MUST-DOS

A LANDSCAPE DRAWN BY THE SEA

The park's exceptional nature derives from its sharply carved coastline, its mountains rising above those in the surrounding areas, and its rare and fragile flora.

The park covers a total area 33.2 square kilometres, nearly half of which is in the marine zone. You can watch the park's emblematic animals, the harbor seals, from the shore. The park is open year round, with every season bringing new discoveries.

SEA KAYAKING

With its islands and lacework of coves and bays, the park is one of the most beautiful destinations for kayakers.

CHEMIN DU NORD

This trail along the shore is the perfect hike for those who enjoy quiet contemplation of nature. Be sure to stop in at the tearoom.

BIKE OUTING

The network of beautiful bike trails is suitable for the whole family. You'll fall in love with the park's diverse landscapes.

LOCATION: Varies depending on the tides.

FAMILY ACTIVITIES

SPOTLIGHT ON THE SHORELINE

The whole family is invited to the beach in Wilson cove to explore the shoreline and the intriguing organisms that can spend half their lives under water and half exposed to the open air. A park warden-naturalist will meet you there so you can become a novice researcher of the sea! With the naturalist's help, you'll make some impressive discoveries: Who are these fascinating creatures? How do they live?

ARCHÉ-O-MATCH

At the northern end of the Desjardins cottage's picnic area, you and your family are invited to explore the fascinating world of archeology. Everyone will have fun playing this educational game, using real archeological techniques to search for artefacts that tell the story of the first peoples who lived in the region of Le Bic.

THEATRICAL ACTIVITIES

HISTORY IS CHILD'S PLAY

While visiting their grandparents in Saint-Fabien-sur-Mer, two schoolchildren discover their mother's costume trunk. Using costumes, they trace the history of the peoples who have lived within the park.

TOMBOLO CAMPGROUND - OPENING SCHEDULED FOR 2018

The beautiful sector between the Baie du Ha! Ha! and Baie des Cochons – where the Cap à l'Original summer camp was located until 2013 – will be converted to a new site ready to open in 2018. The family-oriented facilities will create an ideal setting for visitors to enjoy the natural beauty of the St. Lawrence estuary. In addition to new campsites and “experience” accommodations, Pôle Tombole will feature areas that encourage the whole family to get out and play in the great outdoors.

We make every effort to preserve the peace and quiet of the park for our visitors. We apologize for any temporary inconvenience caused by the construction of these new facilities.

WILDLIFE WATCHING

SEALS: WHAT YOU NEED TO KNOW

Seal watching is without a doubt one of the park's major attractions. As you explore the Parc national du Bic, you'll probably get a chance to see the harbour seal, the park's emblematic animal and a permanent resident of the estuary.

During the summer and even in September, the park and the surrounding reefs are home to a population of about 200 harbour seals and some 50 grey seals that love to lounge on the boulders in the coves and bays of the park.

WHERE CAN I WATCH THE SEALS?

The seals choose their favourite resting places depending on the stage of the tide, as the water must be high enough for the seals to reach the rocks.

FROM HALF TIDE TO HIGH TIDE:
Pointe-aux-Épinettes Sector

AT LOW TIDE:
Cap-Caribou Sector

HARBOUR (OR COMMON) SEAL

- Dog-like head, short nose
- Nostrils close together almost joining in a V-shape

Female	Average weight: 70 kg Average total length: 143 cm
Newborn	Average weight: 10 kg Average total length: 76 cm

TO FREELY OBSERVE THE SEALS

It is extremely important that everyone respect the limits of the seal observation area. If you get too close to them, the seals feel threatened and will leave their resting area and move away.

By staying on the beach, you will not only avoid disturbing the resting seals, but you also let them go about their vital activities and life stages, such as nursing their young and moulting. Keeping a respectful distance also helps ensure that other visitors – present and future – can enjoy the privilege of observing these fascinating and playful animals.

THE RAOUL-ROY LOOKOUT

AN EXCEPTIONAL OBSERVATION POINT FOR WATCHING BIRDS OF PREY

In the spring, most raptors leave their winter home in the southern Appalachians and migrate northward. On their way toward their breeding grounds, they have to overcome one very substantial obstacle: the Gulf of the Saint Lawrence. They use a flyway along the shores of the estuary, seeking a place where it is narrow enough to cross so they can reach their summer quarters.

During this annual migration, thousands of birds of prey pass over the lookout, making it one of the favourite gathering places for park visitors and birdwatching enthusiasts. Sixteen species are regularly spotted between late March and early June each year.

CONSERVATION

CONSERVATION IS EVERYONE'S BUSINESS

The Parc national du Bic has been dealing with a delicate issue: some of the wildlife here have been developing unusual behaviour toward humans. To solve this problem, the park's team needs all visitors to help by letting the wild animals – deer, foxes and other species – remain...

... FREE AND SELF-SUFFICIENT

In order for the park's wildlife to survive and live independently in nature, they need to develop their skills, keep their senses sharp and stay in good physical condition.

WHY NOT FEED THE ANIMALS?

- Wild animals find food suited to their needs in the natural environment.
- Animals attracted by food can lose their wariness of humans, leading to potential trouble and even danger.
- Feeding animals makes them dependent on humans and more vulnerable to predators.
- The food people provide may not be appropriate for the animals' digestive system or nutritional needs, causing health problems or even death.
- Every time we disrupt their natural activities, we change their behaviour, sometimes putting their lives at risk.
- Feeding the animals is a prosecutable offense under park regulations.

HEALTHY COEXISTENCE FOR EVERYONE'S BENEFIT

It is very important that visitors do not try to approach wild animals. Keep your distance, giving them a wide berth. If an animal gets nervous, that means you are too close. If you see someone approach an animal, please help our efforts by informing them of these guidelines.

If you would like to find out more about the conservation issues and initiatives in Québec's park network, visit parcsquebec.com/blogue.

For more information on how you can take part in conservation efforts in our national parks, visit fondsparcsquebec.com (French only).
