World News In Brief

Ottawa, Nov. 18.—(CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent announced today in the Commons that there is no foundation for rumors of a pending visit to Canada and the United States by Princess Margaret Rose.

He said the government has not yet considered the question of inviting the Princess to visit Canada.

Yokosuka, Japan, Nov. 18 (AP)—All 27 patrol type frigates loaned to Russia under wartime lendlease have been returned to the United States navy, it was announced today. The vessels, which displace 1,430 tons and have an overall length of 304 feet, were returned here in groups of nine. The last arrived this week.

Halifax, Nov. 18.—(CP)—A murder and suicide in the Annapolis Valley village of Victoria was reported by R.C.M.P. today.

Police said Myron R. Selig, 37, and Mrs. Irene E. Morrow, 24, both of Victoria, were found dead in Mrs. Morrow's automobile last night.

Police were called by farmer George Scragg who said he heard a car horn, then a woman's scream and two shots.

Washington, Nov. 18.—(AP)—The Economic Co-operation Administration announced yesterday that Great Britain soon will buy about $4,000,000 worth of apples from American suppliers.

The recovery agency said it has earmarked $2,000,000 in Marshall-Plan funds to help finance the purchases. It was understood that the remaining sum will come through agriculture department subsidy payments to the fruit growers.

Ottawa, Nov. 18.—(CP)—The Newfoundland government has applied for an order to wipe out the new province's freight-rate structure and substitute one based on rates in the Maritimes.

The government, in an application filed with the board of transport commissioners, charged the present rates are "discriminatory" against Newfoundland and do not comply with the terms of Canada-Newfoundland union.

Washington, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Diplomats from the 12 Atlantic pact countries meet today to consider secret plans drafted by their military chiefs to defend the western world.

State Secretary Dean Acheson was to preside over the meeting—the first working session of the pact council since the countries formally banded together in a defence alliance last April 4.

Washington, Nov. 18.—(AP)—The Shah of Iran said last night that his country, which has stood firm in post-war pressure from Russia is determined to maintain its 3,000-year-old independence "against all threats from whatever source arising, at whatever cost." The youthful ruler visiting the United States, told state secretary Dean Acheson that "in the United States we have a great and powerful friend."

A-Weapons Produced At Albuquerque

(Editors Note: The following story on one of the least-publicized atomic installations in the United States was written for the Associated Press by Rick Raphael of the Albuquerque, N.M., Journal).

By RICK RAPHAEL
Albuquerque, N.M., Nov. 18.—(AP)—A high United States atomic energy official said today "we are no longer experimenting" with atomic weapons at Sandia laboratories of the atomic energy commission—"we are producing them."

Rear-Admiral George P. Kraker told for the first time some of what goes on in the top-level atomic installation.

Kraker is field manager of the A.E.C.

Working with the armed forces special weapons project, the Sandia laboratories no longer are engaged in research and academic development, Kraker said.

That is left to other atomic energy projects. Application is the theme at Sandia.

This application goes into the "gadgets" being produced at the laboratories. "Gadget" is the nickname the workers apply to the still-secret weapons being developed. These are being studied and learned for combat use by hand-picked men of the armed forces, who share Sandia base with the laboratories.

Formerly operated by scientists of the University of California, the laboratories recently went under the management of the Sandia corporation, a subsidiary of western electric.

Behind high steel fences, skilled technicians and engineers have replaced the scientists who produced the world's first atomic bomb.

How do these men react to their tasks of producing some of the world's most deadly weapons?

"To the majority of our people here," Kraker said, "this is just another skilled industrial job."

There is no tension, no air of foreboding, no feeling of impending danger at Sandia.

"We have no need for fear," Kraker said, "for there is a minimum of danger involved in our operation. Every possible safety precaution has been taken and our people know it."

Seamen's Meeting Ends In Fight

New York, Nov. 18.—(AP)—"Plenty of blood" was threatened today by revolting left-wingers of the strife-torn C.I.O. National Maritime union, who came off second best in a free-wheeling general membership meeting last night.

Big Joe Curran himself used an iron hand trying to quell the rebellion and stop the brawls between right and left-wing factions of his members.

But there was no peace in sight.

Cabinet Minister Will Be Canadian Delegate at Foreign Policy Discussions—Chinese Recognition May Be Discussed.

Ottawa, Nov. 18.—(CP)—Canada will participate in an important Commonwealth policy-making conference in Ceylon next January.

External Affairs Minister Pearson announced in the Commons last night that a Cabinet Minister will represent Canada at foreign policy discussions on Pacific and Far Eastern matters as well as "external affairs of general interest."

Two big matters which will come up for discussion are possible recognition of the communist Chinese government and the question of drafting a peace treaty for Japan.

Timing of the conference suggested that recognition of the new government in China would not occur before then.

"It may be," said Mr. Pearson in completing a two-day debate on Canadian foreign policy, "that we shall be in a slightly better position to unveil that (Chinese) picture after the conversations that we shall have in Colombo, Ceylon."

Mr. Pearson said he could not name the Canadian delegate to the Ceylon conference.

Mr. Pearson's address wound up discussions by more than a score of members which took Parliament on an extended foreign-policy tour of the world.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said that the world situation was clear now and becoming clearer all the time. It involved the fundamental differences between Russia and its Communist-dominated satellites and the western democracies.

Mr. Drew intimated that sanctions should be applied against Russia until she agreed to give the people under her domination the opportunity of choosing their own form of government.

Mr. Drew emphasized the need for reaching the Russian people as a step toward restoring understanding between the east and west.

Mr. Pearson agreed that great strides in maintaining peace would be made if the west could transmit to the people of the Communist bloc the earnest hope for understanding and agreement.

Chief purpose of Mr. Pearson's address was to answer the host of questions asked by members during the debate.

He announced that Canada shortly will establish a diplomatic mission in western Germany. The mission to the new state would be headed by Lt.-Gen. Maurice Pope, currently chief Canadian diplomatic representative in Berlin.

Mr. Pearson told The Canadian Press that the move couldn't be properly described as meaning official recognition of the west-German state because it might lead to the inference that Canada had not previously recognized the recently federated state, Canada had recognized the state, in fact welcomed its establishment.

Summing up the situation in Germany, Mr. Pearson said the possibility of holding a peace conference for the whole country had become more remote in the last year as a result of the continuing "split" between east and west in Germany.

Mr. Pearson said he wanted to clear up what appeared to be a contradiction on Canada's commitments under the North Atlantic security pact.

When he referred to definite commitments, he meant the political undertaking that Canada would come to the defence of any member of the alliance which might be attacked.

When Defence Minister Claxton had said some time ago that there were no commitments, he was referring to military undertakings.

Work had just begun on a military plan under which each country would be assigned a contribution in event of aggression. It would take some time to draft this plan and Canada's military commitments would not be known until then.

Of other matters raised during the debate, Mr. Pearson said:

1—Canadian industries can obtain the same information about atomic energy as is available to industries in the United Kingdom and the United States. The government was offering free to industries a one-year supply of radioactive isotopes.

2—He "agreed entirely" that in a democracy foreign policy, informed by public opinion, should be based on public opinion, informed and intelligent through information being made on developments. However, he did not believe in premature release of information on technical negotiations still in progress.

3—The department had tried to recruit workers from all classes of society. In 32 diplomatic posts, 16 were career men who had worked up through the ranks while four were from sections of the public service other than external affairs.

4—Of the 24 most senior posts, 10 of the representatives claimed the French language as their "mother tongue."

Truman Will Use T-H Act If Necessary

Washington, Nov. 18.—(AP)—President Truman's statement that he will use the Taft-Hartley labor law in the United States coal dispute if there's an emergency brought a new cry from one operator today that there already is one.

Truman took his stand at his press conference late yesterday; he would not say whether he thinks an emergency would come with an other walkout of the miners Nov. 20th. That is the end of the present working period decreed by the United Mine Workers.

Joseph E. Moody, president of the Southern Coal Producers Association, replied from Lexington, Ky., that "there already is a national emergency."

Moody added in a speech that Truman "obviously is up against a Nov. 30th deadline even though he denies the existence of a national emergency."

Truman's stand left the way open for a new peace meeting between Lewis and the operators before the present truce runs out. However, no immediate conference was arranged and Moody said he saw no present hope for resuming contract negotiations.

Truman surprised most observers watching the coal situation by saying he would not step in until an emergency arose, and was relying on the Taft-Hartley act in that event. The law provides for a 60-day court injunction to keep production going if necessary to the public welfare.

Most of the President's advisers had suggested the appointment of a fact-finding board that would look into the dispute and recommend a solution. Truman had done this in the dispute between C.I.O. president Philip Murray and the U. S. steel industry.

But Truman decided yesterday to sit tight and allow Lewis and the U.K. Hopes To Sell Farm Implements In Dominion

London, Nov. 18.—(CP)—Two hundred British manufacturers of agricultural machinery have been called to meet Nov. 29 to plan an all-out drive to wrest a major portion of the Canadian market from United States producers.

A 10-man mission, back from a 16,000-mile tour through every province of Canada, will urge them to co-operate in a great sales drive in the Dominion.

The confidence of the mission that Britain can win a big share of the market is recorded in its report, published here last night. The report will be the basis of discussions with Board of Trade officials.

Capt. E. N. Griffith, leader of the mission, told reporters "primarily the trade we can get must be at the expense of the American manufacturers. The whole thing depends on ruthless competition."

The mission's report, written before sterling devaluation, concluded: "Knowing the capacity of British factories we are satisfied that, with some important exceptions, there are no machines used on Canadian farms today which the United Kingdom could not provide, of a quality at least as high as, and at prices not far removed from, those of North American competitors."

Harold Wilson, President of the Board of Trade, said: "If this was true when the report was drafted, Whale-hunters from Churchill, Man., are shown, top, edging in for a kill in Hudson Bay. One man, harpoon poised, stands in the bow of the motor-driven canoe. A rifleman amidships prepares to finish off the big beluga—white—whale after the harpooning. In the second of these Canadian National Railways photographs, whalers examine their catch before towing it to a processing plant at Churchill. Hudson Bay white whales sometimes grow to a length of 18 feet and average 1,200 pounds. Each provides about 350 pounds of oil and 600 pounds of meat. The meat is used as feed on fur farms.

Another Bomber Crashes Searching For Plane Lost North Of Bermuda

U.S. Consul Still Held By Chinese

Washington, Nov. 18.—(AP)—New efforts to end the imprisonment of Consul-General Angus Ward by the Chinese communists apparently will be based on the power of the pen instead of the big stick.

One possible move by the State Department is dispatch of a note to Moscow asking Russian intervention with the Red Chinese government.

Another is a new United States appeal direct to the communist government at Peiping to free the American diplomat, who was born in Ontario, and permit him and his whole staff to leave Mukden as soon as possible.

President Truman told a press conference yesterday that he thinks the communist treatment of Ward is an outrage.

The consul-general was arrested along with four staff members Oct. 24. The communist raid said he was accused of having physically beaten a Chinese employee of the consulate in a wage dispute.

The U.S. government has had no direct word from him since. Other members of the consulate

Shipping Men Worry About Future

Tampa, Fla., Nov. 18.—(AP)—A B-29 starting out to hunt for the B-29 missing near Bermuda, crashed today bare seconds after the take-off of the mine.

Five of the nine known crew members aboard were killed. The other four were thrown clear of the plane and were only slightly hurt.

The plane was from MacDill air base and was one of nearly 100 air force, navy and coast guard planes which had been searching for the bomber which ran out of fuel and crash-landed in the sea Wednesday.

Seconds after it took off from the field which borders Tampa Bay, its No. 4 engine began smoking. As it turned to land, the engine broke into flame and the big plane crashed.

The tide was out at the time and the ship plunged into mud and slime.

The muck prevented a crash boat from reaching the wreckage and greatly hampered firemen from reaching the scene with hose.

Hamilton, Bermuda, Nov. 18.—(AP)—The Canadian aircraft carrier Magnificent today sped toward a lonely patch of ocean 345 miles northwest of Bermuda from where flares and faint distress signals spurred hopes that the 20-man crew of a missing United States B-29 may be found alive.

The 18,000-ton flat-top had cut the intervening distance to 325 miles by 8 a.m. Her planes went up to scan the sea ahead. The carrier, accompanied by the destroyer Haida and frigate Swansea, was en route to Charleston, S.C., on the first leg of a West Indies cruise when she was ordered to join in the search. The Magnificent was the vessel nearest to the spot.

The flares—two tiny red beacons—were spotted early last night. Capt. K. T. McFarland, piloting a B-29 of the 372nd bombardment squadron stationed at MacDill field, Tampa, Fla., flashed the word to nearby Kindley field at 6:45 p.m. Two planes hurried to the spot, equipped with parachute flares, emergency supplies and dinghies. They continued the search throughout the night.

Then, another B-29 landed at Kindley and her crew said they had recorded faint distress signals. A bearing taken on these signals coincided with the location of the flares.

Stockton, Calif., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Eighteen United States airmen died early yesterday in a collision of two B-29 bombers five miles up in a mock bombing raid.

Three crew members survived the double crash.

One of the bombers crashed in flames early yesterday on McDon-

Nationalist Warship Hits U.K. Freighter Eight Times

Hong Kong, Nov. 18.—(Reuters)—A Chinese nationalist warship chased and hit the British 2,648-ton steamship Louise Moller eight times a week ago when she ran the nationalist blockade to communist-held Shanghai, passengers said when the vessel docked here today.

The nationalist warship turned back when it saw another British freighter the 2,373-ton Wo Sang, preparing to escape to the open sea.

The Wo Sang was forced to stop, after moving only 200 yards, by well-directed shells that bracketed her fore and aft.

The British warships Alacrity and Concord watched the events from outside Chinese territorial waters but did not interfere, the passengers said.

The Louise Moller was not seriously damaged by shells which were of small calibre.

The Wo Sang and Tsiniin since have been released from the blockade and are on their way here.

Pusan, Korea, Nov. 18.—(AP)—The American ship Flying Cloud arrived today with a patch on her side and a load of disappointed passengers.

The passengers complained they missed seeing the shooting when a Chinese nationalist gunboat fired on the steamship Wednesday off Shanghai. Ship's officers had ordered passengers below deck.

The Flying Cloud was halted by the gunboat after it put out from Shanghai. The nationalists are enforcing a blockade of the communist port. The gunboat opened fire when the steamship pulled away.

The United States has protested to the nationalist government.

"They took us down to the engine room where we were unable to see anything," said Mrs. Elizabeth MacQueen, a British subject who is bound for San Francisco.

"One of us was scared."

Another struck a ladder and hose on the deck. Some of the firing was at a range of less than 300 yards.

The next day, crew members in a lifeboat bolted a plate over the hole in the side.

Capt. S. Rindler of the Flying Cloud said a survey of damage was being made at this Korean port and repairs would be made at Yokohama.

Taipei, Formosa, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Admiral Kwei Yung-Ching, commander in chief of the Chinese nationalist navy, said today the American merchant ship Flying Cloud was "clearly" within Chinese territorial waters when it was shelled Tuesday off the mouth of the Yangtze River.

The admiral said "when our naval vessel intercepted the Flying Cloud within the limits of our territorial waters the American ship was ordered to stop." He said the Flying Cloud slowed down at first and then accelerated its speed in an attempt to dash past the Chinese warship.

The admiral said a warning shot was fired first and then direct shots were aimed at the merchant ship, which was unarmed.

Barkley, Mrs. Hadley Marry Today

St. Louis, Nov. 18.—(AP)—A romance which budded during a cruise down the Potomac River last summer will culminate in this city by the Mississippi today when a pretty mid-western widow becomes the bride of the Vice-President of the United States.

The ceremony uniting 71-year-old Alben W. Barkley and petite, brunette Jane Rucker Hadley, 33 years his junior, was set for noon in the chapel of St. John's Methodist Church.

Although the wedding has been one of the most widely publicized of any in the U.S. in recent years, only members of the immediate families of the bride and groom were invited. They numbered 34. About twice as many press and radio representatives were on hand.

Methodist Bishop Ivan Lee Holt was the officiating minister, assisted by Rev. Albee Goodbold, pastor of the church. The simple ceremony called for the single-ring service with the word "obey" omitted from the bride's vow. Both bride and bridegroom are Methodists.

David M. Barkley of Paducah, Ky., Barkley's son by a previous marriage, was best man. Mrs. Hadley chose her brother, William W. Rucker of West Palm Beach, Fla., to give her away.

The Vice-President arrived here late yesterday by plane from Washington. He was met at the airport by Mrs. Hadley and a large crowd of reporters, photographers and others. With his bride-to-be at the wheel, Barkley drove away in the new $3,000 convertible he recently gave her as a wedding gift.

Among other presents received by Mrs. Hadley was a $10,000 diamond brooch from "a friend of the Vice-President." It has 186 round and 36 rectangular stones. Another piece of diamond jewelry, a gem-studded wrist watch, was given to his bride-to-be by Barkley.

Barkley has been a leader in Democratic party politics for more than 40 years. He served several terms in the House of Representatives from Kentucky before being elected Senator in 1926. He served in the Senate until he was elected Vice-President as President Truman's running mate last November.

Mrs. Hadley is the widow of Carleton S. Hadley, Washburn Railroad general counsel, who died in 1945. At the time she met Barkley Mrs. Hadley was working as a secretary in the general office of the Washburn here.

Seed Champions Receive Trays

Toronto, Nov. 18.—(CP)—Six silver trays were presented last night for world seed championships at the Royal Winter Fair but only one of the champion farmers was there to receive his prize.

E. W. Doubett of Hanna City, Ill., world champion corn farmer accepted his tray and a $100 cheque in the Coliseum horse show ring but the oats, barley, wheat, rye and potato champions were absent and their award were given to friends and relatives for them.

Potato champion Theodore DeBartie was in a Sudbury, Ont., hospital.

LATEST FILM FEUD REVOLVES AROUND NEW HAROLD LLOYD FILM

Hollywood—There's always a feud somewhere in Hollywood and this week it's between Howard Hughes and Harold Lloyd. Harold started for Hughes three years ago in "Mad Wednesday." After one showing in Florida, Hughes brought the film back to Hollywood for recutting. Now that it's ready for release, Hughes is refusing to show Harold the recut version. Lloyd is refusing to co-operate in the way of personal appearances, etc. There's a billing argument, too.

Frank Sinatra's radio sponsors sent Dinah Shore an SOS—they want her for two shows a week with Frank.

Eleanor Powell will play Jane Powell's sister in an M-G-M movie. Now if the studio can get Dick Powell and William Powell, the picture will be a real family affair.

Bob Mitchum just wrote a song titled "Love Never Happens to Me." It's about the only thing that hasn't.

Ella Raines returned from Europe with a flock of new French bathing suits which she intends to wear at Palm Springs this winter. She says all the talk that the French suits make women look unattractive comes from women who would look that way no matter what they wear.

It took Esther Williams two years to convince American women they should swim without caps. But M-G-M's coronation robes for her role in the "Duchess of Idaho," will probably never catch on with royalty. The royal burlap will be decorated with gold sequin potatoes with a crown of gold surmounted by more spuds.

Bing Crosby showed up at a benefit minus his toupee and the request to photographers, "No pictures, please." One enterprising lensman saved the day. He had Rhonda Fleming throw a shawl over Bing's head, took the picture and wrote, "Baby, it's cold outside" in his caption.

June Haver and Bill Spier were recalling hysterical line blowups by actors and June told about one that broke up "The Iceman Cometh" at Westport, Conn. this summer. June was playing the heroine, who is referred to throughout the play only as "the girl."

In one scene half a dozen burly males were sitting on stage and actor Leo Chalzell was supposed to say: "Quiet, boys, here comes the girl."

Instead Leo said: "Quiet, girls, here comes the boy." It took three minutes to quiet the audience.

Fredric March and his wife, Florence Eldridge, are pondering a return to Broadway in "Seven I Lay Me Down to Sleep." ... Famed Artist DP Found Cleaning Streets---

Ukrainian artist Edward Kozak, one of Europe's greatest muralists and caricaturists, was found toiling as a street cleaner in Hamtramck, a Detroit suburb. Before the war, Kozak won many honors for his murals, but he was better known for his caricatures and political cartoons. A widely reproduced caricature of Stalin brought the wrath of Soviet agents, and Kozak became a hunted man. Located by a Detroit architect decorator, Kozak was given a job painting murals and now his work is winning acclaim in Detroit. But, says Kozak: "Even if I have to sweep streets, I would be happy if I can remain in the United States."

Hundreds Of Local Residents Visit Dominion Textile Power Station On Frontenac Street Sign Will Be Lighted Tonight

Hundreds of Sherbrooke citizens last night took advantage of an invitation extended by the municipal authorities to visit the Frontenac street power station in connection with the Industrial Week being sponsored by the local Chamber of Commerce in connection with the sixtieth anniversary of the founding of the organization. The Industrial Week observations close this evening with a public visit to the new Technical school at the corner of Camirand and Minto streets.

Officials of the municipal electrical department and members of the City Council were present, the former explaining to the visitors the various operations in connection with the production and distribution of electricity.

This plant is the oldest of the municipal hydro-electric plants, being erected by the Sherbrooke Gas and Water Company in 1888 and purchased by the city in 1908 along with the gas plant. At that time the installed capacity of the plant was 1,675 horsepower. In 1917, the plant was remodelled and a new dam built, and the capacity increased to 2,700 horsepower.

In addition to the generating equipment which comprises two turbines of 1,350 horsepower each and two 1,000 k.v.a. generators, the power station is equipped to care for the distribution of electricity in the North and Centre wards.

Lighted Tonight

The skyline of Sherbrooke is destined to take on a more brilliant hue tonight when the towering neon sign atop the Dominion Textile Company Limited plant is turned on for the first time by mill superintendent K. C. Mills.

The new sign, consisting of the words "Tex-made Fabrics" imposed on a large maple leaf, is described as the largest neon sign in the Eastern Townships. It measures 80 feet in length and stands over 50 feet in height, with the large letter "T" reaching a height of approximately 32 feet. The words "Tex-made" are traced out in more than 600 feet of green neon tubing, while "Fabrics" consists of 342 feet of red tubing. In the veins and outline of the huge maple leaf are 400 feet of green tubing.

Onlookers at distances up to a mile from the sign will be able to see the famous "Tex-made" trademark, which will be lighted from 4:00 p.m. until 1:00 a.m. during the winter months. Powered by a battery of 23 high-voltage transformers, carrying current through a mile of copper wiring, the new sign is a welcome addition to Sherbrooke's skyline, and an excellent advertisement for one of our leading industries.

At The Library

This picture typifies the attraction the Sherbrooke Library has for the young people of Sherbrooke. Taken on the steps of the Library, it shows a group of young girls, just a few of the many young people who use the Library regularly. This is Sherbrooke Library Week, during which time special attention is being given to the Library's many facilities.

Sherbrooke Library Has Played Large Part In Community Life Of This City

The observance of National Book Week in Sherbrooke immediately brings to mind the long and important history of the Sherbrooke Library and Art Union, for no institution in the city has contributed so much to the promotion of reading. A year from now it will celebrate its seventeenth year, for it was in the autumn of 1830 that a reading room was opened and the Library had its humble beginning.

A little pamphlet published in 1880 reviews the first ten years. In the year 1830, we are told, Sherbrooke as a town of 9,000 people, about equally divided between French and English speaking citizens. The new reading room was located on the ground floor of what is now the income tax office building on Dufferin Avenue, but which then also housed the post office and various offices and stores.

The first caretaker, for he was little more than that, was given no remuneration but had the privilege of keeping a stand, curtained off from the rest of the room, where he sold fruit and candy. The main part of the room had a selection of newspapers and magazines, stereoscopes and kalidoscopes (the nearest approach to the "movies" in those days), checkers, chess, dominoes and other games. Signs on the walls enjoined the public to remove their hats on entering and not to smoke. Some two hundred people attended the opening night.

About a year later a collection of books was started, the sum of $100.00 being voted to this purpose. Loans of these books could be had at a charge of $2.00 per year and it is interesting to note that today, nearly seventy years later, this has been raised by only one dollar. The library expanded so rapidly that soon a separate room, adjoining the reading-room, had to be hired.

Later a further expansion took place, in the form of establishment of a natural history collection, consisting of fossils, stuffed birds, butterflies, minerals, etc. Next came an increasing number of paintings.

With the expansion of these various departments, the need of increased accommodation was pressing and a limited company was formed, with share capital, to erect the Art Building, now occupied by La Tribune. This building was opened in 1887 and housed the library, reading-room, art collection and natural history section, as well as numerous offices and apartments. The Library and Art Union, which continues to this day, ran the library and the other departments mentioned, while the limited company, known as the Sherbrooke Library and Art Association, owned and managed the building.

The library was located in the Art Building for forty years and had spacious quarters. With the greatly increased cost of maintenance, however, the company which owned the building ran into debt and found it necessary to sell, with the result that La Tribune acquired the premises in 1927. The Library and Art Union had to move out and took over a room at Strathcona Square. The art and natural history collections had to be given up for lack of space. Some of the handsome paintings are now in the possession of the Protestant schools and of the Y.W.C.A., while others were returned to the various art galleries from which they had been sent to Sherbrooke on loan. A number of the works still located in Sherbrooke remain the property of the Library and Art Union and it is the hope of the trustees that some day adequate space will be acquired which will permit the re-establishment of this side of their work.

For nine years the library was housed in dark, cramped quarters on Strathcona Square. In 1938, however, the present large, bright rooms in the Sun Life Building were leased and since this move interest in the institution has steadily mounted.

It is perhaps dangerous to mention only a few of the citizens who have contributed to the work of the Union during its long history, for some who have done much will inevitably be omitted. However, the first name to be mentioned should be the late Samuel F. Morey, inspector of the Eastern Townships Bank, who for many years was the president, manager and moving spirit and also the one who started the move towards construction of the Art Building. A handsome portrait of him, painted by Valentine Molino, well-known artist, is presently hanging in the library.

Among other leading citizens of Sherbrooke who took a great interest in the institution in its earlier days were John Leonard, K.C., C. W. Cate, K.C., H. D. Lawrence, K.C., James Mackinnon, D.C.L., Rev. Dr. G. Ellery Read, David Wilson, Mr. Justice Hutchison, W. S. Dresser, H. Irwin, F. Bennett, Mr. Justice William White, T. J. Tuck, Judge G. E. Rioux, A. G. Lomas, R. W. Heecker, D.C.L., C. H. Fletcher, Mr. Justice Brooks, R. N. Hall, Mr. Rev. Dr. C. P. Reid, Major Israel Wood, J. A. Archambault, J. S. Mitchell, W. A. Hale, J. Hetherington and H. R. Fraser, K.C.

In 1935 the library faced a crisis, with dwindling revenue and an accrued debt. It was at this time that the late E. J. Page, who had recently been added to the board of trustees, instilled new enthusiasm and a new vision in the library. He was elected president and immediately enlarged the board of trustees and inaugurated a campaign for funds, which was paid off and the institution was so successful that the debt was launched on a new era. Mr. Page continued as president until his sudden death several years later.

Presidents since then have been H. E. Grundy, A. C. Skinner, F. L. Wilson, W. H. Bradley, L. I. Rosenbloom, H. J. Kennedy and F. J. Sangster, the president at the present time. These men have been ably assisted by many keen workers and the library has continued to make great progress.

No library, however, could be even a partial success without the services of capable librarians and to them the Sherbrooke Library owes a great debt. Often they have worked for inadequate remuneration, but they have kept on with enthusiasm and faith in the future, with the result that their position today is considerably improved and the organization for which they work is flourishing. For some years Miss W. A. Farmer was librarian and was later succeeded by Miss Agnes Duncan. Both were able and popular librarians. When Miss Duncan was forced to retire a few years ago following a serious accident, Miss Farmer returned to the position. She is still librarian and is doing splendid work. Her assistants

Textile Workers Are Urged To Fight Communism

Montreal, Nov. 18.—Textile workers in Quebec province were asked to give full support to the fight against communism inside the labor movement.

The appeal went out to local unions, joint boards and staff members of the C.I.O. Textile Workers Union of America in a circular signed by Samuel Baron, Canadian director of the union.

Baron said in the letter that he had received many inquiries as to the position of his organization "in relation to the struggle between the democratic and communist forces" seeking control of the affairs of certain trade unions.

He declared, "Each and every officer, staff member and rank and file member should consider an attack by the communists on one as an attack on all."

Striker Is Fined, Given Time In Jail

Lucien Mayrand, Danville youth accused of grievous assault on the persons of Roland Laflamme, Aime Monfette and Gerard Marceau, in connection with the demonstration staged during the Asbestos strike last spring, was found guilty by a jury who deliberated ten minutes yesterday afternoon. The verdict included a recommendation for clemency.

Mr. Justice Gervais, in pronouncing the sentence, said he took into consideration the fact that the accused had no previous record, that his actions were evidently brought about by the excitement and unusual circumstances created by the strike, and that the jury had asked for clemency.

"I will be extremely clement in this case," he said, "and will sentence you to time spent in jail. In addition to this, you are ordered to pay a fine of $100, in default of which you will spend a month in jail, and you are also ordered to post a bond guaranteeing that you will keep the peace for a year. Failure to do this will mean an extra month in prison."

Prior to the sentence, defence attorney Carrier Fortin, who is acting with Jean Drapeau, of Montreal, had made representations to the Bench, asking for clemency, while Crown Prosecutor Roland Dugre, K.C., said that respect for authority must be recognized and must be maintained, therefore, he would request that an example be made of the accused, to prevent further demonstrations of the sort.

Julien Grouard, also held on a similar charge, pleaded guilty and received the same sentence.

Marcel Girard, accused of grievous assault on the person of Eliot Leveque, pleaded not guilty, and choice of jurors in his case was made this morning.

All Children To Be Admitted Free Of Charge To Football Game Tomorrow

Tomorrow is National Kids' Day and officials of the Sherbrooke Kiwanis Club, organizers of this international event here, announced this morning that all children will be admitted free to the ball park tomorrow for the football game between Sherbrooke Athletics and Eastward Fighters.

This game will start at 2:15 p.m. and all proceeds from it will be used for the benefit of underprivileged children in this district. The Sherbrooke Chamber of Commerce is co-operating with the Kiwanis Club in this project.

Observance of National Kids' Day is designed primarily to focus public attention on underprivileged boys and girls and to help provide educational, medical and recreational facilities for the less fortunate youth of the community.

More than 3,000 Kiwanis Clubs in the United States and Canada are joining in this project, sponsored by Kiwanis International and the National Kids' Day Foundation.

Like many special days on the calendar, National Kids' Day is not a commercial device. The only ones who will profit from it are underprivileged children and funds raised in connection with this day will be spent to benefit underprivileged children in this community.

"Kiwanis believes that this is the time to do something for all our underprivileged children and to focus attention on the problems of all youth," said Ronnie Jobe, chairman of the National Kids' Day committee.

"We want to do all we can to make both youth and adults aware of our responsibilities to children everywhere and especially to those children who are less fortunate than the average."

Tomorrow's game will bring the football season here to a close and in lining up a Sherbrooke-Eastward contest the Kiwanis Club is bringing together two old rivals.

The teams have met twice this season, in regular Intermediate Quebec Rugby Football Union contests, and the results were a victory for each. Consequently, both clubs will be out to decide definitely which is the better team.

Curious Skunk Comes To Sad End In Magog

Magog, Nov. 18.—The strange-looking animal seen walking along Bowen street in Magog yesterday was not a creature from Mars.

It was a skunk—with its own unique type of gas mask.

Curiosity got the better of this black and white animal. It stuck its nose into a milk bottle and couldn't get it out, so it dithered down the street pushing the bottle ahead of it.

C. Gregoire tried to come to the rescue. Keeping his distance, he shot the bottle off the skunk's nose but in doing so he injured the animal so he finished it off with a second shot.

The skunk, however, had the final shot and today is the residents of Bowen street who are going around with their noses up in the air.

HEALTH SURVEY REPORT SHOULD BE PUBLISHED

One of the greatest assets any community can enjoy are good health conditions and anything which serves to improve existing services is of direct interest to every citizen. Thus, the delay of the City Council in releasing the text of the recent survey of the Sherbrooke public health services is entirely inexcusable. This survey, sponsored by the Sherbrooke Chamber of Commerce, was conducted by two experts in public health matters, one representing the University of Montreal and the other McGill.

Their report was submitted to the Chamber of Commerce several weeks ago and about a month ago the findings were transmitted in detail to the City Council. The survey not only covered the existing services, with their strengths and weaknesses, but also made certain concrete recommendations for their improvement. To date nothing appears to have been done towards implementing the recommendations aside from authorizing one employee of the health department to take a comparatively short course at a Montreal University. As far as can be ascertained, there has been no formal session of the health committee to study the report.

Indications are that the report is far from flattering in its remarks upon the present health service, both as to its extent and to the qualifications of its personnel. This, however, does not justify extended secrecy on the part of the municipal authorities. If the public health protection system is adequate to meet the needs of the citizens and to insure them as far as possible against an epidemic, these facilities should be improved without delay and the actual facts on the situation should be laid before the public.

Public health is something that does not concern the members of the City Council alone. Admittedly they may have the responsibility for organizing and administering the service, but it is the health and welfare of each individual that is at stake. For this reason, the citizens have the right to a complete statement on the situation and what the Council proposes to do to remedy it.

MALENKOV ADVANCES

In Russia, where you stand in official pictures is very important. It is not because you will show up better, but because it tells how you rate with Joseph Stalin. If your face disappears from the Politburo lineup, no one assumes you just could not make it that day. The general feeling is that you have been bounced, demoted, sent to Siberia or very probably shot.

There was understandable concern, therefore, when it was reported recently that a Politburo member named Lazar M. Kaganovitch seemed to be missing from a Moscow display of Politburo portraits. Fortunately for Kaganovitch, the report proved erroneous, thus saving him from quick interment at the hands of American foreign affairs experts.

On the other hand, another Politburo member gave evidence that there was no mistake in the recent picture showing him at Stalin's left elbow. According to Russia's photographic protocol, this makes the gentleman—Georgi M. Malenkov—the No. 3 man in the Soviet Union.

Malenkov spoke out the other day in tones of authority that seem to go with his increased stature. And because he occupies that No. 3 place at the Stalin elbow, we in the Western World have to pay attention to what he said. He declared that any new world war "will be the grave, not only for individual capitalist states, but for the whole of world capitalism." Malenkov naturally is thinking largely of this continent when he talks about capitalism.

America has a plan, he said, to create a world empire, to make the rest of the globe a U. S. colony. That nation is being driven to seek this goal by frenzied "warmongers" who see us tottering on the edge of depression.

Now all that is a familiar Russian refrain. It represents wishful thinking of a sort we've been getting from Moscow for a long time. Americans may find greater interest in other Malenkov statements. For example, he said that never before had Russia's frontiers been "so just and well arranged." If there is the slightest grain of sincerity in that comment, then it doesn't sound as if the Soviet Union were preparing to go bursting over its neighbors' borders—for the moment at least.

Malenkov asserted, as he has many times, that Russia doesn't want war and is doing all it can to prevent it. "The peace policy of the Soviet Union is the very basis of the Soviet system," he said.

Of course, nations bent on aggression nearly always talk peace right up to the moment when they launch their attack. The United States government is wisely skeptical of what might turn out to be just window dressing for war preparations.

On the other hand, that country knows it can never overlook the possibility that the Russians actually mean what they are saying when they shout peace.

PRESS COMMENTS

MR. ACHESON GOES TO BONN

Secretary of State Acheson's visit to Bonn writes a new tune for the old British refrain, "Don't let's be heavy to the Germans." It sounds almost like a love song.
Mr. Acheson's visit followed upon the American-British-French conference at Paris, in which the winner, if there was any, was not present. That is to say, Germany was the winner. But the conference was only an early round. Despite its "completely harmonious and entirely successful" atmosphere, no decisions were reached. Rather a course of action was agreed upon to be followed in negotiations with the new West German Republic.

This, then, is the degree of restoration of a common front toward Germany which the three powers found possible. That it is no more definitive is understandable.
First, there are the circumstances in which the meeting was held—the absence of time in which to prepare for it, the fact that the French Parliament is about to debate foreign policy, which means mainly policy toward Germany. Then there is the obvious fact that agreement among the Big Three on Germany is an agreement on a very general objective which all three describe in reassuring words. This objective, however, cannot really be defined except in the most detailed agreements, including guarantees.

So far as the results of Mr. Acheson's trip are known, they indicate that the American view of the shape that things should take in Europe is prevailing. The American High Commissioner for Germany, whose recent utterances on dismantling of German factories perturbed both the British and the French, has just been given plenipotentiary status and other tokens of official approval.

The Bonn visit by Mr. Acheson capped a chapter in which present German leadership can take pride. It would be hard to say, at this juncture of post-war history, which is the better position for a European nation—to be an ex-enemy or a working ally of the United States. For it is hard to see, if there must be a choice between Germany and France as leader of the new unified Europe at which American policy aims, whether the former or latter is in line for the American nomination.
In such a situation it is to be hoped that Mr. Acheson will now take occasion to reassure Paris about American intentions as effectively as he has Bonn.

GIVE IT A TRIAL

Relaxation of rent controls had to come some time, and no matter how long the relaxation was deferred there would still be vociferous criticism. It has been claimed that easing of the rental ceilings would produce additional rental accommodation, and perhaps at just as well that this claim should be put to a test.
If it is valid, then the extra accommodation made available to itself serve as a limiting factor on the rents that may be charged. Consequently, the wise landlord will be the one who keeps his demands within reason.

RHETORIC OF THE REVOLUTION

Montreal Star
Any new blood-bath of war, says Mr. Georgi M. Malenkov, who is described as a rising star in Soviet inner circles, would dig the grave of capitalism.

Marxian dialectic is a strange and wonderful thing. Isn't it the all and end all of the communist's existence to bring capitalism to its grave? And if it is, what is Mr. Malenkov complaining about? Wouldn't it suit the communist book for capitalist countries to rush headlong into war if to do so gave substance to the sure and certain hope that capitalism would thereby dig its own grave? Or is Mr. Malenkov afraid that war would also bring communism to its grave—even faster than Mr. Stalin is taking it now?

ONTARIO GROWING

London Free Press
With the population of the province increasing at the rate of ten thousand a month, from all sources, immigration and the natural birth rate, Ontario can look into the future with satisfaction. For with all this increase we do not have unemployment. As for houses, Premier Frost asserts that the province is building enough houses to take care of this increase "and still dig a little into its backlog." This means, he said, building a town the size of Lindsay every month.
George Drew, when premier, laid constant emphasis on the need for increasing Ontario's population and at a time when the federal government was showing little evidence of promoting immigration, instituted his immigration-by-air scheme. This was so generally approved that Ottawa was finally induced to revise its stand on immigration. As industry and population increase, side by side, Ontario will begin to attain its rightful place and reward as the key province.

There will be penalties to this expansion—the difficulties of centralized industry, the overcrowding of cities, the present house shortage, and the many inconveniences that must occur in all urban areas in a state of rapid growth, but in the long run, the result will be a gain in wealth, prestige and the amenities of a more prosperous economy.
Incidentally, unless we institute and press forward with all haste our conservation programs, we may find that we are unable to secure the full share of benefits which should accrue from a larger number of people and industries in Ontario.

MARRIAGES IN OLDEN DAYS

June, the month of roses, of nature's gifts of landscape beauty, of bridal showers and weddings, is long past, also the beautiful month of September when weddings, both leaving pleasant memories mixed with a note of sadness relative to separations in families. Beautiful costumes, flowers, music and feasting; the ringing of wedding bells and creak of cameras combine in creating a memorable event in the lives of old and young. We older ones sometimes wonder if the young folk of today who plight their vows amidst all things beautiful and begin a new life, ever give thought to the marriages of their pioneer ancestors?

Sometimes an old time wedding is depicted in drama with picturesque costumes, carriages drawn by prancing steed and happiness predominating, but let our minds go back into the dim past and conceive a marriage of a century and a half ago.

John Lebourveau came from Vermont into the Eaton Township in 1799, and worked for Josiah Sawyer, a pioneer who became a noted man of his day. John was capable and ambitious; he worked with his eyes turned to the future. Not far distant in Newport Township lived Sally Stratton and soon they fell in love. After two years courtship John and Sally decided to marry, but there was no minister to perform the ceremony. They made their plans and travelled on horse-back, one horse, to New Hampshire (name of the town not known) some forty miles through virgin trail, following the spotted trail through forests, across brooks and along winding paths; all these being used by pioneer settlers who went to and fro between one country to another. There were no customs then, when tolls were exacted from people of means not able to pay, but there were wild animals to meet and pass, and much hardship.

At the marriage of John and Sally there were no flowers, no bridal veil, no stylish attire for either, but there was love, and confidence in the future, and a faith in each other that carried them through the years. The return journey was made the same way as the first.

They began their married life in a small settlement near Cookshire, which at that time rejoiced in the name of "Slab City" owing to a saw-mill that did a thriving business. Later it became known as Millbrook, and for many years the mill was owned and operated by a Mr. Lake. There were many of these mills throughout the country during the years of home building which followed the "log cabin in the woods."

John Lebourveau was a millwright and carpenter; also an excellent penman and held office of trust to the time of his death in 1846. His devoted wife, Sally, mothered nine children who took their turn in the building of a good agricultural and industrial section of Compton County.

Their epitaphs: "They were always ready to do their part in any good work."

Many of the early marriages took place in New Hampshire and Vermont and this has caused an amount of trouble and expense in research for family records. Many difficulties arose over the legalizing of these marriages, but after a period of delay the Legislature passed an act making legal all such. A not uncommon occurrence was the joining in wedlock of a widower and his deceased wife's sister; also a widow and her brother-in-law. When there were children from these unions the in-laws were somewhat entangled in such relations as niece and nephews even cousins. That worry is now of the past.

Charles Lebourveau, in his History of Eaton, tells us that the first marriage on record in the Township was in 1828 and quotes: "On the 8th of September Wadley Leaver, farmer, and Mary Perceval, of the St. Paul's Parish, Eaton, spinster, were united in marriage by bans. Married by me, minister of the Episcopal Church, (signed) Rev. Jonathan Taylor.

The Rev. Jonathan Taylor was one of the earliest ministers in the Eastern Townships. He taught school and preached the gospel, both in the same small school house in various places, and to people of various creeds. Of him we will have more information later.

A note of interest took place in a marriage which took place in Stanstead County in 1802, when Comfort Carpenter was married to Thankful Canfield. In going over the very old notice of this marriage I was puzzled as to names; the wording gave no hint of who was who. In those days there were no such glowing accounts of marriage ceremonies as today!

However, after serious consideration it seemed logical that the husband was Comfort and of course the wife Thankful.

Today there is often a celebration of keen interest to families concerned—the Golden and Diamond wedding anniversaries. We do not recall many such events in the past; our pioneers were hardy and courageous, but the toll on mental and physical courage was heavy, especially on women who came from homes of ease and comfort.

We have only to visit our older cemeteries and read inscriptions to learn that men often passed away in their forties and fifties, but far more women paid the toll for having tried pioneer life.

Since writing the above sketch about the marriage of John Lebourveau and Sally Stratton, of Newport Township, there appeared in the Sherbrooke Daily Record an account of a wedding anniversary celebration of unusual interest, the sixty-fourth of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Statton, of Sawyerville, who have been residents in Newport for many years.

In Charles Lebourveau's History of Eaton (1894), which is considered fairly accurate, the name Statton seems to co-incide with the name Statton of today, with the difference of one letter. The writer can remember that

The Record Short Story WEATHER GIRL

By SANFORD JARRELL

Alexander Hamilton McConnell worked for the power and light company and was doing very nicely. When he returned home in the Fall of '45 he had put behind him Saipan and Iwo Jima and Okinawa, a Purple Heart and a Purple Star, and a Marine uniform with the three stripes of a buck sergeant. He had begun in the more humble ranks of a trouble-shooting gang and now had been graduated to a desk, a telephone, a lot of paper work and bigger laundry bills.

His coveralls were no longer his five-day a week apparel, but they came in handy as he tinkered about his convertible, which he kept tuned to a fare-thee-well, and his pride and joy, a trim powerboat he had built himself and equipped with a motor bought cheaply at a war surplus sale.

Al McConnell was not particularly happy in his new job, but he preferred to be outdoors, but he was an intelligent young man and felt he could go places in the company faster doing his trouble-shooting by remote control. He was well liked by his superiors and his co-workers.
Al's job, he left rather sadly, was largely a bookkeeping one, although with his experience in the field it was rather more than that. He kept track of trouble. A big corporation with power lines stretching over thousands of miles, all the way down to wires going into one-bedroom dwellings, is on a 24-hour alert for things going haywire.

This is not a treatise of the work of young Mr. McConnell, but one phase of this work did enter into things and changed his life and habits completely. He had been thoroughly briefed before he took over, and therefore, on the third or fourth day after he had assumed his office duties, he was not surprised when he picked up his phone and heard a voice saying: "This is the Weather Bureau."

"It was a woman's voice, sort of mildly husky but with a fine enunciation. She continued, 'The day's forecast might interest you, sir. Continued high clouds, except for low night and early morning clouds and fog along the coast and in the coastal valleys. There will be occasional scattered thunderstorms on the east slope of the mountains.'"

Al thanked her and knew just what to do. He called up the several substations on the east slope and told them to be on the lookout for thunderstorms. These wayward, non-seasonal storms sometimes could be very annoying. They would come up suddenly and vanish just as quickly. Occasionally they put the lines out of commission at certain spots.

In a region with as varied terrain and climatic conditions as Southern California, the whims of nature play an important role in the operations of many industries, ranging from farming cattle and poultry raising, to culture, aviation, street cleaning, amusements, fishing and flagpole sitting all the way to keeping the power going to furnish juice for light bulbs, refrigerators, radio and television sets, water heaters, stoves, waffle irons and the great motors that maintain machinery for plants employing thousands of people.

The girl at the Weather Bureau—she assumed she was a girl; she had a young, vibrant voice—knew his name, of course, as a company time-saving regulation called for each employee to say, upon answering the phone, "Jones," "Smith," or "Miss Masters."

So she got to calling Al "Mr. McConnell," and once or twice, after resisting the temptation to refer to her as "Gorgeous" or "Beautiful," he would call her, "Sister." One day she retorted, with a touch of anger, "Please don't call me Sister. I don't like it."
"I'm sorry," Al said. "I can't call you 'chum' very well. What will I say?"
"Well," she hesitated a moment, "if you insist on calling me something, my name's Rachel."

"That's a pretty name, Rachel," he said. "Rachel it is, then, from now on."
Rachel had a sense of humor, he discovered in the ensuing months, as they chatted together on matters not exactly pertaining to the weather. But they never went beyond a few frivolous remarks, and he was sure that she was a dogwood fan, which lay the groundwork for argument last Summer and early Fall, a he was

Rachel was seated with a gray-haired woman and she was all that the soft voice on the wire had suggested. She was small and the simple white frock she was wearing did not altogether conceal the proper curves. She had dark hair and eyes and a warm, friendly smile. She was the sort of girl Al would have liked to have pinned up on Saipan had he gone in for pin-up girls.

He didn't hesitate a moment. Picking up his cocktail, he walked over to the booth and said, "Hello, Rachel. Mind if I join you?"
She looked up puzzled, then smiled. "Why, of course not, Mr. McConnell. It's a happy surprise. The girl who introduced Al to her aunt, and Al ordered another round of cocktails, and they fell to discussing, with some warmth, the chance of the Dodgers and Cards."

Now, when Rachel calls up Al, she doesn't say, "Overcast skies tonight, rain in the early morning with fresh westerly winds."
Instead, it is apt to be, "Darling, I'm about to put the roast on. Will you be home on time?"
"Sure I will, sweetheart. And will I eat?" The Bums are losing to the Cincinnati Reds and the Cards licked the Phis 9 to 2."

McKENNY ON BRIDGE

SAYS WOMEN PLAY BETTER THAN MEN

If you do not think that women play bridge as well as men, ask Mrs. Helen Pendleton Rockwell of Warren, Pa. Mrs. Rockwell is the daughter of Maj.-Gen. Joseph Pendleton of the U.S. Marines, in whose memory Camp Pendleton in California has been named.
"Mrs. Rockwell," I said, "do you really think that women play bridge as well as men?" "I certainly do think so," she replied with the spirit of the Marines in her voice, "and that applies to other things as well. If we had a woman at the head of the Navy today, do you think she would argue with the Army? She would just go to Congress, ask them to increase the number of Marines, dissolve the Army, and the safety of the country would be in good hands."

Today's hand came up in a recent tournament at Warren. Mrs. Rockwell says that most of the men blew the hand, but several women defeated the contract. North opens the king of hearts and South puts on the eight-spot, which encourages North to continue with a heart. That is a man's style. Mrs. Rockwell claims, not a woman's. A woman will overtake her partner's king with the ace and lead a diamond. Now when South gets in with the ace of trumps, a diamond trick is cashed and the contract defeated. If North continues with a heart at trick two, West will ruff it, and a trump and now his losing diamond will be discarded on dummy's good club.

The general shipping slump grew more serious in recent weeks, largely because European shipping companies announced highly-competitive freight rates following devaluation of various European currencies. A number of local owners say they are prepared to lay up many ships next year.

Forty-eight stowaways have entered the port so far this year and most were promptly deported. The number is believed to be the largest since the immigrant days of the 20's.

Grain figures announced yesterday totalled 96,372,762 bushels received and 87,867,879 bushels shipped. About 30 ships still are due and the handle is 45 per cent over 1948 figures.

In 1949, 961 ships arrived with a total of 3,799,506 tons of all types of cargo. This also is a considerable increase over 1948.

program can be carried out only if the company can obtain new capital of $52,000,000 in 1950, $52,400,000 in 1951 and $36,800,000 in 1952.

Because the company has fallen far short of earning dividend requirements, and will continue to do so as long as it is limited to present rates, it cannot seek necessary new capital through the issue of stock, and if it resorted to borrowing to secure the required capital for the construction program of December 1949 and the year 1950, it would be difficult and costly, if not impossible, to raise the additional $89,200,000 required to finance the 1951 and 1952 construction programs. The only remaining course would be to finance by means of temporary loans from the company's bankers, but this would involve hazards which it would be far too imprudent to assume, the application continues.

Inability to obtain even a part of the amount of new capital required would have grave and far-reaching effects, the application states. If, for example, the company were compelled to reduce its construction program for 1950 from $82,400,000 to $62,000,000, this would reduce the quality of service, necessitate a substantial reduction in the number of employees, greatly increase unfilled orders for telephone service and for better grades of service, and disrupt the construction program not only for 1950 but also for subsequent years thus seriously delaying the restoration of normal service.

PUBLIC ENEMY NUMBER ONE

TO "THE FIRE WOLF" goes this dubious honour. To human carelessness go his thanks; thanks for the red-hot embers, the smouldering matches and the burning sparks of tobacco which have gone far to make "The Fire Wolf" the forests' Public Enemy Number One.

• Each forest fire makes you poorer—in wealth, national prestige and natural beauty.

- Stamp out your camp fires.
- Grind your matches to dust.
- Douse your embers.
- Get rid of "The Fire Wolf"!

Won't You Be A Good Samaritan?

We all know the parable of the Good Samaritan. A man was on his way from Jerusalem to Jericho and was beaten and robbed by thieves and left to die by the side of the road. A priest passed by and ignored him, as did a Levite. A Samaritan stopped, however, and ministered to the unfortunate man's wounds; took him to an inn and looked after him.

"Go thou and do likewise".

You, too,
can be a Good Samaritan. When you are asked to contribute to the Catholic Federated Charities Campaign you must follow the dictates of your conscience and give to relieve the suffering of your fellow men. The need is great; your contribution, large or small, will be gratefully accepted. Won't you give your share to help the Catholic Federated Charities Campaign reach the objective of $25,000?

IVES HILL AND DRAPER'S CORNER

"Should town and farm people get together for recreational purposes?" Yes, it was decided that they should, as it helps to break down barriers between them, and any feeling of inferiority one group might have in the presence of the other.

Such was one of several interesting questions discussed at the Ives Hill and Draper's Corner Farm Forum, which met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Cowan on November 14. "All Works" was the subject of the meeting.

"If you were planning a well balanced recreational program for your community, what would you include?" was another of the questions put to the gathering. "Dancing, card parties, concerts and dramatics all have a part in the education and social life of a community as does the daily intercourse between neighbours." The wider the interests of their community the more they will have to discuss and the greater knowledge they will gain.

Ask yourselves "What changes have there been in the recreation-

Prices Remain Firm At Market, Trading Good

Modern Trends Bring Changes In Poultrydom

Phosphoric Acid Is Helpful To Agriculture

Montreal, Nov. 18.—(C)—Prices were steady to slightly easier on the two Montreal livestock markets this week.

Receipts were slightly lighter than the previous week and offerings totalled 2,829 cattle, 2,607 sheep and lambs, 4,897 hogs and 2,608 calves.

Cattle receipts included mostly common-to-medium quality cows with less than 400 steers mostly of medium quality. A slow but steady trade prevailed through the week. With the exception of bulls which sold at firm prices all classes were steady to a bit easier.

Some mixed good and medium steers brought 21, medium kinds were 17-20 and common as low as 13.50 - 16.50. Medium heifers brought 15-17, common 11-14.50.

Good cows were selling at 14-14.50, a few 15 with medium kinds 12-13.50 and common 10.50-12.

Canners and cutters were 8-10. Good quality bulls were 15-16, a few 16.50 and common 11-14.50.

As usual grassers and drinkers made up the bulk of the receipts. Sellers obtained steady prices on good calves but had to take a 50-cent drop on common kinds.

Good vealers made 27-28, a few 28.50, common and medium 16-26. Most of the grassers and drinkers sold in mixed lots from 11-14.50.

Lambs were steady with the previous week. Some lambs brought 24-24.50, the majority sold between 22-23.50 with culls down to 14-20. Sheep were 5-11 according to quality.

Hogs lost last week's gain and sold at 29 for grade A. Sows made 20 dressed.

Importance of phosphoric acid to the agricultural economy of a nation was recently revealed in the findings of a group of prominent French scientists who were charged with studying the effects of the wartime lack of phosphates in France and other European countries.

During the entire five years of German occupation, the amount of phosphate consumed by French agriculture was about equal to that of a single pre-war year, C-I-L, Agricultural News reports.

The investigators classified the results of phosphate deficiency on the basis of plants, livestock and human beings. They found that many soils could not support a wheat crop. Yields and quality of all other types of crops had deteriorated badly. Pastures were reduced to weeds and poor grasses. Farm animals developed soft bones and rickets.

Wool clippings from sheep grazing on phosphate-deficient fields showed a substantial decrease in weight, often amounting to as much as 56 per cent. Quality of 30 per cent decrease in milk production was reported.

In studying the effects of phosphate deficiency on the rural population, it was learned that incidence of bone fractures and dental decay had increased greatly among French farmers.

After phosphatic fertilizers became available again in 1946, there was a marked improvement in the health of human, animal and plant life. This, according to the scientists, indicates the importance of proper fertilization of producing soils.

Recent reports indicate that a continuation of the present rate of removal of crude sulphur in the Gulf Coast area of Texas and Louisiana would place reserves at less than 25 years. These deposits, largest in the world, are 500 feet below the earth's surface. Ordinary mining is impossible because of the waterlogged nature of the underlying strata and presence of hydrogen sulphide and sulphur dioxide. The problem of sulphur removal was solved by the use of the Frasch process which consists of forcing superheated water into the sulphur bed, melting the sulphur and forcing it through a tube to the surface.

Little change was noted in prices at Lansdowne Market this morning with the exception of local tomatoes selling for 45 cents a pound. Local tomatoes were selling for 40 cents a pound last week.

Trading was good and there was a plentiful supply of meat, fruit and vegetables.

Grade-A-large eggs were selling at 65 cents a dozen, Grade-A-medium at 55 cents, A-pullets at 50 cents and Pee Wee eggs at 32 cents.

When the Royal opens November 15, poultry raisers and consumers are expected to flock to the dress ed poultry exhibits and the subsequent public auction where prize birds are sold. Classes which will face the judges are young turkeys, geese, ducks, chickens and capons.

Aristocrat of poultrydom is the lightest grade, special milk-fed chicken, officials agree. Next is the "milk fed." If Canadian raisers "went in" for more A's, there would be a corresponding increase in "specials" which command high prices but are in limited supply. The Royal's prize list this year is aimed at the top grades, and breeders from coast to coast are reported concentrating on them.

"Thirty years ago broilers were found only in hotels and on dining cars," federal experts say. "Today, everybody wants them. In those days, they were turned loose to fend for themselves until killed. Today, they are given perhaps one foot of floor space, with food at every turn, and hence aren't hardened by exercise. It used to take an hour or an hour and a half to cook one. Now they may be cooked in 20 to 30 minutes or even less in a pressure cooker."

Housewives can buy half a chicken or parts of a chicken now, but in almost every case it has to be a small quantity. They are not interested, in these days of small families, in the very large birds. Broilers today run around 2 1/2 to three pounds in a maximum and it seems as if they are in constant short supply, yet they command the highest prices.

So far as turkeys are concerned, a market is developing for the oversize birds even though they won't fit in the average oven. The 32-pound Tom which doesn't end up at a big hotel buffet luncheon is liable to wind up as a turkeyburger, with the development of machines to grind up the flesh for frying. At the Royal there will be exhibits showing just how it is done and also demonstrating the process of cleaning and preparing poultry for oven, frying pan or outdoor grill.

Freak birds aren't interesting Royal or federal folks at all. They just grin when questioned as to possible classes or exhibits of (a) neckless chickens for boarders' plates; (b) four-drumstick chickens; and (c) wingless chickens.

CATTLE OPERATE NEW INSECTICIDE DUSTER

The weight of cattle themselves produces the driving blast of air in a new insecticide dusting device for livestock invented recently by an Arizona rancher.

The dusting takes place in a narrow chute through which the animals are driven. Insecticide dust from nozzles in the side walls covers them completely. The necessary air blast to carry dust is created by a bellows-like arrangement over which animals must walk.

leading packing plants also snorted when asked regarding such possible developments. "Our aim is to raise the poultry standards and interest the consumer, and we're not offering any premium prices for sideshow exhibits. I never saw a four-legged chicken. If such a thing did exist, we'd class it as an animal and the Royal has lots of classes for animals."

Coaticook Police Received 42 Calls In October

Coaticook, Nov. 18.—The Coaticook Police Department received 42 calls during October and arrests made during that month totalled 12, it was announced in the monthly police report here.

Only one serious accident marred the town's record and one child strayed and was returned to its home. Four summons were issued by the department in October.

Fifteen citizens violated traffic laws and 13 doors were found unlocked at night, the report said.

A total of seven fire calls were received by the Department last month, two of which came from out of town. The report recorded only one home as burning.

Veterans Gather At Supper, Dance In Coaticook

Coaticook, Nov. 18.—The war veterans of Coaticook gathered at a supper in the Guild Hall here on Armistice Day evening. Supper was prepared by ladies of St. Stephen's and St. Mary's Guild and was sponsored by the Coaticook branch of the Canadian Legion.

The supper was attended by more than a hundred veterans and their wives and was held primarily as a recruiting drive for the Legion.

Seated at the head table were, President R. L. Charland, Legion, His Worship Mayor Akhurst and Mrs. Akhurst, Col. L. Roberge, M.P. for Stanstead, Denis Gerin, G. Edwards and wife, and other Legion officers.

Following the supper there was a short address by President R. Charland thanking ladies of the Guilds for their fine supper and the veterans for a good attendance. The president then called upon Mayor Akhurst who thanked the Legion for its invitation and also for the honor of entertaining Brigadier Gagnon during his recent visit here.

Another short address followed by Col. L. Roberge, M.P. in which he stressed the necessity of maintaining an active Legion branch and for those veterans who have not already joined to do so immediately.

In conclusion, Denis Gerin, M.P., gave a few words of thanks to veterans for attendance and to ladies of the guilds for their fine supper and appropriately decorated hall.

Later in the evening the veterans and their wives attended a dance held in the armory. Music was furnished by the regimental orchestra and the armory was appropriately decorated for the occasion with flags and bunting.

Prof. and Mrs. Turnbull, Coaticook, Celebrate Golden Wedding Anniversary

PROF. and MRS. A. E. N. TURNBULL, of Coaticook, who observed their golden wedding anniversary last Saturday, are seen above. In the foreground is their three-tier wedding cake, topped with lilies-of-the-valley and decorated with tiny gold leaves.

Coaticook, Nov. 18.—Marking the completion of fifty years of happily married life, the Golden Wedding Anniversary of Professor and Mrs. A. E. N. Turnbull was celebrated last Saturday, when friends and family gathered at the happy couple's home on May Street, to extend their congratulations and best wishes.

Twenty-eight members of the family were present, and 10 were absent, making a total of 38 relatives of the immediate family, who together presented a gold purse containing almost two hundred dollars to "Dad and Mom."

Wearing a lovely corsage of yellow roses, and with her usual charming manner and sweet smile of contentment, Mrs. Turnbull and the genial Professor received the many friends who called during the afternoon, and with the assistance of their several daughters who were present, served delicious refreshments to all.

Letters, cards and telegrams were received from friends and relatives in Canada, United States and England.

In the evening, the ladies of the United Church, when Professor Turnbull is the organist and choir director, served a bountiful family supper to the 28 members who sat down at the festive board, with the tables arranged in a hollow square in the Church Hall. Members of the Women's Association assisting in the serving of the meal included Mrs. Kenneth Walker, Mrs. A. A. Hopkins, Miss Amy Tompkins, Mrs. Charles Akhurst, Mrs. E. R. Burbank, Mrs. Henry Hanson, Mrs. Fred Peters, Mrs. Cecil Akhurst and Mrs. J. A. Hockin.

The family was received by the Rev. J. A. Hockin, and Mrs. Hockin, who sat down at the supper table with their guests. In the centre of the hollow square was a huge basket of yellow pompons, and the gift of the church choir, and Later refreshments were served by Mrs. Perrault. The members were invited to hold their next meeting at the home of Mrs. Lee Heath on December 1st.

Charles Hepburn Gave A Fine Talk On Granite To Boundary Rotarians

Derby Line, Nov. 18.—"Granite is an igneous rock composed chiefly of feldspar and quartz, usually with one or more other minerals, is the dictionary description", was the opening remark of an especially interesting talk by Charles Hepburn, of the Stanstead Granite Quarries Company, at the regular Monday evening meeting of the Rotary Club of the Boundary, held at the Del Monty Hotel.

Mr. Hepburn then went on to tell that granite was in layers, and could be quarried with relative ease by splitting it along these layers.

"Granite in this district mainly has the layers running along flatly; nearby, due to some upheaval, the layers are on a slant; and in Barre, Vt., the layers are virtually vertical."

"Stanstead gray granite is regarded as especially fine for building purposes, with Barre granite the leader for monumental purposes. If a monument is made of Stanstead granite, the reason is usually economy."

Mr. Hepburn continued by telling of the drilling and blasting of granite blocks, which are then taken to the sheds where the actual cutting is done. "Cutting still is being done by use of steel shot, though the machinery is much faster than the older hand methods. Actually, most of the advances have been an increase in speed with the new machinery, an adaptation of the old hand methods," said the speaker.

"New methods of cutting and lettering have speeded up the making of monuments, and consequently reduced the price, but there are still a number of jobs that require a lot of hand work, and one of the chief advantages of the newer ideas is to reduce the amount of spoilage."

Mr. Hepburn then went on to show the design and pattern of a modern monument, using a blackboard, and ended up with a design of Scotch thistles, the name "MacPherson" and the epitaph, "This one is on me."

Spiced with typical Scotch humor the talk was very interesting and a great deal of information was imparted as well. Mr. Hepburn was introduced by E. J. Struthers and thanked by William Dailey, Payson Davis, of Newport, Vt., was present as a visiting Rotarian, and there were a number of special guests.

The meeting next Monday will feature the awarding of the prizes in the Beebe Athletic Association Fishing Derby, which was devoted to teaching boys the fun of fishing, and Charles Hepburn will again be present to make the awards. The meeting will be held at the Del Monty Hotel.

McGill, Alouettes Fear Upsets As They Go Into Important Tilts Over Week-End For Football Titles

Montreal, Nov. 18.—(P)—Montreal Alouettes chances of defeating Hamilton Tigers and going on to capture the Grey Cup appear to be good, but to Coach Lew Hayman "there's always a possibility of an upset" and the worried coach is taking special precaution to avoid any black cats or overhanging ladders.

Coach Vic Obeck, of McGill Redmen, is also feeling the pangs of uncertainty. As he rounded up his Redmen last night and boarded the west-bound train for Toronto where he will try to defeat Western and bring Montreal its first Intercollegiate football title in 11 years, Obeck parroted Hayman's words with: "We can win the title or we can lose by an upset."

But one thing is certain, and that is that both coaches agree on to capture an upset, can take victory away from them. They are confident enough of victory to call anything short of a win an upset.

The Alouettes, according to the Montreal gambling fraternity, are 18-5 favorites over the Tigers for Sunday's Eastern Canada Football final.

Hayman shuddered as he said "We are definitely afraid of an upset."

He sent his team through a stiff workout last night and has planned another today.

All indications point to a record crowd of more than 21,000 at Desjardins Stadium Sunday.

SPORT SHORTS

MANY NAMES, FEW KINDS

Although chess is marketed throughout the world under 400 or 500 different names, there probably are only about 18 distinct varieties, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

TEN REPEATERS

Ten representatives of the United States have been elected more than once: Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, Jackson, Lincoln, Grant, Cleveland, Wilson, and Franklin Roosevelt.

SWIFT ANIMAL

The cheetah has been used for centuries in India and Persia for hunting antelope and other game, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica. Over short distances, the cheetah probably can outrun any other animal.

BELONG TOGETHER

Fats and starch are chemical substances belonging to the same group of hydrocarbons and go well together, hence the popularity of fried potatoes.

SCORING THE BIG ONE

Sherman White veteran center of the New Haven Ramblers in the American Hockey League scored the only tally as his team defeated Indianapolis 1-0 recently. The irony of it all lies in the fact that his former teammate, Ott Heller, who now coaches Indianapolis, taught White a few valuable tricks when Heller was a Rambler.

INJURIES STILL HAMPER HERSEY

Don Peniston, master strategist of the Hershey Bears in the American Hockey League was hampered all last season by the injury bug, and found very few games in which he could put a full team on the ice. A new season hasn't made any difference as yet, as a half his team has been forced out at various times already, preventing him from displaying his best talents as a coach. Peniston is hoping for brighter days when the jinx leaves his Bears.

AHL TEAMS NOT "HOMERS"

Hockey experts figure that for years, the home team had a definite edge when it came to winning. However, this season in the evenly balanced American Hockey League, the home team had won only 22 games, lost 27 and there were 5 ties for the first 54 games.

TOUGH MARK TO SURPASS

Doug Bentley, captain and center of Chicago Black Hawks, had a phenomenal scoring week ending October 30. The slim speedster scored two goals and assisted in six others for eight scoring points in the Hawks' four games that week. Eight points in one week is quite a feat and will be tough to duplicate by other players.

LONG TIME BETWEEN GOALS

From the time Maurice Richard scored for Montreal Canadiens at 16:50 of the first period on October 22 until Billy Reay tallied for the Habs at 1:55 of the opening canto on October 30, Canadiens went 255 minutes and 50 seconds without scoring a goal. This was through five games and constituted a total of 11 and 2/3 periods.

RANGERS GETTING ROUGH

New York Rangers have for years been the least penalized club in the N.H.L. This is changed this season, however, as Rangers are making an about face and are determined to be a rough outfit. After their first nine games of the 1949-50 season Rangers had a total of 96 minutes in penalties, and were tied with Canadiens as most penalized team in the League.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULBERTON, JR.

New York, Nov. 18.—(P)—Tony Lavelli, the former Yale basketball star who is somewhat better looking than Handsome Dan, has signed a double-barreled contract with the Boston Celtics as a basketball and accordion player. He'll make a minimum of 16 appearances in various National Basketball Association cities playing his stomach Steinway over two halves. . . . If Branch Rickey ever hears about that, he'll likely fire organist Gladys Gooding and make Ralph Branca croon the musical accompaniment at Ebbets Field. . . . Next move is for some other club to hire Petrillo to play fiddle against Lavelli. . . . One proposal to come up at the Professional Golfers Association convention at Midpines is to bar prexy George Smetner from all tournaments except the PGA championship and the Masters. . . . When Bo McMillan pulled out the bonus slip in the National Football League draft for Detroit, they say his face lit up like a Christmas tree and he whispered one word—"Hart." Immediately the wheels began to turn to assure Leon Hart, an engineering student at Notre Dame, an adequate non-football job at Detroit.

Cleaning the Cuff

That draft "sleeper" Branch Rickey was talking about turned out to be Mal Mallette, former Yankee farmhand. Reports say he suddenly learned how to pitch and became slightly terrific in the Coast League. . . . Imperial Harver, the colt that sold for $72,000 at the Harrisburg, Pa., auction, brought more than three times as much as his celebrated older brother, Rodney and Egan Hanover, together. . . . The pro basketball folks tab Frank (Apples) Kudelka of the Chicago Stags as a real comer. . . . Harold Steinman, former manager of Johnny Raycock and King Levinsky, expects to take his "Skating Vanities" back to Europe in April. The roller skating show took in some real dough there last winter.

QUEBEC SPORTS DIARY

The time has come when you can't tell the players without a program in the National Hockey League. And it's a pity.

There aren't many characters in the big time—guys whose playing style or personality, on or off the ice, separate them from the fellows identified mainly by the big block letters on their sweaters when the program numbers in a "who's that?" directory.

The accent now is on youth with plenty of eager young players pitching onto the ice for a few feverish spurts and then tumbling back to a crowded bench for a breather. Individual play-makers, pattern-passing forward lines and rousing, rambunctious defence-men who were always good of a big cheer—bronz or otherwise—when they stepped on the ice, are at a premium.

The individualist is hampered by guys with all-enfolding arms like an octopus and the stick-to-stick jassing play, always a sight to behold, has given way to the corner shot where the wings hope to snare the rebound—if they can get past some fancy-dan interference.

Traffic has become so congested in the goal crease there's hardly room for the goalkeeper, who doesn't even see the puck 50 percent of the time it ends in the nets.

Think back over the last eight or nine years and our bet is that you would have a rough time counting 10 players who stood out over the rest like a beacon. We just made it and, at that, it may be on the generous side.

Program - thumbing wasn't necessary when Dit Clapper of Boston Bruins and Syl Apps of Toronto Maple Leafs took their turn on the ice. And there was the stylish Sweeney Schriener and Big Babe Pratt, the swashbuckling Toronto defenceman.

The present-day clan includes the brilliant Milt Schmit of the Bruins; Max Bentley, Toronto Leafs' dipsey-doodle kid from Desjardins; Sack, the battle-browed and dead-panned Maurice (The Rocket) Richard and those two tough defencemen—Ken Reardon of Montreal Canadiens and Jack (Black Jack) Stewart of Detroit Red Wings.

Turk Broda, the Leafs' pudgy goalkeeper, has a habit of growing on you. The guy has been around so long, he's an institution. Who compared this list?

Now remember the great Howie

BREAKS THE JINX

It has long been a jinx for a player in most sports to have a special ceremony honoring him before or during a contest, as he usually has an "off day." However, recently when Terry Sawchuk star goaltender of the Indianapolis Capitals in the American Hockey League received his trophy as his outstanding rookie performer last season, he had a sensational night in the Indianapolis cage. His team turned back Buffalo by a 2-1 score, aided by Sawchuk's 26 saves, most of which bordered on the miraculous.

FATHER DEPARTMENT

Two American Hockey League players recently became fathers of new arrivals in the world. Gordon Tottle of the Springfield Indians was presented with a girl on October 18, while Gordon Haldy of Indianapolis had a new son in the family on October 25. Oddly enough, both fathers bear the first name of Gordon.

Where There Is A Good Left Hand There's Hope; Has Utah Another Dempsey In Rex Layne Of Lewiston?

New York.—(NEA)—Jack Dempsey himself speaks to you about him.

And then Al Warden drops you a line.

Could this be true — another Dempsey out of the west?

Since turning professional this past summer Rex Layne has made short work of all 15 of his opponents. No names as yet, of course, although Don Perko of Pueblo, who found a bly tucked in his hand in three rounds, won the Golden Gloves national and international crowns last spring.

Dempsey, beetle-browed, blue-jawed, snub-nosed and scowling, came roaring out of Salt Lake just before World War I.

Young Layne hails from Lewiston, Utah, population 1,804, and situated near Logan, 50 miles north of Salt Lake.

Still growing at 20, he stands five feet 11 and weighs 190 pounds.

Where there's a left hand there's hope, and while Layne hits hard with either fist, most of his knockouts have been scored with his left.

"Layne is in the rough, but has terrific possibilities," reports Al Warden, veteran sports editor of The Ogden Standard-Examiner, who saw Dempsey, the hero, three years before his blazing speed and iron dukes put his name in the headlines. "He has no bad habits, loves it, is ambitious and hungry."

Moreng and his breath-taking rushes. . . . Eddie Shore, one of the greatest rushing defencemen in the game and a gioralator on defence. Remember the Bill Cook-Frank-Boucher-Bun Cook forward wall with its almost-perfect pattern passing? And now about Toronto's famous kid line of Charlie Conacher - Joe Primeau - Harvey Jackson? As a unit they were terrific and individually, Conacher oozed color.

Who could miss darting Aurel Joliat, his black cap bobbing up and down as he patrolled the left boards with Canadians. There was one of the fightingest 135-pound mites on skates.

The list wouldn't be complete without Georges Vezina, the toque-wearing Chicoutimi cucumber who stood in the Canadiens' nets.

HOCKEY'S BIG SEVEN

Doug Bentley, fleet left wing of Chicago Black Hawks, has moved into a tie with Ted Lindsay of Detroit Red Wings at the top of the National Hockey League's individual scoring race. Each has 17 points. Bentley picked up a goal and three assists last night against Boston in the only N.H.L. game scheduled to vault from a third place tie to the leadership.

Detroit's Gordie Howe still holds second place with 16 points but Chicago's Roy Conacher moved into third slot when he picked up three points to bring his total to 15.

Bill Mosenko, also of Chicago, moved up into the next position when he bagged two goals and two assists. Mosenko, Sid Abel of Detroit and Paul Ronny of Boston have 14 points each.

Fish, Game Problems To Be Discussed Today

Montreal, Nov. 18.—A number of questions and problems pertaining to conservation of fish and game in the Province of Quebec will be considered here today and tomorrow at the third annual convention of the Quebec Federation of Fish and Game Associations.

Some 200 delegates, representing 30,000 anglers and hunters throughout the province, will be present, and their findings will be submitted to Federal and Provincial authorities for consideration.

Main feature of convention will be a lecture which is to be delivered at the closing luncheon, tomorrow, by Honorable Dr. Camille Pouliot, Provincial minister of Game and Fisheries. It is expected that Dr. Pouliot will reveal some of his department's intentions for the 1950 season.

Dr. Harrison Lewis, Director, Wildlife Service Federal Department of Mines and Resources, will also take part in the discussions, along with representatives of conservation groups from Ontario and north-east U.S.

At the last convention, held in Quebec City's Chateau Frontenac, several recommendations had been submitted to authorities, some of which have been included in the regulations for the 1949 season. The Federation's Committee: Migratory birds, deer, moose, pollution, game fish, have been active throughout summer and fall, and have prepared conclusions which will be submitted to the general assembly of the convention, which will act upon them and either reject them or forward them to the proper authorities for consideration.

A directors' meeting will be held Friday morning, and general sessions, which are open to all sportsmen, will start at 2 o'clock on Friday.

Hamilton Cops Six Places On O.R.F.U. Dream Team; Jake Guadaun Only Unanimous Choice On Squad

Toronto, Nov. 18.—(P)—There is no doubt about bruising Jake Guadaun's ability on a gridiron.

This was shown today when the Hamilton Tigers' 235-pound snap from Orillia, Ont., was given the only unanimous vote for a position on the 1949 Ontario Rugby Football Union's All-star team.

Jake and five teammates from the league-winning Bengals picked up five of 12 positions—two were chosen for one spot—on the dream team selected annually for the Canadian Press by football writers and coaches in the four Union cities.

Next in line were Sarnia Imperials and Windsor Rockets, splitting six positions, with Toronto Balmy Beach placing one man on the squad, which has 13 men because of a tie for on place.

The 28-year-old Guadaun, a Tiger both offensively and backing up a line—he stands six feet, three inches—picked off the snap spot for the second straight time. He was given 24 points.

The team:

MONTREAL ROYALS OUTPLAY SAINTS TO CHALK UP 5-3 VICTORY

Locals Turn In Poor Exhibition As Carlin's Clan Holds Upper Hand In Tilt; Saints Leave For North

Montreal Royals, completely outplaying the Sherbrooke Saints, upset the league-leaders and chalked up a 5-3 victory last night in a lopsided exhibition of hockey at the Arena.

The Saints turned in the worst game seen at the local ice-house for quite some time. They lacked drive and wandered about in a daze as Carlin's fast-skating bunch of youngsters had things pretty much to their own. The timing of the whole team was lacking. The defence missed body checks, while passes went astray or landed on their opponents' sticks.

Penalties played a big part in the local defeat as some of the local players seemed to have a chip on their shoulders and were going out of their way to chase, and nail, their opponents. This system proved fatal and broke up the locals' attacking units.

Sherbrooke left this morning for the North where they will tangle with the Saguenays tomorrow evening, and Sunday afternoon they will be guests to Quebec Aces. They return home to be hosts to Toe Blake's Valleyfield Braves on Tuesday evening.

Last night's victory for the Royals moved them into a tie for second place in the standing with Quebec Aces, five points behind Sherbrooke. The Aces were upset by Shawinigan Falls 5-1.

Jimmy Planché put the locals out in front early in the opening period when he drove a partially screened shot by Jacques Plante. The visitors returned, but Paul Leclerc turned them back. Prefontaine drew the first penalty for interference, and then the Saints were right in again, but Plante came through with some nice work to save the situation. When he returned Goupille moved in with a cheap penalty for tripping, but the locals held on.

Marcel Fillion was the next to make the red light flash on a passing play with Cote and Goupille. The locals had a momentary lapse as St. Laurent broke and taking the defense out slid a nice pass over to Bobby Fryday, and he made no mistake as he registered

Waterloo Victorious Over Verdun Juniors

(Special To The Record)
Waterloo, Nov. 18. — Waterloo Maroons edged out Sylvio Mantha's Verdun Juniors 5-2 in a wide open heavy slugfest contest at Granby which saw sixteen penalties, seven majors, dished out by the referees.

The contest, the second between the teams, was more of a stand-up and slug-out affair rather than a hot game, with even a spectator taking part in the battle. The fan was arrested for hitting a Verdun player in the face, and his case will come up later for judgment.

Waterloo tallied the first goal in the opening frame, but in the early stages of the middle frame the visitors knotted the count but before the end of the session, the home team registered two more counters on goals by St. Onge and Tyler. The final period saw the Maroons extend their lead as Ben Reville flashed the red light on a passing play with C. Blanchard. Richer got one back for Mantha's squad but J. Blanchard offset this a little later, assisted by Benoit, to have the final score read 5-2 for the home team.

The Maroons showed decided improvement over their first encounter and Frank Graves' squad gave a good display of passing and back checking. This evening they tackle a St. Hyacinthe team in another exhibition at the Granby rink.

Verdun—Goal, Cournoyer; defence, Bouchard, D. Labelle; forward, Auger, Charbonneau, Fausse; subs, R. Labelle, Pilon, Richer, Demore, Bernard, Hogue, Lapointe, Beaupre, Dorey, Bertel, Scott, St. Pierre, Forget, Morrison, Sheppard, Constable.

Waterloo—Goal, Norris; defence, Caouette, Norris; forward, C. Blanchard, B. Rainville, Tranchemontagne; subs, Raymond, Tullion, J. Blanchard, Benoit, Smith, G. Caouette, Fausse, St. Onge, Tyler, Jones.

Referees—Robinson, Beauregard.

Jackie Robinson Chosen Most Valuable Player In National League By Writers' Association

New York, Nov. 18.—(P)—Jackie Robinson of Brooklyn Dodgers, batting champion and second-base spark of a pennant winner, has been elected most valuable player of 1949 in the National League.

First member of the Negro race to play in modern big league ball, the 30-year-old former college star from Cairo, Ga., drew a total of 264 points to 226 for Stan Musial of St. Louis Cardinals. Robinson said he was "Very Happy" over his selection.

Twenty-four members of the Baseball Writers Association, three from each city in the circuit, acted as a committee. Each listed 10 players in order of their value and 12 of the 24 put Robinson on top.

Musial, who almost caught Robinson in the final stages of the batting race, drew five firsts. Enos Slaughter of the Cards and two of Robinson's Brooklyn teammates, Pee Wee Reese and Carl Furillo, each received two first-place ballots. The other one went to lefty Ken Heintzelman, the Phillies' 17-game winning pitcher. Only Robinson and Musial were on every ballot.

On a point basis, with 14 for first, nine for second and so on down to one for 10th, Robinson

McGill Redmen To Tangle With Western Mustangs Tomorrow For Senior Intercollegiate Football Title

Montreal, Nov. 18. — McGill's senior football team wound up on top of the Intercollegiate Union heap for the first time in eleven years last Saturday. Now they meet Western Mustangs in a tournament engagement tomorrow at Toronto's Varsity Oval in the sudden-death playoff championship.

Even the most optimistic of the Redmen never expected to be this far along the gridiron trail when they were preparing for the show eight weeks ago. But today, they loom a powerful threat to bring home the garlands, something they haven't been able to do since 1938, when Herbie Westman kicked all nine points in a 9-0 defeat against the same Western University.

There's only one sad note in the McGill camp, which may change. Jim Mitchener, brilliant end, is down with an injured ankle. It was feared at first the Vancouver boy, who played with Calgary Stampede last fall, had suffered a bone break, but X-rays show only severe bruises and heavy swelling.

Coach Vic Obeck said the medicals feel there is an outside chance Mitchener may be ready to rejoin the club in time for the Saturday clash with Western. If he doesn't, then Bill Nichols, a member of last year's senior team who has been playing with the intermediates, will be called up.

As for the rest of the McGill roster, they are in fine fettle and vying to go again against the Mustangs, who they hadn't beaten in 11 years until their 18-10 conquest of last Saturday at the Molson Oval.

In finishing the regular schedule in first place, McGill also enjoyed the distinction of being the highest scoring team in the Union with the least scored against. In Captain "Rocky" Robillard they also had the league's scoring champion. The Ottawa veteran, who played in the Big Four and O.R.F.U. before joining McGill, compiled 26 points in six games, to beat out "Tip" Logan of Queen's by three points.

Frankie Brimsek Still Showing Flashes That Earned Him Nickname Of "Mr. Zero" In National League

Frankie Brimsek, who traded Boston's invigorating salty air to Chicago's blustery, cold winds this year, still is showing more than flashes of the old hockey style that earned him the moniker of "Mr. Zero."

The 35-year-old goaltender from Evelev, Minn., didn't come up with one of those famed shutouts last night, but he did come out on top as the Black Hawks blasted Boston's last-place Bruins 8-3 at Chicago.

The victory moved the Black Hawks into fourth place in the National Hockey League with 13 points—three behind the third-place Montreal Canadiens.

Brimsek, who came by his nickname back in the 1935-39 season when he racked up six shutouts in seven games in a 16-day period, toiled steadily last night as he turned aside 20 hard shots by the goal-hungry Bruins.

On the receiving end of that deluge of pucks was his rookie under-

Limoges Paces Cats To 5-1 Win Over Quebec

Shawinigan Falls, Que., Nov. 18. — Two goals by Bernie Limoges sparked Shawinigan Falls Cataracts to a 5-1 victory over Quebec Aces here last night in a Quebec Senior Hockey League fixture before 3,500 fans.

Limoges, bagged his first goal early in the second period after Jack Carthy tallied in the first period. Maurice Deslongchamps and Howard Riopelle scored the other Shawinigan markers while Phil Renaud registered the lone Quebec tally.

After Renaud and Carthy had scored in the first period, sending the teams into the next stanza deadlocked at 1-1, Deslongchamps grabbed Alf Webster's face-off pass and drove a long blue line shot into the Quebec goal at the five second mark of the second period.

Limoges registered his first of two goals two minutes later.

Limoges picked up his second goal at the 2:31 mark of the third period on a play with Webster. Riopelle finished off the scoring for the game four minutes later when he combined with Carthy and Deslongchamps.

Frank Stranahan And Willie Pep Compare Training Methods As They Prepare For Coming Activities

Miami, Fla., Nov. 18.—(P)—Lino Garcia and Willie Pep, both rhythmic tattooed up and punching bag. Big Frank Stranahan was watching in silence. "If you're gonna be a champion," Willie puffed, "you've got to work your head off—most of the time."

Pep, the world's featherweight boxing champion, and Stranahan, leading amateur golfer, met for the first time yesterday in an upstairs gymnasium during the fighters' daily workout.

Both are here for the same reason—to get in shape for pending battles.

The fighter will meet a yet unnamed opponent here next month. The golfer will defend his 1948 victory in Miami's $10,000 Open Tournament beginning Dec. 8.

Both were impressed.

"Lookit those muscles," Pep grinned at Stranahan.

"Lookit that speed," Stranahan countered.

"The way I look at it," Pep told the golfer, "relax after a fight as much as you can, but when you start training, work your head off."

Stranahan, whose interest in weight lifting and body building is nearly as keen as in golf, asked Pep for every detail of his training schedule.

"You mean you only work one hour a day?" Stranahan said.

"Why a golfer has to practice eight hours a day."

"It isn't the time you put in," Pep grinned, "it's what you do while working out."

Pep reached over and felt the golfer's bulging muscles. "Any time you want to turn to boxing, I'll be your manager," he said, smiling.

Wally Master Retained As Rough Riders' Coach

Ottawa, Nov. 18.—(P)—Jimmy Gaffney, manager of Ottawa Football League said last night that Wally Masters will be retained as Riders coach for next season.

He did not disclose the terms of the contract with the coach, who piloted Riders to the top of the Big Four standings only to lose out to Montreal Alouettes in the League playoffs. Last year Riders won the Eastern Canada Championship under Masters.

Four Players Take Spotlight In A.L.

George Pargeter, Connie Dion, Jean Paul Lamirande and Jackie Gordon stole the spotlight in the only two American Hockey League games played last night.

It was Pargeter's third period goal that enabled Buffalo Bisons to shade the luckless Cincinnati Mohawks 1-0.

Dion is the tiny Bison net custodian who buffaloes the Mohawk sharp shooters by stopping all 24 of their drives.

Lamirande and Gordon tallied twice apiece as New Haven Ramblers downed Springfield Indians 4-2.

As the result of these victories, the Bisons and Ramblers are still deadlocked for second place in the League's Eastern division. Both trail Providence Reds by only a single point.

Pargeter's lone counter came at 8:39 of the final period as the Bisons left winger slipped Lloyd Finkbeiner's long pass by Gerry McNeil in the Mohawk nets from five feet out.

It marked Cincinnati's sixth straight loss.

At New Haven, the Ramblers spotted Springfield an early first period goal by Billy Gooden and then rammed home four straight countries before the Indians replied again.

Gordon sank his gear in the opening period and Lamirande added his brace in the middle stanza before Kelly Burnett ended the scoring.

Abe Greene Still Top Man In Boxing Group

Havana, Nov. 18.—(P)—Abe J. Greene of Paterson, N.J., a top figure in organized boxing for years, is still top man in the National Boxing Association today.

The N.B.A. gave him a thunderous vote of praise yesterday and elected him its Commission.

Greene had asked that he not be re-elected, but was shouted down.

At the same time, the N.B.A. formally denied there is any rebellion among its members against Greene. One member gave newspapermen a statement to that effect in Miami Beach, where opening sessions of the N.B.A. convention were held.

The convention adopted a resolution saying a "distorted picture" was given to the newspapers at Miami Beach.

Samson Re-Elected As Director Of N.B.A.

Quebec, Nov. 18.—(P)—Wilfrid Samson, president of the Quebec Boxing Commission, was yesterday re-elected as one of the directors of the National Boxing Commission at a meeting in Havana, Cuba, it was announced here last night.

Jim Letourneau, chief inspector of the Quebec Commission, was elected for a third term as a member of the N.B.A. rating committee.
