TRANSFORM ATHLETIC GROUNDS INTO MILITARY BASE

AUTHORITIES ESTIMATE ENROLMENT IN SCHOOLS HERE TO BREAK RECORD

Protestant Board Anticipates Registration of Over 3,000 Pupils — Catholic Board Also Reports Heavy Enrolment—Brother George Succeeds Brother Merry Alphonse as Principal of St. Leo's Academy

Although no official figures were available yesterday S. F. Kneeland, superintendent of Westmount Protestant Schools and Brother George, principal of St. Leo's Academy, stated that they anticipated a marked increase in enrolments over previous years. Protestant schools here opened on Wednesday and the two under the jurisdiction of the Catholic Board, St. Leo's and St. Paul's, started the term on Tuesday.

Mr. Kneeland stated that principals of all Protestant schools expected record enrolments, probably the highest in the history of the schools.

"It will be possible to accommodate but a very small number of pupils from surrounding municipalities," he stated. Hundreds of pupils who live in Notre Dame de Grace but reside near the border of Westmount or who are unable to be accommodated in N.D.G. schools and usually enrol in local classes, will have to go elsewhere this year, Mr. Kneeland said.

OLD ARMAMENT FACTORY NOW IN IDLENESS

Used for Manufacture in Last War — Being Demolished by Vagrants—Will be Used for Industrial Purposes

At the time when armament factories throughout the world are working on 24-hour shifts to supply the needs of the New World War the Peter Lyall Construction Company, on Claremont avenue below Western avenue, which produced thousands of six inch and 4.5 inch shells during the last conflict is today but a bare skeleton of a structure.

Contrary to general belief, however, the building was not torn down by a wrecking crew, but has been partially demolished by vagrants who have torn wood from its walls; relieved its windows of glass and have carted away all removable material from the interior of the structure.

When questioned yesterday the present owner of the building stated that he did not know what future use would be made of it. In all probability, he said, it would be used for industrial purposes.

The site is now the property of A. L. Mailman, of the British Rubber Company. He secured it from the executors of the Peter Lyall Estate.

Among those who were employed in the old building during the early years of the World War, before he left for the front, was Chief Walter Gough, of the Westmount Police and Fire Departments. Chief Gough worked in the main building in which were constructed six-inch one hundred pound shells. In buildings to the west of the main structure, 4.5 inch shells were made.

It has been almost impossible to obtain official information regarding the structure as far as its history and latter-day activity is concerned. The old Peter Lyall Company no longer exists and the executors of the estate, McDonald and Currie, have little knowledge of the use to which it was put following the war.

It had been used as a stone cutting plant for many years but all machinery was removed from the building long before it fell into the hands of its present owner.

The building was the scene of tremendous activity in the years of 1914-18. It is 42,000 feet in area.

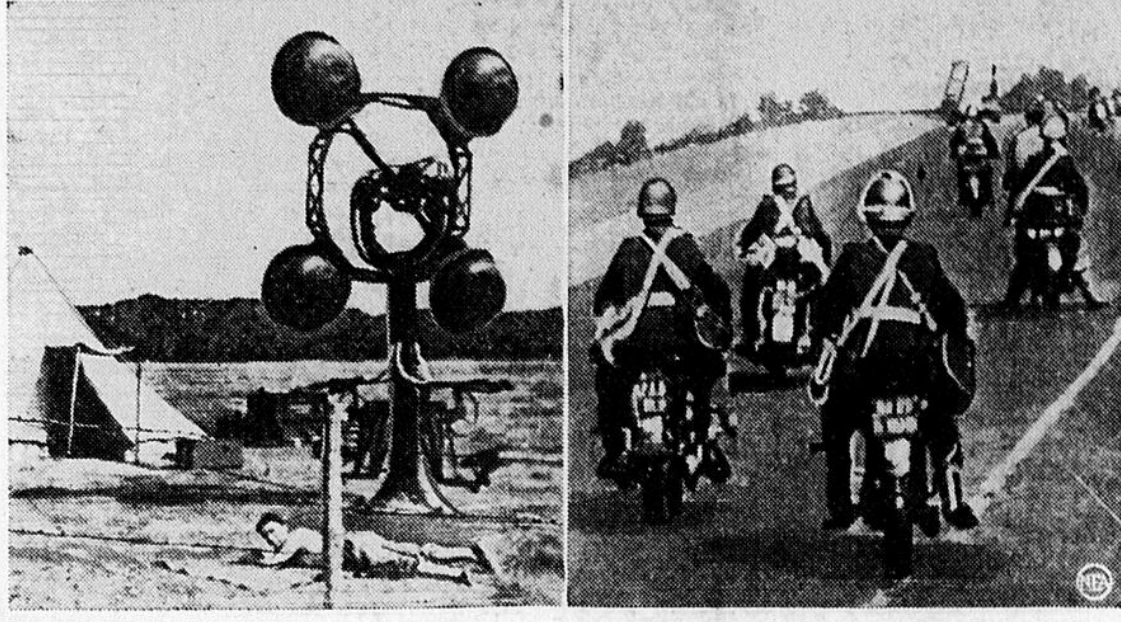

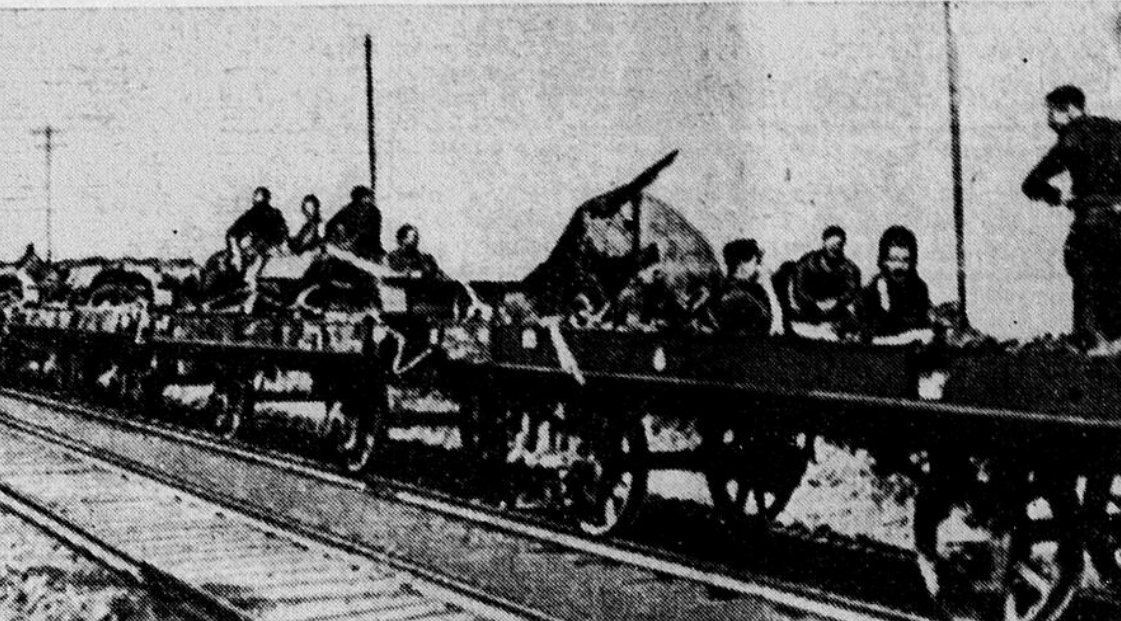

The building was a landmark in Westmount during those eventful years, the sky above glowing fiery red day and night as blast furnaces converted ore into munitions. Conditions today had their counterpart then as sentries kept constant guard over the site.

A great deal of the work of munition making was done by woman and girls who handled the delicate adjustments from the light which filtered through the thousands of now paneled windows.

Earlier in the year there were rumours that the structure would be converted into a building for the construction of war planes, but inquiries have brought forth the information that they were entirely unfounded. Although several

EUROPE'S BIGGEST ARMY 'MOVES UP' TO FRONT

As the mobilization of France's crack army was speeded up, military vehicles took the right of way on all roads. Above, troops and their equipment, including machine guns, roll toward the "front" on flatcars of the strategic Strasbourg railway. The radiophoto at right, below, shows four huge mechanical "ears" of an aircraft detecting device near Paris, facing toward Germany. In the cablephoto at left, a motorcycle detachment burns up the road from Paris to the German frontier.

MAX FORD MADE DIRECTOR OF SIR G. WILLIAMS

Former Principal of King's School Has Taken Over Post at College

Max Ford, B.A., B.C.L., has been appointed Director of Instruction of the Business School of Sir George Williams College, and has now taken over new duties, it was announced at the college by Edward Sheffield, registrar.

Mr. Ford was formerly principal of King's School, and has been a lecturer in commercial law in the Evening Division of the Faculty of Arts, Science and Commerce of Sir George Williams College. He has long been active in the local Little Theatre movement.

Robert Nelson Elliott, for many years an instructor in the Business School of Sir George Williams College, has been appointed Assistant Director. The Business School for young men and women is one of a group of units including the School of Fine Arts, the Evening High School, the Evening Elementary School, and the Faculty of Arts, Science and Commerce.

Archibald, who was proceeding east on Cote St. Antoine, told police that he tried to avoid striking pedestrians crossing from the southwest to the northwest corner of Cote St. Antoine. The automobile and beacon were but slightly damaged.

When he attempted to avoid striking a number of pedestrians Henry F. Archibald, of 3481 Adlington, drove his car into a traffic beacon on Cote St. Antoine road at the intersection of Lansdowne avenue.

Landscaper Finds Nest Of Hornets on Local Property

A large Hornets' nest, the biggest he has ever seen, was discovered on the property of C. Hyde, 6080 Trafalgar avenue, by Fred Price, 2271 Hampton avenue, landscaper, while he was working there at 7 o'clock last night.

The nest, which is turquoise in color, was found hanging on a cedar tree 25 feet above the ground. Mr. Price destroyed the hornets immediately by dropping a spoonful of Sino gas into the nest. There were about 500 hornets in the nest, he estimates.

Mr. Price came across the nest as he was carrying out landscape work on the Trafalgar avenue property. The tree was beside a hedge that had to be removed and it would have been impossible to work under the nest.

The hornets, Mr. Price stated, can be used as bait for trout fishing. He gave the nest to boys in the district to take to school for study purposes.

Club Is Forced To Postpone Meeting

The season's opening meeting of the Westmount Stamp Club, scheduled to be held at the Athletic Grounds tomorrow evening, has been cancelled following the announcement that the clubhouse and grounds have been taken over by Military District No. 4 for training purposes.

In the meanwhile, the club is arranging for new quarters and the site will be announced as soon as it has been decided upon.

DR. J. H. STERN WILL RESUME SERVICES HERE

Season's First Regular Sabbath Service at Temple Emanu-El Tomorrow

Regular Sabbath services, conducted by Dr. Harry J. Stern, will be resumed at Temple Emanu-El tomorrow evening commencing at 8 o'clock. The musical service will be chanted by the Temple choir under the direction of B. E. Chadwick.

Those wishing to worship at Temple Emanu-El during the High Holy Days are requested to make arrangements with the Pew Committee for proper accommodation, and obtain a card of admission.

This Sunday morning registration will be held in the Religious School for Kindergarten, Junior, Intermediate and High School Department pupils. Miss Francis Katz, B.Sc., is the directress of the school and she will be assisted by a competent staff of teachers.

The Hebrew classes will be held on Monday and Wednesday afternoons. With the completion of the new Community House and the splendid school accommodations the Religious School looks forward to a large registration.

The name of the late Maxwell Goldstein, K.C., honorary president of Temple Emanu-El will be formally inscribed on the Simon Memorial Tablet at the Service this evening. This perpetual memorialization has been made possible through a generous offering given by the Goldstein family to the Synagogue.

A many-sided program of activities of Temple auxiliaries has been planned, and with the commencement of the new synagogue year will be set under way. The Sisterhood, Brotherhood, the Young People's Society and the College of Jewish Studies, anticipate a fine and active year of work. There is room for young people and adults in some unit of the auxiliary organizations.

As in past years the library will co-operate to the fullest extent with Westmount schools and pupils will have access at all times to the many reference works and other volumes of an educational nature there.

The children's department, in particular, has a great many books that are of great value to scholars. A large number of additions to the list of non-fiction works has been made during the past year as the result of a special grant voted by the City Council for this purpose.

Many Westmount Residents Aboard Athenia Rescued

A number of Westmount residents aboard the torpedoed liner S.S. Athenia, sunk by a German submarine off the Irish coast Sunday night, have cabled home that they are safe and sound after having been rescued and taken ashore by boats who raced to the scene of the disaster.

H. Warren Hale, of 3193 Westmount boulevard, secretary of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, received a cablegram from his daughter, Miss Patricia Hale, that she is safe and uninjured. She will arrive aboard the liner City of Flint at Halifax on Sept. 12. The City of Flint picked up a large number of survivors.

Messages from Glasgow report that Miss Daphne Sebag Montefiore, daughter of Captain W. Sebag-Montefiore, 4331 Western avenue, arrived safely in Glasgow. She is now visiting her aunt, her father's sister, Mrs. N. S. Lucas, of Bramblehurst, East

TO BE USED AS BARRACKS AND TRAINING CENTRE BY MILITARY DISTRICT NO. 4

Now Erecting Between 500 and 600 Bunks in Westmount Sporting Centre — Few Official Details Have Been Divulged — Many Changes Expected to be Made in Structure — Members Advised to Remove Belongings

Military District No. 4 is currently converting the Westmount Athletic Grounds into a barracks and militia training centre, it was announced this week. Between 500 and 600 bunks are being installed in the clubhouse of the grounds and a number of alterations to accommodate soldiers are being made to the building.

The former M.A.A.A. building and grounds were turned over for army use by the City of Westmount early this week and carpenters have been active since Monday fitting it out for training purposes.

Few official details as to what units will be stationed there have been released from district military headquarters but it is believed that the Royal Montreal Regiment will be allotted most of the available space.

The site will be used for primary training purposes, it is understood. Advanced instruction in army routine will probably be carried out at permanent military bases.

In the meantime a large percentage of regular sporting activity at the grounds has been cancelled and the local rugby entry in the O.R.F.U., is seeking another site on which to stage home games.

Persons having lockers at the grounds are advised to remove their belongings as soon as possible.

Norman Smyth, director of municipal recreation will maintain his office at the grounds until the building is completely taken over for army use. Tennis and other sports that are not expected to immediately interfere with the activity of the militia will be carried on as long as possible.

All available space in the building that has heretofore been maintained solely as a sporting centre, will be used to house soldiers. Greatly augmented toilet facilities are being installed; space has been allotted for a large kitchen; and tentative plans call for many other changes in the layout of the structure.

The building and grounds were loaned for military use when District No. 4 asked for a training site in Westmount the latter part of last week. Work of remodeling the centre for this purpose was commenced on Monday.

It is understood, unofficially, that the building will lodge members of the R.M.R. who are now in training for home and overseas services. A number of men will also be accommodated in the regiment's armoury on St. Catherine street.

Carpenters were hard at work from the start of the week installing double bunks, and transforming offices and other sections of the building into officers' quarters, and storage rooms.

The grounds, it is generally conceded, constitute one of the most desirable sites on the island for use as a barracks and military training centre, and are situated in ideal proximity to the R.M.R.

Boy Cut By Glass In Sidewalk Fall

Nine-year-old Leo Fagan, of 2517 Queneau street, sustained minor cuts when he fell on Greene avenue while carrying a bottle in his house at 7.15 p.m. on Sunday. He tripped as he was running south on Greene near St. Antoine street.

The boy walked to the Western Division of the Montreal General Hospital where he was treated by Dr. Williams. He was not detained there as his injuries were found to be slight.

Westmount police investigated the mishap.

Youngster Is Injured While Riding Tricycle

Eight-year-old Bruce Pearson, of 21 Burton avenue, sustained a head wound that required hospital treatment when he ran his tricycle into a stationary automobile on Barton shortly after 3 o'clock on Monday afternoon.

The youngster was removed immediately to the Outdoor Department of the Homeopathic Hospital for treatment.

WESTMOUNT, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 7, 1939

WE FIGHT AGAIN

Britain is again at war. After long delay, discouraging negotiations, and with great reluctance we are again forced to resort to arms to defend our faith and our freedom. We go into the struggle without enthusiasm — we go into it with an abhorrence of the useless spilling of blood — but these considerations will not affect our determination to once and for all erase the German menace from Europe and the world.

This time the job must be done thoroughly. The last war ended a few months too soon. One recalls the story of old Marshall Foch breaking down when told that he was not to invade Germany. His only answer to representations that the old order had gone from Germany with the abdication of the Kaiser was a reiteration that nothing would ever change the character of that nation. Now, if the French army ever gets into Germany, one imagines that there will be no thought of armistice until the job has been very thoroughly done indeed.

As for the British, Hitler himself stated in his book "My Battle" that Britons fight best when they fight for a principle. This time we fight not only for our traditions and principles of liberty, but ours is a fight of Christianity against the godless. The German Nazis and their allies the Russian Communists are atheists, and that fact alone largely explains the character and conduct of both Hitler and Stalin.

 Hitler has said his last word in European affairs.

WAR HITS THIS DISTRICT

In his address to the nation Sunday afternoon, the Prime Minister told Canadians that every individual, every home, in Canada would be affected in more or less degree by the struggle upon which we have entered. Few local residents who heard that statement would have believed that its truth was so soon to be driven home to us; for, within a few hours after the declaration of war, the news reached this district that several residents of Notre Dame de Grace and Westmount were on the ill-fated Athenia, torpedoed by a German submarine in the North Atlantic. The methods used in modern warfare, particularly the methods of a ruthless aggressor, spread the dangers and the effects of conflict thousands of miles from the principal theatre of war.

WHY CANADIAN AIRMEN EXCEL

In the war upon which we have just entered, it appears that our principal contribution to the cause will be the supplying of fighting planes and airmen. Canadians excel in the air. In the last war, even before the formation of the Canadian air force, over half the cadets in the Royal Air Force were Canadians. Many theories have been advanced as to the reason why boys from this country stand out above all others in aerial warfare. One famous Canadian ace explained it as due to the fact that nearly all Canadian youngsters learn marksmanship at a tender age, potting at rabbits, birds, and squirrels with twenty-two calibre rifles, and also learn the essentials of aerial manoeuvre playing hockey. The intuition developed in carrying a puck in the fastest game in the world is much the same as the intuition necessary to outguess an opponent in the air.

BOOK REVIEW

By HOWARD S. ROSS

"Next to Valour" by John Jennings. The MacMillan Company, of Canada Limited, Toronto. Price $3.00; Pages 820.

Suncok is the farthest frontier town of the Province of New Hampshire when Jamie Ferguson arrives, with his mother and sisters, fleeing from the disasters which the Stuart cause brought upon its followers in 1745. The wild new country of mountains and forests fascinates Jamie, and under the guidance of Toby, the Indian, he becomes an expert woodsman. These are the days when the Indians from St. Francis were raiding the border settlements, and often his skill is sorely taxed while protecting his friends, or his own scalp. It is this same skill which leads him to join the band of Rangers, formed on the outbreak of the French and Indian War under his friend Robert Rogers, and so take part in the campaigns around Lake Champlain and the abortive attacks on the French stronghold of Ticonderoga.

But Jamie's whole life has not been spent in camp and forest. His successful business ventures have led him to marriage and the gay society of Portsmouth. Here appear again his dashing cousin Hubert, now a British officer, and the girl Purity Stiles. Intrigue and heartbreak and death follow through the story and carry Ja-

THE FORUM

In Which Subjects of General Interest Are Discussed

Conducted by HOWARD S. ROSS, K.C.

NOTE:—The opinions expressed in these columns are not necessarily those of this newspaper and it does not accept responsibility for them. They are published for their general interest, variety and originality of treatment.

"Life lived according to ruthless competition, the law of the jungle, has brought us to a jungle civilization, full of fears and wars. The end of this road in world affairs is common ruin. We must have the courage, corporately, to turn around, to repent, to take the road to mutual aid, to cooperation. We must love our neighbors as we love ourselves—or perish."

"We therefore make bold to offer to a confused and baffled world a simple solution—the Kingdom of God on earth. This is the stone, rejected indeed by the builders of civilization, that has now become the head of the corner. In many minds around the world—and their number is on the increase—it has become the cornerstone of economic and international thinking. It is being looked to more and more as the only hope for civilization on the brink of ruin. We have tried unworkable ways of hate and force that are fast breaking down through their own contradictions and strains."—Rev. E. Stanley Jones, noted missionary and lecturer of the U.S.A. and India in an open letter to the Japanese people and the Christians of the world.

Three of Washington's largest churches have changed in a radical manner their music policy. Paid quartets are being released and full-time musical directors installed. It is hoped that it will be a gain to develop musical talent.

The income of the Church of Scotland for 1938 exceeded $73,000,000. This included nearly $3,500,000 of standardized income from old stipends, income from investments, and legacies. The balance came from living donors, an increase of over $500,000 on the previous year.

Scottish churches are disturbed about football betting. Three out of four families have their weekly flutter in the pools. The post office makes an annual profit of $15,000,000 on postage and poundage arising from the pools.

The more we study the more we discover our ignorance.—Shelly

Let our teaching be full of ideas. Hitherto it has been stuffed only with facts.—Anatole France.

A Federal Judge of California ruled in a lawsuit brought against a defeated candidate for office that it's a "God-given right" of politicians to make extravagant promises. The defendant had promised a government job in return for a loan of $100.

Here is an example of vigorous writing from The American Guardian: "Another good way of reducing the cotton surplus would be sticking it in the long ears of the Southern Democrats who still lime on a trail which leads him, after the fall of Ticonderoga, to the Indian village of St. Francis, Quebec, and the battle on the Plains of Abraham.

Against a vividly re-created pioneer background Mr. Jennings has laid the exciting story of Jamie and his struggles against his fellow men, his wife, and the wilderness.

"Next to Valour" presents a new picture of pioneer life in New Hampshire, during the French and Indian war, which is colourful and thrilling.

The U.S.A. Department of Labor reported that Union membership in the A.F. of L. the C.I.O. and Standard Railroad Organizations amounted to an all-time high of eight millions 8,000,000 in 1938.

The Progressive of Madison, Wisconsin published the following world war balance sheet:

Cost of World War to U.S.A.: Killed: 126,000; Wounded: 234,000; Expenditures $41 Billions;

Antony and Lake Couchiching, Ontario, democracy has not been so good; because democracy "is only 200 years old" whereas "predatory government has 5,000 years of history behind it."

He might have added that even today democracy has been tried extensively only in the political field, and that economic democracy remains to be attained.

Why speak of the failure of democracy until it has been given a trial?

Wherever economic injustice exists there are to be found the seeds both of domestic and international discord. The competitive economic system breeds war. Though war may be postponed from time to time its coming is inevitable unless as a long run policy, the people of the world adopt a medium of exchange which will equitably distribute the work of the world so that it will be as easy for one as for another to share in the bounty of nature.

Jerry Joseph O'Connell is the baby of the U.S.A. Congress. He is the son of a miner who was killed during a strike at Anaconda Copper. The Congressman (now 30 years of age) also worked in Anaconda during vacations. He found time to get an M.A. degree before entering the Montana Legislature at the age of 21.

Average Citizen In Japan Little Reckons Cost Of War

finished goods. Big bankers in Tokyo take easily of the 300,000,000-yen "revolving fund" sent out of the country last year to facilitate such imports, but independent foreign authorities saw little of it.

Some Paths Cleared

If a manufacturer wants to get to work for the Government, things go differently. Making munitions of one sort or another is a popular course. The manufacturer who wants to embark on an enterprise of that sort finds the way miraculously smoothed. But the man who bears the burden of sending goods out commercially has no easy time. Although the acquisition of Manchuria and parts of China looked like a wonderful chance for a market for Japan's goods, export in such directions is now generally discouraged because shipping abroad to be paid in some form of Japan's own money—or Japan-sponsored money—is not productive of the necessary foreign exchange. On the other hand, to concentrate shipments abroad among countries like the United States that can furnish precious foreign currency is tantamount to leaving a hostage in the competitor's hands.

The Japanese man on the street knows that there is a war on, and he is increasingly bored with many aspects of that increasingly central fact in his life. There is one big advantage in a wartime situation, however—and it is one overlooked by most Chinese and others who cannot conveniently visit Japan at the moment—that is the fact that war produces jobs and reduces the number of jobless men who might be troublesome. The men are in the army, and the jobs are mostly designed to serve the army.

What will happen when peace comes is a problem nobody has tackled publicly. But no one denies that a flood of men back from the fighting fronts, coupled with a reduction of armament jobs, plus a high cost of living, minus goods from abroad, might spell serious trouble. Under the circumstances, can it be regarded as surprising that some view the continuation of war as a postponement of big problems, even though a continuing state of war makes its own obvious problems.

Calvary Services Resume Sunday

Services to open the fall season's work in Calvary Church will be held on Sunday, with the minister, the Rev. T. W. Jones preaching both morning at 11 a.m. and evening at 7:30 p.m. The theme of the morning sermon will be "The Garrisoned Heart." At the evening service Dr. Jones will preach on the theme "Abiding Securities of our Faith."

Calvary Services Resume Sunday

The Church School will re-open at 8 o'clock in open session, with the minister delivering an illustrated address. All former scholars, teachers and officers are urged to attend this opening session and newcomers are cordially invited.

Knoxville, Tenn., seven months ago took over the power distribution system owned by a private company. During the following six months the system earned a net profit of $60,000. It launched a $500,000 program of improvements to take care of the growing demand for power. There was a sharp increase in the amount of electricity for domestic purposes and the consumption of individual families increased from 86KWH per month to 104 per month. 1,334 new customers were added. A cut of 41 per cent in rates, made a saving of over $1,000,000 to the ratepayers.

WESTMOUNT BAPTIST CHURCH

On Sunday morning Rev. J. A. Johnston of Westmount Baptist Church will have as his theme: "Unfurled Banners." In the name of the Lord we will lift up our Banner. We need the undergirding of the courageous heart, the quality of faith that will not shrink in order to safeguard the citadel within.

At the evening service Mr. Johnston will speak on "The Supreme Need of this Stern Hour"—the fullness of the blessing of the Gospel of Christ. We need the kind of courage that cannot be torpedoed and inward lines of defence that cannot be taken down.

"Ragtime Band" Stars in Hit

The two romantic stars of the unforgettable "Alexander's Ragtime Band"—Tyrone Power and Alice Faye—are joined by Al Jolson, the star who sings back the past everyone wants to remember, in "Rose of Washington Square," 20th Century-Fox film now playing at the Monkland United Theatre.

Featuring the heart songs and hit songs of yesterday and today, the production tells one of the most stirring human romances yet projected upon the screen—the story of Rose, who loved the way some women can and thought it worth the heartbreak.

Among the many milestones of melody in the film are "My Man," "Toot Toot Tootsie," "Goodbye," "Ja-Da," "April Showers," "Mammy," "Rose of Washington Square" by James Hanley and Ballard MacDonald, "I'm Always Chasing Rainbows," "I'm Just Wild About Harry" and "Avalon." In the swing of today is Gordon and Kovel's newest hit, "I Never Knew Heaven Could Speak."

Little Sir Echo How-Do-You-Do

Sing near an airplane and you get an echo... unless you loosen the struts and gullies which hold the wings together. Howard Hays picked up the movie-making lore while scenes for Columbia's "Only Angels Have Wings," which stars Cary Grant and Jean Arthur at the Westmount United Theatre.

Action called for Miss Arthur and Thomas Mitchell to sing in an airplane. Take after take was ruined by a curious humming noise which seemed to be coming from a nearby plane. Investigation revealed that guy wires, necessarily stretched to absolute tautness between the wings, were acting as tuning forks, picking up certain notes of the trio's songs and buzzing like a harp.

AUTOS LURE MICKY

Automobile racing has replaced horses as Mickey Rooney's favorite sport of speed. He bought a 1929 model four-cylinder roadster for sixty dollars, which he plans to remake into a racing car.

Production of beer from town gas is being studied in Australia.

SMASHES THE SPY RING!

A scene from the film "The Confessions Of A Nazi Spy," starring Edward G. Robinson and Francis Lederer, which opens Sunday at the Monkland United Theatre for a three day engagement.

"MAN ABOUT TOWN"

Jack Benny and Dorothy Lamour in a scene from the film "Man About Town," which is now playing at the York United Theatre, until Friday.

'Neatest Dairy Farm' Is Found In Indiana

The sixth annual Neatest Dairy Farm Contest sponsored by the Pure Milk Association of Chicago was won by the Gudemanns who have a 400 acre farm near Francerville, Ind.

Every nook and cranny of their milkhouse the judges found immaculate. The Gudemanns were pronounced Grand Champion winners, and soon two of the family will be on their way to the New York World's Fair, all expenses paid.

TOO TRUE
Her furs were most expensive. For she made a lucky haul. In other words, she's married. And hubby pays for all.

"CAPTAIN FURY"

"SERGEANT MADDEN"

Laraine Johnson and Wallace Beery in a scene from the film "Sergeant Madden," which opens Sunday at the Westmount United Theatre.

Director Tells the Secret of Developing Famous Film Stars

Wesley Ruggles, famous Director-Producer, revealed during the filming of his latest picture, "Invitation to Happiness," his secret for developing stars. Ruggles claims that "anything a person does naturally, he can do well." Consequently, he finds roles to suit the inherent capabilities of performers, then relies on them to deliver the performances.

His theory has been borne out by the records of many players, two of whom have the co-starring roles in "Invitation to Happiness." They are Irene Dunne and Fred MacMurray. Both were "made" by Ruggles—Irene when he gave her her first big dramatic role in "Cimarron," and Fred when Ruggles cast him opposite Claudette Colbert in "The Gilded Lily."

"I can't take any credit for the success of these people," Ruggles modestly says. "But in knowing them, meeting them away from the studio, visiting with them, I found they had capabilities which had not been touched. I found suitable roles, gave them the opportunities and they showed that they had the talent."

"Invitation to Happiness" is a poignant, moving story of a society girl and a prize fighter who get married, and then find it difficult to attain their conceptions of living to a permanent wave length of happiness. The supporting cast includes Charlie Ruggles, William Collier, Sr., Billy Cook and Marion Martin. This film opens Saturday at the York United Theatre for a four day engagement.

Lewis Stone Has Plan for the Safer Control of Traffic

A single rule to regulate all traffic, with certain reduction of the automobile accident death rate, is proposed by Lewis Stone, who has driven 500,000 miles in 34 years without accident or arrest.

"Horse sense at the wheel will do it," Stone remarked dryly. The veterans actor, who has renewed his fame in the last two years as Judge Hardy in the Hardy Family series, recently checked off his 500,000th mile. He first drove an automobile in 1905 and has averaged 10,000 miles annually until recently, when the improvement of roads and motor permitted faster driving over greater distances.

Stone has never received a ticket for a violation of law and has never experienced an accident. He is an unequivocal real life as in "The Hardys Ride High," sixth of the family series which is now at the Snowdon United Theatre.

"If the states will grant driving licenses only to people who are competent mentally as well as physically," he said, "it stands to reason there will be fewer accidents."

SCHOOL FOR 180,000 CHILDREN IN CITY

Ready if not particularly willing to start another year's work, over 180,000 youngsters answered the annual "back to school" call in the Montreal district at the beginning of this week.

By far the greater number turned up on Tuesday morning, as Catholic schools throughout the island and Protestant schools in Montreal itself, Verdun, Lachine and several smaller municipalities turned their doors. In Westmount, Outremont and Montreal West the Protestant school pupils received an extra day's freedom, reporting for work Wednesday morning.

School officials say that they are unable to estimate closely the number who will enroll, but believe that it will be much the same as last year. For some time the Protestant school population in Montreal has shown a tendency to fall.

Round figures of registration last year were 130,000 Roman Catholic children, both English and French-speaking; 30,000 Protestant children in Montreal proper, and 2,900 Protestants in Westmount.

Neither Protestant nor Catholic officials report any extensive alterations to school buildings, beyond the normal summer repairs. It will probably be the end of the week before classes are fully organized and under way.

Great Dane Gives Taylor Black Eye

Robert Taylor, taught his 100-pound Great Dane, Hager, to jump into his swimming pool and pull out anyone in distress—and then became Hager's first rescuee.

Taylor told the story on himself as an explanation of a bruise over his left eye, which was concealed by make-up for his scenes in "Remember." While working with Hager in the pool recently, Taylor dived under the huge animal. He came up under the dog and Hager pawed him, just missing his left eye and bruising his forehead. Although Taylor wasn't hurt, Hager promptly grabbed him by the trunks and towed him to shallow water.

SEPT. 15 OPENING DATE FOR CLASSES

Announcement was made yesterday by Miss Hilda Galt, prominent and popular dance teacher, that already several pupils of her dance school had already enrolled for the 1939-40 season which opens on September 15th. Those who have not yet enrolled and those desirous of becoming pupils should get in touch with Miss Galt who will be pleased to give any information.

Hilda Galt, who is but 22 years old and who has been teaching for five years, is the only graduate teacher of the Ned Wayburn method in Montreal. Having studied under such brilliant teachers as Mme. Maslova of New York, who has been immortalized in the book written by Pavlova, for whom she alternated, Tony Grant, Stanley Dinsmoor and Elmer Stasse, all of New York, Miss Galt acquired the remarkable knack of imparting her knowledge to her pupils. The precision in which her former dance recitals were presented proves conclusively the thorough training that each and every pupil gets during the school season.

Miss Galt has just returned from New York where she once again took another post-graduate course at the Ned Wayburn School of Dance under the tuition of Georges Fontana of the celebrated team of Moss and Fontana; Joseph Livinoff of the Metropolitan Opera House Ballet and Radio City Music Hall; Harry Wyckoff who for 17 years has been helping the Park Ave. N.Y. ladies to keep their graceful and girlish figures; Beulah 'Boo' Phelps, Junior League girl who was of the Fred and Adèle Astaire Company and who specializes in kiddie work and Stanley Dinsmoor, head of the musical comedy and Tap department. The curriculum for the coming season embodies every type of the dance... tap, toe, ballet, ballroom, aerobic, musical comedy and exhibition ballroom also limbering and stretching exercises. An important factor to be borne in mind is that the Wayburn method is not only for those with professional aspirations for themselves or their children as it is a balanced and approved method that gives grace and poise as well as develops a healthy and well formed body.

INDUSTRIES ABLE TO SOLVE OWN PROBLEMS

Declaring industries are "better equipped to solve their own problems than outside agencies, irrespective of whether these agencies be governmental or legislative," Walter S. Mack, Jr., president of the Pepsi-Cola Company, today announced the intention of his company to "participate to a greater extent than ever before" in the National Convention of the American Bottlers of Carbonated Beverages, to be held in San Francisco from October 30 to November 3rd.

"I have always been a great believer in trade associations," Mr. Mack declared, "because the problems of an industry—any industry—are always best solved by those in the industry rather than by outside agencies irrespective of whether these agencies be governmental or legislative. Consequently, we are urging all our franchise bottlers and distributors to attend the California convention to the end that closer ties be established between this company and its representatives, as well as between Pepsi-Cola and the trade generally."

Mr. Mack also made known that in furtherance of Convention attendance, he had appointed J. Willard Pipes, head of the Standardization Division of Pepsi-Cola, chairman of the company's convention committee, to contact Pepsi-Cola representatives throughout the nation urging their participation in the assemblage, and to arrange a program of entertainment for Pepsi-Cola bottlers and distributors in California.

Farmer Learns From His Mule

Because he learned a lesson in farming from his mule, T. J. Hiott, Colleton County, S.C., farmer, is getting more and better yields from his cotton land.

He noticed that the cotton stalks at the end of rows grew more bolls than those in the middle after the mule, in pulling the plow through the field, nipped off top buds as it turned around at the end of each row. This caused the lower buds to be larger and more plentiful.

Mr. Hiott followed the procedure all over the cotton field, nipping off the top buds all along the rows. Result: more fruitful production. Many of his neighbors have emulated his example with like results.

The Way To A Man's Heart

Want a Peach of an Idea for Dessert? Then Surprise the Folks With One of These!

Peaches in a regal dress—a fresh peach glaze pie with fluting of cream. Late August in its finest aspect.

Peaches and cream give a lovely complexion to life. And they add smiles to the menu in pies, cakes, dumplings and shimmering salads.

Fresh Peach Upside Down Cake

One and a quarter cups sifted cake flour, 1-4 teaspoons baking powder, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 3-4 cup granulated sugar, 4 tablespoons softened butter or other shortening, 1 egg well beaten, 1-2 cup milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 4 tablespoons butter, 1-2 cup brown sugar firmly packed, 6 peaches pared and sliced.
Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, salt, and sugar, and sift together three times. Add butter. Combine egg, milk, and vanilla. Add to flour mixture, stirring until all flour is dampened. Then beat vigorously 1 minute.

A Well-Balanced Menu

BREAKFAST: Sliced oranges with chopped mint, dry cereal, rice muffins, grape jelly, coffee, milk.
LUNCHEON: Potato and onion soup, hot French bread, cheese, cherry tarts, tea, milk.
DINNER: Grapefruit cocktail, breaded veal chops, brown gravy, potato balls, summer squash with parsley, romaine with French dressing, fresh peach pie glaze, coffee, milk.

peaches. Chill. When slightly thickened, turn into cold pie shell. Chill.

Recipes Given For Many Peach Dishes

With a bumper crop of exceptionally fine quality peaches this season in Canada the following recipes may be found to be of particular interest. Peaches for cooking should be peeled just before using as exposure to the air darkens the fruit.

PEACH PIE

PASTRY
2 cups sifted flour
1 cup shortening
1/4 tsp. salt
4-6 tbsp. cold water
Sift flour and salt. Cut in shortening, using a pastry blender or two knives, until the crumbs are about the size of beans. Sprinkle a little water over one portion and mix to dough. Add water to second portion. When all is blended, roll to one eighth inch thickness. This method prevents the addition of too much water.
Line a 9-inch plate and fill with sliced peaches. Add half cup granulated sugar and two tablespoons quick tapioca. Dot with two tablespoons butter. Cover upper crust and bake in a very hot oven 30 minutes. Reduce heat and continue baking for 10 minutes.

BAKED PEACHES

Peel 6 large peaches and arrange in a casserole. If preferred, they may be halved and the stone removed. Sprinkle with half cup granulated sugar and pour half cup water over. Cover closely and bake half hour. Serve hot or cold.

OLD FASHIONED CUP PUDDING

Batter
1/2 cup shortening
2-3 cup brown sugar
1 egg
1/2 cup milk
1 1/2 cups flour
2 1/2 tsp. baking powder
Cream shortening. Add sugar. Blend well. Then add egg and beat mixture until light. Sift flour with baking powder and add a little at a time alternately with a little milk.
Fill large moulds or cups half full with sliced peaches. Add 1 tsp. granulated sugar to each mould. Pour batter over until cups are three-quarters full. Steam half hour. Turn out to serve.

PEACH GINGER SHORTCAKE

1/2 cup butter
1 egg
1/2 cup sour milk
1-8 teaspoon ground ginger
1 1/2 cups flour
1/2 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup molasses
1/2 teaspoon soda
1-8 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1 teaspoon baking powder
Cream butter and sugar, add beat well. Add molasses, then sour milk, to which soda, ginger and cinnamon have been added. Mix well, then add flour and baking powder sifted together. Bake in a greased pan 50 minutes in a slow oven (325 degrees F.) Split well hot and pile fresh sliced sugared peaches generously on top. Whipped cream may be served if desired.

GINGER PEAR

Four pounds sugar, four pounds pears, one-fourth pound crystallized ginger, two lemons. Boil lemons whole in clear water. When lemons are tender enough to be pierced with a toothpick, cut into small pieces, removing seeds. Peel and chop pears, cut ginger into thin slices. Simmer all in saucepan for two hours. Then seal.

TEA TIME TOPICS

Checks and plaids seem well in the lead of stripes in college clothes. They bring with them a lively outburst of color. Nine times out of ten one finds them tied up with a solid color; we refer now to suits. When it comes to monotonous, girls will find a wide range of greens awaiting them; there will be blues in rich soft shades, browns that swing from burnt sugar to golden tans, and wines in reddish rather than purple tints. There will be dusty pinks, too, to greet them, more than is usual at this time of the year. For their collected serious moments they will most likely select the neutral naturals, palatable to the taste as a cereal. They are presented in quality cashmere jerseys.

A lot of people have become pretty bored with exotic perfumes with daring names, apparently intended only to be used by Theda Bara-type vamps. For these people a collection of strictly Canadian toiletries should be a welcome relief. Most of the producers are put up in wooden boxes painted with colonial designs, which can be used for other things after their original contents are used up. They are free of trade-marks and labels; so one does not end up with a box of pins marked soap. One of the most appealing items is a miniature chest of drawers entitled, "A Place for Everything and Everything in Place." It has six tiny drawers and one larger one, containing different sizes of soap. It would be perfect for buttons and pins, or on a desk, for paper clips and rubber bands.

Bath salts come in a wooden bin which can stand on a shelf or hang on the wall, with a small shovel for measuring. This could be used later in the kitchen for flour or sugar. There are sewing boxes, trunk boxes and pin-cushion satchets, all containing different assortments of toilet waters, powders, perfumes and bath salts. The scents are all spicy and fragrant and last much longer than most.

For evening gowns, laced corsets have been designed to pinch in the waist. Whalebone and even busks have been admitted into fashion. Higher corsets shown for street wear. Firmer fabrics and more boning in general demand. The new corsets shown are shorter than the girdles formerly worn. Their first purpose is to make the waistline the smallest in years.

As if to sober down the outburst of color in the new showings, there are a number of the natural shades. These, with gray, prevail in the Chanel jerseys, which seem to be coming back to a considerable extent. There is nothing else quite so satisfactory as a jersey tailored dress for the outfit to be worn for both town and for a week-end in the country.

Dyed sheepskin waist-length jackets in green, wine or rust to match the skirt are sporty and not too expensive. Cardigans have real appeal this fall, sweaters looking as if they were a size too large go jerseys. The only item that sets these apart from ordinary clothes is the styling of the skirt, which is artfully concealed.

This is done in two ways, one the wrap-around, the other the side expansion. This last is the most interesting, and is used on two-piece suits. The general idea may have been borrowed from the tops of slacks which button at the side. On one style, the back of the skirt is extended into the broad belt that continues across the front of the waist, lacing smoothly at the centre front. The waistband is bordered with eyelets, all across, and each side of the front panel of the skirt is equipped with a hook that slides into whichever eyelet is most comfortable.

by the name of "sloppies" and have the proper nonchalant look. Evening dresses in clan plaids are also part of the vogue for college and campus wear. Reversible coats come in a great variety; there are rainproof camel's hair type ones, gabardines with fly-fronts and cigarette pockets, and tweeds with removable plaid linings that zip in and out. For rainy days sou'westers, white or colored rubber boots and rubberized fabrics do the trick.

Maternity Dresses Smarter In Design

For many years maternity clothes have been stylish objects of wearing apparel cut in Hoover apron effects. And all the muttered rebellion of those who had to wear them could do nothing about changing them. But when a designer recently found herself faced with the need for wearing maternity clothes, she was in a position to do something constructive about their appearance. What she did for herself she is now doing for you, and you will find in one of the stores a collection of her clothes that will improve a hundredfold both your mental attitude and physical appearance.

Present in these clothes are all of the details that stamp them as fashion conscious. They are tucked and pleated and shirred not because they are maternity dresses but because these are fall 1939 style trends. You will find high round necks and low draw-string treatments; sleeves that are long or crush just below the elbow; skirts that are flared to back fullness. And you will find them in Scotch plaids combined with solid colored wools or velveteens, in sheers and in crepes that look like

NOTED TEACHER

The prominent young Montreal teacher, Miss Frances Goltman, Lic. Mus. and First Medalist of McGill University, has opened her new studio at 3781 Girouard Avenue. Besides being an authority on musical subjects, Miss Goltman is the founder of the "Children's Musical Forum," which has stimulated great enthusiasm in youthful musicians and this interesting as well as instructive Forum will again hold meetings the coming season. This successful musician, who is noted for her pupils' excellent pianoforte recitals, is the gifted writer of the widely-read music column of this paper, "Musical Sharps, Flats and Naturals."

MUSIC INSTRUCTOR STUDIED WIDELY

Edith M. Johnson, teacher at the McGill Conservatorium of Music for several years has had an interesting career, studying under several well known artists.

A Canadian by birth, Miss Johnson began the study of music at an early age and in late years has made a speciality of teaching. She has devoted much time to concert work.

Miss Johnson studied at the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston under Carl Stasny who was a pupil of Franz Liszt, and also under Madame Stepanoff in Berlin, Germany, a co-instructor with Leschetizky. She also was a pupil of Henrion, a native of Belgium. For four years Miss Johnson taught at Lassell Junior College, Boston and then resumed teaching at the McGill Conservatorium. Her assistant is Miss Elizabeth Schwob.

ENROLMENT STARTS AT POPULAR SCHOOL

Another season is here, parents and their children have returned after a summer holiday the children have resumed their school, but still there is something else of great importance that many parents should and do think about. That is to send their little one to a Dance school, because if the child has talent it will be brought out, and even if there is no talent apparent, yet what good dance lessons will do to a young, or for that matter old body, is a well known fact. It gives the child poise and grace and keeps the body healthy.

The Evans Sisters School of Dance are now enrolling pupils for the season 1939-40, and indications promise a big season for this popular school, the school known as "The school for better and individual teaching." A call in person or on the phone will enable one

Westmount Business College Has Moved to New Quarters

The Westmount Business College, formerly situated 12 years at 256 Metcalfe Avenue, Westmount, has recently moved into new and spacious quarters in the Royal Bank Building, corner St. Catherine and Greene Aves. (Entrance 1165 Greene Ave.).

Since its beginning, this college has specialized in training pupils to attain good business positions, many of which often lead to the role of private secretary.

In large classes it is impossible for a teacher, no matter how good to handle the problems of each pupil individually. In this school, classes are limited in number and individual attention is given to each student, which results in a high grade of efficiency. The aim of the school is to turn out a certain number of well trained, capable stenographers, rather than a great number of untrained ones.

Graduates, both young men and young women, are holding responsible positions in Montreal and other cities.

Classes are held day and evening. Private lessons are also available for those who desire such tuition. Fees are moderate.

to obtain any information. This School limits the number of pupils which are enrolled for the season as it is found to be the only satisfactory and efficient way in which time and individual teaching can be given.

WESTMOUNT FOOTBALL CLUB WILL NOT OPERATE

LOSS OF ATHLETIC GROUNDS AND EAGERNESS OF PLAYERS TO JOIN ARMY DECIDE STAND

Executive Decided to Abandon Activities at Meeting Held on Tuesday — President John M. Pritchard Made Announcement—Squad Has Been Practicing For Past Week — All Plans Now Set Aside

Due to the fact that war conditions have made it necessary for the Westmount Athletic Grounds to be used as a temporary barracks and training centre, and that many of its players intend to "join up," the Westmount Football Club has decided not to operate this year. The executive of the recently organized Ontario Rugby Football Union club, which has worked hard over the formation of the squad for the past month, decided to abandon activities at a meeting Tuesday morning. John M. Pritchard, president, announced the stand taken by the club immediately following the meeting.

Besides the fact that the club has lost the use of the grounds, executives felt that many of its members would now turn their activities towards helping Canada in the war. Last season the club operated under the name of Nationals at Point St. Charles' Alexandra Park.

On Monday officials were informed that the Athletic grounds had been taken over for military training purposes. The club had prospects of becoming one of the strongest gridiron forces in Eastern Canada. It had practiced for a week under the direction of coaches Clary Foran and Ernie Hempey.

Loyalty to the Dominion in its bid to help England in the war struggle was so firmly evidenced by the players on the team that it was considered imprudent to try to keep the squad in operation.

Following last night's announcement they would be unable to play at Westmount Grounds, the executive committee, comprising John Pritchard, Fred Porter and Jimmy Riddell, considered bidding for the baseball stadium for night rugby. They also entertained outside hopes they might get into Molson Stadium, for the Ontario Union seemingly intended carrying on for another season at least. Today's loyal decision set aside all these matters.

Departure of Westmount Club leaves three organizations surviving in the Ontario Union—Balm Beach, Peterborough and Sarnia were other clubs originally scheduled to start in the four-team set-up. Peterborough and National were newcomers to the Union last season, while Balm Beach and Sarnia were veteran members of the organization.

Decision of the Westmount Club to cease operations has brought no comment from Toronto whether or not the Ontario Union will continue this fall. Should sentiments similar to Westmount's exist in the other three clubs, there is a chance the veteran O.R.F.U. might suspend operations for the duration of the war.

DOLLS HALT AIR LINER
Two dolls held up an airliner at Omaha, Neb., recently. The big ship was starting to take off when attendants discovered little Muriel Donahue of Minneapolis, Minn., en route alone to Sacramento, Calif., had forgotten the dolls in her excitement to be first aboard. A radio order halted the ship while Muriel got her traveling companions.

1st Chauffeur: How did you come to puncture the tire?
2nd Chauffeur: Ran over a bottle.
1st Chauffeur: Didn't you see it in time?
2nd Chauffeur: No, the man had it under his coat.

IT ISN'T HOW THEY DO IT, BUT RESULTS THAT COUNT

The stars don't always conform to the book to get results. Jim Jeffries' crouch led him to the heavy-weight championship. Jack Bromwich confounds tennis experts with his two-handed "baseball" grip. Charley Paddock had his famed "flying finish." Heinie Groh went to town with his curious "bottle" bat and Leo Diegel rose to golfing prominence with his crablike putting stance and pendulum stroke.

OGILVY'S MAKE ARRANGEMENTS FOR WAR DUTY

The regular quarterly staff breakfast meeting of Jas. A. Ogilvy's Limited was held in the store's dining room yesterday. The management welcomed Miss Louise Pritchard and Mr. Ernest Durrance to the "Quarter Century Club" made up of employees who have been in Ogilvy's service for twenty five or more years. Miss Pritchard and Mr. Durrance were presented with silver trays appropriately inscribed.

In the course of a short address Aird Nesbitt, general manager of Ogilvy's, outlined the store's policy with regard to staff members who voluntarily enlist for active service.

All regular employees who have dependents and who voluntarily enlist for active service will receive from Ogilvy's, for a period of at least one year, the amount by which their total army pay and allowances fall short of their Ogilvy salary at time of enlistment.

Similarly, employees without dependents will receive the difference between their army pay and allowances and three quarters of their Ogilvy salary at time of enlistment.

And, in order to help in making the adjustments necessitated by enlistment, every active service volunteer will remain on Ogilvy's pay-roll at full pay for a period of four weeks.

Such employees will be regarded as absent on special leave without any break in the record of Ogilvy service and a position at Ogilvy's will be available to them on their return.

During absence on active service, volunteers and their dependents may shop at Ogilvy's at the then current staff discount.

Mr. Nesbitt also stressed that those who can not enlist for active service can do their part by keeping business going as usual.

LAUGH ON WHO?
Elsie and Effie are twins. Mum is putting them to bed after bathing them and Effie is laughing and cannot be stopped:
Mammy: "What you-all laughing at, Effie?"
Effie: "You, Mammy."
Mammy: "At Mammy? Why?"
Effie: "Waal, he-he-he, you-all done washed Elsie twice."

Frank Hodgson Wins Putting Tourney

Frank Hodgson was the winner of the regular weekly adults' municipal putting tournament held last night at King George Park. He chalked up a score of 20 for nine holes. Tournaments will be held at the park each Wednesday night for the remainder of the current month, weather permitting.

The Men's Municipal Tennis Tournament with 86 entries is being continued during the month. At the moment the first and second rounds are completed which should bring the tournament to a close by about September 15.

The Girl and Boy Student Tournaments are drawing to a close and should be completed by September 12.

Plans have been made to run a Men's Municipal Doubles Tournament. All those who wish to enter may do so by giving their names to the court attendants before Monday at 8 p.m.

Largest City Grows Larger, London Reports

London remains the largest City in the world—and it is still growing, according to "London Statistics 1936-38," issued by the London County Council. This volume tells how in 1937, last period for which figures are available, there was an increase of 80,000 in the population, bringing the total to 8,655,000. This compares with New York's 7,000,000.

The administrative county, however, that inner ring of the vast metropolis which forms Greater London and spreads over 693 square miles, is steadily losing inhabitants. The population of this area was at its highest in 1901—4,536,276. Since then it has continued to fall until in 1938 it was 4,062,800. The growth of Greater London at the expense of the administrative county, according to this survey, is reflected in the decreasing number of elementary school children in the county. Their numbers have dropped from 900,000 in 1915 to 543,600 in 1937. This decline in school population is proportionately much larger than the decrease in the total population of the county. Much of Greater London's growth in population is said to be due to the concentration of a large proportion of the newer industries around London and consequent migration of workers from other districts. Passing from people to the books they read, this volume gives a detailed analysis of books borrowed by London residents. During the year ended March 31, 40,116,733 books were borrowed from public libraries in Greater London.

WINNERS OF SPORTS DAYS ARE NAMED

Eight Meets Held During Summer Season at Athletic Grounds

The weekly playground sports days held at the Westmount Athletic Grounds came to an end on Aug. 30, the results of which were in last week's Examiner.

There were eight meets held during the summer playground season with an average attendance of over 125 per meeting. Points were awarded in the various classifications as follows: first, 3 points; second, 2 points; third, 1 point. These points were kept during the summer and the winners are as follows.

Girls 6 years and under, Caroline Kennedy, 25 points; Girls 8 years and under, Gloria Williams, 51 points; Girls 10 and under, Pamela Haskett, 69 points; Girls 12 and under, Gladys Morgan, 63 points; Girls 14 and under, Dolly Thomson, 53 points; Boys 6 and under, Peter Hennessy, 56 points; Boys 8 and under, Douglas Bramble, 43 points; Boys 10 and under, Allan Robinson, 55 points; Boys 12 and under, Leonard Chambers, 69 points; Boys 14 and under, Buddy Tobias, 58 points.

NEW BRIDGES
Moscow plans two new bridges.

(The following impressions have been written by radio editor Jack Hirschberg, at present vacationing in New York City. His regular and popular radio column will resume in the next issue of The Examiner. Mr. Hirschberg here gives impressions gathered on the European conflict.)

New York, September 6—There is no blackout in New York tonight.

This afternoon Brooklyn's daffy Dodgers and the New York Giants pursued their baseball schedules before enthusiastic crowds, and untold thousands journeyed by subway to Flushing where they

York Times Building in the midst of Manhattan Broadway was a mass of headlines as hundreds of people sat all over Father Duffy's statue at 48th Street scanning papers for war news and buying out-lets of their appearance on the street. This morning by eleven o'clock all Montreal papers were gone—Canadian dailies sold like hot cakes throughout the day. New Yorkers, transient and permanent it seems, were unable to dissociate themselves from war—no matter how hard they might try.

Last Wednesday I drove out to Fort Washington to meet the Dixie Clipper and welcome H. V. Kaltenborn, America's top-ranking new analyst, back from his European trip. Driving back to Manhattan from the air base, Kaltenborn predicted war in four days. He was correct almost to the hour.

In fact, New Yorkers, conditioned to headlines and crises, and happily free from formal European commitments, accepted Sunday's declaration of war with little more than the advent of a new year. The Athenia disaster caused them to wake momentarily, but they quickly passed into lethargy once again.

However, Sunday seems already so very long ago. We are today living at a new tempo—and although tonight Manhattan went to work and play in an atmosphere of weakly affected detachment there was a scent of grimness in the air. President Roosevelt's voice echoed from every she, in town and audiences at newsreel theatres cheered when shots of soldiers patrolling the Lachine Canal and Montreal armories were projected on the screen. Canadians thronged radio stores in search of portable short wave receivers and crowds on Times Square strained their necks to catch a glimpse of the news as it circled the New Tonight I climbed to the 17th floor of Columbia's Madison Avenue edifice to chat with him again. As we sat together in the trim, glass-walled news studio at CBS, awaiting further European developments, he talked freely and calmly, revealing scarcely at all the talked freely and calmly, revealing scarcely at all the terrific strain under which he has been working these past few weeks.

"Not a chance—not a single chance in the world!" was the way he summed up possibilities of a German victory in the present conflict. "Germany will be unable to carry on for more than one year."

I inquired his opinion of the Nazi-Russian pact.

"It will hurt both Russia and Germany immeasurably," was his rapid answer. "Already it has cost Russia the support of many liberal thinkers throughout the world, and it has cost Germany at least one ally. Moreover, it proves that Hitler and Stalin are both cheap opportunists with little of the idealist in their makeup. Their words must always be doubted."

Hans Kaltenborn should know whereof he speaks. Wanderlust has sent him all over the world. Resourcefulness and courage have given him many "scoops." Last year he stationed himself in a haystack in Spain to broadcast running commentaries on the Civil War. He has personally interviewed Hitler, Stalin, Mussolini, Beck, Chamberlain, Goering, Daladier, Bonnet and Halifax. Mahatma Gandhi told him of conditions in India, and Kaltenborn was the only radio broadcaster to interview General Chiang Kai-Shek at his headquarters in China.
