NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP) — The federal government accepts the blame for high unemployment in Canada. Prime Minister Trudeau said in a radio interview broadcast here Monday.

Mr. Trudeau told interviewer Jack Webster he regretted the high unemployment but said inflation with high employment was not an acceptable alternative to no inflation with high unemployment.

"If we could live with inflation and have a booming economy and more employment, that would be great."

But 50 per cent of Canada's produce now goes into export markets and "if we let inflation run away in Canada we will lose our markets and the workers who try to produce for those markets will be out of a job."

Mr. Trudeau said many of those now on Canada's unemployment rolls were not heads of families but young people who left school early, people at retirement age who wish to continue working and an increasing number of women.

In the broadcast—excerpts of a television interview held in Ottawa last week to be broadcast on CBC television Sunday night—the prime minister also discussed pay increases for members of Parliament, the monarchy and a wide range of other topics.

He said he did not see unemployment and economic slow-down as the cause of civil disorder in Quebec last October.

There is higher unemployment in the Maritime Provinces, he said. And "there is violence in other parts of the world where the economies are high and moving."

Mr. Trudeau said he did not believe the monarchy was a sore point in relations between French and English Canadians although French Canadians are more "passive" in their loyalty to the Queen.

Flying saucers here?

SHERBROOKE (WC) — Believe in flying saucers? Seven students who belong to the International Cosmic Control Center—Sherbrooke chapter do. They have organized, planned and built a model flying saucer which will be on display at the Salon de Printemps at the Sherbrooke Sports Palace May 13-16.

Over 4,200 hours of work and $8,700 of material and equipment are used in the saucer exhibition which will be on display in the Arena.

The special vessel, named "Astro-Cosmos 2,000", was built by the students. Entering the saucer, a person is taken on a voyage throughout our galaxy by means of films and taped voices. A cannon in front of the vessel creates a magnetic field illuminating the whole area around it. A continuous stream of 60,000 volts flow through the craft.

All funds raised will be used to research the possibility of the existence of flying saucers. Jacques Laurendeau, one of the students said yesterday.

QUEBEC IN FOCUS

Flooding along Richelieu

ST. JOHNS, Que. (CP) — One highway has been closed, several hundred homes isolated and over 4,000 acres of farmland flooded along the Richelieu River valley south of Montreal.

Jacques Laporte, director-general of the Upper Richelieu development council, said in an interview Monday night the situation has been steadily deteriorating for three weeks.

"The river has been steadily increasing in height and now it's eight feet above the normal midsummer height," he said.

Worst hit is a stretch of river property between St. Johns and Baie Missisquoi, 50 miles southeast of Montreal where Route 52 along the river is closed off by flooding for over a mile and Route 21 is expected to be closed at any time.

New lottery regulations

QUEBEC (CP) — Bingo games will be a more common occurrence in the province according to new regulations governing lotteries published Monday by the board of lotteries and races.

Religious and charitable organizations and anyone else who is a Canadian citizen, can now obtain a permit to run any lottery, valued at up to $3,500.

The rules state that a person wishing to organize a lottery must obtain a permit 30 days in advance of the scheduled event and be prepared to put up a bond as a guarantee that at least 10 per cent of the receipts will be handed back to the public in the form of prizes.

To begin spray operation

QUEBEC (CP) — The Quebec government has announced that it will begin a large-scale spraying operation in June to fight a current outbreak of spruce budworm threatening several western Quebec forests.

Almost two million acres of forest land in Gatineau and Pontiac and an additional 100,000 acres in Temiscouata will be sprayed.

A lands and forests department spokesman said almost four million acres of land and 14 million cords of wood are threatened by the spruce budworm epidemic which appeared in Quebec in 1967.

The spruce budworm strips needles off spruce at a ferocious rate and after four consecutive years of defoliation, the tree is dead. A heavy tree mortality could seriously upset the pulp and paper industry, a major producer in the Quebec economy.

To rule on porno charges

QUEBEC (CP) — Judge Gilles Carle of the Quebec Sessions Court will rule Friday on a motion to reject pornography charges brought against Famous Players Co. in connection with the presentation of two French-language movies Pile ou Face—Heads or Tails—and Apres Ski.

The request was made Monday by Claude Blanchard legal counsel for the film distributing company.

Msr. Raymond Lavoie, the pastor of St. Roch parish, laid the original complaints April 26, two days after police seized the films in Quebec City and suburban St. Foy.

After the seizure, the two theatres got additional copies of the film and began showing them the next day. Both movies continue to be shown in Montreal.

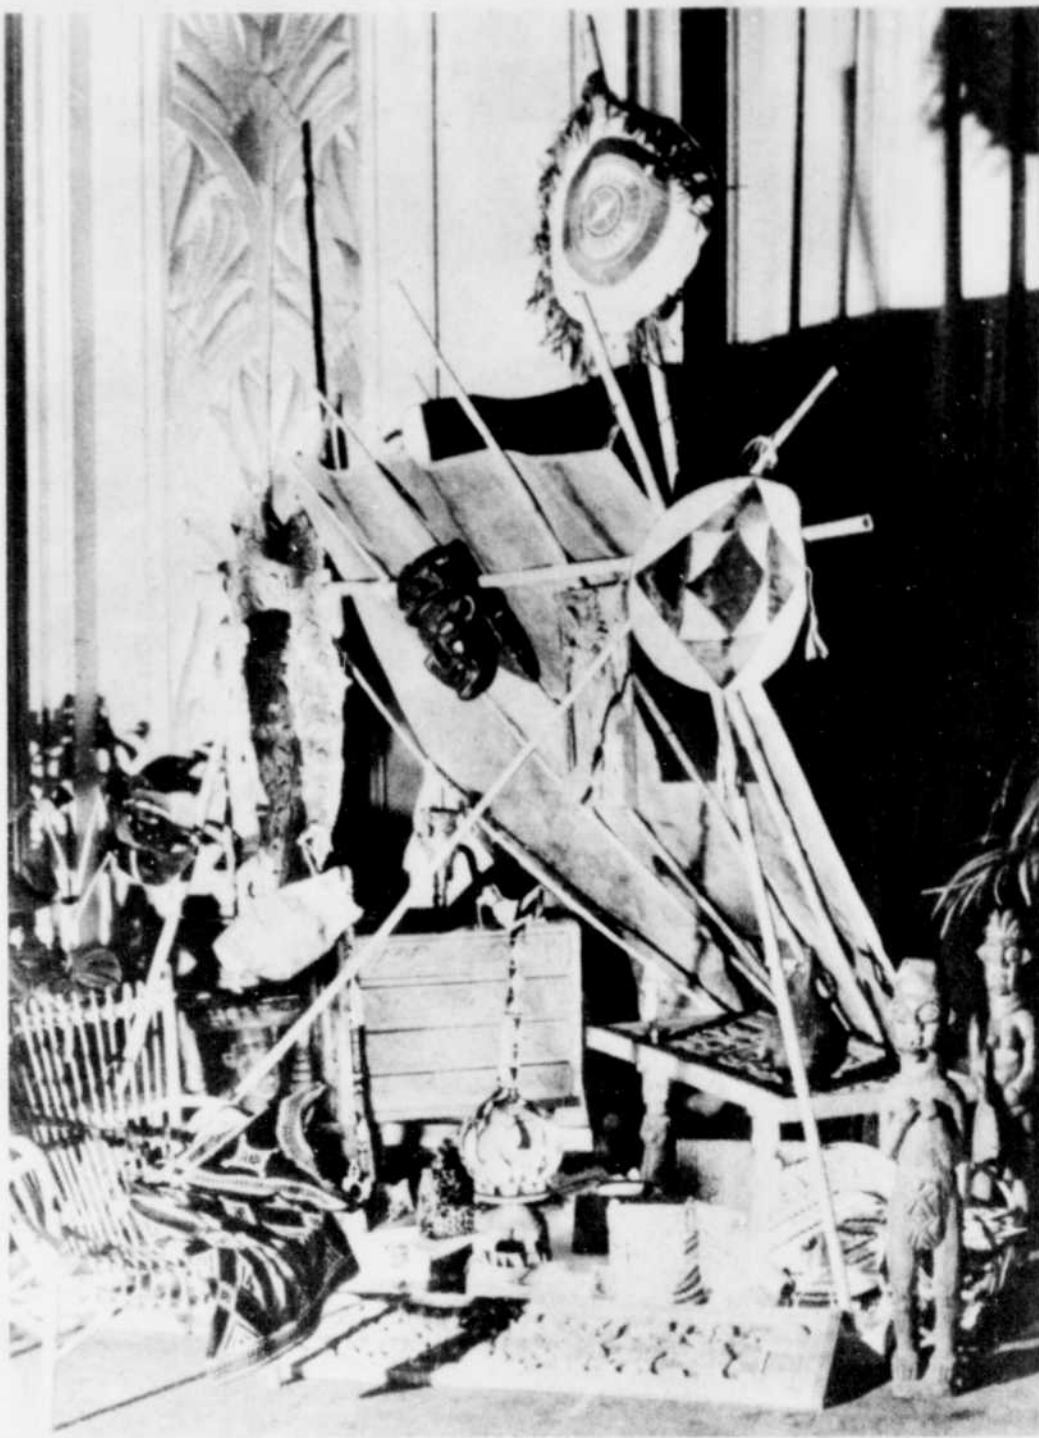

If the judge rejects the motion, the trial will begin June 4.

Is the public 'starving'?

OTTAWA (CP) — Food industries have been asked by the federal government to help prevent the public eating or drinking itself into starvation.

The paradox arises from growing popularity of artificial and substitute foods and drinks of all kinds, such things as soy bean chops and soft drinks, imitation chicken and hamburger and substitute dairy foods.

Regulatory authorities anticipate they will become even bigger business. They say that without some control over nutritive claims people may gradually replace more and more traditional foods with new foods in the belief that they are just as nutritious.

The end result could be people eating just as much as before but starving themselves of essential nutrients.

As a result, the food and drug directorate has published a set of regulations about vitamin and mineral nutrients in foods and a number of guides for the addition of nutrients.

The first set will come into force Sept. 15 after more than three years discussion with food manufacturers. The second is just starting out on a similar round of consultations.

The chief feature of the first set is that six new minerals have been added to calcium, phosphorus, iron and iodine as mineral nutrients. They are sodium, potassium, zinc, copper, magnesium and manganese.

Rules are set out for the amounts that must be present in foods claimed as being mineral nutrients. At the same time, reasonable daily intakes of foods containing these minerals are established.

Musician returns to ET

SHERBROOKE (DM) — An Eastern Townships native who now is teaching at the University of Quebec in Three Rivers returns to Sherbrooke tonight.

Michel Dussault will perform works by Beethoven, Liszt, Chopin, Morel and Albeniz at the Sherbrooke CEGEP on Terril Street. The concert will begin at 8 p.m.

The format of the concert will be much the same as that of "Young People's Concerts", Leonard Bernstein's television series.

Mr. Dussault will explain and then play each work on the program.

Included in the program are three works written by Mr. Dussault himself. Titled Etude pour les Chants Interieurs, Etude pour les Sonorites des Pouches and Etude de Velocite, they were all composed in 1957 for Yvonne Hubert, one of Mr. Dussault's teachers at the Conservatory of the Province of Quebec in Montreal.

Other works on the program are Liszt's Eroica etude, Beethoven's Les Adieux sonata, Chopin's Premier Impromptu and Fantaisie Impromptu. Morel's Deuxieme Etude de Sonorite and Albeniz Triana and Navarra.

Michel Dussault was born in Thetford Mines in 1943. Both his parents were musicians. He began musical studies at the age of 11 under the direction of Sister

Saint-Raymond-Marie.

Later, while pursuing his studies at College St-Laurent, he was admitted to the Conservatory of the Province of Quebec in Montreal. After a few years of studies, he was awarded a First Prize with a special mention.

Mr. Dussault presented his first public recital at the age of 16 at the Orford Jeunesses Musicales du Canada Centre. In 1960, one year later, he won the Archambault Prize, a scholarship from the Fondation les Amis de l'Art and the grand prize in the first CBC Talent Festival.

In 1961, he left for Paris to study with the French pianist Vlado Perlemuter. One year later, he was admitted to the Paris Conservatory and studied with Yvonne Lefebvre. After another year of studies, he graduated with the first prize which he was awarded unanimously.

His Canadian performances include, apart from four tours for Jeunesses Musicales du Canada, several concerts with Canadian orchestras.

Quebec wants priority in welfare legislation

QUEBEC (CP) — Claude Castonguay, Quebec social affairs minister, says federal government attempts to legislate for minimum living standards have failed and Quebec must have precedence in the social security field.

"You just have to see how, in the course of the last few years, despite all the existing programs, despite the fact that the federal government has always said that it is in this field to assure national minimums, that these objectives have not been realized," he said in an interview with The Canadian Press.

"One has simply to see how poverty subsists."

Mr. Castonguay rejected the notion that Quebec priority in social security would destroy federal programs.

He stressed he was speaking strictly for Quebec.

"We are not soliciting the support of other provinces," he said, adding that the others except for Ontario "generally accept what the federal government proposes."

For Quebecers, the major government is in Quebec City, but for Canadians in other provinces the federal government is most important.

STAKED CLAIM

Mr. Castonguay staked Quebec's social security claim at the federal-provincial conference of welfare ministers last January in Ottawa.

The claim was repeated by Premier Robert Bourassa at the constitutional conference in February and negotiations between federal and Quebec officials have continued since then.

The matter is expected to be raised again at another federal-provincial welfare ministers meeting May 20-21 and at the constitutional conference in June at Victoria.

"One of the essential functions of federalism," he said, "is to redistribute the wealth among members of the federation. The form of contributions is negotiable."

Present social security laws in some cases dissuade persons from working because they lose benefits as earned income rises.

Mr. Castonguay has proposed a form of guaranteed annual income as a solution to social security problems.

Support for marketing bill 'wavering' says PM

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau admitted Monday that some provincial governments have changed their mind about supporting the government's farm products marketing bill.

The prime minister blamed opposition "obstruction" of the bill, which was originally introduced in the Commons last spring and is still before the House, for the provincial wavering.

The provinces have been waiting for a year and a half for the bill, he said, suggesting that they have begun to lose interest.

An "immense majority" of the provinces had supported the bill at the federal-provincial conference last September, and had urged the government to push for its immediate passage to help solve the agricultural "chicken-and-egg" marketing war that has sprung up among provinces during the last year.

Since then, Mr. Trudeau said, some provinces had "wavered" in their support of the legislation, which would enable the provinces to get together in national commodity marketing agencies that could distribute production quotas among them.

The chicken-and-egg war began last spring when Quebec passed legislation making it necessary for outside egg producers wishing to sell their eggs on the Quebec market to go through a provincial marketing board.

MARKETING DIFFICULT

Since then several other provinces have passed similar legislation that in effect makes it difficult for other provinces to bring eggs or broiler chickens onto their market.

While the opposition has pushed for the federal government to take the issue to the Supreme Court of Canada, on the ground that these internal provincial marketing regulations are blocking interprovincial trade and such blockage is illegal under the British North American Act, the federal government has maintained that the best way to attack the problem is to get the provinces co-operating under the farm products marketing legislation.

But the Manitoba government has not been convinced. It has a case of its own making scheduled to appear before the Supreme Court at the end of this month.

Supreme Court rules on interprovincial trade

OTTAWA (CP) — The Supreme Court of Canada ruled in a judgment published Monday that the federal government may regulate commerce inside a province so long as the intervention is promoting a wider, national policy.

The ruling by six of the nine Supreme Court justices thus reaffirmed decisions dating from 1931. They awarded precedence to federal powers, in furtherance of national policies, over the constitutional right of a provincial government to regulate trade within its borders.

The existence of provincial regulatory authority over specific trades within a province is no hindrance to federal action in the same field when that action is "an integral part of a scheme for the regulation of international or interprovincial trade," the justices ruled.

The judgment arose from an appeal last year by Caloil Inc. of Montreal against new federal regulations that had the effect of limiting the distribution of gasoline imported by Caloil to a small area of eastern Ontario and to provinces east of there.

The regulations, first proclaimed last May 7, were designed to enforce adherence to the previously-voluntary national oil policy. That policy aims to reserve all Canada west of a line through eastern Ontario as an exclusive market for Canadian petroleum products. Imports may be sold east of the Ontario line.

CHALLENGED DECISION

Caloil challenged the regulations in the Exchequer Court of Canada on the ground that they were unconstitutional.

Justice Wilbur J. Lacombe, president of the court, agreed Aug. 1 that the legislation governing petroleum distribution under the national oil policy and the new regulations went beyond federal authority.

Amended federal regulations Aug. 12 specified that imports licensed by the National Energy Board must meet marketing requirements consistent with the national oil policy.

Caloil challenged again, and Justice Jacques Dumoulin of the exchequer court ruled that the legislation behind the new import regulations was within federal powers.

Caloil's appeal against that ruling—supported by Quebec province—was heard by the full

Supreme Court last Nov. 23 and 24 and rejected unanimously then.

Reasons for the rejection, published Monday, included the majority judgment written by Justice Louis-Philippe Pigeon and a separate reason written by Justice Bora Laskin and supported by justices Ronald Martland and Wilfred Judson.

The majority judgment criticizes the two exchequer court justices for pronouncing on the merits of the legislation backing the national oil policy, one saying it was unconstitutional and the other saying it was within federal powers.

It says formal pronouncements on the validity of the legislative scheme underlying the point at issue ought to be avoided.

AUUW plan banquet

DERBY LINE — The Universalist Church AUUW society held their April meeting a week earlier due to the annual meeting of the New Hampshire Vermont Unitarian Universalist Women's Federation on April 20 at Montpelier to which some of the members planned to attend.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Lillian Cargill. In the absence of Mrs. R. Cargill, the president, the meeting was conducted by Mrs. James Stevens, Jr. and opened with a period of devotion by Mrs. Cargill. Routine reports followed and communications given attention. The members were reminded of the Pot luck supper on April 24 in the church vestry for the congregation of the church and musical program by the Genco's of Derby.

Mrs. Reginald Martin agreed to be in charge of the coffee hour at the Sunday services the month of May.

The annual membership spring banquet was planned for May 18 with Mrs. Howard Walsh to make the arrangements.

There was a lot of fun and money added to the treasury by the auction sale of box lunches. Mrs. Millie Adam was auctioneer. Mrs. Cargill served beverages.

Here is another hand from our match against Brazil in the World's championship. The bidding in the box is what took place when Jim Jacoby and Bobby Wolff held the North-South cards for North America.

The Brazilian East player elected to double five clubs. He held two aces and felt that his good spades in back of North's spade suit would give South some trouble. He turned out to be wrong since South held just one spade and with 12 trumps in the combined hands there was no problem about handling any potential losers except for one heart and one diamond.

The bidding went the same way at the other table until the five-club bid came around to Bobby Goldman, who held the East hand for North America.

Bobby thought about doubling five clubs, but came to the conclusion that he wouldn't set it more than one trick and possibly five clubs would make. In any event there was a very good chance that five hearts would breeze home. Therefore, Bobby bid it.

South doubled that and as you readers can see five hearts would make easily but at this point Gabriel Chagas who played magnificently for Brazil throughout the entire tournament made the brilliant decision to go to six clubs. That decision saved something from the wreck, but we scored 550 at one table and 100 at the other for 12 IMPs.

Brigham

On Thursday, April 29, Miss Grace Hawthorne hosted a Dessert Card Party at her home. Dessert was served at 1:00 p.m. after which 500 was played at four tables. Ladies' first, second, and third prizes were won by Mrs. Borden Ingalls, Mrs. Gladys Hobbs, and Mrs. Walter Hawthorne respectively. In the same order the gentlemen's prizes were won by Mr. George Patterson, Mr. Cedric Dougall, and Mr. Clark Powers.

The Brigham Community extends a most hearty welcome to Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Sherrer, Michael, David, and Heather who are now residing in the house formerly owned by Mrs. Paul Marcotte, who has moved to Montreal and is renting an apartment with her son, James.

Miss Helen Dougall spent Saturday, May 1, with her sister, Mrs. J. F. Blue in Montreal while Miss Doris Dougall spent the day with Miss Mildred Jehu in Lachine.

Sunday service in the United Church was led by Rev. Kenneth Thomson of Sutton. Mr. Thomson brought with him four young people of his Dunham parish who pleasantly assisted in the service by singing three popular selections accompanied by the organ and guitar which were greatly enjoyed. It is regrettable there were not more present to hear these young people.

Mr. and Mrs. John Madden and family were supper guests of her parents Sunday, May 2. Callers at the same home were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Madden, West Brom.

Sunday afternoon visitors of Misses Helen and Doris Dougall were Mr. Henry Neil, Misses Lillian, Erma and Elsie Neil, all of Granby.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The expression "to pull the wool over one's eyes" was originated during the era when gentlemen wore white wigs, generally made of wool. The World Almanac notes that when high-women committed a robbery they would pull their victim's wig down over his eyes before taking his valuables.

Three Villages

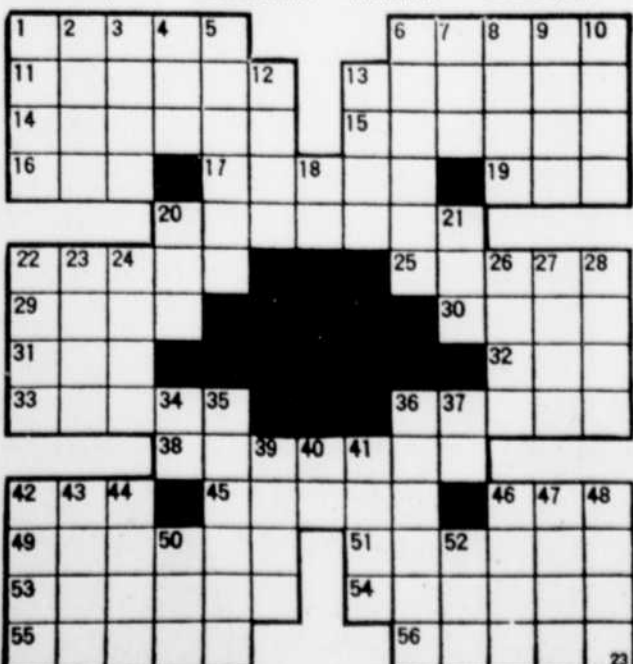

Mrs. A. H. Scarth has returned to her home in Stanstead after spending the winter months at the home of her daughter, Mrs. George Braginetz, Mr. Braginetz and family at Beaufort. Friends of Mrs. Braginetz will be pleased to learn she is much improved from an illness.

Mrs. Tony Cuncio, North Reading, Mass., and Mrs. Charles Davidson, Ipswich, Mass., were recent visitors at the home of Mrs. Albert Littlejohn, Rock Island.

Mr. Merton Davis, Rock Island, underwent surgery at the Sherbrooke Hospital on April 23. Raymond Wheelock, Rock Island, also underwent surgery at the same hospital that week.

SHERBROOKE (PT) — One hundred and forty-three students Saturday received their degrees at the University of Sherbrooke's Faculty of Administration convocation ceremony.

The convocation, held in the large auditorium in the university's main building, also saw the presentation of an honorary doctorate degree to Laurent Beaudoin, an alumnus of the faculty, now president of Bombardier Limitee, of Valcourt, P.Q.

This year's convocation marked the first time such a degree has been presented in the administration faculty.

Following the convocation, a banquet took place, presided over by Alfred Rouleau, president of the Desjardins Mutual Life Assurance Company and of La Cie d'Assurance-Vie Sauvegarde. Addressing the gathering were dean of the faculty Marcel Lafreniere and graduating student Marcel Lafortune, who gave the valedictory address.

Also included in the evening's program was the presentation of a souvenir plaque to Mr. Beaudoin by the faculty of administration's alumni association, commemorating the former's success in the business world since his graduation.

Awarded council scholarships

SHERBROOKE — The Medical Research Council of Canada recently awarded three scholarships to professors of the University of Sherbrooke Medical Center. They are P. J. Anderson, Ph.D., biochemistry;

Dr. J. B. Lamarche, pathology and Dr. Henri Navert, gastroenterology.

Considering the number of scholars (13) and associates (six) in its staff, the Sherbrooke Medical Center ranks third among the fourteen Canadian Medical schools.

The Medical Research Council scholarships are designed to provide support for the investigator who has recently completed his training and shows promise of ability to initiate and carry out independent research in the health sciences. The award is for a maximum of five years, and the scholar is expected to remain for the full tenure of the scholarship at the university which nominated him.

The initial salary depends, in each case, on the qualifications and experience of the candidate. The scholar is expected to devote 75 per cent of his time to research. He may engage in teaching or consultation to a limited extent.

The appointment of these three scholars means an income of approximately $35,000 per annum for the next five years for the University of Sherbrooke.

The first appointment of an associate is for a term of three years and may be renewed on a five-year basis until such time as the normal retiring age is reached.

seen receiving a handshake gesture of appreciation on behalf of the musicians by William Squire prior to the plaque presentation by Dalton Catchpaugh. The Friday evening program featured both the band and the AGRHS choir. (Photo: C. Catchpaugh)

On campus at BISHOP'S

By Paul Trollope

Louise Larkin, Martha Lunderville and Pamela Kanter, all students majoring in German at Bishop's University, have won scholarships to study in Germany this summer. Thirty such scholarships were made available to Canadian students.

Prof. C. L. Arnot, H. M. Dutton and P. E. Wilson, E. A. Prince, G. S. Groves and D. D. Smith, and R. Reeve, C. A. Abrahams and K. Harper have been elected to the faculty-student committees on appointments, promotion and tenure for natural sciences, social sciences and humanities, respectively. These committees serve as advisory bodies to the principal, and their recommendations are appealable to an appeals committee, whose elected faculty members are T. A. Judson, K. Harper and J. L. Redding.

Student representatives to the committees will be selected by the Students' Council in the fall.

Prof. James Gray, presently in England on a year's leave of absence, has been elected to the senate, replacing Dr. W. A. Shearson, who next year will be a visiting lecturer in philosophy at Carleton University.

Prof. Ralph Gustafson, Kathleen Harper and John Redding have been promoted to the rank of full professor, and D. F. Brown to associate professor.

John S. Brierty and C. G. Rose have been appointed by Bishop's University for the year 1971-72 to replace E. G. Mills, presently on leave of absence, and W. F. Rennie, who has resigned.

In addition, the appointment of William Davis as visiting associate professor of drama, Miss Dodie Goodwin as assistant director of athletics, and Clarence Karr as associate professor of history were announced last week by Bishop's principal Dr. Dennis Healy.

Six professors have resigned effective June 30, 1971. They are: Philip Deane, Dean of Arts and professor of classics; Dean Heller, mathematics; Ross Paul, alumni secretary and warden of Bishop Mountain House; W. F. Rennie, geography; F. S. Schwartz, psychology; and A. S. McGregor, history, whose contract terminates June 30, 1971.

On leave of absence in 1971-72 will be: Ralph Gustafson, English; L. W. Kiefer, French; E. G. Mills, geography; Eric Ross, geography; W. A. Shearson, philosophy; and Claude Treil, French.

At the same time, the re-appointment of J. A. Philip as professor of philosophy and dean of the faculty was confirmed; as was the appointment of Sterling Salter as counselling psychologist.

Canada's answer

The Canadian people have given their first public answer to the little group of constitutional mischief-makers who would abolish the nation's monarchy. And the answer is overwhelming. In British Columbia, a province remote from the political centre and sometimes accused of parochialism, Queen Elizabeth is receiving a welcome which must surprise even her most ardent admirers. One hundred years ago a minor Crown colony entered Confederation by its own free choice to complete a sovereign transcontinental state. This century of trial has confirmed the wisdom of the choice and the unique value of the Crown in the process of democratic government.

While a warm reception was assured Queen Victoria's successor during a centennial year in any case, it has been reinforced by the loose republican talk of a few eastern politicians with small influence and less understanding of the Canadian mind. Clearly British Columbia's people are determined to show their contempt for such mutterings and their true sentiments of respect for the Queen as a person and for the throne as an institution.

In the bustling metropolis of Vancouver and in the lovely capital of Victoria, named for her great-great-grandmother, the monarch could see for herself what British Columbia thinks of republicanism. Crowds unprecedented in numbers and enthusiasm left no doubt about that. On similar occasions the heads of state in some countries must be protected from violence, not always successfully. The Queen, moving unprotected among her subjects, is in no danger. All disputes of politics are stilled when the ultimate guarantee of free citizenship appears in a symbol as contemporary as it is ancient.

The Queen's sole adviser in Canada greeted her as she arrived on the Pacific coast, and Prime Minister Trudeau is a symbol, too, quite apart from his constitutional power. He symbolizes the absolute sovereignty of Canada because his office stands beyond any external influence whatever. In Canadian affairs he alone carries the responsibility of advice, the final decisions of national policy. For Mr. Trudeau the royal visit must have been both an inspiring and a sobering experience. It told him, as it told the Queen, that a vast majority of Canadians, in all political parties, support the monarchy in the belief that no acceptable alternative could replace it. This lesson will not be lost on the French Canadian heir of Laurier and St. Laurent.

It is altogether fitting that the Queen, her husband and daughter, should meet not only the officials but the plain people of the Pacific province and join in their celebration. The schedule arranged for the visitors, however pleasant, is strenuous — 4,500 miles of travel in ten days, with stops in distant areas which few British Columbians ever see.

From the populous coast to the empty northern wilderness, from the blossoming Okanagan orchards to the huge Peace River dam, the Queen is observing what has been accomplished in a hundred years of labor by a people who carried Confederation to the western sea and now, despite the arguments of politics, are more Canadian in spirit than they have ever been.

The rest of the nation admires their achievements and rejoices with them when they pay homage to the institution that buttresses and never restricts their own chosen way of life.

The candidates and the minister

MATTER OF FACT
JOSEPH ALSOP

WASHINGTON — We now have a domestic political situation without past parallel in our history. With a single exception, all the more or less imaginable Democratic presidential candidates are in pawn to the defense minister of the Soviet Union, Marshal Andrei Grechko.

There is nothing sinister or evil about this. The chances are that the majority of these eminent Democratic senators have not done enough of their homework to know of the existence, let alone the significance, of Marshal Grechko. Certainly there has been no communication, and above all there has been no quid pro quo.

Yet they are in pawn all the same. This is simply because they have taken positions, publicly, persistently and, one would guess, irrevocably, that nakedly expose them to Marshal Grechko's initiatives. Because of their records on national defense and foreign policy, in fact, they will all be damaged irreparably if the Soviets choose to use their constantly increasing military power in a way that frightens people in this country.

Among the potential Democratic candidates, the exception to the foregoing rule is, of course, Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington. While scoring a 100 per cent liberal record on domestic issues, Scoop Jackson has refused to pay a cent of blackmail on matters of defense and foreign policy.

In contrast, even Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota and Edmund Muskie of Maine have been paying blackmail with both hands to the ideologically frenzied "peace" wing of their own party. Their calculation, obviously, is that they cannot win the Democratic presidential nomination if the extreme left-wing Democrats are against them.

As matters stand, Muskie and Humphrey are probably right about this. Certainly all the other Democratic hopefuls have gone even further than Muskie and Humphrey, with the sole exception of Jackson. But without regard to the normal objections to paying blackmail, what the blackmail-payers have done can make them fatally vulnerable.

This would not be true in normal circumstances. But the present circumstances are by no means normal. The hallmark of the present, instead, is the really staggering Soviet effort to attain overwhelming nuclear-strategic superiority over this country. And this effort is also combined with an equally intense Soviet effort to attain superiority in conventional military realms, especially at sea.

With all his professional military bias, even the Soviet defense minister would hardly be making the immense investments needed by these great efforts if he had no serious purpose in mind. Certainly, Marshal Grechko would not be permitted to make such investments by the civilians of the Soviet Politburo.

The boss of the Politburo, Leonid Brezhnev, is himself an indicative figure. The recent Party Congress has left Brezhnev in a position of almost unique authority. In his rise to that position, he has been supported, from first to last, by Grechko and the other Soviet marshals. The policy leverage of the Soviet military, very great for years, is therefore much greater today than it ever has been in the past.

Suppose, then, that this feckless country allows the Soviets to attain the overwhelming superiority they are seeking, as outlined in the last two reports in this space. If that is the outcome, it will happen against the will of President Nixon.

It now appears almost certain, in fact, that the worried President will ask for a very substantial supplemental defense appropriation by about the beginning of July.

The purpose will be to pay for the emergency countermeasures that are now required in order to meet the challenge of the Soviet drive for a huge margin of superiority in strategic and conventional power.

Except for Sen. Jackson, all the Democratic hopefuls are already attacking the existing defense budget on almost every ground, except its obvious inadequacy. Unless the senatorial hopefuls cease paying blackmail to the left wing of their party, they will surely oppose the President's request for additional funds for the defense of the United States. So they will get in still deeper.

It is anyone's bet whether the Soviets will move to exploit their new superiority before or after November 1972. They will move to do this some day. That is sure. And what if they move in the summer of early autumn of 1972, as is entirely possible? In that event, the country will be deeply alarmed or hotly angered or both. And if that happens, the Democratic blackmail-payers will quickly learn, as stated above, that they have been unwittingly putting themselves in pawn to Marshal Grechko.

No alibi but inertia

By
KINDY

For several weeks now, we have been viewing another of those comic-opera situations on the federal-provincial scene, so revealing of the deteriorating relations between those two levels of government.

We have all heard of the current tariff-war between Quebec and Ontario over inter-provincial sales of Quebec eggs and Ontario chickens. So great is the feeling generated by this conflict, that the Quebec justice minister felt obliged to accuse the Ontario government of economic separatism.

Elsewhere, the province of Manitoba is challenging before the Supreme Court the validity of restrictions imposed by one province on sales of goods produced in another. On this principle, article 121 of the British North America Act is unequivocal: "All articles of local origin or manufacture in any province shall be received tariff-free in each of the other provinces." The article clearly implies that that constitution guarantees unrestricted transport and sales of goods between one province and another.

What we are seeing unfortunately is nothing less than a process of balkanization and erection of tariff-barriers between provinces. A worsening of this process can be avoided only by the federal government's assuming its responsibility as arbiter and interpreter of the Constitution. It is a responsibility of which Mr. Trudeau's government seems unaware.

The same policy of inertia is manifest in the area of management-union relations, as exemplified in the Ste-Scholastique affair. Work is held up because Ontario contractors refuse to comply with the Quebec labor code on the basis that they are operating on federal property. This thorny question was repeatedly raised by opposition members in parliament, but on each occasion Mr. Trudeau and Mr. Mackasey declined to discuss it.

The Ste-Scholastique controversy and the poultry war are but different manifestations of the same difficulty. The question is: can one provincial authority restrain a producer or employer in another province from exercising his rights under the federal constitution? If such a principle becomes accepted, we may soon find that a citizen of one province will be prevented by law from working in another. A policy of laissez-faire will thus have created a dangerous and irreversible precedent.

In 1968 we elected a government which pledged itself to promote national unity. It has an opportunity to prove its good faith by assuming the responsibilities we have defined. Continued failure to do so will surely cast doubt on the government's credibility. Some of us are already beginning to wonder whether Mr. Trudeau, despite his declarations, really desires a united Canada...

Credibility gaps are created, not by the public, the press or the opposition, but by the insensibility of governments in power to the meaning and portent of events. If the next federal elections provide a rude awakening for Mr. Trudeau's government, it will have no alibi but its own grandiose inertia.

"Groovy! Now if we don't beat it, we can join it..."

READER FORUM

Sir:
Who was not stunned by recent press and radio reports that our elected representatives at Ottawa are busy voting themselves a 50 per cent increase in their seasonal indemnities? And this, we must remember, is at a time when our Federal Ministers told us that any increase of more than 6 per cent in wages, or production costs, would result in more inflation!

This action, led, perhaps, by Mr. Trudeau himself, reminds me of the story of the cleric who never lost an opportunity to attack him in all its varied forms with vehement eloquence. But the cleric was human — like Lucifer he fell, and great was the fall thereof.

As might be expected, prominent members of his congregation took the cleric to task for his sad tumble from grace, but the cleric said "Don't censure me too harshly — I am not a hypocrite — I never told you to do as I do, but to do what I told you to do."

Thank you, Mr. Editor.

Untimely

Sir:
The announced intention of the federal government to present a bill to Parliament to increase the remuneration of the members by 48 per cent is untimely and unjust. The reason given for the increase is that there has been no increase for three years. This is fictitious and irrelevant.

All creative power, healing or redemptive, inherent in man is of God. It is not self-created nor created for self alone. It is granted to be used and not abused. Hoarded power withers on the vine. Therein is God mocked.
They marvelled and glorified God which had given such power unto men. — Matthew 9:8.

The fact that all members of Parliament knew what the salaries were and yet eagerly sought the nomination makes any reference to the fact that there had been no increase ridiculous and unworthy of intelligent men. As the members were elected for three years and knew what the indemnity was, they should be impelled as a matter of honor to be willing to serve out the full term without any increase.

Because Parliament has the unique privilege of setting its own salaries, the members should be impelled to take care not to abuse the privilege. The proposed increase will further down-grade the waning respect by the voters of this country for our parliamentary system.

The proposed increase is so contrary to the avowed desire and intention of the government to curb inflation, that it is difficult to understand how people of even average intelligence could propose or support it. One should assume that members of Parliament are a trifle above the average.

The Government which claims that its chief objective is to halt inflation and then votes itself a 48 per cent increase in remuneration is as ridiculous as a man trying to put out a fire with gasoline.

Yours truly,

GEORGE F. EDWARDS

Odds rate winner fourth

BALTIMORE (AP) — Kentucky Derby winner Canonero II was rated no better than fourth Monday in the probable odds for the $150,000-added Preakness as the field for Saturday's classic grew to 12 likely starters.

Earl Hart, the official forecaster of probable odds at Pimlico, rated Jim French, the Kentucky Derby runner-up, as the likely Preakness favorite at 5 to 2.

Executioner, second in last Friday's Preakness prep, was listed at 7 to 2, followed by Eastern Fleet, who was fourth in the Derby, at 5 to 1.

Canonero II, the surprise winner of the Derby by 3½ lengths, was rated by Hart at 6 to 1, with Bold Reason, the thirdplace Derby finisher, at 8 to 1.

MacNeil: Habs not out of woods yet

MONTREAL (CP) — Al MacNeil isn't allowing any passiveness in his club to stand in the way of Montreal's current drive for its 10th Stanley Cup in 15 years.

MacNeil's Canadiens cracked the win column Sunday for the first time in this year's National Hockey League final, a decisive 4-2 victory over Chicago Black Hawks.

But the Canadiens remained on the short end of a 2-1 count in the best-of-seven series after two earlier setbacks in Chicago, and the rookie coach realizes he's not out of the woods.

"They (Chicago) are too good a club to take lightly," MacNeil said Monday during an interview at the NHL annual awards dinner. "We got the breaks yesterday, but that's not to say things couldn't change by tomorrow."

The final continues here tonight at 8 p.m. EDT before moving back to Chicago for the fifth game Thursday at 7:30 p.m. CDT. Both games will be televised nationally by the CBC network.

Many observers, including rival coach Billy Reay, felt the turning-point in Sunday's game immediately preceded Peter Mahovich's goal when the Canadiens halted Chicago's 2-0 lead in the second period.

MAHOVLICH SCORES

The six-foot-four centre star escaped the official's eye when he upended Hawk defenceman Keith Magnuson, stole the puck and whisked past goalie Tony Esposito before backhanding it in.

"I think it had to be that second goal by Frank Mahovich," said MacNeil, a Cape Breton Scot who saw service with several NHL clubs before taking over Canadiens at mid-season. "After all the opportunities we'd missed in the first period, that tying goal had to give them a big boost."

The Canadiens outshot Chicago 13-8 in the first period but were unable to capitalize on their opportunities while the Hawks made the most of theirs with goals by Cliff Koroll and Bobby Hull.

"We had missed a lot of chances earlier in the series too," added MacNeil, "and you'd have to say the guys were getting a little discouraged."

"But they're pros. I just told them between periods to get out there and chase them in their own end. That's our game—skating—and when we're not doing it, we blow our chances."

Tommy Ivan, Chicago's genial general manager, didn't seem disappointed by Sunday's score.

Scrappy Royals down Orioles

Kansas City Royals have obviously said "scram" to the Baltimore Orioles' jinx over them while New York Mets caught up with Houston Astros' Wade Blasingame just as he was about to count 10 and out.

After losing 23 straight games to the Orioles the last two years, Kansas City made it three out of four over Baltimore this season with a 4-1 victory Monday night behind the slugging of Amos Otis and Bruce Dal Canton's five-hit pitching.

The Mets had never beaten Blasingame and were in danger of dropping their 10th in a row to the Astros' left-hander until Bud Harrelson singled home two runs in the seventh inning for a 2-1 triumph.

Elsewhere on Monday's slim major league slate, San Francisco Giants and Juan Marichal edged Cincinnati Reds 3-2, Ferguson Jenkins of Chicago Cubs struck out 12 and became the National League's six-game winner by blanking Philadelphia Phillies 3-0, St. Louis Cardinals whipped Montreal Expos 8-5 and Detroit Tigers downed California Angels 5-2.

Dal Canton and loser Dave McNally were locked in a scoreless battle with two out in the fifth inning when the Royals took a 1-0 lead in singles by Freddie Patek, Cookie Rojas and Otis, who earlier singled and doubled. Otis then homered in the seventh following Jerry May's double and a walk.

Baltimore's only run came in the eighth and was unearned when left fielder Carl Taylor dropped a two-out fly ball with a runner on second.

"I told him not to get rid of it," Lemon grinned. "Maybe he ought to pass some of it around."

Blasingame had protected a 1-0 lead on singles by Bob Watson and Denis Menke and a double-play grounder from the second inning until the seventh when Jerry Grote, who broke up a no-hit bid in the fifth, lashed a one-out double.

Don Hahn got an infield hit and took second on Tommie Agee's tap in front of the plate, with Grote holding third. Harrelson then drilled his decisive hit to centre field.

HAS 2,000 STRIKEOUTS

Marichal, who recorded his 2,000th career strikeout, held the Reds to one hit until the sixth when Pete Rose singled and Tony Perez homered. However, by that time, the Giants had all their runs with Willie Mays, Ken Henderson and Tito Fuentes getting runs batted in.

Jenkins fired a four-hitter at the Phillies, retiring 17 consecutive batters between singles by Larry Bowa in the third and eighth. Billy Williams doubled off Chris Short in the sixth, took third on Jim Hickman's single and scored the only run Jenkins needed on Joe Pepitone's grounder. In the eighth, Glenn Beckert singled and Hickman homered.

The Cardinals, who filled the bases with none out in the seventh inning of a tie game, pushed across five runs after reliever Mike Marshall picked up two outs. Marshall then walked Ted Sizemore and Dick Schofield.

Pitcher Jerry Reuss belted a ground-rule double and Lou Brock singled the final run across.

Joe Hague drove in the first three St. Louis runs with a pair of homers.

NEW EXECUTIVE — The Sherbrooke Beavers of the Quebec Junior "A" Hockey League elected a new executive for next year at a meeting at the Sports Palace Monday night.

Ellis decisions Chuvalo, eyes Frazier title bout

TORONTO (CP) — Jimmy Ellis wants just a little time to rest up before resuming his quest for the world heavyweight boxing championship while a beaten George Chuvalo just wants some time to plan his future.

Ellis, 30, former World Boxing Association champ, moved back into contention for the title Monday when he decided the Canadian champion in a 10-rounder at Maple Leaf Gardens.

The Louisville, Ky., fighter won with his fast left jabs and right hooks which cut Chuvalo in four places around the left eye.

Ellis came out of the fight unscathed except for a swollen right hand.

"I'll need some time to rest the hand a little," Ellis said. "It's not hurt bad."

"You quite often get swollen hands. I mean, I was hitting the guy in the head and it's only natural that the hand is gonna swell up."

WANTS FRAZIER

Ellis would like another shot at Joe Frazier of Philadelphia who beat him for the WBA title a little more than a year ago.

"This fight is gonna put me in real good shape for him," said Ellis, who may have to wait a while. Frazier has a rematch scheduled with Muhammad Ali whom he beat last March in New York.

Where does the 33-year-old Chuvalo go from here?

"I don't know," said the Toronto fighter. "I just don't know right now. I'll have to think about it."

The fight here was one of three in a closed-circuit television hookup with Chicago and Oakland.

At Chicago, Ernie Terrell defeated Luis Pires of Brazil in 10 rounds, and, at Oakland, undefeated George Foreman of California scored a 10th-round knockout over Gregorio Peralta of Argentina.

Ellis went into the fight almost 28 pounds lighter than Chuvalo and proved much faster. His hard rights to the head had Chuvalo bleeding early in the second round.

Chuvalo's handlers managed to stop the bleeding by the fourth round and the cuts never seemed to hamper him.

His slow, plodding style, however, proved his undoing. Several times Ellis fell back off guard but Chuvalo didn't take advantage of the openings.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Recent Study Is Controversial

Oral diabetic drugs issue

Dear Dr. Lamb—After 12 years of taking an oral tablet for diabetes, a few days ago I was ordered by my doctor to stop taking the medicine. He told me the government had condemned this drug as dangerous. Can you explain why?

Dear Reader—This is an outgrowth of a recent report on the study of the effectiveness of oral medicines in the treatment of diabetes. The study, incidentally, was not conducted by the government. It was a statistically designed experiment and the results showed that individuals taking the oral diabetic tablet didn't do as well as patients treated by diet alone. The study even suggested that there was a larger number of complications in the patients taking the oral tablet.

Not every one has agreed with the results of the study, but the findings were sufficiently conclusive that the Food and Drug Administration, The American Medical Assn. and the American Diabetic Assn. all adopted the position that, wherever possible, dietary management was preferable to administration of oral diabetic tablets. Recommendations made by these organizations are not legally binding, of course. Your doctor elects to follow them.

You might well ask, why wasn't this information known before? The obvious answer is that the study hadn't been done previously. The Food and Drug Administration has never had sufficient funds or personnel to evaluate all the new medicines available to the medical profession.

In recent years a greater effort has been made along these lines but still, the amount of work involved is staggering. Accordingly, a lot of the information concerning drugs comes from the pharmaceutical companies themselves. Some studies, of course, are done by university scientists, but the funds and personnel available for even these studies are limited.

Dear Dr. Lamb—Would you please tell me the after-effects of open-heart surgery and how long one can live after having it?

Dear Reader—This depends on what the open-heart surgery is for. In some birth defects, surgery can result in a complete cure in that the heart is returned to its normal structure. These individuals have a normal outlook for life.

Other individuals have open-heart surgery to replace diseased valves of the heart. Which valves are replaced, how good the surgery is and how much heart damage has already occurred all affect the outcome of such a surgical procedure.

Belvidere Branch holds May meeting

Belvidere Branch of the Quebec Women's Institutes held their May meeting at the home of Mrs. Charles Pitman with Mrs. Charles Drummond as co-hostess.

This being second vice-president's day, Miss Hazel McGee presided and opened the meeting by welcoming all and repeating the Salute to the Flag and Creed.

As it was agriculture day, the motto was—All the flowers of all the to-morrows are the seeds of today, and the roll call was an exchange of plant slips.

A request for used stamps for the Red Cross and used greeting cards for use at the Dixville Home was made.

Correspondence included letters of thanks for remembrances.

Mrs. Ken Smart, secretary, gave a resume of the last meeting and the treasurer Mrs. Francis Paige gave a very satisfactory financial report.

Conveners' reports included agriculture—Mrs. Charles Pitman noted that the competition for members would be the growing of geraniums through the summer to be judged in September, and commented on the rubbish dumping along the nearby highway which is objectionable to all who pass by.

Citizenship—Miss Kathleen Reed read an article regarding the poverty among the Canadian Indians and Eskimos and at this meeting the members filled 10 ditty bags for Save the Children Fund work.

Home Economics—Miss Edna Smith for Mrs. Francis Paige collected IGA slips and read the outline for judging for the Expo Quebec exhibit.

Welfare and Health—Miss Hazel McGee reported 64 packages of 4 x 4 cancer dressings made at the last work day and reminded members of May 12 next work day. A donation for the gift box for patients was turned in. Miss McGee also read an article entitled Never leap out of bed.

Mrs. Ken Smart reported on publicity carried out.

Miss Edna Smith reported for the Sunshine Committee in the absence of Miss Eva Beaton, noting Easter and anniversary cards sent out, one plant and funeral flowers.

Mrs. Jack Tarte extended thanks to all who assisted at the Bowling banquet catered to and at the recent card party at St. George's Hall.

Seventeen tables were played with prizes and door prizes and the drawing for the handmade sheilcraft rug was held, the winner being Mrs. Lester Wootton of Cookshire and a table lamp won by Master Michael Parker. All non-members were extended thanks for the sale of tickets and other assistance.

Members were asked to serve for a wedding on July 24. Mrs. William R. Bell was named delegate to the annual county meeting held in Lennoxville on May 8.

The monthly drawing was won by Mrs. Annie Reed. The latter will host the June meeting at her home in Sherbrooke.

The Home Economics convener conducted an exchange of candy recipes, and Belvidere members joined the Lennoxville members at the home of Mrs. Sterling Parker, for tea, and to hear Mrs. Parker's impression on the provincial conveners' meet in Ottawa. She was thanked by Mrs. Jack Tarte.

Porno pro penitent

By Ann
Landers

Dear Ann Landers: "Stunned in Connecticut" would be really stunned if she knew how many community leaders, clergymen, high government officials and little old ladies in tennis shoes had pornographic collections. I am a typist who prepares the mailing envelopes for so-called erotic literature and art. We mail material all over the world—and to some of the darndest places and most unlikely people. Naturally our mailings go out in plain envelopes. Everything is hush-hush and bat-blind.

My friends have the notion that I must get a whale of a wallop out of being in the middle of all this naughty stuff. Frankly, I am bored sick with it.

I believe an adult should be able to see anything he wants to see and no one should have the right to tell him what he can or cannot see. But there is something out of kilter with all this free-and-easy, wide-open dissemination of garbage. The behavioral experts tell us that pornography does not incite people to commit sex crimes nor does it promote antisocial behavior. Yet I deplore the fact that, for the price of a theatre ticket, people can now see live performances of the sex act at a number of places in the larger cities—at high noon.

Will you comment, please?

Clouded Vision

Dear Vision: The best statement I have ever heard or read on this subject was made by Norman Cousins (Saturday Review). He wrote: "The danger is not that the exploitation of sex may arouse lust but that it could produce impotence. By detaching sex from love and annihilating privacy, sex is robbed of its delight. What is even worse, an infallible formula has been found for making sex boring. People who insist on seeing everything run the risk of feeling nothing. Amen, Norman. Amen.

Dear Ann Landers: I am eleven years old and in the sixth grade. My sister is eight years old and very babyish. Almost every night she makes up some phony ailment and busts into my folks' bedroom and asks if she can sleep with them. My mother is an old softee and she always says yes.

I am afraid my little sister is ruining my parents' sex life. Should I talk to her about it or should I talk to my mother? Rush your advice to the Newark News. This is a serious problem.

Dear Berk: It is considerate of you to be concerned about your parents' sex life but this is really not your department. Children should not be taken into their parents' bed at night because it sets up a pattern of dependency which is unhealthy for the child. I have said this in the column several times. I'm sorry your mother missed it.

Dear Ann Landers: I have a friend who is not exactly a liar but she has a way of exaggerating that drives me up the wall. I've been with her when certain incidents have occurred and then I have listened to her recount the story. The way she magnifies everything is shocking. Why do people do this? What does it mean?

Emma

Dear Emma: Your friend probably exaggerates to make the story more interesting. But there's actually more to it. Small minds are like a microscope. They have the ability to magnify little things but they cannot see the big picture.

The Day Under Your Sign

ARIES (Born March 21 to April 19)—Although Aries are usually capable of handling their own affairs, they may need a word of advice at present.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)—Dance Fortune could smile in your direction under current rays. Don't let indecision deter you.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)—Avoid hasty decisions. A fun day in general, but quiet for the most part.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21)—You run into some complex situations and perhaps some contrary folks, under current radiation.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)—Inferior workmanship hampers your progress. Get down to the gritty and show what you can produce.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—Let big ambitions go by the boards for the moment. Concentrate on day-to-day details (although hasty).

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)—I've got a good head on your shoulders by taking definitive action without further delay.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—Put first things first—work before pleasure. Luckily, there'll be plenty of time for both on this fine day.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—Logic may seem needlessly opposed to your ideas. If so, review plans to see if you're really on the right track.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—Coworker can be very helpful if you take the time to listen to what he or she has to say to you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—If perplexed, consider asking a knowledgeable friend what he would do if he were in your shoes.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)—Your shifty, all-impress business under present rays. Be thorough in whatever you tackle today.
