Examiner

VOL. XXXVII, No. 29 MONTREAL, FRIDAY, JULY 17th, 1964 5 CENTS 12 PAGES

Rotary hears 'mag' story

Members of Westmount Rotary Club were taken back to the days of their youth at Wednesday's regular weekly luncheon-meeting at Victoria Hall — by George Beers, executive director of the new Boy-Scouts-sponsored magazine for boys, titled simply 'Canadian Boy'.

Before launching into his description of the fight to launch the magazine, the patent need for a magazine of this type, and the success that is meeting this unique venture, Mr. Beers paid tribute to the Westmount Rotary Club for its fine work in the field of youth endeavor and also for its support of the work he represented.

Tracing the beginning of the Scout movement from the writing of a book on army scouting methods by the late, great Sir Robert Baden-Powell, Mr. Beers indicated the manner in which he believed the Scout movement to be the logical sponsor of 'Canadian Boy'.

The magazine, he said, is not primarily for Scouts and its content is 'certainly not' what might be expected in a Scouts magazine. Circulation, he said, is controlled at 300,000 copies and he thanked the Westmount Rotary Club for "being one of the first to make subscriptions possible."

One interesting fact emerged from the talk that raised some eyebrows: more girls read boys books than boys do.

Little can be learned from existing survey material about the reading habits of Canadian boys, Mr. Beers said, but a great deal is being learned from a survey the magazine is carrying on at the present time and from letters received from the young readers — 4,000 in five issues.

The magazine, he pointed out, has been launched in the Scouts 60th Jubilee year and has a starting-year fund of $150,000 — largely made available through Scouts and grown-ups who take an interest in Scouts and Scouting and believe in the future of Canadian youth "our greatest resource."

Visitors at the luncheon were from the Dominican Republic, Little Rock, Arkansas, and Nancy, France.

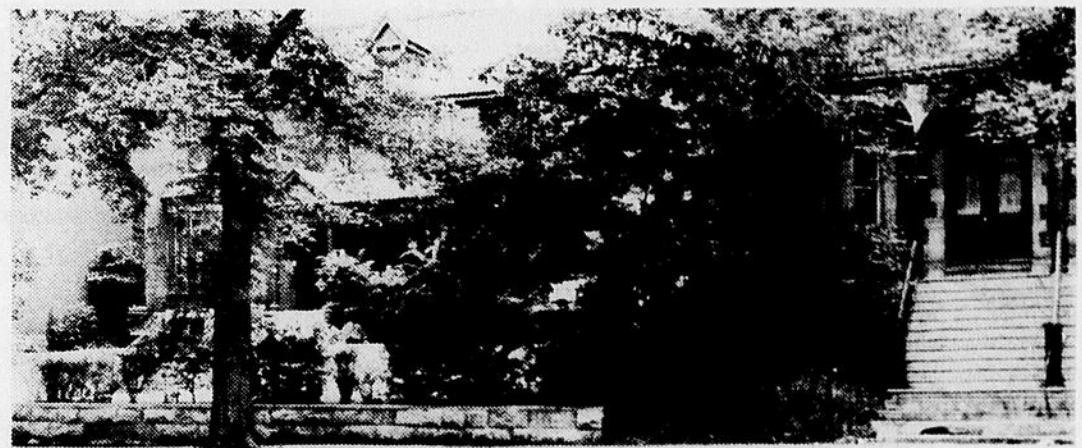

W. M. Reay, new president, was in the chair.

Summer Fun Club at 'Y' continues to attract

The third busy week of the Westmount YMCA Summer Fun Club is fast approaching. Major activities for the week are: a trip to the Bank of Montreal, Head Office; a beach party, and a track and field meet.

The swimming pool has also been a hive of activity with 35 boys and girls passing beginners tests in the first week.

More than 130 youngsters went bowling this week, taking over 28 lanes. Lunch was had on Mount that this property be treated the same as the Gaunt property, left, on Dorchester street, and exempt from city expropriation.

MTC Bus-driver loses license

Roland Labelle, 623 Osborne avenue, Verdun, 39-year-old bus driver for the Montreal Transportation Commission has been fined $75 and costs and his driving license has been suspended for two months.

Labelle pleaded 'not guilty' to driving 'without due care' at the time his bus was involved in an accident at St. Catherine and Greene avenue in Westmount with an auto driven by Mary McIntyre of 4045 Dorchester West.

However, witnesses told Municipal Judge Alex Stalker that the bus proceeded through a red light, immediately prior to the crash.

Miss McIntyre suffered severe injuries in the accident but is reported recovering.

NEXT WEEK'S WEATHER

By ERIC NEAL
July 18 to 25

Pleasant, warm conditions will continue all this week and the next. Heat fogs in the morning. Afternoons sultry with very local heat thunder storms in the evenings. Hail probable for Vermont and the Eastern Townships.

Tornado conditions are likely to develop in Manitoba, southern Ontario and around Lake Champlain. Heavy rains in the Niagara region, then Central Quebec.

Cooling. Temperature range from 90°F, down to 50°F some nights.

Mainly sunny and warming again for the weekend, with blue skies and light winds.

Royal and then an afternoon of games, followed by a swim back at the 'Y'. A large number of campers are coming back to SFC for a second two week period (Continued on page 11)

Unity carries on though Mariasine is at the Stampede

Some time ago, the parent of a Boys' Club member was over-heard declaring the value of the local Boys' Club in keeping her children off the street and out of trouble.

So many parents, locally, and indeed, across the country, are becoming accustomed to the worth of Boys' Clubs. It is high time the Boys' Club Movement and the small group of dedicated men who run Boys' Clubs of Canada be given credit for their efforts. It is also time that these same parents be educated as to the true purpose of Boys' Club work.

Originally, the Boys' Club opened its doors with the basic purpose of getting the youth from the streets into areas where their development could have more promising results. The Unity Boys' Club of Westmount came into being via this purpose in 1949. Since that time, however, the purpose has expanded along with the membership. Today, the children are off the streets. They know what to expect when they enter the club and in involves a great deal more than just having and acceptable place to 'horse' around. After fifteen years of operation Boys' Club personnel have learned how to assure, to a greater degree, the proper development of club members.

Too few people realize the advancements that have boosted Boys' Club work to the status of 'Professional'. How many people realize, for instance, that a Boys' Club worker requires four years of university, a similar period of field work experience and this, along with constant screening and appraisal. One speaks in error then, when one refers to a Boys' Worker as a supervisor, as if his job was merely to observe or to discipline. Today, a Boys' Worker is an educator in the truest sense of the word.

The youth are still coming in off the streets, but now are taking part in professionally organized programs, using fully equipped facilities and being cared for by properly trained personnel.

ACTIVITIES

Highlights of next week's program include an afternoon of bowling at Rosebowl Lanes, (Tuesday, 1 p.m.), a day at St. Helen's Island, (Wednesday), and a trip to the Montreal Gazette Thursday.

Attendance at games room activities at the club has hardly dropped off at all. This due to the fine job done by Tom Stevens on several new games.

Girl's Worker, Tori Schrammel was just as surprised as the rest of us, at how well her first Arts and Crafts class worked out. They have a whale of a time in the library every Monday and Friday.

Boys' Worker, Carl Tremblay will soon be conducting regular football practices, (August 17), but is busy now on Thursday with a girl's hike mornings and a boy's hike afternoons.

Club Director, Maurice Mariasine is off to Calgary for the first portion of his vacation. The stampede to the club continues, however.

GREENER PASTURES

Unfortunately, there are all too many of our high school graduates who go to Upper Canada, the west or the U.S.A. to find the fame and fortune most youngsters envisage as their right. Yet times here are improving and as our area becomes more and more industrialized, the jobs here are becoming more plentiful and better. — Campbellton (N.B.) Tribune.

City Uniformity Opposed

Monster iron hand decried

Among the many briefs being reconsidered by the Blier Commission — which has declared it will be another month bringing down its report — is one from George J. Wesley, 320 Victoria avenue, Westmount.

He forwarded a similar document in May last to the Sylvestre Commission, then investigating affairs municipal on Ile Jesus.

In a word, the brief suggests that suburbs in and around the city of Montreal should not be less than 100,000 in population.

The brief calls for the incorporation of new municipalities with a minimum population of 100,000, with boundaries to be decided by rivers, highways and expressways. It also urges the establishment of a co-ordinated system of regional planning at municipal, provincial and federal levels, and the formation of a Greater Montreal Planning Board.

This re-organization program should be completed within 24 months, he said.

"The personal rivalries and the disunities in the present municipal system are blocking any efforts for intelligent and modern city administration," stated Mr. Wesley, who is president of Candev Realty Development Corp.

He said he is against having "huge municipalities governed by an iron hand of a monster city, leading to control and uniformity."

"I am very much opposed to the concept of forced annexation," he declared. "It would be a bad example of city administration if we would force annexation by waiting until small municipalities fall into difficult times and then being absorbed by the City of Montreal."

The commission, headed by Camille Blier, assistant deputy minister of municipal affairs, has also received a brief from the Canadian Research Committee on Taxation. Attached to the document were two submissions — one presented before the Royal Commission Taxation (in Quebec) last year, and the other, to the Special Investigating Committee on Municipal Taxation in 1962.

The committee stated that municipal taxation as now levied "can and should be a thing of the past."

"A city can be a self-supporting corporation, meeting its expenses from its rightful income.

Mackay receives $15,000

A cheque for $15,000 was received formally Monday by the Mackay Centre for Deaf and Crippled Children, from the Kresge Foundation.

Present were F. T. Rope, U.S. acting Consul General here; Thos. W. Russell Jr., chairman of the Mackay Centre building fund, I. Nadeau, local manager of the S.S. Kresge Company and A. H. Marden, president of Mackay.

In part, Consul Rope said:

"I am proud that a private foundation in the United States, the Kresge Foundation of Detroit, Michigan, is demonstrating its breadth of vision by contributing to the capital fund of this important Canadian enterprise. The Kresge Foundation was established by Sebastien Kresge, an American entrepreneur whose investment interests extend to Canada."

The city has, in its physical properties, acquired through the years, by the expense of its people's money, a huge capital investment from which it collects only a very small part of the return earned.

"In roads, water, sewers, etc. . . it has invested enormously. Little of the interest which this investment could earn finds its way back into the municipal treasury, and a large part of the value is destroyed by a system which prevents utilization of the benefits."

Quo Vadis?

The claim by workers in "public service" industries that they should have the right to strike has always perplexed governments. It may seem hard, on the one hand, that any class of workers should be denied a normal right, extended to all other forms of labor. But granting the right to strike to the "public service" workers always gives them abnormal bargaining powers, such as other kinds of workers cannot enjoy, because it may imperil the public safety.

The Quebec Government, faced with this issue, has proposed a compromise. The right to strike would still be withheld from the firemen and police, as well as from civil servants. But it would be extended to a great number of other employees to whom it is at present denied. It would be given to workers in Crown corporations and many government boards, including Hydro-Quebec, and the Quebec Autoroutes Authority, as well as to employees of municipalities and school boards, transportation companies, gas and water services, garbage removal, and so forth.

While the right to strike would be extended in this way, it would be hedged about by delays, similar to those provided in the Taft-Hartley Act in the United States. But while the Government could impose delays, if the workers still wanted to go on strike in the end, they could.

It is obviously hoped that while the right to strike has been granted to these new categories of workers, it would be rarely used. But the difficulty is that no Government, in practice, can accept a strike by any category of workers, if the public welfare is seriously affected.

EDITOR'S CORNER

HOT UNDER COLLAR
Sir, — For the second time in less than two years, the CN has had a fire in the Mount Royal Tunnel. The first time a high power wire was cut into a low voltage wire, as reported by the CN. This time a transformer caught fire, so we are told.

How do these things happen? Are not inspections made of the installations? Are the reasons pinned down? What action is taken?

Mr. Gordon is talking a multi-million dollar streamlining of this "service". Is the present "service" being left "as it is" until he gets his way on the streamlining scheme?

And what of the present service — we are to sit (if you are really lucky) on dusty, dirty seats (great for the ladies summer attire) in circa 1920 coaches needing repair (yesterday, people who walked through a particular coach were doused with rusty water from a six-inch split in the ceiling).

It's high time someone looked into the whole matter. Has Mr.

Gordon got the actual facts of the conditions under which this line operates? If so, then perhaps someone else should look into the whole situation. The Board of Transport, maybe!

W.M.Y.

IT'S STILL WRONG

Sir: — The controversy over the availability of medical treatment is an issue which concerns the rights of men, individual men. All men have the same rights; they are inalienable and constant. They cannot be dished out by a group of citizens or by a government. The concept of rights is necessary only to insure that men will be free to conduct their own affairs, so long as they do not infringe on the rights of other men. A right insures the freedom of the entity within the society.

Since all men have identical rights, there can be no right for some men which abrogates the rights of other men. Doctors cannot be forced, by the rights of anyone, to provide their ser-

Canine Caper:

Man's best friend takes pen in paw

Believe it or not — there is one dog-gone smart dogs around these parts.

In last week's issue we carried a feature front page item about a war that was to be waged by Westmount Police against dogs not on leash — between May 1 and September 1 (according to a local by-law).

A dog named 'Whistler' saw right through the whole thing in a flash, and took pen in paw to add his canine view of the situation:

Here is what he writes:
"I am a quiet, well-mannered Westmount citizen and tax-payer (tag 166). Friday, however, after reading your headlines, I must say the fur on my neck and back bristled and my usually soft mouth stiffened and the sound of grinding teeth was clearly audible.

"My ancestors have been counted among man's best friends for centuries, my cousins continually assist law-enforcement officers to apprehend wayward humans — but now we must surely face disaster, for we are illy-equipped for a savage attack in the modern manner and waged by humans.

"We of the canine world have problems in our own society. Unfortunately we are not all well-mannered. Higher education is available to only a few of us. Some live in crowded quarters, affording facilities for little or no exercise. We continually suffer from the indignities of prejudice. One virtue we all share, however, is loyalty to our master.

"Your paper is never called upon to highlight incidents in which dogs are involved in auto accidents caused by speeding, their days are already busy and chasing dogs can be time-consuming and humiliating.

"We would suggest to citizens who chronically complain to the police about dogs that they take the appropriate measures and contact the owners themselves. We are sure that their requests will be acted on immediately. We are just as eager to rid our society of delinquent vagrants as our human friends are in theirs.

"In the meanwhile we look forward to seeing our many friends again in Murray Park after September 1."

Hon. C. M. Drury

Your MP reports from Ottawa

OTTAWA — Tourists who flocked to the nation's capital last week had a splendid opportunity to see Parliament in action, for action was the key-word in the entire week's proceedings. As a result, three major pieces of government legislation were given third reading and received final approval.

FEWER GUNS

THE FIRST amended the National Defence Act, creating the post of a single commander for all three branches of our armed forces. This was the first step in an overall program designed to unify and modernize Canada's fighting forces and reduce the cost of our defence operations.

MORE BUTTER

THE SECOND created a new, $10 a month, youth allowance for children 16 and 17 who still attend school, and for children in that age group who cannot attend school by reason of infirmity. It is now expected that this bill will receive quick approval by the Senate and Royal Assent so that payments can be made to the parents involved as early as September, in time for the coming school year. This will apply in all provinces except Quebec where such a plan is already operated by the provincial government. Quebec will be compensated by direct payments to the government, in the form of financial equivalent.

Obviously, the object of the program is to assist Canadian parents with children in this age group. It will enable parents to further their children's educational opportunities. It is interesting to note that apart from the province of Quebec, it is estimated that there are now in Canada some 502,000 youths in the age group 16 to 18. Of these, about 350,000 are attending school. The government hopes that the incentive provided by the youth allowance will prove sufficiently attractive to bring many other children back to school or otherwise cause them to pursue job or career training. The measure is generally considered so desirable that all parties in the House supported it and although clarifications were requested by various members, the bill was adopted in one day.

For the remaining seven months of the current fiscal year, the cost of this program will be about $27,000,000. The financial equivalent which will be paid to Quebec during this same period will be in order of $9,000,000. For a full 12-month period, the total for Canada will be about 61 million; payments to Quebec will amount to some $16 million for the same 12 months.

FISHING

THE THIRD piece of legislation that was passed last week is of particular significance to the fishermen on Canada's east and west coasts. It provides that they will have exclusive access to a restricted zone of 12 miles from our shores — a zone where foreign fishing fleets will no longer be able to operate. This is a measure that has long been asked for by our fishing industry and that comes as a welcome aid to the people who earn their living from the sea.

All in all, it was a highly productive week for it gave us a chance to accomplish a lot for the benefit of Canadians from all parts of the country. And that, of course, is precisely what we are here for.

Riding changes are in the wind

From the Electoral Map Committee of the provincial legislative assembly comes indication of changes that will — if they become law — affect Westmount and environs.

One of the suggestions is to bring a part of the east-side of Westmount-St. George to St. Ann's Riding. Westmount-St. George is not a big riding, comparatively, at the present time; and it is presumed that if a slice goes to St. Ann's, probably some portion of N.D.G. may be added to Westmount-St. George.

There was no immediate reaction to the proposals, which may increase the Montreal Island representation in the Legislature from 16 to 22 seats.

... "we have our problems" or stories in which dogs break into meat markets. We do not greedily pick spring flowers in Summit Park, or litter the pleasant surroundings with countless wrappers, cans, bottles and paper.

"We are proud of our Westmount Police force and many of the members are our friends. We recognize that vices. This constitutes a blatant violation of the doctor's right (and all other men's) to freedom from coercion. A doctor, no less than another man, should have free working conditions in which he can dispense his service at his own discretion. Because a doctor's service is important does not give society the "right" to violate his rights. Granted, it would be nice if everyone had as much medical care as he wanted. The question is: "At whose expense?"

This issue is not one of greed or economics; it does not, expect indirectly, concern the quality of service, since the service under medicare would be unlawful, unless medicare's proponents would also like to create a more general system than that of individual rights. The adoption of medicare would serve to whittle at the efficacy of individual rights and thus would weaken the basis of our society — the individual. It would inevitably lead to a more and more advanced state of socialism, in which individual rights would no longer be the basis of society.

A recent letter, takes the doctors to task for trying to

Proceedings begin on annexation

July 28, Montreal City Council will consider a proposal for the annexation of Roxboro to the City — based on a petition which Roxboro's Mayor Rene Labelle claims represents 1,100 home-owners' and tenants' demands for a referendum.

The announcement came from Lucien Saulnier, Montreal Executive Chairman, who also claimed that there will be other Island municipalities annexed to Montreal before long.

protect their rights. He seems to think this is shameful. It is nothing of the kind. Because medicare has been able to work in other countries, does not in any way sanction it. The very taxation which finances it is a violation of the right of each citizen being taxed, whether he realizes it or not. Individuals will be forced by law to support a system which forces doctors to practise their profession — a messy affair in what is said to be a democracy.

The eventual adoption of some sort of medicare system seems certain. The doctors will suffer its immediate consequences, but society will not be able to evade its much more ominous ramifications.

Resident

H. CARL GOLDENBERG, Westmount resident, whose appointment as permanent umpire of jurisdictional disputes for the Canadian Labor Congress has been announced.

Westmount lawyer tells Toronto how

H. Carl Goldenberg, QC, a Westmount lawyer, is deep into the process of telling Toronto 'how' to go about solving its Metro problems — and it is more likely his experience there will be used to full advantage in solving similar tangles in the local area in the not too distant future.

His investigation may call for a trip to London, England, to study the borough system there — and perhaps a visit to Miami, Fla. — before he hands down his report on what should be the future pattern of metropolitan government. Miami has the only formal metropolitan government in the United States — Dade County.

Mr. Goldenberg, known as an arbitrator who achieves results speedily and can produce a report under pressure, intends to ponder minutely all aspects of the challenging case.

Questions of justice and equity are involved and problems have to be weighed from many different angles before a definite judgment.

He must study 83 briefs and review 1,630,000 words contained in depositions of witnesses heard at the hearings.

Anyone who has worked with

Mr. Goldenberg will tell you that he probably already has plotted in his mind a draft of the report and will spend time weighing the effect of his findings and filling in the details. He already has a backlog of experience in the field, having been a commissioner for the Manitoba Government studying matters concerning Greater Winnipeg.

Whatever his decision, one thing is certain — it will mean changes in the existing system. This he already has promised.

He has three choices on what to recommend in his report, which he expects to have ready next winter. Precise date for the report has not been set, but it could be late January or early February provided nothing unforeseen arises.

The choices are:

- Continuation of the present metro system, with perhaps more responsibilities transferred to the metro corporation, particularly regarding the financing of schools.

- Total amalgamation of 13 municipalities into one big unit; or

- Consolidation of the 13 into four, five or six municipalities under a metro government.

He must keep in mind probable future increase in population in a given area with future school needs, and probable industrial development, now growing faster in the suburban areas than in the city proper. He also will have to keep account of many other projections.

He also must figure how current industrial development will affect the respective assessments of the various areas.

He must determine if there is too much duplication under the present system.

These are some of the answers he must find along the way as he considers the purely economic sides of the problem before tackling its equally-delicate political aspects.

Royal Automobile Club
here now 60 years old

July 25 will mark 60 years of achievement and leadership for the Royal Automobile Club of Canada, and many of its notable firsts will be reviewed for members old and new in a special issue of the RAC News Letter, it was announced here this week.

The club was formed in 1904, under the name of Automobile Club of Canada "by far-sighted and public-spirited citizens who realized that, in a few years, the automobile was to become an essential part of Canadian life and would need regulations and good roads to achieve its purpose."

The review of history shows that the founders didn't find the automotive situation very funny 60 years ago, but just about everyone else - especially government - did: the club was incorporated under the Amusement Act of 1888, the car being considered a form of sport and amusement.

Name changes

In 1910, the review states, the name of the club was changed to The Automobile and Aero Club of Canada when it sponsored the first airplane meet in Canada. It seems that Count de Lesseps was brought over here at $10,000, plus $5,000 expenses to demonstrate flight here and in Toronto. In addition, the Wright Brothers sent four airplanes and J. A. McCurdy of Silver Dart fame was also on hand.

Expenses for the exhibition were $75,000, but receipts only $50,000, and so in 1912, the name of the club was changed back again to its original.

It took on its final name, the Royal Automobile Club of Canada, when it received royal assent in 1923. Ten years later, in 1933, it received a federal charter which permitted the club to expand across Canada.

The News Letter reviews many upstanding groups that were formed by RACC and at one time administered by it: the Canadian Good Roads Association, The Montreal Tourist and Convention Bureau, the Canadian Automobile Federation, and several others now defunct, having served their purpose at the time.

It was a far cry from the modern super-highways of today, but back in its formative years, the RACC offered farmers a prize of $200 in gold for the best-kept section of roadway, but the offer met with poor response - "probably because they earned more revenue towing cars out of the mud."

And some of the legendary names appeared at many of the RACC-sponsored motor shows, including Ralph de Palma and Barney Oldfield. The proceeds from these shows were used for road signs and to campaign for better roads, plus safe and courteous driving.

In 1908, the bulletin recalls, an anti-dust campaign was started when the club, at its own expense much of the time, oiled roads outside Montreal. And in 1910, the club bought and distributed split-log drags to farmers for use between St. John's and Rouse's Point to "smooth over the ruts." The operators, each of whom covered a five-mile stretch, received $40 a mile for the season's work.

It was a result of the club's work that in 1913 work was started on the St. Ann's and Ile Perrot bridges. In 1914, the Quebec Roads Department was formed with Hon. J. A. Tessier as the first minister.

In 1928-29, the club launched an appeal to keep highways open during the winter, a suggestion that brought scoffs from the Roads Minister. But the club engaged contractors with snow ploughs and shovels to keep the road open. The first year-round road was from Montreal to Rouse's Point, and was so successful that Winter Roads Committees sprung up all over the province. They received provincial grants, and later the Roads Department undertook to keep open main roads, and later secondary roads.

The club even pioneered in legislation requiring lights on vehicles at night, although its first suggestion did not receive government favor - it was felt that it would be too hard on farm vehicles. Eventually, though, municipalities were empowered to legislate, and the result is now that lights are necessary.

One-way streets

It was also the club, "way back when" that led to the first one-way streets: Notre Dame and St. James in Montreal which, it was stated, would permit a better traffic flow as one-way.

Great tribute was paid by Robert Parson, author of the current historical news letter, to George A. McNamee, first secretary-manager of the club, who was hired "on loan" from the MTC in 1905 as a part-time worker, authorized by the MTC to set up an office in a storage room of the company. In 1912 the club had 300 members, so Mr. McNamee came over as full-time secretary-treasurer, a post he held until retirement in 1958. He was succeeded by the current general manager, John M. MacKenzie.

Mr. McNamee, Mr. Parsons said, kept an accurate diary of events during his 53 years of service to the club.

Current program for the club is an expansion of its educational work in regard to safe driving, traffic regulation and encouragement of impartial enforcement of traffic laws concerning motor vehicles, as well as to seek a solution to the problem of ever-increasing traffic congestion.

Check home

It's fun to have a family conference before going on a vacation to plan where to go and what to see. But don't forget to include some important details involving the family home, reminds John Atkinson, president and managing director of a Canadian insurance company.

To protect against returning from a vacation trip only to find a burglar has ransacked your home, Mr. Atkinson urges these items be added to your pre-vacation planning list:

- Notify local police that you will be away and ask that your home be checked periodically.
- Draw drapes or shades - but not completely - only far enough to keep passers-by from seeing in. Use an automatic timer to turn lights on and off - they are inexpensive and easily installed.
- Discontinue mail and newspaper service and all home deliveries while away.

Scouts to participate in Expo 67

The Westmount Examiner, Friday, July 17, 1964

By PATRICIA CRAKANTHORP

"Be Prepared" is the order of the day as the Boy Scouts of Canada and Les Scouts Catholiques get ready to play their part in the 1967 Canadian Universal and International Exhibition.

Co-chaired by John L. Ravick of the Boy Scouts of Canada, and Louis Pronovost of Les Scouts Catholiques, a joint committee has been formed to draw up plans for nation-wide Scout participation in Expo '67. Following preliminary discussions with Expo '67 officials, the committee is developing a program tailored to the theme of the Exhibition.

The Scout Movement is no stranger to international fairs and exhibitions. Scouts the world over have played active parts in the 1958 Brussels Fair and in U.S. fairs held in Chicago, Seattle and currently, New York.

The three areas in which the Canadian Scouts believe they can be of the greatest possible help are in providing Scout services to the Expo '67 authorities, producing and operating their own exhibit in co-operation with the Fair and arranging accommodation and hospitality for Scouts from other parts of Canada and across the world who will be visiting the Fair.

Backing up the Boy Scouts of Canada and Les Scouts Catholiques joint participation in Expo '67 is the World Bureau of Scouting. The Ottawa-based bureau represents more than 9.5 million Scouts and leaders the world over, with 300,000 in Canada.

Rural Sociological Society

The first annual meeting and conference of the Rural Sociological Society of North America to be held outside the United States will take place at Macdonald College August 25 to August 28, 1964. Several hundred delegates from nearly every state in the U. S., as well as from several European countries, have already registered for the meetings.

The theme of this year's conference is "Human Resource Development." Presentations will deal with rural resource development and evaluation of rural resource development.

A general session will be held at 11:00 a.m. on Wednesday, August 26, dealing with "Rural Development in the U.S. and Canada." Participants will include Mr. A. T. Davidson, Director of A.R.D.A., Ottawa, and Mr. A. T. Mace, Director, Office of Rural Areas Development, Washington, D.C.

MR. and MRS. WALTER CHARLES ADAMS, photographed following their wedding which took place recently in St. Andrew's United Church, Westmount. Mrs. Adams was formerly Miss Nancy Helen Roberts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin M. Roberts, of Westmount, and Mr. Adams is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter T. Adams, of Montreal.

Adams—Roberts Wedding In Westmount Church

The marriage of Nancy Helen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin M. Roberts, of Westmount, to Mr. Walter Charles Adams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter T. Adams, of Montreal, took place recently in St. Andrew's United Church, Westmount, the Rev. D. M. Grant, D.D., officiating, assisted by the Rev. Frank Gilmore. Mr. Gordon C. White played the wedding music and Mr. Scott Savage sang during the signing of the register. White chrysanthemums and shasta daisies were used to decorate the church.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was in a gown of white shantung, the bodice having elbow length sleeves, the skirt having back fullness falling into a short train. Her shoulder-length veil was held by a water-lily headdress, and she carried a cascade bouquet of Orange Delight roses.

Miss Doris Carrie, as maid of honor, Miss Jean Nye, and Miss Arlene Cree, cousin of the bridegroom, as bridesmaids, were in frocks of shrimp-pink sheer, the bodices having draped necklines with scarves falling from the shoulders at the back, and elbow-length sleeves. They wore head-dresses of yellow and white daisies and carried bouquets of Queen Elizabeth roses and white daisies.

Miss Deborah Hall, of Rochester, N.Y., as junior bridesmaid for her aunt, was in a frock of aquamarine organdy. She wore a bandeau of Goldilocks roses and white daisies and carried a nosegay of the same flowers.

Mr. Stuart Adams acted as best man for his brother, and the ushers were Mr. Richard Green, cousin of the bridegroom, and Mr. David Burnett.

Mrs. Roberts, the bride's mother, was in a gown of pink shantung with a bolero of Guipure lace. She wore a pink lace hat with a bow of contrasting velvet, and had a cymbidium orchid pinned to her purse.

Mrs. Adams, mother of the bridegroom, wore a gown of rose-beige lace with a matching hat and a corsage bouquet of white cymbidium orchids.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Stage Coach Inn.

*Social

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Heyman returned recently in the Empress of England from abroad.

Dr. Joan Foster, Principal of Trafalgar School for Girls, was among those who attended the conference of headmistresses of Private Schools for Girls in Canada held recently in Crofton House School, Vancouver.

Mr. and Mrs. Ian Rochester have returned from Ottawa where they attended the Jackson-Williams wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Jamie Plant have returned from a stay in Pembroke, Bermuda.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Salsky are spending some time at the Sheraton-British Colonial Hotel, Nassau, The Bahamas.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Jackson sailed recently in the Empress of Canada to spend a month travelling in the British Isles.

Ann Bala, 15 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. Bala of 542 Lansdowne avenue, a graduate of St. George's School, is spending her summer at the Maxwell Vacation School, Ithica, N. Y.

Knitted fabrics
key to comfort

The continued popularity of knitted fabrics is an indication of the importance of comfort in clothes. Because of the way they are made, knits are elastic and porous and they "give" as the body moves. It is this freedom of movement and airiness which makes them so comfortable to wear.

Silk-like Jersey is playing an increasingly important role in this up-surge of interest in knitted fabrics, simply because it has so much to offer in both appearance and performance.

Man-made fibres, such as "Terylene," which are washable and require no ironing, are making it possible to produce jersey fabrics that adapt to interesting styling because they can be durably pleated and intricately draped. In addition, some of the newest fabrics are now finished in such a way they have the soft sheen of satin and they are printed in vivid yet distinctive prints. Best of all, because "Terylene" neither stretches nor shrinks, fabrics of this fibre retain their shape . . . even after being machine washed.

One of the new "Terylene" jerseys being introduced this spring is called "chiffon." Gossamer sheer, it nevertheless has all the easy-care features found in heavier knits in this fibre. This chiffon jersey is particularly adaptable to youthful styles so Later, Mr. and Mrs. Adams left for Maine, the bride travelling in a frock of aquamarine silk with a print jacket in white and aquamarine, and wearing a white lace straw hat, white accessories and a corsage bouquet of white carnations.

On their return, they will take up residence in Montreal.

Dorothy McIntosh Weds
John Raynes Waterson

The marriage of Dorothy Elizabeth, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John F. McIntosh, of Westmount, to Mr. John Raynes Waterston, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Waterston, took place on Saturday afternoon, in St. Matthias Church, Westmount, the Rev. Peter Davison, of Trinity Memorial Church, officiating, assisted by Mr. T. M. S. Kingston. Mr. N. W. Huddle played the wedding music. Gold and white gladioli, carnations, chrysanthemums, daisies, and hydrangea were used to decorate the church; the pews for guests being marked with white ribbons.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was in a gown of white organdy over taffeta, the bodice having a bateau neckline and elbow-length sleeves, the skirt being appliqued in organza flowers, and having a panel at the front and back fullness falling into a chapel train. Her long veil of tulle illusion was held by a small, matching circlet and she carried a cascade bouquet of white cattleya orchids and stephanotis.

Mrs. William Berghuis, as matron of honor, and Miss Joan Gilroy, of Truro, N.S. as bridesmaid, were in frocks of pale green raw silk interwoven with straw. They wore large, picture hats of matching straw and carried bouquets of gold and white daisies, with touches of red.

Mr. Stanley Pepler acted as best man for Mr. Waterston, and the ushers were Mr. Douglas Waterston, of London, Ont., Mr. Thomas Waterston, of Dorval, brothers of the bridegroom, and Mr. John Ritchie, of Toronto, nephew of the bridegroom.

Mrs. McIntosh, the bride's mother, was in a cream color gown, and wore a matching hat and a corsage bouquet of Tawny gold roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Themis Club where flowers in gold and white were used as decorations.

Later, Mr. and Mrs. Waterston left for Bermuda and New Brunswick, the bride travelling in a pale turquoise ensemble, and wearing white accessories and a corsage bouquet of white carnations and stephanotis.

Take a can of salmon

According to a recent survey of fish preferences, salmon is Canada's favorite variety of canned fish. Most folk enjoy it served cold, and a good dish for a hot day is Salmon Star Salad which can be quickly and easily made from ingredients you will likely have on hand.

SALMON STAR SALAD

- 1 can (1 pound) salmon
- 1 cup chopped celery
- 2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
- 1/2 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
- 2 tablespoons chopped sweet pickle
- 6 medium tomatoes
- Salad greens
- Salt

Drain and flake salmon. Combine with remaining ingredients except tomatoes; mix gently. Turn tomatoes stem side down. Cut each, not quite through, into 6 equal sections. Place on salad greens and spread open. Sprinkle with salt. Fill with salmon salad. Makes 6 servings.

ORT Convention set for Oct. 3

Mrs. A. B. Bennett, president of the Women's Canadian ORT announces the appointment of Mrs. J. Y. Stotland, of Montreal, as chairman of the 8th biennial convention to be held by the group from October 3-5 at the Queen Elizabeth Hotel.

The convention will open with a reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Bronfman. Mrs. Bronfman and Mrs. Monroe Abbey are honorary partons of ORT.

More than 400 delegates and friends are expected to attend the convention banquet at which Dr. William Haber, dean of the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, will speak.

many a young miss will have the opportunity to wear a jersey knit for the first time this season. If she does, she will probably become a devotee.

NORMAL "ABNORMALITIES"
By Kenneth S. Shepard, M.D.
Director, Well Baby Clinics
Northwestern University School of Medicine

The new mother often will call her pediatrician to report that she's discovered an abnormality in her baby. In most instances, the mother will describe a normal "abnormality," a variation that is perfectly natural in the newborn baby. Here are a few of the more common ones:

Abdominal Breathing — Failure to use the chest and rib muscles in breathing for the first two days of life cannot be considered abnormal. Abdominal breathing is the rule in the newborn until the lungs are fully expanded, usually by the fourth day.

"Cat-Back" Posture — When a newborn baby is held in a sitting position, his back usually assumes a severe hump. This is normal until the neck reflexes and muscles begin to strengthen and develop tone.

Swelling of Infant's Breasts — Within a few days after birth, the breasts of many infants begin to engorge. Even in the male infant there is frequently milk production. This is due to the crossover of lactating hormone from the mother and its stimulation of the breasts of the infant. This is normal and should clear up within a few weeks.

Two Innate Fears — Infants are born with two innate fears. These are the fear of falling and the fear of loud noises. Shakes and tremors and loud crying may be elicited by shaking the bassinette and by making loud and explosive sounds. Some infants seem to be more sensitive to these fear-provoked episodes than others. Some parents have harsh, explosive speech patterns that may evoke various manifestation of these fears.

Odd Head Shapes — Elongated, lopsided, irregularly shaped heads are the rule in first-born babies. These irregularities are corrected swiftly and naturally. Improvement should be seen by the 5th or 6th day.

Eye Swelling — This is seen commonly in infants born face up and represents no abnormality. It may also occur following the use of silver nitrate in the eyes at birth, a legally instituted procedure as a preventive measure against gonorrhoea. This too will clear up.

Position of Comfort — Every baby has a "position of comfort." Usually, this is on one side with the legs drawn up and the hands forward, but some may desire another bizarre position. These preferences should be tolerated.

Rooting Reflex — The newborn infant will make rooting motions, trying to dig his face and head into any soft object such as a pillow, breast or soft toy animal. This reflex is related to the sucking reflex and will diminish at about the age of three or four months.

Lobster salad for luncheon

An elegant main course for a ladies' luncheon is Party Lobster Salad served with raw relishes and tiny, hot, buttered rolls.

PARTY LOBSTER SALAD
1 pound cooked or canned lobster meat, drained
1 cup diced celery
1 tablespoon minced onion
1/2 cup slivered, unblanched almonds
1/3 cup mayonnaise
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Lettuce cups

Cut lobster meat into bite-size chunks, removing any cartilage from the meat of the claws. Combine lobster, celery, onion, and all but 2 tablespoons of the almonds, reserving these for a garnish. Combine mayonnaise and lemon juice. Add to lobster mixture. Toss lightly to mix. Serve in crisp lettuce cups sprinkled with remaining almonds. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

'Shrimp boats are a 'comin'

Cucumber boats make ship-shape containers for seafood salads. For one of the coolest, prettiest salads you ever made, try a cucumber boat filled with curly, pink shrimp. Set each cargo-laden craft adrift on a lettuce-lined salad plate made colorful by the addition of a few overlapping slices of tomato and hard-cooked egg.

SHRIMP BOAT SALAD
2 cups cooked or canned shrimp, deveined
1/2 cup vinegar
1 tablespoon sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup salad oil
3 medium-sized cucumbers
Mayonnaise
1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley
Lettuce
3 hard-cooked eggs, sliced

THE SIDE-BUTTONED Collie Coat by Josef is made of knitted Arnel sharkskin, delicately striped in tones of blue, bronze, white and turquoise. Good when worn over toning slims, or as a cover-coat over a bathing suit.

Miss Bertha Kalifon weds Peter Madras

The marriage of Bertha, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Kalifon, to Mr. Peter Madras, son of Dean and Mrs. Samuel Madras, took place recently in the Queen Elizabeth Hotel, Rabbi Maurice Cohen, of Shaare Zion Synagogue, officiating. Mr. Louis Burko played the wedding music and Mr. Solomon Gisser was cantor. Standards of white gladioli and daisies, and turquoise carnations were used as decorations.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was in a gown of white silk, having a bodice of lace with a bateau neckline and short sleeves, and a train extending from the shoulders. She carried a prayer book covered with white orchids and Stephanotis.

ATTENDANTS
Mrs. Martin Zimmerman, as matron of honor for her sister, was in a frock of green chiffon, having a bodice with elbow-length sleeves, and a full skirt. She carried a cascade bouquet of green and white carnations. Miss Cecile Kalifon, as maid of honor for her sister, wore a frock of ivory and yellow silk with a matching bolero; having a bodice with a jewel neckline, and an A-line skirt. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow and white split carnations. Miss Paula Berger, Miss Celia Lang, Mrs. David Magder, and Miss Rosalind Saginur, as attendants, were in turquoise frocks, having bodices with

2 large tomatoes, sliced
If using canned shrimp, drain, cover with cold water and let stand 5 minutes; drain. Combine vinegar, sugar, salt, and oil. Mix well. Marinate shrimp in mixture for 1 hour. Pare cucumbers or not as desired. Cut in halves, lengthwise, and scoop out the seeds. Cut a thin slice from the bottom of each cucumber half so that it will balance evenly on a plate. Drain marinated shrimp and brush cucumber boats with the marinade. Pile shrimp into boats and dot generously with mayonnaise. Sprinkle with finely chopped parsley. Place boats on individual salad plates which have been lined with lettuce. Garnish each plate with slices of tomato and hard-cooked egg. Makes 6 servings.

Meaty sardines

Meaty sardines from the chill waters of the Bay of Fundy are on sale everywhere in Canada. Low in cost, yet high in food value, these versatile little fish are especially good in salads.

SARDINE
CABBAGE VINAIGRETTE
3 cans (3 1/4 ounces each) Canadian sardines
4 cups shredded cabbage
1/4 cup chopped onion
1/4 cup chopped parsley
2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
1/2 cup salad oil
1/4 cup vinegar
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon chopped pimiento
1 tablespoon chopped sweet pickle
Salad greens

Drain sardines and cut into bite-size pieces. Set aside a few whole sardines for a garnish, if desired. In a large bowl combine cabbage, onion, parsley, eggs, and sardines. In a smaller bowl combine oil, vinegar, seasonings, pimiento, and pickle.

ception was held in the Marquette and Joliette Salons of the Queen Elizabeth Hotel where yellow chrysanthemums, turquoise carnations, and white daisies were used as decorations.

Later, Mr. and Mrs. Madras left for Cape Cod, Mass., the bride travelling in a suit of beige wool, and wearing a blouse of coral raw silk and white accessories.

'Shark' Association regatta August 1-2

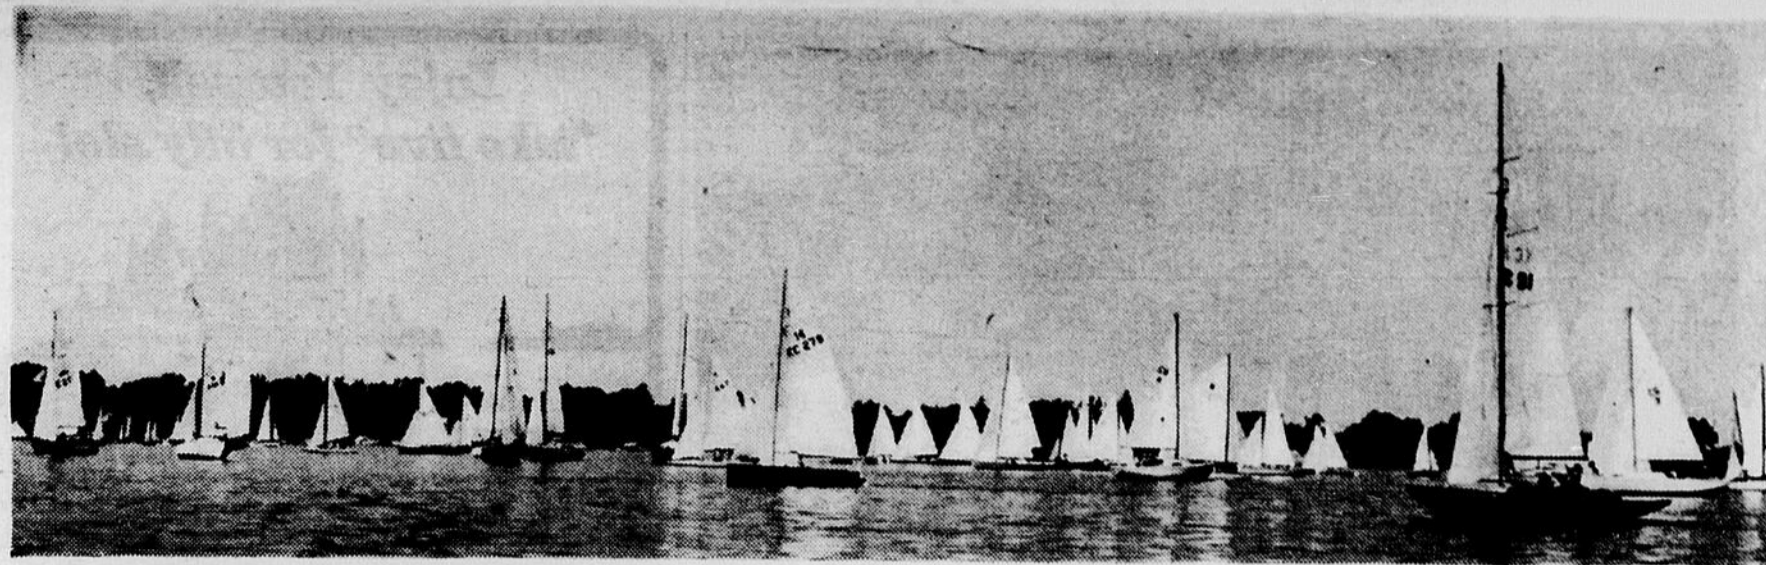

One of Canada's fastest growing classes will hold its Second Annual Championship at Hudson Y.C. Aug. 1 and 2. This is the Shark Class Association, governing body for the Shark Class in Canada, which has done valuable work in organizing the class.

In 1963 this Regatta was held at Kingston Y.C.; it was won by Henry Fierz of the host club with Liv. Sherwood of Britannia Y.C.,

Ottawa, taking the runner-up spot. Races will be sailed on Sat. (Continued on page 12)

was host to the largest fleet ever registered for its annual Regatta — 174 entries were received and the assembled fleet, plus the flag-decorated Club House, presented an outstanding sight.

Because of the lack of wind, the Regatta presented very few noteworthy incidents. The local 'tars' got their share of the prizes, winning six of the 12 races, closely followed by the Royal St. Lawrence with four wins.

The largest class was the Flying Juniors with 33 boats entered. This race saw the lead change hands on several occasions as Peter McBride and Mirage Cup Winner B. Chadwick led the fleet around the course.

The evening activities saw a complete sell-out of the famous P.C.Y.C. barbecue steak dinner, which was followed by the annual Regatta Dance.

Race Committee Chairman was Jack Cameron.

Sunday brought better winds and the Mirage Cup Race for boats of 21' or over got under way at 10.30 a.m. There were 25 entries, and the winner was "Pedro" sailed by Dr. C. Casgrain.

Sunday afternoon saw the Mirage Trophy Handicap Race for boats under 21' and the International 14's trophy, with 49 and 11 entries respectively. B. Chadwick, sailing Flying Junior No. 692 took top honours in the Mirage Trophy, while Jeff Jenkinson won the International 14's.

A display of arts and crafts was shown to the parents on Thursday night, as well as color slides showing their youngsters in many activities.

Beginners getting a 'pass' were: — Gertrude Batiste, Donald Benning, Wolfgang Berzeski, Daniel Bland, Leslie Brown, Sandra Budd, Barbara Carsley, Edward Chamberlain, John Cuddy, Robert Daemen, Elise Daemen, Suzanne Desmarais, Dawn Empey, Helen Findlay, Robert Garvin, George Goodwin, Jerry Griffiths, Stephen Gunn, Susan Jamieson, Gordon Johnston, Daniel Matte, Karen E. MARK SOCIAL NEEDS

We cannot imagine a community that would refuse to provide schools for children's intellectual needs. Is it any less shocking for communities to be blind to youth's need for social life for which neither the school nor the home is equipped to be entirely responsible? — Terrace (B.C.) Herald.

Royal St. Lawrence tars battle for points

Pierre Desjardins won the fourth race at Kingston yesterday but his victory did little to cut into the point lead which his Royal St. Lawrence clubmate, Ed. Botterell, had run up with two wins and a third in the first three of seven races in Olympic trials at Kingston.

KINGSTON, Ont. — Sailing Serendipity, Botterell finished 57 seconds behind clubmate Pierre Desjardins in Passe Partout, who was timed in one hour, 55.36 seconds, but holds 3,790 points to the latter's 2,343 total in the seven-race series to date.

Stan Leibel of the Toronto Island Yacht Club sailed Ariadne to victory in the 5.5 metre class, the only other yacht to see action as winds gusting to 35 miles per hour cancelled racing in the lighter Flying Dutchman, Finn and Star classes. Leibel completed the course in 1:53.06.

Botterell, with crew Doug Woodward and Bernie Skinner, led the fleet over the first two legs before dropping two places on the second beat to windward. Desjardins, lying third behind Paul Phelan of Royal Canadian yacht club, Toronto, picked up ground by keeping his spinnaker flying up on the third leg, a broad reach and took the lead on the final windward-return-windward section of the Olympic course.

Phelan, sailing Mia, finished third followed by Stephen Tupper, Royal Vancouver yacht club, in Audax and Laurie Muir, RCYC, sailing Tudo Azul.

Gerry Letourneau of Royal St. Lawrence, who was lying second overall after Tuesday's racing, retired Wednesday after fouling a buoy in company with Phelan and slipped to sixth overall. Following the incident, Letourneau protested against Phelan, claiming that Mia also fouled the marker. However, Letourneau later withdrew the protest after doubts were raised about the exact circumstances.

Third place overall in the Dragons was taken by Phelan with 2,188 points followed by Muir, 2,091 and R. G. Townsend, Royal St. Lawrence, who placed eighth yesterday for a 1,820 points total.

Leibel's win in the 5.5 metre class put him in the overall lead with 2,608 points while Dr. Sandy MacDonald, Royal St. Lawrence slipped from second overall to third after withdrawing from yesterday's race.

WATCH LOCAL NEEDS

The fight about store opening and closing hours is being fought in many parts of Canada at the present time. We do not feel that any move which would close the doors of smaller stores in our area is to the advantage of either the shopping public or conversely to the balance of business in the city, but hope the local situation can be settled amicably and to the benefit of all. — Peace River Block (B.C.) News.

Cartierville 60th Regatta

Cartierville Boating Club, who have enjoyed more success in the last 10 years than they have in the first 50, will celebrate their 60th anniversary regatta, Saturday on their Back River course.

Starting time is 10 a.m. with a break off for lunch and races resume again in the afternoon at 2 p.m.

Carts, who did not win a Canadian championship until they were 50 years old have set a hard pace for any club to follow.

They have been winning everything and last Saturday at Grand Trunk's 89th regatta, it was no different.

Carts totaled 177 points with Lachine second with 110. Lachine have been their closest rivals for many years now. Chateauguay got third with 21 points and Trunks, Otterburn and Radisson followed.

It will be a tough weekend, as the clubs of the Eastern Division will not only paddle at Cartierville Saturday, but have a date in Three Rivers for the Radisson meet.

When bread is stored in its original wrapper in a clean, ventilated bread box at room temperature (70°F.), it will remain fresh for several days.
