

Holding line on school budgets full-time job

By LEWIS HARRIS

AYERS CLIFF — "Paid under protest," the letter accompanying the cheque loudly asserts.

"Would you like to see the rest?" asked Robert Simonic. "They come in every day."

A cursory glance at the pile of correspondence piled high atop the left-hand corner of Mr. Simonic's desk reveals all manner of verbal protest. Some letters are gentle in their criticism and ask only that figures be checked. Others leave no doubt. Some of the letters are registered, some typewritten, one or two scribbled in long hand. But the message is almost always the same.

"People sometimes forget that we pay school taxes too," the secretary-general of the new Lennoxville Elementary Sector Board was explaining Friday.

WORKS OVER FIGURES

On the firing line as the man to whom residents of the old school districts of Sherbrooke, Lennoxville, Stanstead and Compton-Agnes-Megantic must remit taxes, Mr. Simonic spends part of his day trying to figure out ways to lower next year's taxes and the other parts of the day explaining why this year's are still so high.

Some relief is in store for weary taxpayers, according to Mr. Simonic's first budget as secretary-treasurer of the Lennoxville Sector Board. The budget which foresees a tax rate of $1.60 per $100 of fully evaluated property compares favorably to last year's rates of $1.80 in the former school districts of Sherbrooke and Lennoxville, $1.73 in the former Stanstead school district and $1.70 in the former Compton-Agnes-Megantic district.

Now that Bill 27 is law, the four old school districts have been amalgamated into what is now known as the school municipality of Lennoxville. All residents of the area will be taxed this year on the single $1.60 rate. In the past, each school district formulated its own rate.

Mr. Simonic, who formerly served as secretary-treasurer of the Stanstead school board, hopes that taxes can be brought down to a more realistic level now that school boards have been amalgamated.

ASSESSMENTS PROBLEM

But one of the main problems, Mr. Simonic said, is the unpredictability of the assessment a municipality makes on the property within its jurisdiction.

School taxes are based on the market value of property. Municipal assessments are quite often well below the market value of the property. When school tax evaluators make the rounds, they study the municipal evaluation of certain properties as a preliminary guideline. They then check the prices of the actual land sales in the municipality over the past five years. In most instances, the municipal evaluation of an individual property is well below estimated market value of the property, based on neighboring land sales. An evaluation factor is worked out to three decimal places and all property evaluations in the area are multiplied by this factor.

Until municipalities start to evaluate more accurately, a lowering of the mill rate can be offset by an increase in the evaluation factor, Mr. Simonic explained.

Often, the high sale of lakefront property means a high tax equalization factor in any given municipality, he continued. A person owning a home inland in the same municipality sees evaluation rocket because the lakefront property was originally valued too low, Mr. Simonic said. To avoid such injustices, Mr. Simonic suggested that municipal evaluation rolls be closely inspected when they are posted each spring. Often one high sale is enough to raise everyone's property value in a small town, even if the tax rate itself has been lowered.

EFFECT MIXED

Amalgamation of school boards has both helped and hindered the administration of the elementary school system, Mr. Simonic said. Because four old school boards are now one, all personnel must be integrated. Some duplication of responsibility is expected to occur, but this should be corrected as staff members gradually leave and

IRA areas occupied without fight

NO ONE HURT — Lennoxville police would not release the names of the drivers involved in an accident which took place on Belvidere Street near Queen Street in Lennoxville at about 9 p.m. Saturday night. No one was seriously hurt in the accident, however. The collision is believed to have been caused when a car proceeding west along Belvidere Street swerved to avoid a car coming out of a sidestreet and smashed into a parked car, seen above.

LONDONDERRY (AP) — Thousands of British army troops invaded Londonderry's barricaded "Free Derry" districts and other strongholds of the Irish Republican Army at 4 a.m. today. The army said its goal was to open them up to British control.

The army said there was "no resistance whatsoever" in Belfast areas and almost none in Londonderry.

The troops also occupied Dromagh, near Armagh, and Kilwilkie, near Lurgan, again without opposition, the army said.

A spearhead of armored cars and soldiers with blackened faces thrust into the Northern Ireland city's Bogside Roman Catholic enclave.

Moving quickly under cover of darkness, they encountered no immediate resistance from IRA snipers, an army spokesman said.

The army said an assault force of 1,500 troops was leading the invasion of the Bogside and Creggan estates where the IRA has held total military sway for a year behind a ring of iron and concrete barricades.

The attackers were backed by 50-ton Centurion tanks, specially equipped with bulldozer blades to tear down the barricades and restore "Free Derry" to British rule.

An army spokesman in Londonderry said in a statement:

"The army in Northern Ireland began a series of operations, mainly for the removal of barricades. The soldiers began to move into the Creggan and Bogside areas of Londonderry as well as areas in Belfast and other parts of the province.

"A large number of the 21,000 troops in Northern Ireland are taking part in the operations."

The army said it had encountered little resistance in Londonderry although some guerrillas were firing on the invaders' forward units.

GUNMAN SHOT

One gunman was reported shot by troops in a corner of the Creggan estate and sappers detonated a gelignite boobytrap bomb in Bogside.

Within half an hour of the sweep starting, the army said several barricades had been smashed and troops had occupied a school inside the Bogside.

The operation was expected to last for several hours.

Before the invasion began, Britain's administrator of Northern Ireland said security forces were taking "substantial activity."

The official, William Whitelaw, said the activity "is to enable the security forces to move freely throughout all areas and so to protect the whole community."

His statement added: "Where such activity is taking place people will best assist the security forces and protect themselves by keeping off the streets."

"We are expecting them," said one IRA guerrilla. "We have got to take them on some time—maybe tonight or tomorrow. But we are confident and we have not panicked."

Drapeau supports police chief

MONTREAL (CP) — Mayor Jean Drapeau said Sunday night that the Quebec Police Commission had erred in ruling that city police chief Jean-Jacques Saulnier was incompetent.

"It appears to me the facts don't support the conclusion arrived at by the police commission," Mr. Drapeau said on a special television broadcast.

The ruling was contained in a report made by the commission after an inquiry ordered by Justice Minister Jerome Choquette following newspaper charges that Chief Saulnier had accepted a bribe as head of the city's morality squad.

The report, made public July 13, ruled that there was no basis for any reprimand for misconduct but said Chief Saulnier should be dismissed because of incompetence.

Mayor Drapeau also said the commission's decision was regrettable because Chief Saulnier had no right of appeal to any other body except the commission which made the original recommendation.

"Bandits, rapists and murderers have the right of appeal when they are sentenced. The chief of police can only appeal to the same body which judged him," Mr. Drapeau said.

The report recommended Mr. Saulnier be demoted for incompetence.

DELAYED COMMENT

When the report was first made public, the mayor said he would not comment on it until he had time to fully study it.

"The study has not been completed," he said Sunday, "but my silence could be misinterpreted. I therefore decided to make this statement."

He said he could continue his study of the 4,000-page report and make a more detailed statement at a later date.

Mayor Drapeau also said the inquiry was intended to focus on Chief Saulnier's conduct and he was happy chief Saulnier's honesty and integrity were vindicated by the report.

No one in the city administration had been aware that the inquiry would also discuss the chief's competence, he said.

ONE ACT BLAMEWORTHY

"The report finds only one blameworthy act," after examining Chief Saulnier's actions, the mayor said. "It is that of returning a delay television set after too long a delay without informing Jean-Paul Gilbert," who was police chief in 1966.

The incident had already been the subject of an inquiry, he said, and he had studied the question himself.

Feeling grows against Eagleton

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Thomas F. Eagleton said Sunday he intends to remain as the Democratic party vice-presidential nominee but that if Senator George S. McGovern suggested he withdraw, "I'd have to weigh it."

"I won't say in advance what my irrevocable position will be," the Missouri Democrat said in a national television interview.

Democratic national chairman Jean Westwood and vice-chairman Basil A. Paterson suggested in another TV interview that he drop from the race.

"It would be a noble thing for Tom Eagleton to step down," Mrs. Westwood said, citing the controversy of the "past week."

Eagleton disclosed Tuesday that he had been in hospital for nervous exhaustion and fatigue at times between 1960 and 1966 and that he did not tell presidential candidate McGovern about it when he was asked to be vice-presidential candidate.

Any decision on whether he stays on the ticket, Eagleton said, will be made jointly and equally by himself and McGovern.

Eagleton said after the interview he was not at all sure a decision will be made at a meeting of the two candidates tonight.

APOLOGIZES IN PUBLIC

One of Eagleton's questioners on the CBS Face the Nation interview was columnist Jack Anderson, who apologized on the program for reporting without documentary proof that Eagleton had been arrested for drunk driving.

But Anderson said he could not in good conscience retract the story until he removes any doubt that photostat copies of the alleged arrest citations may still be in the hands of an unnamed person.

"I think the story has been so thoroughly discredited," Eagleton replied, "that I don't see why you can't retract it. That seems thoroughly inequitable to me."

Anderson said he was conscious that the alleged documents, which he understands are in other hands, could be forgeries.

"I do owe you an apology," the columnist said on the television program.

"I tell my reporters a fact doesn't become a fact for our column until we can prove it. I violated my own rule."

Eagleton said Anderson's story had hurt his vice-presidential campaign and had hurt his family but it "made me doubly determined to stay in the race."

NO PREJUDGING ISSUE

Eagleton said he could not prejudice what he would do if McGovern, whom Eagleton said is still fully supporting him, should change his mind about keeping Eagleton on the ticket.

Youths protest shooting

STE. THERESE, Que. (CP)

— Bands of youths roamed the streets here for the second consecutive night Sunday protesting the shooting of a 16-year-old youth Friday night by a municipal police officer.

Police said between 800 and 1,000 youths roamed the streets smashing bottles and breaking windows in the centre-town area and Mayor Rene Robert was forced to read the Riot Act.

Police using tear gas were needed to disperse the youths after the mayor had travelled to several parts of the community reading the act from a public-address system on top of a police cruiser.

On Saturday night, about 1,500 persons staged a protest demonstration against the shooting of Andre Vessard. A Quebec Provincial Police spokesman said earlier Sunday the demonstrators smashed windows and overturned a car at the home of the police officer involved in the shooting before being dispersed by riot police.

ARREST 12

Ste. Therese police said 13 persons were arrested but all were later released.

A police spokesman said Vessard was shot while fleeing from a police officer who had stopped him for questioning about drug trafficking.

Roads claim 48 dead

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Gary Crosby, 22, who recently signed a two-year contract with Los Angeles Kings of the National Hockey League, was one of 73 persons killed accidentally during the weekend.

Mr. Crosby died in a two-vehicle accident on Highway 7, seven miles west of Stratford, Ont.

He was one of 48 who died on the country's roads. Nineteen persons drowned and six died in other accidents. The survey was conducted from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday.

Quebec led the death toll with 24 killed. Nineteen died in traffic mishaps, two drowned and three were killed in other accidents.

Ontario had 23 killed. Thirteen died on the roads and 10 drowned.

Newfoundland was the only fatality-free province.

ASTRO-GUIDE By Ceean

Tuesday, August 1
The Day Under Your Sign

ARIES (Born March 21 to April 19): You are in the mood to do chores around the house and should accomplish a great deal in a short time.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20): Even though you dislike someone personally, give credit where credit is due. It's only fair.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Rays accent possibility of loss of valuable items, but they may turn up in odd places.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21): Accept invitation even though you may not be in the mood for chit-chat. You'll enjoy the food!

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Antics of children or pets may result in your frittering away time, but relaxation benefits you.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Good day for introspection. Ask yourself where you're headed, how you're going to get there, etc.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22):

You can't make up your mind and opportunity may slip through your fingers as a result of delay.

Don't let someone talk you into business deal that doesn't really interest you. Be pleasant, but firm.

Make an appointment for professional counsel if you have a legal, medical or spiritual question to discuss.

Someone in whom you had complete faith may disappoint you by telling an inaccurate version of situation.

News you've been sweating out finally arrives and may not be at all what you expected. Remain calm.

A new lifestyle intrigues you but you don't have quite enough nerve to make radical changes. Start slowly.

He played a couple of rounds of trumps; cashed his ace and king of diamonds and ran the rest of the trumps. The first discard from dummy was the queen of spades; the second the last diamond.

Then he led a club to the king and a second club back to his ace. He had seen West discard three spades and finally the queen and 10 of diamonds on the trumps. It looked very much as if West had started with four clubs.

This knowledge might not do him any good but East dropped the nine and 10 on the first two clubs. This set up a finessing situation and while Hamlet had never heard of the principle of restricted choice, he still finessed against the jack of clubs and brought the slam home.

Telling fine fellows from the others

Dear Ann Landers: That letter from "Fish with Feathers" was a lot of garbage. He said the "built-in radar" between two gay boys is a fairy tale, and if the guy is a Butch number he can't be figured. Let me tell you that any guy who has to wait until some queen throws him a kiss is pretty dumb or he hasn't been around much.

And what's this about a "chartered dress code"? The gays all along the Coast - starting up here in Vancouver, down to Seattle, Portland and San Francisco, show up in everything from white satin to black leather. Wardrobe is no tipoff these days. Perfectly straight guys are wearing ruffled shirts, wild ties, long bobs, tight pants, earrings and neck jewelry.

About those guys who claim they've made the switch, he's wrong about them, too. They are bi-sexual. When they are in a position to choose, invariably they prefer members of their own sex. Too bad some of these AC-DC types don't realize they like fellas better until after they've married a nice girl and had a couple of kids.

You'd be doing a lot of people a favor, Ann, if you'd repeat your advice: "If you're not sure, don't get married to find out. It could be a disaster." I know because - I'm One and It Was Dear I.O.: You sound like a person who knows what he's talking about. Thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: What do your medical consultants say about candy-flavored vitamins? Please answer in the column. Nobody listens to me in this house. - Voice in the Wilderness

Dear Voice: My medical consultants say candy-flavored vitamins are just dandy - for the companies that manufacture them. They do very little for the kids, however. The best way to get vitamins is to eat nourishing food.

There have been several cases of vitamin poisoning since the candy-flavored pills came out. Very young children have mistaken them for candy. And of course there are always a few dumbbells around who figure that if one is good, ten must be ten times better, so they allow a child to help himself.

Dear Ann Landers: Will you please tell me why some people think they have the right to pull their cars up outside a farmer's house and honk their horns for someone to come out and give them directions?

For the 100th time in two years, I have been disturbed by these ignorant boors. This morning at 8:30 a.m. a car pulled up alongside our home and I was in my housecoat and hair rollers. I stood in the glass doorway for a full five minutes to see if that fool would stop leaning on his horn and get out of his car. He finally rolled down his window and yelled, "Come here a minute!"

It would never occur to these motorists to honk their horns outside a city home and expect someone to come out in any kind of weather and give them directions. Why do they feel a county dweller should be treated with less courtesy and consideration? Will you kindly explain this? I am - Bemused in Kentucky greater responsibilities are defined for those who replace them. On the other hand, a larger school district means a greater number of pupils, which in turn qualifies the Lennoxville Sector Board for larger grants from the department of education.

Dear B. in K.: The answer is found in your letter. People who honk their horns outside the home of a farmer and expect someone to come out and give them directions are ignorant boors.

The Lennoxville Elementary Sector Board has approximately 2,500 elementary school students attending 10 elementary schools in its system. The board currently employs 106 teachers. This is expected to increase to 130 by the time the school year begins. In all, about 175 persons will be employed by the board.

The first budget of the LESB, prepared by Mr. Simonic, is expected to have a small surplus once the budgeted expenditures of $3,748,909 have been paid. The budget covers the 1972-73 school year.

The budget lists total inadmissibles of $107,432. Of this amount, the Lennoxville boards inadmissibles total $1,944. Through an agreement with the Eastern Townships Regional School Board, the Lennoxville Board must also pay 83.96 per cent of the ETRSB-estimated 1972-73 inadmissibles of $78,348. The transfer cost to the LESB of the ETRSB inadmissibles actually amounts to $65,488.

INTEGRATION EXPENSIVE

The figure $41,944 added to the transferred inadmissibles of $65,488 yields the total inadmissible of $107,432. Only two services have been budgeted inadmissible in the LESB budget. Mr. Simonic said. The budgeted cost under the general administration heading of the budget is $99,910. Of this, $23,047 has been declared inadmissible. Most of this can be traced to extra salaries caused by integration of personnel, Mr. Simonic explained.

The second large inadmissible is found under the school facilities item in the budget. Of the $192,706 listed as the estimated expenditure under this item, $18,897 has been declared inadmissible. A small portion of this inadmissible is due to a transferred inadmissible for transportation from the ETRSB budget.

The rest is due mainly to waste created by paying upkeep costs on elementary schools which in some are only half full.

Mr. Simonic said.

The budget reveals that Mr. Simonic's salary as secretary-treasurer will be $9,500 per year, somewhat below the norm specified by Quebec. The director-general of the board when he is chosen will be paid $18,000 per year.

The mill rate of $1.60 is arrived at by applying the normalized rate — the rate specified by Quebec as the rate needed to raise required revenues — of $1.40 per $100 of property to the total equalized property value of $89,236,000. The $1.40 evaluation is increased by the addition of a 50 mill rate to cover LESB inadmissibilities, 75 to cover ETRSB inadmissibilities and 75 to cover unforeseen inadmissibilities. The mill rates added together yield the rate of $1.60 to be charged next year.

Included in this year's budget is a $12,000 expenditure for the continuation of the North Hatley-Ayer's Cliff French program. The project, which saw elementary students from kindergarten to Grade 3 in Ayer's Cliff and North Hatley elementary schools receive instruction in French in gymnastics, art and mathematics classes, will be continued next year. It was initiated last year by North Hatley and Ayer's Cliff school principal John De Nora and consultants Graham Cantieni and Roger Tremblay.

Should the department of education not grant the necessary funds for the program, the project will nonetheless be continued, although stripped of the hoped-for government funding. Mr. Simonic said the program last year was a success and could be continued to the Grade 4 level in some instances. Mr. De Nora, however, will not be involved in the program, having resigned as principal of the two schools with the termination of the 1971-72 school year.

Revenues not raised through taxation are listed in the revenue section of the budget as statutory government grants.

Although Mr. Simonic most often must face pressure from the public himself, he said Friday that pressure from the public on administrators was an effective way of getting taxes lowered.

City set to talk over shopping centre topic

SHERBROOKE (LH) — The long debate over whether a shopping centre will be built in the city's east ward may be concluded tonight.

One of the items on the agenda for today's 7 p.m. special Sherbrooke city council meeting is a request for a change in zoning made by Toulon Construction Co. The same company was denied a similar zoning change by city council

At that time, Toulon Construction presented council with a plan whereby a $2.3 million shopping complex would be built in the city's east ward, providing the city approved Toulon's request for a zoning modification. The request was denied by a close 5-4 vote and a debate was instigated between the councillors who voted against the commercial development and the Sherbrooke Chamber of Commerce.

The Chamber of Commerce issued a declaration criticizing the vote and the subsequent loss of tax revenues for the city. The Chamber threatened as well to take the matter to the Quebec department of municipal affairs and to ask for an investigation. Last week, Chamber of Commerce president Uric Chaine renewed that initiative, although he declined to say when the request would officially be tabled. He was not available for comment last night.

RENEW REQUEST

But a new request from Toulon Construction to be studied by Sherbrooke council tonight asks for essentially the same zoning change as the request that was denied in June.

Sherbrooke council will have a chance to reverse that decision tonight. Only one change in the voting is needed to reverse the 5-4 decision of June 29 forbidding the construction of the centre. As in the first vote, councillor Romeo Quintal is expected to abstain from proceedings because of a possible conflict of interest.

Also on tonight's agenda, council will again look at a request from the Sherbrooke St. Jean Baptiste Society to rename Queen Boulevard in Sherbrooke Boulevard Liemel Groulx. About a month ago, council refused this request from the Society, explaining that it is established city policy not to rename existing streets, but to consider all possibilities for names of new streets. But the Society has renewed its request and a second official response should be forthcoming tonight.

A plan will be tabled tonight outlining preliminary possibilities for a new police-city hall complex in Sherbrooke. The plan calls for the completion of a new complex by the autumn of 1973 to be located near the present Marquette Street police headquarters. It is expected the new office complex would have approximately 43,000 square feet of floor space on three or four floors. Preliminary consideration to the complex will be given tonight.

More entries mark big fair

RICHMOND (LH) — Exact figures are not yet available, but an estimated 7-8,000 persons attended the three-day Richmond County Fair which ended yesterday. David Crack, in charge of publicity for the fair, said last night.

Cattle shows and judging contests proved to be the most popular attraction at the show, Mr. Crack said. "We had as many or more entries in all categories than we had last year," he explained.

Mr. Crack did acknowledge a "problem" with the midway. Apparently, new tax restrictions from the Quebec lottery and games board are making it difficult for midway operators to obtain the necessary government operating permits. In other cases, new high taxes being imposed by the board have discouraged other midway operators from running their shows this year.

"There were four or five booths set up that couldn't get a permit," Mr. Crack explained. "But there was not as much complaining as I thought there would be and everyone seemed to enjoy the fair," he concluded.

Police investigate explosion

SHERBROOKE (LH) — An explosion at Le Vicomte Hotel at about 6 a.m. Friday is estimated to have caused $2,000 damage, an employee of the hotel said over the weekend. He asked that his name not be used.

No one was injured when a device placed near one of the hotel's rear entrances exploded. Several windows, however, were shattered.

Police are continuing their investigation, based on reports that several persons were seen walking around the hotel a few days before the device was left to explode at the rear door.

False foundation

The Trudeau government's economic policy — to give it a charitable name — is based on a strange premise — that the upsurge in Canada's price level doesn't matter, or matters very little, so long as its foreign customers are inflating their currencies at a faster rate. In a worldwide debasement of money, we are told, the Canadian economy will not suffer because its exports will remain competitive.

But even if the hardship of Canadian consumers is thus blandly ignored, the government's basic theory has begun to collapse.

In the United States, which is Canada's primary customer, the inflation rate is suddenly slowing down while the economy speeds up. For the second quarter of this year real economic growth, in constant dollars, was at the annual rate of 8.9 per cent as compared with 6.5 per cent in the first quarter. Yet the annual rate of inflation fell from 5.1 to 2.1 per cent.

Clearly, President Nixon's controls over wages, profits and prices are taking hold. Having refused to imitate them here, the Canadian government must be appalled by the latest figures. It predicted a price rise of 4 or 4.5 per cent in Canada this year and finds that this is twice the current American rate. Such a differential, if it is maintained, must gravely damage Canada's exports, and encourage its imports sooner or later. And in the meantime it denies the whole hypothesis on which Finance Minister Turner's recent budget was based.

According to the authoritative Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development, the Canadian inflation rate is unlikely to fall in the visible future. Nourished by another big round of wage increases, it will continue for the next year at about the pace foreseen by Mr. Turner. In the middle of 1973 prices will be 4 or 5 per cent higher than they are now, with no end of the spiral in sight.

This prospect deeply worried the finance minister when he took his new portfolio, as he candidly admitted to Parliament. Now, however, a steady, compounded inflation seems to be taken as a matter of course at Ottawa, almost as a law of nature. But not at Washington.

There President Nixon realizes that the politics of his situation are as bad as the economics. Apart from his other difficulties, he knows that he must arrest the price surge, even if he cannot stop it, to ensure his reelection. Prime Minister Trudeau, on the other hand, appears to think that he can win an election in the autumn, or possibly next spring, no matter what happens to prices. When the latest American figures are grasped by the Canadian consumer Mr. Trudeau may have to change his mind, as he has often done in the past.

Already Robert Stanfield obviously has decided to make the stubborn paradox of inflation and unemployment his key electoral issue. Though it is easy for the opposition leader to denounce the government's failure to solve either problem, he has offered no solution of his own. On the contrary, he proposes higher spending, lower taxes and fiscal irresponsibility for sure, if they were enforced, to aggravate the double dilemma.

In neither party can the nation see any real hope of a remedy. But if Mr. Nixon's remedy, clumsy and complicated as it is, continues to succeed, even far short of perfection, the practical politics of Canada must eventually drive the present, or some other government, into the same sort of policy after still more erosion of Canada's savings and still more hardship for the poor, the old and the weak.

Russian withdrawal may be cunning

By Lubor J. Zink

OTTAWA — Supposing the head of state in Poland — or Hungary, Czechoslovakia, East Germany — would tell the Soviet troops stationed there to go home. Would they pack up and go?

Certainly not. Moscow would order them to fight, if necessary, to retain its hold of those countries. That's what happened in 1956 in Hungary.

Twelve years later Moscow sent half a million troops to Czechoslovakia when the Communist government in Prague tried to pursue moderately independent domestic and foreign policies.

From this it's pretty obvious that whatever the pretext, once Soviet troops move next to impossible to get rid of them. It certainly cannot be done by simply ordering them out, for none of the "host" countries has the strength to enforce the order.

What, then, accounts for the reported exodus of Soviet troops from Egypt in what seems to be compliance with President Sadat's eviction announcement?

Searching for a plausible answer to this question some observers point out that, unlike the nations of eastern and central Europe, Egypt is not exactly a Soviet satellite. Moscow therefore, cannot presumably treat Cairo the same way it treats East Berlin, Prague, Warsaw, Budapest, Sofia and Bucharest.

Also, these people say, having invited Soviet troops for a specific purpose, the Egyptian government can send them home when it no longer needs or wants them.

That's rubbish. For while Egypt is deemed to be an independent and sovereign state, so are, under international law, the countries of eastern and central Europe. And since Moscow does not hesitate to violate international law in treating nominally independent and sovereign states in half of Europe as Soviet colonies, it would not hesitate to treat Egypt, or any other pawn of Kremlin strategy, in exactly the same way whenever the tactical exigencies of Soviet imperialism required it.

As for the Egyptian government's invitation of Soviet troops for a certain purpose, wasn't the world told that the invasion of Czechoslovakia was also the result of an official invitation for a specific purpose?

The difference between fact and fiction would not worry Moscow in the least. If anything, the fact that the government in Cairo, unlike the governments in Budapest and Prague, did invite Soviet troops would make it easier for Communist propaganda to justify their continued presence in Egypt even if Sadat had managed to demand their withdrawal in defiance of Moscow's wishes.

Considering that apart from some 20,000 troops, the Kremlin sent to Egypt a strong contingent of secret service personnel, it's highly unlikely that Sadat could have sprung a surprise on Moscow.

Assuming Soviet foreknowledge of Sadat's move, one also has to assume Soviet approval of it. For had Sadat tried to outsmart or embarrass Moscow, his timely replacement by a more pliable man should not have been too difficult. This line of reasoning raises the possibility of a put-up job on Sadat's part. And that in turn raises the question of Moscow's motives.

There are several possible answers. One is that Moscow sees another Arab-Israeli war coming and, while not basically opposed to it, does not want to get directly involved.

Another is that the men in the Kremlin have found Egypt incapable of providing an efficient fighting force and want to salvage at least a propaganda bonus from their huge investment into a hopeless military venture. They can count on boosting their "detente" stratagem by withdrawal of troops from Egypt.

Yet another possibility is a combination of the psychological effect of withdrawal at Egypt's request — a touching demonstration of respect for the wishes of a small country — and maintenance of the military position virtually intact. This could be accomplished by demonstrative withdrawal of non-essential personnel while troops operating sophisticated Soviet weapons remain under the guise of a residue of instructors. In the event of war, Moscow then could disclaim any participation in the fighting. It's a possibility which shouldn't be overlooked.

On the right

with William F. Buckley Jr.

WASHINGTON — The real story of Sen. George McGovern's handling of the Democratic chairmanship is doubly interesting. It casts a lot of light on the man himself. And it casts a lot of light on the real character of the alleged McGovern drive to unify the Democratic Party.

The story begins during Miami Beach's bleary morning-after, when Chairman Lawrence O'Brien had already called the new Democratic National Committee to order for its first meeting. At this belated juncture, O'Brien in the chair received a hurried call from the party's nominee, Sen. McGovern asked him to recess the committee meeting so that they could have a talk.

Obediently, O'Brien suggested that the national committee meet again in two hours and he went down the street to Sen. McGovern's suite in the Doral Hotel. In one of the sitting rooms of the suite, McGovern promptly asked O'Brien to continue as national chairman.

Initially, the senator pressed for a co-chairmanship, "to take care of the women." O'Brien replied that he was not sure he wanted to continue in any case, but was quite sure that he could not continue in a situation of divided authority. Whereupon the offer was amended by McGovern, to make it the chairmanship for O'Brien with no strings attached.

O'Brien said he was favorably inclined, but would have to consult Joseph Califano and one or two other staff members who had accompanied him to the Doral. McGovern said that he, too, would have to consult with his own people, who were in the next room of his suite.

O'Brien had decided to accept the offer before McGovern returned, but in the meanwhile, there had been hell to pay next door. Sen. McGovern's brilliant organizer and campaign manager, Gary Hart, was apparently determined to teach his candidate that he had no right to take such independent steps as the offer to O'Brien. The lesson had sunk home, too.

When McGovern rejoined O'Brien, in consequence, the formerly unqualified offer began to be heavily qualified. O'Brien naturally bowed out. Mrs. Jean Westwood and Pierre Salinger then got the senator's blessing; and these two actually accompanied O'Brien and McGovern to the resumed national committee meeting.

Even there, however, Sen. McGovern's announced will did not prevail. The New York black leader, Basil Patterson, was nominated in opposition to Pierre Salinger — reportedly on the suggestion, behind the scenes, of members of the Hart faction of the McGovern staff. Sen. McGovern somewhat weakly said he had no preference between Salinger and Patterson. Salinger also bowed out, not surprisingly, since he had just been told that he was the senator's own choice.

So Salinger, the most faithful of the faithful, has gone home to France. And campaign manager Gary Hart has got a national committee apparatus which he can fully control.

The foregoing story closely parallels the strange business of the intentional humiliation of Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago. Initially, Sen. McGovern tried to avert the challenge to the Daley delegation. Only a month ago, Frank Mandiewicz was saying, for the record, that even if the challenge could not be quashed, enough McGovern delegates would be found to vote for the mayor so that the Daley delegation would be seated anyway. But in the upshot, Gary Hart's anti-Daley arguments prevailed.

In both cases, the pattern was the same. Ideological purity got priority over old-fashioned political common sense. Purity's prime promoter was also campaign manager Gary Hart, and purity's triumph, against the initial inclinations of Sen. McGovern himself, was again the triumph of Hart. It must be added that this sort of thing can come pretty high, even within the McGovern organization. One sign was the important though unnoticed departure from Miami Beach of the biggest McGovern contributor, Max Palevsky, who had his bellyful.

On the other hand, the Democratic National Committee is now the mere plaything of the purists in the McGovern organization. They are going to have another commission like the one that produced the McGovern rules. They are going to have an "interim" Democratic convention in 1974.

When they get through, they will surely have arranged matters to ensure their own control of the real national convention in 1976. And thus there will be some consolation, even if Sen. McGovern is defeated.

Eagleton's fitness (?)

By Peter Buckley

WASHINGTON (CP) — The American public may decide it doesn't care whether Senator Thomas Eagleton had mental problems in the past, thus allowing Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern to keep him as vice-presidential candidate, but other questions about the Eagleton disclosures are likely to remain.

The most persistent question being asked here is this: Does Eagleton's initial decision not to reveal the mental breakdowns, even to McGovern, undermine his credibility and cast doubt on his judgment?

The answer seems certain to be that it does, although the extent of the damage is less easy to gauge.

McGovern and Eagleton left the implication Tuesday that they were volunteering the information of their own accord, in the hope that their candor would outweigh unfavorable public reaction to the news that Eagleton had undergone psychiatric treatment and electroshock therapy in the past.

However, subsequent revelations and analyses appear to have undermined their position.

Most damaging was the admission that Eagleton had been asked before the nomination whether there was anything embarrassing in his record that McGovern should know about and he had said there wasn't.

FEARED EXPOSURE

Yet Eagleton and his wife discussed his mental history as a potential liability days before he was offered the vice-presidential role, and he admits to having lived for years in fear that it would be revealed.

And the McGovern-Eagleton announcement was apparently made only after several reporters had already gathered evidence about the mental treatment and the news seemed on the verge of being published.

Eagleton's colleagues in the Senate, both Republican and Democratic, have been generous in their praise of him since the revelation and seemingly unanimous that his mental treatment should not weigh against him as a potential vice-president — a man who, the columnists are fond of saying, stands a heart-beat away from the presidency.

But almost none has addressed the problem of Eagleton's credibility and those politicians who have discussed it tend to want the young senator from Missouri to step down.

Another question which follows from the Eagleton story goes to the heart of the process for picking a vice-presidential candidate.

At present, his selection is entirely up to the presidential nominee and the choice is often made after hasty calculations of "balance" and availability.

Thus, while the presidential nominees undergo a scrutiny that would be thought unpleasantly meddlesome in countries less obsessively curious than the United States, the vice-presidential nomination may fall on someone virtually unknown to either public or politicians.

The choice of Eagleton was no more unprecedented in that respect than Richard Nixon's decision to pluck Spiro Agnew from the Maryland governor's mansion in 1968.

The American voter's attitude toward mental disability has probably matured substantially in recent decades, but few analysts would assert that Eagleton's history will make no difference at all to voters. On the contrary, the consensus is that it inevitably damages the McGovern campaign.

However, Senator McGovern may in the end be under pressure to drop Eagleton less in fear of a hostile voter reaction than because of a painful reassessment of the other issues raised by the timing of Eagleton's disclosures.

TAYLOR-KNOWLES - The marriage of Miss Norma Isobel Knowles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Knowles, of Richmond, Quebec, to Mr. Orin Ross Taylor, also of Richmond, took place recently at the home of the bride's brother, Mr. Malcolm Knowles in Danville.

Wedding anniversary

WARDEN - On Sunday, July 16 Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Talbot attended a dinner in their honor in the dining room of the Maurice Steak House at Waterloo.

Members of the family were present to extend good wishes and to join in the celebrations of their 45th wedding anniversary.

At the conclusion of dinner, a beautifully decorated anniversary cake was enjoyed by all.

Engagement announced

SHAW-FLECK - Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Fleck of Richmond wish to announce the approaching marriage of their only daughter, Donna Jean, to Mr. Tom Shaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Shaw of Toronto. The wedding will take place Aug. 4, 7:30 p.m. in Toronto.

Bridal shower held

NORTH HATLEY - Miss Cathleen Crawford, a September bride-to-be, was guest-of-honor at a china shower held on Saturday afternoon, July 22, at the home of Mrs. Fred Walker, Earlstown.

Miss Crawford was met at the door by the hostesses, Mrs. Dorel Crawford and Mrs. Robert Ride and presented with a corsage of pink and white carnations. The bride-elect was seated in a chair decorated with pink and white streamers, with a pink umbrella and little bridesmaids with skirts of pink.

Mrs. George Crawford, the bride's mother and Mrs. Archie Moore, the groom's mother, were each presented with a red carnation corsage, and assisted Cathy in opening her gifts. The gifts included a wide variety of Miss Crawford's chosen set of china. After the gifts had been opened and passed around, Cathleen expressed her sincere thanks to everyone.

A game was played. Mrs. Kenneth Price and Mrs. William Ride won the prizes.

Assisting the hostesses with the refreshments were Mrs. Fred Walker and Mrs. Gail Lloyd. The shower cake was a fruit cake, made and decorated in pink and white by Mrs. Gail Lloyd and topped with a miniature bride and groom.

Guests attending were from Montreal, North Hatley, Waterville, Lennoxville, Earlstown, Richmond and Kinross Mills.

MR. and MRS. MERTON CARSON, South Durham, Que., who celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on June 24, 1972 at the home of their son. Several relatives and friends were present to offer congratulations and good wishes.

Service in Stone Church

STANBRIDGE RIDGE - A very beautiful well attended service was held on Sunday July 16 in the Stone Church. This beautiful old church is this year celebrating its 130th anniversary.

At the conclusion of the service Mr. Machia accompanied by Mrs. Machia on the accordion sang the beautiful "The Song of the Soul Set Free". Visitors were there from Mystic, Stanbridge East, Bedford, Frelighsburg, South Bolton, Fordyce, Cowansville, Montreal and Clarenceville. At the beginning of the service of the families connected with it at that time was given by Mr. Guy Martindale. He also mentioned the first marriage performed there - Miss Sally Martindale to Mr. Reuben Corey and many other interesting incidents. The first minister was Elden Jewett, a relative of the late Mr. Edmund Hodge and also the late Mr. Victor Jenkins.

This church is non-denominational and has been used by ministers and congregations of many faiths.

Senior citizens enjoy outing

DANVILLE - A happy bus load of Senior Citizens from the Wales Home, Richmond, left St. Augustine's Church Hall for their homeward trip on Thursday afternoon, July 20, after having enjoyed a tea served by the staff of the Half Century Club of this town. Accompanying them were Mrs. Armstrong, Matron and Miss Vera Miller R.N.A. of the Wales Home Staff.

Earlier in the afternoon, Mr. John Philbrick, secretary of the Richmond Historical Society welcomed the group to the Museum in Melbourn, after which the bus touring through St.

George de Windsor and Asbestos, arriving at the Parish Hall here at the tea hour. Many of those on the tour were paying their first visit to Danville, and it is hoped that the impression was favorable. Former Danville residents on the trip included Mrs. Lyman Morrill, Miss Ethel Perkins, Mrs. Bertha Perkins, Miss Nellie Evans, Mr. Roy Cleveland and Mr. Cedric Morrill. Two long tables had been set up in the dining hall, and all did ample justice to the delicious home-made breads served them with an abundance of hot tea.

Canadian women have what it takes

Whether women's rights are a practical political issue remains to be seen.

Truly radical feminists won't test it because they consider the political system corrupt. In Canada the feminist movement is not politically active to any great extent.

Some less extreme women's rights activists say it's up to women to make the issue practical because the traditional, male-dominated political parties won't do it. A handful of them are planning to run as independents.

A few more want to run under party banners as women's rights candidates.

A Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press indicates women already elected to public office consider them all dreamers.

Those who have gone the traditional route agree it is the only route to political power. They say women are not elected on other women's votes and don't stand a chance of being elected on women's rights platforms. Some of them resist any effort to lay claims on them on behalf of women.

CHANGES OPINION

Most add, however, that the stir over women's rights is affecting the political scene by changing public opinion about women, their abilities and their chances as candidates.

They also maintain there have been too few women willing to work to get elected and stay that way.

There are a total of 13 women in seven provincial legislatures, one in the House of Commons and seven in the Senate. Six of the legislature members are in provincial cabinets.

Inez Trueman of Winnipeg comments on a paradox:

"Once a constituency elects a woman, it takes a certain amount of pride in that, and feels it is progressive."

Mrs. Trueman is a Progressive Conservative member of the Manitoba house.

HAD MANY REASONS

The women interviewed, said they sought nomination for a variety of reasons or were asked to run because they were in the public eye politically. Once nominated, they worked with their backers as any candidate would.

Several of them said they did not run as "women" and certainly did not count on garnering the "women's vote."

Jean Cantfield of Craapaud, P.E.I., a Liberal, is the Island's first female legislature member.

She says: "I made it clear in my maiden speech that I didn't intend to represent womanhood, but rather all the people."

Dorothy Wyatt, on the municipal council in St. John's, Nfld., says the sex of someone holding public office is irrelevant.

"I don't run out of meetings, I don't cry. I think if I did it would reflect unfavorably on other women."

Lise Bacon of Montreal says she does not believe women will sweep one another when they vote. She is president of the Quebec Liberal party.

WOMEN BRAINWASHED

Mabel Fleming, a vice-president of the Saskatchewan NDP, says women who won't vote for a woman have been brainwashed into believing the whole sex is inferior.

Grace MacInnis, NDP member of Parliament for Vancouver-Kingsway, is the only woman in the House of Commons. She says it is not practical to enter politics specifically to further women's rights.

"I don't think you can fight for women's rights apart from human rights."

"I'm not happy about this movement to have women run as women without party affiliation. I've told them I don't think that's going to work because an independent is a lost soul around here."

She was referring to groups such as the Women for Political Action in Toronto. It was formed to encourage and support women willing to run on women's rights platforms. At least one member has said she will run as an independent.

At a recent public meeting sponsored by the group, Margaret Scrivener expressed the same sentiments as Mrs. MacInnis. She is Conservative MPP for Toronto St. David.

"To me it is naive to think of the political process in terms of men and women, rather than of people."

In Vancouver, Rosemary Brown plans to run as NDP candidate in the next provincial election with the encouragement of a similar group, the Status of Women Action Committee.

"We decided we are going to have to get off our butts and get elected. As 51 per cent of the population, we are grossly under-represented, and we have to do something about it."

LITTLE FAITH

The feminist movement in Canada has taken little political action. One reason, according to members, is that they have no faith in established parties.

Jacqui Good of Women's Liberation in Fredericton, says: "People are alienated from the political process. Organized political parties here haven't much to offer women."

Ruth Tailon of Women's Liberation in Halifax says most women in politics now built their careers before the feminist movement was a factor.

"I think most people now involved in extra-parliamentary activity are not likely to go into a major political party."

TOO FAR LEFT

Irene MacGregor, director of the Alberta women's bureau, says that feminists are often too far left to fit comfortably into any party, even the NDP Waffle group.

However, there is a general feeling that the movement is having an indirect effect.

Una MacLean Evans, an Edmonton alderman, says: "There is a greater realization on the part of women that they are qualified for political life, that they are not barred by anything but their own inaction."

"Some of the fears women have had about getting involved in politics are being dissipated by the feminist movement."

Mary Casey of Halifax, a Liberal candidate in the next federal election, says increased interest in women's rights is helping convince people that women can be successful candidates.

How's Your Hearing?

Chicago, Ill.—A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of the smallest Beltone aid ever made will be given absolutely free to anyone answering this advertisement.

Try it to see how it is worn in the privacy of your own home without cost or obligation of any kind. It's yours to keep, free. It weighs less than a third of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit. No wires lead from body to head.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Write to Dept. 5347, Beltone Electronics, 3637 Metropolitan Blvd., E., Montreal 38, P. Q.

Stork shower held

The Melbourn Ridge church hall was the scene of a pink and blue shower held recently for Mrs. Malcolm Marshall of Oak Hill, Ill.

Eileen was received at the door by Mrs. Wayne Mills, who presented her with a novelty corsage and a blanket-wrapped baby doll, while about 35 relatives and friends sang "Rock-A-Bye-Baby."

She was then escorted to a decorated chair and presented with a large table, well-loaded with attractively wrapped gifts. Eileen's mother, Mrs. Fred Clark, and her mother-in-law, Mrs. William Marshall, assisted in opening the gifts.

After the gifts had been passed around for everyone to admire, Eileen expressed her thanks and appreciation.

Refreshments, including a shower cake, made and decorated by Mrs. Clinton Doyle, were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Wayne Mills, Mrs. Francis Mills, Mrs. Clinton Doyle, Mrs. Garth Smith, Mrs. William Adamson and Mrs. William Marshall.

Confirmation Service

Stephen Morson - 243-5870

KNOWLTON - A combined Service of Holy Communion and Confirmation was held in St.

Paul's Church on Sunday morning July 9 when His Lordship the Bishop of Montreal conferred the Apostolic Rite of Confirmation on the following candidates: David Brian Cousins, Brian Clare Goyette, Ricky Wayne Mailloux, Michael John Cousins, James Robert Harvey, Jane Foster Henry, Judith Ann Russell, Debra Nora Page.

A full choir sang the hymns: Stand Up, Stand Up for Jesus, Breathe on me Breath of God, This is My Father's World, and from the new Hymn Book, Jesus is the Man who cares for others. During the Celebration of Holy Communion the choir sang, And Now O Father, and Just as I am.

Officiating at the service was Lay Reader Stephen Morson, the candidates were presented by the Rector Rev. Ian N. Dodd.

Following the service soft drinks were served on the church lawn in brilliant sunshine, and the Bishop after posing with the candidates for many shutter bug enthusiasts, mixed and met with the large congregation of friends and families of the candidates and the parishioners.

From St. Paul's Church weekly bulletins.

Two thoughts for the week to tide you through the heavy work days! A lot of people grumble because God put thorns on roses, but it is better to thank God for putting Roses on Thorns!

If you are tired and cannot sleep, if you are worried and cannot sleep, don't count sheep, Talk To The Shepherd!

Community picnic grand success

WINDSOR — The Lower Windsor community picnic was held on Sunday, July 9, on the spacious lawns surrounding the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Farquhar. Nearly one hundred were on hand to enjoy the delicious picnic lunch served at the noon hour. A long table under the trees was laden with goodies galore and the food and cold drink disappeared fast as all filled by and piled high their plates, then found a seat in the shade of the large evergreen trees.

Throughout the afternoon more friends arrived to join the gathering. It was a day of reminiscing as old friends met again and many new ones were welcomed. While the older folk visited, the little ones enjoyed an afternoon of fun and races. Many of the young folk went for a swim in Willow Brook before returning to take part in the games.

Races for the young folk included the 40 yd. dash, marble-on-a-pony race, sack race, wheelbarrow race, 3 legged race, shoe race and peanut scramble. There was also a race for the single girls, the bachelors, married women, married men, and last but not least, a grandmother's race.

Mrs. Gordon Sims took the lead in this, followed by Mrs. Bert McGee, Mrs. Meuris and Mrs. Melvin McCourt.

Mrs. Lorena Watson was a popular figure during the afternoon, and a busy one too, as she gave out the small prizes, something for everyone taking part.

A chocolate layer cake, made by Mrs. Wm. Kilshaw, was given as a door prize and won by Steven Jandron. A piecework quilt, which had been completed by the Ladies Aid during the winter, was won by a happy little girl, seven year old Cindy Paterson.

As the afternoon drew to a close, ice cream and cold drink was served to all. Three cheers were given to the host and hostess as all prepared to return home with hopes of being back next year to renew acquaintances once again.

Attending were folk from Michigan, U.S.A., Sand Hill, North Hatley, Montreal, St. Jean, Asbestos, Sherbrooke, St. Cyr, Melbourne, Richmond, Cleveland and the local area.

The following took part in the races: Under five years old; Scott Paterson, Diane McCourt, Peggy McCourt; five and six years; Bobby McCourt, Roy McCourt; seven and eight years; Cindy Paterson, Marise Depault, Donna McCourt, Claude Roy; nine and ten years; Brenda McCourt, Debbie Watson, Karen McCourt, Elaine Roy, Brent Jandron, Jimmy Watson, John Williams.

Eleven and twelve years: Don Paterson, Johnny Roy, Brian McCourt, Mark Paterson, Daniel Laroche, teenagers: Sheila McCourt, Shirley Paterson, Roy Perkins; single girls: Marlene McGee, Glenna Watson, Louise Farquhar, Irene McKenna, Doris McKenna, Alice Cleary, Tony Meuris; bachelors: Gerry

Accident-Proof Your Home and Yard

By DAVID HENDIN
NEA Science Editor

Is your home a dangerous place for your children?

The frightening fact is that accidents kill more children under 15 than cancer, birth defects, pneumonia and heart disease put together. In 1970 alone accidents killed more than 15,000 in this age group and about a third of the accidents occurred in the home.

If there are dangers in and around your home, and you ignore them, you could be endangering your child's life. They should be corrected immediately.

It is equally important for you to know how to treat all types of accidental injuries if they do occur. No matter how safe your home is, or how carefully you watch your children, they are bound to be out of your sight just long enough for an accident to occur.

Since the only sure cure for any accident or disease is prevention, let's deal with some steps you can take to make home safer.

Accident prevention is an activity that should go on all year long, but summer is the time to pay particular attention to hazards in the area of your pool, patio and garden. Here is a safety checklist for those areas of your home:

- Forbid use of portable electric appliances within 10 feet of the pool.
- Keep extension cords away from poolside.
- Take care in handling poolside accessories. Handsave your child's life!

dling things while wet can cause shocks.

- Be aware of the danger spots in a pool's wiring. These include filter pump motor, filter, time clock, pool cleaning equipment, electronically operated pool covers and heating equipment.

- No glass should be allowed in the pool area. Use plastic or paper cups, plates and pitchers.

- Be sure your pool is properly fenced. Dozens of children die each year from drowning in backyard pools.

- No children should ever be allowed to swim alone. The "buddy system" used in many camps is an effective way of preventing accidents.

- No children should ever be allowed to swim when overtired, overheated or just after eating.
- Discourage horseplay in the pool and patio area.

- Play it safe in barbecuing. Keep children away. Use gloves or potholders.

- If your pool has a raised deck, be sure that its sides are safe and youngsters cannot fall through or over them.

- Do not overload decks; they can, and have collapsed, resulting in tragic loss of lives.

- All outdoor electrical wiring and lighting should be done by an expert. It is too easy to get electrocuted from an amateur job.

- Forbid the use of all firecrackers, cherry bombs and fireworks.

- Make sure guests and children are aware of any poisonous plants or dangerous animals in or around your home.

- Make sure that playground equipment is safe and sturdy. No sharp edges or rust allowed.

Go through your entire house or apartment room by room, noting the corrections that need to be made. There may be some obvious ones that you will easily find.

Once you find the potential dangers, eliminate them. You'll sleep better the night that you do.

St. Armand

Mrs. G. Kidd

Mrs. Paul Selfe of Clarenceville has been spending some time here this week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. Dagesse.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Walton have returned to their home in Nashua, N.H., after spending a week's vacation with Mrs. Walton's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Guthrie.

COME AND GET THIS YUMMY LEMON PIE

Anniversary pie and other delights

ANNIVERSARY LEMON PIE

- ¾ cup cold milk
- ¾ cup cold light cream
- 1 package (4-serving size) lemon instant pudding
- ¼ teaspoon vanilla
- ¼ teaspoon nutmeg
- 1 baked 8-inch pie shell, cooled
- 1 envelope dessert topping mix
- 1 tablespoon sugar

Pour milk and cream into bowl. Add instant pudding mix, vanilla, and nutmeg. Slowly beat with rotary beater or at lowest speed of electric mixer for 1 minute. Pour 1 ¼ cups immediately into shell. Chill.

Prepare dessert topping mix

as directed on package, adding the sugar to mix before whipping. Measure 1 cup topping and blend into remaining pudding mixture. Spread over filling in the pie shell. Chill at least 1 hour. Garnish with remaining whipped topping and strawberry slices, if desired.

Talbot makes team

MONTREAL (CP) — Dan Talbot, the 19-year-old former Quebec junior champion from Belloil, was among four golfers selected to the Quebec Willingdon Cup team following Sunday's trials at the Pinegrove Golf Club. Talbot will be joined by Mickey Batten, 29, of Beauchateau, 20-year-old Mike Daly of Montreal, and Pierre Lessard, 24, of East Angus, Que. Golfers were selected to the team based on their showing in the two-day trials and from the results of other tournaments held this summer. The team will represent Quebec in Calgary, Aug. 7 and 8 in the Canadian interprovincial team matches.

Wood has mound woes

By BRUCE LOWITT

Associated Press Sports Writer

Wilbur Wood was having trouble getting used to the Minnesota mound. But Tom Hilgendorf was delighted with the way he found the one in Cleveland. "It took me quite a time to get adjusted to the mound," Wood, Chicago's knuckleballing veteran, said Sunday after trying—and failing—to become one of the winningest pitchers in the American League.

One of Wood's less successful pitches dropped into the left field pavilion, 351 feet away from home plate, for a Harmon Killebrew home run in the sixth inning that powered Minnesota Twins to a 1-0 victory over the White Sox.

Hilgendorf, getting his first major league start as a new member of the Cleveland pitching staff, said he knew good times were ahead when he ambled out to the bullpen for some pregame warming up.

"I can tell just by walking out there," he said, "if the mound looks a long way away—then look out. But today it seemed close and I knew it was okay."

TAKE A DOUBLE

It was more than just okay. Hilgendorf hurled a six-hitter, striking out seven Milwaukee batters as Indians beat Brewers 6-1 to sweep a doubleheader. Cleveland had taken the opener 3-2.

In other American League games, Texas took two from Oakland, 2-1 and 4-2; Boston split

Tope takes title

ST. PIERRE, Que. (CP) — Warren Tope of Bloomfield Hills, Mich., driving a Mustang, won the 150-mile Trans-Am at Sanair Sunday. Tope, 25, led the field of 31 racers for all but 33 of the 130 laps, finishing the 169-mile race in two hours, nine minutes and 13.2 seconds. Bill Collins of West St. Paul, Minn., driving a Javelin, finished second, 20 seconds behind Tope, as the two U.S. drivers were the only ones to cross the finish line. After the first lap, Mo Carter of Hamilton, Ont., driving a Camaro, hit the guard rail, bounced back into the field and collided with another Camaro driven by Walter Perkins. Carter was taken to hospital but later released. The accident also eliminated the Firebird of Californian Milt Minter, who had qualified fifth fastest, just behind Carter. Two other top competitors, Lee Roy Yarbrough, who at various times has won virtually all the major U.S. stock car races, and Roy Woods did not leave the starting line.

a pair with Detroit, winning 4-3 before Tigers took the second game 7-2; Baltimore blanked New York Yankees 5-0 and California defeated Kansas City Royals 4-3 and California Angels 4-3 in 11 innings. In Saturday action, Milwaukee Brewers defeated Detroit Tigers 8-3; Baltimore Orioles edged Cleveland Indians 4-3; New York Yankees routed Boston Red Sox 8-1; Oakland Athletics whipped Minnesota Twins 7-2; Chicago White Sox nipped Kansas City Royals 4-3 and California Angels 4-3 in 11 innings. Harmon's 18th homer of the year was also the 533rd of his career, moving him within one of fifth-place Jimmy Foxx.

Foster entries near top level

KNOWLTON (FW) — A total of 169 horses competed for 17 trophies at the Foster Horse Show Sunday. This year's event, the 22nd annual show, came close to breaking the record number of entries, 175, set in 1967.

Held in the Lions Community Park in Knowlton under sunny skies, the various events attracted riders and owners from all over the Eastern Townships. Proceeds will be donated to the Lions Club near the town of Bromelake.

Pirates clipped twice

WEST HAVEN, Conn. (LH) — Sherbrooke Pirates dropped two Eastern League baseball games Saturday and Sunday to the rampaging West Haven Yankees by scores of 6-2 and 6-0.

For the Yankees they were the 15th and 16th wins in their last 17 games. They now lead the American Division by 10½ games. The once-mighty Pirates are now in a virtual tie for first place with Three Rivers Eagles in the National Division. On Saturday, Bob Guerrero gave up six runs, six hits and seven walks in 5 2-3 innings pitched. He was charged with the loss, which brought his record to 6-7.

The Yanks struck for four runs in the sixth inning before 1,727 cheering fans to break a 2-2 tie. The Pirates scored one early run on an error charged to West Haven shortstop Otto Velez with the bases loaded. Jim Campanis counted the last Pirate run with a bases-empty home run blast.

Dave Cheadle got the win for the Yanks with late inning relief help from Lloyd Coloson, who pitched out of a jam in the seventh to preserve the win.

On Sunday, George Medich handcuffed the Pirates on four hits, two by left fielder Perry Dunn and one each by Fernando Gonzalez and Dave MacFarland. The Yankees got all the offence they needed with a total of four home runs from Velez, Charlie Spikes, Ken Bennett and Bob Carson. Medich, a pre-medical student who joined the Yankees late in the season, raised his record to 7-2. He went the distance, didn't walk a man and struck out five. The Pirates take their losing streak to Pawtucket for a series against the Red Sox before returning home Friday for a series against Reading Phillies.

Big Bucs eye fun

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pittsburgh Pirates wouldn't mind having a little fun but San Diego Padres would like a little rest.

The Pirates scored all their runs in the last two innings Sunday to rout Philadelphia Phillies

7-1 and maintain their National League East lead at seven games over New York Mets, who shaded Montreal Expos 3-1.

"If we continue to get the pitching, were going to have a lot of fun in the second half," said Richie Hebner, who hit a tie-breaking three-run homer as the Pirates scored four times in the eighth inning.

Pittsburgh's Bruce Kison and Philadelphia's Barry Lersch were looked in a scoreless duel until the Phillies took a 1-0 lead

Doucet wins pro-am

SOREL, Que. (CP) — Duke Doucet of Windsor, fired a two-under-par 70 and won a sudden-death playoff hole Sunday to take the $1,000 first-prize money in the Champlain Septiles Express pro-am golf tournament.

Doucet, 26, was tied with Ri-chelleu Valley's Andre Harvey after 18 holes. But on the first hole of their play-off Doucet sank a 25-foot birdie putt while Harvey carded a par 4.

Harvey collected $750 from the $5,000 tournament purse. Tied for third were Jean Milaire of Joliette and Jean-Guy Periard of Boucherville.

Jean Giroux of St. Hyacinthe, Michel Veilleux of Richelleu Valley, Jean-Guy Gendron of Bic, and Norman Doyle of Hillsdale shot par 72's.

Doucet, the pro at the nine-hole Windsor Golf Club, collected $6,500 on the CPGA tour last year.
