Massive manhunt on for escapees

McGovern gets nod tonight

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (CP) — With George McGovern assured of more than enough votes for nomination as its presidential candidate, the Democratic party turned Tuesday night to drafting a platform, patching up its festering discords and wondering whether Teddy Kennedy could be persuaded to join the fight.

The naming of Lawrence O'Brien as permanent chairman of the party convention and the keynote address by Gov. Reubin Askew of Florida were the first items of business Tuesday night.

As the delegates entered the convention centre for their second session, McGovern had 1,570.75 delegate votes pledged to him.

Senators Hubert Humphrey and Edmund Muskie withdrew one after the other from the presidential contest Tuesday, turning their delegates loose either to jump on the McGovern bandwagon or seek cold comfort among the narrow ranks of supporters of the five other candidates.

The withdrawal of Humphrey and Muskie, co-campaigners for the presidency and vice-presidency in 1968, sent McGovern's delegate count well above the 1,509 needed to win the nomination in tonight's voting for presidential nominee.

Gov. George Wallace of Alabama, whose bloc of nearly 400 delegates remained the largest outside McGovern's fold, pledged to continue the fight. But Wallace seemed mainly interested in keeping his conservative, segregationist views before the convention.

Senator Henry Jackson of Washington, another conservative, also declined to withdraw. Still in the battle, but with equally little change, were Representative Wilbur Mills of Arkansas, black congresswoman Shirley Chisholm of New York and former governor Terry Sanford of North Carolina.

WRITING ON THE WALL

The handwriting for the other candidates appeared on the wall of Miami Beach's cavernous convention centre when McGovern's forces racked up a series of decisive victories early Tuesday in floor fights over delegate credentials.

"It is apparent to all of us that Senator George McGovern is this convention's choice as the nominee of our party," Muskie said, urging his supporters to back the South Dakotan. "Let's now get going about the business of winning the presidency and governing wisely."

Humphrey, 61, making his third and undoubtedly final bid for the presidency, had released his delegates earlier without recommending any other candidate. Tearful, the normal bubbling senator from Minnesota said he will "continue to work for the greater goal of a nation that will be governed with justice and compassion."

Although Humphrey didn't mention McGovern by name—an indication of the occasional fierceness of their campaigns—McGovern replied that his longstanding "relationship" of affection and friendship with Humphrey will continue.

Gossip along the hotel strip and at the convention centre swung rapidly to the choice McGovern is likely to make for his vice-presidential running mate. The first name that came up every time was Senator Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts, only survivor of a clan whose name works nostalgic shivers among Democrats.

TED REMAINS ALOOF

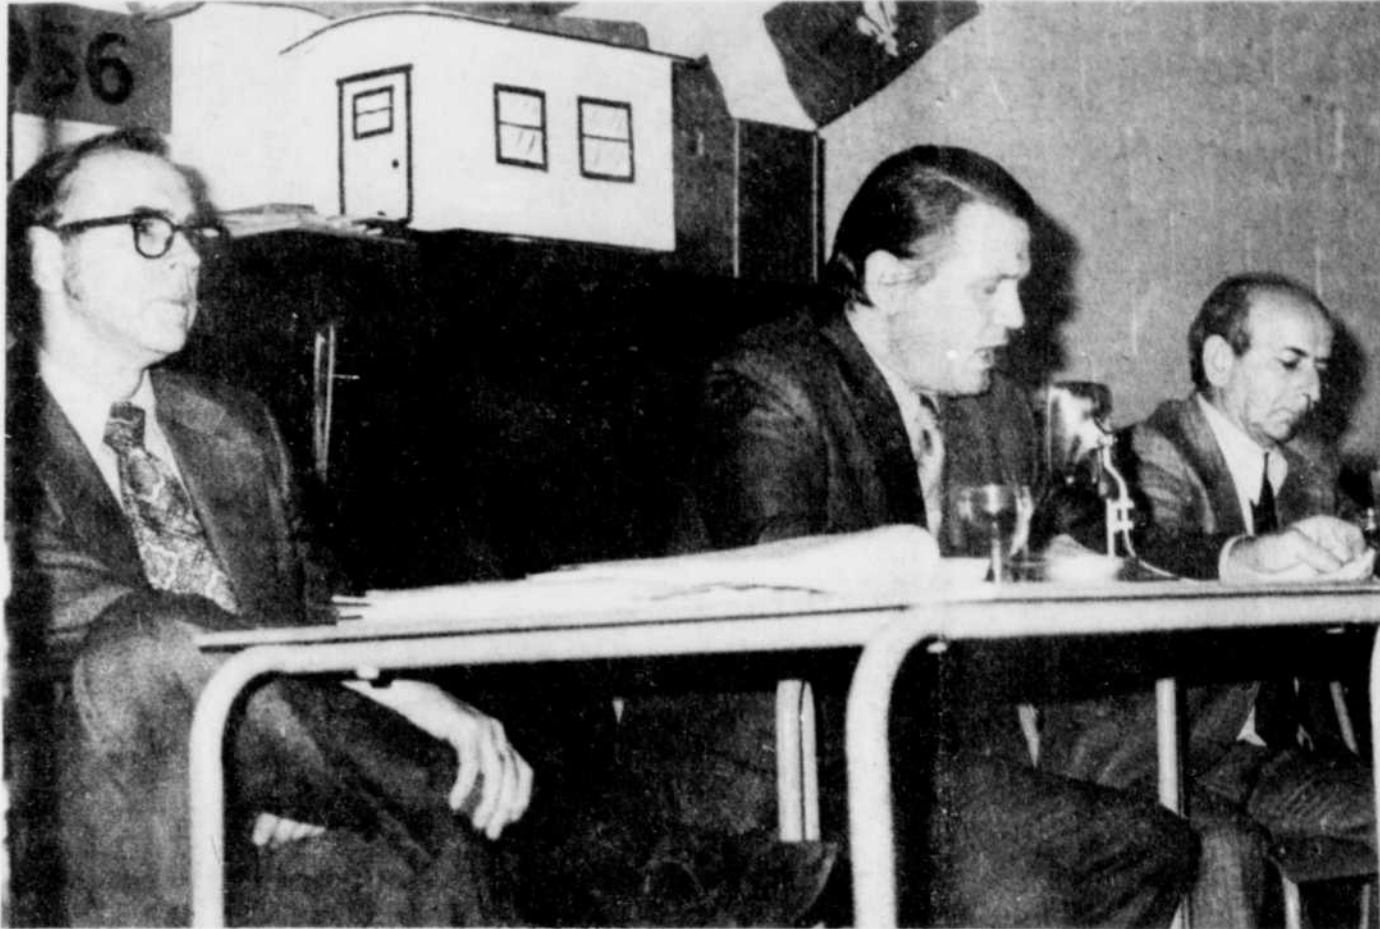

Kennedy, who has remained in relative seclusion at the family compound in Hyannis Port, Mass., has repeatedly said he would not accept the No. 2 spot—or even No. 1. But McGovern aides believed that the door was not closed and that Kennedy could be won over.

Members of the panel at the meeting of the health centre explain the objectives of the plan.

Bedford health centre seen

BEDFORD (EC) — A meeting was recently held in the Union Hall on Massicotte Street to explain the establishment of a health centre in Bedford which will make diagnostic services such as x-ray, cardiograms and testing of blood available to the public.

The meeting was attended by about 250 persons. Eugene Benoit was chairman of the meeting and was also appointed as executive convenor for the formation of an executive committee.

A panel discussion was held, the members of the panel being Dr. Adrien Tougas, head of the medical centre, Robert Dean of Montreal and Eugene Benoit. Much useful information was obtained, all questions being answered in both French and English. It is expected that another meeting dealing with the matter will be held in the near future.

Nine members are to form the executive committee. To date, the following are members: Mayor Line Marziali, Dr. Adrien Tougas, Rev. Father Phenix of the parish of St Ignace de Stanbridge, Jean Clarke, Mr. Benoit, Pierre-Paul Kevenelle, Gilles Leduc and Fred Gilman. One other member is to be appointed.

Ulster gears for parades today

BELFAST (AP) — The British government ordered 32,000 troops, police and militiamen into the streets of Northern Ireland today to keep the province's warring religious factions apart while 100,000 Protestants of the Orange Order paraded.

Belfast was lit by scores of street bonfires during the night, marking the advent of the "Glorious Twelfth." It is the 282nd anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne, in which the Protestant armies of William of Orange defeated the Roman Catholic forces of James II.

Amid politicians' warnings that Northern Ireland is closer to civil war than at any time in the three years of communal violence, the militant Protestants of the Ulster Defence Association said their armed units would protect the marchers from attack by the Catholic Irish Republican Army.

Government forces cordoned the line of march in Belfast to block attacks by Catholics against the display of Protestant dominance. Catholics of the Andersonstown, Ballymurphy and Ardoyne districts sealed off their sectors with barricades of concrete and steel to keep out Protestant raiders.

Trouble was feared in Portadown, a town of 13,000 population 25 miles southwest of Belfast. The route of the parade there ran through a Catholic section, and the IRA said it would not allow the marchers through. The UDA said it was prepared for a showdown.

The buildup to the parades was ominous. The Provisional wing of the IRA Sunday night called off a truce it had ordered two weeks before, and the shooting and bombing since has been worse than ever.

At least 14 persons have been killed since the IRA offensive resumed Sunday night, bringing the recorded death toll to 418 in three years. The army said that in Belfast alone there had been 210 shooting incidents between 8 a.m. Tuesday and 4:30 a.m. today. It said soldiers were not involved in 83 of them, implying that the others were attacks of Catholics on Protestants or vice versa.

A 19-year-old Protestant youth was shot dead in Portadown early today as he walked through a park with his father. A British soldier was killed Tuesday.

Merchants soften stand on inquiry

SHERBROOKE (LH) — The Sherbrooke Chamber of Commerce softened its demand for a Quebec inquiry into certain aspects of the administration of the city of Sherbrooke following a noon meeting with Mayor Marc Bureau at the Sherbrooke Social Club yesterday.

"We've decided to proceed in stages," Chamber of Commerce president Ulrich Chaine said after the meeting. Mr. Chaine explained that the Chamber would proceed in its demand for a public inquiry. The stages would include eliciting the support of other intermediary groups in Sherbrooke.

Once support from the groups is united, the Chamber will ask Sherbrooke city council for a meeting "as soon as possible," Mr. Chaine said.

Mr. Chaine also suggested that an inquiry could be led by the city's finance and economic promotion commission rather than by the municipal affairs department in Quebec. The finance and economic promotion commission, made up of municipal aldermen Jacques O'Bready, Rosaire Coutu and Romeo Bergeron, would have the same powers as a provincial investigating commission, Mr. Chaine said.

MAJOR UNSURE OF CASE
"I don't know if it's possible," Mayor

Bureau said of the three-man local commission to investigate a decision made by Sherbrooke city council some weeks ago.

Mayor Bureau said the provincial cities and towns act left open to interpretation the possibility of a commission made up of municipal aldermen having the power to subpoena witnesses and hear testimony. The Mayor said it was difficult to justify an inquiry since the facts surrounding the need for an inquiry are public.

The Chamber of Commerce request for an inquiry was made last week in the form of a declaration sent to Mayor Bureau. Mayor Bureau subsequently requested a meeting with the Chamber of Commerce and the meeting was held yesterday. The Chamber of Commerce declaration decried a June 29 Sherbrooke City Council decision forbidding the construction of an estimated $2-3 million shopping centre in Sherbrooke.

Although the original Chamber of Commerce demand for an inquiry into the vote has not been dropped, the Chamber will proceed more slowly with its demand as a result of yesterday's meeting.

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Nine of the 14 Millhaven penitentiary prisoners who snipped their way to freedom through two chain-link fences Monday night were still on the loose today.

If they still are in this vicinity they will be confronted by a barrier of men and machines when they try to leave the area just north of Lake Ontario.

Platoons of police and prison guards backed up by aircraft and boats continued to cordon off a 10-mile-square around the maximum-security prison 17 miles west of here.

The 120 provincial police and 80 prison guards working 12-hour shifts also used tracking dogs in their effort to flush out more of the men, some of whom were described as "extremely dangerous."

Five of the escapees, including one of three convicted killers, were in solitary confinement cells at the prison Tuesday night, less than 24 hours after they made their bid for freedom following a softball game in the prison compound.

It was the biggest mass escape in Canadian history.

NEIGHBORS NERVOUS

Residents of this eastern Ontario city and those in nearby rural towns made sure their doors were locked. None of the convicts recaptured had gone farther than seven miles from the institution.

Police had one of the escapees handed to them by two farmers near Bath, three miles west of the prison.

Raymond and Bill Newbury captured Gaston Lambert, 22, of Ottawa after spotting him huddled in a ditch.

They described Lambert, serving 15 years for armed robbery, escaping custody and theft, as "pretty timid."

"Raymond grabbed a big stick and told him to stand up," said the other brother. "He stood up."

"Raymond grabbed him and pinned him against a tree" for about five minutes until police arrived.

Ronald Fillion, 25, of Toronto, was captured in the same area when he stood up in tall grass and gave himself up to advancing police.

CAUGHT IN TRUCK

Edward Woods, 26, of Burlington, Ont., serving a life term for non-capital murder, covered the most ground of those captured, but the truck he was driving was forced off the road near Odessa, Ont.

Woods was the first caught. A passenger in the truck eluded police by dashing through a dried-up creek bed.

Woods was the only one of the captured convicts to offer resistance, forcing police to wrestle him to the ground.

Chief Insp. John Hillmer of the provincial police, spearheading the search, speculated that Woods' companion was Donald Og, 25, of London, Ont., convicted of manslaughter in the beating death of convict Bertrand Henry Robert, 34, of Chatham, Ont., during the Kingston penitentiary riot in April, 1971.

Most of the 500 rioters in the older penitentiary later were transferred to Millhaven.

Robert Clark, 38, of Tillsonburg, Ont., serving a life sentence for breaking prison by force, breaking and entering and possession of weapons, was trapped in a cement plant under construction about seven miles west of Millhaven. Tracking dogs forced him to bolt cover and he gave up after a warning shot was fired.

Captured in the same vicinity following a tip by a citizen who spotted him in deep grass was John Taylor, 31, of Hamilton, serving seven years for breaking prison by force, breaking and entering and possession of burglary tools.

Other escapees: Thomas McCauley,

35, and Charles Boomer, 33, Edmonton; Sreto Dezemba, 25, William Yardley, 24, and Gerald LaRocque, 32, all of Toronto; Rudolph Nuss, 25, St. Catharines, Ont.; Richard Smith, 32, Petrolia, Ont.; and Thomas Smith, 34, London, Ont.

TRIES AGAIN IN SUMMER

McCaughey, serving 25 years for armed robbery and two charges of escape, was the first convict to break out of the new $18 million prison last December. He lasted two days in freezing temperatures after cutting through a chain-link gate.

Dezemba was serving a life sentence for non-capital murder; LaRocque 17 years for robbery, forgery and theft; Nuss 20 years on armed robbery charges; Boomer 37 years for armed robbery and parole forfeiture; Richard Smith 12 years for armed robbery; Thomas Smith 24 years for three robberies and Yardley seven years for robbery.

The men were dressed in institution clothing but the only uniform garment is green trousers. The convicts are permitted to wear shirts of different colors.

Police speculated the prisoners went one by one through the holes in the two fences. They indicated inadequate lighting of the perimeter fences may have been one factor in aiding the break.

The lighting is being studied.

Salary offer changing

QUEBEC (CP) — The Quebec government has decided to revise its salary offer to 210,000 public service employees and will present a new proposal Thursday, a government negotiator said Tuesday.

Rejean Larouche confirmed the government revision in answer to a question at a news conference. He gave no details of the changes.

The two sides are meeting this week for the first time in 15 days.

The atmosphere of the talks is described as "very good" but spokesmen for each side are careful not to disclose any of the deliberations.

On the salary issue, the parties are separated by about $120 million.

WANT SEVEN PER CENT

The common front has asked for a raise of seven per cent per year and the government has offered an average increase of five per cent with a supplement for the lowest paid.

The employees have also asked for a minimum weekly wage of $100.

Talks were stalled for 15 days by the refusal of the Quebec Federation of Catholic School Boards to accept the government's job security offer.

The school boards' consent is required by law in any contract agreement, but Labor Minister Jean Coutu said last week he is ready to force acceptance by decree if necessary on the job security question.

Under the legislation, later amended, which ended an 11-day public service strike in April, the government can impose a new contract on public servants if one is not negotiated by Sept. 15.

Council okays plans for Legion weekend

NORTH HATLEY (RM) — Council met at the municipal office on July 3, with all councillors present and Mayor H. Krichew presiding.

Building permits were approved on behalf of F. Buck for an addition to his house and M. Denis for a building to house a kiln to replace the present barn.

Council approved the requests for the use of Dreamland Park from the North Hatley Curling Club for a fried chicken supper to be held on July 22, the Canadian Legion for Legion Weekend activities on July 28-29 and the United Church Men for an ice cream social to be held on Aug. 12.

The yearly rental of $175 was moved to be paid to Marathon Realities for the Pavilion. Marathon Realities takes care of the rentals for the railway properties. Council decided to build a fence with a gate from the hedge to the corner of the town building which houses the Speedwash, and also to fix the roof of the addition at this and along the back of the building.

LICENCE REQUESTED

Notice of a request for a liquor licence for a dining room and bar at the Massawippi Golf Club was received. No objection was presented.

A letter was received from the statistics department of Quebec stating that North Hatley has 728 permanent residents.

The Mayor quoted estimates received on pumps required for the sewer line on the Lake Road. Plans cannot proceed until approval is received from the Water Board.

The tests of the water samples recently taken at the Pavilion bathing area were reported as satisfactory for swimming.

Council discussed with A. Toulouse, sanitary inspector, the problems of having sewer connections properly installed and inspected on private properties before the line is covered. Some councillors felt that the only way to overcome these problems is to have town employees do the digging and the complete installation of pipes right into the basement. The Mayor asked the committee to investigate the specifications, such as the size and types, that other municipalities are using before making a resolution.

SALARY SPLIT

G. Taylor, as a council delegate to the NHRS, reported on a meeting held recently. He reported the need to hire one person to collect admission at the Pavilion and to help with maintaining the grounds. On the recommendation of the NHRS, the Council agreed to hire John McCrea and to pay half of his salary. The Township of Hatley will be asked to pay the other half.

Councillor B. Bishop reported that plans were to have water skiing and also to hold a couple of dances during the summer at the Pavilion. The Mayor stressed that the dances at the Pavilion must be well supervised. A motion was passed that a letter be forwarded to the Cultural Centre stating that they ask council's permission prior to holding any activities at the Park or Pavilion and that they must have council's approval.

Council discussed the question of whether the six paid holidays for municipal employees should remain the same or be increased to eight. Council decided to check with other municipalities before arriving at a decision.

Councillor Reed reported on the county council meeting.

Council decided to set up records of the materials and labor required for each job so that the cost per job can be determined.

REPAIRING FENCE

It was decided to repair the fence at the Pavilion and also the fence near the bridge, and to hire a grader for gravel roads in the municipality.

A motion was made to purchase three lights at $45 each to replace those broken on the retaining wall at Dreamland Park.

Council decided that fishing should not be allowed from the sidewalk and bridge, and signs will be made and posted to that effect.

Garbage will be picked up twice a week, on Tuesdays and Fridays, during July and August.

THESE YOUNGSTERS SEEM TO BE ENJOYING THEIR ACCOMMODATIONS AT SACRED HEART CAMP

Boys' camp get $1,000 donation

COWANSVILLE — A donation of $1,000 was recently given by the Montreal Hunt Club to the Sacred Heart Camp for boys near Cowansville. The money was raised from part of the profits from the Hunt's Club annual ball.

This year the gala event is to be held Aug. 12 at 6:30 p.m. at the Bromont Equestrian Centre. The Club is again hoping to make a substantial contribution and would like as many persons as possible either to come and enjoy the ball or, they are not able, to send their donation to the camp.

The camp was founded by the Rev. Father Herman Mekkelholt on a farm bought through the generosity of friends in the St. Lambert area. The camp is for boys from broken homes whose parents, because of health or family situations, are unable to have their children with them.

"No institution can ever be as good as a family," says Father Mekkelholt, and because he is a believer in his statement he has created a home away from home for more than 80 fortunate youngsters.

VISIT CAMP

The committee for the ball visited the camp and saw evidence of the statement in the happy faces of boys being taught gardening, carpentry, sports, living with other people and enjoying their summer vacation.

All the buildings at the camp, except the original 200-year-old farm house, are new, having been built by Father Mekkelholt and his assistants.

In the winter the boys, under Father Mekkelholt's supervision attend different schools, so that each child's ability is suited and his personality will develop stay in a central home together in off-school hours. There they live as much like a big family as possible.

If tickets for the ball are required, those interested should write Mrs. G. Duprat, 1221 Principale, Cowansville, or phone Mrs. J.L. Davis at 514-534-2929. If a donation to the camp is to be made directly, this may be sent to Mrs. Duprat, who is secretary for the Montreal Hunt Club.

Local CNTU branch bounces executive

SHERBROOKE (LH) — The president and vice-president of the Sherbrooke local of the Confederation of National Trade Unions were voted out of office following a special CNTU meeting Monday evening.

The meeting, attended by 111 of the 240 CNTU delegates, voted unanimously to ask for the dismissal of Jacques Lemoine, Claude Gauvin and Robert Dupont, the president, vice-president and secretary-treasurer respectively of the Sherbrooke branch of the CNTU.

Following the vote to dismiss the three union executives, Richard Marcotte was elected new president of the Sherbrooke CNTU and Leonard Cayouette and Leopold Levesque were elected vice-president and secretary-general respectively.

It was pointed out during the course of the meeting that the three deposed union executives might legally contest the decision.

CLAIMS ILLEGALITY
Mr. Lemoine circulated a letter during the day before Monday night's meeting saying the meeting was illegal.

But lawyers advising the CNTU said the Monday meeting was legal, as were as the decisions made at the meeting. Lawyers representing the CNTU claim that the refusal of the president of the CNTU to call a meeting as stated in the constitution, permits the executive of the CNTU to call the meeting in the president's place.

To give the meeting legal viability, delegates to the meeting Monday night passed a unanimous resolution saying that Monday night's meeting was a special meeting not requiring the usual advance notice of one week.

It was also by a unanimous vote that a resolution was passed authorizing the new president and secretary-treasurer to sign checks and tend to other financial business of the CNTU. The resolution said as well that as of July 10, former president Lemoine and secretary-treasurer Dupont are no longer authorized to sign cheques on behalf of the CNTU.

The mandates of union executives Rouillard, Gobeil, Coulombe, Lafontaine and Fecteau were also unanimously revoked and a new executive was charged with recovering documents still in possession of the former executive.

Youths paint wall

SHERBROOKE (LH) — A large mural is currently being painted in Sherbrooke by six students for the University of Quebec as an Opportunity for Youth project, a spokesman for the project announced yesterday.

Three murals have already been completed by the students in other centres in Quebec. One mural has been built on the campus of the University of Quebec in Three Rivers, another along Racine Street in Chicoutimi and a third in Quatre Bourgeois, as the project enters its ninth week.

In Sherbrooke the students are currently working on a mural along the wall of the Boisvert store on King Street West, opposite the bus terminus. After Sherbrooke, the students, Serge Mo-in, Daniel Roberge, Serge Savard, Ghislain Brousseau, Francois Lebel and Danyel Thibeault, will continue their project in St. Hyacinthe and Laval.

The mural painters hope to come into contact with a great number of persons. For this reason they are working on Sundays as well as days of the week. Paint for the project is being donated by a local manufacturer.

Ladies Aid elect new officers

HUNTINGVILLE — The Ladies Aid held their annual meeting on June 14 at the Community Hall, with Mrs. Booth as hostess. There were 13 members present. Mrs. Bradley, president, was in the chair and devotions were read by Mrs. Chute, who read the first chapter of the 1st Epistle of John.

After the reading of the various reports for the current month, the annual reports were read. Mrs. Bradley retired after thanking everyone. Mrs. Devany then took the chair for the election of officers. The following were elected for the coming year: President, Mrs. H. Aldrich, 1st Vice Pres. Mrs. P. Lyonnais, 2nd vice-pres. S. Chute, secretary, Mrs. Crosby and treasurer, Mrs. M. Sewell.

Chamber gets grant

SHERBROOKE (LH) — The Quebec Chamber of Commerce has been granted $50,000 from the federal government in order to pursue its Cooperation Business-Youth program, a spokesman for the Sherbrooke Chamber of Commerce announced yesterday.

The project will now serve seven centres in Quebec with the subsidy. Michel Normand, coordinator of the Sherbrooke project, said.

The Sunshine Convenors are Mrs. W. Aldrich, Mrs. L. Rayercraft, the Work Committee — Mrs. Lyonnais, Mrs. Booth and Mrs. St. Onge.

Mrs. H. Aldrich then took the chair. She thanked Mrs. Devaney, Mrs. Hunting and Mrs. Sewell for making up the program for next year. This was read by Mrs. Sewell and accepted by the members. After some discussion, it was decided to start the fall season with a card party on September 20.

The roll call was answered by the payment of next year's dues. At the close of the meeting a drawing was held for a box of cards. This was won by Mrs. Hunting. Refreshments were then served by the hostess.

On June 10 a ham and salad and baked bean supper was held in the Community Hall, sponsored by the Ladies' Aid, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Lyonnais and Mrs. Crosby. This was very well attended, and we wish to thank everyone who helped to make it such a success.

CARD PARTY
At the 500 Card Party held on May 29 in the Community Hall in Huntingville, the following were the winners: Ladies' High, Beulah Walker, 2nd, Marion Robinson, and low M. Ferguson. Men's High, Randy Smith, 2nd Milton Laberge, and low Andrew Robinson. The door prizes were won by Blanche Kerr, Rose Couture, Rena I. Salsal, Mirey Pavey, Kessie McBain and S. Berwick. Andrew Robinson had the lucky number for the grocery box.

What makes someone give blood? People who have never taken time out to do just that are usually puzzled by the question.

They understand that blood is life, and they can see that without blood hundreds of thousands of people might not be alive this very minute. But they often think that because there has never been a critical shortage of blood in Canada in the past that there will never be one in the future.

Some people who have never given blood say they stay away from Red Cross clinics because they are afraid of the needle. Others say they can't afford the time. Others hear the advertising for clinics and read the billboards and newspapers; in fact, they always agree with what's said, "Blood is life," and "There's no substitute for blood." But when it comes time to give, they just don't follow through.

And that's probably one of the biggest differences between people who give blood and people who don't. The people who give say, "It's up to me." The ones who don't remain apprehensive about making the vital decision.

But if you took time to stop by a blood donor clinic and talked to one or two of the blood donors, you might discover that many regular blood donors were once apprehensive about giving.

Ask any blood donor about the needle. What will they tell you? They'll say, "The first time I gave I was a bit apprehensive about the whole thing, but I noticed the blood pack by my bed was half full before I even realized the nurse had put the needle in my arm."

Ask any blood donor why he or she gave, and their answers will vary from, "Because I know there's a real need," to "Well, I know there's no substitute for blood. It contains life, it can't be synthetically duplicated by science, and people need it. I feel it's up to me to pass it on." Or they might tell you, "I like to know I'm involved in helping other people, and not just sitting back in some little cubicle of my own," or "People need blood. In half an hour I can give life, so I give. It's as simple as that."

People who give blood don't live in an isolated world. They don't believe in pretending that people in need don't exist. They're part of a growing community which believes in action and has decided to do something to help.

This summer the Canadian Red Cross Blood Transfusion Service will ask you to give blood. What will you do? Whether you theorize about the need for blood or whether you actually give is strictly up to you, because blood and life are gifts that can only be freely given.

But if you see that blood is life for people in need, and if you see that someday people you love may need blood, you'll probably understand. Hopefully you'll do something to help.

What makes someone give blood? The answer to that question varies with the individual. The important thing is that people give generously. People who give blood believe in life, and pass it on. What about you?

Broken dreams litter the prairies

By Jim Neaves

EDMONTON (CP) — There's a current saying in Saskatchewan that if the trend of rural depopulation continues there will be only one farmer left in the province by 2001.

A slight exaggeration, no doubt, but it is indicative of the concern about the steady decline in the number of farms.

Driving across the Prairie provinces there is ample evidence as mile after mile of highways roll past forlorn, abandoned farmsteads.

Charles Gibbings of Winnipeg, Canadian Wheat Board commissioner and former president of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool, says the decline has serious implications for the social structure in rural areas.

"It always grabs you when you drive through the rural areas and you see an abandoned farm site and you contemplate the hopes and aspirations that someone had when they entered into that operation."

Now, it's gone and "you feel the same way about the rural towns and communities that had built up and now are ghost towns."

TREND GOES ON

All three Prairie provinces have initiated programs to try and stop the trend of disappearing family farms, but most agriculture industry leaders admit the trend will continue, maybe at a slower pace.

Basically the problem is one of economics. Prairie farmers for many years have been caught in the cost-price squeeze which has seen them pay more for goods and services while selling their production, mainly on world markets, at prices over which they have no control.

Jack Messer, Saskatchewan agriculture minister, says the answer to the problem has generally been for the farmer to increase the size of his farm in an attempt to keep production costs down.

"Some have been able to stay alive and keep their heads above water, but many others have found themselves confronted with serious economic difficulties."

Almost 64,500 people left Saskatchewan between June, 1968, and January, 1971. Between 1966 and 1971 the number of farms in Manitoba declined 12 per cent.

HALF IN CITY

Sam Uskiw, Manitoba's agriculture minister, admits his province's population is "very unbalanced" with more than half of the one million population living in metropolitan Winnipeg.

He says it is a necessity to develop rural areas to overcome the population imbalance.

The province has established seven regions and "we hope to do something important in each of them to give them greater viability in the long run."

Mr. Uskiw says the government wants to stabilize rural populations to reduce the "out migration" but it doesn't mean it will eliminate the rural-to-urban trend.

E. A. Boden, Saskatchewan Federation of Agriculture president, says he is convinced the trend has slowed, but doubts the federal and provincial governments have "realized the full meaning of what the transition is all about."

STILL WORRIED

In Alberta, with a more diversified economic base, the trend has been slower but still is cause for concern.

Gordon Harrold of Calgary, Alberta Wheat Pool president, says he thinks the trend will continue for some time.

"It affects the rural areas and creates a lot of problems as far as education, the provision of roads and many other factors are concerned," he said.

"In some small hamlets, the grain elevator is the last remaining business. Some of these will disappear but just how fast we don't know because it depends to some extent on the pace of rail line abandonment."

E. K. Turner of Regina, Saskatchewan Wheat Pool president, agreed that the abandonment of railway lines will be a factor.

This, coupled with a consolidation of the grain handling system, "puts economic pressures on people and tends to depopulate rural areas."

Mr. Turner said "nobody feels good about it." The trend could be stopped or reversed by providing a financial return or margin "wide enough on agricultural products to allow extra costs to be absorbed."

FALLS BY HALF

Dr. Gordon MacEachern of Ottawa, president of the Agricultural Economics Research Council, says that during the last 20 years Canada's farm population dropped 50 per cent and the average farm income fell 16 per cent.

Contradicting the stand of many agricultural economists, Dr. MacEachern says there is obviously an opportunity for many more farmers across the country and for improved income through producing what the market wants.

George Franklin of Winnipeg, Manitoba Farm Bureau president, isn't that optimistic.

"The only new people we will get into agriculture are perhaps those who are prepared to work for less and because they are self-employed."

He says any trend back to the farm will be on the basis of the opportunity to be self-employed.

"Farming has none of the advantages of financial return available in the urban areas and the provisions of working a straight eight-hour day."

'Don't they ever recall the drivers, too...?'

Matter of fact

MIAMI BEACH — In the old days, Democrats used to like winning elections, whereas Republicans cared most about giving their ideologies a run in the yard. But that profound difference — so useful to the Democratic Party from the days of Franklin D. Roosevelt to the death of John F. Kennedy — has now been turned upside down.

That is the main lesson of the peculiar atmosphere of this feverish convention city. No one talks, at least in any serious, practical way, about how to defeat Richard M. Nixon in November. But a great many people are talking pretty openly about taking walks if they do not get their own way here, both ideologically and otherwise.

Sen. George McGovern and his cohorts have gone furthest in this regard. The senator's threat to lead a new left-wing party if he should not be nominated was no hot-blooded outburst. It was not abruptly provoked by the credentials committee's vote on the McGovern delegation from California.

Sen. McGovern had earlier said exactly the same thing — and in cold blood — to Life magazine's interviewers. Still more important, too, are the remarkable young leaders of the unprecedented McGovern organization. They are freely talking about a third-party movement if their man is not nominated. One of them, Richard Stearns, has put it on the record.

They can easily carry through on this, too, even if the convention ends by turning to Sen. Edward Kennedy by some strange and unforeseeable chapter of accidents. The McGovern organizers were, in the great majority, supporters of Sen. Eugene McCarthy in 1968. They by no means share the attachment to the name of Kennedy that is natural among some other leading figures in the McGovern camp, like the able Frank Mankiewicz.

At the other end of the spectrum, meanwhile, Gov. George C. Wallace and his henchmen are talking very sweetly about how they still hope the convention will be able to see things their way. There is almost zero-chance that the convention will do so. If Sen. McGovern is nominated, it is therefore an even bet, and maybe an odds-on bet, that Gov. Wallace will curse the nominee and find some way to support President Nixon.

This is not all, either. Since the Roosevelt era, organized labor has been one of the indispensable props of the Democratic Party. Yet tough old George Meany has his operatives down here for a novel purpose. They are passing the grim word that if the convention chooses Sen. McGovern, the Democratic candidate for the Presidency will not even get a token endorsement from the AFL-CIO.

George Meany means every word of it, too. In the days before the convention, Sen. McGovern was fairly frantically trying to see Meany, in order to make peace. Meany coldly refused to find time for him. In this matter of refusing even a token endorsement of McGovern, Meany is furthermore supported by well over two-thirds of the unions composing the AFL-CIO's ruling council.

Worse still, the union leaders are rather evidently supported by much of the blue-collar rank and file. A good cross-check on the feelings of rank-and-file workmen is the new trend of the Catholic vote in the United States. To this day, although the rule of the WASPs is long over, Catholics compose a high proportion of the blue-collar population. At least since the Roosevelt years, the Catholic vote has also been another of the vital assets of the Democrats.

A recent test by pollster Lou Harris nonetheless showed 54 per cent of American Catholics supporting President Nixon against 40 per cent for George McGovern, with the rest undecided. This finding was further confirmed by the George Gallup organization in a slightly earlier poll only partially published. The Gallup test gave 40 per cent of the Catholics to the President, 36 per cent to McGovern and 18 per cent to Gov. Wallace. If you make suitable allowances for transfers from the Wallace columns, the two sets of figures are seen to be close to identical. Add the McGovern people's wreaking of public vengeance on Mayor Richard Daley. Add the further prospect of heavy defections to President Nixon among Jewish voters.

The sum of it all appears to be a Democratic death wish. Presidential candidates rarely win elections, after all, by alienating or insulting great numbers of their natural supporters. Maybe this is an illusion, to be sure. Sen. McGovern has a lot of support from young people. He also has his unprecedented organization.

Yet the real McGovern logic is that somewhere in the political woodwork there is a "silent majority" that his zealous organizers can bring out. Sen. Barry Goldwater's people had the same theory.

Complacency the enemy

By Rod Currie

WASHINGTON (CP) — While all eyes are on the Democrats slugging it out in Miami Beach, top lieutenants of the Nixon administration are quietly tackling the principal enemy within the Republican camp—complacency.

The feeling abroad—among many Democrats as well as Republicans—that President Nixon would be a shoo-in over Senators George McGovern or Humbert H. Humphrey, is causing considerable concern among the masterminds orchestrating Nixon's re-election campaign.

Although campaign funds are not likely to be a big problem, still some party officials are expressing fears that the feeling of over-confidence could deter some potential contributors, and dull the enthusiasm of volunteer workers.

While the Democrats are still chipping away at a 1968 campaign debt of more than $9-million, the Republicans are said to have more than that amount already in pocket and expect to spend maybe $40-million on the campaign.

And while the Democrats parade their dirty linen in public, Nixon enjoys the traditional advantage of an incumbent—no president seeking a second term has been denied in more than 40 years.

He also has the advantage, sitting in the White House, of running a statesman's campaign above the battle. His trips to Peking and Moscow certainly helped his image and he has the prerogative of television time almost any time he wants it, for an announcement, an address to the nation or a press conference. Meanwhile, he has said he will remain aloof from the campaign until after the Republican convention in August.

But Republican party leaders are warning of a stiff battle ahead once the Democrats select their candidate, and particularly if they are able to put their differences aside and unite behind their man.

For all the glitter of Nixon's world summit meetings and his decisive moves to heal the economy, he is weak in some important areas and the Democrats can be expected to emphasize them.

It could be that—despite public concern over the Vietnam war, and interest in such headline-grabbing events as the diplomatic breakthrough in relations with China—the election results will hinge on such bread-and-butter issues as unemployment and inflation.

In that context, the Nixon administration got some good news and bad news on the economic scene last week.

Unemployment in June dropped to 5.5 from six per cent of the labor force. While heartening, it still doesn't give the Nixon administration much to crow about and some economists are predicting it is a temporary respite and that unemployment will be on the rise again by the time the November election rolls around.

Also, wholesale prices — which usually foreshadow movement in consumer costs—were increasing at an annual rate of six per cent in June.

If in fact the wholesale price increase heralds a new round of inflation the Nixon administration could be in trouble with that broad band of American voters more interested in pocketbook issues than they are in the war or relations with Peking.

Myrtle Rebekah Lodge

LENNOXVILLE — The regular meeting of Myrtle Rebekah Lodge No. 28 was held in the Masonic Hall with a good attendance. Sister Gertrude Beattie, Noble Grand, presided and welcomed the members. A special welcome was given to Sister Elizabeth Hillard of Calgary.

A letter regarding FESTIVAL LENNOXVILLE was read by the secretary, Sister Luella Brady which stated that reduced ticket rates are available to all persons who attend the plays in a group. The plays will be held in Bishop's University's Centennial Theatre.

Sister Rhoda Pratt DDP stated that the annual District Meeting will be held in St. George's Church Hall on Friday, October 13.

The results of the Rebekah Bazaar were most gratifying in every way. A special vote of thanks was given to Sister Rubena Aldrich for the large quantity of delicious rolls which she made for the supper.

The treasurer, Sister Abbie Parker, reported a substantial balance on hand. The sum of $100.00 was voted to the Edith Kathan Home. Money was also voted for other projects.

Sister Leslie McLeod reported on the sale of tickets for the variety show on June 24. Plans are also being made for the Rebekah booth at the Tombola in September.

Brother Harry Burt and Sister Clarissa Burt were in Springfield, Vt. where they attended a reception for the Grand Master of Vermont, Brother Walden Page and a memorial service for the Grand Scribe, Brother Walden Page and a memorial service for the Grand Scribe, Brother Albert Gregory.

As this was the last meeting of the season, Sister Gertrude Beattie, Noble Grand, wished everyone a pleasant holiday during the summer recess.

Following the meeting a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments were served by Sisters Dorothy Green and Dorothy Pearce.

Sick of being the chauffeur

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you printed a letter from a 16-year-old girl whose mother humiliated her by yelling into the phone (loud enough for her boyfriend to hear "Tell whoever it is that you aren't allowed to talk forever on a school night — then get off").

You seemed extremely sympathetic to the girl but showed no understanding whatever for the mother. Your answer was a great disappointment to me because I've always considered you a help to mothers. This time you really let us down.

I have two teenagers who tie up our phone five days a week from 3:00 until 10:00 p.m. On weekends, it's worse — unless they are out somewhere. Grandparents, doctors and friends cannot get through. I can't tell you how often I've been told, "Your phone is always busy. I've given up trying to call you."

I am sick and tired of the younger generation being resentful when limits are put on them. My children have caused me to lose my composure many times because they abused the telephone. If teenagers would be considerate and thoughtful their mothers would not need to scream into the telephone and embarrass them. Sinking in New Haven

Dear Sink: If you were unhappy with my first response you're going to be a lot happier with this one. What's the matter with you that you haven't set up some rules regarding the telephone and seen to it that those rules are respected? A mother who would permit her teenagers to tie up the only phone in the house for seven hours, five days a week, has abdicated her responsibility. Of course kids resent limits — but limits are essential, and beneath the resentment, kids want guidelines. Adolescents who can do as they please are insecure and unhappy. They feel that no one cares enough about them to enforce discipline. So get tough. Mother. Your children will respect you for it.

Dear Ann Landers: A woman I work with lives two blocks from my apartment. For the past three years I have been chauffeuring her to work. Often she rode home with me, as well. It was no inconvenience because I never had to wait for. She was always on the curb, rain or shine.

The woman is pleasant and I do like her, but she never once said "thank you" either verbally or in any other way, like offering to fill up the tank once in a while, or maybe a small gift at Christmas.

Yesterday my passenger ripped her stockings as she was getting out of the car. There was a rough place on the chrome strip. The way she carried on you'd have thought I had put it there on purpose. She yelled for 10 minutes about her $3.50 pantyhose and how her leg was scratched, and maybe she should have a lockjaw shot, and ended up with this dig: "It's too bad that some people don't take care of their property."

Finally I asked, "Do you feel I owe you a pair of stockings?" She replied, "Yes, I do." I then told her that she had been on the receiving end of a few hundred dollars' worth of free transportation and had never expressed any appreciation whatsoever. The next thing I knew we were having a terrific argument. We are no longer on speaking terms and I'm taking another route to work to avoid her.

So please stop advising people to be generous and neighborly. Ann Landers, I've learned it doesn't pay. — Brass Knuckles Beat the Golden Rule

Dear Brass Knuckles: Please don't judge the whole human race by that clod you've been providing with portal to portal livery service for three years. The fact that she has never expressed her appreciation is evidence that she's a clunker. I still say the golden rule is better than brass knuckles, even when dealing with jerks.

Dear Ann Landers: Several years ago I wrote to you and admitted I was an alcoholic. I asked you to help me. You suggested Alcoholics Anonymous. I wrote back and said I couldn't consider A.A. because I was a member of a very prominent family in town and the loss of dignity would have been too much to bear. You wrote back and asked me if it was more dignified to stagger around at parties dead drunk, getting sick in powder rooms and making no sense to my husband and children after 5:00 p.m. I had to admit you had a point. But I wasn't ready.

I went from psychiatric therapy to transcendental meditation. I tried the prayer route. I experimented with sugar-free diets, yoga and hypnosis. Nothing worked. One morning I woke up and couldn't remember a thing that had happened in the previous 24 hours. It frightened me out of my wits. In desperation I looked up Alcoholics Anonymous in the phone book and went to my first meeting that very night.

I discovered A.A. is a way of life. It brought me back from a world of the dead to a world of the living. I learned hope and faith, kindness and love among those wonderful people. Being one of them made me like myself well enough to want to stay sober. And to think I used to make fun of your column! I owe you my life. — Sun-Times Reader

Dear Reader: You don't owe me anything. Alcoholics Anonymous did it. But thanks for letting me know.

Oswald: "One of the first things taught to beginners is the rule of second hand low. Not all the time, of course, just as a general rule when a low card has been led."

Jim: "Once you've taught that to beginners it may take years to teach them that there is many a time to go the other way."

Oswald: "West opened the queen of clubs and continued with the jack after a low club was played from dummy. South ruffed; entered dummy with a trump and played the deuce of diamonds. East has an almost automatic play of a low diamond."

Jim: "It was almost automatic, but East happened to be Paul Levitt of Fort Worth. Paul's work with computers has kept him almost entirely out of bridge for some time and as far as we know this represents his only appearance at the table this year."

Oswald: "It wasn't hard for Paul to see that his king wouldn't do him much good if he hung on to it and that maybe a quick heart lead was needed. He played second hand high, led a heart."

Jim: "South had no chance to play low. West took his king and cashed the ace of diamonds for the setting trick."

Oswald: "If Paul had just played second hand low South would have been able to set up a diamond for a heart and West's king of hearts would have withered on the vine."

Gilman, president, Lino Marziali, mayor of Bedford, director J.M. Bedard, Lawrence Larocque, treasurer, O. Cabana, inspector. Absent from the picture is R.W. Craighead, vice-president.

Bedford's really growing

The amount of building that has been going up in the past months proves that Bedford is really growing.

The project on Taylor Street which is almost completed was the first to be started. Fourteen houses have been built most of which have been sold. The opening of this street will provide access to the Phillipsburg Road, a convenience that will be enjoyed by the southern portion of the town. The Eastern Townships Building Company is in charge of this endeavor. George Dion and Norbert Dunlavy are the partners. The municipal town council decided by bylaw No. 210 that the municipality would receive $27,000 for installation of sewers and water works on Taylor Street.

On Church Street a low-cost housing project has received favorable comment. The grounds were previously intended for an old people's home, Le Refect, which was not approved by the government. All facilities will be provided as well as outdoor parking. The apartments will vary in size from one bedroom apartments to three bedroom. The municipal council committee for the project is composed of Mayor Lino Marziali and Councillors

Fred Gilman and J.B. Bedard. The building is expected to be completed in the fall and reservations are being made at the present time.

The third building project is an apartment house on Massicotte Street containing 28 apartments. Mr. Rene Beaulac is building this one. There will be a swimming pool and individual thermostats in each apartment. Many of the apartments have already been rented. They will be ready for occupancy in the late summer.

Eight houses have also been built in this section of town which is strictly residential.

St. Paul's Sunday School closing

KNOWLTON — The official closing of the St. Paul's Sunday School for the summer months was observed by the holding of a special Sunday School Service held at 11:00 a.m. at which members of the Sunday School, took all the various parts of the service which had been prepared by the Sunday School Superintendent Mr. Frank Matthews.

The Rev. Ian Dodd spoke briefly to the children, and extended the thanks of the entire church congregation, and Warden, to the teachers, and all who took part in this vital and important part of church work. Prizes were distributed to the children, and Rev. Dodd announced with great regret the decision of Mr. Matthews to retire from active Sunday School work after many faithful years. Mr. Matthews' work in Montreal makes it very difficult for him to continue in this work. A cheque was presented to Mr. Matthews from the congregation as a small mark of appreciation for all his work in this field.

Those taking part in the service were Miss Laura Mizener, who was the Service Leader, also Jay Crandall, Sherry Irwin, Ricky Mayhew, Allison Matthews, Heather Main, the offertory was collected by Garth Russell.

Donna Dryburgh, Debbie Page and Ellsworth Kirby. The special flannelgraph presentation of the Good Samaritan was presented by Jimmie Martin and Ricky Mayhew. The Sunday School Candles were lit and extinguished by Sarah Mizener.

Hymns sung were In the Garden, How Great Thou Art, Amazing Grace, Whispering Hope, and Jesus Loves Me. The church was filled to capacity for this happy and inspiring Children's Service.

The flowers on the altar for this special service were in loving memory of Jimmie Cousins, a former Sunday School Superintendent.

W.I. hears special speaker

EAST CLIFTON — The Women's Institute held a meeting on June 13 in the Community Hall with a good attendance. The meeting opened with the opening ode. The roll call asked each member to tell what they liked best about being a W.I. member. Most replies showed that the friendliness received from other members was its best point. The minutes were read by Mrs. Bell.

Plans were made to hold a Talent Tea on June 28 from 3 to 5 p.m. Each member and others in the Community are bringing their best talents for demonstration and sale. A letter of thanks was read from Save the Children for ditty bags.

Mrs. Leta Cairns gave the report from the County Convention held in Bury. The County Fair Project is to be trees and their uses. This W.I. is to be responsible for the maple tree. This group also will give the Broadcast for April 1973.

Mrs. Gordon French brought a questionnaire from the Macdonald Journal which was worked on. The postage will be paid by the Service fund of the W.I. on the Journal to W.I. members.

Mrs. Frances Bain thanked Mr. Victor Bell, Mr. Irwin McBurney and Mr. Gordon French for enlarging the kitchen. Mr. Graydon Montgomery was thanked for painting on the roof of the community hall. The Busy Bees have painted the new part of the kitchen at a bee held June 15.

Lunch was served by the members.

SPECIAL SPEAKER

ASTRO-GUIDE By Ceann

Thursday, July 13

The Day Under Your Sign

ARIES (Born March 21 to April 19): Don't make a scene even tho conversation upsets you greatly. Calm down.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20): Someone from whom you've drifted apart may now re-enter your life. A pleasant possibility.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Someone may have hidden motives so be alert to all nuances. Listen!

CANCER (June 22 to July 21): Go out for relaxation today rather than working around the house and yard.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Get a group together for a short jaunt to an interesting historical spot.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Virgoans have a special insight and can spot others' problems better than their own.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23): A radical change may have an effect on your personal and financial situation. Don't panic.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Be more realistic. If you don't expect too much, you won't be disappointed.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Do not express yourself unless you are certain whereof you speak. Avoid embarrassment.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): A day to be happy, gregarious and congenial. Travel is under excellent aspects now.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Do whatever is necessary to improve your appearance if you would attract opposite sex.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): A teasing attitude annoys others and they let their resentment plainly show.

Celebrates 10th birthday

DERBY LINE — June 19 Miss Pammy Jenne, Derby Line, was ten years old. It was a happy day for her for in the morning she received the Happy Birthday greetings of the family.

Later in the day she was joined by Heather Wolfe, Lori Gilbar, Heidi Walsh and Rita Davis. Pammy's sister and brother, Karen and Brad for a party.

Pammy's mother, Mrs. Edward Jenne was "chief cook" for a cook out of the foods young people love. The birthday cake, made and decorated by Karen was in the design of a bunny rabbit and was eaten with ice cream.

Pammy received several delightful gifts and expressed her appreciation. The young people, after the cook out, had a treasure hunt, they also played other games. Mrs. Jenne gave all the young people prizes.

After Mr. Jenne came home from his day's work and had his supper, they took the young people to the Derby Port Drive-In to see the show Black Beauty.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION — The CBC-TV network will carry the two most important sections of the U.S. Democratic convention in Miami Beach July 12 and 13. Reports on the balloting will start July 12 right after the Expo baseball coverage at approximately 10:30, the acceptance speech by the successful candidate will be carried Thursday, July 13, starting at 9:00 p.m. Anchorman Walter Cronkite and analyst Eric Sevareid (upper right and left) of CBS News will head the convention broadcast team. CBC-TV's Lloyd Robertson and Gordon Donaldson to provide the Canadian viewpoint from the CBC Toronto studios. They will re-unite for the Republican Convention in August.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

More Likely in Adults

Surgery, Behavior Are Linked

Dear Dr. Lamb—I would like to ask you about your statement that "frankly psychotic behavior often occurs after open heart surgery." My daughter is scheduled to have surgery at age 5 or 6 to correct tetralogy of Fallot and I would like to know if we should watch for behavior other than normal at this time. I am a nurse and we are rather strict with her and I am afraid that if we are unaware of possible changes, we would think it was "sickly child syndrome" and become even more severe.

I think that if she were going to have any problems of this nature they would be recognized by the hospital staff.

It has been my general impression that these problems are more apt to occur in adults than they are in children. Perhaps this is because adults often have a number of other medical problems that have accumulated over the years and as a nurse you probably realize that young children often tolerate even major surgery far better than adults do.

Dear Reader—The psychological problems that some people have after heart surgery are commonly noted immediately after surgery, before they leave the hospital.

For the benefit of our other readers, a tetralogy of Fallot is a birth defect of the heart which is associated with a hole between the lower pumping chambers of the heart (the right and left ventricle) and a displacement of the artery that carries blood to the body and the artery to the lungs. The combination of defects often causes a child to be cyanotic or blue. Many of these, as with other birth defects of the heart, can be corrected with modern heart surgery.

Heart surgery has been an absolute miracle for children born with defects that would otherwise pose a handicap for them. Of all the marvelous things that have been done in heart surgery, I am inclined to believe that what has been done to eradicate the birth defects of the heart is one of the brightest chapters.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I had rheumatic fever when I was a baby but my parents didn't know it. I had a high fever for a couple of days and it left me with a heart murmur. I have to take penicillin until I am 21 years old.

I am 19 now and planning on getting married soon. I would like to know if I will be able to have a baby. My heart murmur is much better and I can do anything in the line of sports as long as I don't overdo it and get tired.

Dear Reader—If you are able to be active in sports, without difficulties, you shouldn't have any trouble having a baby. Many women who have rheumatic heart disease have had several pregnancies. The decision is, of course, dependent entirely on how severely the heart is damaged. Women who have trouble with their pregnancy because of rheumatic heart disease usually have enough damage that they will also have clear-cut limitations in their ability to exercise or engage in sports.

Much of the Lower Windsor area was without power for over nine hours on Thursday night when a 5-ton gravel truck took the ditch and cut off a power pole about two hundred feet above the driveway of Clayton McCourt. A huge ball of fire was seen and telephone jingled as the power and telephone wires fell across the Goshen Road. The Quebec Security Force was called to the scene and quickly set up flares along the dangas area. Traffic was rerouted until Quebec Hydro arrived to cut the power. Unfortunately the Hydro was on strike until midnight that particular day but worked throughout the night (after midnight) and had the new pole up and the power on for Friday morning. Driver of the truck, Richard Richard of St. Claude, crawled from the overturned truck unharmed.

Mr. Franklin Brock Jr. of Ottawa spent a couple of days with his parents Mr. and Mrs. F. Brock and visited several friends in the area while here.

Mr. and Mrs. N. Campell and family, Candiac, and Mr. James Ward, Montreal, were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Ward.

The food sale sponsored by the A.C.W. on Thursday, June 22 was very successful with fifty-seven dollars being realized. The "bun-warmer", donated by Thibault Hardware was won by Mr. Marcus Lynch. The ladies of St. George's A.C.W. would like to take this opportunity to thank the members of the congregation for their donations and support towards the food sales that have been held to date.

A new day dawning

As recently as five years ago, the lineup assembled by the Cowansville Little League as tournament representatives was so utterly out-classed on the ballfield that the crowd used to grip their seats in suspense from the third inning on, wondering when the game would be forfeited to the other side.

A lot of experts blamed defeat on the fact that no one had told the Cowansville youngsters what sport they were playing, so the boys decided it must be football. Even after trying to punt on a three-and-two-pitch and pulling a quarter-back sneak with the bases loaded and none out, they lost the game by only three converted touchdowns.

Every year the tournament schedule would call for Sher-Lenn all-stars to meet Cowansville in the first round, and they promptly licked their chops and disposed of their inexperienced rivals as though they were a group of hayseeds who thought a baseball bat was something that drove the cows home.

The Cowansville group has experienced its growing pains, and as each summer yields a more promising crop of young ballplayers, the results on the diamond have been on the upsurge. In sharp contrast to their earlier ineptness, the club scared the Sher-Lenners out of their collective underwear last season, before a late rally forced them to succumb by a three-run margin.

Perhaps the ironic part of this year's tournament which begins on the weekend is that the Cowansville smallfries can finally settle back and let another team be the whipping boy before they race onto the diamond. With Bedford in the same unenviable position that the Cowansville youngsters occupied several seasons ago, you can bet your grocery money that the fledgling entry won't survive the first round.

But you'll never guess what team will knock them out of contention. If you said Sher-Lenn, then you should be a Little League director, because once again the perennial contenders will scale the first hurdle with unopposed ease. Then, of course, they'll be faced with their longtime sparring partner.

With due respect to the greenhorn entry from Bedford, those involved in tournament activities here are gearing for a battle with their former tormenters, and for the first time they may have the balance to pull a stunning upset.

Pitching weapon

If you believe in the baseball axiom that pitching represents 75 per cent or more of the game then the Cowansville squad has legitimate cause to regard their fortunes through rose-colored glasses. The secret weapon is a strong-armed youngster named Gilles Piette, and most hitters from the Cowansville circuit will tell you they'd feel a lot healthier if he remained hidden.

In 13 games in which the kid toed the rubber, his ballclub was undefeated and Piette received credit for each of the victories. The only drawback in what amounts to the most scintillating performances ever seen here is the fact that Piette rarely completed a game he started.

Since manager Joker Desmarais had a left-handed sensation up his sleeve as well, his policy was to work both pitchers a certain number of innings each game. Now the critics are skeptical as to the stamina of 12-year-old Piette.

"There won't be any problem," asserts Demarais, who will also guide the tournament squad. "Just to see what he could do in a six-inning job I let him go the distance a few weeks ago, and he finished the game with 14 strikeouts. Don't worry, he'll go the distance if he has to."

After observing the line of pitchers behind Piette, one gets the feeling that if the Cowansville club is to advance beyond their initial tournament encounter, it will have to be done on Gilles' powerful arm. The records do not show anyone near the quality of this talented youngster, and it's extremely questionable whether the relief corps could plug the gap should he falter.

At the plate there is sufficient power to prevent them from becoming a bunch of patsies for opposing pitchers, but again an old problem surfaces. Apart from the servings of Piette, most of the ballplayers in this circuit simply have not been constantly exposed to the type of hurling which they must face in tournament competition.

If it's any consolation, one of the league's leading hitters did manage to rocket a ball out of the park this season and, while this may seem inconsequential, few Little League members in Cowansville can boast such a feat.

Despite a couple of defensive shortcomings, one gathers that the 1972 edition of the tournament troops which trots onto the diamond next Wednesday night is likely the most serious contender Cowansville has ever possessed to claim at least a couple of victories.

After a lot of lean years, they may have acquired just enough fat to play with the big boys.

Softball treat

Among the great teams that have carved a niche in the world of sports, there should be a special place reserved for the Connecticut Travellers, a softball team composed of old-timers.

The distinguishing factor about this greying but exuberant group of ballplayers is not the number of games they've won or lost, but the amount of cash they have raised for charity, a figure that is now approaching the $100,000 mark.

The American globetrotters make a brief stop in Cowansville next Monday night to tangle with some of the past softball greats — of this town, and while there's no admission charge, it would be heartening to see a throng turn out and recognize the efforts of these men of good will.

"We haven't been able to judge their play on the field as yet," explains Ed Mulford, one of the organizers of the ballclub. "But we're sure they aren't bums. Every player travels with his family, pays his own expenses and plays for charity. The town visited selects the charity."

The proceeds from Monday night's get-together will be turned over to Camp Garagona, which houses many mentally deficient children during the summer, thus underlining the importance of assisting at the battle of aging veterans.

Remember when the old man used to tell you that softball just isn't as good as the kind they played in his day? Head to the municipal ballpark next Monday and watch Grant Green, Robby Robertson, Jean Jodoin or Bob Bell try to recapture something from the past.

Western Football Conference preview Grid powers pressed by change

New faces, new stars and—in some cases—old disappointments, will be the name of the game in the Western Football Conference this season.

In any case, with training camp behind them and the preseason schedule opening up, the annual game of follow-the-leader is under way.

Calgary Stampeders, Grey Cup champions and conquerors of the Canadian Football League All-Stars, and Saskatchewan Roughriders will probably make the fewest changes. They finished 1-2 in the WFC last year and have almost pat lineups.

For Winnipeg, Edmonton and British Columbia, it will be a year of trying to catch Calgary and Saskatchewan. And the coaches know it will be tough.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers must tighten their defence; Edmonton Eskimos must boost their offence; B.C. Lions—once feared for their savage "head hunters"—must come up with a tighter defence and some consistent quarterbacking.

But the leaders can't stand still.

STAMPS NEED BACKS

Calgary, which lives by the pass and a rock-like defence, needs offensive backs for depth; Saskatchewan has defensive backs on top of the priority list.

In B.C. and Edmonton, where losing years may endanger the jobs of head coaches Eagle Keys and Ray Jauch, the performance of newcomers will be critical.

Jauch saw his team drop to last place in 1971 from second the year before. Another losing year could be his last.

The Lions spent lavishly during the winter and a losing season might be Keys' swan song, even though his contract would not be up.

With the action starting in earnest, here's how the WFC shapes up:

Calgary Stampeders (9-6-1 last year)—The best and stingiest defence in Canada last year, giving up fewer than two touchdowns a game. John Helton, Fred James, Dick Suderman and Craig Koinzan are as solid as any front four in the league.

Middle linebacker Wayne Harris, Canada's lineman of the year for four years, is flanked by Joe Forzani, Dave Crabbe and Jim Furlong. And Calgary is strong in the secondary with Howard Starks, Larry Robinson, Bill Van Burkleo, Terry Wilson and Frank Andruski. It should be as tough for a rookie to break in as it is for opposing backfielders to break through. Herm Harrison is as fine a tight end as there is. At wide receiver, the Stamps are knee-deep with speedy Jon Henderson, Gerry Snow, John Sens and rookie Gary Kerr.

Saskatchewan Roughriders (9-6-1)—The big green machine finished strongly last season, tying Calgary on points with 19, but taking second place because the Stamps beat them twice. Ron Lancaster continues to give them solid quarterbacking and his backup men—Bubba Wyche and Bob Pearce—also can play halfback both ways. George Reed and Bobby Thompson will be tough again as running backs, but there's one position open because of the trade that sent Silas McKinnie to Hamilton Tiger-Cats. Steve Molnar has done the job capably in the past, but Ole Gunderson, who made Associated Press title All-America last year, showed well in camp. Jack Abendschan and Gary Brandt are set at guard, with Clyde Brock one tackle—the other spot still open because of an off-season hernia operation to Ralph Galloway. Gord Barwell, flanker; Nolan Bailey, tight end; Al Ford split — no problems there. Things are not so set in the defensive secondary. Veterans Henry Dorsch and Bob Kosid may be on the way out after operations last year. Jim Campana, Ohio State, is working at Dorsch's right corner position. John Robertson, Kansas State, and Lewis Cook, Montreal Alouettes last year, also have looked good.

Edmonton Eskimos (6-10)—They had the second-best defensive record in the West last year, but finished dead last because of a poor offence. However, after coach Ray Jauch cleaned house late in the season, the Eskies won their last five games. Bruce Lemmerman performed consistently at quarterback, but Rank Harris, an import, and Dave Syme, a Canadian, looked good in camp. Running backs Sam Scarber and Gene Foster came to Edmonton late last year and the team began to win. Calvin Harrell from Arkansas State, drafted seventh by Miami Dolphins of the National League, is aboard and Jauch says "he'd have gone in the first or second round." "We think he could be the best back in Canada." Roy Bell, who scored nine touchdowns and had a 7.2-yard average with Oklahoma Sooners last year, should make it. The offensive line allowed the opposition to get to Lemmerman only twice in six games last year and a but one—the retired Allen Ische—will be back. The front four of Ron Forwick, John LaGrone, Greg Pipes and Roy Shatzko appear set again. Linebacking is solid with only Ken Ferguson fighting for his job with Therman Couch of Iowa State. Five of the six players in the defensive secondary are Canadians.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers (7-8-1)—Don Jonas was Canada's outstanding player last year, quarterbacking the most explosive offence in the country. Winnipeg made the WFC playoffs by outscoring its opponents, but had problems keeping the opponents from scoring. Off-season activity has been concentrated on defence. Jim Heighton and Joe Critchlow have it made on the line, but there still are a couple of spots open. Dave Chaney, all-America from San Jose, is fighting Mickey Doyle for middle-linebacker and if Doyle makes it, Chaney may move to the outside. Grady Cavness from El Paso may force coach Jim Spavital to move Paul Brule from safety to corner. Then there's Paul Williams, valuable on defence and offence, to the point where Spavital is uncertain where to put him. If Williams stays on defence, Bob Kraemer must make it at wingback—otherwise the 1971 rookie of the year could miss a starting spot. Chuck Liebrock should strengthen the offensive line at guard. With him will be Bob Lueck, Bob Swift, Bill Frank and Chuck Harrison. Jonas will continue to throw to Jim Thorpe, Paul Markle and Bob Larose and hand off to Mack Herron and Ed Williams.

British Columbia (6-8-1)—Coach Eagle Keys is sticking with quarterback Don Moorhead, but he's taking a long look at Don Bunce, who quarterbacked Stanford to a Rose Bowl victory. And he still has Tom Wilkinson, veteran from Toronto Argonauts—and what has become of Eric Guthrie, impressive young Canadian who played at Boise State? Whoever handles the team, he'll have power and speed in the backfield and at the ends. All-America fullback Johnny Musso from Alabamav will team with Jim Evenson, who gained 1,237 yards last year. Slotback Jim Young and speedy Larry Highbaugh will be prime receivers. The problem should not be to score, but to keep from being scored upon. The down linemen look strong with Greg Findlay and Gary Robinson apparently set at ends and with all-America Ron Estay and Garrett Hunsberger inside. Carl Weathers pivots the line-backers, flanked by Ray Nettles, another star from Tennessee and either Peter Palmer or George Anderson. The defensive backfield is the problem—has Keys missed the boat by going primarily with the crew that earned the nickname "the Kiddy Korps" last year?

Palmer looks to regain winning formula

MUIRFIELD, Scotland (AP)—"I keep on trying to make something happen—but it just doesn't."

Arnold Palmer, perhaps the most popular player golf has ever known and the man generally acknowledged to be the driving force behind the enormous growth of the game, was talking about his failure to win this season.

"I've had a chance to win three times, real good chances," Palmer said, a slight, puzzled frown creasing one of the world's most-photographed faces.

"But every time I got in position to win, every time I thought I had something going, something always happened. I think I just wanted to win too much, and got too anxious."

The 42-year-old master who put the word "charge" in golf's lexicon was making one of his fabled runs at the leaders in the final round of the Bob Hope Desert Classic—then hit one out of bounds.

HAPPENED AT DALLAS

Again, at Dallas in the Byron Nelson Classic, he mounted a last round challenge.

His always huge gallery swelled to massive proportions as the faithful stampeded to his side to witness another miracle.

Instead they viewed consecutive three-putt bogeys that killed it all.

"Each time," he recalled, "I was trying to make birdie and ran the first putt too far beyond the hole."

At Greensboro, he held a two-stroke lead going to the par-three 16th hole on the final day. He hit into a shallow stream at the bottom of a ditch, elected to play it out and took a lead-destroying, confidence-shattering triple bogey six that cost him the title.

LOSES CONCENTRATION

"I've had trouble with my concentration," he mused before a practice round for the British Open, which begins Wednesday. "My mind wanders. All of a sudden I'm not there I'm off in a cloud or something somewhere else."

He's had other troubles, too. With his putter, with his irons, even with his driver, usually the most reliable club in his bag.

And there's his eyes. He's experimented with eye-glasses and contact lenses to correct a near-sighted condition. He recently abandoned them.

"I think I'm better off without them," said Palmer.

But even with the glasses, and advancing years, and increasing girth, and greying, thinning hair, and the lack of victories, Palmer still exerts a magic effect on galleries all over the world.

And he ranks, at worst, as a sentimental choice to sidetrack Jack Nicklaus in his drive for golf's Grand Slam in this ancient tournament.

WATER SAFETY — Every swimming aid, no matter how small, should be equipped with some rescue aids. An empty gas can, thermos jug or plastic cooler, attached to a rope, can be tossed within reach of the person in difficulty. Keep one foot solidly on the other end of the rope so that there can be no danger of losing it. The rope should be soaked and coiled at least once a day to prevent it from tangling up.

Expos need 12 innings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Patience is a virtue to be admired. Everything comes, it has been said, to those who wait. Montreal Expos and Atlanta Braves waited and found out that the adage applies to baseball, too.

The Expos and Braves both struggled into extra innings Tuesday night and were rewarded with National League victories. Montreal trimmed San Diego 6-5 in 12 innings and Atlanta went 15 innings to beat St. Louis 5-4.

In other National League action, San Francisco Giants defeated New York Mets 6-1, Philadelphia Phillies tripped Los Angeles Dodgers 4-1, Cincinnati Reds shut out Pittsburgh Pirates 5-0 and Houston Astros split a doubleheader with Chicago Cubs, winning the opener 6-5 but dropping the nightcap 9-5.

The Expos overcame home runs by Derrell Thomas and Clarence Gaston which staked San Diego to an early 5-3 lead.

Teams raise money

MANSONVILLE — The Mansonville Soccer Club, comprising four teams — Mansonville, Knowlton, Cowansville and Stanbridge East — held a barbecue pig roast of 113 pounds including roast potatoes and punch to raise funds for uniforms and other equipment on the grounds of Lech's Hotel Sunday evening, July 2. It was reported a great success.

Games are held every Sunday at 2 p.m. on the same grounds and in various towns.

The captain for Mansonville is John Mierzewski and the coach is Eddie Tomera.

Ken Singleton had homered for Montreal.

Clay Kirby had 10 strikeouts through the first six innings but when he walked the first two Montreal batters in the seventh, manager Don Zimmer went to the bullpen.

Reliever Mike Corkins got the next two batters but walked Boots Day, loading the bases. Tim Foli followed with a two-run single, tying the score.

It was still tied in the 12th when Singleton opened with a single. Bob Bailey was credited with a hit when his grounder struck Singleton, retiring the runner. But Clyde Mashore followed with a double

Bucs edged 9-8

QUEBEC (LH) — Sherbrooke Pirates ended up on the wrong side of a 9-8 score as Quebec Carnivals scored two runs in the bottom of the eighth inning to win an Eastern League baseball game last night.

Before a large crowd of just under 6,000, the Carnivals scored six runs in a hectic third inning and added another in the sixth on Bob Arzen's bases empty blast before relinquishing the lead to the Pirates in the top of the eighth inning.

Pirate second baseman Luther Quinn continued his hit streak with a homer in the seventh inning for the Pirates, bringing the count to 7-4 for the Carnivals. Sherbrooke added four runs in the eighth to take the lead in the game for the first and only time, 8-7. But it was too good to last.

In the bottom of the eighth inning Carnival third baseman Jack Damaska doubled and scored on a single by Randy Brown. Brown took third on the play on outfielder Dave Arrington's error. Brown scored the winning run on a perfectly executed squeeze bunt by Carnival relief pitcher Dale Murray.

ERRORS PROMINENT

The two teams committed a total of six errors and each team left four men on base. Sherbrooke pulled off two double plays, twice as many as the Carnivals.

Lefty Brad Gratz went 2-1-3 innings for the Pirates, taking the loss. The win went to Dale Murray, who brought his record to 7-2. The Carnivals outthrew the Pirates 13-9 in the high-scoring contest.

For the Pirates, Mel Civil and Fernando Gonzales had two hits apiece, while Dave Augustine, Perry Dunn, Jim Campanis, Arrington and Luther Quinn chipped in with a hit apiece.

The two teams return to action at 8 p.m. today at Amedee Roy Stadium in Sherbrooke. It's Family Night.

Waterloo shooter third

GARSON, Ont. (CP) — Adam Salamandyk, a crippled rifleman from Winnipeg, won the grand aggregate championship at the Shooting Federation of Canada's sporting rifle match Tuesday.

The Quebec provincial team was the best of the provinces with a score of 2,267. Alberta was second with 2,259 while British Columbia was third with 2,257.

In the expert class, Sally Graham of Lakefield, Ont., won the aggregate title with a score of 2,352. Dan Langille of Tatamagouche, N.S., was second. Third place went to Andre Larivee of Waterloo, Que.
