European settlers desperate

SAO attempting to parley with Moslem leaders

ALGIERS (AP) — Desperate European settlers are trying to get Moslem nationalists into negotiating Algeria's future with them instead of with the French government.

Offers to negotiate a "system of coexistence" have been made by the terrorist Secret Army Organization and the General Union of French Workers of Algeria, which represents virtually the whole European labor force.

They have not put their demands into concrete form. But as their part of the bargain, the European terrorists are proposing to stop their murder of Moslems and systematic destruction. The labor unions are offering to halt the exodus of France of the European labor force.

Four-year-old disappears

Little hope is held for cave-in victim

GHOST PINE CREEK, Alta. (CP) — Little hope was held today for the survival of a four-year-old boy swallowed by a cave-in at an abandoned coal mine Tuesday as he played 100 yards from his home.

Faint cries of "Daddy, Daddy" heard from below soon after Kenny Kowalchuk disappeared spurred a mine official to make a hazardous descent on the end of a cable 45 feet down a rickety shaft.

J. J. Kubin of Calgary, district mines inspector in charge of the rescue operations, said as he emerged into the glare of a battery of hastily-rigged lights that he found no sign of the chubby, dark-haired boy. Loose earth plugged the shaft.

"I have no hope the boy will be found alive," PLUNGES THROUGH CRUST

Kenny, second youngest of the 11 children of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Kowalchuk, plunged through a thin crust of earth topping the old shaft while playing with his three-year-old brother, Johnny, shortly before noon.

The mine, abandoned 30 years ago, is two miles from this central Alberta hamlet and about 50 miles northeast of Calgary.

Summoned by Johnny, Mrs. Kowalchuk found a hole in the grass-covered mound marking the old mine site. She was reported to have talked with the trapped boy while her husband sped to the nearest phone by car to call help.

RCMP Corporal Keith Sutherland said the boy was found dead.

Kenneth fell down the shaft when a step of a ladder broke, authorities said. The other boy summoned rescuers.

Over control of access routes

Berlin compromise try is made between the US, W. Germany

WASHINGTON (AP) — State department officials are reported trying to work out a compromise formula to resolve differences between United States and West German proposals for negotiations with Russia over control of access routes to West Berlin.

Disagreement between the two Allies is a handicap to the United States in continuing talks with the Soviet Union about the possibility of an East-West agreement to end the long dispute over Berlin's future.

Nevertheless the Kennedy administration is resolved to press forward with the exploratory talks, under way since last September.

State Secretary Rusk called in the Soviet ambassador for a Berlin conference today. Some informants said that in view of continuing Allied differences the talk would necessarily be general in nature.

SEEMS AGREEMENT

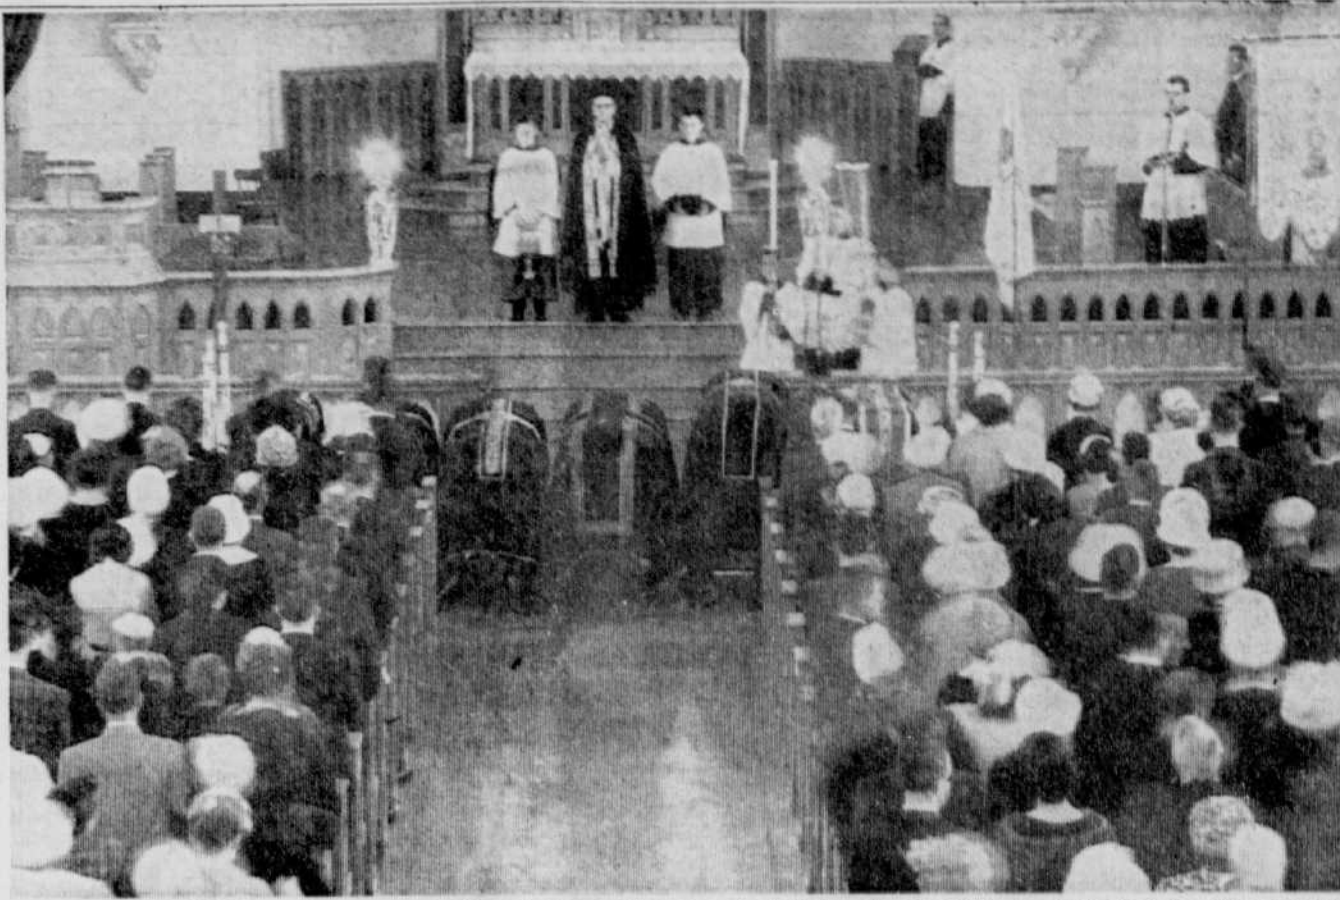

There were reports, however, that Rusk is trying to get the Soviet government to agree to negotiate on the status of the access routes as an issue separate from problems involving the status of West Berlin itself.

The purpose of this "delinking" strategy is to try to define one or more problems which can be negotiated. The United States, Britain and France, as well as West Germany, have repeatedly declared that Russia's demand that the Western powers agree to withdraw their forces from West Berlin and give it the status of a "free city" in the heart of Communist East Germany is totally unacceptable and therefore not negotiable.

Rusk has made clear to the Russians, however, that the United States is prepared to negotiate about the access routes and has suggested the creation of an international authority to control and operate the routes.

Since this idea was put forward in informal, exploratory talks it has the status of a suggestion rather than a binding proposal. Moreover, the Russians and East Germans so far have shown little interest in it.

Mr. Starr urged the disputants two weeks ago to meet and make intensive effort to resolve their dispute over wages and working rules. Negotiators

Ottawa truck strike trouble

Police arrest four

TORONTO (CP) — Police moved quickly to avert threatened violence at an Ottawa transport terminal Tuesday night as a strike by 7,200 members of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters Inc. tied up most of the province's inter-city trucking.

Two Sherbrooke trucking companies, Kingsway Transport and Smith Transport, strikebound for six weeks, reported picketers peaceful, and no incidents this morning. Strikers have remained within the law since windows were broken at the Kingsway Transport Company building three weeks ago, the managers of both companies report.

Ottawa police arrested four men following an incident at the terminal of Taggart Trucking Service, one of two Ottawa truckers not affected by the strike against members of the Motor Transport Industrial Relations Bureau, aged for 65 firms.

Police said the four, identified as transport workers, are to be charged today with causing a disturbance by interfering with other persons.

The arrests came after about 100 men gathered outside the terminal in an attempt to block departure of transport trucks.

Police said a car carrying several children was driven in front of one truck. When the truck pushed the car down the road it was pelted with bricks, rocks, sticks and milk cartons containing paint. The car windows were smashed.

SAYS POLICE BRUTAL

There were no reports of injuries but a Teamster spokesman accused police of using brutal methods in dispersing the crowd.

The province-wide walkout came in advance of a Thursday midnight deadline set by the union in case a strike ballot favored a walkout. The 2,456,132 vote against a settlement recommended by a conciliation board and approved by the companies was announced Monday night and the strike was in effect within a few hours.

By Tuesday night trucking was almost paralyzed in Toronto, Hamilton, London and many smaller centres as the Teamsters set up pickets at warehouses and terminals.

Prices rise

Financial centres rally from big skid

LONDON (Reuters) — Most Western financial centres today recorded rallies on their stock exchanges following the dramatic recovery on Wall Street Tuesday from Monday's big skid.

Rising prices were reported from stock exchanges in London, Hong Kong, Milan and Singapore.

The increases were coupled with a return of confidence in the financial world.

Most Western newspapers viewed the Wall Street gyrations calmly but in Russia Moscow radio was forecasting doom for the capitalist world.

The radio declared in a commentary that "the capitalist economy is seriously and incurably sick, and as the latest events show, it cannot be saved by any new-fangled inventions of the advocates of the capitalist system."

NO REASON TO FEAR

In London, the influential Financial Times saw no reason to present to fear a financial crisis in the United States.

The paper said that in the long run it was not inconceivable that Monday's slide might actually increase the Kennedy administration's freedom to use unorthodox economic measures.

The Manchester Guardian advised industry and investors to adapt themselves to a world in which easy profits cannot be made from the proceeds of inflation.

In Copenhagen, The Politiken said Monday's slide might well be considered in some respects a sign of health and a correction to an inflationary mentality.

French newspapers also took the Wall Street fluctuations in their stride.

"1962 is not 1929," Le Figaro declared.

"Barring some crazy action the drop will not touch off a paralysis of activity."

On the London Stock Exchange, the market was again following the lead of Wall Street with a strong recovery from heavy losses Tuesday touched off by Monday's Wall Street slump.

$4,000 given to fund for blast survivors

A grant of $4,000 was made yesterday by the Canadian Johns Manville Company to the fund for the surviving victims of Friday's tragic explosion in Asbestos which killed eight people.

This brings the total collected so far to approximately $7,000.

In charge of the collection is the Asbestos chapter of the Knights of Columbus.

Aside from money, gifts of clothing, furniture, linen, and various other household items are being received and solicited.

Anyone wishing to help should get in touch with Roland Boudreau at 879-5769 in Asbestos.

A mass funeral was held yesterday morning in St. Aime Church, Asbestos, for the victims of the explosion. Archbishop Georges Cabana of Sherbrooke officiated.

Killed in the explosion were Mrs. Reynald Lambert, 44, her son Yvon, 2, and daughter Danielle, 6; Mrs. Arthur Paradis, 54; Huguette Briere, 26, a dentist's secretary; and three of Danielle's friends with whom she was playing at the time of the fatal explosion, Luc Pellerin, 11; Andre Bourassa, 7, and Louise Toutant, 7.

Injured were three of the Lambert children, Jean-Guy, 16, Claude, 18, and Michelle, 6.

Both of the boys were taken to the John-Manville Hospital in Asbestos where they were treated for cuts and burns to the hands and face. Claude was released immediately after first aid was administered while Jean-Guy was released Monday evening.

Michelle, the most seriously injured of the three, was taken to Sherbrooke Hospital suffering from cuts and burns. Her condition is reported to be excellent this morning by hospital officials.

Fifth court martial case

Fine and reprimand given for smuggling

OTTAWA (CP) — A court martial sentence of a $500 fine and a severe reprimand was given Tuesday to Maj. William Allan Platt, 48, convicted of illegal gold trafficking last year in Indochina.

Pending an appeal now being considered, the sentence marked the end of the fifth court martial involving military personnel serving with the Canadian-India-Poland truce commission in Indochina.

Four other courts martial gave sentences ranging from outright dismissal to severe reprimands for four non-commissioned officers convicted of opium trafficking.

Maj. Platt, who joined the army in 1940, remains an army officer. His pension rights are still intact and in a year or two he can retire, his defence counsel said Tuesday in pleading for leniency.

The maximum sentence would have been dismissal in disgrace and the actual sentence was well down the scale of severity.

Verdict and sentence both came Tuesday in response to the major's plea of not guilty.

Bill delayed

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Lesage said Tuesday the establishment of a general investment corporation by the Quebec government has been delayed by preparatory work on a revised Hospital Insurance Act.

The investment corporation, in which the province would be a minority shareholder, was suggested early this year as a means of financing a steel industry in Quebec.

The severe reprimand given Maj. Platt is a notation on his service record that could impair further promotion. He has been a major 12 years.

New plan revealed

To develop Brome area?

By PAT BOUGIE (Record staff reporter)

KNOWLTON — (Staff) — The first major project of the 1½-year-old Federal government Agricultural Rehabilitation and Development Act program may affect Brome county in the form of a pilot development plan, Agriculture Minister-Hamilton said Tuesday night.

Addressing a Brome-Missisquoi Progressive Conservative rally in favor of Howard Graftiey, Mr. Hamilton said the plan would be an experimental one and would deal with various ways of turning farm land into tourist attraction areas.

Negotiations between the federal and provincial governments will be held on or after June 15. Written agreement is needed from the provincial government so that federal authorities can act.

This will be the first major project of the $50,000,000 ARDA plan.

To improve farm land for the raising of cattle, Mr. Hamilton outlined a five-point program, but did not go into details.

"First step," he said, "would be to create a new feed and grain policy by which farmers could obtain oats where there is a lack created by drought conditions."

Second phases would be to create feed grain and fodder banks. Third phase is to institute community pastures, fourth phase to create a new water policy and fifth phase would be the creation of a new export policy."

Mr. Hamilton, who was on his first official visit to Quebec since his appointment as Minister of Agriculture, pointed out that similar plans to the Brome project were being worked out for other Eastern and Maritime provinces to ease the financial plight of farmers.

"These areas can be turned into recreational centers for tourists such as hunting grounds and camping sites. Farmers can charge for these privileges thus gaining another source of income," Mr. Hamilton said.

Referring to 1957-58 Progressive Conservative election promises Mr. Hamilton said: "We pledged ourselves then that if elected, we would try to build a better Canada by lifting up those areas which had fallen down."

"To fulfill our election promises we have tried to sell farm products, stabilize prices, institute crop insurance, increase farm credit, and introduced the ARDA plan," he said.

Pointing to the sale of farm products, Mr. Hamilton reminded the group of 100 present of the recent sale of grain to Red Cross.

See "New Plan" on page 5

The revising offices will be open on Thursday, Friday and Saturday from 11 a.m. until noon and from 8 p.m. to 11 p.m., daylight time, for the receipt of applications for additions to the lists.

Applications for inclusion on the lists may be made in person or through an agent by signing an affidavit. In the event a person whose name is supposedly omitted from the list, applications may be made by relatives by blood or marriage or by an employer.

During the past week, printed copies of the preliminary list for his individual polling district have been sent to every inscribed voter in the poll.

Persons who believe they have the right to vote and whose names are not inscribed on the preliminary lists may make personal application to the revising officer to be included in the list.

Both of the boys were taken to the John-Manville Hospital in Asbestos where they were treated for cuts and burns to the hands and face. Claude was released immediately after first aid was administered while Jean-Guy was released Monday evening.

Michelle, the most seriously injured of the three, was taken to Sherbrooke Hospital suffering from cuts and burns. Her condition is reported to be excellent this morning by hospital officials.

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

For the second night running, hecklers turned up to taunt the prime minister, who fielded their shouts adroitly.

Earlier, on mainland British Columbia, Mr. Diefenbaker was greeted in Clearbrook by some 500 persons, most of them high school students. There were bobby sox squeals in the crush around him.

Campaign speeches went heavy on the state of the economy and the extent of unemployment.

Mr. Diefenbaker accused Liberal Leader Pearson with "twisting and turning" on whether the Liberals would free the Canadian dollar from its pegged value of 92½ cents in terms of the United States dollar.

Mr. Pearson, speaking at North Battleford, Sask., said the government was forced by exchange pressures to devalue the dollar. The pressure is still on, he said, adding:

"It is not going to be easy to hold it at 92½ cents."

CRITICIZES TRADE

Mr. Pearson was critical of the government's handling of trade and economic policies generally.

At Edmonton, Mr. Pearson attacked the government as a group of men "more skilful at political manoeuvring than at the management of government."

TOMMY DOUGLAS

THE CAMPAIGN TRAIL

Threat of railway strike becomes an issue

A strike threat that could tie up the transcontinental services of the CNR next Monday has entered the election campaign.

T. C. Douglas, national leader of the labor-backed New Democratic Party, said the situation is "critical" — with the Canadian people facing a general election June 18 and with Parliament dissolved.

He said the government has an "inescapable responsibility" to take the initiative and use its offices to solve the contract dispute between the publicly-owned CNR and 10,000 rail workers belonging to the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen (CLC).

There was no immediate comment from Prime Minister Diefenbaker or Labor Minister Starr.

URGED MEETING

Mr. Starr urged the disputants two weeks ago to meet and make intensive effort to resolve their dispute over wages and working rules. Negotiators are still talking, but the CNR is reported to have told its employees that they will be laid off if the strike goes into effect as scheduled at noon next Monday.

The strike deadline injects a new factor into the election fight, which appears to be getting hotter and livelier.

Mr. Diefenbaker heads to Vancouver today for a major rally, while Liberal Leader Pearson flies into the Yukon for a meeting at Whitehorse, then flies to Prince George, B.C.

Mr. Douglas heads from meetings in Saskatchewan to Flin Flon in northern Manitoba. Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson takes his campaign to Vancouver, Comox and Victoria.

About 4,000 people at Victoria, B.C., heard Prime Minister Diefenbaker promise that his government will convene a national conference on human resources. He did not give any exchange pressures to devalue the dollar. The pressure is still on, he said, adding:

"It is not going to be easy to hold it at 92½ cents."

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Hollywood's recent romance with remakes may be cooling off.
For a while producers were saying "why put out big money for new properties? Let's look in the vaults."

The argument looked good. Readers could pay $5.95 for a best-selling book, but producers had to shell out considerably more (latest sale: Ship of Fools to Stanley Kramer for $500,000). Hit Plays came even dearer—Warners is putting up $5,500,000 for My Fair Lady.

Besides, look at the record: Two of the three top money-makers—Ben-Hur and The 10 Commandments—were remakes.

There is nothing new about re-doing old films. Alice in Wonderland has had five film versions. Quo Vadis and The Spoilers have been turned out four times. Romeo and Juliet has also been made four times, not including the current West Side Story version.

With these precedents, producers have been filming more remakes than ever before. Now the scorecard can be toted up.

RETURNS NOT GOOD
The returns during the last year or so have not been so good. MGM got kicked on two big ones, Cimarron and The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse. Both had only fair success at the box office, not enough to offset their immense cost. That is a prime problem with remakes. Producers feel they must be done much more grandly than the originals.

This urge to make remakes bigger than before is part of the cause for the bloated budgets of Cleopatra and Mutiny on the Bounty. There are other elements as well—weather, temperament, etc. But these two most expensive films in history reflect the thinking that immense cost justifies remakes. Meanwhile the fate of two great studios is in the balance.

Arts Festival

Fine recital by ballet troupe

The Culture and Art Centre of Sherbrooke, presented a fine recital given by the pupils of the Sherbrooke Ballet, under the direction of Pierre Lapointe, at the St. Charles Auditorium, Tuesday evening.

The concert was presented as part of the Art Festival of Sherbrooke 1962 and held in conjunction with the 125th Anniversary celebrations.

The guest artist was Denise Pratt, who studied ballet under the direction of Mme. Tatiana Lipkova, of Koud-riavtzeff. Denise Pratt appeared with the Canadian Grand Ballet at the Ballet Theatre in Montreal, in 1955 and also participated in a North American tour with the Comedie Francaise.

The first part of the program consisted of twelve numbers presented by the younger pupils of the Sherbrooke Ballet.

Folk dances and ballet numbers were delightfully executed by these tiny tots, at times quite hilarious, especially in the "Flight of the bumble-bee" when one little girl was lost in her flight between the folds of the stage curtain. She eventually rejoined the rest of the ballerinas. The choreography for these numbers was by Pierre Lapointe.

Following intermission, the senior group, presented Concerto, the soloists being Miss Claudette Rivard, Miss Lillian McMahon and Miss Johanne Joncas, with the corps de ballet: Miss Louise Asselin, Miss Martine Bouffard, Miss Diane Brien, Miss Manon Cabana, Miss Carole Chartier, Miss Marilyn Choquette, Miss Carole Gagnon, Miss Rita Hough, Miss Suzanne O'Boyle and Miss Pauline Paquet.

Denise Pratt and Pierre Lapointe danced in perfect coordination in pas de deux, choreography by George Berard and music by Tchaikovsky.

Value of the Flowers, with Miss Claudette Rivard as soloist and the corps de ballet was presented, followed by another solo by Denise Pratt and one by Mr. Lapointe.

Value, extract from the Ballet Silvia, climaxed the evening's performance, with the soloist, Miss Rita Hough and the corps de ballet.

The program was under the direction of Pierre Lapointe and the directors were: Mrs. Clift Allen, Mrs. Aime Choquette, Mrs. Rita Codere-Booth, Mrs. Claude Rivard, Miss Louise Bilodeau, Mr. Douglas Sheard, Mrs. Georges Savoie, Mrs. Raoul Gosselin, Mr. Claude Poulin, Mrs. L. P. Pelouquin and Mrs. Noel Lapierre.

The music was by Mrs. Pauline Leclair and the costumes by Mrs. Elsie Hough and Mrs. Germaine Roy.

Break in at CNTU office

For the second time in a little less than a month thieves broke into the National Trade Union offices on Gordon Street in Sherbrooke Monday night and made away with $100, Sherbrooke police said Wednesday morning.

The thieves gained entry through a window in the front of the building and broke down the office door before forcing open a strong box.

On April 23, the building was broken into and $400 was taken. Police refuse to associate that robbery with this one.

The robbery was discovered by Jos. Gervais, an employee.

Teacher's desk of the future

Projector to replace blackboard

By ALISON SCHOENFELD
(Record staff reporter)

Instead of piles of exercise books, blackboard brushes, and rulers the teacher's desk of the future may contain an overhead projector which the teacher manipulates without ever getting up from her desk or turning her back on the class.

Such a machine along with language laboratories, inter-communication system and tape recorders was on demonstration at the University of Sherbrooke last week.

The Overhead projector doesn't quite replace the teacher but it certainly can make his job easier and provide stimulating material for the pupils' assimilation. Mr. Guy Lachapelle who was demonstrating the machine, explained.

He pointed out how the teacher can place material in the projector then pencil in additional data or add sections to a graph or other type of diagram.

When the teacher has completed the lesson the slide is removed and the notes made by the teacher on the plastic covering the slide are erased.

Mr. Lachapelle said that the overhead projector can be used effectively from kindergarten to college. It can teach the numbers from one to ten or to explain the gross national product of Canada.

When the machine was first envisioned the company which produces them asked teachers for suggestions as to what they needed and wanted as a teaching aid. The machines have incorporated many of these suggestions. Mr. Lachapelle said which is why it has been so successful.

Another reason is the reaction of students to the overhead projector. Not only does it fascinate students at first but because of the variety of material which it can present it holds the pupils' interest.

The language lab is another aid which is coming into increasing use in modern schools. Mr. Lachapelle said. The language lab is a booth which has sides so that each pupil has a feeling of privacy and can work without distraction.

The pupils listen to the master recording then answer the questions or practice pronunciation. The teacher sits at a control desk and by flicking a switch can listen to any pupil and communicate with each pupil if he wishes. Students who are at different levels of achievement listen to different tapes so that each pupil can work at his own speed but there is also an incentive to work harder.

Mr. Lachapelle said that the University of Sherbrooke is planning to install some language labs and that the new Marymount and Montcalm schools to be constructed here will both have labs installed.

With all these mechanical aids the teacher of the future may have to take more than a two or even a four year teaching course. Soon they may have to have mechanical ability as well as a love of children.

Butter surplus problem

Doubts value of federal action

By SANDRA PICKFORD
(Record staff reporter)

The vice-president and general manager of the Carnation Milk Co. Ltd., said Tuesday it is doubtful if the Federal government's decision last month to reduce the price of butter to the consumer by 12 cents a pound and maintain the price to the producer along with granting subsidies to make up the difference will increase butter consumption enough to solve Canada's butter surplus problem.

Ted E. Lang of Toronto told members of the Sherbrooke Rotary Club that only time will tell what effect this action will have.

"We are all speculating," he said, "and it would appear as though it will retard the fall and consumption, but it is doubtful, in my opinion, if it will increase the consumption enough to solve the butter surplus problem."

Explaining the present situation, which Mr. Lang said has now reached the point where it represents one of this country's very serious economic problems, he quoted figures showing that the Canadian dairy farmers in 1961 produced nineteen and one-quarter billion pounds of milk, 800 million pounds more than in the previous year and 2 billion pounds more than in 1957.

He said most of this increase in production found its way into butter and the million pounds a month sales decline this product experienced during the past four years has combined to create an unprecedented butter surplus approaching 200 million pounds.

Mr. Lang continued, pointing out that value of milk is determined by the amount of butter fat in the milk. When surpluses developed the government started supporting milk values by putting a floor price on butter. As a result of various pressures, the floor price of butter has been raised to 64 cents and has been at 64 cents for the past few years, he said.

While this development was taking place, Mr. Lang said, consumers were becoming more fat conscious, reducing their animal fat intake and becoming aware of the great value of the solids, not fat, in milk. At the same time margarine manufacturers were active in promoting the sales of margarine.

"With this situation existing, the government stockpile of butter continued to grow reaching the peak of total butter storage in Canada, nearly 200 million pounds, he said.

"It would probably be difficult to reduce the floor price on butter with the producer being squeezed by increasing costs," Mr. Lang noted. "Perhaps the election had some bearing on the government's decision to reduce the price of butter."

Commenting on the prosperous dairy industry in Canada, Mr. Lang said, Quebec produces about 30 per cent of total Canadian milk output.

The buildings belonging to J. B. Swift of Lawrence and all their contents were a complete loss.

Mr. Swift discovered the fire around 2 a.m. when he was awakened by the barking of his dog.

The warning came just in time, as he had just enough time to escape from the house.

Aside from all the personal effects and furniture, Mr. Swift also lost a valuable stamp collection.

Wise proposals for use of estate

The recommendations of the special committee formed to study the future use of the Howardene property in Sherbrooke are based on the view that the estate must be a true community centre and a showpiece for the city.

In its three months of sifting through the many suggestions received from individuals and public groups, the committee was diligent in its work and judicious in its selection of proposals. The committee was composed of 15 delegates of service clubs and other organizations under the auspices of the Sherbrooke Chamber of Commerce.

It recommends, in its brief to city council, that Howardene's beautiful grounds and handsome buildings be maintained as they are so that the particular charm of the estate may be preserved. It also asked that the property be used for civic, cultural and educational purposes only.

Among its many sound proposals, the committee noted that the city should consider building a small botanical garden on the property. The plan is worthwhile from many points: the municipal greenhouses are already located on the estate, hence, the cost and work involved would be far less than if the city had to start from bedrock, so to speak.

The committee's rejection of a suggestion of a licensed dining room is a sensible move. The question of obtaining a liquor license could arouse the resentment of many people who feel that a public park is not a suitable place to dispense alcoholic beverages.

The use of the buildings for art and music schools and as a location for the municipal library would be a guarantee that the property would be opened year round. With activities held in all seasons, community interest would not flag as it happens so often with publicly-owned centres.

By emphasizing the need for putting Howardene at the disposal of the whole family, the committee has performed a valuable service to the city and its population.

New political drama on television

By now, a good many Canadians have had an opportunity of seeing the results of a new television broadcast ruling allowing political parties to dramatize political programs during the election campaign.

So far, the Liberals and the Progressive Conservatives seem to be the most active in this field of political television drama. And it must be admitted some of the shows that have been put on are rather interesting. Certainly, they are often far easier to take than long, dull talks by aspiring candidates who stare straight into the television camera out at their "fellow Canadians."

The technique employed for the new shows is rather similar to that used in good newsreels. There is expert narration, crowd reaction, the actual sounds heard at meetings and other events, and of course, many candid shots of the political leader involved as he stumps the country, turns sod or kisses babies.

The technique allows those responsible for putting the shows together to pick and choose their material. Thus, the political leader is always shown speaking to dense, wildly cheering crowds. He is always greeted with glad handshakes and smiles. He is either smiling himself, or looking very sincere and determined as he pounds home a particularly vital point to his listeners. And of course, only the best speeches and the most enthusiastic receptions are shown.

Whether this kind of campaigning is really "cricket" is something that the Board of Broadcast governors will no doubt have to decide before the next general election rolls around.

By then, they may well find that there are dangers in political drama. Once political parties find that this kind of a program meets with a more popular reception than the factual approach, they will jump into the production of political drama with both feet, perhaps eventually to the point where they virtually forsake any other kind of television campaigning.

The question then will be how much fiction should be allowed to influence the huge audiences television commands at a time when the country vitally needs sound information on the qualities and policies of those who aspire to government.

What made people ring doorbells before there were bathtubs to sit in?

Other mental cases in Quebec jails?

The five mentally-deficient men who had been confined in Sherbrooke's Winter Street jail for the past five years have finally been moved to a proper institution in Joliette.

There, according to local jail authorities, the men will receive special care and proper psychiatric treatment — as befits their condition.

The unfortunate part of the whole affair is that it has taken so long for these men to be properly cared for. Housed in ordinary jail cells, mixing with ordinary prisoners for half a decade, their conditions, however bad they were in the beginning, must surely have deteriorated to an extremely low level.

How much good psychiatric care will do now — particularly in view of the rather unsavory character of mental care generally in this province at the present time — is problematical, but at least the men will receive a minimum of the type of care they should have been receiving all along.

Still unanswered, however, is the larger question. Government authorities have said the men were lodged in the Sherbrooke jail in the first place because there was no room in mental institutions for them. But were these five the only victims of overcrowded conditions? Are there perhaps not other unfortunates lodged in small jails around the province who should be receiving psychiatric care? The Department of Health, says it does not know of any other cases. But the situation could still bear close scrutiny.

The thermometer is in a class by itself in some places, being about the only thing that has dropped.

Other papers say:

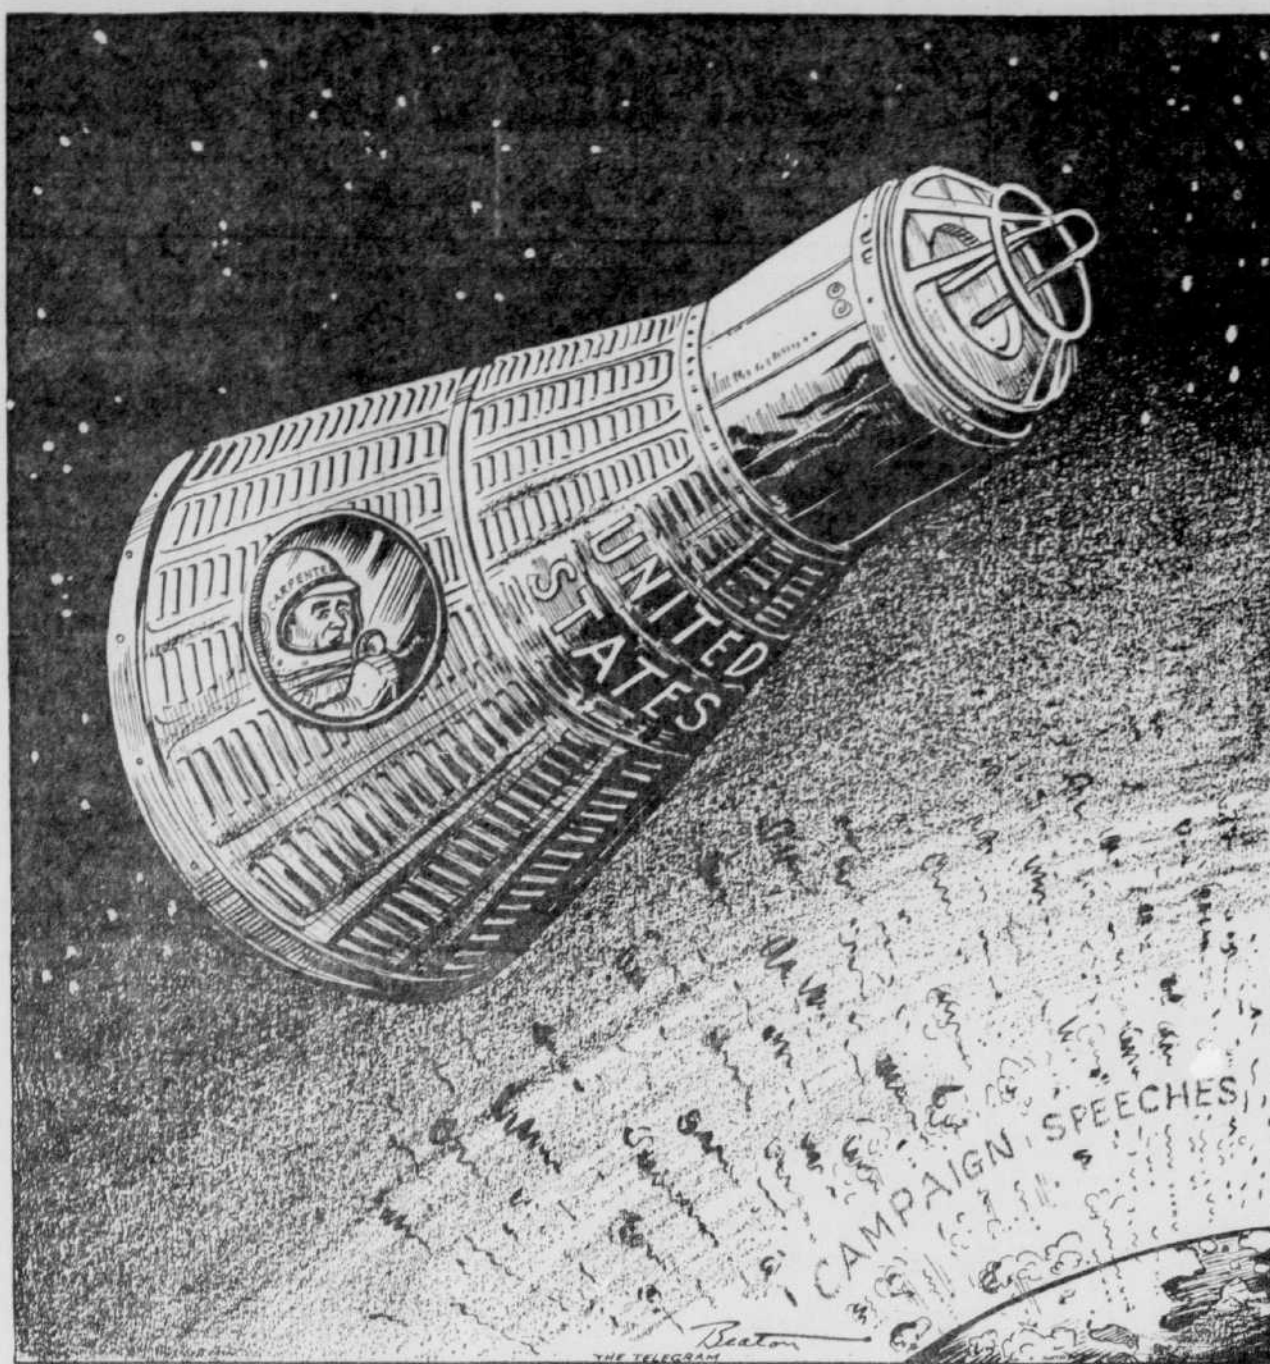

Milovan Djilas is sentenced again

What is one to make of the Yugoslav regime after the sentence passed on Milovan Djilas on Monday? In 1957 a sentence of three years which he was already serving was increased to nine years on publication abroad of his book "The New Class." Harsh though this retaliation was, it seemed that he had complied as many affronts to the dignity of the bureaucracy as he could justify and expressed them in language that was meant to hurt. In Western terms his criticisms would not have merited imprisonment; but in any ideological society, even in the Yugoslavia which had led the Communist block towards greater freedom of expression, he would have been lucky to escape. Then, after purging, as it were, his contempt of officialdom he was released when about half his sentence had been served — to be rearrested later on what must appear flimsy charges. The brief dispatch of his case by the Belgrade court on Monday does not suggest that any serious threat to state security needed to be discussed.

One suggestion is that by publishing reminiscences of Stalin he has impeded the improvement of relations with Russia. But the explanation may be simpler. Every criticism in a Communist

(Manchester Guardian)

"I AM OVER CANADA... ENCOUNTERING TURBULENT HOT AIR..."

Despite 'Keep in Step' slogan

BC fickle in federal elections; usually 'out of step' with rest

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two federal elections ago, in 1957, one of Conservative John Taylor's supporters in Vancouver Burnaby-Richmond designed a campaign poster with two footprints and the words "Follow John."

The slogan caught on. Along with the plea to follow John Taylor to the victory he won, it was broadened to urge voters to follow John Diefenbaker, the national PC leader.

Today, as Prime Minister Diefenbaker campaigns for reelection June 18, his party is using the same idea with a twist—two footprints and the words "Keep in Step."

In point of fact, British Columbia voters have been out of step with the rest of Canada in nine of the 23 federal elections since the colony became a province in 1871.

The trend has become stronger in recent years, with more opposition than government members sent to Ottawa in seven of the last 11 elections.

But not in 1958. B.C. then sent 18 Conservatives to Parliament as part of Mr. Diefenbaker's record majority. The other four of B.C.'s 22 MPs were CCF.

Suggestions that B.C. voters are fickle are borne out by the fact that in the current campaign seven former B.C. MPs, in addition to members of the last parliament, are among the candidates.

In two ridings, where former Alberta MPs are running, the influence on B.C. politics of a steady influx of settlers from elsewhere in Canada is evident.

Jack Shaw, Social Credit MP for Red Deer, Alta., for years, is one of three former MPs trying to unseat Conservative David Pugh in Okanagan-Boundary. The others are CCF veteran Owen Jones and Liberal Elmore Philpott.

Hilliard Beyerstein, former Social Credit member for Camrose, Alta., seeks election in Burnaby-Richmond.

Several other former MPs were elected in the 1957 voting which turned the Liberals out and saw B.C. choose seven PC, seven CCF, six Social Credit and two Liberal members.

The issues affecting B.C.'s decision are largely the same as those across the country: unemployment, fiscal policies, trade, national defence.

Particular emphasis on federal - provincial differences comes from the Victoria - Ottawa dispute over the Columbia River and how the international waters' power resources should be developed and paid for.

Few candidates mentioned the issue in B.C. in the early weeks of the campaign, indicating they may try to avoid it in order to prevent any incident that might delay settlement of the dispute. But few voters can be unaware of it following months of debate provincially.

Fighting between Victoria and Ottawa—whether those in power were of the same political stripe or not—has been common throughout B.C. history.

In the early years of Confederation the province fought with Ottawa over delays in the schedule of construction of the CPR transcontinental line to the west coast. Since then it has battled with federal governments over railways, freight rates, subsidies, immigration, social services and unemployment.

Socialist factions have influenced B.C. politics, federally and provincially, since the First World War. The CCF has formed the official opposition at Victoria for more than 20 years. Socialism continues as a factor in the current election, with the influence of organized labor applied through the New Democratic Party, formed through the unions' alliance with the CCF.

The NDP is running a full slate of 22 candidates, as are the Conservatives and Social Credits. The Liberals have 21. The Communist party has named a few nominees. As in the past, B.C. voters will have a wide selection to choose from.

And regardless of the national outcome, it's safe to predict little change in Victoria-Ottawa relations. B.C.'s personality, nurtured behind the Rocky Mountain curtain, will not be changed overnight.

Announces NDP support

Communist party takes it easy

TORONTO — (TNS) — The Canadian Communist party has decided to take it easy in this election, hoping to win some publicity by announcing they will support the New Democratic party.

And this one-sided alliance isn't pleasing the NDP one little bit.

In the past, politicians and the public sometimes branded the CCF as pro-Communist, and this was a stigma with a most unpleasant taste. In this campaign, no one has made similar allegations toward the NDP.

The NDP candidates want it to stay this way, and consequently look askance at Communist overtures.

Having nominated only 14 candidates to date (far fewer than previous federal elections), the Communist party of Canada concedes it will be little more than a nuisance factor in the June 18 voting.

Much to the embarrassment of the New Democratic party, Communists are urging voters to support the NDP where there are no Red candidates.

The only riding where Communist support is even slightly significant is Winnipeg North, currently the hot-bed of Communist activity in Canada.

Veteran Canadian Communist Tim Buck spelled out the Red stand at a recent meeting in Toronto. He claimed the U.S. would wipe out half of Canada with nuclear bombs to form a protective radiation belt for itself in a war with Russia.

The word, Communism, was conspicuously absent from his talk. Communism, for the purposes of this election, has become socialism.

He explained what was wrong with the NDP. NDP leader Tommy Douglas agrees with Immigration Minister Ellen Fairclough on refusing citizenship to Communists born out of Canada.

Only a sixth of all union members support the NDP and "it must make a clean break with big business."

But support the NDP, anyway "because it is part of the development of the working class in Canada and it will not accept nuclear arms."

Then with the approved Communist schism technique, causing the NDP trouble, Mr. Buck went on to sing a subtle hymn of hate against the United States.

The U.S. will control Canada by 1970, "but it won't wipe out the frontier because it enables them to keep a lower standard of living here."

Canada joined the dollar trading block under U.S. pressure and can now only trade with U.S. approved countries.

U.S. DICTATES

Since the U.S. dictates our foreign trade policy, production is down, jobs are few and unemployment great, Mr. Buck charged.

Canada will have nuclear arms when U.S. "brass says so."

In a nuclear war, the U.S. plans to make southern Canada a radio-active belt to protect itself.

"Half the population of Canada will be wiped out in a few minutes and southern Ontario destroyed to make a radio-active belt protecting the United States," said Mr. Buck.

"It doesn't matter what we do. If we sacrifice everybody, we will not stop the progress of socialism (read Communism.)"

Mr. Buck proved himself master of the further-explanation-department in an hour's question period. Three questions were asked.

By then listeners had reached the high fine pitch of a devout evangelical prayer meeting.

They punctuated Mr. Buck's statements with mumbles, groans and shouts, "you tell 'em Tim," "That's right," "Join the Party," until you expected to hear a good healthy amen.

"When the Conservatives came to power, we went to work to arrest a bad situation and to get the economy back on the rails."

But Mitchell Sharp, a former civil servant fighting as a Liberal candidate against Finance Minister Fleming in Toronto-Eglinton, took a different view. He accused the Conservatives of being irresponsible.

blamed both the Conservatives and the Liberals for the jobless problem. Their inability to plan for full employment, he said in Sault Ste. Marie, is "a measure of their failure in directing the affairs of the nation."

Labor Minister Starr, on the other hand, accused the Liberals and the New Democrats of trying to undermine the economy by stressing unemployment and preaching panic and pessimism just to gain political power. He said the government had launched the most massive economic program in Canada's history.

In Calgary, Defence Minister Harkness said he is convinced that Canadians want the country's military strength to be maintained, despite the existence of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Most Canadians felt that unilateral disarmament would be the end of freedom for the West.

land of Three Hills, one of the first rescuers on the scene, reported he heard the child whimpering about 1:30 p.m. There was no further sign of life.

SHUT OFF AIR

After coming out of the mine, Mr. Kubin ordered rescue workers up from the 40-foot level and the air supply which had been pumped down the six-by-eight-foot shaft for several hours was shut off.

He ordered a halt to below-ground work until cribbing could be erected around the top of the shaft. He said he feared earth piled about 12 feet above the top of the shaft would collapse and trap rescue workers.

Hundreds of spectators kept an evening-long vigil around the mound marking the spot where Kenny disappeared. They talked in hushed tones while rescuers inched their way down the shaft.

China, which greatly reduced grain surpluses of Western farmers.

Mr. Hamilton also spoke of the national dairy policy in which provincial agricultural ministers from both Quebec and Ontario agreed to co-operate with the Federal government to solve dairy problems.

"Quebec and Ontario furnish 79 per cent of all milk produced in Canada," Mr. Hamilton said, "and we must settle the surplus problems which exist in these provinces."

To do this Mr. Hamilton suggested a "pooling" system between manufacturers of fluid milk and makers of powdered milk. With such a pooling system the Federal government could continue to direct money towards dairy farmers with better effect. At present, grants help one kind of producer, but not always others.

To help farmers further in their financial plight, Mr. Hamilton pointed to ARDA. ARDA is divided into three parts, he said: alternative land use, the rural development, and conservation.

Speaking on the first phase, Mr. Hamilton said that alternating the use of the land could be done by having marginal dairy farmers go into more profitable businesses such as reforestation of part of their land.

"While their trees are growing the farmers go into phase two of the rural development," he said.

"Under part two farmers can turn part of their land into hunting grounds and camping sites for city tourists," he said.

This is precisely what the Federal government in co-operation with provincial authorities will try in Brome County. This will be the first experiment of its kind in Canada.

expert at his very best.

South won the first diamond with dummy's king, ruffed a small diamond with the ten of spades and led the three of spades.

Pat said to himself, "what is South up to and how can I beat this contract?"

He found the answer to both questions. The answer to the first was that South wanted to set up two discards on diamonds. The answer to the second was that if I held the king of hearts, he could beat the hand.

Therefore, Pat rose with the king of spades and I led a re-heart. I took my king and returned the eight of clubs to cook declarer's goose thoroughly.

Supposing South had held the king of hearts? He would have made his contract, but he also would have made it against any other defense.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Campbell, Rock Island, spent the holiday weekend at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Campbell, and Mr. and Mrs. Philip Boy, Scottstown.

SUTTON

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell Scott for the holiday included their son, Dr. Robert Scott, and family, of St. Hilaire, and their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Leonard, of Lakeside Heights.

Although pieces of broken branches littered lawns here after the big lightning and hail storm on May 20, damage in the town was slight. In the direction of Abercorn, the wind hit with near hurricane force. It twisted off the top of a large silo at the Jacquays' farm, and tore a garage from its foundation, and tossed it a considerable distance away at the Desnoyers' place. Power remained off in Sutton, for 4½ hours.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Moffat were in Toronto on May 22 to attend the ordination of their son, Mr. Douglas Moffat, at Woodbine Baptist Church, where he is pastor. Mr. Moffat recently graduated from the divinity course at McMaster University.

Mr. William Miller and Mr. G. England have returned from Lake Lyster after enjoying a fishing trip. Results were poor for fishermen on the opening day at Baldwin's Pond, but many trout — some up to 15 inches — were caught at Hatley Pond. Anglers also had good luck with rainbows at Lippe and at Gale Ponds.

Friends will be sorry to learn Mrs. Maurice Cavell has entered the B.M.P. Hospital, where she will be a patient for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank MacKey and family, of Montreal West, visited Mrs. Richard Wilson, Mountain Street.

STANBIDGE EAST

Mr. and Mrs. Benoit Desjardin and family, Mr. and Mrs. Benoit Patenaude and daughter, all of Montreal, spent the long weekend at their summer cottage here.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Gardner and family, of Granby, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Lavoie and two children, of Montreal, spent the holiday weekend with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Gardner, and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dussault and daughter, of Ville St. Laurent were guests over the holiday weekend of the former's mother, Mrs. A. Dussault, and other relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Blinn, were in Greenfield Park the weekend, visiting their son and daughter-in-law and granddaughter, Wendy.

Miss Kate Knight, of Montreal is spending an indefinite time as a guest of Mrs. M. A. Cornell.

Mr. Ronnie Cheek has completed a successful year at Sir George Williams University and returned home to spend the summer months with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Cheek. He will be employed in engineering work at the Torrington Co., Bedford, until he returns to University in September.

Mrs. B. J. Laycock has returned home from the Bedford Hospital, where she had been a pneumonia patient. She is being assisted at her home by Mrs. Mary Boomhower while convalescing.

Miss Barbara Boomhower has returned to her work at Bedford, after being confined to her home with tonsillitis for a week.

Bedford group hears talk on mission work

BEDFORD — On May 17 at the Wesley United Church, a congregational meeting of the four points in the charge, Bedford, Mystic, Philipsburg, Stanbridge East was held, preceded by a meeting of the United Church Women.

A large number were present to hear a lecture by Miss Isabel Miller R.N., of Knowlton, a missionary home on furlough from Rennie's Mills, ten miles from Hong Kong. This settlement was founded by a Mr. Rennie, who built small houses for the workers in his flour mills. Failure of business caused Mr. Rennie to commit suicide and the settlement was called Hang by the Neck Mountain. Afterwards the name was changed by the Chinese to Beautiful and Harmonious Scenery.

Miss Miller said that amongst Christian Chinese little delinquency is found. The natives are poor and live under primitive conditions, not even having ovens to bake. The chief problem is addiction to opium.

Excellent slides were shown in connection with the lecture, which gave a clear picture of the living conditions in the area. Miss Christine Miller, of Knowlton, operated the projector.

A feature of the evening was songs in both Chinese and English by the little Chinese girl, Woo Schung, who came to Canada with Miss Miller.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Ralph Oakes and thanked by Mrs. Alex MacArthur.

The evening concluded with refreshments and a social hour.

O'Keefe Golf Circuit opens eighth season, Pro-Press tourney won by Jean-Guy Periard of Boucherville

MONTREAL—Quebec golfers—both Professionals and Amateurs—are out on the greens, keenly anticipating tournament play this season.

Highlighting the Quebec season for the eighth straight year will be the O'Keefe Golf Circuit, organized as a spur to Professional and Amateur Golf in the Province. In the past, the O'Keefe Circuit has provided the kind of incentive to develop high caliber Amateurs as well as seasoned Pros able to step into Canadian and American competitions.

The Annual O'Keefe Circuit was launched Monday, when Jean Guy Periard copped first Pro-Press Tournament. Holding up strong for the press was Jacques Barrette.

Year by year, Quebec tournament golf has improved to the point where more local Pros are now playing on the American Winter-Circuit. Eight Quebec Pros participated on this Circuit during the past season. Among them were Jack Bissegger of Val Morin and Norman Hunt of Mount Bruno.

Bissegger was also chosen to play on the Far East Tour of the American Professional Golfers Association as the representative of the Canadian Professional Golfers Association. Bissegger has just returned from his tour in Hong Kong and Manila.

"Quebec professional golfers have welcomed with great enthusiasm the opportunity of developing their sense of concentration by playing golf before

21 --- IRON ACCURACY

The target for iron shots—most of the time the green—usually is more compact and difficult to hit than the comparatively big area offered from most tees.

The primary objective with irons is accuracy. A more upright, compact controlled-arc swing will help achieve this.

IF THE FACE of the club is open at impact, the ball will go to the right. Lost control.

The hands and arms play a more important part in iron shots than with woods.

If the line of flight is inaccurate, it usually indicates that the hands have lost control, allowing the club face to turn instead of hitting the ball at a right angle to the target.

The force of the clubhead hitting the ball will turn an iron much more readily than it will the face of a wood. If the hands lose control and the face of the club is open upon impact, the ball will go to the right. This usually indicates your right hand has failed.

Making the swing more compact and making sure your hands don't lose control, you shouldn't tighten up.

Ernie Banks comes up with hitting display

Cancel those get-well cards for Ernie Banks, who returned to action only four days after a pitch hit him in the head, and fired a home-run salvo that put him among the leaders in the National League home-run derby.

Fortified with aspirin for an aching head the 31-year-old Chicago Cubs' slugger returned to action Tuesday, doubled in first appearance, then followed with three consecutive homers in an 11-9 loss to Milwaukee Braves.

Banks drilled a double in his first at-bat since a pitch by Stockton, Calif. — Donnie Felicia, 127 1/2, Stockton, stopped Ronnie Perez, 125 1/4, Hayward, Calif., 10.

Dick Brown and Rocky Colavito homered with one on in the second and third frames off loser Jack Fisher, and Norm Cash hit one worth three runs as the Tigers pounded in six runs in the fourth. Chico Fernandez homered leading off the fifth.

Nicholson closed out the Orioles' production against Mossi with a two-run homer in the ninth. The Tiger left-hander finished with his fourth complete game of the season and his third straight victory, building his record to 5-4.

Charlie Maxwell, filling in for the injured Al Kaline, collected three of Detroit's 15 hits, while Cash, Colavito, Fernandez, Brown and Mossi all had two each.

Wyatt and Fischer frustrated the Yankees at virtually every turn as the defending league champions again showed a lack of punch for the big inning.

They loaded the bases with one out in the first, got their first two men on in the fifth and had another chance in the eighth with two on—but failed to score each time and stranded 10 runners.

The Athletics netted their two runs in the first inning off rookie Jim Bouton. Dick Howser led off with a walk and was forced by Jose Tarta-bull, who flashed all the way to third on Norm Siebern's infield single.

Tartabull came in on a passed bill and Manny Jimenez, who raised his league-leading average to a sparkling .398 with a pair of hits, singled in Siebern.

Wyatt turned back the Yanks until the sixth, when singles by Roger Maris and Bill Skowron wrapped around a walk gave them their run. Fischer took over in the eighth after Wyatt was lifted for a pinch hitter.

The Red Sox swept their second two-game series in as many weeks from the Twins on some robust hitting by rookie Bob Tillman, Carl Yastrzemski and Chuck Schilling. Tillman belted a pair of homers as he went 3-for-3 with three runs batted in and three scored.

Alouettes journey to Coaticook with Gilles Bernier going for locals, Acton Vale here Thursday

Action in the Provincial League continues this evening and Thursday with four games scheduled. Tonight the local Larks visit the Coaticook Canadians. This game was originally scheduled last Thursday but was postponed because of rain.

Thursday, the Als will, for the first time, play host to the Acton Vale Beavers, the Canadians play in St. Johns and the Granby Knights clash with the Drummondville Royals.

St. Vincent's Als are out to win their first of the last three tonight when they travel to Coaticook. Second place is up for grabs in tonight's game.

Gilles Bernier, who tossed a two-hitter his first time out, will most likely be on the mound this evening. In the first meeting between the two teams, the Als dumped the Canucks 14-8 in a game marked by 24 hits. The Canadians however have since settled down and had some real stiff practices—they seem to be set for the Alouettes tonight.

Thursday the Acton Vale Beavers will be looking for their first "on the road" win when they come to town. Claude Groulx, coach of the team, is expected to pitch for the visitors while Claude Prud'Homme, the curve-balling left-hander will pitch for Sherbrooke.

Peter Cianflone will be on the mound tomorrow night for the Drummondville Royals when the Granby Knights pay their first visit of the season. Cianflone showed his stuff here on Sunday when he stifled the Als with a fine curve ball while pitching his team to a 6-2 victory over the Larks.

Lou Poliquin, coach of the Royals, announced last night, that Gaetan Gervais, one of his key relief pitchers, will now be used as a starter.

Gervais joins Poliquin's two aces, Marcel Guilbault and Peter Cianflone as starters.

The St. John Pirates are looking for their first home win tomorrow night when they receive the Coaticook Canadians. They have had trouble with faulty infielding and have been trying to work out their difficulties.

Olympics issue challenge to Smoke Eaters
MONTREAL (CP)—Montreal Olympics, defeated in the Allan Cup finals this year by Trail Smoke Eaters, have challenged their conquerors to a new series at the beginning of next season, it was disclosed Tuesday.

Fernand St. Germain, secretary-treasurer of the club, said the Allan Cup champions have been invited to play a best-of-three series in Montreal, with both teams using the same players they iced in their play-off series.

St. Germain said the challenge, made by telegram, was provoked by "insulting remarks" by CAHA officials who said the Olympics were not good enough to represent Canada in Europe.

The British Columbia club is scheduled to represent Canada in the world hockey championships next year in Sweden.

In Trail, Smoke Eaters president Jim Cameron said: "Why play three more games? It will just be three more wins for us."

Both Cameron and manager Ugo DeBiasio said: "If they want a series let them put up the money. Money speaks bigger than words."
