LOITERERS SENT TO GAOL IN NEW YORK

Ten Midnight Loafers Get Workhouse Sentences and Crusade Will Continue.

New York, Sept. 13.—New York's proposed Broadway curfew, otherwise a crusade against masher and kindred nuisances, received support from the bench to-day when Magistrate Cornell sentenced to the Workhouse for indeterminate terms ten men who had been arrested while loafing after midnight this morning around the entrance of upper Broadway hotels.

The court complimented the police for their work, and expressed the hope that the crusade would continue. "If it is kept up," he said, "a stranger should be able to pass through the district without fear of being accosted."

LABOR CONGRESS IS OPPOSED TO THE LEMIEUX ACT

Guelph Gathering Goes on Record Against Conciliation Measure.

Guelph, Ont., Sept. 13.—This has been the busiest day of the Trades and Labor Congress, three sessions being held, at which the time was divided between the adoption of resolutions, a protest from French-Canadians against a report in a Toronto paper that they placed racial considerations before the cause, and a discussion of the Lemieux Act. The whole afternoon was spent in discussion on the latter question, the Congress going into committee of the whole with Sir George Askwith, who

PREMIER MCBRIDE DENIES INTERVIEW

Didn't Minimize German War
Scare Nor Praise Naval Policy of Laurier.

Victoria, B. C., Sept. 13.—Sir Richard McBride gave a direct denial to every statement of importance in the interview with himself by a representative of a Toronto paper on the naval question. He did not say he regarded the German war scare as an exceedingly unfortunate and ill-advised exploitation. On the contrary, in the conversation which he had with the reporter, he pointed out that in his opinion there was a distinct emergency confronting the British Empire and that no doubt Premier Borden will be found advancing a policy which would adequately meet it.

"I am quoted as saying," said Sir Richard, "that I visited Germany and learned there of the friendliness of the officials and of the people to Great Britain. As a matter of fact, I have never been in the country."

Sir Richard did not express his approval of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's naval policy. On the contrary he declared that the people of the Pacific province had never taken that policy seriously, always regarding it as quite inadequate to meet the national needs of the country. In respect to what might be the naval policy of Mr. Borden, Sir Richard said nothing which could be construed as suggestive what it ought to be.

Montreal, Sept. 13.—The two largest ships in the St. Lawrence trade, the Allan line steamers Alsation and Calgarian, are being rapidly completed in British shipyards. The Alsation will be ready to sail by May and the Calgarian by August of next year. Neither ship will be able to visit Montreal under the present condition of the channel westward of Quebec, and Quebec will be the western terminus.

The Alsation and Calgarian are of 18,000 tons register and will have a speed of 20 knots, making them the fastest ships on the St. Lawrence route.

Big Cunarders Building.
The new Cunarder Aquitania, it is announced, will be launched in December and commissioned by the spring of next year. She will be the largest British vessel afloat, though not so large as the mammoth German ship Imperator.

A novel feature will be the private flats for millionaire families, who will be able to take their meals alone, just as in their own homes.

King George is expected to use the Aquitania when he opens the new Gladstone dock at Liverpool next July, entering the dock aboard the liner. The Gladstone will be the first dock in Liverpool capable of accommodating a ship of the Aquitania's size.

The Cunard line is adopting the policy of secrecy with regard to the building of the Andania and the Alania for the Canadian trade, and are jealously safeguarding their secrets with regard to the new vessels, which it is known, however, are meant to represent the latest phases in the evolution of trans-Atlantic liners.

THREE WORLD'S RECORDS MADE BY EVELYN W.

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 13.—Three world's records were broken today by Evelyn W., in winning the free-for-all pace at the Grand Circuit meeting, held in connection with the New York State Fair.

Her time for the mile, 2:00 1/4, in the second heat, was the fastest heat ever paced in a race by a mare, the fastest second heat by pacers of either sex and the race constituted the fastest two heats ever paced by a mare. The time, by quarters: 0.31, 1.00 1/4, 1.30 1/4, 2:00 1/4. The first mile was in 2:03 1/4, last half mile in 0.59 1/4.

It was The Eel that forced the bay mare to extend herself, the two speeding side by side around the mile circle. Evelyn W. was the first to the wire in each heat by a narrow margin. The speed of the leaders was too great for Independence Boy.

The free-for-all pace was the feature event of the closing days programme of eight events. Twenty thousand persons were at the track.

BURSTING TURBINE KILLS WORKMAN AT SHAWINIGAN FALLS

Nine Others Have Narrow Escapes from Death When Building Is Flooded.

Montreal, Sept. 13.—One man was killed and nine others had narrow escapes from death at Shawinigan Falls this morning, when a water turbine in No. 1 Station of the Shawinigan Water and Power Company's plant burst and flooded the building to a depth of ten feet.

There were ten men at work in the station at the time, but they all managed to struggle out through the flood of water that rushed in when the turbine burst, with the exception of Thomas Fitzpatrick, 48 years of age, who has been a resident of Shawinigan Fall for five years.

Fitzpatrick is thought to have been knocked unconscious by being thrown against some of the machinery when the water rushed into the building, as there were bruises on his head when his body was recovered.

Some of the other workmen sustained bruises while fighting to get out of the building by the doors, but none of them were seriously hurt. The cause of the accident has not been ascertained.

ACQUIT VICTOR ALLEN.
Wheville, Va., Sept. 13.—Victor Allen, last of the Allen clansmen to be tried, was acquitted today of the charge of having participated in the Carroll County Court House murders at Hillsville last March.

DURNAN OFF FOR ENGLAND.
Toronto, Sept. 13.—Edward Durnan, sculling champion of America, who is to row Ernest Barry on the Thames, the second week of October for the world's championship, left Toronto tonight by the White Star steamer Laurentic. He is accompanied by Lou Scholes, who won the diamond sculls at Henley about eight years ago. Several hundred friends of Durnan were at the station to bid him good-bye.

GEN. NOGI AND WIFE COMMIT HARI-KARI

Victor and Hero of Port Arthur Dies According To Japanese Custom As Tribute To Memory of His Dead Emperor

Tokio, Sept. 13.—General Count Maresuke Nogi, supreme military councillor of the Empire, and his wife, the Countess Nogi, committed suicide to-night in accordance with the ancient Japanese custom as their final tribute to their departed Emperor and friend, Mutsuhito.

The taking off by their own hands of the famous general and his wife was as dramatic as it was sad. The general cut his throat with a short sword and the Countess also committed hari-kari.

Following the Samurai custom, the couple had carefully prepared their plans for killing themselves and timed them so that they would be coincident with the departure forever from Tokio of the dead Emperor.

General Nogi had the Countess had attended the funeral services of Mutsuhito at the palace here to-day, and it was expected that they would proceed to Aoyama to-night with the cortege. Instead, at the conclusion of the ceremony, they withdrew to their modest home in Akasaka, a suburb of Tokio, and there began their final preparations for death.

Dying, Greets New Emperor.

First the general wrote a letter to his new Emperor, Yoshihito. Then he draped in mourning a portrait of the late Emperor and afterwards he and his wife dressed themselves in full Japanese costume and drank a farewell cup of sake from cups which had been presented to the general by Mutsuhito.

Darkness had fallen and General Nogi and the Countess sat and awaited the signal they had agreed upon to announce their leave-taking. This was the booming of a single gun in the palace grounds at Tokio, which was to let the people know that the body of the Emperor was starting for its last resting place.

Dies as Signal Gun Booms.

As the boom of the signal gun resounded General Nogi arose and grasping tightly in his hand a short sword, plunged it into his throat, while the Countess stabbed herself through the stomach. A student who resided in the Nogi home heard the fall of the bodies and rushed into the room. Lying upon the floor were the hero of Port Arthur and his wife. Both still were breathing, but their spasmodic gasps showed plainly that their lives were fast ebbing. The student went for aid, but when he returned both the General and the Countess had passed away.

The tragedy created a profound sensation and expressions of sorrow were heard on every hand to-night. Especially grief-stricken was Prince Arthur of Connaught, who was to have gone with General Nogi to-morrow to the former capital of the Shogunate, Kamagura.

Those who knew General Nogi well declared that his calmness in killing himself to-night was the kind of calmness he always had displayed, no matter what crisis faced him.

DECLARED DEAD ANOTHER DOCTOR RESTORES LIFE

Winnipeg Man Has Narrow Escape from Being Buried While Still Alive.

Winnipeg, Sept. 13.—Pronounced dead by a qualified physician, laid out in his house while authority was being sought from the coroner to bury him without inquest, resuscitated by another physician after a police inspector had suspected a spark of life, and to-day walking about the streets of Winnipeg, is the strange experience of S. Musik, 1009 Redwood avenue. Had it not been for a series of accidents Musik would have been buried alive, probably to awake out of his comatose condition only to be suffocated.

Musik was found to all appearances dead in his bed, and after an examination, Dr. Knight pronounced life extinct. The coroner, however, was not quite satisfied with the story that reached him, and possibly suspecting foul play, sent in Inspector MacDonald with a constable to get evidence.

While watching by the body the officer thought he detected a slight movement of the blankets. On this being repeated, Dr. Bercovitch was summoned and made an examination. All the usual tests showed entire absence of reflex action of muscles and breathing. Suspecting the man might be suffering from cranial pressure, causing suspended breathing, the physician drew off some blood serum from the spinal canal with the result that reflex action returned, and with some care the man was soon on his feet.

NOTEWORTHY RECOMMENDATIONS.

There is quite a contrast between Sir Wilfrid Laurier's advice to his partisan followers at Mariville, "Spit on your hands, Boys!" and the Right Hon. Mr. Borden's advice to Canada at large, given in his Ottawa address: "Empire depends upon the Security of our Sea Ways." It is true that Sir Wilfrid has assured us that the Borden-Asquith proposals will be dismissed by him and the political party he leads on their merits and their merits alone; and it would be well for the whole of Canada to have the same assurance imprinted in indelible form on every elector's memory. The aphorism, "Spit on your hands, Boys!" however it savors of vulgarity, will form a collateral phrase to help us all to keep in mind Sir Wilfrid's solemnly serious problem to be the full shamesman, delivered from all party shortsightedness and bias, when he comes to analyze, as a public man, a naval policy which cannot but include the one he and his followers were so openly proud of when it was being discussed by parliament. And if the vulgarity he has been guilty of getting off at Mariville fails to keep him and all of us in mind of the solemnity of his assurance that he is going to be no party man, when he comes to discuss the naval proposals of Mr. Borden, he can at least keep repeating to himself that other bit of rhetoric he made use of to the following effect as a memory quickener. "May my right hand be palsied and my tongue cleave to my mouth if I ever endeavor to raise up party prejudice on the great national question of the navy." Perhaps it is out of place for the Chronicle to have its readers go over this phase of the naval question so soon after what we have already said on the same matter. But the question of Canada having proper naval protection, under the guidance of ourselves and the British Admiralty, is such a momentous question that what is said to-day on the part of our public men—on the part of our ex-premier—should not be gainsaid tomorrow. And when we say "Under the guidance of ourselves and the British Admiralty," we only say what is being said in the Empire at large about this sharing of responsibility. There is a re-echoing ring about Mr. Borden's expression: "Empire depends upon the Security of Our Sea Ways," and the sequence to these words is not far to seek, in what that most conservative of English periodicals, the London Spectator, says about the sharing of the responsibility of having the most efficient fleet possible as a first step towards giving the Overseas Dominions a share in the government of the Empire, at least as far as its foreign policy is concerned. Being in a repeating mood this morning, we cannot refrain from asking our readers to read and re-read the latest comments of the Spectator on the present situation:

"It would be absurd to suppose that Canada and the other great British nations over the seas would consent indefinitely to follow in the train of Great Britain without a word to say as to the foreign policy of the Empire. The great sisterhood of nations within the Empire will make the foreign policy a common concern. We do not shrink from that prospect. On the contrary, we welcome it. The time has already gone when Great Britain could impose an Imperial policy on all parts of a dumb Empire. We welcome the prospect because the common responsibility solemnly acknowledged will be an indissoluble bond among the various units of the Empire. The bond of union, we predict, will be a bond of common and urgent necessity; a great union of defence, and not an artificial commercial union which would introduce jealousies and rivalries and would kill the sentiment that now compels the Dominions of their own accord to come to the aid of Great Britain."

THE CABLE TRUST.

The Toronto World is never so daring with full editorial energy, some monopolies by another; and it eulogizes the Hon. Mr. Pelletier, the Postmaster General, for the determined way he proposes to gain further concessions from the Cable Trust than those he has already secured, in the lowering of the rates for deferred messages and press dispatches. "From what we know of things in the past," our contemporary says, "the most powerful monopoly in the world is the cable monopoly—now centred in the United States, though still retaining all its British alliances. These alliances are more influential with present and past British governments than any other trust, dominating, as it does, even the postmaster general of England."

"Mr. Pelletier, the Canadian postmaster general, however," it continues, "has defied the Cable Trust, and while he has accepted the reductions offered, he is determined, we understand, to insist on reductions in the main schedule as well as in the minor rates. We believe Mr. Pelletier's independent action of withdrawing from negotiations brought about the reductions conceded, and we believe further that Mr. Pelletier has up his sleeve the certainty of getting a new company to construct a wireless system which promises to be thoroughly reliable and in every way superior to that of Marconi. It is the fear of such competition that has brought the monopoly to time so far, and it is because of this fear that Mr. Pelletier should continue his efforts. We will never have the best possible cable service until the state takes it over."

MR. FISHER'S APOLOGISTS.

The apologists of the late campaign of arraignment of our rural paterfamilias for not providing suitable school accommodations and better salaries for the teachers of their children, introduce the usual "silly and senseless" partisan plea that somebody has a spite against something or somebody, as if their termagant diatribes would provide a remedy. The Chronicle has been more or less anxious to secure the co-operation of experienced educational experts to formulate some administrative reform, with no flare of trumpets about it, that will bring in its wake a practical remedy for a confessedly bad state of affairs. That is the purpose we have had, and no other, and that is the purpose we intend to have. If the apologists of the present wretched condition of affairs, including their counsellor and friend, the Hon. Sydney Fisher, happen to be Liberals, it was not the Chronicle that made them Liberals; and we are sure that there is not a Liberal in the province who will credit Mr. Fisher with being an experienced educational expert. And we are just as sure that no one, be he Liberal or Conservative, will justify the Rev. Dr. Rexford in his statement that the Department of Public Instruction is but one man, with the seeming intention of escaping responsibility. We do not intend to use any vulgar termagant epithets in support of anything we have said on the subject. There is an evil in evidence; and only practical methods of educational administration can remove the evil. Perhaps in saying this we are guilty of "partisan spite." At least we know what we are pleading for, though knowing all the time what was in store for us when once the Hon. Mr. Fisher and his bosom friends could raise some kind of an "underworld" hue-and-cry against us. There is an evil in evidence, and since that evil obstructs the public interest, we feel it to be our duty to speak of it, even if Mr. Fisher and the partisan apologists who have been called to his aid do not like our way of saying it. We have said that Mr. Fisher's campaign of arraignment of the parents of the rural districts, and his incidental arraignment of the Protestant end of the educational administration of the Province, has been entirely out of place; and now we are to be arraigned in turn as "spiteful partisans" for daring to open our mouths about the matter. Did you ever?

We have been asked to state the remedy there is for the school neglect that prevails in the country parts. But the Chronicle is not anxious to assume the direction of the Educational Department just yet, nor of the Protestant Committee of the Council of Public Instruction either. We have only got the length of smiling at Mr. Fisher's vanity-fair perambulations. The character of the agencies these administrative ladies would enlist in their defence is more in keeping with Mr. Fisher's policies than with ours; seeing our English is so defective.

THE CABLE TRUST.

The Toronto World is never so daring with full editorial energy, some monopolies by another; and it eulogizes the Hon. Mr. Pelletier, the Postmaster General, for the determined way he proposes to gain further concessions from the Cable Trust than those he has already secured, in the lowering of the rates for deferred messages and press dispatches. "From what we know of things in the past," our contemporary says, "the most powerful monopoly in the world is the cable monopoly—now centred in the United States, though still retaining all its British alliances. These alliances are more influential with present and past British governments than any other trust, dominating, as it does, even the postmaster general of England."

"Mr. Pelletier, the Canadian postmaster general, however," it continues, "has defied the Cable Trust, and while he has accepted the reductions offered, he is determined, we understand, to insist on reductions in the main schedule as well as in the minor rates. We believe Mr. Pelletier's independent action of withdrawing from negotiations brought about the reductions conceded, and we believe further that Mr. Pelletier has up his sleeve the certainty of getting a new company to construct a wireless system which promises to be thoroughly reliable and in every way superior to that of Marconi. It is the fear of such competition that has brought the monopoly to time so far, and it is because of this fear that Mr. Pelletier should continue his efforts. We will never have the best possible cable service until the state takes it over."

But how is the Hon. Mr. Pelletier going to accomplish all this, now that the underworld of Liberalism has decreed that he is to be no longer a Minister of the Crown. Isn't it funny of the said underworld, to decree such a thing?

LUNCH COUNTER CARS.

Dining cars, it has been said, do not pay, but are attached to railroad trains merely for the convenience of passengers. Ordinarily they are a convenience, but when one dining car, seating about twenty-four, is expected to serve the needs of the passengers of six crowded Pullman's besides a day coach or two, so that those who get out for breakfast at 8 a.m. do not make connections with it until 11, and the luncheon hour is deferred, at least for those who are not willing to stand up, from noon to 3 p.m., with the result of "hunger headaches" and the general vexation and exhaustion of the struggle, the longing for the old-fashioned dining room in the station, with "twenty minutes for dinner," will unrestrainedly well up in the hearts of the sufferers.

Many are yet loyal to the old custom, but can only lament its disappearance with other good things of the long ago.

But there is cheer in the experimental being made on a California railroad which has introduced the "lunch counter car." This may not necessarily supplant the dining car, but provides the passengers with two means of assuaging their hunger and consequently lessens the pressure on a crowded train.

In the lunch counter car the counter stretches the length of the car along one side, with an aisle on the opposite, as in compartment sleepers, and with stools in front of the counters. Meals are served at all hours.

Thus will the usual stampede at the cry "Dinner is now served in the dining car," an announcement sometimes conveying both hope and dread to the hearer, knowing what a rivalry there is likely to be for places, be relieved of its sting. Our cheerful prophecy for the new order of things is that it will pay.

The car conductor who has not yet learned that a fire alarm means that the street traffic must give way to the fire apparatus rushing to the scene of the fire, is not intelligent enough for his job. Even a child knows that way has to be given to the auto chemical fire engine, as to every other bit of fire apparatus that sounds the bell. We do not wish to say a word against our street car conductors, but we do say that it is a pity that the novices who are being given positions on our street car service should bring blame to the whole calling at times. Is there no way of weeding out the men of no manners from the "decent fellows?"

Premier Borden has the whole nation for advisers these times, though in this case also the unmannerly should not be allowed to give an ill name to the "decent fellows." There is surely sufficient general intelligence abroad to distinguish between the pleading that is palpably partisan and self-interested, and the pleading that is conscientiously in the service of the whole country to get things to go the right way. Would it be partisan for the Chronicle to say that Mr. Borden's policy of avoiding the making of mistakes is all but sure to get things to turn out the right way, with parliament in hand to help him in January next.

The Saskatoon Phoenix is a lively Liberal paper, and yet all unconsciously this is the way it tries to enlist the sympathies of the working-men in behalf of the Liberal-Conservatism of Mr. Borden.

"It is perhaps but too true that workmen as a class provide good material for irresponsible orators to work upon, but the spread of education and the forging of bonds of international comradeship are gradually stinging the social outlook of the worker. He is realizing that his interests are identical with his brother worker throughout the range of industrial organization, and that the real enemy is the forces that stand in the way of social progress. He is beginning to understand the tactics of those statesmen whose policy it was, and is, to provoke international disputes in order to draw attention away from domestic affairs and so retard the reforms for which the people are pressing."

The expression, "the tactics of those statesmen whose policy it was, and is, to provoke international disputes," gives a very emphatic picture of the late reciprocity embroglio between Taft on the one side and Laurier, Fielding and Paterson on the other, which had no other purpose but to draw away public attention from the notorious administration irregularities of the Laurier regime.

Dean Sumner is a practical educationalist who has been giving solid advice to the School Board of Chicago, and the said School Board has gladly accepted the advice and has set a large sum of money aside to see the Dean's suggestions carried out. Had the Hon. Sydney Fisher and his associate "pow-wowers" been near the worthy Dean when he was giving his advice, they would probably have let loose their partisan press outcries against him, denouncing him as "silly and senseless" and a panama'd partizan to boot. Probably the Rev. Dr. Rexford would have referred to him as one who was anxious to be the whole School Board, much as he lately and somewhat cruelly spoke of Dr. Parmelee as being the whole Department of Public Instruction.

The Halifax newspapers are beginning to discuss in their usual fitting partisan way, what the future of the Hon. Mr. Fielding, as a partisan representative, is going to be. If they would only give the modest king-makers or cabinet-makers of the Liberal underworld time to get their other timber together, there can possibly be no difficulty in finding a portfolio—perhaps a premiership—for the worthy ex-Minister of Finance.

"A good start is half the battle," is a proverb as old as the hills, and the poet is always at the crystallizing of all such gems of thought to his own liking. Perhaps the under-printed verses, which might have been more properly entitled "A Little Green Thought," run a little beyond the proverb, but they are worth looking all the same.

THE START ON THE WAY.

A little green thought for the start on the way,
And how the road winds through the glory of day;
A little green thought when it's home in the night
And how the sweet arms of it fold us so tight.

The start on the way,
With a green thought to follow
Where the dear shadows play
Over hillside and hollow.

A little green thought for the task that lies on
Through the gates of the glory and sweet of the dawn;
A little green thought all the while we are there
For the loved ones who wait till we come from our care.

The start on the way,
Ah, 'tis that which shall render
Our end of the day
Either angry or tender.

A little green thought in the smile of the earth,
And it's that will sing sweet in our spirits of mirth;
A little green thought, and there's no use to try,
It will make the way such a sweet way of blue sky.

The start on the way,
With a laugh and a singing,
The home in the night
To the dear arms of clinging.

A little green thought, and away with the trouble;
A little green thought, and it drifts like a bubble
In spaces invisible far from the life
That a little green thought heals of sorrow and strife.

The start on the way,
And it's best that we make it
With a little green thought
When we go forth to take it.

GLIMPSES OF OLD QUEBEC

From the Files of the CHRONICLE, August 1812 and 1882.

A HUNDRED YEARS AGO TODAY

Among the sales advertised by Patterson, Dyke & Co., a hundred years ago, were boxes of wax candles, plate iron, ale, cutlery, French burr stones, anchors and cashmere.

A remarkable speech was delivered in the U. S. Senate in September, 1812, by Senator German, who spoke against the idea of entering into war with Great Britain, which had constantly engaged in war for 20 years, but without any effect on the part of England's opponents, adding that the constant warfare had increased her powers instead of diminishing them.

The Boston Gazette of August 30, 1812, stated that the U. S. frigate Constitution had anchored in the outer harbor, after a short cruise, during which she fell in with the English frigate Guerriere, which she captured after a short but severe action. The damages sustained by the fire of the Constitution was so great that it was found impossible to tow her into port and accordingly the crew was taken off and the ship sank.

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY

The new depot at the Quebec Gate Barracks, Montreal, for the C.P.R., was opened on the 14th September, 1882.

There was great rejoicing in Canada this day thirty years ago on the news of the success of the British arms in Egypt, when Tel-El-Kebir was taken by the English, when 2,000 of the enemy were killed and 3,000 prisoners taken by the British troops besides a large number of guns and a quantity of stores captured.

The Lewis camp in September, 1882, was in command of Lt.-Col. Duchesnay, and the following regiments put in their annual training:—Quebec Field Battery, Capt. C. Lindsay; 17th Regiment, Lt.-Col. Blanchet; 23rd Battalion, Lt.-Col. Duchesnay; Dorchester Battalion, Major Genest, and 87th Battalion, Lt.-Col. V. Laurin. The staff was composed of Lt.-Col. D'Orsonens, brigade major; Lieut. J. Hudson, assistant brigade major; Lt.-Col. Forrest, Camp Quartermaster; Capt. Vien, Supply Officer; Lt.-Col. Colfer, Musketry Instructor; Lt.-Col. Evanturel, Provost Officer.

the pulpit will be occupied by Rev. A. D. MacKinnon, of Boston, Sept. 15th to Oct. 13th; Rev. H. W. Cliff, B. A., B. D., Oct. 20th to Nov. 10th.

FIFTY-SIX MILLIONS NEW ASSESSMENT OF CITY

More Than Doubled in Last Year According To City Assessor's Figures
Secured Today.

SEVENTY-ONE MILLIONS
IS THE GROSS VALUE

The assessment of the City of Regina this year is over double that of last. The actual figures for the gross assessment are over $70,000,000 and within a few thousand of $71,000,000. Last year the assessment was within a few dollars of $27,000,000, exclusive of exemptions. The figures for this year in round numbers are as follows:—

Gross assessment $71,000,000
Net assessment $56,000,000

These figures, secured by The Standard to-day, are authentic and may be relied upon as indicating with accuracy the assessment of the city.

With the net assessment $56,000,000, and it comes within a couple of thousand of that figure, the city books show that there has been more than a doubling in values during the year. Last year the total was slightly under $27,000,000, so that the actual increase is about $29,000,000 this year.

The increase in the assessment is more than usually significant owing to the fact that this year the assessment on buildings had been reduced. Ocome the exemptions and the assessment of the annexes, which are not under full taxation to arrive at the borrowing power.

A good indication of the strides the city has taken may be gleaned from the fact that in 1902, just ten years ago, the assessment was $1,062,628, and in 1906 it was $6,448,092.

Holes In Swiss Cheese Are Most Important Part of It

Why holes in cheese? What makes them? and what do they contain? asks the United States Department of Agriculture in a bulletin. Exhaustive research alone can solve this tangle, but it is believed that the investigation reported in a Bureau of Animal Industry bulletin, has provided both a clearer definition of the problem and a sound basis of fact.

The so-called "eyes" in Swiss cheese are, as is well known, its most prominent characteristic, and its commercial value is largely dependent upon the proper size and spacing of these eyes. While the hole is not the whole of it, much depreciation in value of this popular variety of cheese in both domestic and foreign kinds, is known to exist because of defects in eye formation. Hence, to the biological chemist their formation is a fascinating subject, and to the cheese-maker a matter of great importance.

In certain districts the dealers almost entirely rely upon these features, and shortly after the eyes have reached their proper development relieve the maker of further care. Therefore, the American makers of Swiss cheese are unable to attend to their cheeses in that mellowed old age upon which so much of the fine flavor of a true Emmenthal cheese depends. Although this quick marketing may be deprecated, it nevertheless raises the relative importance and adds significance to whatever knowledge can be gained concerning the process of eye formation.

The experimental work described in this bulletin, which can be secured by those interested from the Secretary of Agriculture, concerns the chemical contents of these eyes, the gases of which are immediately concerned in the process of their formation.

UNWEARIED PATRIOTISM.

Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, at a dinner in Newport, was congratulated on her indefatigable work for the suffragette cause, as recently evidenced by the suffragist hotel that she will open in New York in the autumn.

"Love for a cause makes one indefatigable in it," said Mrs. Belmont. "You've heard about the patriotic soldier of Cuba."

"This soldier, burning with patriotism, always did about three men's work. One scorching day, when his comrades were nearly prostrated, he was seen carrying his own gun, and another man's, two cartridge belts, two knapsacks and a dog."

"The colonel stopped him. 'Look here, you marched all day yesterday and you fought all last night,' the colonel said."

"Yes, sir," said the young soldier, respectfully.

"Well, then, what are you carrying that dog for?"

"Because, colonel," said the soldier, "the dog is tired."

Three Twins--Auditorium Sep. 19

THE FAMOUS AND GROTESQUE "YAMA YAMA GIRLS" WITH THE MERRY MUSICAL COMEDY "THREE TWINS," AT THE AUDITORIUM THREE NIGHTS COMMENCING THURSDAY, SEPT. 19TH, WITH SPECIAL SATURDAY MATINEE.

"Three Twins," exactly as presented during its seven months run in Chicago and fourteen months triumphant sojourn at the Herald Square Theatre, New York, will be the attraction at the Auditorium for three days, commencing Thursday, Sept. 19, with a Saturday matinee.

Jos. M. Gaites has given his great musical comedy success a superb company and a magnificent stage setting.

Much interest centers in this play owing to the fact of its being a revival of "Incog," which theatregoers of a decade will recognize in its new musical dress. This famous old farce of Mrs. Pacheco's had in its original cast surrounding the star, Charles Dickson, such well-known actors as Louis Mann, Robert Edson, Harry Davenport, Clara Lipman, Ellen Berg and Lillian Burkhardt.

It is seldom that as clever a play as "Incog" finds its way into musical comedy and it is fortunate that it was particularly well fitted for musical adaptation so that, unlike other changes of this nature, it has improved instead of suffering by the adaptation.

"Three Twins" abounds in many striking novelties, among them being, "The Merry Go-Round," "The Seven Ages of Cuddling," "The Crying Grass Widow," "The Hypnotic Kiss," the awe-inspiring "Yama Yama Man" and "The Mysterious Face," which is bound to prove a sensation to even the most blasé theatregoer.

"Three Twins" is equipped with some of the best lyrics and most beautiful music that has been heard for a long time. The lyrics are by Otto Hauerbach and the music by Karl Hoschna and every one of the numbers, including "Boo Hoo Tee Hee," "Little Miss Up-to-Date," "The Girl Up There," "Hypnotic Waltz," "All My Girls," "In Cloudland," "Good Night," "Cuddle Up a Little Closer, Lovey Mine," and "The Yama Yama Man" are a distinct hit. The last two numbers achieved a success that is positively phenomenal. Seats now on sale at the box office.

GOOD THINGS TO KNOW.

When sewing buttons on, if a narrow piece of tape is threaded through the button and a small hole pierced through the article, and the tape drawn through, and the ends of the tape stitched down flat on the wrong side, the button will be found to last as long as the article.

To clean black chip hats, rub with sweet oil is an excellent way, but be careful not to use too much, and then rub with a piece of black velvet till all the oil is removed.

For a cure for squeaking boots and shoes, insert an awl carefully between the layers of leather in the sole and with the machine oil can oil the sole through the little opening thus produced.

Kid gloves should never be mended with silk, as the silk cuts the kid, also showing the mend plainly. Cotton thread gives a much more satisfactory result.

To remove stains from polished wood, trays or tables, caused by heated dishes, a thin paste made from thin salad oil and salt is very good. Spread it over the marked place and leave for an hour or more; then rub off with a soft cloth.

LAST EVENING CONCERT

The R. C. G. A. Band gave its last evening concert on the Dufferin Terrace last night. There was a large number of promenaders present who greatly appreciated the excellent programme of music furnished and were liberal with their encores.

The cornet solo, "The Lost Chord" was one of the favorites of the evening. "The Rosary" was also a welcome number.

The band will, for the rest of the season, when the weather is fine, play on the Terrace during the afternoons.

TRINITY CHURCH.

The Sunday School of Trinity Church will reopen on Sunday next. There will be a special children's rally service in the church at 3 p.m. All the scholars are urged to attend.

HOTELS STILL CROWDED

WITH TOURIST TRAVEL

Tourist travel is still brisk and the city hotels are well filled with guests. The Chateau Frontenac was called upon to accommodate quite a number of tourists yesterday, including two special parties, one composed of 30 officials of the Pennsylvania Railroad and 36 tourists directed by the Bassett Tourist Agency, while last night the Marsters Tourist Agency of Boston brought to the Chateau by the 10 o'clock C.P.R. train 40 more guests.

The St. Louis Hotel, which has also had a fair share of the tourist travel this summer, was well filled with guests yesterday.

ENLARGE LAKE ST. JOSEPH

HOTEL FOR NEXT SEASON

The Lake St. Joseph Hotel has closed for the season, after the most successful summer business in its entire history. The guests accommodated averaged more than 100 per day during the months of July and August.

The success the hotel met with during the past season has encouraged the management to enter into a contract for extensive improvements that will be completed when the hotel again opens its doors early next summer.

Besides a complete remodeling of the present building, new wings will be built to enlarge the accommodation of the hotel to almost double its present capacity, and the dining room and kitchen will be rearranged.

A number of cottages along the lake front in connection with the hotel will also be built, and the grounds will be laid out by a landscape gardener.

Half the guests who spent the past summer at the hotel have arranged for accommodation next season.

SCOTS GUARDS BAND

Godfrey.

The sale of seats will be going on at Lavigne & Hutchison's, St. John street, until 5.30 o'clock this afternoon and it will then reopen at 7 o'clock at the Drill Hall box office. The gallery seats are sold at the doors only.

NEW RECTOR OF BERGERVILLE

Rural Dean Dunn Has Been Appointed to Succeed Canon Von Iffland.

His Lordship Bishop Dunn has appointed the Rev. E. A. Dunn, M.A., Rector of New Carlisle and Paspébiac, and Rural Dean of Gaspé, Rector of Bergerville, in succession to Canon Von Iffland's resignation.

The departure from the parish of Canon Von Iffland is one which marks an epoch in the history of the Quebec diocese.

Canon Von Iffland's career, altogether of fifty years duration, has been a most useful one and marked with many honors, as will be seen from the following epitome:

Having taken his B.A. Degree at Lennoxville in 1862, he was ordained Deacon that same year by Bishop Mountain, and appointed to the Cure of Portneuf. He was advanced to the Priesthood in 1863, and was moved to Valcartier in 1865, remaining there until his appointment to St. Michael's, in 1870.

In 1888 he was appointed one of the first Canons of the Cathedral, he was clerical Secretary of the Diocesan Board from 1870 to 1912 and for several years he was Corresponding Secretary for the Diocese of the Domestic and Foreign Mission Board. In 1901 his Alma Mater conferred on him the honorary degree of D.C.L. Canon Von Iffland's resignation takes effect on October 1st, and he and his family intend sailing on October 5th, for an extended stay in England.

CHALMER'S CHURCH.

The minister of Chalmer's Church, Rev. S. T. Martin, left yesterday at the call of the General Assembly's Board of Finance to give two months this fall to the work of the board within the bounds of the Synod of Montreal and Ottawa. Mr. Martin has secured two exceptionally able men to take his work at Chalmer's Church during his absence. Rev. A. D. MacKinnon, who for the past four years has been in charge of one of the prominent churches in Boston, will occupy the pulpit to-morrow and will continue in charge of the work until October 13. Beginning October 20, Rev. H. W. Cliff, B.A., B.D., will take charge of the work at Chalmer's until the minister returns, the middle of November. In graduating at Montreal College, Mr. Cliff took the traveling scholarship, which entitled him to a year's study in a foreign university, and has just returned from a post-graduate course at Harvard University. Mr. Martin is very fortunate in securing two such strong men to fill the pulpit of Chalmer's Church for the next two months.

SUFFRAGETTES ARE UNDESIRABLES

Local Immigration Authorities Are Not Concerned About Report of Their Coming.

"We are not bothering very much about the suffragettes," said a local immigration official yesterday, when he was asked what was to be done with the militant women who are expected here from England to organize a war for the supposed rights of the female sex in Canada.

"We will simply place them in the detention hospital and deport them as undesirables."

"How are you going to find out that they are undesirable?" was asked. "Well, we have had one or two cases already. But in any case, those 'ladies' who are coming have charges against them in England, having done time for more or less serious offences, and we can easily deport them as undesirable additions to the Canadian population."

THREE FUNERALS YESTERDAY

The funeral of the late S. Sloane Bennett, which took place yesterday morning to the Basilica, was largely attended. Among the mourners were Chief Justice Lemieux, Sir J. George Garneau and other prominent people. Father Paquet officiated at the solemn requiem mass.

The funeral service of the late Thos. Edwards took place at St. Matthew's Church yesterday afternoon upon the arrival of the C. P. R. train from Montreal. The chief mourners were Robert J. Edwards, of Boston, brother, and other relatives. Rev. Canon Scott officiated, and interment took place at Mount Hermon.

The funeral of Ludger Beauregard, whose accidental death by falling from a window of the Mountain Hill House, caused much sorrow among his friends, took place yesterday. Cure Laguerre officiated at St. Roch Church, where the requiem mass was held.

RENOVATING SHADES.

One renovates her window shades that have become cracked and broken by leaving them flat on the floor and painting them with ordinary oil paint bought at any hardware store in small cans.

Beauty for You in SOUR MILK

A Little Beauty Talk by Mrs. Anita Norris.

If the maid and matron who long to acquire a pink and white skin will only call sour milk to her aid she will learn there are beauty possibilities in sour milk that means creamy skin and the palest of cheeks.

Conquer your distaste for this diet, and bravely take a glass of turned milk with your breakfast, lunch and dinner. Another should be taken just before you disrobe for the night.

This is a disagreeable task I have set to you, but if you think only of the complexion benefits to be derived from this diet you will not notice the odor or taste of your beverage to any unpleasant degree.

For those of you who are somewhat skeptical of the advantages to be derived from drinking sour milk, it is suffice to say that many famous physicians have faith in this treatment as a beautifier. Some have gone as far as to assert that the persistent drinkers of sour milk will have their lives prolonged. They deduce this from the fact that the people of Bulgaria and the Balkans generally live long past the allotted three score and ten, live almost exclusively on drinks which are based on sour milk.

If the spring winds have been unkind to you and you notice that your erstwhile pretty complexion is rough and leathery, straightway take a sour milk face bath. All that is needed for this treatment is a quart of sour milk and a small face towel.

Before applying this milky fluid to your roughened skin, bathe the face for several minutes in very hot, soft water.

My beauty patient should now daintily pat her face with a ball of absorbent gauze and then place a square of heavy cheesecloth in the basin containing the sour milk.

When it is dripping wet place it over the face. Continue this for fully half an hour. The result of this treatment, if given every day for a week or two, is to make the skin soft and smooth and white as cotton.

And now for the freckled lassie.

She, I know, is eager to hear of something that will rid her of these enemies to a perfect complexion. I think I have the secret of an effective freckle paste. Put a teaspoonful of freshly scraped horseradish into a cup of sweet milk and let the mixture stand in the sun until it sours. This paste must be applied to the freckle spots with a wisp of cotton twisted around the end of a lead pencil. Applications must be made twice daily, unless skin becomes unduly tender, in which case discontinue treatment for twenty-four hours. Be careful not to get any of this mixture into your eyes.

The daintiest kind of a hand whitenener and softener is made, so I am told by a Southern friend of mine, by beating into a cup of sour milk enough powdered oatmeal to make a thin paste. This whitenener is smeared over the hands at night, and a loose pair of kid gloves drawn on. A few treatments will give such good results that you will have a sigh of utter satisfaction.

when ready to serve unmold; garnish with whipped cream.

Okra Soup.

Fry 1 pound of "round" steak cut in bits, 2 tablespoons butter and 1 sliced onion, till very brown; add to 3 or 4 quarts cold water in a soup kettle and boil slowly one hour; then add pint sliced okra and simmer three hours or more; season with salt and pepper; strain and serve.

Boiled Bacon and Beans.

Put two pounds of good tender bacon into a pan with cold water, nearly full. When it has boiled over 1 hour, add a quart of shelled broad beans and boil until tender. Take off the skin from the bacon, sprinkle bread crumbs over the top of it, and serve with beans under and potatoes around, garnish the whole with fried parsley. Sufficient for 4 or 5 persons. Smoked Bacon should be cooked separately, and placed on beans when ready.

Veal Pot Pie (Economical Family Dish.)

Take two pounds of breast or scrag of veal, or, if preferred, two pounds of cooked veal (cold.) Cut it into small pieces convenient for serving, and with half a pound of pickled pork. Put these into a saucepan, cover with cold water; let them simmer gently until tender. If the veal has been cooked, only the bones and trimmings of the meat ought to be stewed. Put the meat into a dish and let it cool. Line the edges of a large pie dish with good, plain pastry, or with bread dough, rolled to the thickness of half an inch. Put in the meat with six or eight potatoes; dredge a tablespoon of flour over all with a teaspoon of pepper. Strain the gravy over it, adding water if necessary to make the quantity up to one quart. Cut off as much pastry as is required to cover the dish; lay the remainder in slices upon the meat. Put some skewers across to support the pastry and place the cover on top. Press the edges securely; make a slit in the centre, that the steam may escape, and bake the pie in a well-heated oven. When serving, turn the pastry on a dish; place the meat upon it; pour the gravy over all. Wholesome pastry may be made as follows: Put two pounds of flour in a bowl; mix with a teaspoon of salt; make a hole in the centre. Make it into soft dough with sour milk.

Green Corn Pudding.

Draw a sharp knife through each row of corn lengthwise, then scrape out the pulp; to 1 pint of the corn add 1 quart of milk, 3 eggs, a little suet, sugar to taste, and a few lumps of butter; stir it occasionally until thick; bake about 2 hours.

Cucumber Salad.

Peel the cucumbers and slice thin; add one onion sliced. Sprinkle well with salt; let stand half an hour on ice; press out all the water; sprinkle with white pepper and chopped parsley. Add vinegar mixed with sugar, to taste, and salad oil. Serve at once.

Spanish Dessert.

Dissolve half a box gelatine. Then cook one pint of milk; add six tablespoons of sugar; stir in the yolks of three eggs. Mix all together with the gelatine and the whites of the eggs beaten to a stiff froth; add one teaspoon vanilla. Pour into molds; place on ice. Serve with whipped cream.

Bluefish Diaz.

Procure 1-2 a very fresh bluefish, about 3 pounds; neatly trim and remove the bones. Pound in a mortar 4 sweet red peppers, then rub through a sieve into a bowl, add 1 teaspoon anchovy essence, juice of 1-2 lemon, 1-2 teaspoon of salt and same of paprika. Thoroughly mix. Make a few light incisions on skin of the bluefish, then sharply rub fish all round with the pulp. Lay in a baking dish and let infuse 1 hour. Pour over 1-2 gill of white wine. Peel, wash and carefully drain 6 fresh mushrooms; slice very fine, arrange on top of the fish; divide 1-2 ounce butter in small bits all over the fish, then set in oven 45 minutes, being very careful to baste once in a while. Remove, sprinkle a little chopped parsley over and serve.

Apple Jam Pie.

Peel and core six medium apples; cut them in halves, then finely slice and place them in a bowl with one ounce of sugar and 1-2 teaspoon vanilla essence; turn them well in the seasoning. Roll out on lightly floured table 1-4 pound pie paste very thin. Line the inside of buttered pie plate with paste, spread 4 tablespoons raspberry marmalade on the bottom of plate. Neatly arrange the apples over. Egg the edges, cover the pie with a layer of paste, press edges together, trim superfluous paste around the border, make a few incisions on top, lightly egg the surface, then set in oven for 30 minutes. Remove, sprinkle a little powdered sugar over, and serve.

Maine Women Back President Thinks Sex Fitted In Finance

Mrs. Elizabeth B. Davidson of York Village, Me., has the unique distinction of being one of the four women bank presidents in the country. She is president of the York County National Bank, and under her guidance the institution has grown steadily until at the present time it has deposits of close to half a million.

The bank was founded Feb. 6, 1893, when James T. Davidson, a well-known lawyer, was elected president. Mr. Davidson died in 1901 and two years later his widow was elected as his successor.

Conservatism is strong in the Pine Tree State, and when it was announced that a woman had been elected president of one of Maine's national banks, which even at that time was a flourishing institution, it was hailed with more or less amusement in banking circles there.

In a short time it was no longer regarded as a joke. Some banks in the vicinity of York found they were losing depositors from that section, where the farmers and merchants came to the conclusion that their own bank could afford them as good accommodations, with the advantage of being close at hand.

Vacation Business.

But the great boom came to the bank with the advent of the summer visitor. For generations, a few families appreciating the beauty of York and the surrounding country have maintained summer homes in the section.

But of late years, the summer visitors have increased in leaps and bounds. To-day the shore and country inland is dotted with comfortable and in many cases luxurious, houses that are occupied by well-to-do families from different sections of the United States.

Under the leadership of its energetic president and a strong and loyal board of directors, the bank came into its own. In the summer months the commodious banking house that was built a few years ago has proved inadequate and plans for a new building are being discussed.

Mrs. Davidson modestly disclaims any credit for the success of the bank. She says the directors, Cashier A. M. Bragdon, who has been connected with the bank since it was founded, the loyal employees and the public are the ones to whom credit is due. But the directors and townspeople tell a different story. They say their president is really the backbone of the institution as she has always been, and is justly entitled to much of the credit for the success of the bank.

Humble Beginning.

When the bank opened its doors on the morning of Feb. 6, 1893, it occupied one room over a grocery store in the village square. There was none of the elaborate furnishings, marble walls and elaborate grill work that people are wont to associate with banks.

Jeremiah W. McIntyre, a prosperous farmer of York, was the first depositor. He climbed the narrow flight of stairs to the banking rooms, deposited $1,000, and has been a depositor ever since.

To quote Mr. McIntyre, who knows the history of York perhaps better than any one else in the community, "Mrs. Davidson is an almighty smart woman and an almighty nice woman," which sentiment well represents the feeling of the citizens of York.

Mrs. Davidson was born in South Berwick, where she still makes her home, though in the summer months she occupies a cottage at Long Beach in the town of York.

She is the daughter of Captain John Burleigh, who followed the sea for many years and later in life represented his district in Congress. At the time of his death he was one of the wealthiest and best known men in his section of the State.

Disclaims Credit.

"I'm really entitled to very little credit for any success the bank may have attained," said Mrs. Davidson. "We are all naturally proud of our bank, and much of the credit should be given Mr. Bragdon, our cashier, who has been connected with the institution since it was founded more than 19 years ago."

"He has given himself heart and soul to the cause, as have the other directors of the bank and the employees. The public has supported us generously and the bank has made a steady growth during the almost 20 years of its history."

"There was lots of opposition at first. The merchants and farmers said there never had been a bank in York, which at that time seemed to them a good argument why there never should be."

"When we finally had $30,000 in deposits we all congratulated ourselves and thought we had a right to do so. That was a long time ago, and now in the summer months our deposits will amount to $500,000 and our books contain the names of 1,400 depositors. Of course, a good proportion of that amount comes from the summer residents, who have increased greatly in the last few years."

"But even in the winter time we do an excellent business, the deposits at that season of the year amounting as a rule to about $300,000. Of late I haven't given the bank as much attention as I used to. There's really no necessity for it, because everything is running so smoothly and Mr. Bragdon and his assistants do such excellent work."

"We carry on a general banking business and try to give the merchants and farmers of the community every accommodation consistent with conservatism and absolute safety. Most of our loans are to local people, and the adjacent towns, though in the summer time we have a little surplus money on hand we sometimes invest in outside collateral."

Woman's Fitness.

"I do not see why a woman cannot take hold of commercial affairs as well as a man, provided she is adapted for the work. I have occasion to meet bankers, bank officials from time to time, and have never found that the question of sex entered into the matter at all."

Mrs. Davidson is a living refutation of the somewhat common belief that the successful woman of business becomes masculine in appearance and manner.

She is by no means a "one-idea" type of woman, and while much of her time during the earlier years of the bank, when it was striving to gain a footing, was given to her work, she has always devoted the greater portion of her time to her home and her children.

After her marriage to Mr. Davidson she lived for many years in a beautiful home known as "Breezy Knoll," situated on one of York's finest hills.

Since the death of her husband she has sold the place which is now used as a hospital, known as the Peace Hospital. The place was sold shortly after the peace conference in Portsmouth, the institution deriving its name from the fact that both the Russian and Japanese envoys contributed generously to the cause.

A CHILD'S WASTE CLOGGED BOWELS

Makes Is Cross, Peevish, Restless and Feverish—If Tongue Is Coated Give "Syrup of Figs."

Children dearly love to take delicious "Syrup of Figs" and nothing else cleans and regulates their tender little stomachs, liver and 30 feet of bowels so promptly and thoroughly.

Children get bilious and constipated just like grown-ups. Then they get sick, the tongue is coated, stomach sour, breath bad; they don't eat or rest well; they become feverish, cross, irritable and don't want to play. Listen Mothers—for your child's sake don't force the little one to swallow nauseating castor oil, violent calomel or harsh irritants like Cathartic pills. A teaspoonful of Syrup of Figs will have your child smiling and happy again in just a few hours. Syrup of Figs will gently clean, sweeten and regulate the stomach, make the liver active and move on and out of the bowels all the constipated matter, the sour bile, the foul, clogged-up waste and poisons, without causing cramps or griping.

With Syrup of Figs you are not drugging or injuring your children. Being composed entirely of luscious figs, senna and aromatics it cannot be harmful. Full directions for children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the package.

Ask your druggist for the full name "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna" prepared by the California Fig Syrup Co. This is the delicious tasting, genuine old reliable. Refuse anything else offered.

In addition to its general business, the bank is a depository for funds of the local postage savings branch and leases a large number of safe deposit boxes.

The great steel vault that rests on a massive granite ledge cost $7,000 and is as absolutely fire and burglar proof as any vault in the country.

When the new building was erected even the most ardent well-wishers of the bank believed that it would serve its needs for a long term of years. But, even now, the volume of business makes larger quarters imperative. In the near future, it is likely that an enlargement will be made to the present banking house, or a new building erected.

The president of the York County National Bank has many outside activities. She takes an active interest in the Woman's Club and the Charity Whist Club of South Berwick, her native town, and is interested in the Piscataqua Club, the Old York Historical Society and the Village Improvement Society of York.

As a bank president, Mrs. Davidson enjoys the friendship of many of the leading financial men, as well as of the struggling farmer or small man of business, to whom the bank has proved generous whenever possible.

But quite aside from her official position, it is as a mother, a loyal friend and a wonderfully interesting woman that Mrs. Davidson is best known and appreciated.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

Hints On The Training of Children In Good Manners

"How can I teach my children perfect manners, and yet be natural?" The question was asked by a mother of four, who was greatly distressed at the way her little ones had behaved in the dining room of a fashionable hotel.

The oldest boy and the two youngest ones had shocked and grieved their mother by displaying little, unbecoming manners that she had never dreamed they possessed, while the second child, a girl of 10, was so stilted and unnatural in her behavior that she attracted considerable attention from the other guests, who said she was "too old for her years" and criticised her because she mimicked the grown folks.

We all admire pretty manners in a little girl, yet when she rattles off a string of flattering remarks or pretty speeches we are inclined to regard her with astonishment and forget to answer in kind; while, if a child has a modest, natural manner, we can and do forgive and overlook all kinds of mistakes yet are charmed with the sweet simplicity of childhood.

Grownup manners never fit children, and the mother who teaches her little ones to act as if they were 30 years old when in company makes a grave mistake.

The little girl with an artificial air and the little boy with a snobbish manner are to be pitied rather than praised. They learn all sorts of mannerisms from their elders. If father is a snob, son is apt to be; if mother "puts on airs," daughter will surely follow in her footsteps. Therefore, it behooves the parents to mind their manners.

Children learn by observation, and they will mimic or copy what they see their elders do. "Please" and "Thank you" fall from baby lips if the child hears them from father and mother. All such gentle expressions and quiet, unobtrusive manners are far better than a knowledge of forks and spoons.

One wise mother whose family was large gave what she called "practice parties" every few months. No outsiders were invited on these occasions but all the children were brought to the table, where the best linen, china, silverware and cut glass were used, and the service was punctilious, correct in every detail.

Unusual dishes were included in the menu, and great care was taken that each child should behave as would be expected in the presence of strangers. This gave every one, even the smallest child, a knowledge, not only of how to behave properly and of table manners in general, but also of the correct use of dishes, forks, spoons and the service from beginning to end.

Courteous speech and manner come naturally to the child surrounded with good influences. Consideration in the home can be made a matter of love instead of politeness, and the child who is taught to be considerate to brothers and sisters at home will not fail outside.

Think for a moment of the most charming persons you know. Are they not natural in their manner and considerate of others, rather than conventional to a marked degree?

WHEAT HARVEST IS NEARLY COMPLETED

Canadian Pacific Report Shows Operations Well Forward in Western Provinces.

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 13.—The Canadian Pacific Railway Company report for the week ending Friday, Sept. 13, says:

"In Manitoba 80 to 95 per cent of the wheat is cut and in some portions in the south the harvest is completed. Threshing is general in most districts in the southern part. The weather during the past week was unfavorable, but as many of the wet days were followed by bright sun and wind, recovery was quick and delay and damage was not general. This week's progress was splendid until to-day.

"In Saskatchewan 65 to 75 per cent of the wheat is cut and as high as 90 per cent in some districts on the Moose Mountain, Portal and Forward districts.

"In Southern Alberta from 85 to 90 per cent of the wheat is cut and in the north from 35 to 50 per cent. Winter wheat cutting was completed last week. The quality of the crop is generally better than last year.

"Oats are up to the average. Barley, though late, is a good crop and flax is much better than usual. There will be very little sign of 'flax wilt' this season."

TRAIN KILLS HIM WHERE HIS BROTHER LOST LIFE

Sherbrooke, Que., Sept. 13.—Heland Wright, a well known and prosperous farmer from Glen Sutton, was found on the track near here, having evidently been run over by a train, as his body was terribly mangled. Wright had been attending Brome Fair and evidently fell from the train while on his way home. He leaves a wife and large family.

About three years ago his brother was killed in the same way at about the same spot.

PROBE MONTREAL BUTTER AND CHEESE MARKETS

Cornwall, Ont., Sept. 13.—A meeting of the royal commission enquire into the complaints received by the Department of Agriculture from purchasers and vendors of butter and cheese as to alleged unfairness in the methods followed in weighing butter and cheese in Montreal was held here today. R. A. Pringle, K.C., chairman, presided, the other members of the commission being T. J. McDonnell, Strathmore, and A. J. Hodgson, Montreal.

It was the general opinion that the rules governing the business at Montreal are satisfactory and only two of the salesmen complained of the method of dealing with short weights. A suggestion to have an official referee appointed by the government to deal promptly with any differences that may arise regarding weights was generally approved of. No suggestions were offered for improving the system of payment for cheese, but several of the salesmen thought the commission should evolve some means for the better protection of the producers against the risk of loss.

LEWIN, FAVORITE, WINS FIRST RACE

Blue Bonnets Races at Montreal Are Favored by Perfect Weather Conditions.

Montreal, Sept. 13.—Under a cloudless sky the sixth day's racing at the track of the Montreal Jockey Club began this afternoon.

The favorite, Lewin, won in the first event, a race for 2-year-olds. Old Coin, who also carried a lot of money, got off to the best start and held his advantage right around until they entered the straight. Here Tehan, who had the mount on Lewin, began his drive and easily overhauled the tiring Reed colt. Mattie L. was third.

The second race produced an interesting struggle between Apiaster, Tom Sayers and Detroit, the Gorman horse, which was well played at the odds of 4 to 1, offered, leading the others past the winning post by a narrow margin. Apiaster was second and Haldeman third.

Havrock got away with the third race at 7 to 1, beating out the Seagram filly Rustling, which carried out only 98 pounds, against the winner's 114. Havrock responded splendidly to McTaggart's drive in the straight and was about a head in front at the finish.

Summary:
First race, 2-year-olds, selling, $500 added, 5½ furlongs—Lewin, 100 (Tehan), 8 to 5, 7 to 10 and out, won; Old Coin, 113 (Small), 4 to 1, 8 to 5 and 4 to 5, second; Mattie L., 105 (Jensen), 30 to 1, 12 to 1 and 6 to 1, third. Time—1:04.5. Church Bell, Marie T., Miccosukee and Gerrard also ran.

Second race, 3-year-olds and up, selling, $500 added, 7 furlongs—Tom Sayers, 110 (McTaggart), 4 to 1, 2 to 1 and even, won; Apiaster, 102 (Tehan), 2 to 1, even and 1 to 2, second; Detroit, 113 (Martin), 8 to 1, 3 to 1 and 7 to 5, third. Time—1:28. Judge Howell, Shelby, Turbine, Dr. Holberg, Alleneen and Haldeman also ran.

Third race, Canadian bred, 3-year-olds and up, one mile—Havrock, 114 (McTaggart), 7 to 1, 2 to 1 and even, won; Rustling, 98 (Connolly), 13 to 5, even and 2 to 5, second; Amber, 105 (Adams), 11 to 5, even and 2 to 5, third. Time—1:41.4.5. Calumny, Comola, Cape Sausage and Ondramon also ran.

Fourth race, Provincial Nursery, 2-year-olds, $700 added, 5 furlongs—Irish Heart, 115 (McCarthy), 3 to 2, 7 to 10 and out, won; Planover, 115 (Butwell), 2 to 1 and 5 to 10, second; Irish Rose, 115 (Small), 6 to 1, 2 to 1 and even, third. Time—1:04. Bacchante, Kolrose, Sylvan Wells, Song Bird and Stonecroft Star also ran.

Fifth race, steeplechase, 3-year-olds and maiden 4-year-olds and up, $600 added, about two miles—Urmot, 130 (Allan), 5 to 1, even and 1 to 2, won; Cherish, 147 (Tucker), 8 to 1, 2 to 1 and even, second; Bill Andrews, 147 (Klenck), 2 to 1, 2 to 5 and out, third. Time—4:11. Weldship, Tom Kirby and Broadword also ran.

Sixth race, selling, handicap, for 3-year-olds and up, $500 added, one mile—John Reardon, 114 (Butwell), 3 to 1, even and out, won; Falcada, 98 (Tehan), 2½ to 1, 1 to 2 and out, second; Union Jack, 95 (Rowley), 12 to 1, 3 to 1 and even, third. Time—1:40.3.5. Veneta Strome and The Rump also ran.

Seventh race, 3-year-olds and up, selling, non-winners of two races since July 1st, 7 furlongs—Chemulpo, 105 (Tehan), 6 to 1, 2 to 1 and even, won; Colston, 112 (Martin), 6 to 1, 2 to 1 and even, second; Live Wire, 113 (Adams), 20 to 1, 8 to 1 and 3 to 1, third. Time—1:27.4.5. Lewis, San Vito, Lady Sybil, Bit of Fortune and Troy Weight also ran.

TWO BOATS SINK IN BUFFALO MOTOR RACES

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 13.—The second day of the power boat races on the Niagara River to-day was marked by two accidents in which two of the hydroplanes went to the bottom and the crew of one was seriously injured.

Wheelman George Lautenslager, of the Reliance IV, of Pittsburg, Pa., was internally injured, and Engineer Philip Ham, of Buffalo, of the same craft, suffered a broken nose.

The race was won by the Baby Reliance II, owned by J. Stuart Blackton, of Brooklyn, winner of yesterday's event. To-morrow the race for the International Interlake Championship of the Great Lakes will be contested. This event will close the regatta.

Friday, the 13th, proved unlucky for the Reliance IV, owned by C. E. Crawford, of Lakewood, N. Y., and the Question, owned by H. L. F. Trebert, of Rochester, N. Y. When the nine speeders started across the line at the opening of the race, the Reliance IV was swamped. Her crew, Lautenslager and Ham, were thrown into the river and the former suffered a punctured kidney, while the latter's face struck the gasoline tank and his nose was badly gashed and broken. While the two injured men were being rescued the Question struck a submerged log and went to the bottom. Her crew was rescued.

Vancouver, B. C., Sept. 13.—Arthur Douglas, aged 35, son of James Douglas, of 89 Yone street, Toronto, was killed last night by being thrown from an automobile, which skidded at a turn in the Eburne Road, four miles out of town.

AUTOIST WILBY IS NOW AT NORTH BAY, ONTARIO

North Bay, Ont., Sept. 13.—Thomas W. Wilby arrived in North Bay yesterday afternoon on his automobile transcontinental tour from Halifax to Vancouver.

Mr. Wilby left Toronto Sunday afternoon and found good roads to Gravenhurst, but from there on the journey was rough with sand, mud and corduroy roads, the automobile breaking down twice.

From North Bay west there is no road at all and the car had to be shipped to Sudbury by train. From there the route is to Sault Ste. Marie and by boat to Fort William, the rest of the distance being navigated in automobile.

Mr. Wilby expects to finish in Vancouver the first week in October.

FEAR AMERICAN SHOT AS SPY IN MEXICO

New York, Sept. 13.—Telegrams have been sent by Peter Devine, a wealthy contractor, to various points in Mexico to learn the fate of his son John, who sent a postal card here last Wednesday with the news that he was to be shot as a spy. The postal card read:

"I am now in the Mexican army and sentenced to be shot. Good-bye all."

There was no date or address on the postal and the post mark could not be made out. What Mexican army Devine joined is not known, for when he went to Mexico, four months ago, he only wrote that he would "jump into Mexico, where I understand there is some real fighting going on."

Young Devine has been in the army. His father and Senator O'Gorman are friends.

My Nerves Grew Steady and I Feel Like A New Man

THE NEAL TREATMENT ENDORSED

It only took three days and it reminds me of the pleasantest three days I ever spent. The amount I lost was the best investment I ever made, thus spoke one of the most prominent lawyers of this section of the country to a group of men in front of the Court House a few days ago. "Gentlemen," says he, "if you are addicted to strong drink or drugs, take my advice and call at Quebec Neal Institute, at 11 Haldimand Hill, this city. It will only take you a few minutes to be convinced that what they did for me can be done for you. I am not only speaking for myself, but I know of at least 10 other cases right here in your community who are as well satisfied as myself. You will find a pleasant homelike place, conducted on the most admirable business principles. All transactions are confidential. You will get a guaranteed bond that your money will be refunded in case you are not satisfied. It beats anything I ever heard of, and believe me, gentlemen, I have been to all the other so-called cures and retreats. I advise you if you are a sufferer to try it at once and be forever rid of that confounded craving and desire for the vile stuff. I withhold my name, but if you wish a private interview by name and address will be furnished upon application to the Neal Institute, 11 Haldimand Hill.

Is your bed comfortable?

THE answer is not found altogether in the fact of sleeping soundly. Many people sleep the whole night through without giving their minds and bodies the real rest that Nature intended they should have. It's largely a question of the kind of spring you sleep on. If the spring is not right, yours cannot be, a comfortable bed. You may think it is. You probably won't realize how much you're missing in the way of true comfort until you try sleeping on a

Meanwhile, make this experiment—To-night, try lying on your stomach for ten minutes before you go to sleep. If your head and feet are higher than your hips it means that your bed-spring sags in the centre, as a great many springs do. Sleeping on such a spring, is it any wonder you wake with that "tired feeling" in the morning?

Those who sleep on Banner Springs spend their nights in the natural level position that alone can insure proper

Free to Men You Yourself Can Restore Your Vitality

VITALITY is the greatest power in all the world. If I renew your VITAL FORCE I restore you to full and complete manhood. No matter what your age, whether you are young, or elderly, no matter what early indiscretion may have sapped your courage, if I resupply you with new VITALITY I give you the strength that all healthy, vigorous men possess. I know the source of this VITAL SUPPLY. My HEALTH BELT, with suspensory attachment, pours a great stream of VITALITY into your system hour after hour all night while you sleep. Thousands have said it immediately benefits and takes the pain and weaknesses out of the back from one night's use. No drugs, no medicines, no restrictions of any sort excepting that all dissipation must cease. The man who indulges in excesses and unnatural practices can never be other than a weakling, but if you promise me as man to man that you will be decent, take ordinary care of your health and then use my HEALTH BELT, every night for 60 or 90 days, I should then be able to do in your case exactly what all these other thousands of men have said I did for them. Please write for my booklet to-day. Never mind about purchasing a Health Belt now; first get into communication with me and read what my book says, then later, if we decide between us that you should have a Belt and it you decide that you want to use it, I will arrange for you to have one to wear until you are cured. My Health Belt is the greatest vitalityizer the world has ever known. With special attachments it is a remedy for kidney, liver, stomach, bladder disorders, rheumatism, etc.

Let Me Send You THIS BOOK Free

Fill in the coupon: let me send you, at once my free booklet in plain sealed envelope, it is profusely illustrated with halftone photos; keep it in your pocket for easy reference, read the chapter on Vitality; read the chapter on Debility; read the chapter on those subjects which

MANAGER IN QUEBEC

PRAISES POTENCY OF "BEAN BALL"

John McGraw of Giants Says
Good Batsmen Are Born and Not Made.

"Give me a natural hitter, and I will make a ball player out of him," is the often repeated prescription of John McGraw, the manager of the Giants, when discussing the requirements of a good hitter. Few good hitters have been manufactured. Like poets, painters and other artists, they are born, not made, the latent talent lingering there to be developed. To continue along the McGraw line of thought, the manager of the Giants has built a baseball club out of a lot of batters, and has won a pennant with it, and now appears to be well on his way toward the second.

The cardinal sin of batting is "stepping back." Many a youngster comes into the big leagues in the spring with his heart full of hope and stimulated by the same ambition to climb which actuates men in other walks of life and goes out in the field and does sensational work. Then comes the real test.

"Take a turn at bat," says the manager.

The recruit walks up to the plate and the acid test is usually applied first. The manager directs the pitcher to "shoot a fast one at his bean." If the man steps back from the plate he at the same time steps back from the limelight because his chances of big league associations go with that foot.

"He puts one foot in the water pail," is the verdict of the manager, and it is the player's death warrant for fast company.

Can Teach Him To Field.

Suppose, however, that he is clumsy in the field and handles the ball awkwardly, but when he comes to the plate he steps up toward the "bean ball" and ducks only his head after he sees that it is not going to break and curve over the plate.

"There's a guy that's got the stuff in him," declares the manager, and he holds to him and sets about making a felder out of the recruit.

"Larry" Doyle was far from a polished performer at second base when he joined the Giants, but one look at him in action at the bat was enough for the keen eyed McGraw. The Giants often tell of what the New York manager said after "Dan" Brouthers the scout, had brought his find to the Polo Ground.

"Larry" was very rough in his stick work when he first came to the Giants, bringing with him many of the tricks of the "honeysuckle circuit." For instance he used to throw his bat after he hit the ball, and frequently was not particular where he aimed it.

"Larry" still grabs off his cap when he makes a more extensive hit than a single and rushes around the bases with it in his hand. He is one of the most picturesque batters in the big leagues and one of the most effective. He is now a polished felder, but it was his remarkable hitting which first obtained for him the job on the Giants.

Some Are "Plate Shy."

Many batters who have no desire to step back when they first move into the league get "beamed," and are plate shy ever afterward. That is the ultimate test of gameness in a ball player. To get "beamed" is to be hit in the head with a fast ball, and it always means going to sleep, the duration of the nap depending upon the speed with which the ball is hurled and the susceptibility of the "bean." Sometimes it results in two days in the hospital spent in a state of coma. After such a terrifying experience a man is naturally timid about standing up to the plate when the ball is again aimed for the head. Being aware of this fact, and keeping a carefully compiled list of the "beamed" boys, many pitchers have acquired the unsportsmanlike habit of throwing the first ball at the heads of these men who have been "beamed" once. This is to drive them away from the plate. There is little sentiment in baseball.

Many men have been "beamed" and have come back strong. Roger Bresnahan, formerly the Giants' catcher and now the manager of the St. Louis club, was hit in the face with a pitched ball when the Giants were playing Cincinnati several years ago, and it made extensive alterations in his face. He spent some time in the hospital, but when he came out he was up there batting just as strong as ever, and never considers withdrawing that front foot no matter how many are shot at his head. The pitchers have long since abandoned the practice.

Nearly Case For Coroner.

Perhaps the most remarkable case of "beaming" occurred in a game between the Washington club and the Highlanders last spring. "Jack" Martin was spending his first season in the big league and making every effort to get by. Walter Johnson was pitching for the Washington club, and his fast ball is probably one of the fastest ever discovered. At least, ball players say that it is. Johnson hit Martin in the head with a particularly fast one, and Martin naturally saw many things that astronomers talk about and promptly forgot all about the ball game. There was some question for a few minutes as to whether the ambulance doctor or the coroner should be summoned, and the little bus was carried off the field very limp and wilted.

It was a case for the ambulance, and concussion of the brain developed. Martin had a serious time of it, and Wolverton, the New York manager, put in considerable time worrying whether this "beaming" had spoiled a good ball player.

"I'm afraid he'll never come back,"

HUSBAND SEEKING DIVORCE HAS WOES

Many and Astonishing in Variety Are His Troubles—
An Abused Man.

Portland, Ore., Sept. 13.—David Brown, an employee of the Street Department, living at 69 Albina avenue, wants a divorce from his wife, Minnie Brown, because she takes every cent of his salary, he says; she mocks him when he tries to enter the family councils; she has taught the children to be sassy; she calls him a hog because he snores at night, and the crowning humiliation is that she puts her false hair in the oatmeal mush to drive him from the breakfast table.

Other incidents of his married life he asserts are as follows:

She has taken his money, earned from the city and by working Sundays and overtime as a stevedore, and has spent it as she wanted.

She has harassed and annoyed him until he has decided to his son a lot on Grand avenue, valued at $4,000, without consideration.

She has often refused to give him street car fare and compelled him to walk long distances to and from work.

She has permitted his daughter Mary during the last six months to accept the attentions of one Charles Case, who has a wife living.

She has declared that Case would soon get a divorce and would marry their daughter and that there would then be a member of the family who could "chop him to pieces."

She has refused to let their son and daughters work to help earn the livelihood, declaring that she does not intend to have them grow up as a drudge like their father, who "sleeps like a pig."

She has disturbed his sleep at night by maliciously slamming the doors and making other unnecessary noises.

She has invited undesirable people to the house and drunk intoxicating liquors with them.

She has frequently supplied Charles Case, prospective son-in-law, with money from the family fund, and is now threatening to turn over to him between $600 and $700, representing the plaintiff's savings for several years, now on deposit in the Hibernia Bank.

complained Wolverton.

When Martin had recovered, a youngster named Dowd was being tried out at shortstop and showing great promise. Wolverton kept him there for several days with Martin on the bench. At last the young man who had stopped one of Walter Johnson's fast ones with his head came to the manager and said:—

"Don't I get my old job back? Because a guy hit me in the head, am I thrown out of the line-up?"

Couldn't Scare Him.

Wolverton put him back and that day the little shortstop got three hits, although the ball was directed at his head with great frequency and persistency. Ill health later caused his release to Rochester, but he will be back next season.

Many pitchers never throw the ball at a batter's head, considering the practice unsportsmanlike, and also thinking that the injuring of a man does their own nerves as much damage as it does those of the man curled up. Mathewson is one who does not throw the ball at a batter's head intentionally.

"I figure," says the great pitcher, "that there are enough ways to fool most batters without trying to scare them to death, and maybe seeing them sent off to the hospital. I never used the 'bean ball,' and have got along fairly well without it. I only recall hitting one man in the head with a pitched ball, and that was his own fault."

A story is told of old "Joe" McGinnity of when most of his speed was gone and his curve had lost the old, fast break and about all that he had left was his head. A youngster came to the bat, and Bresnahan was catching for the Giants. The veteran battery held a consultation in the pitcher's box as to what should be served to the recruit, while various and sundry fans suggested, as usual, that the Giants' battery exchange letters.

"Bean him, Joe," said Roger. "Bean him!"

"Yes, but what with?" asked McGinnity, looking around as if for a brick, and realizing that he could not bend a pane of glass with a baseball then.

Snodgrass a "Made" Batterman.

Many catchers try to scare young batters coming into the big leagues by talking to them of the wildness of certain pitchers and their habit of throwing the ball at the batter's head. Kling, the old Cub was a bad man at this.

"There's a fellow in the hospital now that stopped one of this guy's with his bean," Kling would say, and then sign for a high fast one. A batter has to go to many tests before he is finally accepted into the big league.

Only one batter comes to mind just now who was really manufactured, and John McGraw put the trademark on him. The player is Fred Snodgrass. He came to New York as a catcher and was made into an outfielder by McGraw. He was also turned into a batter, being very weak with the stick when he first arrived from college.

Besides the natural requirements for a baseball player to be a good batter he must have great courage. If you don't believe it drop in to the Polo Ground some morning when the Giants are at practice and let Marquard or Tesreau, or Mathewson shove the "bean" ball your way!

GOOD SUGGESTIONS FOR YOUR TABLE.

Have you tried iced chocolate instead of iced tea for the daily lunch? Iced chocolate should be made very rich. Prepare it early in the day and put in the refrigerator. Before serving add a teaspoonful of sherry, a few drops of vanilla and beat hard for five minutes. Serve in tall glasses with whipped cream on top. If not cold enough, use shaved ice.

Successful candied sweet potatoes come from slow cooking. Use the small potatoes whole; bigger ones may be cut in half lengthwise or in rounds. Scrub well and pare with a sharp knife.

Put the potatoes in a baking dish and cover with a pint of water to every six potatoes, a half pound of granulated sugar, four tablespoonsful of butter and a teaspoonful of cinnamon. Keep cover on baking dish until potatoes are soft, then uncover and brown.

Both candied and brown sweet potatoes are delicious when served with burning brandy poured around them, or a wineglassful of sherry wine be added to the sugared liquid.

Creamed new potatoes left from dinner should have the dressing washed from them, then fried the next day for lunch, with shredded green peppers.

THE TRUE CAUSE OF RHEUMATISM

Due to Acid in the Blood—Can Only be Cured Through the Blood.

Not many years ago even doctors thought that rheumatism was only a local pain caused by exposure to cold or wet. Now they know that the trouble is caused by the blood becoming tainted with uric acid. This condition of the blood causes the muscles to contract, stiffens the joints and irritates the nerves. If not promptly treated the stiffness spreads and the pain grows worse until you are a helpless cripple, tortured day and night. If the disease, touches the heart it cures rheumatism with liniments, plasters or hot cloths, as so many try to do. You must go right to the root of the trouble in the blood. The scientific way to cure rheumatism is to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which make new, rich blood that goes right to the root of the trouble. They sweep out the poisonous acid, loosen the aching joints and muscles and bring ease and freedom where before had been pain and misery.

Miss Beulah Sheppy, Morpeth, Ont., says: "Following an attack of measles I took inflammatory rheumatism. My joints became swollen and the pain was almost unendurable. I doctored with two doctors, but the pain was only relieved while I was taking their six months I continued to suffer in this way. Then I tried electric pads, but they failed to do me any good. Finally a friend persuaded me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I had not been taking them long before I found relief. I continued using the Pills for a time and soon found myself in perfect health and feeling like a new person."

SIR THOMAS TALKS ON C. P. RAILWAY

President Corrects Misapprehension on the Proposed New Issue of Stock.

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 10. — Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway is on his annual inspection tour of the system. He is accompanied by three directors of the company, R. B. Angus, Sir Edmund Osler and W. D. Matthews, and by Ferdinand F. Begg, a London financier, and a former member of the British House, James Redmond, now of Montreal, but formerly well known in Winnipeg, and R. Osler, or Osler, Hammond & Nanton. Sir Thomas made a full statement of the Canadian Pacific policy with regard to the new stock issue, the issue of stock below the market quotations, freight rates jurisdiction and other matters of much interest concerning the C. P. R. Of the proposed new stock issue he intimated that it was made necessary by the increasing scope of the company's undertakings, and was in no way affected by the fact that large dividends have been paid. These, he said, were, in a great extent, revenues from land sales, quite apart from the earnings of the railway. The "ten per cent. clause," he described as a dead letter, saying that for years the company had earned more than ten per cent. on its capital investment, and had consequently submitted to rate control by the Railway Board.

He was full of optimism concerning the outlook this fall. "Last year fearful things were predicted," he said, "but everybody came out all right; it will be just the same this time. You can't keep the West down and it is impossible to discourage it."

Proposed Stock Issue.
Discussing the proposed stock issue of the Canadian Pacific Railway, Sir Thomas said: "The policy and affairs of the Canadian Pacific are proper subjects for discussion and criticism by the public and the press of Canada. The company's prosperity would naturally breed some jealousy, and the bogey of melon-cutting, as it is sometimes termed, can be flouted with a degree of effectiveness that would not be possible in other circumstances. No doubt you agree with me that the people of Canada take a just pride in their great railway, would not let any other country have it for the world, and, indeed, while they give it a good many hard knocks themselves, they would not permit an outsider to hit it. While I say the affairs of the Canadian Pacific are a proper subject for discussion in Canada, we should start with correct premises, or our conclusions will not be fair and sound. Most people forget or do not know that the cash subsidies, large amounts received from the sales of land and the proceeds of land grant bonds, all of which were applied to the construction and equipment of the railway, play no part whatever in the accounts of the company, the cost of the property having been reduced by these amounts years ago. The land grant has proved to be a most valuable asset, but if we go back to 1888 we find that $15,000,000 of land grant bonds secured by the entire land grant of the company and fortified by a Dominion Government guarantee of interest, only realized about ninety in the market. This would represent an average price of about eighty cents an acre, so that twenty-four years ago this was the valuation put upon the lands by the investing public. In 1901, the average selling price of the lands was a shade over $3 an acre. In 1902 the first real activity in land sales commenced, due in considerable measure to sales in large areas given to colonization agents at a very low figure, but in that year the average price an acre realized was only $3.26. Since then the price has steadily advanced and the railway company, the farmer and the owner of farm lands of any other description in western Canada has reaped the benefit of enhanced values. So that for seventeen years after the completion of the railway the land grant in that vast wilderness was not coveted by anybody and it was only after 1902 that stupendous efforts and the vast expenditures of the company to attract attention and bring people to the country commenced to bear fruit and the land grant became an important feature in the company's financial affairs."

Control Of Rates.
Sir Thomas passed on to a consideration of the proposed control of rates by Parliament after the company pays ten per cent. dividends.

"I notice," he said, "that frequent reference is made to what is known as the 'ten per cent.' clause in the company's contract with the Dominion Government provided that the company should not be subject to parliamentary supervision until such a time as the company was earning ten per cent. per annum on the capital actually invested in the work. Dividends played no part, you will observe. It made no difference whether the company was paying 20 per cent., 10 per cent., 5 per cent., or no dividends at all. The determining factor was the earnings resulting from the operation of the railway. For a long time we have not pleaded that we were not earning 10 per cent. Our rates and tolls have been submitted to the Railway Commission and are dealt with in exactly the same way as those of any other railway company in the country, excepting the Intercolonial, which does not come under the jurisdiction of the commission. So that the ten per cent. clause as it is called has been a dead issue for a considerable period, the lowest on the continent, but the subject of rates is now before the commission for consideration and, therefore, I do not think it proper to enlarge upon the subject. It may be taken for granted that whatever the decision of the commission will not be a factor directly or indirectly. As I said before, it was a condition of the original contract that was swamped and buried by the growth of the company's earnings, and it could not be pleaded now even if the company desired to do so."

Forced To Spend Money.
Speaking of the issue of stock at a price below the market quotation, Sir Thomas proceeded:

"Now, any person who knows about the expenditures that are forced upon us year by year to provide additional facilities, apart from the new railway mileage, can understand the necessity for increases in capital account. In the ten years ending with June 30, 1912, the company expended in Western Canada for increased terminals, yards, siding, track, and other facilities, $75,000,000 and in Eastern Canada nearly $44,000,000, and additional cars and locomotives cost in that same period over $81,000,000, so that we have here an expenditure of $200,000,000 that had to come from the proceeds of sales of common and preference stock and from surplus earnings."

"I think that every financial man who has given the subject thought will testify that the company's financial policy has been wise and prudent, and that its present strong position is due to almost universal faith in the correctness of its methods."

"But some one says, if the shares are selling in the market at 270, why let the shareholders have the stock on any lower basis?"

"The man who asks that question means well, no doubt, but he overlooks the fact that shareholders are the proprietors of the company who have no guarantee whatever of future dividends, who invest their money because they have faith in the future of the company and take chances on a series of bad crops or war or pestilence or anything else that may at some time or other in the future have a serious influence on the company's revenue. The bond or debenture holder has security for his fixed return but the holder of the common stock is not in that position. The board of directors of the company in determining the issue price of the stock must take into account many things that do not occur to those who lack intimacy with the company's affairs, or indeed, with financial affairs generally."

Credit A Tender Plant.
"Credit of a government or a municipality or a railway company is a tender plant that must be handled with the greatest possible care if money required from time to time is not to cost too much or is to be promptly obtained."

"The directors of the company are the only persons who have the intimate knowledge required to determine what the price should be and this duty is assigned to them by their fellow proprietors. Unless they are reckless or lacking in integrity they will exercise their best judgment looking to the future welfare of the company and if there be subsequent business stagnation or any other cause for disappointment to the shareholders the directors will be free from blame."

"If, however, the government were to assume this duty of the directors and were arbitrary to fix the premium at which the shares should be offered to the proprietors or the public, the position and responsibility of the government would, I think, be generally accepted as an undertaking on the part of the Government that the market would be essentially different from that of the board of directors. The order-in-council fixing the price of the shares would never fall below the figure named. Indeed, I do see how the Government could justify such action without coupling with it a direct undertaking to that effect."

SAY "HELLO CENTRAL" 22 BILLION TIMES

Patient Statistician Estimates
World's Telephone Traffic
for the Year 1911.

The statistician of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company argues that during the year 1911 there were 22,000,000,000 telephone calls throughout the world. Of this great number the United States had 14,500,000,000 "conversations," or 66 per cent. of the grand total. The countries of Europe got numbers from their telephone centrals approximately 5,800,000,000 times; Canada talked 900,000,000 times and the rest of the world had to be satisfied with 800,000,000 calls.

Although the United States surpasses the rest of the world in the use and development of the telephone as a timesaving instrument of speedy communication for social and commercial purposes, the telegraph traffic of this country, according to the statistician, presents quite a contrast, as only 17 per cent. of the 579,000,000 telegrams sent in the world during the year 1910 were forwarded in the United States. In other words, he says, "Europe has about the same proportion of the world's telegraph traffic as the United States has of the world's telephone traffic."

On Jan. 1, 1912, there were approximately 12,543,000 telephones in the world, necessitating the stringing of 29,566,000 miles of wire, representing a total world's telephone investment of $1,729,000,000, which the statistician points out is nearly the value of all the United States' gold coin and bullion.

Canada Has 335,000 Phones.

Of the total number of phones the United States had 8,362,000 (10 per cent. increase over the number of an. 1, 1911), or 67.1 per cent. of all the telephones in existence. The European countries were next with 3,239,000 phones; Canada, 335,000, and the rest of the world 517,000.

The United States' estimate of telephone miles of wire was placed at 18,179,000 (9 per cent. increase over the preceding year), or 61.5 per cent. of the entire mileage of the world. Europe had 9,461,000 miles of telephone wire at work (32 per cent. of all); Canada, 788,000 miles, and all other countries 1,138,000 miles.

The telephone companies in the United States had a total estimated investment of $1,025,000,000, twice that in all Europe and over one-half the total investments of all the world. Among the achievements in the past year in the use of the long distance telephone in this country was the opening of commercial service between New York City and Denver, a distance of 2160 miles, the longest distance over which oral communication is possible anywhere.

Telephones For Train Despatching.

It was also during 1911 that the great United States railway systems have made rapid advances toward the general use of the telephone for train despatching. Over 200 roads have now adopted the system and the telegraph has taken the place of the telegraph over 50,000 miles of railroad, or over 20 per cent. of the total railroad mileage in the country. About 10,000 phones are in use for despatching purposes.

The gross telephone earnings in the world, partly estimated, were $328,717,721 in 1909, of which the figures for the United States were $221,471,000, or 67.4 of the grand total. Europe's earnings were $91,331,000, Canada 6,752,000 and all other countries $9,163,500. The average earning per telephone in the United States was $32.87. The highest average earning was in Belgium, where the amount is placed at $50.75 per phone, while Finland's average is the lowest, at $15.95 per phone. There are 8.1 telephones per hundred population in this country.

The telephone was invented by Alexander Graham Bell thirty-six years ago.

GAS, SOURNESS AND INDIGESTION VANISH

Just as Soon as "Pape's Diapepsin" Comes in Contact with the Stomach All Distress Is Gone.

"Really does" put bad stomachs in order—"really does" overcome indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, heartburn and sourness in five minutes—that—just that—makes Pape's Diapepsin in the largest selling stomach regulator in the world. If you eat ferments into stubborn lumps you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food and acid; head is dizzy and aches; breath foul; tongue coated; your inside filled with bile and indigestible waste, remember the moment Diapepsin comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. It's astonishing—almost marvelous, and the joy is its harmlessness.

A large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin will give you a hundred dollars' worth of satisfaction or your druggist hands you your money back.

It's worth its weight in gold to men and women who can't get their stomachs regulated. It belongs in your home—should always be kept handy in case of a sick, sour upset stomach during the day or at night. It's the quickest, surest and most harmless stomach doctor in the world.

WHY SHOULD NOT OLD PEOPLE RETAIN THEIR YOUTHFUL VIGOR

No Reason Why Men And Women Of Sixty, Seventy And Eighty Should Not Be Well—The Secret Of Happy Old Age.

"Fruit-a-tives", The Famous Medicine Made Of Fresh Fruit Juices, Again Proves Its Great Value In Curing Kidney Trouble.

Old age pays the cost of living. Few men and women of fifty, sixty and seventy are free of Kidney Trouble. Hard work, mental strain and general debility, tell in the long run. And many men and women show they have Kidney Trouble by suffering with pain in the back, headaches, rheumatism, sciatica, bladder disease.

To such people "Fruit-a-tives" has proved one of the wonders of the age—and the most remarkable discovery of the century in modern medical science. This fruit medicine has performed hundreds of cures where the sufferer had been told that the case was incurable.

Take, for instance, Mr. Geo. W. Barkley, a prosperous farmer and one of the leading citizens of Dundas County, Ontario.

At seventy-six, he is the picture of health—with the vigorous actions and the sprightly step of a man of fifty.

Yet for twenty years he suffered with Kidney Trouble. He took "Fruit-a-tives" and it cured him.

Chesterville, Ont., Jan. 25th, 1911
"For over twenty years I have been troubled with Kidney Disease, and the doctors told me they could do me no good, and said I would be a sufferer all the rest of my life. Nearly a year ago, I tried "Fruit-a-tives". I have been using them all the time since and am glad to say that I am cured. I give "Fruit-a-tives" the credit of doing what the doctors said was impossible."

GEO. W. BARKLEY.
"Fruit-a-tives" is the only medicine in the world made of fruit, and is the only one that acts directly on the kidneys. It cures. 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50 or trial size, 25c. At dealers or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

MYSTERIES OF THE DEEPS OF THE SEA

Mountain, Plain and Valley Lie Hidden Far Beneath the Ocean Waves.

As the mysteries of the hidden lands of the earth are explored, it seems as if the explorer's instinct is turning into the vaster and remoter mysteries, not only of the stars, but of the seas.

Wyville Thompson and John Murray are the pioneers in this fascinating adventure. Both won their baronetcies through the deep sea cruise of the Challenger and the fifty giant volumes of deep sea information that came out of that cruise. From these tomes has come practically our whole knowledge as well as our romantic traditions upon the black caverns of ocean water.

The Michael Sars, a boat equipped and maintained by the Norwegian Government, has been investigating the North Atlantic since 1900. In 1910 it was borrowed by Sir John Murray, who, with Dr. Johan Hjort, took it upon a deep sea exploring expedition in the interest of science. For four months it cruised at first along the coast of Spain, thence to the Azores and through the Sargasso Sea to Newfoundland, Iceland and home again to Norway. The first result of this work is a mighty volume containing a resume report of the scientific discoveries.

Life From Height To Depth.

In England the publication of this new work, "The Depths of the Ocean," has made an unusual sensation, and the bits of information that one gets from reviews of it in the Times, Daily News and other papers are tantalizing in their hints of fuller knowledge to come. Says the News in one of the best summaries of the present stage of scientific knowledge of the deep sea.

The surface of the sea is but the halfway line between the tops of the Himalayas and the bottom of the ocean, and there is life all the way. About two-thirds of the sea floor is covered by more than two 2000 fathoms of water, an abyssal plain equal to nearly half the surface of the earth. Beneath these depths are further extensions of gloom, cold and intense pressure, in which life may be not more sparse than on top of Mount Everest. "We have not yet learned," says Mr. Hjort, "to fish to perfection at 2000 or 3000 fathoms." It is clearly an art not learned in a day. The Michael Sars seems to have been far more successful at deep-sea dredging than former ships. With 2360 metres of line out (three and one-half miles) it took in one haul 330 fish. This was just south of Ireland in a depth of only 923 metres of water, but the fish were of the astonishing types usually accounted abyssal—such as chimaera, macrurus and mora. The chimaera, macrurus and mora, by the way, are types of sea fish such as Mr. Kipling has conjured up on a large scale in his tales of the ocean depths.

Living At 2000 Fathoms.

In the open Atlantic, the bottom scarcely counts. Living creatures keep their levels with reference to the surface only. The vegetative diatoms on which all pelagic life must be founded ceases at about 100 fathoms. Far below the diatom level even down to 2000 fathoms, the Michael Sars nets, opening and closing at that depth, found multitudes of radiolarians which provide excellent food for the larger creatures of that region. The food in the greater depths no doubt falls from upper layers, the creatures of the abyss intercepting it on its way to make chalk for future landscapes. But there is a kind of "bottom in mid-water" at a depth of about 500 fathoms where, owing to the maximum specific gravity of the water having been reached, a maximum of small crustacean ocean life accumulates. There is a squid region at the surface and another so deep that the calchote must dive nearly half a mile for his favorite food.

WHEN THE SKIN BREAKS OUT USE POSLAM

If suffering from any skin affection, it is important for you to know that on your druggist's shelf, in the form of a box of Poslam, lies the concentrated healing power which will ease all physical distress and affect a complete and permanent cure.

With this ready means of relief so easily available there is really no reason why eczema, acne, tetter, barbers' itch, pimples and the like affections should be allowed to go unchecked and their discomforts unnecessarily endured. First application stops the itching, the skin rapidly heals and is restored to normal condition.

POSAM SOAP is antiseptic and germicidal; the safest and most soothing nursery soap. It improves the health, color and quality of the skin; beautifies complexions, renders the hands soft and velvety.

Henry Willis, 4 St. John St., and all druggists sell Poslam (price 50 cents), and Poslam Soap (price 25 cents). For free samples, write to the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West 25th Street, New York City.

BRITISH TRADE NOT AFFECTED BY CANAL

Scientific Analysis Said to Demonstrate that Canal Law Does Not Discriminate.

Washington, Sept. 6.—The Gordian knot of the Panama Canal difficulty, which has now assumed threatening international proportions, may soon be cut by the publication by this Government of a strictly scientific analysis of the situation, showing that the exemption of American coastwise traffic from tolls will have no influence upon British shipping and that consequently no discrimination is proposed in violation of the treaty rights.

The letter of Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign secretary, to the Gateshead Chamber of Commerce regarding the British Government's attitude toward the Panama Canal act, is regarded here as an indication that the negotiations between the two countries are to have a financial basis, the foreign secretary's argument being that British shipping is to be burdened with an undue proportion of the charges for the maintenance of the canal, through the complete exemption from tolls of American coastwise shipping.

In view of this, importance attaches to an inquiry which now is being conducted on the Isthmus, by Professor Emory R. Johnson, special commissioner on Panama traffic and tolls. Professor Johnson already has completed, by direction of the Secretary of War, all the statistics, bearing upon the character and probable amount of the traffic that will pass through the Panama Canal, which has formed the basis of congressional action. He now is engaged in a study of the financial aspect of the enterprise, so that the tolls may be adjusted to the needs of the canal on a strictly scientific basis, and he is expected in Washington soon with this data.

America Traffic 10 Per Cent.

In view of Sir Edward Grey's statement that British ships will have to pay for the American exemption, it is noted that in the data already prepared by Professor Johnson it appears that, according to the best estimate, the whole of the American coastwise traffic that is likely to pass through the Panama Canal immediately after it is opened will be about 1,000,000 tons, or a little more than ten per cent. of the total tonnage that will pass through the canal in the years 1915 and 1916. In the course of five years, it is estimated that this American coastwise tonnage will rise to 1,414,000 tons, but as the foreign commerce will increase in like proportion, the same relation between the two will exist.

On the face of the figures, this would indicate that the British and other foreign commerce would have to bear an additional burden of ten per cent. over what it would pay were American coastwise shipping not exempted. It is pointed out, however, that a proportionate share of this burden, if it did exist, would have to be borne by American ships in the foreign trade, which consequently, would be on a precise equality with British ships.

Suez Route The Better.

Professor Johnson's statistics disclose still another factor that doubtless will be urged by the American negotiators, as a reply to the British contention that their ships must bear the burden of this extra charge caused by the American exemption. This is set out in his comparison of the Suez Canal with the Panama route. After pointing out the many advantages of the Suez in the way of coaling facilities, low insurance rates, superior opportunities for picking up cargoes between terminals, and the like, Professor Johnson declares that the only possibility of the Panama Canal getting a fair share of the world's business, is to place the tolls at a figure actually lower than by the Suez route. These are only $1.25 per ton, so that the rate on the American Canal must be sensibly lower, and the professor has even mentioned a flat dollar rate for the first few years of the canal's operation.

On the basis of ten million tons business this would yield an income inadequate to meet the cost of operations and maintenance of the canal—$3,500,000—allow $500,000 a year for sanitation of the zone, and provide a fair rate of interest on the $375,000,000 which the canal has cost. Allowing two per cent interest on the capital invested in the canal and one per cent for a sinking fund, the total of the annual charges on the canal are likely to be more than $15,000,000, or about fifty per cent more than the gross revenue from tolls.

With these figures before them, and the rate on British shipping fixed far below the actual cost of the service by conditions over which the United States Government has no control, the officials here believe that they will have little difficulty in showing that the exemption of American coastwise traffic from tolls has no influence upon British shipping, and consequently that no discrimination is proposed in violation of treaty rights.

AUGUST LILIES
August lilies, faintly sweet,
Like pale ladies, mostly discreet,
Timidly together cling
In their leaves' cool sheltering.

In the hot and stilly noon,
Underneath the August moon,
Perfume faintly sweet distills
Till each chalice white it fills.

When from out the August noon
Sounds the harsh and shrilly tune
That the locust tribes devise
As they cross their armored thighs

Heat of noon and evening chill,
Joy and pain are in the thrill,
Wakened by the perfume sweet
Wafted through the quiet street.

Memories of other years
Crowd and veil my eyes with tears
For the lilies that once grew
In the garden that I knew.

Garden of other days,
Other thoughts and other ways,
I would enter all too late,
Closed forever is the gate.

PANAMA HATS ARE MADE FROM PALM LEAVES

Panama hats are made from a palm of the "chandelier-tree" family, which grows wild in enormous quantities in the northern parts of South America and in Central America. The greater number of highest grade Panamas are made in Ecuador, with Peru a good second. The best of these sell for $150 each.

The young tender leaves of the plant are gathered before they unfold; all the ribs and coarse veins are removed and the rest is reduced to shreds without being separated from the stem. The shredded leaves are placed in large earthenware jars filled with water and the juice of lemons and left to soak for from six to seven days. After this they are spread out to dry and bleached in the sun.

The fibres are woven upon a block held upon the knees. The coarse hats are finished in two or three days, the finest take as many months. The best times for weaving are in the early morning and in the rainy season, when the air is moist.

The representative of a London banking house with Montreal and Western Canadian connections and more or less in touch with Canadian Pacific's plans, states that there is no doubt but that issue price of proposed $60,000,000 stock issue to be voted on by stockholders at special meeting on Oct. 2 will be higher than price at which last issue of $18,000,000 was sold. Impression in London banking circles prevails that issuance price will be between 165 and 170, while in other quarters, both in London and Montreal, the belief is that price will be 175.

Annual Meeting of Shareholders.

The Annual Meeting of Shareholders of the High School of Quebec was held in the School Building on the afternoon of Tuesday, September 10. Those present were: Mr. John T. Ross, Chairman; Dr. Robt. Campbell, Mr. David Geggie, Mr. J. M. Johnston, Mr. George H. Thomson, Mr. Arthur Ahern, Rev. Dr. F. G. Scott, Mr. John Brown, Rev. Dr. A. T. Love, Col. J. F. Turnbull.

After the minutes of the previous Annual Meeting had been read and confirmed, the Chairman called upon the Rector for his report, which was as follows:—

RECTOR'S REPORT.

Mr. Chairman:—
I beg to report that the number of pupils enrolled this year was 108, and the average daily attendance 89. I am happy to be able to say also that our work has been maintained at a high standard, and that, at the public examinations, we have been ranked with the best Schools of the Province.

For the University School Leaving Examinations, we sent in eight candidates, and had not a single failure. Our head boy obtained fourth place among 209 successful candidates, and also won an Exhibition of $100 at McGill University. For the Grade II. Academy Examination, which has now replaced the former Preliminary A. A., we sent in six candidates and again had no failures. We also sent up two for the Royal Military College, Kingston, and were successful in securing their entrance.

In our own school tests we have had some excellent results, but, before touching upon them, I should like to explain how these results are obtained. A boy's standing in any subject is not decided by what he does in his final examination, but by his work throughout the year. We have three examination periods, one at Xmas, one at Easter, and a third in June, and a boy's rank in a subject is decided by the average he can secure in that subject at the examinations held during the year. As an instance we may take the Daniel Wilkie Medal. Three subjects are required for this medal, Algebra, Geometry, Trigonometry. During the year three examinations are held in each of the two, Algebra and Geometry, and two in Trigonometry, and the highest average of these eight examinations wins the Medal provided always this average is at least 75% of the marks obtainable.

In our top form, eight boys remained to finish the year. The Medal standard was reached in Science by two, in Latin and German by three, in French by four, and in English by five. These results indicate that a larger number than usual have attained high proficiency in their work, and that the competition for the high prizes has been general, and not confined to one or two in the form as is sometimes the case.

This year, for the first time in four years, we have qualified for the Governor-General's Medal, which is given for Latin and German. The average in Latin was 89%, and in German 93%, results which reflect the greatest credit upon the Rev. Mr. Hepburn and upon Mr. Dowd who had charge of this portion of the work. The French and Science, which are in the hands of the Rev. Mr. Boudreau and

Madame Lilian Nordica

MME. LILLIAN NORDICA WEARING THE FAMOUS DIAMOND TIARA PRESENTED TO HER BY HER ADMIRERS AT THE METROPOLITAN OPERA HOUSE, NEW YORK.

In her very interesting book, "The Stars of the Opera," the authoress, Miss Mabel Wagnalls, introduces the great songstress, to the readers, in the following manner:

"It was during one of Patti's farewell seasons at the Academy of Music that a young American girl, by name of Lilian Norton, first appeared as a prima donna. She made a success, but not a sensation, for she had not then the halo of a European glory, and people were in those days too intent on the passing star, to note any rising one."

"The American girl all this time never released her determination, but kept on working with a will, learning roles there was no prospect of using, studying all things in her line. At last she was engaged by the Metropolitan Opera Company; but her name was not printed at the top of the list, and she was not held out as the magnet to fill the house on the opening night. In the end, though, she sang oftener than any of the other sopranos, for when they were indisposed she it was that always came forward. There was never a role she could not sing, and never a time she was not ready."

BOSTON CASHIER OF ALLAN LINE MISSING

Trusted Employee Said to Be Short $2859—Supposed to Be Montreal Man.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 13.—The police throughout the country have been asked to look for John E. McGill, cashier at the Boston office of the Allan Line. McGill disappeared on July 31 and it is alleged that $2859 was found to be missing at the same time. The officials at the Allan Line deny any knowledge of the man, but it is known that a police notice has been sent out from the Boston headquarters asking other cities to be on the lookout for him.

McGill is said to be single and to come from Montreal. He lived at the Hotel Commonwealth. On July 31 he did not appear at the State street office of the steamship line and when his hotel was called up it was found that he had settled his account there and had left. An investigation followed and it was found that his accounts were $2859 short.

BIG ATTENDANCE AT EUCHARISTIC CONGRESS.

Vienna, Sept. 13.—Although a heavy rain fell throughout almost the entire day there was a large attendance upon the various meetings of the Eucharistic Congress to-day.

Dr. Paul Pfeifer, of Vienna, in the course of a discussion on the subject of homes for theological students, deplored the scarcity of candidates for the priesthood in Austria and Germany and the inadequate provisions for training candidates as compared with the excellent provisions made for the students in the colleges of the United States. Dr. Pfeifer declared that the unsatisfactory facilities for boarding students in Vienna was largely responsible for their small number and urged the erection of students homes on the lines already contemplated by the University of Vienna.

The unfavorable weather outlook is occasioning much concern, as it is feared it may prevent the holding of the monster procession which is scheduled for Sunday. Thousands of pilgrims already are here whose only shelter is the school houses and who are suffering much discomfort because of the cold rains.

LABOR CONGRESS OPPOSED TO THE LEMIEUX ACT

is here from London, enquiring into the workings of the labor laws in Canada.

The net result of the afternoon session was the adoption in committee of a resolution endorsing the action of the Calgary convention last year, asking for the repeal of what is generally known as the Lemieux Act. This was adopted unanimously. There were a number of points brought out in the discussion, the removal of the right to strike and complaints at the manner in which the act had been administered being the chief arguments against it.

Magnus Sinclair, of Toronto, pointed out defects in the act, although he said street railway men had gained in some ways from its operation. He contended that if men were properly organized they would be able to settle without any conciliation laws.

Takes Away Power To Strike.

Delegate Hoop, of Winnipeg, said the act was not wanted in the central west. It took away the right of striking and the spirit of the measure was wrong. Delegate McLennan, of Nova Scotia, opposed the act because it denied the power to strike. Delegate Rigg, of Winnipeg, took the same ground, maintaining that the Lemieux Act invariably worked out to the benefit of the companies. Delegate Fisher, of Inverness, corroborated, maintaining that the cattle at the prison farm had better conditions of existence than many of the mine operatives of Nova Scotia. Organizer Bruce admitted good to certain strong organizations through the act, though he opposed it. Delegate Lowe, of Kingston, favored it.

Delegate Wilkinson, of Vancouver, said the principal fault with the act was in the long waits until a finding was made. In almost every case the chairman of the arbitration committee was opposed to the workers.

The delegates took part, nearly all condemning the bill. Their chief complaints were the delay in securing a verdict, and lack of power to enforce it when delivered.

There was a spirited discussion over a resolution to do away with private police by powerful corporations, and the Government will be asked to pass a law prohibiting the employment of such men.

Several of the organizers, notably O'Dell, Bruce and Simpson, went into the history of the treatment of the men during the strike in the mills of the Dominion Iron and Steel Company in Nova Scotia and pointed out that the private police system was the source of a lot of trouble. The resolution was carried, and the executive committee will bring the matter to the attention of the Government.

DEMAND $15,000 AS PRICE OF NEW YORK POLICE CAPTAINCY

Commissioner Waldo on Grill Admits Politicians Asked a Price for Promotion.

New York, Sept. 13.—The sum of $15,000 was the price asked of a police captain by "politicians and others" for promotion to the office of inspector, according to testimony given by Police Commissioner Waldo to-day as a witness before the Aldermanic Committee which is investigating alleged corruption in the Police Department. Mr. Waldo swore that he had an affidavit from one captain that he was approached and asked to give such a sum as a condition precedent to his promotion.

The commissioner was not asked while on the stand who the captain was nor as to the identity of "the politicians and others," but to-night Emory R. Buckner, counsel for the committee, sent a letter to Mr. Waldo requesting him to produce the affidavit, "as well as other information you may have upon that subject."

"Do you," asked Mr. Buckner, gently, "do you waive immunity, Mr. Waldo, in case your testimony"—he did not finish.

"I don't want any immunity and I don't waive it," snapped the commissioner. "Furthermore, I do not understand that this committee has any right to grant anybody immunity. I consider the mention of such a matter a gratuitous insult."

Immunity an Insult.

"Do you want immunity?" insisted Mr. Buckner.

"I consider this an insult," repeated the witness.

"Then I understand that you would refuse immunity," broke in the examiner.

Mr. Waldo's voice was shaking with emotion now. He leaned forward and again declared that he considered discussion of such a matter unnecessary and irrelevant.

"Well then," said Mr. Buckner pleasantly, "we'll drop it."

"Can you think of any one thing," asked Mr. Buckner, "more vital to the police force than the character of its men?"

"I can not," said the commissioner.

"Do you select your men from the Civil Service lists in the order certified?"

"We do."

Instantly upon receiving an answer to this question, Mr. Buckner plunged into a list of about thirty men who have been appointed to the force during Waldo's administration after having been rejected in the preceding administration of Commissioner Crosby for various crimes and other unfitness.

"Not Responsible," Says Waldo.

"I am not responsible for the men certified on Civil Service lists," retorted the witness. "Let the Civil Service speak for itself."

"But Crosby rejected certified men when he found their records bad," shouted the examiner. "Wasn't it your duty to do likewise?"

"I have no time to make a personal investigation as to the character of every patrolman appointed," was the reply. "The Civil Service is and should be held responsible."

"The demoralization of the entire department is then due to the Civil Service?" said Mr. Buckner.

"I deny that allegation," flared up Mr. Waldo. "There is no finer body of men in the world than the New York police force."

"You do not think it worth while to investigate personally the character of a man who later might become an inspector?" pursued Mr. Buckner.

"Before he could become an inspector," answered the commissioner, "he would have to pass a Civil Service examination for lieutenant, another for captain and another for inspector. Unless he passed them he could not be an inspector. That is the way the new men are promoted in the department now. I have an affidavit from a captain in which he says he was told he would not be made an inspector unless he put up $15,000. He didn't pay and he wasn't appointed. The committee can have the affidavit if they want it."

Demand Who Made Statement.

"Pay $15,000 to whom?"

"To politicians and others."

This statement created a stir among the audience and resulted, after Mr. Waldo had left the stand, in a request that he make public the name of the police captain who had made the affidavit. Mr. Waldo would only reiterate that the committee could have the affidavit if they wanted it, adding that the committee would be privileged to make it public.

"There is nothing in the city charter preventing you from making independent investigations, is there?" concluded Mr. Buckner.

"There is not," replied Mr. Waldo. The hearing was adjourned until Wednesday next, when Commissioner Waldo will resume the stand.

first stage of the journey to its last resting place at Monoyama, and early this morning the journey was resumed.

Borne on a two-wheeled cart drawn by oxen, the huge casket containing the body of "The Emperor of the Era of Enlightenment" was taken through lines of soldiers, back of whom thronged countless thousands of natives and numerous foreigners, over three miles of roads that were brilliantly lighted with torches and arc lights, under the glare of which the black and white funeral poles and sacred trees stood out in bold relief from the background of mourning-draped and beflagged buildings.

Following the impressive funeral services of today in the palace here the single detonation of a gun tonight served as an announcement to the waiting thousands in Tokio that the cortege was leaving the palace for Aoyama. The firing of this gun, it developed later, also was the signal which General Count Maresuke Nogai, Japan's foremost soldier, and his wife, awaited to kill themselves, so that they might be with the departed Emperor, whom the general had served so well in life.

100,000 See Funeral Procession.

Within the palace torches and electric lights illuminated the spectacle of the casket being conveyed from the palace and placed on the funeral car. One hundred thousand persons had been favored with permits to enter the park and they stood silent as a military salute of 101 guns was fired in honor of the dead ruler. The pall-bearers included General Kuroki, General Oku, Admiral Togo, Vice-Admiral Sato and Viscount Ijima.

Immediately the cortege departed the screens in the upper palace windows were drawn and Emperor Yoshihito proceeded in a carriage to Aoyama. His Majesty was accompanied by Prince Kasura, the Lord Chamberlain, who wore the uniform of a full general.

At midnight the detonation of guns was heard in every corner of the empire. It was the supreme moment of the ceremony at Aoyama, when the Emperor and Empress knelt beside the bier of the departed monarch and prayed while the entire assemblage stood with bowed heads. Thousands of bells in the Buddhist Temple and Christian churches tolled at this hour and minute guns boomed sullenly on sea and land.

The funeral train bearing the body of Emperor Mutsuhito left Aoyama at 2 o'clock this morning for Monoyama. The Japanese fleet in Tokyo Bay saluted as the train passed. The entire route to Yokohama was electrically lighted. As the train neared Yokohama the warships in the harbor fired a salute and at the station an enormous crowd had gathered to pay their respects to the dead monarch.

Emperor and People Pay Homage.

Both the Emperor and the people of Japan paid homage to the memory of Emperor Mutsuhito in the funeral hall at Aoyama. In front of the great casket the young Emperor read an address of lamentation, in which he referred to the events in the life of his dead father. Then in behalf of the people of Japan, the Premier, Marquis Saionji, delivered a patriotic address and was followed by the Minister of the Household, who spoke for the dead Emperor's attendants.

Then the great procession accompanying the body from the Imperial palace in Tokio arrived at the entrance to the palace grounds at Aoyama, where 10 huge gas lanterns were lighted. Ritualists then arranged white curtains at the back and side of the bier and a half-drawn blind in front. The hall was crowded with thousands of high dignitaries, among whom was sprinkled a considerable number of foreigners. Also present were hundreds of priests of various Shinto and Buddhist sects, who took up positions in the hall, dressed in their multi-colored robes. The Emperor and the other members of the Imperial family meanwhile waited in a resting room until the arrangements for the services were completed.

The many battalions comprising the military and naval escorts lined up outside the entrance, while the bearers of military emblems and golden "sun" and silver "moon" banners assembled in columns just inside. Others formed along both sides of the space in front of the catafalque and a pair of immense sacred trees also were placed in position there.

Concrete Road for Funeral Car.

From the entrance to the grounds up to the funeral hall a special road of concrete had been built to accommodate the funeral car. Along this road the car passed slowly, drawn by five oxen, and halted at the door.

As the coffin was taken from the car the officiating priests and musicians passed to their positions in the vacant space around the bier. The Emperor and Empress and the Imperial Princes and Princesses, with their suites, here joined the procession and followed at a slow march. All bowed in salute as the casket was placed on the bier.

Offerings to Dead Monarch.

The ritualistic ceremonies were then begun, the chief ritualist reciting a prayer, which was followed by a mournful Shinto hymn chanted to the accompaniment of sacred instruments. These consisted of divine food composed of rice, sake, seaweed, salt and vegetables, which were placed on tables in front of the coffin. The entire offering was accompanied by a pair of chop-sticks made of willow-tree wood. Other offerings were articles of clothing made of brocades, figured silks and other textiles.

Further prayers were then read and hymns chanted, and then the young Emperor with his relatives knelt in silent prayer in front of the bier.

It was an affecting scene and an additional mournful note was added to it by the playing and chanting of the dirge known as "Rui-Ka," taken from the oldest written history of Japan. The verses, which originated

That part of the function completed, the Emperor then read his address of lamentation and paid his respects to his dead father by bowing low toward the coffin.

All the other personages, according to their rank, then came forward and paid their respects, after which the offerings of food and clothing were withdrawn and the Emperor and the Imperial party retired to their resting room.

This concluded the ceremony at Aoyama and the coffin was prepared for departure by special train to Monoyama, a distance of 350 miles.

GOOD OFFICES OF AMERICA WELCOME

Chiasso, Switzerland, Sept. 13.—All the great European powers have exercised their good offices in trying to arrange an understanding between Italy and Turkey on a basis which could be made the foundation for official peace negotiations. Both Italy and Turkey, it is understood, however, have declared that they would welcome the good offices of the United States rather than those of any other nation, American being the only country which is entirely disinterested. Indeed, perhaps the most important service already done to the warring nations has been through the unofficial initiative of Thomas J. O'Brien and William W. Rockhill, the American ambassadors respectively at Rome and at Constantinople.

It is easily understood how intervention coming from so friendly and so unselfish a source, undertaken at the last moment and in the right way, might be most welcome; foreign observers of the Turco-Italian relations believing that it would simplify the situation and pave the way to more direct negotiations. This may partly account for the high place occupied by Ambassador O'Brien in official Italian circles and for the special favor in which he is held by the Italian Premier, Giovanni Giolitti.

SIMPLE LIFE PLEASES ROYALTY * NAPOLEONIC RELIC FOR SALE

KING AND QUEEN GO TO BALMORAL

Little Entertaining Will Be Done and Stay There Will Be Very Brief.

CLOSE FRIENDS BIDDEN

King George Has Enjoyed Excellent
Shooting and "Simple Life" on Yorkshire Moors.

[Special Despatch.]
LONDON, Saturday.

KING GEORGE AND QUEEN MARY will entertain in a very small way during their comparatively brief sojourn at Balmoral Castle. The King has many engagements to fulfil in the autumn, and one which will cut short his stay in the North about the middle of September is his promise to be present at the army manoeuvres in East Anglia. Many country trips, too, already have been settled.

Those who will receive "commands" to the castle during the residence of the King will include some of their Majesty's most intimate friends. The Marquis de Soveral will be among the early visitors, and special interest will be taken in the stay of the Marquis and Marquise de Breteuil, who will be with the monarchs for a week for the shooting. The King and Queen both recognise to the full the care and kindness which the Marquis and his American wife bestowed on the Prince of Wales in Paris, and this invitation to stop at the castle and take part in their home life is looked on as one of the greatest compliments.

Meanwhile the King has been living the "simple life" and enjoyed excellent shooting on the Yorkshire grouse moors. There was nothing of stately grandeur about the King's stay at Balmoral. The staircase to the King's bedroom is of stone, there is a rope instead of the usual handrail, and the bedroom itself has neither gas nor electric light. A simple breakfast was served about nine o'clock, and after tea had been drawn for position at the butte the King took his luck with the rest, and a start was made for the moors in automobiles, a modern convenience which does not find much favor with the old sports in the village, who think grouse and petrol are alien to each other. Luncheon was served in a cabin built of timber and heather and shooting was resumed in the afternoon. The evening after dinner was spent in the smoke room or drawing room and early to bed was the rule.

By the way, the old superstition of thirteen sitting down to dinner bringing bad luck is still avoided at the hall, and there is a story that more than once the recter has been called in to "cheat the fates."

The Prince of Wales and his sister, Princess Alice, have been spending the time prior to their departure for Balmoral at Buckingham Palace, devoting much of their time to lawn tennis, sometimes on the courts in the grounds and occasionally in the enclosed court, which was built specially for the King earlier in the year. It is interesting to watch the varied styles of play which each adopts. The Prince of Wales plays the quiet, thoughtful game, calculating his returns nicely, while Prince Albert adopts the more dashing and powerful, and, incidentally, the more attractive, game, and both have telling services. In the North both will be out with the gun frequently. The Prince of Wales is said to have developed into a very good shot, bidding fair to emulate the reputation of his father with the gun.

A pretty story of Queen Alexandra's encounter with an amateur photographer has just come to light. The incident occurred on her recent trip to Sandringham. The hero of the story is Mr. Edwin Matthews, a young tradesman of King's Lynn, to whom it occurred while on a visit to the neighboring village of Snettisham to go down to the beach with his camera and take a view of Queen Alexandra's seashore bungalow. When he arrived there was no one in sight, the bungalow apparently was deserted, and he duly set up his camera on its tripod.

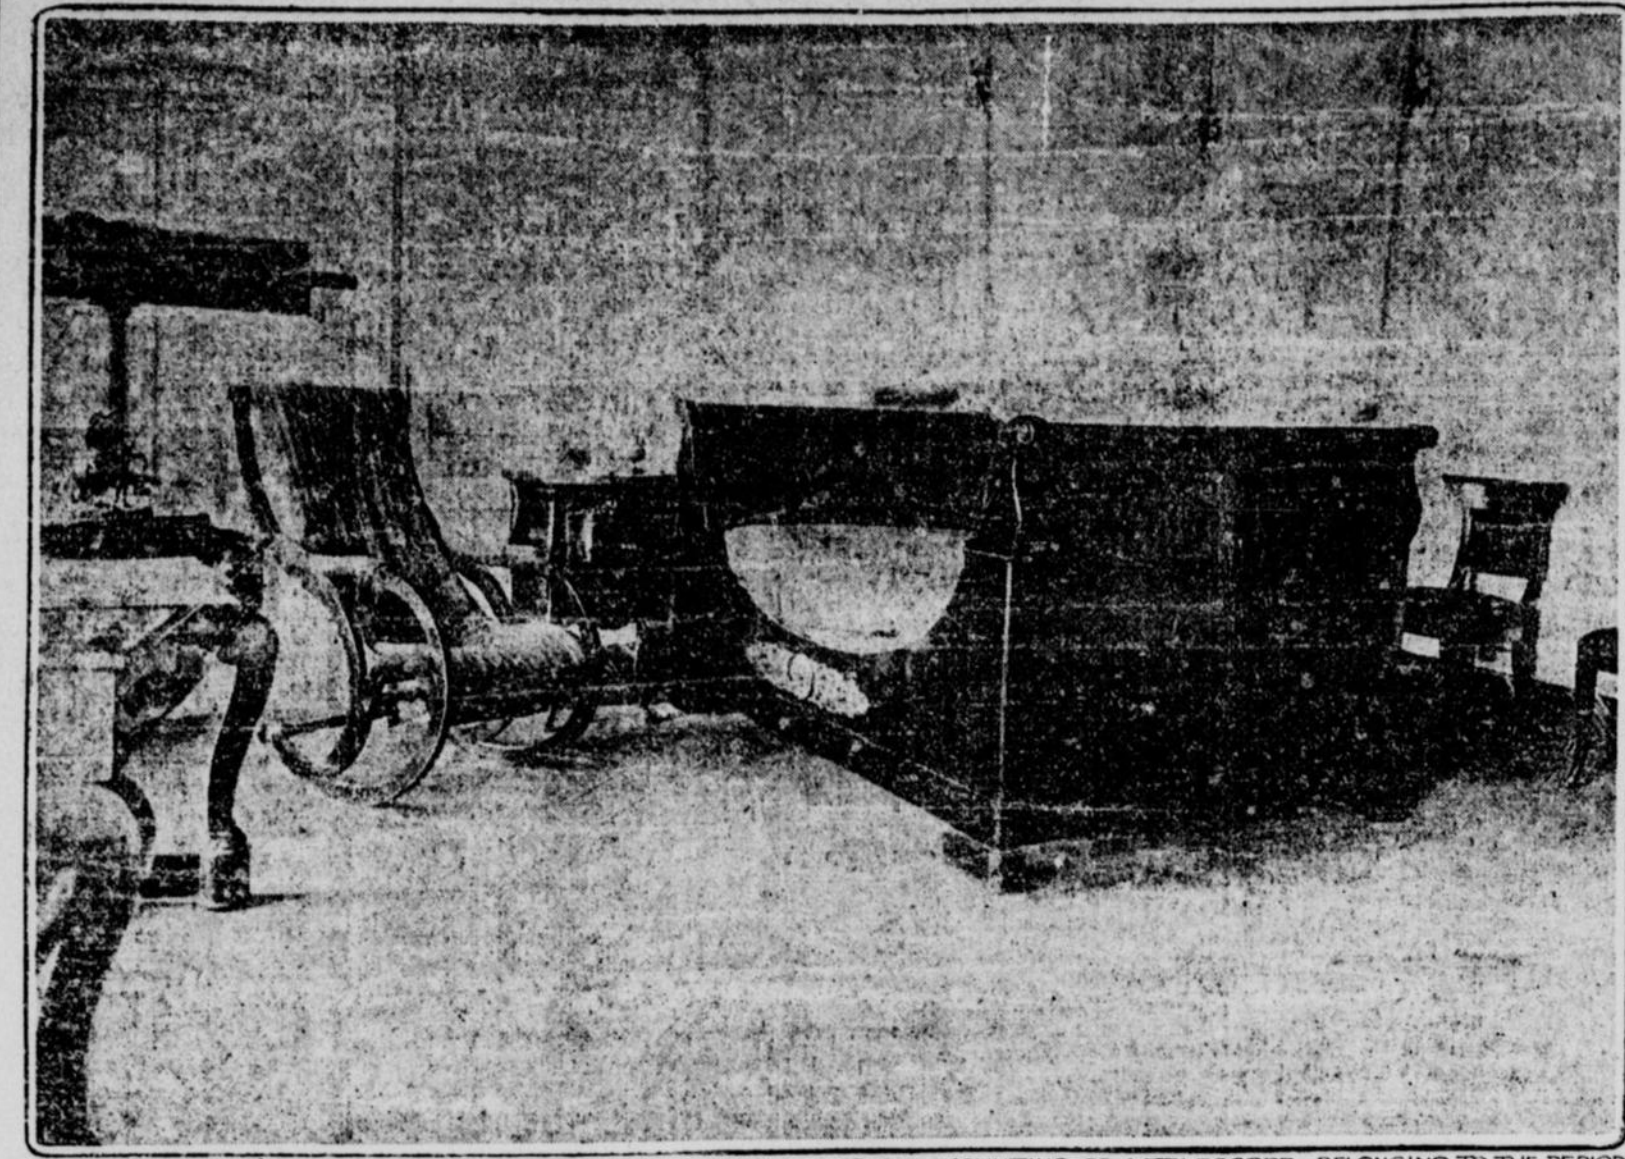

He was standing with his head under the dark cloth, intent on focusing the picture, when he suddenly felt a light tap on his shoulder. He looked up and was surprised to find a liveried servant standing beside him. He was still more surprised when the servant said: "Queen Alexandra commands you to take a photograph of her."

Mr. Matthews had no idea the royal party was anywhere near at the time, and would have been less surprised if he had been ordered away. He found the party included not only Queen Alexandra, but Princess Victoria and the Grand Duke George of Russia, with their suites.

Feeling naturally a little diffident about photographing these distinguished sitters, he explained to Queen Alexandra that he was only an amateur, and asked that they would arrange themselves in a group as they thought best. The royal party cheerfully acquiesced, and grouped themselves before the young amateur, who promptly "took" them. The picture came out well, and Queen Alexandra was so pleased with the proof that she asked Mr. Matthews to send her two dozen prints.

He also received another "command" to take a picture of the Grand Duke George of Russia, at Sandringham, and, having executed this, received a letter from Queen Alexandra expressing her pleasure and complimenting him on the excellence of her photograph. A fact which gives additional interest to the incident is that the Queen is herself an expert amateur photographer. An album of views taken by her on her travels was, it will be remembered, published some time ago.

House Erected by Napoleon I. on the Island of Elba May Pass Into Possession of Unappreciative Foreigner

THE EMPEROR'S BEDROOM WITH A BED, A ROCKING CHAIR AND THE MOUNTING OF A TELESCOPE, BELONGING TO THE PERIOD

FRENCHMEN are perturbed over the prospective passing into strange hands of San Martino, the home of Napoleon I., on the island of Elba. Though the retreat of the great soldier is seldom visited by the French, they tremble lest it fall under devastating influence when it is put up for sale by its Tuscan owner. The island is more frequently visited by American, English and German tourists, and it may be that the little dwelling atop of the hill will come into the possession of an American, an Englishman or a German.

The Emperor's own room in San Martino is on the right of the salon at the corner of the house. On the ceiling painted squares have alternately for design bees and crosses of the Legion of Honor. The present furniture consists of a mahogany bed, very simple, sparsely decorated, which the guide says is the bed of the Emperor; a rocking chair, two mahogany chairs upholstered with green velvet and a writing table decorated with simple brass ornaments, on which the visitors' ledger lies open. One may read there many foreign names. There are still found in this room curious objects recalling the imperial sojourn—a convex gueridon with a set of porcelain and the mounting of a strong telescope, which Napoleon used to recognize at a distance his visitors or to watch the arrival of ships in the harbor of the capital.

"SEEING THINGS" IN OLD ENGLAND

Monsters of the Sea Make Annual Visit to Tight Little Isle.

MAXIM A FIRM BELIEVER

Sir Hiram Doubts Not There Are Animals in the Ocean Not Yet Classified.

[Special Despatch.]
LONDON, Saturday.

NO doubt you folks across the pond are having your annual collection of sea serpent stories, and the narrators who minutely describe to you these monstrousities of the sea are either being accused of "seeing things" or have been roasted and ridiculed by the newspaper writer and cartoonist.

But when so prominent a person as Sir Hiram Maxim comes forward as a firm believer in the mysterious animal of the deep we ought to sit up and take notice. The London papers are at present printing interviews and signed statements from prominent men giving their views on the subject.

"I think the time has arrived," said Sir Hiram Maxim, the famous inventor, "when we must admit that there are certain large animals living in the sea that are not described in any works on natural history. Messrs. C. A. Nichols & Co., Springfield, Mass., published in 1882 a very remarkable work. In this I find that in 1851, and for some years following, the sea serpent, or sea monster, appeared very often off the New England coast."

"It appears that there were two kinds of these monsters. On one occasion the animal that was seen had a fishlike head, very large eyes, gills, and a continuous fin extending the whole length of its back, supported by numerous spines, after the manner of a stickleback. It was simply a very large fish of an unknown variety, appeared very often off the New England coast."

"The monster that was seen a great number of times by numerous people had a body from eighty to ninety feet long, and about the diameter of a large cask, with a head closely resembling that of a snake."

"I quote the following from the publication referred to: 'From all this testimony there seemed to be no doubt, reasonable or plausible, of the existence of a sea serpent of some eighty or a hundred feet in length, and of the size of a large barrel or cask.' 'Indeed, so great was the sensation created by the movements of the monster, so repeatedly seen for successive years by so many witnesses and described by them with such general detail and general concurrence, that the Linnean Society of Boston appointed a committee of eminent scientific gentlemen to collect evidence on the subject, and they drew up a report giving in detail the descriptions of numerous witnesses who saw the creature on shore or at sea, some of them from a distance of only ten yards.' 'According to these witnesses, the monster was from eighty to ninety feet long, his head usually carried about two feet above the water; of a dark brown color, the body with thirty or more protuberances, compared by some to four-gallon kegs, by others to a string of buoys, and called by several persons bunches on the back, motion very rapid, faster than that of a whale, swimming a mile in three minutes, and sometimes more, leaving a wake behind him; chasing mackerel, herring and other fish, which were seen jumping out of the water fifty at a time as he approached.' 'It has been suggested that this creature is a mammal. If so, it would have warm blood and would have to breathe at least as often as a whale, but, as it remains below the water for days and weeks at a time, it is safe to say that it has cold blood and is probably some kind of a snake.'"

DIABOLICAL TORTURE THAT CAUSES EXQUISITE AGONY BUT NO SCARS

Hot Irons Are Held Close to Body of Victim and He Is Told He Is To Be Burned—Then the Irons Are Withdrawn and Ice, Which Causes Sensation of Heat, Is Applied.

[Special Despatch.]
STOCKHOLM, Saturday.

OVER at Namsan, the South Mountain upon whose sides are located the headquarters of the Governor General of Korea, there are two small buildings, one frame, the other brick. These are near the headquarters of the gendarmes. The prisoner under suspicion is at first put in a solitary cell in the frame building, on scant rations. Here in the winter months there is a plentiful supply of cold, since the building is unheated and exposed to the winds. Most of the prisoners in the conspiracy case were arrested last autumn and during the winter months.

Opposite, in the brick building, is what is described as the torture chamber. Here the examinations—at least the important stage of the examinations—are conducted. The police examiners are Japanese. There is a Japanese physician present.

The examinations generally take place at night. The most common torture is that of hanging up by the thumbs. As this is described, the prisoner upon being brought into the torture chamber is stripped naked. His left arm is passed behind his back, palm and fingers upward, resting on his right shoulder blade. His right arm is put up, his hand extended palm outward and fingers down over his right shoulder blade. A very strong string is fastened around the left thumb, over which there is generally a case of some kind to keep the strings from cutting the flesh. In the same manner the right thumb is tied to the same string, after which the two thumbs are drawn closely together. To this string holding the thumbs there is fastened a rope that extends through a pulley in the ceiling, over through another pulley on the side wall and then down to a hook on the side of the wall.

The "examiner" thus ties up a prisoner who has refused to give such testimony as is desired, goes to the rope and jerks it through the pulleys, and up the victim goes. To this string holding the thumbs there is fastened a rope that extends through a pulley in the ceiling, over through another pulley on the side wall and then down to a hook on the side of the wall.

The "examiner" thus ties up a prisoner who has refused to give such testimony as is desired, goes to the rope and jerks it through the pulleys, and up the victim goes. To this string holding the thumbs there is fastened a rope that extends through a pulley in the ceiling, over through another pulley on the side wall and then down to a hook on the side of the wall.

He is then beaten on back, stomach, other organs and on his sides under the arms, the instrument used being a sort of frayed rattan switch. The switching does not always bring blood upon a tough skin, but it is described as acutely painful. Every blow seems to cut deep into the flesh.

Some who have experienced this method of judicial snation have said that they have seen by the clock on the wall that they were kept hanging more than an hour before they became unconscious under the agony.

At times the examiners would ask them to confess. If there was no answer a lighted cigarette was touched to the flesh to see if the prisoner was still conscious.

If unconscious the rope was unloosed, the prisoner dropped, and cold water was thrown on him until he was brought to. This portion of the exercises was conducted by the physician.

"I was killed and brought back to life three times," declared one of the prisoners in open court, graphically describing the impressions made upon him by this method of procedure.

While in the midst of this torture long statements are written out which are said to be the man's "confession." The next day these statements are read to him and his assent is demanded.

"You said yesterday," the examiner declares. The prisoner pronounces them false—things that he could never have dreamed of. He gives testimony to prove his statements, such as he had given at the time or away from the place.

No alibis are permitted. The examiner hits him over the ears. Men have said they are unable to hear for weeks. Or he is kicked in the pit of the stomach and carried out unconscious. Perhaps he is in the physician's hands for a week. He is brought back and told that several others have

HOW PRETENDER SELECTED A BRIDE

New Light Thrown on Episode
by Publication of Windsor Records.

ONE PRINCESS TOO FAT

Tsar's Daughter, "a Little Lank," Danced "but Indifferently" and Was "Crabbed" and "Ricketly."

[Special Despatch.]
LONDON, Saturday.

SOME fresh light is now thrown by the Windsor records on the tortuous negotiations that accompanied the Old Pretender's search for a bride. The son and heir of James II. of England, he was born a few months before his father fled the country before William of Orange (William III.). During the whole of his life the Pretender, who was known by the Jacobites as James III., was the centre of attempts to regain the English throne for the Stuarts.

The importance of James' speedy marriage was frequently insisted on by his adherents, as is manifest in their correspondence. Many interesting letters bearing on this subject are found in the calendar of the Stuart papers belonging to the King and preserved at Windsor Castle, which was issued this week by the Historical Manuscripts Commission.

In 1713 the affair of the Princess of Modena, daughter of the Duke of Modena, to whom the Pretender seems to have been genuinely attached, was quite at an end. There was next a proposal that the Pretender should marry the Princess Sophia of Hanover. In March 1717 the Earl of Oxford sent "instructions" to Elizabeth Swift or Mrs. Ogilvie, saying: "I can never advise him to marry a subject of his own, for there are few or none in England but what the blood is adulterated by matching with citizens, merchants, lawyers or worse, which would bring the royal family into contempt."

But Sir Henry Stirling gave a bad report of the Princess. She was fat and appeared likely to grow more so. And she had bad teeth. Moreover, the King of Sweden was supposed to have designs on her himself.

Yet the all important quest for a bride was not relinquished. The Tsar in October, 1717, spontaneously offered one of his daughters in marriage with James. The daughter in question, known as "the Princess of the North," was probably the eldest—Anna, afterward Duchess of Holstein. Though she was said to be only thirteen, the Pretender himself was anxious for the marriage. He wrote to the Duke of Ormonde: "For God's sake get me soon out of this desert and well engaged with the Tsar's marriage. I long with impatience to hear from you about that, for I daily like it better. I find it more and more to be of the last consequence for the trade."

Yet, in spite of the efforts of the Pretender's adherents, the project did not reach a satisfactory conclusion. For in March, 1718, the Tsar withdrew his offer. Meanwhile, the Duke of Marlborough, who had not received news of the proposal that the Pretender should marry the Tsar's daughter, had instructed Charles Wogan, a zealous Jacobite, to go to Germany in search of eligible princesses. As a wife, Wogan started from Paris on his long travels in search of a wife for the Pretender. He visited the courts of Baden, Baden, at Rastadt, and Baden Durlach, at Durlach.

To the Duke of Marlborough wrote stating that at first he had little hope of seeing Prince Lewis of Baden's daughter "in her nursery," she was only thirteen—"of the size was generally said to be seven or, at most, eight." When finally he discovered Wogan described her as a "complete miniature in flesh and blood." She "had fair hair, pretty eyes, features and shape, but all little to a degree that it is not reasonable nor scarce natural for any man to think of her." She danced "but indifferently, which with her extreme littleness and womanly crabbedness at the same time, would make one imagine she is or has been ricketly." In short, her smallness made her unsuitable as a wife.

But Wogan recommended the two daughters of the Countess of Furstenberg, whom he saw at Rastadt. The first was married to the elder, who was twenty-three, was that there was some resemblance about her nose and the upper part of her cheeks, proceeding from some small pimples. The younger girl was "a little plump," but she was "plump enough." He added, "She has light brown hair, very good skin, her eyes black, very fine and lively, her features agreeable and her face rather lengthy." She had a "great deal of wit and conversation," and danced extremely well.

The end of the search is described by Mr. A. E. W. Mason in his novel "Clementina." The beautiful young Princess Marie Clementina Sobieski, granddaughter of John Sobieski, the warrior King of Poland, was selected to marry the Pretender. In spite of well nigh insuperable obstacles Wogan conveyed her from Innsbruck, Tyrol, where she was kept a virtual prisoner, to Italy, where on September 1, 1718, she was married to the Pretender. She bore him two sons, one being Charles Edward Stuart, the Young Pretender, or "Bonnie Prince Charlie."

TO TEACH CHILDREN COMMON POLITENESS

[Special Despatch.]
PARIS, Saturday.

A LEAGUE for the propagation of politeness and courtesy has just been founded in Paris under the presidency of Mme. Andrée d'Albert, who represented the women of France at the last Peace Congress at The Hague. The object of the league is to conduct a crusade against rudeness and vulgarity in every form, and to re-establish that reign of courtesy and true gallantry for which France was so long renowned, but which, alas! has so nearly disappeared under the pressure of twentieth century conditions of life.

"In default of real benevolence and self-abnegation, which are to-day the characteristics of only a privileged few, we want," said Mme. Andrée d'Albert in an interview, "to induce people to be at least polite and courteous toward one another, instead of rudely manifesting unnecessary hostility on every possible occasion." "For instance, when a little boy in a crowded carriage rises to offer his seat to a lady, we do not want his mother to say to many mothers do at present—'Sit down, you have paid for your seat.' A little boy, however good his natural disposition, brought up with these ideas, would never grow up courteous and gallant, as Frenchmen were formerly." "Politeness costs nothing, and yet it will do much to remove the sharp angles of life."

ANNUAL MASSACRE IN FRANCE HEAVY

In Surrey the Council Has Taken Official Action to Guard the Destroyers of Insect Pests.

[Special Despatch.]
LONDON, Saturday.

IF there is any truth in the popular belief that a severe winter is foretold in the early flight of the swallows, the winter of 1913 promises to be exceptionally rigorous.

In this connection the diminution in the numbers of the small migratory birds is beginning to attract the attention of the farming population and authorities of England as well as on the Continent.

The parish council of Ewell, in Surrey, has just appealed to the Board of Agriculture to take steps to prevent the wholesale destruction of these invaluable insect destroyers. In a resolution passed at a recent meeting the council called the attention of the president of the Board of Agriculture to the increase in the blight and in winged insects in England, and attributed as its possible cause the reduction in the number of swallows, martins and swifts annually arriving in the British Islands.

"This reduction," continues the resolution, "is caused, in the opinion of a very large number of people, by the methods adopted in killing those birds."

"In certain foreign countries so serious is this state of things that the council begs the president of the Board of Agriculture to use his influence with the government to endeavor to induce those countries most interested to have these beneficial birds protected."

The Daily Mail, which published the resolution to-day, remarks that vigorous steps are being taken in France by the bird protection societies, supported by the press, to create conditions favorable to the increase of the bird population, both resident and migratory. Agriculturists are being taught that the wholesale destruction of insectivorous birds is a most short sighted policy, as it leaves the crops exposed to the ravages of insects.

What a massacre of small birds takes place annually during the migration is indicated in the official statistics. Of the small birds captured by various devices in one department alone, Meurthe et Moselle, the number destroyed in September and October amounted last year to 1,148,000.

In the South of France the small birds taken in nets number several millions annually.

In view of such statistics it is not surprising that the agricultural districts are complaining of the increase of crop destroying insects.

A campaign of education also is being undertaken among the city dwellers, who are beginning to realize that the veritable plague of flies, mosquitoes and winged pests generally, which in late years has made city life intolerable in the summer months, is one consequence of the ruthless war made on small birds during their annual migratory passages over the different parts of the Continent.

WEARS BLACK SHIRT WITH EVENING DRESS

Authority, However, Declares That
White Is the Only Permissible Color.

[Special Despatch.]
LONDON, Saturday.

GREAT excitement has been aroused among the dress experts of the West End by the appearance of an unknown man wearing evening dress and a black shirt front in the stalls of several theatres lately.

Some startling new designs in shirt fronts have been produced recently owing to the tailors' strike, as fashionable young men who find themselves unable to exercise their taste in new shirts have instinctively turned to the shirtmaker, who, unaffected by the tailors' troubles, can embody his customers' latest ideas in shirt fronts and thus to some extent alleviate their sufferings.

The highest authorities on dress shirts have their shops in the Burlington Arcade, where rumors of still more daring innovations which are threatened since the advent of the black-shirted man are being eagerly discussed by the artists who are responsible for the newest designs.

"I do not think that the black shirt front is likely to find lasting popularity in England," said Mr. James Drew, the court shirtmaker, of the Burlington Arcade. The idea probably originated in France, where black underclothing has found considerable popularity.

"I remember making black evening shirts and collars for the late Marquis of Anglessey—who was notorious for his eccentricity in dress—but he used to wear his black shirts with a white suit of evening dress."

"The proper shirt front for smart London wear is of fancy pique, and white is the only permissible color. I regard such freak garments as the black shirt as being one of the signs of degeneration in dress which is becoming noticeable among London men."

WOOD ALCOHOL IN LABORERS' STOMACHS

Montreal City Analyst Finds

Poison in Viscera of Dead Russians.

Montreal, Sept. 13.—Wood alcohol has been discovered in the viscera of the Russian laborers who died some time ago from using this beverage, by Dr. St. George, city analyst. This poison is composed of five drams, about one and a quarter teaspoonsful, is sufficient to kill a man and a dose of two and a half drams will produce paralysis of the optic nerves. This symptom was manifested in a number of the dead Russian laborers.

Some of the bottles seized by the police also contained wood alcohol, it was definitely established.

A detailed report of the examination will be sent to Coroner McMahon to-day.

QUEBEC DOCTOR WAS IN CHINESE TROUBLES

Back from an exciting experience in China, Dr. Ashley Lindsay, son of D. B. Lindsay, of the firm of Holt, Renfrew & Co., will to-morrow evening give a story of his experiences during the troublous times in the Chinese Empire at the Methodist Church to-morrow evening. Five years ago, Dr. and Mrs. Lindsay left Quebec for China.

During their tenure in China the experience of Dr. and Mrs. Lindsay has been replete with exciting incidents and happenings, not the least of which was when they were compounded for three months last year, when the city of Cheng-Tu was closed and foreigners prevented from entry or exit, shut off from communication with the outside world, and for a time with scanty provisions while the Manchu dynasty and the republicans were battling for supremacy. Cheng-Tu, where Dr. Lindsay was stationed is what is termed a closed port, whereby is meant that no foreigners can do business within its walls, but this barrier is in many instances overcome by foreign firms taking into partnership Chinese and also employing Chinese clerks and workmen.

The public who are frequently called upon to travel over the Canadian Northern-Quebec and the Quebec & Lake St. John Railroads are too frequently heard to complain of the approach across St. Andrew street to the railway station. The cause of the general complaint is the large and deep puddle of water that is formed on St. Andrew street after each fall of rain that extends in length the whole frontage of the station. Travellers are compelled to wade through it before they can reach the trains. There is a considerable hollow reaching along the roadway, caused by sinking of the street, which the City Road Committee should lose no time in having remedied.
