Huntingville sawmill damaged by blaze

LENNOXVILLE — A blaze late Saturday evening caused several thousand dollars of interior damage to the W. H. Hunting and Sons Ltd. saw mill in Huntingville.

The fire, believed to have originated in an electrical switch box for a saw motor, was contained to a 40 by 55 foot area between the ceiling and roof of the mill's main building.

Seven firefighters from Lennoxville and six from the Sherbrooke Fire Dept. responded to the alarm and battled the flames for close to two hours.

A couple of mill workers arrived on the scene a few minutes before firemen and attempted to douse the flames with a small hose.

The electric pump supplying the water, though, was rendered useless when more electrical wires shorted out and cut most of the mill's power.

Lennoxville firemen connected their portable pump to a pond some 500 feet away to replenish the small supplies of water in the two fire engines.

Alertness by passersby who saw smoke coming out of the building's roof area allowed for prompt response by firemen and kept damages to a minimum.

The fire caused only structural damage, leaving the barker and board saw, along with other machinery located on the ground floor, unscathed.

Mill owner Ross Hunting yesterday praised firefighters for their efforts in limiting the fire's rampage.

He stated that the main building wouldn't likely be operating for the next week while electrical system and roof repairs are being done.

GRASSFIRE

Sunday morning sent Lennoxville firemen on the move to quell the 12th grass fire of the year.

Prompt turning in of the alarm by a resident walking in the area of the Codere St. reservoir permitted a small group from the LFD to stop the flames before they worked deep into a wooded area nearby.

Laurin says exceptions will be made to policy

MONTREAL (CP) — Dr. Camille Laurin, Quebec's minister of cultural development, says Quebec-based companies still can use English in corporate communications under the proposed language legislation, but they will have to prove it is necessary.

Speaking on the CTV television network's Question Period, taped here and broadcast Sunday, Laurin also said not all newcomers to Quebec have to send their children to French schools—but that will be the exception rather than the rule.

Laurin, asked about a threat by the Royal Bank of Canada to move its head office to Toronto from Montreal, said the Parti Quebecois government realizes that for certain companies "the knowledge and use of another language is absolutely necessary."

"I think the bill will allow those head offices to function in English whenever they need to function in English," the minister said.

Why is it, asks a weary wife, that a husband after emptying an ashtray manages to look like he just finished cleaning the whole house?

Calls for faith in Canada

LENNOXVILLE (JC) — "My message to you, my fellow Canadians, is to approach our future with greater faith. This is no time to give up on Canada. We have a country worth preserving for the benefit of all its citizens, French Canadians and English-speaking." Mitchell Sharp told an audience at Bishop's University here Saturday.

Mr. Sharp, who held the position of minister of external affairs for a longer period of time than any other minister except Lester B. Pearson, said that although he has travelled the world, he has seen few places which measure up to Canada's standards. "We are among the most fortunate of people. Yet, Canadians spend more time worrying about their future than any other country I know about."

"Every time one turns on the television there is someone talking about some aspect of the future of Canada, and it is invariably full of foreboding and uncertainty. But this obsession with ourselves, this constant soul-searching, this emphasis upon the negative, is neither worthy of Canadians nor justified by the facts."

Speaking of Canada, Mr. Sharp said, "We have diversity without division." He noted that he welcomed the resurgence of French-Canadian society, and that all Canadians, no matter what their origins and culture, are living in Canada side by side, with a proud record of accomplishment.

"The Eastern Townships are typical of Canada," he said. "Here are French-

MITCHELL SHARP

Canadians, here are English-speaking Canadians who have lived side by side for generations in harmony. Not everyone is bilingual but some are. And what a contribution this area has made to the life of Canada."

Mr. Sharp noted that Canada's history has been free of violence, that our democracy and freedom evolved peacefully, and that we have worked out our problems by negotiation and compromise.

"Let us build on that foundation," he said. "Canadians are not given to emotional outbursts about their country, and I don't expect them to change. But our record of nationhood is a proud one. There is no reason to let the pessimists, sceptics, and separatists dominate the national debate."

"We are a different kind of nation-state. We are a reflection of the modern world, and I hope and pray a model for others to follow who are seeking peace and harmony among diversity of race, religion and language."

Demonstrators arrested at anti-nuclear sit-in SEABROOK, N.H. (AP) — At least 800 demonstrators, most of them in their 20s, were being held in jails and armories in this seacoast area today after they were arrested for refusing to end a peaceful sit-in at a nuclear power plant.

Most of those who were taken into custody in arrests that began Sunday and stretched into early today at the site of the $2-billion Seabrook nuclear plant were booked for investigation of criminal trespass.

Officials were forced to use armories as makeshift jails after most of those arrested declined to post bail, which ranged from $100 to $500.

Hearings were scheduled for Thursday.

Gov. Meldrim Thomson, who took control of the police operation, had said initially there would be no arrests unless the demonstrators breached a 40-acre fenced-in compound where equipment and two warehouses are located.

Police on Sunday urged the demonstrators to leave their camp site next to the fenced-in area but the warnings were rejected.

At 3:35 p.m. on Sunday the police moved into the peaceful crowd of about 2,000 protesters and began making arrests.

Some of the protesters fell limp and were carried or dragged to buses or trucks.

Several reporters and photographers also were arrested. Col. Paul Doyon, head of the state police, had said earlier no journalists would be exempt from the trespass law except for two news-service reporters.

The arrested demonstrators were searched, photographed, booked and given an identification number at the sit-in site. They were put on the buses and trucks and taken to Portsmouth, 16 miles away, where the National Guard Army became a courtroom as two judges held arraignments that lasted into early today.

The demonstrators—organized by the Clamshell Alliance, a coalition of groups opposed to nuclear power—converged on the 700-acre site on the New Hampshire coast Saturday amid cheers and anti-nuclear slogans.

There was no violence when the protesters moved onto the site Saturday and none throughout the sit-in.

May Day rally violent

ISTANBUL (AP) — Gunmen on rooftops fired on a May Day rally of 100,000 persons and sparked a wild gunfight between rival radical groups that left 33 dead and 126 wounded, Turkish radio said Sunday.

Police and militia troops used tear-gas and smoke bombs to disperse rioters and arrested about 200 in Istanbul's historic Taksim Square, on a hill overlooking the Bosphorus and flanked by tourist hotels.

Extremists fled to side streets and continued firing. Cars were overturned and one building was set ablaze.

Istanbul's entire security force was put on alert. Hospitals appealed for blood and called on doctors to report for duty. Among the dead were two policemen, the semi-official Anatolia news agency said.

In the capital of Ankara, Premier Suleyman Demirel called an emergency cabinet meeting to discuss measures to curb violence.

Right-wing and leftist militants have turned the country's universities into battlegrounds during the last two years and violence has become a key issue in next month's elections.

The Anatolia news agency identified the attackers as "Maoist armed gangs."

The state radio said the fight apparently started because the Maoists had been barred from participating in the rally and an earlier march across the city.

Festivities in Quebec

MONTREAL (CP) — About 7,500 workers, Quebec nationalists and left-wing activists marched through the city's east end Sunday night in a festive May Day salute with a particular Quebecois flavor.

Typical of the annual parade here, the occasion brought out a chanting throng with banners and placards backing a variety of causes ranging from free day-care facilities to a socialist revolution.

The parade was led by Quebec's Big Three labor leaders—Louis Laberge of the Quebec Federation of Labor, Norbert Rodrigue of the Confederation of National Trade Unions (CNTU) and Yvon Charbonneau of the Quebec Teachers' Federation.

A handful of black-shirted anarchists was barely noticed among the crowd as they shouted for the downfall of all governments.

Nationalists from the St. Jean Baptiste Society and the Parti Quebecois carried Quebec fleur-de-lys flags and toted placards supporting independence for the province.

Paradoxically, the nationalists were preceded by one of a variety of Communist groups chanting anti-Parti Quebecois slogans and denouncing the party as bourgeois.

Says armed forces massing at border

TRIPOLI (Reuters) — Col. Muammar al-Gaddafi, leader of the Libyan Jamahiriyah (formerly Libya), said here that Egypt is massing its forces on his country's borders, the Arab Revolutionary News Agency reported today.

Gaddafi told a workers' May Day rally Sunday that Egypt is sending troop reinforcements to the border area and warned Egyptian President Anwar Sadat: "Massing tanks at Libyan borders is not something easy and if we take the same action, catastrophe will happen and you will bear the entire responsibility."

"Everything has its own limits."

Gaddafi's comments marked a fresh stage in an ideological clash between the two countries, whose relations in recent months have been strained by acute political differences and mutual accusations of bombings and acts of sabotage.

Watergate spotlighted

NEW YORK (AP) — One thousand days after his resignation, Richard Nixon, Watergate and secret tapes are before the U.S. public again for a revival of the scandals.

Transcripts of unpublished tapes, showing Nixon's involvement in the scandal and in hush-money payments earlier than was known before, appeared Sunday in two leading newspapers and two weekly news magazines.

The new accounts added only small pebbles to the Watergate rockslide that forced Nixon's resignation in August 1974. But they served to focus interest in his first television interview on the subject since then.

The interview, paid-for and conducted by television personality David Frost, will be shown Wednesday over 145 stations. Nixon is reported to have received $600,000 plus a share of the profits for his participation.

The same tape transcripts that surfaced in the New York Times, the Washington Post, Time and Newsweek magazines were used by Frost when the interviews were taped last month in California. Nixon expressed surprise that Frost had them.

NIXON SURPRISED

"It hasn't been published yet?" Nixon asked when Frost quoted from one taped conversation.

"No," Frost replies. "I think it's available to anybody who consults the records."

Time magazine, in a lengthy account of the nearly 29 hours Nixon answered Frost's questions, quotes the former president as saying his immediate actions after the burglary June 17, 1972, at the Watergate offices of the Democratic party were designed not to try to cover up a criminal action, but to contain the scandal for political reasons.

The newly published tapes were prepared by the Watergate prosecution team for the 1974 cover-up trial of Nixon intimates John Mitchell, H.R. Haldeman and John Ehrlichman. They were routinely supplied to defence lawyers, but not used at trial because similar material was found in other tapes. Frost's people and the current Watergate prosecutor deny making them public.

TALKS WITH AIDE

One tape is of a conversation Nixon had with top aide Charles Colson, on June 20, 1972, three days after the Watergate burglary.

"It doesn't sound like a skillful job," Nixon told Colson. "If we didn't know better, (I) would have thought it was deliberately botched."

That was on the same day that Nixon talked about Watergate with Haldeman—a conversation lost because of an 18½ millute erasure.

Haldeman's notes of that vanished conversation had said "what is our counter-attack? P.R. offensive to top this." Nixon told Frost much the same thing.

'For sale' signs sprouting in Hull

HULL, Que. (CP) — For Sale signs have begun to sprout on the lawns of English-speaking residents of this city across the river from Ottawa.

What was once a steady flow of English-speaking residents from Ontario in search of cheaper housing on the Quebec side of the provincial border has been reduced to a trickle.

"Eighty per cent of my customers are French now compared with about 50 per cent before," says Yvon Renaud, a real estate broker in nearby Aylmer, which counts nearly half its 25,000 population English-speaking, the highest percentage in the area.

Most are worried about proposed language legislation introduced by the Quebec government last week. It would prevent most newcomers to Quebec from sending their children to English schools.

The language bill is the latest in a series of clashes between the federal government and the Parti Quebecois, which came to power in the November provincial election. The bill has delivered a direct slap to federal plans for a model bilingual and bicultural community on both sides of the river.

ENROLLMENTS DROP

Fred Hartwick, director-general of the West Quebec Protestant School Board, has reported declining enrollment. He said in the long run, the bill would diminish the number of English-language students in his school system and lead to teacher layoffs.

Prior to 1970, only a handful of public servants worked on the Quebec side of the national capital region. Thousands who lived there crossed over to Ottawa every day to their jobs.

And while the Trudeau government was pursuing its policy of making the public service more bilingual in recognition of the "French fact" in Canada, it began its policy of extending the federal presence into Hull.

The federal vision of the national capital region included employees living and working on both sides of the river, speaking each other's language and having an appreciation of each other's culture.

Such vision led to expropriations and the ripping down of homes in downtown Hull where people had lived for most of their lives. It meant the construction of six concrete-and-glass towers that would be symbols of the federal presence in the region.

To the Parti Quebecois, the buildings symbolized a bullying federal government that was pushing its way into the region without being asked, bringing with it hordes of anglophones who would dilute the French language and culture in the region.

POPULATION SWELLS

The population on the Quebec side grew 14 per cent between 1971 and 1976 to nearly 170,000. The proportion of English-speaking residents grew as they came in search of houses that cost thousands of dollars less than in Ottawa.

Premier Rene Levesque indicated last week that the language bill is to protect Hull and other areas in West Quebec.

About 1,600 homes—most of them occupied by low-income people—were torn down to make way for federal buildings and new roads through the area since 1970. But only 600 public housing units were built and although there are vacancies in the new middle-income apartments built since then, the waiting list for public housing includes more than 1,500 names.

The Parti Quebecois made much of these and other problems resulting from the redevelopment of Hull in the November election and managed to unseat Oswald Parent, member of the national assembly for Hull, who held the riding since 1956 and won in 1974 by more than 7,000 votes. He had held the intergovernmental affairs portfolio and was a strong supporter of the program.

Mayor Gilles Rocheleau said the local governments have been caught in the middle of the confrontation. Although he and other local government officials have had many disagreements with the National Capital Commission about their methods of land development in Hull, relations have improved. "It might be that the NCC is more cautious now," he said.

"The PQ is still on a bit of a honeymoon here," he added. "But soon they are going to have to face facts, that a lot of people here work for the federal government and you don't make jobs overnight."

Statistics Canada figures show the unemployment rate on the Quebec side of the region at 12.7 per cent, compared with 7.7 per cent on the Ontario side.

Voyage of the Damned

By STEVE BELL

Once again the film industry reminds us that, in this day and age, history does not make for good movies. Robert Fryer's production of "Voyage of the Damned" only serves to reinforce this fact.

Not that the film is totally without merit, it does after all have a very impressive international cast that includes Faye Dunaway, Oskar Werner, Orson Welles, Max von Sydow, Julie Harris, Malcolm McDowell, James Mason, Lee Grant, Ben Gazzara, Wendy Hiller and a host of others.

And from this impressive list there are actually very few fine performances, it would appear almost as if this film's one great failing is the fact that it seems as though no one, or almost no one in the cast, is really working that hard.

The story is based on one of the many horrendous incidents connected with the Second World War, the story of the liner S.S. St. Louis and her 937 German Jewish passengers ranks as one of most ironically pathetic.

The passengers had all bought visas to enter Cuba, the German government gave them permission to leave and what happened to them once they set sail is a sad reflection on the hypocrisy of many western governments.

On arriving in Cuba they find that their visas have been revoked by the government, because of a wave of anti-Semitism in the country. And the situation only worsens when country after country refuses entry to the refugees, many of whom were told never to return to Germany or they would be executed.

It becomes clear that the ship and its passengers are only pawns in a gruesome international game, the German government it is found out later, had never intended them to disembark in Cuba. It was all just an exercise, a propaganda exercise.

"Voyage of the Damned" records the hopes, loves and ultimate despair of the passengers, and the way in which they each cope with the situation.

But as good as the film is technically, and it is, the film is based on actual occurrences and so already it has two strikes against it. What it is that makes these factual accounts of lesser quality is hard to pinpoint.

In "Voyage of the Damned" the acting appears to have something to do with it. Faye Dunaway stands out in her role as the elegant and sensual wife of an eminent university lecturer and consultant (played by Oskar Werner). Werner's performance is also worth mentioning as is that of Max von Sydow as the captain of the dispossessed liner. Besides these three noteworthy performances, there are a few other very fine performances from minor characters, but on the whole there are more lifeless performances than anything else. Orson Welles and Ben Gazzara head this list.

The film also seems to drag somewhat, it doesn't seem to be able to hold the audience's attention throughout the story. It seemed long.

But even with its flaws, "Voyage of the Damned" is a film which should be seen just to gain some insight into one of the more hypocritical and dehumanizing incidents of the Second World War.

"Voyage of the Damned" will be shown until Friday at the Cinema 2 Theatre of the Carrefour Shopping Centre.

Theatre students present "The Golden Goose"

Area children treated to traditional form of entertainment

LENNOXVILLE (NW) — Comic books and television heroes took a back seat recently as area children were treated to a more traditional form of entertainment.

"The Golden Goose", a play put on by the students of the Theatre II class taught by Ken Tomlin at Champlain Regional College here played to appreciative audiences in the area. The showings were at the Centennial Theatre on the Bishop's University campus and Ayer's Cliff Elementary. It was also part of the Spring Arts Festival.

The play was a class project for the theatre students, who have been hard at work on it since the beginning of the year. The story of "The Golden Goose" follows the usual line of children's fairy tales involving magic, evil brothers and pompous kings.

The Golden Goose was set in the Eastern Townships of the past and was the story of a good hearted simpleton who always tries to please the other members of his family but never quite succeeds.

The simpleton is sent into the forest to chop firewood after his two brothers have been slightly disabled by a magical gnome called The Little Grey Man whose pleas for something to eat were met by threats. The Simpleton takes pity on the Little Grey Man and his kindness is rewarded by the discovery of the story's focal point, the Golden Goose.

From then on, it is a matter of matching wits with a greedy innkeeper and his none-too-bright daughters in order to keep the valuable goose safe. Eventually the Simpleton ends up in the court of a king whose daughter has not laughed in ages. The Simpleton succeeds in making the Princess laugh and after the completion of a number of tasks with the magical help of the Little Grey Man, wins her hand in marriage.

Approximately 75 children and their parents were present at the performance attended by the Record. The cast, working with an improvised script carried the play off smoothly, to the enjoyment of everyone.

Audience participation was a key to the play and youngsters got into the act by providing descriptions of the scene (such as what the forest looked like) and taking part in the square dancing segments in the play, among other things.

The attention of the audience was held throughout the performance with many of the parents interested too. One adult was seen to be concentrating so intently on the play that when her child tugged on her arm for something, the woman bade the toddler to be quiet so she could watch the play.

The "Golden Goose" was played "in the round" to encourage greater participation and at the close of the performance, an appreciative applause rippled through the spectator area.

After the performance, the audience was invited to mingle with and meet the cast. This gave the youngsters a chance to meet their favourite players and have a closer look at the masks and costumes involved in the production.

The Record spoke to a number of the parents and children and all were very pleased with the performance.

The members of the cast, who played a number of different roles, due to the small number of actors, were Kathy Jacobs, Paul Bachand, Judith Hartwell, Nancy Scadden, Elizabeth Howland, Katherine Angrave, Bridgit Poulin, Shirley Jones and Alanne Perry.

GOOD BASE — Katherine Angrave, a student in the theatre course at Champlain College is seen here putting the final touches on the first stage of the mask she will wear in the play.

AMA rates TV shows

Baretta - third most violent

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Robert Blake gets just as angry off screen as he does on, playing tough Tony Baretta each week in a television cop show.

As an undercover detective on ABC, Baretta blasts pushers, pimps and thugs with words, fists and bullets.

Off camera, the 42-year-old Blake uses only words to lambast his latest target—the American Medical Association.

In a study partly financed by the AMA, Baretta was rated the third most violent U.S. TV show—behind NBC's Quest, a Western series no longer on the air, and ABC's Starsky and Hutch.

With $25,000 from the AMA, the National Citizens Committee for Broadcasting (NCCB) watched all prime-time shows last fall, counted each incident of violence and rated each program accordingly.

Blake says the AMA should keep its nose out of his business.

MIND OWN BUSINESS
"My suggestion to the AMA is tend to medicine, clean up the environment, keep us from getting sick," he says.

While Blake, who will leave Baretta after next season, blasts the AMA and the NCCB, the executive director of the NCCB doesn't want to take him to task.

"Baretta happens to be one of my favorite characters," says Ted Carpenter from his Washington, D.C., office. "We've never said kick the show off the air. We've only said it was one of the most violent shows."

But he says shows like Baretta would be successful whether they have violence or not. "You have an interesting character, a good actor and a good concept to play with."

Blake says his decision to leave the show has nothing to do with the arguments over violence.

"I contracted to do a job. I was paid well for it and I did it the best way I knew how. Now the job is coming to an end, including the contract and all the rest of it, and when I fulfill my commitment, I'll split."

STARTED EARLY
Blake has been acting since he was two. He's also street wise from his youth. "I think I probably sat in front of my first counsellor when I was 10 years old. And from that day to this, I've probably been in front of more desks of more first sergeants, boys' vice-principals."

Blake's high school career was punctuated with expulsions for disciplinary problems and he turned to narcotics briefly while in the army in Alaska.

"My personal opinion after reading these studies and leading the kind of life I live—the violence I saw in movies was a help to me. I felt it was a great release."

"And I was a pretty emotionally disturbed little kid. But when I went to Saturday afternoon matinees and watched the cowboys shoot 'em up and watched the leaping and the flying from buildings, it was a release for me, an outlet."

Montreal International Competition

Seven Canadian singers to compete

MONTREAL — Seven Canadian singers will participate in the 12th Montreal International Competition. A total of 48 vocalists from nine countries will compete between May 31 and June 14, at the Salle Claude-Champagne and Theatre Maisonneuve. The Canadian contestants are: Michele Boucher, Lynda Culham, Micheline Diné, Katherine Johnson, Cindy Raskin, Ingrid Suderman, Katerina Zacko, all of them sopranos.

Michele Boucher, soprano: Last February, Michele Boucher ranked first in the regional auditions of the Metropolitan Opera National Council. Last year, she graduated from the Conservatoire de Musique in Montreal with a First Prize in vocal training. She is presently studying at the Juilliard School of Music in New York. In 1976, she was First Prize winner in the "International Stepping Stone" of the Canadian Music Competition and participated in a concert with the Montreal Symphony Orchestra.

Lynda Culham, soprano: Lynda Culham is a graduate from the University of Toronto Faculty of Music. In the summer of 1973, she received a Canada Council grant to attend the Music Academy of the West in Santa Barbara, California and subsequently spent a year studying with Martial Singher. She has performed with the Kitchener-Waterloo, Kingston and Toronto symphony orchestras and participated in several opera productions while at the Opera School in Toronto.

Micheline Diné, soprano: Micheline Diné is the First Prize winner of Radio-Canada's 1975 National Competition. She also ranked first in the 1973 Montreal Symphony Orchestra Competition. She has appeared twice on a major CBC French television network show, "Les Beaux Dimanches", once with the Quebec Symphony Orchestra and a second time in a recital of works from the Impressionists repertoire. She is a member of the "Jeunes Solistes du Quebec" a Quebec Government promotional project involving ten of the most talented young artists in the province.

Katherine Johnson, soprano: A graduate from the University of Calgary (1974), Katherine Johnson has just completed her Masters studies at the Manhattan School of Music. She has won First Prizes in international competitions abroad in Wales and Middlesborough, England and was a finalist in the Her-togenbosch in Holland. Her repertoire includes roles from major French and Italian operas and several oratorios.

Cindy Raskin, soprano: Cindy Raskin graduated from a four-year Honours Music Program at Toronto's York University in 1976. She is presently pursuing private voice studies with Henriette Asch. During 1975 and 1976, she was a member of the Toronto Opera Repertoire Company. Outside her vocal training, she has devoted much time to complementary studies, in languages and harpsichord, and has spent two years studying South Indian singing. Her most recent performances include an appearance with the McMaster Symphony Orchestra in Hamilton, in October 1976.

Ingrid Suderman, soprano: In 1972, Ingrid Suderman joined "Hortulani Musicae", a touring early music ensemble specializing in Renaissance repertoire, based in Vancouver. She was Second Prize winner in the 1974 CBC Talent Festival and has performed on several occasions with the Vancouver and Victoria symphony orchestras. She was one of the 17 semi-finalists chosen in the 9th Montreal International Competition in 1973. She has studied in Winnipeg, Detmold (West Germany), Bellingham (Washington), and Vancouver.

Says consensus reached on Que. asbestos policy

SHERBROOKE (GB) — Yves Berube, Minister of Lands and Forests, was in Sherbrooke Friday to inaugurate the new Ministerial Department located on King Street.

During the course of a brief inauguration speech Mr. Berube spoke of the sorry state of the pulp and paper industry in the Eastern Townships and offered to the press two solutions to remedy its distressing condition.

Comparing the condition of the pulp and paper industry to similar industries in Europe, notably Sweden and Norway, the minister said that the age of local pulp industries and the now inadequate technology used to produce paper, knocks area mills out of the international commercial market.

The minister affirmed that the Quebec government wished to help the aging industries in the form of modernization grants but a lack of money has established a conflict in priorities.

A conflict lies in what form grants should take. Pulp and paper mills could receive subventions to help defray the cost of anti-pollution equipment or to help the industries become more technologically efficient.

Yves Berube underlined the fact that presently it costs $3 million to eliminate pollutants from industrial waters per two million people. Industrial pollution, Mr. Berube said, is the most noxious and causes pollution equivalent to 18 million inhabitants.

Mr. Berube went on to say that even if the pulp and paper industries threaten to close their doors the Quebec government will one day have to enforce anti-pollution laws.

In response to questions from different information media the minister of lands and forests said that the government had finally reached a consensus on a new policy to govern the asbestos industry.

The policy, scheduled to be presented to the Cabinet of Ministers, aims at increasing the percentage of asbestos-biproducts produced in the province. Only three per cent of asbestos-biproducts are now transformed in the province.

The minister concluded his interchange with the press saying that while more transformations of asbestos into secondary materials must take place in the province he said that the present structure of paper transformations must be maintained.

Within the paper industry a vast scheme which permits the exchange of primary and secondary pulp products with the United States now exists and a reasonable equilibrium is maintained.

Panel looks at situation of women

By JANET COTTON (Record Reporter)

SHERBROOKE — Almost 50 people came out to hear representatives from all sectors of the Townships community voice their opinions on "Woman in 1977" in an English-language panel discussion at Femmes D'Ici at the Carrefour de l'Estrie on Friday.

Diana Parker of CKTS acted as moderator for the panel which included Lorraine Ethier, a social worker from Alexander Galt Regional High School, Shirley Gallagher, a mother of eight children and a full-time student, Lurline Brown — a woman who is very active in community life in Sherbrooke, Marie de Gruchy, social worker at the Sherbrooke Hospital, and George MacLaren, a Sherbrooke lawyer.

All of the panel members spoke about what they saw as the major problem facing women today, and how they felt women's position had changed over the past 10 years. Lorraine Ethier felt that the biggest problem was one of identity on an individual level as a woman, as well as on a collective level. She noted that the women's movement began as a confrontation with men, where women were competing and fighting with men in an effort to establish their identity, but that women were now looking for new ways to establish their identity. What began as a "ganging-up" has now become more of an individual search. Lorraine feels that instead of looking for security among others, women are now looking for that security within themselves.

Shirley Gallagher noted that the most important problem received the least attention — the awareness of the woman in the home. So often a woman stays within the confines of her home, and does not expand with her children. It is only in expanding herself and her self-confidence that she can see the world in context with today's society.

Lurline Brown, who is very active with school committees and local organizations, feels that for too long society has had the opinion that unless you are a paid member of society, you are no one. Mrs. Brown said that all women are people and that they do have a value because although a woman may be economically dependant on a man, he is totally dependant on the role she plays in the home. Mrs. Brown says that women should not look outside for status symbols, but rather inside themselves, where they can feel confident in what they are doing.

The only male on the panel, George MacLaren, felt that the major problem was a question of economic dependance. Women have traditionally been economically dependant on men, and he says that when a person is dependant on a handout from somebody else one cannot develop oneself fully.

In her job as social worker at the Sherbrooke Hospital, Marie de Gruchy spends her days with people who have problems. Marie agreed with George MacLaren in that it is so much easier to face problems when there is economic security. Whether an elderly person can face life alone, or a middle-aged woman can have the courage to walk out of a bad situation, or a young person can get away from a poor home, life depends on whether they feel economically secure or not.

Some people may think that women have come a long way, but few of the panel members could agree that women's position has improved very much over the last 10 years.

Lorraine Ethier says there are possibilities and openings for women that weren't there before, and that women are less reluctant to approach those opportunities. Shirley Gallagher said that there are so many more opportunities for advanced education, especially at the CEGEP level, but that so few women are taking advantage of the courses offered.

George MacLaren said that from a legal point of view, the women's movement has almost been detrimental. Women are questioning their situations a lot more today, and a woman who leaves her alcoholic husband now, would have never thought of it a few years ago. Women are more aware of conditions, but they are no better prepared to face them or cope with them. As was the case 10 years ago, so many women go from being dependant on some man to being dependant on a functionary.

The panel discussion will be the beginning of a new time for women and men. It will mark the beginning of a life of equality between men and women, the end of exploitation, and new self-respect.

African doctors visiting region

SHERBROOKE (DS) — West African doctors, here on a tour of the University of Sherbrooke medical teaching facilities, say Quebecois medical universities are innovative and adaptive in the way they co-ordinate their teachings to modern realities.

The 14 doctors, all deans of universities in developing former French African colonies, say teaching methods and medical priorities were inherited from France and Belgium and are sometimes not adaptable to the African reality.

The majority of the countries represented gained their independence in the early 1960s.

"Poor countries must economize by careful planning", said Dr. A. Monakusso of the Camerouns. "Are they (graduate doctors) going to sit in offices and write prescriptions or go out to the masses where they are most needed?"

The doctors, speaking through three representatives, say Quebec has adapted well to "realities of our age". They say they have come to Quebec to see how the Quebecois function and to learn from it.

The doctors are studying ways to give as much practical experience as possible to students in their own countries with a minimum of waste in time and money.

Four members of the group are to return to Sherbrooke on Monday, after the doctors spend the weekend in Quebec City at the University of Laval. They spent most of Thursday at the CHU taking time out for a lunch at the Social Club in Sherbrooke.

They have already visited the University of Montreal and plan to head back to Africa on May 6.

The doctors say they were particularly impressed with the structures of health service in the schools they have visited.

Arthritis Society has ET head

MONTREAL — Germain Perreault, President and chief executive officer of Bank Canadian National and Chairman of The Arthritis Society, announces the formation of a public information committee for the Eastern Townships and the appointment of Mrs. Jeanne L. Gosselin as president of the committee.

Other members of the committee are: ex officio, Dr. Andre Lussier, Director of The Arthritis Society, Quebec Division, Mrs. Normande Boily of Windsor, Mrs. Denise Delaney of Richmond, Mrs. Yvonne Landreville and Mrs. Blanche-Lise Provencher of East Angus, Mrs. Jacques Pelletier of Magog, and Charlotte Gosselin, representative of The Arthritis Society.

The members of the public information committee intend to impress on the population the need for an effective control program, inform the public about the services available at the Rheumatic Disease Unit located at the C.H.U. of Sherbrooke and assist the fund-raising campaign committee. The 1977 campaign chairman for the region is Pierre Comtois, C.A.

Sweetsburg Court

SWEETSBURG WARD (JM) — Robert Parker, Montreal, who gained province-wide notoriety after his escape from the Waterloo Rehabilitation Centre, Nov. 17, 1976, was judged fit to enter a plea and pleaded guilty to a charge of evading legal custody. Crown attorney Claude Noiseux told the court he had no option but to ask for a three month term, consecutive, in all cases of evasion.

Parker's lawyer, Pierre Gibeau, Legal Aid Office, told the court there were extenuating circumstances. "My client had one day left on a one year term when he learned through the media the appeal court had tripled his sentence from one to three years," Mr. Gibeau said. "This fact overwhelmed him and he escaped. After his apprehension he was remanded in solitary for two months prior to being admitted to the Pinel Institute for psychiatric treatment. In view of the extenuating circumstances I humbly request the court hand him a suspended sentence as he has already lost his 'good' time and his sentence has been tripled. I also humbly request the court order his further detention at Pinel where his treatments can be continued."

Judge Gerard Normandin agreed there were special circumstances, however said he could not impose a suspended sentence. He handed Parker one month, consecutive to all terms he is presently serving, with a recommendation for the Pinel Institute.

Parker was arrested by the Montreal Urban Community Police when they made a routine check for a defective tail light.

Crown attorney Claude Noiseux told the bench he had no option but to ask for a prison term at the discretion of the court in the case of Edouard Trudeau, Trudeau, of Montreal, who was originally charged with attempted rape on a 30-year-old woman in Sutton last spring, had pleaded guilty to the lesser charge of indecent assault. Mr. Noiseux cited the accused had accosted the woman and dragged her into some woods and concluded by stating the only reason the rape had not become a reality was due to the cool-headedness of his presumed victim.

Defense lawyer Robert Brisebois told the court his client, a private security agent, had no prior record, cited it was an isolated incident partly caused by the resemblance of the victim to the deceased wife of his client, and asked for the clemency of the court and an absolute discharge under terms of article 662-1 of the criminal code.

Judge Normandin said: "There is no doubt he lost his head. However, I have no intention of handing down a suspended sentence as it would only encourage others. He is sentenced to 14 days, to be spent on seven consecutive weekends from Saturday at 10 a.m. until Sunday at 5 p.m." He then placed Trudeau on one year's probation following completion of his prison term with an order he refrain from telephoning females in the Sutton area.

Jacques Deber, Montreal, pleaded guilty to a charge of evading legal custody from the Cowansville Institution, Apr. 15. Crown attorney Noiseux asked for a three month term, to be served consecutive to all terms the accused is presently serving.

Defense lawyer Robert Brisebois told the court his client had been on an outing with other inmates at a sugar camp near St. Alphonse de Granby when he made his bid for freedom. "He has served eight years of a 14-year term for armed robbery," Mr. Brisebois said. "His prior requests for passes to visit his ailing mother had been denied by prison authorities. He went to visit his parents and there were no acts of violence during his absence. I humbly beg the court to apply the minimum term of 15 days."

Judge Normandin said "That would only encourage others. One month, consecutive to all terms he is currently serving." Deber thanked the judge prior to being led off to cells.

Says stereotypes need changing

SHERBROOKE (JC) — For either housewives or working women, our fight is the same and our aspirations the same. Yvette Rousseau, President of the Advisory Council on the Status of Women told an audience at Femmes D'Ici at Carrefour on Friday.

Speaking on feminine stereotypes in the home, Mrs. Rousseau said that most people have preconceived ideas that a woman who stays in the home all day has little to do, is unproductive, and almost lazy. She said that women must be made to feel that they are valuable whether they are a paid member of society or not, and that others must change their attitudes and realize the importance of the role these women play.

"Working women are stereotypes too," she said. "Many believe that women are incapable of leadership, irresponsible, and only capable of menial jobs."

Mrs. Rousseau said that feminine stereotypes must be changed, but that this can only happen with the changing of men.

"The end of feminine stereotypes will be the beginning of a new time for women and men. It will mark the beginning of a life of equality between men and women, the end of exploitation, and new self-respect."

A tiger's smile

Former British prime minister Sir Harold Wilson, had some straight from the shoulder advice to give to the European socialists, who appear mesmerized by the new bright star of Eurocommunism. That Sir Harold did so in Rome, the very Mecca - if one may be allowed to mix symbols - of Eurocommunism, has added certain piquancy to the affair.

Sir Harold was highly critical of the desire of a number of European socialist parties, largely in southern Europe - Italy, France, Spain and Greece as well as some elements of the ruling Portuguese Socialist party - to forge an alliance with the Communists as a means of securing power and transforming their countries' social structures into regimes informed with socialist tenets.

A number of such coalitions had sprung into existence after the end of the last war, when the Communist record in the various Resistance movements was deemed an honorable admission ticket to government seats. Every one of those experiments had disastrous consequences. In Eastern Europe, the Communists installed Stalinist regimes of which their socialist partners were the first victims. In Greece, there was prolonged civil war in which 20,000 people were slaughtered by the Communists in Athens alone. In Italy and France special police riot units, quietly organized by shrewd cabinet members, smashed attempts by the Communists to stage coups. In Finland, in 1948, the then President Paasikivi mobilized the army, disbanded the secret police, already under the control of Communist cabinet ministers, and foiled a Communist take-over that was to follow that of Czechoslovakia.

However, say the present new socialist leaders, Stalin has been dead for more than a generation, we live in an era of detente, and, moreover, at last year's European Communist conference in East Berlin the French and Italian parties loudly proclaimed their independence from Moscow. What the world can expect now, a Washington commentator recently observed, is a take-over of European countries by "communism with a human face". It is a catching phrase implying that whereas Brezhnev and Co. wear some strange mask on their skulls - those of medieval devils - Enrico Berlinguer, Georges Marchais, and even Alvaro Cunhal are enchanting princes who have never heard of a one-party state, strictly controlled press, "class" judiciary, politicized education, abolition of all criticism of the Marxist doctrine, the nationalization of all means of production and distribution, which in turn leads to shortages and depressed living standards. There is no Marxist country in existence where the loss of individual freedom has not been closely linked with a sharp drop in living standards.

But, argue the admirers of the new human face displayed by Messrs. Berlinguer and Marchais (although not yet by the insufficiently unveiled Mr. Cunhal), what these new Socialist-Communist coalitions will forge will be something entirely new, yet another essay in Utopia, albeit, as the Communists aver, soundly based on Marx's "democratic" principles. What then is Marxism? William Buckley has an interesting analogy: To be a Marxist is something like being a Jew. "The accepted definition of a Jew is somebody who believes he is a Jew. Who will say him nay?" The Euro-Marxists of today are different from those of yesterday, and, chances are, will be very much different from those of tomorrow.

A view of Vietnam today

SAIGON (AP) — The old U.S. embassy stands vacant, guarded by a solitary policeman. Former president Nguyen Van Thieu's palace is a museum and a sight-seeing must for the curious. Abandoned U.S. aircraft rot at the airport.

The Continental Hotel, once a favorite gathering spot for Americans, now is the Simultaneous Uprising Hotel.

Two years after the Communist victory on April 30, 1975, everything—yet nothing—has changed in Saigon.

The new unified government has renamed it Ho Chi Minh City but it still remains what it was during the war—lawdry, dirty, quieter, perhaps, but still a place with something to sell—for a price.

A carton of U.S. cigarettes costs the equivalent of $120 if Vietnamese dong are bought at the official rate of 50 cents each. The same carton costs $24 if dong are bought on the black market, where they can be had for 10 cents each.

Tan Son Nhut Airport was the first change noted by a correspondent who returned to Vietnam after two years with a group of Australian and other foreign tourists. The correspondent had identified himself as an Associated Press correspondent to the Vietnamese authorities in applying to join the group.

The airport once was the busiest in Asia, with U.S. jet fighters, helicopters and transports loading, landing and taking off in what seemed intervals of only seconds.

Now the parking bays are filled with dozens of U.S. helicopters, C-7 Caribous, C-130 transports and spotter planes, many of them wrecked by rockets during the final days of the war. There are no guards, pilots, airmen or people of any kind in sight.

But workmen are busily finishing the international terminal, started with U.S. aid money several years ago and now almost complete, down to Swiss digital clocks, German pay telephones and French television screens to announce the arrivals and departures if and when Saigon opens up again to world travel.

Girls in the long filmy tunics with side slits worn over pantaloons still put on white gloves so their hands won't get dirty when they ride their motor scooters. But more of them are switching to bicycles because gasoline now costs the equivalent of $1 a gallon. NO MORE BEER

Brodard's, a favorite watering hole on Tu Do, is still patronized by young men in blue sunglasses, button-down shirts and well-tailored denims. But there is no beer. Deliveries from the former French brewery, now run by the government, are intermittent.

All the French restaurants are closed. The last of the Corsican proprietors left several months ago.

Along the Saigon River, where two years ago people were dying in their scramble to escape before the Communists took over, all is quiet, even serene. Business at the dried squid and sugarcane juice stalls is brisk. Young couples stroll hand in hand along the sidewalk.

On the surface, life in Saigon seems relaxed.

Three-man squads of soldiers carrying AK-47 rifles are seen occasionally. But few buildings are guarded, and most soldiers in the streets are unarmed, apparently on leave. Saigonees say the soldiers are polite and don't cause trouble.

EEC facing political problems

BRUSSELS (CP) — The European Economic Community (EEC), born of a post-war desire to coordinate financial and economic dealings and keep the continent at peace, is heading into its 21st year, displaying increasing political problems.

Officials say it is almost certain that Greece, Spain and Portugal will be admitted into the partnership.

They also reported increasing nationalistic positions by individual member governments.

In a recent survey, officials at EEC headquarters here—men who compare with senior civil servants in Ottawa—requested anonymity as they spoke of their worry over acceptance of countries with "pauper currencies" on a basis not envisaged when the EEC was set up.

As one such official put it: "Politically, we want them (Greece, Portugal and Spain). There is a question, however, of the charge these three countries will make upon the community. Unless there is a higher level of expenditure, Ireland and Italy (poorer members of the EEC) will be the losers."

"We are going to have a whole new bag of problems."

SPLIT SUGGESTED

One suggestion has been for the EEC to split into two communities, but experts feel this is not likely to happen and that if it did, the EEC would fall apart.

But there is some question whether the EEC can exist with the heavier drain as a 12-country body.

Fear was expressed that bringing in poorer countries for political reasons would slow down—and possibly halt—economic monetary union.

"Enlargement of the community will anchor these countries into the Western Alliance," one official said.

Activation for mentally retarded

By CATHY LAWRENCE

How do you picture the person labelled in our society as "mentally retarded"? Does he look differently or act differently, but then don't we all? The mentally retarded person, like you or I, is reaching out for love, understanding and acceptance.

Approximately three in every 100 persons in North America can be labelled as mentally retarded. Of that total, 87 per cent are referred to as mildly or borderline retarded. Many of these persons are functioning unnoticed in our society, employed in unskilled or semi-skilled jobs. Some of these individuals have been held back by conventional service systems, the large, isolated, impersonal institutions that limited their integration and adaptation in society. The development of group homes in the community where six to eight retarded persons can live with little or no supervision according to their needs, is a more just alternative and certainly more of a right than a privilege.

And what of the more severely retarded? At this time it seems that the institution can never substitute for a home environment. Institutions are being phased to allow those who cannot walk independently, the opportunity to become more mobile. The non-ambulatory are placed in with the ambulatory so that the staff do not become discouraged working with just those who cannot walk and as well seeing others moving about is a positive motivation for those who need to exert special effort to become

One such program is normalizing activation. In Scandinavia, the philosophy is that everyone has the right to be active. For those who are non-ambulatory, there are wheelchairs, walkers, sitters, standers and much more specialized equipment to allow those who cannot walk independently, the opportunity to become more mobile. Genetically engineering plants easier than creating supermen

VICTORIA (CP) — Scientists may be on the threshold of genetically engineering super plants, but the problems involved in creating supermen are so great that they may never be overcome.

Dr. Derek Styles, a geneticist at University of Victoria, who is attempting to find the mechanism which activates and deactivates genes, says he can't see human genetic engineering going beyond adding or subtracting characteristics which are fairly simple physiologically.

"Nobody at present can see a way of doing it," he said.

He said that a characteristic such as intelligence is probably affected by a whole host of genes and we still don't know the physiological basis for intelligence.

"Unless we know what is producing intelligence, we can't talk about it in terms of genes," he said.

He added that it may be a lot easier to increase intelligence by enriching the environment than by genetic engineering.

He said, however, the idea of human genetic engineering has been kicked around a lot, but only for therapeutic purposes—the curing of inherited sicknesses.

"The techniques are there, but to my knowledge it has never been successfully practised," he said.

BREEDING TECHNIQUES KNOWN

He added if one wants to produce super-intelligent people, this can be done with known breeding techniques, but it would involve unacceptable practices.

"Besides, we don't know the limits of the human brain," he said. "We may be using only 10 per cent of our brain as it is, so there may be no need to develop it genetically."

"We may have an enormous unused potential." Dr Styles said he doesn't believe that the recent scientific breakthroughs in genetics had unlocked the secret of evolution.

"We understand some aspects of it—the mechanics—but we're an awful long way from understanding the whole picture. We're beginning to realize how complex the whole thing is."

PLANT GENES EASIER

He said manipulating plant genes is much easier than working with animal genes and there has been a lot of pressure to create a plant which will produce its own nitrogen to eliminate the need for expensive nitrogen fertilizers.

"We're trying to take the ability of one plant and put it into another to produce something useful," he said.

He's glad the public has been made aware of the potential dangers and powers inherent in genetic experimentation and commends scientists for stopping research to examine the ramifications of their work.

TAKE LOOK
"Historically I think it's the first time that scientists have said let's stop and take a look at what we're doing," he said, "and it's a good thing that the question is out in the open and people other than scientists are becoming involved."

The federal government's Medical Research Council recently issued guide-lines for genetic research.

"Scientists shouldn't live in a vacuum," he said, "and lay people should know enough to be able to keep a watchful eye on scientists."

He said some research is obviously beneficial and other research is obviously harmful.

"But there's a big grey area in the middle," he said. "The research can be good or bad depending on how the results are used."

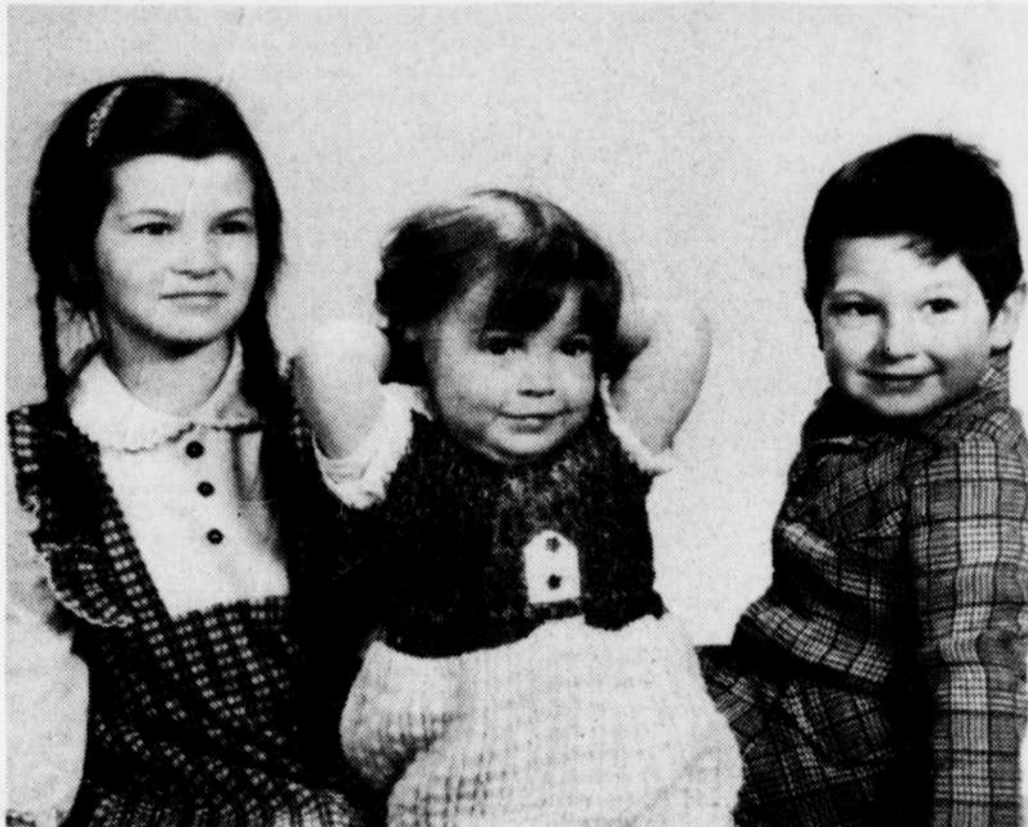

"And that's not a question that involves only scientists. It involves everybody."

"What's all the big fuss about genetic research?"

Madame Benoit speaks at Historical Society

KNOWLTON (KT) — Madame Jehane Benoit was guest speaker at the fourth in the series of lectures in the Evening Program '77, sponsored by Brome County Historical Society.

Madame Benoit always delights her audience with her fresh and lively approach to her subject and her constant ready wit. Added to this, wherever she speaks she is a good-will ambassador for Canada, threading her remarks in the intense love of a Canadian for her country as a whole and in listening to her one learns of far more than food.

Her visits are always a popular feature of the B.C.H.S. annual programs and in 1977 her presence was of special interest due to her visit to Japan in the fall of 1976.

From the moment when she described her arrival (in the midst of a power blackout) and the quickness with which she was greeted and made welcome by her hosts, her audience enjoyed her vivid description of that country, the ways of life and customs, its beauty, its cuisine and all the details packed into the busy, eventful three weeks she spent there.

As the guest of Pan-Asiatic, some time went to inspecting plants, food processing techniques and related matters, but primarily it was a glorious holiday planned just for her to see the country and get to know its people.

Tokyo was notable for its millions of people Japan as a whole was described as an extraordinary nation, its people thrifty and hard-working. Mostly they commence work at 8 a.m. and do not finish until 6 at night. The atomic blasts and related events of World War II are never mentioned in meeting and talking to the Japanese. There is absolutely no tipping, this would be regarded as an insult.

Our visitor apparently found a very strong influence of the French culture and told of shops offering the same items one would expect to purchase in Paris. This is reflected also in their cuisine when dining out.

The people generally are great users of instant foods, to an extent not equalled in this country. It is packed mainly in two or four serving portions. No frozen food is used, everything is fresh and home cooked (including the instant convenience items). Chicken is used very little, fresh fruit is very popular in season, the wide noodles are used extensively, often of buckwheat and served before fish at night.

Salt and pepper is non-existent. MISO is the basic seasoning of all their food. Senchaco is used also, which resembles pepper and has a lime-like smell. No oil is used in serving salads - a rice vinegar serves this purpose. Crushed ginger is another seasoning widely used. It always appears on the table with an accompanying grater, two of which in different sizes were included in the display of items.

Madame Benoit had brought home comprising intriguing cook books, seasonings, packages of instant foods, ornaments and other objects of interest.

She mentioned that shrimps are used extensively and that the oriental influence, as to be expected, pervades the food and living customs generally. Saki served hot or tepid is largely used and of many varieties. Especially noted was the Saki which serves as a cooking wine.

One custom, rather strange to our western ways is the very great use made of burdock. Their visitor told them of the large amount she spends here in order to eliminate the plant we consider a nuisance, but in Japan it is cooked and very popular. Madame stoutly avers that this year, she also, will include burdock in the menu at her home.

Much entertaining added great pleasure to her stay. Lunch takes several hours, often at high class establishments with a chef cooking the food right at the table in very small servings constantly replenished.

Particular mention was made of the use of incense which goes as high as a thousand dollars a box. The kimono which is worn to such a great extent can also be costly - with prices ranging sometimes from $35,000 to $65,000.

The Japanese people have a great sense of nature, flowers abound. Always the perfect host, the Canadian flag appeared constantly in her honor and always one arrangement of flowers would be in red and white. Poetic by nature and so fond of music, Madame exclaimed, "For culture, go to that country!" As to be expected their young children start early to absorb and develop a taste and knowledge of classical music and TV with excellent performances forms a large part of the life of all.

Their cleanliness, friendly ways are outstanding, they are charming but when it comes to business, then business is business, right on the line!

In her travels she noted the large amount of rice grown and all the people working in rice paddies. In all they are orderly, tidy with no half way measures and are busy at their particular occupation early in the morning.

This insight into life in another world as interpreted by Madame Benoit was much enjoyed by her listeners. She was introduced by Mrs. Kay Crandall and warmly thanked at the close of her address by Mrs. Homer Blackwood.

ANN LANDERS SAYS

Life takes joyous turn

Dear Ann Landers: I wish I had sought your advice years ago. You could have saved me a lot of agony. May I give your readers the benefit of my experience?

I decided at that moment to get a divorce. The following year I met and married a wonderful widow who helped me forget the nightmare I had been living for too long. We plan to spend whatever time we have left doing whatever makes us happy. My "bride" is an adorable and loving lady and I feel so fortunate to have found her.

Why didn't you nail her in your typical Landers style and tell her that "Hey, you" is plenty good enough for a mother-in-law who calls him a lunkhead?

I married a girl who didn't want sex before marriage. I thought I had a jewel until we went on our honeymoon. Then I learned she didn't want sex AFTER marriage, either.

Maybe your readers will see themselves in my letter and not waste 25 years, like I did.

I got the impression that the mother-in-law called him a lunkhead after four years of "Hey, you." In my opinion "Lunkhead" is plenty good enough for a son-in-law like that!

I did love her dearly and decided to be patient and wait for her to grow up and be a wife, but she never did. When I couldn't stand it any longer (I was then 50) I left. She said she wanted me back and agreed to joint counselling if I would come home. Our counsellor was a woman who said my wife's undressing in the closet was NOT abnormal and I must be a Peeping Tom to want to see a woman unclothed. I was dumbfounded. The counsellor suggested I not approach my wife sexually for a month.

Three sessions later did it. The counsellor said to my wife, "Wasn't it wonderful not to be bothered with sex for a whole month?"

My husband says we can't tell Papa not to smoke in our apartment because it might make him feel unwelcome. He also claims it wouldn't do any good because the old man gets mean as a rattlesnake when he is crossed and does as he pleases.

Christening

SCOTSTOWN — On Sunday morning, April 24, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. James Barter of Scotstown was christened at the 11 a.m. service in St. Paul's Anglican Church in Bury by Rev. L. Westman, the baby received the names of Andrew James.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Donald MacIver, Bury, Mr. and Mrs. W.G. MacLeod, Canterbury, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Parsons and Amy of Lennoxville, Mr. and Mrs. James MacLeod, Tanya and Ryan of St. Bruno, Mr. and Mrs. Eric MacLeod, Ottawa, Ont., Colin Morrison of Montreal and the baby's little sister Jaime.

Your usual sharp eye must be getting dimmed by age. You missed a humdrum recently. I was disappointed.

Take away Papa's cigars and matches the minute he walks into your place and tell him "NO MORE SMOKING!"

Engagement announced

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Willard announce the engagement of their daughter, Cynthia Lee, to Mr. Julio Fuoco, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Fuoco of Montreal. A June wedding is planned.

SHERBROOKE — The Sherbrooke Hospital Nurses' Alumnae Association held its second meeting of this year on Tuesday evening, April 19th, at the Norton Annex. Mrs. Bryant, president, conducted the meeting, there being 12 members present.

After the usual opening of the meeting, plans pertaining to the Reunion, coming up in June, were discussed.

So far, Miss Gratham has received 139 acceptances for the Wine and Cheese Party being held at the Norton Annex on Friday evening June 24th at 8 o'clock. Miss Gratham, with the aid of Miss MacMillan will be in charge of the sale of Hasty notes, showing a view of the Nursing Week to be held

SHERBROOKE (JC) — For the first time, Quebec will be holding a nursing week from May 2-6. The objectives of this week are to render the nurse conscious of what she is, make the public aware of nurses and the nursing profession, and to inform students on nursing techniques.

Nursing associations have planned a week-long program to fill these objectives.

On Monday, May 2, Channel 11 will present the film, "The very big puff" at 5 p.m. At 7:30, the same channel will present Claire Royer with "The History of Nursing."

On Tuesday, May 3, "The Foot-soldiers of Information" will be presented in the conference room of the Sherbrooke Hospital at 10 a.m. Channel 11 will present the film "Homo Drogus" at 5 p.m. "The Foot-soldiers of Information" will be presented in room 3210 of CHU at 2 p.m., and at the Youville Hospital at 8 p.m. The English version of "The History of Nursing" will be presented in the Norton Annex of the Sherbrooke Hospital at 7:30.

On Wednesday, May 4, "Foot-soldiers" will be presented at the St. Vincent de Paul Hospital at 2 p.m. Channel 11 will present the film "Clean, Clean, Clean" at 5 p.m. There will be a panel discussion on "Unionism and professionalism" with Mrs. Jeanne Tellier-Cormier, president of the Corporation of Quebec Nurses, at 7:30, in room 3210, of the CHU.

On Thursday, May 5 and May 6, there will be information booths on preventive medicine and community health between 1:30 and 6 p.m., at the Carrefour de L'Estrie.

On Thursday, a show by Clemence Desrochers will be presented in the Science Auditorium of the University of Sherbrooke at 8:30.

St. Paul's Guild

SHERBROOKE — St. Paul's Ladies Guild met in the Church Hall on April 26. The President, Irene Coates, opened the meeting in the regular form.

Florence Lord, secretary, called the roll, which was answered by seven, then read the minutes of the previous meeting, also a letter which contained a cheque for the Guild. It was very much appreciated.

Hazel Flanders, Treasurer, reported on the bank account, also dime cards. A card has been sent to Mrs. D. R. Sangster, a former Guild member, she is now in Jeffrey Hale Hospital, 1244 Ste. Foy, Quebec, 5th floor, G1F 2V6. All wish her a speedy recovery.

The final plans were made for the ham and scallop supper which will be held on May 14.

Mission Circle

SUTTON — The Mission Circle met in the Baptist Church Parsonage on April 21st, with the President, Mrs. H.H. Woodard, as hostess. Ten members were present and one visitor.

The meeting opened by members reading the "I Am's" of Christ responsively. The hymn, "What a friend we have in Jesus", was sung.

The Devotional period was conducted by Mrs. Nettie Mudgett, the Scripture lesson being taken from 2 Corinthians, Chapter 5, Verse 17. Therefore if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature, old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new.

Mrs. Charles Lawrence gave the topic which was on "Zaire". One of the languages is French and Baptists help to support a French teacher.

An article was read on how to raise peanuts in Zaire, this was written by a missionary who is a Minister of Agriculture. Another article read was how a walkathon was organized to help build a church in Kenya.

In the Newscast, Mrs. R. Gibson spoke on the Bible Society. 1976 was the most successful year that the Society has ever had. Scriptures are now printed in 1600 languages.

Olivet Baptist Church are going to support a girl and a boy under "World Vision" so Mrs. Gibson gave the members news concerning "World Vision Child Care". Post cards were passed around for members to view on Korea.

A substantial offering was taken up for Missions and individual gifts have been given for Mission work in Inuvik.

We make a living by what we get, but we make a life by what we give - Winston Churchill.

The Prayer Requests were read by Mrs. Orton Baker. Prayers were offered for our Canadian Mission work, Baptists in Jamaica and for Missionaries in Bolivia and Brazil.

The meeting closed by all reading an appropriate Benediction.

The hostess served delicious refreshments, and on the occasion of Mrs. Herbert Robinson's birthday, a beautiful decorated cake had been made by Mrs. Nettie Mudgett.

Golden Agers meet

KNOWLTON (KT) — The Golden Age Club meeting of April 19 was attended by 54 members and "500" was played at 13 tables. The winners were: Ladies 1st, Miss Annette Fleury; 2nd, Mrs. Daisy Wilson. Gents 1st, Orval Quilliams; 2nd, Grayson Cousens. The door prize was won by Mrs. Bernadette Foster.

A hand-made cushion was donated by Mrs. Juliette Morin and six packs of cards were given anonymously.

A "get-well" card was signed to be sent to Miss Mona Charters. Two thank-you cards were read from Louis Giasson and Bruce Bailey.

On April 26, there were 51 members present with 500 played at 12 tables, also an additional table of Crazy 8s.

Winners at 500 were: Ladies 1st, Mrs. Juliette Morin; 2nd, Mrs. Sadie Price. Gents (the same lucky duo), 1st, Orval Quilliams, 2nd, Grayson Cousens. Mrs. J. Schneider was winner of the door prize (cushion).

A get-well card was signed by all members present to go to Ray Duboyce.

The president, Grayson Cousens, announced that Miss Mona Charters sent her thanks for the get-well card she had received. Mr. Cousens also read a letter from the Royal Canadian Legion, through the secretary, Mr. Pat Cunningham, announcing that the branch needs the hall on Tuesdays, beginning June 1st.

The Golden Age Club therefore will meet on Thursday afternoon commencing June 2nd. Bingo will be played that day.

The meeting on the first Tuesday in May (May 31), will also be Bingo, both through the kindness of Knowlton Social Club.

A pleasant tea hour and refreshments brought both meetings to a close.

McDonald's

McDonald's Restaurants of Canada Ltd., the nation's most successful restaurant chain, needs responsible individuals to train as Unit Managers throughout the Sherbrooke area. Responsibilities will include purchasing, inventory control, training, supervision of up to 50 employees including salaried management and sales volume in excess of 1/2 million dollars.

OFFERS

- Starting salary based on experience and potential.
- Full salary during training period.
- Life, health and dental insurance.
- Promotion to position, above Unit Manager.

Successful candidates must be bilingual, should have previous supervisory experience, business orientation, exposure to volume building and ability to meet and work with the public. Fast food experience is helpful but not necessary, use of a car may be required. However, the working hours are long and extensive training is involved, but as McDonald's possesses great expansion potential, your efforts will soon be well rewarded, in a more tangible way than in other enterprises.

For Appointment, please call Peter Palmer 563 2664 or 563 0585

ACW meeting

AYER'S CLIFF — The April meeting of the A.C.W. was held at the Parish Hall on April 7 with eight members answering the Roll Call.

Mrs. Imogene Browning chaired the meeting Mrs. Joyce Ounsworth, Secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting and several pieces of correspondence.

Mrs. Muriel Martin, treasurer, gave a very full report of the St. Patrick's Tea and the raffle on the afghan which was most satisfactory. The afghan was won by Mr. Galipeau, the former bank manager.

Mrs. Imogene Browning will remember the forgotten patient in April.

The flowers on the altar in the church for Easter had all been arranged for.

All plans were finalized for the sugar-on-snow party on the 24th of April at 2 p.m. in the Parish Hall, Ayer's Cliff, with donuts and pickles to go with the sugar.

The rummage sale was discussed and it is arranged to be held May 6 from 7 to 9 p.m. and May 7 from 9 to 12 a.m.

Mrs. Joyce Ounsworth and Mrs. Imogene Browning volunteered to help with the Mother and Daughter, Girl Guide banquet, held on April 27 in the Parish Hall. Mrs. Barbara Wintle reported that she has some material on hand for anyone wishing to make aprons.

There being no further business Mrs. Alice Vance adjourned the meeting, after which Mrs. Barbara Wintle, hostess for the April meeting, served dainty refreshments and a pleasant social time followed.

PROVINCE OF QUEBEC CITY OF SHERBROOKE

CALL FOR TENDERS
The City of Sherbrooke is calling tenders for the sale of lot 730 389-1, East Ward, located on Langevin Street and having an area of 9,999.90 square feet.

The City will retain a servitude of 10 feet in width for an electrical transmission line.

Unless the City Council decides otherwise, the successful tenderer must bind himself to complete the construction of a residence on said lot within two (2) years of the signature of the deed of sale in default of which said lot will be retroceded to the City of Sherbrooke for the amount of the tender, without interest, all notarial fees being the responsibility of the tenderer.

Sealed tenders, marked "Tender for the sale of lot 730 389-1" must reach the City Clerk's Office, at the City Hall, 145 Wellington Street North, Sherbrooke, on or before May 12th, 1977, at 11:00 hours.

The City does not bind itself to accept the highest nor any of the tenders.

Upset price: $4,000.00.

Robert L. Belisle, City Clerk.

ASTRO-GRAPH
 Bernice Bede Osol

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Unusual stress and more potential problems exist today in one-to-one relationships or where you're negotiating an agreement.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) This is one of those days when everybody will try to transfer their burdens to your shoulders. Looks like a busy day!

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Be wary today lest you be drawn into a situation where you could be required to pay for mistakes or extravagances of another.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Family disagreements have a way of being blown out of proportion today. Unless everyone is very careful, harsh feelings could result.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're innately resentful of anyone trying to tell you what to do today. Don't overreact.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) It may be wiser to pass up deals where you sense the other party has the edge going in. Favorable adjustments aren't likely today.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Unless you and others make sure you're pulling together today, more problems than productivity will result.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You have a knack for painting yourself into a corner today. You could take an already bad situation and make it even worse.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Avoid trying to make a pal over in your own image today. This could cause resentment to seriously scar the relationship.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Don't put your reputation on the line today for one who may not be worth it. You could damage your own image for naught.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) It's highly probable you haven't profited from past experience. You could act today in a way that tripped you up before.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be extremely careful in ALL financial dealings today. Don't get mixed up in anything speculative.

One chapter in Boris Schapiro's book is entitled "No Swing." It covers hands from team games where something went wrong at both tables.

East's notrump opening was one of those weak notrumps the British like to bid. South's two-heart call was a sub minimum, if you can say that many nice things about it.

West's two notrump was competitive. North's jump to four hearts was based on the expectation that South would hold a better hand. West's double was based on his two aces plus. He opened the queen of clubs and shifted to a trump after it held. East's

Says no concern over CBC bias

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadians apparently are more worried about being ignored by the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. than of being swayed by pro-separatist bias in CBC programming, Harry Boyle, leader of a government-requested inquiry into the CBC, said Sunday.

If there is any overwhelming concern among Canadians about CBC bias "I haven't sensed it so far," Boyle, chairman of the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission (CRTC), said on a CBC radio network phone-in program.

Since the Trudeau cabinet requested the inquiry in early March, the CRTC has received about 600 letters from the public about the broadcasting system, but only 40 to 50 contained specific allegations of bias in CBC programming, Boyle said.

The more common complaint is that the publicly-owned CBC "doesn't represent regional interests," and that the major programming decisions are made in the central part of the country, Boyle said.

Calls from across the country during the one hour and 50-minute phone-in program tended to support his statement.

SAY VARIETY LACKING

A few callers echoed statements by some cabinet ministers that Radio-Canada, the French-language arm of the CBC, is pumping out pro-separatist propaganda. However, most of the calls dealt with complaints that the CBC was not providing an adequate variety of programming to viewers in areas where no other television reception is available.

A Saint John, N.B., caller said the CRTC should find out who the separatists at RadioCanada are and get rid of them.

A man from Sherbrooke, Que., said on the English-language radio program that separatists at Radio-Canada have been broadcasting racist jokes about English-speaking Canadians. Radio-Canada also neglected to broadcast the national anthem at the beginning of a National Hockey League telecast, he said.

"They should shut the whole bloody thing down and give the money back to the taxpayers," the caller said. The government will pay the CBC $467 million in subsidies this year.

Boyle said his inquiry will look at some Radio-Canada programming but not at the political leanings of individuals. He said he would not have accepted the inquiry request, which came from Prime Minister Trudeau, if it dealt only with Radio-Canada.

DOING JOB?

Trudeau asked Boyle to investigate CBC programming in general, but in particular news and public affairs programming, to determine if the agency is doing a proper job.

Boyle said he expects the role of the CBC in English Canada "will be one of the really interesting things to come out of the inquiry."

Radio-Canada is "an integral part of the society and culture" of Quebec but the English-language part of the CBC does not exert the same kind of influence, Boyle said.

Boyle and Communications Minister Jeanne Sauve, who was called during the program for her comments, disagreed over the impact that letters on the issue from cabinet ministers would have on the CRTC.

Mrs. Sauve said she will not present any evidence of pro-separatist bias to the CRTC even though she was criticized by constituents in her Montreal riding of Ahuntsic for "not having the courage" to do so.

"I won't be the people will," she said. She added that her letter "might have more weight" with the CRTC than others and a submission would therefore be unfair.

"A letter from a cabinet minister won't carry any additional weight," Boyle responded.

ATTITUDE WRONG

Mrs. Sauve also said Urban Affairs Minister Andre Ouellet used "an unfortunate word, perhaps because of his incomplete knowledge of English," in saying several weeks ago that the CBC had an obligation to broadcast "propaganda" supporting national unity.

"I disagree with the idea that the government should give the CBC a mandate to propagandize about even such a nice thing as national unity," Mrs. Sauve, a former broadcaster, said.

She said the CBC's duty under the Broadcasting Act to foster national unity can be interpreted "in terms of getting the service to everyone, of reflecting all of the realities of Canada."

Progressive Conservative broadcasting critic Gordon Fairweather (Fundy-Royal) said he was nervous about the whole idea of an inquiry.

"I resent anyone telling me a broadcasting system has a duty to propagandize," Fairweather said.

Boyle said the CRTC's mail since the inquiry was called did not reveal concern about separatist bias so much as a desire for more Canadian programming on the CBC.

"There is almost a hunger for more knowledge about various parts of the country," he said.

The April 25 deadline for writing the CRTC about CBC programming has been extended to May 10. The inquiry itself is to be completed by July 1, but it could be followed by a more extensive royal commission study of broadcasting.

Obituaries

CHESLEY BANFILL
formerly of Richmond
Chesley Everett Banfill passed away on April 4, 1977, at the Sherbrooke Hospital after an illness of several months. The deceased was in his 72nd year.

He was born in the Township of Cleveland, Dec. 1st, 1904, and was the son of the late Enos Banfill and his wife, Sarah Healy.

He attended the St. Francis School in Richmond as a young lad and helped out on several farms, being employed at the Superheater in Sherbrooke, and later at the Wales Home, Richmond.

On the 19th of June, 1930, he was united in marriage to Violet Smith who survives him. They had a family of three sons, Allan, Douglas and Everett, of Richmond.

He was predeceased by his parents, his brothers, Harold and William and sisters, Florence, Bessie and Sadie. Surviving him are Howard Banfill and Mrs. Gertrude Day.

The remains rested at Fleury Funeral Home, Richmond, where the funeral service was held at 2 o'clock on April 6. Rev. McKenzie officiated and gave comforting messages from the Scriptures. Several hymns were played by Miss Audrey Miller.

The bearers were Reni Brochu, Murray Lockwood, Steve Perkins, Harold Mason, Lambert Schoeders and Arthur Cheal.

Interment was in St. Anne's Cemetery, Richmond.

Those from a distance who visited the funeral home or attended the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Howard Banfill, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cheal, Doris Banfill, Jo-anne Banfill and Mr. Kenneth McCrea, Mr. and Mrs. George Healy, Mr. and Mrs. Wilton Day, Miss Florence Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Heathcote.

MRS. RAYMOND BATES of Knowlton
The death of Gladys Lorene Bates occurred at The Wheeler Convalescent Home, in Verdun, on April 15, 1977, where she had been a patient for nearly two years, due to failing health.

Born at West Bolton, Nov. 11, 1897, she was the daughter of the late Alvin W. Mizener and his wife, Phebe Duboyce.

She was married to Arthur Raymond Bates on October 19, 1925, and for several years resided in Knowlton where Mr. Bates was in the employ of The Brome Lake Duck Farm. They moved to Massachusetts and settled in Grafton following the death of her husband, in 1964, she returned to Knowlton and made her home with her brother, Karl A. Mizener.

Three brothers and one sister predeceased her: Leslie, Earl, in 1962; Lettie, in 1970; and Karl, in 1974. She is survived by one sister, Mrs. Lillie Swett of Waterloo and three nephews, Keith Mizener, Knowlton; Alden Mizener, Brossard and Warren Mizener, Ottawa.

The funeral service was held on April 17, at the Wilson Funeral Chapel, Knowlton. Rev. Peter Joyce conducted the service and interment took place at Knowlton Protestant Cemetery.

The bearers were Messrs. Stephen Morson, Albert Needham, Redmond Brouillette and Arthur Mizener.

Relatives and friends attending the funeral were from Montreal, Ottawa, Brossard, Granby, Cowansville, Foster and Knowlton.

ONA G. SANBORN of Iron Hill
Ona Sanborn of Iron Hill, Que., passed away at the B.M.P. Hospital, Cowansville, on Tuesday, April 5, 1977, after a valiant and lengthy battle with cancer.

*Mrs. Sanborn, the former Ona Booth, was born on June 13, 1918, younger daughter of the late George A. Booth and the late Lillian Heatherington. She received her education at Waterloo High School and later graduated from Macdonald College School for Teachers. Her dedicated teaching career spanned 32 years, beginning in 1938, at West Shefford School. She also taught at the Wood's School, Farnham Glen; and for many years at Iron Hill School and Knowlton High. Her many pupils will remember her with fondness for her kind patience.

On August 19, 1942, Ona was married to Floyd A. Sanborn of Iron Hill. To them a son, Eric and a daughter, Flona were born. Her life with her family was always one of exemplary love and generosity; her home filled with joy and contentment.

Mrs. Sanborn was a member of the Anglican Church, and until the time of her hospitalization worked devotedly for Holy Trinity Church in Iron Hill. During the past four years, Mrs. Sanborn had undergone extensive surgery and painful therapy. Despite this, her courage never failed her. Her spirit remained cheerful and her interest in her family, church and community never waned.

As well as her husband and children, she leaves also to mourn her passing, one sister, Orma (Mrs. George U. Jewett) of Vale Perkins, Que., and three brothers, Ralph of Waterloo, Que., Kenneth and Stanley of Kitchener, Ont.

Following prayers at the C. Wilson Funeral Chapel, Cowansville, funeral services were held in the Holy Trinity Church at Iron Hill, with Rev. W. Davidson officiating. Three of Ona's favourite hymns were sung in a final tribute to her: Faith of our Fathers, I Need Three Every Hour, and Blessed Assurance.

The bearers were Messrs. Grant Hall, William Mason, George Grubb, Roger Mason, Royce Dustin and Percy Howard.

A large number of people from the area attended the funeral, as well as several friends and relatives from Ontario.

Interment was in Union Cemetery, Iron Hill.

Ona's life was one of quiet courage and dignity; yet the sound of her merry laughter still echoes in the minds of many. She will be sadly missed and long remembered as a fine and gracious lady who touched the lives of so many.

Death

Reinforcements sent to striking Northern Ireland

BELFAST (AP) — The British government was flying 600 more combat troops to Northern Ireland today in preparation for a general strike called by militant Protestants for midnight tonight.

The new reinforcements raised the number of troops in Northern Ireland to 15,500, the largest number in more than three years. Officials said at least 3,000 more are on standby in England, and the government also has 17,850 militiamen, police and police reservists in war-torn Ulster.

The Ulster Unionist Action Committee led by Rev. Ian Paisley and former legislator Ernest Baird called the strike to support their demands for a military offensive against the Irish Republican Army guerrillas fighting to end British rule and Protestant domination in Northern Ireland. The committee also demanded restoration of the Stormont parliament, which the Protestant majority controlled and which the British government suspended in March 1972.

UCW meeting

DANVILLE — Trinity United Church Women held their regular meeting in the Church Hall with nineteen members present and the president, Marion Sutherland, presiding.

The worship was ably conducted by Lettie Sonneveld and was based on "Our Faith in God". It consisted of a hymn, Bible reading, a poem, prayer and a short story.

"Thank you" letters were read from church members who have been in the hospital, also one, including a picture, taken in Bali, from our foster child.

Lettie Sonneveld reported that repairs had been made to the stove and fridge in the manse.

Decorations of the church for Family Day was discussed.

Used clothing for Macdonald House will be sent about May 15th this year. This may be left in the Church Hall or you may contact Mrs. Ken Frost.

A petition for amnesty for prisoners of war was signed by many of the members.

At the close of the business part of the meeting the members and two visitors were honored to have the privilege of hearing Rev. and Mrs. Robert McCulloch give talks on Jamaica, and seeing many exhibits from that country. They were introduced by Miriam Rick, past president.

Rev. McCulloch ably covered the history of the country from the time Columbus came there in 1494 to the present time. Many cultures are found in Jamaica. The Spaniards first practically wiped out the native people, in turn, left when the country was taken over by the British. Needing labor in the sugar fields, slaves were brought in from Africa. When slavery was abolished it became necessary to bring more labor from India.

These were paid a small income to work in the fields, and in time were able to fend for themselves. Where Jamaica is situated, south of Florida and Cuba, plays an important part in the life of the people there. The bauxite industry, from which most of our aluminum comes, is most important, along with sugar cane and bananas.

Did you know that the small cluster of bananas that we buy in our stores is called a "hand" while a bunch is the whole cluster as it grows on the plant; that only one bunch grows per plant and that the next bunch is produced on a shoot from the previous plant?

The people also welcome the tourists who help in the economy of Jamaica while they enjoy a holiday in balmy air and beautiful surroundings.

Music and religion are very important to the people of Jamaica. The National Anthem that was accepted there asks God's help in keeping the people safe and free from sin. Churches of several denominations are there, the majority being Anglican. Songs and hymns sung by the native people can be heard as you enter the country or go about the streets.

Although there still exists, on the other hand, the rich with their beautiful large homes, and on the other hand, the very poor, it is well-known that Jamaica has made remarkable progress in recent years and life has become much better for all its people.

The speakers were thanked by Eleanor Besmargian, after which lunch was served by the hostesses, Eileen Carson and Betsy Lindsay.

resignation and new elections ever since in a series of street demonstrations throughout the country that have provoked retaliation from the police and members of Bhutto's party.

More than 250 persons have been killed in the street violence. The government has put the country's three biggest cities under martial law, imposed press censorship and put most of the top-ranking PNA officials in jail.

The decision to continue the campaign was made public in a statement smuggled to supporters Sunday by Asghar Khan, 56, one of nine top PNA leaders being held by police at a government guest house near Rawalpindi. He said the PNA leaders agreed not to compromise their demand that Bhutto resign.

Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto's political opponents have rejected his peace offer and say their civil-disobedience campaign will continue until he resigns.

Sources in the opposition Pakistan National Alliance (PNA) said Bhutto agreed to hold new national and provincial elections, appoint a new election commissioner and form an interim government divided equally between his Pakistan People's Party and the PNA.

But the 49-year-old prime minister refused to resign, saying his position is non-negotiable.

The nine-party opposition coalition says Bhutto's party rigged the March 7 election, in which it won three-fourths of the seats in the National Assembly. The PNA has been demanding Bhutto's

HEALTH
Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Diabetes needs careful test

DEAR DR. LAMB — My doctor told me I was a diabetic after he did a glucose tolerance test. I am on a strict diet — no medication.

Then I read this item in the paper that said the glucose tolerance tests are usually wrong and should not be used to make a diagnosis of diabetes. I have begun to wonder and would like your opinion.

DEAR READER — The comments you read in the paper need to be put into proper perspective. Doctors are trained to use their clinical judgment, not just the results from a laboratory test. A good doctor will know how much weight to put on the test he had performed in your case.

It is true that many false positive tests do occur. This is often because the patient has not been properly prepared. Unless the patient already has diabetes or has a medical condition that contra-indicates it, he should eat an abundant amount of carbohydrates, starches and sweets for three days before the test. This will prevent false positive tests in many cases.

It also depends on how severe the test results are. If the values go very high and stay very high in a properly prepared patient the condition is not so equivocal or borderline. If the fasting specimen is abnormally high to a significant degree the doctor can also be fairly sure about your diagnosis.

So my advice is to depend on your doctor's good judgment and let him worry about the interpretation of your test. I agree with your doctor's idea of reducing a patient and using diet as the first step in management when that is possible. Sometimes that is all that is needed.

I am sending you The Health Letter, number 3-11, Diabetes: Diagnosis, Prevention and Management. Others who want this information can send 50 cents for it with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Just write to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 52 years old. I have not been in bad health at all. I feel I have passed the menopause. I have read that you recommend a quart of milk a day for women in my category to prevent a calcium deficiency that could lead to softening of the bones. What substitute could I possibly use? Milk causes gas on my stomach and since I am working with many people milk is not the answer for me.

DEAR READER — It sounds like you have lactose intolerance — inability to split the double sugar, lactose, in milk. That usually causes gas and digestive complaints.

You can take calcium pills if you wish — enough to get about 1 gram (1000 milligrams) of calcium a day. You may want to try Lact-Aid, the enzyme substance that you can put in your milk to split lactose before you use the milk. The normal intestine contains this enzyme but some people, quite a few, do not produce enough of the enzyme when they become adults and have an intolerance to split lactose before you use this product can write to SugarLo Company, 3540 Atlantic Avenue, Atlantic City, N.J. 08404 for more information on the product.

Beavers take Championship and the President's Cup

SHERBROOKE (SB) — The President's Cup returns here after a short stay in the "Old City", as the Sherbrooke Beavers defeated the Quebec Remparts last night, 7-4 to capture the QMJHL Championship and the chance to represent the league in the upcoming Memorial Cup Tournament in Vancouver.

The Beavers picked up two wins this weekend making the final series score 8-2 in their favour. Sherbrooke defeated the Remparts 3-2 here in the Sports Palace Friday night.

Last night's game was a close one, with neither team giving up much to the other until the third period when the Beavers literally took over to bring home the win.

Ray Roy gave the Beavers the advantage early in the first period but Quebec answered with two and Sherbrooke found itself behind. But centre Denis Halle scored to tie the game at 2-2 just before the end of the period.

The Remparts again took a single point lead, but Larry Mensour and Ricky Vaive both scored, 15 seconds apart, and again the Beavers regained the lead.

The third saw the Beavers, who seemed to be having their problems in the first two periods, pull away from the Remparts. Ron Carter scored to extend the Sherbrooke lead to 6-4 and with a little over a minute to go in the game, Daniel Chicoine scored into an empty net.

There is no way anyone could dispute the fact that Jere Gillis lead the Beavers in their championship bid against Quebec. Jere played excellent hockey throughout and came up with the winning goal in Friday night's game. Just an excellent all-around hockey player.

Last night it was the lesser known, or if you wish, the often overlooked players that made all the difference. Mark Green, who had been having trouble in the regular season, excelled in the series. Denis Halle, an excellent hockey player, one of the harder working players on the team, played excellent hockey last night and Larry Mensour was always there playing steadily, another excellent performance last night. Ray Roy, another fine skater from the group, did more than just score the first goal last night, a good all out performance by Roy.

Esposito appeared dejected

Canada dumps Romania in a very sloppy game

VIENNA (CP) — Phil Esposito says he may have to become a "rah-rah" type in Canada's dressing room to get the team in the right frame of mind for Wednesday's playoff opener in the world hockey championship.

Esposito, appearing dejected, said Sunday after the Canadians defeated Romania 7-2 in a sloppily-played game that "it shouldn't be tough to get up for a tournament like this but we've been having our troubles in the first period."

The centre, who scored one of Canada's goals on a breakaway to tie the score 2-2 in the first period, said he wasn't surprised by the Romanians' performance.

"I watched them play two or three times," said Esposito, 35-year-old member of the National Hockey League New York Rangers. "They work very hard and they did. But they always ran out of gas in the third period which they did again tonight."

"It's nice to win but I don't think we should be real proud of it."

FINISHES FOURTH

The game wound up the first round-robin segment of the eight-country tournament for both teams. Canada finished fourth with a 4-2-1 record for nine points, the same as Czechoslovakia.

The Czechoslovaks have in a game in hand but even they lose it, the club will finish third because of a better goals-for-against spread.

In games today, concluding the first portion for all teams, the United States meets Czechoslovakia and Sweden plays the Soviet Union, which has clinched first place because of the goal spread. In Sunday's other game Finland beat West Germany 4-1.

Starting Tuesday, the tournament splits up into two segments. The bottom four squads will meet in a single round-robin series to decide the lower placings.

On Wednesday, the top four teams meet in the playoff for medals with Sweden and Czechoslovakia meeting at 12 noon and the Russians and Canadians playing at 3 p.m. EDT.

In the Canadian-Romanian contest Sunday, the NHL all-stars trailed 2-1 at the 9:36 of the first period when Doru Tureanu scored on a breakaway then Dumitru Axinte beat goalie Tony Esposito.

SPLITS DEFENCE

Phil Esposito, Tony's brother, scored the prettiest goal of the game at 14:52 of the first period when he split the Romanian defence, then deked goalie Valerian Netdu to even the score.

Eric Vail scored the winning goal for Canada at 9:15 of the second period.

Al MacAdam had two goals, one with Canada short-handed, and an assist. Ron Ellis, Wayne Merrick and Ralph Klassen completed Canada's scoring.

Referee Jim Neagles of the U.S. had little trouble, issuing three minor penalties to both teams.

The Canadians, who outshot Romania 46-29, scored two unanswered goals in the second and three in the final 20 minutes.

"We're not getting ourselves up for the game properly," Phil Esposito said. "I'm going to have to get the guys up. I've never been a rah-rah guy in the dressing room but maybe that's what we need."

"We're going to have to do something to get up for that first period, especially against the Russians. Because if we can get a couple of goals on them off the bat, they're going to think twice."

Canadiens down N.Y. 4-0

Islanders felt smothered Saturday

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (CP) — There is a class struggle between the talent-bursting Montreal Canadiens and the underdog New York Islanders, and that's no bull.

"It's the classic team against the bull-workers," says Defenceman Gerry Hart of the Islanders. Class is winning.

The Canadiens tripped New York 4-0 Saturday night with a display of skating and puck control rarely seen in these parts. The muckers and the grinders, as the Islanders look upon themselves, were smothered by Montreal's fierce forechecking.

"There were some great collisions," Montreal goalie Ken Dryden said.

The Canadiens now lead 3-1 in the best-of-seven National Hockey League semi-final series, just one win away from advancing to the Stanley Cup final. They want to wrap it up in the fifth game in Montreal Tuesday night.

But there is no way the Islanders will not battle to the end, says coach Al Arbour, who is faced with his second elimination by Montreal in a row. The Canadiens ousted New York in five games last season in the semi-finals and then took the Stanley Cup in four straight from Philadelphia Flyers.

"Look, we're a proud hockey club," Arbour said. "We've been down before, and we've always managed to scrape and scratch and fight. And we're going to be fighting right down to the last second of whatever game it is. We can play much better than we did Saturday night."

EARNED RESPECT

When the Islanders beat Montreal 5-3 on Thursday night after 4-3 and 3-0 losses on Canadiens' ice, Hart and team-mate J. P. Parise felt that New York had earned a little more respect. Then came Saturday's humiliating loss to Montreal.

"I think we're still humble in the face of the Canadiens," Hart said in an interview. "But I am resentful of the fact that when you talk about the depth of the Canadiens, every line is so explosive. And I resent that because our team has depth, too."

"You take away Steve Shutt and Guy Lafleur, neutralize their line, and I think from there on we can go toe to toe with that team," Hart added.

"I'm not say we can outskate them or outshoot them, but we have our type of game, too."

The Islanders contained Shutt and Lafleur on Thursday night. But they failed Saturday when Shutt got two goals and Lafleur another.

Parise had both warm praise and a little bitterness about the way the Canadiens have been built up into a strong team.

As far as Parise is concerned, probably the three best defencemen in the NHL are Guy Lapointe, Larry Robinson and Serge Savard, and they are the real Montreal team.

"They can picture the whole play in front of them and they know exactly what to do," Parise said.

"Most guys have to look at the puck, handle the puck a little bit. Those guys, they play with their heads up and they know exactly where all their players are. They are the root of the Montreal skating system. To me they are the whole club."

It was the conditioning of the Canadiens that impressed Bryan Trottier, the Islanders' rookie-of-the-year last season.

"They have a certain amount of pride being the Montreal Canadiens," Trottier said. "But their conditioning, both mentally and physically, is a thing that amazes me."

Expos down Dodgers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In 1971, when Rick Monday played for Oakland A's, the manager was Dick Williams. "I didn't like him then," Monday said Sunday, "and what happened today didn't totally surprise me."

As Montreal Expos, managed by Williams, ended the Los Angeles Dodgers' winning streak at eight by a score of 6-2, Monday and Williams exchanged words in a fifth-inning flare-up that brought players streaming from both dugouts.

Monday had just grounded out, but fell in the batter's box when his spokes caught in the dirt. As he got to his feet, he suddenly gestured toward the Montreal dugout.

"I'll tell you what he (Williams) said," said Los Angeles manager Tom Lasorda. "He yelled, 'Get that SOB off the field.' He's not going to talk to one of my players like that."

For all the yelling, the Dodgers managed only seven hits off Montreal's Steve Rogers, his record 2-1. The loss was the fourth this season for the Dodgers, and the second in the last 17 games.

Carter slugged two home runs, his sixth and seventh, but it was a three-run homer by Del Unser in the sixth inning off loser Elias Sosa that broke a 2-2 tie and gave the Expos the win.

"I played for him, but I didn't like him," Monday said of Williams. "I had an extreme dislike for the man, but he had nothing but my respect as a manager."

Pittsburg downs Houston 4-3

Manager Chuck Tanner goes around telling everyone on Pittsburgh Pirates how great they are, and they believe him.

"Tanner's got everybody on this club psyched up," says Al Oliver.

Which explains why Oliver, normally a placid player, raised his arms in jubilation Sunday after delivering the winning hit in a 4-3, 10-inning victory over Houston Astros in a National League baseball game.

It also explains why Oliver nearly killed himself crashing into the left field wall at Three Rivers Stadium in a vain attempt to grab Cliff Johnson's double.

"Everything I do is Tanner's fault," Oliver said, grinning. "That's why I crashed through the wall out here like I had wings."

Oliver had much better luck with his hitting, belting a game-tying home run in the ninth inning and then a game-winning single in the 10th.

EXPOS WIN

In the other National League games, Montreal Expos beat Los Angeles Dodgers 6-2, Chicago Cubs turned back Cincinnati Reds 4-1, New York Mets trimmed San Diego Padres 8-2, Philadelphia Phillies defeated San Francisco Giants 7-2 and St. Louis Cardinals blanked Atlanta Braves 8-0.

On Saturday, Pittsburgh shut out Houston 10-0, Philadelphia beat San Francisco 6-4, Cincinnati shut out Chicago 8-0, St. Louis edged Atlanta 5-4, Los Angeles beat Montreal 6-4 and New York downed San Diego 4-1.

Willie Stargell was also an imposing force for the Pirates, who earned their seventh victory in the last eight games. Stargell blasted two solo home runs to straightaway centre.

Gary Carter hit two solo home runs and Del Unser slammed a three-run homer in the sixth inning to break a 2-2 tie as Montreal ended Los Angeles' eight-game winning streak. Steve Rogers scattered seven hits in going the distance for his second victory in three decisions.

"You might as well do it when everyone else is losing, too," said Dodger manager Tom Lasorda.

All the other teams chasing the Dodgers in the National League West also lost games to Eastern Division teams Sunday.

GAINS FOURTH SAVE

Rick Reuschel and Bruce Sutter combined on a seven-hitter as Chicago snapped Cincinnati's winning streak at five games. Sutter gained his fourth save of the season with two-hit relief pitching over the last 3 1-3 innings.

Cincinnati's Pete Rose, playing with a painful calf bruise, extended his hitting streak to 16 games with a third-inning single off Reuschel.

Roy Staiger drove in two runs with a double and a homer as New York defeated San Diego to finish a sweep of their three-game series.

Larry Christenson pitched a six-hitter and drove in two runs as Philadelphia beat the Giants. He gave up a two-run homer to Willie McCovey in the ninth for all of San Francisco's scoring.

Ted Simmons tripled home two runs and drove in another with a sacrifice, leading St. Louis over Atlanta behind Eric Rasmussen's five-hitter.

Champions fights back

CALGARY (CP) — A former world champion continued to fight his way back from swimming obscurity Sunday and warned his pursuers at the Canada Cup swimming competition here the best is yet to come.

Greg Jagenburg, 20, a member of the Foxcatchers Swim Club near Philadelphia, captured the 100-metre freestyle and 100-metre events to emerge as the top individual male performer in the three-day event at the University of Calgary pool.

Less than two years ago, Jagenburg captured the 100-metre butterfly final in the world championships at Cali, Colombia. Most experts conceded him three gold medals—two butterfly competitions and the butterfly leg of the medley relay—at the Montreal

Olympics last summer but he contracted mononucleosis and could not compete.

Meanwhile, the Canadian standouts at the swimming competition—notably Shannon Smith of New Westminster, B.C., and Graham Smith, a transplanted Edmonton resident who trains in Thunder Bay, Ont.—are looking forward to the Commonwealth Games at Edmonton next summer.

Shannon Smith padded her medal collection Saturday with first-place finishes in the 100-metre freestyle and 800-metre freestyle, while finishing second to Cheryl Gibson of Edmonton in the 200-metre backstroke.

That left Shannon with five first-place finishes, the best in women's competition. Second in the women's individual standings was Gibson.

Cauthen makes debut

TORONTO (CP) — Apprentice jockey Steve Cauthen made his Canadian debut Sunday to help open Woodbine race track's spring meeting, but his performance was well below the record pace the Walton, Ky. native has established on North American tracks this year.

Cauthen, celebrating his 17th birthday, rode in six races before a record opening-day crowd of 22,470, but only came out a winner once—in the eighth aboard Time for Love.

It was his 24th win of the year. He was second in three other races—the fourth with Green Park, the seventh (the $22,175 Whimsical Stakes) with Palder Pie and the ninth with Banqueroute.

Cauthen finished fourth in the fifth race aboard Duel in the Sun and was seventh in the sixth with Orange Time.

WINS THREE IN A ROW

Jeff Fell, Canada's leading rider the last two seasons, won three consecutive races starting with the fourth while veteran rider Avelino Gomez roused the crowd by steering Fred Lochke's five-year-old mare, Reasonable Win, to an upset win over Gurrkhas Band in the Whimsical.

Cauthen seemed tired at Woodbine, perhaps shaken by an accident Saturday when he rode the favored Gravelines in the Hialeh Turf Cup at Hialeh, Fla. Gravelines suffered a broken leg during the race, but did not spill Cauthen.

Later in the day, Gravelines was destroyed. Cauthen failed to win on four other mounts.

"I just need a day off to relax," Cauthen said after announcing his last day off was about six weeks ago. "A couple of days off and I'll be fine."

Royals whip Jays

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Whitey Herzog has seen all he wants of the expansion Toronto Blue Jays.

"They're a fine team with some good players and they're going to beat some people this year," the Kansas City manager said Sunday.

"They're scrappy. You let up on 'em, you're likely to get beat."

Herzog's Royals whipped the Blue Jays 8-2 in an American League baseball game Sunday to take two of their three weekend games in the first meeting of the clubs.

Herzog said the Blue Jays "are definitely better" than Seattle Mariners, the American League's other new entry this season.

"Seattle doesn't have a pitcher like (Jerry) Garvin," he said, "and their infield isn't as good, either."

Garvin, Toronto's 21-year-old righthander, improved his record to 4-0 Saturday night when the Blue Jays scored two runs in the ninth for a 2-1 decision.

Larry Gura checked the Blue Jays on seven hits through seven innings Sunday as a last-minute replacement for Andy Hassler, who is on the disabled list for two weeks with a knee bruise.

A left-hander who started two games for the Royals in the American League playoffs against New York last year, Gura had been planned strictly for bullpen duty this season.

Gura's victory Sunday moved his record to 2-0, which no doubt is exactly what Herzog has in mind.

Twins win 6-5 over Tigers

Detroit Tigers reliever John Hiller made a perfect pitch—and lost the game.

"I made good pitches and wind up getting beat when a good curve ball goes off the end of Smalley's bat," Hiller, a Toronto native, said Sunday.

Minnesota's switch-hitting Roy Smalley got his first hit of the season batting right-handed with two outs in the bottom of the ninth. His bloop single scored Jerry Terrell with the inning's fourth run and lifted the Twins to a 6-5 American League baseball victory over the Tigers.

Then there was Craig Kusick, whose two-run pinch hit double tied the game at 5-5.

"It was the same pitch he (Hiller) had struck me out on Friday night," Kusick said. "I'm not kidding myself. Anytime you're facing Hiller a little luck helps."

"Let's face it," Hiller said. "The life of a relief pitcher is lousy."

BLUE JAYS LOSE

In other American League games Sunday, Baltimore Orioles nipped California Angels 3-2 in 10 innings, New York Yankees topped Seattle

Mariners 5-2, Boston Red Sox downed Oakland A's 6-4, Chicago White Sox clobbered Texas Rangers 12-4, Kansas City Royals defeated Toronto Blue Jays 8-2 and Milwaukee Brewers and Cleveland Indians split a doubleheader, Milwaukee winning the opener 7-3 and Cleveland taking the nightcap 8-5.

In games Saturday, Toronto beat Kansas City 2-1 as Jerry Garvin picked up his fourth win of the year, New York beat Seattle 7-2, Boston downed Oakland 8-4, Texas routed Chicago 14-4, Minnesota defeated Detroit 7-3, Cleveland shut out Milwaukee 1-0 and Baltimore edged California 4-3.

Smalley was hitless in 13 previous at bats right-handed before his bloop hit sent Terrell home from second. The victory kept the Twins in first place in the AL West, one-half game ahead of Kansas City.

Pat Kelly led off the bottom of the 10th inning with his second home run of the game to lift Baltimore over California. It was the third consecutive extra-inning game between the two teams.

Kansas City toppled Toronto as Tom Poquette doubled and singled and turned in two sparkling defensive plays. The Royals scored three runs in the first inning and five more in the eighth.

VELEZ HOMERS

Toronto's Otto Velez slammed his sixth home run of the season.

Thurman Munson's third home run in three games and two doubles by Chris Chambliss paced New York over Seattle. It was the Yankees' 10th victory in their last 11 games.

Carlton Fisk, extending his hitting streak to eight games, drove in five runs with a pair of homers to lead Boston past Oakland and complete a sweep of their three-game series.

Home runs by Jorge Orta and Jim Essian paced Chicago's eight-run first inning as the White Sox buried Texas. Three doubles and a two-run triple by Oscar Gamble gave Chicago six extra-base hits in the big first inning, one short of the major league record shared by several teams.

Robin Yount's three-run homer powered Milwaukee to victory in the opener while Johnny Grubb's bases-loaded triple keyed a six-run inning to pace Cleveland's win in the nightcap.

Sports in brief

GETS EXAMINATION

BALTIMORE (AP) — Pitcher Don Gullett of New York Yankees, injured on a fielding play in Monday night's American League baseball game against Baltimore Orioles, was sent back to New York on Tuesday for a medical examination.

OPTION HENDRICKS

BALTIMORE (CP) — New

York Yankees optioned veteran catcher Elrod Hendricks to their Syracuse farm team Tuesday and recalled right-handed pitcher Ed Ricks from the International League club. Hendricks, 36, was acquired by the Yankees last June 15 in a 10-player American League trade with Baltimore Orioles. He had one hit in three times at bat this season.
