Reds ready to meet Nixon

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Russia today affirmed its readiness to discuss with the Nixon administration an agreement to limit the development of offensive and defensive missile systems. Leonid Zamyatin, head of the Soviet foreign ministry press department, made the announcement at a Moscow news conference on Soviet proposals for disarmament. The United States originally suggested talks to limit missile development with the Kremlin about two years ago but the offer was only taken up publicly by the Russians last year. The opening of substantive talks on the issue was believed to have been delayed by tensions resulting from the Soviet-led Warsaw pact invasion of Czechoslovakia Aug. 20. Zamyatin said the Soviet government is ready "for a serious exchange of opinion with the U.S. government concerning mutual restriction and subsequent reduction of strategic means of delivery of nuclear weapons, including defensive systems." DISCLOSED READINESS Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko first announced Soviet readiness to begin talks on the issue in a speech to the Supreme Soviet, the Russian parliament, June 27. Four days later the two governments said an understanding was reached on the opening of discussions, but they were held up as tensions grew over the Czechoslovak crisis. In October, the White House reacted coolly to a speech by Gromyko at the United Nations during which he renewed his offer of talks. The news conference today was clearly timed to coincide with the inauguration of Richard M. Nixon, who is believed to be lukewarm to the idea of talks on this issue.

Zamyatin, who was reading an official government statement, said agreement on concrete questions of curbing the arms race, including the development of nuclear weapons, was "quite feasible although no easy thing." STILL UNRATIFIED The Soviet Union now believes it is essential to try and put into force the nuclear non-proliferation treaty, signed last year but still unratified by the United States or Russia, he said. The Soviet Union wants to see the treaty "faithfully and consistently implemented," Zamyatin added.

The foreign ministry press chief suggested as a first step the implementation of Russian proposals for a ban on underground nuclear bomb tests, on the flight of nuclear bombers beyond national borders and the restriction of the movement of missile-carrying submarines, the prohibition of chemical and bacteriological weapons, the establishment of nuclear-free zones and the use of the sea and ocean beds for peaceful purposes only. He accused the United States, Britain and West Germany of trying to step up activities of NATO.

Pageantry and protests greet new US president

WASHINGTON (CP-AP) — Richard M. Nixon was to take the traditional oath of office at about noon EST today, becoming the 37th president of the United States amid historic pageantry and anti-war protests. Chief Justice Earl Warren was to administer the oath placing Nixon in the powerful office for the next four years. After turning the power over to Nixon, Lyndon B. Johnson planned to return to his ranch in Texas by late afternoon and let history be his judge. The ceremonial transfer of power from Democrat to Republican, from Johnson to Nixon, was to take place in front of the U.S. Capitol. With his left hand resting on two family Bibles held by his wife Pat, Nixon was to repeat after Warren the oath to "preserve, protect and defend the constitution of the United States."

Perhaps in recognition of the darkest issue dividing the country, the Vietnam War, Nixon decided to have the two brown leather Bibles open at the second chapter, fourth verse of Isaiah, which says: "And he shall judge among the nations, and shall rebuke many people; and they shall beat their swords into plowshares and their spears into pruning hooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more." Thousands of anti-war demonstrators, who planned to picket the inaugural parade, put on a noisy previous Sunday. The youthful protesters marched up Pennsylvania Avenue toward the Capitol shouting for a Viet Cong victory and calling Nixon a war criminal. Many of the marchers wore ghoulish white theatrical masks with Nixon's likeness while staging the first mass inauguration protest in U.S. history. CROWD ESTIMATES VARY Police estimated the protest turnout at 5,000. A protest leader, David Dellinger, who also was one of the leaders at last year's demonstrations at the Chicago Democratic national convention and at the Pentagon, said the marchers numbered 10,000 to 12,000. The throng stretched six blocks.

'Like a football player'

MIAMI (AP) — A young man clutching a Dominican Republic passport hurdled another passenger and ran "like a football player dodging from tourist to first class" before grabbing a stewardess and forcing an Eastern Airlines jet to Cuba. It was one of two hijackings Sunday that took 257 persons to Havana. The Eastern jet was hijacked as it neared the end of its New York-to-Miami flight. All but one of its 168 passengers returned to Miami. An Ecuadorian, prop-jet carrying 81 persons was seized by four men armed with sub-machine-guns and remained in Cuba. There was no explanation why Cuban authorities, who cite safety in refusing to allow big jets to leave with passengers aboard, detained the smaller prop-jet. These were the sixth and seventh commercial airliners hijacked to Cuba in 18 days.

Another airliner was hijacked to Egypt. Passengers on the Eastern jet returned to Miami early today aboard two prop-jets sent to Varadero, Cuba, to get them. They told reporters the young hijacker had given no indication that he planned to seize the plane before leaving his seat and grabbing stewardess Pamela Gates of Syracuse, N.Y. JUMPS OVER WOMAN "He had to jump over me, and he kicked me," said Gladys Scheck of New York City. She sat next to the hijacker and spoke to him briefly. "He just told me he came from Santo Domingo." Another passenger, Charles Sukind of Brooklyn, N.Y., said the hijacker "got up and he looked like he was sick to me." "He ran like a football player, dodging from tourist to first class, and then he grabbed a stewardess."

The man used Miss Gates as a hostage to enter the cockpit. He spoke only Spanish, but Stewardess Joan Tognoli of Edgewater, N.J., translated for him. Capt. R. D. Smith of Atlanta, Ga., said the hijacker held "what appeared to be a hand grenade." "He said he was 19 years old and kept hollering 'Cuba! Cuba!' I told him to be calm and we'd take him to Cuba."

News in brief

Bound for Miami from Guayaquil, Ecuador, the prop-jet lost radio contact with its base soon after takeoff. Communications were restored when pilot Dean Ricker, an American citizen, landed at Barranquilla, Colombia, to refuel. Sunday's hijacking raised to 681 the number of passengers making unscheduled stops in Havana this year.

PARIS (CP) — The alleged treatment of Quebec Indians by both French- and English-speaking groups in the province is criticized today by a special correspondent for Le Monde. The Paris newspaper gives front-page prominence to the first of a series of articles on the Quebec Indians by Maurice Denzere. Reporting from Loretteville, near Quebec City, Denzere writes: "One can feel astonished that in the 20th century, in a province which wants itself to be liberal, the descendants of the French or English colonists conduct themselves with so little mildness toward a very peaceful Indian minority."

Found dead VANCOUVER (CP) — The body of a man was found sprawled in the blood-stained snow of a Marpole district parking lot Sunday, the fourth killing in Vancouver in six days. Police identified the victim, whose skull was crushed and throat slit twice, as Lucien Joseph Mayer, 61, who was released from prison after serving 13 years of a 20-year sentence for the attempted murder of drug trafficker Thomas Kinna. Police termed it an underworld killing.

Police guard Russians as Czechs storm

PRAGUE (Reuters) — Trucks of police guarded Russian installations today amid mounting fears of violence after the death of a student protester who turned himself into a human torch. Police were outside Soviet Army headquarters and the Russian Embassy Sunday night while angry students clambered over the statue of King Wenceslas in the centre of Prague and called for a wave of industrial strikes.

after his suicide attempt Thursday that another student—the first of 15—was ready to burn himself to death Tuesday if demands for an end to censorship and a ban on the distribution of Soviet propaganda were not met. Seven more students joined two already on a hunger strike in Wenceslas Square. Other students appealed for support from factory workers and read out a resolution warning there was a danger of public reconciliation to reform restrictions demanded by the Soviet Union.

Some of the big trade unions already have signed solidarity pacts with the students, who are expected to meet reformist workers leaders this week to map out a possible common protest policy. Prominent Czechoslovak reformers went on television Sunday night to appeal for calm. One of them, Cestmir Cisar, chairman of the Czech National Council, warned that anarchy and chaos would only mean the end of democracy in Czechoslovakia.

The interior ministry also warned against any further attacks on Soviet troops. Several incidents involving Russian soldiers and Czechoslovak youths were reported during the weekend as anger spread over Palach's suicide. The government and Communist party officials, obviously shocked by Palach's self-immolation, have been calling urgent meetings.

Teacher strike plan said harmful to all and helpful to none

QUEBEC (CP) — Education Minister Jean-Guy Cardinal said Sunday rotating strikes to be staged by Quebec teachers later this month will neither help negotiations nor students. This sort of pressure should not be exerted in the education field because the value of education is too precious, he said in an interview.

32 killed

At least 32 persons died accidentally in Canada during the weekend, 24 in traffic. A Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m. local times Friday to midnight Sunday also showed that six persons died in snowmobile accidents, one drowned and a boy died when struck by a hockey puck. Ontario had 13 fatalities, 10 of them in traffic and three in snowmobile accidents. Quebec recorded nine deaths, seven in traffic, one in a snowmobile mishap and one when a boy was hit by a puck.

Raymond Laliberte, president of the 65,000-member Quebec Teachers' Corporation, announced last Thursday that teachers would start a system of rotating strikes later this month. He said the strikes "can affect a school board, a single school, a class within a school or even a subject taught," and without advance warning. The corporation released a statement Sunday charging that acting Premier Paul Dozois is "trying to spread panic" by claiming the strikes could "ruin school for millions of Quebec students." It said the claim was made to "create a situation where the government can impose solutions that would never be accepted under normal conditions." CANNOT PAY MORE Mr. Dozois, who is provincial finance minister, said last Friday he is unable to give "a cent more than what has been offered to the teachers at the negotiating table because it would knock the government's salary policy to the ground." Salary schedules have already been settled in a dispute that has been simmering since striking teachers were ordered back to classes 18 months ago. But Mr. Dozois said other teacher demands would be too costly. Mr. Laliberte said the government intends to reduce the classification of 10,000 teachers, preventing them from receiving salary increases at their current classification. He also said the government plans to reduce the number of teachers by 1,700, a step designed to save the government $33,000,000 over the next three years.

Two jets become watery tombs under Pacific, a mile apart

LOS ANGELES (AP) — On the bottom of the storm-tossed Pacific lies the battered wreckage of a U.S. jetliner in which 38 persons died. A mile away rests the rail section of a European jet in which 11 are believed entombed. A United Air Lines Boeing 727 crashed into the ocean Saturday night after takeoff for Denver, Colo., and Milwaukee, Wis. One body was recovered from the jet fuel-stained waters. Searchers also found scraps of the fuselage and mail sacks. Heavy seas and rain hampered search operations Sunday. The dead included: Dr. Lowell B. Swan, 58, president of Iliff School of Theology, a Methodist institution at Denver; Bonnie J. Cottle, 19, returning to the University of Colorado after visiting her father, Capt. J. Russell Cottle, who is manager of United's flight operations; and Mr. and Mrs. Robert K. Schroeder Jr., West Bend, Wis., parents of six children ranging in age from two to 16. OFF-DUTY PILOT DIES Returning as a passenger to Denver to pilot his own flight was United Capt. Warren H. Le Roy. About a minute after the plane took off at 6:20 p.m., pilot Arnold Leverson radioed: "I have a fire warning light on engine No. 1. I'm turning around and coming back." Radar showed the plane made a left-hand turn about 12 miles west of the coastal airport. Then radio contact with the plane was lost and its blip on radar screens disappeared. Officials were unable to say whether the plane had exploded before it crashed. About a mile to the southwest, searchers were attempting to recover the tail section of a Scandinavian Airlines System Douglas DC-8 which crashed last Monday trying to land at Los Angeles. Four bodies were recovered and 30 persons survived. Eleven are missing, believed to be in the tail section.

US troops fly near Czech border

NUERNBERG (AP) — A huge airlift from the United States started pouring some 5,000 troops into this West German city today, on their way to manoeuvres near the Czech border which both the Soviet and Czechoslovak Communists have protested. The first of 63 giant C-141 Starliner jet transports arrived at the Nuernberg airport at 9 a.m. The last of the 5,000 soldiers is due here by Tuesday night. Most of the soldiers are members of the 24th Mechanized Infantry Division, a so-called dual-based unit because it is stationed at Fort Riley, Kan., but has combat equipment stockpiled in West Germany. The troops arriving today and Tuesday are joining another 12,000 American soldiers who have been flying to West Germany since Jan. 6. Also already on the scene are four tactical fighter squadrons from the United States, totalling 3,500 men. TEST EFFICIENCY The army says speed is not the point of the airlift. It says the main purpose is to test the efficiency of the dual-based plan of operation. Politics is also a major factor. The exercise, now scheduled for Jan. 29-Feb. 4, was moved up six months because of the Soviet occupation of Czechoslovakia last August. The Soviet Union and its allies have protested the manoeuvres as an "aggressive" act. Communist party papers in Czechoslovakia complained that such operations near Czechoslovakia's border showed that earlier U.S. expressions of concern for the occupied nation were hypocritical. As the troops arrived, they picked up equipment they left behind last summer.

University officials issued a statement late Sunday which said no classes were scheduled today but normal activity would resume Tuesday. Students had announced earlier they would boycott classes.

Tempers flare

DUBLIN (AP) — Tempers inflamed by a critical housing shortage are expected to make demonstrations a regular feature of Dublin weekends, with militants in two universities and Roman Catholic left-wingers joining in. More than 1,000 demonstrators were evicted by club-wielding police when they staged a heartwarming Saturday night in the heart of Dublin. Scores were injured, and organizers claimed young girls were manhandled and beaten.

Domtar men vote to end strike if firm settles cases out of court

MONTREAL (CP) — Domtar Ltd. and union representatives were scheduled today to discuss a return-to-work proposal that could end a six-month strike at mills in Windsor and East Angus in the Eastern Townships.

Strikers voted Saturday to end their walkout if the company agrees to settle legal grievances against 31 workers out of court. It was not known whether the company would agree.

The grievances stem from a 26-hour armed occupation of the Windsor mill last November. The 31 strikers are scheduled to appear in court later this month to answer civil charges of contempt of court for violating injunctions during the occupation.

The company said $100,000 damage was caused by 150 persons who occupied the Windsor mill Nov. 3-4.

The mills are located a few miles from Sherbrooke, 85 miles east of Montreal.

SURE OF RESULTS

"I am now positive all 1,200 workers would return to work the minute Domtar announces it will settle outside court," Mr. Taylor said.

He said the National Federation of Pulp and Paper Workers, an affiliate of the Confederation of National Trade Unions, was not asking the company to drop criminal charges of conspiracy with intent to destroy property placed against five employees.

"We realize those proceedings have already begun and cannot be stopped," Mr. Taylor said. "But the civil cases against the 31 men can easily be dropped."

The new agreement calls for a 30-cent hourly wage increase over 30 months. This would bring the average hourly pay to $3.28. A $65 retroactive payment from May 1 to July 17 and increased shift premiums for night workers is included in the agreement.

The average hourly wage was $2.98 when employees went on strike July 18.

FIRST MEN IN 10 YEARS: John Scholes, of Cookshire, left, and Maurice Paradis, of Sherbrooke, congratulate each other Friday night at the 10th graduation exercises of the Sherbrooke Hospital School for Nursing Assistants. Both men received their pins and

Dozen nursing assistants graduate Friday from Sherbrooke Hospital

Twelve nursing assistants, including two men, received their pins and diplomas Friday night at the 10th graduation exercises of the Sherbrooke Hospital School for Nursing Assistants.

One of the two men among the 12 graduates, John Scholes, of Cookshire, received the general proficiency award for passing the course with the highest marks.

The guest speakers at the ceremonies, Ian A. MacLeay, director of studies at the ET Regional School Board, summarized his speech by urging the graduates that instead of blindly following the "script", they should use common sense and knowledge to overcome the obstacles they encounter.

Mr. MacLeay pointed out, however, that everyone is guilty at least once in his life of blindly following the script.

Mr. MacLeay said the graduates should maintain their self-identity by being able to make decisions.

"We must think for ourselves and adapt to the script," he told the graduates.

Miss Clara Aitkenhead, who told the graduates at the ET Regional School Board, summarized his speech by urging the graduates that instead of blindly following the "script", they should use common sense and knowledge to overcome the obstacles they encounter.

'Why?' is an old question

"Not that again!"

This was the reaction of John Scholes, of Cookshire, and Maurice Paradis, of Sherbrooke, when they were asked Friday night why they had embarked on careers as nursing assistants.

John and Maurice were part of a class of 12 who were presented their pins and diplomas at the 10th graduation exercises of the Sherbrooke Hospital School for Nursing Assistants.

The two men are the first men to take and pass the course which was founded 10 years ago and has graduated 104 women.

And the two men did very well. John won the general proficiency award because he excelled in nursing and theory, coming first in the class.

Both men said they enjoyed "very much" taking the course. Certain characteristics distinguish both men. John is a perpetual smile and is very patient, two assets which will be of great use to him in his work.

Maurice, although he has a more serious expression, is a fluently bilingual French speaking Canadian and he is alert and calm.

John explained that they were both working at the Sherbrooke Hospital as orderlies when they were asked if they wanted to take the nursing assistants' course.

John had been at the hospital for five years and Maurice had been employed there for six years.

Both men said they want to remain at the Sherbrooke Hospital.

"I like it here," beamed John.

"Me too," Maurice said.

He was well-known for his sports activities, especially in the world of skiing, which he helped establish in the ET area.

Mr. Schiller drew the plans for Mount Sutton, Mount Echo, the Sherbrooke Municipal ski trail, East Angus and Indian Valley and other ski centres in the Laurentians and the United States.

Mr. Schiller is survived by his wife, of North Hatley, two daughters, Mrs. Yvette Stewart and Erica, of St. Catharines, Ontario, and three grandchildren, as well as relatives in Europe and the States.

Before he came to Canada, Mr. Schiller had been European gymnast champion. In the Eastern Townships, he also introduced water skiing and he was an avid horseman. Mr. Schiller was known by ski fans throughout the province.

He asked that instead of flowers being sent to the funeral chapel donations be sent to the Canadian National Ski Team.

Four suspects moved to Bordeaux jail

Four men accused of attempting to rob the Canadian National Bank, located at 830 Belvedere Street South, Friday morning have been moved to the Bordeaux jail in Montreal for security reasons.

Three of the men, Richard Blass, Claude Bienvenue, and Raymond Laurin are from Montreal, while the fourth is Gaston Soucy, of Sherbrooke.

Two men ran into the BCN Friday at 9:23 a.m. while a third ran into the ET Specialties Inc., located in the same building as the bank, to make sure no one telephoned or set the alarm off at the bank.

No money was stolen from either place. Captain Roland Gaboriault of the Sherbrooke Police Department said this morning.

One of the four accused, Richard Blass, is a well-known figure to the Montreal underworld and police forces.

Captain Gaboriault said Blass was on bail when he was arrested after police engaged four men in a gun battle Friday morning.

He has been shot three times by Montreal gunmen, wounded by three bullets to the head the last time, October 13, 1968, but Blass has always escaped with his life.

He has never served a long jail sentence for a serious crime in Montreal.

One of the four men was injured in the gun battle between the four gangsters and the police.

A bullet pierced his thigh. Captain Gaboriault said the man was released from the hospital after his thigh was stitched up.

Both Laurin and Bienvenue have criminal records.

Thomas Keeley proved truly great individual

An English philosopher once remarked that a truly great man was one whose death was genuinely mourned by three people outside his immediate family.

If this is to be taken as a definition of greatness, then Thomas Keeley, whose death occurred Thursday at the ripe old age of 89, can be considered a truly great man, even if he did not achieve national or international fame or amass great wealth or hold a position of power.

During the 40 years he acted as superintendent of the Gibbs Home, an organization dedicated to provide underprivileged youth from the United Kingdom with new opportunities in the New World, and especially in the Eastern Townships, Tom Keeley proved himself a "father" for hundreds of boys who were located in this area and over whose welfare he continued to display deep interest, even after many of them attained positions of importance on this continent.

To them his death will be a real loss, to be mourned as the loss of a close family member.

But his interest in the general good was not confined to his services with the Gibbs Home.

He was an ardent worker in many welfare organizations and served as unpaid counsellor to the Social Welfare Court in its dealing with the problems of English Protestant children who for one reason or another came before that court.

His services were also available as chorister and song leader for social and service organizations of which he was a member and he gave unfailing devotion to the interests of the Church of the Advent in East Sherbrooke.

Nothing tarnishes more quickly than a bright, new year.

History to judge Mike

A certain lady known as Hon. Judy LaMarsh recently retired from the active political scene and immediately indulged in the practise of side-tracked politicians of writing her memoirs which have been published in book form and are appearing in abridged serial form in a prominent Canadian weekly magazine.

In this document she speaks in unusually free terms of another retired politician and former cabinet minister, Rt. Hon. Lester B. Pearson, once Prime Minister of Canada.

Her chief comment was that he was gutless. Miss LaMarsh retired from politics on the eve of the 1968 general election, at the age of forty-four, for reasons that have never been clearly defined but are probably connected to some uncomplimentary remarks she made about the new Prime Minister and the man who would have been her chief if she had decided to remain in politics.

She had served as Minister of Health and Secretary of State.

Mr. Pearson retired at about the same time, aged seventy-one, full of honors and with no nasty words for anyone.

He had been Prime Minister for five years, had compiled an outstanding record as an international leader and had been awarded the Nobel Peace Prize.

History has a queer way of evaluating the greatness of individuals and perhaps we may be too close to the events of recent Canadian politics to be adequate judges, but for our money the final honors will go to gutless Mike rather than Miss LaMarsh.

Keep your nose out of other people's business and you'll have a pretty dull time of it.

Trudeau smirk could turn a nice patsy nasty

OTTAWA OFFBEAT

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — The curtain has gone up on Act Two of that $12 billion dollar national extravaganza, the Twenty-Eighth Parliament of Canada.

Act One, running from early September to late December, was pretty unexciting, even "boring," the star of the show, Pierre Elliott Trudeau, would have you believe.

Act Two, now on stage until Easter, will be less of a "bore," promises the supporting star, Robert Lorne Stanfield.

He has been playing the role of the political gentleman.

It was a part, he slowly has been discovering, that had little future since it cast him in the character of a naively well-meaning patsy. An innocent in Bytown.

There he was playing the nice guy to star Trudeau's stuck sharpie. He might never have realized that he was being had if the star hadn't had the questionable judgment to poke political fun at him right there on the public stage for all to see and hear.

Pride in a proud man is easily bruised. And nothing can blue-and-black an ego as instantly as ridicule.

NEW DETERMINATION. It wasn't in the prepared script at all.

Just a smart-cracking throw-away line, delivered with a smirking shrug.

And it could result in a re-writing of the whole Second Act of the parliamentary play.

There was Passionate Pierre, basking in the warm glow of his charisma, good-naturedly allowing that sure. Reasonable Robert might be an agreeably co-operative enough sort, but honestly, wasn't he a bit of a boob, too?

The quiet guy from Halifax just didn't dig that he had been trapped.

He'd been so busy making a big deal of just one little old parliamentary rule change he hadn't noticed that the whole book had been revised.

When he was made aware of his put-down by the prime minister — he was at lunch in the parliamentary cafeteria when word of it reached him — the Conservative leader leaped from his table, left his sandwich and let fly with an uncharacteristic rumble of rage.

"He said that, did he? — well, we'll see who turns out to be the trapper and the trapped."

Out of his office only a few minutes later he fired a statement that the prime minister just fast-talked himself into a self-sprung trap of his own setting from which there might be no escape.

That trap could very well be a suddenly and stubbornly unco-operative Opposition, prepared at last to dig in and not merely oppose, but overthrow the government.

It was obvious that Gentle Bob regarded Truculent Trudy as something of a cad and a ruffian no longer deserving of decent diplomatic deference.

A NEW HOUSE? If he hangs tough on this it will be a new and different

House of Commons — for the man who has been using him to practise and polish the political art of the put-down.

Up to now it has been so apparent that the prime minister considers the Opposition leader his parliamentary if not intellectual inferior, that even the long-suffering, patiently courteous Mr. Stanfield must have had some awareness of it.

But he has bent over backward to be reasonable and as he sees it "reasonable," quietly ignoring the often insulting way the prime minister has been at pains to address him in the tone and manner a teacher might employ with a backward pupil.

In other moods the prime minister has ignored the Conservative leader, shrugging off his earnest enquiries about the nation's business with a casual flip of the wrist.

It has been the Conservative leader's position that it is only the requirement of national responsibility for the opposition to assist the government in the complicated business of running the country.

Now, slow to anger, Mr. Stanfield at last is burning with resentment that his responsible co-operation with government should be so misunderstood as to be regarded by Mr. Trudeau as rather dull-witted naivety.

On that basis, his put-down by the prime minister becomes a put-down of Parliament, and a point at which an opposition, to remain responsible, must dig in for a fight that just possibly could end in an election.

An exuberant celebration

Films break away from the mould and fly

NEW YORK (AP) — The shape of films to come seems to be multi-faceted, split and splintered, surrounding and all-encompassing—and a device to emphasize the visual.

It is form over content, perhaps, but an exuberant celebration of film as film by young directors who are breaking away from the normal mould of one image filling the screen. Motion pictures now show perhaps five or six events going on at one time, by splitting the screen into different panels, often of different shapes. The aim is total involvement of the audience.

The split screen is not new, of course. The master of most movie techniques, D. W. Griffith, used variations on the split theme in such early films as Birth of a Nation and Intolerance. The world's fair in 1965 and Montreal's Expo 67, however, brought out the mod excitement.

To Be Alive!, a 17-minute film at the world's fair, used three separate screens, each with its own projector.

ONTARIO FILM TOPS

Probably the most influential of all the multi-image pictures was A Place to Stand, a kaleidoscopic presentation of life in Ontario. It was produced for the Ontario department of economics and development, with Christopher Chapman the imaginative creator, directing, filming and editing the 20-minute film. It was a hit at Expo and won an American Academy Award as best short subject.

Dividing the screen into panels of various shapes and sizes and making them move about, Chapman was able to "force" the audience to be more selective about what it sees and more "involved" in the film.

Now, Hollywood has picked up the technique for major productions, for pictorial excitement, compression of information and dramatic effect.

In a recent special section in Action, the magazine of the Directors Guild of America, three top Hollywood directors discussed the use of the multi-image in their films. All three—Richard Fleischer, who did The Boston Stranger, Toronto's Norman Jewison, who directed The Thomas Crown Affair, and Ralph Nelson, of Charly—noted the influence of A Place to Stand.

Fleischer recalls a similar technique used by the Czechs in 1962, in a production of Laterna Magika—Magic Lantern.

He tried to use the multi-image screen in one of his own pictures, but couldn't sell anyone on it—until he convinced 20th-Century Fox studios for

The Boston Stranger—"thanks to its use at Expo 67."

Jewison, too, became intrigued with the multi-image screen after seeing it at Expo and Nelson says his use of the technique is "obviously derivative" of Expo.

For top jobs Civil servants back to school

TORONTO (CP) — York University has the answer for busy civil servants who have an eye for the top job.

The university's faculty of administrative studies next May will launch a mid-career program for civil servants, covering three consecutive 13-week summer sessions. The course leads to a Master of Public Administration degree.

Prof. Walter Baker, director of the York course, says the program resulted from 18 months of talks with senior civil servants and a recommendation in the 1963 royal commission on government organization report.

The commission head, J. Grant Glassco, was an adviser to the York public administration faculty until his death last year.

The first course, starting May 1, 1969, at York with 30 students, will draw from federal, provincial and municipal governments.

The students, between 30 and 45 years old, were recommended by their departments as future top-level administrators.

LEAVE IN REVERSE
"You might call it a sabbatical leave in reverse," Mr. Baker says. "They will be full-time students, living in residence for three months, and then will go back to their jobs for nine months. While on the job they will do extensive reading under the direction of a faculty member, and return to the campus for two weekend symposiums during the winter."

Mr. Baker says a deputy minister has been asked to join the faculty as a visiting professor for the summer course.

He says York's approach to business administration is unique, as it believes any kind of administration has common basic skills. "As it grows," the course director says, "we will open it to administrators outside government."

Mr. Baker is confident the new course will prove worth while especially in the field of regional government, which will grow as public spending shifts from the federal to provincial and municipal levels.

"We can be very responsive to public needs and still maintain our academic requirements," Mr. Baker says. "The only thing we can't control is the willingness of government to send its people."

US should follow administrative role in checking the sea's resources

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States government's role in exploiting resources of the sea should be more that of administrator rather than investor, says a new study on the economic potential resources of the U.S. Continental Shelf. The main burden of the federal effort should not be on the details of finding and mining specific materials, the report says. "Rather, it should be in the broad areas of increasing our basic knowledge of the geology and other characteristics of the shelf . . . and of providing the facilitating services that are uneconomical for private operations to reform for themselves." The report, released Monday, says there is not enough hope of recovering resources economically over the next 10 to 20 years to justify federal spending toward that end. SEES NO URGENCY But more important, the report emphasizes, is the conclusion that there is no urgency, from the point of view of national security or economics, for the government to invest heavily in exploitation. It says: "One of the 50 or so marine materials which may be identified as occurring on the shelf and slopes, there is only a handful of which it may be said that there is a need, in that their absence would create a significant shortage or price rise, would seriously affect the U.S. balance of payments or would detract from strategic reserves." The 520-page report, the product of a year's work, was prepared for the National Council on Marine Resources and Engineering Development, a government agency, by Economic Associates, Inc., assisted by Ocean Science and Engineering, Inc. It was conducted to guide the government in the face of growing demands from private concerns for funds to exploit the continent's offshore resources. The survey covered the Continental Shelf and the deeper slope in the offshore areas of the Continental U.S.: Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. STUDYING FISH It concentrates on the "non-living" resources and another study is under way on fish and shellfish resources. Early reaction to the report suggested that it was overly pessimistic on the prospects for economic development of offshore resources. But the report said it does not mean "to say that ocean mining and cropping are not, or may not soon become, economical for some materials generally and for others in particular regions." In making its recommendation to the government it was "concerned primarily with the kinds of needs which imply significant loss to the public interest if marine development and exploitation are not pursued with a certain amount of vigor." Oil and natural gas "may be among the exceptions," it says. But those materials are being extracted now by private interests and no federal funds are recommended. SULPHUR OF VALUE Sulphur resources are of value but the report says large supplies are available from gypsum processing and potential imports from Canada and Mexico. It notes that U.S. consumption met by imported crude oil has increased steadily in recent years and says that "from a national-interest point of view the situation is complicated by strategic and balance-of-payments considerations." "From the strategic aspect it is undesirable to depend too completely on imports. . . . Balance-of-payments considerations also limit the feasibility of enlarged imports as a supply source. . . . Thus, to the extent that offshore oil production can help hold down the need for enlarged imports, it promises to make an essential economic contribution. It seems dubious, on the other hand, that more stringent import restrictions than now apply could be predicated on any acceleration of offshore development that would result from increased government stimulation or subsidy." Waterloo Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bockus and four sons, Cowansville, were New Year's guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Hollenbeck and family. Yes or no to having babies

NEW YORK (AP) — Through the potent power of hormones, modern women are winning greater ability to say yes or no to the prospect of having babies.

On the "no" side, there is the pill for birth control. The pill—some 10 brands are available—succeeds because it contains certain hormones that prevent ovulation, the monthly release of an ovum or egg that could become fertilized to start new life.

But on the "yes" side, for some barren women, there are hormonal preparations that are bringing true their dream of at last having a child. These chemicals stimulate the release of an ovum.

Sometimes these drugs over-succeed, by stimulating the release of numerous eggs. Such was the case with the sextuplets born in October in Birmingham, England, to Mrs. Sheila Ann Thorns.

Hormones, produced in minute amounts by numerous internal glands, are powerful controllers of life processes. Adrenalin, for example, supplies stimulus to function in emergencies. And hormones are also vital in the complicated processes of human conception and birth.

OVULATION THE KEY

A beginning in all this process is ovulation, the cyclical release of a mature ovum or egg from the storehouse of some 100,000 ova contained in the two ovaries of a female child at her own birth.

This maturation and release of a monthly egg is controlled by a hormone, gonadotrophin, produced by the pituitary gland at the base of the brain.

Gonadotrophin is a mixture of hormones. One important one is FSH, the follicle-stimulating hormone, and another is luteinizing hormone. Both are essential for production of an egg that could meet with a male sperm to begin new life.

Acting on this knowledge of basic physiology, scientists in the last decade have produced two fertility drugs. One is gonadotrophin obtained and purified from human sources. Another is a hormonal-like drug, clomiphene citrate, that acts through the central nervous system to jog the pituitary gland to produce more gonadotrophin.

Both have assisted childless women in having babies. Up to 15 per cent of women may be childless because they fail to ovulate normally. Dr. Richard U. Hausknecht of Mount Sinai Hospital in New York City estimates.

Specialists in clinics around the world are engaged in careful studies to learn how to apply this hormonal action in aid of childless women.

Women at the peace table

PARIS—(NEA)—Parisians are convinced that nowadays no self-respecting peace delegation appears on the Paris scene without a beautiful woman as a pole of attraction.

First to appear was Madame Nguyen Thi Binh, the handsome 41-year-old leader of the Viet Cong's negotiators.

A month later Paris saw the other female face of Vietnam, the beautiful 27-year-old whole-hearted approval of Parisiennes who saw her on television. She was as cool, chic and impeccably made up as her maiden name, Dang Tuyet Mai—Morning Snow—would suggest. She walked across the runway on her husband's arm with as much poise as any visiting queen.

Madame Binh, whose name means Sister Peace, was not accompanied by her husband when she walked across the same runway 30 days before. He happens to be a mere militant in the resistance movement. She happens to be one of its leaders.

Nevertheless, with her serene, smooth, classic face, broad smile and harsh tongue Sister Peace has captured popular imagination. She wears no make-up at all and her jet-black hair is drawn back severely into a low chignon.

She and her husband were founder members of the National Liberal Front resistance movement. When France ruled Vietnam, she spent three years in jail.

With her son, 12, and daughter, 9, she lives in a rebel village headquarters somewhere in the Vietnamese jungle.

She often pedals a bicycle along roads guarded by Ky's soldiers when she starts off on one of her long diplomatic trips which, at one time, took her to the heart of Africa.

Against Ky and the Saigon government, Madame Binh lashes out the routine insults of the Viet Cong. To her, Saigon's rulers are traitors, puppets and imperialistic lackeys.

Madame Ky, on the other hand, owes her position to her husband and has no desire to exert direct influence. However, she is no less determined in her soft, feminine manner.

She is sometimes at her husband's side when he visits the battlefield. She has even been known to fly the helicopter in which they travel about the country.

Madame Nguyen Cao Ky

old air-hostess wife of Gen. Nguyen Cao Ky. There could not be a greater contrast between these two women who apparently have only one thing in common—an indomitable will in the service of rival ideals and goals.

Madame Ky, after flying halfway around the world,

Madame Nguyen Thi Binh

The Kys have an infant daughter, and she looks after the five children of her husband's first marriage to a Frenchwoman.

Madame Binh makes no attempt at glamor. In the jungle, she wears the Viet Cong peasant woman's uniform of black trousers and conical straw hat.

Burlesque on the road pays well

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Travelling as a burlesque performer to clubs across Canada is a good way to make money, says Mary Uschak of Toronto.

Miss Uschak, billed as "Miss Misty Dawn, burlesque star of burlesque halls and clubs across Canada," says she makes up to $300 a week plus tips on the road.

"In Toronto we get just $150 a week and that's for 12 to 14 hours a day, so you can see why we want to travel," she said here in an interview.

Last February Miss Uschak left her job with the national revenue department because, without Canadian citizenship, she was not entitled to permanent employment. She entered an amateur contest at the suggestion of a girl friend.

The contest at Toronto's Victory Theatre, Canada's only burlesque theatre, was "quite a horrifying experience."

"It looked so easy from the theatre. I made my costume and came up with a routine with the help of my girl friend, but when the moment came I had to be shoved out on the stage."

She placed fourth and won a contract to perform at the Victory.

DOWN TO BYLAWS

Miss Uschak, a bright, talkative, humorous girl who left Germany during the war and has lived most of her life in the United States, said she has developed her own routine.

Her act has three numbers of 10 minutes each performed to the music of a local band.

"The first is just dancing, then I remove my gown and by the third number I'm down to as much as the bylaws of the province permit."

She turned down a contract for a topless tour of the West Indies "because I just don't have the bust for topless shows."

Miss Uschak says there is keen competition among burlesque performers and she is kept busy designing new costumes and acts.

ALDERSHOT CHAPTER IODE
Members of Aldershot Chapter of the IODE held a Christmas party and monthly meeting at the headquarters, recently, with a good attendance of members and five guests present.

LENNOXVILLE WI

Mrs. Russell Wells, nurse in attendance at the Lennoxville High School, was the guest speaker at the Lennoxville Women's Institute regular monthly meeting in the club room at the Town Hall, Queen Street.

Women's Institute work is being drawn up under six departments: agriculture, citizenship, education, home economics, publicity and health and welfare, bringing their interests very close to the youth of today and the schools. Education and health and welfare assistance is given in the form of prizes, library books and often first aid equipment, to mention a few, and under health and welfare donations are given towards the hot lunch fund. This they feel is a vital necessity to the pupil; to have a substantial meal, to aid their health and have the necessary energy for study and play.

Mrs. Wells explained the routine followed in choosing the pupils who require this free meal each day and of the decided benefits derived especially during the winter months.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. George Povey and thanked by Mrs. Marion Porter.

Mrs. Neil Tracy, president, conducted the business meeting with Dr. Kathleen Atto acting as secretary in the absence of Mrs. Lyman Rothney. Mrs. Gerald Cascadden, treasurer, gave the financial report.

Mrs. J. Edward Perry distributed the rules and regulations regarding the J and P. Coats company embroidery competition when the entries will be in three classes: 1. Crazy, patchwork bed or couch throw 40 x 60 inches; 2. A cushion, any size; 3. Tea cloth and matching apron.

These will be judged at county and provincial levels and all work must be done by the exhibitor.

Members were reminded to turn in their IGA sales slips. Mrs. Perry also read an interesting article regarding a study made on floor polishes by the C.A.C., when 25 samples were tested and the results recorded. Many well-known brands appearing in each class.

Gourmet cookery is a hobby for Mrs. Job

OTTAWA (CP) — It's second nature for Sylvia Job of Ottawa to whip up a smashing Malayan curry, spicy Hungarian gulas, hot Italian pasta or a snack of crispy Chinese spring rolls at the drop of a chef's hat.

And incidentally, she has cooked for a party of 200 people and is accustomed to entertaining 60 guests at a time.

Cooking internationally is a full-time hobby with the attractive, auburn-haired wife of Leslie Job, a mining engineer with the federal government's research unit.

Mrs. Job teaches gourmet cooking once a week to an adult night-school class and often discusses cooking with a handful of neighbors in her kitchen.

She came by her interests first-hand. Her husband's career has enabled them to live in 12 countries and visit 76 others.

"Every day I make food from different countries," she said. "My family never knows what they're going to get."

"I cook according to what's on the market—and in my refrigerator I don't keep canned foods. When I take a can out of my cupboard, my English bulldog thinks it's for him.

"French food is my ordinary food, my everyday cooking. If I don't cook foreign food, then my methods are French. It's so easy. And we always drink wine with our food—it gives the food tremendous flavor."

When Mrs. Job decided to write a cook book herself, she was told that Canadians were just not interested.

"That's not true—I find them terribly keen."

"I teach method to my cooking class, not recipes. I don't want my pupils to rely on recipes. I want them to be able to make a dish with the basics."

"It's the hints that are important. Books don't supply these. I've been instilling into my students that they must make a good stock, that they can't cook with water."

"I spend a lot of money on food but I never waste it," she said. "We never seem to have left-overs. I'm too mean to eat out—I can eat the same things at home, cheaper."

Kiwis zero in on careers as wives

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Kiwi is the name of a New Zealand bird that can't fly. It's also the name of the American Airlines organization for retired airlines stewardesses. Unlike the New Zealand bird, these Kiwis can still fly, but only as passengers.

A flock of Kiwis, seated around a table, casually discussed past experiences. The warmth and charm of these women came across and one could easily imagine them offering "coffee, tea or milk" at the next pause in the conversation.

The ex-hostesses discussing their flying days were Sue Berman of Englewood Cliffs, N.J.; Christine Doll of Plandome, N.Y.; Corey Pillersdorf and Ann Gilmartin of Manhattan and Marilyn Schubert of Middletown, N.J.

Why does a girl become an airlines stewardess?

"If you want to travel and do it for nothing, I think being a stewardess is the best way to do it," said one.

A girl could probably see most major cities in the United States and Canada if she had a mind to, because stewardesses can choose the places they fly to. As Marilyn put it, "Each girl gets to bid where she wants to go for whatever reason—whether it's a fellow she's dating or she wants to get a suntan one month or she wants to visit family."

A stewardess also can trade days off with another girl so that she can accumulate as many as 10 days a month for an impromptu vacation.

Most only work four days a week, leaving plenty of time for hobbies, part-time jobs and special interests between flights.

Ann attended college while she was flying—she bid her trips around her school days. Girls with professional training, such as nurses and teachers, can do part-time work in their fields during their time off. Other jobs available to stewardesses between flights include working as salesgirls in department stores and modeling.

Of course, flying isn't all glamor and good times.

"When you're on the plane," Corey noted, "it's good, hard work. Things have to be done fast and well—it's not like an office where you can say, 'I'll do this tomorrow.' Everything has to be done according to schedule during the flight."

All the girls nodded in solemn agreement. Then Sue added, "It's when you're off the plane and you find yourself in New York or California, that's the glamorous part."

Again, there were the nods of agreement, but the solemnity was replaced by nostalgia.

Most stewardesses marry well, mostly professional men. Sue commented, "Our husbands all seem to be good providers and we live very well. Also, the divorce rate among stewardesses is very low."

If visions of in-flight romances come to mind, you can forget them. One of the cardinal rules of the stewardess trade is: "You have to figure that all your passengers are married men, because nine-tenths of them are." So most stewardesses steer clear of traveling Romeos.

Once married, stewardesses like to stay that way—and they work at it.

Scaring investors hurts says paper

MONTREAL (CP) — The Star says the Quebec economy is suffering from a lack of confidence on the part of investors. Money is leaving the province, the newspaper says, but this is not the main problem. "The major problem for Quebec—and for Canada's future—is not so much that cash is drifting away but that investment decisions are either being postponed or are coming down in favor of Ontario, the West or the United States in preference to Quebec."

The Star says investors fear that "the stress on the use of French could hamper the operations of big companies and endanger the English education of Quebec-based officials' families."

Quebec—with an unemployment rate of well over six per cent, highest in the country—was "only beginning to feel the effects of the adverse economic

Saturday to kick off what they call a campaign to open Quebec taverns to women.

Brenda Zannis, president of the Young Socialist League, climbed a chair in Le Gobelet Tavern, took a long drink from a mug of draught beer, and declared:

"The women of Quebec have been oppressed for too long."

The invasion by the placard-carrying women who say they want the right to buy cheaper tavern draught beer and meals was not entirely without reaction from male customers who chanted: "Out, out, get out now."

After 20 minutes, and on instructions from police waiting outside, the tavern's waiters politely ejected the demonstrators.

Arson?

Several factors are cited as causes of "an atmosphere of high tension" contributing to Quebec's economic difficulties:

- Last June's decision of the Roman Catholic school board in St. Leonard to eliminate English-language instruction.
- The apparently successful merger of the previously-fragmented separatists under the single banner of the Parti Quebecois and the leadership of Rene Levesque.
- The relatively rapid rise to power and prominence of Jean-Guy Cardinal, the fiercely nationalistic provincial education minister.
- And the 52 bombings in schools, public buildings and private homes in the Montreal area during the last several months.

L'ÉPIPHANIE, Que. (CP) — Isolated fires believed to be the work of an arson Sunday damaged a hotel in this community 30 miles northeast of Montreal.

The fire at the four-storey Le Manoir Hotel originated in the attic was brought under control by 20 volunteer firemen. Shortly after, small fires broke out in three areas on the second floor.

"Some of my men were almost trapped by the second blaze," said Chief Claude Lacasse.

"We're almost certain these fires weren't accidental."

Want their suds

MONTREAL (CP) — A group of young women paraded into an east-end tavern period.

Annual reports of the treasurer, the secretary and the card secretary were given, all showing an active and successful year had been completed.

Ten dollars was voted to the Missionary and Maintenance Fund.

Mrs. Earl Parker took over her duties as president and appointed her conveners for the year: Manse, Mrs. H. V. Burns, Mrs. S. McVetty and Mrs. D. Parsons; cheer, Mrs. E. Waldron; decorations, Mrs. D. A. Bellam, Mrs. Wall; publicity, Mrs. E. S. Heatherington; posters, Miss Louisa Elliott; representative to the Official Board, Mrs. Earl Parker.

Plans were made to serve refreshments after the annual congregational meeting to be held at 8 p.m. on Jan. 21 at the church hall.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. H. V. Burns on Feb. 5 at which time there will be a paper bag auction.

Equalities

MONTREAL (CP) — Claude Ryan, publisher of Montreal Le Devoir, said Saturday night linguistic equality cannot exist if there is no economic equality.

He said the English minority in Quebec has established an obvious and even arrogant economic domination and forced the French-speaking majority to speaking English.

Mr. Ryan was addressing the Jewish Labor Committee of Canada at its annual banquet during which he was given its Defender of Human Rights award.

Analyst dies

MONTREAL (CP) — Funeral services will be held today for Dr. Miguel Prados, 74, a retired psychoanalyst who once worked with Dr. Wilder Penfield at the Montreal Neurological Institute. He died here Friday.

Born and educated in Spain, Dr. Prados came to Montreal in 1939 after the Spanish Civil War and met Dr. Penfield.

Theatre lobby

QUEBEC (CP) — A Quebec City theatre group is to lobby today at the offices of Cultural Affairs Minister Jean-Noel Tremblay for a clearer policy on the city's theatrical future.

Le Mouvement pour le theatre a Quebec is taking action in hopes of "breaking the scandalous silence over the last several months" by the government, a spokesman said.

Broadcast

MONTREAL (CP) — A taped 15-hour radio program of French-Canadian music, songs, plays and economic and political commentary was broadcast in France and Quebec Sunday.

The program was prepared in Montreal by the French-language network of the CBC. Its last two segments were produced in Paris and included interviews with French-Canadians living in France.

Back to class

MONTREAL (CP) — Classes were to resume today for 3,600 students of the Roman Robidoux high school in nearby La Prairie after teachers and the Lignery regional school board reached agreement Sunday night.

The school's 225 teachers were locked out of the school Dec. 10 when they refused to take on extra-curricular school activities as dictated by the school board.

Beavers stop Sags 4-2, blank Gauls 6-0

Sherbrooke Beavers made it two in a row last evening at the Sports Palace when they posted a 4-2 win over the Chicoutimi Saguenéens before 2,925 fans. It was a wide-open battle and with some hard body-checks tossed in for good measure.

THE WORLD OF SPORTS

The win was an important one for the Beavers as it kept them on the heels of Granby and St. Hyacinthe, both deadlocked in third spot with 37 points, five more than the Beavers. Sherbrooke will be at home tomorrow evening when they play hosts to the Victoriaville Tigers. Game time 8:30.

The Beavers turned in one of their better performances for some time and it was only a few minutes in the middle session that they let up but Coach Poliquin put them back in high gear. "The whole team played well as the players know that every game is an important one," stated Coach Lou Poliquin after the tilt.

The Beavers were minus the services of Bob Foster, who was injured Friday evening, but Junior Langlois returned to action and this gave the locals plenty of strength on the blue line. Langlois was tossing his weight around and came up with some timely clearing in front of Jacques Monette. He also led several rushes out of his own zone.

Jacques Monette once again came up with the big saves when required. On two occasions he robbed Gordie Haworth and Phil Desgagne on breakaways. In the first period he stopped Morissette cold when he waltzed in on a long pass.

Sags' Gilles Delisle was in the cooler when the Beavers opened the scoring. Lionel Robidas picked up a pass from Andre Lagueux and when he rifled a hard shot Jim Beckman, standing by the side of the net, deflected it by Cyr.

The Sags evened the count when they had the man advantage with Rollie Leclerc in the cooler. Germain Munger put Mauril Morissette in on Friday night the Green and Gold will visit the Loyola Warriors in a game forecast as the match of the year in the OSLAA Hockey Conference.

Sherbrooke moved to a three-goal lead in the first period, 3-0. The Green and Gold stretched the margin to four goals in the second 5-1 and then exploded for six goals in the third to down the winless the wing and he let go with a hard drive which hit Monette's arm to deflect into the net.

Just after this the Beavers got caught up the ice forcing the play but Monette came up with two big saves. Finally a few minutes later the Sags got away on a two-man break and this time Morissette drove the puck by Monette. The Beavers opened the middle session in high gear. Bill Dupre came close. Luc Tessier blocked the puck at the blue line and passed it to Jim Beckman who let go with a hard shot which beat Cyr to tie the tilt 2-2.

Bill Sweeney put Bruce Cline in twice but he failed to click. The Beavers were forcing the play at this stage and were all over the Sags but the Watson crew held on. The Beavers were flying at this point but the visitors held on.

Serge McLean went off but the Beavers couldn't break the deadlock. Jean Levesque was the next to follow and during his stage Rene Pepin broke in alone but his drive nicked the goal post.

Bill Dupre finally came through with the winning tally when he deflected a shot by Robidas into the upper corner of the net. At the time Rollie Leclerc was in the cooler. This took all the steam out of the Sags.

The final tally was a break for the Beavers. Husky Gaston Vandal stopped a shot on his chest but when the puck got away from him Andre Lagueux snared the rebound and lifted it into the net behind the surprised Cyr.

The Beavers then threw up a strong defense to protect their two-goal advantage. Ronnie Racette got in but failed to click. The game ended with the Beavers holding on.

WEEKEND FIGHTS
Bologna, Italy—Silvano Bertini, 147, Italy, knocked out Edwin Mack, 147, Dutch Antilles, 13; Bertini won European welterweight title.

U of S throttles CMR Cadets 11-3 in OSLAA Conference

The Green and Gold varsity pucksters of the University of Sherbrooke, despite suspensions of three key players, throttled CMR St. Jean Saturday afternoon 11-3 to preserve their Ottawa-St. Lawrence Conference lead.

Friday night the Green and Gold will visit the Loyola Warriors in a game forecast as the match of the year in the OSLAA Hockey Conference.

Sherbrooke moved to a three-goal lead in the first period, 3-0. The Green and Gold stretched the margin to four goals in the second 5-1 and then exploded for six goals in the third to down the winless

Cadets 11-3. Normand Delisle led the U of S attack with a hatrick and two assists. The five-point outburst by the brilliant Green and Gold forward moved him to within five points of the Conference scoring leader, Sir Georges' Ted O'Brien.

Andre Boisvert, Alfred Charland and Jean Perron each scored a pair of goals for Sherbrooke with singles scored by Ronald Allard and Pierre Gauthier.

Arsenault led the Cadets attack with a pair of goals. The other CMR goal was scored by Lemieux.

BECKMAN SCORES — Jim Beckman of the Sherbrooke Beavers is seen just after he had fired the puck between Sags' Claude Cyr and the goal post last evening at the Sports

Palace for the opening marker. Guy Brassard is watching the play. The Beavers won 4-2. (Record photo: Gerry Lemay)

Bruins dump Leafs to extend lead, Habs edge Hawks 3-1

When Wren Blair turned over the job of coaching Minnesota North Stars to John Muckler last Nov. 6, the National Hockey League team was doing poorly. Since then, the club has done even worse. So, it was decided Sunday to give the job back to Blair, the team's general manager, and to send Muckler on a two-week vacation before giving him unspecified duties.

Minnesota president Walter Bush announced the personnel shift only a few hours after the North Stars lost 3-1 to St. Louis Blues to extend their winless streak to 14 games and their losing streak to eight.

The North Stars had a record of 3-6-1 when Blair summoned Muckler from Memphis of the Central Hockey League to take over. The North Stars have won only six out of 35 under Muckler.

FLYERS LOST SATURDAY
Saturday, Boston took Philadelphia 5-3. Montreal Canadiens downed Chicago Black Hawks 3-1. Los Angeles Kings blanked Pittsburgh 4-0. Detroit and Toronto played to a 1-1 tie and New York Rangers and St. Louis fought to a 2-2 stalemate.

Ab McDonald scored two goals for St. Louis Sunday and Ron Schock had the other. Jean-Paul Parise tallied for the North Stars.

A crowd of 10,869 at Minneapolis saw St. Louis maintain its 17-point lead in the Western Division over runner-up Oakland. The loss left Minnesota in fifth place, two points behind Pittsburgh and eight points out of fourth.

Aided by a goal and an assist from Phil Esposito, the Bruins extended their first-place margin in the Eastern Division to four points over idle Montreal.

The two points gave Esposito 66 for the season—29 goals and 37 assists—and put him four points ahead of runner-up Bobby Hull of Chicago in the scoring race.

WINNING STREAK GROWS
The Bruins, beaten only once in the last 18 games, have compiled their longest undefeated streak since they last won the Stanley Cup in the 1940-41 season. That year they set the NHL record of 23 straight games without a defeat—15 wins and eight ties.

A 31-year-old rookie, defenceman Dick Cherry, scored his first NHL goal and veteran forward Jean-Guy Gendron tallied twice to lead Philadelphia to its win.

Gordie Howe scored the only Detroit goal, his 21st of the season, before a Philadelphia turnout of 13,949.

Philadelphia defenceman Ed Van Impe, who missed Saturday's game because of an ailing hip, returned to action and is expected to be ready for Tuesday night's all-star game at Montreal.

Billy Hicke and Mike Laughton scored two goals each for Oakland while single goals came from Carol Vadnais and Norm Ferguson. Pittsburgh scorers were Billy Dea, Gene Ubricaco and Paul Andrea.

A crowd of only 3,436 at Oakland saw the Seals outshoot the Penguins 38-23 to break a tie with Los Angeles for second place in the Western Division.

Russians tally three goals in final ten minutes to win 4-2, over Nationals, before 15,574

TORONTO (CP) — The Russian bear had another laugh Sunday night as the Soviet national team defeated Canada's rookie-infested national hockey team.

The Soviets, who earlier withdrew from an eight-game tour of Canada and then did not reach Montreal in time for the first game after reconsidering, defeated Canada 4-2 with three goals in the final 10 minutes at Maple Leaf Gardens before 15,574 fans.

The Russians showed little concern during the first 50 minutes of the contest, while the Canadians harassed them with man-to-man coverage and took a 2-1 lead on goals by Derek Holmes and Chuck Lefley.

Meanwhile, the Russians, attempting to break the pass coverage by playing one man far up the ice, got a goal from veteran Vyacheslav Starshinov in the second period while Valari Kharalamin, Anatoli Makovoiiv and Vladimir Petrov scored in the third.

Betrov gained credit for the fourth Russian goal that actually was a clearing pass by Canadian defenceman Terry O'Malley that bounced in off team-mate Fran Huck.

UNHAPPY IN DEFEAT
Head coach Jackie McLeod of Canada's team was unhappy about the loss, but found at least two bright spots.

He lauded rookie Lefley and said the team "played well out there."

But he said his club was not getting back fast enough on the Soviet rushes.

"They were late a couple of times and it cost us," he said. "Our defence was loafing on the tying goal. The Russians lobbed in the puck and our defence didn't go hard for it. When they saw Kharalamin coming, it was too late." Kharalamin broke straight down the centre of the ice, catching the defence off balance and raced from the Russian blue line to the Canadian goal with Ken Stephanson at his heels.

"Our kids were very nervous and tense," McLeod said. "This led them to hold the puck a little too long in some cases before passing or shooting. We had 11 rookies in the lineup who have never played in international competition."

OUTSTANDING IN GOAL
The Canadians employed fierce bodychecking and a shadow coverage to keep the Russians off balance in the first period, while Wayne Stephenson played standout goaltending to hold the Soviets at bay on their few good opportunities.

Holmes scored the first goal of the game at 16:09 of the first period, just 11 seconds after Canada put its power play into action.

The Russians began to break away from Canada's close checking in the second period

Rochester posts their fourth straight win, Aces lose 7-4

Rochester Americans, struggling along all season in the basement of the Western Division of the American Hockey League, suddenly have come to life.

The defending AHL champions won their fourth game in five starts Sunday night by downing Springfield Kings 5-2. The victory followed a 4-2 triumph over Buffalo Bisons Saturday and left Rochester four points behind third-place Quebec Aces.

and took advantage of shaky clearing to set up Starshinov's goal that tied the game 1-1.

Alexander Yakushev started the scoring play by slapping down a clearing pass just inside the Canadian blue line and feeding the puck to Anatoli Mokovoiiv, whose shot was blocked by Stephenson before Starshinov batted it into the open side of the goal.

The Canadians went back to a man-to-man coverage early in the third period and Lefley scored with a hard shot from just inside the blue line at 9:17 to give Canada a 2-1 lead.

Mokovoiiv and Alexander Yakushev then combined on the best goal of the game at 11:37, going in on O'Malley. Yakushev drew O'Malley to the left side with him and the Canadian defenceman watched from his knees as Mokovoiiv drove a perfect cross-the-goal pass past Stephenson, who was unable to cover both Russians.

Both teams left after the game for the second contest in Vancouver Tuesday night.

Dawson leads West to 38-25 AFL All-Star win

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Len Dawson, overlooked by all American Football League coaches except his own, succeeded where youth failed as the West came from far back to defeat the East 38-25 in the league's all-star game Sunday.

Although he topped the league in average yards gained during the regular season, the 33-year-old Kansas City star was overlooked by the coaches in favor of San Diego's 28-year-old John Hadl in their selection of the West's all-star team.

But Hank Stram, coach of the West, lost no time correcting the error. He selected his Kansas City quarterback as a member of the squad and it proved a smart move as the West chalked up its fourth all-star victory against two defeats before a rainy day crowd of 43,800.

Dawson replaced Hadl at the start of the second half with the East leading 19-3 chiefly because of the passing and signal calling of New York's Joe Namath, the league's Most Valuable Player.

The picture changed as Bob Griese of Miami and Dawson became rival quarterbacks in the second half. Still the East led 22-13 going into the final period.

New York's Jim Turner kicked the last of his six field goals early in the final quarter to lengthen the margin to 25-13, but then Dawson took charge with assists from three comparative youngsters—Jim Lynch, Floyd Little and Paul Robinson, the league's top rookie from Cincinnati.

DIXON WENT OVER
Little provided the first big burst when he took a short pass from Dawson. The Denver back cut down the left side and wasn't stopped until 81 yards Sherbrooke Beavers aided by a top goaling job by Jacques Monette and a two-goal effort by Bruce Cline shutout the Gauls of St. Hyacinthe 6-0 Friday evening at the Sports Palace before 2,156 fans.

Jacques Monette, who took over the goaling job from Andre Gagnon, who is on the sick list, was a big factor in the Beavers' victory. Time after time he came up with key saves robbing the Gauls' sharpshooters of sure goals on several breakaways.

The Beavers didn't look like a team which had been beaten 8-2 Thursday evening by the Victoriaville Tigers. The locals held their own with the fast skating Gauls and didn't let up at any time during the fray.

Bill Sweeney, the veteran pivotman, set up three goals, two by Bruce Cline and one by Yvon Lacoste. Bill Dupre, Ronnie Racette and Luc Tessier notched the others. Sweeney played a big part in the outcome with his smart plays setting up his wingers time after time but Andy Payette blocked several of their bids.

Jim Beckman dug the puck out from behind the net and laid a perfect pass on Racette's stick to open the scoring just after the faceoff. Luc Tessier broke out of his own zone to circle the St. Hyacinthe defense and litted the puck to Bill Dupre in front, who was uncovered, and the Beavers were away.

In the middle frame Bill Sweeney put Bruce Cline in the clear but his shot just missed the corner. Lionel Robidas was next to get close but Payette blocked his try. Bill Sweeney snared the puck in the corner passing back to Bob Foster, who let go with a hard shot which Cline deflected by Payette. Bill Sweeney nev put Luc Tessier in and he rifled a hard shot which Payette failed to hold on to.

Lacoste put the Beavers further ahead when he finished off a scoring play with Robidas and Bill Sweeney. It was a nice passing play with Robidas starting it in his end and Sweeney finishing the set-up for Lacoste.

Just before the half-way mark Bruce Cline came through with the nicest goal of the evening. Sweeney took a pass from Lacoste and he waited until Cline got in front of the net before he made his pass. Cline then deked two players and beat Payette from close range for the final tally of the game.

The Beavers fired a total of 31 shots at Payette while Monette made saves on 28. The Gauls were missing in close and several of their shots hit the goal post when Monette gave away too much space.

Gerry Paquette almost killed Monette's chance on his shutout in the dying seconds of the game. The speedy winger broke in alone but Monette made a great stab to pick the puck out of the air and save his shutout. This was just plain robbery as Paquette had picked the upper corner figuring he had Monette beat but the veteran netminder came through with the rubber.

Vics dump Nats 3-1 as Tigers down Gauls 7-3

Granby Vics kept their five-point lead over fifth place Sherbrooke yesterday as the result of a 5-3 win over the Ottawa Eastern Canada National team.

In one other Quebec Provincial Senior Hockey League encounter yesterday the Victoriaville Tigers stretched their league-lead to three points by downing the hapless St. Hyacinthe Gauls 7-3 in Victoriaville.

The win by Granby allowed the Vics to move into a third place tie with the St. Hyacinthe Gauls. Sherbrooke's pair of wins over the weekend moved the Beavers to within five points of a third-place tie in the standings.

St. Hyacinthe has one game in hand on both the Beavers and the Vics. Sherbrooke has played 40 games and have 20 left to play. The Gauls have played 39 and the Vics 40 as well.

Real St. Jean, John Fatta and Gilles Bedard scored for Granby while Ottawa's lone goal was scored by Jim Adair. Ottawa was without the services of playing-coach Jack Bonnass, Steve Rexe, and regulars Bayes, Ritchie and De Marco. All these players are presently with the Western National.

In Victoriaville last night the Tigers built up a three-goal lead in the first period and then coasted to their second win in three outings since returning from the European tour.

First period goals by the Tigers were scored by Michel, Garneau and Labrosse. Victoriaville opened the second period scoring three more goals before the Gauls could muster any type of attack.

Second period Tigers' goals were scored by Labrosse, Aubry and Hardy. St. Hyacinthe fired two goals by Morissette before the second period ended. Gauls' goals were registered by Gratton and Rousseau.

St. Hyacinthe narrowed the count to 6-3 at the 2:20 mark of the third period. Cartier scoring from Rousseau and Thibault. Two minutes later Victoriaville beat Payette for the seventh time to end all scoring in the game. The Tigers' seventh goal was tallied by Charron on passes from Mentis and Morin.

Bentley Bros. lead Oldtimers to 5-3 win

MONTREAL (CP) — The Bentley brothers and Bill Mosienko, who combined to form one of the top National Hockey League lines years ago, contributed two goals to lead the Western Oldtimers to a 5-3 win over the Quebec Oldtimers in a benefit game Sunday.

The game, sponsored by the Knights of Pythias to raise funds for community work, drew 5,900 spectators. Attendance last year was almost 14,000.

Mosienko opened the scoring, combining on a passing play with the Bentleys. Max and Doug, Ron Castelan made it 2-0 less than a minute later.

A goal by Gerry Heffernan was Quebec's only reply in the period.

The Westerners jumped into a 5-1 lead in the second period.

Ralph Caunter's rink wins Sherbrooke Bonspiel

Misses and good curling featured the finals of the Sherbrooke Curling Club annual Bonspiel held here Saturday evening. In the main event for the Lothrop Trophy Ralph Caunter's Lennoxville rink walked off with the honors by upsetting Bill Fuller's quartet 9-3.

In the Lowney Trophy George Corbiere of Magog had no trouble running away from Gerry Curphey's Sherbrooke quartet 16-5. In the Rand Trophy it was Roger Chretien and his Sherbrooke foursome who rallied to nip Duke Doucet's Windsor rink 11-10 in a close battle.

Following the finals President Charles Simard presided at the presentation of the trophies and prizes. Ashford Lothrop presented the main event while R. Kniffin awarded the Rand Trophy and President Simard the Lowney Trophy. He thanked the 48 rinks who took part in the annual event and congratulated the winners.

In the battle for the main event it opened as a knock-out game between Skip Caunter and Skip Fuller. The first end was scoreless while in the second the Fuller rink picked up a point. Another dead-end followed but when Skip Fuller missed in the fourth the Caunter foursome chalked up a big five-ender and that was it.

In the next three ends only singles were counted as the game was close. After seven ends the Caunter rink was ahead 6-3. Skip Fuller and his crew were missing their shots and dropped another big three for a 9-3 count after eight ends. Skip Fuller then conceded the match.

In the Lowney battle it was all one way as Skip Gerry Curphey's rink lost the touch which carried them to the finals. Skip Corbiere's rink built up a 6-3 lead after four ends. They added three more and had five in the house before Skip Curphey cut them down to two. Magog picked up two more while the Curphey rink notched one. With the score 11-4 the Magog crew came through with a five-end and Skip Curphey conceded the game 16-4.

It was in the Rand Trophy where the real upset happened. It was a nip-and-tuck battle the whole way with the match tied 4-4 after four ends. Skip Duke Doucet moved ahead 9-6 after seven ends. The Chretien rink got one while in the next end Skip Chretien made a nice raise for two in the house but Skip Doucet knocked out one for 10-7 coming home.

It was an exchange of stones until it came for the skips to shoot. The local rink managed to get three in well spread. Skip Doucet knocked out the centre one but it was replaced. On Doucet's first shot he missed dead centre. Skip Chretien banged it out staying and then it happened. Duke Doucet missed the second time in a row on the same shot. Skip Chretien with three counting made a beautiful raise to count four and win the match 11-10.

The semi-finals in all three events were close matches and the outcome was only decided on the last stone. Only one game was won by a large score and that was in the main event, the Lothrop Trophy. In the Lothrop-Bill Fuller's Lennoxville rink ran off with a 12-2 win over Bud Jackson's Sherbrooke foursome. The local rink just couldn't get untracked and after two ends the Fuller rink had an 8-0 lead. The Jackson quartet counted their two points in the third end but then it was the Fuller crew the rest of the way. They added two more and picked up two more for a 12-2 lead when Skip Jackson conceded.

In the other half of the event it was a close battle with Ralph Caunter's Lennoxville rink eking out a close 6-4 win over Ron Thompson's foursome. After four ends the Caunter rink had a 3-1 lead. After six ends it was 4-3 for the Sherbrooke rink but Skip Caunter evened the match in the seventh. Skip Caunter got one in guarded but Thompson got one. Lennoxville came right back but left a stone in the open and Skip Thompson missed the take out. The second time Thompson made it but left two in the house and lost the match 6-4 after a close battle.

In the Lowney Trophy Gerry Curphey pulled out with a 4-3 win over Charlie Warner's Lennoxville rink. Curphey led 3-2 after four ends. They had a dead end but Warner got one to tie. The next end was a dead end on a shot by Skip Curphey. In the final end the Curphey quartet got one. Skip Warner was heavy on his draw and Skip Curphey made a raise and when Skip Warner missed again Sherbrooke counted one for a 4-3 victory.

In the other half George Corbiere of Magog emerged with a 9-4 win over Jim Atto's local foursome. After four ends it was 5-3 for Magog. They added two more for a 7-3 lead. Skip Atto got one while in the seventh Magog picked up two for a 9-4 lead. Skip Atto conceded the match after tossing a few stones.

The Rand battle was close with both semi-finals going all the way. Duke Doucet of Windsor won out over Bill Hammond's rink 9-4. It was 3-3 after five ends but the Windsor quartet got three in the sixth. Sherbrooke got one but Windsor got three in the house well spread for a 9-4 lead when Skip Hammond conceded the match.

The battle between Roger Chretien's Sherbrooke rink and R. Brooks of Bishop's was another close fight. The outcome was decided with the final stones by the skips. The Chretien rink won 7-5.

The Brook's rink opened with a three-end but the Chretien foursome got singles in the three next ends with a three-end for a 6-3 lead after five ends. Bishop's picked up on one and when Skip Chretien missed in the next end Bishop's counted one for a 6-5 count coming home. In the final end both skips kept the house clean but Bishop's finally got two in but the centre of the house was open and Skip Chretien made a dead draw for one and won the match 7-5.

Kaiser Open washed out once again

NAPA, Calif. (AP) — That moisture on Tommy Aaron's glasses could be tears, not rain.

The 31-year-old golfer from Gainesville, Ga., who has never won a professional tournament, saw his five-under-par 31 for nine holes washed down the drain Sunday as the third round of the $135,000 Kaiser International Open was rained out for the second straight day. The 92 players who made Friday's cut at 145, one over par, were to try again today on the par 36-72, 6,849-yard Silverado Country Club course about 45 miles northeast of San Francisco. More rain was forecast.

As they were Saturday, all scores were scratched Sunday. Miller Barber of Sherman, Tex., led with a 68-67-135, nine under par, a stroke ahead of Australia's Bruce Devlin, two ahead of Arnold Palmer and three ahead of Charles Coody of Abilene, Tex., and the first-day leader, 23-year-old Bob Lunn of Sacramento, Calif.

Sloshing through with five birdies, Aaron in his eighth year on the tour, had gone nine under par for the tournament, tying him with Devlin, who had birdied his second hole and was playing his fifth when the round was suspended.

The rain forced rescheduling sets the final round for Tuesday, but should play be washed out again today, said tournament director Vern Peak. "I'll recommend that we stop the tournament right there."

West downs East 10-7 in NFL classic

LOS ANGELES (AP) — When they first started playing catch, quarterback Roman Gabriel and end Carroll Dale were reserves with Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League. Sunday the pair combined for a last-quarter 25-yard gain and two plays later the West team scored to earn a 10-7 victory over the East in the NFL's Pro Bowl game. "It sure was great having Dale out there catching my passes again," Gabriel said after the victory.

"He and I came up the hard way together. He was a second-string receiver and I was a second-string quarterback. We would usually go into the game together after the first stringers were through."

Dale, now a regular with Green Bay Packers, wound up with only three catches.

Knowlton area girls cop top honors in Hi-Y Girls' Basketball Jamboree

Knowlton girl basketball hoopers walked off with top honors in both the Senior and Junior divisions of the Hi-Y Girls Invitational Basketball Jamboree held Saturday afternoon at the Sherbrooke High School gymnasium.

In the Senior Division District of Bedford Regional High School crushed Lennoxville High 46-22 while Knowlton Intermediate School walloped Cowansville 30-5 in the Junior division.

Richmond Regional High School captured the Junior girls' consolation trophy downing Ayer's Cliff 21-19 while Waterloo outpointed St. Pat's High 28-23 to take the Senior girls' consolation laurels.

In the Senior girls' final District of Bedford outplayed Lennoxville from the opening whistle. Knowlton, a much bigger team, relied on strong bench strength. Regional built up an impressive 14-point lead by quarter-time, leading the Yellow and Black 17-3.

By halftime Knowlton held a commanding 32-13 lead. Lennoxville opened the second half scoring six points and for a short time it appeared Lennoxville would take the edge in play.

Bedford came back strong as their defence tightened and held the Yellow and Black point-less throughout the final quarter of play. At three-quarter time District of Bedford Regional High were ahead 41-22. They added a mere five points to this margin in the final quarter to win their first Hi-Y Girls' Invitational Jamboree 46-22.

Lennoxville's downfall came as a result of lack of defence. The Yellow and Black attempted to pick up Bedford's guards at centre court. This sliding type of press defence proved fatal as the fast-breaking Bedford squad walked in on the basket alone time after time.

In the Junior final, Knowlton Intermediate School walked over Cowansville 30-5. Knowlton led 10-3 at quarter-time, 18-4 at half time and came on to score 12 more points in the second half while holding Cowansville to one point.

Top marksmen for the District of Bedford in the senior finals were L. Benoit with 14 points and N. Knowlton with 13. Tops for LHS was Marjorie Crawford with 17.

In the Junior finals Knowlton's L. Mizener had 10 points along with B. Frizzle. Cowansville's Pam Stuart led her squad with three points while Jean McKell added the other two points.

Knowlton Juniors advanced to the finals by throttling Waterloo 41-17 and downing SHS 36-23. Lennoxville earned their berth in the final by eliminating Richmond Regional High School 36-8 and then edging Sunnyside 30-29 in what was described as the best and closest game of the day-long tournament.

Marjorie Crawford earned the 30-29 win, scoring a field goal with only three seconds remaining in the game. Sunnyside outpointed St. Pat's 45-10 in their opener.

In the Junior division Knowlton Intermediate advanced to the finals by trouncing King's Hall 60-6 and outpointing SHS 23-15. Cowansville earned their berth in the junior final by edging Ayer's Cliff 18-14 and then downing Sunnyside 37-9.

Next Saturday the Sherbrooke Hi-Y Club will be holding the Boys' Invitational Basketball Jamboree at the SHS gym. A complete list of entries along with the draw will be published Wednesday.

How's that for openers?

Why do people drink five million glasses of Guinness daily? Well, it could be Guinness' delightful touch of bitterness. Or that rich, creamy texture. Or perhaps its deep ruby colour. This old Irish brew is unique. Constantly unique. Guinness is now available where beer is sold in Quebec—at non-imported prices, but the same great Irish taste. Why don't you discover the brew that tastes like no other on earth. Just for a change. Brewed and Bottled in Canada by Lebett Brewery Ltd.
