

Opening Night Attendance Record is Broken at the Ormstown Exhibition

Colorful Parade Staged by Ormstown High School—D. E. Black, M.P., Officially Opens The Exhibit

The attendance at the Ormstown Exhibition last evening established a new high for the opening night over a period of 29 years. Mr. McGerrigle reports that the gate admission was little different from that of a year ago but that the increased attendance was due to the fact that $150 more of advanced sale tickets were sold than any other year. The arena was well filled, all seating accommodation being taken and many hundreds of people had to stand in the room when they viewed the excellent horse show programme.

The Ormstown High School children presented a wonderful parade. To Mr. Burry McGerrigle much credit is due for the way he directed the parade. The two floats, one representing the "Seven Dwarfs" and the other "May Pole" were cleverly gotten up. The "Seven Dwarfs" float captivated the grand audience and received a loud applause and burst of laughter when it entered the arena. After the drill was completed they wended their way into the formation of the letters O.H.S., after which the scholars gave the Ormstown High School cheer.

The first class to appear before Dr. Watson of Toronto to be judged, was that of Road Horse open to the District. The 1st and 2nd awards went to Mr. W. C. Collins, Hemmingford, 3rd to D. E. Black, and 4th to D. J. Greig. The horses in this class were very much excited and the drivers were demonstrating that their horses had speed and it was not necessary to drive a car to cover the roads. The inevitable upset had to come and so it was that Mona Marquet upset Mr. Greig, and they dragged the buggy upside down the length of the arena. The horse was caught and the buggy righted. Mr. Greig then drove his entry around the arena and pulled in for judgment and was awarded 4th position. This incident gave the spectators a horse show thrill.

A very excellent horse show programme was presented last evening, and the classes were judged on the scheduled time.

The attractions are amusing and clean and will undoubtedly be appreciated by the large attendances that are sure to attend the 1938 exhibition.

The music supplied by the C.V.E. Commanders Band of Toronto was excellent. It was hooked up with the Hunter Electric Sound System, thereby providing ample volume for the large arena.

Mr. D. E. Black, M.P., officially opened the show, making his remarks to Mr. W. C. Collins, Hemmingford. Through the use of the sound system his words of welcome were heard all over the exhibition grounds.

Improvements On Roads in The District

Announcement of Further Improvements Expected to Come Thro' About July 1st

The Ormstown division of the department of roads has announced a number of improvements which will be made on roads in this district. It is expected that an announcement of further improvements on district roads will be made about July 1.

Work is now proceeding on a bituminous concrete surface over a seven mile stretch on the James-town side road from Ormstown to St. Antoine. A bituminous concrete surfacing of about a mile and a half will also be laid from Havelock Corners to Russelltown. These roads will be made from 16 to 18 feet wide.

An asphalt carpeting coat will be placed on the Ridge Road from Huntingdon to Lee's Corners, a distance of about eight miles, and work will start some time in the near future.

Although there is nothing absolutely definite as yet it is expected that the Village Road between Belleville and the ferry, a distance of about two miles, will be widened. It is also expected that bituminous pavement will be placed on Route 3 on the Woodland side road for a distance of about one and three quarter mile.

The work of paving Route 52 has been finished so far as the Ormstown division of the roads department is concerned. They have finished the work in their particular territory which goes as far as the first turn to the left of Hemmingford. The Naperville division of the roads department is now at work on their section of the highway.

The work on road improvements in this district is so far about the same or possibly a little better than last year, according to Jean Bastien, the District Road Superintendent. The last two years has witnessed considerable more work on district roads than was the case for some years before this.

Mr. Bastien expects that by July 1 more announcements will come through of improvements to be made on roads in this district.

HOW TO ENJOY LIFE WHILE ON RELIEF

There's nothing like being on relief. It's so independent like! Two men from the Provincial government are in Huntingdon making a survey of the number of those on relief in Huntingdon. These men are in the County Building and there they give them full information as to their supposedly financial embarrassment.

One day recently one man on relief in Huntingdon stated he would be down that night to give full details as to his financial stringency.

Early in the evening one of the Provincial survey party met this man on the street and by way of conversation said, "Well, we'll be seeing you a little later."

"No, not tonight," said the man on relief, "a wife and I decided to go to the show so you'll have to make it some other night."

Just like that!

Final Tribute Paid Mayor P. Billette

The Whole District Pays Respects to Late Valleyfield Mayor at Funeral Tuesday

Mayor Philorum Billette of Valleyfield, Quebec, died on Friday evening, Mr. Billette was in Montreal on Wednesday interviewing the medical profession and the specialists advised him to enter a hospital as he was suffering from angina pectoris. He entered the hospital on Thursday and died on Friday evening.

Mayor Billette was a man of unusual ability and one who gained the esteem of all citizens. During his four terms as mayor of the City he became intensely interested in the welfare of the city. Perhaps the service to Valleyfield hastened his untimely death. Mr. Billette has presided as Valleyfield's mayor since 1932. Flags were at half mast from Saturday morning until Tuesday.

Philorum Billette was the son of Olivier Billette, and was born in Valleyfield on June 17, 1875. After graduating from the Valleyfield College, he worked with his father and later entered into the dry goods business which he conducted until the date of his untimely death. Through his goodwill, sincerity and ambition he assured for himself in spite of all difficulties a success for his undertaking. Mayor Billette was admired as a public servant and business man.

No matter what public undertaking was to take place in Valleyfield, the name of Philorum Billette was sure to figure in the names of the organization committees.

In fraternal orders he was identified as a Grand Knight of Columbus; ex-vic-president of the Chamber of Commerce, and at the time of his death he was serving his fourth term as Mayor of the city.

He was united in marriage in 1907 to Josephine Leduc. Six children were born of this marriage; three sons, Roger, Civil Engineer, Guy and Robert, students at the Valleyfield Seminary; three daughters, Mrs. Gustave Avelado (Marcelle) of Caracas, Venezuela, Anne-Marie of Valleyfield and Susanne (Sister Jacques-Marie) of Beauharnois.

Besides his children, he leaves to mourn his loss his wife, née Josephine Leduc, his brothers Emile, lawyer in Montreal, Rev. Father Billette of Ste. Justine of Newton and one sister, Beatrice.

Mr. Billette was a member of the Salaberry Club of Valleyfield and of the Montreal Reform Club. (Continued on page 5)

His Passing Mourned

PHILORUM BILLETTE
Late Mayor of Valleyfield, whose death occurred on Friday evening, is exceptionally honorable and beloved man, not only Valleyfield but the whole district mourns his death.

CHILDREN FIND SLOT MACHINES NEAR DUNDEE SCHOOL

The pupils of the Dundee Dissident School made a rather unusual find when they arrived at school on Monday morning. Three slot machines were lying on the ground near the school building in a badly smashed condition. The machines were a nickel, dime, and quarter outfits and by their condition showed evidence of having been broken up to get at the money contained therein. The children amused themselves by pulling the handles and found to their delight $150 in coins which evidently had been overlooked. Nothing is known about where the machines were taken from or who took them there as there are no slot machines in use anywhere nearby. It is presumed they must have been taken from some distance.

$3,000 BUILDING GRANT TO ORMS-TOWN EXHIBITION

Through the energetic efforts of Mr. D. E. Black, M.P., a grant of $3,000 from the continuation Building Grants fund has been voted to Ormstown Exhibition. In the Government estimates for 1938-39 this item was included. The money will be used for the paying of the building programme carried out at Ormstown in the way of building the spacious hitching shed at the rear of the main arena.

Celebrate 50th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Boyce Honored by Friends and Relatives At Athelstan

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Boyce celebrated their 50th Wedding Anniversary on Tuesday, June 7th, at their home in Athelstan. During the afternoon and evening many relatives and friends assembled to wish them health and happiness. Mrs. Boyce was presented with a travelling case and Mr. Boyce with a gold mounted cane. They also received many personal gifts, flowers, anniversary cards and telegrams. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served by Mr. and Mrs. George Boyce and a pleasant day was enjoyed by all.

Edward Clark Boyce and Miss Annie Blaik were united in marriage on June 7, 1888, by the Rev. Andrew Rowat and both the contracting parties were residents of Athelstan. They have since continued to make their home here amid the full respect and esteem of all.

There were four children, namely, George, Charles, Gula and Charlotte, (Mrs. Woodside). Owing to recent illness Charles was unable to be present at the anniversary. Mrs. D. A. McDonald of Chateauguay Basin and Mr. Wm. Blaik, Athelstan, were present at the wedding. Fifty years ago and also attended the anniversary yesterday. Their bridesmaid, Mrs. Laura McArthur of Albuquerque, New Mexico, visited Mr. and Mrs. Boyce about a month ago and telegraphed her congratulations. Both Mr. and Mrs. Boyce are enjoying good health and a wish is expressed that they may live to enjoy many more anniversaries.

H'don Votes In Favor of D. S. Time

Daylight Saving Time To Go In Effect Here In About Ten Days

Huntingdon on Monday voted in favour of having Daylight Saving Time.

The vote was 104 in favor and 53 against. There were three spoiled ballots.

In accordance with the law, the Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec will be notified that the town of Huntingdon has voted in favour of changing to Daylight Saving Time for the summer months. After this vote has been authorized by the Lieutenant-Governor the town of Huntingdon will advance the Standard time. It is thought that it will be a matter of about a week or ten days before Daylight Saving time will be put into effect here.

E. C. Martin, Secretary-Treasurer of the town, is in charge of the voting while his clerk was Oscar Guerin. Although the issue caused considerable discussion the voting itself passed off quietly and was comparatively light. In 1935 when this referendum was taken and defeated there was a total of only 172 votes cast.

A Serious Indiscretion?

(An Editorial from The Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph)

Elsewhere in this issue will be found a despatch from Huntingdon, P.Q., which reports an address delivered before the members of the Local Teachers' Association at that place by Miss C. I. MacKenzie, Principal of the Montreal High School for Girls and President of the Teachers Association of the Province of Quebec.

Ordinarily there would be no reason to comment upon an address of this kind but the text clearly shows that it was no ordinary address. Thus the despatch states that "Miss MacKenzie disclosed to the gathering some of the findings of the Protestant Survey Committee and some of the recommendations they are likely to hand in with their report. Huntingdon residents were thus let in on likely contents of the report, even before it has been made public throughout the Province. It was a sort of a preview for a selected few and Miss MacKenzie was not at all reticent in enumerating possible recommendations and giving her opinions on the same."

Now in view of the fact that the Survey Committee has not yet made a definite "findings" as a body, much less drafted its report, that we are aware of, nor is Miss MacKenzie one of its members; it can be seen at once that her's is an amazing performance, if not a serious indiscretion. There is, of course, the possibility that the report does an injustice to the lady but it must be said that this is quite in keeping with what we have heard of her character and methods. Again, it may be said that her remarks were addressed to "a selected few" but, on the other hand, the report says elsewhere that "there

One Way Traffic For Main Street

Council Decides One Way Traffic on Chateauguay Street on Saturday Evening is Best

The Huntingdon Council in session on Monday evening decided that on Saturday evenings and such other evenings as seems advisable there be one way traffic on Chateauguay Street because of the dense traffic during these evenings. This will apply to that portion of Chateauguay Street between the Lower Bridge and the Bank of Commerce. The one way traffic will proceed east. West bound traffic will have to go by way of Prince Street.

The Queen's Jubilee Laundry objected to the amount of tax they had to pay. No amendment was decided upon. Any consideration will be dealt with when the time for the present tax expires sometime this fall.

Further enquiry will be made by the Park Committee relative to placing swings, etc., in a park for the enjoyment of the children. A committee is to check on what can be done in regard to shutting off the water where residents have not paid their water taxes.

Ald. McNair moved and Ald. Lalonde seconded a motion to send an expression of regret and sympathy in the death of the Mayor of Valleyfield. A wreath was sent by the Huntingdon Council.

It was moved by Ald. Ballaragon and seconded by Ald. McNair that the present police chief be hired at a salary of $75 per month.

The same three evaluators who acted last year were engaged for this year. They are N. O'Hare, D. McCracken and Fred LaSalle.

The following accounts were presented for payment:

Shawinigan Water & Power Co., Lawrence, $46.20; Mueller Ltd., $16.12; Romeo Rabidou, $10.57; George Lalonde, $15; George Lalonde, $5; Johnston Sales Co., $104.65; City Gas & Electric Corp., $3; S. Henderson, $47.25; Adrien Lefebvre, $15; Hidon Glet, $34; $3.36; Durand Hardware Ltd., $14.40; Bell Telephone Co., $8.58; E. Lalonde, $18.50; Philip Lefebvre, $10; Norbert Lanctot, $37.50; Philip Lefebvre, $7.25; Lawrence Hiel, $20.57; R. H. Barrette, $28; Pringle Stark & Co., $14.32; Imperial Oil Ltd., $33.75; Albon McArthur, $14.88; Que. Police & Fire Chiefs, $5; Louis Lalonde, $15.00; Louis Lefebvre, $30; John MacArthur, $34; Frank Allard, $42.50; E. C. McCoy, $2.90; Philip Lefebvre, $8.75; Daniel & Moody $0.35; O'Connors' Inc., $4.55; Ministry of Health, $29.11; Adrien Lefebvre, $15; Mose Gallipau, $0.50; Adrien Lefebvre, $10; Can. Nat. Express, $1.40; J. M. Hunter, $0.75.

It was moved by Ald. Ballaragon and seconded by Ald. Barrett that the accounts as read be paid.

Ald. McNair was instructed to write again to the Engineer, Mr. Adrien Plamondon, asking for a report on the York St. sewer.

A complaint was received from Mrs. McCrimmon in regard to boys making unnecessary noise on the park on Sunday. The matter was left in the hands of the Police committee.

A letter was read and filed from Jean Bastien in regard to the corner of Cemetery and Headline Street.

Letters were read and filed from the Hon. M. B. Fisher and the Minister of Labor in regard to the application for relief works.

Another letter was read and filed from E. Boulanger to the effect that lot 180 had been redeemed and asking that he be put on the valuation roll as owner. This application was left on the table.

Mr. Secretary reported that he had held a referendum in regard to ascertaining the opinion of the electors as to advanced time on June 6th after having given the necessary notices, and that the result was 104 in favor, 53 contrary, and three spoiled ballots.

SEEK INDIAN WHO IS ALLEGED TO HAVE DYNAMITED FISH

Game Warden J. B. Quenneville, acting on information received from responsible parties in the district and in company with two game officers from Montreal, made a trip into the Indian reservation recently to locate an Indian, Pete Martin, who it is alleged has been using dynamite to raise fish from the waters of the St. Lawrence near Hopkins Point. Being an Indian, the game officers were unable to lay a charge against Martin without the aid of the R.C.M.P. officers. Dynamiting is considered a serious charge and is liable to punishment by a jail sentence. The game officers intend to make the prosecution if possible.

SUCCESSFUL PLAY HELD IN ST. ANDREW'S ANNEX ON MONDAY

The three act play entitled, "Old Fashioned Mother," which was presented in St. Andrew's Annex on Monday evening, was greatly appreciated by those present. This play which is entirely executed by Covey Hill talent was very well rendered by all members of the cast. They are deserving of much credit for their contributions upon presenting such an interesting play. The leading part of the play was well taken care of by Miss Virginia McCracken.

Immediately after the play lunch was served and much enjoyed by all.

Gang of Five Arrested at Montreal

Thought to be Same Group Engaged in Thefts In This District

A gang of five have been caught in Montreal and four of them recognized as those who broke into Mr. L. J. Gebbie's store at Howick a few weeks ago, also at St. Remi, St. Edouard and a number of places in the Eastern Townships. It was with the help of a young man, Mr. C. E. Lussier of St. Edouard, who works for Mr. J. S. Rorison at garage work, that they were caught. Mr. Lussier had been at Montreal and was returning to his home at St. Edouard about 3 a.m. when he noticed a car on the road and a man beside it. He stopped and asked if he had car trouble. A man said, "not much, only the timing." As it was the night after the breaking in at Mr. Gebbie's, Mr. Lussier took the number of the car and a man beside it. He noticed it move down the road and stopped again. Getting in his own car, he followed. There were four men. After speaking to them, one said, "Time you were moving on!" But Mr. Lussier had got a good description of men and car. Next morning the number and description was sent to Montreal. In less than ten days they were caught. Mr. Lussier was sent for and recognized the four he had seen, also the car, although the license plate had been removed. They are now in jail waiting their sentence.

Ontario-Quebec Weekly Newspapermen Visit in Northern Ont. Mining Area

More Than 100 Members of Association Enjoy Informal Outing at Timmins, The Guests of Mr. George Lake

A CHARACTERISTIC FOUND IN ANIMALS AND SOME MEN ALSO

A little pony was being led about the Ormstown Exhibition grounds yesterday. It stuck its chest out most noticeably. Its feet stepped high and proudly. It attracted the attention of passers-by. Not content with this, however, the pony whinnied and stamped about as if to impress upon all and sundry that IT WAS the centre of attraction.

The smallness of the pony seemed to make its effort to attract attention all the more ridiculous.

"Pretty important, eh," remarked an observer as he watched the seemingly egotistic little pony.

"Yeah!" laughed a well-known live-stock breeder. "I've seen some men act the very same way."

Educational Industrial Exhibits Shown

Industrial Building Has Many Beautiful Displays

There are many interesting and informative exhibits in the Industrial Building of the Ormstown Exhibition this year.

The Dominion Department of Agriculture has a striking exhibit emphasizing the necessity of grading creamery butter. The importance of purchasing dairy products by grade, particularly in the case of creamery butter. The exhibit is divided into three sections. In the first a mechanical pointer shows the different grades of creamery butter; while in the second section a pound of butter properly wrapped and labelled is seen through a large transparency. At the same time attention is called to the fact that the grading of creamery butter is compulsory. The theme of the third section is that good butter is essential to good cooking. The truth of this self-evident fact being impressed on the minds of spectators by a revolving pound of butter. The exhibit has been prepared by the Dairy and Cold Storage Branch of the Department of Agriculture.

The St. Martin Agricultural School has an exhibit of the handicrafts made by members of the school, which handicrafts are drawing many favourable comments.

One of the most interesting displays is that of the Quebec Department of Agriculture which department announces on a placard that the Province of Quebec was the first to export fresh eggs to England. These Quebec eggs are sold in England at a premium of two cents over the best Danish eggs.

Other interesting exhibits are: The De Laval Co. Ltd. of Peterborough, Ont.; Timken Silent Automatic of Walkerville, Ont.; Lake of the Woods Milling Co. Ltd.; Canadian Industries Ltd.; Imperial Tyre Co. Montreal; Western Canada Flour Mills Ltd.; Shawinigan Water and Power Co. Ltd.; Lighting Evaporator of Small Bros., Dunham, Que.; Bell and Sons Ltd., Verdun, Que. (animal remedies); Chateauguay Valley Jersey Cattle Club; Canada Packers Ltd.; Ogilvie Flour Mills Co. Ltd.; Cummings Pura Ltd., Montreal; Garage Ben Vlau, Valleyfield; Plessisville Foundry, Plessisville, Que.; Midtown Motor Sales, Montreal; Garage Z. Peron, Valleyfield; Empire Garage, Huntingdon; Huntingdon Farm Equipment; Robin Hood Flour Mills, Montreal and W. C. Wood Company, Toronto.

DR. J. E. CAZA ELECTED DIRECTOR DENTIST ASS'N

The annual reunion of the French speaking association of Dentists of North America was held in Montreal last week. More than one thousand professionals attended this reunion which opened on Thursday and was brought to a close Saturday.

At this meeting the election of officers, Dr. J. E. Caza of Huntingdon was elected director, also Dr. Gilles Amyot, of Valleyfield.

Epidemic of Resignations At Dundee

Third Member in Three Months Resigns At Dundee

Resignations have been the order at the last two Council meetings and the last meeting held in the Town Hall on Mon. evening, June 6th, was no exception as Mr. Allan Morris was appointed to replace local Board to resign as councillor during the last three months. Mr. H. B. Gardiner was able to be out at the meeting and conducted the proceedings. Mr. J. Stewart McCrimmon was appointed to replace Allan Morris whose resignation was accepted by the Board. A vote of thanks was extended to Mr. Morris for his services while councillor.

A resolution was passed in favor of Mr. Alpha Leblanc to the effect that there is no Indian Land Tax assessment affecting his property. A discharge from this tax would enable Mr. Leblanc to get his Indian Land Title Deed which in the case of his property had been neglected many years.

Reginald McGibbon was appointed Road Inspector in Dist. No. 1 to replace Stewart McGibbon.

The Council decided to undertake some necessary repairs on the north end of the McMillan side road near the Isle of Skye Cemetery. It was left to the Road Inspector to have this work done.

The following bills were ordered paid: Prov. Blank Forms, $14.37; Shawinigan Water & Power, $5; Ministry of Health for William Roschelleau, $27.60.

Twenty-ninth Annual

THE twenty-ninth annual Ormstown Exhibition is under way. Despite threatening weather this large live stock exposition of the Province of Quebec is away to a good start. The fair was formally opened on Tuesday by Donald E. Black, M.P.

Visitors to the Exhibition seem somewhat surprised that such a large and remarkably fine fair is staged in such a small village as Ormstown. To many of them it is a source of no small wonderment.

The fact remains, however, that there is a staff of officials in charge of this fair who have a knowledge of showmanship that is of a high order. As each year has gone by, twenty-nine of them, they have sought to make the fair better than ever. And this they have most certainly accomplished.

Located in the heart of the dairy farming district of the Province and only a comparatively short distance from Montreal, the Ormstown Exhibition seems ideally located.

Should the Ormstown Exhibition continue to grow in the future as it has in the past, and there is no reason why it shouldn't, it is interesting to reflect on what it will be like, say ten or fifteen years from now.

Valleyfield's History

FOR some weeks past there have been appearing in the Gleaner a series of articles entitled, "Across the Years at Valleyfield; a History of the Montreal Cottons."

These articles are especially written for the Gleaner by Dr. C. L. Roman of Valleyfield and the articles will continue until such time as a complete history of the City of Valleyfield has been compiled.

There is no record of any previous complete history of Valleyfield having been written. But when Dr. Roman finishes his articles there will be for the generations that are to follow a chronicling of all past events of this beautiful and historical city.

To compile such a history involves an amount of work that is only realized when one sets out to do so. There are so many angles and so many sources from which to glean information. Naturally Dr. Roman desires to make his history as complete as he possibly can. In order to do this the co-operation of the citizens of Valleyfield and district is needed—especially the co-operation of those older residents who can recall events of the past. The writer of these articles is desirous of having all those who know of past events to inform him of them; to check him up on anything that has so far appeared if they think it is not correct; to inform him of certain details which they think he might omit.

Like all such histories their true worth is not at the present fully valued. It's value will only be fully realized and appreciated many years from now. In order that Valleyfield might have a complete history it would be well that all older residents give such co-operation to Dr. Roman in the way of information as will assure a most complete chronicling of this industrial centre of the district.

Beavers Plentiful

THIS spring it was noted that there were more beavers in this district than for some years. In many sections of this district residents have reported seeing them in greater numbers than usual.

Wild animals are no respecters of international borders and they cross and recross the border, totally ignoring customs or immigration officials. Despite the fact that the beaver is the national emblem of Canada and is held in high regard by the citizens of this country it would seem that this animal is not wholly aware of this. In fact, beavers have been apparently migrating into northern New York State from Canada in large numbers until it would almost seem they were holding an international convention across the line this spring. The Chateaugay Record of Chateaugay, New York, states that "Beaver have multiplied rapidly in New York States during the past ten years and for this reason the Department has declared a few short open seasons permitting their trapping. In many instances beavers have been reported to have caused considerable damage such as the flooding of timber and farm lands." In Canada the beavers are held in such high esteem that it is quite unlawful to trap or shoot them at any time. Yet the beavers have overlooked this security they enjoy in Canada and gone to the United States in great numbers where their life is in danger for a few weeks during the spring at least. Probably life became too tame for them in Canada altogether and they desired to live where there was a little exciting touch of danger.

A resident of Anderson's Corners in the Province of Quebec had a large portion of his farm inundated by flood waters as a result of the dam building activities of the beavers some time ago. Yet because of the Canadian law he could not chase these beavers away or tear down these dams. He had to suffer in silence. The beaver can do no wrong in Canada! He is the darling of the nation. Despite this fact, however, he continues to leave this country and migrate into the northern portion of New York State.

From March 13 to March 31 of this year, the open season for trapping beavers in New York State, a total of 867 trappers caught 2,639 beavers in thirteen counties in New York State. Last spring in these same counties a total of 2,014 beavers were trapped. As each year has passed for some years now a greater number of beavers have been trapped in New York State, all of which testifies to their increasing number.

Although the Conservation Department of New York State permits the trapping of beavers for a few weeks in the spring they are quite aware of the benefits of the beaver as evidenced by the following remarks in the Chateaugay Record: "The beaver may be looked upon as a decided benefit to the State, oftentimes, the dams they build furnishing convenient water reservoirs for use in fighting forest fires. Under certain conditions, they improve fishing and in many instances their presence attracts hundreds of tourists and vacationists eager to see these animals work. The Conservation Department is able to make a definite check on the number of beaver trapped during an open season as it is required that pelt of all beaver lawfully taken shall not be sold or otherwise disposed of until they have first been properly tagged by either a game protector or a forest ranger. All pelts must be tagged within five days after the close of the season and it is required that these tags remain attached to the beaver pelts until the skins have been tanned and made into commercial fur."

Direct Relief

BUSINESS conditions in the United States at the present time are reported to be not as favourable as they might be. In fact, some concern is being shown because of the business recession the country is passing through at the present time.

A recession in business has its effect in the way of direct relief in the various municipalities. Malone, New York, however, does not seem to reflect this current recession in business, judging by direct relief figures of that municipality which recently appeared in the Malone Evening Telegram.

The cost of direct relief in Malone during May of this year was $5,362.31, a decrease of $1,357.76 from the month before and $1,712.58 less than the cost of the same month last year.

A total of 1,152 persons were on the relief rolls during May in Malone, the number of cases being 228. The average cost per person per month was $4.65.

A table of comparative relief costs for the various months for four years past is shown in the Telegram. It is remarkable in view of the fact that the table is placed upside down. A typographical error, no doubt, or possibly an omen that the heavy direct relief costs will some time in the near future do a right-about-face and march off into the distance and disappear.

At the present time in Huntingdon there are two men from the Provincial government making a survey of the number of people on relief here. Last Friday there were about 50 names on this list. Huntingdon residents who claimed need of direct relief. When the survey is finished this week it is expected that the number of names will be slightly increased to the number now on the list. When this list is completed the town of Huntingdon will seek money from the Provincial government under the Public Works program on the basis of the number of people there are in Huntingdon who really need direct relief.

Quebec's Comparative Finances

QUEBEC like all the provinces in Canada, has been more or less "Keeping Up With the Joneses."

The Province of Quebec has more than doubled its debt in the past five years.

Despite this fact, it still has the second lowest per capita debt of the provinces of the Dominion.

In fact, its total net funded and temporary debt of $70 per capita is substantially less than half of that of most provinces.

According to the Financial Post, the gross funded and temporary debt as at February 18, 1938, amounted to $261 millions, an increase of about $26 millions since June 30, 1937.

Continuing, the Post says: Despite an increase in expenditures Quebec reported an improvement in its budget position in the year ended June 30, 1937, as a result of buoyant revenues. Surplus on ordinary account for the year amounted to $3.9 millions as compared with a deficit of $1.9 million in 1935-36.

Extraordinary expenditures such as unemployment relief and colonization, however, are not included. These totalled over $17.3 millions so that the deficit on this basis amounted to about $13.4 millions as compared with $18.5 millions in the previous year.

If a pay-as-you-go basis is used then the deficit, including capital expenditures, totalled $23.5 millions.

Improvement in revenues has continued throughout the current fiscal year and it is expected receipts will show an increase over 1936-37 of at least $10 millions. While expenditures have also increased it is expected the province will again have a substantial surplus on ordinary account as against a budgeted surplus of only $38,000.

In the year ending June 30, 1939, Quebec expects to be able to balance its budget even after providing for extraordinary expenditures such as the deficit in the public charities fund, unemployment relief and colonization. Revenues for 1938-39 are estimated at $57 millions and ordinary expenditures at $46.5 millions, yielding an estimated surplus on ordinary account of $7.5 millions. Extraordinary expenditures are estimated at slightly less than $7.5 millions so that the actual surplus if the budget expectations are achieved will be about $50,000.

It is probable that further sharp increases in debt will be reported in the next few years as the province plans large expenditures on roads. It has made provision for further large amounts for loans to farmers.

Like Alberta, the Quebec Government refused to co-operate with the Rowell Commission, its only presentation being one denying the authority of the Federal Government to investigate the financial position of the provinces.

A Light Vote

THERE was a light vote on the Daylight Saving Time referendum here on Monday.

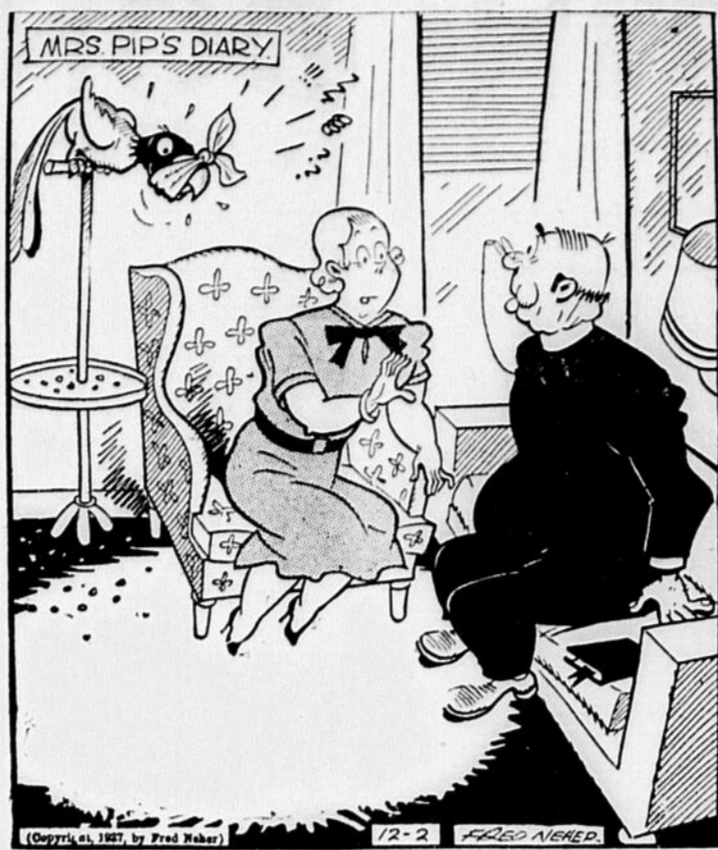

A total of 190 votes was cast. The total possible number of votes to be cast is about 480 votes. This means that thirty-nine per cent and a fraction, or almost forty per cent, exercised their franchise in connection with the referendum.

The last time a vote was taken on this question, June 20, 1935, the vote was even lighter. At this time a total of 172 votes was cast, 104 votes against Daylight Saving Time and 68 votes for it. In brief, about thirty-three per cent of the voters exercised their franchise.

Voting was about six per cent heavier this time but still not nearly as heavy as it might be and should be.

FISH CARRIES LETTER

A letter has been carried a distance of 3,000 miles from Norway to the Soviet Union by a salmon caught by fishermen on the Pechora river, near Archangel. Attached to the fish was a silver band carrying a small celluloid cylinder bearing the words: "Letter inside," in English and Norwegian. The fish was sent to the Ichthyological institute at Leningrad, where experts found the following message inside the cylinder:

"Forward this letter and cylinder to the Zoological museum at Oslo. Also inform date, place and method of catching. Send samples of scales. Give name and address of fisherman."

HAIR MENDS TROUSERS

Reading how Dora Hare, of Toronto, mended stockings ladders and embroidered handkerchiefs with her 30-inch golden hair Mrs. G. Meredith, Birmingham, England, wrote: "Will Dora Hare ever have to do what I had to do with my ordinary brown hair? When my husband was out of work his only respectable suit, a brown serge, began to go on the knees. I took down one of my plaits and darned the material, so well that until the suit was discarded you could hardly see where it had been mended."

WEIGHT BEHIND DRIVE

There is good reason why a suit of overalls cost Meduca Longevin, Munising, Mich., truck driver, double the price of the ordinary trucker. Longevin requires pants with a 70-inch waist, 74-inch seat and 39-inch thigh to enclose his 420 pounds of weight.

SAFETY SHOCK

During 1937 traffic accidents in Memphis, Tenn., cost the lives of 29 school children. That shocked the entire city into taking drastic action towards carrying out a safety programme. Chief feature of this programme are the safety classes and lessons taught by traffic police officers. Since 1922 there has not been one school child traffic fatality in Memphis. Proving it can be done.

MILLIONS FOR OTHERS

Watching the clumsily built, earlier makes of automobiles getting stuck in the mud gave Otto Zachow, Clintonville, Wis., blacksmith, an idea. He insisted the power from the motor should be transmitted to the front as well as rear wheels and developed the "four-wheel-drive," which he patented in 1908. Like many other inventors he was unable to manufacture the device for lack of finances and could get no manufacturer to take it over on a royalty basis. A lawyer friend saw possibilities in the invention, raised some money, organized a company, gave Zachow some stock in it and started production about 1910. In 1914 the company bought Zachow's stock for $25,000. The World War brought a big demand for four-wheel drive cars and trucks and by 1918 the company's 15,000 shares were worth $580 each, or a total of $8,700,000. Machinery of other kinds has been added to the factory's output since then, such as snowplows and fire engines. Last year the company's gross income was over $6,000,000. But Otto Zachow, at 75, the man who invented the four-wheel drive, foundation for this big industry, is still working in his blacksmith shop at Clintonville, Wis.

DREAM WARNS MOTHER

Because a mother's dream her daughter was drowning was so vivid she thought out what she would do in such circumstances, she was able to save the life of her baby son two days later. The mother, Mrs. Edward Hamilton, of Sydney, Australia, had placed her one-year-old son Teddy in a bath with her three-year-old daughter, and left them for a few minutes. She sensed something was wrong from the baby's silence, and ran back to find the little girl had turned on the taps, filling the bath. The baby boy was floating and apparently drowned. She began artificial respiration, and after eight minutes the baby showed signs of life.

FARMER AND EIGHT HOUR DAY

(By A.R.K. in Peterboro Examiner)
 A farmer talked with me today, on working just eight hours a day, the notion struck him fine; he knew the hour when he'd begin the only thing that bothered him, was getting through on time. "I'm up at five or six, he said, no longer I can stay in bed. I'm just a farming man; and though that's early in the day, the stock all starts to look my way, and wonders where I am."

At noon I like to rest a bit, and after dinner snooze or sit, to keep from turning sour; a little rest like that will pay, I take it every working day, for just a half an hour."

But when it gets on after two, my eight-hour day should be nigh through, and I should quit right there; I should do driving into town, or take a book and sit me down, and find my easy chair."

But I have got to drive a team, I've got a pile of seed to clean, my work's not nearly done; I've got to mend a whiffletree, and clean some pests from out a tree, I haven't well begun."

When I get through the chores at night I know if I have reckoned right, and figured it two ways; I've got it firmly in my head, that since I got from out my bed I've worked two eight-hour days.

$1,300 UNCLAIMED

While in McCook, Neb., a year ago, John Cronin, transient, was arrested for a minor offence by Sheriff Emmet Trosper. Cronin told the sheriff he was a World War veteran but never had received his soldier's bonus. The sheriff offered to make an application for his bonus provided Cronin would keep him informed of his whereabouts. Cronin agreed. Sheriff Trosper filed an application and in due time a bonus cheque for $1,300 came, drawn to the order of John Cronin. Now Cronin cannot be found.

For Kohl is not the only Solingen man who has become a famous singer. Others who have made their names are: Max Roth, of the Stuttgart Opera House; F. E. Engels, of the Cologne Broadcasting station; and Carl Hartmann, who will make his debut as a tenor at the Bayreuth festival this year.

Across the Years at Valleyfield A History of the Montreal Cottons

The canal had not been open a fortnight until the complaints of skippers were heard regarding its western entrance. It was shallow and studded with boulders, a current of 4 miles ran in the channel, and in places across it. Boats were stranded, a few wrecked. To improve the entrance became an imperative requirement. When Mr. Tait, a government engineer, was taking soundings along the foot of Hungry bay, preparatory to the canal being built, his companion, who was rowing the skiff, noting the current and the shallowness of the water, asked how, if the canal were ever built there, boats would get into it. "Oh, never mind," replied the engineer, "the government will first build the canal, and then an entrance will have to be found." This prediction was now to be verified. An engineer, Fleming, was sent to take levels and report. He recommended that a dam be built between the mainland and Grand Isle and another between Grand Isle and Ile aux Chats. When asked if closing the south channel of the St. Lawrence would not raise the level of Lake St. Francis sufficiently to drown the lands it bordered, he stated the level of the lake would only be increased 8 inches.

The contract for the first dam was let in 1848 to Brown and Watson, both of Montreal, the specifications requiring a dam of crib-work. The width of the channel of the St. Lawrence to be closed was over 600 feet, measuring 16 feet at the deepest part, and the current ran at the rate of 7 miles an hour. No great difficulty was encountered until the gap was narrowed to within a hundred feet, when the force of the stream pouring through that narrow tract was such that all attempts at closing it seemed futile. Crib after crib was swept away. It was while the effort was being made to close the opening by cribs, that an exciting incident happened. A launch with 13 men accidentally got into the current. Their wild efforts to get out of it were in vain and those on shore watched them with blanched cheeks (as they saw them) and awaited their fate. A launch was steering and he kept his presence of mind. With perfect coolness he endeavored to keep the unwieldy scow in the middle of the channel. It swept on, the dreaded gap was neared, it rushed through the wild whirl of waters on even keel, and was brought to in the bay below. A more miraculous escape from instant death could not have been. Great chains, belonging to the Imperial government, were brought from Three Rivers. A crib, while moving slowly down with three of these attached, snapped them, and sent them high in the air like whips. Keefe, the engineer, was in despair. He advised dumping stones. Boulders were collected from the fields, as large as the cars that ran on the wooden tramway on top of the dam would bear, and hurled into the foaming waters, which tossed them about like playthings and carried them downwards. On Brown's visiting Montreal, Keefe asked how the dropping of rocks was succeeding. "Succeeding," echoed Brown, "why they got down to Montreal before I did." The tumble of the stones as the current rolled them away was constant, and one of the contractors in his exasperation told a visitor who was going to Montreal to look in the harbor for the stones he was

Beautifying Farm Homes

Improvements Which All Can Make on a Farm

The making of a rural landscape, the home of the farmer, is like the making of a picture. There is more than pleasure comes his way in training himself to this art of picture making of his home; there is money in it, too. Increased market value will follow, and this is the way to procure it.

The first thing is to have a clean-up day. Collect the scattered farm tools and machinery and get them under cover if possible, or to some sheltered corner near the farm buildings. Haul off to some gully all the tin cans and similar rubbish. Remove to the service roadway to the fields the collected bank of cinders and ashes. Collect the scattered wood pile into a convenient unobtrusive place. Remove the dead and dying branches from trees and shrubs. Define the driveways so the traffic will be confined to a given entrance-way inclined to driving promiscuously about the place.

Screen From View
Repair the tumbledown fences or cover their ugly with concealing vines. By the use of plantings of some of the numerous vines, shrubs and vigorous annuals, screen from the front view the poultry yards, barnyard outbuildings, and other ugly spots of the homestead. The visitor is admitted step by step as he passes from screen to screen into the private apartments of home grounds, just as the visitor passes from parlor to kitchen, as the relation with the household becomes more intimate.

Ornamental Planting
Of all the places the farm home possesses the greatest opportunity for beautiful effects in ornamental planting. As a rule this fact is not sufficiently appreciated. In many cases no attention whatever is given to planting about the home. One reason for this neglect is the fact that the owner is under the impression that good landscape gardening about his place cannot be effected without elaborate plan and large expense.

Many times Nature herself has given to the country home and its surroundings all of the main essentials of landscape beauty. Here it is necessary for the owner of a home to go to Nature's more skillful production and attempt to copy her results. As we pass through fields and woodland we are attracted by the pleasing pictures that seem to be thrown together in bewildering confusion. We begin to analyze and to differentiate into the simple principles by which Nature secures her satisfying results. We find here a cozy nook that looks so restful and quiet. There are no stiff, regular lines that put upon it the stamp of artificiality. Nature does not work in straight lines.

Pleasing Vista
The open grassy plot is bounded by a border of shrubs and trees intermingled with annual and perennials flowers in profusion. The shades of green and the varying flowers and fruits, blend and contrast in bewitching combinations. The boundary line of the border is beautiful in its irregularity. The skyline is jagged by the tops of the trees and shrubs of varying heights and shapes. Here a break in the border opens to view a pleasing vista stretching into the distance. There a solid mass of foliage shuts from view any ugliness that may be beyond. There are no harsh and obtrusive corners, but each part in the mosaic fits into its place and blends with the other parts to make the picture.

Nature's Way
Into the grassy plot of this picture the dwelling house with its walks and driveways is introduced. On too many farms the house rises abruptly out of the ground like a sentinel, without a tree or shrub to hide its harsh and naked outlines. It becomes necessary for man to use Nature's way to tie the house to the ground and break the sharp angles

HUMAN INGENUITY

(The Timmins Advance)
The Huntingdon Gleaner tells of a young lady of seventeen, whose right arm was amputated three years ago, but who is graduating as a typist, having developed for herself a one-handed typewriting system that enables her to keep up with her classmates. This young lady deserves all credit for her remarkable persistence in following her chosen profession despite the handicap imposed by the amputation. But that is the limit of the remarkable. The one-handed system of typewriting is known in every newspaper office in the country. Indeed, it seems the natural method of typewriting for those who teach themselves the art of running a typewriter. All this two-handed typewriting is the product of the business colleges and the schools of typewriting. It is true that the use of two hands in typewriting does make for speed. Two handed-use of the pesky machine is about five times as fast as the one-handed practice. But human ingenuity is not to be despised. It is to be owned by a little company. Sir John Rose was called to be finance minister and he passed the item of $44,000, and the claim of the signatory paid for the signatory.

The making of aprons was the order of the day. The president conducted the meeting. The call was answered by a helpful hint on cooking which proved most interesting. Items of business were discussed and arrangements made regarding same. The hostesses served a delicious supper to all the members and visitors present.

Thursday evening about fifty friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Barrie to "shower" their daughter, Dorothy, with gifts and good wishes on the occasion of her approaching marriage. The bride-elect had been entertained at tea by her friend, Miss Jean Smellie and arrived home to be greeted by those assembled and was the recipient of many beautiful and useful gifts. Dorothy graciously thanked all present for their thoughtfulness of her. A social hour and the serving of refreshments brought a very pleasant evening to a close.

Lachute Spring Fair

The Directors of the Argenteuil Agricultural Society are busily at work in preparation for the Model Show of Eastern Canada, which takes place at the Lachute Fair on June 15th to 18th. All entries closed on June 4th and Mr. A. Bothwell, secretary-manager, reports indications point to the keenest competition in all classes. Owing to the growing popularity of Lachute Fair the directors have found it necessary to construct two additional barns and make further additions of stabling.

Ontario's 1939 PLATES (The Northern News)
Ontario's 1939 license plates will be on a special material composed of cement, sand and glass, will be of white figures on a black background, and are said to be better than even the conventional black and yellow of traffic sign construction.

Similar material will be used on danger signs along the highways, instead of "cat's eyes," whose red and removal crystals offer fascination to a certain type of motorist. The plates, it is said, will cost $20.00 more, but that money will be saved, it is said, by replacing the numbers on signs, easy to tamper with by the new style.

We believe that this is a sincere attempt to remedy a serious mistake which was made this year, of issuing a marker whose colors of red no contrast and which make it difficult to read. These could not have been recalled and replaced early in the year, but it is probably too late now to make a change.

DOG TELLS TIME

Peter, a five-year-old dog owned by Albert Hayhurst, Crofton, Yorkshire, can tell the time. He knows the hour immediately he looks at a clock, and will tell you by barking first the number of hours and then the number of minutes. Thus, he barks 12 times for ten minutes past two. Peter will tell you the number of a playing card by the same method. He can separate coins—half-crowns from shillings or even florins, and so on—and he can select the tails from the heads. Peter's big pal is a bird called Billy, a budgerigar that talks. They lie down together on the rug.

A Tribute and Appreciation

The history of Valleyfield has been enlarged, brightened and even made luminous in spots for the last hundred years by the names and deeds of men of courage, vision, goodness and character. One of the most luminous spots in that long period was the life of Philorum Billette, who last week was translated to the quiet shores of eternal peace and rest.

Philorum Billette was respected by all classes and his passing will be regretted throughout the district where he was best known. He will be remembered as a citizen who loved peace and who dedicated his efforts towards promoting harmony and concord in too often conflicting and hostile elements.

He gave to Mistry all he had, a tear He gain'd from Heaven (twas all he wish'd) a friend! Requesit in pace!!! C. L. R. June 5, 1938.

Evaluation of Godmanchester Township in June And July—Other Questions Discussed

At its regular monthly meeting on Monday, the members of the Godmanchester Council asked the secretary of this council, Jas. B. Barrett, notify the evaluators in order that they might make a general evaluation of the township during the months of June and July.

The Council made a personal investigation in regard to the culvert and fence on the Elzear Girouard property. Mr. Girouard complained of a culvert across the Ste. Barbe side-road that drains a hole on the farm of Lyle Sparrow, emptying the water on his property.

The secretary was advised to interview the road-engineer to have the government put a road sign on the Ste. Barbe road approaching the New Erin road.

A delegation of farmers interested in the question of the culvert on the Carr head-line back of White's Station be moved from its present location, in the centre of the property of Donat Leblanc, to the division line between the Donat Leblanc and Zenophile Leblanc property in order to allow better drainage.

The Council decided that the culvert on the Carr head-line back of White's Station be moved from its present location, in the centre of the property of Donat Leblanc, to the division line between the Donat Leblanc and Zenophile Leblanc property in order to allow better drainage.

The following accounts were presented for payment and ordered paid: Milford Wheaton, $1.95; Charles Anderson, $3.45; Health Unit, $33.71; Provincial Blank Forms, $8.91; Shawinigan Water & Power Co., $2.50; Dave Sauvé, $15.10; J. # "The Ticker Tape Murder"

By Milton M. Propper

"Then you're a detective?" And when Gilmore nodded without speaking, "You can tell me, then, what happened to father?"

Briefly the detective complied, covering much of the same ground that he had already covered in the morning with his superior. He was careful, however, to present few of the details lest the girl be seized anew by grief, for he desired at that moment clear minds and direct answers.

When he had finished, they both appeared strengthened as though a weight of uncertainty had been lifted from them.

"Then it was Parker—and those terrible men with him that were responsible for father's death!" the girl exclaimed.

Parker had been fired because of his dishonesty. Where did you get that information?"

"Day before yesterday, in the evening," the butler related, "I was straightening out this room, when Mr. Nixon came down from his bedroom and asked me to send for Parker. I did, and when he came in, as insolent as you please, Mr. Nixon went with him into the conservatory and shut the door. They were in there for fifteen minutes; and then, just when the door was opened, Mr. Nixon was saying, 'It is understood, then, that you leave when your work is up.' After that, Charles went out, muttering to himself angrily and very red in the face."

"Did you hear anything while Mr. Nixon was in the room with him, Bennett?"

The butler hesitated. "Well, sir, I did hear a word or two from Mr. Nixon—that's what really made me think that Parker had been caught at something. When the door's closed in the conservatory, unless somebody's speaking very loud, you can't hear a thing, but Mr. Nixon raised his voice once or twice."

"And you heard him say?" Gilmore put in.

"Once he said the word 'thief'—then I heard him distinctly tell Parker that he wouldn't have him sneaking around the house. After that he quieted down, and I didn't get anything more that went on."

"The detective then put some questions to Eleanor upon the same matter, but she proved ignorant of it. What she did know and could tell Gilmore was that Parker's recommendation as a chauffeur had come from a Mrs. Van Sittart who had gone to France to live, three months before. The girl was not, in fact, acquainted with her, though she was a familiar figure in social circles, but she had heard that Mrs. Van Sittart had dismissed all her servants. When, therefore, Parker had presented her introduction as a capable chauffeur, they had employed him without investigation.

"There's no doubt," Gilmore remarked grimly when she had finished, "that the recommendation was forged." He paused for a moment before proceeding with an equally important line of interrogation.

"At what time did your father come home from the office yesterday afternoon?"

It was Bennett who answered, "I should say it was about quarter of 4; in fact, sir, not more than a half-hour after you left to go back to town."

Kidney Acids Rob Your Rest

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss—lie awake and count sheep. Often they blame it on "nerves" when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons from the blood. If they are faulty and fail, poisons stay in the system and cause sleeplessness, headache, backache often follow. If you don't sleep well, try Dodd's Kidney Pills—for half a century the favorite remedy.

Good Advice About Constipation!

A doctor would tell you that the best thing to do with any ailment is to get it at its cause. If you're constipated, don't tiddle with makeshift remedies. Find out what's giving you the trouble!

Chances are you won't have to look very far, if you eat just the things most people do. Most likely, you don't get enough "bulk!" And "bulk" doesn't mean just a lot of food. It means a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If this is what you lack, your ticket is crisp crunchy Selloid All-Bran for breakfast. It contains the "bulk" you need plus the intestinal tonic, vitamin B.

Eat it every day, drink plenty of water, and join the "regulars"! All-Bran is made by Kellogg's in London, Ontario.

I don't imagine there was any other reason."

The detective rose from the lounge on which he had been seated and strode toward the conservatory.

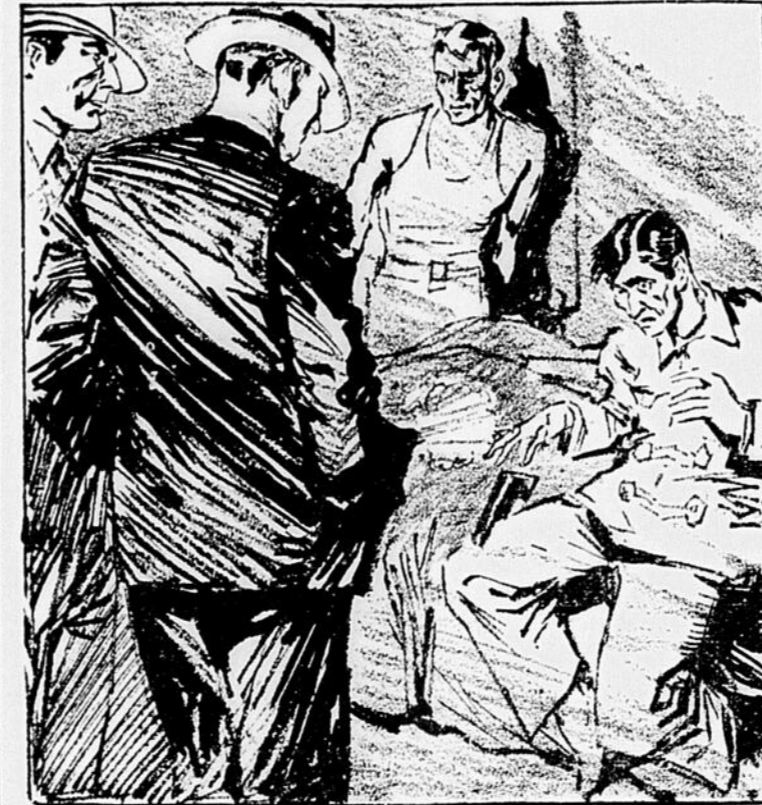

"Thank you, Miss Nixon. Now, if I could have some one to help me, I should like to make a search of the house. Your father may not have taken that money with him. I think we will begin in that room."

Eleanor and the old servant joined him in his quest. Together they made a complete investigation of the room that had been the scene of an attempted burglary some eight months before.

The conservatory possessed almost no furnishings except the heavy profusion of plants; yet Gilmore did not overlook even the possibility of the money being hidden among the potted shrubs. Only a thorough search convinced him that, whatever events had taken place in that room the concealment of the banknotes was not among them.

One Bit of Evidence

In the tremendous project of searching the rest of the house, the services of Mrs. Bennett and Eleanor's personal maid, Hilda, were also enlisted; nevertheless, it took them more than an hour. They passed from the salon to the dining room, and then to the sun-parlor, the main library and the family bedrooms, upstairs, omitting only such unlikely places as the unused guest quarters. Special attention was given to the financiers'

The detective's pocket seemed to speak thunderously. A fiery flash accompanied the ear-splitting crash of the shot.

will safe, of which Eleanor knew the combination; and Gilmore made a thorough inspection of whatever contents Parker had left. He did not expect to find the money there, nor was he disappointed. At the conclusion of the hour of vain searching, he was convinced that Philip Nixon had taken it with him.

Gilmore's final step before leaving the house was the task of interviewing the servants one by one. Beginning with those in the house, Mrs. Bennett, the footman, Ben the houseman, and the chef, Gilmore then questioned the gardeners and the garage man. Even with a series of routine questions, it was fruitless labor; none of them could tell him anything of the financier's movements. Of household gossip, he gleaned a great deal, but none of any use; he heard of Bennett's extreme affection for Eleanor Nixon, of the general unpopularity of the chauffeur, one of the gardeners claiming that he had "opted" he was a bad "un" from the beginning.

The only item of information came from the garage man. From the time Miss Eleanor had returned from the tea until 11, he had been in the garage, working upon her car. He was willing to take his oath that after leaving with the financier at 4:30, Charles Parker had never returned the Rolls-Royce to the garage. Indeed, he had never seen the car again. The testimony shattered the chauffeur's effort to bluff himself out of his difficulties.

Gilmore's final interview of importance during the afternoon proved no more satisfactory than the others. From the financier's home, he went to the American Motors offices. There awaited him the interrogation of Philip Nixon's corps of stenographers and clerks, who knew little of the financier's movements. Other officers of the corporation were not likely to prove more helpful.

On the way, the detective had purchased the late edition of the Evening Sun and turned to the financial section. What he sought stared him in the face, in headlines fully as prominent as those he had perused on the Cape May express; and it read exactly as he had expected it to read. The effect of the financier's death upon the corner had been operating was catastrophic. Audubon common had opened at 130 instead of its high of 145, at which it had closed the preceding day. By noon, it had dropped to 120; by 2 o'clock it had gone to 108; and when the market closed, it was quoted under 100, with values threatening to plunge even lower on the morrow. It was a disaster at which the entire money world stood aghast.

Gilmore fully realized the import of the calamity and its significance to American Motors. The corner had collapsed; and most of the ensuing loss would fall upon the Nixon estate. The financier had been the moving force of the corporation as well as the personal financier of the corner.

The detective had no doubt that Philip Nixon's vast fortune would be sufficient to meet this blow without depriving Eleanor of her inheritance; nevertheless, the calamity was certain to lessen it seriously.

It was after he had finished with the company's officers that Gilmore

Textiles Play Major Role In Quebec's Great Economy

Industry Has More Than 900 Factories Located In Fifty Municipalities Throughout the Province

Quebec's textile industry plays a far more important part in the economic life of the province than is indicated by statistical returns. There are nearly 900 plants located in more than 50 municipalities. Many of these municipalities are wholly dependent on the industry. With its payroll of $36 millions a year paid out to 50,000 workers the textile industry as an employer is by far the most important economic activity in the province.

Quebec's designation as the "Lancashire of Canada" is borne out by the statistical returns which clearly show the province to be the centre of the Canadian textile manufacturing industry. Of the 35 cotton yarn and cloth plants in Canada, 14 are located in Quebec and represent a capital investment of $46.3 millions. They employ 11,600 workers; pay out $9.2 millions in salaries and wages and spend $26.8 millions a year on materials.

Majority in Quebec

Three of the five cotton thread plants in Canada are located in Quebec and at least three quarters of the capital, number of employees, and gross value of production are accounted for by them.

The cotton and wool waste industry in 1936 purchased over $1 million of materials and spent $255,000 in wages and salaries.

The cotton spinning and weaving industry is centred in Quebec, while half of all other types of cotton mills are located in the province.

While the metropolitan centre of Montreal is the location of several mills, the greater part of the textile industry's activities centre in and around the Eastern Townships.

Dominion Textile Co. has built up in Magog a community dependent upon its cotton manufacturing activities. The plants at this point support over 1,600 individuals, while part works give employment to an additional 750 people.

Montreal Cotton Co., associated with Dominion Textiles, has an important stake in its plants and equipment at Valleyfield. In addition there are a number of other smaller units devoted to the manufacture of a wide variety of cotton textile products.

Dominion Textile has another large cotton plant at Montmorency Falls, as well as in Sherbrooke.

Centre of Silk Industry

Aside from primary cotton manufacturing, Quebec is noted for its numerous silk mills, both artificial and real. In recent years the Quebec market has been an important purchaser of raw silks, together with complementary materials for processing into the finished article.

Many new plants have been erected as demand for silk, combined with low prices, has stimulated production to higher levels.

In the Eastern Townships and along the north shore of the St. Lawrence may be found a number of silk or synthetic silk manufacturing plants. Among the more important companies are Canadian Celanese at Drummondville, Belding Corticelli at St. Hyacinthe, Coatlook, St. Johns and Montreal; Associated Textiles and other firms.

turns for 1936, the last year available, showed that of the 35 artificial and real silk plants in Canada, 24 were located in Quebec. The latter represented a capital investment of over $24 millions; gave employment to 7,208 workers; paid out in salaries and wages $6.3 millions; purchased $8.2 millions of materials and had a gross value of production of over $19.6 millions.

Other Branches Represented

The hosiery and knitted goods branch has 53 plants, in which the capital invested totals $14.9 millions. At Sherbrooke is located one of the largest and oldest woollen mills in the Dominion, that of the Paton Manufacturing Co. At St. Jerome the Regent Knitting Mills have a modern plant, while at St. Hyacinthe, Penmans operate a large factory manufacturing a wide line of knit goods and woollens. Then there is Ayle's plant at La Tuque, as well as other smaller operators.

In all there are 27 woollen textile mills in Quebec. The woollen cloth plants, numbering 18, represent a capital of $5 millions and provide employment for 1,545 workers. During 1936 these mills spent $3 millions on materials and $1,114,000 on salaries and wages. In the woollen yarn field there are three plants which had spent $526,000 on materials in 1936 and paid out $234,705 in salaries and wages to 415 employees.—Financial Post.

Curling Rink Used as Public Market at Kirkland Lake

After seeing the Porcupine camp at Timmins it was the pleasure of the Weekly Press party to visit Kirkland Lake on Saturday. Though the day was miserably wet the press party were well taken care of and came away from this new city of 20,000 people with a very favourable impression.

Kirkland Lake has profited by the fact that Timmins is a few years older. When Kirkland Lake was founded the people of Canada had established a town in the North that was lacking when Timmins got its first start. The type of buildings in Kirkland is superior, the town is well laid out and the stores are very attractive.

To the Press, the one building that was of immense importance and interest was that of the home of the Northern News. Mr. Charles Tressider, editor and manager of the News, saw to it that all had a good chance to view the office and that they would leave Kirkland Lake with a favourable impression. For two hours the publishers milled about the plant. The plant was only to be compared in a small arena with that of the magnificent Globe-Mail plant in Toronto which the publishers viewed on Thursday. Indeed, the Northern News has little more to desire in the way of plant and equipment.

At the noon hour the press party assembled in the Curling Rink Club rooms. Looking out into the arena we were amazed to see it being used as a public market. This public market in the rink has proved to be a real boon to Kirkland Lake as well as to the people who bring their produce.

The Northern News tendered the beautiful and delicious luncheon. The speaking that followed the luncheon was broadcast. In the course of Reeve Carter's remarks he stated that Kirkland Lake's increase in population of late years was 2,000 annually. The birth rate in Kirkland Lake is the highest in all Canada. As to the educational facilities, they built one large school per annum.

During the afternoon the party was divided into three. The ladies were taken to a theatre where they were guests of the Theatre and Mrs. Tressider. One group of publishers visited the surface plants of Lake Shore and Wright-Hargreaves mines.

In small groups the press men were escorted about these mills and saw the ore crushed to the point of being ready to go for final refining at the mill.

The mines are very deep. As a matter of fact, they sink to a depth of 6,100 feet. The Hollinger mine at Timmins goes to 5800 feet in depth and has 250 miles of what the novice might call underground passages which have been hewn out of the rock.

Before leaving for Toronto the entire party gathered at the beautiful residence of Mr. Harry Oakes. After refreshments were served and thanks extended for the courtesies extended in Kirkland Lake, the party of 100 people left for Swastika where they boarded their five special cars going to Toronto. Traveling along the T.N.O. Railway in daylight, one gained a very favourable impression of the north country. Eight years ago the writer traversed this same line and in this interval of time many farms have been cleared. The farms look prosperous. Large barns and comfortable homes are seen and the fields have every appearance of being well drained and cultivated.

The railway follows along the shore of many beautiful lakes. The tourists evidently do not regard this remote country as too distant for vacationing, for along these lakes a great number of summer cottages were to be seen. When on the train the press party was accorded a special dining car, and as each meal was served a very beautiful lithographed menu was placed before you. These men of Western Canada scenes were treasured by the printers and publishers, not that they contained the fine menu served but for the craftsmanship displayed in the production of same.

We arrived at North Bay shortly after 10 p.m. when the first of our party were to leave us. One of the railway officials that accompanied the party also left us at North Bay. Those who left the party at North Bay will not forget the farewell that was accorded them. With 100 voices singing and cheering, North Bay must have thought the Weekly Publishers have learned how to do more than publish newspapers.

To Mr. C. O. Baker, of the T.N.O. Railway, Mr. Frank Baker and Mr. A. C. O'Neil of the C.N.R., the Weekly Publishers are deeply indebted. These three men saw to it that the railway facilities placed at the disposal of the party were as near perfect as it was humanly possible to provide. Their only regret was that time was not provided for their taking the entire party to Rouyn where they might see the Noranda mines.

Letters to the Editor

215 St. James St. W. Montreal, Que. June 6th, 1938.

The Editor, "Gleaner", Huntingdon, Que. Dear Sir,

I wish to congratulate the "Gleaner" on its very excellent editorial on "False Impressions from Europe". This editorial contains facts that should be brought to the attention of every Canadian citizen, and the "Gleaner", so far as I know, is the only paper having the initiative to place the true situation before its readers.

The innumerable war scares that have been served to their readers by metropolitan dailies in the past few months have been simply appalling.

They will tell you they do this because of their sincere desire to please the dear public, but the real reason is to be found in their desire to boost circulation, therefore obtain more advertising, hence make more money.

In the old days on the farm when the "Gleaner" was our only medium of contact with world affairs our lives were much more peaceful. In fact when we returned with it on Thursday night, having driven five miles to Tom Rowley's store to get it, we found the waiting neighbours were concerned as to whether the hero had caught up with the Mayor and given him his just deserts in the weekly (to be continued) story that they were in regard to what was going on in Europe.

Likewise, we were more concerned in getting the hay in before it would rain and we could quite peacefully milk the cows and follow the plow without being hourly terrorized regarding what the Mussolinis and Hitler's of that day, if there were any such menaces, were going to do next. In fact they would have done whatever they were going to do before we would have heard of it if they moved as fast as they do now.

During the past few months we could depend upon getting a first class war scare almost any day for two cents. If, however, for any reason the man in the street neglected to purchase his daily paper he could tune in his radio to a blast from the "know it all" commentators and get even a better world war scare.

Moreover, these different enterprises seem to have a faculty of becoming even more rapid during week-ends and succeed in keeping their readers and listeners in a state of frenzied suspense during that time.

After the clouds they paint so darkly have passed away and the sun shines again we never realize these agencies admit they were too sensational or are sorry for having disturbed the minds of the people and the regular process of business.

"Gleaner" readers, after having read your editorial, will know how to appraise these outbursts. If they break out again, which they probably will during what we used to call the "dog days".

JOSEPH C. MOORE.

The Week at Ottawa

Estimated Cost of St. Lawrence Waterway is 40 Million Dollars — Dominion-Provincial Relations Commission Has Big Task

By Spectator

The new set of proposals sent by Washington to Ottawa in relation to the construction of a seaway along the St. Lawrence route brings that vexed question into the limelight again. The memorandum which the Dominion Government has now in its hands for consideration, is an astutely drawn document. It seeks to overcome the main arguments that have been advanced by the opponents to the enterprise. By the terms of the proposed treaty, the embargo laid by the United States on the export of electric power from Ontario to New York state would be removed. It would acknowledge the ownership by Ontario of the water which would be diverted from the Hudson Bay region to Lake Superior under plans which were suggested by the government of Ontario. In addition, in connection with the development of the international section of the St. Lawrence, the huge power installation on the Canadian side need not be undertaken by the Ontario government until the province needs the power which would be generated there.

The main features of the proposal were that it would be a 27 foot waterway from the head of the lakes to the Gulf of St. Lawrence; that an international commission of ten men would study plans for development and allocate the tasks of construction and that Canada would complete the construction from Cornwall to Montreal while the United States would attend to the international section from Cornwall to Prescott and all work west of Lake Erie.

There is no means of knowing what will likely be the fate of the suggested treaty. The Canadian government will study it carefully. There will be discussions about its terms with the government of the provinces vitally interested. Endeavouring to look at the chances for the treaty from every angle, observers are mentioning that the 1932 treaty following lines in many respects similar to this one, was rejected by the United States senate. Would it pass this treaty? It is estimated that the cost to Canada of its share of construction would likely be about 40 million dollars. This is a large outlay, and there is always the uncertainty of whether it might go considerably higher. There is the power and the railway situation on the one hand and on the other the "enduring benefits to be derived by industrial and agricultural interests" on the other side of the line from the development of their great natural water highway. It is a very complicated issue with much to be said on each side of the question.

Loans to Municipalities

Very little real opposition has been raised in the House of Commons to the government's plan of raising the Dominion to lend up to an aggregate of 30 million dollars to municipalities for "self liquidating" enterprises. The loans would bear interest at two per cent per annum. The idea is that the money would be lent to municipalities to renovate and put in better working order their waterworks, gas plants, electric light systems and other enterprises, which yield a revenue. These renewed and improved plants would bring higher revenues and costs of maintenance would be reduced. The building trade and employment would be aided. Loans would be made only on enterprises approved by the provinces and the loans would bear the guarantee of the provincial governments. In this way the difficulty about the Dominion infringing provincial jurisdiction by making contributions to the municipalities would be overcome. The Dominion would be making a contribution to the municipalities under this bill, as the Dominion treasury would have to absorb the difference between the two per cent interest rate and the rate at which the Dominion has to borrow money. The Dominion would also pay for the cost of administering the loan plan. The scheme is based upon the expressed policy of the government to "use the credit of the Dominion to stimulate productive work."

Amendments to the Criminal Code A bill introduced in the commons amending the criminal code will increase the punishment of motor drivers who fall to stop at the scene of an accident. The penalties hereafter will be a maximum fine of $500 or six months, and failure to stop will be taken as prima facie

Publishers Banqueted At Timmins, City of Over 24,000

When the weekly newspaper publishers of Ontario and Quebec met in the City of Timmins, Ont., on Friday they were driven about so that they might gather some idea of its unusual growth.

Timmins was founded twenty-six years ago and today boasts a population of over 24,000. Of this population, 6,000 are miners, half of whom work in the Hollinger Mine. The remaining 3,000 miners are employed by the "other" mines operating in Timmins.

In regard to schools, the city has no less than nine large modern schools. No sooner is one school completed than plans have to be prepared for the building of another, so rapid is the growth of population. As a matter of fact, the natural growth of Timmins, plus the influx of children that come to Timmins with their parents, is the equivalent of a monthly average of 40. Consequently, at the end of 12 months time, it is necessary to provide for an additional 480 pupils. Timmins has good reason to be proud of its modern schools, and all public buildings.

Though Timmins has a large population its streets are largely made of gravel. The paving of streets will make the city take on a much more attractive appearance. The shortage of trees in the city is pronounced, and likewise the lack of a park. It is a great town for sporting activities, and such being the case ample facilities for such have already been taken care of.

In the matter of religion, we noted they have two French R. C. Churches, one Irish R. C. Church, and one Italian R. C. Church. There are two Protestant Churches. The population is about 60% French Canadian. The foreign element that at one time caused the city much work due to Communist feelings that existed amongst some of the Finns and foreigners, is now suppressed. To accomplish this, the City has been obliged to maintain a large police force. Today peace and harmony prevails in all sections of the city.

As the Press party were the guests of Mr. George Lake, editor of the Porcupine Advance, it was arranged that on this date of visiting Timmins the new Town Hall should be officially opened. The Hon. Paul Leduc, Minister of Mines, officiated. We noted that Timmins not only sported a brass band, but also a Kilite Band of 12 pipers and six drummers. It was the Kilite Band that led the procession of Weekly Newspaper Publishers from the Empire Hotel to the Town Hall.

In the evening the Board of Trade tendered a banquet to the Weekly Publishers. 140 people sat about the festive board that was indeed a distinct credit to the Hotel and the City. In the course of the remarks made by the several speakers, some outstanding remarks were made that are of importance and interest to all Canadians.

We all look to the northern sections of Ontario and Quebec as the land of plenty and where the youths are welcomed if they wish to make a fortune. According to the Board of Trade President Langdon, he said Timmins had presently reached its saturation point and that newcomers should be discouraged entering the Porcupine Camp, unless they had previously arranged employment. At the present moment, Timmins has 2,000 men unemployed. In the past 18 years the town has increased its population from 4,000 to over 24,000 today. Although Timmins was a bush in 1911 and is a city today that does not mean we can give employment to all comers.

The gold production of the Porcupine Camp represents $36,000,000 per annum. Of this amount 10% is retained in the north and is divided as follows: One-third is spent in wages; one-third for mining ma-

Little Miss Audrey Clark is a patient in the Physician's Hospital, Plattsburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Stewart attended the wedding of Mrs. Stewart's cousin in the Townships on Saturday.

Mrs. W. D. Sample visited her daughters in Plattsburg on Sunday, also Miss Phyllis Sample spent the week-end in Plattsburg.

Mrs. C. W. Potter visited her brother, Mr. R. W. Blair in the Western Hospital on Sunday and found him in a very critical condition.

MRS. C. LAPARE

SUCCUMBS AS HER HUSBAND BURIED

While the funeral service of her husband was in progress in Montreal Thursday morning, Mrs. Charles Lapare, wife of Acting District Chief Lapare, died at the Hotel Dieu Hospital, in Valleyfield from injuries received in the accident which killed her husband instantly on Sunday, May 29th.

With relatives, friends and associates in the fire department in attendance, the funeral of Chief Lapare was held at Notre Dame de Grace Church at 9:30 o'clock Thursday morning. Their 13-year-old daughter, Lucienne, is still in hospital with a fractured skull.

Chief Lapare and his wife were victims of an automobile accident five miles from Valleyfield on Sunday evening when their car collided with another machine driven by P. E. Touchette of Montreal.

Covey Hill

On Tuesday, May 31st, Miss V. E. McCracken and her pupils had a pleasant school-closing which took the form of a picnic on the edge of the woods at Minden Cottage farm. Ice-cream and other delectable things were partaken of, and games were played. Miss McCracken received a number of pretty gifts from her pupils, each of whom in turn, was presented with a book from the teacher. Doris Loudon and Victor Bourdon were awarded prizes for the most regular attendance. The farewells spoken were more cheerful, owing to the fact that Miss McCracken has been re-engaged for another year.

The correct baptismal name of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth N. Sample's little son is Norris Earle, not Morris Earle.

Mr. Chas. Charland is having a rare holiday at Old Orchard, Me., with his daughter, Mrs. Stephen Marleau.

Readers were interested to see the name and picture of an old friend, Miss Donalda McPhee, B.A., Ph.D., in a Montreal paper. She was a member of the first graduating class of the Royal Victoria College in 1888.

As they note the rising price of city papers, Hill subscribers ask themselves how they can get along without them, but realize that the large shop ads coming by R.M.D. are of little timely value to country people.

Mr. James Curran developed an acute case of appendicitis last week.

FAMILY SHAVER

On complaint he was running an unlicensed barber shop in his home, Frank Valentine, Detroit, Mich., was brought into police court, where he pleaded not guilty. Questioning him, the judge found he had a completely equipped barber shop, but Frank still insisted he did not require a license because he barbered no one but his relatives. How many relatives get their hair shined from your asked the judge. "Oh, about 80," replied Valentine.

Ethics of Etiquette

HOW TO PLEASE

"The unwritten law of conversation," writes William Handy, "is that it shall be on a 'fifty-fifty' basis, but it generally develops into a struggle to see who can do most of the talking."

It is well to remember that people are interested in nothing so much as themselves. If you talk constantly about yourself and about the things that interest you, it will not be long before you are regarded as a bore.

Someone once asked Matthew Arnold what his favourite topic of conversation was, and he answered, without a moment's hesitation, "That in which my companion is most interested." In social contact, make it a practice to talk only about those things you know will interest your hearer. Discover what he or she is most interested in, and make that the topic of your conversation. That is, of course, if you want to be popular and welcome.

Sympathy is the key that unlocks hearts—and tongues. After all, the good conversationalist is not merely the one who talks well, but he who knows how to draw others into discussion. He knows the secret of making others talk. He gives others the opportunity to appear to advantage instead of attempting to show his own superiority.

Havelock

Breakfasts

While we know full well that boxed cereals are used in camp because they are so easy to handle, porridge such as cornmeal or rolled oats or mixed whole grain porridge ground fine, should be given their places. Many camps run on a profitable basis serve cooked cereals for breakfast because the campers like and ask for it. It takes less whole milk than boxed cereals do. Serve brown sugar with cereals.

Meat or Fish Dinners

Roast beef (rump or rolled shoulder as suggested above) with baked or pan roasted potatoes, spinach, boiled onions, stewed tomatoes, or salad accompaniment; serve this the second day following as a pie or sliced in gravy or in a hot sandwich restaurant style—the meat between two slices of bread, boiling hot, give poured over all and a mound of mashed potatoes on top; all that is needed with this is a generous serving of fresh fruit; Codfish cakes or creamed codfish on toast, scalloped tomatoes and onions, if oven is used for tomatoes and fish also bake potatoes, if not boil potatoes quartered and coat them in parsley; Meat balls ground with 1 part fat salt pork to 4 parts meat and baked in tomato juice, baked whole parsnips, celery—Lamb stew with vegetables—whole onions, sliced carrots, small potatoes, peas and turnips optional; liver and onions, succotash; frankfurters, mashed potatoes, sauerkraut.

Dinner Desserts

Jelly with sliced bananas; stewed prunes and apricots combined; open face raisin pie; lemon snow; gingerbread; blueberry pudding; hot apple-cake; fruit cornstarch pudding; sliced oranges.

Facts of Interest to Movie Fans

Paging Mamma and Papa Jones, in pictures Mamma is Irene Hervey. She was born in Los Angeles. Her maiden name was Herwick. Her father was a photographer. She was bitten by the stage bug. After a marriage, the birth of a daughter and a few years with stock players, she got a divorce, began haunting the Hollywood casting offices and finally appeared in "Stranger's Return."

Then she met Allan. He was born in Scranton, Pa. He worked his way through high school by operating a steam shovel. From there he went to Syracuse University. New York University and Europe. He married, had a daughter, sang in Rockefeller Church, worked in musical comedies and finally landed in Hollywood in the part of Ravenal, in "Show Boat."

In July, 1936, Mrs. Marjorie B. Jones, his wife of seven years, divorced him in Reno charging cruelty, threatened a loss of something like $2,500,000. A few days later he and Irene were married. In February, 1937, he adopted his wife's child, Gall Irene Fenderson, now 7. On Jan. 14, 1938, he and Irene had a son of their own.

Jones has also appeared in "Reckless" and "The Firefly." "The Women of His Life" and "The Girl Said No" are among Irene's contributions to the screen.

SPRINTING METHUSELAH

Known as the American Methusalem of marathon, 85-year-old Peter W. Foley, of Winchester, Massachusetts, has just run a distance of 26 miles, 385 yards to show the young 'uns there's life in the old dogs yet. His time was four and a half hours. Thousands turned out to watch Old Man Foley do his sprint, flamboyantly garbed in purple striped shorts. Mr. Foley, a distinguished U.S. marathon runner, made his first run at the ripe old age of 50, and ran over a score of others before retiring.

Other Institutes had for their programme

A lantern-slide lecture on Paris, keep-fit exercises, and games. A demonstration on health and beauty culture by a specialist assisted by four members. (Where is the woman with soul so dead who would not assist a good cause and be crowned with a permanent or recognized by a facial?) A demonstration on "How to dress a fowl" and a competition, "Most articles in a match-box." A gas mask demonstration. (There are worse places than Canada, and even than Quebec.) A lecture on home-nursing by an R.N. and a competition for the best first-aid box suitable for a cottage home. (In some circuitous way this item calls up a memory of three frenzied females standing over a puzzled toddler of less than two years, coaxing and commanding him by turns to drink milk because they had been suddenly seized with a suspicion that a dish of fly-poison looked emptier than it had been. The little fellow had always been so fond of the lactical fluid that he had almost lived on it, but now, confused and frightened, refused it, but continued so entirely normal, that his family's fears subsided. But the saucer of poison was put at a safe height. I read that the President of an English Agricultural Workers' Union said that he felt it was a disgrace to the country's system to have seen a tin of condensed milk in a farm-laborer's cottage. So let every cottager have a cow—and a cat, in case milk as an antidote does not appeal to the toddler.)

Dahlia's Whatnots

Merrie England's W. I.'s.—News of the storm which struck southern England on Thursday, with the gale blowing 90 miles per hour recalls that other storm which caused immense damage and some loss of life on the east coast, earlier in the season. At that time the main of the River Ouse district won credit by working all night holding bags to be filled with clay and wedged into the breach caused by a slip in the embankment, which threatened a loss of something like 2 1/2 million dollars.

Those Englishwomen seem to have inherited a good deal of the spirit of the old Britishers who faced the perils of the uncharted sea and planted the Flag in foreign new. In war-time these women amaze their own countrymen, and in time of peace their spirit of adventure leads them to dare and do surprising things, even if it be only in the circumscribed sphere of their women's organizations.

The Barford and Wrampingham W. I. had for one of their meetings an amusing competition. "The long piece of knitting done on two matches." Also they managed the refreshment feature very neatly, for the tea was donated by a tea firm and even brewed by the firm's representative. (Adv't.)

At Sale two prizes were given for the best sausage-rolls. The Scottow and Sioley branch gave a social featuring a "Nigger Troupe" with songs and choruses by the coloured ladies standing over a puzzled toddler of less than two years, coaxing and commanding him by turns to drink milk because they had been suddenly seized with a suspicion that a dish of fly-poison looked emptier than it had been. The little fellow had always been so fond of the lactical fluid that he had almost lived on it, but now, confused and frightened, refused it, but continued so entirely normal, that his family's fears subsided. ### H'don Girls Defeated By Dundee, 13-4

Six Run Rally in Second Inning Gives Victory to Dundee Girls

A six run rally in the second inning was sufficient to give Dundee girls a victory over Huntingdon girls in an exhibition game played at the Huntingdon Fair Grounds on Saturday afternoon. The score after three innings of play was 13-4 in favor of the visiting team.

Although the Huntingdon girls had lined-up a well-balanced team, they could not compete with the Dundee players in any of the innings. Janet Fraser, on the mound for the visitors, mixed her offerings and was most careful when runners were on bases. These tactics held the few stray Huntingdon hits at bay and caused no extensive damages at any time.

Dundee girls scored two runs in the first half of the first inning and six more in the second frame. This total was sufficient to overshadow any rallies on the part of the local aggregation.

Alice Rolfe pitched a good game for the losers, while Janet Fraser's performance on the mound for Dundee left nothing to be desired. Jessie Taylor played well at first base for Huntingdon with Cecile Cappiello and Eileen Herdman catching and stopping everything that came their way in left and centre field.

Ruby and Merle McCartney and Phyllis Platt were standouts on the winning team and their timely hits helped greatly in assuring Dundee its first victory of the season over the Huntingdon girls.

The Dundee team was managed by Mrs. Platt while the local girls were in care of Alice Rolfe. Umpires: G. McDonald and Fraser.

Score by innings: Dundee..... 269 020 120-13 Huntingdon..... 010 101 010-4 The teams were: Dundee Girls—G. Stowell, catcher; J. Fraser, pitcher; R. McCartney, first base; D. Fraser, second base; M. McCartney, third base; P. Platt, short stop; J. Taylor, left field; T. McMillan, centre field; J. Arnold, right field. Subs: J. McNicol and M. Thompson.

Huntingdon Girls—G. Lalonde, catcher; A. Rolfe, pitcher; J. Taylor, first base; J. Fraser, second base; B. Hunter, third base; E. Marshall, short stop; E. Herdman, left field; C. Cappiello, centre field; A. Henderson, right field. Subs: L. Gervais and F. Leahy.

The Art Of Opening A Conversation

Reprinted from Reader's Digest STEPHEN LEACOCK

Opening a conversation is really the hardest part. It may be studied in the settings and surroundings of the evening reception, where people stand upright and agonize, balancing a dish of ice cream. Here conversation reaches its highest pitch of social importance. One must be done to state it off a little by vigorous eating. But the food at such affairs is limited. There comes a point when it is absolutely necessary to say something.

The beginning, as I say, is the hardest problem. Other communities solve it better than we do. In China, conversation between strangers after introduction is always opened by the question, "And how old are you?" This strikes me as singularly apt and sensible. Here is the one thing that is common ground between the two people, high or low, rich or poor—how far are you in your pilgrimage of life?

Compare with the Chinese method the grim, but very significant formula that is employed in the exercise yards of our penitentiaries. "What have you got?" asks the San Quentin or Sing Sing convict of the new arrival, meaning, "And how long is your sentence?" There is the same human touch about this, the same common ground of interest, as in the Chinese formula.

But in our polite society we have as yet no better method than beginning with a sort of medical diagnosis—"How do you do?" This admits of no answer. Convention forbids us to reply in detail that we are feeling if anything slightly lower than last week, but that though our temperature has risen from 91.50 to 91.75, our respiration is still normal.

Still worse is the weather as an opening topic. For it either begins and ends as abruptly as the medical diagnosis, or it leads the two talkers into a long and miserable discussion of the weather of yesterday, of the day before yesterday, of last month, of last year and the last fifty years.

Let one beware, however, of a conversation that begins too easily. This can be seen at any evening reception, as when the hostess introduces two people who are supposed to have a special link to unite them at once with an instantaneous snap—as when, for instance, they both come from the same town.

Let me introduce Mr. Sedley," says the hostess. "I think you and Mr. Sedley are from the same town, Miss Smiles. Miss Smiles, Mr. Sedley."

"Off they go at a gallop. 'I'm so delighted to meet you,' says Mr. Sedley. 'It's good to find someone who comes from our little town.' 'Oh yes,' answers Miss Smiles. 'I'm from Winnipeg too. I was so anxious to ask you if you knew the McGowans. They're my greatest friends at home.' 'The—who?' asks Mr. Sedley. 'The McGowans—on Selkirk Avenue.'"

"No, I don't think I do. I know the Prices on Selkirk Avenue. Of course you know them. 'The Prices? No. I don't believe I do. You don't mean the Pearsons?'"

"No, I don't know the Pearsons. The Prices live near the park." "No, then I'm sure I don't know them. The Pearsons live close to the college."

This is the way the conversation goes for ten minutes. Both Mr. Sedley and Miss Smiles are getting desperate. Their faces are fixed. Their sentences are reduced to—"Do you know the Petersons?"

"No. Do you know the Applebys?" Then at last comes a rift in the clouds. One of them happens to mention Beverly Dixon. The other is able to cry exultingly—

"Beverly Dixon? Oh, yes, rather. At least, I don't know him, but I used often to hear the Applebys speak of him."

And the other exclaims with equal delight—"I don't know him very well, either, but I used to hear the Willie Johnsons talk about him all the time."

They are saved. Half an hour later they are still standing there talking of Beverly Dixon.

An equally unsuccessful type of conversation is one in which one of the two parties is too surly or too self-important to talk, and the other labors in vain.

Mr. Grunt, capitalist, is approached by a willow lady.

"Oh, Mr. Grunt," she is saying, "how interesting it must be to be in your place. Our hostess was telling me about your shoe machinery factories."

"Honk," says Mr. Grunt.

"Oh, says Mr. Grunt, "how interesting it must be to be in your place. Our hostess was telling me about your shoe machinery factories."

"Honk," says Mr. Grunt.

"Then he turns and moves away. Into his little piggy eyes have come a fear that the lady is going to ask him to subscribe for something. Yet she is probably as rich as he, and hasn't the faintest interest in his factories. Only she is fit to move and converse in polite society and Mr. Grunt is not.

Claims Seed of Failure Sown In the Lives of Dictators

The June meeting of the Howick W. I. was held at the home of one of the St. Louis members, Mrs. Geo. Tait, with a splendid attendance of members and friends. The meeting opened in the usual manner, followed by the Roll Call answered by suitable books for children. Minutes and correspondence indicated that garden seeds had been sent to Farmsborough and that eggs were to be packed and sent to the Friendly Home, as usual. School Fair was discussed, the prize lists to be posted in the school. For a demonstration, Mrs. J. D. Lang showed a thermopack and explained its uses, after which a few notes were given on the County Convention.

Rev. Keith of Valois was the guest speaker. He spoke in his usual jovial manner, which emphasized the truths he wished to leave with us. He referred to the fact that life went in cycles and that the present time of deflection was temporary, not permanent. A selfish life was doomed, he said, speaking of dictators. The seed of failure was sown in their lives. After this very encouraging and much to the point talk, Mrs. Younie moved a vote of thanks to Rev. Keith which was seconded by Mr. Welch.

Dr. Gray was then asked to say a few words. He complimented the W. I. on its good work, mentioning the Homemakers' Clubs of the Can. West with which he was more familiar. He stressed the fact that, as members of any community, we must remember to put first things first.

Notice

Sealed tenders will be received by the undersigned for the supplying and installing of a hot water heating system and plumbing in the Hemmingford Intermediate School. Plans and specifications may be seen at the office of the School Board Chairman, T. G. McClatchie, Hemmingford. Tenders to be received up to June 15th, 1938.

From the government standards for concentrated milks and cheese, it has been calculated that 18% ounces of evaporated milk is closely equivalent in food value to one quart of whole milk. Five ounces of whole milk powder is the approximate equivalent of one quart of whole milk; three and three-quarter ounces of skim-milk powder to one quart of skim-milk, and if combined with two ounces of butter is approximately equal to one quart of whole milk in food value.

Butter and ice cream are quite dissimilar in form to milk, and also differ in nutritive value. Butter, made from the cream of milk, has a high fat content, and a correspondingly high caloric and vitamin content. Butter has a claim to a prominent place in the diet on its own merits—flavor, energy value, and its outstanding vitamin A content. The ingredients of ice cream are the same as those in milk, the difference in the two foods being in the proportion of the constituents and in the addition of sugar and flavorings to ice cream. Because of the thirteen per cent butter fat which it contains, ice cream has a high total food value, and due to the milk content, it supplies the same valuable protein and calcium as milk.

DUNDEE WOMEN'S INSTITUTE MEETING

The June meeting of the Dundee Women's Institute was held in the Community Hall on Wednesday the first, with an attendance of sixteen members. The President, Mrs. Platte, occupied the chair and opened with the "Creed" repeated in unison. The roll call was responded to with "A Quebec County and its County Town."

Mrs. N. McPhee (Jr.) gave a report on the County Convention held at Howick.

Rev. J. H. Lynn gave an excellent paper on "World Peace—A Fugitive Dream".

The members were pleased to have Mrs. Lynn with them for the afternoon.

The hostesses, Mrs. D. Smellie and Mrs. D. McPhee served lunch to all in the dining-room when a social hour was spent together.

Lady—So you are on a submarine. Tell me, what do you do? Sailor—Oh, I run forward and hold her nose when we're going to dive.

PLAN FARM CENSUS IN QUEBEC DURING JUNE

Quebec—Questionnaires are being sent forward by the Quebec Department of Agriculture to the farmers of the province with a view to obtaining statistics as to the present situation. The medium again will be the teachers in the rural schools, and the work will be done during June. The Government wishes to know the number of animals, fowls, etc., on each farm, and what lands are being put into cultivation as of June 1. All information is confidential, and cannot be used for taxation purposes.

The parish priests are also being asked to give their services with a view to having the census as complete as possible, and the school teachers will distribute the forms and collect the information for the department.

In 1937 the department received 52,000 reports, duly filled out, and the hope is that this number will be further increased.

C. A. Doyon, chief of agricultural statistics, is making the appeal to the farmers, priests and school teachers.

RUSSELLTOWN GROUP PRESENTS A PLAY

Tuesday, May 31st, the Russelltown United Church Dramatic Group presented "Lookout Lizzie", a three act comedy at the Altona, New York, High School, to a very appreciative audience. All the cast were splendid and were highly commended on their fine work. This is worthy of note, considering that they followed the Scotch Program Night that Al Plunket presented on the same stage the week previous. This stage is one of the finest equipped from all angles that one can find in a school. The good idea carried out by Al Plunket and some of his original Dumbells was extended by the Rev. Belbin and his people. The Russelltown group have been invited back and on Monday, June 6th, they will present their play for the benefit of the local Boy Scout Troop in Moores, N.Y.
