Pearson Gets Long-Range Support From St. Laurent

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson Friday night got some long-range support from his predecessor, Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent.

Mr. St. Laurent, former prime minister, is on holiday at Miami, Fla., but he sent a telegram to Mr. Pearson at Quebec City. It was read at the conclusion of the Liberal chieftain's campaign meeting there.

Mr. St. Laurent, retired from active politics, said in the telegram: "I am convinced that the province of Quebec and all of Canada really and truly need a Liberal government under your leadership in order to assure our country of a return to prosperity, national unity and world peace."

At Edmonton, CCF Leader Coldwell injected defence policy as an issue in the March 31 election campaign.

PM IN WEST

Prime Minister Diefenbaker opened a final 10-day Western tour with a speech at Steinbach, Man., in which he defended the government's farm price supports legislation, passed by the last Parliament.

Solon Low, Social Credit leader, was in his Peace River riding. He will fly to Winnipeg from Edmonton Sunday.

Mr. Pearson, speaking in French and English before an audience of more than 1,000, said the Liberal party had never had to "bribe" Quebec for its votes because in the last 70 years two of the party's four leaders were Quebecers.

The time has come, he said, for a distinctive national flag around which all Canadians could rally and which would remind the world "we constitute a sovereign and independent nation."

External Affairs Minister Sidney Smith also spoke in Quebec City. He said Canada has an important role to play as an international referee and the Progressive Conservative government offered French-speaking Canadians a chance to do their part.

STRESSES DEFENCE

Mr. Coldwell said the scope and direction of Canada's defence spending have largely passed out of civilian control and that it is time "to bring them back to Parliament as the watchdog over defence expenditures."

The Conservatives were following a tongue-in-cheek defence policy. When they were in opposition they had urged cuts in defence spending and establishment of a Commons defence expenditures committee. But now that they formed the government they advocated higher defence spending and refused to establish a committee.

Mr. Diefenbaker said before an overflow audience of 1,200 that he is asking for the support of farmers because the government's farm bill "holds out the greatest hope to farmers of any legislation ever placed on the statute books of this country."

The legislation, not yet in effect, establishes support prices for certain farm commodities.

At Halifax, Stanley Knowles, deputy CCF leader, forecast that the Liberals will lose seats in the Western and Atlantic provinces.

If this occurred, he added, the Liberals would become a splinter or sectional party "with little or no influence at Ottawa."

Crown Agency Loans For Private Housing, Old-Age Projects Only

OTTAWA (CP) — The Crown-owned Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation is down to its last $50,000,000 in lending funds and the money will be used exclusively to finance small homes for private purchasers and low-rental projects for the aged, officials said Friday.

Having placed $2,0,000,000 of the $4,200,000 it has been given by Parliament, the corporation has decided to advance no more money for rental - housing schemes.

Works Minister Howard Green, commenting in Saskatoon on reports of CMHC's change in policy, said that as of Feb. 28 a total of 21,910 small-homes loans had been approved, amounting to $211,532,982.

"In addition, applications for loans totalling many millions are being processed and new applications come in daily," he said.

OTHER MEANS EXIST

Mr. Green, the cabinet minister through whom CMHC reports to Parliament, said that while some loans had been made from time to time to finance apartment construction, other NHA means exist for planners of such projects and "the small-home plan now is being confined to homes for which it was previously intended."

CMHC officers said the decision was taken Wednesday, in a review of loan applications now being processed.

Receipts of an application before that date, however, was no indication that it would go through. Many would not.

WORD PASSED ALONG

Once Wednesday's decision was taken to discontinue rental-housing loans word was passed along to both applicants and the approved lenders with whom they were dealing. No official announcement was made.

"Approved lenders" are chartered banks, life insurance companies, trust and loan companies, and other organizations authorized to lend money under the National Housing Act.

Top Labor Man Joins Government

OTTAWA (CP)—Labor Minister Michael Starr Friday night confirmed that Gordon Cushing, executive vice - president of the 1,000,000-member Canadian Labor Congress, will become assistant deputy minister of labor May 1.

The minister's statement followed a Canadian Press report Friday that Mr. Cushing, 45, would move to the federal labor department on the superannuation of M. M. Maclean, 71, senior assistant deputy and another union man.

Mr. Starr's announcement, originally due to have been made next week, was put out hastily Friday night from his office several hours after publication of the report of Mr. Cushing's move from one key labor job to another.

During the day, no one would confirm it officially, either at congress headquarters or at the labor department in Mr. Starr's absence on an election campaigning trip.

The two are members of a triumvirate that runs the largest of Canadian labor bodies, formed two years ago, between biennial conventions. Third member of the CLC executive committee is secretary-treasurer Donald MacDonald.

Mr. Cushing's prospective move will continue a practice of having a labor man close to the minister's ear, started in 1942 when Mr. Maclean was brought in as director of the industrial relations branch from his job as secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees.

It was understood the CLC officer, in his new job, will be concerned chiefly with industrial relations, the business of keeping the peace between employers and employees.

What's This?

It appears that either someone is in mourning or else the Quebec ensign is being left to flap unattended at half-mast in the cold March winds. The flagpole is on the Montreal Road, just at the Sherbrooke city limits.

Watching Liquor Ads

MONTREAL— (CP) —The Star Friday says there is a "quiet rumor" to the effect the Quebec government "plans to move in on liquor advertising." The newspaper says that as a result, it is learned, liquor advertising policies have become the subject of review by executives in that field.

Canada Sells Wheat To China

OTTAWA (CP) — About 350,000 bushels of wheat are to be shipped from the west coast to Red China this month in Canada's first cash wheat sale to the Communist country.

Price of the 10,000-ton cargo was not immediately available here but federal trade officials said there is no reason to think it is below the current wheat quotation, $1.65¾ a bushel.

Infants Slain Near St. Johns

ILE STE. THERESE, Que. — —(CP)— The mother of three infant girls slain in this peaceful hamlet Friday has been taken to Montreal for questioning by provincial police.

Mariel Laplame, 27, was first treated for cuts to her arms at St. Jean d'Iberville Hospital in nearby St. Johns. Police said she suffered the cuts accidentally.

Police were notified of the massacre at about 4 p.m. by the woman's brother-in-law, Roger Lapalme, who discovered one of his tiny nieces dead and the other two near death.

Emile Lapalme, 39, the father, was at work as a carpenter in St. Johns.

Three-year-old Ginette and eight-month-old Lorraine died shortly after they were taken to hospital, Claudette, 2, was already dead. Police said they had been attacked with a knife and hammer.

Toll Is 30 In Three Crashes

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two mid-air collisions and a crash in a sandstorm possibly killed more than 30 persons in widely - separated air disasters Friday.

The worst crash was caused by a mid - air collision over the United States Pacific island base of Okinawa between a U.S. Marine transport plane and a fighter-bomber. Twenty-six persons were presumed dead.

An Egyptian airliner en route from Athens to Cairo crashed near Port Said, killing eight persons and injuring 18, while attempting to land in a desert sandstorm.

Two French naval aircraft collided over the Mediterranean while on a flight from the naval base at Bizerte, in Tunis. One

Student Trio Will Wait For PM 'Forever'

QUEBEC—(CP)—Three University of Montreal students trying to get Premier Duplessis to set a date for a meeting with delegates from the province's six universities said Friday they "will wait forever if necessary," to see him.

Bruno Meloche, Jean Pierre Boyer and Francine Laurendeau tried to see Mr. Duplessis Friday but were told by his secretary, Emile Tourigny that the premier has refused to meet them.

They said they will park each weekend in the legislature hall outside the premier's office in a bid to see him.

All expressed willingness to sacrifce their school year. "A week, a month perhaps until the next session opens—we will wait forever if necessary," said one of the students.

Their move was a continuation of orderly student demonstrations to back demands for increased provincial government financial aid to universities and students.

French Step Up Rebel War

PARIS — (AP — Despite deepseated parliamentary discontent with France's Algerian policy, the National Assembly voted Friday night to intensify the war against the Algerian rebels.

On a vote of confidence in Premier Felix Gaillard's government, the assembly approved, 286 to 147, his revised military budget of 1,300,000,000,000 francs (more than $3,000,000,000).

Only a few deputies besides the Communists were willing to go on record against the war budget, but 160 deputies were absent or abstained, so the vote of approval was by a minority of the assembly.

The new budget cuts some 95,000,000,000 francs ($226,000,000) from other military needs to increasing spending in Algeria. Within the limits of a strained national budget, Gaillard told the deputies, "we are giving an absolute priority to the needs of pacification (in Algeria)."

TO ADD TROOPS

The additional military funds will be used to add 28,000 troops to forces conducting the war, now in its fourth year. The additions will bring to 375,000 soldiers the French ground force in Algeria, where another 125,000 airmen and sailors are stationed.

Gaillard said he has hopes that the Anglo-American good offices mission can settle a dispute with Tunisia that arose from the French attack Feb. 8 on the Tunisian village of Sakiet Sidi Youssef, which the French claimed was an Algerian rebel base.

But the premier reiterated that he sees no possibility of allowing the Algerian conflict to become a matter of international discussion, since Paris considers the North African territory an integral part of France itself.

Detective Recovering

MONTREAL (CP)—A 48-year-old city homicide squad detective Friday carried on a gunfight with a fleeing bank robbery suspect despite a serious bullet wound in his shoulder.

The bullet apparently glanced off a bone and pierced the lung of detective - sergeant Leonidas Boisjoly. He underwent an emergency operation Friday night for removal of the slug and later was reported in good condition.

Police said they arrested a 51-year-old man in connection with the holdup at a north-end branch of the Banque Canadienne Nationale.

TV Man May Sue Randolph

NEW YORK (AP)—Television interviewer John Wingate says he is considering legal action against Randolph Churchill, son of Sir Winston, for remarks Churchill made in reference to Wingate's father during a television program Thursday night. Wingate's assistant also is considering a suit.

Churchill, who had been in the United States on a lecture tour, was interviewed by Wingate on the local Night Beat program.

Churchill's verbal explosion came when Wingate indirectly brought up Randolph's sister, actress Sarah Churchill, fined in California last Jan. 16 for public drunkenness. Without men-

News Of The Week In Review

Weather Brings Disaster To Montreal, St. John's

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

The box-like structure of a coffer dam became an ice-crushed coffin for 11 workmen on a bridge project in Montreal.

The construction tragedy occurred when a churning crush of ice and water bore down on the coffer dam, which was built to hold back water as men worked on foundations for the new bridge.

Three men somehow rode to the surface and safety but the other 11 had no chance to scramble up ladders and apparently died in an excavation about 10 feet lower than the river bottom.

The disaster occurred on Riviere des Prairies, also known as "the back river," on the north side of Montreal Island, away from the St. Lawrence.

The victims were just finishing their day's work when death came.

STORM CRISIS

Newfoundlanders battled emergency caused by a sleet storm that blacked out much of the Avalon Peninsula and Bell Island.

The crisis struck the most populous part of the province and left many thousands without heat and light during a period of freezing temperatures.

Some 2,300 Wabana Ore Company workers were thrown out of work on Bell Island when underwater mines flooded after electrical pumps failed. Schools and movie houses were closed.

Linesmen and laborers worked around the clock to make repairs, removing fallen wires from porches, front lawns, streets and highways. They aimed to restore service to all but a few customers by the weekend.

STUDENTS STRIKE

Quebec province college students took drastic action to back up their demands for more scholarships and increased university grants on a statutory basis.

Nearly 20,000 students from five of Quebec province's six universities staged a one-day boycott of classes. And a University of Montreal student trio went to Quebec and threatened to maintain a vigil outside Premier Duplessis' office until he agrees to see student presidents.

French- and English-speaking students joined hands in the action, only the students of University of Sherbrooke remaining outside the boycott. Premier Duplessis had promised to give careful study to a student brief, but said he was too busy to meet representatives.

SUMMIT SPARRING

Russia was the subject of the summit again, this time calling for a meeting of foreign ministers in April—and a summit meeting in June.

The Russians thus reversed themselves on the issue of a foreign ministers' meeting — which they had previously rejected—but angered the West with a demand that only "housekeeping" matters, and nothing of substance, be discussed by the ministers.

MAVERICK SPUTNIK

The United States fired a new earth satellite, Explorer II, and it rose from its Florida launching pad straight and true, vanishing into the heavens with a mighty roar. Then—silence.

Scientists developed big ears from listening for the new Explorer's radio signals, finaly announced that it had failed to go into orbit.

The final rocket of the four-stage launching missile didn't fire, the scientists said, and the whole thing fell at 10,000 miles an hour, glowing like a meteorite and burning to ashes.

LABOR STAND

The British Labor party leadership—harassed by a split in the party over nuclear arms policy—received a pledge of support from representatives of the 8,000,000-strong Trades Union Congress.

The party and union chiefs said in a statement that production of hydrogen weapons should continue during a "limited" ban on tests, during which Britain should press for a world disarmament pact outlawing all nuclear weapons.

CHAOTIC CUBA

The rebel forces of Fidel Castro kept Cuba on the rim of chaos and President Fulgencio Batista sought to hold power by a cabinet shakeup.

Many thousands of students went on strike. Batista rejected a Roman Catholic church request to include members of opposition parties in his cabinet but instead formed a new cabinet that includes civic and business leaders.

Chamber To Ask Cider Regulation

QUEBEC. —(CP)— The Quebec Chamber of Commerce has drawn up a brief to be submitted to Premier Duplessis asking for legalization of the sale of alcoholic apple cider and tighter control over grading of Quebec fruits and vegetables sold in the province.

The brief states the market for apples often is too small to consume the province's production. In such years, the surplus could be made into cider.

Glad-Handing Envoy Spreads Red Charm

By GOERGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The new Soviet ambassador in Washington, Mikhail Menshikov, hasn't stopped shaking hands since he arrived in the U.S. capital. In one month, he has probably made more personal calls on American officials than his gruff, stiff - necked predecessor, Georgi Zarubin, did in all of his five years in Washington.

In all this glad-handing, Menshikov has expounded the viewpoint that personal contacts and exchange of opinions are an effective means of creating trust and friendship among nations. He has pressed the Moscow line of peaceful coexistence.

Now some Washington observers have begun to question his motives. They ask whether his mission is not to soften up American officialdom and the U.S. public, as part of the Soviet drive for a summit conference.

ADAPTS IKE LINE

Some time ago President Eisenhower came out in support of more personal contacts between Americans and foreigners. His so - called person - to - person program was launched with an appeal to Americans going abroad to make friends while there. His idea was that closer personal contacts would help break the grip of fear and mistrust that bedevils East-West relations.

The scheme was meant to apply to Americans, but the suave, personable Soviet envoy appears to have taken its lesson to heart. He has launched his own person-to-person program.

Menshikov, who speaks English with fluency, already has seen Eisenhower twice, conferred a couple of times with State Secretary Dulles and called on Vice-President Nixon, Attorney - General Rogers and presidential assistant Sherman Adams—among others. Between - times, he has sandwiched in several interviews—almost unheard-of for Soviet envoys—and spoken before the National Press Club.

PUBLIC IMPRESSED

While Menshikov undoubtedly is pursuing a one - man propaganda campaign under Moscow direction, he appears to be making a better-than-average impression for a newly-arrived Soviet official.

Eisenhower told his press conference after their first meeting that he found the envoy to be "individually a very friendly person."

Show Business

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Several commentators think Dody Goodman, the wry - faced comedienne, has been getting a raw deal on the Jack Paar (NBC-TV) "Tonight" show. Dody agrees.

Vermillion - tressed Dody was here this week on her first visit to Hollywood to be guest on the Eddie Fisher show. I nabbed her for an explanation of what has been happening between her and Paar.

"I don't know," she said blankly. "I really don't know."

She explained that she started with the show shortly after Paar took it over. She was on five nights a week.

"We were doing very well together; everybody said so," she remarked. "Then I was put on four nights a week, then three and two and now it's only one. I never was told why.

WORKS WITH OTHERS

"Jack has been trying to work with other people, but it isn't quite the same. When you have worked with someone for seven months, as we have together, you can get much better results."

She needn't worry about the whole thing. She is signing a contract with NBC for her exclusive services on TV. She'll do guest spots on top variety shows and will make "occasional" appearances on "Tonight."

Until seven months ago she was part of the horde of undiscovered talent in Manhattan.

Born in Columbus, Ohio, Dody went to New York to find work as a ballet dancer. She danced at the Radio City Music Hall and in several Broadway shows before friends convinced her she had the makings of a comedienne. She drew good notices in a couple of night clubs and two off-Broadway revues. This led to her job as a foil for Paar.

"Tonight" was good for both of them, but something intervened to break up the winning combination.

"I still have the greatest respect for Jack as a performer," she remarked. "I think he could do better in his relations with the people who work with him."

Debate Is Feature Of North Hatley H. And S. Meeting

NORTH HATLEY — The February meeting of the Home and School Association was held in the Memorial gymnasium of the High School.

The president, Frank Woodward, conducted the business on hand, the most important item of which was further planning for a dental clinic. Stewart Reed reported that if the government grant is received, the dental clinic may be held the first three weeks in June. Mrs. Hilda Nelson has stated that if other suitable quarters can not be arranged for the cafeteria will be available. This would necessitate the stopping of hot lunches at the end of May.

The feature of particular interest at the meeting was a debate between the senior girls of the High School, and members of the Home and School. The proposition was, "Resolved, that Christianity is on an upward trend in the world today." The affirmative was taken by Aubrey Greer, Maurice Bowen, and Mrs. Claude Smith. The case for the negative was argued with poise and efficiency by Gail MacNaughton, Louise Stevenson and Sue Ann Bryce. The moderator was Miss S. Woodward, a member of the teaching staff.

The judges, Mrs. Charles Coleman, Mrs. G. E. Bennett, and Roy Clough, had a challenging task, and after careful consideration of facts and figures, voted in favor of the affirmative. The judges congratulated both teams for the obvious work and study that had gone into the preparation, and urged them to present another debate.

Refreshments were served by the hospitality committee.

CIRCLE MEETING

The Ladies Circle of the North Hatley Baptist Church held a regular meeting in the Sunday School Hall. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Stanley Moore, due to illness, the meeting was conducted by the vice-president, Mrs. Wesley Sharman.

Flowers and cards were voted to be sent to sick and shut-in members and friends, and plans were made for a food sale to be held, with Mrs. A. Buckland, Mrs. M. Merrill, Mrs. S. Kezar and Miss E. Bennett, in charge.

Jury Acquits Gerard Boulet On Criminal Negligence Charge

Gerard Boulet, a 21-year-old farmer's son from Chartierville, was acquitted yesterday of a criminal negligence count arising from the death of Aurele Stringer, 19, of Chartierville, on May 28, 1957.

The Court of the Queen's Bench jury deliberated some 20 minutes before returning the verdict. Earlier, they listened to a 90 - minute charge by Mr. Justice Gaston Desmarais.

Defence attorney Richard Crepeau's objection to Crown Prosecutor Roland Dugre's method of questioning his own witnesses was rejected by Judge Desmarais as the trial opened yesterday morning.

A stick used to measure the width of the front seat of the 1957 Plymouth car involved in the accident was used by the defense to demonstrate its case that four persons could sit comfortably together without impeding the driver's movements. Two of the front seat occupants, Rolande Cadorette, 16, and Stringer died as result of the accident.

Testimony of several experts was introduced by the defense.

Joseph Castonguay, a garage owner, said the model car driven by Boulet at the time of the accident did not have a solidly constructed roof. He said the tops are often ripped off in an accident.

He said he drove his car at 70 m. p. h. at the curve where the accident occurred and added that a speed higher than that would have been dangerous.

Marcel Grondin, an engineer in the Provincial Roads Department, said the guardrail which was demolished by the car was "relatively solid". He said the guardrails were placed along the road more to indicate a dangerous spot than to stop a car entirely. He said they also served rather to slow the vehicle down if it went off the road.

Local engineer Jacques Lemieux said a car travelling 50 m.p.h. could shear 80 poles off in eight-tenths seconds.

Boulet's car, it was revealed earlier, had smashed 13 posts and knocked down a telephone pole.

Scholars To Repeat Tours At City Hall

Organized tours through City Hall for high school students will continue for the second year, the aldermen decided recently.

The students are taken through the various departments and are shown their functions. The idea was introduced last year as a scheme to better acquaint youth with their municipal government.

Elsewhere on this week's treasurer's agenda, the Council approved the demolition of the ice houses on Esplanade St. which the City recently purchased. Cost of the work is $2,000.

Director of Service Charles Langlois said the salvaged wood could be used in laying water mains. He said the work would also aid the unemployment situation.

City Attorney Albert Rivard told the Council that retroactive payment would have to be made to some half dozen newly-sworn police constables for duty as cadets.

They are to be paid the salaries of first year constables while they were in training. The payments are retroactive to January and amount to about a $50 total.

The Council decided however that the contract be amended to include a clause stating that in future cadets will be allowed to benefit from the rest of the contract only when they are sworn in as full constables.

A weight scale rather than clock one will be purchased for use in weighing heavy quantities of meat at the local market.

The cost of the scale is $586, from the Fairbanks-Morse Company, with installation costs at $4.75 an hour.

Council rejected the clock scales, cost placed at $1,082 by Fairbanks and $914 plus five per cent by Toledo, as being too delicate.

Rejected was an offer of a 1954 model snow plow for $1,700. The aldermen felt the city should purchase a new plow next season.

The council rejected a demand by J. G. Labelle for $12.48 to replace the leaf of a car spring broken in pot-hole skipping.

It accepted a $31.92 claim by Octave Pelletier for a windshield broken when an insulator fell from a pole.

Annual Science Workshop For Teachers Set

The workshop for teachers of high school science will be held again this year at the Summer School of Education, Macdonald College, from July 2 to July 19.

The purpose of this short but intensive course is to develop new ideas and techniques in high school science teaching, to open new perspectives in the nature of the natural sciences by reference both to their history and to their immediate future, and to emphasize those fields of present day research which are developing most rapidly in physics, chemistry and the biological sciences. Discussion of new ideas and techniques will be directed at rGades VIII and IX General Sciences and at Grades X and XI Chemistry, Physics and Biology.

Teachers who contemplate the teaching of science, as well as experienced teachers who wish to widen the horizons of their understanding of science, are invited to share in the experiences of the Science Workshop. That is, the course is open to science specialists as well as to those who have not specialized in this field.

The workshop staff will consist of Dr. W. G. Boll, Department of Botany, McGill University; Dr. W. F. Black, Department of Biology, Sir George Williams College; Mr. R. F. Rivard, Vice-Principal, Montreal West High School; Dr. Maxwell Dunbar, Department of Zoology, McGill University, Consultant.

Know Your Heart

Research Leads Attack Against Rheumatic Fever

(This is the ninth in a series of articles being published on behalf of the Canadian Heart Fund. Contributions may be made at your local Bank.)

By ARNOLD JOHNSTON, M.D.
(Asst. Professor, Dept. Paedlatrics, McGill University, Montreal.)

Rheumatic fever is a serious illness because of its potential power to damage the heart. Together with atherosclerosis (affecting the arteries to the heart muscle), high blood pressure and the heart malformations present at birth, rheumatic fever is one of the "big four" in causing heart trouble. In children it is among the leading causes of death between the ages of five and fifteen years. It is noteworthy that almost all rheumatic heart disease of adult life was acquired in childhood.

Rheumatic fever shows itself in a variety of ways such as St. Vitus' dance (chorea); more commonly as a painful swelling flitting from joint to joint; or its onset may be attended by severe heart failure. Many children with acute rheumatic fever escape entirely from heart damage, but the heart is affected to some degree in rather more than half of them.

Adequate treatment of an attack of rheumatic fever consists among other things, of a period of bed rest continued until all evidence of the active process has disappeared. It is not possible to predict in an individual case how long this may last, whether three months, six months or longer, but it is of great importance in preventing heart damage or keeping it to a minimum that activities should not be resumed too soon. However, once activity is again permitted the majority of children return to their normal routine of school and play.

Frequently, it is not possible to provide adequate care in the home for prolonged periods in bed and some centres have rheumatic fever units where children may receive not only the necessary medical care but also the benefits of play and occupational therapy and physiotherapy and have daily school work from qualified teachers.

An outstanding characteristic of this illness is its tendency to recur in an individual so afflicted. Such a person may play host to this unwelcome guest as many as four or five times. Not only does this lead to a series of long periods of invalidism, but also subsequent attacks increase the hazards of having the heart damaged or of increasing damage already.

Rheumatic fever may affect all parts of the heart, the outer covering, the muscle, or the valves. Whereas the involvement of the first two may cause concern at the onset of the illness, the larger problem is concerned with the future of those children in whom there is valvular damage. An affected valve may be narrower than normal or may permit a leak of blood in the reverse direction. Fortunately some valvular damage may be present without having to limit a child's activity. In some instances, young men and women in their twenties and thirties in the midst of heavy responsibilities reach a point at which the valvular damage is sufficiently severe to restrict their normal activities.

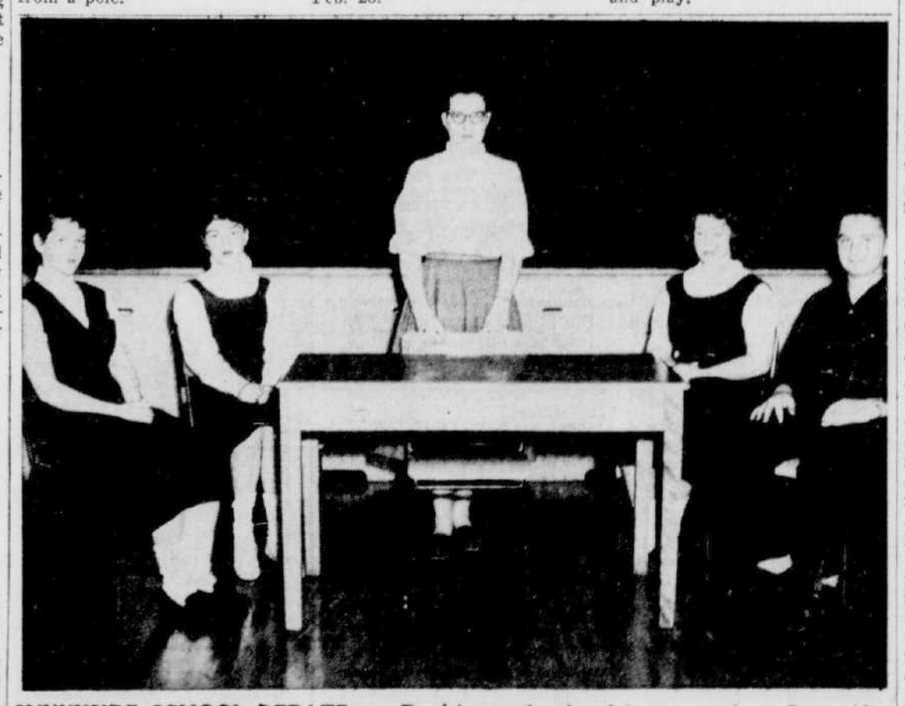

One of the most brilliant chapters of heart surgery has been written in the last few years in a successful effort to widen the narrowed valve in many of these adults and so return them to normal health and activity. Although not all types of valve damage can be repaired, a great deal of research is currently being done to find new avenues of surgical help.

Although the exact cause of rheumatic fever is not known, there is now a great deal of evidence to show that it is related to infection by one portion of the large family of streptococcal germs. Certain drugs prevent infection by these organisms.

In children who have had rheumatic fever and who are subject, therefore, to further attacks, it has been found that daily doses of penicillin or a sulfa drug taken by mouth protect against a recurrence of rheumatic fever. This means that if a child escaped the first episode of rheumatic fever without any heart damage he can be protected in a very high degree from any further risk. If some damage to a valve had occurred in the first attack, this can be held to a minimum if a further attack is eliminated by these means.

This may mean a prolonged period of taking pills because it is presently suggested by many authorities that this preventive medication should be continued to age eighteen years. In the case of a child having a first attack at say seven years of age this represents an important undertaking, but this inconvenience is insignificant in relation to the hazards of acquiring heart disease.

It is fortunate to have a method of preventing recurrences of rheumatic fever. Since, however, the heart can be damaged by the first episode of rheumatic fever, this too should be prevented. Adequate treatment of streptococcal infections by penicillin has proven effective in reducing the occurrence of rheumatic fever, but in some instances it is not possible to recognize an illness as of streptococcal origin.

SUNNYSIDE SCHOOL DEBATE — Participants in the debate staged at Sunnyside School, Rock Island, in connection with Education Week, are, from left, Edith Davis and Nancy Alexander, Grade IX, negative; Miss Lewella Bennett, chairman; Carol Young and Audrey Rever, Grade VIII, affirmative. (A. Pepin photograph).

ROCK ISLAND — Education Week got off to a good start at Sunnyside School on Tuesday morning, when five of the higher grades assembled in the auditorium. A few parents were also present.

The day opened with the group singing "O Canada," followed by responsive reading, prayer and the singing of a hymn. Miss Gloria Carruthers was announcer and Mrs. Hugh McClary presided at the piano.

A debate was held on the subject, "The Barbarian was Happier than Civilized Man is," With Nancy Alexander and Edith Davis, Grade 9 students, arguing the negative point of view and Andy Rever and Carol Young, of Grade 8, upholding the affirmative. Miss Lewella Bennett, Grade 8 class teacher, acted as chairman.

The four students showed such an excellent knowledge of the subject that the judges, H. H. Hudson, Miss Joyce Dunsmore and Mrs. Ralph Vivian, had difficulty in reaching a decision. Mr. Hudson, as chairman, after a few appropriate remarks, took the vote of the pupils, which registered the same as the judges' vedlict, "that the barbarians were the happier."

Regimental History

Story Of Local Regiment Expected Late This Month

LT.-COL. H. E. JACKSON

One of Canada's greatest heritages is her colorful military background, much of which has been written by militia units as well as active forces. These reserve, part-time troops have on numerable occasions filled the ranks when Canada faced hostilities. One of these famous units has been the Sherbrooke Regiment, 12th Armoured, R.C.A.C., which can trace its history back 153 years. In a move to preserve the history of this militia unit, Lt.-Co. E. P. Hall, Commanding Officer, approached one of Canada's leading historians, Lt. Col. Harold M. Jackson, M.B.E.,E.D.,who has completed another of his fine tributes to this country's armed services.

Recognized as a leading authority on Canadian Army history, Lt. Col. Jackson is today ranked among the leading Canadian authors. His book "The Sherbrooke Regiment" is scheduled for release at the end of March.

Tracing Col. Jackson's life is in itself an interesting article.

Since his return from overseas in November, 1946, Lt. Col. H. M. Jackson, M.B.E. E.D., has produced a dozen books, the first The Princess Louise Dragoon Guards, the story of the Ottawa unit from organization in 1872, with particular emphasis on its part in the War of 1939-45, in which it first served in action in Sicily; in Italy as the reconnaissance unit of the 1st Canadian Division and its work with the 5th Canadian Armoured Division, after which the regiment again became a reconnaissance unit serving in North West Europe.

In the Royal Regiment of Artillery, Ottawa the author tells of the history of the Ottawa Field Battery, organized more than a century ago in 1855, and those of the associated batteries of the artillery regiment of which it is part, the present 30th Field Regiment R. C.A., 1914-18 served as the 1st Brigade, C.F.A. It then was first commanded by the late Sir E. W. B. Morrison, who later commanded the Canadian Corps Artillery and one of its officers was Lt.Col. John McCrae, who wrote "In Flanders Fields".

Colonel Jackson then edited The Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders of Canada (Princess Louise's) which tells the story of the second quarter-century of the history of this Hamilton unit, chiefly in the War of 1939-45. The unit served after "D" Day in North-West Europe. Important actions include the establishment and holding under incessant attacks of a bridgehead over the Ghent Canal, and the capture of Kapelsche Veer near the Maas and the seizure and defence of the Rochwald Gap.

Queen Elizabeth II is Colonel-in-Chief of the regiment.

Rogers' Rangers is the first of four volumes dealing with the history of the present Queen's York Rangers (1st American Regiment), (25th Armoured Regiment). Under Major Robert Rogers, finally commissioned to command all the Rangers in America in the Seven Years' War, the Rangers frequently served as the advanced guard and in the retirement of the army as the rear guard, and were the "eyes and ears of the Army".

Operating in the Champlain Valley, part of the Rangers participated in the capture of Louisburg in 1758 and the next year in the operations culminating in the capture of Quebec.

In the Champlain Valley in 1759, they took part in the capture of Ticonderoga; were the first troops to enter Crown Point, and in the autumn destroyed the Indian village of St. Francis.

In 1760 they supplied companies for all three armies which converged upon Montreal, after the surrender of which Amherst sent Rogers to receive the surrender of Detroit and other western posts.

The next of the four volumes chronologically, although it appeared more recently, is The

Teaching Should Be Exciting

We hardly need opinion surveys to establish that many people have a low opinion of the teaching profession. The salaries we pay teachers speak eloquently of our attitude.

But samplings of opinion do reinforce this sad fact. Not only average citizens but community leaders seem to put teaching near the bottom of the career scale.

The general view is that teaching not only fails to bring financial reward and security and respect and recognition, but is not even more than moderately interesting work.

In the present circumstance, there can be no quarrel with these judgments as they relate to fame, prestige and monetary reward. The tragic thing here is that a vicious circle is involved. These appraisals are true because we have made them true.

In other lands, teachers stand at or near the top in public esteem and generally are far better compensated than ours. Teaching is seen as honorable work lending a touch of distinction to those who practise it.

The hardest judgment to digest, however, is that teaching isn't very interesting. It should be — and can be — tremendously exciting. Whenever and wherever it is not, there is something radically wrong.

In the first place, teaching is charged with heavy and challenging responsibility. The task is one of helping to shape and mold the plastic minds of the young, to show them how to think and how to master knowledge.

Importance alone does not necessarily make for excitement. Things can be important but dull. But teaching at its best is a kind of missionary work, and there is a little bit of the missionary in all of us.

We find it exciting to let others in on the things we know of life, the experiences we have had, the insights we have perceived. Teaching offers that rich satisfaction magnified many times, for the story is not the teacher's own but the much fuller one of what the world is like and how an individual can be fitted to embrace it.

To tell that story, to help equip young people to deal with their world, the teacher must perforce learn how to think himself and master a lot of the accumulated knowledge of life. These masteries alone should place him high on the scale in prestige and reward.

Teaching above all is a dedication to the discovery and the spread of truth. If there is any more honorable enterprise on earth than this, what can it be?

Argentine Democracy On Trial

Wherever liberty is regarded well, there must be satisfaction that free elections have returned to Argentina after a lapse of 30 years.

There can be no automatic rejoicing, however, over the first fruits of that return.

Caution is compelled by the fact that Arturo Frondizi, the victorious presidential candidate, gained his commanding triumph largely through the support of the Communists and the Peronistas, followers of exiled Dictator Juan Peron.

Frondizi represents the left wing of the conservative Radical party. He favors government control of industry, but is also an economic nationalist. He declares that he owes no commitments to anyone and will govern in the interests of all Argentina.

Nevertheless, some may argue that he cannot help but feel a debt to those groups which support him. He has Peron's backers.

Yet he does not appear willing, on his own, to allow Peron himself to come home. He indicates he will let the Argentine Congress decide that. But military leaders who ran the country in the two-and-a-half-year interval between Peron's ouster and this election say they won't tolerate the dictator's return.

Whatever the prospect for Peron, the future for Frondizi seems sure to be heavily crowded. The nation's economic situation is bad, a hangover from the irresponsibilities of dictatorship. The new president will have to battle inflation among many other economic ills.

As he goes about this task, the Argentine people will have as the guardians of their new-found freedom not only the military but a restored free press. The rest of the world would like to believe that this gives assurance that there will be no more Perons in Argentina.

Strange Survival

It may be a small matter but it seems incongruous sometimes in these days when so many things have changed that our mode of correspondence should have changed so little.

We still write 'Dear Harry', as others have pointed out, when we would never think of calling Harry 'dear' in speaking. And by a strange convention we add a grappling-iron possessive, making it "My dear Harry', when we want to preserve a little distance. We subscribe ourselves 'Your truly' or 'Yours sincerely' when assurances of truthfulness or sincerity should be superfluous. And it's 'Yours very truly' or 'Yours very sincerely' when we desire to be more formal. Rather odd, perhaps, in these less formal times but why should we alter a comfortable custom even though it be a survival of the stage-coach days?

At least 'Yours most respectfully', which was laying it on a bit thick, has become archaic. So has 'Your obedient servant', meaning about as much as that pleasant fiction of the expansive host: "This is your house."

In re-reading the letters of 'A. Lincoln' the other day we noticed that Lincoln was 'your obedient servant' only twice, that is, in this particular collection. He began and ended most of his letters in terms we use today.

Perhaps this clinging to the familiar is just as well. 'Yours as ever' certainly has a more comfortable, heartening effect than 'Yours in the satellite age' and we would just as soon have our friend in the Blind River camp use 'Yours sincerely' if 'Yours uraniumly' or some similar bit of down-to-earthness be the alternative.

MENTALS AND CRIMINALS
(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

Remarkable progress has been made in the last decade or more in the treatment of mental sufferers, and during the same period, or a little longer, there has been a drastic change in the treatment of criminals toward reformation and rehabilitation.

The National Committee Against Mental Illness in the United States has been making some investigations, and reports that the State of New York is spending far more on criminals than upon the victims of mental illness. There are 21 mental institutions in the state, and they are overcrowded to the extent of from 27 to 56 per cent. They are not only overcrowded but understaffed—a most dangerous and unfortunate combination of circumstances. State expenditure on the mentally sick average $4.08 per day; state expenditure on criminals in prison amounts to $10.08 per day.

New and better methods of treatment have resulted in 25 per cent more discharges of cured patients during the past decade, but only 1.5 of the state allowance is allotted for research, and that is where the Committee seeks reform.

Astonishing improvements have taken place everywhere in regard to mental sickness, and in view of the magnitude of the problem it is not too much to say that financing of research would give as much public service as research for any organic ailment of the kind that still baffle scientists. Even if cure is not affected, mental patients may be so improved that they can take their place in the home and in the affairs of the day.

U — The 21st Letter

BY REV. B. S. MURRAY, M.A.

No! I have not made a mistake. The letter U — the twenty-first in the alphabet. And thereby hangs a tale.

In my attempt to answer the question, "HAS THE CHURCH FAILED?" the spelling of the word CH-UR-CH interested me. The letters CH suggested Christ at the beginning-the AUTHOR of our Faith(Heb. 12-2) and CH at the end, Christ the FINISHER of our Faith. The Alpha and Omega, God, infinite and eternal in whom we live and move and have our being. The ALL sufficient sovereign.

UR—YOU ARE

Now the letters UR at the centre occupy a central place in the spelling of the word Church. So, too, I found myself thinking that YOU occupy an important position in the work of the church. As an individual YOU ARE a determining factor in that work, for it is you with millions of other you's who determine the State of the Church.

This I pen fully aware of those who insist that the work of the church rests entirely with the bishops, priests and clergy. These need to discover the glorious truth that each person has his place as a fellow-worker with Christ in the Church's work.

WHAT DO YOU THINK OF YOURSELF?

So, with the question "What do you think of yourself?" let each of us psychoanalyze himself (or herself) --the examined life is the healthy life, you know! And there is no time like the Springtime when the days are lengthening--that's the meaning of Lent--to do this. I grant you that this is an exceedingly difficult question to answer. It would be much easier to discuss the other fellow! We must however be realists and really get to know our strengths as well as our weaknesses.

In so doing we will avoid (a) thinking too highly or too charitably of oneself or (b) yielding to the other extreme of making a diagnosis so undeservedly harsh as to breed an inferiority complex. Knowledge of thyself can initiate a way of living that will be serene, happy, contented and fruitful. This psychologists say will produce a well-adjusted life. Self-knowledge then furnishes the material for self-reverence and its by-product self-control.

Convinced that such a diagnosis is correct then will we with all our might resist any attempt to discredit and substitute for the democratic way of life with its accent on inherent worth of the individual. Believing that the most perfect and full expression of the Christian message then, is embodied in Democracy, to this mode of living we give our heads, heart, hands.

Now this belief is not the product of those biased quasi-intellectuals who delight in debunking. Rather it is the belief of Christ and His Church as recorded in the sacred Scriptures.

(a) A CHILD OF GOD

Do you really believe, and live as if you believed, that you are a child of God, whose roots are implanted in the Divine and on whose soul God engraved His image of perfection? St. Paul one of the greatest thinkers of all time declared that MAN is the image and glory of God (1 Cor. 11-7). Man, he insisted came from and belongs to God. And this is exactly what the Master taught.

If then you think of yourself now and forever as a spiritual being, endowed with reason, conscience and freedom of choice, capable of Godlikeness, and to repeat the words of Jesus "of more value than a sheep" (Matt. 12-12) then you will not yield to the wiles of the world, the flesh and the devil. Instead you will embark on the greatest adventure in life--of striving to BEHAVE thyself as becometh a son of God.

(b) A MEMBER OF CHRIST

Admitting that you came from God--a child of God--your natural habitant is membership with others in the mystical Body of Christ - the Church. There in the Society of Jesus with the highest good as the standard, our relationship with the Head of the Church will be a I-Am-The Vine, Ye-Are-The-Branch (John 15-4) relationship-intimate, willing adequate, vital, interdependent. So effective will this integration be that you will dare to think as Jesus thinks, choose as He chooses, accepting without reserve His view of men, things and events.

With Christ dwelling in you and you in Him you will, by imitating your Divine Guest who during His sojourn here below, went about doing good, convince thyself of thy importance to Christ and His Cause. And by doing your duty in the state of life to which God has assigned you you will glorify God. To enable you to do all things in the name of Jesus, the "means of grace" are at your disposal, with a resupply in reserve. In thankful remembrance of Him Who pleased as man with man to dwell let us consecrate our hands and feet, our minds and voices to Him who gave His "all" so that all men everywhere may experience the abundant life here preparatory to enjoying God forever in the life everlasting.

(c) AN INHERITOR....

For the Bible says we can, by laying hold of eternal life here and now, inherit the Kingdom of Heaven which God has been preparing for us since the foundation of the world—that Kingdom the doors of which Christ, by His precious death and glorious Resurrection opened to ALL believers.

The fact that we are purchases of God and heirs of salvation should contribute to making our manhood sacred amd priceless, too, with a daily challenge to do all that is requisite and necessary to save "a never dying soul, and according to Charles Wesley, "fit it for the sky" where, we hope, we shall be numbered with the Saints of God in glory everlasting.

AS YOU THINK....

Does not one's thinking about oneself as a child of God, a member of Christ and an inheritor of the Kingdom of Heaven implant in the mind a sense of both the importance and sacredness of youth as an individual prompting Conscience to warn us back from the unworthy, urging us to be loyal to the royal in thyself?

We believe, using the Sacred Scriptures as our infallible guide, and knowing that "man created in God's image is moral, intelligent, and free of unique dignity and potentiality for good or evil. Therefore it behooves us as men for whom Christ died on Calvary to express our manhood by Thanksgiving as we daily give up ourselves to the service of God, walking before Him in holiness and righteousness ALL our days.

Thinking such thoughts both dyes the soul and invests life with the tremendous heroism of choosing ultimate good in preference to immediate pleasures, Gaurd well thy thinking, O child of God, for as a man thinketh so is he.

YOU'LL BE A MAN

And some day, with such correct thoughts about thyself, thy relationship to God and thy neighbour, expressed through your God-intoxicated, Christ-empowered, Spirit-led personality, you'll (to borrow Kipling's words in his immortal poem IF) be a Man.

Yea, a man who lifts his face to the skies for from thence he came and to the skies he must at least return. God, Holy Writ declareth "inhabits eternity"—so does man.

Weave then these thoughts into the warp and the woof of your daily living and you will, believe me, grow spiritually. For according to Dr. Boreham a man only begins this process when he realizes that he himself is quite easily, the biggest thing in the universe. Indeed he is bigger than the universe itself.

On to the skies then--on to the skies! And God love you always!

Matter of FACT

Except for New Hampshire on the lower west and the Atlantic Ocean on the southeast, the State of Maine is entirely bounded by Canada. While Maine's coast is only about 250 miles long, measured in a straight line, the many bays, coves and inlets make a shore line of nearly 2,500 miles.

JACOBY On Bridge

SPADE LEAD IS NOT GENEROUS

"When better defensive plays are made they will be made against me," groaned the Unlucky Expert. "My bidding was rather aggressive but my play for the hand was mighty good and it took double dummy defense to beat me."

"West opened the queen of hearts and I won with the ace. Of course, the false-card did me no real good since East had the inevitable deuce to discourage his partner. I led the ten of clubs to act like a man with a club problem, but West went right up with the ace.

"Then he shifted to the ten of spades. I played dummy's queen but East simply won with the ace and returned a low spade to West's king. The four of spades lead found East with a tenace over dummy's nine and I was down one trick."

"Very good defense," I commented. "West must have decided that you surely had a diamond fit for your repeated no-trump bids and that you were trying to bring home one club trick early. As for his spade play it was a well-known book play designed to win four fast tricks against that combination. Of course, it looks easy from where I sit now but West made a mighty good play. Who was he?"

"Generous George," replied the Unlucky Expert. "And you know, he was so proud of the play he couldn't think of a remark to go with it."

LOCAL BOYS TO RECEIVE CERTIFICATES

Once each year the Scouts of the Province of Quebec who have recently qualified for their Queen's Scout Badge are invited to the Quebec Parliament Buildings where the Lieutenant-Governor presents them with a Queen's Scout Certificate. This year the ceremony will take place on April 19, when three local Scouts will receive presentations. They are Harold White and Tammy Beaulieu of the 3rd Sherbrooke Troop and Gary Mizener of the 2nd Lennoxville Troop. Their Scoutmasters will also attend. They are Ian Clark-Pounder of the 3rd Sherbrooke and Henry C. Knight of the 2nd Lennoxville.

HEADQUARTERS NOTICES

Plans for the Sherbrooke District Cub Rally and Boy Scout Camporee are now being considered by the District Council. More details will be available shortly. Both these annual events are arranged so that all Cubs and Scouts in the area can take part. —Lord Rowalland, Chief Scout of the British Commonwealth, will visit Montreal later this year and local groups will be transported to Montreal to meet him. — Canada will be sending two Troops (about 75 persons) to the Philippines for the next World Scout Jamboree there in 1959. —Ayer's Cliff is organizing a new Cub Pack under the leadership of Mr. H. Conley of Windsor Mills, former District Commissioner of St. Francis Valley District, who recently received the Silver Acorn, high Scouting award for distinguished service.

LOCAL CONTEST BEING HELD

The Sherbrooke District Commissioner, J. H. Wark, will soon announce details of a contest for the design of a Sherbrooke District Badge to be worn on the uniform. Cubs, Scouts and Leaders will be asked to submit designs, with cash awards for the winning design. This special badge, when approved, will be worn by all Cubs and Scouts and their Leaders in the Sherbrooke District.

COMING EVENTS

March 18 is the date of the next meeting of the Sherbrooke District Scouters' Council to be held in Waterville on a special occasion when Stanstead Scouters will attend. Plans for District events will be made at this meeting, 8:30 in Waterville High School. Listen each week at 8:25 a.m. to "The Scouting Trail" over CKTS on Saturday mornings, and send your news reports for this column to: Boy Scout News, Box 955, Lennoxville, Que. — Until next week, Good Scouting!

KINNEAR'S MILLS —

Mr. Lyman Rothney of Lennoxville, was a week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. R. Rothney and family.

Messrs. Victor Lowry, Clark Nugent and Clinton King were week-end guests of friends in Lennoxville.

Mr. Arthur Nutbrown of Thetford Mines spent a week-end with Mr. and Mrs. W. Marshall.

BISHOP'S BULLETIN BOARD

With the Dramatic Society's production of "She Stoops to Conquer' being readied for a third and final performance tonight, the interest at Bishop's has shifted away from the student walkout, which commanded the attention of the student body during the earlier part of the week.

After a somewhat shaky performance opening night, the university dramatists gave a much improved display yesterday evening, before a packed house, which included Walter O'Hearn, drama critic for The Montreal Star, whose review of the production will appear in the Mon. issue of that paper. Society President Tony Vintcent expects another large crowd this evening, and any one planning to attend is advised to come early, because good seats are at a premium in the college auditorium.

STUDENT STRIKE

The walkout of the students of Quebec's six universities took place as planned on Thursday, although the University of Sherbrooke dropped out at the last minute, owing to certain particular situations which exist at that college.

The strike was carried out in an effective and orderly manner, with no unruly demonstrations taking plact. At Bishop's, only a handful of students went to lectures, and those on specific orders from the professors involved. Other students spent the day working in the science labs, or finishing up essays.

Although the results of the strike will not become apparent for some time, we believe that the action can have done no harm, and hope that it may achieve some concrete good. Several editorials have appeared in newspapers throughout the province, including this one. Most of them adopted a rather condescending attitude towards the student population, as much as to say 'children will be children.' This provoked immediate reaction in the various student bodies in the province, for they firmly believed that the strike action was the necessary step to be taken. One Bishop's student expressed the general attitude clearly when he said, "If we hadn't gone through with the strike, we would have looked just as silly as mike Pearson on the first day in Parliament, after his eection as leader of the Opposition. All the publicity, enthusiasm, and energy created by the party convention fizzled, and the same thing would have happened to all our plans."

SEC ELECTIONS

Although results were not available at the time of writing, it was clear that voting for the two executive positions on the Students' Executive Council, and for the position of Senior Lady, would be close. The student body will not know how close, for in a new policy towards elections, the supervisors have announced that numerical results will not be made public.

Campaigning was both vigorous an ingenious this year, with more posters and gimmicks being used during election week than have appeared in the last three years combined. Candidates paraded their qualities before the voting public in letters, blotters, huge signs, and even on the sides of assorted animals, including two riding horses.

There is a break from elections for a week, and then the nominations for the minor posts on the SEC will be made next Friday, with the following week being another period of campaigning.

SPORTS FRONT

The basketball Gaiters are off to Three Rivers this weekend, to play in the Provincial Playdowns, for the championship in Senior 'B' competition. Although they were seeded last in pre-tournament predictions, most members of the team feel that their chances are good.

The hockey team closed off their season on a dismal note, losing to Macdonald College 3-2. This was a hard blow, since they had beaten the same team, earlier in the season, by a score of 7-2. However, the Gaiters showed the effects of a long layoff, and sensational goaling by the Macdonald netminder gave them the victory.

Intra-mural sports continue at a high pitch, with the Blues having clinched first place in the hockey schedule, while the Yellows walked away with the basketball crown.

THIS AND THAT

The second Skinner Debate will be held on Monday evening, with the Divinity Faculty carrying an edge into this second debate, in a two-out-of-three series. They won the first debate, held last term, and have assembled another strong aggregation for this contest.

The topic is "Resolved that Without Quebec, Canada Would be a Third Rate Power," and the debate will be held parliamentary fashion, to allow for comments from the floor of the house. Upholding the affirmative for Arts and Science are Gerry Hanna, Jon Wisenthal, and Ian Muncaster, while Malcolm Hughes, George Holman, and Doug Brown will speak for Divinity.

In a long meeting yesterday the Debating Executive revised their constitution, to implement a much larger program of debating for the coming year. An attempt will be made to train debaters, through series of intra-mural debates, to be held every three weeks. Inexperienced speakers will have a chance to speak here, while at the present time only the top debaters in the college receive much opportunity for competition.

The Board of Publicity has been active during the past week, with several radio programs broadcast over the local station. Apart from the regular shows, they planned programs to fit in with Education Week, one being handled by the Education Class at Bishop's, the other being a panel discussion on 'Why Universities?'

The local WUS Committee is having the French Ambassador to Canada speak to the student body next week. This is the second time the Committee have brought foreign speakers to Bishop's this year, the first being the Ambassador from Yugoslavia.

Final preparations are being made for the annual exhibition of the Biology Club, which is entitled 'Life in Fresh Water.' Club members have been working on the display since early in the fall, when they collected marine life in surrounding lakes. Since Christmas they have been working under the direction of Dr. A. Langford and Club President Charles MacInnes, who spent last summer with the Marine Research Department in New Brunswick.

REGIMENTAL HISTORY

Queen's Rangers in the Revolutionary War, by the late Colonel C. J. Ingles, edited by Col. Jackson. This book tells the story of Robert Rogers' organization of the famous unit for the Revolution and of its record of achievement under John Graves Simcoe.

The next volume, The Queen's Rangers in Upper Canada, 1792 and After, tells how after Simcoe was appointed first lieutenant-governor of Upper Canada, he reorganized The Queen's Rangers, which served in the new province as pioneer troops. Among their services in this capacity were the building of Old Fort York (Toronto).

Last in this series, The 127th Battalion, C.E.F. tells of the conversion of the infantry unit to become the 2nd Battalion, Canadian Railway Troops, to serve in France with various formations of the British Army, and how in the great German push of March, 1918, it resumed its role as infantry to hold a section of the line near Villers-Bretonneux.

In Canada's Soldiers, 1604-1954, with George F. G. Stanley, the panorama of Canada's military story for the entire period of white settlement is unfolded. Every conflict in every way involving Canada is discussed. The book includes the story of the War in Korea.

The Story of the Royal Canadian Dental Corps, which appeared last spring, a volume of 475 pages, recounts the story of the services rendered by the Corps to Canadian troops in two wars over more than half a century and relates how the Corps began by the inclusion of dental surgeons in the Canadian Army Medical Corps in 1904.

Justus Sherwood: Soldier, Loyalist and Negotiator, produced recently, tells of the exploits of this officer of a British provincial unit based in Canada during the American Revolutionary War. After having been wounded and captured at Saratoga, Sherwood was appointed by Maj.-Gen. Frederick Haldimand, governor-general of Canada, to take charge of his "secret service".

Canadian Prime Ministers and the Canadian Militia tells of the exploits of the Prime Ministers of the Dominion and of the chief ministers of the United Province of Canada (Upper and Lower Canada) prior to Confederation in 1867. Many of these men served on active service in Canada in various emergencies, including the War of 1812, the Rebellion of 1837 and the Fenian Raids of 1865 and 1870.

airman was picked up in the sea this morning and two others are missing.

The marine transport carrying 25 persons and a single-seat marine fighter-bomber collided as they were preparing to land on Okinawa and plunged into the ocean as "a ball of fire."

BODIES SIGHTED

Navy search parties recovered three bodies today and sighted other bodies amid debris and wreckage in the water.

The planes were an R-4Q, the marine version of the C-119 Flying Boxcar, with 19 passengers and a crew of six, and an AD-5 attack fighter-bomber. They were returning from a U.S.-Philippine amphibious manoeuvre in The Philippines.

The Egyptian plane was reported to have had tried to land at both Cairo and Port Said airports, but both were closed by the worst sandstorm in recent years.

Running low on fuel, the pilot apparently tried a forced landing in the marshy Lake Manzala area southwest of Port Said. The plane was reported destroyed and of the crew, presumably all Egyptians, only the stewardess survived.

tioning the charge against her, Wingate asked:

"Do you think the American press took unfair advantage of the Churchill name in obviously an unfortunate situation?"

Churchill blew up. Among other things he said was "I never discuss matters affecting members of my family with total strangers" and "You sent a hired hack to me to discuss the topics you wished to discuss; this was not one of those he raised."

REFERS TO FATHER

Churchill also told Wingate: "I wouldn't think of asking you about your sisters. . . . Or what your mother has done or who your father was. I don't know if you even had a father, or if you know who your father was. . . ."

Wingate remained calm throughout the 10-minute tirade on the half - hour program, but Friday night said he is considering legal action against Churchill for his father reference.

Wingate said Ray Weiss, his assistant, also is considering legal action in connection with Churchill's calling him a "hired hack."

Churchill won a £5,000 libel suit against the London Sunday newspaper, The People, in October, 1956. The award was based largely on the fact that the paper called Churchill a "hired hack."

How spiritual understanding of true manhood brings new health and freedom will be explained Sunday at Christian Science services.

The Lesson-Sermon entitled "Man" will include the following passage from the Bible (Psalms 16:5, 6): "The Lord is the portion of mine inheritance and of my cup: thou maintainest my lot. The lines are fallen unto me in pleasant places; yea, I have a goodly heritage."

Readings from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will include the following (317:18) "The understanding of his spiritual individuality makes man more real, more formidable in truth, and enables him to conquer sin, disease, and death."

The Golden Text is from Psalms (37:37): "Mark the perfect man, and behold the upright: for the end of that man is peace."

Indian Girls Studying Means Of Competent Employment

CALGARY (CP)—Eighteen Indian girls from Aklavik are spending their first vacation away from home—a 10-week all-expenses-paid time in Calgary. But there is a catch.

First of all, the girls are in Calgary to learn some of the fundamentals of food service. Their entertainment is secondary, although well provided for.

The girls have a part to play in the development of Canada's northland. They were brought to the provincial Institute of Technology and Art here by the federal northern affairs department.

RETURN AS WAITRESSES

When they return to Aklavik at the end of March, they will become waitresses with catering companies supplying food at construction camps engaged in moving the entire town to another site.

When the $10,000,000 project is completed, about Sept. 1, 1959, the girls will be employed in schools and hospitals being built at the new townsite about 33 miles to the east.

Aklavik is 120 miles inside the Arctic Circle at the mouth of the Mackenzie river. Moving of the town is necessary because melting permafrost turns its terrain into a quagmire in summer, involving sanitation and other problems.

Trappers' harvests during the last 40 years have caused Aklavik to grow from a small trading post to the main emporium of the far north. Eskimo, Indian and white trappers converge there to sell and barter their season's catch. But trapping has fallen off in recent years and the government is studying means of creating other employment for the inhabitants of the Mackenzie delta.

Sending the Indian girls here is one of them. The community will need trained personnel and outsiders would take the jobs if the residents were not able to.

The girls here have worked in well with regular students taking the one-year course in food service.

TWO PURPOSES

Tech officials say the program serves two purposes: The Indian girls are being trained and the regular students are acquiring skill in human relations.

On their way here, the girls stopped in Edmonton to obtain new wardrobes, including a warm winter coat, low shoes and overshoes, a wool skirt and cardigan sweater, a white blouse and two sets of underclothing.

In Calgary, they were placed in city homes as guests, had their long, thick black hair trimmed and were fitted for neat white uniforms.

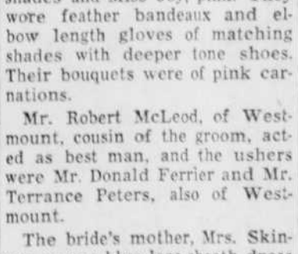

They are learning to become competent waitresses, camp style, dining room, snack bar, cafeteria and so on. Kitchen instruction includes dish washing and cleaning up, and food preparation. One the theory side, they have English, arithmetic, sanitation, food demonstration and training in grooming and clothes selection.

The girls are given every opportunity to enjoy themselves and once a week a trip to various business operations in the city is arranged. They also get a weekly swimming lesson.

Beauty Tips

Hair color is not the arbiter for choosing a make-up. Skin tone determines what shades of foundation, powder and lipstick a woman should use. Therefore, not all blondes use the same make-up even though they may have the same hair color.

MANNERS MAKE FRIENDS

"I never write letters" explained the woman who hadn't bothered to write a thank-you note for a favor done her. She did, however, manage to write the letter requesting the favor. That's the way with most people who claim they never write letters.

They mean they only write them when they want something.

Homemaking

A place for everything and everything in its place is a tidy motto. Many housewives place low tables, footstools, fans, and other low objects in the traffic lanes of rooms. Then they dare anyone to move them an inch. This furniture is hazardous to those coming through in the dark or those who wander through while daydreaming.

You Can Put THIS Gal On a Pedestal, for Sure!

You have to admire a woman—
Who, when other women are being catty about one who isn't present, says, "I LIKE her."

Who, though she looks far too young to be a grandmother, is so much prouder of her grandchildren than of her own youthful looks that you hear about the grandchildren as soon as you meet her.

Who is just recovering from an operation or a long illness and doesn't want to talk about it.

Who can watch calories without talking about it.

Who can hear her husband say another woman is beautiful, without finding some flaw in her or making any kind of catty remark.

Who mentions her age as casually as she mentions any other fact about herself.

Who can bring an unexpected caller into a room that is not in apple pie order, and not apologize for the way it looks.

Who has the knack of introducing two persons so that each feels just as important as the other.

Silence is Golden

Who keeps quiet about the good she does.

Who can do you a favor in such a gracious way that it seems as though you are doing HER one.

Who can let her husband tell about an experience she shared with him, without interrupting once to make a correction or an addition or to say, "You are leaving out the most important part."

Who can know a juicy bit of scandal and keep it to herself.

Who, when she says, "I really must be going" gets up and goes.

Who can be an excellent housekeeper, herself, without being critical of other women's housekeeping.

Who looks as neat and well-groomed when you see her at the supermarket as when you see her at a party.

Knowlton Guides Present Book To Brome County Historical Society

KNOWLTON. — The First Knowlton Troop Girl Guies, under the supervision of their leader, Mrs. H. Rotherham, and her assistant, Miss Alice Ingalls, held its Parents' Night in the United Church.

Several of the Guiders who were earning their hostess badges welcomed the guests on their arrival.

The program opened with the Troop forming a horseshoe and singing God Save The Queen. Mrs. N. R. Mitchell of Granby, was welcomed by Mrs. Rotherham and then called upon to enroll three new Guiders and to present second class badges to Lois Sanborn, Norma Sanborn and Linda Bockus.

A First Aid demonstration and a short play were presented by the troop after which a few games were enjoyed.

Mrs. Rotherham presented Glen Brown, M.P.P., with a scrap book showing the records and changes which have taken place in Knowlton since the year 1887. This book was made by the girls for their project commemorating the Baden-Powell Centenary year, 1957.

Mr. Brown, in receiving the scrap book, on behalf of the Brome County Historical Society, complimented the Troop on this fine effort and explained the great importance of keeping records of the past and how interesting a hobby of this sort may become. He also complimented the girls on their neatness and the fine work exemplified throughout the evening.

At the conclusion of the program the girls served refreshments.

The secretary for literature, Mrs. Charles Keene, collected reading points and gave a brief but instructive review on three new books in the reading course.

Mrs. Marshall Miller, Christian Stewardship secretary, read a most interesting letter from her daughter, Miss Isabelle Miller, who is a missionary at Hong Kong.

A collection was taken to finance the shipping charges of supplies sent to various missions. The chapter in the Study Book, "Youth In The News" was taken up by Mrs. Elton Bockus with Mrs. Rose McLean assisting. This chapter dealt with the problems and needs of youth in Japan today and was given in the hope of increasing our understanding of their problems.

The worship service conducted by Miss Knowlton, had as its theme "Looking to Christ and Not to Ourselves." It opened with a hymn followed by a prayer. Miss Knowlton read the Scripture lesson and gave a short resume of the passage.

Farm Forum Activities

COATICOOK VALLEY

An interesting meeting was held on March 3rd at the home of William Nicholson when the members of the Coaticook Valley Farm Forum met to study on "The Low Income Farmer".

The radio broadcast gave different ways of pointing out the low - income farmer, one of which was by the appearance of his buildings. There was also a discussion on various methods of solving the situation.

Following the broadcast, two groups were formed and a lengthy discussion followed. These opinions were reported in full meeting as follows:

No. 1. Is there as special problem of the "low - income farmer" and should, specific policies be developed to help him? We believe, that compared to other industry, farmers are in one group "Low Income Farmers"! Policies can and should be developed to help farmers "help themselves" make adjustments to meet the changing economy.

No. 2 If you think there should be special programmes, should these be to help him increase his income from the farm; be to help him become established in some other industry? Programs should be devised to enable farmers to increase their income from their farm. Most farmers are in an age group which cannot be established in industry.

No. 3 Have you any suggestion? A Farm Management Program, under the guidance of Farm organization is the most likely means of meeting the situation both for the farmer and for the Farmer's Association. Credit could be better utilized by this program. If we had a proper marketing program vegetables and fruits could be grown here and stored in large storage plants instead of importing them from the U. S. A. giving the farmer better prices for their produce.

The minutes were read by the Secretary. A social period followed by a lunch was enjoyed by all.

The next meeting will be held at Harry Baldwin's on March 10th the topic being "Ladies and Gentlemen."

The Libbytown Forum were our guests on "Fourth Night" February 24th at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Green and a pleasant evening was spent.

HIGH AND LOW FOREST

Forum met on March 3 with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Graham Sr., and discussed the topic "The Low-Income Farmer."

It was felt that anyone who likes farming and really tries hard at the job should be helped in some way but one who is not really a farmer at heart should be changed to industry.

Some farmers who have been put on new settlement areas and are left with poor land after the lumber is cleared off should have help. One way would be a supervised credit done in a proper manner similar to the U.L.A. plan, also a course of study should be given in schools which would help a boy if he wanted to farm and also help him decide against farming if he didn't like it. The government bonus given on purebred stock also helps a farmer to improve his herd.

A social hour followed and lunch was served.

A card party held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hazen Lowry was a success. Five hundred was played at five tables and others enjoyed scrabble or visiting. First prizes were won by Mrs. M. Damon and Irwin McBurney, and consolations by Russell Thompson and Roland Lowry.

The drawing on the homespun wool mitts was held with little Michael McBurney picking ticket 105 and the winner was Mrs. Curtis Ross of Bulwer.

Proceeds from the drawing and card party were $32.10.

The Best Bet In Long And Short Hauls

Art Crawford Transport, truckers and movers, is one of the most important transport companies in Sherbrooke. This firm, which specializes in local and long distance moving has modern equipment and well trained personnel.

The company is the only Canadian agent south of the St. Lawrence of North American Van Lines Ltd., the largest association of movers in the world. Art Crawford, its owner and founder, was born 50 years ago in Rock Forest. Six months later his parents moved to Saskatchewan. He lived with them there for 14 years until they both succumbed to the great flu epidemic in 1921. Young Crawford returned to Sherbrooke and the following years were difficult ones. He became interested in transport and worked for a number of different firms.

In 1934, without work and short of funds, he decided to capitalize on his experience and go into business on his own. He bought one of the first semi-trailers in Sherbrooke, a two-ton Maple Leaf. This was the start of a fleet that today numbers 20 trucks and semi-trailers. This success is attributed to Art Crawford's record of reliable service which has built up a large group of satisfied clientele.

Art Crawford has a daily service to Montreal where his office is at 1670 Parthenais St., Tel. LA 4-3751.

Mr. Crawford has been married since 1953. He is a member of the Chamber of Commerce and the Canadian Warehousemen's Association.

Two Teams Face Elimination In Tomorrow's Games

LEN O'DONNELL'S

LOCAL HOCKEY FANS GIVE POOR EXHIBITION

They say it takes only a few to spoil things for the rest. No truer words were uttered as far as describing the antics of a small group of "so-called fans" at Thursday's hockey game at the Arena.

This gang, which is the only way to indicate them, kept tossing eggs, tomatoes and everything they could lay their hands on when their supply ran out. It is a shame for the sake of the real fan who wants to see the better team win. No player can give his best if he thinks he may be hit with a flying object of some kind. . . . . .Some smart individual no doubt figured out that it would be nice to toss something on the ice at the players and referees but we doubt if he stopped to figure out what would happen if he hit someone else, a player on his favorite team instead. This certainly wouldn't help matters but this could happen.

We are told that there is a law for taking care of these kind of lunatics which carries a fine. As president of the league you may rest assured we will do our best to take means of stopping this and orders will be issued to this effect. Some were picked out of the crowd Thursday and we doubt if they will see any more games this winter.

This type of a person shouldn't be allowed to attend any kind of public gatherings because they are always the ones who start such acts and it is about time they realize that the rest of the people pay their money to see a good hockey game and not witness such actions.

One sure way of stopping this is pick up the individuals and cart them off to the station and impose the fine or leave them cool their heels in the cells for a while. In fact we are positive this is the only way to put an end to it.

The referees are in complete charge of the game and if anything happens which they figure will endanger any of the players they have the right to call the game irregardless of who is leading and then the QAHA can step in and put the Arena on the "black list." This was done once at Drummondville and Sherbrooke will be no exception if these actions continue.

....We know that some of the group comes from out-of-town but the majority is from Sherbrooke. So boys if you wish to kill the hard-work which the Magog and Sherbrooke executives have done keep up your smart doings. We know the teams are responsible for the safety of the fans and players but they can't afford to hire 100 policemen to keep order. The fans must do their share and anytime things like this happen they shouldn't hesitate to point them out and let the law look after them.

A big game, for both teams, is slated for tomorrow and extra policemen will be on hand to look after these individuals and prevent such doings in order to permit the rest of the supporters an opportunity of watching a good game of hockey.

The Aces will be trying to prolong the series and the Beavers will be out to wrap it up. This should help to make it a good game and if the rowdies act like human beings the rest of the fans should see another top performance by both clubs.

This is the weekend for the Adams Memorial Classic which is being held at Mount Orford and is sponsored by Dow Brewery through the co-operation of Euclide Langlois, Magog representative. This is an annual event and is considered as one of the toughest courses in the country.

The Dow Trophy will go to the winning team, competing from the different zones of the Province. The Adams Memorial Trophy will be presented to the individual emerging the winner in the downhill and slalom and judging from the list of contestants it will be quite an event. The trophies and prizes will be presented at 6.00 at the Memphremagog Hotel.

... So skiing fans here's your chance to see some of the best in the business in operation so drop around. Starting time was 11.00 this morning and tomorrow, on Mount Giroux trail, at the same time.

A special meeting has been called for this afternoon at 2.00 in the Sergeant's Mess at the William Street Armoury to discuss plans for the coming soccer season. All interested in joining the team are asked to be on hand.

See where Ambrose "Am" Ashton was elected president of the newly formed soccer league at a meeting held last week, while Jack Grundy was named vice-president and Maurice Jones, General Manager of Canadian Celanese, was awarded the post of honorary-president. L. H. Peake and D. W. Hine, both of Magog, were elected secretary-treasurer and publicity officer for the loop.

The main movement is to try and revive the game in the Townships and from the look of the new executive we think they will do allright. In years past there was a strong league which played every Saturday. Five teams are entered in the loop and maybe before the snow melts a way a few more will join. If anyone is interested they can contact any of the above officers and we are sure they will receive plenty of information on the subject. Good luck "Am" to you and your new board on your revival plan.

The Meteors of Asbestos pulled one out of the fire Thursday when they stopped the high-flying Rockets of Drummondville 3-1. It was a "must" for them as they trailed 2-0 in the best-of-five semi-finals.

The Rockets pulled a surprise by taking the Meteors in the opening game Tuesday and dropped the second in Drummondville by identical scores of 3-1. Tomorrow's tilt will be another close battle and the Miners will be out to even the count with a home game for Tuesday in the deciding affair. All indications point to close battle the whole way and the team who remains on the ice will emerge the winner.

CARS ARE MY Line

When Pete, one of our salesmen, was a young buck, he really knew how to tackle a problem.

It was early February one year, and Pete was looking at the display of Valentine cards in the drug store. At long, long last he picked one that was draped with fancy lace and said "To my one, my only, true love."

"Fine," said Pete, "I'll take seven of these."

Whoops . . . Pete just tried to hang a gasket on MY head.

Of course, Pete has changed since then as far as women are concerned. But, you know, he still has the same problem in a different way (in common with our other salesmen).

I see him out on our lot these fine days walking around patting cars affectionately on the fender. And there's a look in his eye that says "My one, my only, true love."

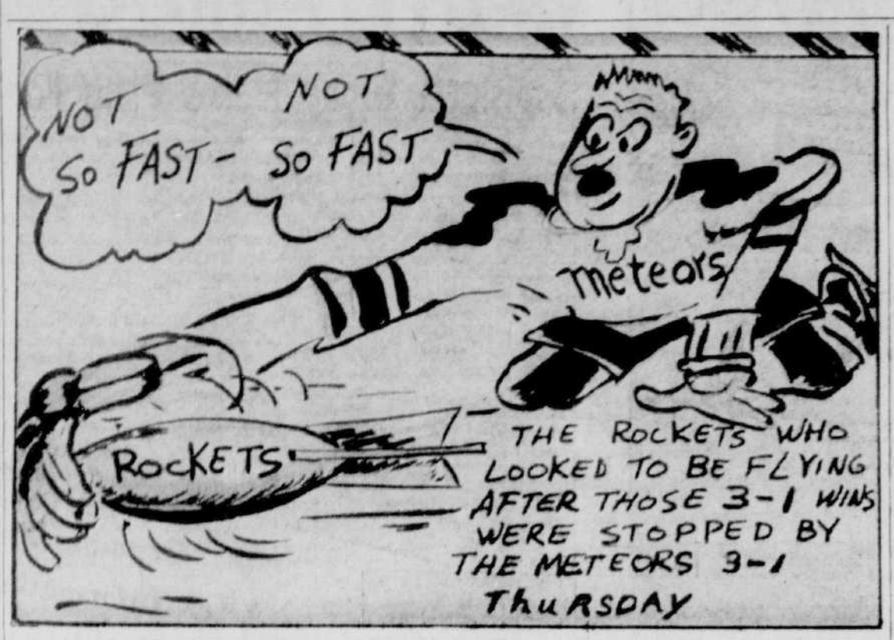

Yes, Pete has a hard time deciding which car on the lot he likes best.

There's that well-groomed and sleek convertible. Those smooth, new-looking sedans that purr like a kitten (or a blonde). Or a long, serviceable station wagon.

Pete has known most of the owners of these cars personally. He's checked the service records in our shop and he knows the thorough overhaul they got before being placed on the lot.

He knows there's not a finer bevy of beauties anywhere around here. He likes those cars, he's proud of them, and he tries to get to know them really well before showing them to customers.

I think you'll find on our lot here at Foxbrooke Motors, right now, your one, your only, true love.

Baldwin Of Alberta Wins Third Title

VICTORIA (CP)—Matt Baldwin tied a couple of records Friday night by skipping his Alberta rink to the 1958 Canadian curling championship but he wants to do better. He wants the records without qualification.

The young Edmonton oilman won his record-tying third championship by defeating Manitoba 10-6 in a playoff. Alberta and Manitobia wound up tied with eight victories and two losses in the 11-round round-robin competition, forcing the tie-breaker.

It was the second victory for Baldwin over the Manitoba's teen - age representatives from Winnipeg, the youngest rink to compete in the 29 years the championship has been staged.

In the second round he beat the youngsters — their average age is 17½—13-11 but they gave him a scare, leading 6-0 at the end of the second.

"I knew then that they had to beat themselves," Baldwin said later. And the youngsters beat themselves again Friday night.

KNOCKED OWN STONE OUT

Third Ron Braunstein raised in an Alberta stone to knock out his own shot rock in the first end. The miscue eventually produced a three-ender for Alberta, the number Manitoba was behind coming home.

The stage for the playoff actually was set in the 10th round Friday morning when Ontario upset Alberta 10-6. Baldwin, suffering from the flu, didn't play his usual brilliant game.

But in the next round Ontario, with a chance to join Alberta and Manitoba in a three-way playoff, flunked out, suffering a 9-6 defeat to Northern Ontario.

Baldwin let his third man, Jack Geddes, skip the rink in the 11th, round while he tried to lick his flu bug. Geddes game tbrough with a 10-6 victory over Nova Scotia.

P.E.I. LOSES

Manitoba qualified for the playoff by defeating Prince Edward Island 10-4. Other 11th-round results: Quebec 7, New Brunswick 13; British Columbia 6, Newfoundland 8.

The won-lost standings after the regulation 11 rounds, each team drawing one bye: Alberta and Manitoba 8-2, Ontario 7-3, British Columbia and Saskatchewan 6-4, Prince Edward Island 5-5, Newfoundland and Northern Ontario 4-5, Quebec 3-7, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick 2-8.

Baldwin, 31, said after his match he has no intention of giving up the game now that he is tied with Ken Watson of Winnipeg as the skip with the most championships.

"If I can, I'd like to win the next two at least," he said.

Memorial Arena here drew about 35,000 fans—next to the 51,000 at Regina in 1955, the best attendance ever — during the championships.

Canadians Blank Czechs 6-0 For Fifth Straight Win; Meet U. S. Today And Wind Up With Russians

OSLO, Norway. —(CP)— Canada marched on relentlessly in the world hockey championships Friday with a 6-0 victory over the fighting Czechs — the team that tied Russia.

Undefeated and untied, Canada held its lead in the round-robin tournament standing but Russia was hot on the trail, handing the American team a 4-1 defeat. That killed any American chances of winning the title.

Canada, with five straight wins, has 10 points. Russia, with four wins and a tie, has nine. The only undefeated teams, they both have two more games — including the grand finale Sunday, when they meet each other.

Sweden, the defending champion, is in third place, having trimmed Poland 12-2 Friday for a total of eight points. The Swedes, who won the title last year when Canada didn't play, were beaten 10-2 Thursday by the Canadian Whitby team.

WIDE GOAL MARGIN

In case of a tournament tie, the championship will go to the team with the greatest goal spread—a department in which Canada has an extraordinarily comfortable margin. The Canadians have scored 66 and allowed only three goals.

Whitby's defeat of the Czechs —their first in five games—just about ruined their chances for tournament championship.

But they gave Canada a gallant battle, Whitby's toughest to date.

Whitby's performance against the Czechs was considered keenly significant since it gave a basis of comparison how the favored Canadians and the Russians stacked up against a team with toughness and hockey savvy. The Czechs held the Russians to a 4-4 tie in a spectacular game Tuesday.

The injury-plagued Americans play Canada today.

TROUBLESOME CZECHS

The Canadian-Czech score was lopsided but the Czechs skated with the Canucks and gave them plenty of trouble until the last period. Although hard and fast—especially in the early stages—the game was clean, with seven penalties, five to Canada.

Canada scored twice in the first period, the second period was scoreless, and then Whitby fired home four more in the third.

BOSTON (CP)—Don Simmons, regular goalie for Boston Bruins, will be back in action tonight against the Male Leafs at Toronto for the first time since he was injured Dec. 29 in Detroit.

He will be the third goalie to be used in as many games by the National Hockey League team.

Aces And Meteors Have Backs To Wall As They Square Off Against Meteors And Rockets In Crucial Fixtures

Two very important games are on tap tomorrow afternoon in the Massawippi Hockey League with Magog Aces and Sherbrooke tangling at the local Arena while Asbestos travels to Drummondville in the other crucial tilt.

The local fixture will be an important one, both for the Aces and the Braves. A win for the Dube squad would wrap up the best-of-nine series while a victory for the Aces would prolong the battle. Sherbrooke holds a 4-2 advantage.

At Drummondville the Meteors will be trying to extend their duel to the limit of five games by registering a victory over the Rockets. The Poliquin squad holds a 2-1 lead in the best-of-five and if they can manage to emerge with a win they will earn a berth in the finals.

The Meteors will have to come up with one of their better performances if they wish to carry the battle right to the wire with the fifth, and deciding, game at home next Tuesday. Last year's champions have been having a little internal trouble but it seems they have straightened out matters as the boys rolled to their first victory Tuesday.

All games in their duel have been close and each one finished by the count of 3-1. The Rockets took the first two while the Meteors posted the third by the same count.

The Aces have two wins and both of these are 2-1 verdicts while the Beavers have 7-1, 6-1, 5-4 and 5-3 results in their favor. The Dube men have out-scored the Aces 25-14 but the scores are no indication of how close the play was. Every game has been tight and tomorrow's should be another very close duel before a winner emerges.

Emil Zatopek, "Human Locomotive" Announces Retirement After 17-Years On Track, Was Triple Olympic Winner

PRAGUE (Reuters)—Emil Zatopek, "the human locomotive" and one of the greatest long-distance runners in history, announced his retirement Friday after 17 years on the track.

The 35 - year - old Czech army colonel, who entered his first race against his will, was a triple Olympic medal winner and set 18 world records, five of which still stand.

A runner whose style defied the books, Zatopek was born Sept. 19, 1922, the son of a carpenter in the little town of Korivnice. He wanted to be a school teacher but because of hard times worked as an apprentice in a shoe firm.

At 19 he was pressed into entering a street race and surprised everyone—and himself—by finishing second.

His performance impressed a track coach and was the beginning of his great career. In 1948, he hit the top with a win in the 10,000 metres at the Olympics at London.

THREE OLYMPIC WINS

At Helsinki four years later, he scored his greatest triumphs with record-breaking wins in the 5,000- and 10,000 - metres and the marathon. In the same year, he set world records for the 15 miles, 25,000 and 30,000 metres.

Zatopek's awkward style and his twisted face that gave the look of terrible agony with every stride was the downfall of many opponents who thought the galloping Czech was out of the race.

During the Helsinki marathon, Zatopek finally pulled abreast of Briton Jim Peters, the favorite, who had set a torrid pace. As was his habit in long - distance races, Zatopek started to chat.

Two New National Badminton Titlists Appear On Scene; Lane Bickle Listed As Favorite To Win Junior Men's

VICTORIA (CP)—There will be at least two new national badminton titlists on the scene early yesterday even before the Canadian badminton championships reach the final-day job of deciding the main titleholders.

Up for grabs are the junior men's singles crown and the veterans' doubles championship. The defending boy's champion was knocked by the wayside in preliminary rounds and last year's winning veterans' team isn't competing.

Facing off in junior men's play were Lane Bickle, 15, of Calgary and 18 - year - old Ed Hreljac of Creighton Mines, Ont.

DOMINANT FIGURE

Bickle, a dominant figure in Alberta junior ranks despite his youth and rope-slim build, went into the finals with an impressive record here. He disposed of former champion Harvey Hurd, 18, of Victoria in an upset quarter-final match. In the semi-finals, he took on red - haired Wayne Macdonnell of Vancouver, who ousted fourth - seeded Ted Ransby of Winnipeg, and won out 18-16, 17-15.

Hreljac, Ontario junior champ from a town 14 miles from Sudbury, took on some of the most powerful contenders in senior and junior ranks Thursday and showed mature control and agile footwork. In the junior semi-finals, he disposed of hefty John Macdougall of Saint John, N.B., junior titlist in the Maritimes.

The veterans' final, for men over 45, was between the team of Carl Anderson of Seattle, Wash., and Russ Hill of Portland, Ore., and the Victoria entry of George Lane and Bob McMurchie.
