SITUATION IN RUSSIA BECOMES MORE DESPERATE

Strike is Spreading to Almost Every Class of Workmen—Professional Men Decide to Join in Revolutionary Movement—Advices From Interior Are Very Disquieting

St Petersburg, October 27.—Warnings to the people that in case of disorder the soldiers will fire ball cartridges, are posted on every street corner today. The city is outwardly calmer under the rigorous measures adopted. General Trepoff, in order to restore confidence, directed all shopkeepers to take down the boards from shop windows during the night and this morning the city awoke to find the shops re-opened.

Little squads of soldiers are scattered along the streets and in the markets to preserve order. Even detachments of the crack guard regiments are doing patrol duty. Nevertheless beneath the surface there is much excitement. The revolutionists have spread the tidings that a revolution has begun and the city is filled with the wildest rumors. For example a story is afloat that a provisional Government has been established. The better classes are afraid to venture out. Many meetings have been held during the night. Though the task of continuing the general strike more than a few days seemed utterly hopeless to the practical-minded, it is significant of the deep-rooted craving for liberty that the agitators have experienced little difficulty in inducing all classes of workmen to join in the anti-Government demonstration.

Professional Men on Strike.

At a meeting of delegates from the professional unions, comprising doctors, druggists and lawyers, it was decided to strike from October 28 until a constituent assembly is summoned.

The latest advices from Minsk, Kieff and Saratoff are disquieting. With a single exception, all the newspapers of Kieff have declared in favor of a strike. All the drug stores in Saratoff are closed and the town is without artificial light and no newspapers are appearing. The Saratoff town council has organized a committee for the protection of the citizens.

Printers Join Strikers.

The street cars in St. Petersburg have ceased running and the employes of the Bureau of Ways and Communications, and even the bank and office employes have agreed to affiliate themselves with the movement. The printers have resolved upon a unique demonstration to voice their demand for a free press. They have decided not to print a single regular newspaper to-morrow and instead to publish clandestinely an uncensored paper for distribution by the workmen containing the demands of the proletarial for a constituent assembly. Just when reports were abroad that freedom of assembly would be granted, a bad impression has been created by the publication in the official messenger of a belated set of "temporary" regulations, three columns in length, dealing with the right of assembly which will require from three to seven days' notice to the police of the object of the meeting, with the names of the speakers, etc. Then if permission is granted the police are empowered to close the meetings if opinions are uttered which are supposed to threaten public order.

Troops Side With Malcontents.

The news from the interior is meagre. The situation has not improved. According to reliable reports, the troops at Kharkoff sided with the students and strikers. In many places the schools are closed. The high school girls of Pskoff walked out to-day.

The Russ, now the leading organ of the constitutional party, declares that Count Witte's accession to power will not satisfy the people unless he comes forward with a programme which will meet the wants of the nation. Only absolutely solid guarantees for the future can now avail to reassure the people that the past will not repeat itself.

In Full Strike at Warsaw.

Warsaw, Oct. 2.—Telegraphic communication between Warsaw and St. Petersburg, Moscow and Berlin was severed to-day in consequence of a fire in the telegraph office caused by the fusing of electric wires.

The strike is in full swing at the factories here, and the agitators are urging the employes of the banks and insurance and commercial houses to leave their work. The shops are still open. The workmen are holding big meetings without interference on the part of the police.

General Strike at Lodz.

Lodz, Russian Poland, Oct. 27.—The employes of all the local factories, street car lines and the suburban railroads have struck.

Alarm in Paris.

Paris, Oct. 27.—Official despatches continue to arrive here uninterruptedly from St. Petersburg. These show the general condition of the agitation to be such as to lead the authorities here to regard the situation as alarming. Unofficial quarters and the newspapers discuss the Russian situation as verging on a revolution.

Cannot Travel in Russia.

Berlin, Oct. 27.—Railway communication beyond the Russian frontier is now entirely discontinued. Passengers who arrived at the boundary stations yesterday are returning, and many travellers bound for Russia are stopping at hotels here. The Prussian railway authorities are unable to say when communication is likely to be restored.

Showery To-Morrow

Another cold wave has appeared over the Northwest Provinces and weather of decidedly wintery type prevails from Lake Superior to the Pacific. The weather yesterday was fine from Ontario to the Maritime Provinces. The readings in Montreal during the past twenty-four hours showed a maximum and minimum temperature of 49 and 29. The record at various other points yesterday was as follows:—Dawson, 6-8; Atlin, 2-32; Port Simpson, 42-45; Victoria, [illegible]; Vancouver, 34-52; Kamloops, 32-42; Calgary, 18-46; Edmonton, 24-32; Qu'Appelle, 24-26; Winnipeg, 28-34; Port Arthur, 34-44; Parry Sound, 28-44; Toronto, 26-44; Ottawa, 24-28; Quebec, [illegible]-36; Halifax, 26-42.

IRISH GUARDS BAND HAS PLAYED LAST MARCH HERE

After Two Excellent Concerts at the Arena Yesterday it Went on Board Steamer and is Now on its Way Home.

The Irish Guards Band, before large audiences at the Arena yesterday afternoon and evening, performed two programmes which set it on a totally higher level than anything it had previously done in this city. The afternoon [illegible] for the failure of the band arrangement of Sullivan's "In Memoriam" overture to realize the dignity of the original orchestration, it constitutes a [illegible] exhibit of band music. The band's great defect is the weakness of its wood-wind section and the constitutional inability of parts of it [illegible] [illegible] Here [illegible] work [illegible] that did not make [illegible] the band were outclassed. The vigor and violent [illegible] of "I Pagliacci" was well conveyed in another good "selection," but the "Mikado" music was not nearly light enough.

A more "popular" and national programme, in which the bands of various local regiments assisted, wound up the tour of the Irish Guards in Canada, and at its conclusion, after a pronounced ovation, they repaired to the Allan line pier to take passage for England. They leave many pleasant memories behind, but none that will dim our admiration for the unrivaled Grenadier Guards.

SOME STOCK BROKERS ARE TRYING TO EVADE THE LAW

Hon. J. C. McCorkill is Going to New York to Study the Working of the Stock Tax Laws There

Hon. J. C. McCorkill will leave to-morrow for Albany and New York, where he will engage in a careful study of the New York State stock tax law, with an eye to framing amendments to the Quebec Act based upon New York State's experience. Mr. McCorkill has long intended to make this trip, but has been delayed by pressure of departmental business.

Generally speaking, said Hon. Mr. McCorkill to The Herald this morning, the stock tax has worked well, and it has been loyally observed by the members of the Montreal and other stock exchanges. In fact so far as the legitimate [illegible] transactions are concerned, Mr. McCorkill says the returns have been entirely satisfactory, the regular brokers, as soon as they understood the working of the new law, loyally observing its requirements.

But there were other brokers who were known to be systematically evading the law, and it was with regard to these that the amendments were sought, Mr. McCorkill feeling certain that with the vast experience in New York of the difficulties he may encounter here will be more than covered.

As to the travellers' tax, Hon. Mr. McCorkill stated emphatically that no change was at present contemplated. In fact he was somewhat surprised at the attitude adopted by some local merchants for whose protection the law was primarily adopted.

"It is astonishing," said the Provincial Treasurer, "how much persistent misunderstanding there is regarding this tax. It does not apply to representatives of any firm or corporation whose principal place of business is outside Canada, providing they have a bona fide warehouse or branch business at any place in Canada. But the mere leasing of an office in this province by any firm which has not such a bona fide branch business in Canada will not enable them to evade this tax. So far as we have seen this tax is neither burdensome nor oppressive on trade, and its collection will be strictly enforced."

A RECORD YEAR FOR LICENSES

The Total This Year Will Run Well Over $200,000

AWAY AHEAD OF YEAR 1904

Persistent Neglect to Pay Has Caused Issuance of Suits Against a Number of Citizens.

For the first time in the city's history the license collections this year will exceed the two hundred thousand dollar mark. Already all previous records have been easily beaten, and the collectors of the 130 different classes of licenses which are enforced in the city are busily engaged persuading refractory business men to pay up, and issuing summonses against those who do not.

Up to this morning the city had received from this source no less than $195,940, as compared with $168,514 during the same period of last year and $181,682 during the whole of last fiscal year. As there are yet two full months to run and the license fees are coming in quite freely the officials in the license department are quite confident that before the 31st of December they will have to their credit well over two hundred thousand dollars, which will be about $20,000 more than ever before in the city's history.

This pleasing condition of affairs (to the city) is due in part to the rapid growth of the municipality in population and its still more rapidly increasing business importance, and also in part to the improved methods adopted at the City Hall to see that no person who is entitled to pay license fees to the city shall escape that honor.

As a matter of fact, on Wednesday last, ten suits were entered against ten keepers of woodyards, blacksmith shops, etc., who had persistently neglected to pay their license dues. These licenses only amount to $5 apiece, but the proprietors were notified some time ago, then accounts were rendered them, and as neither of these notifications were heeded the authority of the law will now be invoked to bring the neglectful business men to time. These licenses are charged to cover the cost of inspection of the premises, it being necessary to periodically inspect the premises of such places in order to see that they are properly conducted so as to avoid the danger of fire.

ASSESSORS MAY HAVE FULL YEAR

City's Growth so Great That Year is Needed for the Work

Amongst the numerous amendments to the city charter to be asked by the City Council Legislation Committee at the next session of the Legislature is one providing for a full year for the work of the city assessors, instead of merely a few months as is now the case. This is being done at the request of the assessment department, the assessors stating that the city is growing so rapidly in extent, population and business importance that it is now impossible for them to assess its various properties in the same time as they were able to in past and less prosperous days.

The Legislature will be asked to so alter the charter as to give the assessors the whole year to make out their report, so that it will be ready to hand early in each spring. By this means they are confident that a much more thorough assessment will be possible, which is not only desirable in the interest of the citizens, who naturally desire that their properties should be fairly estimated, but also a good thing from the city's standpoint, as it will likely result in a considerable increase in revenue and assessed value.

The main difficulty in the way will be caused by bridging over the interregnum, but this will be done by continuing the previous assessment roll until the new one, presumably next year's, is ready.

City Treasurer Robb is in favor of this idea, and an amendment to that effect is being prepared for submission to the Legislation Committee, which has all the proposed amendments to the city charter in its hands.

UNIONIST CANDIDATE CARRIED HAMPSTEAD

London, October 27.—The bye-election in the Hampstead division of London for member of Parliament to succeed Thomas Milvain, who has been appointed a judge, resulted in the election of the Unionist candidate, J. S. Fletcher, by the greatly reduced majority of 422 over Mr. Rowe.

At the last bye-election in 1902 Mr. Rowe, the Liberal candidate, was defeated by 1,700 votes. Mr. Fletcher stood as a straight Chamberlain candidate and Mr. Rowe as an out and out free trader. The Education question played as large a part as tariff matters in the contest. Hampstead contains about 5,000 clerks and business men and the same number of artisans and workmen on its electoral register.

NO BERNADOTTE KING FOR NORWAY

King Oscar Has Formally Declined Offer to His House

33 YEARS' REIGN IS ENDED

King Bids Farewell to the People of Norway and Throne Which Gave Him Many Bitter Cares.

Stockholm, October 27.—King Oscar has definitely and formally declined the offer of the Norwegian throne to a prince of the house of Bernadotte, and in a letter to the president of the Storthing finally severs his connection with Norway. The letter follows:—

"After having in the name of Sweden recognized Norway as a state completely separated from Sweden, I inform you of my decision to relinquish the crown of Norway which, notwithstanding all my good intentions, has given me in the course of years so many bitter cares. Moreover I could no longer wear it to the benefit of the country now that the illegal decision of the Storthing has rendered illusory even the suspensive vote of the King. But I desire only the welfare of the country and the nation towards which I have entertained a sincere affection ever since my youth and to the happiness of which it has always been my heart's desire to contribute so long as the means to that end could be reconciled with the duties entailed by my position as King of both countries of the Scandinavian peninsula.

"In view of the turn the mutual relations between the two countries have taken I cannot think it would be conducive to the happiness of either Sweden or Norway that a prince of my house should accept an election to be King of Norway. Assuredly there would not fail to arise in both countries a feeling of distrust which would operate as much against him as against me. This distrust might only too easily become an obstacle to the improvement of the mutual sentiments of the two nations, unfortunately separated henceforth, whereby I hope to see pacific relations assured between them in a not too distant future. I cannot therefore accept the Storthing's offer. I thank with all my heart those who during my reign of thirty-three years have faithfully served me and Norway and who may even now entertain affection for their former King. In now bidding them farewell I cherish sincere good wishes for them."

Prince Charles Will Accept.

Paris, October 27.—Information reaching the highest quarters here shows that definite arrangements have been made whereby Prince Charles of Denmark will accept the throne of Norway, following a plebiscite occurring November 12. Prince Charles will leave Denmark to assume the royal functions immediately after the official notifications of his election is conveyed to him.

CHILD'S DEATH DUE TO ACCIDENT

No Criminal Responsibility Attaching to the Grand Trunk Railway

Coroner McMahon held an inquest this morning into the case of the little boy George Theodore Green killed on Wednesday afternoon at the Grand Trunk Railway Crossing, Hibernia Road.

Dr. McTaggart, medical expert, certified that the boy had sustained a fracture of the skull, that his right arm and right leg was crushed and his left ankle broken.

The mother of the child explained that she had sent him on a message across the railway and that when he was coming back the accident occurred. She had warned him on many occasions not to attempt to cross when the gate was lowered. The father of the child testified also to giving frequent warnings about crossing the tracks.

An eyewitness who walked over the crossing when the gates were down saw two trains approaching, one from either side but just as he got over the boy was running beneath the gate. The boy saw the rear of the incoming train, but did not, apparently, observe the outgoing one.

Evidence by the engineer, fireman and conductor of the outgoing train by which the boy was killed showed that the whistle was opened and the brakes applied as quickly as possible. The bell worked by compressed air had been continuously ringing from Bonaventure Station.

One witness was positive that the whistle was blown after the boy was struck.

The jury returned a verdict that the boy met his death by mischance and that no criminal responsibility was attached to any one. The Coroner in addressing the jury called their attention to the advisability of overhead or underground crossings.

AS CHARLEY POST SAYS:

"There's a Reason"

Why The Herald carries more dry goods advertising than any other daily newspaper in Montreal, either French or English.

One reason is The Herald is essentially a Montreal paper. When local advertisers use The Herald, they can be reasonably sure that its circulation is largely in the city. If you want to reach the people on the Island of Montreal at a reasonable price, The Herald is the medium.

Another reason is that Herald advertisers get results.

TEN CENTS PAYS FOR A "SITUATION WANTED" ADVERTISEMENT IN THE HERALD

AUSTRALIAN DEFENCE SCHEME OUTLINED BY CAPT. COLLINS, THE SECRETARY OF DEFENCE

Rifle Clubs He Says Are a Very Important Element, There Being 30,000 Members Who Form a Splendid Reserve in Case of Active Service

What is the Australian Commonwealth doing for her defence and protection in the remote position in which she lies, snug and safe apparently beyond most nations amid the waters of the Southern Pacific?

Far away from the old centres of troubles, with the only country capable, by its geographical position and by the fitness of its people as evidenced by the most convincing of tests, to do her harm, bound in firm, offensive and defensive alliance with Great Britain, she would seem to have little to apprehend to-day, but no man can tell what is hidden in the womb of the future. Is the great island continent qualifying as befits a daughter of Britain to play her part in the drama of national life?

The reader may find an answer to these question in an interview which a Herald representative had to-day with Captain Robert Collins, permanent Secretary of Defence for the Commonwealth. Captain Collins' position is analogous to that of Col. Pinault in the defence department of Canada. Governments come and governments go with somewhat bewildering frequency in Australia, but Captain Collins goes on, if not forever, at all events in a way that by comparisons makes cabinets seem fleeting and transitory things.

Captain Collins, who is the guest of his friends, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Batley, 150 Metcalfe Street, is in face, figure and bearing not unlike Hon. Mr. Fielding, although younger possibly half a score of years. Of the subject with which he is most familiar, his country's military position, he talked very frankly. He is on his way home after a visit to Great Britain, on leave of absence. While in England he took advantage of the opportunity of seeing the great arsenals and depots and of gathering information with regard to the latest developments of military organization and equipment.

Upon his arrival in Canada a few days ago from England, Captain Collins made a thorough examination of the rifle and cartridge factories at Quebec. In regard to these establishments, he frankly admits that Canada is ahead of Australia. The Commonwealth imports and does not manufacture its rifles or cordite. Touching these enterprises he has acquired here much information that he hopes may be of service to his country.

Both the military and naval branches of the Australian service are administered by the defense department of the Commonwealth, but it is apparent that the naval arm is not very strong, consisting of the old turret warship Cerberus, lent by the British Government and used for training purposes, and a few small gunboats, the property of the state government, with naval reserves and naval brigades that form the nucleus of bigger things in days to come.

For her real naval protection Australia is dependent upon the British Australasian squadron, which is now under the command of Admiral Fawkes. It consists of one first-class, three second-class and three third-class cruisers, the latter being used as training vessels for the reserves which are raised in Australia and manned by the Imperial authorities there.

For this naval protection and service Australia and New Zealand contribute in the proportion of £200,000 and £40,000 per annum respectively to the British navy.

By the terms of its agreement with the Australian Commonwealth the British admiralty undertakes to keep this fleet in Australian waters and to train both Australians and New Zealanders for naval purposes.

WORKING ON HUTTON'S PLAN.

As regards the military branch of its defences Australia is still working on the scheme prepared by General Hutton. That General, who was commander-in-chief of the forces, left Australia about a year ago and no successor to him has since been appointed. Nor will there be, for Australian defence like that of Great Britain and Canada is now under the direction of a military council in which is invested supreme control and the direction of policy.

In Great Britain Premier Balfour is president of the defence council, but in Australia as in Canada it is the Minister of Defence who presides over it. The present Minister is Senator Playford, who was at one time Premier of South Australia. The federal defence department was organized by Sir John Forest, who now fills the portfolio of finance in Sir Alfred Deakin's Ministry.

The council consists in addition to the Minister of Defence of the Treasurer, the Chief of the Intelligence Department, the senior naval officer and the inspector-general of the forces. This council meets but seldom and its functions are confined to the determination of questions of policy, but it is pretty busy just before the estimates are submitted to Parliament, for it is this authority that decides how much money shall be asked for—how much for military and how much for naval purposes.

The actual daily work of administration is carried on by a military board and a naval board, which is each supreme in its own sphere and is in direct touch with the commandants of the different states who report to it upon all matters affecting the military and naval establishments. The military board consists of the minister, the deputy adjutant-general, the chief of intelligence, the chief of ordnance, and with these are associated consultative members who represent the citizen or militia force.

"Through these members who are called in whenever the Minister deems it expedient, the citizen forces are," said Captain Collins, "kept in touch with the administrative authority and adequate representation is given to the different interests."

The naval board is constituted on lines similar to the military, but the permanent secretary is secretary for both branches and through him executive force is given to the decisions of each.

ARE 30,000 TROOPS.

These boards of administration have no specified time for meeting, but there have been occasions of sudden emergency when they have met three or four times a day. The military establishment, which numbers about 30,000 all told, consists of a small permanent force, a militia force partially paid, and volunteers who receive no pay, but whose commanding officer receive a capitation grant for the purpose of defraying the cost of the men's uniforms and other expenses incidental to the maintenance of the corps.

The backbone of the defence force is the militia. One of the principal features of the Australian system is [illegible] all disbursements are made through the commanding officers of the regiments. The commanding officer is responsible for the entire maintenance. "Our principle," remarked Captain Collins, "is to give the commanding officers as much responsibility as possible and a maximum of military authority. We look to the commanding officer to manage the affairs of the regiment in every case in accordance with principles which are well defined in the regulations and to pay the officers and men under him according to the number of drills they put in. The militia is required to put in sixteen whole day drills a year and so many night drills, each night drill being reckoned as a quarter of a day on the pay sheet. Every member of the militia force is required to go into camp for four days before he can qualify for efficiency. The pay is eight shillings per day for each private, which makes a total of [illegible] pounds eight shillings a year. Artillerymen and engineers are required to attend more drills, and their pay is higher. In the mounted corps each trooper is allowed a pound extra for his horse, and the officers and noncommissioned officers are paid according to rank.

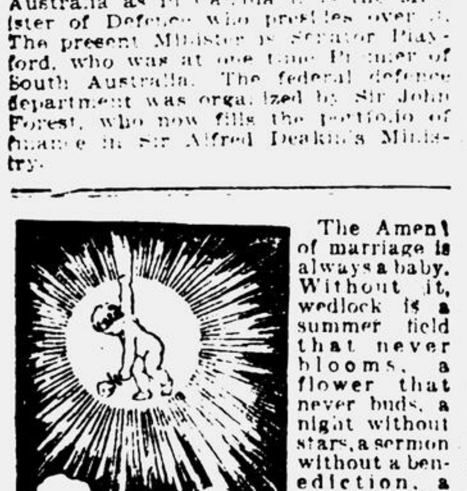
RIFLE CLUBS ARE IMPORTANT.

"An important element of our defence system," proceeded Captain Collins, "is the rifle clubs. These clubs number in the aggregate [illegible] their total members, [illegible] altogether [illegible] organized military force. These clubs are very [illegible] and very generously treated, for we consider that the basis of our military reserve should be a [illegible] rifles, for it is to the rifle clubs we should turn in order to bring the forces [illegible] up to a war footing. Each member is allowed 200 rounds of ammunition free of charge, and is permitted to travel on the railways free of charge when he attends shooting practice, an advantage we possess through the railways being state-owned, and in addition to the 200 rounds he is given free he is allowed to buy another 200 rounds at half price. It costs the Government, the idea being to hold out every inducement for the encouragement of musketry practice. Every rifle club gets a certain number of Martini-Enfield rifles on loan, and the members may purchase magazine rifles on a deferred payment system at three pounds each. This means three payments of a pound a year. The rifle costs the Government £3 17s 6d, but the seventeen shillings and sixpence is thrown off in the case of every man who makes himself efficient by attending a prescribed number of meetings at the ranges. This is a most popular feature for it becomes a matter of pride with each man to own his rifle."

The volunteer element is practically [illegible] the cities. Each capital boasts of its Scottish corps, where the kilted lads are a great attraction for the lasses. Except in the case of the mounted corps nearly the whole of the militia consists of men residing in the larger centres of population, but the mounted force, which numbers about 6,000, has its members in all parts of the country. At present the military districts correspond with the territorial limits of the different states, each state forming a complete military district under the state commandant, but subject to the scrutiny of the inspector-general. The cost of the Australian defence system, naval and military, is £1,000,000 stg., or $5,000,000 per annum.

While Australia has no factory for the production of rifles it possesses a thoroughly up-to-date ammunition factory, whose output is 12,000,000 cartridges a year. It is a private enterprise established by the Colonial Ammunition Company, which is subsidized by the Government.

Speaking generally of the working of the system, Captain Collins says that it operates satisfactorily without conflict of authority and without confusion or friction.



The Amen of marriage is always a baby. Without it, wedlock is a summer field that never blooms, a flower that never buds, a night without stars, a sermon without a benediction, a prayer without an Amen. There never was a husband worthy of the name, who did not aspire to be the father and the grandfather of healthy, capable children, to hand down his name and the fortune accumulated by the sweat of his brow, from generation to generation. There never was a wife fit to bear that noble title, who did not wish to wear womanhood's most glorious crown, the sceptre of motherhood. Thousands of wedded couples, otherwise happy, fall short of wedlock's greatest happiness because they are childless. In the majority of cases, this is because the wife, through ignorance or neglect, suffers from weakness and disease of the organs distinctly feminine. For women who suffer in this way there is one great medicine that does not fail to accomplish its purpose. It is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It acts directly on the delicate organs concerned and makes them strong, healthy, vigorous and virile. It allays inflammation, heals ulceration, soothes pain and tones the shattered nerves. It fits for wifehood and motherhood. It quickens and vitalizes the distinctly feminine organism. It banishes the maladies of the expectant months and makes baby's introduction to the world easy and almost painless. It insures the little new-comer's health and nourishment in plenty. It is the best supportive tonic for nursing mothers.

Mrs. Jennie Parks, of Marshall, Spokane Co., Wash., writes: "I am glad to tell of the good results of your great medicine Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It gives me strength. I have no tired feeling and my baby is the picture of health. I feel better than I have in ten years."

In cases of constipation Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be used as an adjunct to "Favorite Prescription. They are extremely simple, perfectly natural and insure prompt and permanent relief.

MIDWAY HERO HAILS FROM SHERBROOKE

He Was at One Time Employed at Montreal Branch

Sherbrooke, Oct. 26. (Special)—The manager of the E. T. Bank at Midway, B.C., who put up a fight against three burglars, who attempted to get at the funds of the bank on Tuesday, is the eldest son of High Constable [illegible], of this city. He has been in the West for about eighteen months, and previous to that he was for some months in the St. James Street branch, Montreal. Charlie [illegible] is well known all over the province, and was the star [illegible] of the Sherbrooke hockey team [illegible] in the Intermediate League. The head office received a telegram yesterday afternoon from Grand Forks, B.C., stating that the burglars had failed to secure any booty. Midway is about thirty miles from Grand Forks, and railway construction is going on at that point.

Game Warden Gendron seized three brace of partridge and one deer at the Union Depot yesterday while en route to Montreal.

In the court Wednesday a motion was [illegible] to quash the writ of revendication issued by one A. Breusseau, of St. Evariste, for the return of five deer belonging to him and which had been seized by the game warden. There are thirty deer now in cold storage, which had been seized and the defendant says the bailiff in making the seizure failed to point out the five deer alleged to belong to plaintiff. Should the case be heard on its merits the main point to be set up by the plaintiff is that the plaintiff had the right to purchase as many deer as he liked provided he did not purchase more than two from any one individual.

A MUSICAL TREAT.

We knew that Champagne and Songs [illegible] together, but we never [illegible] that Champagne could be put [illegible] Songs. This song is the [illegible] at [illegible] St. [illegible] Main street. This is a treat that all lovers of music should not miss. Adv.

HARVARD MAY DROP FOOTBALL FROM CALENDAR

Boston, Oct. 27.—The Advertiser yesterday says: "If any exhibition of brutality or any disposition to 'knock-out' players is seen at the Harvard-Yale game next month a proposition will be made to the Harvard corporation to abolish the present intercollegiate football as a sport at Harvard.

"This proposition will probably have the support of President Eliot and of three other members of the corporation. That makes a majority of that body, which has the right to prohibit any sport which is detrimental to the good name of the university.

"No official vote has yet been taken to abolish the sport. It was thought better to wait until the Harvard-Yale game had been played.

"The projects of the corporation so far as concerns any absolute prohibition of football are not known to the undergraduates. It has been felt best that any reform, if worked out by the undergraduates, should come willingly and not as the result of any threat."

WORK A PLEASURE.

It is One of the Real Joys Given Us.

"Postum Food Coffee has done more for me in two years," writes a Wisconsin young lady student, "than all the medicines and treatments I had employed to overcome the effects of the coffee poisoning that was killing me by degrees.

"I had all the familiar symptoms and suffered all the well-known tortures. My stomach was wrecked and I could not eat, my head ached almost continually, I became the nervous victim of insomnia, and the capacity for study deserted me. Of course this came on gradually, and without suspicion, for a long time, as to the cause.

"Two years ago a friend enthusiastically urged me to quit using the old kind of coffee and to drink Postum Food Coffee. I have never regretted acting upon the advice. As soon as the coffee poison was eliminated, the strengthening and nourishing properties of Postum began to build me up.

"Each day I gained a little, the color crept back to my cheeks, my limbs rounded out with new flesh, my complexion grew fair and clear again, my digestion improved, and now I can eat anything at any time, the nervous insomnia has left me and I sleep soundly at night and wake up refreshed. I have no more headaches, and mental work has become a pleasure to me." Name given by Postum Co. Battle Creek, Mich.

CRAIG KICKED TWO DROP GOALS FOR HIGH SCHOOL

The annual football game between the B. C. S., Lennoxville, and Montreal High School, was played on the High School grounds yesterday morning, the city boys winning by a score of 24 to 0. The collegiates were, perhaps, not in as good condition as usual, owing to their journey to the city and their match with St. John's School on Wednesday. They played a plucky game, however, and made their opponents work hard till the final blow of the whistle. Jepson, their captain, was their most brilliant player, running well and handling and kicking the ball with coolness and accuracy. For the winners Craig, besides captaining the team with fine judgment, contributed ten points to the score by two drop kicks from the field. In the line Seath, McArthur and Bignell shone by breaking through their opponents and tackling with great effect, as did also Elliot, the quarter. The teams and officials were:

DOES CANADA OWN HORSESHOE FALLS?

Wearing Away of Falls Has Altered Force of 1822 Agreement

Niagara Falls, Ont., Oct. 27.—Who owns the larger part of Horseshoe Falls? This is the question that is now agitating the International Waterways Commission and the United States Geological Survey. In 1822 Anthony Barclay, Commissioner for Great Britain, and Peter B. Porter, Commissioner for the United States, fixed international boundary in Niagara River, and described it as running: "Up the middle of the river to the Great Falls, thence up the falls through the point of the Horseshoe, keeping to the west of Iris (Goat Island), and following the bend of the river."

Since this agreement was made the Falls has cut its way back about three hundred feet and the "point of the 'Horseshoe'" has shifted considerably. Now the question arises whether the boundary shifts with the "point of the Horseshoe," or remains where it was located in 1822. As the boundary follows the bend of the river above the falls and the 'bend' is almost a right angle, a slight change in the location of the line at the Horseshoe causes considerable variation in the line farther up. If the point of the Horseshoe continues to shift to the east, taking the boundary with it, Canada will soon extend almost to Goat Island, and will own practically the whole river a short distance above the falls. With one power tunnel, that of the Electrical Development Co., of Ontario, already having an outlet near the centre of Horseshoe, it is not difficult to imagine this question might easily involve material interests as to franchise and other rights of future power companies.

W. Carvilla Hall, of United States Geological Survey, has investigated the matter and made a report, and now Professor J. C. R. Laflamme, of Laval University, is here investigating on behalf of Canada.

MOONEY IDENTIFIED AS CLEVELAND MAN

Further particulars are to hand today regarding the man arrested under the name of Mooney for shooting at the Westmount constable, these going to show that the name (Molloy) under which he is said to have been convicted at Niagara Falls was also an alias.

Writing to Chief Carpenter, of the city detective force, Chief Constable Kohler, of Cleveland, says he recognizes accused as a native of that city named Frank Meeker, whose father was, until his death a few years ago, a respectable merchant and well known citizen of Cleveland.

There is nothing against Meeker in the police records of his native place, but Chief Kohler states he has been in trouble prior to this on the Canadian side of the border, on one occasion, he understands, at Toronto, where, it is alleged, there was also some gun work. Accused, who has a wife and family, got back home to Cleveland some time ago after a somewhat protracted absence, and until four weeks ago conducted a stand on the public market with apparent success so far as outsiders were able to judge.

READING DISCUSSED BY CATHOLIC TEACHERS

This morning at the Catholic Teachers' Convention, Inspector McGowan gave an interesting reading to children as early as possible. He dwelt on the divisions of reading, embracing elementary, expressive reading, the teaching of reading writing and orthography ought to be simultaneous. He then developed current reading, explained reading, expressive reading and recitations. Recitation, or memory exercise, is the art of good reading, and is the road to the art of speaking correctly, consequently expressive reading should not be separated from recitations.

Children should not be allowed to drawl or sing when reading. The afternoon was devoted to the teaching of object lessons to junior pupils.

HON. LOMER GOUIN TO RETURN ON MONDAY

Premier Gouin is expected to return from his western trip on Monday and will meet several members of the Provincial Cabinet who will be here on that day. Hon. Mr. Prevost spent the greater part of the day at the Provincial Government office yesterday and he and Mr. Allard and probably Mr. McCorkill will be here to meet the Premier on Monday when several official matters including probably Hon. Mr. Gouin's conferences with the Ontario and Manitoba ministers with regard to the provincial subsidies from the Dominion treasury may form the subject of conversation.

SEAMS OPENED WHILE CREW WERE FAST ASLEEP

Ottawa, Oct. 27.—Mr. C. F. Gildersleeve, president of the Dominion Marine Association, stated this morning that he did not believe the sinking of the Minnedosa, on the great lakes, was due to overloading, but thinks the seams opened and the boat filled when the crew was asleep.

Mr. Gildersleeve says the Marine Association has no objection to the most stringent regulations against overloading lake craft and the most rigid enforcement of them.

THE STANDARD'S GROWTH.

The growth of the business of our new contemporary, The Standard, has certainly been phenomenal. Its circulation, both in the city and country, is unprecedented for a new journal. La Presse, reflecting the good feeling of the French-Canadians towards the paper, says in a recent issue:

"One of the greatest successes in Canadian journalism is The Standard, the new illustrated national weekly of Canada.

"The Standard has come right to the front rank at one jump, the paper is excellent, full of interest for French-Canadians as well as for English readers, and beautifully illustrated on satin-finished paper. The illustrations of The Standard have as high merit and are more numerous than those of the illustrated papers of London and Paris. The Standard is giving to its readers a series of pictures, in colors, of Old Montreal and Old Quebec, of intense interest to the readers of La Presse. It is astonishing everybody that The Standard can give such a splendid paper for the price of five cents."

The investigation into the cause of the collision between the Hamburg-American steamship Euphemia, outward bound, and the Norwegian collier Tordenskjold, inward from Sydney, with coal, which occurred on October 23 will commence in the Admiralty Court, Quebec at ten a.m. next Friday. Both steamships are now undergoing

THE ANTI-DUMPING LAW IS EFFECTIVE

Big U. S. Nail Company Establishing Works in Canada

St. John, N.B., Oct. 27.—(Special.) On Tuesday night the control of one of St. John's important industries, the Maritime Nail Works, passed from the local company to the Copewell Horse Nail Co., of Hartford, Conn. Negotiations for this deal were brought to completion at a meeting at which the United States corporation was represented by Messrs. Copewell and Williams, two of the directors. The transfer has been made by the purchase of the stock, and all but two of the directors in the local company have disposed of their holdings. These two will remain on the board for the present. The price paid for the stock is not mentioned. The transfer becomes operative immediately. The Copewell Horse Nail Company is by far the largest company in that line in America. It controls fully one-half of the entire business of the United States and is believed to be trying to secure the bulk of Canadian trade. Some few months ago they secured works in Toronto, which are now in operation, and it is also interested in mills in London, Eng., where the Copewell process of manufacturing horse nails is in progress. This purchase is probably but another step in the policy of expansion adopted by the Copewell Company, and it may have been to some extent brought on by the present tariff which prevents American manufacturers from dumping their goods in Canada at any price they like.

MR. WILLIAM HUTCHINSON,

Who Along With Mr. James Brodie, of Quebec, Has Been Signally Honored by King of Belgium.

The Maritime Nail Works Co., Ltd., was organized in 1895, and the capital was fixed at $50,000. About one hundred men are employed. The nail works has always been a paying investment.

P.E.I. MINISTER WAS UNSEATED TO-DAY

Charlottetown, P.E.I., Oct. 27.—(Special.)—To-day in the trial of the election petition against Hon. Jas. H. Cumiskey, Commissioner of Public Works, the respondent's counsel admitted corruption practiced by agent without knowledge of consent of respondent, and the seat was declared vacant. Mr Cummiskey was returned for Port Augustus district last general election by a majority of two.

MONEY SHOULD NOT BE CONSIDERED

Toronto, Oct. 27.—(Special.)—The Globe this morning commenting on "Our Great Highway," says:

"There can be no doubt about it that if the St Lawrence River were in the United States, giving access for ocean steamers to a port 600 miles from its mouth, it would long ago have been made as safe day and night as expenditure could make it. We should be satisfied with no less results."

MR. ROBERTSON WAS NOT SERIOUSLY INJURED

Word Has Been Received in the City From the Injured Montrealer.

Word has been received in the city from New York that the injuries inflicted upon Mr. Samuel Robertson, jr., of 43 Victoria street, by some unknown assailant on Tenth avenue last night were by no means so serious as was at first reported. Mr. Robertson was taken to the Roosevelt Hospital, but was able to leave the same night, after having his injuries attended to. Mr. Robertson left Montreal for New York on business on Tuesday, and did have a considerable sum of money in his possession. How his assailant or assailants knew that he was carrying so much money or whether they did know at all is merely a matter of conjecture. Mr. Robertson was stunned by the attack made upon him, and was consequently unable to identify his assailants.

Mr. Robertson, who is a lithographic artist, is a son of Mr. Samuel Robertson, proprietor of the Ontario and Crystal rinks. The family communicated with New York at an early hour this morning, and received word from the injured man himself as to the extent of his injuries.

SPANISH STEAMER WRECKED.

Island of Heligoland, Prussia, Oct. 27.—The Spanish steamer Zuria, from Rosario for Hamburg, is ashore off the South Rocks, and will be a total wreck. Nine of her crew were drowned. Later the Zuria went to pieces. The survivors of her crew were rescued by the government steamer Triton, which made two trips to the wreck.

The Zuria was driven on the rocks early to-day during a heavy gale. The last port she touched at was Bilbao, Spain.

The Countess of Morley and Lady Mary Parker will sail by the Allan

THREE MEN KILLED BY FALLING GRAVEL

Were Talking Insurance and Did Not Notice Danger

Coaticook, Que., October 27.—(Special.) A serious fatality occurred in the gravel pit belonging to the corporation of Coaticook yesterday afternoon between four and five o'clock, when three men were buried beneath about 200 tons of gravel. It seems that Jean Richard and Jos. Rickney, corporation workmen, were working in the pit when they were joined by Frank St. Cyr, an insurance agent, who started to talk insurance. The conversation had proceeded but a few minutes when the men observed the bank falling. They made a desperate effort to escape but could not get clear. Their cries attracted the attention of a man who was hauling gravel and he gave the alarm. Very soon a large gang of men were at work with shovels but it was not until two hours later that the bodies were recovered.

The roadmaster stated that he had repeatedly warned the men not to work in the section of the pit where the accident happened. The three victims are married and St. Cyr had just started to work for the Metropolitan Insurance Co.

An inquest was held last evening by Coroner Bachand and adjourned.

OUR IRON WORKS AT SYDNEY AND THE SOO

London Engineer Praises Their Efficiency

(Canadian Associated Press Cable.)

London, October 27.—A London engineer of high standing who has just returned from Canada speaks highly of the efficiency of the ironworks and mills at Sydney and Sault Ste. Marie, and says they are equal to any of the same class on this side or in the United States.

EMIGRATION OF THE YOUNG.

(Canadian Associated Press Cable.)

London, October 27.—At a woman worker's conference in Birmingham, Mrs. Mary Mills, read a paper on the emigration of children to Canada. She described the methods adopted by the government inspector who had assured her that ninety-five per cent. of the young emigrants turned out well. The placing of the children was conducted on the most businesslike lines and in accordance with legislation and the demand is so greatly in excess of the supply that it was easy to select only the best home. Mr. J. T. Middlemore, M.P., in the discussion which followed the reading of the papers, said the movement had been particularly well tested, inasmuch as they had sent 4,000 children to Canada. They did not send them to rich establishments where they would drop to the level of the kitchen. Mrs. Sheldon Amos urged that they should not be in too great a hurry to send away girls and young children. "Are we," she asked, going to have celibate bishops telling us to bear more children and then have to send them off in shiploads to Canada."

CANADIAN AND U.S. TARIFF.

(Canadian Associated Press Cable.)

London, October 26.—Mr. Bonar Law, M.P., secretary of the Board of Trade, in a recent speech said: "If the colonies are looking after their own interests was it not worth while to enlist their services on our side." The Manchester Courier commenting says: "Take the case of Canada, for the next generation the majority of its people must be interested in agriculture and that majority would control political power. If, therefore, we gave a preference worth something to them, we could rely on that majority being on our side to prevent such a change in tariff as was made by Mr. McKinley in the United States.

IRISH VS. CANADIAN BUTTER.

(Canadian Associated Press Cable.)

London, October 27.—Large imports of butter from the colonies seems to be causing some concern. An Irish producer's dispatch to the Freeman's Journal states that Canadian exports since the end of June are 1,750 tons more than in the corresponding period of 1904 and 5,175 tons above 1903. Irish producers are agitating for their representatives in Great Britain to protect them against adulterated butter.

THE BRYANT MYSTERY.

(Canadian Associated Press Cable.)

Mr. G. M. Bryant, of 5 Spa Road Bermondsey, London, informs the Canadian Press Association that he is leaving no stone unturned to obtain facts such as will be of assistance in fixing the absolute identity as to whether the body found in the river at Montreal, is that of his brother. The relatives of T. L. not A. T. Bryant, describe him as being about five feet ten inches; thin, of very sallow complexion, with dark hair and a large dark moustache, aged thirty-nine years. He landed in Montreal on the eighteenth instant to search for employment and was not thought to have been possessed of any considerable sum. He left his wife and children in the Old Country.

JAPS ENTERTAIN RUSSIAN OFFICERS

Mikado Invites Former Prisoners to Garden Party

Tokio, October 27.—The Emperor invited 2,000 naval officers to luncheon at the Shiba Palace to-day and an equal number will be entertained by him to-morrow at the same place. This action upon the part of the Emperor is unprecedented.

The commander of the Tokio division gave a farewell garden party yesterday at Takeshiki for the Russian officers kept prisoners there. Toasts to the Emperors of Russia and Japan were drunk with enthusiasm.

RUSSIAN SAILORS MUTINY AND BLOW UP BATTLESHIP

St Petersburg, Oct. 27.—The most alarming reports are circulating about affairs in the south of Russia. Private reports received here are said to confirm the stories of the mutiny on board the battleship Catherine II., and the destruction by incendiaries of the battleship Pantelemon (formerly the Kniaz Potemkin), but the authorities do not confirm the rumors and telegrams of inquiry remain unanswered.

In the interior of Russia the people have neither mail nor newspapers and are the prey to the wildest stories of what is occurring. This is considered to be a bad side of the situation, as it is feared it may lead to peasant uprisings which, in the absence of troops might result in frightful excesses. In some towns a reign of terror is reported to exist. At Minsk the people have shut up their houses, the governor having warned them not to venture in the streets at the peril of their lives.

Reinforcements of troops are pouring into the city. The yellow cuirassiers, hussars and the Omsk regiment have arrived here from Tsarskoe Selo and 6,000 soldiers are coming by water from Reval.

Several trains with military escorts have forced their passage from Moscow, but the railroad tie-up is practically as tight as yesterday.

The railroad battalions are now exhausted. The last were sent to Moscow and Syzran last night.

DIAMONDS AND GOLD IN SOUTH AFRICA

De Beers Manager Tells of Transvaal and Kimberley Conditions

"I tell you diamonds are going up and they will go higher," said a tall, wiry man apparently about forty—a man with complexion well browned and dark moustache, a man who had evidently been used to a warmer climate than this.

The remark was made to a city jeweller in the Windsor rotunda this forenoon, and the man who made it was Mr. W. A. Charlesworth, manager for the East Aurora Gold Mining Company, a Rand enterprise situated some forty miles from Johannesburg. His companion seemed to doubt the accuracy of the prediction, but it transpired that the stranger knew of what he was talking, for he was well acquainted with the De Beers, the controllers of the Kimberley diamond fields. They are joint owners with some London bankers of the Aurora properties.

Mr. Charlesworth turned out to be an American mining engineer from Montana, who is visiting some friends in Montreal on his way through to the west. He has been in South Africa since the settlement of the war. The information he was imparting to a friend he had no objection to state for publication.

"The De Beers," said he, "have produced three and a half million dollars worth less diamonds this year than last, and when you reflect that the total output is valued at rather less than $12,000,000 per annum, do you wonder that the reduction in the supply affects the price?"

"Is the reduction dictated by policy?" the mining manager was asked. "You may be sure the De Beers don't do much unless there is a policy behind it.

"We have just discovered a diamond field in New Ontario," observed the interviewer. "When we get that working the calculations of the De Beers monopoly will be rather upset, won't they?"

Mr. Charlesworth smiled the incredulous smile of the man who speaks of a well assured certainty as against an extremely problematical possibility, and did not seem inclined to pursue the subject.

"What about gold mining in South Africa?" was the next shot ventured.

It hit the mark, for the reply was instantaneous. "Gold mining is still the principal industry in South Africa. There is plenty of evidence of progress, but the profits in the ton of milled ore are not as high as they were before the war owing to the increased cost of working.

"The change in the labor conditions are responsible for that, I suppose?"

"Yes, it is the labor trouble. Kaffir labor was objected to and it could not be depended upon, and now they are objecting to Chinese coolies."

"Who are the objectors?"

"The Boers principally. They organize meetings, carry on an agitation, and just now they are asking for a commission of inquiry into the labor conditions."

"The cable despatches state that Lord Selborne, the Secretary of State for the Colonies, is in the Transvaal. Is he doing any good, do you think?"

"His intentions are good. He has been all through the country east and west, and the visit has a soothing effect for the time, but the trouble is chronic."

"Are all the mines now fully engaged in production?"

"Pretty well. Last year's output was almost $90,000,000 in value, and next year's yield will probably be nearly $100,000,000."

"Then we may take it that gold mining is still a profitable industry in the Transvaal.

"You may safely do that when you consider that there are thirty-five companies, of which ours is one, that pay dividends of from 16 to 17 per cent. on the capital invested."

PRESIDENT HAD NARROW ESCAPE

Mr. Roosevelt's Strenuous Person Endangered in Steamer Collision

New Orleans, October 27.—After a narrow escape from losing his life in an early morning collision in which the lighthouse tender Magnolia on which he was travelling was so much damaged that he had to abandon her, President Roosevelt is now safe on board the lighthouse tender Ivy which is carrying him down the Mississippi to the armored cruiser West Virginian.

Neither the President or any member of his party were injured in the accident. Details are not complete but immediately it occurred hurry orders were received at Pilot town where the lighthouse tender Ivy was lying to proceed at once under full head to the scene and take the President and his party to sea. The Ivy passed Pilot Town with the President on board at 8.15 this morning on her way to the West Virginia. She was then within an hour and a half of reaching the cruiser's side.

President Roosevelt went aboard the cruiser West Virginia at 9.40 o'clock this morning.

The cruiser got under way a few minutes afterward.

ST. ANN'S CASE MAY FALL DOWN

Ald. Gallery Moves for a Rejection of Bill of Particulars

The Gallery election trial case experienced an important turn this morning, and one which if it meets with the approval of the trial judge may postpone the trial itself to an indefinite period. Mr. Perron, counsel for Ald. Gallery, in the Practice Court, this morning, moved for a rejection of the recent bill of particulars filed in that court by the petitioners Messrs. Darlington and Gleason, claiming that the data contained in the said bill of particulars were insufficient, illegal, irregular," and not specific enough. Ald. Gallery, in the motion prayed that the document be declared null and void.

The ground covered by the bill itself was thoroughly gone over by the motion of rejection, which took nineteen pages of typewritten paper. The reasons cited for the rejection of the bill were that the petitioners did not state the addresses and occupations of the persons named in the bill; did not state the exact amounts of money alleged to have been paid to each of the parties named, nor the occupation and addresses, surrounding each alleged corrupt act. The name, occupation and address of the man who is said to have received a coat indirectly from Mr. Gallery are not given, nor are they furnished in the case of the alleged corrupted carters. The same objections are filed in the case of the men accused of acting as personators, the motion asking for the number of men whom they personated, etc.

The amounts of the alleged subscriptions to the fund are demanded also, the paper closing with the request that the respondent be informed as to what extent and in what particulars the statement of Ald. Walsh, M.P.P., is inexact and illegal.

Mr. Bisaillon, on behalf of the petitioners, begged that the motion be referred to the trial judge at the time of the trial, and the request was granted.

The famous "wigs and false beards" charge was not referred to at all, in the argument. Ald. Gallery when spoken to in regard to this feature of the bill of particulars, said that they had agreed to ignore that phase of the question.

FUNERAL OF LATE MR. P. J. LEITCH.

The remains of Mr. Patrick J. Leitch, late principle of the Edward Murphy School, were taken yesterday morning to Chateauguay, where a solemn requiem mass was celebrated. The remains were then taken to Cherubusco, N.Y., for interment. The late Principal Leitch was connected with the Catholic Commissioners Board for over twenty years, and taught at the Catholic Commercial Academy previous to his being appointed to the principalship of the Edward Murphy School. He was a man of great educational worth and literary ability.

On Monday morning a solemn requiem high mass will be sung at St. Patrick's Church, at which the pupils of the Edward Murphy School will assist in a body.

FIRE IN RESIDENCE.

Fire broke out at ten o'clock last night in the residence of Pierre Desforges, 30 Laval avenue. The blaze, which is said to have been caused by defective electric wires in the kitchen of the house, was responsible for damage to the extent of $500. The kitchen and dining room were almost gutted before the firemen arrived on the scene, yet they managed to confine the fire to that part of the house. Mr. Desforges belongs to the firm of Blouin, Desforges & Latourelle, tinsmiths, roofers and plumbers, Craig street.

John Davis, twenty-two, residing on Dowd Street, was remanded to-day for enquete on a charge of attempting to steal geese belonging to a neighbor, Edward Hurrell.

THE RANGE OF HIGHEST EXCELLENCE.

Compact, Economical, Satisfactory

The old idea, that a range should be about 6 ft. x 3 ft., whether for a family of two or twelve, has now passed away, as far as the city is concerned, at any rate.

Small kitchens necessitate a compact Cooking Range, and our No. 8 Regal, occupying about 32 in. x 24 in., will give better service at much less expense for fuel than the heavy coal consumer which still lingers in many homes.

Use a Regal.
Save Space, Coal, Money.

HOUSEHOLD METAL WARES AND FURNISHINGS

Our Facilities for completely outfitting the kitchen are unequalled in America. We handle only goods of which we can guarantee the quality, and which are the cheapest to use.

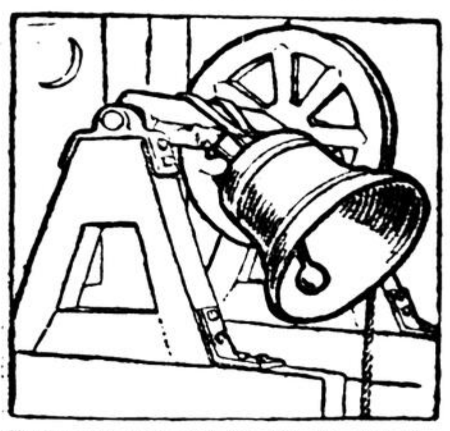
THE CHURCH SUPPER.



"Ding-dong!" said the big church bell,
"A supper to-night and things to sell;
Ding-dong! I do declare,
Here I'm rung in on a vestry fair.
I've a mind to stick and refuse to ring,
For I wasn't donated for such a thing.
But my, oh, my! How sweet that smells!
I wish that coffee were good for bells!"
For at every pull the sexton gave
The bell swung out above the pave,
And at every swing he got the scent,
And on he swung there, all content.
Said down below good pastor Pipp,
Fingers tapping, tip to tip,
"I have been asked by all who're here
To say unto the sister dear,
Who brought the coffee here to-night,
That we consider it her right
To thus be thanked in public wise—
She finds great favor in our eyes.
May all her deeds smell sweet as this
By which she brings her neighbors bliss."
Thought blushing Mrs. Jones, "I knew What CHASE & SANBORN'S brand would do."
Good deeds, you know, are only lent,
And so she smiled in deep content.

WORKMEN IN RUSSIAN NAVAL YARDS HAVE JOINED THE STRIKERS

Strike Situation Shows No Improvement and Government Seems Helpless—M. Witte Advised Emperor to Create Responsible Council of Ministers

St. Petersburg, Oct. 27.—St. Petersburg was [illegible] yesterday, but apparently larger [illegible] The most alarming rumors were [illegible] shopkeepers on most of [illegible] streets closed their stores and [illegible] up the doors and windows, while [illegible] inhabitants kept within doors. Anxiety was evidenced everywhere, but so far nothing has occurred to justify these fears. Gen. Trepoff [illegible] to maintain [illegible] allowing the strikers to vent their enthusiasm.

Workmen at the Admiralty works and other naval yards have joined the [illegible] state railroads, which are under the direction of the Ministry of Railroads, also have gone on strike.

Traffic was resumed irregularly on the Moscow & St. Petersburg Railroad and on lines from Moscow to Brest and Kazan. The first efforts were directed to the moving of cattle trains and [illegible] of cattle arrived at St. Petersburg and another at Moscow. Peasants [illegible] from the roof into Moscow. A [illegible] supply of milk, butter and eggs is arriving here over the Finland Railroad, the employes of which refuse to strike.

The situation, however, cannot be described as improved. The strikers were determined to continue the strike and the full force of Government railroad battalions are almost helpless. Minor tumults are reported from many cities.

Wednesday night the ministers, after a five-hour discussion, finished the final draft of the law creating a responsible council of ministers, and yesterday completed the revision of statutes granting freedom of assembly, both of which will be taken to Emperor Nicholas for signature to-day.

MEAT MARKETS RAIDED.

During the afternoon the alarm in St. Petersburg increased, the meat markets were raided by the anxious purchasers, and all the oil and candles were sold out. The people feared that the city would be plunged in darkness, but Gen. Trepoff acted energetically. The troops took possession of the water, gas and electric light works, and a strong guard was placed around the treasury.

Jewellers hurriedly sent their stocks to places for safe-keeping and the shop-keepers continued the work of boarding up their windows yesterday afternoon.

Reports from the interior say that the troops are moving a few trains, but with great difficulty. The strikers are tearing up the tracks in some places.

A state of siege exists in Moscow. The street cars are stopped and the Cossacks have several times dispersed crowds of people.

Gen. Trepoff believes the strike will exhaust itself at the end of the week, as the workmen are without money.

As the result of a series of special ministerial councils under the presidency of Count Witte, held to adopt measures to deal with the situation, the new National Assembly law and laws granting practical freedom of the press and of speech and meeting will be promulgated forthwith.

Upon the peremptory demand of Prince Hilkoff, the Minister of Railroads, the budget covering the remuneration of railroad employes will be revised to meet the promises made last spring. Unless this was done, the prince announced, he would resign.

WITTE DOMINATES SITUATION.

Count Witte, even in advance of the promulgation of his formal appointment as premier, completely dominates the situation.

Interesting details have been learned by the Associated Press regarding Count Witte's interview with Emperor Nicholas last week, at which it was agreed that the time had come to limit the autocratic power and give the people a real share in the government of the empire.

Count Witte told His Majesty that in his opinion not even a republic could save Russia from anarchy. It was the Emperor's duty to the people and the country to face the situation by meeting their wishes, viz., to abrogate the autocracy alike to the Crown and the representatives of the nation. The Emperor finally accepted, requesting Count Witte to draft a project which later in skeleton form he approved, last Sunday, when the Count agreed to accept the premiership on condition that he could name the ministers and that they should report to His Majesty only through himself as head of the Cabinet.

TREPOFF IN COMMAND.

By Imperial order the garrison of St. Petersburg has been placed under the command of Gen. Trepoff, assistant Minister of the Interior, who is held responsible for the safety and order of the capital, and the troops distributed in various parts of the city, but martial law, with its accompanying hardships to the people, has not been proclaimed.

The garrison of St. Petersburg has hitherto been included in the military district of St. Petersburg, of which Grand Duke Vladimir is chief.

All the Ministers yesterday were in conference with Gen. Trepoff. They are deliberating on an enlarged law of assembly.

AN ALLEGED MUTINY.

London, Oct. 27.—A special despatch from Odessa says it is reported that a mutiny has occurred on the Russian battleship Catherine II. at Sebastopol, and that 400 of her crew have been arrested.

LONG DISTANCE CHESS MATCH

Between Montreal and Winnipeg Played Yesterday—Result in Doubt

The chess match by wire between Winnipeg and Montreal yesterday has yet to be adjudicated upon. Winnipeg won three and one-half games and Montreal two and one-half. Four games will be sent to an expert, and his opinion will decide the issue of the match. The Montreal players expect that the contest will be declared a draw, if not a victory, for them.

Comparatively early in the evening Winnipeg scored in rapid succession three pretty victories on the three top boards, Champion Smith's defeat of Sawyer being especially neat.

Montrealers were delighted also with the victory of Jones over their old strong club mate, P. Barry. Canon Coombes, in Winnipeg, and Mr. A. L. Kent, in Montreal, ably discharged the duties of umpires, and the clubs expressed their hearty appreciation of the work done by the operators who despatched the moves.

The match is a notable one, since no other has been played in the world over so great a distance, with the exception of the International matches between England and the United States. It commenced at two o'clock yesterday afternoon, and lasted until nearly one o'clock this morning, many citizens visiting the Montreal Club rooms, at 295 Mountain street, during the match to watch the moves. Keen interest was maintained throughout the games, and at the time call this morning congratulatory messages were exchanged between the clubs.

The following openings were adopted: On boards 1, 3, 7 and 10, Ruy Lopez; on boards 2, 4, 5 and 6, Queen's Gambit declined; on board 8 Barry defended with a Petroff, and on board 9 Tugwell adopted the King's Bishop opening.

Following are those who represented the clubs and the results of the games:

ONLY A SUGGESTION

But It Has Proven of Interest and Value to Thousands.

Common sense would suggest that if one wishes to become fleshy and plump it can only result from the food we eat and digest, and that food should be albuminous or flesh-forming food, like eggs, beefsteak and cereals; in other words the kinds of food that make flesh are the foods which form the greater part of our daily bills of fare.

But the trouble is that while we eat enough and generally too much, the stomach, from abuse and overwork, does not properly digest and assimilate it, which is the reason so many people remain thin and under weight; the digestive organs do not completely digest the flesh-forming beefsteak, eggs and similar wholesome food.

There are thousands of such who are really confirmed dyspeptics, although they may have no particular pain or inconvenience from their stomachs.

If such persons would lay their prejudices aside and make a regular practice of taking, after each meal, one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, the food would be quickly and thoroughly digested, because these tablets contain the natural peptones and diastase which every weak stomach lacks, and by supplying this want the stomach is soon enabled to reach its natural tone and vigor.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets digest every kind of flesh-forming food, meat, eggs, bread and potatoes, and this is the reason they so quickly build up, strengthen and invigorate thin, dyspeptic men, women and children.

Invalids and children, even the most delicate, use them with marked benefit, as they contain no strong, irritating drugs, no cathartic nor any harmful ingredients.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the most successful and most widely known of any remedy for stomach troubles because they are the most reasonable and scientific of modern medicines.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold by every druggist in the United States and Canada as well as Great Britain, at 50 cents for complete treatment.

Nothing further is required to cure [illegible] nervous, dyspeptic people strong, plump and well.

CLERGYMEN ASKED TO VISIT HIS MAJESTY'S THEATRE

Mr. Francis E. Reid, business manager of "The Prodigal Son" company, has invited by special letter two hundred clergymen of the city to attend the opening performance of the Hall Caine drama at His Majesty's Theatre Monday night. In London, at a special performance in Drury Lane Theatre, two hundred clergymen attended. The invitation letter asserts that this drama, besides being a splendid example of the best in modern dramatic art, cannot fail to attract the attention and win the approval of every teacher of ethics of whatever creed or denomination.

SOUND BANKERS NEEDED.

Indianapolis, October 27.—The Indiana Bankers' Association in session here yesterday was addressed by Vice-President Charles W. Fairbanks, who said, in part:

"We need not only sound money and sound banks, but we need sound bankers also. There is no system of supervision, I care not how thorough and searching it may be, which can surely protect stockholders and depositors against either inefficiency or dishonesty. In banking there is little difference in final results, whether a bank is operated by men who do not comprehend the real science of banking, or by those who are wanting in a high order of business morality. Failure is the result in either case, with consequent confusion and embarrassment to stockholders, depositors and the community generally."

RAILWAY CROSSING AGAIN.

George Greene, a little boy of ten years of age, who resided with his parents at 877 Hibernia road, is the latest victim of the dread railway accident. Wednesday afternoon he was killed by a Grand Trunk train at the crossing just a few yards from his home. On his way home from an errand the boy, crossing in rear of one train, was struck by another coming in the opposite direction, and thrown violently to one side. When picked up he was unconscious, and had breathed his last before the ambulance arrived. The boy's skull was crushed and fractured.

KAISER WILLIAM AGAIN BELLICOSE

Advises German Officers to Keep Powder Dry and Ready

Berlin, October 27.—Recent events have apparently turned the thoughts of Emperor William more than usually to the probability of Germany soon becoming involved in war. His speeches at Dresden and in Berlin contained pointed reference to the probability of war and the necessity of being ready for it. Addressing the officers of a Saxon Grenadier regiment at Dresden, the Emperor said: "We live in a time when every young German capable of bearing arms must be ready to give himself to the Fatherland."

At a banquet given in his honor in the Dresden Schloss last evening, the Emperor said: "If the German empire continues to prosper, then we can calmly, with raised vigor, and with the courage of free German men, confront any one who should venture to cross our paths or disturb us in the promotion of our reasonable interests."

After unveiling the statue of Field Marshal Von Moltke His Majesty addressed the highest army officers, who were assembled around him, saying: "How matters stand with us in the world you have seen. Therefore keep your powder dry and your swords whetted."

STATUE OF VON MOLTKE.

A statue of Field Marshal Von Moltke, the gift of the army to the German people, was unveiled here yesterday, the 105th anniversary of his birth, in the presence of Emperor William, the Imperial family, all the great personages of state and many thousands of people.

EXCITING HORSE RACES AT DELORIMIER PARK

The races at Delorimier Park yesterday afternoon were unusually interesting, both being fought out to the bitter end by the competing side-wheelers.

The free-for-all went to Bert Booth after four heats. Minnie Lloyd capturing the third. Rand R. was well up in every heat but could not nose out Bert Booth.

Owing to the success of yesterday's matinee, it was decided last night by the management to hold another on Saturday, when purses of $200 will be offered for the same classes, the free-for-all and the 2.25. There will be additional entries to those of Thursday. Summary:

PRINCE LOUIS EXPLAINS CHANGE IN GREAT BRITAIN'S NAVAL POLICY

Change is a Natural Evolution Brought About by Changed Conditions—Flying Bases Replace Naval Stations—Efficiency of the British Navy Increased by the Changes

St. John, N.B., October 27.—Prince Louis, of Battenberg, at a luncheon given by Mayor White in the United Club, yesterday, made an important statement on the British naval policy.

He said in part: When I return to England at the end of my period of command, I hope to have the opportunity of giving His Majesty an account of my memorable round in the different parts of the Dominion of Canada, both from here and from the other cities which I have visited, and from all of which I have been requested to carry to His Majesty messages of undying loyalty. This, my visit to this important seaport town, marks the end of what has been to myself and the officers and men under my command, a most enjoyable and interesting visit—a great visit, I may say. My visit is indirectly caused by what some people describe as a violent change in the naval policy. The dockyards at Halifax have been closed and the same policy has been pursued on both sides of the Dominion of Canada as well as in the West Indies, and we have benefited by it. If you will give me your attention for a few minutes I should very much like to have this opportunity (probably the last time I shall be in a position of addressing a representative body of citizens of one of the three important centres of the Dominion) to explain in a few words the misapprehensions which have arisen in the minds of a great many on this side of the Atlantic in their views as to the steps taken by the Admiralty.

EXPLANATION OF NAVAL POLICY.

I should like to show you that instead of having to deal with a sudden change of policy, it is in the nature of a natural evolution brought about by a great many factors, including the progress of naval science and lessons learned elsewhere, for it is an old saying, that we should profit by the misfortunes of our friends.

"I beg your forgiveness if I have to use technicalities in the course of my remarks to you. Concentration is the essence of strategy, and strategy the art of war, which applies to the army as well as to the navy. Dispersion is the worst form of strategy and concentration of the main force and dispersion of its weakest units to far outlying points—stations beyond all means of direct communication—the worst. The original of stations was a natural consequence of British possessions all over the globe. There was in those days no telegraphy, no wireless telegraphy, and the admiralty had to form squadrons for distant parts where they stayed and worked their own sweet will, and as it would take a letter the best part of a year to reach them nobody could interfere.

"Now, take the squadron which I have the honor to command. We can get up steam practically in an hour. We can get under way in about the same time. We can disappear in two hours beyond the horizon, and no man can tell where we may turn up in a few days or a week. The matter was brought to a head in consequence of certain factors, one being that it had gradually brought home to the people who are charged with these matters, that in these days of powerful guns no ship is of any use whatever unless protected, unless properly armored. Hence fast vessels had to be built armored, as opposed to protected cruisers. These cruisers will be finished in suitable numbers. A ship like the Drake had 30,000 horse power and the largest complement of men.

SHIPS WERE USELESS.

"The difficulty which the Admiralty had to face was where to get officers and men for these important ships, but they looked around, and found at different stations a number of ships absolutely useless in case of war, having no protection, no speed, and which would prove but cheap victories for a possible enemy, so these are being concentrated backwards. The ships are being disposed of, being sold, and the officers and men thus set free from the different stations have been employed in many ships that are of use in war. The squadron which I am commanding was formed in consequence of this, and would not have been formed if these ships had not been withdrawn from these stations.

"While these ships are withdrawn, it was obvious that a dockyard which existed for the sole benefit of these ships ceased to have any present value. A dockyard such as the one at Halifax is expensive to keep up. There are the wages of the people, the masses of stores that accumulate and deteriorate, and it was the natural corollary when the permanent ships were withdrawn, the dockyard should be unfurnished. The difference between Halifax dockyard now and what it was last year is the difference between a furnished house and an unfurnished one. There is perhaps an exaggerated idea about the importance of a naval base. You see a great deal of talk in the papers where naval experts say that the only salvation where you have a fine harbor is to plant it round with guns and establish some machinery and storehouses, and call it a naval base.

ADMIRAL TOGO'S STRATEGY.

"The idea has been that such a place is important to the command of the sea, but while all is safe within range of the guns you cannot steam around with the base. Admiral Togo, who has just brought this great war to a victorious issue, (applause), during a year and a half never made use of the numerous well-stocked and well-fortified naval bases at his command, but used what is called the flying base—establishing himself where he found a good place, with convenient anchorage, a suitable place for the work he had in hand. Togo never went near the coast of Japan. The fact that these naval stations are temporarily not in use does not mean that the naval power of England is diminishing pro rata; they may be used and they may not.

"I am extremely anxious to remove, if I can any misapprehensions that may be in your minds if you feel that you were being shabbily treated by the Admiralty. Believe me, your interests have never been better looked after, the full disposition of the naval force of Great Britain never has been so advantageously placed for safeguarding the interests of the Empire, not only on this side of the Atlantic, but everywhere else, and the efficiency of the whole has been immensely benefited."

The programme of the reception of the Prince included formal calls by Lieut.-Gov. Snowball and Mayor White, which the Prince returned; presentation of a civic address and reply by His Serene Highness; luncheon as Mayor White's guest, a drive with the mayor; afternoon tea as guest of the Mayor's wife; a reception at Lady Tilley's residence, and a public reception and ball in St. Andrew's Rink.

VANKLEEK HILL GOING IN STRONG FOR ATHLETICS

Vankleek Hill, Oct. 27.—Although the Alexandrias were so anxious to publish the defeat of the Vankleek Hill Collegiate Institute by the High School team of that town, they evidently forgot to mention that their team was composed of several men of the town, and those by the way, were the main factors of the whole play. The V.H.C.I. team thought that the Alexandria High School team would be sports enough to play a purely High School team as their local team being strictly composed of 1905 pupils. The Hill boys, however, have no kick coming, but were a little disappointed over the underhand tactics of the Alexandria team. They also seemed to forget the results of the sports held previous to the game, which were won almost to an event by the V.C.I. boys.

The following are the results of all the open events which the V.C.I. boys took part in.

Putting shot—1. A. McDonald, Alexandria, 2. J. Donovan, Vankleek Hill.

Running broad jump—1. L. Fraser, Vankleek Hill, 2. D. Rose, Alexandria.

Standing broad jump—1. A. A. McDonald, Alexandria, 2. L. Fraser, Vankleek Hill.

Running hop, step and jump—1. L. Fraser, Vankleek Hill, 2. D. Rose, Alexandria.

Hurdle race—1. F. Steele, Vankleek Hill, 2. A. McDonald, Alexandria.

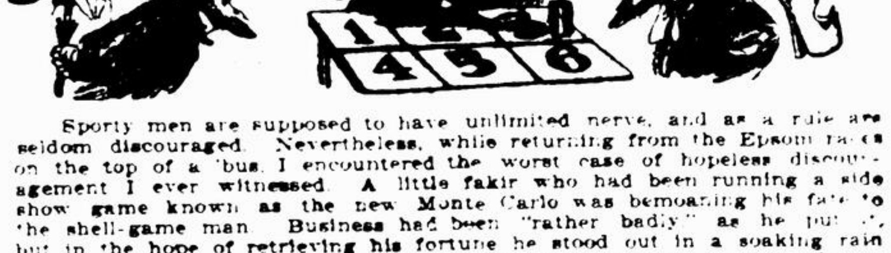
THE HERALD'S PUZZLE DEPARTMENT

FIFTH WEEK



Sporty men are supposed to have unlimited nerve, and as a rule are seldom discouraged. Nevertheless, while returning from the Epsom races on the top of a 'bus, I encountered the worst case of hopeless discouragement I ever witnessed. A little fakir who had been running a side show game known as the new Monte Carlo was bemoaning his fate to the shell-game man. Business had been "rather badly," as he put it, but in the hope of retrieving his fortune he stood out in a soaking rain for a couple of hours. He was preparing to give up in despair when a party of jolly fellows came along, and one of them, too far gone in liquor to know what he was doing, placed £10 on the 3, threw three of a kind, and cleaned him out of his last shilling.

The game is quite popular and as no two persons can be found who give the same opinion regarding the chances of breaking this bank of Monte Carlo I offer it as an elementary problem in the theory of chances. There are six squares marked 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6, as shown in the sketch, and all are invited to place what money they wish on one or more of the numbers. Three dice are then thrown, and all who pick the numbers which turn up get their money back and as much more. If you place $1 on No. 5 and two 5s turn up you receive $1 stake and $2 more. If three 5s are turned you get $1 and $3. Now then, how many of our clever mathematicians can tell what are the chances for or against the person who tries his luck?

Mr. Loyd has prepared a series of volumes comprising a complete collection of his marvellous works, and we offer 25 of these parts each week to those sending in the best answers.

Competitors may send in as many answers as they wish, but each answer must be accompanied by a coupon cut from The Herald.

Each puzzle will appear every day for a week. The correct answer on the Monday following and the prize winners on Tuesday of each week.

HONEST INSTINCTS IN INSURANCE.

Dr. J. Howard Hunter, the much-respected registrar of insurance for the Province of Ontario, told the Insurance Institute at its recent meeting that it was his hope and belief that the Canadian people had "honest instincts," and that it would be found that the insurance companies that have grown up here shared in the scrupulousness that have made Canadian institutions a model to the world. That is the hope of every Canadian who is not interested in the exploitation of evil. At bottom it is also, we believe, the general confidence of every Canadian, in spite of a temporary wavering due to the astonishing collapse of men and institutions that had been the possessors of similar confidence in the United States. And that condition of "honest instincts" is the one thing that can be brought about by no legislation, no investigation, no insurance departments, unless it be firmly rooted in the morality of the whole people.

The most terrible thing about the New York insurance revelations is not the loss of money felt by the policyholders. In part that loss was inevitable, due to the fall in the rate of interest and the adoption of a healthier reserve system; in part it was the consequence of increasing severity of competition, very deplorable and calling for all the restriction possible, but not in itself dishonest. But some of it—not very much perhaps in the total shrinkage of profits—has been shown to be due to flagrant breaches of trust by the men responsible for the handling of the policyholder's money. The secret payments made by these men to legislatures and to campaign funds can be ascribed to nothing less than cowardice at the best, if the claim that they were intended to head off taxation projects be credited. The loans to directors at one per cent., the exchange of nominal-interest loans between presidents, the payment of enormous salaries to relatives of the "controlling interest," the juggling with trust company stocks, the use of the funds to back speculations, whose profits were never permitted to reach the company—all these things are infinitely more terrible because of the utter extinction of the moral sense that they indicate in their authors than in any direct loss they may have caused to the policyholders. These are the things that take from the insurance companies all right to rail against a "yellow press." These are the things that, while they do not affect in the least the security of the face value of the policies, give the policyholder the right to demand an accounting of the uttermost farthing, and the instant withdrawal of those who have admitted them from all places of trust. These are things that no yellow journalism can exaggerate, that no hired press agency can palliate at $2 a line.

While these conditions were naturally not known to the great majority of persons outside of financial circles, it seems certain that they must have been known to, and endorsed by, a very large group of men in high positions of respect in the financial world. Mr. Chauncey Depew is only a conspicuous instance of the wide-spread class of men whose relations with the insurance companies and the men who benefited by their funds must have given them a fairly accurate idea of what was going on. The skeleton was doubtless kept in the safe, but so were the funds, and all who had access to the latter must have caught a glimpse of the former. The New York revelations have established the fact that New York high finance is a whited sepulchre of moral corruption. To suppose the existence of similar practices in Canada is to suppose that the same general leprosy is widespread in the financial world of Montreal and Toronto. We believe, with Mr. Hunter, in the honest instincts of the Canadian people.

But the absence of dishonesty would not prove the Canadian insurance business to be all that it ought to be. As we have often pointed out, much of the loss to the insurance investor in the United States, a loss that has undoubtedly been felt in Canada, is due to conditions that have crept in with the concentration of capital and the increase of competition, conditions that are a wrong to the insurer, a discouragement to thrift, and that should be remedied by every means in the power of the companies, the public and the state. A parliamentary investigation, while it would probably not bring to light any flagrant scandals, would at least educate our legislators [illegible] ance business, and would settle the question which is now uppermost in a great many minds, whether state insurance is not the best regulative that could be devised for existing evils.

THE JAPANESE MARKET.

The last report of the Canadian commercial agent in Japan is of great interest, in view of the prospect already opening up of the wide expansion of the Oriental buying market consequent upon peace and practical development in the Far East. Canada's exports to Japan were $12,000 less in the January-June half-year than they had been in the same period of 1904 but the decrease was due to the reduction of the Canadian flour export by $25,000, leaving a considerable increase in the trade in other staples. At present Japan is only a purchaser of Canadian flour in years of large surplusage, and 1904 was not such a year.

The chief importation of flour into Japan is from the United States, and the market is not one in which high quality compensates for high price—that is to say it is not just at present one which greatly concerns the Canadian agricultural and milling interests, whose export surplus is almost invariably much smaller than the demand and who are engaged for the time being almost exclusively on the highest grade of goods. But there will come a time in the development of the Canadian wheat-belt when the home market, the industrial consumers of the East and Central Canada, will bulk less in the total crop than they do to-day, when the exportable surplus figures up as vast as did that of the United States in the palmiest of those wheat-raising days which are gradually passing away; and when that time comes Japan and the countries under her influence will be our greatest customers for low-grade products as Britain is for high-grade.

Japan is just beginning to be educated up to the consumption of imported frozen or cold-storage mutton. The Australian source of supply is a thousand miles further away, the route crosses the equator instead of being confined to the temperate zone. Upon British Columbia primarily, along with the eastern foothills of the Rockies, would fall the obligation of cultivating such trade as this with Japan if Canada is to cultivate it at all. The point to be borne in mind is that the race is nearly always to the swift, and that those who get in while the new condition of things in Eastern Asia is in its earliest days will have a strong advantage over their competitors. The flour market seems to be destined for us by the rapid northward movement of the great "North American grain area." There should be other matters in which we can meet the wants of these little islands, the closest parallel in the world to the British Isles in their general situation and, it may be, soon in their purchasing power and needs.

THE PROPOSED DRUG MERGER.

The defence put forward in justification of the wholesale drug merger is probably about as plausible, and in a way convincing, as could be advanced by any trust or combination of capital to warrant its being brought into existence. Benevolence and altruism are its attributes and the charity which begins at home its dominating impulse. To save the trade from destruction by the various elements of which it is composed warring against each other, and to save those who are engaged in it and dependent upon it from the consequences of being unprofitable producers, it is proposed to eliminate competition by a union of interests. Instead of that ugly octopus so often painted with the tentacles sucking the vitality from everything endowed with life that it touches, there is to be a new and beautiful creation which will scatter blessings and plenty over a smiling trade. It is a fair picture, and far be it from us to suggest that the organism will prove otherwise than its creators wish, assuming that the creation becomes an accomplished fact. But the question may be permissible, have not all the trusts and mergers that have been formed and that have exercised their powers with such appalling effect upon the world of prices been brought into existence for reasons that bear a close resemblance to those put forward on behalf of the drug merger? How is it that things that start their careers with such "promise fair" assume forms that are ominous, dark and foul? Does the leviathan of his own perverse will take shape that was never intended and become too powerful for the creators who would but cannot hold it in control?

Those directing the operations of the wholesale drug trade complain of the dire effects of cut-throat competition, of business that absorbs the bulk of the profits in the getting of it, of travellers whose orders are thin, puny, and often scarce by reason of their being cut down for distribution among several when there is only enough for one, of sales that are made to persons unworthy of credit, which result in ultimate loss often of a serious character, and of many other injurious influences. They quite recognize that they are themselves responsible for these things and proclaim their powerlessness to avert the evil consequences that must follow methods that are obviously defective. Their's is an illustration in another field of the powerlessness of the individual to break away from his environment. But is their unhappy experience not either prophetic of the future powerlessness of the individual over the conditions that will govern the new capitalistic organization? The wholesale druggists blame the retailers for their apprehension and anxiety regarding increased prices, for their suspicions of secrecy and mystery. It is not denied that the trust will dominate the trade and control its conditions; but the domination and control will be exercised for wise and beneficent purposes. The retail druggist will be the beneficiary in ways innumerable, while the public will not suffer. Credit will be refused to retailers who are not stamped with the hall-mark of competency and probity, and thus will the fit who [illegible] of the undesirables. So far from prices being advanced, they may be lowered as the result of the new economic conditions that will spring from the suppression of the rivalry which makes trade dear. But may not the retailer have some justification for his fears when he observes that the wholesale men admit their inability to dominate and control the conditions of their own creation now? Will they be able to curb the new behemoth when he feels the strength of monopoly with the requirements of say a six million dollar corporation with the usual necessities of watered stock to provide for in the future? Such reflections may explain if they do not justify the psychological state that is favorable to nervous excitement and misgiving.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Sir William Van Horne appears to be the only member of the old Alexander directorate of the Equitable Insurance Company among the three nominations made to fill its own vacancies by the present directorate, which represents the control of the company by the committee of three of which ex-President Grover Cleveland is the most conspicuous member. Of the honesty of that committee, and the frankness of its intentions as to eliminating all relics of the earlier "grafting" element, there has been no question. Sir William's restoration to the position from which he resigned comes, therefore, as a vindication of his relations with the Alexander Board, and a proof that in the eyes of the new management there are considerations that relieve him from even negative responsibility for the condition which affairs reached during his former directorate.

One more step in the direction of national unity is put on record with the announcement that the Quebec stock breeders' associations have finally consented to the transfer of the records to Ottawa. There will hereafter be but one system of recording pedigrees, but one set of books to be consulted, for all information relating to Canadian blooded live stock, and the guarantees of pedigree which formerly rested on the authority of an insignificant provincial association now go out to the world with the sign manual of the Dominion of Canada, one of the greatest cattle countries known to breeders. Some of the difficulties that have been overcome in bringing this condition to pass are the same as those that hinder the nationalization of other and even more important interests. We hope that at some not too distant day our medical practitioners may derive their right to practice from the same authority as now registers our cattle. Canada will have even more reason for gratitude to the men who bring that about than she has to-day for thanking Mr. F. W. Hodson and the Hon. Sydney Fisher for nationalizing the live stock records.

FENCE-POST.

Improvement Which Relates Particularly to the Base Piece.

The oldtime fence-post has served its purpose for so long that it is about time it was improved. It has always seemed natural that in erecting a fence-post a hole should first be dug in the ground and the end of the post inserted in the hole, the remaining space being filled up again. A California man thinks this method antique and cumbersome, and has invented an exceedingly simple plan, which entirely eliminates this procedure. By the use of this method the initial digging of the hole is entirely unnecessary. The bottom of this post is spiral in shape, similar to an auger, being pointed at the end, and, after being partly inserted in the ground, is turned round and round until sunk sufficiently deep. To more easily accomplish this a dummy post, with a double-handed lever, which first bores the hole in the ground, can be used. The post shown in the illustration is made of two parts, the top being separated from the base. Along one side of the top portion is a vertical row of prongs, to which an equal number of wires can be attached by clamping the prongs.

A Ramble on Westmount Mountain

It was the Wanderer who insisted that Westmount Mountain was interesting. It was the Wanderer who persuaded me to spend certain hours of a beautiful October day enjoying the rural beauties of that suburban park. It is the Wanderer who insists that I enjoyed it, and since that peripatetic philosopher has passed his two score years and ten of life, it is well to give him the benefit of the doubt in his statements, and after all, possibly he is right.

To begin with it was a beautiful day. Just ahead of us, by the roadside, as we turned up one of the mountain avenues, the red, red sumach waved its banner-like foliage. The fiery bush, bursting out into view here and there seemed to have robbed autumn of the contents of her brightest paint pot, and the cool October breeze took the slender little passion-tinted leaves and tossed them about much as the hand of fate tosses about the little passions of men and nations.

Above was the blue, blue sky. Below were the spires and roofs and domes of Western Montreal, and the deep St. Lawrence, with its two islands set in its "silver sea," and about all the charm of this October day. Moreover it was a charm that had set this great infinite underworld of nature into humming and chirping and chattering. The chipmunks were out gathering up their winter store of acorns and chattering away to themselves and to each other like a lot of human busybodies. One runs stealthily from his hole up on the stump by the roadside, and, even his sharp eyes seeing nothing he begins to chatter to a chipmunk across the way. Now, unperceived, you may hob-nob with this shy little denizen of the woods, study that rising and falling of the chattering throat, the graceful curves, the dark stripes that have given him the name also of the striped squirrel. After a while the answering chatter across the road ceases, and the chipmunk finding it not so enjoyable to chatter alone, becomes silent, waves his tail gracefully, and suddenly wheels in your direction, where you are peering at him from the road. Will he run away? You whistle a light but decidedly human whistle—and he answers—again, and he answers and soon he is chattering away as contentedly as before. And then, unlucky moment, you rustle the leaves and presto! He is gone.

There are many chipmunks on Westmount Mountain, because it is a mountain of oaks, little oaks and big oaks. Other trees seem to be incidental almost an accident. Everywhere there are oaks, and the oak leaves in all shades from the rich olive to the deep red. In groves, along the roadsides, on hillsides, the sturdy specimens of the genus quercus, are to be seen.

"Is there not," says the Wanderer, "a breadth, an expanse in the feeling that comes over one when he stands above the city, the work-a-day world and sees how small it is in the broader outlook? It seems to toss away the pettiness of life. It seems to make out ears keener for the message of nature, our eyes keener to see her beauties."

As he spoke he pulled himself up on the bank and broke off the stems of some Everlastings that were growing there and brought the flowers back with him. Near them was a branch of golden rod, its bright yellow now turned to the greyish white of age. Even the grass looked brown and shrivelled. The fallen leaves lay fast decaying, their bright colors gone.

"You pick," I commented, whimsically, "the Everlasting from the very bed of death."

The Wanderer held the hardy little white flowers in his hand and looked at them, half seriously, half humorously.

"So shall we all, sometime," he answered, as he resumed his walk.

* * *

A little further on two or three chipmunks ran out of their holes and disappeared again. A little path wound out of sight amongst the trees. A thorn-apple tree stood temptingly near the road.

"Years ago," said the Wanderer, reminiscently, as we stopped again, "I cultivated a taste for acorns. Recently I have cultivated one for thorn-apples. An acquired taste, as you know, is more of a tyrant than a natural one."

So we sat down and like the prophet of old "comforted ourselves with apples," watching indolently an industrious lad nearby who was filling a bag with acorns that had fallen from the tree.

And afterward we wandered on, sometimes along the road, sometimes off in the woods, up on to Summit Avenue. Still on all sides of us were oaks. Even many of the bushes were oaks in the making. The ground was covered by acorns. We plunged into the woods and the world of chipmunks and squirrels, hearing continually the elusive chatter all about us, and wandered away under the autumn trees and sky, coming out once more facing the back of Mount Royal, with the cemeteries and Cote des Neiges road below us.

It was the Wanderer who quoted slowly as we came down once more to Cote des Neiges Road:

"If thou art worn and hard beset
With sorrows that thou wouldst forget,
If thou wouldst read a lesson that will keep
Thy heart from fainting and thy soul from sleep,
Go to the woods and hills! No tears
Dim the sweet look that Nature wears."

ADDRESSES ON GOOD CITIZENSHIP

Largely Attended Meeting of the Christian Endeavor Last Evening

"Good Citizenship" was the subject of the address given at the Christian Endeavor Annual Rally at the First Baptist Church last evening, and the speakers, Rev. Hugh Pedley and Rev. E. E. Scott, gave forcible definitions of the meaning of that expression as applied to the duty of the citizens towards their city and country. Rev. Hugh Pedley, in speaking of the great possibilities to the future of the Canadian nation said that what was needed most of all was a high and ideal Christian patriotism. We had a splendid national craft, but what was most necessary at the present time was a crew which could carry that craft safely through its difficulties, and away from the dangerous places in that national expansion through which it was now passing. There should be men of knowledge, men who knew the Canada of the past and the present. The newspaper, which chronicled the history of every day, should come next to the Bible in the reading of the Christian citizen. Knowledge was power and a man must know the history of the events of every day to be able to come to intelligent decisions and vote intelligently on the government of the country. Ignorance was part of the soil on which corruption thrives. The press was a most powerful factor in the dissemination of this knowledge and it was a question of it would not be advisable to introduce the reading of newspapers into the curriculum of the schools. For, first of all, a good citizen knows his country, its history and its daily growth.

Idealism was also a primary factor in good citizenship, for as knowledge placed your country of the past and present before you, idealism gave you a vision as to what it should be, as to what it might be. That vision had built all the great nations of the world, and that vision of the great possibilities of our country was an essential part in the scheme of its symmetrical development, along a high and just plane of government and citizenship. Above all else, good citizens needed those two qualities, knowledge and idealism.

Rev. Mr. Scott, speaking of the spirit of patriotism which all people had for their country, said that it needed to be expressed in working for the continual betterment of the country. The good citizen would fight against political corruption, monopolies, sweat shop evils, the liquor traffic and those sundry evils which beset the nations of to-day. The country's representatives should be honorable and unpurchasable and those who had outgrown the Sermon on the Mount and the Decalogue were not good enough for Canada.

Christian citizenship above all stood for pure men, men who would fight for principle not party, for moral issues could not be separated from the nation, they were greater than politics. Upright principles were greater than party principles.

Rev. Mr. Gordon, pastor of the First Baptist Church, presided, with Mr. Fred. Leroux, president of the Christian Endeavor Society of the First Baptist Church, as leader.

AGRICULTURE; AND HOW TO TEACH THE SUBJECT

Instructive Talk to Catholic Teachers by Inspector McGown.

At the Commercial Academy yesterday, before a representative convention of Catholic teachers, Inspector J. G. W. McGown spoke at length upon the subject of agriculture, and the proper manner of its teaching to the young.

To teach any subject well, said Mr. McGown, the teacher must be fully in love with the question, must like to teach it, and must know much of the matter in hand. Then, too, his method must be of the best. The great importance of agriculture to Canada and to Quebec was a matter of common knowledge with all, for according to statistics taken four years ago, there was left over after home consumption, $6,000,000 worth of butter $16,000,000 worth of cheese, and $6,000,000 worth of eggs, pork, grain, etc., which had to be disposed of in foreign markets. For this reason, it was necessary to impress pupils with the importance of turning out first-class products, so that Canada might have the larger benefit of the vast sums spent by England and other countries on import trade.

The children in school should be taught to be good practical farmers, good pork-keepers and to be loyal Canadians, proud of their land and its agricultural worth.

To properly teach this great subject simple language and natural studies must be used, so that the children might understand what was explained to them. Religion and agriculture went hand in hand in the rural schools.

In the afternoon Principal Letourneau, of St. Denis School, spoke on arithmetic, upholding a simple teaching of the fundamentals as opposed to a mechanical system of mere memory.

FATHER STRUBBE PASSES AWAY AND ST. ANN'S PARISH MOURNS

Popular Parish Priest Succumbs to Cancer of Stomach

BELOVED BY ALL CLASSES

His Death Leaves a Gap Which It Will be Difficult to Fill—The Funeral Will be Held on Monday.

The death of Rev. Father Strubbe, C.S.S.R., one of the most popular priests who ever ministered in St. Ann's parish, took place at 10.15 yesterday morning at the Hotel Dieu.

The demise of this prominent and well beloved clergyman had been expected for some time. He was taken to the hospital some weeks ago suffering from diabetes, which developed into cancer of the stomach and it was early seen there was no hope for him.

Almost from the day of his entry into the Hotel Dieu he began to sink. For two weeks he hovered between life and death, slightly rallying one day only to become worse the next. Finally he fell into a state of coma, from which he never recovered and it was seen that the end was only a matter of a short time. His constitution, however, was a very robust one, and he lasted much longer than even the doctors expected. But at last death came to end the unequal struggle and he passed peacefully away yesterday morning, lamented by all who knew him.

The news of Father Strubbe's death caused widespread sorrow in St. Ann's parish, where the deceased priest was immensely popular with all classes of the parishioners. Though his recovery had long been despaired of, yet the people hoped against hope that the devoted priest would be spared to work among them for many years longer, and when the news of his death reached them yesterday expressions of deep regret were heard on every hand.

The popularity which Father Strubbe achieved in the lower end of the city was a high tribute to his personality. He came to St. Ann's a complete stranger, a foreigner and unknown to all except to his confreres. But so great was his magnetism and so devoted was he to his work that his warm hearted Irish parishioners soon came to regard his as one of their own race, the door of their houses was ever open to welcome him and his presence was eagerly sought for every function.

The remains were removed to St. Ann's presbytery yesterday afternoon, and on Sunday will be transferred to St. Ann's Church, when the funeral will be held Monday morning. The interment will take place in the crypt of the church and the bones of Father Strubbe will repose beside the remains of Father Cote, Capelle, Savard, and Scanlan, all members of the Redemptorist Order.

At the Franciscan Church last evening, Rev. Father Wulstan, O.F.M., spoke feelingly of the dead priest, and asked the prayers of the Third Order of St. Francis for the repose of his soul. At the St. Anthony's, where many of Father Strubbe's old parishioners worshipped, prayers of the congregation were asked by Father Shea.

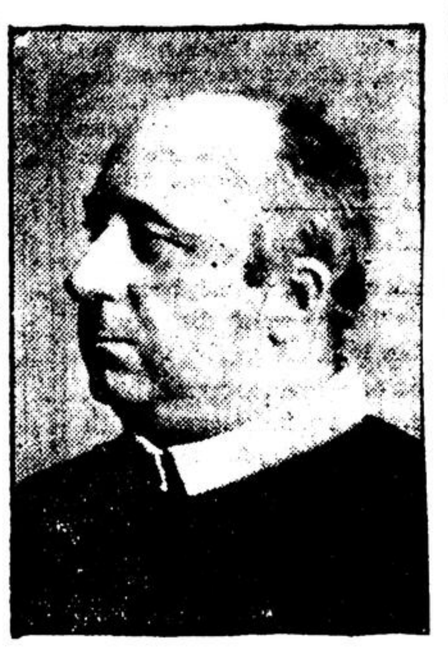
Rev. Father Strubbe was born at Bruges, Belgium, on Sept. 22, 1848. After finishing his classical course he entered the seminary in his native town, and was ordained at the Cathedral of Bruges on the 7th June, 1873, by His Lordship Bishop Faiet. After his ordination he labored as a secular priest at Bruges for a few years, and was then appointed director of the college at Thielt. Here his work bore much fruit, as he was particularly beloved by the students. In 1882 he resigned the directorship of the college and entered the novitiate of the Redemptorist Fathers. After his year of probation he made his solemn profession in the Congregation of the Most Holy Redeemer on Oct. 15th, 1883.

In August, 1884, St. Ann's parish of this city, then in charge of the Rev. Fathers Hogan, Whittaker (both deceased), O'Reilly and O'Meara (now pastor of St. Gabriel's Church, Point St. Charles) was handed over to the Redemptorist Fathers by the late Archbishop Fabre. The first Redemptorist Fathers to arrive from Belgium being Rev. Fathers Catulle, Caron, Goots, Strubbe and Capelle. Father Caron, now at Ste. Anne de Beaupre, is the only surviving member of the pioneer Redemptorists who came to labor for the Irish Catholics of St. Ann's parish, twenty-one years ago. Father Strubbe, not being conversant with the English language on his arrival, set to work, and in a short time had acquired a thorough knowledge of it, under the direction of the well known and lately deceased director of St. Ann's School, Rev. Brother Arnold.

Deceased preached his first missionary sermon in French at St. James Church, St. Denis street, where he gained the reputation of being an eloquent pulpit orator, and his services were always in great demand. He had given missions in French and English throughout the Provinces of Quebec, Ontario, Prince Edward Island, as well as in many parts of the United States, besides preaching retreats to the clergy of different dioceses throughout Canada and also to the sisters of many of the teaching and cloistered communities.

The late Father Strubbe had a great attraction for the young men of St. Ann's parish, and shortly after arriving in Montreal he set to work to build St. Ann's Hall. St. Ann's Young Men's Society to-day bear ample testimony to his zeal, for he, being its founder, labored long and well to make it what it is to-day, a prosperous organization. Nor did he forget the school children of the parish. He had St. Ann's Boys' School fitted up with new furniture and all the class rooms completely renovated at a cost of $15,000, he being instrumental in obtaining half the amount from the Catholic Commissioners Board, the parish paying the other half. St. Ann's Hall and the home of the Little Sisters of the Poor, on Seigneurs street hill, in which, with the late Father Catelle, C.S.S.R., he was one of the prime movers, will also tell of his administrative abilities.

The deceased priest was a great temperance advocate. His sermons during missions given in St. Ann's Church on that subject will long be remembered, and his work in the parish in trying to stamp out this great evil was instrumental in making St. Ann's parish a model one. Father Strubbe was a power for good, and he wielded it to great advantage. He was popular with all classes and creeds. His great popularity was shown on many occasions. In 1892 he was ordered by his physicians to seek his native air for a few months, and the parishioners donated a large sum of money to him. In 1898, when he celebrated his silver jubilee to the priesthood, he was the recipient of many valuable and substantial gifts. But when, in November, 1902, his superiors ordered his return to Belgium the generosity, good will and love of the parishioners of St. Ann's for Father Strubbe knew no bounds. The parting scene will never be forgotten by those who took part in it. Amidst the tears and adieus of a faithful people, he bade good-bye to the scenes of his labors in Canada. While in his native land, however, his heart still yearned for the people of St. Ann's, and scarcely a year after his return to Belgium, he was sent back to Canada to finish the labors he had been carrying on so nobly and so devotedly. His one great wish had always been that his remains should be buried among his parishioners, who to-day are mourning the loss of their beloved "Soggarth Aroon."



THE LATE REV. FATHER STRUBBE

HALIFAX ARTILLERYMEN IMPROVING IN AIM

Managed to Hit Boat From Second Cruiser Squadron, Although Not Intentional.

Halifax, N.S., October 27.—A cutter from one of the ships of the second cruiser squadron, was under fire yesterday afternoon from one of the forts at the mouth of the harbor. The Canadian artillery were engaged in target practice from York redoubt, and did not observe the approach of the cutter.

The artillerymen's shells glanced from the target and passed over the cutter, one shot carrying away her ringbolt, and many of them coming exceedingly close.

The crew were scared, but at last, by hoisting a handkerchief for a white flag, they managed to indicate to the fort the danger, and the firing ceased.

CUNLIFFE PLEADS GUILTY.

Pittsburg, Pa., October 27.—Edward G. Cunliffe, the Adams Express robber, went into court yesterday and pleaded guilty to two charges of larceny, representing a theft of $101,000. Sentence was suspended until Saturday. Cunliffe's action caused much surprise, as neither the Adams Express Company nor the detective agency was represented in court. Cunliffe had no counsel, and the belief is growing that he is mentally unbalanced.

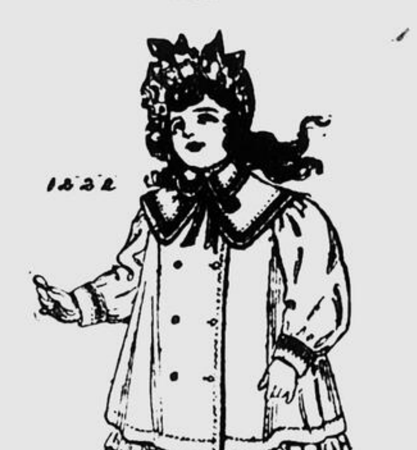
HERALD DAILY PATTERN



AN ATTRACTIVE COAT FOR THE SMALL GIRL.

Pattern No. 1222. Sizes 1 to 6 years.

One of the most necessary garments in a child's outfit is a smart coat that can be kept always at hand to slip on when needed, for children are very susceptible to changes of temperature and are frequently so lightly dressed that a wrap is quite indispensible to their health as well as to their comfort. This little coat is neat and jaunty yet is very simply cut, there being only three pieces. Scarlet broadcloth trimmed with black and white braid is used in the chic, French model. White, also, makes a dainty coat, but the dark colors are, of course, more serviceable. Cloth is much used for these small wraps, but almost any woollen material that is pretty will serve and with velvet and velveteen will be fashionable this winter. For a child 4 years old, 2 yards of material, 44 inches wide will be required. The pattern, No. 1222, is cut in sizes from 1 to 6 years of age and may be obtained, post paid, by sending ten cents, the number and size desired, and the name and address, to The Fashion Department of this paper.

W.C.T.U. CONVENTION WAS CONCLUDED

Officers Are Elected—Public Meeting Held Last Evening

Brockville, Ont., Oct. 27.—(Special.)—At the W.C.T.U. convention yesterday the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—Mrs. S. G. E. McKee, Barrie.

Vice-president—Mrs. May R. Thornley, London.

Corresponding secretary—Mrs. S. R. Wright, London.

Recording secretary—Mrs. H. E. Irwin, Weston.

Treasurer—Mrs. B. O. Britton, Gananoque.

"Y" secretary—Miss Dunlop, Pembroke.

The organization report showed Miss Charlotte E. Wiggins had visited thirty-four places, giving 104 addresses and securing 145 new members. Owing to illness she was forced to cancel engagements for September and October. A very touching letter was read from Miss Wiggins in response to the telegram sent yesterday. She also sent to the treasurer $25 to pay a life membership for Mrs. M. Brownell, of Toronto, who had been an associate in her plans and labors.

At the afternoon's session the committee on plan of work recommended payment of fees within three months of the annual meeting and prompt remittance. It was decided to print a leaflet entitled "How Mrs. Cheirable entertained Miss Willard." Medal contests were approved. The continuation of the anti-cigarette campaign was urged. Efforts are to be made to secure another missionary to assist Miss Sproule in the field among lumbermen and miners. Mrs. Stevens, of Toronto, spoke on "What to do next." She strongly advocated judges signing a reduction of licenses, and showed herself to be a strong advocate of local option.

Dr. Amelia Youmans, of Winnipeg, took as her subject "A burning question," the first of her remarks applying to the enfranchisement of women.

Miss Sproule told of visiting eighty-nine places and twenty-eight camps. She held 128 public meetings, twenty-two women's meetings, made 700 calls, and delivered seventy-one addresses to children. To do this she travelled 4,613 miles by rail, 1,015 miles by boat, rode twenty-eight miles on hand-car, 530 miles in buggy or sleigh, and walked 264 miles, a total of 6,430 miles. Continuing, she stated the great need of these isolated human beings cannot be told, but testimony is borne to appreciation of efforts being made to cheer and instruct them in the knowledge of the Gospel.

In the evening a public demonstration meeting was held in the First Presbyterian Church, which was addressed by the union officers and others. Many townspeople were present.

UNION DEPOT WILL BE BUILT IN WINNIPEG

Railway Companies Concerned Have Reached Satisfactory Agreement.

Winnipeg, Oct. 27.—(Special.)—The Union depot between the G. T. P. and the C. N. R. has been agreed upon and will be built almost in the heart of the city, just north of the present C.N.R. terminal. The Northern Pacific and Great Northern are also interested. The yards and terminals will be completely rebuilt, and probably both the G.T.P. and the C.N.R. will have separate yards, the former's being located in St. Boniface. All will be laid with heavy steel, and the depot will be beyond all question the finest structure of its kind in Canada, representing an outlay of three or four million.

Archbishop Gauthier leaves the city to-night for New York en route for Rome.

MOTHERHOOD

Actual Sterility in Women is Very Rare—Healthy Mothers and Children Make Happy Homes.

MRS. MAE P. WHARRY
MRS. M. KEENER

Many women long for a child to bless their homes, but because of some debility or displacement of the female organs they are barren.

Preparation for healthy maternity is accomplished by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound more successfully than by any other medicine, because it gives tone and strength to the entire female organism, curing all displacements, ulceration and inflammation.

A woman who is in good physical condition transmits to her children the blessings of a good constitution. Is not that an incentive to prepare for a healthy maternity?

If expectant mothers would fortify themselves with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which for thirty years has sustained thousands of women in this condition, there would be a great decrease in miscarriages, in suffering, and in disappointments at birth.

The following letters to Mrs. Pinkham demonstrate the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in such cases.

Mrs. M. Keener, Hebron, Yarmouth, N. S., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Before my baby was born I was in very poor health, hardly able to get out of bed in the morning, and often so dizzy that all would look black to me and life really did not seem worth the living, but as soon as I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I began to get better, in fact I feel that this medicine really saved my life and the life of my child, for it helped me give birth to my boy and also made me strong after the child came. I am, therefore, very glad to recommend your Vegetable Compound to all expectant mothers, and feel sure that it will help them as it did me."

Mrs Mae P. Wharry, Secretary of the North Shore Oratorical Society, The Norman, Milwaukee, Wis., writes.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I was married for five years and gave birth to two premature children. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me, and I am so glad I took it, for it changed me from a weak, nervous woman to a strong, happy and healthy one within seven months. Within two years a lovely little girl was born, which is the pride and joy of our household. Every day I bless Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for the light, health and happiness it brought to our home."

If any woman thinks she is sterile, or has doubts about her ability to carry a child to a mature birth let her write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., whose advice is free to all expectant or would-be mothers. She has helped thousands of women through this anxious period.

Women suffering with irregular or painful menstruation, leucorrhœa, displacement, ulceration or inflammation of the womb, that bearing down feeling or ovarian trouble, backache, bloating or nervous prostration, should remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound holds the record for the greatest number of actual cures of woman's ills, and accept no substitute.

Many Women Have Been Benefited by Mrs. Pinkham's Advice and Medicine.

Yet, since no man loves that journey, it was very sweet to know it done with for a while, and that they still might hope to dwell in this world for many years. Little wonder, then, that their brains swam, and their eyes grew dim, as they passed from the shadow to the light again. It was Wulf who spoke the first.

"A noble deed, Godwin, yet one for which I could not have thanked you had it been accomplished, who then must have lived on by grace of your sacrifice. Sultan, we are grateful for your boon of life, though had you shed this innocent blood surely it would have stained your soul. May we bid farewell to our cousin Rosamund before we ride?"

"Nay," answered Saladin; "Sir Godwin has done that already—let it serve for both. To-morrow she shall learn the truth of the story. Now go, and return no more."

"That must be as fate wills," answered Godwin, and they bowed and went.

Outside that gloomy place of death their swords were given them, and two good horses, which they mounted. Hence guides led them to the embassy from Jerusalem that was already in the saddle, who were very glad to welcome two such knights to their company. Then, having bid farewell to the bishop Egbert, who wept for joy at their escape, escorted for a while by Saladin's soldiers, they rode away from Ascalon at the fall of night.

Soon they had told each other all there was to tell. When he heard of the woe of Rosamund Wulf well-nigh shed tears.

"We have our lives," he said, "but how shall we save her? While Masouda stayed with her there was some hope, but now I can see none."

"There is none, except in God," answered Godwin, "who can do all things—even free Rosamund and make her your wife. Also, if Masouda is at liberty we shall hear from her ere long; so let us keep a good heart."

But though he spoke thus, the soul of Godwin was oppressed with a fear which he could not understand. It seemed as though some great terror came very close to him, or to one who was near and dear. Deeper and deeper he sank into the pit of dread of he knew not what, until at length he could have cried aloud, and his brow was bathed with a sweat of anguish. Wulf saw his face in the moonlight, and asked:

"What ails you, Godwin? Have you some secret wound?"

"Yes, brother," he answered, "a wound in my spirit. Ill fortune threatens us—great ill fortune."

"That is no new thing," said Wulf, "in this land of blood and sorrows. Let us meet it as we have met the rest."

"Alas! brother," exclaimed Godwin. "I fear that Rosamund is in sore danger—Rosamund or another."

"Then," answered Wulf, turning pale "since we cannot, let us pray that some angel may deliver her."

"Ay," said Godwin, and they rode through the desert sands beneath the silent stars, they prayed to the Blessed Mother, and to their saints, St. Peter and St. Chad—prayed with all their strength. Yet the prayer availed not. Sharper and sharper grew Godwin's agony, till, as the slow hours went by, his very soul reeled beneath this spiritual pain, and the death which he had escaped seemed a thing desirable.

The dawn was breaking, and at its first sign the escort of Saladin's soldiers had turned and left them, saying that now they were safe in their own country. All night they had ridden fast and far. The plain was behind them and their road ran among hills. Suddenly it turned, and in the flaming lights of a new-born day showed them a sight so beautiful that for a moment all that little company drew rein to gaze. For yonder before them, though far away as yet, throned upon her hills, stood the holy city of Jerusalem. There were her walls and towers, and there, stained red as though with the blood of its worshippers, soared the great cross upon the mosque of Omar—that cross which was so soon to fall.

Yes, yonder was the city for which throughout the ages men had died by tens and hundreds of thousands, and still must die until the doom was done. Saladin had offered to spare her citizens if they consented to surrender, but they would not. This embassy had told him that they had sworn to perish with the holy Places, and now, looking at it in its splendor, they knew that the hour was near, and groaned aloud.

Godwin groaned also, but not for Jerusalem. Oh! now the last terror was upon him. Blackness surged round him, and in the blackness swords and a sound as of a woman's voice, murmuring his name. Clutching the pommel of his saddle, he swayed to and fro, till suddenly the anguish passed. A strange wind seemed to blow about him and lift his hair, a deep, unearthly peace sang into his spirit, the world seemed far away and heaven very near.

"It is over," he said to Wulf. "I fear that Rosamund is dead."

"If so, we must make haste to follow her," answered Wulf with a sob.

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE.

WHAT BEFELL GODWIN.

At the village of Bittir, some seven miles from Jerusalem, the embassy dismounted to rest, then again they pressed forward down the valley in the hope of reaching the Zion Gate before the mid-day heat was upon them. At the end of this valley swelled the shoulder of a hill whence the eye could command its length and on the crest of that shoulder appeared suddenly a man and a woman, seated on beautiful horses. The company halted, fearing lest these might herald some attack and that the woman was a man disguised to deceive them. While they waited thus irresolute, the pair upon the hill turned their horses' heads, and notwithstanding its steepness, began to gallop towards them very swiftly. Wulf looked at them curiously and said to Godwin.

"Now I am put in mind of a certain ride which once we took outside the walls of Beirut. Almost could I think that yonder Arab was he who sat behind my saddle, and yonder woman she who rode with you, and that those two horses were Flame and Smoke reborn. Note their whirlwind pace, and strength, and stride."

Almost as he finished speaking the strangers pulled up their steeds in front of the company, to whom the man bowed his salutations. Then Godwin saw his face, and knew him at once as the old Arab called Son of the Sand, who had given them the horses Flame and Smoke.

"Sir," said the Arab to the leader of the embassy, "I have come to ask a favor of yonder knights who travel with you, which I think that they, who have ridden my horses, will not refuse me. This woman," aand he pointed to the closely-veiled shape of his companion, "is a relative of mine whom I desire to deliver to friends in Jerusalem, but dare not do so myself because the hill dwellers between here anr there are hostile to my tribe. She is of the Christian faith and no spy, but cannot speak your language. Within the south gate she will be met by her relatives. I have spoken."

"Let the knights settle it," said the commander shrugging his shoulders impatiently and spurring his horse.

"Surely we will take her," said Godwin, "though what we shall do with her if her friends are wanting I do not know. Come, lady, ride between us."

She turned her head to the Arab as though in question, and he repeated the words whereon she fell into the place that was shown to her between and a little behind the brethren.

"Perhaps," went on the Arab to Godwin, "by now you have learned more of our tongue than you knew when we met in past days at Beirut, and rode the mountain side on the good horses Flame and Smoke. Still, if so, I pray you of your knightly courtesy disturb not this woman with your words, nor ask her to unveil her face, since such is not the custom of her people. It is but an hour's journey to the city gate during which you will be troubled with her. This is the payment that I ask of you for the two good horses which, as I am told, bore you none so ill upon the Narrow Way and across plain and mountain when you fled from Sinan, also on the evil day of Hattin when you unhorsed Salah-ed-din and slew Hassan."

"It shall be as you wish," said Godwin; "and, Son of the Sand, we thank you for those horses."

"Good. When you want more, let it be known in the market places that you seek me," and he began to turn his horse's head.

"Stay," said Godwin. "What do you know of Masouda, you niece? Is she with you?"

"Nay," answered the Arab in a low voice, "but she bade me be in a certain garden of which you have heard, near Ascalon, at an appointed hour, to take her away, as she is leaving the camp of Salah-ed-din. So thither I go. Farewell." Then with a reverence to the veiled lady, he shook his reins and departed like an arrow by the road along which they had come.

Godwin gave a sigh of relief. If Masouda had appointed to meet her uncle the Arab, at least she must be safe. So it was no voice of hers which seemed to whisper his name in the darkness of the night when terror had a hold of him—terror, born perhaps of all that he had endured and the shadow of death through which he had so lately passed. Then he looked up, to find Wulf staring back at the woman behind him, and reproved him, saying that he must keep to the spirit of the bargain as well as to the letter, and that if he might not speak he must not look either.

"That is a pity," answered Wulf, "for though she is so tied up, she must be a tall and noble lady by the way she sits her horse. The horse, too, is noble, own cousin or brother to Smoke, I think. Perhaps she will sell it when we get to Jerusalem."

Then they rode on, and because they thought their honor in it, neither spoke nor looked more at the companion of this adventure, though, had they known it, she looked hard enough at them.

McGill Outplayed Ottawa College and Won First Victory of Season

Three thousand spectators at McGill campus yesterday cheered McGill College football team to its initial victory. Ottawa College was the losing fourteen, and the event was a scheduled fixture in the Intercollegiate Union series. The score was 21 to 11 at the final whistle, and 11 to 6 at half time, in favor of the boys from the Sawdust Village.

In the history of the Intercollegiate Union it is doubtful if better ball has been put up than that afforded by this season's teams, and yesterday's match was no exception to the rule. Last Saturday saw McGill and Varsity give a magnificent exhibition of Rugby, and the Saturday before McGill and Ottawa College had a battle royal in Ottawa, while yesterday's struggle on old McGill's campus was one to warm the heart of a football fan. It was clean, very fast, and football all the time. Occasionally, especially in the second half, when the red and white really woke up, the bursts of speed, and the fierce brilliance of the play, created scenes of enthusiasm seldom witnessed on a football field. When, by a fast combined wing work and spectacular punting, the McGill team forced their score upwards, and finally passed the eleven points of Ottawa College, literally carried the students from the Capital off their feet, the war cry of "McGill, McGill, what's the matter with old McGill?" rose to high heaven with a gusto that could not be surpassed. McGill was "all right," and won a hard-fought match on its merits.

COLLEGE WAS LIGHT.

If College had a few pounds more weight on her wing line she would be perhaps the best team in the business, for certainly the garnet and grey exponents know football. As it was, their strength lasted until half-time and then, after a desperate onslaught that almost settled the match, they faded away. College is very light and very fast, but not a strong team physically—at least not as strong as McGill.

There is where the game was won. McGill's strong wings wore their opponents down. On the go-in Ottawa College made a show of McGill, and until a few seconds before half-time, had the ball on the local line all the time. After half-time the conditions were reversed.

A bright, sunny day and an absence of wind gave neither team an advantage—in fact the weather was ideal, and a record crowd was in attendance. They expected to see a good match, and did see it. They saw McGill make a beautiful finish and saw a light, brainy set of young men go down to a stubborn defeat.

Callaghan was on the line-up for McGill and saved the day. He and Joe Gleeson were opposed as half-backs, and Gleeson did not shine after half-time. He fumbled and kicked long punts directly into Callaghan's hands. The latter ran the kicks back and dropped into vacant territory for big gains, or landed the oval into touch in beautiful style.

M'GILL'S WINGS.

On the wings McGill "tore 'em up" in the last fifteen minutes, and dazzled the boys from Varsity oval with their determined rushes. Callaghan's short punts, too, got away from the College backs and the score floated skyward by sensational bounds. Nothing finer has been seen on a local gridiron this fall than McGill's beautiful combined dashes, in which Stephens, Malcolm, Zimmerman and Lyons figured for touches. "Zimmy's" touchline run for seventy-five yards through the whole College team, with a brilliant series of passes over the line just before half-time, settled the result of the match and took the ginger out of Ottawa College. They lasted but ten minutes or so into the second period, and then tumbled. Hargrave, C. Ross and Cowen were always on the ball and put up a most stubborn game all afternoon. Toward the last all McGill's men were going through the College line.

In the scrim Ottawa had the best of it, and Johnston bucked for big gains, when he did not pass to Gleeson. The latter played his halves well, especially little Durocher, a fine bit of stuff, who made a dozen runs, and punts to touch. Joran, too, was on the job all afternoon and made no mistakes. Richards passed to Callaghan invariably.

CALLAGHAN A STAR.

Callaghan is a finished player, and all through the hard-fought match made not one error. He caught and punted faultlessly. Zimmerman and Maclachlan, at left and right, covered all their territory nicely and tackled like Indians when the chance occurred. Toward the first Zimmerman muffed repeatedly, and College played him to that end. After his big run he was a star, and gathered 'em all in.

Filiatreault, Jones and Costello were College's star wings, the former doing two men's work and being on the ball line like a hawk. He worked till he could hardly walk off the field, while Costello proved the speediest man on the field. Brennan and McDonald both held their men well in check until the garrison finish hove in sight.

Neither full-back had any work to do until the end of the match, when J. B. McDonald was called on for a succession of reliefs, which, however, failed to keep McGill in check.

Joe Gleeson in the last five minutes of play got away for a full length of the field dash, and was called back to scrimmage. Malcolm got over, and was called back. Ottawa kicked on Benedict's decision in Zimmerman's touch-line run, and he was replaced. Ottawa claimed "Zimmy" ran out of the field, and while the players were discussing the point McGill got busy and earned five good tallies.

Dr. Nagle and "Hammy" Gordon, of Almonte, Ottawa, and McGill and Montreal respectively, as referee and umpire, gave good satisfaction.

The teams were:

Ottawa.		McGill.
J. B. McDonald	Full-back	Harrington
Joran	Halves	Maclachlan
J. Gleeson (capt.)	"	Callaghan
Durocher	"	Zimmerman (Capt.)
Johnston	Quarter	Richards
Collin	Scrimmage	Quinn
Sloan	"	Beckwith
Smith	"	Young
O'Neil	Wings	Malcolm
Filiatrault	"	Stephens
Brennan	"	Lyons
Costello	"	Cowen
Jones	"	Ross
McDonald	"	Hargrave

Referee, Dr. Nagle, Ottawa, umpire, Hammie Gordon, Montreal.

THE PLAY.

McGill won the toss and kicked north. On the kick-off Ottawa got the ball and a moment after were awarded a free kick. Gleeson sent the ball to touch and from the heel-out kicked to Zimmerman who freed on McGill's thirty-five yard line. From a throw-in at centre and scrimmage Gleeson passed to Durocher and the kid went along for a fifty-yard run passing to Joran and he boosting to Zimmerman. Costello downed him on his fifteen yard line and Gleeson returned Callaghan's punt to McGill's ten yard line. Both centre halves exchanged punts, and Callaghan freed ten yards out. Gleeson sent the oval back and Jones, Johnston and Filiatrault went across. McGill merely looked on at the play. Brennan missed an easy goal.

McGill, 0; Ottawa College, 5.

Joran dodged Malcolm and lifted the leather to touch, fifteen yards out, when after an exchange of long punts Callaghan put it to touch at the five yard line. Gleeson sent out a pretty drop that Zimmerman missed and Costello dribbled along to Maclachlan who returned to touch at Ottawa's twenty yard line. College pushed to centre, where McGill took a free kick that Joran ran back.

Costello got away for a forty yard sprint up the side and the ball rolled into touch on McGill's ten yard mark. Durocher on Gleeson's pass ran across the field from which position Filiatrault was pushed over the line. Durocher converted.

McGill, 0, Ottawa College, 11.

McGill held the ball and pushed along to centre. Callaghan in two punts dropped the oval to touch-in-goal. Benedict the line judge was questioned on this decision.

McGill, 1, Ottawa College, 11.

So far Ottawa had played McGill to pieces and things looked blue for the local kickers. Gleeson was grassed on a free kick returned by Zimmerman to Ottawa's thirty-five yard line. Callaghan's kicks to touch brought the play to Ottawa's line, but College responded with a heavy play to centre. Zimmerman got the ball and with Malcolm and Stephens crossed college line. Benedict was replaced on this touch-line decision. Ottawa said Zimmerman ran into touch.

McGill, 6, Ottawa College, 11.

SECOND HALF.

College failed to score a point in this period, and after ten minutes play were all in. Filiatrault stole the ball from a trick kick, but from the scrimmage Gleeson missed a high pass and McGill's line was off the ball in a minute. Gleeson rouged.

McGill, 7, Ottawa College, 11.

Callaghan punted nicely to touch at twenty yards, and from the throw-in Maclachlan tried a run, but gained no ground. Jones broke through twice for twenty yards' gains but was offside on the third scrimmage. On the free kick Callaghan sent the oval to Joran and he passed to Gleeson. Joe fumbled and Stephens, Lyons and Malcolm went over.

McGill, 12, Ottawa College, 11.

Callaghan missed an easy try.

College put on an extra quantity of steam and in two or three minutes had the ball on McGill's five yard line. College got a free kick and from a duel between Gleeson and Callaghan the ball was held at twenty yards. Zimmerman cut loose for a diagonal sixty yard run and Malcolm took a thirty-five yards further. Fierce scrimmaging was the order in Ottawa's twenty yard line, and finally College got a free kick. Durocher punted to Maclachlan, he to Gleeson who freed. Callaghan returned the punt and Gleeson rouged.

McGill, 13; Ottawa College, 11.

College was all in at this stage and the game was won and lost. Durocher from the ten yard line punted to Zimmerman and that player returned over the line to McDonald. His effort was blocked into touch-in-goal.

McGill, 14; Ottawa College, 11.

Callaghan returned Durocher's punt to McDonald and he rouged under a hot attack.

McGill, 15; Ottawa College, 11.

College made a last effort and Durocher tried to get away but was downed at centre where play hovered for some few minutes. From another of Callaghan's punts to touch Malcolm went over the line and was called back. Gleeson, from a scrim at Ottawa's line ran the length of the field and was taken back. Malcolm went over again and Callaghan put the ball between the poles.

McGill, 21, Ottawa College, 11.

KICKED TO TOUCH.

It looks like Varsity for the "championship"—and then watch Rough Riders eat them up. One can hear the Ottawa bunch licking their lips already.

Malcolm, Zimmerman and Stephens played the games of their lives. Three times did Malcolm cross the line.

"Zimmy's" big touch-line run was worth the price of admission alone. Ottawa thought he ran out, and stood like wooden men till the ball was between the goal posts.

Callaghan beat Gleeson at his own game.

With more beef on the line College could beat the best in the game; but they're very light.

Durocher, for a kid, is a peacherino all right. To see him punt, after a long run, was a sight for the gods.

"They're heavier than we are," said King Clancy after the match. "We should have held our lead but they beat us. I've no kick coming."

"College knows more football than McGill, but lost on fumbles. Gleeson fell to pieces in the last half and did not perform up to his usual style." This was Mike Shea's opinion.

Ottawa kicked on the officials being appointed at the last moment, and even when their photo was being taken looked blue over the fact that they had been "jollied."

McGill's picture was taken before the grand stand, just before time was called. They looked very meek.

In five minutes' play after half-time there were five noses bleeding from six punches. The game was clean, however.

Filiatrault is the star College wing.

I.C.R.F.U. CERTIFICATES.

The Intercollegiate Rugby Football Union has, on the recommendation of a committee composed of Dr. McCurdy and Dr. Wood, Varsity; Messrs. McLeod and Tees, McGill, and Mr. McInnes, Queen's, decided that the clubs in the I.C.R.F.U. must send in certificates, five days before matches, that the players they propose having on their teams are bona fide students and eligible to play.

CITY FOURTEENS PLAY SATURDAY

Montreals and Westmounts Will Meet Again To-Morrow

A rattling good football match will be that between Montreal and Westmount to-morrow afternoon.

There is keen rivalry between the teams, and as they are local and known to prefer fast, open football a large crowd should witness their struggle for the championship of the city.

The Montreals won the first match, but by so small a margin that the Westmounts are liable to beat them out in the matter of points and win the round.

It is likely that two McGill men will officiate.

Both teams will have strong line-ups, and the match is sure to be the best of the year, from a spectator's standpoint.

INTERCOLLEGIATE HOCKEY UNION DRAWS UP SCHEDULE

Kingston, Oct. 27. A meeting of the Intercollegiate hockey executive was held here last evening with representatives from McGill, Queen's, R.M.C. To- was understood that Laval University was ready to apply for admission, but as the requisite notice had not been given it was decided to give Toronto time to consider it, and another meeting will be called in a couple of weeks. Queen's and McGill are favorable, and 'Varsity also, provided the financial question does not prohibit it.

The following senior schedule was drawn up:

Jan. 12 Toronto at Queen's.
Jan. 19 Queen's at McGill.
Jan. 27 McGill at Toronto.
Feb. 2 Queen's at Toronto.
Feb. 9 McGill at Queen's.
Feb. 16 Toronto at McGill.

DR. CLARKE MAY BE THE NEXT PRESIDENT OF O.H.A.

Kingston, Ont., Oct. 27. (Special.) Dr. C. K. Clarke regards it as merely talk the suggestion that he should accept the presidency of the Ontario Hockey Association. However, if it developed into anything definite, it would be time to give the matter some consideration.

Dr. Clarke said he had had all the honors going on the athletic field and he was content. He is a thorough believer in amateur sports, and if selected, the opinion here is that he would accept the office and seek to maintain the record already made.

WORLD'S CHAMPIONS WILL MEET TO-NIGHT

First Series of Big Wrestling Tourney Drawing to Close.

To-night's bill of fare at Sohmer Park should satisfy the most rabid "rassling" fan in Montreal, for the six champions are drafted to meet in the best order of the tourney. All the bouts should be the real thing, as only one more meet of this series is billed before a new half-dozen parade before the curtain.

Apollo, the big fellow from the land of the Shamrock, goes on with Emile Maupas, and those who know Emile, realise that that is "nuf sed." Emile will put him down on the mat, or know the reason of his failure. Maupas met Apollo when the Baby first came to Montreal and had him on the jumps for half an hour before a hard roll put the Frenchman to the carpet.

Chouiniere will take on Geo. Schnable, and Stefan Lagler the Austrian Delivuk. The latter, with his fast work, is a prime favorite with Park habitants, and always does his best.

Catch-as-catch-can preliminaries will add interest to the meet.

MISCELLANEOUS

M'GILL BOXING CLUB.

The McGill Boxing Club is now in full swing and seven hours a week have been secured at the college gymnasium for those willing to take lessons. Instructor Jacomb has a large squad at work, and the tournament to be held later in the year will be a lively one.

M'GILL FENCING CLUB.

A letter has been received from 'Varsity proposing an intercollegiate fencing tournament. There are several good fencers at McGill and the proposition may be favorably considered. It will be necessary, of course, to bring the matter up before the grounds and athletic committee of the university, and their consent will have to be given before McGill can enter into any binding agreement with the other colleges.

R. M. C. WON BY DEFAULT.

Queen's II. defaulted to R.M.C. at Kingston yesterday afternoon and the referee, Mr. F. McKenna, of McGill, lined the Cadets up and awarded them the match. This makes R. M. C. the champions of their section, and they will play against McGill intermediates to-morrow morning in Montreal.

I.C.R.F.U. WILL MEET TO-NIGHT

An executive meeting of the Canadian Intercollegiate football meeting has been called by President McCallum for to-night, and will be held in the Windsor Hotel. The principal business to be attended to is the consideration of the protest of McGill against Ottawa College in the first match of the season. The reason of the protest is that the ball kicked after a touch down struck one of Joe Gleeson's hands before going over the goal bar. Dr. Dalton, the referee, would not allow the goal to count. Strange to say the rules of the C.I.F.U. do not cover this point, and it is for the Union to say whether the referee had the right to disallow such a goal. According to the Quebec rules such a goal would not count, while under the Ontario rules it would count.

The next business that will be taken up will be the question of the certificates of eligibility of the various players of the different teams. Some trouble has arisen over this, and the McGill authorities have protested the fact that Toronto showed no certificates in last Saturday's match between McGill and Toronto, and the Union has been asked for meeting on the question.

A FAMOUS PLAYER.

BILLY GILMOUR.

Captain of McGill's Hockey Club and a Member of Ottawa's Championship Team.

EASTERN LEAGUE SCHEDULE.

Toronto, Oct. 27.—The Eastern League Schedule Committee will consist of Toronto, Baltimore and Providence. They will meet in Toronto next March to arrange the dates of the next season.

It was said in some quarters that a great deal of hard feeling prevailed among the directors at the annual meeting of the Eastern League. John Kreitner, of Montreal, and Ed. Mack, of Toronto, were the subjects of much electioneering talk before the meeting began, but both retired when the name of Taylor was suggested.

'Varsity is Practically Sure to Win Intercollegiate Rugby Championship

Kingston, Ont., Oct. 27. (Special.)—There was sadness on the "old Ontario strand" on Thanksgiving Day. The football battle went against the Calvinists; 'Varsity rubbed it all over them to the tune of twenty points to six. The thankfulness of the throng was that the visitors did not make a worse show of the home talent. The game was a fine one, with possibly more scrimmaging than the spectators wished.

The day was perfect, the sun shone brightly and a fine breeze swept across the field. It was chilly watching the warm game on the field. Every bit of space about the Athletic grounds was occupied. The grand stand was filled with befurred ladies; even then their teeth chattered for their was little for them to demonstrate over. The paddock was crowded with vehicles, the bleechers had a great mass of students with megaphones, horns and colors, which they could not advantageously use. Seldom has a finer crowd been seen at any game here in years. The field was entirely at the disposal of the players. Only officials and leaders in the game were allowed inside the gates. The game was quite rough but not brutal. There were a few sent to the fence for unfair play but they were not penalized for more than five minutes. There was evidence of scrapping, but it was not done with malice, but to stop the rivals from securing the ball. A half dozen times there were halts to let men get wind or make repairs.

The feature of the game was the remarkable run of McInnes, the right half back of 'Varsity. On a long kick from up the field he got the ball and from 'Varsity's twenty-five yard line he made a dash around the outside. He shook off man after man as he went steadily up the campus and amid a triumphant roar he planted the sphere behind the goal of 'his adversary and soon had a well-earned and cleverly-executed score rolled up for his side. He repeated 'tis said, a run he made in the game in Toronto some two weeks ago.

'Varsity's team displayed the better qualities. It had the best runners, quick wing work and fine halves. The quarter, too, showed keen ability in picking out and passing. The scrimmage, too, was strong, though in this respect the teams were equal.

It was a lively fight with the advantages on 'Varsity's side th[illegible] team had to fight very strenuously to get the game. Lash was an able bucker of the line, while Southam shone as a kicker. He frequently relieved in a way that was really captivating. K. Williams was the Queen's man who did good work as full back. He kicked splendidly. Fumbling and inferior passing was the bane of Queen's men.

The teams that lined up were:

Queen's: K. Williams, back; Walsh, J. Williams, Gleeson, halves; Richardson, quarter back; Templeton, Donovan, Gibson, scrimmage; Kennedy, Patterson, Turner, Cameron, Tims and Paul, wings.

'Varsity—Southam, back; McInnes, Lash, McPherson, halves; Montague, quarter; Johnson, Burnham, Ritchie, scrimmage; Reynolds, Burns, Lailey, Davidson, Ross, French, wings. Referee, W. Molson, McGill; umpire, P. Molson, Montreal.

Queen's won the toss and kicked up with a little advantage of wind. Within ten minutes 'Varsity scored twice, getting touches in goal, the first by a fumble of Williams, who saved by kicking into touch; the second by Southam. Again Southam kicked for a touch-in-goal and on a second kick he forced Gleeson to rouge. The score was thous, 'Varsity, 4, Queen's, 0. Queen's had a good sprint one, carrying the ball near to 'Varsity's goal line, but missed the opportunity to get a touch, by fumbling on a pass.

The opening episode of the second half was a rush which carried McPherson over 'Varsity's goal line but a miss-play called the ball back to scrimmage. Then came the brilliant run of McInnes and a booming of 'Varsity's score to ten points, when thirty minutes play was over during which there were many scrimmages and a little open play Southam made a drop kick over Queen's goal for another five points. Queen's went on her mettle and Richardson from a scrimmage got over 'Varsity's line for a touch which Gleeson converted. This made six for Queen's and averted a whitewash. With play again inside of Queen's twenty yard line Southam dropped the ball over Queen's goal for another five points. The scoring ended here. 'Varsity, 20; Queen's, 6. Much of the play throughout the game was in Queen's territory. The 'Varsity men are much heavier than Queen's team and it seems a foregone conclusion that they will secure the championship of 1905.

The Rough Riders Are Champions of Quebec Union for 1905-1906

The Rough Riders yesterday firmly established their claim to the title of champions of the Quebec Union for 1905-1906, by defeating the Westmounts at Lansdowne Park, Ottawa, by 34 points to 7.

The Riders ran over the Westmounts and had the game well in hand at every stage. Nervous, perhaps, because of the St. Patrick's-Westmount score, the Ottawa wings started in to tear things up and they succeeded rather thoroughly in accomplishing their purpose.

They had the strength and weight to start with, but they displayed remarkable speed and they were always on the ball, ready to take advantage of every opening that might lead to a score. This aggressive following up gave them not a few points as their bodies often blocked Westmount punts and sent the oval rolling to the suburbanites' goals.

It was a clean game and only one man was ruled off for rough work. He was Herb Buckham, who up to yesterday played one of the cleanest games in the Quebec Union this season. Alf. Smith remonstrated with Referee Jack over Buckham's punishment and quite boldly informed the ofifcial that he was a liar, whereupon Smith was relegated to the side line.

Gordie Shewan, who was hit by Buckham, collapsed shortly afterwards and had to retire, the Rough Riders laying off Jack Roberts to even up.

The Rough Riders demonstrated quite effectively that they are the best team in the Quebec Union. Their wing-line, scrimmage, quarter and full-back are there with the goods. The half-back line is only fair at kicking and is decidedly weak in tackling and handling punts.

With judicious coaching in these departments the Riders will comfortably trim any other team in the country.

Pulford and Morley Walters were not playing yesterday, being away on a shooting excursion, but Eddie Phillips and Poapst, who replaced them, put up strong games. Phillips made two touch-downs, one of which was after a good catch of a low punt from behind the line by Hayden, followed by a pretty dodging run of twenty-five yards.

The Westmounts did not play up to the form they usually display, though they played hard enough. Their blunders, though there was not very many of them, were costly, owing to the Riders' tactics. Buzz Baillie put up a magnificent game, as did Gordie Davidson, Fraser, Kelly and Trenholme. Hayden's playing was rather on the blink. On one occasion he gracefully fumbled the ball near his own line and it was rushed over for a touchdown. On another occasion he booted the ball into Phillips' hands and another touchdown resulted.

Ferguson, Lafleur, Shillington, Moore, Phillips, Kennedy and Sherriff were the bright stars of the Rider line. Lafleur's playing was especially fast and clean.

One of the features of the match was the try that Walter Smaill converted. He knocked the ball between the goal posts from a point almost on the touchdown. It was easily one of the finest place kicks ever made in the Quebec Union, and Smaill was cheered to the echo by the crowd.

The Westmounts scored their touchdown on a dribble, a neat theft of the ball by Trenholme and a determined buck over the line-up by Buzz Baillie. In the first quarter Turner rouged, Rankin got a try and converted it, and Phillips finished up with a try, also converted by Rankin. Score, Ottawa 13, Westmount 0.

McGee got over for a solitary try for Ottawa in the second quarter, and this was not converted. Half-time score, Ottawa 17, Westmount 0.

In the third quarter Smith scored a try, unconverted. Ottawa kicked over the dead line, and Westmount forced Rankin to rouge. Score, Ottawa 22, Westmount 1.

A kick over the dead line and a rouge netted Ottawa two more early in the final quarter. Then after a long dribble from centre to the Ottawa line, Baillie was shoved over for a try for Westmount and Smaill converted it. This ended Westmount's scoring, but Ottawa on a dash by Phillips after a low kick out by Hayden, got another try and Rankin kicked the goal. The concluding tally was a try by Ferguson, not converted. Final score, Ottawa 34, Westmount 7.

The work of the officials, Dr. A. Clifford Jack and Mr. Wattie Burland, was probably as good as any performed by similar officials in the Quebec Union during the past decade. They made both teams play the game every minute they were on the field.

TORONTO WON AT ASSOCIATION.

Kingston, Oct. 27.—There was a lively Association game yesterday morning between 'Varsity and Queen's teams, the visitors winning by the score of 4 to 0. The lads of the collegiate institutes of Kingston and Brockville met on Queen's campus in the forenoon, Kingston winning by 3 to 0. The Burnside rules were played.

WILLIE HOPPE BEAT MARCOTTE

Boy Billiardist Gave Remarkable Exhibition at Local Academy

Willie Hoppe, the boy billiardist, played an exhibition match with Arthur Marcotte at the latter's academy last night and demonstrated that he is indeed a wonder with the cue.

He ran up 400 points in thirty-four innings, while Marcotte accumulated 213, hardly more than half that number.

Hoppe played brilliantly in the opening stages of the match but towards the end he became a trifle careless and his work fell off. However, his playing was sufficient to show that he really merits all the fine things which have been said of his play, and in general knowledge of the game he gives evidence of having many of the essentials of a true champion. In gathering shots, draws and particularly in masse, Hoppe performed magnificently, while his follows proved a treat. A run of fifty-three in the third inning was a brilliant exhibition and the final run of twenty-two, which closed the game was excellent. In the thirty-first inning Hoppe collected a fine total of nineteen, which was meritorious on account of three difficult corner shots. Marcotte was hardly in best form, suffering from a painful wrist, but at times he reached brilliancy, his draws being good at all times.

Hoppe—3, 4, 53, 5, 7, 5, 0, 0, 15, 31, 34, 27, 28, 0, 28, 2, 0, 18, 40, 12, 2, 1, 1, 6, 21, 6, 5, 0, 0, 4, 0, 19, 1, 22—400. Innings, 34; average, 11 13-17. Highest run, 53.

Marcotte—3, 3,7, 1, 3, 7, 21, 0, 6, 5, 12, 21, 4, 3, 4, 3, 4, 0, 1, 20, 1, 1, 1, 2, 5, 1, 12, 9, 13, 0, 6, 0, 3, 1—213. Innings, 34; average, 6 9-34. Highest run, 31.

Hoppe is in Quebec to-night, but will return for another exhibition to-morrow night, and also on Sunday afternoon at Marcotte's rooms.

Point St. Charles Defeated the Westmounts Yesterday by 2 to 0

Payne Dislocated His Knee After Ten Minutes' Play—Clapp Played Grand Game in Goal—Wright and Ogilvie Starred for Points

A large crowd of spectators witnessed the final for the Friedman Cup between the above teams on the Baseball Park yesterday afternoon. The game was late in starting, but after the referee got the teams together no delays took place and the game was finished a few minutes after five.

Points won the toss and defended the city goal with a good breeze, but the sun in their face and the mud to negotiate. The game opened in a spirited manner and both goals were attacked in turn, Clapp being the first goalkeeper to be called on to use his hands. He cleared in a masterly style and gave a glimpse of the great form that he showed further in the game. After many fruitless journeys to both goals, Points opened the register after about twenty minutes' play. Thompson missed the ball when it stuck in the mud and May was on it like a flash. Payne tried to clear, but the ball rebounded off May, who ran on and beat the Westmount goalkeeper with a stiff shot. The reverse put more ginger into the Westmount players and a hard attack was started. Davis got on the ball and beat several opponents, from which a scrimmage resulted, and the ball was forced past Garden, making the game one all.

Almost from the start Payne was called on to clear, but in doing so slipped and twisted his knee. He had to leave the field, but returned for a short time, and had eventually to retire for good, leaving the Westmounts with ten men. Points kept up a great attack and May missed when right under the bar. Wright called on Clapp, who saved at the expense of a corner. From the kick the ball went out, but Points came back and Clapp had again to save when all seemed over. Immediately he was called on to save three hard shots, and for a time it seemed that he was unbeatable. Westmount now attacked, but Wright broke away and passed across to May, who put in a stinger which Clapp saved with all the Points' forwards on him. Half-time came with the score unaltered, one all. After a short rest the game was resumed and Westmount immediately took up the attack.

It was more a case of individual work and the want of the fifth forward told on their combination. Sutherland cleared with a great kick and, Ogilvie getting the ball, tricked Crabb and Thompson, crossing with great judgment to Wright, who beat Clapp right under the bar. This success caused great glee in the Point camp. Points now took up the attack and kept Clapp busy, but he was equal to all calls, and at times made marvellous saves. About five minutes from time Westmount again got going and from a position that seemed certain, Whiteside and then Deans missed fire. Give and take play followed and the end came with the Points the first winners of the Friedman Cup by 2 to 1.

The teams were:—

Point St. Charles—Garden, Sutherland, Anderson, McKay, Greig, Ross, Wright, J. Sutherland, May, Suttie, Ogilvie; reserve, McCullough.

Westmount—Clapp Thompson, Payne, Crabb, Neville, Woodbrun, J. D. Twomey, S. Davis, Whiteside W. Deans, W. Martin.

Westmount had a hot band of ten supporters, Points pretty near 1,000. This is hardly the way for the members of the W.A.A.A. to support a team that has done so much for them. Another season may open their eyes.

Nairn was sadly missed by the Westmounts, and that dandy cross of his would have been a blessing once or twice.

Clapp is the best goalie in the land, his height giving him a great advantage over his competitors. He clears in a fine manner and always to the wing.

All the Westmount team, with the exception of Crabb, Thomson and Woodburn, seemed in poor condition.

Points were the better team on the day's play and well deserved the victory.

Wright was away off with some of his shots, but worked hard.

May showed good form, but ought to have had another goal.

Garden did his duties well, but should leave the attacking force to his backs. That little habit of his may have fatal results.

The men all seemed in good condition and finished strong. Like Westmount, they have won a cup in the first year of their existence, and it is to be hoped that it will give them courage for further deeds.

Mr. Calder refereed in a splendid manner and had the game always under his control.

To Mr. Isadore Friedman the thanks of the Association football followers in this district is due, and his magnificent gifts this year have done much to forward the sport in the district.

STOCKS AND MONEY.

Local Market Much Weaker; Decline General Throughout List

Dom. Iron, Power and Havana Common Among First to Sell Off

The local market was much weaker to-day, especially during the earlier part of the session.

Right at the opening stocks were offered down, but no one seemed anxious to buy. Later on a fair amount of activity prevailed, but most of the buying was done around the lowest prices of the day.

The principal cause of the weakness seemed to be that certain brokers did not give the market nearly as much support as they have for some little time past.

IRON WEAKER.

Power and the Dominion Iron stocks were among the first to show marked declines, and the Iron issues were about the most active in the downward scale. Iron common, after opening lower at 21, sold down to 20 1-2, while the preferred, after opening at 70, became a little stronger at 70 1-4. Iron bonds reflected the weakness in the other stocks and sold at 84 1-2. Recently in any declines in these stocks Boston as a rule has been the principal seller, but to-day the selling movement started in the local market.

DECLINE IN POWER.

Power, after opening at 92, sold at 91 3-4. At the lower range of prices the stock was fairly well taken.

TRACTION ISSUES.

Detroit United, which is selling ex-dividend, followed almost the same course as Power, opening at 92 and later on selling at 91 3-4.

Of the traction stocks Toronto Rails were among the most active, selling lower around 105 1-2. Montreal Street, after being offered down to 235, closed stronger at 235 1-2.

C. P. R. SOLD LOWER.

Canadian Pacific was down at the opening, but showed some improvement early in the afternoon. Its sales to noon in Wall street were 8,500 shares. After selling down to 169 3-4 it closed at 170 3-8.

HAVANA COMMON.

Havana common, which was weaker yesterday in Wall street, sold around 29 1-2, but at the lower prices comparatively little of the stocks came out considering the big advance the stock has had recently. It closed at 29 5-8.

There continues to be quite a little investment buying in the different bank stocks, but the number of sellers seems rather limited.

Wall Street Market

The Wall Street market was weaker at the opening on the fear that money was going to be higher, but toward noon rallied very well. A Wall Street wire said:

Bear operators having a good profit in sight purchased to cover their contracts and the market rallied. Prices then settled down in the neighborhood of last night's level and trading fell into extreme dullness. General Electric rose 2¼; New York Air Brake, 1¾, and Locomotive and Brooklyn Transit, 1 to 1⅜.

WALL STREET GOSSIP.

Sales to noon on Wall Street were 442,000 shares.

J. S. Bache & Co.—Noon—The market opened lower this morning on foreign selling, and some of the commission houses were also reported as selling quite heavily. Good buying of steel stemmed the tide and the market turned fairly strong. Smelters also showed good absorption and bears fight shy of this stock. Money continues easier and this in a measure accounts for the confidence in the market. While gold export point is being gradually approached no engagements have been reported by banking houses.

Charles Head & Co.—The selling movement did not last long and prices enjoyed a general though fractional recovery as soon as any attempt was made to cover shorts. There was good buying on the recessions in the general list and support was extended to the leading pool issues.

E. & C. Randolph.—Call money remains around 4 per cent., but exchange is very strong and foreign houses report that they expect to ship large quantities of gold to Paris next week.

Marler & Hodgson.—London houses were quite heavy sellers this morning, putting out some 251,000 shares. After the first hour, however, this selling diminished and the whole list developed a rallying tendency. It was thought that in view of the foreign liquidation the market showed great strength and the traders were thereby encouraged to work for higher figures.

Annual Meeting of Can. Bankers to be Held Here

The annual general meeting of the Canadian Bankers' Association will be held in Montreal this year, the opening session having been called for November 8.

Owing to the number of matters of general public interest discussed at some of the sessions, a movement will likely be made to have a certain number of them open to the press. Most of the business will pertain to the interior arrangements of the different banks.

Activity in Steel Trade

The Iron Age says: Bookings of finished iron and steel continue on an enormous scale and thus far this month are nearly up to the record-breaking rate of September. The pressure in many quarters is enormous and the plants are provided with work for long periods. There is the most intense activity in all directions.

In the eastern steel trade there has been another outburst of buying on basic pig iron for delivery during the winter, and fully 75,000 tons have been taken at advancing prices, with negotiations pending for at least half as much more.

A scarcity of pig iron for steel making is developing in the Chicago district and it is likely that iron may be shipped from lower lake port to that district by water before navigation closes.

The United States Corporation has secured options at $16 and $16.50 on practically all the Bessemer pig available in the Mahoning and Shenango Valleys till the end of the year, the only exception being one lot of 10,000 tons held by a merchant. Those purchases of iron are necessary in spite of the fact that the Steel Corporation is operating all its blast furnaces except three of which two are out for repairs.

In the steel rail trade a number of fair orders have been booked and some additional large tonnage is looming up.

Thus one system which has already bought 140,000 tons is again in the market for 20,000 tons more.

New Steamer for Dom. Iron

Sydney, N.S., October 27.—(Special.) A seven thousand ton steamer is now being built in England for the ore-carrying trade of the Dominion Iron and Steel Company. She will be named the Tricolor and is being constructed to the order of Wilhelm Wilhelmsen, of Tonsberg, Norway, owner of the Tordenskjold, Tancred, Trold and other steamers well known in the St. Lawrence coal trade. The largest steamers heretofore employed in the Steel Company's ore trade had a carrying capacity of but 6,000 tons.

Still Trying to Use Charter of Farmers' Bank

Edmonton, Oct. 27.—(Special.) A Bank of Edmonton is among the possibilities of the near future, for if the citizens here subscribe $150,000 towards the capital stock this will be the headquarters of a new financial project being promoted by J. Durand, a Victoria financier. It will replace the Farmers' Bank, incorporated last session, with headquarters in Toronto, the promoters of that institution having decided that Western Canada is the proper place for a new bank to look for business.

Mr. Durand recently opened temporary offices of the Farmers Bank in Montreal, but the project was abandoned as a sufficient amount of capital was not subscribed for.

Big Business for Soo Corporation

Sault Ste. Marie, Oct. 27.—(Special).—An alliance of great benefit to the Soo industries has been formed between the Lake Superior Corporation and the Canadian Pacific Railway. The big railway is now getting over $100,000 a month for hauling the business of the different subsidiary companies of the Lake Superior Corporation. In return, the Canadian Pacific has become the largest and one of the most profitable customers of the steel rail mill of the Algoma Steel Company. The railway is adding so extensively to its system of branch lines throughout western Canada to offset the invasion of the Grand Trunk Pacific Ry., that an official estimates that it will mean enough business for the Soo mill for at least nine months out of the year, for the next three or four years.

American Smelter Earnings

The American Smelting & Refining Co., is said to be earning $2,000,000 net per annum from the treatment of the Tonopah-Goldfield ores and to be producing more gold from its Salt Lake plant than from all of its other smelters put together.

Apparently the Tonopah-Goldfield-Bullfrog mines will not suffer long from the lack of smelting capacity to treat their ores.

The American Smelting & Refining Co., is building a new $3,000,000 smelting plant on the shores of the great Salt Lake in Utah, and the Nevada Consolidated is building a smelter at Ely, Nev., and will make a bid for the Nevada gold ores, while the Mammoth smelter of the United States Mining Co., in California, which is just blowing in its furnaces, will also treat the Nevada gold ores.

MARKET REPORTS.

Wheat Markets Strong To-Day And Business Very Quiet

Large Consignment of Grain For the Continent

The tone of the wheat market was strong to-day, and as a result local exporters reported a very quiet day. The Winnipeg market advanced from 3-4c to 1c to 80 3-4c for October; 79c for November and 78 3-4c for December. December wheat was strong in Chicago, while May options declined a fraction. The strength of the Winnipeg market was attributed to the activity of the past few days, and the advance in bids from the other side. Local exporters reported a fair enquiry from the English market, but bids were from 1d. to 1 1-2d. out of line, and only a few odd loads were disposed of. Yesterday being a holiday, but few offerings were made over the cable last night.

A large shipment of wheat will be made from this port next week. The Norwegian steamer Hero will leave early next week with a complete cargo of grain consigned to the continent. The Hero is the first vessel to leave the port this season loaded with nothing but grain. The ship has been specially chartered by Messrs. White & Esdaile, the well known local firm of grain exporters. The cargo will consist of about 225,000 bushels of Manitoba wheat and corn. The vessel is loading at the wharf now, and will sail early next week.

There is no change of importance in the local market for coarse grains. The receipts of oats continue light, and the local demand is good. There is also a fair demand for barley and buckwheat. We quote: Oats, No. 2 northern, 37c to 37 1-2c; No. 3, 36c to 36 1-2c; No. 4, 35c to 35 1-2c per bushel, afloat. Buckwheat, 56 1-2c ex store; Manitoba No. 3 barley, 48c, and No. 4, 46 1-2 ex track.

Wheat Markets

At the Winnipeg market this morning 79 3-4c was bid for October wheat at the opening, and later 80 3-4c was asked. For November options 79 1-4c was bid at the opening, and later sales were made at 80c. December options opened at 77 3-8c, and later sold at 78 3-8c.

At the Chicago market December options opened at 89 1-2c, and later were quoted at 89 7-8c. May options opened at 92 1-8c, and later were quoted at 91 3-4c.

The condition of the provision market to-day is unchanged. There is a good demand for dressed hogs at $9 to $9.25 per 100 lbs. The market for bran is strong, the export demand being good. Packers report that hams are moving a little slowly, though a fair trade is passing. There is no change in barrelled pork or lard. Messrs. Rugg Bros. & Co., of Liverpool, in a letter of recent date says:

Rugg Bros. & Co. letter, Liverpool.

There is only a moderate supply of Canadian butter of best weights, 55 to 65 each, on the market, and for these there is a good demand. The trade is also better on heavier, but light weights are more plentiful and are unchanged in price. Long ribs are firmer. Cumberland cut are scarce and bring full prices. Long cut hams quiet and rather easier.

COTTON MARKET

New York, October 27.—Yesterday's decline seemed to us due to a peculiar combination of circumstances rather than to any condition of affairs in Russia, probably was largely responsible for the tame showing in Liverpool, the advance was so sudden that some of the constitutional bulls did not get aboard, and prices reached a point attracting heavy profit-taking. The bears, old longs who had taken profits, and constitutional bulls all combined to depress the market, fresh buyers were filled up and the market in the afternoon yielded to continued pressure. As the affair now stands it is probable that at least two of the elements responsible for the decline of yesterday will begin to support the market in the event of another ten-point break. With ordinary news this morning, therefore, it would seem to us that the market might be bought for a moderate turn in the event of a farther decline. Liverpool is due to come 6 to 10 points lower.

New York, October 27.—Cotton futures opened steady. October, 10.10; November, 10.22; December, 10.36; January, 10.47; March, 10.65; May, 10.76; July, 10.80 bid; August, offered, 10.75.

Cotton Squeeze Possible

J. S. Bache & Co.'s weekly cotton letter says: "It would be interesting to know whether the world's spinners are themselves short the enormous amount sold for forward delivery in the shape of goods or whether they are protected by contracts with spot people, and if so how far these spot people are protected in the shape of hedges in the various speculative markets. For our part, we would feel not the least surprise to learn that spot people were short 5,000,000 bales to the world's spinners for delivery between now and the end of January."

INSURANCE

Election of Directors of Equitable Life

The trustees of the Equitable Life Insurance Society have addressed a circular to the policy holders announcing that the annual meeting of the Society will be held on December 6, and instructing them in the matter of voting for directors. The circular reads in part as follows:

"The next annual election of directors will be held at the offices of the Society in the Equitable building, noon, on December 6. At this election seven of the thirteen directors for whom we shall vote will be taken from the policyholders of the Society. Policyholders receiving this notice will not overlook the fact, that, if they prefer, they may leave the choice of such policyholding directors to the judgment and discretion of the trustees. They should also bear in mind that, if they elect to present names of persons for whom they desire us to vote, it is of the utmost importance that those should be presented who not only have business knowledge and experience, but whose residences and occupations will allow them to attend directors' meetings.

"While the instrument creating the trust under which we act indicates that the expression of your preferences as to the selection of policy-holding directors, or your request that we select for you, should be made known to us prior to the first day of November, any such expression or request reaching us as early as the 20th day of that month will be accepted and duly considered.

"Notice of annual meetings is usually given by publication; but we have deemed it important that the first notice after the creation of the deed of trust should be mailed to each policyholder."

In Style

We never had such a wide and well-assorted range of Girls' and Misses' Coats as we're showing this season. Encouraging organizations to centre their thought on Girls' and Misses' modes alone, has proven a popular move. The mature styles reduced to juvenile measurements are no longer in favor—such distinctive modes as this finding the readiest sale:—

Misses' Imported Ulsters, in beautiful shades of red, brown, green, navy, royal and fawn, finished with applique braid and fancy buttons, to fit girls from 8 to 16 years of age. Special prices Saturday, from .... $7.00 to $15.00
