October 1st Brings Heavy Snow Storm

Tuesday, October 1st, ushered in the worst snow storm that this district has experienced for some years. It was equal to any storm which might come in the dead of Winter, and found most everybody unprepared for such precipitation.

The storm began about 6.00 a.m. Tuesday, and was accompanied by a high wind from the northwest with freezing temperature, which raged all day Monday and during the night.

Those who had to venture out in motor cars found the going very tough and some had to put on chains. Mr. Clarence Murray, driver of the School bus, said the road to Yarm was very dangerous as he only had sight of the road for a few feet. Only about half the children who come to school by bus ventured out. Returning home, after school, the children had to be conveyed by snowmobile bus.

In several sections telephone lines were out of commission and electric service was interrupted for short intervals during the day.

This storm presents an unusual sight as foliage on the trees is yet quite green, and with the weight of snow, large branches on many trees cracked under the strain.

At noon-hour Tuesday the snow fall measured eight inches.

Many Attend Illustrated Lecture on Fast Freezing

An interested audience of a large number of citizens of town and surrounding district, assembled at Shawville Theatre on Friday evening for the illustrated lecture on "How to preserve by fast freezing".

The speaker was Miss Lenore Newman, of the Consumers' Branch of the Department of Agriculture, who explained the advantages of fast freezing, what foods were adapted and their preparation for this mode of preservation.

At the conclusion of her address Miss Newman answered many questions relative to the preparation of different food stuffs for freezing.

Mayor W. C. Schwartz presided for the program, which was sponsored by the McKinley Bros., owners and operators of the new refrigeration plant on Main Street. Mr. Schwartz complimented the owners on giving Shawville such a plant and store, which was up-to-date in every respect, and wished them every success.

Mr. Tremblay, of the Ration Board spoke on the rationing of meat as applied to the farmer, and Mr. N. A. Drummond, local Agronomist, spoke of the advantages of a refrigeration plant in the community.

Fire Causes Heavy Loss of Life

The loss of 391 lives and nearly $42,000,000 in property damage was the terrible price we paid for our negligence and indifference towards fire in 1945.

CHRONICLES of GINGER FARM

By Gwendoline P. Clarke

The countryside is donning its autumn colours of red and gold; the blue jays are calling from the big oak tree; apples are blushing a rosy red; the ground is strewn lightly with tired leaves — and yet the thermometer the last two days has registered eighty in the shade. It is a great combination if one has time to get out to enjoy the warm air and the lovely scenery. And that is exactly what neice Joy and I did last Friday. We went to Guelph for no other reason than to visit friends and see the country. We did make a round of the stores but we soon got tired of looking at the high-priced goods on display and took ourselves up to the Agricultural College where we enjoyed ourselves for a good hour looking at the beautiful gladioli, and wandering through the greenhouses — in one of which were housed tropical plants of all description.

Then we visited and had tea with friends, who also presented us with two large baskets of Lombard plums — on which we feasted all the way home.

And now to more practical things. I ask you — when is a convenience not a convenience? The answer to that one is — the telephone — that is it rings when one doesn't want it to.

You know what I mean — one is nicely in the middle of canning; the sealers are sterilized and perhaps the second or third jar in process of being filled when dingling-aling goes the phone. And then what happens? You either have to let it go unanswered and wonder for the rest of the day whether that call was important or not, or you put your kettle of fruit to one side, turn off the heat under the sealers and say "Hullo" very sweetly to that contraption on the wall. It may be just a neighbour wanting a friendly chat — in which case you explain the situation and ring later, or it may be someone in urgent need of eggs or again, it may be "long distance" with someone at the other end telling you that he or she will be out on the evening train.

Well we all have just such interruptions which we learn to accept with good grace, but what really burns me up is when I interrupt my work to answer the phone and then find it wasn't my ring after all! Not only is such a hindrance unnecessary but one has the added embarrassment of having butted in on someone else's ring.

Of course you know by the foregoing remarks just what I have been doing. Canning? — yes, that's right. Canning those Lombard plums all day AND answering the telephone about forty-seven times — twice when it wasn't my ring at all. But that is one of the joys of a party line. Another is trying to get the line when one is in a hurry, or trying to rouse the operator when the line hasn't been disconnected. Another of my pet peeves is when people don't ring off. Of course every subscriber to the telephone has equal rights in using the phone, but how I wish the habit of ringing off when through were more commonly observed. It is one of those little courtesies that sometimes means such a lot, but which alas, is "more honoured in the breach than in the observance."

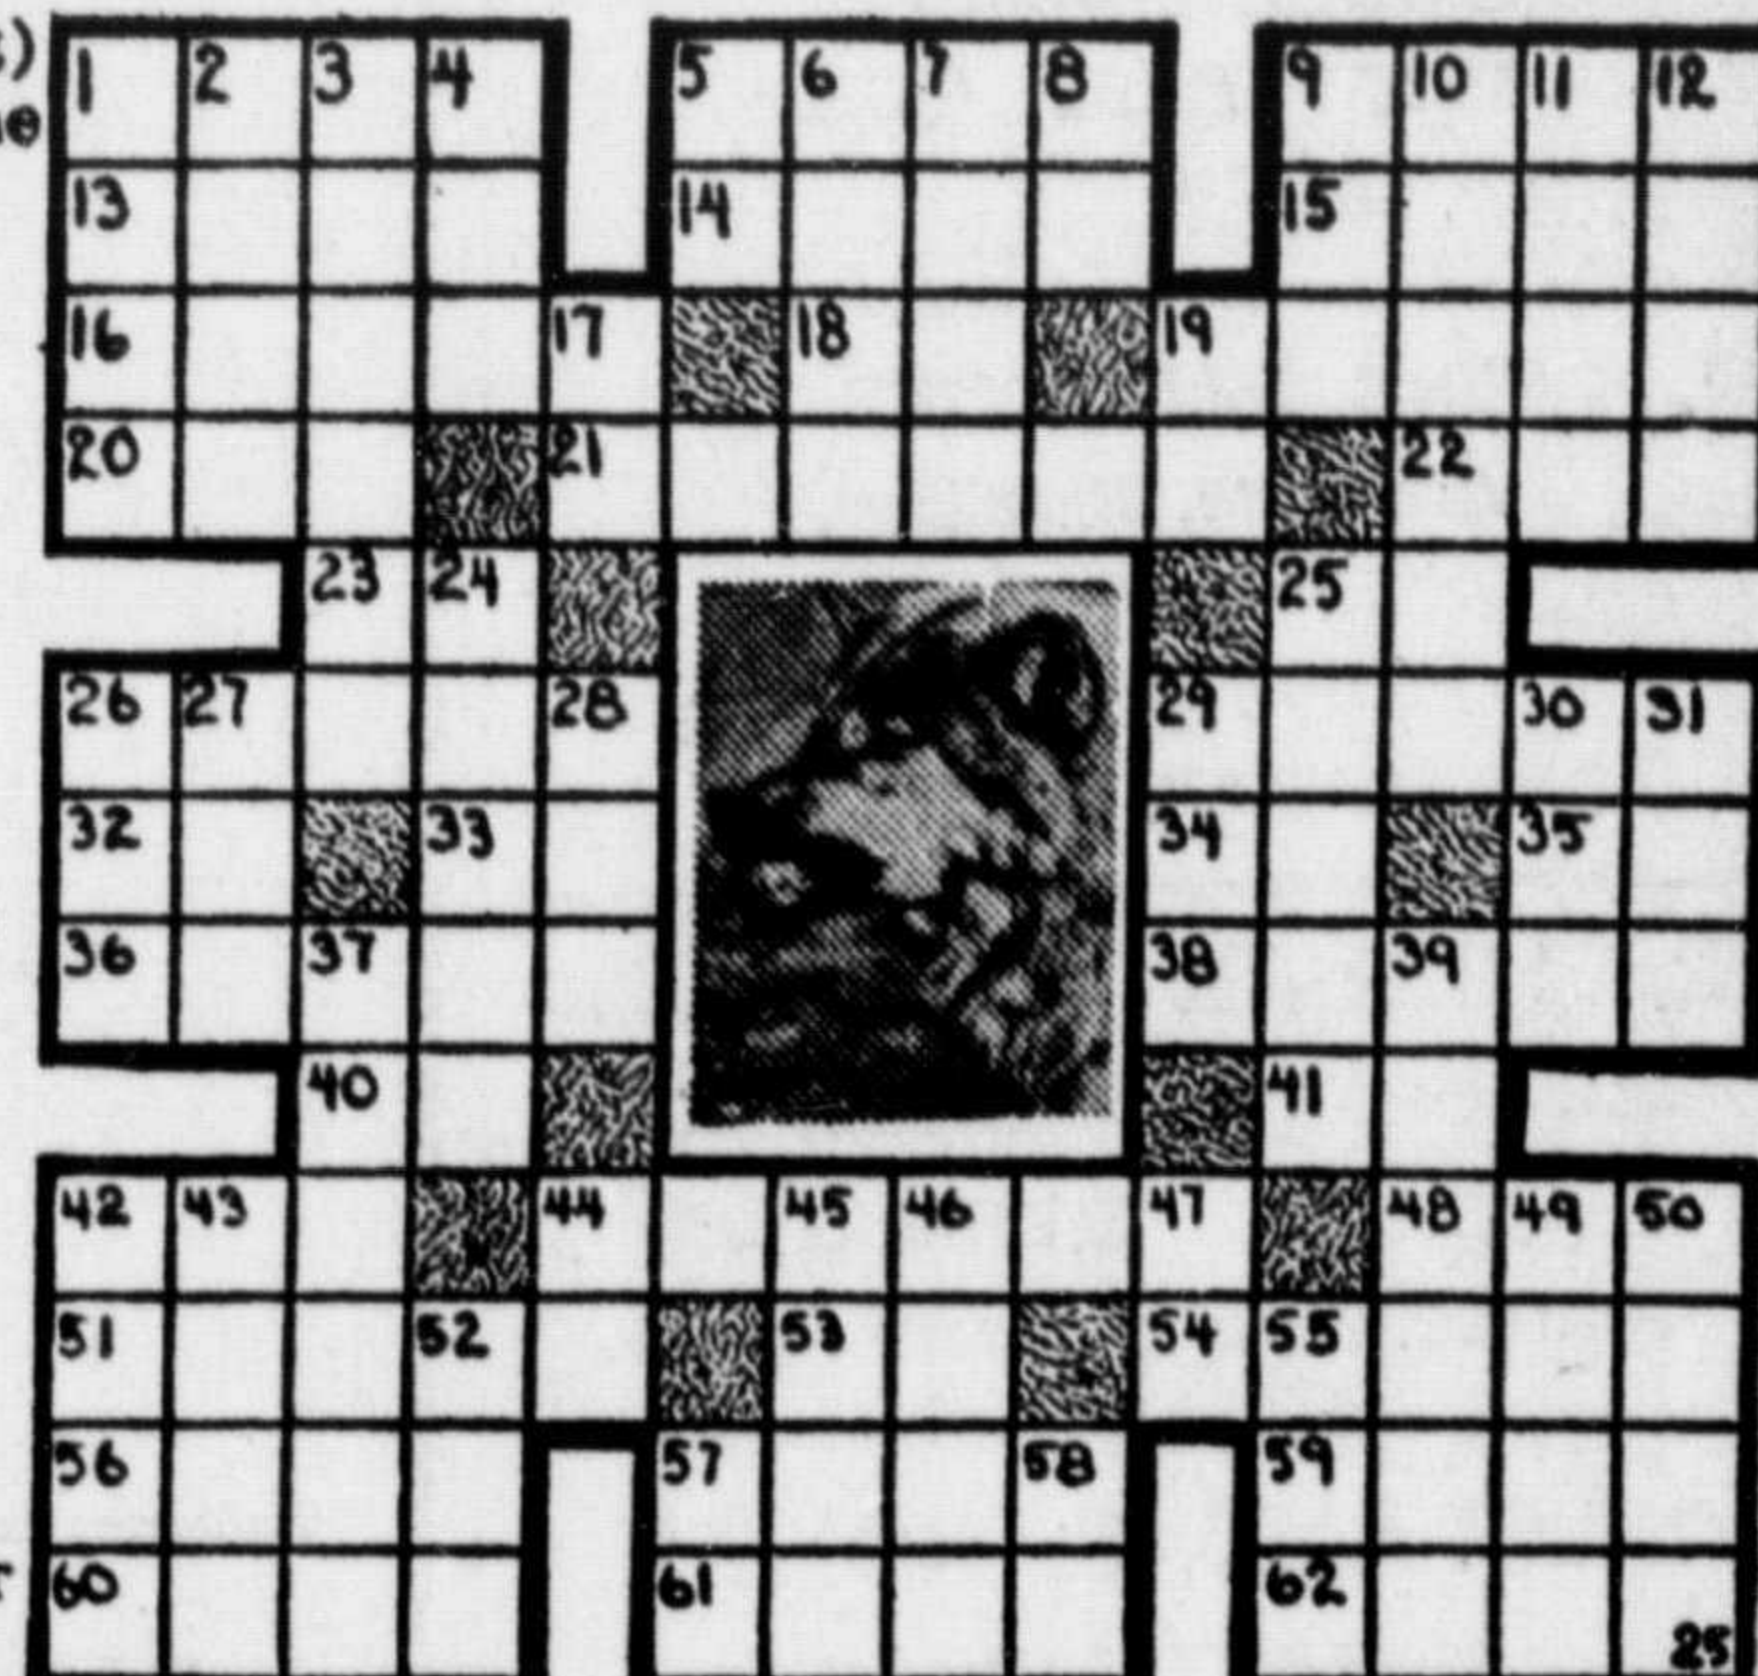

This has been our first day alone for weeks and weeks. We expected to be really lonesome but as a matter of fact we haven't had time. Just the same the house has been strangely quiet — why wouldn't it be when over the week-end we were a family of eight, including one little boy, just at the age to toddle around and get into mischief — which didn't worry me at all. During that time the men — and Tippy — staged a hunting party. Or should I say a shooting party? Anyway they had guns and I am not sure whether they themselves knew whether they were hunting or not, until Tippy started digging frantically at a hole in the ground, then they had hopes of a groundhog. Tippy, according to the men, just about went wild with excitement. But presently she gave a mighty yelp and immediately after started ploughing the ground with her nose. Yes, Tippy got the animal all right — but the animal also got her — and the animal wasn't a groundhog. Gunshots finished the job and poor Tippy was tied up for the rest of the day. Her mournful expression was truly pathetic.

The average locomotive in service on United States railroads has about one mile of boiler tubing.

Interior Moisture Paint Failure Cause

Moisture, which works out from inside a painted surface and upsets the anchorage of the paint film, is one of the most common causes of paint failures. It's a trouble that stems directly from the damp condition of the object to be painted and prevents the paint "keying" to the surface. It cannot be blamed on the paint itself — for no paint can be expected to withstand interior moisture no matter how well it stands up against the exterior variety.

The presence of blisters in the paint is the common sign of a moisture-faulted surface underneath. The sun's rays, or interior warmth, cause the moisture to go through the wall or siding. The moisture in turn forms and collects between the wood and the paint surface, pushing the paint outward in blisters.

92 Years Old — and Fit as a Fiddle

Run Up and Down Stairs

"I feel in duty bound," writes Mrs. A.J.W., "to express my gratitude for the better-than-expected results my father has obtained from Kruschen Salts. He is ninety-two years old, and is as fit as a fiddle. He can nip about, and run up and down stairs. His friends marvel why it is he is always alert and never feels slack. He always tells them, 'I believe it is my regular dose of Kruschen Salts in my first cup of tea every morning.' We always recommend Kruschen Salts to all our friends. To my idea, no family should be without Kruschen."

—(Mrs. A.J.W.)

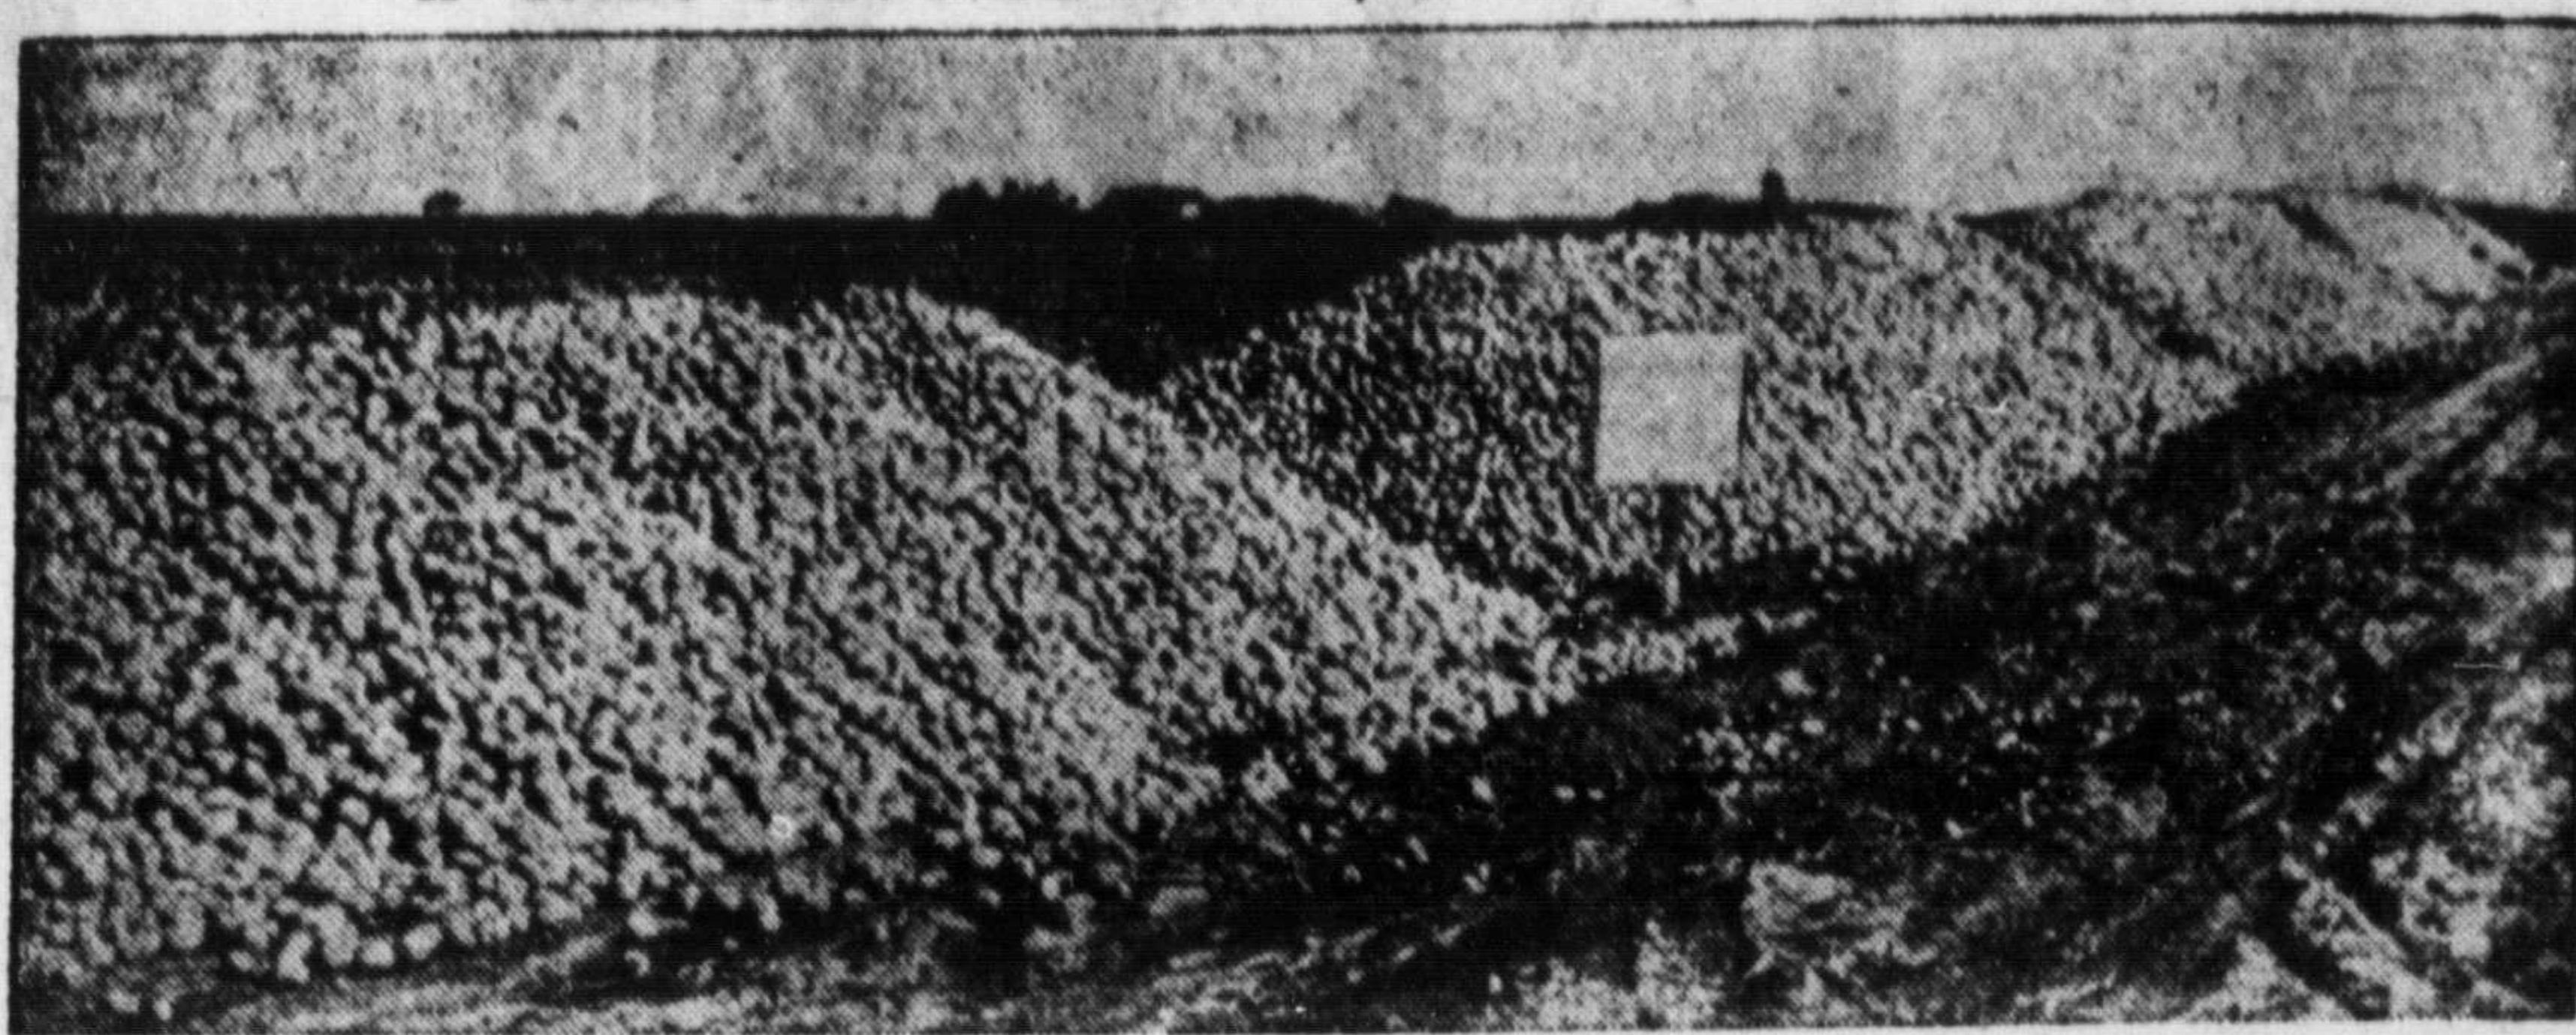

Most people grow old long before their time, and many of them neglect that vital need of health — the need for internal cleanliness. The majority of these people could feel so much better and brighter... yes, feel more spry, too... if they would follow the Kruschen plan for a while. Simply take a small morning dose of Kruschen Salts in tea, coffee or hot water. That's all there is to it. Lessen the dose or discontinue altogether when you are regular. After that take when you need it. Two sizes: 25c and 75c at all druggists. Ask for Kruschen.

Teachers' Pay

A minimum salary of $1,200 for teachers of elementary grades was asked by the Federation of Women Teachers' Association of Ontario at their recent convention in Toronto.

It was pointed out that many teachers are on the $1,100 minimum, and want the increase until such time as the $1,500 minimum, approved by the Canadian Teachers' Federation, is made available.

IF THEY CAN'T BE EATEN, THEY CAN BE DRUNK

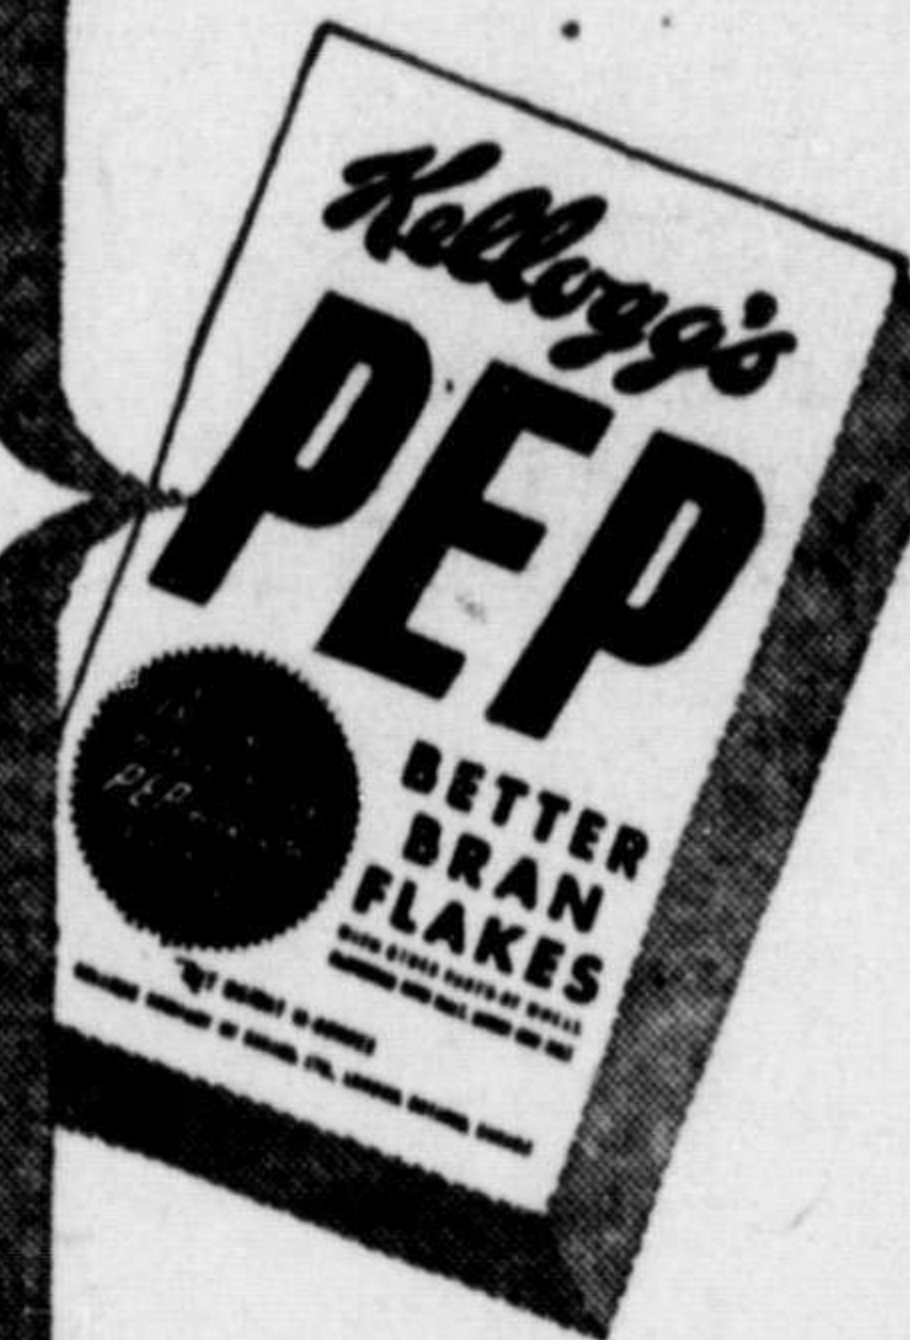

With boxcars critically scarce, thousands of bushels of potatoes, part of Long Island's bumper crop, are shown lying in an open field at Riverhead, N.Y., with exposure rendering them unfit for eating. But there's another side to the picture — they'll still be good for making beverage alcohol.

Begging For Rides

We wonder how many hitchhikers would stand on a street corner, begging passers-by for the price of a meal or a drink, says the Kingston Whig-Standard. We also wonder how many of them realize that they are begging just as much as the bums and panhandlers who thus cadge their living off others. They aren't begging food or drink, but they are begging transportation. And anyone who begs is a beggar, be it money, marbles or chalk.

MODERATION

promises a glorious future

Because we are a moderate people, Canada has come through the war with perhaps the least dislocation of any nation actively involved. That is a remarkable tribute both to the overall policies of our Government and to the fundamental wisdom of the Canadian people.

And it holds out a glorious promise for the future.

But to make that promise come true in the days ahead we shall have to continue to live up to our principles of moderation. We shall have to continue to think, act and live — moderately.

To give in to the natural desire for immediate enjoyment of everything and anything presently in short supply can result only in inflation and disaster.

This is not our way.

The House of Seagram suggests that each day's enjoyment be moderate so that the rich promise of Canada's tomorrow can be fulfilled... to the full.

Canada May Store World Wheat Supply

Canada may be asked to store wheat stocks of 100,000,000 bushels or more for international use if proposals for a world food board, now under consideration by the United Nations Food and Agricultural Organization, are approved. The board plan emphasizes the need of establishing buffer stocks of food for use in the event of hunger anywhere. Purchase of surpluses to maintain such stocks would assist in stabilizing prices.

Walking Stick Bugs Help in Cancer War

The Banting Institute in Toronto issued a fresh appeal to Ontario residents, particularly in Western Ontario, to renew their hunt for walking stick bugs. Eggs of the bug are valuable in cancer research. The institute received 6,000 bugs from its first appeal but an official said that 100,000 are needed. Most of the 6,000 came from the Tillsonburg, London and Mitchell districts and the institute suggested a concentrated search there. The bugs cluster on twigs which may be broken off and shipped, express collect, to the institute.

Margarine was first developed by a French chemist in 1870 to ease a fat-shortage resulting from the Franco-Prussian war.

BIG DEVELOPMENTS ON SUPERIOR'S SHORE

There's a new kind of north developing along Lake Superior's rugged shore. The old north is still there, with its hunting, its fishing and its breath-taking scenic beauty. But today and every day for the past couple of years, something is being and has been added. Millions of dollars plus man's directed energy is quickly changing that lonesome land.

Back in the early 80's, when the Canadian Pacific Railway was pushing its line through to British Columbia in a successful gamble against nature with the keeping of British Columbia in the Confederation of Canada as the prize, the little ports of the North Shore were hives of activity. Where Marathon's paper mill now squats its huge bulk was the port of Peninsula, with its thousands of rough, tough, railway laborers. To the west there was Jackfish, then Coldwell, with its beautiful green-sided cove looking like a little bit of Cornwall. To these tiny ports the Steamers Algoma, Alberta and Athabaska, the latter two still afloat, carried men and materials as the hardrock men cut their way along the shore. They built the railway, but they made little impression on the brooding miles and miles of spruce and pulp wood which grew practically to Superior's shores. It was a country vast in resources; good to look upon as a visitor, the operating railwayman's nightmare, and a singularly unproductive area.

Jobs for Thousands

Soon its forest resources, long looked upon as a "some day" proposition, will be scientifically exploited - exploited in such a way that there will be jobs for thousands, and homes for these thousands' families. Mother Nature will be aided by supervised cutting and reforestation to such an extent that a new crop of trees will be ready for cutting every forty years. This will be no "slash 'em all, big and small" operation, and as a result, the forest resources will never run out.

Actually, there is in process of being spent between Canada's "Cold Spot" White River and Schreiber, on the C.P.R.'s main line to the West, upwards of seventy-five millions of dollars. Two huge pulp and paper developments have been there for ten or more years - the Ontario Paper Company at Heron Bay, and the Brompton Paper Company at Red Rock.

Marathon, which was known a Peninsula up until two years ago, is already a thriving, bustling town of close to 2,000 people. Three years ago there were less than 40 there. Terrace, eight miles east of Schreiber, boasted a railway passing track and no residents at all until the decision was made to establish a pulp mill. Now there are between four and five hundred residents, mostly construction men. It is true, but construction men who are not only building a mill but a town-site and houses and all that goes with it.

The town of Marathon (above) is typical of the new developments along Superior's north shore. On the Canadian Pacific Railway's main line to the west, the new streamlined station (lower) was recently opened.

Use Hydro Power

Naturally, these new heavy industries need power, and lots of it. Potentially, there is plenty, but the expenditure of another five millions of dollars at least is necessary. Ever ready to shoulder its responsibilities the Ontario Hydro Commission is even now busy on a new dam across the Aquasabon River, half a dozen miles east of Schreiber. When the river backs up, a new lake nine miles long and four across will appear, and the raging, awe-inspiring, but seldom seen Aquasabon Falls, just a few hundred yards out of sight from the C.P.R. tracks, will dry up to a mere trickle excepting for when the rivermen loosen a flood to send logs downstream to Lake Superior.

The hydro construction men are on the job already. One group is living in quarters set up for inter-ethnic Japanese during the war. Others are in entirely new camps of semi-permanent nature which are being built in spite of scarcity of everything from lumber to nails. The Hydro people have a race on with the Kimberley-Clark people. They must have power ready when the mill is ready to commence operations. There hasn't been a race like it in Canada since the one in 1928 when engineers dug a tunnel underneath the Plains of Abraham at Quebec City in a race against Clyde shipbuilders who were finishing the Empress of Britain. The engineers won that one, with tracks laid and all ready to operate from the great white shipside, with a week to spare. The Hydro engineers are figuring a winning this race, too, even though every tree in the 36 square mile area of what will be to crowded rooms on the third floor back. So with that in mind, one of the primary projects, keeping pace with the building of the mill itself, is permanent housing.

At Marathon the objective by next Spring is 300 houses. Some fifty are ready for use right now. At Terrace, the ultimate number of units will be approximately the same, but already, in this summer of shortages, about twenty-five are in various stages of construction. All are owned by the company itself, and will be rented to workmen and officials. While they are "company houses" that word is a misnomer in that they are not the box-like, look-alike living accommodation usually associated with that term. The townsite is a planned one, with curving streets, trees carefully left in what will be the lawns, and no two houses of the same plan set side by side. Foremen's houses, with six and seven rooms, having in some cases two bathrooms and finished cellars, would sell for $12,000 today in Toronto and Montreal. Up there they'll rent for as low as $50 per month.

Beating The Wilderness

Marathon boasts, too, of the finest hotel between Port Arthur and Sudbury. Named "The Everest Hotel" for one of the top officers of the U.S. parent company, it has thirty large and airy rooms. Just across the street there's a drug store and soda fountain, the latter popular as always with the youngsters, and a fine grocery store all in the same building. One bank serves the town, and a new community hall, a hospital, a fire and police station are under construction. Moving pictures are a regular feature, while a walk of a mile or two along the railway tracks brings the brook trout fisherman to many a stream. Only building in Marathon not owned by the paper company is the new, streamlined station, completed by the C.P.R. this summer. It is alike in every respect to a new station at Leaside, now almost completed.

What does all this development mean? First of all, and most important, it means jobs for a total of at least five thousand men. That means they and their families will have to be clothed and fed - and it means, too, more jobs for their fellow citizens in the manufacturing areas. It means more jobs in the transportation services - railroads and lake freighters and airplanes, for the airplane is an integral part of travel in northern Ontario. Secondly, it means that the vast forest resources along the north shore of Superior are finally being put to a worthwhile purpose. Pulpwood makes paper, and there is hardly a facet of modern life that does not depend, in some way, on paper. And last, it means that Ontario's north Superior frontier, beaten first by the railway builders of the 1880's and held since that time by the twin bands of steel, is at last coming into its own as an actual, rather than potential natural resource.

NEW CANADA SAVINGS BONDS ON SALE OCT. 15, YIELD 2.75 Pct.

The new Canada Savings Bonds—peacetime version of Victory Bonds—will go on sale October 15 with an interest rate of 2.75 percent. Finance Minister Ilsley announced on Monday. Interest rate on the last, or ninth, Victory Loan was three per cent. on long-term bonds, 13-4 per cent. on short-term.

The bonds, dated November 1, 1946, and maturing November 1, 1956, will be issued in denominations of $50, $100, $500 and $1,000, and holdings by any one person will be limited to $2,000 since the issue is aimed at increasing individual savings by Canadians.

Because holdings are limited, the bonds will be registered as to principal and will be non-transferable and non-assignable. They will also be non-callable by the Government.

One difference in the new issue from wartime issues will be that where some 15,000 salesmen assisted Victory Loan campaigns, the new bonds will be available only through banks, authorized investment dealers, stock brokers or trust or loan companies, or through employers on the payroll savings plan.

The bonds are redeemable at 100 percent, plus interest at any time and at any branch of a chartered bank in Canada upon identification of the registered holder, interest calculated monthly.

The 2-3-4 percent interest will be by annual coupon.

The sale opens October 15, when the bonds will be available for cash, on the monthly savings plans, payroll savings plan or by personal arrangement with a bank.

The interest rate of 2-3-4 percent bears out a forecast by the Finance Minister last June that terms would be more favorable than those of other comparable investments at the time of issue.

"The fact that the Canada Savings Bond is backed by the resources of the Dominion of Canada makes it the safest of all investments, and comparison can only properly be made with other Dominion of Canada issues", the Minister said in a statement.

"A useful comparison in respect to yield is found in the three percent Dominion of Canada bonds maturing in 1959 and callable in 1956. The theoretical yield on these securities currently stands at approximately 2.43 percent. Thus the yield on Canada Savings bonds of 2.75 percent, plus the feature of redemption demand at any bank at 100 percent, makes the new security more attractive than any similar investment available today."

In the month of July this year, shipment of horses from Western Canada has been the best in recent years, the movement totalling 9,950 animals.

ADA EXPECTS RECORD PRODUCTION OF LUMBER AND

Record lumber and pulp production is anticipated in 1947, Labor Minister Mitchell said today reporting on a survey of the woods labor force.

Minister said forest operators expected to employ more than 90 men in the bush at the peak of the cutting season this winter. Present applications for such positions exceed 35,000 and national employment service offices are receiving steady increases in the demand. The Federal Labor Department, co-operating with the provincial and forest industries, has launched an active campaign to engage all suitable men available for woods employment.

British Columbia the number of bushmen, especially in the north, is the highest it has been for some time. Lumber operations in eastern Canada are just starting. Winter operations and it is expected the demands in Ontario and Quebec and the Maritimes will be higher than last year.

As a result of the withdrawal of men from war prisoners from the labor supply operators in possible.

TREASURE OF THE SEA

By George E. Walsh

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER VI: A few moments later a young woman comes out. She takes the old man below. When Tucu and his crew tie up and prepare to board the ship, she orders them to cast off. Tucu refuses, saying that the old man, who was the captain, had invited him aboard. Dick, aboard the lugger, hears the trend of the conversation.

CHAPTER VI

It was a bold challenge, delivered in a voice that never quavered. Dick smiled his admiration. She was capable of handling the situation. He made a bet with himself that she would force the men back through sheer will power and bravado.

But neither the girl nor Dick had figured upon the craftiness of old Tucu. Anticipating some such holdup, the half breed had been playing for time until two of his men could work unobserved along the side of the schooner and climb up the rigging back of the girl. Neither of them was aware of this until her father, the demented skipper of the schooner, suddenly turned up again and announced his presence with glee. He had seen the two Caribs crawling up and instead of repelling the men rushed to offer assistance.

"Come aboard, mates!" he cried. "I'll help ya. It's a great prize I've picked up—so much money that I don't know what to do with it. Come aboard, an' I'll show ye."

The game was up. The girl turned a horrified gaze at her father, and then swung back again just in time to see Tucu make a leap for the deck. As if determined to punish him for his audacity, she opened fire at short range. With a growl of pain, the half breed dropped to the deck, with one arm limp and useless.

"Damn her. Break her neck, Burley!" he growled.

But Black Burley had no intention of facing the gun pointed at him now. He dropped out of sight behind the bulwark, crowding those back of him into the water.

She would have driven them into their boat at the point of her gun if the two, helped on deck by the old skipper, had not attacked in the rear. When she saw them running toward her, she gave a little cry of alarm, and for the first time seemed to lose her nerve.

Tucu raised his voice at the two Caribs, urging them to the flank attack. The crash of the pistol had evidently stunned Captain Bedford, for he stood helpless and amazed with mouth wide open.

Dick at this juncture decided to cast his lot in with the girl. The two Caribs had to pass close to him. When the first came abreast of his hiding place, he shot out a leg and tripped him. The second partly stumbled over the first. Quick as a flash Dick landed a blow with his fist on the point of the man's jaw, and completed the fall.

Both were armed with long curved knives that for ugliness could not be beaten. Before either could recover from the surprise, he relieved them of their weapons. Then giving the first one a kick he ran in the direction of the girl, who, with Tucu, had been watching him with amazement. "Keep them covered!" Dick called. "I'll take care of these two. Shoot the first head that bobs up."

Encouraged by the assistance that had so miraculously come to her, the captain's daughter turned more fiercely than ever upon the leader.

"I'll give you ten seconds to get over that rail," she said in a menacing voice. "If you're not gone by that time, I'll kill you like I would a dog."

Black Burley thrust a head above the bulwark. A bullet buried itself in the woodwork so near that he dropped out of sight again. "One!" began the girl. "Two!"

Tucu growled and showed his teeth; but his eyes were upon

Dick, whose interference had aroused him to furious hatred. "I'll cut y'heart out, y'traitor!" he breathed thickly.

"Three! Four!" counted the girl.

At the seventh count, Tucu picked himself up, slowly and painfully, made his way over the side. Dick returned to the disarmed Caribs, and with their own knives as weapons drove them into the sea. When they disappeared, leaving the deck cleared of all enemies, he hurried to the girl's assistance. She was peering over the side of the schooner to see if the crew were leaving in their boat.

"Keep back!" Dick warned. "They may shoot!"

She nodded and stepped cautiously behind the bulwark for protection. Dick glanced around for some weapon. A loose spar, as heavy as a man, and twenty feet long, attracted his attention. Picking it up, he carried it to the side of the schooner, and with a heave threw it outward so that it just grazed the top of the rail.

It rolled over with a clatter, carrying everything with it. There was a growl and scream below that informed him his ruse had succeeded. In its descent the long spar had knocked three Caribs into the sea, and falling on the lugger's small boat nearly smashed the bottom out of it.

Captain Tucu evidently decided that retreat, until he could reorganize his forces and plan a new attack, was the better part of wisdom. He bellowed a command to his men to pull away from the schooner, and a few moments later Dick and Captain Bedford's daughter saw the boat returning to the lugger.

"We've got rid of them for a time," Dick said, glancing in the direction of the lugger, "but they'll return."

She nodded, following his eyes; then turning to him again, she asked: "Were you with them?"

"Yes," he admitted, "but not of them."

She frowned and raised her eyes inquiringly. "They picked me up a few days ago," he explained. "I was about dead—been in the water for four days and nights. When they rescued me," he added, smiling at the recollection of it, "I wasn't in a mood to inquire for credentials. I was glad to get any help. Later I found out what they were."

"What are they?" she asked quietly.

"Carib fishermen, beachcombers, sea scavengers, pirates—anything and everything."

"I see," she murmured thoughtfully. "Then you think they want to steal this schooner?"

"They took it for an abandoned derelict at first," he replied truthfully, and, of course, as such it was their legitimate prize. They were surprised and disappointed when they saw you and your father aboard it."

"I can understand that," she replied, "but when—when I ordered them away, they didn't act as if—" She stopped and frowned again. "But you said they were sea scavengers and pirates," she added, nodding. "I suppose that means they intend to take the schooner anyway, lawfully or unlawfully."

"I'm afraid so, Captain Tucu. I imagine, isn't the kind to be easily discouraged. If he's decided the schooner's worth it he'll return later. Besides," soberly, "he has another reason for making a second attempt."

"What is that?" she asked. He laughed and shrugged his shoulders. "For one thing he'll want to get even with me for interference, and second to get hold of those jewels I told him about."

"SQUATTER" LEADER ARRESTED

Bobbies arrest John Morton, right, Communist "squatter" leader, after a dozen families moved into the Ivanhoe Hotel in Central London. Planks were ripped from the doors of the hotel, which had been used by Irish laborers repairing bomb damage, before the police could interfere. Those who got in were allowed to remain, but Bobbies boarded up the doors again. The government threatened to prosecute "squatter" leaders for "criminal conspiracy."

Sunday School Lesson

Jesus and the Law of Love

Psalm 119:33-38; Matt. 5:43-48

Golden Text — "Love worketh no ill to his neighbor: therefore, love is the fulfilling of the law."—Romans 13:10.

Prayer for Knowledge

The humble seeker, moved by faith in God, trusts that He will teach him, studies God's Word prayerfully, and willingly learns. What God teaches us we are to put into action.

The Psalmist prays for understanding. Not only will he concern himself with the letter of the law, but with its spirit. He will enter into cooperation with the Lord with all his heart, knowing his heart's tendency to perverseness. He is willing to accept the discipline of the Lord.

The vanities of the world will pervert those who are not established in God's Word. It is the acceptance of the authority of God's Word that begets in us a wholesome fear. It is a reverential awe in our attitude toward God by means of which we fear to displeas, grieve or offend Him.

The Law of the Kingdom

Love should go out to all, friend and enemy alike. By loving our enemies we shall ourselves be sons of God, for the son is like the father, and this is the way the Heavenly Father acts — He returns blessing for cursing, kindness for hate. To love them who love us is no indication of grace; even the publicans do the same.

The Perfection of God

The perfection of God is held up as our standard. The immediate reference is to perfection in love; loving enemies as well as friends, bad as well as good. But it is clearly implied that in all things God's character is our standard. Nothing short of absolute likeness to Him should satisfy us.

The final exhortation is that we shall be like God. If God can bestow on the worst of men His providence and grace, who are we to withhold charity to others. It is the longsuffering of God which at last wins many to repentance. If we only stop to think of the tender mercies of our God we shall be immediately moved to scorn our own pettiness and censorious attitudes toward others. Only thus can we be perfect as our Father in Heaven is perfect.

Frozen Pie Dough Good For Months

Pretty soon you'll be able to mix dough—the kind that goes into cakes and pies, not the pocket—for use six months later, that is, if you ever feel the need to mix dough that far in advance.

This enlightening information came from Sven Young, research expert for a food processing company who addressed a conference of Canadian restaurant operators and told them they would have first crack at this newfound mixing method.

Mr. Young said experiments had shown that dough kept in a frozen state for six months could retain its flavor when formed into rolls or pie crust.

"And of course, Gentlemen, we must remember that Grape-Nuts Flakes are not only marvellously delicious—they supply carbohydrates for energy; proteins for muscle; phosphorus for teeth and bones; iron for the blood; and other food essentials."

"Those two golden grains wheat and malted barley are combined in Grape-Nuts Flakes. They're specially blended, baked and toasted for flavor, crispness, easy digestion."

JUST IN FUN

Speed

In an American shipyard noted for its bustle and speed the stage was set for the launching ceremony.

The distinguished guest, holding the traditional bottle of champagne, exclaimed in some bewilderment, "But, there's no ship."
Replied the foreman: "Start swinging that bottle, lady. There will be."

A Long Time

"I like that dress you're wearing."
"I got it for my twentieth birthday."
"Really! It has worn well, hasn't it?"

Smart

Husband: "Come back for something you've forgotten, as usual!"
Wife (brightly): "No, I've come back for something I've remembered."

Reasonable

Mistress: "Why don't you keep the baby quiet, Kate?"
Kate: "I can't keep him quiet, Ma'am, unless I let him make a noise."

THE SPORTING THING

"That one's got me worried!"

Don't Boast

A Scots girl obtained a situation in the South. One day her mistress asked her what particular part of Scotland she came from.
"I come from near Aberdeen," was the reply.
"Oh," said her mistress. "I'm sorry you didn't tell me so before. I had some friends staying there, and I would have asked you if you knew them."
"It's like this," retorted the girl: "when I was leaving home my mother said, 'Dinna boast.'"

More Important

In answer to her advertisement for a cook, the housewife received only one reply.
"I suppose I needn't bother asking for references, John?" she asked, discussing the matter with her husband.
"No, my dear," said John, "just ask her to submit samples."

THE SPORTING THING

"So! Ben drinkin' black coffee again!"

He Knew

Smith assured his wife that he could repair the broken window. So he took careful measurements and went to buy the glass—and to ask the dealer how to put it in.
"It's quite easy," was the reply. "Just remove the broken bits, fit in the new glass, put the putty around, and there you are!"
In a short time Smith was back again. The shopman greeted him with:
"Same size again, I suppose?"

Tough

"Two days without food or water," announced the Commando to an admiring audience in the local; "think of that."
"Pretty bad," agreed a middle-aged man; "but how would you like to have fought in the trenches in Flanders? Sometimes we were up to the waist in icy water and mud for a week or more."
"Call yourselves soldiers?" snorted a very, very old man who had hobbled to the bar. "Pah! When I was in the Zulu war, a spear knocked me down and pinned me to the ground. I couldn't move, and I lay there for over a week without food or drink."
"By Jove!" exclaimed the Commando hero. "It must have been very painful."
"Not very," answered the old man; "only when I laughed."

Many people do not like Jerusalem Artichokes because they don't know how to cook them. The artichokes (Jerusalem) should be pared and dropped in cold acidulated water, that is water (1 quart) to which 1 teaspoon of lemon juice or vinegar has been added. This will prevent the artichokes from discolouring. After being drained they are cooked like other vegetables in a small amount of boiling salted water; until tender, then served with a cream sauce or seasoned with salt, pepper, butter and chopped parsley

VOICE OF THE PRESS

Restful Runaway

Alongside planes that try to bore through mountains, and trains that try to pass on a single track, the old-fashioned runaway horse was positively restful.
—Edmonton Journal.

Distance

During the past twenty-five years the world has had to revise its ideas about distance. War and destruction may now travel from one country to another in less than an hour, as we very well know. But exchange of information and opinion can be carried on just as quickly.
—Peterborough Examiner.

The Better Way

The best way to raise the standard of living in this country and provide for the welfare of the children is to so order the national economy that there may be steady jobs at decent wages for all. Thereafter, in the cases in which, for any reason, parents are unable to look after their children, specific and effective assistance could be given.
—Brantford Expositor.

Vermont Marvel

The main interest of a city lad who is spending a part of the summer on his grandparents' farm in Vermont is a brand-new calf. He wrote his father and mother last week that he wished they were there to watch it grow. "It's getting bigger every day," he said, and then, as if despairing of conveying any sense of the solemn wonder of it all, he added, "Sometimes twice a day."
—The New Yorker.

A Mess, Anyway

Canadian mines say they need 100,000 men, and we are told at the same time that construction, so vital now, is being held up by lack of workers. Meanwhile we have 50,000 men idle through strikes. Truly this country seems to be doing its best—or worst—to throw away its birthright.
—Ottawa Journal.

SOAP SITUATION

"The current Canadian soap shortage is the direct result of industrial disputes at Canada's two major soda chemical plants and not due to poor supplies of oils and fats, which are considered satisfactory", F. H. Lehberg, Oils and Fats Administrator of the Prices Board recently said.

Mr. Lehberg pointed out that if it were not for the acute shortage of caustic soda, so important to the soap industry, Canadian soap manufacturers would have equalled if not exceeded the 1945 production of 255,000,000 pounds. Many manufacturers are now making soap on a 35 per cent. production basis of last year and if they do not receive sufficient supplies of caustic soda in the near future, production will be practically at a standstill, Mr. Lehberg said.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK
OCTOBER 6 TO 12

By proclamation of His Excellency the Governor-General, Fire Prevention Week will this year be observed during the week of October 6 to 12.

The Minister of Finance
announces

A NEW BOND ISSUE
FOR PEACETIME SAVINGS

Canadians are thrifty people. Their record in war financing will stand for many years to come.

Through six years, millions saved and invested in Victory Bonds and War Savings Certificates in a way no one thought possible. Many thousands learned the convenience of regular, systematic saving, whether in small monthly amounts or by larger cash investment. As a result they have accumulated substantial personal reserves with all that means in increased future security and satisfaction.

Because suggestions and requests have come to me from all parts of the country that facilities for this kind of saving be continued in peacetime, the Canada Savings Bond has been created.

The issue of War Savings Certificates and Stamps to the general public will be discontinued on September 30th, and final instalments on the last Victory Bond issue will have been completed in the near future. Canada Savings Bonds, therefore, will provide an opportune means for citizens to carry on their regular savings habits without interruption.

The general public should note that this time there will be fewer salesmen than in the case of Victory Bonds. Although the new Canada Savings Bonds will be sold through banks, authorized investment dealers, stock brokers and trust or loan companies, these agencies will not be able to approach every individual Canadian. This means that for the most part it will be left to Canadians to assume the responsibility for their own purchases of Canada Savings Bonds. If they wish to grasp this opportunity, they should act for themselves without delay.

Canada Savings Bonds are designed to be the finest investment available to the public today. I recommend them to you as a safe, profitable and convenient investment for personal savings.

I now announce the terms of the new Canada Savings Bonds, which will be offered commencing October 15th.
