge, and this can be found in the operation of the school buses.

He said that sometimes the Catholic students are picked up by buses from the Protestant School Board, while at other times they are taken to school by Roman Catholic School Board buses. "The problem is, that we don't have enough buses," Mr. Hodge explained.

Going to church isn't enough

Spiritual deepening is the process by which people must go beyond mere church membership so that they may see the real meaning of the word Christian, the North American director of the Bible and Medical Missionary Fellowship said in an interview Friday.

"The word Christian," said Rev. Mariano Di Gangi, in Sherbrooke to lecture for the Christian Discipleship Campaign held in the evenings at St. Andrew's Church, "is far more than going through a daily routine, but is a down-to-earth following of Christ in the 20th Century."

He said the reasons for the lack of Christian ideals now is because of the break-down of the family, the lower standard of morality and the internal and international struggle prevalent in the world today.

"The root of all today's problems," he said, "lies in the fact that there is a great almost nonchalant disrespect for law and authority in all levels of society."

"Rebellion against authority is inexcusable," he said emphatically, "for man must first of all fulfill his own personal duties toward God, of which the major precept is love of his fellow man."

He said today's rebel is tomorrow conservative in speaking of the racial problem in the United States.

He said his church in Philadelphia sponsored an open-door policy to all races and colors and that when he left the parish a great number of his congregation were Negroes who were happy with the arrangement.

On the subject of birth control, he said the Presbyterian Church was 100 per cent for some type of family planning but that it detested the idea of abortion to limit a family.

"In Vietnam," he said, "the church would like to see the war come to an end at the conference table but I myself firmly believe that the United States should exert more pressure to force the Viet Cong into submission."

Suggests car serial numbers be removed from hearsay area

Sherbrooke court of sessions Judge Redmond Hayes Friday recommended that the Canada

Evidence Act be amended to remove testimony on the serial numbers of cars from the area of hearsay evidence.

The recommendation came in judgment handed down which found Real McDermott, guilty of being in possession of a stolen car.

During the trial, the defence lawyer raised the point that the testimony regarding serial numbers of cars is hearsay evidence, and as such, inadmissible.

Judge Hayes, quoting precedents from British jurisprudence, agreed with the defence, but pointed out that under modern conditions, the law should allow serial numbers to be admitted in the same way that information pertaining to bank records and registrations are presently admitted.

He said he based his decision to find McDermott guilty on other considerations besides the evidence of the serial numbers.

McDermott is scheduled to be sentenced Oct. 23.

Judge Hayes referred to a ruling in England in the case of Meyers versus Director of Public Prosecution in which a majority of four lords to two voted against the admission of serial number evidence, principally because it did not fall "within any recognized exception to the rule against the admissibility of hearsay evidence."

The ruling was analyzed by Lord Reid who said, "The reason why this evidence is maintained to have been inadmissible is that its cogency depends on hearsay."

"The witness could only say that a record made by someone else showed that, if the record was correctly made, a car had left the works bearing these particular numbers."

"He could not prove that the record was correct or that the numbers which it contained were in fact the numbers on the car when it was made."

Lord Reid said, "No matter how cogent particular evidence may seem to be, unless it comes within a class which is admissible, it is excluded."

Lord Morris of Borth said, concerning the ruling, "That which is not evidence is not to be made evidence by saying that if it were evidence it would confirm other evidence."

The British law in this matter was subsequently changed.

Judge Hayes said that the only way serial numbers could be admitted as evidence under Canada's law would be to have the employee who placed the serial numbers on the car at the factory where the car was made come to the court and testify.

He said this would be practically impossible because of the manner in which the cars today are mass produced.

He said that the factory's records could be wrong and it was impossible to verify them so the serial numbers are considered as hearsay evidence.

Levesque resigns from Liberal party

The defeat of Rene Levesque's proposal for a sovereign Quebec and his subsequent resignation from the provincial Liberal party Saturday should complete the process of evaluation and re-grouping through which the Lesage party has been going since it lost the last Federal election.

The "maitre chez nous" slogan which vaulted the provincial Liberals to power initially has always been a source of uncertainty and confusion, not only in the minds of the voters, but within the party itself.

At the beginning of the Liberal revival, there was no clear cut idea about whether or not separatism as such could be a viable policy or whether it could even be an honest point of view for a political philosophy.

In the so-called quiet revolution Levesque and his supporters were determined to lead, it seemed necessary at the time to accommodate all kinds of possible theories; all manner of potential loyalties.

But since that time, and especially since the Union Nationale victory in the last election, opinion — both public and political — has crystallized on more precise aims and trends.

The practical problems Quebec must solve at this time in many fields — education, labor, health, industry to name a few — are far too pressing for any major party to allow itself to be preoccupied with issues that appear as largely academic.

democratic to the average Quebecer who worries about his children's schooling, his job prospects and his doctor's bills.

Mr. Lesage has been making it clear for the past few months that his party has removed separatism from the area of possibilities his party might want to consider. On the contrary, he has said the Liberal party is anti-separatist, that is, actively against the idea of a sovereign Quebec.

If there were any doubts that in this policy, Mr. Lesage has the support of the great bulk of Liberal party members, those doubts were removed over the weekend. Mr. Levesque himself, apparently was not completely convinced until Saturday. His resignation, then, was an acknowledgment of the obvious. The Liberal party no longer has room in its ranks for the kind of views Mr. Levesque espouses.

Where this leaves Mr. Levesque is uncertain at the moment. He says he will not join the known separatist parties, but will sit in the legislature as an independent.

But the developments of the weekend leave the Union Nationale and Liberal parties in agreement on the separatist question, if we read Mr. Johnson's statement of last week correctly.

This means that between the two major Quebec parties, separatism no longer exists as a political issue. In any campaigning, both parties join forces in opposing the RIN and other splinter separatist groups.

Say you never gamble? Think again. Do you Always look both ways before cross the street?

Men, like hens, need a goal in life

One hesitates to state that the moral problem concerned with nest eggs is as critical to the nation's welfare as bikinis, apple pies with insufficient juice, or wily parsley tossed over good meats and mashed potatoes.

The idea behind a porcelain or wooden egg is to stimulate biddy to lay more eggs. Psychologists tell us that we need a stimulus to produce a response. Grandmother always insisted that the hens laid better if a nest egg was in each nest. Grandfather pooh-poohed the idea and claimed that when a hen was ready to deposit her day's contribution, she did not need any outside stimulus.

Around the stove in the general store, straight-faced farmers and villagers discussed the philosophy of the situation when they had exhausted such topics as the road agent, new-fangled ideas in education, and whether horseless carriages would ever amount to anything.

Basically, a hen, like a man, needs a goal to live a satisfying life. Some hens, like some men, are inclined to take life as easily as possible and it may be that a nest egg is just the stimulus needed to achieve results.

There is a moral here if one can corner it. This is the time of year when tasks need to be done. A hen should lay an egg and a man should clean out the garage and straighten up the cellar. Hens naturally lay more eggs as spring comes on, but we are not certain that men grow more industrious. All factors considered, the countryman is in favor of nest eggs. We see nothing morally wrong in stimulating various forms of animal life to achieve worthwhile results.

Other papers say:

First things first in air travel

Things are expected to happen soon in the transport department now that it is headed by Hon. Paul Hellyer. That is the general feeling among political observers based on the minister's performance in the defence department.

It is understood that Mr. Hellyer sees his first task as completing the modernization of air travel facilities. This is said to involve as a first step the building of a high-speed monorail between Malton Airport and downtown Toronto. Subsequently, similar systems would be constructed in Montreal, Winnipeg and Vancouver, where airports are far from the cities.

The idea of improving connections to airports makes a lot of sense in cases where the terminals are located so far out of a city that air travellers can spend as much time getting to and from them as they do in the air.

But the costs of such a program would be tremendous. The question must be asked whether they can be afforded at this particular time when so much basic work remains to be done to improve the general level of the country's air transportation facilities.

The Calgary air terminal, for example, is awaiting replacement. This project is essential and has been so long delayed now that it should be treated on an emergency basis. The new, enlarged terminal that is needed to serve Calgary's needs will not be built for any small amount of money.

With work of this nature waiting to be done, it would be premature for the minister to begin planning and building costly monorail systems to serve cities which already have adequate air terminal facilities.

Vancouver university finds

Automated teaching saves money

BURNABY, B.C. (CP)—Offices and wires. Officials at Simon Fraser University in this Vancouver suburb, where first-year biology students receive their instruction through a combination of automated teaching methods from a combination of film loop projectors, models and tape recorders, slide projectors, and television sets.

Dr. John Ellis, head of the department, says the university's automated biological sciences laboratory offers more efficient of biology which are keyed to a learning at a saving of at least $100,000 on building costs over $2,000,000 on building costs over $20 years.

"We tend to think of education in terms of bricks and mortar and lectures and laboratories," he says. "But I think we have demonstrated at SFU that it is possible to think of education in terms of wheels, week in groups of 10 with a professor for discussion."

Don Nelson, head of the biological sciences department, says the method is based on recognition that different kinds of learning occur through different sensory organs.

For example, persons don't learn how to operate sophisticated scientific equipment just through a visual description because this is too fast. They need to hear instructions.

"The trick is to combine all sorts of signals," Mr. Nelson says. "This is really the guts of the whole thing—that and the student having control over his own rate of learning."

He says the result is that students learn faster and better.

Once considered the best

Soviet spy's penetration marks low point in UK Secret Service

LONDON — (TNS) — Sir Francis Walsingham, the brilliant Elizabethan diplomat who founded the British Secret Service in the 16th century, must be fairly spinning in his grave. For with the latest revelations made by Harold (Kim) Philby, the traitor now living in Moscow, the reputation of Britain's Intelligence Service has sunk to a new low.

And what a downfall it has been! For over 400 years British spies were held to be the best in the world — even without the help of James Bond. The British Intelligence Service was so well thought of even some 40 years ago, that Heinrich Himmler, the SS boss, built up the terrifying Nazi secret service network on the "English model."

Ever since the end of the last war we have been reading about the failures of Western intelligence, the fumbblings of the CIA over Cuba, the woe-filled tales of traitors like Fuchs, Bruno Pontecorvo, Vassal, George Blake, Guy Burgess and Donald MacLean, all spying for their Russian masters; and how our most jealously guarded secrets have been passed to Moscow.

But none of these compares to the astonishing story of Kim Philby who, like Walsingham so many years ago, was a product of Cambridge University. The way in which Philby was allowed to operate demonstrated quite clearly just how miserably the method of recruitment and the "Old Boy" network, based on traditional class snobbery, has completely discredited British intelligence.

Perhaps the key to most Western intelligence failures rests squarely on the shoulders of Philby, the public schoolboy son of a distinguished explorer and one-time private advisor to King Ibn Saud.

Within a few months of leaving university in the Thirties, Philby became a confirmed Communist and was recruited by the Russians to "penetrate British intelligence no matter how long it took him."

Spy at the top

And how Philby succeeded must surely be more astonishing than any story of fiction. For this dedicated Communist, by exploiting his intelligence and ruthlessness as well as the weaknesses inherent in the British Secret Service setup, became by far the most important Soviet agent ever to penetrate the Western intelligence system.

He was groomed as head of Britain's Secret Service network and, as a link man with the CIA, Philby had almost total knowledge at one stage of all Western intelligence operations.

When the spy George Blake was arrested in Britain and it was revealed that he was responsible for the death of at least 40 men and women working behind the Iron Curtain for the West, the shock was great. But the damage which Philby did to democracy was far greater and perhaps will never fully be known.

At the outbreak of World War II Philby was placed in the counter-espionage section of MI-6. This is a body of super spies whose delicate job is to find out what the opponent knows and then act to neutralize this knowledge. And in order to do this successfully, a trusted agent of MI-6 has to be told who are the spies. In his own side, what they are up to and just what they have managed to find out about the enemy.

By DENNIS EISENBERG

An 'old boy'

What explains Philby's meteoric rise to fame? The Observer, which was fooled into employing Philby as a journalist when he was still working as a British agent, says his success was due to the complacent values of a "ruling elite bound together by a friendly 'Old Boy' network."

Philby hated this network, this class system. But he understood it perfectly from his student days at Cambridge and he exploited it brilliantly. As the Evening Standard states: "Phrases like he's all right, he's one of us and he has the right background" ensured that Philby was able to operate as a Russian agent at the heart of British intelligence for many years.

The Daily Mirror put it more bluntly when it said "the skunk spies are the well educated, well bred, well spoken, well heeled, well met, bridge-playing and chess-playing types who under the protection of the 'Old Boy' network, lie, cheat and betray their friends."

The super spy Philby, who for all these years was regularly passing information to Moscow, was in Britain being tipped as a possible chief of MI-6 itself. In 1949 Philby was sent to Washington as Chief of British Intelligence. Obviously his masters were getting their protégé ready for the highest post in the British spy world. His task was to liaise with the CIA, the FBI and other American intelligence services. At that time the British Secret Service was still held in the highest regard by the Americans and important information known to both London and Washington was channelled through Philby.

For instance, when the Russians exploded their first atomic bomb in 1949 Philby was in command of transmitting all the vital top level Anglo-American exchanges, and naturally enough the Russians were informed a little later just what the West knew — and herein lies Philby's importance to Moscow.

When Burgess and MacLean, also Cambridge men and part of the "Old Boy" network, defected to the East in 1951, grave suspicions were aroused about Philby. Burgess had been recruited by Philby in 1933 and was living in his house in Washington. When MacLean, head of the American department of the British Foreign Office, was about to be interrogated as a Russian spy, he was given an advance tipoff by Philby through Burgess.

In 1953 when Labor MP Marcus Lipton got up in Parliament and actually named Philby as the mysterious "third Man" who had warned the two traitors about their coming arrest, the "Old Boy" network was seen in action again.

"Such a fine chap from Cambridge could never do such a thing. He's one of us," said his pals, and even the Prime Minister, Harold MacMillan, was misled, for he rose in Parliament to defend Philby and tell the world of his innocence.

But the Americans, cads to the last, who had none of the advantages of British public school education, would have nothing further to do with Philby and ever since have kept their distance from the whole of British intelligence.

Not Philby!

Skilfully he worked his way back into the heart of Western intelligence. And it came as the greatest shock to his friends in Whitehall when, in 1961, a high level Soviet intelligence officer defected to the West to reveal that Philby had been spying for the Communists.

The game was up, but even then British agents let two years elapse before taking action against Philby. Either they could not or would not stop him, and he fled to Moscow where today, unrepentant, he is an honored Russian guest. Little wonder, for Philby must surely rate as one of the most successful espionage agents — or traitors — of all time.

Naturally the British spy chiefs are now doing everything they can to play down the importance of Philby's work for the Russians and the harm he did to Western intelligence.

A former head of MI-6, Sir Steward Menzies, says, "I do not believe that Philby was of much use to the Russians. He could not have done half the damage people say because he was never very big in the organization." Menzies, who was Philby's chief, adds, "Nobody had any idea Philby was working for the Russians. He must have been very clever to have avoided being detected but he was only a small fry."

THE WEAKNESS

Blake started giving secrets to the Russians in 1951, the same year that Philby tipped off Burgess and MacLean. He spied for 10 years for Moscow and is believed to have betrayed some of Britain's finest foreign agents to the Communists. In fact Blake was very much like Philby in the sense that he worked for British Naval Intelligence at the end of the war and was a secret service agent from then onwards.

Grenville Wynne, a British agent operating under the guise of a businessman, was tipped by the Russians after helping British intelligence pull off one of the biggest triumphs — the recruiting of Colonel Oleg Penkovsky, the Soviet intelligence officer, to spy for the West. Tightlipped security still clouds the information gleaned from Penkovsky, but it is known that he spilled a lot of interesting Russian beans. The Communists shot him.

CLEVELAND — The October meeting of the Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. Gordon Healy with the president, Mrs. E. G. Fletcher, presiding.

The sum of $10 was voted towards the St. Francis High School hot lunch fund, and two silver dollars were presented to Mrs. Carl Banfill for her new baby daughter.

Mrs. Walter Osborne held a dinner menu contest with Mrs. Alfred Smith winning first prize.

Sunshine convener, Miss Minnie Stamp was asked to send a box to a member who is ill in the hospital.

The president reminded the members that the date for the county meeting is postponed to November 9, and it will be held in the St. Francis High School.

An auction sale of remnants netted $4.90 and a drawing on a piece of silk brought in $2.25, Mrs. Alfred Smith being the lucky winner.

Mrs. Gordon Healy served refreshments at the close of the meeting.

TODAY IN HISTORY

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Oct. 16, 1967 . . .

The RCMP patrol vessel St. Roch reached Vancouver 34 years ago today—in 1934—after an 86-day voyage from Halifax through the Northwest Passage. She thus became the only vessel to have made the northern crossing in both directions. In 1940 she had left Vancouver June 23, reaching Halifax Oct. 11, 1942, after spending two winters locked in Arctic ice.

1690—An English assault was repulsed by French forces at Quebec.

1710—Port Royal in Nova Scotia was captured from the French by British troops.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1917—German forces completed the capture of Oesel Island in the Gulf of Riga; Germany's first major land victory in the war. A German bomber, Nancy, a fortified French city on the Western Front; a bill authorizing the formation of a British air ministry was introduced in the House of Commons.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1942—the British admiralty announced the sinking of three German supply ships and the damaging of four in the Mediterranean by British submarines; Germany's first major gains on a one-mile front in Stalingrad's northern suburbs; Japanese landed reinforcements on Guadalcanal.

Russian Revolution

Czarism died without a whimper

By AARON EINFRAK

The Russian Revolution and the resulting birth of Communism provide such epic material that it would probably require an artist with the combined talents of Homer, Shakespeare, and Tolstoy to do the story justice. The stage for the epic was truly grandiose — the Czarist empire, a vast territory stretching from the Baltic to the Pacific, encompassing 170,000,000 people who spoke 200 languages.

'DIVINE RIGHT' The dominant nationality in the empire was the Russian people who numbered slightly less than half of the total population. Over the centuries, powerful rulers like Ivan the Terrible and Peter the Great had extended the domain of the empire until it straddled Europe and Asia like a goliath.

The ruler of "all the Russias" was the czar, a man whose power was only to be exceeded by Hitler and Stalin. In 1905 an abortive revolution had wrung some minor concessions from Czar Nicholas II, including an almost impotent parliament (called the Duma). However, in 1917 Nicholas was still determined to maintain "divine right" rule no matter what the cost.

On the social side, Russia had grave problems. The serfs had only been freed in the 1860s and much land was owned by a few big landowners. A vast gulf separated the agrarian masses and the ruling classes. The former lived in poverty and ignorance. Education was neglected until the very last years of the czarist regime.

The ruling nobles and middle class were generally educated, Europeanized or Westernized types in contrast to the agrarian and industrial masses whose culture was almost non-existent by Western standards.

The best way to understand the class problem is to imagine a United States in which 85 percent of the people are poor Negroes and the remainder are rich whites. The US has a serious race-class problem today with only 10 to 15 percent of its population Negro, but it's nothing to what the class situation was in Russia in 1917.

Although the gulf separating the class was so serious as to resemble the black-white racial cleavage, there were, in addition to this class problem purely racial and nationalist problems besetting the empire. Many groups were unhappy in a system which was essentially Russian in culture and language. These groups included the Jews, Poles, Baltic peoples, Moslems, Asians of the Far East, Ukrainians, and many others.

Throughout the empire the peasants hungered for land. The workers in the incipient but booming industrial centres were experiencing the same sort of injustice that went on in Western countries during the early stages of industrialization; i.e. low wages, long hours, poor working conditions.

The Russian Orthodox Church, the state church, was powerful as well as corrupt. It was all too allied with the ruling classes and not responsive enough to the masses (although there were some exceptions, notable the priest Father Gapon who played a key role in the 1905 revolt). Nevertheless, Russia was — and is — a religious country. A new religion had to be found, and that religion turned out to be Communism.

The unpopularity of the royal family, particularly the German-born wife of the czar, was an important element in the disintegration of the Czarist regime. Nicholas II is generally regarded as a good man who could not cope with the problems of his era — probably because his personality contained the impossible contradiction of autocratic behavior combined with childlike weakness. Lenin and Stalin were to give Russia the stern masters she needed.

Yet in spite of all the weaknesses of the Czarist empire, it is probable the regime would have survived 1917 had it not been for the decisive factor in the tragedy — World War I.

The war was never really popular among the Russian masses. The Russian will fight to protect his homeland as the wars against Hitler and Napoleon show, but imperialistic wars are another matter.

The czarist regime committed Russia to the inferno of World War I for a number of reasons: the hope that the war would solidify the country and heal its socio-economic problems; dreams of imperial aggrandisement, including seizure of the Turkish Dardanelles; the hope that the prestige lost in the disastrous Russo-Japanese war of 1904-05 would be recouped; and finally, the treaties which Russia had signed with her allies, Britain and France, which committed her to join the anti-German crusade.

The war found the army badly led and organized, still suffering from the mutinies and defeats of the 1904-05 period. By 1917 the army and navy were disintegrating under the impact of tremendous losses and revolutionary propaganda.

This is how Hindenburg, the German commander who smashed the Russians at Tannenberg, described Russian losses.

"In the great war ledger, the page on which Russian losses were written has been torn out. No one knows the figures. Five or eight million? All we know is that sometimes in our battles with the Russians we had to remove mounds of enemy corpses before our trenches in order to get a clear field of fire against assaulting waves. Imagination may try to reconstruct the figure of their losses, but an accurate calculation will remain forever a vain thing."

In 1917 under the pressure of the war the social, political and economic fabric began to shred. This gave the revolutionary groups, of which the Bolsheviks were only one, a golden opportunity to overthrow the government. German money and encouragement further bolstered the revolutionaries.

The Czarist government was dedicated to keeping Russia in the war on the side of the allies; Germany was counting on the change that a successor regime would sue for a separate peace with Berlin. Such a peace would release many German and Austrian divisions on the Russian front for use in the West against the allies. (Lenin, the No. 1 advocate of a separate peace, was eventually to return to Russia from Switzerland in a sealed train provided by the German government.)

In January and February of 1917, strikes, demonstrations and troop mutinies — sparked by lack of food and fuel — created a state of virtual anarchy in St. Petersburg, the capital.

In one of the greatest anticlimaxes of all times, the Czar of all the Russias, the most powerful ruler of his time, meekly abdicated. Czarism died with not so much as a whimper.

The middle class liberals, democratic socialists and enlightened nobles who took over the government in March had dreams of a parliamentary democracy similar to those in the West.

Today, 50 years after the fall of the liberal provisional government headed by Alexander Kerensky, this dream of democracy looks as fantastic to a realist as it must have looked in 1917 to the realist nonpareil, Vladimir Ilyich Lenin. Russia needed stronger medicine than democracy could provide. Lenin knew this and this is why he won.

LESAGE SPEAKS — Opposition Leader Jean Lesage made an opening address at the annual meeting of the Quebec

Liberal Federation in Quebec City Friday night. He told delegates that their choice is between his form of federalism and Rene Levesque's form of separatism. Eric Kierans, federation president is seen in the foreground. (CP Wirephoto)

Levesque supporters neither separatists nor federalists

QUEBEC (CP)—Former Quebec Liberal Rene Levesque's little band of supporters at the annual meeting of the Quebec Liberal Federation insist that they are not separatists.

Most intend to quit the Quebec Liberal party, but no one interviewed during the week-end meeting said he would join either of Quebec's two separatist political parties.

Mr. Levesque resigned from the Liberal party Saturday following the federation's rejection of his plea for Quebec to become a sovereign state within a Canadian economic union.

His supporters seem to feel they form the nucleus of a new ideological formation which may eventually lead to a new political party.

They say they are neither separatists nor federalists.

The hard-core group around Mr. Levesque appeared to number no more than 40 Saturday during the debate on his proposal for a sovereign Quebec state.

Key members were Marc Briere, 38, Rosaire Beaulieu, 37, Andre Brossard, 39, all Montreal lawyers, and Reginald Savoie, 38, a law professor from University of Montreal.

Several young Liberals and some volunteers who were not members of the Liberal party also worked for Mr. Levesque at the annual meeting.

Mr. Briere, 12-year-old in the Liberal party, says he is quitting but has no intention of joining the separatist party, le Rassemblement pour l'indépendance nationale.

"I'm not all interested in the RIN," he said. "We are not separatists. They wanted to label us separatists but it's not as simple as that."

Mr. Briere, who favors establishment of two associated states, says no separatist party envisages anything like what Mr. Levesque wants for Quebec.

WANTS LINK WITH CANADA

The former Liberal cabinet minister advocates "l'union canadienne," an administrative association linking Quebec and the rest of Canada.

Mr. Levesque himself said the word "separatist" was used like a club to beat down his sovereign state idea.

"There is a means of separating to unite," he said, but did not elaborate.

Mr. Levesque's union would eliminate the elected federal government, replacing federal links with administrative agreements like a common market relationship.

None of the young Liberals interviewed said he would join the RIN, Quebec's No. 1 separatist party, or le Rassemblement national, the other separatist party.

Is ordered to trial on charge of theft

SWEETSBURG WARD — (Staff) — Antoine Vallee, Granby, was ordered Friday to the next session of the Bedford District Assizes by Judge Guy Genest, following preliminary hearing on a charge of theft.

Vallee was accused of having stolen three nine by twelve foot rugs from Peters Textiles, Granby, September 27, valued at $140 each.

The Crown produced three witnesses. Vallee stood mute at voluntary statement, and defence counsel Gilles Theriault said that they would not produce defence witnesses at the trial. Vallee was released on $500 cash bail.

Roger Piette, 21, Cowansville, accused of being a member of the trio that robbed Peters Textiles with Vallee, pleaded guilty to the charge. He will be sentenced November 7, when his trial dates before a Judge will be determined, on charges of abduction and undertaking carnal knowledge of a woman of under 14 who is not his wife.

Herve Descheneau, of St. Joachim, pleaded guilty to a charge of impaired driving in Waterloo on October 10. He was fined $75 and costs or 30 days in jail, and prohibited from driving in Canada for three months.

Francois Laquerre, Montreal, pleaded guilty to a charge of being in care and control of a motor vehicle while his faculties were impaired by alcohol.

in Bonsecours, July 29. He was fined $50 and costs or 30 days in jail.

Robert Houle, Lachine, was found guilty in absentia of fishing on Lake Orford July 2, without a licence. He was fined $10 and costs, or eight days in jail.

Germain Laliberte, Actonville, who pleaded guilty to charges of cattle theft before Mr. Justice Louis-Philippe Cliche, October 6, was sentenced Thursday to seven days imprisonment dating from October 6.

Judge Cliche told Laliberte that he was benefitting from the clemency of the court, only because he had made full financial restitution to the farmers whose cattle were stolen.

He told Laliberte that his was a case of youthful folly, and that he could not be considered a thief, though the crime was dire in relation to the condition of local farmers.

Judge Cliche told Laliberte that restitution has always been one of the basics of law, since no robber should be allowed freedom prior to serving the full sentence imposed by the courts, unless some form of restitution had been made.

Judge Cliche then pointed out that organized crime, benefitting from robberies, had the funds to entice young people into a life of crime, through luring them with "alcohol, women and narcotics." He further said, that many of the youngsters serving terms for robberies, would be less easily enticed if they realized that they would have to serve full sentences, unless restitution had been made.

Defence counsel Claude Leveille submitted proof that full restitution had been made.

Gets month in jail for attempted rape

SWEETSBURG WARD — (Staff) — The first jury trial at the Bedford District Assizes took place Thursday with Jean-Yves Robichaud, 22, Granby, charged with attempted rape in Granby Canton, December 11, 1966, Mister Justice Louis-Philippe Cliche presiding.

Following selection of the veniremen, Robichaud pleaded guilty. Judge Cliche then instructed the jury to elect a foreman, and return a verdict of guilty, the only possible conclusion following the plea.

Crown Prosecutor Claude Noisieux then told the bench that there were mitigating circumstances in the case.

Defence counsel Jean Marquis told Justice Cliche that his client had realized the gravity of his crime through his plea of guilt. He said that the victim attempted to have the charges dropped two days after the event, but too late as the due process of law must be served. He told the bench that Robichaud had an excellent record as an employee, with a responsible position, adding that in all probability, his employers would retain his services after he has paid his debt to society. He said that the mere self-recognition of the gravity of the charge was an excellent indication of possibilities of complete rehabilitation.

Mr. Marquis said the fact that he will have a criminal record would be a strong deterrent towards similar acts, and that a minimal sentence in the case would properly serve the needs of society.

Judge Cliche, prior to rendering sentence, told Robichaud that he had committed a heinous crime. He then told the jurors not to be too critical of sentences, as in the case of first offenders such as Robichaud, long prison terms are a detriment to society in the end.

Mr. Justice Cliche told the jurors and Robichaud that the longer prisoners spend in prison, the more corrupt they become, as nobody improves in jail.

He told Robichaud that he must be sentenced. Justice Cliche then imposed the thirty days recommended by the crown, adding at the request of the defence that it be served in the Bedford District jail.

The codicil is a result of a delay in construction of new cells at the Sweetburg Jail. The delay is caused by the lack of a retaining wall along the shores of the artificial lake, a responsibility of the Town of Cowansville. All prisoners serving more than seven days are normally sent to Bordeaux.

Judge Cliche urged the jury members, as citizens, to urge the completion of the work as soon as possible. He then suggested that Crown Prosecutor Claude Noisieux should attempt to have completion of the construction expedited.

Mrs. Madeleine Mailhot, 1182 St. Hubert St., Montreal, Quebec, is going on the shopping spree of her life! And that should be easy with $10,000 in her pocket... thanks to Peter Jackson!

Mrs. Mailhot found her lucky $10,000 cash certificate in a package of Peter Jackson last week. "When I picked up the package, I had a feeling it might be a 'lucky' one... but I never dreamed it could be as lucky as this!" Mrs. Mailhot said that she was absolutely speechless for five minutes. "All I could do was stare at the certificate! I just couldn't say a thing... I've never won anything before and this surprise was too exciting for words!"

When asked about her good fortune, Mrs. Mailhot said, "At first I thought I had found a one thousand dollar certificate. But when I looked again and saw it was a ten thousand dollar one, I just couldn't believe my eyes... I never thought anyone could win so much money at once!" But she did, and so can you!

District meeting held by Yamaska Legion

GRANBY — (SM) — The Royal Canadian Legion Yamaska Valley District No. 9 held its District Meeting on October 8 at the Granby Legion Hall.

The meeting was opened by District Commander T. J. Doucet, of Knowlton, and during the ritual opening of the meeting a few moments silence was observed in memory of the late Roger Morrisette, the recent Past District Commander, who passed away very suddenly shortly after relinquishing his post as District Commander to T. J. Doucet.

The following branches were represented at the meeting, Brome No. 23, Farnham No. 38, Granby No. 56, Shefford No. 77, Richelieu No. 79, Phillipsburg No. 82, Cowansville No. 90, Sutton Branch being the only absentee.

Considerable Legion business was transacted at district and Branch Level, all branches reporting that they are in full preparation for the forthcoming Remembrance Day ceremonies and poppy campaign.

One of the highlights of the meeting was the proposed chartering of an aircraft for a charter Legion flight to England early in 1969.

There are already several tentative bookings for this opportunity for veterans and their families to visit England and Europe at considerably reduced rates.

District Commander Doucet reported fully on the recently held Legion Clinic in North Hatley, stating that much good will come from this clinic, to all veterans.

There were some suggestions at this clinic of changing the official date of Remembrance Day, from November 11th to a date in the early summer, but this was rejected, as November 11 has been observed as Armistice Day, and now Remembrance Day since 1919, and there was much opposition to any change in the date.

The next District Meeting will be held at Shefford Branch, Waterloo, on a date yet to be announced in January or February 1968.

During the meeting, the Ladies' Auxiliary of Granby branch entertained the visiting Ladies to a trip to the zoo, and on their return to the hall, a buffet supper was served by the host branch to the visitors.

The official delegates, fraternal representatives, members of the Ladies' Auxiliary from the entire district attended and were welcomed by the President of Granby Branch, Monty Harris.

US makes pressure for reforms in S. Vietnam

SAIGON (AP)—American officials believe that for the first time they have successfully forced South Vietnam's leaders into some major reforms.

But U.S. sources say the reforms have only scratched the surface. Much depends, they say, on how the new regime of President-elect Nguyen Van Thieu and Vice-President-elect Nguyen Cao Ky behaves.

U.S. pressure for reform is believed to include placing Thieu's junta on notice that the U.S. would not tolerate any attempt to brush aside the country's newly-elected Congress in favor of rule by decree.

A qualified source described both Thieu and Ky as reform-minded but would not extend this description to the rest of the officers making up the present military government.

Recent evidence of effective U.S. pressure, one source said, was the removal of six province chiefs and from 40 to 50 district chiefs on charges of corruption and incompetence. Yet there were signs that at least some of the dismissals were the result of personal rivalries rather than a desire for good government.

In a parallel development, reliable sources said U.S. and Vietnamese officials have worked out a major overhaul of the much-criticized pacification program to win over the countryside from the Communists.

The plan gives Maj. Gen. Nguyen Duc Thang, regarded by U.S. officials as hard-working, shrewd and incorruptible, greater powers to carry out the program. U.S. sources believe he may be able to claim honest success in 80 per cent of 1,100 hamlets where he has started pacification work.

Thang, father of the latest pacification program but apparently waning in influence several months ago, will become deputy chief of the joint general staff and de facto commander of the territorial security forces. He will have wide powers to weed out corrupt regional officials.

Christening of baby held at West Shefford

WEST SHEFFORD — The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Maguire was christened on Sept. 24 at St. Francis Xavier Church, by Rev. J. M. Benoit, receiving the names, Shon Patrick.

Godparents were Mary Ellen Maguire and Jean-Pierre Coiteux, aunt and uncle of the infant.

The baby is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Maguire of Stanbridge East and Mr. and Mrs. Rosaire Coiteux of Marieville, and is a great-grandson of Mr. and Mrs. James Campbell of Waterloo.

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Maguire entertained for the godparents and other relatives.

Business Women's Week begins today

Working women accept new challenges

Women in today's labor force are accepting new and exciting challenges as their role is becoming increasingly important in the overall economy of Canada.

First of all — what is a challenge? Let us think of it as something active — and in accepting a new challenge, let us prove that we are prepared to do something about it.

What challenges are there in the working world of women?

The woman in modern business has first of all the challenge of acting in such a way in her business and professional life that other women who work will benefit from her conduct.

This calls for putting forth her best ideas and efforts to further the work she does so that she may reasonably expect such efforts to better the positions of all women in whatever field of work.

She can't go around with a chip on her shoulder in defence of women. But, by the same token, she must not let generalities and myths about her sex go unchallenged.

Her task is to be able to take teasing about her stand on a fair break for women and at the same time be able to set the record straight with the facts.

Then, too, there is the challenge of educating men and women to the fact that women are people.

For instance what do you say when you hear such expressions as "doesn't that sound like a woman" or "that's what you'd expect from a woman"?

Do you ask (in your charming manner) what a man would do in similar circumstances?

There is the challenge of helping women realize that they can do anything they make up their minds to do.

Today's working women can do this by example and by words of encouragement.

Women should be taking greater responsibilities in all areas of their lives, work, play and community or club service.

We have all seen women grow into the bigger jobs they undertake — it is the responsibility of today's career woman to encourage old, the rich, the poor, the married and the single as well as the illiterate and the college educated.

Labor saving devices, the trek from houses to apartments, shorter work hours, vacations, holiday with pay and unemployment insurance have given impetus to the movement.

Married women working in larger numbers than ever before, make up roughly half of Canada's female working force.

But it's not necessarily a case of wives forsaking housework for office or factory. Many have never held the "housewife" title, anyway.

The women's bureau of the labor department once said:

"The basic change is in the marriage pattern of the which now have no bar to married women, have drawn heavily on wives continuing or returning to work.

Although working wives and their single sisters are almost equal in number, most of Canada's married women stay home.

Lucky 13 party held at Border

ROCK ISLAND — The Lucky 13 Christmas Club held the September party at the home of Mrs. George Warren, with eleven members attending.

After a brief business meeting bingo was played. Marathon winners were Mrs. Andre Pepin and Mrs. Ernest Nicholson. Observing birthdays were Mrs. Franklin Miller and Mrs. Fern Langevin, to both of whom good wishes were extended. Mrs. Stewart Smith invited the group to come to her home in Stanstead for the October party.

To round out the pleasant evening, Mrs. Warren served refreshments.

MAGOG PUBLIC NOTICE

VALUATION ROLL

PUBLIC NOTICE is hereby given, that the valuation roll for the year commencing the first of January, nineteen-sixty-eight (1968), and prepared by the municipal estimators is now completed and deposited at the office of the secretary-treasurer, this 12th day of October 1967.

Said valuation roll shall remain open for the inspection of those interested or their representatives until Thursday, the 16th day of November 1967.

During such time, any persons having reasons to complain against this Roll as prepared, either for himself or another person may appeal to the City Council by giving for such a purpose, a written notice to the secretary-treasurer, stating the grounds of his complaint, and if he complains against the valuation of his property being too high, he shall mention in his notice the amount which he considers to be adequate. The said notice must reach the City Clerk on or before November 16th, 1967, at 5 o'clock p.m.

Complainants will be advised in writing, of the day and the hour when their protest will be considered by the Board of Revision appointed by the City Council. They may then appear in support of their protests or be represented.

Given at Magog, this 12th day of October 1967.

Ontario campaigning winds up

TORONTO (CP)—Campaigning for Tuesday's general election in Ontario virtually wound up during the weekend with provincial party leaders home to stay until the results are known.

They'll be doing some handshaking and visiting in their home ridings, but as Liberal Leader Robert Nixon replied Saturday when asked if he thought they'd sway many voters in the last 24 hours: "I doubt it."

Mr. Nixon's home riding is Brant, Progressive Conservative Premier John Roberts is at home in London South and Donald Macdonald, leader of the New Democratic Party, is running in the Toronto-area riding of York South.

If indications from the advance poll held Thursday, Friday and Saturday are borne out, a heavier than normal vote can be expected Tuesday.

In general, the advance poll was impressively heavier than in 1963, the last provincial election, with most returning officers reporting sharp increases and some reporting turnouts of double the 1963 total of voters.

SWING EXPECTED

The size of the advance poll, results of which won't be known until after the votes are counted Tuesday night, is leading some observers to look for a swing in affiliation to some degree.

It also is being suggested that a 1966 redistribution, which raised the number of ridings in Ontario to 117 from 108 at dissolution, has generated an interest not shown by the general reaction to speeches by the candidates.

The government has been controlled by the Progressive Conservative party for 24 years, with Mr. Roberts as leader since 1961, and both the NDP and Liberal leaders have strongly suggested that this is too long.

Both played steadily on the theme that the Conservatives have become complacent and withdrawn from the needs of the electorate, Mr. Roberts, describing the economic advancement of the province under Conservative governments, said in effect: "You've never had it so good."

A crisis in housing in Ontario also has been blamed by the opposition leaders on government complacency. They charge that the Conservatives have continually failed to act until situations reached crisis proportions.

POINTS TO HOUSE PLAN

On housing, the premier pointed to the Home Ownership Made Easy plan implemented last summer whereby medium-income families may acquire low-cost housing with a moderate down payment.

Regarding the financial crisis that rocked the province and the nation in the last two years, Mr. Roberts pointed to expanded powers granted the Ontario Securities Commission to investigate alleged inadequate financing of companies and to demand increased information from both established and developing institutions.

Mr. Roberts has attempted throughout the campaign to make national unity a key issue but, while admitting the importance of unity nationally, both Mr. Nixon and Mr. Macdonald have denied that it has a place in a provincial election.

Lennoxville high students hold special day to foster spirit

Lennoxville High School Day was celebrated by LHS students Saturday and throughout the entire day, the purpose of the day was successfully apparent — to foster school spirit.

The day started with a violent thud, as the LHS senior soccer team opposed SHS.

The bounce of the ball was not with LHS as they lost by a score of 3-1.

Following the game, Lennoxville High School students paraded through Lennoxville, from the school grounds to the Optimist Park, and were well received by people on the streets.

A small foreign car in the parade was covered with a poster which read, "Good things come in small packages."

In the car were teachers and a few members of the school board.

At the park, the grade XI boys challenged the teachers to a baseball game which the teachers won by a score of 7-5.

Following the dance, C House cleaned the gymnasium because this was the penalty for the house which came last in the poster competition.

B House, which won this competition, received 25 points towards the athletic plaque which is given at the end of the year to the house with the most points.

Education is a major issue in New Brunswick campaigns

FREDERICTON (CP)—Education has emerged as a major issue in a provincial election campaign which swings into its final week today in New Brunswick.

Although figures are not complete, preliminary lists show 312,531 persons will be eligible to vote next Monday in the province's third general election in seven years.

A good turnout at the polls is anticipated in the wake of a campaign which has been made the liveliest in at least a quarter of a century by Premier Louis J. Robichaud, his Liberal administration's sweeping Program for Equal Opportunity, and Progressive Conservative Leader J. C. Van Horne's almost violent opposition.

Education was one of several major services for which the province assumed financial administrative responsibility Jan. 1 under municipal reform legislation.

SALARY SCALE UNIFORM

The government promptly consolidated the province's 422 school districts into 33—a 34th was added recently—and established a uniform salary scale for teachers.

"We refused as a government and as a province to short-change our children with a second-rate education," the premier says.

"The worn-out schools of yesterday can never do a decent education job for the citizens of tomorrow. That is why we believe that the time has come to change the system."

The Liberals say the 34 larger school districts were necessary to meet a federal government regulation that districts must have a minimum of 600 students in Grades 10 to 12 to qualify for vocational and technical school grants.

However, Mr. Van Horne has pledged that a Conservative government will raise the number of districts to about 60 "to eliminate the long bus rides which many students now endure."

He says federal regulations requiring 600 high school students in each district are only guidelines.

"They are not hard and fast regulations," he says. "You don't have to guarantee there will be 600."

TO GIVE PARENTS VOICE

The Conservatives say they will also give parents "a voice in the education of their children" by establishing a system of electing school trustees in each area, provide financial assistance to students seeking higher education, convene an annual provincial conference on education and settle the "financial plight" of the province's universities.

The premier says his administration has already launched "the greatest program of school building" in the province's history.

"Over $18,000,000 will be spent this year alone on new elementary and secondary schools. It is one of the 10-year plan to build schools adequate for our time and to expand schools to meet rising enrollments."

Standings in the legislature at dissolution Sept. 8 were Liberals 30, PCs 21, with one vacancy. In the last election April 22, 1963, the Liberals elected 32 members, the Conservatives 20.

Redistribution, the first in the province since 1946, has added six new seats, bringing membership in the house to 38.

Report given on leadership at W.I. meeting

EAST ANGUS — The meeting of the Women's Institute was held Sept. 27 at the home of Mrs. Annie Andrews.

The president, Miss Marcon Ord reported on the Cookshire Fair project as well as the centennial variety show held on Sept. 23 at which time the Women's Institute put on a play, and on Sunday Sept. 24 entered a float in the parade.

A discussion was held on the Halloween party and collection for U.N.I.C.E.F. and it was decided to work again with the Catholic Women's League. Miss Ord was to see about getting the hall and Mrs. Joyce, about soft drinks.

The semi-annual meeting is to be held at Scotstown on Oct. 21.

The next meeting will be held at the Institute room in the school.

GENERAL NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Rowland and Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Barrett, Danville, spent the weekend in the New England States.

IRON HILL —

Mr. and Mrs. Yvorston Rabey and daughter, Montreal, were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Swift and daughter, Margo.

The annual turkey supper was held in the church hall on Sept. 30. Over 500 people attended and the young ladies were kept busy waiting on tables. The men carved turkeys at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rodger Mason, who offered their home across from the hall. The Guild members prepared the dishes which were served from the kitchen. Thanks were extended to all who helped, including Rev. W. Davidson.

The Bible Study group held its first meeting at the home of Mrs. Annie Mason. The meeting was conducted by Rev. W. Davidson. Singing, prayers, Bible reading and discussions were held. It is hoped more will join the group. The next meeting will be held Oct. 16 at 8 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Mason.

TINGWICK —

Mr. and Mrs. Georges Daniel and family have moved into their new home which they built on Hamilton Avenue in Danville. They sold their farm recently to Cantin Bros. Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Cantin, Asbestos, are residing there at present.

Mrs. Roland Coyle was recently a patient in the C. J. M. Hospital, Asbestos, for a check-up.

Misses Laurie Jean and Cindy LeRoux were overnight guests of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. D. Kerr in Danville, while their parents attended Expo. Little Miss Bonita LeRoux stayed with Mr. and Mrs. A. LeRoux.

Miss Phyllis Evans, Montreal, spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Evans.

Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Picard spent a day visiting Expo.

THE QUEBEC SCENE

Quebec republic is RN objective

QUEBEC (CP)—An independent republic of Quebec is the goal of the province's No. 2 separatist party, le Ralliement National.

At the party's second annual convention, held during the weekend on the campus of Laval University, about 200 delegates gave unanimous approval to a blueprint for independence which included such items as a separate monetary system and joint ownership of Air Canada, the railways and the St. Lawrence Seaway.

The proposed republic would have a president as well as a prime minister and cabinet, and its parliament would be a "national assembly" of members elected for four-year terms.

A Bank of Quebec would be established to regulate the monetary system. Existing banks could become savings banks on the condition that they establish head offices in Quebec and do 75 per cent of their business with Quebec residents.

Quebec would negotiate with the rest of Canada for the joint ownership of the seaway and the nationwide carriers.

Gilles Grogier, president of le Ralliement qui sits in the Commons as independent MP for Lapointe, said he is favorably disposed, under certain conditions, to the suggestion that le Ralliement unite with Quebec's larger separatist party, le Rassemblement pour l'indépendance nationale.

Lesage pleased

QUEBEC (CP)—Liberal leader Jean Lesage said Sunday night Rene Levesque's resignation will do more good than harm to the Liberal party.

Mr. Lesage told reporters he was not denying that Mr. Levesque was an active force within the party.

Housing talks

QUEBEC (CP)—The Quebec Liberal Federation Sunday called for a federal-provincial conference to help alleviate the housing shortage being caused by the current slow-down in housing construction.

The federation adopted a resolution unanimously at its annual convention which said the housing situation in Canada has reached the crisis stage.

Group abolished

QUEBEC (CP)—The Quebec Young Liberals Federation was voted out of existence Sunday at the annual meeting of the Quebec Liberal Federation.

The young Liberals voted for the move two weeks ago, arguing it does not make sense to have a federation of their own.

The young Liberals were assured one-third of the membership of decision-making bodies within the senior federation.

Kaye popular

MONTREAL (CP)—Visitors poured to the Expo site Sunday despite the city-wide transit strike as comedian Danny Kaye toured the site before starting a 19-city tour to promote the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund.

By 4 p.m. the turnstiles had clicked 219,599 times, bringing total attendance so far to 46,505,244 and boosting the total weekend over the 500,000 mark.

Moscow Dynamos win four-day Invitational Hockey Tourney at Grenoble, US upsets Canada

GRENOBLE, France (CP)—Moscow Dynamos won the four-day, four-country invitational hockey tournament Sunday after beating Canada 3-0. The loss left the Canadians in third place in the standings.

The victory gave the U.S.S.R. six points on three wins and no defeats.

The United States, which upset Canada with a 5-4 victory Saturday, finished in second place with two victories and one loss. Canada, with one victory and two losses, was third and winless Czechoslovakia was last.

Canada picked up its only victory by winning 3-2 over the Czechs on the tournament's opening day Thursday.

The pre-Olympic tournament inaugurated Grenoble's new ice palace where the Olympic tournament will be held next February.

The Canadians—actually the Winnipeg section of the national team—played bruising hockey and showed good speed Sunday, but could not catch the Soviets. In both their losses, the Canadians were involved in donnybrook with opposing players.

On Sunday, the Canadians and Soviets got involved in a wild stick-swinging fight which involved almost all members from both teams. The fracas started when Soviet captain Vitaly Davydov tangled with forward Ted Hargreaves, a Weyburn, Sask., native.

The scuffle, which lasted several minutes, erupted when Hargreaves charged the Soviet goalie. Soviet Dynamos immediately poured on to the ice and the fight broke out.

The day before, during the U.S. upset, play was stopped for five minutes when Terry O'Malley, a University of Manitoba student, tangled with U.S. goalie John Ferreira.

The game was rough throughout, and members of both teams shared 30 minutes in the penalty box.

The U.S. squad, which played a hard, fast game from the start, pulled out with a 4-2 lead in the first period. Canada evened the score in the final period, but a final goal by Bruce Riutta gave the U.S. the win.

Jean Cusson of Lorette, Man., had two for Canada and Ray Cadieux and Morris Mott, both of Winnipeg each scored single goals.

On Sunday, the Soviet squad scored once in the first period and added two more in the second to wrap up their win.

Refugees from Western League pace Rochester to 5-1 win over Baltimore, Barons, nip Aces 4-3

Three refugees from the Western Hockey League demonstrated their ability to handle tougher competition Sunday as they paced Rochester Americans to a 5-1 victory over Baltimore Clippers.

Milan Marcetta and Bob Cook produced two goals each and Bob Barlow scored the other for the Americans in their home opener. It was the second victory of the weekend for the Americans in the first heavy traffic of the AHL season.

The Americans edged Buffalo Bisons 5-4 in Buffalo Saturday as Marcetta fired the winner in the final period. Dook, Mike Byers and Norm Armstrong shared the other goals. For Buffalo, Dennis Kassian was the leader with a pair. Bob Jones and Alain Caron scored the others.

In other Sunday games, Providence Reds routed Springfield Kings 7-4 and Cleveland Barons nipped Quebec Aces 4-3. Springfield staged a scoring spree to blast Quebec 5-0 Saturday while Herrhey Bears slashed Providence 8-1 and Cleveland blanked Baltimore 2-0.

MACKS SCORES WINNER

Dennis Macks and Brian Perry paced Providence Sunday with two goals each, including the winner by Macks on a second-period breakaway. Ji Mikol, Ed Kachur and Jules Bouchard shared the others.

Doug Robinson, Yves Locas, Jimmy Anderson and Marc DuFour retaliated for the Kings.

Howie Glover, Brian Watson, Jim Patterson and Cec Hoekstra tallied for Cleveland to offset two Quebec tallies by Andre Lacroix and one by Keith Wright.

Springfield's Saturday outburst—in which all five goals came in the second period and three within a minute and 40 seconds—was paced by Howie Menard's two goals. Gerry Foley, Bill Inglis and Robinson added single goals.

Gil Gilbert and Wayne Maxne directed Hershey with two goals each. Ted Snell, Roger Deljody, Bud Deburdy and Chuck Hamilton had one each for the Bears and Mikol replied for Providence.

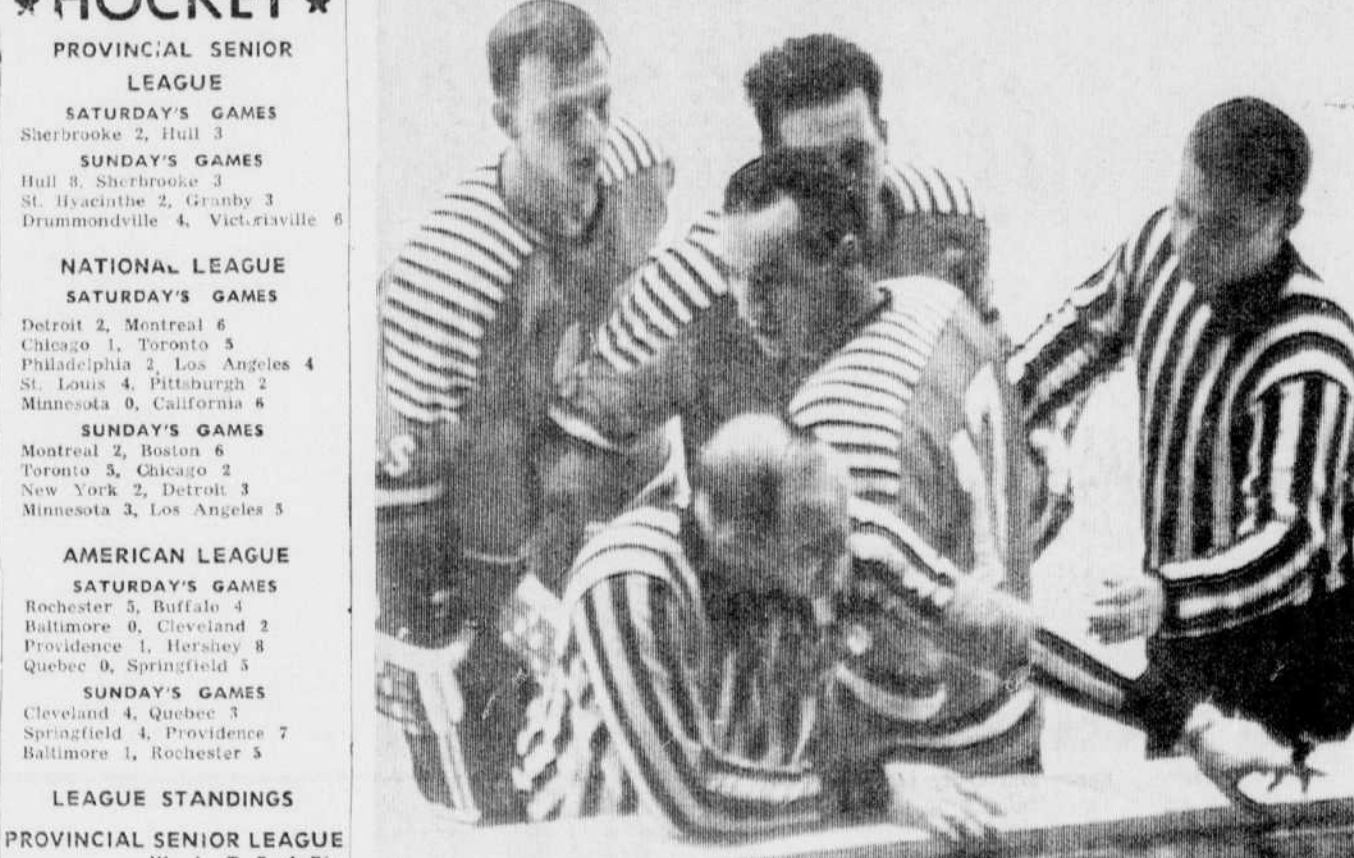

Nationals sweep two from Beavers

Dick Williams gets three-year contract with big increase, team should be better in 1968

BOSTON (AP) — Dick Williams, the rookie manager who led Boston's cinderella Red Sox to the American League pennant, was rewarded with a new three-year contract Saturday and predicted his team "will be even stronger next season and will be a contender for many years to come."

The salary was not disclosed but Williams said the club "treated me very well," and general manager Dick O'Connell said the manager got "a very substantial increase in pay."

The Red Sox announced that pitching coach Sal Maglie "would not be retained next year." The club said the other coaches—Eddie Popowski, Bob Doerr and Al Lakeman—would return.

Maglie, 50, former pitching great with the New York Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers, completed his fifth year as a Red Sox coach this season.

Williams got an estimated $20,000 for this season's one-year contract. Most guesses put his new salary in the $50,000-a-year range for the new pact which extends through 1970.

"We think he's done a tremendous job," O'Connell said at a news conference. "We hope he keeps it up for many years to come."

Owner Tom Yawkey beamed and shook hands with Williams at the signing which took place at a table draped with a brand new banner lettered:

Boston Red Sox, 1967 American League champions.

Williams, who took over ninth place club this season and led it to the top before losing the World Series to St. Louis Cardinals, told reporters that he had confidence from the beginning.

"I only had a one-year contract," he said, "but I signed a two-year lease on my house and bought my furniture on a three-year plan."

Eke out 3-2 win in Hull Saturday run away with a 8-3 decision last night, Tigers upset Eagles 6-4

By LEN O'DONNELL (Record Sports Editor)

Canada's Eastern National team swept through their two-game series on the weekend with the Sherbrooke Beavers and moved into a tie for top spot in the Quebec Provincial Senior Hockey League.

In Hull Saturday afternoon the Nationals eked out a close 3-2 win but last evening at the Sports Palace the Jack Bownass squad had little trouble in belting over the highly-rated Beavers 8-3 before 3,200 fans. It was a rough battle the whole way but the Nationals more than dominated the play.

At Victoriaville the Tigers clawed their way to a 6-4 win over the Drummondville Eagles while in Granby the Vics opened their home season with a 3-2 victory over the Rousseau tallied the winning marker for the Vics.

In the battle last evening at the Sports Palace the Nationals took command of the game outplayed the Beavers at every turn. It was a hard hitting affair with the Beavers trying to stop their younger opponents but this failed to halt them.

The Beavers seemed to be more interested in trying to hit than play hockey. A total of 18 penalties were dished out by referee Marcel Vaillancourt with Sherbrooke picking up 12 of them including a major, misconduct, game misconduct and a match penalty to Jean Levesque.

Levesque's rampage came in the third period with less than six minutes left in the frame. His absence hurt the ailing Beavers who had lost Lionel Robidas in the second frame and being short-handed with Dupre and Lepage on the sidelines his act didn't help his mates.

Levesque was tagged with a good holding penalty when he grabbed a player around the neck to toss him and the referee thumbed him immediately. He didn't like it and voiced his opinion strongly this earned him a misconduct and when he continued he was tossed out of the game. He then charged into the referee and this cost him a match penalty. Just to add more flame to the fire Coach Roy Aube, St. Laurent got the final tally for the Beavers. In the third frame Bob Berry came through with two goals to finish off the scoring.

The exhibition put on by the injury-riddled Beavers certainly didn't help their cause with their fans. It was the poorest show for years with the Beavers getting the penalties and the Nationals the goals. They will have to change their tactics if they wish to keep the support.

Phil Esposito erupted from shadows to tally four goals as Bruins batter Habs 6-2, Leafs stop Hawks

Phil Esposito has played in the shadow of Bobby Hull ever since he entered the National Hockey League, but the lanky centre cast a large shadow of his own Sunday night.

Freed from Chicago Black Hawks in a mid-season deal that sent him to Boston Bruins, Esposito erupted for four goals as the Bruins battered Montreal Canadiens 6-2.

In contrast, the Hawks took a pair of beatings from Toronto Maple Leafs. They lost 5-3 at home Sunday night after they absorbed a 5-1 beating Saturday in Toronto's homer opener.

Toronto's major concern after the weekend was the condition of captain George Armstrong. The veteran winger retired early in the third period Saturday and was treated for a scratched eyeball.

Armstrong discounted fears the injury could mean the end of his career. "It's a little sore now, though. They put a couple of stitches above the eye and three below."

In other games Sunday, Detroit Red Wings used a late goal by Gordie Howe for a 3-2 victory over New York Rangers and Los Angeles Kings downed Minnesota North Stars 5-3.

SEALS BLANK STARS California's Seals whitewashed Minnesota 6-0 Saturday. Los Angeles downed Philadelphia Flyers 4-2. St. Louis Blues halted Pittsburgh Penguins 4-2 and Montreal beat Detroit 6-2.

Toronto's marksmen Sunday were Dave Keon, Brian Conacher, Jim Pappin, Wayne Carleton and Frank Mahovlich. Hull

Wayne Maki and Ken Wharram retaliated for the Hawks. In the Saturday game, Carleton, Conacher, Ron Ellis, Keon and Murray Oliver handled Toronto's scoring. Wharram ruined Johnny Bower's shutout bid.

Howe's goal for Detroit climaxed a comeback from a 2-0 deficit. Other Detroit marksmen were Norm Ullman and Dean Prentice. Donnie Marshall and Jim Neilson connected for the Rangers.

Ted Irvine halted a Minnesota rally with his second goal to lead the Kings Sunday night in Long Beach, Calif. Lowell MacDonald, Gord Labossiere and Howie Hughes added a goal each.

For the Stars, Dave Balon, Bob Charlebois and Murray Hall pumped shots past substitute netminder Wayne Rutledge, pressed into service after Terry Sawchuk injured an elbow last week.

Esposito's first three goals all came in the first period and his fourth came early in the second. Johnny McKenzie and Glen Sather also scored for the Bruins. Yvan Cournoyer and Jean Beliveau notched Montreal's goals.

PINPOINTS SUCCESS Esposito said his success was due to the fact he was shooting more.

Cournoyer picked up two goals and as many assists to lead Montreal Saturday. Beliveau, Ralph Backstrom, Bobby Rousseau and Gilles Tremblay completed scoring. Howe and Prentice counted for the Wings.

Guinness pulls this off five million times a day

How's that for openers?

Why do people drink five million glasses of Guinness daily? Well, it could be Guinness' delightful touch of bitterness. Or that rich, creamy texture. Or perhaps its deep ruby colour. This old Irish brew is unique. Constantly unique. Guinness is now available where beer is sold in Quebec—at non-imported prices, but the same great Irish taste. Why don't you discover the brew that tastes like no other on earth. Just for a change.

Ticats back in first place with close 22-17 win over Lions, Argos wallop Als Hamilton Tiger-Cats have regained first place in the Eastern Football Conference—but they can't brag about it.

They held off a late drive by British Columbia Lions, cellar-dwelling members of the Western Conference, for a 22-17 triumph Sunday in a thrilling Canadian Football League game at Hamilton.

The game ended when veteran Bernie Faloney fired a pass at Hamilton native Jim Young on the goal-line. The ball tricked off Young's fingers and the Ticats escaped with a two-point margin over the idle Ottawa Rough Riders.

In the only other eastern game, Toronto Argonauts strung together an awesome second-half ground attack for a 20-9 triumph over Montreal Alouettes and virtually clinched third place and the last eastern playoff spot.

Jim Dillard, cast off by both Calgary Stampeders and Ottawa in his CFL career, erupted for 162 yards in 11 tries to bury the Alouettes in the last half.

The Argos need either a win

SCORES ON SCREEN PASS

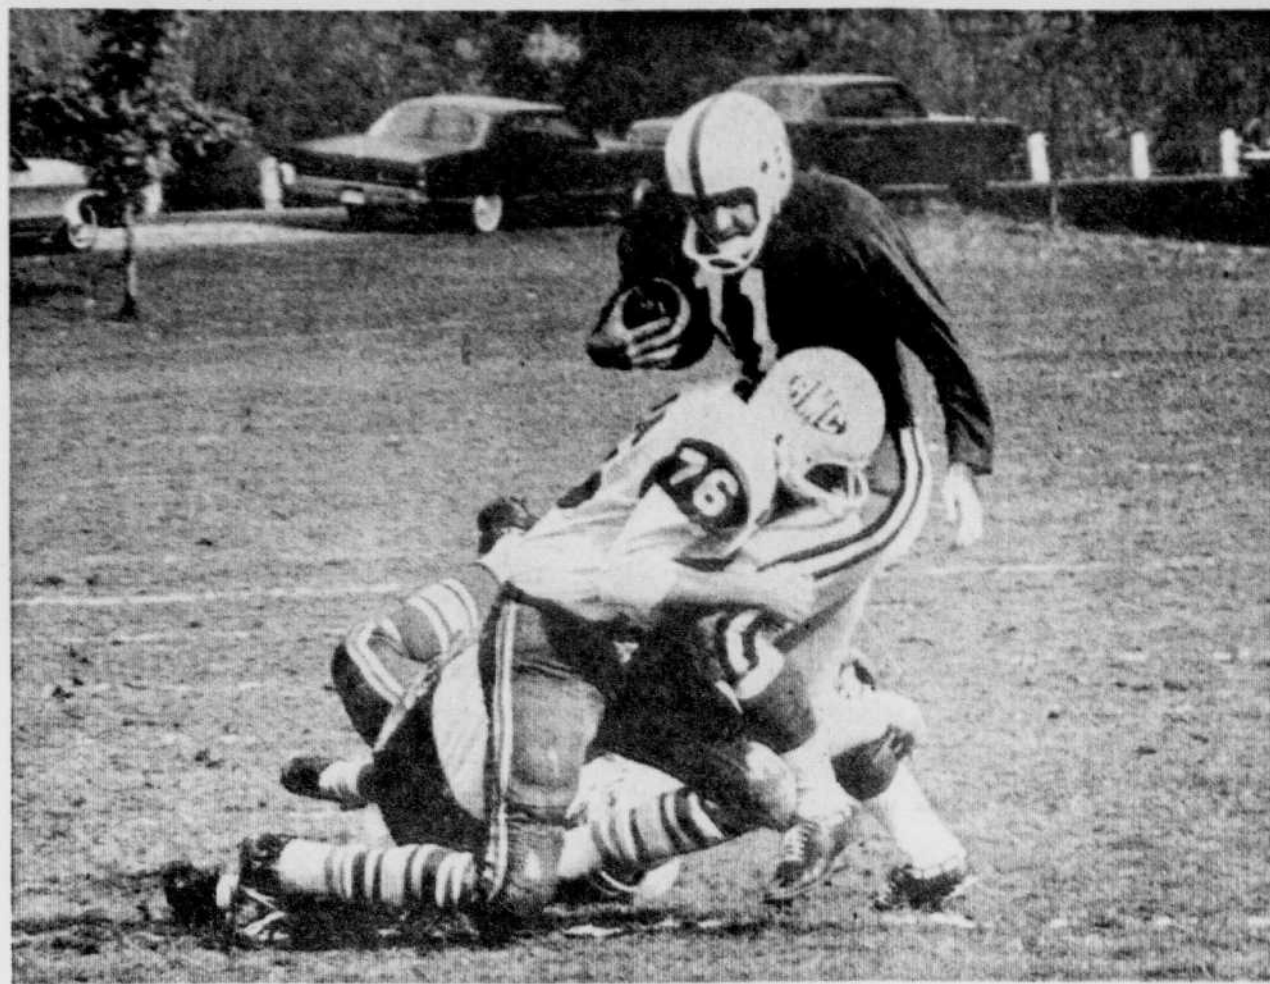

Dillard took a screen pass from the Montreal 44 for one touch down and Bill Symo scampered seven yards for the other after the Argos led only 3-1 at halftime. Dave Mann contributed two field goals and a pair of converts.

For Montreal, Dave Lewis led the way with a touchdown and two singles. His touch down came late in the game after he replaced Carroll Williams. Jim Long converted Lewis' score.

Faloney's passing gave the Tiger-Cats fits.

He completed 14 of 25 attempts for 277 yards and that included long bombs to Leroy Sledge and Jim Sidle.

Sledge went across on an 81-yard pass-and-run play at 1:29 on the second play from scrimmage, as two Hamilton backs collided. Faloney hit Sidle on a 55-yarder in the second quarter and Hamilton trailed 14-5 at the half.

STOPPED — Willie Mitchell, quarterback for Bishop's Gaiters, is seen being stopped by Ron Maxwell of RMC as he tried to get away on a jaunt in Saturday's game at Bishop's. The purple and white squad chalked up their third win in the loop.

Get early jump on cadets and held on for win, Don Cooper standout for winners in hard-fought battle

Bishop's University Gaiters mounted a semblance of a creditable offence Saturday and hung on to defeat the resurgent Redmen from R.M.C. by a 20 to 13 count in a game played on the Lennoxville gridiron.

The Gaiters finally seemed to have licked their offensive problems as the attack functioned almost perfectly during the first half, but they reverted to the same ineffectiveness that had characterized their earlier tilts so far this season during the second part of the game.

Indeed, the high point of the game came when Don Cooper, the bastion of the Gaiter defense whose play so far this year has been nothing short of phenomenal, recovered a fumble behind the R.M.C. line of scrimmage and ran it back 60 yards for a touchdown.

Sharing the spotlight with Cooper was tailback Tom Allen in the face as he was being forced out of bounds and the latter responded a few plays later when he missed leaving his cleat marks in one Redman's face by not more than two inches.

Allen's toe put Bishop's on the scoreboard early in the game as he kicked a field goal from a sharp angle at the 25. The score was set up by a long pass from Gaiter Quarterback Willie Mitchell to Flanker Les Black, who also had a fine afternoon catching three passes good for 82 yards.

Tackle Peter Montgomery recovered a Redmen fumble on the next play and three tries later, Mark Ensio, who took over the punting chores for the Gaiters, sent a kick into the end zone which R.M.C. was unable to bring out. The Gaiters scored again when another Ensio boomer was fumbled by the R.M.C. receiver at the one yard line. The ball bounced into the end zone when R.M.C. recovered, but Bishop's gained two points on a safety touch.

An interception by John MacKenzie at midfield and his subsequent carry to the 40 coupled with Mitchell aerial to split end Bill Rice at the five yard line set up the next Bishop's touchdown. Tom Allen went off tackle on the second play to raise the count to 12 to 0 in favor of the Gaiters. The crowd groaned on the convert attempt when the snap went awry, but Allen alertly picked it up and ran it into the end zone for a two-point conversion.

The Redmen opened the second half with what appeared to be a concentrated drive. When they reached the Gaiter 50, however, there was a mixup in the backfield and the ball bounded free behind everyone. Don Cooper, who was charging through the middle picked up the ball and stopped only after he had crossed the goal line.

That was as far as the Gaiter offence went and the rest of the game seemed to turn into a contest to see who could play a yard or two deeper.

Two other Charger touchdowns also came on long strikes. Quarterback John Hadt hit flanker Lance Alworth with a 60-yard scoring pass, and rookie halfback Dick Post burst for a 67-yard touchdown run.

In other AFL games, New York Jets and Houston Oilers fought to a 28-28 tie. Oakland Raiders beat Buffalo Bills 24-20 and Boston Patriots crushed Miami Dolphins 41-10.

CHARGERS UNDEFEATED

The defeat put the Chiefs into third place in the Western Division. San Diego stayed in first with a 4-0 record.

Houston's defence did what its offence couldn't, scoring three touchdowns and setting up the Ken Houston scored on a 71-yard return of a blocked field goal try and a 43-yard run with a pass interception. Miller Farr intercepted three passes, returning one for a score.

Minnesota Vikings upset Green Bay Packers 10-7, Rams rally to tie Colts

No wonder the winning habit hasn't come easy for Minnesota Vikings. They only play Green Bay Packers a couple of times each year.

The Vikings pulled the biggest upset of the young National Football League season Sunday, spilling Green Bay's world champs 10-7 on a 12-yard field goal by Fred Cox with eight seconds to play.

It was Minnesota's first victory of the season, and the first setback for the Packers since they bowed to the Vikings 20-17 last November.

"You might make more significance out of it than we will," said a restrained Bud Grant, the Vikings' first-year coach, who piloted Winnipeg Blue Bombers last season in the Canadian Football League. "We needed a win... whether it was over Green Bay or the Little Sisters of the Poor."

RAMS STOP COLTS

While the Vikings were overtaking Green Bay with a 10-point spurt in the final period, Los Angeles Rams came from 10 points down in the last six minutes to earn a 24-24 standoff at Baltimore and spoil the Colts' perfect NFL record.

It was that kind of a day throughout the league.

At Atlanta, Wade Traynham's 31-yard field goal with two seconds remaining gave the winless Falcons a 20-20 deadlock with Washington Redskins.

At Pittsburgh, Fran Tarkenton's 69-yard TD bomb to Joe Morrison off a triple reverse shot New York Giants past the Steelers 27-24 with 1:50 to go.

At Philadelphia, Ken Willard's fourth-quarter scoring burst carried San Francisco 49ers to a 28-27 nod over the Eagles.

Dallas Cowboys edged New Orleans Saints 14-10, Cleveland Browns shaded St. Louis Cardinals 20-16 and Chicago Bears subdued Detroit Lions 14-3 in other NFL games.

INTERCEPTIONS COSTLY

Green Bay's Zeke Bratkowski, unbeaten in eight previous games as a relief pitcher for Bart Starr, had two fourth-quarter passes picked off by the Vikings, who turned each theft into a score.

Ed Sharockman made the first steal and took it back 37 yards to set up Bill Brown's one-yard TD plunge that tied the game 7-7. With 2:11 left, Earnest Mackbee intercepted a Bratkowski toss on the Packers' 45. Six plays later, Cox booted the winning three-point.

Joe Kapp, who starred with British Columbia Lions in the CFL's Western Conference, made his second start of the season as Minnesota's quarterback and sparked the Vikings during their late drive.

Bruce Gossett's 47-yard field goal and Roman Gabriel's third scoring pass—a 16-yarder to Bernie Casey with 2:57 to play—pulled Los Angeles even at Baltimore. The Colts had won their first four games and appeared to have No. 5 wrapped up on Johnny Unitas' 31-yard TD pitch to Willie Richardson early in the fourth quarter.

Unitas, who signed a three-year contract for a reported $375,000 before the game, also hit Alex Hawkins with a 14-yard TD pass.

CONVERT BLOCKED

The Redskins, beaten by Dallas in the final minute a week ago, erased a 17-14 Atlanta lead on a 24-yard Sonny Jurgensen-Bobby Mitchell TD pass with 42 seconds to go. But Tommy Nobis, Atlanta's brilliant line backer, blocked the extra point kick by Brig Owens and Traynham's tying three-point capped a last-ditch drive by the Falcons.

Trailing 24-20 at the two-minute warning, the Giants caught the Steelers napping when Tarkenton handed off to Ernie Koy, who slipped the ball to Homer Jones on an apparent end-around play. Jones, however, flipped it back to the quarterback, who found Morrison all alone on the Pittsburgh 30.

Willard's winning four-yard plunge avenged San Francisco's one-point loss to the Eagles last year. Two touchdowns by fullback Gary Lewis helped stake the 49ers to a 21-0 halftime lead, but the Eagles rallied to take the lead behind Norm Snead, who fired three TD passes.

The Cowboys held off winless New Orleans in the rain at Dallas, stopping a fourth-quarter Saints' march on the five-yard line and thwarting another drive when Dave Edwards recovered a fumble on the seven with one minute to play.

Lou Groza's first two field goals of the season lifted the Browns past the fumbling Cardinals. Jim Bakken's third field goal cut the Browns' lead to 17-16 early in the final period before Groza kicked a 34-yarder with 58 seconds remaining.

Gale Sayers romped over a muddy field for 142 yards and one touch down and Bennie McRae scored on a 29-yard interception runback as the Bears cuffed the Lions at Chicago.

Sir George Williams rallies to win annual golf championship, Bishop's finishes in second Bishop's University golfers failed in their home effort to win the Ottawa St. Lawrence Intercollegiate Athletic Association Golf Championship this weekend as Sir George Williams University retained the crown for the third consecutive year.

The Bishop's team led by playing coach Cliff Goodwin, finished second in the championship which was played at the Lennoxville Golf and Country Club followed by the University of Sherbrooke.

The Sir George four-man squad finished the two-day 36-hole competition with a 647 total while Bishop's had 653 and the University of Sherbrooke total was 675. The Sir George golfers had to come from behind on the second day as Bishop's led by five strokes after the first round.

The low medalists in the tourney were Bert Desbiens of the University of Sherbrooke who finished with a 153 total for the two rounds with scores of 77 and 76 in the two days of competition. He was followed by Sir George's Bruce Weatherly who had a 156 score (77 and 79) and Bishop's Cliff Goodwin who carded a 157 as a result of 78 and 78 stroke rounds.

The winning team was composed of Weatherly, Ted Fletcher, Don Henderson and Eric Johnson. As three of the four players on the Sir George squad are freshmen this year, the indication is that the team will be a golf power in the conference for some years to come.

All nine members of the O.S.L.I.A.A. had teams entered in this year's championship.

Stamps getting helping hand from Esks and move into tie with Roughriders, win 51-29

Calgary Stampeders got a large assist from Edmonton Eskimos Sunday and used it to move into a first-place tie with Saskatchewan Roughriders in the Western Football Conference.

The Stampeders, using an awesome air attack, shellacked Winnipeg Blue Bombers 51-29 in Calgary, while in Edmonton, the Eskimos upset the Roughriders 21-17.

The results left both Calgary and Saskatchewan with 10-3 won-lost records and a seven-point pull over Edmonton, which has won six, lost six and tied one for 13 points.

Winnipeg is 4-9 for eight points. British Columbia Lions, who lost 22-17 Sunday to Hamilton Tiger-Cats, have two wins and a tie in 12 games.

The Lions now are out of the playoffs. If they win their four remaining games they could tie the Eskimos, but would still be out of the playoff because Edmonton won its series with the Lions this season. Edmonton needs just one more win or a Winnipeg loss to clinch the final playoff position.

Four WFC records were established in Calgary by the conquest of the Bombers—two by Peter Liske and one each by Terry Evanshen and Bill Goods.

Liske, who threw six touchdown passes in the game, completed 20 throws to bring his season total to 237, and gained 349 yards on passes to bring his mark this year to 3,602 yards.

The former WFC completion mark was 228 set by Eagle Day, then of Calgary, in 1963.

Liske's yards-gained total put him ahead of the old mark of 3,279 set by Joe Kapp of B.C. Lions in 1962.

Liske needs to try just 20 more passes to set another WFC record and complete three of them for touchdowns to set a fourth.

Another 47 pass attempts would give him one CFL record and another seven touchdown passes a second. He needs another 40 completions and a total of 1,122 yards gained passing for other CFL marks.

Evanshen brought his pass reception yardage to 1,384 this year. The old mark was 1,329 set by Hugh Campbell of Saskatchewan in 1965. Goods converted all seven Calgary touchdowns for his WFC mark.

Evanshen caught two touchdowns passes Sunday. Two more went to Herm Harrison and one each to Lovell Coleman and Gerry Shaw. Shaw scored another touch down on a fumble recovery in the first quarter.

The Stampeders rounded out the scoring with a fourth-quarter tackle touch.

For the Bombers, Dave Ramsey scored twice, Ken Nielsen and Ed Ulmer scored the other touchdowns. Ernie Kuzky converted all four and Ulmer kicked a single for the Bombers' other point.

In Edmonton, the Eskimos recovered a fourth-quarter fumble on the Saskatchewan 31, and drove in from there for the game-winning touchdown.

Frank Cosentino and Randy Kerbow scored Edmonton touchdowns. Peter Kempf converted both, kicked two field goals and a single on a field goal attempt. Hugh Campbell and Gord Barwell had touchdowns for the Roughriders. Jack Abendschan converted one and kicked a field goal. The other Saskatchewan point was a single on a quick kick by Allan Ford at the end of the first half.

Mexico's big rehearsal for '68 Olympic Games turns into confusion with thin atmosphere

MEXICO CITY (CP-AP)—Mexico's big rehearsal for the 1968 Olympic Games struggled through a confusing opening day Sunday that left the patience of many athletes thinner than the atmosphere.

One world record was broken in weightlifting but other performances were far off world and Olympic records. Some athletes in the distance races complained of chest pains as they exerted themselves in the 7,377-foot altitude.

Two Africans, two Russians and an Iranian weightlifter won the five gold medals awarded on the opening day of the two-week sports spectacle.

Canada's small team of 38 athletes and officials had entries in only two track and field events Sunday. Jenny Wingerson Meldrum of Toronto was in sixth place in the women's pentathlon with two events—the 200 metres and long jump—to be completed today.

CANADIANS ELIMINATED

Dave Bailey of Toronto and Brian MacLaren of Winnipeg were eliminated in the 800-metre heats, and in today's final seven of the eight entries are from Europe.

Mohamed Gammoudi of Tunisia captured the 10,000 metres in 30:16.0, almost four minutes off the world record, and another African, burly Goussou Kone of the Ivory Coast, breasted the tape in the 100 metres barely ahead of Italy's Pasquale Giansantuso. Each was clocked in 10.2.

Russia's Ian Lusia and Victor Saneev won the javelin and triple jump respectively. Lusia tossed the javelin 279 feet, six inches, almost two feet under the Olympic mark, and Saneev recorded a distance of 54 feet, 4½ inches.

Mohamad Nassirli of Iran set a world mark in the bantamweight weightlifting class when he lifted 320½ pounds in the clean and jerk. His total lift of 83¾ pounds, gave him the gold medal.

WINS NARROWLY

Gammoudi defeated a classy field in the 10,000 metres, finishing five feet ahead of East Germany's Jürgen Haase.

The official time placed Haase only two-tenths of a second slower than the Tunisian, with Gas-ton Roelants of Belgium third in 30:28.8.

The results service caused consternation among athletes and spectators. Results announced in Spanish, French and English often varied, both in placings and in times or distances.

The substitute scoreboard—the one for the Olympic Games is far from completed—varied with the varied announcements.

Athletes, particularly the women pentathletes concerned with their results for point totals, were dismayed when they could not learn how they did.

Remember when...

Track star Bill Crothers of Markham, Ont., captured a silver medal three years ago today—in 1964—in the 800 metres event at the Tokyo Olympic Games. Gil Boa broke the Olympic record on the small-bore rifle range that day but finished fourth only.

When did Niagara come into the picture?

A medical bill. A clothing bill. A car repair bill. They all seemed to come at once. Jack needed money in a hurry.

Answer: A Niagara Loan. Jack talked it over with the manager of the nearest Niagara Office. Besides getting the money, he got a lot of good advice on budgeting. With a Niagara Loan, Jack was able to pay all his bills at one time. And repay the loan on easy terms to suit his budget.

When you need extra money for any good reason, you can expect the same courteous, quick service at any one of 300 Niagara offices.
