

Cinema bandit caught in chase

A chase on foot through four Westmount streets Monday evening led to the arrest of a man who moments before had held up the movie theatre in Westmount Square.

Mohammed Qayoom, 22, of Montreal pleaded guilty in Westmount Municipal Court Tuesday to the holdup and was also charged by Montreal Police lot attendant and the manager of the Avenue Theatre on Greene just across from Westmount Square joined the chase that took them through a lane near the parking lot to Olivier avenue.

The chase continued north on Olivier to de Maisonneuve boulevard then west, two blocks to Kitchener avenue. There, Westmount Constables Pike and Kirk joined the pursuit and for holding up the Palace Theatre in Montreal earlier the same evening.

The robbery at Westmount Square occurred at 9:15 pm and Qayoom, carrying a toy pistol, made off with $298 from the theatre. He ran out of Westmount Square onto Greene avenue pursued by the assistant manager of the theatre.

On Greene avenue, a parking overtook the man on Kitchener at the rear of St. Leon's Academy.

Police recovered all the money from the theatre when they arrested Qayoom.

After pleading guilty on Tuesday, Qayoom was to be sentenced Wednesday but the case was delayed as he was handed over to Montreal in connection with the Palace Theatre robbery.

Bogus cheque counts heard

A 23-year-old Montreal woman, Violet Pierre-Louis, was arrested by Westmount Police Monday and charged on two counts of passing worthless cheques.

She pleaded guilty to passing a bogus cheque for $15.77 to make a purchase at Berman's Drugs, 5008 Sherbrooke street west. The other charge is to be heard in Westmount Municipal Court today involving an attempt to cash a worthless cheque for $500 at the Toronto-Dominion Bank, 5002 Sherbrooke.

Warmer rink moves nearer

Good news for cold skaters and on-lookers at Westmount's artificial ice rink.

Ald. W.T. Wood announced at

Monday evening's meeting of city council that tenders would be called shortly for the enclosing of the rink to provide warmer skating come next winter.

City presses MUC on integration

Westmount was the only island municipality to present a report to the Montreal Urban Community Security Council last week and at Monday evening's city council meeting the city reinforced its stand on police integration by passing a resolution asking the security council for information on 13 points concerning integration.

Mayor Paul Ouimet reported that the Westmount request for continued jurisdiction in 24 police services was carefully examined by the security council last week and that the city will receive the results in writing in the near future.

The resolution passed Monday night strengthened Westmount's stand that answers be given and problems resolved before the allocation of human and material resources is drastically changed due to integration.

The 13 areas in which Westmount seeks information are as follows:

1. The present status of the report which the director is to make to the Security Council as required by Article 53 of Bill 281;
2. The identity of the persons with whom the director is conferring in the preparation of this report;
3. The identity of any outside experts being consulted in this regard;
4. With which municipalities have consultations been held?
5. The anticipated submission date of the report;
6. The present status of negotiations with the union representing police personnel;
7. The reason why separate reports have been requested from area municipalities by:
 - 1) the Montreal Urban Community
 - 2) the public Security Council
 - 3) the union,
 - 4) the director,
 - 5) the Quebec Police Commission,
 calling for almost identical information;
8. The status of problems arising in connection with pension plan funding and of other fringe benefit problems and the identity of those providing advice and guidance;
9. The anticipated submission date of a report on such funding and other problems;
10. The present status in the planning process of the recommendations contained in the 1970

City aid to 4424 waits MOH

The City of Westmount is waiting until May 15, when the new medical officer of health, Dr. A. Valois, takes office to formulate its policy concerning the future of the youth centre at 4424 St. Catherine Street.

In reply to a question by Dan Surry of the Westmount Municipal Association at the meeting of city council Monday evening, Mayor Paul Ouimet and Ald. William Wood both stated that no action meanwhile would be taken to aid the centre whose federal grant expired at the end of March.

Ald. Leeds Nelson clarified that the city is not committed in any way to support financially the centre. It was never a city project and the city had not been directly involved at the specific request of the directors of the youth centre. He acknowledged, however, that city health department funds had been applied to the clinic.

NEXT WEEK'S WEATHER

By ERIC NEAL

May 5 to 13

Mainly sunny and quite warm, then clouding to give us some drizzle or wet mists, with sunny intervals. Glaze frosts probable, also flurries for northern counties. Winds cool.

A "double front" storm would be normal for mid-week with mixed rain, hail and snow, thunder and violent winds.

Warming and bright to end the week with light southerly winds. 50 hours of sunshine is the average for this week, so seeding and transplanting may commence south of the river. Nights still cool, with killing frosts for some localities.

Temperature: 30 and 75 degrees F.

Dog leash time

Once again it's time for dog leashes.

Westmount's dog by-law requires that all canines be on a secure leash no longer than six feet, from May 1 to the end of September.

This week dog owners have had a bit of a reprieve but on Monday the city dog catcher goes to work and will impound dogs running loose.

Licensed dogs normally can be retrieved from the pound for a $2 fee but those not licensed are sent to the SPCA.

Senior citizens' centre gets $500 Ottawa grant

Westmount's two and a half month old senior citizens' centre has received a $500 grant from the federal commissioner of youth, leisure and sports through the city's Office for Community and Social Development.

Director of the centre which operates at Westmount Park United Church, Mrs. Winnifred Dunn, says that the money will go toward activities that help in 'continuing human development.' Part of the money will be spent on a portable stereo for the centre's dance group, a popular activity.

Mrs. Dunn says the centre's activities are all based on the wishes of the members who pay a two-dollar membership fee. 'I didn't want the centre to become what I thought it should be,' she says; 'rather, I thought it should become what the members want it to be.'

Weekly routine

Many activities are under way and the centre now has a weekly routine. Monday mornings, along with normal activities such as reading, playing checkers and conversation there is a dress-making course to help motivate the members. Monday afternoons are devoted to bridge and other card games, interrupted by the daily afternoon tea.

The centre is closed on Tuesdays to recharge itself but on Wednesdays is busy again with current events discussions and guest speakers. Also on Wednesdays, members of the luncheon committee under Miss Jean Amos prepare the main course for Thursdays' luncheons.

The luncheon program includes slides, films or other entertainment as well as educational speakers and information sessions geared to helping senior citizens with their special problems.

On Fridays the major activity is the dance group which is very popular with members.

French proposed

In the planning stages is an arts and crafts program which when set up, will make toys and other articles for hospitals and the needy. If a few more members show an interest, a French course also will be offered. Day trips to various points of interest are being planned.

Other important aspects of the centre are its counselling and information facilities. Mrs. Dunn is especially hoping to compile a registry of rooms and housing available for the elderly.

All these functions for the centre's 90 members help make it, says Mrs. Dunn, 'a community centre rather than a recreation centre. It is meant to meet their total needs.'

At present the centre is funded by a federal local initiatives grant. This expires at the end of this month. The centre has prepared a brief for the City of Westmount and Mrs. Dunn is hopeful that funds will be forthcoming to allow the project to continue.

Public Security Council Report; 11. The impact which the recent trend towards decentralization in police departments of the larger European and American cities has had on the planning now underway;

12. Is the basic structure and modus operandi envisaged based on the present practice of the City of Montreal Police Force, or are the methods and structures of other large-size police forces being investigated with the view to obtaining the best possible results, and

13. The presently envisaged number of policemen per capita for the Island force. How does this compare with cities such as Toronto and Vancouver? Does the plan recommend or envisage an increase or a decrease in this ratio?

Westmount feels that only with this information can meaningful consultation take place with the municipalities involved before police integration is completed. It is this consultation that is provided for in Section 53 of Bill 281.

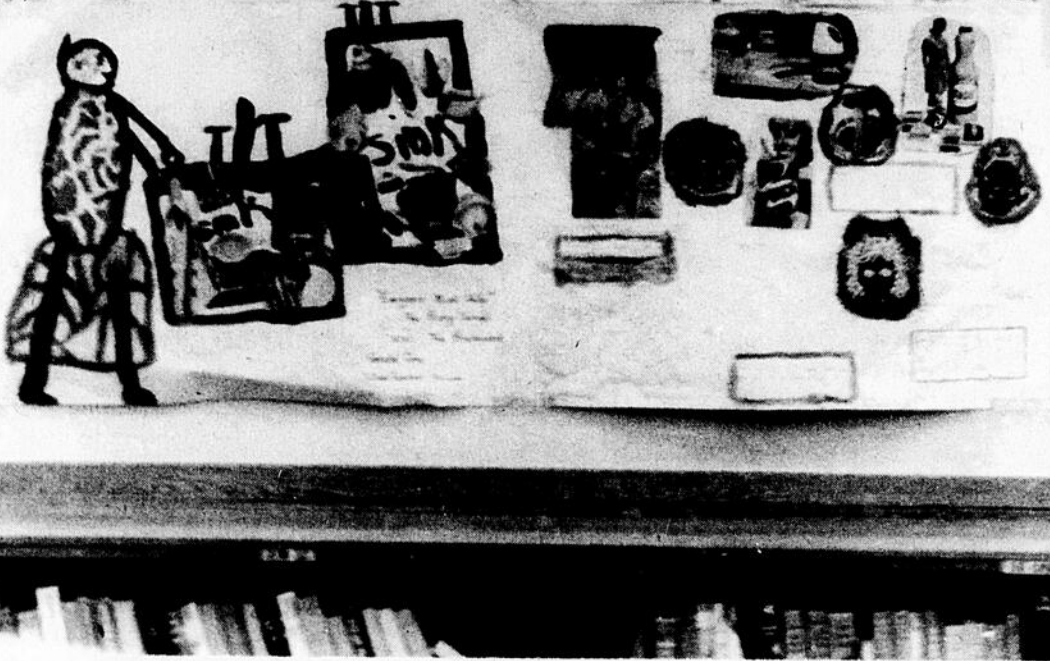

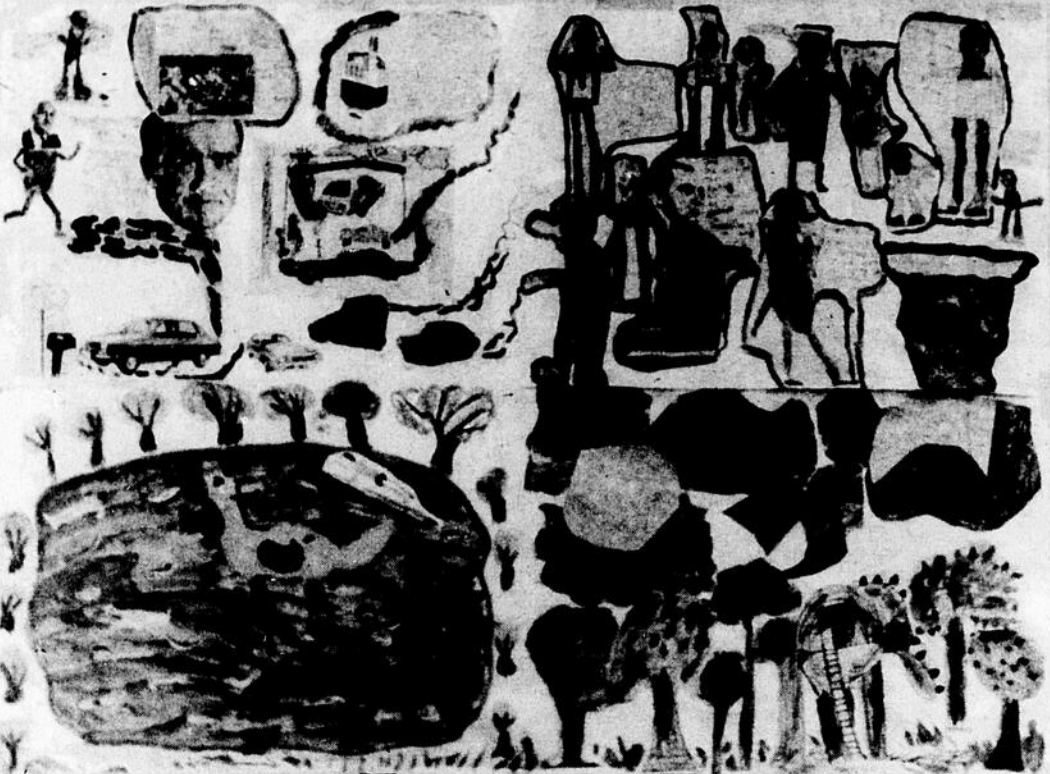

The resolution was presented to city council by Ald. Ian Craig, commissioner of public safety, and seconded by Ald. Douglas Robertson, the deputy commissioner.

Mayor Ouimet said that the meeting last Wednesday was presided over by Judge Jacques Coderre and deep interest was shown Westmount's submission, the only written evidence of staff work on the subject from any MUC municipality. Westmount had listed 24 essential police services which it maintained should be continued on a local basis. (See Examiner, April 20, page 2.)

His Worship said that the city hoped to hear about the disposition of its submission in the near future and that there would be further meetings between the security council, its officials and those directly concerned with police matters in the various municipalities, which would give individuals the opportunity to get to know the others.

Not pollutesing the drons

The only response which the Westmount Chapter of STOP had for their poster contest to mark Sewage Treatment Week was from Westmount's private schools. The public schools were pre-occupied by strikes.

However, the 10 entries received gave the judges, Artists Mrs. Nancy Brown and Mrs. Barbara Battelle, a good workout before they gave their final nods for the three first places to The Priory (see above).

Not only did the entries offer a lot of imaginative and painstaking work, with plenty of color. But there was some wonderful prose. These hand-lettered inscriptions are among those on the top-winner poster:

"Everyone must help."
"Put all tishoos in the trash and dont put oil or grees down your sinks—when you cut your haer put it in trash."

"I am glad that this not a pollution town."

The amendment to the by-law was given first reading at City Council meeting Monday evening.

$900 rifled from 3 cars

Nearly $900 worth of goods were stolen from three cars in Westmount last week.

Monday evening a stereo tape deck and speakers valued at $125. were stolen from a car parked at the rear of Dawson College.

The second auto theft occurred between 7:30 and 9 pm Tuesday from a 1970 Chevrolet parked outside 3467 St. Antoine street. The owner, who claims the doors were locked, reported that 12 8-track stereo tapes valued at $100, a $200 Omega watch and a tool kit of unspecified value were taken from the car.

Sometime between 11 pm Friday and 10:30 am Saturday thieves broke into a locked car at the rear of 200 Kensington avenue. Taken from the load for a move to Toronto was a black and white portable TV valued at $100, two $200 men's suits, a $20 record case and two blankets worth $40.

New burglaries
Westmount apartments ransacked

Three Westmount apartments were broken into and ransacked during the last week but no great amount was stolen.

Sometime during working hours Friday, thieves broke into an apartment at 250 Clarke avenue using, police believe, either a pass key or a lock pick. Jewelry and the contents of other drawers were strewn about the apartment but nothing appeared to be missing.

The same type of incident occurred Thursday between 8:30 am and 9:15 pm in an apartment at 4000 de Maisonneuve but in this case, beside being ransacked, jewelry worth $250, a $40 camera and a diamond ring and set of silverware of no set value were stolen.

The third break and entry occurred sometime between Tuesday and Sunday afternoons at 200 Kensington avenue. A cleaning lady who tried to enter the apartment Tuesday or Wednesday was told to go away by a male she thought was the owner.

When she returned later, all was in order but when the owners returned Sunday they found the apartment had been ransacked. The only thing reported missing was some jewelry and liquor.

Old burglaries

Westmount Police believe they have solved five breaking and entry cases committed last year and early this year with their arrest of an 18-year-old Montreal resident.

Police were able to return $1,500 worth of stolen jewelry.

Child hit

Six year old Eric Fernberg, 112 Blenheim place was not hurt when he was hit by a car while playing in the lane behind 4560 St. Catherine Street the afternoon of April 24. Driver of the car, a 1966 Meteor, was Claude Duval, 35, of Verdun.

MUC defeats attributed to data lack

The two motions which were defeated in the Montreal Urban Community council at its meeting April 19 — one concerning contracts and the other leases for district valuation offices — were vetoed by the suburban mayors because of insufficient information and lack of time to study the measures.

This was reported to Monday evenings' Westmount city council meeting by Ald. Charles Aspler, who represented Mayor Paul Ouimet.

He said that on one of the motions, one of the suburban mayors asked for the information which was provided by the executive committee but, due to the complexity of the matter, it was decided more time was needed for study.

Suburban homework

There is growing evidence that the City of Westmount, sometimes the butt of 'citadelle des anglais' epithets, also commands great respect for both the statesmanship of its municipal leadership and the quality of its official staff work.

These attributes give Westmount both the aura and the reality of good administration.

Perhaps more important these days of almost continuous interchange between governments and their proliferated agencies, Westmount is gaining a reputation for doing its homework, for both itself and the wider community.

However much it was berated by certain Montreal figures, it is a fact that Westmount's proposal for an island reorganization on the basis of 13 'bourgs' remains, two years later, the only researched proposal advanced from any quarter for rationalizing municipal boundaries in the Montreal Urban Community. Westmount's plan stands alone despite the MUC's founding legislation clearly eliciting ideas from all MUC cities and towns.

Latest example of Westmount's practical leadership in the urban community was its submission last week to the MUC security council, stating 24 areas in which the MUC Police Force ought to leave a substantial measure of local control.

When the mayor, general manager and director of public safety met with the security council last week, along with representatives of other island municipalities, it turned out that Westmount was the only local government to submit any written proposal whatsoever.

While Westmounters should be glad that their local government continues to show this sort of enterprise, which we have long since grown to expect of it, they should be disturbed by the implication.

First should be regret that our island partners appear to be dragging their feet. We can't claim omniscience for our city; the questions raised by the emergence of the MUC are just as vital to all island municipalities and it is important that any and all ideas be advanced so that the future MUC might be an amalgam of the best.

We should be concerned that the staffs of other city and town halls show no evidence of the studying which has been done here, and that aldermen and mayors of these other places are shrinking back from their responsibilities to the MUC and to their own citizens in MUC matters. These are our partners?

+ + +

writer, Mr. Peter Cowan, in a think-piece last Saturday accused the suburban mayors of obstructionism in vetoing two MUC executive motions relative to contracts and to leases for regional valuation offices.

In this instance he was, of course, dead wrong. As our own Ald. Charles Aspler explained to Westmount city council Monday night, these measures were advanced without advance supporting data and the suburban mayors refused to rubber-stamp commitments in their name without adequate study. The neophyte MUC Executive Chairman Laurence Hannigan apparently has yet to learn, as did his predecessor Mr. Lucien Saulnier, that the MUC council is not the docile group that the City of Montreal has in its aldermen.

We, of course, fully endorse the suburban mayors' growing demands for consultation and for study before passage of the measures handed down by their secretive executive committee. This is essential if there is to be any semblance of the democratic process in the MUC. Likewise, it is essential that the mayors of the sectors which elected the executive committee members demand accountability from their various representatives. It is a matter of record that Mayors Garipey of Verdun and Dawson of Town of Mount Royal have never really consulted or advised their colleague mayors of the central sector, of which Westmount is a part. In most any government setup other than the MUC, Messrs. Garipey and Dawson long since could have been impeached and thrown out of their secure and lucrative positions for their dereliction.

Be all that as it may, the suburban mayors are walking on ever-thinner ice. Their righteous calls for information and their vetoes for further study are soon going to become pretty hollow, and Mr. Cowan's charge of obstruction will gain some validity, if the mayors, aldermen and staffs of more of the constituent cities and towns don't soon address themselves to constructive contributions to MUC questions.

Instead of a real, vibrant Montreal Urban Community, serving all the people of all the island, they will end with what the central City of Montreal has sought from the outset: one island, one city.

And that will be simply too bad, if not disastrous.

says...

The census language figures

"What is a mother tongue?"

According to Statistics Canada analysts, it is the language first learned and still known.

This presents no difficulty for most Canadians, but one starts running into trouble with cases like the immigrant born in Greece who has lived in Canada for 25 years and has since forgotten most of his Greek grammar. His "mother tongue" is now English—his language of work and that of his wife and children.

This is the only definition which makes the question at all relevant to a useful study of Canada's population. The official over-all figures from this study now indicate that there are more people in Canada today who claim the French language as their mother tongue than there were 10 years ago. However, in percentages terms, a smaller proportion of Canadians claim this distinction than was the case in 1961. It is clear, therefore, that the usage of one of our two official languages is declining in national terms.

Disturbing

What is more disturbing is that the same conclusions were reached with regard to the Province of Quebec. Here, the percentage of residents who indicated that French was their mother tongue decreased from 81.2 percent (1961) to 80.7 percent. Curiously enough, those claiming the English language as their mother tongue also declined from 13.3 percent to 13.1 percent. This left a higher proportion of immigrants and "ethnic" Canadians than before.

The only province in which the proportion of French-speaking Canadians increased was British Columbia. However, the increase in this instance was so infinitesimal that it hardly can be cause for optimism that the French language is holding its own in certain quarters of the country.

What conclusions should be drawn from these figures?

In the first place, it is unclear whether the discouraging drop among those claiming French as their mother tongue in Quebec is due to a more rapid drop in the birth rate of this group compared to either the "anglophones" or the "other." The reason for the decline could just as easily be attributed to more rapid emigration or migration to other parts of the country by francophones. We will have to await more detailed figures from Statistics Canada before these questions can be more accurately answered.

One interesting observation is the rise in percentage terms of persons claiming "other" as a mother tongue in Quebec, compared to a decline by this same group in national terms.

Questions raised

Were there a lot of immigrants landing in Quebec en route to the more western provinces at the time of the census? Or, are immigrants more effectively assimilated in provinces which are primarily English speaking? Or, do immigrants have a preference toward English, when faced with the necessity of learning one of our official languages?

Rather interestingly, the federal riding of Westmount presents a contrast to the provincial and national trends. The percentage of persons whose mother tongue is English declined from 58.7 percent in 1961 to 57.1 percent while those whose mother tongue is French rose from 27.6 percent to 28.9 percent. Those claiming "other" remained almost constant, slightly above 13 percent.

I am sure that the Government of Quebec will be undertaking an extensive study of these figures as it develops policies designed to promote the French language.

The federal government will also be using these figures as a means to draw the boundaries for the bilingual districts in which all services offered by the federal government will be provided in both languages.

soul searching and not offering a final solution. Since no acceptable solution was readily apparent, I suggested a possible way of alleviating the most annoying immediate effects on the residents of this street.

Unsynchronized and numerous traffic lights cause bunching of automobiles; in addition, much noise is created by the stopping and accelerating of these cars. The noise can be reduced if a dispersed, steady flow of traffic can be effected.

This is not an entirely satisfactory solution. It is, at best, a palliative. The real solution lies only in considering the problem in a much broader aspect. Until a concerted effort is made and more comprehensive policies are supported in the matter of "Mankind vs. Autokind," I fear the residents of de Maisonneuve boulevard, like many others, will have to suffer the monsters.

I find unfortunate that the outcry against the E-W Autoroute, in which I actively participated, was not well enough supported to have a major effect on those policies. Too many missed the point and failed to grasp all the implications. The motives for the many sacrifices made and all the energies spent were very much directed toward humanity.

How else can you explain the determination of many that this autoroute must be stopped? They are not just a bunch of fruit cakes; they sincerely believe that man is more important than the auto.

The difficulty lies in convincing the politicians that mass public transportation and many other things are more important. A task near impossible when these politicians secretly redirect federal funds intended to help the communities surrounding Ste. Scholastique to roads, leaving only 5 percent for people.

Mr. Udy, now that you see what you have to contend with, why not ask Mr. Drury why he let our provincial government spend $114 million to build highways, out of $118 million he understood was for helping the people of Quebec. Maybe Mr. Drury cannot tell the difference between Autokind and Mankind.

Bikes, frisbees, balls in park are deplored

Sir: Now that the fine weather is here, I want to make a protest against certain misuses of Westmount Park.

I refer chiefly to bicycle riding in the walks, sometimes two abreast, pedalling as fast as they can. This a real menace to older people, or a mother pushing a pram with baby as, coming round curves so quickly, someone could quite easily be knocked down.

The Westmount Police tell me this is against the law, and I have written the Mayor and City of Westmount, but my letters have been completely ignored. One day I even saw two motor scooters going down the walk, and I took it upon myself to warn the riders off.

One realizes the policeman or woman on duty cannot be everywhere, and they do their best. I suggest the City put up signs at entrances to the park, "Bicycles Forbidden."

The other misuse is people playing frisbee or kicking footballs around. Westmount Park is not very large, and no turf can stand up to this hard usage. I have on occasion seen a frisbee or football thrown into the circular flower bed, and someone plunge amongst the flowers to retrieve it.

Is it any wonder the Park looks so shabby and down at heel? In view of the large sum of money spent in renovating it some few years ago, these activities should be confined to the playing fields on the eastern side. No one would wish to curtail the pleasure and activities of young people, but a park should be reserved for rest and quiet and to enjoy the beauties undisturbed.

William S. Byrt

Sir: I fully agree with Mr. Byrt's remarks as I had the same experiences last year and I sometimes got so frightened that I left the park.

I hope that something will be done this year to remedy those matters.

Aid to youth centre wins official's praise

A copy of the following letter has been sent to the Westmount Examiner:

The Board of Directors and Members,
The May Court Club of Montreal.

Again I am writing to express both my personal thanks as well as to convey the deep appreciation of the many young persons that have been helped by your continuing interest in the Westmount Youth Clinic and Centre. Your assistance and concern since the beginning of '4424 Club Inc.' in the spring of 1970 through to the present date of April 30, 1972, has been of inestimable value to a large number of our patient population.

I am enclosing, under separate cover, brief summaries regarding some specifics of social and personal situations wherein the assistance of the May Court Club played such a vital role in the resolution of critical problems in the lives of these young persons.

I can only hope that your quiet and unobtrusive example of 'help without obligation' will be an inspiration to other concerned persons and organizations.

On behalf of myself, our board and staff, and in particular those persons you have helped, a very grateful 'thank you.'

Neighbors wouldn't mourn 4424 passing

Sir: It is doubtful if any of the neighbors will shed tears at the closing of '4424'.

All the hymns of praise written about the place invariably came from people living far enough away not to be annoyed by the down-at-heel appearance the building and the patrons, also by the screaming and yelling of groups congregating on the doorstep at all hours of the day and night.

Had the donor and the city turned that house into small units, to be rented to self-supporting older people, it would not have cost the taxpayers tens of thousand of dollars. The location for that purpose is ideal, on the level, near transportation, shops and parks.

It would be a welcome change to see something done for the older people and let the parents of these youths look after their own as they should.

Meighen sees shortage of people to fill jobs

There is a possibility that by the end of the decade the Canadian government may be faced with an underemployment problem and the government must start to lead us to face this situation.

This was the view of Michael A. Meighen, Progressive Conservative nominee for Westmount in the next federal election, speaking Tuesday to a meeting of the Royal Mount Kiwanis Club.

Mr. Meighen's speech, entitled "Canada 1980," was a cautious look at the future that he said was, "in politicians' terms, only two elections away."

By then, he said, change will be predominant characteristic of life and to adapt to change he believes two areas, the economy and the process of government, are of importance to Canadians. To develop Canada's economy, Mr. Meighen says the best thing is to "deliberately foster a form of internationalism, by negotiation, to secure a series of bilateral pacts with the major trading blocs involving selective free trade."

Mr. Meighen based his belief on the decline of unemployment on the fact that by 1975 the great influx of persons into the labor force will diminish greatly. With this, he says, "the competition of jobs for people could be a real factor in the last part of this decade."

On the process of government, Mr. Meighen said the key to the future is the need for strong citizen orientation and the need to bring the government closer to the people.

Seven days' classes in April

By CASEY CAMPBELL

Following a rather disruptive, wasted and otherwise chaotic month of April, during which Westmount High students attended classes for a grand total of seven days, life around the home front has once more begun to settle down to a slow crawl.

With the issue of the June examination schedule, it is obvious what is uppermost in the minds of many students. However, the grads are grateful for one small mercy, that being the postponement of French matriculation orals until the 15th and 16th of this month.

Then there is also the Graduation Dinner-Dance coming up on May 12. A last reminder to please buy your tickets early. They are on sale in the foyer until May 10, at noon, at $12 per person.

On Saturday, Westmount's

Voluntary tutorials set up

Westmount High School yesterday started a 15-day voluntary program to give students a chance to make up for time lost during the 11-day strike of teachers and public servants.

Principal Noel Hamilton calls the classes remedial tutorials and says attendance is strictly voluntary. Teachers, too, will volunteer their services so the courses to be offered will depend on the classic principles of supply and demand.

The tutorials will be held every day after school until May 24, a total of 15 school days. They will be open to all students in all grade levels.

Concert Band hosted the band from Swampscott, Mass., with whom they made an exchange visit last March. Although there was a relatively good turnout for a Saturday evening, they are, as one member so aptly put it, in dire need of more support. With a little luck and a lot more support, it may again be possible to conduct a like exchange next year.

Ballet at WHS

The Canadian Ballet Association's teachers, two company classes, and some Canadian Ballet Association regional advanced ballet students will perform Friday and Saturday at Westmount High School.

The ballet will be 'Tic Toc Watch the Clock,' choreographed by Madame Seda Zare mainly for the entertainment of children.

The Canadian Ballet Association is an organization of teachers and volunteers working to further ballet education through projects in schools which give instruction to children of all ages. In this weekend's performance, students will be able to see their own teachers performing.

The performance tomorrow is at 8:30 pm and on Saturday at 2:30 pm.

St. Andrew choir sings for RC mass

The congregation of St. Andrew's United Church extended special congratulations last Sunday to Mrs. J.A. Whyte of the congregation who celebrated her 100th birthday the day before. During the service, the congregation sang one of Mrs. Whyte's favourite hymns, 'O Master let me walk with Thee'.

This Saturday, the Youth Action Group of the church has planned a spring outing for the children from the Friendly Home. The outing will take the group to the Laurentians for the day.

Sunday, the choir will sing High Mass at l'Eglise St. Etienne de Bolton in the Eastern Townships in the presence of the Archbishop of Sherbrooke. During the afternoon at the same church, the choir and orchestra under the direction of Gordon White will give a concert. The guest organist at St. Andrew's in Mr. White's absence will be Miss Paulette Grunden who recently gave a recital here.

The Guild of St. Andrew's will hold a spring auction next Thursday afternoon. This event has been a success in the past as a result of the interest and help of members of the congregation and their friends who donate furniture pictures, silver, glass and china, household linens, books and paper-backs, electrical appliances, bric-a-brac - in other words, everything but clothing.

Rev. E.A. Kirker returns from an Eastern Mediterranean tour this week. The topic of the sermon to be given by Mr. Bacon this Sunday is 'Living with our Imperfections.'

Majors and Minors

By FRANCES GOLTMAN

Unbelievable happening

I laughed, and laughed, and laughed.

Everyone that I told it to did the same and several suggested that I share it with readers.

On opening a brown envelope (6½ by 9½ inches) with my name and address in bold printing in last Friday's mail, I found a photostat folded in two (8½ by 11 in size). It was a copy of my column dated Aug. 28, 1969.

In order to really understand this anonymous prank, it is necessary to reprint the beginning and end of the column:

"The daily arrival by post of a program from years gone by sent anonymously, has now reached 101!

"At first, for many weeks, my curiosity knew no bounds. As the months have passed, five deliveries a week makes it 20 weeks; breaking that down, brings it to five months. Not a short period!

"Everyone I told about the unusual daily happening was as interested as I was. Now I have changed my attitude because it has become a habit. Any habit is something that is routine.

"If a person plays a prank, it has no impact unless you know who has done it. Thus the anonymous sender of 101 programs must be doing it for another reason. What could the logical reason possibly be?"

There is much more but here is the last part: "For those interested, here are some of the latest programs. A few of the artists are still re-engaged for Montreal recitals such as Artur Schnabel (programs received are 1940, '43, '44, '48, '49, '50) Brailowsky (I mentioned 9 more)".

And the key paragraph: "next time my nice postman, Mr. L.P. Meunier, rings and with a smile says, 'It's another one of your programs, eight cents today, Miss Goltman,' (sometimes 16 cents is due because they are quite heavy brochures) I am going to reply, 'I'm not accepting the ones with "extra postage due" any more since I still do not know who the sender is. I've spent almost two dollars."

Believe it or not, there was $2.00 enclosed (25 eight-cent stamps). I showed it to my postman on Monday and he couldn't believe it!

A big thank you to the anonymous sender after 2 years and 8 months).

Another good one

Every selection made by the Concert Society of The Jewish People's Schools for their annual event has been a well-known artist (or artists). This year, although the artist is known to the musical public, she is not a household name yet to those outside the profession.

Miriam Fried is her name and the first time she performed locally was in the Shaar Zedek series. They brought young Israeli artists studying at the Juilliard School in New York City and I reviewed each of the concerts which lasted only two seasons. This young lady was probably the most promising and I said at the time she is a "comer." Then she played in the Montreal International Violin Competition and was one of the winners. Last year she won the Queen Elizabeth Music Competition in Brussels.

Being backed by the Montreal Symphony Orchestra under Decker in Place des Arts is bound to draw a full house. Miriam Fried has also chosen two of the most popular concerti in the violin repertoire, namely the Mendelssohn in E minor and the Tchaikowsky in D major. The MSO will open the program with Beethoven's Fidelio Overture.

This grand concert will take place on Sunday, May 14, in Salle Wilfrid Pelletier and I am sure it will be a sell-out.

WESTMOUNTER AWARDED VANCOUVER DEVELOPMENT: J. Barrie Campbell, 20 Anwoth road, president of Vancouver Development Corporation Ltd., has submitted the winning proposal to the Vancouver School Board for the right to develop an entire city block in downtown Vancouver. The property, owned by the board, is no longer required for school purposes. It is on Burrard street, immediately south of the B.C. Hydro Building (in outline, left). In late 1970 the School Board invited proposals for the development of the property. Having just returned to Westmount from a three-year residence in Vancouver, Mr. Campbell discussed his ideas for the property with another Westmount citizen, architect Ray Affleck, 16 St. Georges place, of Arcop Associates, who prepared design plans for the project. The submission was ultimately chosen as the best concept and a lease for 99 years granted to Vancouver Development Corp. Ltd. The project will cost an estimated $15,000,000 and will consist of a 12-storey office building, 12-storey hotel, 20-storey personal care home and 24-storey apartment building. There will also be an underground retail area, including a twin-cinema and parking for 350 cars. Construction will begin in August and will take two years. Mr. Campbell is McGill law graduate and is son of the late Roy Campbell, a former Mayor of Westmount.

In Caughnawaga, if you're a teen-aged Indian boy or girl and you've just come home from another day in a paleface high school outside the reservation because you don't have a high school of your own, you still have no place to go.

No place to meet, to play, to learn, to develop. No place to grow. Just the streets or the corner hang-out. And that can lead to all sorts of ... cares? Don't many white kids face the same problems? Sure they do. So many parents try to help their youngsters. And so do the Indians. They're a proud people with strong home and family ties.

It's tough to be an Indian teen-ager in Caughnawaga with no place to grow. Unless you can go to your own youth centre as many boys and girls of all races can do in communities in and around Montreal. A place with proper supervision and facilities.

This is the place Caughnawaga doesn't have. But it will with your help.

The Quebec Foundation for Indians and Eskimos seeks your support to help the Indians have their own Boys' and Girls' Club. It will be a neighborhood centre for up to 600 Indians of ages 13 to 19.

The Club will be owned and operated by the Indians with the guidance of the founding sponsors — the Boys' Clubs of Canada, the Rotary Club of Montreal, and the St-Francois-Xavier Mission. The Caughnawaga Council and the St-Francois-Xavier Mission have provided the land. The Government of Canada has put up $138,000 for manpower wages. Now an additional $100,000 must be raised for the costs of materials and equipment. That's the objective of our Building Fund campaign.

Many firms and individuals are donating their products or services free, or at cost. An individual contributor to the campaign has enabled the Foundation to cover all campaign expenses — so that every cent of every dollar you give will go to the Building Fund.

Please fill out and return the coupon. You'll enjoy the great feeling that you've really helped to give young Indians what they need.

A place to grow.

self-help participation," Mr. Berger told 600 participants in AJCS' community conference and seventh annual meeting.

"Each and every agency and group must be prepared to experiment and to recognize there may be more than one way for service to be delivered."

We must not be afraid, Mr. Berger told the meeting at Congregation Shaar Hashomayim, "to try unorthodox methods—perhaps even 'un-professional' methods."

Gallagher unworried:

Dawson gets no solid answers on future from questionnaire

The question whether Dawson was not given a definitive answer by the college's recently-launched Operation Beaver, an in-depth attempt to discover in what direction the Dawson community wanted to head and what the larger community expected of Dawson.

But Director-General Paul Gallagher isn't too worried. He sees Operation Beaver as only one step in a process of continuous evaluation which will keep the college flexible and responsive to the needs of students, faculty and the larger community.

"Our basic planning problem," he said, "is how to respond to a variety of needs, recognizing that needs change constantly. We haven't decided exactly how we will continue but we will continue to consult and attempt to find improved ways of consultation. The process of consultation has to go on continuously."

One thing Operation Beaver did reveal is that there is no strong consensus about the direction the college is to take. But that hasn't phased the college's administration.

"The college will," said Mr. Gallagher, "attempt, as far as is possible, to respond to all the needs expressed."

Sees challenge

He sees the college's attempt to be all things to all men as a fantastic challenge to administrators.

"If we respond to the wishes expressed in the questionnaire which was circulated at Dawson, the college will have to be many things," said Mr. Gallagher. "But that's perfectly in keeping with the philosophy of the CEGEPs which are intended to fill a range of expectations."

He sees the basic principle under which Dawson operates as planning for change rather than building for growth.

The more conventional institutions, he believes, pass through three or four stages: determining the need for an institution, planning the institution, building the institution and operating it.

"We're saying that planning goes on continuously, modifications to space and buildings goes on continuously and evaluating the way of operating goes on continuously."

He added that the danger of rigidity in the stages of growth and operation of an institution is that changing human needs will be overlooked.

"An educational institution can never be permanent," he said, "because education is changing continuously, personnel is changing continuously and needs are changing continuously."

Danger in rigidity

He said the danger of rigid planning was that it created the impression that the institution was permanent and that the physical restraints imposed by a structure designed to meet needs at the time the building was planned, inhibited education.

"We hope we can keep to a minimum the number of circumstances in which we would like to do something educationally valuable but cannot because of physical limitations," he said.

Although only 10 to 15 percent of the Dawson community responded to the Operation Beaver questionnaire, Mr. Gallagher was not too disappointed, believing that there were sound reasons why students did not participate in mass and believing that the questionnaire did ferret out ideas, attitudes and desires which have been of great help to planning.

"There are several reasons for the lack of response," said Mr. Gallagher. "By the time the changes are initiated, this generation of students won't be here. Also, not everybody is concerned about the same thing."

He said some students probably wouldn't care what happened to the college as long as the one thing they were interested in was offered.

Further consultations

"Of course further consultations will take place in terms of the precise programs and services offered such as the layout of the chemistry labs and eating services," he said, "and people who will not utilize the service probably won't care although those who are interested will probably care intensely."

One thing Operation Beaver did indicate is that the students wanted one central campus. And that probably will mean the end of the Selby street campus as part of Dawson. Mr. Gallagher explained that the Trans-Canada Highway was causing problems to the Selby street campus anyway.

The results of Operation Beaver have been incorporated into a report which has been sent to the provincial department of education. The final decision of what happens to Dawson is up to the department and the college's board.

One of the inevitable results of the planning philosophy of Dawson College is that administrators don't fit into the all-powerful, law-giving role in which they are usually seen.

Mr. Gallagher sees the administrator as an animator, a catalyst for change and a provider of services to the faculty and students.

Two local folk are nominated to Quebec H&S

Two Westmounters are to be nominated to serve on the executive of the Quebec Federation of Home and School Association at the federation's annual meeting to be held next Friday and Saturday, May 12 and 13, at Sir George Williams University.

They are Mrs. Betty O'Connell, 55 Somerville avenue, and Alwin Lloyd, 649 Roslyn avenue. They were nominated for vice-president and treasurer respectively.

Roslyn, Westmount Park and Westmount High Schools each will be sending three voting delegates to the meeting but parents are reminded that as many ordinary members of local associations may attend the annual conference as wish to do so.

Non-delegate parents who wish to attend the discussions are asked to contact their local associations for detailed information.

Keep city clean, Wood asks

Westmount has long been regarded as Montreal's 'garden suburb.'

With the arrival of the warmer weather though, Ald. W.T. Wood reminded citizens Monday evening that they, too, must do their share to keep the city as clean as its reputation.

To help, Ald. Wood asked all residents to place any debris accumulated from spring-cleaning of the garden and lawn with the normal garbage for collection.

He warned that enforcement of a municipal by-law could lead to prosecution of gardeners leaving debris out on the street. Large quantities of debris should be taken directly to the city incinerator for disposal.

Former mayor in audience of city council

One of the 12 members of the public in attendance at Westmount City Council's 24-minute meeting Monday evening was former Mayor Peter McEntyre, who was given a warm welcome by the council.

Among the questions from the audience, which occupied another 14 minutes, was one from Joseph Baker, 1087 Greene avenue, concerning the disposition of the houses on Greene avenue saved from demolition in the construction of the Trans-Canada highway. He was told by Mayor Paul Ouimet that the matter now rested with Quebec which was calling shortly for tenders for the sale of the houses.

A suggestion from Fred Leclair, 3209 St. Antoine Street, for further planning in the southwestern corner of the city was received by the council.

There was no correspondence presented to the meeting.

Two Dawson students win places at RADA

Two of the seven North American places reserved by the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art in England have been won by students at Dawson College.

Richard Greenblatt and Nicky Guadagni competed at auditions in New York with 400 other students and came out winners of the coveted recognition.

Victor Knight, chairman of the Dawson drama department, says that the program is designed to help students win such prizes by its attempt to build the ability to go on to further education in theatre.

The two students leave Montreal for England on Sunday, starting their studies on May 15.

Drury, Meighen fail to agree Selwyn debate

Party loyalties overcame judge's impartiality Monday afternoon at Selwyn House School as the two chief opponents for Westmount riding in the next federal election failed to agree on whether the present government should be re-elected.

Hon. C.M. Drury, Westmount's Liberal incumbent, and Michael Meighen, the Progressive Conservative nominee, were acting as judges for the finals of the inter-house debating tournament at their old school and were faced with the resolution, 'It is resolved that the people of Canada should re-elect the present Government.'

During their five-minute deliberation the two judges stuck to their guns and announced they were split in their decision. The resolution was then put to a vote of the assembled students where the government won a clear victory.

Mr. Drury agreed with Mr. Meighen, however, that the best speaker of the debate was Opposition Leader Geoff Hale. Other members of the Opposition team were Peter Shepperd and David Peippe.

The winning Government side was led by George Tombs and backed up by Paul Monad and Bob Miller. The speaker for the debate was Mark Benson.

Reply given to 'You Say'

The floor of the city council chamber was used Monday night to reply to a letter which appeared in last week's Examiner.

The letter, under 'You Say' on the editorial page and headed 'On synchronizing of traffic lights,' was addressed to Michael Hayes, president of the Westmount Municipal Association, with a copy to The Examiner and was written by John M. Udy who was in the audience at Monday's council meeting but who did not speak.

Dan Sherry, a member of the WMA executive committee, said, during the question period, that the entire WMA had not taken a position on de Maisonneuve boulevard's future but that it was his hope, as it was Mr. Udy's, that the street could be closed and a fine row of trees planted right down the middle.

Changes made

On a motion by Ald. L.M. Nelson at Monday evening's city council meeting, eight changes were made in Westmount's valuation role effective from the start of this year.

Spring gym schedule is launched at Unity

Now that the hockey sticks have been put away for another year, the spring gymnasium schedule has been put into full swing at Unity Boys' and Girls' Club.

The schedule has been prepared in such a way that as warmer weather comes, the activities will move outside into the nearby parks.

Some of the activities on this program are co-ed games for 6 to 9-year-olds, and others are scoopball, soccer, softball, volleyball and gym games for boys ages 10 to 13. For the boys ages 13 to 18 there will be scoopball, basketball and softball house leagues, volleyball, tennis and track and field. For the girls ages 13 to 18 there will be badminton, (instruction and games) track and field, softball house league and girl's representative softball team.

The senior men will continue their basketball and volley ball, and begin practices for the softball team. The men's cricket team has been practicing Saturday, getting ready to move out into the parks for some competitive games.

The Unity Lions Teen Club will hold another car wash on Saturday, May 13. The last car wash was very successful and earned a good profit. It is hoped that there will be a good turnout of people again this time. The place is 1090 Greene avenue. The time is 11:30 am to 4:30 pm.

First fishing

On Sunday, May 14, one staff member and five teenage boys will try their luck on their first fishing trip of the season. They will sleep over at the club on Saturday evening and leave early Sunday for Beauharnois, to fish in the river.

In the Westmount-St. Henri Lions Teen Center, there will be a masquerade dance on Friday from 8 to 11 pm. Many special surprises have been planned for the teens for that evening.

On Monday in the teen center, there will be an open table tennis tournament.

In the junior games room,

Roslyn not access route

City Council heard a complaint from a Roslyn avenue resident Monday night that heavy trucks were improperly using Roslyn avenue to travel to and from the construction site of an apartment block at the foot of Roslyn avenue.

City Manager Norman Dawe said the situation would be corrected as the trucks were not supposed to be using Roslyn as an access road.

Weredale boys taking course for fire buffs

By DAVE PETERS

For the past few weeks 30 or so Weredale House boys have been involved in a junior firefighting course. This is organized by the Westmount Fire Department and run by Capt.-Insp. William Timmons. So far this year they have met three times, once at the station and twice at Weredale.

In this course such things as basic safety precautions, how to recognize fires and potential fire hazards, the use of fire extinguishers, and various other methods of dealing with fires are taught. Printed literature and films keep the course interesting, and the large number of boys involved indicates the amount of interest in this program.

Weredale has been lucky in receiving the services of Marilyn Zwaig, who is coming one afternoon a week to teach Yoga. She is an accomplished teacher and has had training in special education.

The Sunday afternoon movies continued again this week with an exceptionally good film, The Good, The Bad And The Ugly, starring Clint Eastwood.

Another group went up to camp last weekend and found conditions to be much the same as previously. There was still a lot of snow. However, weather is starting to improve and it won't be too long until the end of snow for this year.

checkers and dominoes have become very popular with the younger members. Also they are beginning to play dart baseball.

Public speaking contest at Rotary Club

Frank Kearns

Louise Barriere

Stephen Boutilier

Five semi-finalists in the Rotary Club district annual public speaking contest "spoke off" at yesterday's weekly luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club of Westmount in Victoria Hall.

Two, Stephen Boutilier of Loyola High School and Louise Barriere of James Ling High School, Verdun, were declared winners and are to meet two other semi-finalists at the Rotary Club of Montreal.

Stephen, who hopes to go into advertising, spoke on that subject with a hard line support of advertising as "an essential ingredient for a free economy:

free choice."

Louise—girls are an innovation in the Rotary contests—spoke on sports and their essential role in education. "It is important," she said, "to keep our bodies in shape for the future." Her ambition: physics research.

The moderator was Frank Kearns of the Montreal club.

Other contestants

The three other contestants were Andre Raciot of Shawinigan CEGEP, speaking on the responsibility of young people in the free world, speaking in

French; Frank Kirby of Hawkesbury, Ont., District High School, "Can Prejudice be Overcome," and Ihor Cap, D'Arcy McGee High School, "Is Democracy a Failure."

There were six visiting Rotarians at the meeting, from as far away as Finland and Yorkshire, and there were a large number of guests, mostly relative to the speaking contest.

The club's car rally starts tomorrow, Friday, evening at 6:30 o'clock from the Fairview Shopping Centre.

Next week's meeting is Tuesday at 6 pm at the Badminton Club.

To rebuild three streets

Works program outlined

Westmount public works department is gearing for a busy season on spring and summer projects including repaving and rebuilding streets and sidewalks.

City Engineer Ed McCavour says about the same amount of money as last year will be spent in the next few months to do major work on 18 Westmount streets in addition to regular maintenance of all roads and sidewalks.

Every fall all of Westmount's streets are examined and their condition is rated on a one-to-five scale. Following a spring inspection, the final list of repairs is made.

Three rebuildings

This summer three streets are scheduled for major rebuilding. They are Arlington and Mount Stephen avenues and Murray Hill. At present these streets have a flexible tarmac base but the summer work will install a rigid base of six inches of concrete topped by three inches of asphalt.

Work is scheduled to start on Arlington on May 15 with the city crews later moving on to Mount Stephen and then to Murray Hill. The asphaltting of the three streets will then be contracted out, to be done together. The work will mean each street will be closed for about two weeks.

Streets scheduled for repaving and sidewalk rebuilding are St. Catherine street from Victoria to Claremont, de Maisonneuve boulevard from Greene to Melville and from Lansdowne to Claremont, Roslyn avenue from de Maisonneuve to Sherbrooke, Argyle avenue from Thornhill to Cote St. Antoine, Grosvenor avenue from Pascal lane above Sherbrooke to Cote St. Antoine and from Westmount avenue to the Boulevard, Redfern avenue from St. Catherine to de Maisonneuve, and Somerville Avenue from Prince Albert to Victoria.

In addition, Mountain avenue will get new sidewalks throughout but will be repaved only from Sherbrooke to Anwoth while Oakland avenue will also have sidewalk work throughout while being repaved from Shorncliffe to Summit Circle.

Streets scheduled for repaving only include all of Severn, Sydenham and Rosemount avenues as well as Victoria from Chesterfield to Cote St. Antoine, Lansdowne from de Maisonneuve to St. Catherine, and Cedar from Mountain to the city's eastern limits.

Sidewalk work only will be done on all of Strathcona and Oakland avenues and on Thornhill from Argyle to Clarke.

Another major project the city will work on this summer is the continuation of its program to renew the lamp standards on all city streets. In the last few years, crews gradually have been working their way up the mountain and this year hope to complete work up to Westmount avenue.

Regular spring and summer maintenance will continue as usual this year. Mr. McCavour hopes that with good weather the painting of white lines can start late this week. The annual job of flushing the city's sewers must also be done.

Asphalt repairs and sweeping and road sign maintenance will round out the summer program.
