Next week's weather By ERIC NEAL

May 27 to June 3

Mornings sunny and hot, afternoons sultry, evening heat thunders to open this pleasant week.

Tornado conditions develop in central Ontario, along the Ottawa valley and around Lake Champlain. Frequently at this time a twister will cross Ile Perrot onto Montreal Island, traverse the two aerodromes and leave by the Pointe-aux-Trembles bridges. Small boats can be blown from their moorings. Flooded underpasses probable.

Still unsettled, but mainly sunny and very hot through the weekend.

Mosquitos and black flies arrive.

Newly elected group

Bank Investigator confidence game is back again

The 'Bank Investigators' are at it again, this time with a new twist. They pretend to be police sergeants.

The group to hit this area recently seem to have been working their way east from Calgary and according to police here have met with no success so far in Westmount, although two attempts have been made.

It is the same tale they tell on the telephone to selected older residents who are assumed to have large bank balances however; a suspected bank teller is being investigated and will the person called co-operate to catch him attempting to make of with some of the depositor's account?

The public-spirited bank customer is asked to go by taxi to his bank and withdraw a large sum of cash, and then return home where the 'policeman' will be waiting. The supposed plain clothesman will then return the money to the bank to check for any discrepancy and the withdrawal is not required to accompany him. That of course is the last seen of the 'policeman' or the withdrawal.

Police warn that if such a proposal is suggested to anyone on the telephone the receiver of the call should immediately phone police and the bank.

They add, that needless to say, neither the police nor the banks ever investigate in this way.

Names preferred to numbers here

The uniformed men of the Westmount Police Force will be easy to name from now on according to officials here. They will wear a small name badge on their right tunic pocket.

The men of our local force have never sported a number badge on their jacket as do most uniformed policemen although one on the cap has always been part of necessary equipment.

W.M.A. members make contribution to meeting

For the first time since its formation in 1908 the Westmount Municipal Association members had no questions from the floor at the end of its 59th annual meeting at Victoria Hall on May 17.

Letters were read from members wanting to bring to the attention of the meeting certain conditions in the city however, and

Police warn residents and visitors

Visitors who stay as guests of local households during this season of Expo are warned by police here not to park cars, locked or unlocked, leaving baggage or anything else inside of them which can be seen from a window of the vehicle.

Door locks can be broken and windows smashed to get at the inviting contents, and the result can be at the least a spoiled holiday and a delayed departure.

Such was the case for a lady staying on Grosvenor above Sherbrooke last week, when the contents of two suitcases left in her car at the back of the property were found distributed widely over several adjacent gardens and lawns.

A window in the car was discovered smashed. The visitor expected to leave that morning for England.

Mail boxes targets for thieves here

Twice last week hold-over mail boxes were broken into here and their contents taken in daylight robberies.

The box near Barat Road and Signal was opened with a key between nine and ten on the morning of May 17, and the next day these included a complaint for the second time about the lack of bus service in the Summit Circle area. The Montreal Transportation Commission reported again to the Association's query that a lack of passengers for such a service had made the busline unprofitable and it was therefore discontinued. Other complaints from the top of the mountain included the conditions of paths at Summit Park, and the fact that winter snow dumping was killing trees in the area. Residents were also disturbed by the obstruction of their view which was being caused by the recent construction of high rise buildings below them.

Mr. A. J. Livinson, who submitted 20 suggestions by mail had some of them answered by President R. H. Stevenson, and was invited to comment on others from the floor. Mr. Stevenson assured the meeting that the Centennial train would make a stop at the C.P.R. station here, which was Mr. Livinson's first suggestion.

Mayor Tucker replied to his suggestion that citizens should make a visit as a group to the Westmount Plaza at Expo, with the information that a visit was planned for school children of Westmount for September.

Mr. Livinson included in his suggestions that a symbol be designed for W.M.A. and that the Dorchester extension be called the Queensway to honor Queen Elizabeth.

New baskets soon is official promise

City hall has chosen a design for the litter-baskets the city has been expecting, and they should be in place soon.

They will be made of metal with a wire outside casing, a combination which provides both the strength and lightness needed to ensure maximum usefulness. The metal liner will give protection from the wind which tends to displace the contents of the strictly wire baskets, and will

Quebec prepares bill

Go-ahead for housing hoped for soon here

Officials here have been informed by the Quebec Government that Westmount's long awaited private bill is being prepared for printing. This means that it should come before parliament now in session sometime this month.

The Bill which was presented to the government in January of this year to go before the Private Bills Committee, seeks to render promised assistance to Selby Street families needing it through expropriation of their homes by the TransCanada Highway, a joint Federal and Provincial undertaking.

Altogether 239 families will be forced to leave their homes due to the new highway construction but no more than 50 of them are entitled to consideration under the National Housing Act, the assistance the city of Westmount must have to proceed with its plan.

Since Westmount's present charter does not allow it to enter the field of public housing, to proceed with its plans, the city must ask permission of the provincial government. When this has been granted it will then be possible to seek an agreement with the Federal Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, which could assist the city in financing the program.

The housing for the displaced families is planned to be created in small units which would be woven into the fabric of the community rather than in one block which would tend to set the relocated families apart.

This will constitute what is felt to be a new concept of public housing in Canada.

The city's plan is to build the fifty units in the area which has been set aside for urban renewal, and expects to obtain the properties needed by amicable agreement.

City planners are expected to proceed without delay in implementing this long awaited scheme once Government approval has been given.

PAPT convene to discuss Bill 25

Representatives of Quebec's 6,700 active Protestant teachers face one of the most important series of meetings in the history of their Association, the Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers of Quebec (PAPT). On Friday, May 26 and Saturday, May 27, 1967, delegates will gather at Montreal's Queen's Hotel to convene PAPT's Annual General Meeting. Bill 25 and its implications will dominate the scene.

Among the many problems facing these delegates will be:

- the extent to which the Association is prepared to condone the apparent trend to total provincial negotiation of all aspects of teacher economic welfare;
- the relationship of the PAPT with her sister teacher associations in this province, and, in particular, with the CIC;
- the place of the professional educator in the process of educational reform;
- the place of the parent in the process of educational reform;
- relationships between the PAPT and her branches on the one hand, and the Quebec Association of Protestant School Boards on the other.

There will be two additional highlights of these sessions. One, a tradition at these Annual General Meetings, will be the installation of a new slate of Officers for the PAPT. In-coming President will be Ian Trasler, and he will replace Ann MacLeish. The inauguration will take place on Friday afternoon, May 26, 1967.

The second high point will be a banquet in honour of Dr. Howard Billings who is retiring as Associate Deputy Minister of Education. Dr. Billings has been actively involved in Quebec's educational process for forty years. The banquet will take place on the evening of Friday, May 26, 1967.

N.D.P. convention elects local men to Executive

Two residents of the new Westmount Federal Riding have been elected vice-presidents of the New Democratic Party of Quebec at the party's recent convention in Montreal.

They are Richard Comber, a 27-year-old insurance agent and Marcel Lalonde, a 25-year-old economics student. Both have been members of the party's provincial executive for over two years and are members of the NDP Federal Council. Comber was recently elected to the party's Federal Executive.

Comber, who was campaign organizer in NDG in the 1965 election is presently managing Prof. Laurier LaPierre's campaign in the new Lachine Riding.

Lalonde, a former president of the New Democratic Youth of Quebec, is presently a vice-president of the Federal New Democratic Youth.

Among others elected to the party's Provincial Executive were Professors Charles Taylor and Laurier LaPierre, both residents of Westmount. Roland Morin, 1965 NDP candidate in Maisonneuve-Rosemount is the new party president.

My Responsibility as a Canadian

By PATRICIA COONEY

Many people today are of the opinion that the finale of Canada as a nation is approaching and that the near future will bring a merging of Canada with the United States. A certain number of people holding these pessimistic views on Canadian life actually live within our boundaries. This attitude must be promptly corrected. It is our duty, as Canadians, to be proud of our country and to support her policies and ideals, not to degrade her. Canada is one of the youngest nations, but is by no means one of the most backward. On the contrary, since John A. Macdonald brought about Confederation in 1867, Canadian achievements have been astounding, and will continue to expand. Canada now stands tall in the world and is not inferior, but rather she is becoming one of the leading nations of the world. We, as Canadians, should not be too eager to cast aside our Canadian heritage, for we would have to go far to surpass the greatness and nobility of Canada.

We are a people from colonial times, have been English-speaking or French-speaking and, who have grown to include a multiplicity of other tongues, representative of diverse origins, creeds, and color. The priceless cultural and institutional heritages of the Canadian people, found in the history of such diverse groups as the English and French, are factors which contributed to the formation of one nation. Our heritage should become personal to each individual Canadian and we must readily defend it in the face opposition.

One of the great achievements of Canada is her effectiveness as a middle power. Canada has been firmly established as such a power and has, on several occasions, played the role of mediator to pave the road toward friendly relations. Canada has also contributed actively in world affairs. This is seen in her hastened participation in the World Wars. Her ability to lead, combined with undaunted courage, affected victories for her side. Also, many of the past Canadians have made priceless contributions to the world and we should be very proud of them. Sir Frederick Banting, discoverer of insulin, Alexander Graham Bell, Emily Carr, and Sir Arthur Currie are but a few of many eminent Canadians who have contributed to the benefit of the world. Expo 67 is but another immense achievement of Canada. Her potential is great and she has given Canadians much to be proud of. A still better future awaits us and

Arrogance treats people as 'cases'

DOCTORS and lawyers — too many of them — have something in common.

Arrogance.

A presumption in their professional relations with other breeds of man that the mysteries and majesty of medicine and law include a license to make their own rules of behavior and etiquette. As professionals, they are of course free to conduct themselves one to another within their callings as they see fit. Indeed, their codes in this respect might be commended to other compartmentalized segments of human endeavor; business could emulate their ethics and self-discipline to advantage.

Even so, these very qualities appear to generate among medical and legal people a form of closed corporation or monasticism which has the effect of placing them both apart and, worse, above the rest of society. In a bygone day this isolation was perhaps inevitable and superiority was real. With their clergy-scholar brethren, they were the learned and elite until comparatively recent times.

* * *

OTHER and new sciences and disciplines, technology, universal suffrage, the broad exposure to education of nearly everyone has changed all that. Power and wealth now repose in all sorts of places. Brains abound in all walks of life. The old professions, themselves growing porous in their onetime monolithic structures, stand exposed, challenged and in some areas superseded by new areas of achievement, of the nuclear physicist, the social and political scientist, the engineer, the space explorer, the masters of trade and commerce.

The so-called "masses" are no more. Even the huge aggregations of people who are "industry" are, in our society, well-paid, comfortable and, through trade union and association, organized and powerful.

To discover just how archaic and out-of-touch lawyers and doctors have become one need only follow, for any few grab-sample days, the rounds of a social worker attempting to straighten out the problems of an unfortunate who is ill and, more often than not, has attendant problems with our entangled system of law.

Hospital and court corridors have a weary, depressing sameness to those forced to spend long hours waiting in them, even the smells of antiseptics or mustiness becoming one.

The waiting rooms of group or individual private practices — of doctor or lawyer — are little better, except that the other people waiting with you likely are more interesting and alert, more angry and frustrated than defeated.

* * *

BUT all must wait. Why should the rest of society wait interminably on doctors and lawyers?

Why should unkept appointments, offhand brusqueness, curt referrals to other places and times and, above all, time-wasting delays be

The only painting of Leonardo da Vinci to be found in an American Gallery, is his painting, "Ginevra de Benci," which was recently purchased by the National Gallery of Art in Washington. It is reported that Prince Francis Josef II of Liechtenstein sold this painting to the Gallery for $5,800,000. Collectors of "Atrt" on stamps will recall this painting, as it was the design of the 10 rapen value of the Works of Art series issued in 1949 by Liechtenstein.

On May 15th the Philippines issued a set of three stamps, 5 and 20 sentimo and 2 piso, commemorating the Battle of Bataan, printed four-colored rotogravure. The stamps depict a reproduction of a painting by Fernando Amorsolo.

YOUR MP REPORTS
OTTAWA

The successful conclusion of the Kennedy Round of tariff negotiations at Geneva last week is a historic turning-point for world trade. What will it mean for Canadian industry?

The lowering of tariffs will provide increased access to the Canadian market for foreign manufacturers and increased access to foreign markets for Canadian manufacturers. To retain its share of our own market and take advantage of new opportunities in other countries, Canadian industry must become more competitive in improving our products and developing new ones, the work of our scientists, engineers and designers will assume greater importance.

Recently some experts in the Department of Industry compiled a forecast of future developments in Canadian science and technology. Here are some of the highlights.

In order to reduce noise and air pollution, gasoline automobiles will gradually be replaced by electric cars for intra-city travel and short-distance commuting. Initially they will probably be powered by high energy batteries, although fuel cells may eventually be used.

Development will continue on high speed trains such as the turbo-train now being built by United Aircraft of Canada Limited, which is capable of speeds of 120 m.p.h. Speeds up to 300 m.p.h. are technically feasible. Even higher speeds may well be possible using air cushion supported trains, i.e. tracked hovercraft.

The development and use of the hydrofoil craft will increase by 1975 hydrofoil technology might permit commercial vehicles that could travel 60 m.p.h. to 70 m.p.h. and carry 100 passengers and baggage in a 100-foot vessel.

There will be continued rapid progress in computer technology. Computer speeds will increase possibly as much as 25 times in the next ten years. Memory devices will improve markedly and present storage capacities of a few million alphabetical or numerical characters will be succeeded by memories with capacities of 10 million to 108 million characters.

Recent developments in low temperature techniques have made feasible the liquefaction of natural gas and have opened the way to storing and transporting natural gas in the liquid state. In addition to making it possible to export natural gas on a world wide basis, the liquefaction of natural gas will offer new opportunities for a score of industries. For example, shipbuilders will be called upon to build new tankers, and the construction industry to provide facilities for liquefaction, storage, loading and unloading.

The use of trace chemicals or hormones to control the growth and development of plants offer interesting possibilities for improving crop yields of all kinds.

Work is progressing in the United Kingdom on the development of an electronically controlled household cleaning robot, which can be pre-set to vacuum, polish or otherwise clean all nature of surfaces, and might well lead to a completely automated home care system of appliances in the future.

You Say

Gift check asked

SIRS:

The city of Westmount makes it necessary for anyone who would construct a building in the city to have their plans for such a building approved by the city engineers department, and I suppose that the proposed building would also have to meet standards of suitability and appearance.

What standards are asked for when a gift is made to the city?

I would not like to give the impression that gifts should be discouraged, but should they not have to pass a test for suitability and aesthetic worth?

Our new park is improved now that the plastic shelter has been removed from Sherbrooke St., and I understand that was a gift to the city. What is to prevent a well-meaning but misguided individual or organization from donating a badly designed memorial or whatever and spoil the park appearance again.

If such gifts had to be acceptable to a committee of citizens set up for the purpose, we would not have to suffer the consequences of the unsuitable ones and the embarrassment of getting rid of them later, to say nothing of the expense.

Lover of good design.

imposed upon those needing and seeking medical and legal advice and help?

Time once was perhaps precious only to the "professional." Today it is valuable to most everyone. The wasted afternoon or day can cost the client several times the amount of the fee.

Doctors and lawyers who regard people only as "cases" invite these same people, who comprise today's society, to invoke the very state-imposed which professionals rightly fear.

Resident remembers

SIRS:

As the oldest resident of Argyle avenue, I was asked to supply some information and several photographs to help with the production of that very well prepared book "Old Westmount."

There was one item that I forgot to mention, and apparently the others who collected the material missed it too.

That was the old steam-powered pumping station on Clarke avenue. I remember as a child seeing a team of 24 horses hauling the heavy machinery up the hill on a sleigh. That would be about 1902. I lived with my parents at 473 Argyle avenue, and right behind our back yard was the Greenshields Estate reaching to Clarke avenue. On summer nights we could hear the engine chugging and if the wind was right (or wrong) we could smell the smoke from a very tall brick smokestack.

The pumping station has been gone for many years and only recently has the site been built on. Two houses, almost ready for occupancy are on the spot where the old foundation was visible for a long time. Prior to 1922 Thornhill avenue only reached from Stanton street to Argyle. It was extended to Clarke avenue about the time when Anwoth road came into being. The pumping station was about half way between Sherbrooke and Montrose.

Lieutenant-Colonel Norman E. With him are Major E. C. Cadotte, standing left, and Major Douglas Brown. The monument will feature coats of arms of all 10 provinces and two territories and is being built as the regiment's Centennial project, to mark the long association of the local unit with the City of Westmount.

this Fall, a gift of the 3rd Field Engineer Regiment, Royal Canadian Engineers (Militia), based at the Hillside Armory in Westmount.

The monument, which will commemorate all 10 provinces and two Territories of Canada, is being constructed entirely by members of the Militia unit as a Centennial project.

The base of the monument will be semi-circular with 12 individual panels. Encased in each panel will be the coat of arms of each province and the territories. Near one side will be the 50-foot aluminum flagpole.

The project is one of many Centennial projects being carried out by Militia units all across Canada.

Lieutenant-Colonel Norman E. Cooke, commanding officer of 3 Field Engineer Regiment, said that "this particular project is to mark the long association this regiment has had with the City of Westmount."

The City of Westmount will officially accept the monument and flagpole at a public ceremony sometime in early Fall, but probably at the time of the arrival of the Centennial Train in Westmount, September 2.

The monument will be located in Westmount Park, facing Melville avenue, between Sherbrooke and Maisonneuve. It will be at the northern end of the existing play-

by E. C. Gannon

Travelling at a speed of over 150 miles per hour while seated comfortably at one's dinner table was the unusual experience of members of the Westmount Rotary Club last week through the medium of a thrilling motion picture shown by Ross de St. Croix, one of their members who is a dyed-in-the-wool expert at car racing himself.

Mr. St. Croix in his preliminary remarks warned the members that they would get a thrill watching the picture and should they be a bit queasy about speed they were to leave before the film was shown as it might affect their digestion because of its realism. None left however but the film was a real thriller.

The film was shot from the seat of one of the world's greatest car racers, Juan Manuel Fangio, noted Argentine car racing champion who was the world's most successful driver up to 1958 when he retired. During his career he won 16 Grand Prix races and 46 World Driver's Championships which were inaugurated in 1950.

The members held on to their chairs and leaned sideways as they rounded curves at over 100 miles per hour as they watched the track ahead and the scenery flashing past. It was a great thrill for all without the danger of crashing. It was all very realistic and showed in detail what a great car driver Fangio was during his meteoric career.

Don Ross, popular member of the club was tendered a standing ovation and presented with a handsome mantle clock as a memento from members who expressed their regrets at his resignation and transfer to Toronto where he will live and carry on as a member of Rotary. President Frank Starr read a letter of appreciation from Mr. Rose on his many happy recollections with members of the Westmount club and his regrets at having to sever his association with local Rotarians which he had enjoyed over the many years.

The Westmount Club has offered to supply two volunteers to a Rotary table at the Klondike Restaurant at Expo and Don Whitely has asked to be advised dates members can attend during June, July and August. Volunteers are requested to be at the Klondike to greet visiting members from 10.30 a.m. to 2.30 p.m. on these days.

Let's face it. Seagram's Plant Tour isn't for just anybody.

Maybe buses give you claustrophobia. Or your feet hurt. In which case, we'll count you out.

But if you've a lively curiosity—would enjoy seeing the world's most technically-advanced distillery—take a scenic bus ride with us, from the Sheraton Mt. Royal to LaSalle.

As you know, it takes years to produce a perfectly-blended whisky. Many intricate steps are involved. Some as new as Expo . . . some go back a good 500 years to when the first Scot distilled something called uisgebeatha . . . making good whisky an integral part of man's world.

See it all as our guest—just 2½ hours from tour-start to finish.

Park Church Sunday School presents play about St. Paul

This year, at Westmount Park Sunday School, the INTERMEDIATES HAVE BEEN STUDYING THE LIFE OF St. Paul. In connection with their study, they have made posters of the places St. Paul visited, a map of the Mediterranean World, a time-line of his life, and, with the assistance of their teachers, they have written a short play.

Entitled "The Encounter" the play deals with St. Paul's early life, his conversion, and his meeting with Ananias in Damascus. It is written in modern style. The play will be presented before the usual coffee hour in Webster Hall on Sunday, 28th May, when all the projects will be on display. The cast of the play is drawn from both the Intermediate and Junior departments.

Pianists win top awards at recent music festivals

by Andrea Facci

This week, St. Paul's is proud to announce that twenty girls from the school took part in the Music Festival held in the last week of April at Victoria hall.

Out of these entries, three girls, Danielle Premeau, Denise Boucher and Monique Armand attained top places in the semi-finals.

Another word on music — the school was also well represented at a Piano Contest held on Saturday, May 13, at Marguerite Bourgeoys College.

Out of 25 entries from the city, the following girls from St. Paul's took first, second and third places; Monique Armand Isabela Babinska and Cathy Erney tied for first place, with Sandra Ricard and Denise Boucher taking second place and Julia Fisher and Danielle Primeau coming third.

Needless to say, these girls are all outstanding pianists, and much credit for this is due to their excellent teachers, and sister Francoise Maynard, who is the head of the school's Music Department.

Congratulations to all for their most remarkable achievements.

Rotary Carnival cancelled for this year only

by E. C. Ganon

One of Westmount's great attractions the Rotary Carnival, held annually by the Westmount Rotary Club has been cancelled for this year.

The Carnival which has become an annual event to raise funds for their community work has bowed out to Expo 67. A decision was made by the executive to postpone the event which was to have been held from June 13 to 17 this year.

"It was with great reluctance that the decision was made stated President Frank Starr in informing members of the cancellation. "But in view of the popularity of Expo the directors decided it was the best thing to do. This however does not cancel the sale of books which will be stepped up more than ever," he said.

The carnival idea will still remain alive and be bigger and better than ever next year.

Council of Women report on Health and Welfare

Of importance in the welfare field was the Survey of Child Care and Family Agencies of Greater Montreal serving the English speaking Protestant community. Our social welfare chairman was a member of the Citizens' Study Committee. We have kept abreast of legislation concerning child abuse and neglect which continues to increase.

A study was made of services available to the unmarried mother. A serious lack in our welfare services is the failure to provide her with tuition. The Canada Assistance Plan was studied and the welfare committee was represented on the Committee on Urban Renewal and Low Rental Housing. There is still a desperate lack of housing for working girls.

In the recreation field, two letters were sent to the Provincial Minister of Tourism, Fish and Game — one protesting the dumping of sewage from the Oka provincial camp site into the Lake of Two Mountains and the other emphasizing the need for adequate camp and trailer sites within

President M. E. Fargey reports to Montreal Council of Women

Education
The field of Education has continued to be of prime concern. In our brief to the Superior Council of Education, on Volumes IV and V of the Parent Report, we urged non-confessional schools with division along language rather than religious lines, with gradual integration at the administrative level, using joint facilities where possible with the object of encouraging bilingualism and greater understanding between our two cultures. An important item in this same brief was a request that financing of education be based on a broad system of taxation such as is now used to finance other public services, rather than on the inequitable basis of property tax.

Recreation and Public Safety often go hand in hand. We have petitioned the government to enforce uniform safety standards and regular inspection of ski-lifts, and to implement laws regarding the operation of snowmobiles.

Social Welfare
At the invitation of the Montreal Council of Social Agencies we are participating in two very important studies presently underway — the Survey of Child Care and Family Agencies of Greater Montreal in the English speaking Protestant community and the Committee on Urban Renewal and Low Rental Housing.

At the instigation of our Economics Committee we have submitted requests to the Minister of Education for inclusion in the school curriculum of courses in simple economics including the management of income, marketing and budgeting. This committee also prepared a study in depth on "Women in the Labour Force."

The White Paper on Immigration released by the Federal Government has been studied and developments closely watched, and resolutions urging our Federal Government's aid in assisting children who are casualties of the war in Viet Nam have been submitted to Council by our International Affairs Committee.

The Legislation Committee, as well as assisting in the Preparation of resolutions from our other committees, has at the invitation of The Quebec Civil Code Reform Commission, studied and presented Council's observations on several of the Commission's briefs to the Provincial Government, e.g., Matrimonial Regimes, Adoptions.

Communication
Included in the aims and objects of Councils of Women of Canada is "The Council shall serve as a medium of communication . . . Superior to all forms is personal contact. Our monthly mailings have included, as well as the news bulletin, copies of briefs and resolutions for study previous to presentation at a meeting. Without the service of our part time office secretary this form of communication would have been extremely difficult. Our annual Year Book gives us excellent two way communication between our Federated Societies themselves.

commuting distance of Montreal. Recreation and Leisure time are now one. The recreational committee was represented at the meetings of the Leisure Time Committee, La Confederation des Loisirs de Quebec and at the Meetings of the Parks and Playgrounds Association. A resolution was forwarded to the National Council urging the appointment of a National Chairman of Recreation.

The Public Health chairman points out that air pollution is a major issue in this city. There has been no further progress on flouridation for Montreal. The Public Health committee was represented on the Senior Citizens' Forum. We were represented also at a day conference sponsored by the Allied Jewish Community Services as well as a symposium on Aging by the Junior League. The problems of housing and chronic disease care are still paramount. This committee is working on an up-to-date booklet of services available for the aging.

Two resolutions from the Public Safety Committee were sent to the Attorney General of the Province of Quebec with a copy to the Minister of Tourism, Fish and Game. One urged the government to pass legislation enforcing a code of uniform safety standards and regular inspection of ski lifts and tows. The other asked that legislation be enacted to govern the age limit of persons operating snowmobiles, the number of persons permitted to ride on snowmobiles and that all such motorized vehicles be restricted to areas other than ski hills and trails.

Locksmiths feature keynote address

As their Centennial Project, the Master Locksmiths of Quebec, Inc. are holding a Locksmithing and Security Convention. This event is to be at 11 Hillside Ave., Westmount, Montreal, Quebec, on Saturday, Sunday and Monday, May 27th, 28th and 29th.

The MLOQ Convention will play host to some 200 locksmiths and their families from across Canada and the United States as well as from Overseas.

This Locksmithing and Security Convention will feature some so far untried ideas, among some are the OPEN-TO-THE-PUBLIC Saturday afternoon, May 27th. The purpose of this MEET YOUR LOCKSMITH program on their schedule of events is primarily to educate the public that the Locksmith is a professional craftsman working at a highly respected craft.

Sunday will be saturated with technical lectures, demonstrations and competitions. The programme will begin with a keynote address by the renowned Mr. Edwin Toepfer, Master of Master Locksmiths, followed by high caliber sessions covering the most modern security devices that will be available to the public, as well as their proper servicing procedures. Powerful competition is expected when the top experts will vie for honors in lock-picking, key impressing and key blank identification with trophies, sponsored by Dominion Lock Company and Volson Brewery.

May 29th has been proclaimed as LOCKSMITHS DAY AT EXPO 67, and locksmiths and their families will take a quick tour 'round the world at EXPO '67. May 29th will be observed as National Holiday, for Locksmiths.

which is now in the possession of Judge Guillermo Guevarra at Forbes Park. The design of the stamps portrays a woman representing Mother Philippines and a soldier representing the heroes of Bataan.

France's stamp program will be augmented by a duo to be issued May 29th. The first of these, 0.25F, to commemorate the 2nd century of the Veterinary School at Alfort, portrays the effigy of Professor Ramon at the entrance to the School. Professor Ramon (1886-1963), a graduate from the School at Alfort, will long be remembered for his discovery of the antitiphtheria and antitetanus inoculations, which has saved millions of people from the suffering and death resulting from these dread diseases. The stamp was designed and engraved by Haley and printing was in three colors by t a i l l e - d o u c e . The second stamp, 0.60F, is to pay tribute to one of her great scientists, Esnault-Pelterie, who passed away in 1957. Esnault-Pelterie is best remembered for his work on the field of atomic science and for having developed liquid oxygen under pressure as the fuel for interstellar rockets. This stamp was designed and engraved by Gandon and printing was by t a i l l e - d o u c e in grey and violet blue.

In recent years "Birds" on stamps has been a common subject and on April 27th East Germany utilized this theme on a set of six stamps, depicting the pictures of protected species of birds: 5 pfg — Barn owl; 10 pfg — Crane; 20 pfg — Peregrine falcon; 25 pfg — Bullfinch; 30 pfg — Kingfisher; 40 pfg — Blue roller. The stamps were printed by multicolored photogravure on unwatermarked paper. The collective work of the Berlin female graphic artists was chosen as the stamp designs for two stamps issued May 10th on the occasion of the XXth International Race of Peace 1967. Printing was in three and two colors respectively by offset process on paper watermarked with the DDR cross flowers in the denominations of: 10 pfg — Symbolic presentation with the Towns' Coat of Arms of Warsaw, Berlin and Prague with doves of peace; 25 pfg — Symbolic presentation with cyclists and doves of peace.

On May 13th special stamps were issued to pay tribute to the "Women in the Argentine History." Each stamp a 6 peso value, sepia, printed rotogravure, honor the following women for their contributions to Argentine history: Juana Manuela Gorriti, Juana Azurduy, Cecilia Grierson, Juana Manso and Afonsina Storni.

Centennial Essay . . .

wholehearted support of Canadian aspirations must be given.

Each Canadian also bears the responsibility of voting. He must remember that his vote will help decide the leaders of the country. This matter must be dealt with seriously for a vote lacking deliberation may throw the country into ruin. Canadians must also participate in Canadian affairs. The Confederation train marks the centenary of Canada's Confederation. It will recount the outstanding deeds of its past, its present development, and expectations of a still greater future. It shows many other facets of the social, artistic, and economical growth of our country. Many other celebrations will continue throughout the year and Canadians must enthusiastically take part. We must disprove any notion that Canadians are dull and passive. We must outwardly portray our love for this country, endowed with great wealth.

Expo 67 is a Canadian-directed undertaking of world importance. Its excellence reflects the coming age of Canada. It will contribute to mutual understanding by joining world nations culturally and economically. Canadians should be proud to announce individual support of this gigantic undertaking. Canadians must portray her real worth to the world and exhibit her ability to make vital decisions.

A very small minority of the world realize the countless benefits which Canada offers. The individual's responsibility is to make known the vastness of Canadian potential and wealth. Canada holds a strategic geographical position, opening four doors to the world. The numerous plains, mountains, and lakes portray the beauty of Canadian landscapes and seascapes. These factors, together with Canada's unsurpassed combination of natural resources, widely distributed within such vast domain, truly provide unlimited horizons. Canadians must boast of their immense wealth and publicize her countless opportunities. We must not take a back seat to anyone.

To influence foreigners, we must display warmth and hospitality and welcome freely men of any race, creed, and color. Only through the practice of Canadian ideals will they be publicized. We must defend our goals of democracy, equality, and freedom, and all other Canadian ideals.

To be truly worthy of the name Canadian we must carry our multiple responsibilities well. We must continue to strive, to seek, to find, and not to yield. Never must we buckle under opposition, but rather we must be proud of and defend our country and her ideals. We should swell with pride at the mention of 'Canadian' and continually endeavour to arouse such patriotism in our fellow Canadians and to demand respect from foreign countries through the display of all Canadian ideals.

Some form of bracket or stand has yet to be decided on, and also the color scheme, but the new baskets should be in place by the end of June.

City officials say when asked that they know there are very beautiful baskets (in key points only they point out) in other cities but they are discovered to be prohibitively expensive for Westmount, since the city would like to replace as many of the present ones as possible.

Those in present use which can be restored will be refurbished they say.

A householder of the area of Lansdowne Avenue saw a non-uniformed man open the box, put the enclosed bag into an old model car and drive away. She quickly informed police.

The blue-green boxes used by the Post Office to facilitate the delivery of mail have been the target for thefts of this kind for some time now in the Montreal area. Police say that the break-ins usually occur near a date when Government pension checks can be expected to be in the mail.

Lawn Bowling season opens with tournament

Lawn Bowlers of the West Bowling Club were happy Monday after the long winter months for this marks the opening of the lawn Bowling season.

H. H. Elliott, President of the club welcomed the members to a new season of bowling. He expressed his thanks to J. Forbes, Chairman of the greens committee and the green keeper, Dick Banks for the fine condition of the greens after a hard struggle due to lack of warm weather.

In introducing John Henderson, President of the Canadian Lawn Bowling Council he remarked that Mr. Henderson was Captain of the Canadian Team representing Canada in the First World Bowl Tournament held in Australia last October, returning with Silver Medals in the triples event, and Bronze Medals in the rinks event.

After thanking the President, Mr. Henderson announced that he had received a colored film of the Australian games with sound track and that this would be shown at the St. Matthias Church Hall on Friday, evening at 8 o'clock. He asked for a large turnout as this was by far one of the finest films on lawn bowling to be released and reminded them to bring along any friends who might be interested.

Next to be introduced was Geo. L. Knox, Chairman of the Canadian Championships and the Centennial Invitational Tournaments to be held at the Mount Royal Country Club.

In thanking the President, Mr.
