Next week's weather

By ERIC NEAL

AUGUST 19 TO 26

Mainly sunny and quite warm through middle of week, with cool mornings and some mist. Clear moonlit nights and exceptional Northern Light displays.

Even warmer, but misty and sultry to end the period. Storms of tropical origin near Atlantic coasts could bring gale winds and rain, with thunder. Fishing good all day. Temperature range, 45-80°F. Laurentians, 40-75°F.

Centennial project opened

Westmount's Centennial project is open!

The workmen have left, the ladders have gone, the transparent cellophane wall has been taken down; the front room of the Municipal library was opened to the public this week.

3 Westmount students top 90% in exams

Three students from Westmount High topped 90 p.c. in their Quebec Junior School Certificate Examinations. Patricia Johansson led with 92.1, followed by Barbara Baig, 90.6 and Peter Schmolka, 90.5.

Westmount students achieving more than 80 p.c. are: Louise Abbot, Carole Baron, David Bernie, Deborah Doyle, Catherine Duff, Janet Findlay, Eliot Goldwarg, Selma Greenberg, Michi Hayami, Martin Heppner, Paul Isaacs, Johnathon Lithwick, Graham Lorimer, Nadia Miloradovitch, Vivian Richler, Sue Rosenfeld, Henry Rosenheck, George Saly, Ronald Shacter, Jean Shapiro, Eleanor Surchin, Alan Tarshis, Vanessa Vorman, Lenore Vosberg, Kenneth White, and Jeffrey Godine, the brother of John Godine who graduated this year with honors from Princeton University.

The following letter was received from Mrs. Florence Johansson and is self-explanatory.

Sir:

As a Westmount paper you might be interested to know that Patricia Johansson who finished in first place in Westmount High School was incorrectly shown by Montreal newspapers as placing 11th in the Province of Quebec.

Actually her 93.5 percent tied her in forth place in the

The big old fireplace has disappeared leaving a lot more space for books and tables. The high roof, the clean walls, the new book shelves, and the bright fluorescent lighting all help to give the new room a pleasant atmosphere. Eventually it will be carpeted too.

The lay-out of the library has changed considerably. The new room, the shelves of which formerly held fiction, is now the reading and reference room. The fiction department has now been moved to the former location of the reference room.

The basement has been greatly "civilized". There are white walls, bright lights, and a green linoleum floor to take the place of a large expanse of damp grey concrete and unsightly pipes.

Soon thousands of volumes of reference material and periodicals will be moved from the gallery to the newly renovated basement. The gallery will then be used as the music section of the library.

WELL PLANNED

The transformation has been remarkable and speaks volumes for the foresight of the planners of Westmount's Centennial project because of the additional facilities now provided to residents. MAYOR M. L. TUCKER observed "the achievements would not have been possible without the hard work of the administrative staff which gave of itself unstintingly".

The renovated library building, a civic institution, has been in operation in Westmount Park since 1899. The library contains about 100,000 books in French and English including adult novels, adult non-fiction and works for children. Its reference department is frequented by thousands of people annually, many of them residents of Montreal.

Mrs. Norah P. Bryant, chief librarian and her staff expect to make their library services more efficient than ever through the forthcoming project of microfilming.

Pleads guilty

A seventeen year old youth was arrested by the Westmount Police when he was caught in the act of stealing a motor-scooter. Two confederates of his escaped and a warrant is out for their arrest. The boy pleaded guilty before the Social Welfare Court and is being remanded for sentence.

Observant constable

At 10:15 Monday night Constable MacDonald caught two men in the act of burgling a vacant house at 505 Mountain Avenue.

The constable noticed that something was wrong while making a routine check on the house whose occupants were away on holiday. He radioed for help, and then on entering the building found two men in the basement. The burglars had $200 worth of miscellaneous jewels and knick-knacks in their pockets. They were arrested on the spot.

One of the burglars claimed to come from Edmonton, and the other said he had no home at all. Both were 18 years old. They were arraigned before the Westmount Municipal Court Tuesday and are being remanded for sentence.

ADMIT OTHER THEFTS

The two also admitted to stealing a wallet containing $500 last week. The owner had hung up his coat containing his wallet in the front hall of the house at 2 Belvedere Road when the thieves walked in and took the coat, the wallet and the money.

Two local garages target of thieves

Saturday night a truck was stolen from the Victoria Avenue garage. Thieves evidently loaded batteries, tools and auto equipment into the vehicle before they drove off. The truck was found on Monday empty and repainted in the Belanger street district of Montreal.

The Citroen Garage at 4010 St. Catherine Street west was burgled late Sunday night. The safe was forced open, but nothing was found to be missing. The same garage was broken into last month and money and auto parts were stolen. The burglars were not apprehended.

Auto Accidents

Two accidents involving out of town residents occurred in Westmount last weekend.

David Fry, 63, of New York City hit the back of a car that was slowing down for a traffic light, causing a chain reaction collision of five cars at Sherbrooke near Clarke. Nobody was hurt.

A Volkswagen carrying Nova Scotia licence plates hit two trees after the driver misjudged his turn on the corner of Cedar Ave. and Dorchester. One person was seriously injured.

Disease ravaged elms

*"Woodman, spare that tree,
touch not a single bough,
In youth it sheltered me,
and I'll protect it now"*

The words of Longfellow's famous poem fall on deaf ears today in order to prevent the ravages of the dreaded elm disease.

Two magnificent old elms in front of Victoria Hall are being cut down.

They were killed by the notorious Dutch Elm disease which has destroyed hundreds of these trees in North America in the past few years. In spite of great efforts by the municipal authorities to curb the disease, an increasing number of elms must be cut down. The disease is spread by beetles.

The "dissembling" of the trees is a slow and complex operation. There can be no "tim-b-e-r". The tree must be gradually sliced up from the top down. One can hope, however, that young elm trees will be planted to take the place of the old giants.

Westmount students prominent

Last Friday McGill University released the results of their Senior and Junior School Certificate examinations. Westmount students figured prominently in the standings. Approximately sixty-five percent of the successful high school graduates announced were Westmounters or attended Westmount schools.

Students from Selwyn House,

The Study, Miss Edgar's and Miss Cramp's, and St. George's wrote the papers. Other schools represented which Westmounters attended are Lower Canada College, Bishop's College school, King's Hall, Trafalgar and Neuchatel Junior College.

Only the private schools write these McGill matriculation examinations. In two years these examinations will be discontinued, and all schools will write the provincial examinations.

Ten papers are required for admission to university, while only eight make up the Junior Certificate. Thus passing the exams does not necessarily give matriculation standing.

After travelling 50,000 miles criss-crossing Canada, Dick Wilson is probably the Canadian with the best grass roots picture of the country.

He is now more than three-quarters' way through his commission to produce the Bank of Montreal Canada Centennial Tableau. It is a two-year project to mark the Centennial and the bank's 159th anniversary this year.

The short, bouncy, fluently-bilingual artist has popped up in every area of the country. Invariably, he has attracted crowds of interested spectators, all with endless questions, usually starting with his sketching and ranging on to his impressions of the other parts of Canada he has visited.

GIVE AND TAKE

While his brush records scenes in India ink, he maintains a fast-paced dialogue with onlookers.

A typical encounter may produce this kind of exchange: "Boy, you work fast!" "Have to — I understand they plan to tear-down that city hall."

"What's your impression of Canada, after travelling about?" "You've really got to see it to believe it. Everywhere you see changes taking place: whole centres of cities being levelled, expressways under construction, universities going up, small communities in the west and outposts in the east being abandoned."

"What do you think of the Prairies?" "They are full of surprises . . . and just don't stand up to the popular conception of vast, flat emptiness."

We Say

Mr. Trueman cynical of UN press critics

Press cynicism over United Nations actions and words was attacked on CBC's "Viewpoint" June 6 by Mr. Peter Trueman, journalist turned national director of the United Nations Association of Canada.

This may be old hat to many a Westmounter belonging to UNA's Montreal branch, at that time hosting the association's annual general meeting here at the height of the Israeli-Arab six-day war. But the text of Mr. Trueman's radio blast is to hand this week in the summer issue of the UNA Journal.

He was specifically critical of a "Viewpoint" talk 24 hours earlier by Mr. Christopher Young, editor of The Ottawa Citizen, which in the words of the UNA publication "symbolized the sort of thing the press had been saying about the UN for several days," namely that the UN had failed and Secretary-General U Thant had fumbled in precipitously withdrawing the UN Emergency Force on Arab demand just as it was needed most.

Mr. Trueman, as he himself acknowledged Mr. Young to be, is a good newspaperman. But he makes a poor start at the UNA, especially for a journalist, in making an ill-founded attack on the prime medium capable of backgrounding and provoking support for the United Nations and the association in Canada.

What Mr. Trueman is saying, in effect, is that a critical press is a cynical press. He asks people, particularly editorialists, to adopt his position that any failures are not of the UN itself but of its constituent member nations, not of U Thant and other UN servants but of their masters.

Which might be said of any institution whose actions and deliberations waffle and wobble: Parliament or legislatures, clubs or societies, trade associations or companies. Blame the citizens, members or shareholders who elect directors and officers, not the organization itself, he would suggest.

This thesis would be sound if people and nations were not what they are: individualistic, prone to delegate or hire others to carry out their wishes in particular which they may have propounded in general and, meanwhile, go about their own other concerns.

In these circumstances, the body and its servants assume characters of their own. It is this character of the UN which the press has attacked or, more often, ignored in the face of an indifferent and apathetic public.

That the public couldn't care less about the UN, except

The house that Burtons built

By Simon Kavanaugh

"Liz," Richard Burton is reported to have said to his wife as he scanned the reviews of The Taming of the Shrew, "we've made it."

They have. Finally, and in every sense. The Shrew, their first venture as actors/producers, is more than a million dollars in the bank to them—they could do without that. It means more than the accolades of the critics and the glittering awards that will surely follow—they can live without those too. Money and fame are no strangers to them.

But the Royal Command Film Performance was, so to speak, the topping-out ceremony of the house the Burtons built—a solid structure of achievement and respectability, on foundations that professional surveyors said were quicksands. The surveyors—the morality councils, the Daughters of the American Revolution, the gossip-columnists and the scandal-mongers—have been proved wrong. The Taylor-Burton house is very solid indeed.

HOLLYWOOD OUTRAGED
It seems much more than six years ago that "la scandale," as Burton (family name: Jenkins) calls it, broke around their heads while they were making "Cleopatra" in Rome. She was married to Eddie Fisher. He had a playboy image, and was married as well.

You Say

Impolite visitors other side of penny

Sir: Much is made in the press about the occasional bad manners displayed by Montrealers to Expo visitors. We are all told to make the best possible impression on our "guests." Most of us do, I think, because the majority of Quebecers — French, English, Hungarian, — any ethnic origin — are spontaneously polite. The exceptions are regrettable.

But, how about the other side of the story?

Patient policemen, waiters, taxi drivers, and many members of the general public, have been exposed to intolerable rudeness, from some visitors, to which it is hard to turn the other cheek. Few of us have not noticed the occasional arrogant tourist, who leans out of his car and shouts: "Hey, you, how far to the Mercier bridge?" or taunts like: "How come there's nothing to do in the crummy town? Our home, Cedar Falls, is really swinging compared with this flea bitten Montreal and all its Frenchies?"

Consider also a group of people from another country, who went to one of Montreal's best nightspots, saw an excellent show, paid moderate prices for a great many drinks, then said to the exhausted waitress who had served them: "Don't think you're going to get tipped. If you complain we'll complain to the proper authorities, and you'll never work again." This kind of people are called "stiffs" and quite a number of them have come to Montreal this summer, and have been quietly — if chillingly — endured.

As a contrait I am sorry, in a way, that my Star colleague, Bruce Taylor, was perhaps in crises is seen on all sides.

The UN Association itself, a worthy vehicle for showing concern, enjoys but a fraction of Canadian people's support.

The late Sam Cromie of The Vancouver Sun several years ago suspected his readers passed right over news stories from the UN. He tested this by running the same story in the same place on the front page every day for a week. Not a single comment; no one noticed.

The late Lord Beaverbrook was, from its inception, frankyskeptical of the UN being any more successful in ordering the affairs of man than was the League of Nations. But even skepticism is not necessarily cynicism.

The UN itself, and supporting groups such as the UNA, must make the UN more appealing to the interest and concerns of people before the press can show its readers that appeal.

Meanwhile, Mr. Trueman can help: by betraying less cynicism of the press and more constructive effort in his new job, by dramatizing the work of the UN he already knows so well as a member of the working press who has covered it.

With the world in its present state of turmoil, the demands on the Red Cross services are being taxed to a greater degree. To draw attention to the work of this Organization, the Soviet Union marked the 100th anniversary of the Red Cross Society organized in Russia one hundred years ago, with a special postage stamp issued May 15th. The stamp, a 4k value, was printed by mezzotint process in red and light brown and depicts the symbol of the Red Cross and a tulip, symbolizing life.

The Netherlands is another country to pay tribute to the Red Cross in 1967 with postage stamps. The centennial of the Dutch Red Cross will be marked with a set of five semi-postals, and the income derived from the surcharge will go towards benefitting the work of the Red Cross. The stamps will be available in the following denomination: 12+8c blue or red; 15+10c red; 20+10c olive green and red; 25+10c dark green and red; 45+20c grey and red. All feature certain variations of the Red Cross emblem and were designed by W. van Stek. The stamps will be on post office sale from August 8th to September 30, 1967, and be valid for postage until December 31, 1968.

Turkey is one of the countries of the free world of which very little has been written about her postage stamps. Philatelically speaking the country was classified as a neglected country due to the fact that over the years collectors expressed very little demand for Turkish stamps. Recently many collectors realizing this situation began to show interest in the new issues as well as some of the past issues. As a result to-day there is a general demand for Turkish stamps and this change of mood on the part of the stamp collector has been reflected in the designing and printing of current Turkish stamps.

The art work of current Turkish stamps is on a par with that of many of the so called "hot countries". - details of a few of the latest issues follows: June 30th, two semi-postals, a commemorative set honoring the publicity of the E5 Inter-European Highway. The stamps printed multicolored offset in the values of 60+5ks and 130+5ks depict the map of Turkey and a view of the Highway. July 1st, a single commemorative honoring the 750th anniversary of the Sivas Health Center.

It is only fitting that the design of this stamp should depict a general view of the Health Center. Printing was by four-colored offset with a value of 50Ks. July 20th, a set of two commemoratives honoring the first Turkish Olympic and Sportive Stamps Competition. The values, 50 and 60Ks, portray Selim Sirri Tarcan and Baron Pierre de Coubertin respectively. Printing was by four-colored offset in panes of 100 stamps. Both values were gathered in panes so that they proceed each other horizontally in vertical columns.

On July 17th Yugoslavia issued a set of six commemorative stamps marking International Tourist Year. The stamps depict cultural-historical monuments in Yugoslav touristic places: 0,30 - Ko-tor; St. Tripun's Church; 0,50 - Maribor, Municipal Building; 0,85 - Trogir, Cathedral; 1,20 - Nis, Town fortress' gate; 3,00 - Visegrad, The Bridge over the Drina; 5,00 - Skopje, Daut-pasha's bath. Printing was in two colors each in deep line print, in sheets of forty stamps.

Christian Science Sermon subject

How the divine intelligence that controls the universe can also be found available in the affairs of men, will be explored at the services in all Christian Science churches this Sunday, in the reading of the week's Lesson-Sermon on the subject "Mind".

Relevant Bible selections will include Paul's admonition to the Romans: "Be not conformed to this world: but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect, will of God."

Explanatory citations from the denominational textbook will include: "There can be but one Mind, because there is but one God; and if mortals claimed no other Mind and accepted no other, sin would be unknown. We can have but one Mind, if that one is infinite"

("Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy.)

Sunday Collect

Almighty and merciful God, of whose only gift it cometh that they faithful people do unto thee true and laudable service: Grant, we beseech thee, that we may so faithfully serve thee in this life, that we fail not finally to attain they heavenly promises; through the merits of Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Comfort One Another

Increasing world tension and the trend of events in the Middle East are filling many with fear, and there are even sincere believers in Christ who fear that perhaps the "Great Tribulation" of prophecy, with all its horrors, is at hand.

It is true indeed that even Paul's epistles warn of this world judgement to come. "The day of the Lord," he says, "so cometh as a thief in the night . . . For when they shall say, Peace and safety; then sudden destruction cometh upon them, as travail upon a woman with child; and they shall not escape" (I Thes. 5:2, 3).

But before this time comes the Lord will recall His ambassadors, as the Apostle tells us in the preceding passage:

"For the Lord Himself shall descend from heaven with a shout, with the voice of the archangel, and with the trump of God: and the dead in Christ shall rise first:

"Then we which are alive and remain shall be caught up together with them in the clouds to meet the Lord in the air: and so shall we ever be with the Lord.

"Wherefore comfort one another with these words" (I Thes. 4:16-18)

This is the event with which "the dispensation of the grace of God" will be brought to a close. Then will follow "the day of His wrath," but even as Paul goes on to tell about this in the passage which follows, he reassures the members of Christ's Body that they will not be included among those to whom the Lord will come as "a thief in the night." "Ye, brethren, are not in darkness, that that day should overtake you as a thief. Ye are all the children of the light . . . God hath not appointed us to wrath, but to obtain salvation by our Lord Jesus Christ, who died for us . . . Wherefore comfort yourselves together . . ." (I Thes. 5:4-11).

Local student wins honors at Princeton U.

Excerpts from 'Old Westmount'

First French Families

The 'Old Westmount' Club of the Westmount High School, which has produced the story of our city in book form as a Centennial project so successfully, has given permission to The Examiner to reprint excerpts from the book.

From time to time the text will vary slightly to make corrections which were sent in to the high school editors by interested readers of 'Old Westmount.'

The first houses in Westmount were built near Cote St. Antoine Road. The only one still in existence is that which appears on the cover of "Old Westmount", the Hurtubise house at the corner of Victoria Avenue. It brings to mind the days when Paul de Chomedey, Sieur de Maisonneuve, resolutely declared that to Montreal he would go "if every tree on the island were to be changed into an Iroquois".

In 1642, in the name of the Society of Our Lady of Montreal, he set up a missionary outpost near the junction of the two great Indian waterways, the St. Lawrence and the Ottawa.

Among recruits whom Maisonneuve later enlisted in France, mainly from Brittany, Maine and Anjou, were Jean Leduc, Jean Decarie and Jean Desroches, all known to be stone masons. They arrived not later than 1650, and as soon as they had received their grants, Jean Leduc and Jean Decarie made a contract to help each other clear the land. However, intensified Indian attacks brought the work to an end, and Jean Leduc received money in compensation for his work.

Sometime in 1652 Jean Leduc made a very important trip to Quebec — to meet Marie Soulinie, the "fille du roi" who became his wife. They were married at Three Rivers, and their witnesses were no less personages than Jeanne Mance, Lambert Closse and Charles Lemoyne. About the same time Jean Decarie and Michelle Artus were married in Quebec by the Jesuit priest, Father Jerome Lalemant.

Together with the names of Marin Hurtubise and Louis Prud'homme, those of Jean Leduc and Jean Decarie appear on the militia roll for 1654. In recognition of this service, each received a grant of land outside the town. For some time Indian uprisings prevented them from taking possession. Meanwhile they began to take thought for the future of their families, and signed a contract with Dr. Etienne Bouchard to provide them with medical care.

At length they ventured to leave the shelter of the fortifications, although their friends warned them that it was still too dangerous, and armed their clearing on Cote St. Antoine "la haute folie".

It is not easy to determine which of the houses on Cote St. Antoine was built first. The deed reproduced in "Old Westmount" with the hand-writing and signature of Paul de Chomedey establishes that a grant was made to Jean Leduc in 1662, and others were made by 1666. We know that two of his sons, Jean Leduc and Lambert Leduc dit St. Omer, lived on Cote St. Antoine, and it is generally believed that the first was there by 1690. It is also known that Pierre Hurtubise, son of Marin, in 1687 received a grant of land with the stipulation that a house should be erected on it within three years. Since the three families settled on adjoining farms, it is likely that, whichever was built first, all three were constructed by the Leduc and Decarie masons.

The younger Jean Leduc married Marguerite Desroches, and their house stood for many years at the corner of what is now known as Murray Hill (or King George) Park. His brother Lambert married Jeanne Decarie, and their descendants kept the name St. Omer. Their house was at the corner of Roslyn Avenue and Cote St. Antoine Road.

Near Lansdowne Avenue and Cote St. Antoine, the St. Germain house was built in 1692. Was the Petit Fief St. Germain, with its

Dr. L. P. Ereaux dies suddenly

Funeral services were held at St. Matthias' Anglican Church in Westmount last Saturday for Dr. Lemuel P. Ereaux who was one of Canada's leading dermatologists. Dr. Ereaux died suddenly at his home, 4-300 Western Ave. He was 69.

Through his studies and work as a specialist in skin diseases, he won world-wide recognition and professional acclaim.

During his long, distinguished medical career, he was associated with Montreal's leading hospitals and the McGill University faculty of medicine.

Dr. Ereaux received specialist certification from the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada and the American Board of Dermatology and Syphilology.

During his career, Dr. Ereaux was a consultant in dermatology to the Montreal Children's Hospital, the Herbert Reddy, and the Queen Elizabeth hospitals formerly the Homeopathic.

He served with the First Canadian Tank Battalion in the First World War and with the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps in the Second World War. He was an active member of St. Matthias' Anglican Church, Westmount.

Dr. Ereaux is survived by his wife, the former Florence Emilie Young; two children, James Young of Montreal, and Ruth Lois (Mrs. Reid Waters) of Winnipeg, and eight grandchildren.

house, a wedding-gift to the Louis St. Germain who married Cecile Prud'homme in 1764? Or was it, as some suggest, a fief donated by the Leduc and Hurtubise families to the guardians of the wayside cross? In any case, the St. Germain family lived in this house until the early 1900's.

The Hurtubise family remained in their house even longer. They prospered to such an extent that an addition to the house became necessary, and a "dower house" was built across the street. Known as "Riverview", it still stands on Cote St. Antoine Road,

Professor Bell started our most precious tradition — helping people

The photo shows Professor Bell 'communicating' with Charlie Crane, a Canadian boy both blind and deaf, who must talk with his fingers.

Today, you know Alexander Graham Bell as the inventor of the telephone. But to himself and his family, his profession was that of "Teacher of the Deaf"

In his search for better teaching methods, he probed the mechanics of speech. His investigation of the vibrations of the larynx — the creation and transmission of sound, of words — led him to invent what we now know as the telephone. It was only incidental to his real life's work.

This work was to help people — particularly the handicapped. And that is a tradition which we at Bell Canada, do our very utmost to keep alive.

You'll find evidence of it in special telephones for the handicapped, in an artificial larynx for people without vocal cords, and in everything we do to help you communicate with one another.

Hayes-Carmichael

The marriage of Moira Anne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Duncan Carmichael, of Valois, Que. to the Rev. Stephen Andrew Hayes, of 235 Metcalfe Avenue, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hayes, of Toronto, took place recently in the Church of St. Andrew and St. Paul, the Rev. R. J. Berlis, D. D., officiating, assisted by Rev. B. David Hostetter, of Saint John, N.B.

Mr. Phillips Motley played the wedding music and the church choir was in attendance. Standards of coral gladioli, white daisies and chrysanthemums, were used as decorations.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was in an empire gown of white poul de soie, having a bodice of white Calais embroidered lace, and a cathedral length train of similar lace falling from the shoulders.

Her cathedral length veil of silk organza was held by a tiara of matching lace and she carried a cascade bouquet of pink puff Sweetheart roses and stephanotis.

Mrs. Malcolm McCuaig, as matron of honor, Mrs. John Spriggs, and Mrs. Leonard Robertson, as attendants, were in frocks of coral poul de soie, fashioned on empire lines. They wore coronets of coral silk organza rosebuds and carried cascade bouquets of Bess and Wendy geranium bloom and white stephanotis.

The marriage of Gillian Margaret, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvyn Graham Angus, of 699 Aberdeen Avenue, to Mr. Michel Cote, son of Mr. Lionel Cote, Q.C., and Mrs. Cote, of 312 Roslyn Avenue, took place recently in the Church of St. Andrew and St. Paul, the Rev. R. J. Berlis, D.D., officiating.

Mr. Philips Motley played the wedding music. Boxwood trees in lettuce green pots, trimmed with single daisies and larkspur, and candles in candelabra decorated the church; the pews reserved for the guests being marked with crescent-shaped arrangements of similar flowers.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was in a Galina model of English net and cotton lace, the bodice having a slightly scoop neckline and short sleeves. Her full-length veil of tulle illusion was held by a beehive headdress of lace and she carried a bouquet of daisies, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Mrs. Gordon H. Eberts, as matron of honor for her sister, and Miss Cathy Jarvis, cousin of the bride, Miss Valerie Cote and Miss Elizabeth Cote, sisters of the bridegroom Miss Victoria Todd and Miss Anne Richardson, as bridesmaids, were in frocks of lettuce green crepe, fashioned with ruffles of the same material at the neckline and hemline. The crowns of their large hats of green mohair were trimmed with daisies and cornflowers to match the flowers in their nosegays.

Little Miss Cynthia Eberts, as flower-girl for her aunt, was in a full-length frock of white organdy trimmed with lace and a sash of lettuce green velvet. She wore a headpiece of daisies and cornflowers, and carried a nosegay of similar flowers.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the Oval Room of the Ritz Carl-ton, where the decorations were similar to those used in the church. Arrangements of daisies and cornflowers centered the individual tables.

Hearth buns perfect for summer suppers

Pep up a patio supper with homemade Hearth Buns. A touch of pepper gives these robust supper buns a pleasing, "go-with-everything" flavor. They're brushed with catsup before baking for an appealing, old-fashioned look.

With this method of yeast baking you can bake sumptuous yeast breads in the summer and keep cool while you're at it. You mix, knead and shape this dough in less than an hour — any cool hour of the day. Then the shaped dough is refrigerated. Bake the buns whenever it's cool again — anytime from 2 to 24 hours later.

Serve homemade Hearth Buns with succulent grill-baked ham and tossed salad served outdoors. The salad greens keep fresh and crisp until serving time with a protective covering of food wrap.

Patio suppers are peppier with Hearth Buns prepared the cool and easy CoolRise way. Keep the salad greens crisp and garden fresh with a protective covering of saran wrap food wrap.

HEARTH BUNS

5 1/2 cups Flour
2 tsp. sugar
1/2 cup warm water
(105-115 degree F.)
2 pkgs. active dry yeast
1 1/4 cups warm milk or water (105-115 degree F.)
2 tbsp. sugar

1 tbsp. salt
3 tbsp. margarine or shortening
1 tsp. coarse ground pepper
Cooking oil
Food Wrap
3 tbsp. catsup

Put the flour into a dry measuring cup. Level off and pour measured flour onto wax paper.

Dissolve 2 tsp. sugar in 1/2 cup warm water in large, warm bowl. Sprinkle yeast into water mixture. Let stand 10 minutes, then stir well.

Add warm milk, sugar, salt, margarine, pepper and 2 cups flour. Beat with rotary beater or electric mixer at low speed until smooth (about 1 minute). Add 1 cup more flour. Beat vigorously with wooden spoon (150 strokes) or electric mixer at medium speed (2-3 minutes) until thick and elastic. Scrape sides of bowl occasionally. Stir in remaining flour gradually with wooden spoon. Use just enough flour to make a soft dough which leaves sides of bowl, adding more if necessary. Turn out onto floured board. Round up into a ball.

Knead 5-10 minutes or until dough is smooth, elastic and no longer sticky. Cover with food wrap then a towel. Let rest for 20 minutes on board. Punch down.

Divide into 16 equal portions, each shaped into a ball, and place on greased baking sheets. Flatten slightly to make rolls about 3 1/2 inches in diameter. Brush surface of rolls with oil, then cover pans loosely with food wrap.

Refrigerate 2 to 24 hours at moderately cold setting. When ready to bake, remove from refrigerator, uncover and let stand for 10 minutes while pre-heating oven. Cut a cross on top of each roll with sharp knife and brush lightly with catsup just before baking.

Bake at 400 degree F. for 15-20 minutes or until done, using a lower rack position for best results. Remove from baking sheets immediately, and cool on racks.

Yield: 16 large rolls.

Identification cards issued to residents

According to information issued by B. A. Rothwell, Superintendent of Recreation concerning the issuing of identification cards to residents, the following rules apply.

Identification cards are issued to residents of Westmount for all recreation facilities. In order to obtain one of these cards, one must produce proof of residence such as a light bill, driver's license, house lease, etc., or in the case of a roomer or boarder, a letter from the landlord stating the date on which the person became the lessee of their establishment. Such evidence must be submitted to the Recreation Department Office located in the Artificial Ice Rink together with a picture 1 1/2" x 1 1/2".

All parks and tennis facilities close at 9:45 p.m. Morning opening time of tennis courts is determined by weather and condition of the facilities. The Recreation Office is open from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m., Monday to Friday. Non-residents attending public schools in Westmount are allowed the use of the outdoor natural ice rinks and skating periods at the Artificial Rink only.

Justice Fabre Surveyor dismissed the action for $747 damages taken by Mrs. Berthe Ferguson after a fall she suffered on Claremont Ave.

Andretti wins Labatt's first Indy running

Demonstrating his virtuosity in the USAC Championship Cars, Mario Andretti, the little man with the great big driving ability, won the first running of the Labatt Indy 200 at St. Jovite by taking both ends of the double-heat bill. After curing transmission troubles that had plagued him during the 2 pre-race practice sessions, Andretti stroke the Dean Van Lines Brawner-Brabham-Ford to victory, ahead of a classy field of USAC stars, including A.J. Foyt, 3-time Indy 500 winner, Lloyd Ruby and the Unser brothers, of Pike's Peak fame

All the city was stirred, saying, 'Who is this?' St. Matthew 21:10

Local students benefit through Rotary gifts

The Rotary Club of Westmount has existed for almost 40 years. During this time the club has raised almost three-quarters of a million dollars and has given valuable aid to the community in a variety of ways.

Perhaps the most important donation the Rotary Club has given Westmount is in the form of the Unity Boys Club, which has at present a membership of over 1,000 boys and girls. The club has been very successful in its operation, and a great deal of credit for this must go to the Rotarians.

The Rotary Club has also given over $5,000 in scholarships to Westmounters. It has donated boat wharves, and new marines to the girl-guides, and sponsored the Boy Scout Troop at Shawbridge. They have contributed to the young people's driver education by giving annual driving courses at local high schools.

At the end of the scale, the club has bought property on Prospect Street, off Greene Ave., below Dorchester and has remodelled two houses there into residence for elderly people.

Other club projects include continued support of Weredale House and summer camp, help to crippled children, showing of movies at the Children's Hospital, and public speaking courses for high school seniors.

Library offers summer reading

Summer is the time for water sports! — And the Westmount Public Library offers a wide selection of "how to . . ." books on a variety of summer sports. A sampling of the more recent ones is listed below.

Water skiing enthusiasts should find helpful: Robert Hester's Instant water skiing; John H. Andresen's Skiing on water; and Water skiing for all by Walter N. Prince.

For those interested in boating: Charles F. Chapman's Piloting, Seamanship and Small Boat Handling; a complete illustrated course on the operation of small boats, supplemented by hundreds of problems, questions and answers; 1001 Questions Answered about Boats and Boating, by W. H. DeFontaine; Boating in Canada; Practical Piloting and Seamanship, by Garth Griffiths; and The Tactics of Small Boat Racing, by Stuart H. Walker. Everett N. Pearson's The Lure of Sailing is one of several books about this popular pastime.

Fishing is traditionally one of the most popular summer pastimes. The Library has quite a large collection of books on this subject, including Joe Brook's Complete Illustrated Guide to Casting; Arnold Gingrich's The Well-Tempered Angler; and a Publication of the Canadian Travel Bureau, entitled Where to Fish in Canada.

For those who prefer swimming, the Library suggests: The Complete Book of Dry-land Exercises for Swimming, by Buck Dawson; Competition Swimming; the Training Way to Championship by Carli Laklan; and — two very useful books — Caroline Kauffman's How to Teach Children to Swim; and Fred R. Lanoue's Drownproofing: a new technique for water safety. Divers will find answers to their questions in Fell's Official Guide to Diving; plain, high, fancy, platform, comedy, and acrobatic, by Harry Froboess.

The house that Burtons' . . . P4

There were children involved; posses of keyhole cameramen followed them everywhere. Quaking film producers, frightened by the howling pack of organised puritans in America, pleaded with them to return to their respective hearths and homes. When they refused, future scripts were withdrawn, contracts cancelled.

Twentieth Century Fox claimed that their "irresponsible and illicit conduct" cost them one million dollars in the making of Cleopatra alone. Hollywood, hypocritically outraged, shunned them socially. One Congressman tried to ban Burton from entering the U.S. (as a "morally corrupted person." "The campaign achieved something," says

Burton today. "After a time, I was broke."

It did not, however, achieve its main objective. Indeed, as might have been expected, the two outcasts were thrown together, to become inseparable. There were long and painful years of divorce and rehabilitation, and even when they were eventually married, there were still cynics who said that such a marriage, surrounded as it was by stormy emotions and stormier circumstances, could not last.

To their discomfiture however, the romance continued after the wedding. The two were catalysts to each other's talents, and after two years Mrs. Burton was to say of Mr. Burton: "He can produce responses I didn't know I had. Every day on the set is exciting." Said Mr. Burton of Mrs. Burton: "We are still on honeymoon."

Every film or stage play, together or separately, was acclaimed as an advance; indeed, Liz can produce a unique book of press reviews which say that every performance is "her greatest."

There was no doubt that, as a double act, they were the greatest. A protesting Burton had to say to an Italian film producer at one stage, "We're not Laurel and Hardy, you know." He knew, however, and so did the producer, that that is what they were, to the casual moviegoer.

There was no way of confirming it, but the suspicion in Burton's mind grew that audiences were flocking to see them because of "la scandale" — "and" as he said, "they'll soon get tired of THAT".

Perhaps in answer to the unspoken challenge, he and his wife threw themselves into their work with a fervour that can hardly have been surpassed on the stage this century. During the shooting of The Spy Who Came In From The Cold Burton was almost crippled with fibrositis, yet he never complained.

They appeared in an Oxford University production of Dr. Faustus (for nothing; the time it took up was said to have cost them £500,000) and startled the keenest of amateurs by rehearsing ten hours a day. They turned down scripts with half-million-pound price tags on their services because, as he says, "they just didn't fit our mood."
