Jay Peak search resumes for 14 students

By JANET COTTON
of The Record
JAY, Vermont — State troopers began their second day of search at dawn

this morning for 14 Montreal
students missing near Jay Peak since Sunday.
The students, all from Dawson College, set out on a three-day hike Friday, but didn't emerge from the mountain to meet their van back to Montreal on Sunday.

Close to three feet of snow

has fallen since Friday, and temperatures have dropped below freezing.
A spokesman for the Derby State Patrol Guards,

who are heading the search,
said that 15 men combed the Jay Peak Ski area and surrounding secondary roads for more than five hours yesterday, but found no trace of the students.

Corporal Leo Willey, a member of the search party, said snow was knee-deep and winds were high on the mountain, but added that the trail was well-marked and maintained with three shelters along the route.

Members of the Jay Peak
Ski Patrol and Green Mountain Club - which maintains the Long Trail - joined the troopers in today's search.

Two parties, one leaving the route 105 area where the students began their hike, and the other leaving the point where the trail crosses the ski area, began their search on snowshoes at 7
a.m. today.

Yesterday's high winds made an air search virtually impossible but Corp. Willey said the group hoped to use the Plattsburg Air Force Base helicopter later this morning.

Dawson College Outing
Association president,
Jamey Burwash, a 19-year-old student, was leading the hike.

Last night, his mother Bernice Burwash, said she was confident the group is not in any danger.

"James is an excellent hiker. He passed a survivor's course and was supposed to take another one over the Christmas holidays," she said.

"My boy knows what he is doing. We're not panicking
yet. I suspect they're holed up in their tents waiting for better weather."

Don Hall, director of student services expressed that same confidence.

"I don't think there is a need to be alarmed. They're prepared for winter camping and there are three students who have passed survival courses."

The search headquarters is located in the lodge at the base of Jay Peak.

Chretien, Stevens clash over economic outlook

OTTAWA (CP) — The economic picture brightened during the third quarter this year but Finance Minister Jean Chretien and his chief opposition critic held differing views Monday on whether the improvement means the country is on the road to recovery.

Real growth in the economy, as measured by the gross national product

(GNP), forged ahead at a 5.2-per-cent annual rate in the quarter, Statistics Canada said Monday.

By comparison, real output of goods and services had slumped by 2.4 per cent in the three-month period ending last June.

Statistics Canada said the third-quarter improvement
was due chiefly to increased consumer spending and a rosier trade balance.

But while Chretien saw the third-quarter improvement
as hopeful for the future, Sinclair Stevens, Conservative finance critic, said
a decrease in business investment over the three-month period is alarming and could lead to economic troubles in 1978.

Chretien said outside the Commons that he was encouraged by the third-quarter growth, adding that it was better than he expected. He has predicted overall growth this year of between two and three per cent, rising to five per cent next year.

Earlier in the Commons, Chretien said the figures indicated better economic prospects in the future.

But Stevens said real growth in the 12-month period between the third quarter of 1976 and the same quarter this year was only 2.5 per cent. This is only half that of the U.S., he added.

He said it was disappointing that business investment in construction,
equipment and machinery,
as well as the real value of exports, was down.

The Statistics Canada figures showed a decline in investment in machinery and equipment of 1.1 per cent, compared with a drop of 3.1 per cent in the second quarter, while investment in non-residential construction fell 2.3 per cent.

Exports fell in real value
by eight-tenths of one per cent in the quarter, although the country's merchandise trade surplus is expected to hit a healthy $2.5 billion this year.

Economy comes first, Davis tells unity force

TORONTO (CP) — Premier William Davis told the Task Force on Canadian Unity on Monday that the economy must be the first priority when dealing with the issue of national unity.

"The economy and national unity are in-separably linked in the sense that people will have confidence in their country and its political institutions only if these institutions can deal with the bread-and-butter issues that face people in their daily lives," he said.

Davis, the first to present a brief at the two-day hearing here, said a sound economy would help cool Quebec's enthusiasm for separation.

Davis said the private sector must be prepared to share the responsibility of distributing wealth to poorer regions of the country and accept lower returns on investments in these areas.

Corporations should make these investments without coaxing or arm-twisting, but because they are ultimately in their own best interests,
he said.

Davis told the task force it is also time for a new constitution. But he said he would not be involved in constitutional change that leaves the federal government incapable of dealing with basic economic and fiscal matters.

Davis said constitutional changes should be worked out between the federal and provincial governments and include a clear commitment to enlarging regional economic opportunities, the reform of national institutions to allow for fuller expression of regional interests and the recognition of French and English as the official languages of Canada.

The constitution should also include guarantees concerning language of education, which he said would be better than provincial agreements which are unenforceable.

He recommended the dis-entanglement of federal and provincial responsibilities and called for an end to the duplications in policies and programs that exist in the two levels of government.

Stuart Smith, Ontario Liberal leader, told the hearing his party advocates

French instruction starting in Grade 1 to improve communication between English- and French-speaking Canadians.

A brief presented by the Toronto Board of Trade said Canada's prime goal should be to make French-speaking Canadians feel at home throughout Canada and it urged the Ontario government to extend Frenchlanguage rights in the courts, schools and health services.

RHODESIA CLAIMS 1,200 GUERRILLAS SLAUGHTERED

SALISBURY (AP) —
Moderate black nationalists say the guerrilla armies fighting the white Rhodesian government suffered a crippling blow if the government's claim to have killed at least 1,200 guerrillas
in Mozambique is correct.
The blacks inside Rhodesia, whose leaders are preparing to open talks with Prime Minister Ian Smith on a transition to black rule, appeared to put little or no
credence in Mozambique's claim that about 80 persons were killed in the five-day Rhodesian air and ground attack deep inside
Mozambique last week.

"It would be a lie to suggest we are happy with what happened over there,"
said an official of Bishop Abel Muzorewa's African National Council. "It is a tragedy that this continuing war has forced the government into action and that our people have died. But it has taught us some lessons."

Intelligence sources say the raids by air and ground forces on two major guerrilla bases set the black war effort back by months.
"If anything was proved by the attacks it was that guerrilla armies are good at attacking but lousy at defending," one black nationalist said.

An official report from Maputo, the capital of Mozambique, accused Rhodesia of a "slaughter" but said few guerrillas were slain. Mozambique said most of the victims were women and children, families of the guerrillas.

It also reported "five soldiers of the Rhodesian racist army were killed."
The Rhodesian government reported one of its soldiers killed and eight wounded.

The Rhodesian military command said its ground and air forces began the five-day assault on two guerrilla bases last Wednesday "in the interests of self defence."

A communique said the invaders struck the guerrillas'
main base camp at Chimoi, 85 kilometres (54 miles) inside Mozambique, and a second camp 200 kilometres (132 miles) from the frontier in the northern province of Tete.

The command said its forces returned to their bases Sunday afternoon. But the Maputo government said Rhodesia launched air and ground attacks Sunday on the border towns of Espungabera and Gogoi, in southwestern Mozambique.
It said the outcome of that fighting was not yet known.

The report from Mozambique said reporters who visited the Chimoi
camp saw bodies of women and children slain by the attackers and a mass grave for schoolchildren killed during classes.

DUO BEHIND BARS, CANINE MUSCLE HELD

NEW YORK (AP) — Two young Canadians were behind bars Monday after allegedly trying to collect a $4,000 debt with a deadly weapon—a German shepherd trained to kill on command.

A spokesman for Queens District Attorney John Santucci said the dog, King, was turned over to the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, "to be held in protective custody as a material witness."

Donato Colaneri, 19, of Montreal, and Richard Sopala, 18, of St. Leonard, Que., were arrested at a rendezvous with their alleged victim at Kennedy Airport on Monday afternoon and charged with coercion. Each could get up to seven years in prison.

The spokesman said Colaneri, who serves as a bill collector for the operator of a Canadian electronics store, came here with Sopala on Oct. 25 and went to the home of Georges Celifie in Jamaica, Queens.

The Canadian storekeeper claimed Celifie, a musician and promoter, borrowed the $4,000 from him to bring a Haitian band to Canada but never returned the loan after the Haitian group was stopped at the border and its concert cancelled.

During the October visit, the spokesman said, Colaneri and Sopala, accompanied by King, waited outside Celifie's home for him to return and then told him the dog had been trained to attack and kill by the RCMP.

GREENPEACE TESTS SEAL QUOTA

VANCOUVER (CP) — A spokesman for the Greenpeace Foundation criticized on Monday an announcement that the quota of harp seals for next year's hunt off the coast of Newfoundland would be increased by almost 1,000.

Federal Fisheries Minister Romeo LeBlanc announced in Ottawa that the quota would be 180,000 for harp seals and 15,000 for hooded seals. The minister said scientists have advised the government that the current harp seal population could sustain a kill of up to 245,000.

"Mr. LeBlanc's math leaves something to be desired," said Bob Hunter, past president of Greenpeace. "The logic of the Canadian government at the moment reminds me of the Vietnam war where the Americans said they had to wipe out whole villages in order to save them."

"Obviously Mr. LeBlanc is not listening to the best scientific information. He doesn't have any idea what ecology means."

Trudeau sees U.S. colony status for Quebec

NEW YORK (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau and Premier Rene Levesque give no sign of backing down in their split over Quebec independence, says Newsweek magazine after interviews with the two main combatants in Canada's "crisis of national identity."

In its Dec. 5 issue under the heading "A House

RENE LEVESQUE
...sympathy there

Divided," Newsweek
publishes interviews with the Canadian prime minister and the Quebec premier dealing entirely with the Quebec independence issue.

Trudeau told Arnaud de Borchgrave, senior editor of Newsweek, that if Quebec went independent, "it would become a colony of the U.S., as Cuba was under (Fulgencio) Batista and as it's a Soviet colony today."

"As a small independent unit," Trudeau is quoted as saying, "you are automatically dominated by a big neighbor."

De Borchgrave interviewed Trudeau in Ottawa. The French-speaking editor then travelled to Quebec City for his interview with Levesque.

REPLIES TO QUESTION
The Quebec premier, replying to a question about the possibility of even more dependence on the U.S. by both parts of Canada if Quebec separates, is quoted as saying:

"It's a very legitimate question that is now under study. But I've never seen it documented affirmatively.
It's pretty hard to be more dependent than we are today. We are the most highly satellitized state, economically speaking, in the Western world."

Levesque says his Parti Quebecois government will be ready before Christmas with the necessary enabling legislation for its promised referendum "that will clearly spell out an alternative option" to federation.

No specific date has been set for the referendum, expected sometime in 1979.

Trudeau is due to meet
Levesque Friday in Quebec
City in his continuing series of talks with provincial premiers on national unity and the economy.

Trudeau reiterated past positions that Quebec separation would be disastrous for the rest of Canada. "It's unthinkable,"
he told Newsweek.

"... But if Quebec, by a strong majority, voted in a fair referendum with fair questions to leave Canada...
my concept would have failed and I would want to resign. Somebody else would then have to take over."

De Borchgrave asked Levesque why would he not hold the referendum sooner and clear the air, rather than risk another year of business moving out of Quebec?

"Because it wouldn't clear the air," Levesque is quoted as saying. "It would lead to more confusion (because) the people are not ready."

De Borchgrave asked Trudeau if an Ulster-type civil war is conceivable if Quebec votes for independence. Or would

English-speakers either accept independence or leave for other provinces or the U.S.?

"Civil war in my judgment is not at all likely," Trudeau
was quoted as saying.

"Isolated incidents I don't discount. But the other alternative is more likely—a growing exodus of English-speakers. And that trend must be reversed or the separatists will win by default."

Prime Minister Trudeau
is puzzled over the support
French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing gave to Quebec Premier Rene Levesque.

"It's impossible to conceive that logical minds like the French would encourage ethnic groups to preserve their identity through political sovereignty."

Trudeau is quoted as saying,
"Giscard has a highly developed intellect. But did he think it through? The French are notoriously ignorant about geography.

There is also the emotional factor and latent guilt for having ignored their kith and kin for 200 years after the English conquest."

"De Gaulle wanted to weaken the Anglo-Saxon giants of North America. But Giscard doesn't have such complexes, so I'm puzzled."

Reinforce ties, Acadians told

MONTREAL (CP) — Quebecers and Acadians must reinforce natural ties that unite them to assure expansion of both communities, says Donatien Gaudet, president of the Federation of Francophones Outside Quebec.

Gaudet said Monday that Acadians and French-speaking Canadians elsewhere in Canada should be able to decide for themselves their place within the provinces in which they live.

But he added "Quebec is our natural ally," and said Acadians and Quebecers can engage in continued and mutually beneficial relations.

Gaudet was speaking at the launching of a review published by the nationalist Ligue d'Action Nationale and devoted entirely to Acadian issues.

State holds cash

WACO, Tex. (AP) — The more than $483,000 found on two Texas teen-agers when they were stopped for a traffic violation last January has been ordered invested in interest-bearing accounts until the owner can be determined.

The order issued by U.S. District Judge Jack Roberts in Austin, Tex., was entered Monday in Waco, where the money has been kept in a bank vault under control of McLennan County officials.

Quebec to protect salmon

QUEBEC (CP) — The Quebec government has moved to protect a type of fresh-water salmon whose main spawning river was to have received polluted water from a kraft pulp mill that begins operating next summer.

Marcel Leger, minister responsible for the environment, said on the weekend that Donohue St. Felicien Inc. will have to build a 10-mile underground pipe to transport waste water to the nearby Mistassini River at a cost of $3-to-$6 million.

Whelan makes threat noises

OTTAWA (CP) — Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan threatened Monday to ditch efforts to get an agreement with the Quebec government on a financial assistance program for farmers and apply the program without the provincial government's involvement.

For five months the federal government has been attempting to get an agreement with Quebec on administration of a program of direct payment to farmers that would replace subsidies formerly paid for railway transport and storage of feed grains.

Allmand ready to testify

OTTAWA (CP) — The former solicitor-general, Warren Allmand, said Monday he is surprised he has not been called before Quebec's Keable inquiry into illegal acts by the RCMP.

"I'm surprised I haven't been called to appear, but I'm getting ready anyway," Allmand, now consumer and corporate affairs minister, told reporters outside the Commons.

Quebec's farmers meet

QUEBEC (CP) — With the fall harvest over, representatives of Quebec's 40,000 farmers are meeting here this week to discuss common problems, especially the difficulties of marketing products.

Paul Couture, president of the Union of Agricultural Producers, said in an interview Monday that Quebec farmers need marketing structures for all their products.

The main question, said Couture, is whether the government wants to let farmers or multinational corporations sell farm products.

He gave the example of carrot growers in one region who sell carrots wholesale to a giant food firm which packs and distributes them. This responsibility should be given to farmer federations already in existence, he said.

Pilots protest airport tax

OTTAWA (CP) — The 15,000-member Canadian Owners and Pilots Association (COPA) has said a transport department proposal to increase substantially the tax on airplane fuel sold at airports is "just downright outrageous."

In a letter to Transport Minister Otto Lang, COPA president Russ Beach said commercial air operations, not owners of private planes, should be made to pay more because commercial operators use the airports to make money. Copies of the letter were released Monday.

Marine firms fined

MONTREAL (CP) — Two Montreal marine firms were fined a total of $86,000 Monday for evading $219,216 in income taxes on a federal government contract.

J. P. Porter Co. Ltd., a marine construction company, was charged with evading payment of $149,141 on unreported revenue of $439,861.

Richelieu Dredging Corp. Inc., a subsidiary of Porter, was charged with conspiring with the parent firm to evade taxes of $70,075 owed by the parent company on $178,129 in undeclared revenue.

Both firms pleaded guilty.

Fox bows out of deal

OTTAWA (CP) — Solicitor-General Francis Fox will not honor an agreement between penitentiary officials and prisoners that ended a recent hostage-taking incident at Millhaven penitentiary, near Kingston, Ont.

An aide to Fox said today that the minister has adopted a no-deals policy on agreements made while hostages are being held.

Such a policy was recommended by a parliamentary subcommittee following a study earlier this year into the

Rail rates hurt river towns

QUEBEC (CP) — Transport Minister Lucien Lessard says that discriminatory freight-rate policies of Canada's national railways mean that St. Lawrence River ports suffer "unfair competition" from ports in the Maritimes.

Because of a translation error, The Canadian Press reported last Thursday that Lessard accused only Canadian National Railways of having discriminatory freight rates.

Lessard's original comment came in response to opposition questions concerning possible movement of container facilities to Maritimes ports from Quebec City and Montreal.

Ottawa may appeal Keable ruling

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government planned federal government is to appeal the Friday considering appealing a judgment or was con- Quebec Superior Court templating any further ruling that quashed attempts action to suspend the Keable to suspend a provincial inquiry.

Justice Minister Ron Basford replied that the Basford indicated Monday federal government is.

William Jarvis (PC) — consulting with its counsel to Perth/Wilmet) asked Basford determine what, if any, in the Commons if the further action will be taken.

Cegelec occupation ends

Injuries fuel union victory

LOUISEVILLE, Que. (CP) — Michel Contre shot a surprised—and slightly menacing—glance at several of his fellow Cegelec Batteries Corp. employees last week as they urged him to show visitors how he almost lost his hand recently in a huge mixing machine. The slightly-built 18-year-old, who does not yet know if he will regain full use of his badly-scarred hand, growled, "No way," and only consented to demonstrate the accident from a slight distance.

Just three hours later some 70 Cegelec employees ended a 36-hour occupation of their plant in this town 120 kilometres northeast of Montreal, after management bowed to a handful of union demands, including immediate improvement of safety standards in the factory.

Company vice-president Jean Leonard said the company has also agreed to pay Contre and Claude Frechette, two employees who badly injured their hands on the same mixing machine, the difference between their normal salaries and compensation from Quebec's workmen's compensation board.

ONE STILL IN HOSPITAL

Frechette was more seriously injured than Contre, and is still in hospital.

"But I want the employees to understand that this is not a precedent," said Leonard. "I feel badly about these injuries, but injuries happen, and that's all there is to it."

The workers, who began their occupation early last week, disagree. Affiliated with the Confederation of National Trade Unions, the union says the machine on which Frechette and Contre were injured is one of 30-odd "hazards" in the plant.

The most serious problem, they maintain, is dangerous levels of lead in the air and a lack of proper ventilation in all work areas.

But Leonard said: "We are now spending $267,000 on special machines to clean the air and prevent contamination."

Cegelec Batteries Corp. is a division of Cegelec Canada, which has 2,800 employees. Its parent company is French. Its Louiseville plant manufactures up to 1,000 batteries daily for cars, trucks and all other types of vehicles and machines.

The union says disputes over salary will not be discussed until the union contract ends in December, 1978. Salaries now range from $4.04 to $4.98 per hour, and will be raised 37 cents per hour in 1978.

Labrador's winter life -- drinking, curling, skiing

LABRADOR CITY, Nfld. (CP) — Monthly telephone bills of $700 are the price teacher Bruce Dyer says he pays for survival in this iron-ore mining centre in south-west Labrador.

Dyer, 26, came here from Geraldton, Ont., two years ago "because I was making $10,000 and here they were paying $17,000."

"But I don't like it here," he said dejectedly. "There's nothing for me."

"Unless you drink, curl or ski, you are deprived."

A city that has grown by leaps and bounds since 1960 when mining activity began in the adjacent hills, Labrador City has a population of more than 15,000. It is linked by air and rail to Sept-Îles, Que., about 450 kilometres to the south.

About 70 per cent of the working population is employed by Iron Ore Co. of Canada earning an average basic salary of about $20,000 a year.

While people like Dyer call friends and relatives to escape, others turn to alcohol or, as Rev. Benjamin Bury said "they become obsessed with the work demon."

WORK LONG HOURS Paycheques of $1,200 before taxes for two weeks are not uncommon, a company official said.

Economic planning needed -- Broadbent

TORONTO (CP) — Ed Broadbent, federal NDP leader, said Canada's competitors in Europe and Japan have become stronger because they have had national economic planning for 15 to 20 years.

He told the party's federal council during the weekend that Canada has had the lowest tariffs for textiles, shoes and other goods, which makes it impossible for Canadian manufacturers with short production runs to compete at home.

Labrador's winter life -- drinking, curling, skiing

Bay, Nfld., told of husbands who regularly work three eight-hour shifts in two days, leaving wives at home with young children.

Or else both husband and wife worked and rarely saw each other or their children, and this situation often led to serious family problems.

A loud crash of shattered glass followed by the thump of rock smashing against metal pierced the afternoon air.

About 10 four-, five- and six-year-olds had begun a demolition derby on a car apparently abandoned in a field in the centre of town.

Screaming joyfully, they smashed windows and windshields and jumped on the hood and roof. The noise was unbearable even on the fourth floor of the only apartment building in town.

No parents came out to stop the dangerous game. An RCMP officer said wilful damage, usually by young children, is the most important crime in town.

Almost every family has one snowmobile, many have two and several have three. And although the only road out of town is a 40-mile highway past the town of Fer-mont, Que., to the Mont Wright mine, several families have two cars.

Clothing-store manager Gabriel Simard said people here are caught up in the urban syndrome of "keeping up with the Joneses."

"People spend much more than they make and it costs them a fortune each year to get out of here," he said.

Sgt. Ronald Sparks, head of the 19-man RCMP detachment, said some people complain about nothing. He said the majority earn more than they ever did and "facilities here are a hell of a lot better than what most people are used to."

Labrador City residents—many of them come from rural Newfoundland—create problems for themselves, he suggested, because they are homers.

"If Newfoundlanders were in Montreal, they would still want to fly home every year," he said.

TEXTILE LABELLING. It is important to know what you are buying when considering any textile article. So, for consumers buying party clothes, gift sweaters, or new drapes to spruce up the house, remember to check the label for important information.

Certain label information is mandatory. First, consumers have a right to know which fibres make up the article and amount of each fibre. Fibres must be identified by the generic or family name. These are names such as polyester, rayon, acrylic, wool, or cotton. Brand names are not sufficient. There are about 400 brand names for rayon alone. It is much less confusing for the consumer to become familiar with approximately 20 generic textile names, than it is to learn multiple trade names. Being familiar with properties of generic fibres will help to answer such questions as the strength of upholstery fabrics, or warmth of a ski jacket lining.

Most textile articles must be labelled. And if the retailer does not know, or cannot determine, what the article or yard good is made from, he must label accordingly, stating "Unknown Fibre" on a sign or label.

The dealer by or for whom the article was made must also be identified, either by name and address or by identification number registered with the Department of Consumer and Corporate Affairs.

Textile care information is provided on a number of manufacturers labels. This is a voluntary system. A standard set of colour coded symbols helps remove some of the guesswork in caring for fabrics, and helps a consumer judge the time and expense required to maintain a new purchase in good condition. Is it washable, or is dry cleaning required? Tumble dry, or hang to drip in order to avoid shrinkage?

Five symbols (for washing, bleaching, drying, ironing, and dry cleaning) in 3 colors tell how to care for the article. A green washing symbol means "Go ahead"; yellow means "Proceed with Caution"; red means "Stop or Don't". A complete chart of the care symbols, a pamphlet on textile labelling, can be obtained from the Consumer and Corporate Affairs local office at 25 Wellington Nord, Sherbrooke, at 565-4723.

Granby

Local photog wins award

Sherbrooke photographer Paul Lindell had three photographs accepted by the judges for the final print hanging exhibition at the 26th Convention of the Professional Photographers Association of Quebec, that took place recently in Granby.

Mr. Lindell received merit awards in the category of bridal portrait, illustration and adult portrait.

Bolton Glen

Annual Carol Service

St. Michael - All Angels' Church in Bolton Glen extends a warm welcome to everyone to come and join in the singing of the annual carol service. Mrs. Guy Cousens is organist. Sunday, December 4 at 7:30 p.m.

Sutton

Market features local talents

Work by local artists will be featured at the Sutton Saturday Market from 1:30 to 8:30 p.m., on Dec. 3. There will also be homebaking, handicrafts of all kinds and antiques at the market at the Sutton Elementary School on Highland Street.

Musical entertainment will be provided by the Academie de Musique, an affiliate of the Ecole St. Vincent d'Indy. A competition of paintings by local elementary school children will also be on display.

L'Abbe tapestries on exhibit

Tapestry work by Magog artist Gaston Vallee L'Abbe will be featured at the Expo Hall of the CHU through to Dec. 17.

A native of the Eastern Townships, Mr. L'Abbe has studied dramatic art in Montreal, and three years at the Ecole des Beaux-Arts. Mr. L'Abbe also toured South America to study tapestry hangings.

Stanstead

Annual service planned

The annual Christmas service will be taking place at 7:30 p.m. on December 16 at Centenary Church, Stanstead, to which parents of the boys will be attending. People of the community are invited to attend as well. This will mark the beginning of the school Christmas holiday period.

Beau Dommage too relaxing?

Beau Dommage, one of Quebec's most celebrated pop groups, ended a lengthy absence from the Townships with a relaxing concert last night at the University of Sherbrooke's cultural center.

Indeed, perhaps too relaxing. The first part of the two-hour spectacle was studded by just too many raps with the audience by the group's five versatile and able musicians.

Although the audience - curiously small considering Beau Dommage's deservedly great reputation - responded affectionately, one could have gotten the feeling he was at a kiddie's matinee when the group didn't just introduce their songs but offered an unnecessary synopsis of the lyrics which were to come.

They struck a happy medium following intermission, however, when they moved away from their opening repertoire of recent work and introduced soon-to-be-released compositions, which, in fitting with their "nice sadness" orientation, reflect on solitude and roaming but without the howling despair.

Beau Dommage is scheduled for another gig at 8:30 tonight at the U of S.

Construction permits up

Construction permits issued during the month of October rose 20 per cent from the same period last year. A total of 100 permits valued at $2,021,876 were issued last month compared to 93 permits valued at $1,635,355 during Oct., 1976.

Commercial permits were up to nine at a value of $227,000 from six permits at $58,000 last year.

Industrial permits declined from six at $502,000 last October to two permits at $145,000 last month.

Total construction to Nov. 1 is down at $27,111,576 for 1,062 permits issued so far this year compared to $30,250,506 for 1,124 permits issued for the same period during 1976.

Travelling exhibition in town

Each month the National Museums of Canada sponsor a certain number of itinerant exhibitions in Quebec. Three exhibitions have been scheduled for the month of December.

'A portrait of the family' in now at the Seminary Museum in Sherbrooke in the Leo Marcotte Centre and will stay until Dec. 18.

At the Amos Cultural Commission 'The laugh line' will be on display from Dec. 15 to Jan. 15. Ernest Gendron's exhibition will be Val d'Or at the Cultural Centre from Dec. 1 - 21.

Sell loto tickets for profit

St. Francis MNA Real Rancourt wants to remind all non-profit organizations-social, humanitarian, sport or otherwise - that they may apply to Loto-Quebec for permission to operate a ticket sales booth or sell subscriptions.

To be eligible an organization must be non-profit, apolitical, have been in existence for three years or the result of a more recent merger, must have a regional or provincial span and have a permanent secretary and verified accounting system.

Further information on the subject will be published in the area's English and French-language newspapers.

The Carters sing tonight

The local wife - husband song team, Ron and Penny Carter will be featured on The Joanne and Jerry Show at 6:30 p.m., on Channel 7 tonight.

A rising star on the Quebec-Ontario college and club circuit, Penny will perform two of her most popular originals - How Can I Tell You and Prend un Ride.

Richmond

Liberal party convenes

Quebec Liberal Party delegates from Richmond county participated in a Congress on the weekend of Nov. 19.

The delegates unanimously approved the election of Mr. Lawrence Wilson to the position of QLP president. Two young liberals were elected vice-president and secretary.

The Richmond liberals took a very strong stand in favor of a rejuvenated federalism and stressed the collaboration and interdependence of the French and English in Quebec.

Lennoxville

Lennoxville names committee heads

The newly-elected members of the Lennoxville municipal council were sworn into office at a special meeting held at the town hall on Nov. 14.

The following council members were elected as chairmen of committees: Robert Nichol - Finance; Duncan Bruce - Water; Constant Chailier - Roads; Robert Passmore - Building; Robert Calder - Police Protection and Fire; Constant Chailier - Lights; William Lyon - Town Hall; Robert Calder - Industrial; Robert Passmore - Environment; Robert Nichol - Tourism; William Lyon - Transportation and Communication and Duncan Bruce on Parks Committee. Mayor Cecil Dougherty will sit as an ex-officio member on each committee.

Bishop's features Messiah

Handel's Messiah, Part I, will be presented in Memorial Hall, Bishop's University, on Sunday, December 4th at 8:30 p.m. The performance will be given by the University Singers, conducted by Howard Brown, with soloists Cheryl Dutton, Kathleen Tseng, William Vickers and Earl Pennington. Gwilym Bevan will play the accompaniment. A small group of pieces precedes Messiah, one being a Gloria by Dufay from the fifteenth century, with two trombones played by Susan Milner and John Pille.

Messiah is known for its beautiful arias and impressive choruses, the most famous being the Halleluiah chorus, which concludes this performance. When George II heard it in London in 1743, he was so moved that he rose to his feet, starting a custom which has lasted to the present day.

Messiah is traditionally associated with the Christmas season, and this is the fourth time that it has been given by the singers. Memorial Hall is centrally located on the campus. The invitation goes out to all to attend the performance. A collection will be taken.

Mr. David Young, Lennoxville, a Diploma student in the Faculty of Agriculture received a Colonization Society Bursary which was presented to him by Mr. R. Kirkwood at the Scholastic Awards Banquet held at Macdonald College on November 9, 1977.

PUTTING THE PAST ON FILM

Brome Cty. Historical Society immediate past and honorary president Glen Brown, left, Miss Marion Phelps, curator, and J. Raymond Denault, general manager of the Canadian Microfilm Co. Ltd., display a special edition of the Sherbrooke Record of July 31, 1937 which commemorated the first centennial of the City of Sherbrooke. The edition, which was presented to the society by A.R. Bresee-Taylor, is one of the thousands of units which are being microfilmed for posterity's sake. Technician Real Hamelin is on the extreme right of the photograph.

KNOWLTON (JM) — The Canadian Microfilm Co. Ltd., has been busy recording the archives at the Brome Cty. Historical Society.

J. Raymond Denault, general manager of the company, said the work is being done at no cost to the society who will benefit from free copies of the microfilm when the work is completed.

"We are a self-financing operation," Mr. Denault said. "We are preparing to celebrate our 30th anniversary next year when we will publish a catalogue with more than a million titles. Colleges, universities, and the National Gallery in Ottawa purchase our work for reference use."

Technician Real Hamelin was busy photographing back issues of the Granby Leader - Mail when we visited the society last week. Mr. Denault, obviously a historical buff, took great pleasure in pointing out a back issue of the Sherbrooke Examiner, one of the fore-runners of the Record.

"We managed to microfilm a complete selection of the Stanstead Journal this summer," Mr. Denault said. "I believe it is the oldest Canadian weekly which has never changed its title during 132 years of operation - even more amazing is the fact it has only had four publishers during that period."

"We were also fortunate in being able to get a complete selection of the Huntingdon Gleaner going back to its inception in 1863."

Mr. Denault said the work done in Stanstead will be made available to the Brome Cty. Historical Society and vice-versa throughout the province.

"I wonder when we'll be able to go through the Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph," he mused.

Local break-ins draw guilty plea

SWEETSBURG WARD —

Johnny Piette, no fixed address, the object of a bench warrant issued in 1973, pleaded guilty to two charges of breaking and entering, one of simple theft, and one of fraud in Bedford during 1972. Crown attorney Noisieux suggested six months on the burglary charges and two months on the others.

Judge Genest sentenced the accused to four months for breaking and entering a dwelling, three months for burglary in the Riverview Hotel, and one month, concurrent, on the other charges.

Piette then entered no plea at his arraignment on 13 counts of breaking and entering dwellings in Cowansville, one in Dunham, and one in West Brome between October 1976 and November 1977. His lawyer, Donald Bissonnette, opted for jury trial and preliminary hearing was continued to Nov. 28.

David Winward, Knowlton, pleaded guilty to a charge of having been at large on his own undertaking pending preliminary hearing when he failed to comply with conditions imposed by the presiding judge thereby committing an indictable offence.

Defence lawyer Donald Bissonnette told the court his client has an alcohol problem and he had joined Alcoholics Anonymous and attends meetings twice a week. "He recognizes he broke the order," Mr. Bissonnette said. "He has also realized he has an alcohol problem and is trying to remedy the situation. Considering the circumstances I feel the interests of justice would be well served with four or five weekends."

"He signed a personal bond and was found in an establishment where alcohol was served well after his 10 p.m. deadline thereby committing two violations," Crown attorney Noisieux said. "He has a long record and I cannot concur with the idea of a discontinued weekend term as the jails are overcrowded and many prisoners who should be serving time are sent home."

Judge Genest sentenced Winward to 10 consecutive Mondays, with the exception of Dec. 26, from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m.

Winward then renounced his rights to a preliminary hearing on a charge of breaking and entering the Knowlton Pizzeria with intent to commit a crime and was cited to the next term of the local assizes by virtue of article 476 of the criminal code.

Alain Naud, Granby, changed his option and pleaded guilty to a charge of simple theft of a Moped, the property of Bruce Rumsby in East Farnham last spring. The crown suggested a $200 fine and a probation.

Defence lawyer Louis Grignon pointed out Denis Naud, the brother of the accused who has a record, and earlier pleaded guilty to the same charge had been fined $200 and costs and placed on a probation order. "I think a simple probation would be ample," he said.

Judge Genest fined the accused $100 and costs, in default 30 days, and bound him over to keep the public peace for one year. He then dismissed a similar charge levied against Daniel Naud when the crown said it had no proof to offer.

Denise Corbeil, Cowansville, pleaded guilty to a charge of simple possession of 18 gms. of marijuana on May 28. She was fined $75 and costs, in default 30 days.

Michel Beauregard, South Stukely, pleaded guilty to 15 counts of having made false declarations in order to obtain unemployment insurance benefits. Judge Genest imposed the sentence suggested by special prosecutor Francois Bourassa and fined the accused $50 per count for a total of $750 and costs, in default 30 days, and allowed him six months to pay the fine and costs.

Niggling display

They're burying Tommy Prince in Winnipeg tomorrow.

Canada's most decorated Indian veteran will be buried with full military honors, including a 20-man military escort, a 12-man guard, eight pallbearers and a bugler from his old regiment.

It's one hell of a lot more than anyone would have given him while he was alive. Prince, grandson of the great Saltaux Indian Chief Peguis, was twice decorated by King George VI for valor during the Second World War, received the Military Medal for his work at the Anzio beachhead, and a year later, the U.S. Silver Star for distinguished service in France.

Yet the man whose legs were all but amputated by a machine-gun blast in Korea in 1954 died virtually penniless, living out his last days in a Salvation Army room, unable to find more than menial work following his discharge.

Isn't it a curious commentary, that society can spend more on this man's funeral than they could to provide him a comfortable life while he was alive?

We're not advocating a life of luxury and decadence for anyone who has fought overseas, but at least in the U.S., GI's have long had special privileges for re-education, re-training and rehabilitation into a civilian world.

Closest to Tommy Prince's heart in the years between the Second World War and the Korean mission were his efforts to obtain treaty rights for Manitoba's Indians. That province's native population have long suffered poor housing, bad education and standards even lower than those prevailing throughout Canada's backward reservation system.

What we'd suggest is that the federal department of Indian and Northern Affairs put some of their monstrous bureaucratic budget into bursaries in Mr. Prince's name, for the development of native industry and for other causes which might benefit our native peoples.

A fancy funeral for Tommy Prince is a niggling display if it's not combined with something more lasting.

Police don't see New-Left threat -- yet

MONTREAL (CP) — A city police detective met a reporter recently to explain why the major police forces in the province are taking a renewed interest in the activity of Quebec's radical leftist movement.

The interview began at a prearranged street-corner location and then moved to the empty rear section of a nearby restaurant. It was typical of the secrecy most people insist on when they discuss the radical left in Quebec, a secrecy which also characterizes much of the left's own activities.

"Today, right now, they don't pose a real threat," the detective said, making a clear distinction between the leftists and terrorist groups like the old Front de Liberation du Quebec.

"But you're going to have a referendum soon (on political independence for Quebec), and 49 per cent might vote yes and 51 per cent might be opposed, and the next day you're going to have a lot of angry people."

"You might then have two or three per cent crazy and ready to turn to violence if they were encouraged."

So while orthodox labor leaders in Quebec are preoccupied with leftist agitation in factories and job sites, police are watching the radical left groups as a potential security threat.

Police sources say that

Montreal city police, Quebec provincial police and the RCMP formed a special joint squad last January specifically to monitor the activities of the farleft groups.

The same sources set the combined strength of the leading Maoist and Trotskyite group which make up the far left at about 6,000 members and sympathizers, most of them in the greater Montreal area.

But as a former RCMP security agent said, "It is not so much a question of numbers."

"The leftist movement is growing in the sense that the workers are concentrating under a couple of banners now."

These are relatively new groups, creations of the 1960s and 1970s, which have largely eclipsed older organizations such as the Communist Party of Canada.

Among the Maoists, in Struggle—En Lutte! in its French version—was formed in 1974 while the Canadian Communist League (Marxist-Leninist) was formed in 1975.

In August, the three leading Trotskyite groups united to form the Revolutionary Workers League, with units in both English and French Canada. The new organization is said to number about 1,500 members and sympathizers.

By all accounts, however, the largest and most active of the far-left groups is the Canadian Communist League (Marxist-Leninist). The League, as it is known for short, is the group which interests police the most.

The League was the product of a merger of three smaller Maoist groups. It now numbers between 1,000 and 1,500 members and sympathizers in Quebec province, and is said to be stepping up activity in the rest of the country.

While Trotskyites favor political independence, the League and other Maoist groups oppose the Parti Quebecois and separation. The League sees the PQ's separation plan as a ruse to consolidate the economic power of the Quebec bourgeoisie.

Esponsing orthodox Marxist-Leninist theory as defined by Peking, the League declares its mission is to lead the proletariat "in armed struggle" against a capitalist society.

But that is admittedly in the long run, and both the Maoists and Trotskyites reject terrorism and other political violence.

Nevertheless, the League, like all the Maoist groups, lives in semi-clandestine fashion, which makes it harder for police to get information on its activities. Requests for interviews are ignored and clerks at the League's Norman Bethune bookstore refused to talk about the League itself with a reporter.

The organization spreads its message by word of mouth, through pamphlets and through its twice-monthly newspaper, The Forge, which is sold through the mail and by hawkers at universities and some plant gates.

At marches and demonstrations where the Maoists turn out in force, they provide their own marshals who discourage, even rough up, photographers who try to take pictures of the participants.

As a general rule, the leftist organizations are structured into semi-autonomous cells, which limits the information available to each member and, hence, to informers.

New members, particularly among the Maoists, are subjected to rigid screening and a lengthy probationary period—as much as 12 months in some cases—before receiving full membership status.

The leftists may have grounds for their precautions. The RCMP has admitted to several illegal break-ins during the early 1970s, including one at the Agence de Presse Libre du Quebec, a left-wing news agency which was subsequently taken over by the League.

And reporter Jacques Benoit, in a series in the Montreal daily La Presse on the radical left, told of an occasion last February when League members stumbled into what they thought was a vacant room and found a police team taking pictures of delegates entering a League-sponsored conference.

Left-watching may even be good business. Until its operating licence was lifted in August by the provincial government for apparently unrelated reasons, Securex Safeguard Consultants Ltd., a private security firm operated by former RCMP agents, did surveillance work on left activity and sold the data to a growing list of industrial clients.

Police say their task is compounded by a lack of manpower. Following the 1976 Olympics, the Montreal anti-subversive squad was cut to about a dozen from a pre-Games peak of about 36.

The big brass of the Montreal force, the detective said, just doesn't understand the threat the leftists, particularly the Maoists, could pose. And the RCMP now relies on the city force to do most of the fieldwork.

"We work eight hours a day and they work 24 hours a day, seven days a week," he said. "They're marching Saturday and we don't have anybody to work."

Mutual effort needed

Editor:

In reply to the letter of S.L. Black of November 22, I thoroughly agree with him but I feel his letter was not complete.

I agree that the French instructions given at the elementary level, (when the learning capacity of the child is at its highest peak) is unfortunately inadequate.

The experience with my eldest son when I switched him to the English system after two years in the French one, was disappointing to say the least. The English teachers were fantastic in helping him, but he did come home after some sessions of French instructions with an English accent in his French. The French already acquired was deteriorating.

I think that a mutual effort should be made with the French sector. In the English school system,

French instruction has improved a great deal in the past years, whereas in the French system, it has not. I went to a French elementary school and couldn't wait to reach grade 5 so I could take some English instructions. Thirty years later, my second son, who is in grade 5 in the French school, is having that same experience.

Comparatively the English school system has come a long way. Wouldn't a similar improvement in the French sector and a PLUS improvement in the English sector, in the teaching of the second language, be of great value to the individual, to the society, to the culture, to the economy, etc. etc?

By the way, I am fortunate to be neither francophone nor anglophone but both.

SONYA PRICE BARDATI

On and on and on

Editor:

I read with great amusement the letter in the paper last week concerning the Queen and the ever unanswered question - what does she do??? Remember the play 'Camelot'? In it there's a song titled "What do the Simple Folk Do?" Well I wish I had the talent to do a parody on it called "What does the Royalty Do?" I couldn't agree with that lady more. Oh I'm sure you'll receive letters blasting that letter and its author, but the majority of today's public are more intelligent and realistic. This week I came across some more figures I would like to share with your readers.

Get ready to vomit!
1) Besides the 18 percent in Queen Liz's pay to $3.4 million the toll of the 'Silver Jubilee' is staggering.

2) The Queen's Mother is to get an additional $27,000, bringing her allowance to $279,000.

3) Princess Margaret who was awarded a $9,000 raise, now receives $99,000.

4) Princess Anne gets $90,000 upped from $81,000, which will come in handy for her new $180,000 stables and heated swimming pool for her horses!!! Yes for her HORSES!!!

And now Anne's son, too, will be on the payroll. Indeed how can the British stand for this? These useless do-nothings are draining an already drained economy.

Well, until something wakes up the British Parliament, I suppose it will go on and on and on.

Editor:

Another Armistice Day is over, P.Q. members! And do any of you realize the meaning??? I dare say you don't, or English Quebecers, they would not be having to move away, afraid for the future of their young families growing up, to say nothing of the future of their jobs.

Our boys and girls who fought for their freedom, our freedom, the Francophones, freedom, to me, was all in vain! I lived through the '39-'45 war, saw hardship, tears of sadness, tears of joy when our boys came back, IF, they came back. And to see what the P.Q. Government is doing now to our province, and wanting separation, demanding we give up our rights as "Canadians", become "Quebecers". It's "sickening" to say the least.

Our leaders have got to be "sick," expecting us to tolerate this without a fight. But what can we do? Who voted this "trash" government in? You can be sure it was not people who survived any wars for freedom! Having watched Rene's victory on T.V. one year ago, his "Cheering Friends" were still in diapers. And now he is asking for a referendum voters age to be brought to 16 years of age, should there be a referendum, really, how hard up can you get?

They talk about violence on T.V. giving our youth bad ideas, what in H... are the news on T.V. doing! They're arguing in parliament. The RCMP (our most respected law and order) are in trouble up to their neck, French pushing us Anglophones around like we have no rights here in Quebec, what next??

I was reading a letter by Andrea Landis, in the Nov. 15th issue, really lady, would you rather be ruled by the Queen, (despite the unjust salary you say she gets) or by Rene Levesque's government. I'll take the Queen's smile, and her fabulous hats, any day, for all of Rene's spurs of hair and drooping cigarettes, and his followers.

I'm not a poet but will close with these few lines. In Flanders Fields across the sea, Our Boys died for you and me.

But here in Quebec Thirty-two years later, We have what you might call a real Dictator.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Atomic inventory unnerving

by Jack Anderson and Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — The federal government has discovered a disturbing 700 discrepancies in the nuclear bookkeeping of 50 private companies. Hundreds of pounds of nuclear materials, suitable for producing H-bombs, are unaccounted for and, therefore, may be missing.

This news comes at a time of chilling reports that nuclear materials have been stolen from U.S. plants and smuggled to foreign powers seeking to manufacture nuclear weapons.

The Nuclear Regulatory Commission, which has been charged with keeping track of the deadly materials since 1975, prefers to say 700 cases are merely "accounting differences." But a spokesman conceded that more than 1,000 tons of H-bomb ingredients cannot be accounted for.

In addition, the status of thousands of pounds of less dangerous uranium is in question. The bookkeeping is so muddled that some companies may actually have more material on hand than the records show.

The discrepancies have been found in the nuclear inventories of such major companies as Westinghouse, General Electric, General Atomics, Babcock and Wilcox, Nuclear Fuel Services and Atomics International.

The nuclear regulators, despairing of solving the problem on their own, are calling in outside contractors for help. The contract bid calls for "eliminating any inconsistencies existing between the two data banks." One data file is located in Washington, the other in Oak Ridge, Tenn.

The commission admits the companies may have provided good data to the government. In at least some cases, the information was cranked faultily into the computer banks. In other cases, one set of facts was fed to one federal computer and another set to the other computer. To make it even more confusing, there were instances in which no data at all was delivered to one of the two federal bookkeeping systems.

Footnote: The Natural Resources Defense Council is drafting a massive freedom of information suit against the government in an effort to learn the exact amount of missing nuclear material.

McRae's Navy: A former Navy legal officer has charged in a confidential report that the Navy systematically violates the legal rights of young, unsuspecting recruits.

The disturbing report, submitted by Ronald McRae to Rep. Thomas Downey, D-N.Y., alleges: "Recruits with legal problems... were often given misleading and inaccurate advice, and often denied right of counsel."

The former legal officer explained that Navy recruiters, in their zeal to sign up potential recruits have given them inaccurate advice. The new men have been told not to worry about any juvenile delinquency, homosexuality or drug abuse prior to their enlistments.

Based on this erroneous counsel, some enlistees haven't bothered to list on recruitment forms that they had once smoked pot. This has been used against them later, in some cases, to bring their discharge for fraudulent enlistment. Yet the recruiters who misinformed them have received only mild reprimands.

McRae cites several cases to document his charge that recruits are getting unfair treatment. He notes, for example, that one recruit received a prejudicial "general discharge" for "homosexual tendencies." Yet a company commander who homosexually molested two recruits, was granted an honorable discharge for "unsuitability."

In another example, McRae reports that 16 recruits signed a petition last January against their master-at-arms. The superior officer who was supposed to investigate the complaint didn't bother. Instead, he accused the petitioners of being "mutineers," ordered them to stand at attention in the sun and threatened them with a dishonorable discharge unless they recanted.

Subsequently, Navy investigators discovered that the master-at-arms and his assistants, indeed, had "threatened, kicked and assaulted recruits."

Footnote: Downey has forwarded a copy of McRae's report to Navy Secretary Graham Claytor and has demanded full answers.

Senate Report Cards: Freshmen senators just like school children get report cards. These cards don't contain passing or failing grades. But the Senate quietly keeps track of the first-term senators who play an active role in making laws.

By this standard, the current crop of 18 freshmen senators isn't impressive. Only four of them managed to get any legislation through the Senate this year. They are Sens. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., H. John Heinz III, R-Pa., Spark Matsunaga, D-Hawaii, and S.I. Hayakawa, R-Calif.

DeConcini is the only freshman senator who maneuvered more than one legislative proposal through the Senate. He got four bills passed.

Nuclear Protest: energy czar James Schlesinger is under fire for stacking the Department of Energy with proponents of nuclear power. Experts on other forms of energy, such as solar power, are being ignored.

This has upset the Senate Energy Committee. At least five of its members led by Sens. James Abourezk, D-S.D., and Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, have put their protest in writing.

In a private letter to Schlesinger aide Dale Myers, the senators complained: "The disproportionate amount of talent and money that we have devoted to nuclear technologies makes it tempting to allow the bureaucracy and the giant corporations to dictate energy policy."

Their nuclear inclinations, suggested the senators, is clear. The five senators strongly suggested, therefore, that Schlesinger place the responsibility for all the "alternative" energy sources under one bureau. This will make it easier for the Senate and the public to keep an inquisitive eye on it.

Perrott-Brooks engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Perrott, of Cowansville, wish to announce the engagement of their only daughter, Jill Joann, to Mr. Murray Brooks, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Brooks of St. Laurent.

Flora Carter in CHU

Mrs. Flora Carter of the Wales Home is now on Floor 6B at the CHU.

Loomis-Smith engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Milt Loomis of Lennoxville are pleased to announce the engagement of their eldest daughter, Nancy Ann, to Mr. Wendell Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Smith, St. Elie d'Orford. A spring wedding is being planned.

Winslow-Yertaw wedding

At 2 p.m., on Saturday, October 22, 1977, a pretty fall wedding was solemnized at the Massawippi Union Church, when Nolene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Yertaw, Massawippi, Que., was united in marriage with Terry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Winslow, Sherbrooke, Que.

Rev. Ron Smith of Coaticook, Que., officiated in the double ring ceremony and Mrs. Claire Shipway played the wedding music.

The bride was escorted to the altar on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. Her floor-length dress was of white sheer over taffeta, the back of which formed a train. The fitted bodice was outlined with white appliqued flowers and beadwork.

On her head she wore a pillbox hat of white plumage. She chose a bouquet of bronze, yellow and white daisies with yellow sweet-heart roses and baby's breath.

Her jewelry consisted of a gold bracelet and a heart-shaped necklace, gifts from the groom.

Three very dear friends acted as bridesmaids and were dressed similarly in gowns of different colors: Joyce Robinson in yellow, Diane Turnbull in green and Marlene Mosher in blue.

These dresses were made by Mrs. George McVety, Milby, P.Q.

Each girl carried a single long-stemmed pink rose with baby's breath and white ribbon.

The groom wore a medium-colored blue suit, with inner vest and a light blue shirt.

Mr. Danny Nugent, cousin of the groom, acted as best man. The ushers were David Harrison, and Jimmy Sturtevant, two college friends of Terry's.

The bride's mother chose a gown of aqua jersey-polyester and wore black accessories.

The groom's mother wore a gown of deep blue polyester, a shoulder stole and black accessories.

The groom's grandmother wore a blue suit and each of these three ladies had identical corsages of pink carnations.

Following the marriage ceremony, a reception was held at the Massawippi Community Hall, where a roast turkey supper was served to 90 guests, catered by the Massawippi Community Club.

The head table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake, the artwork of Mrs. Allan Goodfellow. The cake was iced with white and trimmed with tiny pink flowers, doves and bells, and topped with a kissing couple on a roofed loveseat.

Later that evening, Terry and Nolene welcomed around 200 friends and relatives to a dance with country and western music provided by Robert Drew and his band.

Miss Susan Cunningham attended the guest book. As a going-away outfit the bride chose a green pantsuit, with beige accessories and wore a corsage of yellow carnations.

The couple spent a few days touring the New England States and are now residing near Lennoxville, Que.

Out of town guests came from Ontario, New Hampshire, Burlington, Vt., and Connecticut.

The night before the wedding, a rehearsal lunch was served at the Yertaw home, given by the groom's parents. Gifts were exchanged by the bride and groom and their attendants.

Nolene had been entertained at a linen shower, given by Cheryl Graham, Mary Goodfellow and Marion Nugent, at a kitchen shower hosted by Diane Turnbull, Joyce Robinson and Elaine Boisvert as well as a miscellaneous one given by the Hatley/Massawippi communities.

Both Terry and Nolene were welcomed by relatives at a mixed shower held at the home of Harris and Gloria Nugent, where everyone enjoyed an evening of delicious food, good music and the couple received many cards of money, as well as garden tools from the host and hostess.

Good luck, girls!

Five local girls representing the Les Libellules of Magog, a popular figure skating club, succeeded in the tests of Junior and Senior bronze and also are in the necessary age bracket to compete in the Quebec Figure Skating Championships December 2-4.

From left, the skaters are Liza Simard, Sylvie Bachand, Henrietta Riegal, Line Garneau and Nathalie Cloutier.

Ann Landers says

$25 a small price to pay

Dear Ann Landers: Both my sister and I have three children between 4 and 11 years of age. Mary says she is having her children immunized this week against measles, mumps, rubella and whooping cough. She also mentioned polio.

I have not heard of a child getting polio for several years. I thought this disease was conquered. Also, what about the others? Why go to the trouble if there is no danger?

Please check with your medical consultants and give us the right information. A visit to the doctor's office costs $25, these days. Thank you.

— Champaign, Ill.

Dear Champaign: In recent months there has been a frightening increase in measles, rubella and whooping cough. Not many people realize that these diseases can cause mental retardation, deafness, pneumonia, and encephalitis.

Polio has NOT been conquered. In 1954, 38,000 cases of polio were reported. In 1976, there were ten. Ten seems like a small number but if your child was one of the ten, it would be a very significant number indeed.

This is the problem we are now facing. People have become complacent. We cannot afford to wait for another epidemic to hit before we protect our children.

The United States Public Health Service has just printed a new booklet, "A Parent's Guide To Childhood Immunization." It is available free. Write to Immunization, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

This booklet will tell you what shots your child needs, at what age and where to get the shots without charge in certain communities.

Oral polio vaccines are available free of charge to any school-age child in Chicago and Cook County. Parents should call the Board of Health. They will be referred to the clinic nearest their homes.

I urge every mother and dad to act to protect your children at once. What else will you do today that it as important?

Dear Ann Landers: I get along with my mother-in-law very well — until picture-taking time.

For every major family event (beginning with our wedding) she has spoiled the solemnity of the occasion by insisting on having a photographer on hand. When we sealed our vows with a kiss, the camera was right under our noses.

Last week our daughter was baptized. My mother-in-law hired a photographer (same one) and directed all the picture-taking. When I told her I didn't like the idea she said, "You'll be glad to have the pictures in years to come."

I enjoy having pictures, but I would prefer fewer pictures and a little more dignity at affairs which are supposed to have religious significance. What do you suggest? — Overpowered

Dear Over: A good commercial photographer knows how to take pictures without getting in the way. Perhaps this is the problem.

In the future, if the event is one you should be in control of (such as the baptism of your child) tell your mother-in-law that you will engage the photographer. You can then engage the photographer of your choice, give him explicit instructions on what you want and what you do not want.

Dear Ann:

You are right about the toilet paper and for a very good reason. The roll of paper pivots about the line of support between the axle and the hollow cardboard tube. To get it to turn requires a certain torque which comes from the tension in the paper being withdrawn. The greater the distance between the plane of the paper being pulled and the axle support line, the less force is required and the less chance of tearing the paper before you have enough.

Your Friendly Physics Prof

Dear Prof:

I'll take your word for it. I bothered Jerome Wiesner, president of MIT, once this year already. And thanks to all who wrote. How nice to have had such an easy Monday!

CONFIDENTIAL to why the Icicles? Longfellow said it best: "Every man has his secret sorrows which the world knows not. Oftentimes we call a man cold when he is only sad."

Yuletide bazaar and supper

BEEBE — A very successful Christmas bazaar and supper was held in the dining-room of Wesley United Church on November 19. The stairway and dining-room were very festive with greenery and assorted decorations.

At four o'clock the bazaar opened, when a large crowd arrived to view and purchase the many articles on display.

The food table, with Mrs. Bernice Wilkinson and Mrs. Frances Finlayson in charge was well-laden but many sales were made of the attractive food such as cookies, doughnuts, cakes, cupcakes, sweetbreads, jam, pickles and marmalade and the supply was soon depleted.

Mrs. Agnes Myers and Mrs. Molly Eberth looked after the miscellaneous which held many knitted articles, jewellery and decorations.

Mrs. Elizabeth Miller and Mrs. Charlotte Adams sold the many beautiful aprons and books; Mrs. C. Nutbrown had a nice display of greeting cards and Mrs. Enid Cooke assisted whenever needed. All tables having many visitors, the items were soon sold.

At the lunch hour (5 p.m.) Miss Viola Moranville and Mrs. Gordon Laberee assisted by Mrs. Ralph Rogers, Mrs. Bernard Lenev and daughters Sandra and Judy looked after the many people who had arrived for the hot-dish supper. Mrs. Stella Eryou also assisted with the serving of the meal.

Mrs. Margaret Mosher, sold the supper tickets and she estimated well over 100 persons were served.

In the kitchen were Mrs. Sylvia Bronson, Miss Leona

Shepard, Mrs. Gladys Chartier, Mrs. Leslie Rediker, Mrs. Robert Elliott and Mrs. C. Aulis.

Mrs. Bernice Wilkinson held the lucky ticket on a small quilt and Mrs. Allan Asquith of Lanark, Ont., claimed the knitted afghan.

All in all it proved to be a most profitable project.

City of MAGOG PUBLIC NOTICE

PROVINCE OF QUEBEC CITY OF MAGOG TO THE PROPERTY OWNERS who are entered on the valuation roll in force in the City of Magog on November 14th, 1977, with respect to immovables situated in zone RC-4.

BY-LAW NO. 684 PUBLIC NOTICE is hereby given by the undersigned City clerk of the City of Magog, that at a regular adjourned meeting held on November 14th, 1977, the Municipal Council of the City of Magog has adopted by-law no. 684, amending construction and zoning by-law no. 362 to detach lots nos. 4G-2 and 4G-3 from the zone A-5 and to attach them to zone RC-4. Said zone RC-4 being bounded as follows:

At North by zones A-5 and A-6; At Southeast by zones CA-7, I-10 and RC-3; At West by zone RA-6; That the property owners here above mentioned, that is to say the ones in zone RC-4 who were of full age and Canadian Citizens on November 14th, 1977, in the case of physical persons, or who will have satisfied within the prescribed delay to the requirements of paragraph 3 of article 399 of the Cities and Towns Act in the case of corporations, commercial partnerships or associations, can request that by-law no. 684 be submitted to a secret poll according to articles 399 to 410 of said Cities and Towns Act; That this request must be made by way of the registration procedures provided for in articles 398a to 398d of the Cities and Towns Act and that in conformity thereof all property owners who are qualified to vote on by-law no. 684 will have access to a register made available to them at the City Clerk's office, 7 Main Street East, from 09:00 hours to 19:00 hours, on December 6 and 7, 1977.

THAT the number of signatures required in order that the by-law no. 684 be submitted to a secret poll is fifteen (15) persons and that in the absence of this number, by-law no. 684 will be deemed to have been approved by the persons qualified to vote; THAT all who are qualified to vote can consult by-law no. 684 at the City Clerk's office during the regular office hours and during the registration hours;

THAT the result of the present consultation by registration will be announced on December 7, 1977, in the City Council Room at the City Hall, 7 Main Street East, Magog, at 19:00 hours.

GIVEN AT MAGOG, this 29th day of November, 1977.

Jean-Paul Lange, c.m.o., City Clerk and Industrial Commissioner

DECISION

Ottawa, November 18, 1977

Following a Public Hearing commencing October 18, 1977, in Montreal, Quebec, the Canadian radio television and Telecommunications Commission announces the following decision.

Decision CRTC 77-692

DUPLANTER, EASTMAIN, PETITE OPINACA AND LAC BOYD, QUEBEC - 77094800

Club Social La Grande

Application for renewal of its broadcasting licence for CHLG-FM-5 Duplinter, CHLG-FM-4 Eastmain, CHLG-FM-2 Petite Opinaca and CHLG-FM-3 Lac Boyd, Quebec expiring March 31, 1978.

Decision: APPROVED

The Commission renews this licence from April 1, 1978, to March 31, 1980, subject to conditions to be specified therein. This period will enable the Commission to consider renewal of this licence at the same time as those of other FM licences in the region.

This approval is subject to technical certification by the Department of Communications.

Following a Public Hearing commencing October 18, 1977, in Montreal, Quebec, the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission announces the following decision effective forthwith.

Decision CRTC 77-696

THETFORD MINES, QUEBEC - 771237500
MAGOG, QUEBEC - 771238300
SHERBROOKE, QUEBEC - 771239100

Canadian Broadcasting Corporation

Applications under the Accelerated Coverage Plan for broadcasting licences for television stations to rebroadcast the CBC English language television network (ex: CBMT Montreal) as follows:

Technical Data:

Thetford Mines, Quebec

Channel: 32
Effective Radiated Power: 1,300 watts
Program feed: Authorized Trois-Rivières TV Station

Magog, Quebec

Channel: 30
Effective Radiated Power: 15,000 watts
Program feed: CBMT Montreal

Sherbrooke, Quebec

Channel: 50
Effective Radiated Power: 1,100 watts
Program feed: Proposed Magog TV Station

Decision: APPROVED

The Commission issues licences expiring March 31, 1981, subject to the conditions contained in the Public Announcement of December 17, 1975 (CRTC 75-589) and to other conditions to be specified in the licences. This period will enable the Commission to consider renewal of these licences at the same time as that of CBMT Montreal, Quebec.

These three new stations will bring the CBC English language television network service to the anglophone population of the region, at present without such service.

Annual Red Cross meeting

SUTTON — The annual Red Cross meeting of Sutton and vicinity will be held in the Red Cross Room in Anne-Marie School, Academy St. on Monday, Dec. 5 at 2 p.m.

The President, Mrs. Russell, wishes to invite you all to come, and hear the year's reports.

The guest speaker will be Mr. Labelle, provincial director, a long time friend and great worker in the Red Cross, Montreal.

Mrs. Russell, Red Cross campaign chairman, wishes to say she has forwarded to Headquarters in Montreal, $2,342.29 for the campaign collections, and also to say that many thanks go out to all her canvassers who gave their time for this work and a big thank you to the donors.

If it had not been for your faithful work, this would not have been such a good year. Come and have a cup of tea with us that afternoon.

Remembrance Service

SOUTH DURHAM — A large number of people attended the Remembrance Day services held at St. James' Anglican Church on Nov. 6 with Rev. L. Beaudon, United Church of Canada, Rev. C. Derhaies, Eglise Romain Catholic, and Rev. Ruth H. Matthews, Parish of St. Francis of Assisi, leading the congregation in the prayers, hymns and readings.

An inspiring sermon was delivered by Rev. Ruth Matthews.

Members of the Canadian Legion, Veterans, Cadets and local citizens, paraded to the War Memorial where a short service and placing of wreaths, by the Legion Town Council, U.C.W. and A.C.W. of South Durham, took place.

After this memorial service, refreshments were served in the United Church Hall by members of the A.C.W.

WI meeting

SOUTH BOLTON — At our October meeting, this South Bolton branch was pleased to have the Stanstead North branch as guests. Introductions were made by Mrs. I. Taylor and Mrs. Betty Needham.

Mrs. Needham opened the meeting by having the members repeat the Collect Roll Call was answered by naming a flower, fruit, or vegetable in French.

It was decided to have a card party on November 5 at the South Bolton W.I. Hall to earn some funds.

We are going to start quilting our Flower of the month quilt this winter. It is to be done on a genuine antique quilting frame donated by Mrs. Marjorie Eldridge for this project.

A glass bowl was raffled, the winner being Mrs. Nellie Cooper from Stanstead North. This lady drew her own name and so caused quite a giggle from the rest of the members.

Mrs. Hilda Evans, our Education Convenor, held an old-fashioned spelling bee which all the ladies took part in. Two teams were lined up against each other and Mrs. Evans called out all the most difficult words she could find. At least that's the way it seemed. It didn't take long to end the game and the winner was a teacher from Stanstead North.

A social visit around the tea table followed and everybody declared it had been a lovely afternoon.

In November we had a short business meeting, to discuss what to bring for the card party. A donation was made by Mrs. Ethel Coates which was greatly appreciated, and we made a donation to the Boy Scouts of Mansonville, following a request.

After this the meeting was adjourned, and a work session held for the quilt. Time out for tea and then back to work.

We are holding our Christmas meeting at the home of Mrs. H. Hill which we hope our County President will be able to attend.

Card of Thanks

TWYMAN — We wish to express our sincere appreciation for the many acts of kindness shown us at the time of the death of our dear mother, grandmother and great grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth Twyman. Our thanks to all who called at the Funeral Home, to Rev. Jervis Read, the organist and choir and Gordon Smith, Funeral Director. To all who sent flowers, donations, food and sympathy cards. To St. Philip's A.C.W. for serving lunch after the funeral. Your kindness will always be remembered and may God bless you all.

NEW APPOINTMENTS TO SHERBROOKE HOSPITAL BOARD OF GOVERNORS - 1976/77

Gagné, Pierre, M.D., F.R.C.P.(C)

Governor
Educated at Laval and the University of Sherbrooke, and with post-graduate training at Toronto's Family Court Clinic and in Forensic Service, Clarke Institute of Psychiatry and the McGill Clinic in Forensic Psychiatry, Montreal. Dr. Gagné is eminently qualified for his present position as Chief of Service, Forensic Psychiatry, Sherbrooke Hospital, and the various consultant services he renders organizations which include the Cowansville Penitentiary and Quebec's Department of Justice. Dr. Gagné was born in Victoriaville, Quebec and is a resident of Sherbrooke.

Gustafson, Mrs. Elizabeth Renninger, B.Sc., N.

Governor
After graduating from the Abington Memorial Hospital of Abington, Pa., with the Robert Sewall Award of best all-round nurse in the class, Mrs. Gustafson continued her studies at Columbia University, New York City, receiving the degree of Bachelor of Science in Nursing Education. Leaving the position of evening Head Nurse at Harkness Pavilion, a position she held for seven years, Mrs. Gustafson took up residence in North Hatley, Quebec and became a part-time nurse at Sherbrooke Hospital. Her association with the hospital as a Sherbrooke Hospital representative to the United Nurses Inc. and as a member of the Board of Directors and of the Ladies' Auxiliary, testifies to the interest she has in hospital affairs.

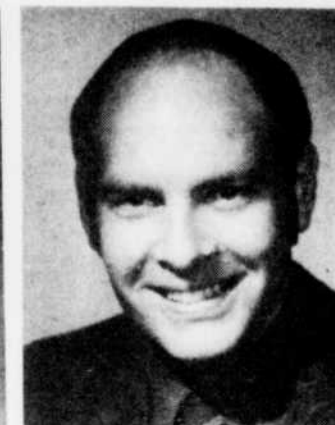

Linde, Karl V., B.Sc., E.M.

Governor
A 1928 graduate of Michigan College of Mines with the degree Engineer of Mines, Karl V. Linde's extensive experience in the mining field is known internationally. In addition to his expertise in the mining industry, which includes exploration, Mr. Linde took a great interest in research into the causes of cancer and other asbestos related diseases. His retirement from Chairman of the Board of Canadian Johns-Manville in 1970 preceded an additional four years of service as Consultant to the Institute of Occupational and Environmental Health of Montreal & the Quebec Asbestos Mining Association. He is a member of the Order of Engineers of Quebec, the member of the Canadian & American Institutes of Mining and Metallurgy, and the American Association for the Advancement of Science. Now active as Vice-President of Hazmag Canada and Hazmag, U.S.A. Mr. Linde resides on his farm near Asbestos, Quebec.

Smith, David D., M.A., Ph.D.

Governor
Since coming to Bishop's University in 1960, Dr. Smith has established its Department of Psychology, and served on the University Senate and on the Executive Committee of the Corporation. A native of Montreal, his undergraduate education was completed at Sir George Williams with graduate studies at the University of Minnesota and McGill where he earned the degrees of M.A. and Ph.D., respectively. A member of Canadian and American Psychological Associations, and the American Association for the Advancement of Science, Dr. Smith has a number of publications to his credit. He is Professor of Psychology and Chairman of the Department of Psychology and resides in Lennoxville.

Sparkes, W.J.

Governor
Born in Asbestos, Quebec, Wendell J. Sparkes received his undergraduate education in the Townships and attended Bishop's University where he majored in Chemistry, Physics and Mathematics. A two year interval in the pulp and paper industry interrupted his education before returning to Bishop's to become certified as a High School Teacher. Executive positions in the Provincial Association Protestant Teachers in Quebec and the Canadian Teachers' Federation in Ottawa preceded his election to the Executive Committee of the W.C.T.U. Director-General of the Eastern Townships Regional School Board since July 1, 1973. Mr. Sparkes resides in Lennoxville.

Grossmann-Hensel, Mr. Stefan

Governor

RON CARTER ... team looking better

BEAVERS WINGER READS PLAYOFFS IN NEW SPIRIT

By LEN O'DONNELL

SHERBROOKE — Ron Carter, who finished last year with a grand total of 77 goals and 50 assists, seems headed for another great year, according to the scoring statistics released recently by the Quebec Major Junior Hockey League.

Carter has picked up 37 goals with 35 assists for a grand total of 72 points after 12 games. This puts him well ahead of last year's pace and he should better last year's mark by a good margin.

Ron Carter was born in Chateaugay, March 14, 1958, the son of William and Gladys Carter. He attended school at home before coming to Sherbrooke fresh out of midget ranks.

He is in his third and final year with the Beavers and was named assistant captain. He plays on a line with Sylvain Locas and Ricky Secco, which is currently rated as one of the top lines in the league.

"The trades affected all the players, especially the rookies, but at least it made us realize that we had to do better and that we could. With the coming Locas, who took over at centre between Secco and myself, it helped our game," Carter says.

"We changed our style and we began digging the puck out of the corners to pass it out to Locas, in front of the net, who finishes off the play. We know that Locas is always floating around the front of the goalie and our job is to get it to him. We now know where each other is all the time and this is a big help for us," says the plucky winger.

"We should get going ... we are already talking about the playoffs. Our rookies are beginning to settle down and we will get tougher as we go along. Two weeks holiday between Christmas and New Year's, is another thing which will really help everyone," Carter adds.

"As for living in the hut, I think it is one of the greatest things of all. It gives us a big advantage over our opponents — it's a big factor in keeping everybody together, especially the newcomers, and helps to make them feel more at ease. It is a big help in establishing 'team spirit' and although it is not like home at least we are all there and that's what counts."

Women's hockey team settles for tie

LENNOXVILLE (BP) — The Bishop's-Champlain women's hockey team had their hands full last night when they settled for a 1-1 draw on home ice.

Lynn Blenkhorn didn't waste any time to put the Polar Bears ahead after two minutes of play, with Debbie Mullins and Mary Farish assisting.

Sherbrooke CEGEP showed a lot more life than they did a week ago and countered at 15:30 when Helene Fortier converted a Christianne Jacques-Louise Belleau pass behind the locals' goalie.

Many opportunities were missed by both sides for the rest of the contest, but strong defensive efforts prevailed to cause the tie. Last week, the Polar Bears hit the mark eight times for an 8-2 victory.

The contest is the last one for the Bears before January as the players settle in for Christmas exams.

Hockey-broomball schedule meeting

The annual meeting to set up hockey and broomball schedules for the city's park rinks will be held at the Eugene Lalonde Arena, 400 Park Street at 7 p.m., tomorrow.

GALT GIRLS SHINE IN ETIAC PLAY

LENNOXVILLE (BP) — Teams from Alexander Galt Regional High School did well in hockey, basketball and volleyball competition over the weekend.

The AGR senior boys' and girls' basketball squads were victorious while the senior hockey team also picked up a victory. The junior boys' hoop contingent lost a close game, while the volleyball teams placed well in three of the four sections.

J.H. Leclerc High from Granby were the losers to the senior hoop teams. David Simons' 28 points paced the boys from Galt to a 65-62 comeback victory. The Pipers were also aided by Richard Gray who scored 14 points. The win is Galt's second in ETIAC play, having beaten Seminaire de Sherbrooke earlier in the week.

Galt's Jocelyn Smith gave her team a big edge when her 28 points pushed AGR past Leclerc 66-33. Karen Fisher and Jeanne Lemieux scored 14 and 10 points respectively for the Piperettes.

Galt struck for three goals in the last seven minutes of play to dump Stanstead College 5-1. Robert Mailloux scored twice for Galt, with singles going to Pat Poulin, who tallied the winner, Ed Monroe and Martin Leblanc. L. Lesage scored for Stanstead in the second period.

The AGRHS junior girls' volleyball team went undefeated in their eight games to clinch their category in the Galt tournament. Richmond Regional placed second while Bishop's College School came third.

Massey-Vanier Regional took the senior girls' section over Galt, who were tied with Richmond. BCS was fourth.

Laval blasts Shawinigan 11-0

MONTREAL (CP) — Glen Currie, Normand Lahaie and Patrick Daley each had two goals and goaltender blocked 25 shots to record a shutout, as Laval Nationals blasted Shawinigan Dynamos 11-0 in a Quebec Major Junior Hockey League game Monday night. Real Fortin, Pierre Fournier, Richard Pepin, Constant Priondolo and Gilles Hamel scored the other Laval goals before 1,633 fans.

The Salesian juniors won their class over Seminaire de Sherbrooke 'A' team. Massey-Vanier and Richmond tied for third spot.

The next league tournament will be held this weekend at Richmond Regional.

overall standings. Seminaire de Sherbrooke were victorious in the seniors, nipping Galt by a point in overall standings. Seminaire Salesian and MVRHS placed third and fourth respectively.

The girls play Friday, while the boys compete on Saturday.

The Stanstead junior boys' basketball team nipped Galt in their ETIAC opening clash 38-36.

Champlain's hoop squad wins two, loses to Laval

LENNOXVILLE (BP) — Champlain Regional College basketball teams were victorious over Shawinigan but lost to University of Laval in weekend contests while Levis Lauzon handed the hockey squad a defeat on Friday.

Leading all the way, the women came back to Lennoxville with a 79-74 victory over Shawinigan CEGEP. Sue Edwards had 20 points for the Cougars while Rosemary Lee added 19. She Berwick and Kim Stansbury got 15 and 10 respectively.

Mike Drew's 19 points and another 15 by Ryan Burles paced the CRC squad to a 75-60 win over their Shawinigan counterparts. Claude Belleau, Lucas Gass and Rick Hunt also played strong games as Champlain led throughout the contest.

In Quebec City, the teams faced experienced university clubs, and although they both lost, felt their performances were not lacking.

The Cougars were down by only 10 points at halftime but couldn't keep up to the Laval pace as they lost 87-66. Edwards again was high scorer for the women with 19, with Lee and Stansbury getting 14. Elaine Harvey got 10 points.

The men were outmatched by the Laval squad, but the Champlain handled the pressure well and played hard despite their 70-41 defeat. Drew was top CRC scorer with 14. He, Hunt and Burles turned in excellent performances for the Cougars.

PLAYED CATCH-UP Champlain got the first goal against Levis Lauzon Falcons on Friday but from then on they were playing catch-up hockey as the Quebec City won 6-5.

Levis went into the dressing room after the opening period with a 4-2 advantage and would be outscored in the final two frames by Champlain. But their steady play-making abilities and hustle kept the Cougars at bay just long enough to clinch the victory.

Champlain had a good opportunity late in the game to even the count when they pulled their goalie for a sixth attacker. But a penalty to Champlain killed all hopes of getting the equalizer.

Andre Laporte picked up a hat-trick for CRC in the game, with Marcel Letemplier and Mike Roy getting the other Cougar markers.

Raymond Laroche and Jean Montminy each tallied twice for the Falcons, with Montminy scoring the winner midway through the last period.

Champlain was outshot badly in the first period, evened the difference in the second and blasted away in the third. Levis still outshot Champlain 42-37 in the game. Six minor penalties were called against each team.

Ask the man who's been there.

You know where you're going. All the regular places, sure. But maybe sometime you'd like to get to an inaccessible spot. That only four wheel drive can get you to. You know machines. So you've got to know Scout. Like how it's narrow, and low, but still has eight inches of ground clearance. You see, Scout is more than a station wagon. More than a car. And even more than a truck. It's all of them. Plus more. That means you can have regular two wheel drive, or switch to four wheel drive effortlessly. Scout will get you where you want to go. Ask any Scout owner. Ask any International dealer. He'll tell you everything you want to know. Then he'll put you behind the wheel,

Obituary

MRS. TRACY A. RAY
Formerly of Lennoxville
The death of Mrs. Tracy A. Ray occurred at the Wales Home on Friday, October 21st, 1977, after a brief illness.

Anne MacLeod was born at Whitton, Que., on March 14, 1902, daughter of the late Gordon and Mary MacLeod, and attended school there. In 1920 she went to Boston, Mass., where she was employed.

On June 6, 1927, she was married there to William E. Kelley, and they had one daughter, Marie Jean. She was married a second time to Tracy A. Ray of Wellesley, Mass., on January 24, 1954. In 1968, because of failing health, they moved to Lennoxville, Que., to be near their family and made their home there until Mr. Ray's death on January 24, 1973. Mrs. Ray then lived at Mrs. Bennett's Nursing Home until November, 1975, when she entered the Infirmary at the Wales Home in Richmond, where she passed away.

She is survived by her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Burns MacDonald of Ottawa; grandchildren Mary Elizabeth Beauchene and her husband Jean-Claude and their daughter Sonia, of Scottstown; Parker MacDonald of Ottawa; her brothers John of Sherbrooke, Arnold of Lennoxville, Murdo of Thurso; and sisters Mrs. Arthur Mihos (Flora), Lebanon, N.H.; Mrs. Harold Turner (Jessie), Lennoxville; Mrs. Malcolm D. Martin (Chris), Carrying Place, Ont.; Mrs. Ashley Clark (Agnes), Cornwall, Ont.; Mrs. William W. Young, (Catherine), Lennoxville; and Mrs. Raymond A. Smith (Evelyn), of Chalk River, Ont.; two sisters-in-law, five brothers-in-law, as well as several nieces and nephews.

The remains rested at Bishop's Funeral Home in Lennoxville, where the funeral service was conducted at 1:30 p.m. on Monday, October 24, when Rev. Carl J. Gustafson offered words of comfort and hope, and spoke of the life of Mrs. Ray.

Bearers were Parker MacDonald, Raymond Smith, Ashley Clark, Jean Claude Beauchene and Gordon Turner.

Interment was in Gould Cemetery beside her late husband.

The many lovely flowers and memorial donations were a tribute to the love and memory of a dear mother and sister.

Belvidere Women's Institute

sent in to Sherbrooke Record and County Convener.

Welfare & Health — Convener Hazel McGee read an excerpt from the Winnipeg Free Press entitled "Laughter is my Medicine." Stamps, grocery slips, and bread tags were handed in. The next Cancer Room date is December 14.

Sunshine — Convener Mickie Povey reported birthday, get-well and anniversary cards had been sent out.

Ways and Means — Convener Viola Tarte made arrangements with members for the County meeting refreshments to be provided by Belvidere Branch. We were advised that we had been approached to serve and provide the Annual Turkey supper for the Carpet Bowling League and we decided to accept.

A donation to Unicef was made, subscription to Federate News was renewed and all outstanding bills ordered paid. Irene Paige reported having attended the banquet at A.N.A.F. Hut with regard to Armistice Day celebrations.

Our November meeting being Citizenship Day, Convener Margaret Smart was in charge and with the assistance of Margaret Pegg sold poppies to the members and guests. Beautiful slides of Belvedere Heights, Albert Mines, North Hatley and surrounding districts were shown us by Margaret Smart, assisted by Irene Paige.

Tea collection was taken and the monthly drawing, same being won by Mary Campbell.

Meeting was adjourned and delicious refreshments served by the hostesses.

The next meeting will be on Dec. 3rd at Lennoxville Town Hall — bring a gift for exchange, a bag of candies and decorated bottle for same.

Obituary

FLORENCE M. KERR

South studied for a long while before playing to the first trick. How could he make his contract? At best it looked as if there were only 10 tricks to be gathered in.

Then he saw a way to collect 12. He started proceeding by winning the diamond in dummy. Then came a club to his ace, a spade to dummy's eight, a club ruff with the ace of trumps, a spade to dummy's jack, a second club ruff, a heart to dummy's king, a ruff of the last club, a heart to dummy's ace, the lead of dummy's last trump to get rid of trumps while chucking the losing diamond from his own hand and then the lead of the heart deuce.

East took his queen, but had to give South the last two tricks with the jack of hearts and ace of diamonds.

South had made six trump tricks instead of just five by what is known as a dummy reversal play. It is worthy of note that if South had been careless at trick one and won the diamond in his own hand he would have lost his contract.

AUTOMOBILE INSURANCE

Should the Government become an insurance company?

Frankly, we don't think so. You see, we know you just don't become a qualified insurance professional overnight—it takes years. And we know that unless your one priority is to provide better insurance coverage, you're just not doing justice to your customers. Insurance is our one business, and because we know we must offer drivers insurance plans that reflect their real needs, we've recently proposed a new auto insurance program. It's called AUTOBAC. And here's what this plan can mean:

- reduced premiums;
- faster claim settlement;
- better indemnification for accident victims.

We're ready and waiting to implement AUTOBAC for drivers. All the Government has to do is give us the green light. But, as you probably know, the Government is seriously considering moving into bodily injury auto insurance themselves. Will their plan equal AUTOBAC? From everything we've seen so far we don't think so. We do know the Government scheme will increase premiums for about 65% of drivers. We know the Government scheme will require bodily injury victims to accept their indemnity in installments. And honestly, we wonder about that gremlin called "red tape". Should the Government become an insurance company? It's up to you.

There's still time to let your MNA know how you feel. Why not call or write him today?
