World News In Brief

Batavia, Java, Oct. 8.—(Reuters)—The Indonesian republican radio alleged last night that Communists, who seized the Java town of Madiun for 10 days in their recent revolt, beheaded more than 1,000 people there.

Perth, Ont., Oct. 8.—Two veterans of the R. C. A. F. lost their lives in a tiny Tiger Moth aircraft which plummeted to the ground here yesterday and burst into flames.

The dead are 29-year-old Lawrence J. Rathwell and 30-year-old Percy Moore, both of Smiths Falls.

Melbourne, Australia, Oct. 8.—(P)—Air Marshal George Jones, chief of staff of the R. A.A.F., today said his fighter squadrons are ready for war on a limited scale.

"No potential enemy in the world is in position to make a sudden, unheralded raid on Australia in the Pearl Harbor manner," he told newspaper men.

Nanking, Oct. 8.—(P)—A transport plane flying between Mukden and Peiping was shot down over the Manchurian city of Jihien by Communist anti-aircraft fire, killing all occupants, the newspaper Yishihpa said today. The newspaper did not further identify the transport. Most of the transport flying this area ordinarily carry between 30 and 50 passengers.

Hamilton, Bermuda, Oct. 8.—(P)—A tropical hurricane battered Bermuda from end to end for three hours last night, causing extensive damage.

A survey today showed the storm caused destruction heavier than the total damage of two previous hurricanes this fall. No casualties were reported, however.

Victoria, Oct. 8.—(C.P.)—Three more discoveries of radioactive minerals have been made in British Columbia, Mines Minister R. C. MacDonald announced last night. The provincial minister was unable to give full details of the discoveries but confirmed that definite radioactive minerals have been found.

Montreal, Oct. 8.—(P)—A liquid, gas-choked apartment squatted with a $16,000 fortune in crumpled bills today was under Montreal homicide squad investigation while a young woman and an elderly man fought for life in hospital.

The two were rescued from the Fullum Street flat by a police emergency squad yesterday. Early today, the condition was described as "grave."

The victims were identified as Aline Belanger, 25, and her 64-year-old uncle, Napoleon Belanger. Police said Miss Belanger's parents told them she had been missing for five years from a convent where she had been a Nun.

Argentina Foreign Minister Meets Vishinsky; Seeks End Of Stalemate Over Berlin

Security In Australia Is Probed

Canberra, Oct. 8.—(P)—The Federal Government has begun one of its biggest security probes and in doing so has started a political squabble that has displaced the Berlin crisis as front-page news in Australia.

The probe started Sept. 30 after Arthur W. Fadden, leader of the Country party—Conservative in outlook—quoted from two confidential documents, one purporting to record a London meeting between Prime Minister Churchill of Australia and the British Cabinet July 8 and the other said to be a record of a meeting of the executive council for scientific and industrial research.

Fadden told the House of Representatives that the first document showed that Chiefly told the British Cabinet that he understood the United States would not pass on atomic research secrets to Australia.

The second document alleged that Defence Minister John J. Dedman told British authorities that he was uncertain whether the Australians could be trusted with certain information.

Fadden challenged the Prime Minister to tell the truth of what happened.

Chiefly replied that if what Fadden quoted was true it was a stolen document; if not it was a forgery and he intended to make inquiries how it came into Fadden's hands.

Yesterday security police visited Fadden at his office in Parliament House here but they refused to continue inquiring when Fadden called in the press. Later in the house Fadden claimed a gross breach of privilege but was ruled out of order by the Speaker.

Labour members in the lobby of the House predicted today that there would be early prosecutions under the Australian crimes act and they say that Chiefly will spare nobody in his determination to find out the source of Fadden's information.

The general feeling is that the matter could be cleared up quickly if Chiefly would declare the documents genuine or forgeries.

Gen. Slim May Get Army Post

London, Oct. 8.—(Reuters)—Australia's war quarters today said Gen. William Slim, who commanded Britain's wartime army in Burma, is a leading candidate for the vacant post of Chief of the Imperial General Staff.

The post became vacant when Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery was appointed chairman of the Chiefs-of-staffs committee of the western European union defence council. His successor is expected to be named soon by the King.

The only other possible candidate is understood to be Lt-Gen. Sir John Crocker, is commander-in-chief Middle East land forces.

It is within his discretion to convene the Council any time he likes. He has told close associates he does not intend to do so until Monday at the earliest, it was learned.

Paris, Oct. 8.—(P)—Cuba, Egypt and Norway today were elected to two-year terms on the United Nations Security Council. The terms begin next Jan. 1.

Cuba replaces Colombia, Norway will take the seat now held by Belgium and Egypt takes over from Syria under the Council's geographical representation system.

U.N. Security Council President Confers With Russian Delegation Leaders for Second Time in 24 Hours.

Paris, Oct. 8.—(P)—The Argentine Foreign Minister, Juan A. Bramuglia today conferred with Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky in a bid to end the east-west stalemate over Berlin, authoritative sources said.

The sources said it was the second time in 24 hours Bramuglia, president of the United Nations Security Council, talked with leaders of Russia's U. N. delegation.

The Argentinian saw another Soviet leader yesterday, the sources said. They did not identify him.

There were reports here of an unofficial approach by H. V. Evatt of Australia, the Assembly President, and Secretary-General Trygve Lie to the four big powers, with an appeal for a three-month truce in Berlin. This could permit the four-power council of foreign ministers to discuss a lasting settlement. Officials would not comment on the reports.

However, both British and American spokesmen said their governments would not accept such a proposal. They said if they agreed to temporary removal of the Berlin blockade it would imply acceptance of Russia's right to reimpose it.

Official Canadian sources said "no comment" governs the Dominion's policy on Berlin issues now before the Security Council.

Reports that six "neutral" powers—Canada, China, Colombia, Syria, Belgium and Argentina—engaged in private talks on the situation were not denied, but informants refused to speculate on the nature of the discussions.

A British source said the big three are waiting to hear what "other states" have to say when the Security Council reconvenes, probably Monday. This informant said he knew nothing to confirm published statements that one of the six "neutrals" will submit a resolution calling for immediate lifting of the Berlin blockade.

Still another item of lobby gossip—that negotiations are in progress for a three-month blockade truce—received similar negative response in informed quarters.

Earlier Bramuglia had talked with Philip C. Jessup, deputy United States delegate on the Council, Sir Alexander Cadogan of Britain and Alexandre Parodi of France.

The object of the talks was said to be to work out a plan which might meet both Russia and western power demands in their dispute over Berlin.

Bramuglia is known to have received an unofficial mandate from the five other "neutral" governments on the Security Council to seek an east-west compromise.

The Security Council adjourned Wednesday after the three western governments had submitted their indictments of the Russian actions. It is not likely to meet again until Monday.

The pause, according to Bramuglia's own confidants, is to allow the Argentinian to try to bring about a reconciliation of the conflicting points of view.

It is within his discretion to convene the Council any time he likes. He has told close associates he does not intend to do so until Monday at the earliest, it was learned.

Paris, Oct. 8.—(P)—Cuba, Egypt and Norway today were elected to two-year terms on the United Nations Security Council. The terms begin next Jan. 1.

Cuba replaces Colombia, Norway will take the seat now held by Belgium and Egypt takes over from Syria under the Council's geographical representation system.

Norway and Cuba were elected on the first ballot, while four ballots were necessary to decide between Egypt and Turkey. The final vote was Egypt 36, Turkey 19.

Cuba was elected unanimously. Norway received 44 votes. The ed counts were required to poll a two-thirds majority vote.

The coming term will be the second for Egypt. She was elected to a one-year term at the first U. N. Assembly session in London in 1946.

The Soviet Ukraine, Canada and Argentina are the other non-permanent members of the Council. Their permanent members are the big five—Britain, the United States, France, Russia and China.

China, France, India, Peru, Belgium and Chile were elected to the economic and social council. All were elected on the first ballot, with China, France and India polling 50 votes, Peru 49, Belgium 43 and Chile 41.

Belgium and India replaced the Netherlands and Canada. The other four were re-elected. India staked her claim to the place Canada has held on the Spanish Exiles' Agreement Is Reaffirmed By Britain

London, Oct. 8.—(Reuters)—A Foreign-Office spokesman today reaffirmed that Britain had been supplied with the text of an agreement on future policy signed by the Spanish Monarchist and Socialist parties in exile.

Commenting on a Madrid report that Gil Robles, Monarchist leader, had denied signing such an agreement, the spokesman said it was news to the British Government that Robles felt he was not committed to the agreement.

Since Robles was believed here to be the leader of the Monarchists it had automatically been assumed he was a party to the agreement, the text of which was supplied to the British embassy in Paris last Wednesday.

The official view here still is that the agreement represents the considered opinion of the two parties concerned and that, if the Madrid report is correct, Robles is in disagreement with his party's policy.

Unofficially there is some speculation as to whether Robles' report is a partial outline of some of the matters arising out of the proposed union of the two countries.

Acting Prime Minister St. Laurent said that at the meeting, which followed an inaugural public meeting Wednesday, there was an exchange of view on financial and legal problems. The delegations then agreed that greater headway could be made if they adjourned until next Tuesday. The closed sittings are likely to continue through most of the negotiations.

Mr. Walsh said the adjournment will give his delegation an opportunity to complete preparation of the brief. He doubted if the brief would be released for publication.

There have been persistent reports in unofficial circles that the delegation will ask for greater financial assistance than was offered in the possible terms of union laid down by Canada a year ago.

In those terms, Canada undertook to take over $63,000,000 of the island's $89,000,000 public debt and to extend to Newfoundland all existing Federal services. The Government offered to pay the island a transitional grant of $28,250,000 over a period of 12 years to assist in improving services which ordinarily come under provincial jurisdiction.

The $63,000,000 figures represented the amount it was estimated Newfoundland had spent to build up her railway, steamship and other assets which Canada will take over. It is possible the Newfoundland delegation will seek a higher price for the assets rather than an increase in financial grants.

Decision On Margarine Ban To Be Announced Next Week

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Ottawa, Oct. 8.—(P)—A legal fight against the 62-year-old ban on margarine ends today in the Supreme Court of Canada, but the decision won't be known for a week.

Margaret Hyndman, K.C., of Toronto, will express the opposition of the Canadian Association of Consumers and the seven-man court then will take the case under consideration. The judgment will be handed down sometime next week.

The case revolves around an act adopted by Parliament in 1886 to prohibit the importation, manufacture and sale of the butter substitute on the ground it was "injurious to health."

Climaxing a long legislative battle against the ban, the Federal government agreed two months ago to a Senate motion requesting that its validity be referred to the Supreme Court.

Yesterday, the court heard three other opposing groups argue through counsel that the sale and manufacture of margarine rightfully came under provincial jurisdiction and that the legislation should be declared invalid.

J. M. Nadeau, K.C., representing l'Association Canadienne des Electricites of Montreal, said the ban appears to be a prohibition enacted "against a lawful article of commerce which competes against an equally lawful article of commerce." The ban was the equivalent of a "restraint of trade" against foods which came under provincial jurisdiction.

The government conceded that margarine was a lawful article of trade when it quoted medical evidence that it was as wholesome as butter. Thus as a lawful article, margarine became the property of the manufacturer and fell within the scope of property and civil rights, both provincial jurisdictions.

L. E. Beaulieu, K.C., appearing for the province of Quebec, said there could be no doubt that the sale and manufacture of margarine were within provincial jurisdiction. It no longer could be argued that it was injurious to health.

Senator Salter A. Hayden, K. C., appearing for a group opposed to the ban, said margarine provided little competition for butter when its use was permitted temporarily following the First World War.

Claxton Says Canada Must Be Prepared For Defence

Montreal, Oct. 8.—(P)—Defence Minister Claxton said last night that the intrinsig attitude of Soviet leaders has increased the possibility of war and declared that "until the chances of peace improve, we have got to prepare to defend ourselves."

He told the Canadian Ordnance Association in a 65-minute speech that "even if the Berlin situation should improve, there will be other points of tension until the Russians begin to seek the welfare of their people rather than the extension of their power."

Then he told the group of armed services officers and leaders of potential war industry what Canada has done and is doing in industrial defence planning.

He made these points:
1. Canada has gone farther in unification of its services than any country.

2. It is believed that procurement of supplies in event of an emergency would be through a department of government under a separate minister.

3. Detailed schedules of what the services would need in the first year of a possible conflict have been prepared. Two thirds of such supplies for the army alone are on issue or in mobilization stores.

4. Canada has a surplus of a great many strategic materials and only a relatively small number would be in short supply.

5. Serious consideration must be given to the question of building additional steel-making capacity.

6. Canada is taking active steps to familiarize her men with battle techniques of both the British and American armed forces.

7. The Defence Department has signed orders for overhaul and modification of planes at a cost of $10,377,000 and an announcement is expected shortly on the purchase or construction of more aircraft.

8. The Department also proposes a program of ship construction including a fleet type of escort vessel.

Based on his speech on a series of questions and answers, Mr. Claxton said, in answer to the question "will there be war?" That since the end of the Second World War Russia's manifest intention of carrying on the aggressive promotion of Communism "has challenged every sensible person who want to stay free to look to their defence."

"Canada, like the United States, is vitally interested that like-minded nations pool their strength as the best way to prevent and, if necessary, stop aggression."

Saying he did not believe either the Russian leaders or the Russian people wanted war today, Mr. Claxton added that even if the situation in Berlin should improve, "there will be other points of tension and difficulty until the Russians begin to seek the welfare of their people rather than the extension of their power."

"War is not inevitable but neither is peace inevitable and until the chances of peace improve, we have got to prepare to defend ourselves."

After elaborating on defence planning in Canada, the role of the recently-formed industrial defence board and procurement of supplies, the Minister turned to the all-important question of steel.

Canada, like every other country, Mr. Claxton said, is short of steel. Although the Dominion had 97 per cent during the six years of war, peacetime production is still 50 per cent short of requirements.

"The situation is such that serious consideration must be given to the question of building additional

Extension Of Commonwealth Meetings To Be Considered

By FRASER WIGHTON
London, Oct. 8.—(Reuters)—British Commonwealth Prime Ministers would meet in different Commonwealth capitals every two years under a tentative plan expected to be discussed at next week's talks among Commonwealth Premiers in London.

The plan, understood to have been provisionally discussed in various Commonwealth quarters, visualizes also an annual Commonwealth conference at foreign-minister level and a full-dress Commonwealth conference every 10 years.

The full-dress conference alone would take major decisions requiring the ratification by Commonwealth Parliaments.

A meeting of British Cabinet Ministers yesterday gave the final touches to the arrangement for next week's meeting of the Commonwealth Premiers.

The conference proper will open Monday with an exhaustive economic survey by Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer, who is returning by air after economic discussions with the United States Treasury and Canadian Government leaders.

Sir Stafford is expected to deal with the impact of the economic side of western union in Europe upon the Commonwealth structure and to give a picture calculated to remove apprehension upon the point that have been expressed in

Day Of Soft Talk Toward Soviet Union Has Ended

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Washington, Oct. 8.—(P)—The United States appears to be casting aside the last restraints in its propaganda war with Russia.

From two top officials comes evidence that the day of soft talk toward the Soviet Union has given way entirely to a new period of blunt statements unvarnished by the familiar phrases of diplomacy.

In Washington, State Undersecretary Robert A. Lovett revealed that he had received orders from Paris to "debunk" the latest Russian proposal for dealing with atomic energy. These orders presumably were given by State Secretary Marshall himself.

And in Durham, N.H., Assistant Secretary of State Charles E. Seltzman declared in a speech that the Soviet rulers since the end of the war have made this plain:

"That their real aim is world domination through the instrumentality of Communism, and that they will stoop to any stratagem of coercion, subterfuge, duplicity or double dealing that serves their purpose."

Speaking before the University of New Hampshire, Seltzman thus used some of the harshest words ever applied to the Soviet Union in recent years by a top Washington official.

The assistant secretary in charge of occupied areas said the United States hopes to win the conflict with Russia "this side of war—by patience, calmness, and spiritual fortitude."

But, he added, it may not be possible to avoid war, although the government is proceeding on the assumption that it is possible. Lovett made his disclosures about "debunking" the Russian atomic energy proposal in a brief speech before the United States Advisory Commission on Information.

PITCHING HORSESHOES
By BILLY ROSE

Did you ever hear of The Chump of the Century Club? Well, neither did I until a few midnights ago when a fellow told me about it over a mug of mocha at Lindy's.

"It's a very exclusive organization," he said, "and a man isn't eligible unless he can point to at least one earth-shaking blunder in his career."

"Well, then, I'm a cinch to get in," I said. "To begin with, I'm the gent who auditioned Mary Martin in Fort Worth and advised her to go home and tend to her dishes and diapers. I'm also the yahoo who let Abbott and Costello get away from him because he was too busy reading the scrapbooks where it says he's a smart showman."

"Those are minor errors," said my friend, "and I doubt whether they would impress the membership committee."

"Suppose I were to tell you I once passed up a chance to invest $500 and get $50,000 in return?"

"Now you're getting warm," said my coffee companion. "Such a story, properly documented, would entitle you to serious consideration—especially since your fondness for a buck, slow or supersonic, is hardly a secret."

"Well, here are the details," I said. "Back in 1932, a gentleman named Courtney Burr paid for the only $500 he had in the world for a six-month option on a play. After thirty days of button-holing prospective backers, he added up and found he had raised the sum of $0.00.

"And so he decided to finance his production the hard way—without money. For openers, he fast-talked the owners of the boarded-up Lyceum Theatre into renting him the house on a when-and-if basis. Next, he persuaded two experienced Broadway hands, Dude Harris and Arthur Wright, to act as general manager and treasurer respectively. Then he signed up the necessary number of actors and let out a contract for the construction of the scenery.

"So far, so-so.

"Setback number one came quickly. The nasty old company which was building the set said it wouldn't deliver it unless it was paid for. No dough, no go, no show; was the elegant way the company put it.

"Fortunately, however, Burr's uncle strolled into the theatre that afternoon for a bit of chit-chat with his nephew. When he left, he was $1,750 lighter.

"And so rehearsals began. But so did expenses. For one thing, a repair job had to be done on the cash register in case a customer showed up, and for another, the script called for the characters in the play to smoke a great many cigarettes. Worst of all, the box office phone was dead, and the hard-hearted telephone company refused to bring it to life unless a little matter of $67 was cleaned up.

"As creditors began to nip at their heels, Courtney and his managers took refuge in the box office, and for days they chewed on their nails and very little else. And then one night, in desperation, Wright opened the old iron safe and began poking his cane in the corners. 'Who knows,' he said.

CARNIVAL

"Personally I think we missed the timing on that speech of mine to the labor union boys where I told them to consider me one of themselves!"

FITCH BAY

A card party was held in Canon Gustin Hall on Saturday evening to raise money for sports equipment for the Consolidated School. Cards were played at seven tables and refreshments were served. The prizes for highest scores went to Mrs. H. C. Rollins and Rev. W. C. Dunn, and the consolation prize went to Miss Mary W. Larry.

Mrs. Gordon Matheson, of Sherbrooke, was the week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Ridger.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schoof and family, of Ayer's School, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Alger.

Mr. K. L. Pelkie has taken over the management of the Imperial Oil service station, at Magog.

Mrs. H. C. Collins, accompanied several members of the Women's Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion, of Georgetown, to Montreal, where they attended a banquet given by that organization.

Mrs. Frances Dustin, of Lyndonville, Vt., spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Stolkler. Mr. Stolkler celebrated his birthday on Sunday. His many friends join in wishing him many more happy birthdays.

Mrs. Laura McKee has returned from Montreal, where she spent a few days.

Miss Lyla Cook, of Stanstead College, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. W. M. MacDonald.

Miss Shirley Cooke, of Rock Island, was at her home over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Martin, of Magog, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Wharry.

"Maybe an absent-minded treasurer left an old buffalo nickel in it."

"Suddenly a packet containing twenty large-sized dollar bills fell out of a compartment, together with a slip showing that the money was part of the proceeds of a show called 'The Ghost Breakers' which had closed nineteen years before.

"It's not enough to pay the phone bill," said Harris, "but it may keep us alive until we get the curtain up. What's the cheapest thing to eat?"

"You can get onion sandwiches for a dime," said Burr. And so for the next few days, the Lyceum spotted the most aromatic box office in town.

"Around this time, anyone could have bought a sizeable chunk of the show for $500—but nobody did. It was offered to Lee Shubert and Max Gordon, but these worthies didn't think it had a chance. And when Courtney Burr brought the script to my office I was too bone-lazy to even read it.

"The morning the show was due to open, the sun broke through again. A wispy little geezer ambled into the lobby and announced he was interested in buying the cloakroom concession. Arthur Wright practically pulled him through the ticket window and extracted an advance payment of $150 from him. And with this windfall the entrepreneurs took care of the phone, the cigarette-starved actors and their own misadventures.

"As you may have guessed, the show was called 'Sailor, Beware,' and when it finally opened that night, it went off like a 16-inch gun in a hall bedroom. It ran over a year, coined money like the Chinese mint, and today, 16 years later, still makes itself an occasional C-note in summer stock.

"I understand that Courtney Burr has never gone near the Lyceum Theatre since the show closed. He says he can still smell the onions."

"And now," I said to my friend, "what do you think my chances are of getting into The Chump of the Century Club?"

"They're excellent," he said, "and we might even consider making you president. By the way, where can we contact Lee Shubert and Max Gordon?"

Quarter-Century Club Is Formed By Steel Company

The MacKinnon Structural Steel Company Limited last evening played host to its employees, their wives and friends, at an elaborate banquet served in the New Sherbrooke Hotel, the occasion being the formation of a quarter of a century club in the plant.

Henry W. Welsh, general manager, presided at the dinner and announced that in the absence of the president, Col. D. H. McDougall, of Montreal, he would have the pleasant task of presenting 21-jewel solid gold wrist watches to those members of the company who had given 25 or more years of service.

Before proceeding to the presentations, Mr. Welsh read a telegram from Col. McDougall which expressed his regret that he could not be present and extended best wishes and congratulations to all the employees.

Mr. Welsh recalled an occasion last February when he and other members of the staff were received by the shop employees and stated that it was with genuine pleasure that the company could, in its turn, receive its faithful employees and tender to them a tangible expression of appreciation, coupled with the hope that they will see many more years of service with the company and that "health, happiness and prosperity will prevail."

Those receiving watches, in the order of their seniority, are as follows: J. Chabot, 38 years of service, George Couture, 37, Felix Boisvert, 37, James Bennett, 36, Ephrem Gladu, 35, E. Gaudette, 31, James Fearon, 29, Pierre Guay, 29, J. Bibeau, 29, Georges Gaudmond, 28, Walter Joiner, 28, Olivia Bourque, 28, Emeril Gingras, 28, J. E. Pariseau, 27, J. Navratil, 25. Members of the office staff similarly honored were Gordon L. Somers, 32 years, Edward Holgate, 31, J. R. Desilets, 31, J. O. Dubuc, 30, H. W. Welsh, 28, A. C. S. Davidson, 25, and Miss Gertrude M. Imrie, 25.

Mr. Welsh announced that unfortunately a sad note had to be introduced into the celebration. He referred to the death of George E. Platt, who had been with the firm for 38 years and therefore had qualified for the quarter of a century club. He said that a watch, similar to that presented to Miss Imrie, had been engraved with Mr. Platt's name and sent to his widow, as a tribute of the esteem in which he was held by his company and fellow workers.

Each gift was engraved with the name of the company as well as the name of the employee receiving it.

Reference was made to another employee, Albert Gingues, who, but for illness, would have qualified for the quarter of a century club. In appreciation of his services of cheque for the approximate value of the watch was presented to his son, who was requested to deliver it to his father with the best wishes of all present.

Mr. Welsh also announced that the names of the club members, which were engraved and framed and that the list would be displayed in the plant, with sufficient space for the new members who will be added to the club's ranks.

Alex. C. S. Davidson, superintendent, proposed a toast to the shop committee, George Couture, R. Charest, J. Bourque, A. Gaudet and Roland Gingras, for their splendid work since the formation of this committee and congratulated the men who had received presentations, declaring that he was proud to be associated with such a fine group of fellows as the employees of the MacKinnon Structural Steel Company.

The employees welcomed with cheers Mr. Davidson's announcement that the men in the shop would fall into the office category for today and would not be required to report for work until nine, although they would receive full pay.

He then invited those present to remain for dancing, stating that the senior member, J. Chabot, would act as master of ceremonies, and that George Couture would be in charge of the refreshments.

J. G. Scorer then proposed a toast to Mr. Welsh, and Mr. Davidson to Mrs. Welsh.

Jack Lenaghan played the organ throughout the banquet and was joined by the other members of his orchestra for the dancing.

Seated at the head table were Mr. and Mrs. Norman Welsh, Mrs. J. Colton, Miss Catherine Colton, Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Somers, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Desilets, J. G. Scorer, Miss Gertrude Imrie, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Welsh, Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Davidson, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Holgate, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Dubuc, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Booth, Dennis Atto, Miss Therese Perrault and Miss Margaret DeHervey, Sherbrooke Daily Record.

Keen Competition Features Stanstead Plowing Events

Ayer's Cliff, Oct. 8.—Keen competition was witnessed in the 33rd annual plowing match, sponsored by the Stanstead County Plowmen's Association, held on the James Howard Farm at Ayer's Cliff yesterday. A large number of spectators, including John T. Hackett, M. P., witnessed the event.

There were nine classes and 16 entries. Competitors came from Hatley, Ayer's Cliff and Barnston. Judges were Ernie C. Rose, of Sherbrooke, who judged the horses, and Angus McKiven, North Hatley, who judged the plowing.

Five boys under 15 years of age plowed in the tractor class. Several veteran plowmen remarked upon the fine showing of Gary Young, a six-year-old Massawippi youth who was the youngest plowman on the field. The oldest plowman was Harold Yetter, of Hatley.

Prizes will be presented at the Town Hall in Hatley this evening, following the annual plowmen's banquet, a chicken pie supper, to be served by members of the Ladies' Guild, of Hatley, in the Guild Hall at 6 p. m. This event is open to the public and tickets will be available at the door.

Catholic Charities Drive Collections Reach $8,707

Officials of the Catholic Charities campaign announced last night that the amount of $8,707 had been collected to date, of the $25,000 objective and that there are still five days left. St. Joseph's parish was the first to reach and surpass its objective, $526 having been collected with an objective of $500.

The supper last evening was for members of both St. Joseph's and Notre Dame du Rosaire parishes and a large number answered the invitation to attend this 5th supper of the campaign, in fact, last evening's attendance surpassed any ever recorded in other years, there being 230 people present.

Georges Sylvestre, joint president, preside at the dinner and called upon the various speakers to say a few words.

Rev. Father Gilles Roy, pastor of Notre Dame du Rosaire parish, stated that the money raised during this campaign for the orphans and the indigent, would serve as an effective weapon in the fight against Communism.

Rev. Father Raoul Bruneau compared the campaign to a mystical body. He said the head was the central committee, the heart

O. Goyette, manager of the local branch of the Shell Oil Company of Canada, Limited, and members of his staff, F. A. Baker, P. A. J. Byham, L. J. Mackenzie and P. A. J. Sergerie, were guests of the Shell Oil Company at a banquet held Tuesday evening in Montreal.

The banquet is an annual affair, held to honor members of the Shell Oil Company with ten or more years' service. This year more than 500 employees attended long-service banquets in Montreal, London and Toronto. The employees are presented with gold and jeweled long-service emblems on the occasion of 10, 15, 20 and 25-year anniversaries.

Mr. Goyette has been employed with Shell for 20 years; Mr. Baker for 21 years; Mr. Byham for 17 years; Mr. Mackenzie for 14 years, and Mr. Sergerie for 13 years.

PARADE IS PLANNED BY FIRE DEPT.

Fire Prevention Week comes to a close tomorrow and Director Percy Donahue has planned a large parade. The parade will start at 2:30 from the No. 1 station and after a tour of several streets in the city will end at the starting point.

Members of the fire department, fire-fighting apparatus, ambulances and commercial vehicles will make up the parade.

With the exception of the fire on Wednesday which destroyed a church on Council street, no serious fire occurred during Fire Prevention Week. During the past week the stores in the city were inspected and school children were shown motion pictures and were told the do's and don'ts in case of fire.

Even though Fire Prevention Week is nearly over citizens are reminded to be careful.

LENNOXVILLE CHURCH GROUP HAS MEETING

Members of the Women's Auxiliary of St. George's Church, in Lennoxville, held their regular monthly meeting in the Parish Hall. The meeting opened with Bible reading, special prayers and hymns.

Mrs. E. L. Atto asked that all the thank-offering boxes be brought to the next meeting, and Mrs. G. Noonan announced that all subscriptions for the "Living Message" should be in by the next meeting also.

Miss Stevens will be in charge of the sale of calendars.

Articles were brought for the gift parcel, which is being sent to the prayer partner, Rev. Anido, in Labrador. Mrs. Lee M. Watson is in charge of this work.

Notice was given of the deaconry meeting to be held at Magog on October 15, and members were invited to attend. This meeting will open at 10:30 a.m. with holy communion, followed by a luncheon. Mrs. Carrington, the guest speaker, will give a talk on her trip to England and Germany.

After the meeting, the annual sunshine tea was enjoyed, the hall being suitably decorated with autumn flowers. Mrs. A. Jones and Mrs. E. L. Atto presided at the lace-covered tea table, which was centred with calendulas in a silver bowl, and matching yellow tapers. The small tea tables had centres of nasturtiums and snowballs in small vases.

Those serving on the tea committee were Mrs. A. Burbridge, Mrs. J. Morrison and Miss Stevens with other members assisting.

Miss F. Perry and Mrs. J. Gustin received the sunshine base and Mrs. J. Pearton assisted the kitchen committee.

Mr. Goyette, manager of the local branch of the Shell Oil Company of Canada, Limited, and members of his staff, F. A. Baker, P. A. J. Byham, L. J. Mackenzie and P. A. J. Sergerie, were guests of the Shell Oil Company at a banquet held Tuesday evening in Montreal.

Dr. Jewitt Outlines Needs Of Bishop's University

Need of a new science building and gymnasium and modern, fully-equipped residences at Bishop's University, Lennoxville, were outlined by Dr. Arthur Russel Jewitt, newly-appointed principal, during an informal meeting in Montreal last night with some 100 members of the university's Alumni Association.

Facilities at Bishop's University should be large enough for the institution to provide the education it really can provide," Dr. Jewitt emphasized. Regarding the aged gymnasium, the principal said it had impressed him as being "the Eastern Townships version of the Leaning Tower of Pisa."

Dr. Jewitt, who was introduced by C. T. Teakle, president of B.U. A.A., outlined current activities at the university and explained that he had suggested that a "senior lady" be present at conferences between the principal and the students' council.

W. B. Scott, K.C., a graduate of the university who is now a member of the Board of Trustees, also spoke briefly. Among those at the meeting was Dr. J. D. Jeffers, professor of education at Bishop's and also a graduate of the old university.

JOHNS-MANVILLE

MEETS AND BEATS WEATHER'S WORST

No matter what the weather — come rain, come heat, snow, ice, wind or sleet you'll have no worries if your home is protected with Johns-Manville Cedargrain Asbestos Siding Shingles.

Cedargrains can "take it" from any weather extreme. Made of asbestos and cement, they're as permanent as stone and will not rot or wear out. What's more, they're fireproof — even the white heat of a blowtorch won't burn them. Cedargrains are strikingly attractive too — have all the charm and grained texture of fine weathered wood.

You'll find Cedargrains ideal for the sidewalls of your new home, or if you plan to remodel they can be applied right over wood shingles, clapboard or stucco. Ask your nearest J-M dealer for free folder showing style and colours. — J. S. Mitchell & Company Limited, 78 Wellington St. North, Sherbrooke, Que., Telephone 2300.

MORE SNOOPING

The height of something-or-other in the line of snooping has been reached in the announcement by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics that it plans to send some two hundred of its officials throughout the country in an effort to find out what Canadians are doing with their money. The Government has no right at all to ask people what they do with their money. This is just a bit of snooping impertinence which shows how far we have travelled toward totalitarian technique.

Here we have a proposal that 250 snoopers pry into the people's personal affairs for no useful or necessary purpose but to give easy money to those willing to so demean themselves for pay.

After the payment of crushing taxes exacted from the people of Canada, it is nobody's business but their own what they do lawfully with the little they have left.

The astonishing and degrading performances is said by the bureaucrats of statistics to be required for statistical purposes. If those on the payroll of that government bureau have nothing more valuable to do with their time, they should be turned loose to earn their livings in some useful occupation, if they could.

The Bureau of Statistics says it wants to find out whether its cost of living index was taking account of all factors, or of the right factors in living costs. If the Bureau of Statistics is so remote from the facts of life that it does not know its index is out-of-date and almost useless, then not much of anything is going to help it. It is to be hoped that the people tell would-be snoopers, when they call, to go and mind their own business.

THE MARKET FOR FOREST PRODUCTS

In few sectors of the Canadian economy does a comparison of the present situation with that of the pre-war period reveal more striking changes than in the forest industries, says the current Monthly Review of the Bank of Nova Scotia.

Production, employment, export and price figures all testify to the pressure of wartime and post-war demands. The lumber industry has over the past eight years maintained an average level of output almost as large as the previous record for a single year achieved in 1911. This year lumber is being sawn at a rate ten per cent higher than that former record and some thirty-five per cent more than in 1937, the best year of the pre-war recovery period. In addition to domestic demand, absorbing fifty per cent of the cut, Canada has large export demands, Canadian soft lumber exports in 1947 representing forty per cent of world exports compared with seventeen per cent in 1937.

Expanded demand in the United States is the most significant element in the newsprint and pulp industries. Canadian mills produced 37 per cent more pulp and 22 per cent more newsprint than in 1937, the post-war peak. Some of this demand is accounted for by reduced supplies from Scandinavian countries, although exchange restrictions have reduced the sales to Britain and the continent of Europe.

Within the industry itself there has been a large program of expansion and replacement of obsolete equipment and other developments include the growth of plywood, paper-board and paper-product industries, new facilities to make use of by-products and the trend toward a closer integration of the lumber and pulp industries. There has also been greater interest shown by both industry and governments in perpetuating the yield of the forests and eliminating waste.

However, the Review points out that the outlook is not devoid of problems. Extraordinary demands have been reflected in prices, and high prices in some spheres have encouraged high-cost production. It cannot be assumed that the present level of prices and the current sellers' market are in any way permanent. Overseas demand has been curtailed by the dollar payments problem as reflected in the reduction of British contract purchases in this country. There has been an even more marked falling off in shipments to other overseas countries.

Though the inability of Britain and other overseas countries to continue to purchase lumber, and to a lesser extent newsprint and pulp, on the scale of recent years has contributed to a welcome increase in United States dollar receipts, the fact remains that Canada has an obvious interest in the restoration of the international purchasing power of the nations which need to import forest products, says the Review. This is true not only from the long-term standpoint, but also from a short-term standpoint in view of the risk that demand on this continent may not remain at present levels and because shortage of lumber is retarding the economic reconstruction of Europe.

Washington Column By DOUGLAS LARSEN FALL'S COMING REMINDS OF OUR SOUTH PACIFIC CHARGES

Soon the frost will be on the pumpkins. And then a congressional junket is taking off to the sunny islands of the South Pacific. In addition to good sun tans the congressmen are going to try to find out just what federal laws are needed to govern the 75,000 half-naked natives out there whose charge is one of the incidental fruits of victory in World War II. The rules of a UN trusteeship are in effect now.

Just two years ago this reporter made the same junket with a group of other newsmen. The idea, I guess was to see whether the Navy was being mean to these natives, as salty Harold Ickes, former secretary of interior, had charged in a magazine article.

Most of us discovered that the natives were more interested in whether the wind was going to blow hard enough each day to knock the coconuts down or whether they would have to force their wives to climb the trees and pick them. They didn't appear a bit concerned over Mr. Ickes' charges.

The Navy was acting like an awkward and embarrassed new father not quite sure what to do with an infant who had just had an accident. The admirals and captains were nervously reading a lot of books on the care and feeding of natives. It gave the natives a lot of laughs and eased the situation generally.

Also the Navy was showing intelligent restraint in not making the natives call their floors the "deck" or the bathroom the "head."

NAVY PROGRESSES AS FOSTER PARENT

Since that visit the reports indicate that the Navy has come a long way in its role of foster parent. The island government officers have discovered that the natives like them better when they wear flowered sport shirts and faded shorts, rather than uniforms and brass. This helped convince the natives that the U. S. really wants to give them as good a government as possible and not a military dictatorship.

King Judah and his 160 subjects who were eased off the island of Bikini so that civilization could study the latest way to exterminate itself have given the Navy some bad moments. It is now hoped that this problem will soon be solved. Judah and his people were sent to the island of Rongerik first, but the food ran out there. Since then they have been on Kwajalein looking for a new place to roost. The spot they voted to accept is the tiny island of Kili. It doesn't have a sheltered lagoon which makes it tough to launch a boat. But the youngsters don't mind this so they will soon be hauling up stakes for their new home.

Yaws, a disease resembling syphilis, infected many of the natives. Navy medicine has got it practically stamped out now. In addition the general health of the natives has improved considerably. A special hospital ship is now plying the islands with the idea of bringing each of the 75,000 natives aboard and giving them a thorough medical examination, including a chest X-ray.

"BATTLE OF THE BUGS"

The famed "Battle of the Bugs" is another accomplishment of the Navy in the islands. An expedition had to go to Africa to find a beetle which would attack the snails that the Japs had imported for food. The snails multiplied so fast that they threatened to crowd the natives into the sea. The African beetles did the job. But then wasps from Africa had to be imported to kill certain other beetles which were eating the coconuts.

Probably the happiest progress that the Navy has made with island government as far as the U. S. taxpayer is concerned is cutting its cost. Since last year alone Uncle Sam has been able to lower the appropriation for it from $5,000,000 to $2,000,000. Native industries such as handicraft and producing coira have been greatly increased under Navy prodding and help.

This gives them enough money to pay increased taxes to the U. S. for the costs of their government. Also the natives no longer have to be given food. They are now self-sufficient.

In addition, the Navy has succeeded in building many new schools and hospitals which the Navy says is improving their standard of living a great deal. That is not to say that the natives were particularly eager to have their standard of living raised according to Navy standards. But the natives are permitted to have their own religions and there are missionaries among them representing all denominations.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

If thou turn away thy foot from the sabbath, from doing thy pleasure on my holy day; and call the sabbath a delight, the holy of the Lord, honourable; and shalt honour him, not doing thine own ways, nor finding thine own pleasure, nor speaking thine own words... —Isaiah 58:13.

Let us escape! This is our holiday — God's day, devote to rest; and through the wood We'll wander, and perchance find heavenly food, So, profitless it shall not pass away. —W. G. Simms.

ONTARIO PREMIER BECOMES NATIONAL PROGRESSIVE CONSERVATIVE LEADER

Kingston Whig-Standard. In electing Premier George Drew of Ontario as national leader of the Progressive Conservative Party, the delegates at the Ottawa Convention made a choice thoroughly justified by the record of the three candidates whose names appeared on the first ballot. The election of Premier Drew was no surprise to any impartial political observer. Too many factors made him the outstanding candidate for any other entrant to receive serious consideration in predicting the probable outcome of the election, despite the fact that he was opposed by worthy candidates in the contest to succeed Hon. John Bracken as party leader.

To say that Premier Drew's political record made him an overwhelming favorite does not in any way detract from the able and often brilliant record of Mr. John Diefenbaker as parliamentary and political leader, or from the remarkably fine record of Mr. Donald Fleming in the same fields. Premier Drew's opponents were men whose abilities made their aspirations for leadership respected, not only among members of their own political party but also among members of other political affiliations. The deciding factor for the majority of the delegates at Ottawa, however, may be found in Premier Drew's record as the only successful leader of his party in the Dominion during the past decade or more, if we except Premier Duplessis of Quebec, whose rather rigid conservatism carries another party name.

The major share of the credit for the resurgence of the Progressive Conservatives in Ontario must go to Premier Drew. With the departure of the late Howard Ferguson, former Conservative Premier, and the advent of the Liberals' Mitchell Hepburn, the then Conservative Party of Ontario collapsed temporarily. There was little sign of recovery from the collapse until Col. Drew became leader of the party, but from that time on its fortunes improved until the setback it suffered in this year's provincial general election. Despite losses at that time, the Progressive Conservatives were returned to power, and Col. Drew retained his position as a successful provincial leader. His score as leader now stands at three provincial general elections won against spirited opposition.

The record, aside from election successes, also shows that Col. Drew can at least hold his own on any political field in this country. It has been obvious for many months that he has directed much of his energy and ability to opposing the Liberal Party in Federal and semi-Federal fields. If in these efforts he has made tactical errors, he has also scored tactical gains. In addition—and no matter how fiercely certain party spokesmen may deny it—there cannot now be any doubt that Premier Drew enjoys the support of Premier Duplessis of Quebec and that of his Union Nationale Party. As such, the Progressive Conservative Party in Quebec has virtually ceased to exist. It has been replaced by the Union Nationale, and Col. Drew will undoubtedly benefit from whatever influence that party may be able to exert in the Federal field. The alliance is a strange one, but it differs only in degree from other political alliances which have gathered together seemingly ill-assorted bed-fellows.

News of Premier Drew's election to the post of national leader of the Progressive Conservatives was heard with satisfaction

THE CONSERVATIVES CHOOSE A FIGHTER

St. Thomas Times-Journal. When the Progressive Conservative convention at Ottawa elected George Alexander Drew, Premier of Ontario, as their new federal leader they chose a man possessed of many qualities, chief among which is that of being a fighter. He is not an ordinary fighter. He is always on the aggressive, ever-ready to venture into new fields of endeavor, and not afraid to attack — and keep on attacking — the things he fights who asks. He's the kind of fighter who works for no quarter and gives none.

It was mainly because he possesses these qualifications that the Progressive Conservative named him their leader more than two to one over John G. Diefenbaker, a truly great Canadian (to use Mr. Drew's words), and Donald Fleming, a young man who is rapidly forging his way to the front in Canadian public life. The party's fortunes have been at a low ebb for years. Many people in all parts of Canada, dissatisfied (we use the word advisedly) with the way affairs are being conducted at Ottawa, were demanding a change, and afraid to make the change lest they should put into office a socialistic form of government, with its accompanying threat of autocracy or worse. They looked in vain for years for a revival of the spirit of the Conservative party of old—the spirit of Macdonald and Borden and Meighen.

John Bracken, great, honorable and honest, but lacking in the qualities that inspire, little knew that, in resigning the leadership of the party and calling for the holding of a national convention, he was paving the way for a rival of that spirit. But that, apparently, is just what has happened. Spurred on by these demands on the part of so many of the people the delegates to the Ottawa convention have charted a new course that should, in the course of time, if followed, restore the party to power.

Judged by its accomplishments, the Ottawa convention was a success. It managed to draft a platform which meets the challenge of the times. Some of its more important planks advocate the outlawing of Communistic activities, a declaration (with Russia in mind) in favour of a policy of appeasement in the face of aggression, re-affirmation of belief in free, competitive enterprise, a new attempt to iron out Dominion-Provincial relations, staunch opposition to Socialism, a pledge to increase income tax exemptions, and, last but by no means least, to cut "excessive and extravagant" costs of government. Its advocacy is by an overwhelming ma-majority of the removal of the ban on the manufacture and sale of oleomargarine, so long demanded by the people, but always stoutly denied by the government and parliament (all parties included) shows the change in opinion and policy brought about at the convention, harkening as it was to the voice of the people. These and other accomplishments of the convention may well mean, as Mr. Drew so well said in his acceptance speech, a turning point in the history of Canada.

The mere adoption of so powerful a platform is not sufficient to ensure its being brought into effect. It requires action, in parliament and out. It requires unity of purpose and thought — unity in all parts of Canada and well-directed thinking. And a leader who will lead George Drew's record as Conservative leader in Ontario and premier of the province shows that he can lead, vigorously and effectively. His acceptance speech likewise demonstrates this. His declaration that he would war against "budgeting by radio," his promise to do away with the "British Trust" with its policy of "economic lunacy," his assertion that the historic rights of provincial governments and municipalities would be restored, all struck a responsive chord in the hearts of the convention delegates and will of a certainty meet with similar response on the part of many of his fellow-Canadians. Mr. Drew has been given the leadership of the great Progressive Conservative party at a most opportune time. He has been given a great challenge and with a united and a progressive party behind him, we are confident he will meet it.

SEASONAL NOTES

Christian Science Monitor. Fall is a season of compensations. Despite the plaint of Thomas Hood—"No sun—no moon—no morn—no noon—no flowers, no leaves, no birds, November— the season is not all like that. Even November will give the despondent poet a cheery argument or two. But earlier autumn—when shorter days bring longer dusks, and cooler evenings bring warmer firesides, and brisker mornings bring fresher noons—means the sojourner in the new season constantly weighing losses against gains.

Where the leaves have fallen a warmly lighted window peeps through, and if there is no like response, tonight, there will be tomorrow evening, when that maple across the street scatters its gold. Where flowers were, there may be only stalks and dried earth, or there may be rosy and purple fruit. If flower vases have been put away, somebody has got out the jelly glasses and filled them with distillations of summer that will last the winter through.

Of course at times the Thomas Hood in all of us tries to break out in whimpers for what summer has taken and autumn may bring, but the old adage will do at such moments, edited a bit as fall edits the landscape and our plans: Count your compensations.

CROSS-RUFF WINS FREAK HAND BID

Freak hands come up at every national tournament. David C. Carter, of Kansas City, Mo., gave me today's hand as one of the greatest freaks he had ever seen, and I am inclined to agree with him.

How would you like to be sitting East and play the contract at four spades doubled and redoubled? Carter did not like it either, but he did not run out to five clubs because his partner's double led him to believe that West had a lot of spades.

If South had opened the king of spades, there would be no story. But instead he opened the king of diamonds, and what happened then really made it a classic. Carter ruffed the diamond king with the deuce of spades and led the queen of clubs. South covered with the king, and of course if he had not, Carter would have led it ride.

The trick was trumped in dummy with the six of spades, a diamond was returned and trumped with the three of spades. The jack of clubs was led, again South covered, and dummy ruffed with the seven of spades.

The three of hearts was trumped by Carter with the four of spades, then he cashed the ten and nine of clubs, discarding dummy's two remaining diamonds. When the eight of clubs was led, South should have discarded his ace of hearts, but he did not. He was somewhat annoyed by this time, and he trumped the eight of clubs with the queen of spades.

Carter overtrumped in dummy with the ace, led back a heart and ruffed it with his last trump. Now there was no way to prevent the declarer from making the jack of spades. He made four spade tricks in dummy, four in his own hand and the ten-nine of clubs—ten tricks.

Montgomery's New Post Causes Discussion

By DEWITT MACKENZIE Associated Press News Analyst

Selection of Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery to head the newly formed military command of western European union—Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg—continues to be a subject of warm discussion not unmixd with some heart-turning.

Those who disapprove maintain that Monty is a land soldier, whereas his big new job calls for the handling not only of land forces but air and sea units as well. Then, of course, some French critics aren't happy in having the command centred in England, since France obviously will be an early battlefield if there is another war.

Whatever criticism Viscount Montgomery may have evoked during the late war, we have the testimony of none less than Gen. Eisenhower that he is "one of the great soldiers of the war... A figure who will live always, not only in British but in world history."

The colorful, 61-year-old soldier is something of a one-man band, but supreme command permits a fair amount of that trait. He knows his soldiering and has supreme confidence in himself, which accounts in considerable measure for his ability to inspire high morale among his followers.

Morale is a big item in the Field Marshal's calculations. When I was with his army in Africa in '42 he told me during an interview: "Morale is the thing. You can do anything with an army if its morale is high. Your troops must be in that frame of mind where they want to fight—where they're anxious to meet the enemy in battle. Morale depends on success. Give the troops success and their morale is high."

So Monty gave his men success as he drove Rommel back across the desert, and their morale was indeed high. They thought a lot of their skipper.

His own morale is in top gear. During our chat in his desert caravan the name of Rommel naturally came up and he pointed to a life-size, head-and-shoulder photo of the German commander, remarking: "That's Rommel. I captured that."

"What do you think of him?" I asked. "He's a grand soldier," replied the Field Marshal. "But we shall beat him."

"You're confident—your own morale is high," I said. He nodded, and looked me squarely in the eye. He believes in himself. And that isn't a bad characteristic for a commander.

Viscount Montgomery has another notable characteristic. There burns in his grey eyes the unmistakable flame of the crusader. If he weren't a great general he would be in some other field of leadership, and it would involve idealism, if I have sized up my man rightly.

Perhaps that fits with the fact that he is intensely religious, and is proud of the fact that he doesn't drink or smoke. He once boasted to Prime Minister Winston Churchill:

"I don't smoke, I don't drink, and I am 100 per cent fit."

To this the inimitable Winston replied: "I smoke, I drink and I am 200 per cent fit."

Churchill compared Montgomery to Cromwell, which sums up rather well the chief of the new western European military command.

capacity. With the development we can look forward to if there is no war, it would appear as if a reasonable expansion of steel production would be in the interest of the country for peacetime as well as defence purposes.

The defence Minister also spoke of progress made in standardization of weapons and equipment, industrial defence planning with the United States, development of new weapons and plans for their construction.

In closing, Mr. Claxton said that the defence of Canada "is not just a job for the armed forces but for all the people of Canada."

CEREMONY AT A "SHOWER"

Magog, Oct. 8.—A combined surprise farewell and miscellaneous shower was tendered Miss Geraldine Ramsperger one evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ewart, on Victoria Street, where forty-two guests had assembled to extend best wishes to a bride-to-be of the month, Mrs. Joseph Ewart, Mrs. W. A. Fyles and Mrs. Paul Beaudoin were the joint hostesses for the occasion.

Multi-colored fall garden flowers decorated the rooms. The bride-to-be entered the room to the peal of wedding bells and the strains of the "Wedding March" to find Mr. Joseph Ewart, dressed as a minister. He requested the astonished guest to be seated, explaining that a wedding ceremony was about to take place.

At this announcement, the wedding party came into the room. The bride, "Heraldine" Hurlbut, becomingly attired in a long white dress, full-length veil and carrying a bridal bouquet, entered on the arm of her father, Clayton Robinson. The bridal attendants, all charmingly attired in white, and carrying seasonal flower bouquets, were "Gordine" Hurlbut, maid-of-honor; little Miss Collette Beaudoin and Dickie Ewart, flower girls; and Bernard Beaudoin, as ring bearer.

The groom, Mr. Paul Beaudoin, was supported by Frank Bennett the best man, both suitably attired for the occasion.

Following the "mock wedding ceremony," which afforded much amusement and was the cause of gales of laughter, the gathering enjoyed a song, "I'll Walk Beside You" sung by Mr. Clayton Robinson.

Miss Ramsperger was then presented with a large basket decorated in pink and white, filled with many beautifully wrapped gifts. After opening and passing around each gift to be admired, Miss Ramsperger thanked each donor. The gifts, which were beautiful as well as useful included china, towels, jewellery, pyrex, a wall bracket, pillow slips and linen.

The remainder of the evening was spent in singing songs, led by Mr. Clayton Robinson, who provided guitar accompaniment. Messrs. Joseph Ewart and Frank Bennett joined Clayton Robinson in several minstrel songs, followed by the group singing of many old-time favorites. The versatile "Rev. Joseph Ewart, also favored the guests with an impromptu step-dance which surprised and delighted them.

The evening was brought to a pleasant closing by the serving of dainty refreshments by the hostesses assisted by Mrs. Percy Catepaugh, Miss Collette Beaudoin, Mrs. Clayton Robinson and Mrs. Frank Bennett.

All left, wishing Mrs. Ramsperger much future happiness.

Out of town guests included Miss Ramsperger's father, brother, aunt and uncle, Mr. H. P. Ramsperger, Mr. Penion Ramsperger, Mrs. Penny and Mr. McConnell, respectively, all of Austin; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dufresne, of Austin; and Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Robinson, of Waterloo.

St. Faith's Guild The opening meeting of St. Faith's Guild was held in St. Luke's Anglican Church hall with Mrs. Laroque the hostess. Thirteen members were present.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. R. Malcolm. The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. Huntley Garvin, and were approved. There being no special business to attend, the meeting was brought to a close.

Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess for the evening.

General Notes Mr. and Mrs. Clement Montgomery, of South Durham, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Johnston and two children, Laura and Jimmy, motored to Magog, where they were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Buzzell.

an S O S last night, the commercial vessel Empire State covered the distress area and reported that it was unable to sight any sign of the Malibu Inez, the Coast Guard reported.

The navy destroyer Henry W. Tucker, which had been proceeding under forced draft toward the area, was ordered to return to port, the Coast Guard said.

Manitoba's Fire Fighters Need Rain

Winnipeg, Oct. 8.—(CP)—Heavy Manitoba fire-fighters today hoped for more rain to extinguish smouldering bush land fires throughout the province.

However, the prospect is not bright as weather forecasters indicated no rain can be expected today at least. They predicted a wet shift to day without rain for many men said "We want no east or west winds."

Not so the winds have been north or south and a change would provide unburned territories for the flames to work on.

The only welcome news from forecasters was prospects of lower temperatures.

S. W. Scherzinger, Manitoba Director of forestry protection, expressed hope that seasonal weather would prevail in the province after recent rains.

If this occurs, he said, no further trouble would be experienced from the fires.

Senior Forest Ranger G. H. Patterson at Lac du Bonnet reported that Thursday was that region's 42nd day without rain, and fires still burned furiously five or six miles from town.

West of Lake St. George and east of Pine Falls, fires continue to plague residents. Only four miles separate the closest blaze from Pine Falls.

While no lives have been lost in the blazes, now raging for two weeks, fishermen at Hecla Island have lost a good portion of their catch. A careless hunter started the blaze now concentrated on a two-mile front of the new highway, they claimed.

Other fires threatened valuable timber stands throughout many districts.

Violence Marks French Strike

Nancy, France, Oct. 8.—(AP)—French troops forced their way into the Micheville steel mills here today and drove out strikers who had been occupying the buildings. About 10 strikers were reported injured.

It was the first major incident of violence since a new wave of French strikes began Monday with a walkout of 335,000 coal miners.

Agence France Presse said the evicting force consisted of three companies of mobile guards—about 300 men—and 200 regular-army soldiers.

A Communist strike wave, meanwhile, hit at French collieries, railroads and dock areas as the coal walkout entered its fifth day.

Communist leaders made no bones about the political basis of their coal strike which so far has cost European recovery at least 750,000 tons of coal.

Although the ostensible strike aims were higher wages and lower food costs, the Communist union leader, Auguste Lecoquer said the walkout also was a protest against what he alleged was France's intention to provide food soldiers for the western powers in any war with Russia.

French ports were due to be paralyzed today by a 24-hour merchant marine strike. Only the Communists are striking, but that will halt harbor activity. The railroads have been hit by scattered local strikes.

"It's Really Fresh!"

NO WONDER A&P Coffee Tastes Better!

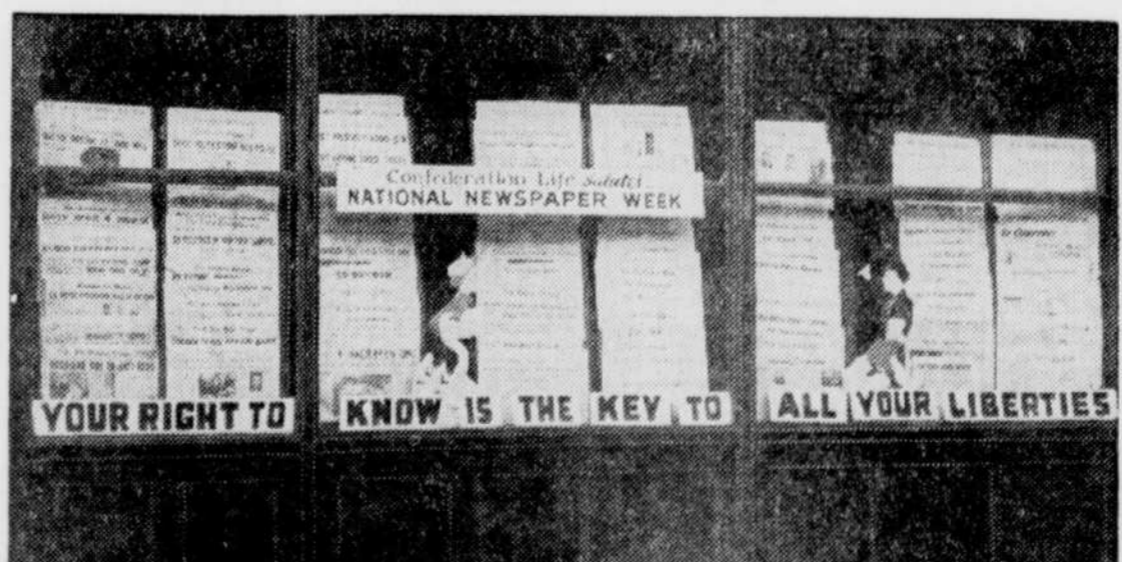

Your coffee may be just-made and piping hot off the stove. That doesn't make it really fresh. The fact that you just bought it in the store doesn't guarantee freshness, either.

Here's what plenty of folks do mean by fresh coffee: It's A&P COFFEE, rushed from roasting ovens to A&P Stores with all its glorious flavor still sealed in the bean. Unlike many coffees, A&P COFFEE is never pre-ground. When you buy, right before your eyes, the fresh, fragrant coffee beans are Custom Ground exactly fine or coarse enough for the way you make coffee.

You couldn't ask for anything fresher—or anything better! So ask for A&P COFFEE today!

Salute To National Newspaper Week

Among the many observances of National Newspaper Week across Canada was a window display in the Toronto head office of Confederation Life. One window included a representation of newspaper more than 1,000 daily, weekly and week-end newspapers, and featured the slogan "Your Right to Know Is the Key to All Your Liberties." Another window illustrated the nation-wide service of The Canadian Press, and showed newspaper items of historical interest. A copy of The Sherbrooke Record may be seen on the fourth newsstand from the left of the picture.

WATERVILLE
 The regular meeting of the Ladies' Aid of the United Church was held at the home of Mrs. R. L. Gale. The president, Mrs. R. Smith, was in the chair and the meeting was opened with the devotionals led by Miss Woodside. During the business session final arrangements were made for the rummage sale. This sale is held annually in the Church Hall and Mrs. F. Bell, has been in charge for a number of years. The meeting adjourned and the hostesses Mrs. F. Bell and Mrs. D. Campbell served tea.
 Mr. Dale White, of Sherbrooke, was an overnight guest at the home of his sister, Mrs. F. Smith and family.
 Miss Maizie Harvey, of Portsmouth, N.H., who is spending her vacation in this district spent the week-end visiting her cousin, Mrs. Frank Deacon and family.
 Mrs. George Gerioux, of Lennoxville, and Mrs. Hazel Doonan, of Capleton, were afternoon guests of Mrs. J. C. Campbell.
 Mrs. W. McIntyre and son, Howard, Mrs. S. Bain and Mrs. S. Longmoore were guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. Marshall in Ives Hill and Mrs. Gerald Daine and children were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Rogerson, in Knowlton.

WHY ARE MANY WOMEN NERVOUS ... without reason?
 When women are disturbed by noises at night... become so fidgety they perspire when talking to strangers... or cry too easily—these symptoms often herald a time when they need special building-up. But actually there's little to dread or fear! For plenty of sleep, fresh air, wholesome food and Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will help to build up vitality and tone up the system—so you can keep serene through the most trying periods of life. Yes, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has helped thousands of women to face the future with confidence.
 So if you're feeling nervous, fidgety or run-down—if you don't rest well at night, and often feel moody or irritable—take Dr. Chase's Nerve Food for a while. Keep yourself in good condition—try this time-proven tonic which has helped so many. The name "Dr. Chase" is your assurance. 9

This view, taken in the Oshawa Waterworks, shows two Cameron pumps with oil engine drive and control equipment. These units were installed under the direction of G. F. Shreve, General Manager, and E. A. Colvin, Chief Engineer, of the Oshawa Public Utilities Commission, and their Consulting Engineers, Gore and Storie, of Toronto. Other members of the Public Utilities Commission are Mayor F. McCallum, Mr. S. J. Babe, Chairman, Mr. Wm. Boddy and Mr. R. G. Mills.

Cameron Pumps with oil-engine drive for Auxiliary and Standby Service

BUILT at our Sherbrooke, Quebec works, these two Canadian Ingersoll-Rand Cameron No. 5-GT Two-Stage Pumps are rated at 1,800,000 gallons per day each. Each pump is driven by a heavy duty full Diesel Type Oil Engine developing 170 hp at 1700 rpm. Each unit is equipped with electric starting system and shutdown devices for protection against high circulating water temperature or low lubricating oil pressure and overspeeding.

In the selection of this pumping equipment, careful consideration was given not only to the use of the units for standby service, but also as auxiliaries to previously installed electrically driven pumps for peak load and emergency work. On many occasions, it has been necessary to operate the pumps as auxiliaries over long periods because of electrical power shortage or to meet the increased water demand resulting from expanding industrial and civic requirements.

Cameron Engine Driven Pumps are available in single and multi-stage types with capacities suitable for the requirements of municipalities, mines, mills and industrial plants.

The Loves of Carmen

By SOPHIE KERR

Serialization of screenplay from a novel by Prosper Merimee Copyright, 1948, NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Don Jose young officer in a fashionable Spanish regiment, has just come to Seville from the countryside of Navarre. On his first day in the city, a gorgeous gypsy flirts with him, then disappears. Some days later he is on duty in the square with his friend, Andres, when he sees her again. Andres greets her warmly as Carmen, but her glances are all for Jose. Shortly afterwards, Carmen gets into a street brawl with another woman and knives her. Jose is ordered to take her prisoner but lets her escape. As a result, Jose gets extra guard duty and is confined to barracks for 30 days. On the last night of his extra duty, he is amazed to see Carmen attend a party at the colonel's house. She turns his questions aside, hints he meet her at Lillas Pastin's. But at the tavern, Jose discovers a drunk and grieving Andres also waiting for Carmen. Disgusted he suggests they both leave. An old gypsy woman tells Carmen the cards predict love and death.

CHAPTER XI.

Guitars were playing in the square against the rhythmical rise and fall of the cante jondo singing. Bonfires had been lighted all across the square, but the singers stood in a circle behind the main fire clapping their hands in the steady, insistent flamenco rhythm as they sang. A peg-legged gypsy man was doing a comic but skillful dance to the clapping, singing and shouting encouragement at his audience which added its own barbaric rhythm to the steady swelling of guitars. As the peg-legged one leaped and turned, his shadow was thrown into the faces of the singers, distorting the dance grotesquely. Presently, he was joined by a fat gypsy woman shrilling at the top of her lungs a whining and wailing flamenco chant as she advanced crab-fashion in tiny side steps which exactly matched the rhythm of the clapping.

The woman had an infant slung in a sort of scraf-hammock from her shoulder. Its dark little face peered out with bright beads of eyes. The fat woman ignored the child completely as she flung her body about in a lumbering yet graceful dance, as she turned around and around, first toward the fire, then away from it. The purple and scarlet clothes she wore glowed and shone against the flames.

Carmen sauntered out toward the square leisurely, her skirts swinging like the tail of a prowling cat. She pretended to be in complete control of herself as she ambled like a tourist toward the music, but her measured steps told that she had already been caught by the pervasive beat.

Carmen crouched with the others around the fire. She clapped her hands in rhythm with the other gypsies but her eyes kept watching the crowd, watching and waiting.

The fat gypsy woman danced on but the peg-legged man was pulled down and two young gypsies took his place. The dance whirled faster and faster until the fat, infant-laden woman could no longer keep up. As she waddled from the fire-circle, the male dancers started another rhythm, provocative and alluring, their laughing faces turned to Carmen. They beckoned her to join them.

Carmen shook her head as though to say their dancing was not good

This is the second largest stock and feeder cattle sale held annually in Canada, being outranked only by one in British Columbia. Co-operative farmers on the island in Lake Huron pocketed roughly $382,000 as a result of the one-day sale, setting a record for the sale. This is the fifth year the sale has been held. Pens were almost depleted and most of the railway cars had pulled out for points in Canada and U.S. when this picture was taken. (CP Photo) enough to lure her out from the crowd, her eyes darting meanwhile from face to face around the fire-circle. Suddenly she seemed to have found that which she sought and across her face went a slow, triumphant smile.

Slowly, Carmen rose. She stood up straight as an arrow. Don Jose was at the edge of the fire-circle, staring at her. He watched her make her way in rhythm towards the men dancers, never once looking in his direction. As she moved out, a great shout went up from the watching gypsies.

The dance went on, three figures whirling together now, until one of the youths fell away and Carmen and the remaining man were left to dance alone. He was a slim, shapely young gypsy and the dance became a wild, joyous sort of primitive ritual of advance and retreat, advance and retreat.

Don Jose's eyes were fixed on Carmen hungrily. Carmen, with the excitement of the dance, wove her steps in his direction, and he started to come in closer to the fire. The gypsies on his right and left, held by the meaning in Carmen's eyes, turned and watched him move, as demanding as a god at an ancient and terrifying rite. Carmen's partner rattled his heels in an impatient, sharp rhythm to regain her attention. Carmen whirled toward him again with more abandon than before. Don Jose stood motionless as Carmen and her partner danced directly before him. The watching gypsies, aware that here was drama, divided their attention, some watching him, some watching the dancers, but their hands never ceased the insistent flamenco beat while their voices chanted the hoarse gypsy song which challenged both men to win and conquer this woman.

At once the dance had taken the form of a triangle. Don Jose did not move while the gypsy dancer pitched his dance to high excitement, using every suggestive skill to keep Carmen for his own. Gradually, however, as though pushed away by the weight of sound, he lost this strange battle of attraction. Carmen drew farther and farther away from him, closer and closer to Don Jose. Finally she left the gypsy entirely and danced for Don Jose alone. Her movements became slower, more subtle, and with infinitely more meaning. But as she danced closer to him he involuntarily moved away. She laughed up into his face softly. "Where are you going, little soldier?" She took his hand, laughing at his shyness. "Because wherever it is, I'm going with you." And abruptly she broke through the circle of laughing cheering gypsies, pulling him after her.

To Be Continued.

A TALK ON "LUMBERING" AT ROTARY CLUB

Derby Line, Oct. 8.—The old-time lumberjack was one of the real pioneers of the United States and Canada," said Lawrence Tilton, in the course of a very interesting and humorous talk on "Lumbering" at the regular Monday evening meeting of the Rotary Club of the Boundary, held at the Del Monty Hotel.

"Those men had to be tough in order to live, and there was always plenty of chances of death meeting them in the woods or around the next bend of the river during a log drive. A man would certainly need to be mighty strong to put up with the living conditions that used to prevail in the old logging camps. Just as many men as possible were crowded into a bunk-house, and the meals were cooked in the middle of the floor. The meals consisted mainly of beans and salt pork, and on a diet of this kind these men worked twelve or more hours a day for at least five months each year."

"They tell the story of one camp that was troubled with rats. The cookie finally worked out a scheme to get rid of them. He arranged a barrel leading to the inevitable barrel of molasses, fixed so that the rats would be dumped into the barrel. Each morning he extracted the catch from the night before, and of course continued to use the molasses."

"When a man died or was drowned during a log drive, his shoes were hung from a tree limb to notify the others following that this was a danger spot. No effort was made to save the logger, but a great deal of effort was made to save the tools."

"The first sawmill was made in England in 1631, and the old time mills used the slow up and down saw. The circular saw was invented in 1817, and the loggers moved to up the work. It really wasn't until the band saw was being used that records were made in sawing lumber. In one year, Bangor, Me., then the largest town devoted to lumber, sawed over 450,000,000 feet of lumber!"

"As the East was gradually cleared of lumber, the loggers moved to the West, and many a fortune was made in lumber by men who could barely read and write."

"These men were not only pioneers of an industry, they were also pioneers for their country. They were rough and tough, but they had to be to live. Only the roughest and the toughest survived."

Mr. Tilton gave several illustrations of his story from the book, "Holy Old Mackinaw," written by Stuart Holbrook, and the talk was received with complete attention by the members of the club. The speaker was introduced by R. A. Hammill and thanked for his talk by Fred Gilman.

Visiting Rotarians were Robert Davis, of Newport, Vt., and L. Potter, of Northfield, Vt. Carl Robbins, of Derby Line, was present as a guest of C. R. MacLean.

The meeting next Monday evening will be held at the Del Monty Hotel, and will feature the annual visit by the District Governor, Harold Davison, of Woodsville, N. H. In spite of Monday being the Canadian Thanksgiving Day, it is hoped that all members who can will be present.

Intelligence in Love

Choose Life Mate For Lasting Qualities Of Mind, To Achieve Happiness

A correspondent asks: "Why is it in their courtship days young people never ask each other: 'Do you love me intelligently, with your mind and with your common sense?'"

DOROTHY DIX

To begin with, the man and woman who love intelligently have used some discretion in what they set their affections upon. They are not enamoured of a beautiful face or an athletic figure that have nothing behind them.

On the contrary, those who love intelligently use their brains as well as their hearts. They know why they love and what qualities in a man or woman appeal to them.

The man and woman who love intelligently know this. They know that there are many varieties of affection and that one does not interfere with the other.

Those who love intelligently do not make the mistake of thinking that love is some mysteriously indestructible thing that nothing they do will hurt, and that once a man or woman care for you they are bound to go on adoring you to the end of the chapter because they can't help themselves.

Those who love wisely know that if you keep love alive you have to cherish it. They know that if you neglect it, it will inevitably die.

The Record will be pleased to receive any letters to this Dorothy Dix column. These will be forwarded to Miss Dix who will answer them as quickly as possible.

MARRIAGES

TELFOUR-COCHRANE Magog, Oct. 8.—The wedding of Elizabeth Ruth Cochrane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Cochrane, of Magog, to Gordon Frank Telford, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Telford, of Montreal, took place at St. Paul's United Church in Magog, on Saturday, September 25. The service was conducted by the Rev. C. Tyson, of Ayer's Cliff.

The bride wore a suit of teal blue, a navy blue hat with matching accessories, and carried a bouquet of pink chrysanthemums.

Miss Sheila Cochrane was her sister's bridesmaid, and was attired in a coral suit with a black hat and carried a nosegay of white chrysanthemums.

The bride's mother was gowned in genie blue with black accessories.

Mrs. Telford, mother of the groom, wore a wine suit with black accessories.

The reception for the seventy-five guests was held at the Chateau du Lac where a buffet lunch was served.

Among the out-of-town guests, were: Mr. and Mrs. David Telford, Mr. and Mrs. John Telford, Mr. and Mrs. G. Perkins, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rye, Mr. and Mrs. William Frizzell and daughter, Margaret, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Holt, Mr. Eddie Hughes, Mrs. L. M. Des Rochers, Miss Catherine Des Rochers, Miss Elaine Vernal, Mr. Melvin Hopkins, Mr. Rene Martel, Mr. and Mrs. George R. Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Armstrong, Mr. J. Following the reception the happy couple left by car for an extended trip, taking up residence in Montreal.

HURLBUT-SEYMOUR Magog, Oct. 8.—The United Church in Magog was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Saturday, September 18, at two o'clock, when Lillian May Seymour, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Seymour, became the bride of Mr. John William Hurlbut, also of Magog, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton B. Hurlbut, of Austin, Que.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was gowned in a floor-length white jersey dress with full skirt, fitted bodice trimmed with embroidery and pearls, and finished with a net yoke, long sleeves with narrow band at the wrists. Her shoulder-length net veil was held in place with a halo crown. She carried an arm bouquet of deep red roses, and wore a gold locket.

The bridesmaid, Miss Marguerite Cochrane, wore a floor-length dress of pale green taffeta with net over the full skirt, and a short veil with crown. She carried yellow roses.

Mr. Gordon Hurlbut, of Magog, was best man for his brother. The ceremony was performed by Rev. T. W. Tyson, of Ayer's Cliff. Mrs. David Cross played the wedding music. The ushers were Mr. Rexford Dezan, uncle of the bride, and Mr. Harold Empey.

The bride's mother was attired in Blue Ridge crepe with navy accessories and a corsage of red roses. The bridegroom's mother was gowned in navy crepe with grey accessories, and a corsage of yellow roses.

A reception was held at the home of the bride, on the Montreal road, where the happy couple received the congratulations and best wishes of about fifty relatives and friends. The bride's table was centred with a four-tier wedding cake.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hurlbut left by motor for a honeymoon trip to Maxwell, Ont. The bride travelled in a grey suit with small black felt hat and black accessories.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Hurlbut, of Austin; Mr. and Mrs. F. Ewens, Elaine, Kenneth and Clinton Ewens, of Knowlton's Landing; Mrs. Earl Paige and daughter, Margaret, of Bolton Centre; Mr. E. A. Hughes, Mrs. R. DesRochers and Miss B. McLeitch, all of Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Lee, Michael and Dianne Lee, of Orford Lake; Miss L. Seymour, of Sherbrooke; Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Vien, of Katesville; Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Burnham and daughter, Carolyn, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Beaudoin, Colette and Bernard Beaudoin, Mrs. W. A. Fyles, Mrs. H. Nichol, Miss Gilda Roach, the Misses Sybil, Sheila, Marguerite and Linda Cochrane and Terry Cochrane, Master M. DesRochers, Mr. Harold Hurlbut, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Hurlbut, Mr. E. MODERN MARRIAGE

CRITICISM WON'T HELP THE ALCOHOLIC

By Dr. Paul Popenoe Mr. G. is an alcoholic. Of course it's hard on his family.

"What can I say to make him stop?" his wife asks. "I keep pointing out to him that he is ruining all of us. I keep showing him the disastrous results. He weeps and says he is ashamed of himself; then he goes out and gets drunk again."

You have found the best way to make him continue drinking. Mrs. G. It would be hard to adopt any course that would be more certain to keep him alcoholic.

Hundreds of thousands of families are handicapped, sometimes ruined, by an alcoholic member. There are many reasons why a man or woman may become a chronic drinker, and it is not possible to tell Mrs. G. or anybody else, what she can say to make him stop. But it is fairly easy to tell her what she can say to him to make him continue drinking. All she needs to do is to keep on upbraiding him, telling him how unworthy his conduct is, and reminding him that he is ruining the family.

If a man tells his wife such things, she is not telling him anything new. He already knows that—knows it all too well! It's the only thing he does know, one might say. He doesn't know why he is ruining the family, or how to stop ruining the family. All he knows is that he is ruining the family. The feelings of guilt and remorse over this are unbearable, so he drinks in order to forget them!

This is making the picture too simple, of course, but in principle it is true of a large proportion of chronic drinkers. They are trying to escape feelings of inferiority, inadequacy, guilt, and failure. When relatives keep increasing such feelings, by their denunciations and pleadings, they are taking the most effective way to ensure that the victim will drink more and more.

I'm sorry I can't offer any quick and easy alternative, Mrs. G. There is none. Alcoholics Anonymous help many. They seem to do best with a drinker who is rather sociable by nature, and who can accept the religious appeal that they make. They are less successful with many other types. Look up their address in the phone book and give them a trial; or find a psychologist who is an expert in this field, if you can. Your clergyman or doctor might know of such an expert.

Questions and Answers Q—Is it true that if a woman has no pain at childbirth, she won't love the child? A—Some psychoanalysts have put forth that speculation. Look around among your own friends and see whether it worked out that way.

Q—Does every woman have to go through a depression of near-breakdown with the menopause? A—Certainly not. Most women go through it with remarkably little disturbance. Psychoanalysts K. Stern and M. Prader studied 50 women who were having an especially hard time emotionally and found that in every case the depression was merely an accentuation of a maladjustment that had existed previously. There was no relation between the intensity of physical symptoms and the severity of emotional disturbance.

Q—I'm not good-looking enough to appeal to women. A—They're not influenced by masculine "good looks" as much as by a lot of other things. Dr. Eustache Chesner advises young men that "every effort to strengthen one's powers, every step toward all-around development—physical, mental, cultural—is a strengthening of sex appeal. Try building up your S. A. along those lines!"

WOMEN'S CLUBS

KING GEORGE V CHAPTER I. O. D. E. The regular meeting of the King George V Chapter, I. O. D. E., was held at I. O. D. E. House, Monday, October 4. Miss May Mitchell, regent, presiding.

The minutes, read by the secretary, Mrs. William Eaves, were approved. Mrs. George Hall, treasurer, gave the financial report, including the receipts from the September tea, which were most gratifying. Educational secretary, Miss Ina Cobeleigh, read a letter from Mrs. K. Morrow, in which she expressed gratitude for prizes sent to the Island Brook School and for the gift of a library to be sponsored by the chapter.

For the Empire study period, Miss Cobeleigh reviewed the Hon. Vincent Massey's latest book, "On Being Canadian."

Mrs. R. Havard announced the plans being made for the forthcoming marathon bridge, the results of which will be used to finance the sending of parcels to England. She asked those present, who were interested, to kindly contact her for further information.

Miss Mitchell thanked all the members for their work and co-operation in connection with the September tea which had proved a huge success.

The meeting was adjourned with the singing of God Save the King, when tea was served by the hostesses, Mrs. George Hall and Miss E. Horton, assisted by Mrs. Duncan Robertson.

Burt Shotton Settles For Little World Series As Brooklyn Waits Until Next Year For Comeback

New York, Oct. 8.—(NEA)—Next year is what they used to wait for in Brooklyn, but Burt Shotton hopes to get a head start.

Shotton meets 1949 half-way by watching the Little World Series.

It is an ideal scouting theater for the manager of the Dodgers because his top prospects, the Montreal and St. Paul nuggets, are on display.

A number of these young men will be battling for jobs with the Brooks in the spring. Shotton reasons that by looking at them now he is doing himself a favor.

"This way I'm seeing them at their peak, playing under pressure," he explains. "Several games under those conditions might give me a better line than I'd be able to get in a month at a training camp."

Next year was all that was left to talk about after the Dodgers wrapped themselves permanently into third place, and as he said his good-byes Shotton dripped optimism.

"We'll be a better club in '49, that's for sure," he said. Then he got down to cases, talking about Rex Barney and Ralph Branca and Duke Snider and the catchers, Bruce Edwards and Roy Campanella.

First Shotton said that the most encouraging item in his '48 experience with the Dodgers was Barney's progress.

"He should be a great pitcher, a 20 or 30-game winner," he said. "The only thing we have to do with Rex now is touch up his fielding. That shouldn't be hard because all he has to do is correct his carelessness. He's agile enough to make the plays, but too often he just stands still when he should be getting to a ball or a base."

"Branca I'm sure will be himself again next year, and we have so many kid pitchers in our system, real good ones, that we're almost sure to find one or two who'll help us. Our catching will be the best in the league. How can you beat Edwards and Campanella?"

"Snider might be the great kid, the one you build your attack around. He can run as fast as anyone we've got, and throw as accurately. And he might hit."

"What about Pete Reiser?"

"That will have to work itself out," Shotton said. "If his health is all right he can still be a good ballplayer. If it isn't—well, we'll have to wait and see."

Jackie Robinson won't have to be urged to take care of himself.

"You can bet I won't report the way I did last spring," Robinson said.

"I'll be in shape. I was looking at some spring training pictures of myself, one after another, and I could hardly believe that was me. I don't see how I ever got

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
En route to Cleveland, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Remember back in midsummer when Bob Feller wasn't going too well and Bob Lemon and Gene Bearden had to keep Cleveland Indians in the pennant race? . . . Lemon had rather tough going after he won his 20th game of the season, but he never lost his reputation for being a good man in a clutch. . . looks as if the World Series was going to follow the regular-season pattern. Feller couldn't win the opener—though you could hardly blame him for that loss. . . Lemon didn't look especially strong in the early inning—in fact Manager Lou Boudreau had relievers warming up in the very first inning. . . but when things looked bad, Lemon usually managed to make someone top the ball toward the mound and then he'd throw the guy out himself. . . no doubt Bob is Boudreau's Lemon in the garden of love today.

Hear, Hear.

A cold wind and the $4 price of standing room apparently discouraged the customers at the second series game, for attendance dropped a bit. . . or maybe some folks took a tip from the discouraged standees at the opener who had quit trying to see over folks in front of him and was listening to the game on a portable radio by a concession stand. . . "It's almost as good as being at home," the guy said.

Strangers Here Themselves.

Bill Salkeld, who caught both games for the Braves, remarked before the opener: "All my life I've hoped to see a World Series and now, to my utter amazement, I'm going to play in one. . . . And just a year ago Tommy Holmes turned up for the third Yankee-Dodger game explaining it was the first World Series game he ever had seen. . . this year Tommy drove in the only run in the opener and yesterday he contributed the fielding gem—a running one-hand catch of Jim Hegan's drive and a neat throw to first to double Eddie Robinson, who was on his way to third when Holmes grabbed the ball.

to bend down for a ground ball, heavy as I was."

Most of the Dodgers went home. Robinson is staying in New York this winter to do a radio sports program. Barney may work in Brooklyn. Branca joined Dick Sisler's barnstorming troupe in the midwest. After that he'll catch up on his rest. Hank Behrman doesn't know what he'll do except that he's not going to get married. Hank denies those rumors.

Atlantic City—Bobby Rosado, 134, New York, outpointed Herbie (Biff) Jones, 134, Washington (8).

NOTES ON WORLD SERIES

Boston, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Cleveland pitcher Satchmo Paige claims he isn't afraid of any opposing batters but he admits his own catchers occasionally cause him trouble.

"Down where Ah come from," Satchmo says, "when my catcher signalled with one finger Ah threw a fast ball and when he put two fingers down Ah threw a curve ball. But these fancy major league signals have me a little confused. Ah don't understand all that fancy wig-wag stuff."

"But, man, that Jim Hegan; he's one good catcher Ah like to have working with me."

"Ah cross him up all the time. Ah don't throw what he calls for all the time—but he catches that ball jus' the same."

The players' wives in the grandstand and boxes at yesterday's series game were easy for celebrity-hunters to spot.

Each of them wore a large orchid sent them by the Braves management.

The Braves' Tommy Holmes can hardly wait for Bob Feller to get on the pitcher's mound against him again—now that he knows the formula for hitting him.

Says Holmes: "When I'm facing Feller, I just stand at the plate and think . . . 'You'll beat Feller . . . you'll beat feller . . . and it will be nice when you do, 'Tommy boy' . . . and then I swing."

Holmes hit the single in the first game that cost Feller the game.

The formula apparently doesn't work with all Cleveland pitchers because, against Bob Lemon yesterday, Holmes went hitless.

One more about Paige:

He was one of the battery of men in the Cleveland bullpen yesterday and apparently wasn't unprepared for the time he'd spend there in the far reaches of the outfield.

At the end of the game, walking toward the dressing room he was seen carrying—a magazine.

Detroit Set For 48-49 Season With Fair Team, Says Coach Ivan

Detroit, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Probably the best way to gauge the changes of any hockey team is to find out what the coach—invariably an eternal pessimist—thinks about it.

So when Coach Tommy Ivan of the Detroit Red Wings says he's "satisfied" with the way his team looks in pre-season practice, there's good reason to believe he has something to make the National Hockey League sit up.

The Red Wings story for the 1948-49 season can be boiled down to a few salient points at this stage.

One is that, by Ivan's admission, they look better than they did at the same time last season. Another fact is that they're still a young club, although virtually the same as last year. Only two players, defenceman Jack Stewart from Pilot Mound, Man., and centre Syd Abot of Melville, Sask., have reached the 30-mark.

With youth in their favor, the last season can be tallied as experience rather than a year added to age.

Put it all together, stack it up against the fact that the rest of the teams in the League are improved as well, and you have fair reason to believe the Red Wings will be in the thick of the front-runners just as they were last season when Toronto Maple Leafs nosed them out of first place in the waning days of the regular season.

Jack Stewart, tagged "Black Jack" for his body-checking prowess, Toronto-born Bill Quackenbush and Doug McCaig, another Bramford product, round out the formidable protective wall for goalie Harry Lumley.

LIVESTOCK TRADING WAS ACTIVE

Montreal, Oct. 8.—Early trading on all classes was fairly active on the two Montreal livestock markets today. Good quality cattle were estimated from 50 cents to $1 higher while common kinds were stronger. Calves were in good demand and prices were $1 to $2 higher. Lambs made a gain of $2.

This week's receipts totalled 1,589 cattle, 2,400 sheep and lambs, 8,577 hogs and 1,591 calves. In addition, 274 cattle were received on direct consignment to local plants and 22 cattle, two calves were handled on through billing to Canadian points. Good quality steers 22-4 with medium kinds 16-20 and commoner thin light steers 11 or more Heifers of common to medium quality 10-18 with few at 20. Good cows 15.50-17.50 with odd sale at 18; medium kinds 13-15 and common butchers 11-12.50. Canners and cutters mostly 10-11. Good bulls 16-18 with odd sale at 19, common kinds 12-15. Good quality veals 20-27 with odd sale at 28; common to medium quality 20-25. Drinkers 16-19 and grassers 11-15 with bulk of sale 14-15. Good ewes and wethers 22, buck lambs were discounted $2 and culls 14 or better. Sheep 3-8. Large percentage of lambs sold no fat basis at 19-21. Most common price for grade A hogs 32.50 and cows 28-28.50 with few light ones at 29 dressed.

FALL BORN PIGS NEED EXTRA CARE

Fall born pigs raised indoors with no access to the sun are likely to suffer from rickets, even though they are well supplied with a good mineral supplement containing calcium and phosphorus. The reason is that the proper utilization of these two minerals depends upon an adequate supply of vitamin D, and vitamin D is produced by the action on the skin of the ultra-violet rays from the sun. Pigs which have to be confined indoors during winter are deprived of the beneficial effects of the sun, and the sunlight which passes through ordinary window glass has largely lost its vitamin liver oil serves as a substitute for sunshine as it is an excellent source of vitamin D, says W. J. Cuthbert, Dominion Experimental Station, Prince George, B. C. If a tablespoonful per pig daily of a standard feeding oil containing 200 units of vitamin D is recommended as a prevention against rickets, the disease may be recognized by stiffness of the legs, lameness, bowed thighs and unthriftiness and if these symptoms develop cod liver oil should be included in the ration without delay. It is a good plan to feed cod liver oil to all fall born pigs as a general preventative until the pigs weigh about 100 pounds. Cod liver oil of feeding grade may be obtained in bulk and is cheaper than the refined product sold for human use.

COUNTRY AND DAIRY PRODUCTS PRICES

Montreal, Oct. 8.—Eggs on all markets continued fairly steady with the receipts steady and the demand good on large and pullet grades and slower on medium's. A-lar and medium grades on the Government spot quotes rose 1c in range while pullets declined 2c in range according to a retail price report. The potato market showed a weaker strain as all grades except N.B.'s in 10 lb. bags showed a decline in price. Quebec No. 1's declined 5 and 10c with No. 2's off 25 and 30c and N.B.'s lower by 5c in range. All other prices remained.

U.K. DAIRY PRODUCTS
In 1947, Commonwealth countries supplied a large part of the dairy products imported by the United Kingdom. Eighty per cent of the imported butter, nearly two-thirds of the cheese, over one-third of the preserved milk, one-quarter of the casein, three-quarters of the eggs, and 37 per cent of the egg products were of Commonwealth origin.

HARVESTING EAR CORN DESCRIBED

Ear corn may be harvested by hand or by a mechanical picker. In areas where corn is grown extensively for husking, a considerable percentage of the acreage is still harvested by hand. The corn may be cut and husked from stalks or husking may be done directly from the standing crop. There are some advantages in harvesting by hand if the acreage is not too large to handle in this way. The corn can be left standing until the ears are well matured and dry, and in suitable condition for satisfactory cribbing. One man should be able to husk at least half an acre a day without much difficulty.

A mechanical corn picker is a time and labor saving device and may be either a one-row or two-row type. A one-row picker working satisfactorily should harvest about 5 acres of corn on the average a day. To do a good job of husking it is necessary that the corn be well-matured, so that the ears will snap clean leaving the husks attached to the shank on the plant. There is little for the husking rolls to do, if the corn snaps clean as it should. If the corn is immature then the ear shanks tend to break, leaving the inner husks tightly bound around many of the ears. The husking rolls frequently fail to remove these husks and they become a serious problem in the cribbing of the corn unless they are removed by hand, which is a laborious job. Therefore, the time of harvesting is important in relation to the maturity of the crop, if a satisfactory husking job is to be done with a mechanical picker. This, of course, emphasizes once again the importance of growing well adapted hybrids.

Further information on the harvesting of ear corn may be had by writing to the Division of Forage Plants, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, Ont.

CLEVELAND OPENS ARMS TO FIRST WORLD SERIES SINCE 1920

Boudreau Paces Club To 4-1 Victory Over Braves To Even Series; Bearden To Oppose Bickford In Today's Tilt

By JACK HAND
Cleveland, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Cleveland opens its arms today to its first World Series since 1920 with a record turnout of 80,000 plus due to welcome home the Indians who won the pennant on the road and return all square with Boston Braves after splitting two games at Braves field.

It appeared, however, that the welcoming party might have to wait.

The teams were late leaving Boston last night. The officials, including Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler and the writers covering the series, were even later.

Original schedules, called for early-morning arrivals here, but with the delayed start it appeared the travellers would have to hustle to be on hand at the scheduled game time—1 p.m. EST.

To make the situation more doubtful, scattered showers were forecast today. It rained here last night and turned cold. Ironically the Indians weren't rained out of a single season game at their home field.

Gene Bearden, happy-go-lucky southpaw who tamed Boston Red Sox in the pennant playoff, is ready to face Vern Bickford, another veteran, in a battle of rookie pitchers.

American Leaguers rushed to the support of the Indians after they clubbed Warren Spahn for a 4-1 victory behind Bob Lemon in yesterday's loosely-played second game at Boston. As a result of the Cleveland triumph, the Indians now are heavy favorites—5 to 14 to win the series and 9 to 20 to cop the third game.

Despite the gloomy forecast, all series attendance records for a single game are certain to be erased, barring a postponement. It may well turn out to be the largest crowd ever to see a ball game anywhere.

Alouettes Postpone Tilt With Ottawa

Montreal, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Montreal Alouettes announced yesterday the postponement of their scheduled Sunday Big Four football game with Ottawa Rough Riders and said it would be played here Sunday, Oct. 24.

Coach Lew Hayman said this step was taken because of uncertainty surrounding the availability of Delormier Park, home grounds of Alouettes which may be in use Sunday for Baseball's Little World Series play between Montreal Royals and St. Paul.

The bag with Southworth cupping his hands to yell warnings from the third-base coaching box. Tipped him as Boudreau made contact with the bat by inserting his foot between the runner and the bag. It happened to be an American League ump, Bill Greive, who made the call.

This man Boudreau did it again in the fifth. After Dale Mitchell singled and was bunted to second, Lou Sizemore singled through Spahn's legs, scoring Mitchell. That was all for Spahn, who was replaced by Barrett.

The Braves kept nipping Lemon, getting at least one hit every inning except the fifth and seventh. However, they never made more than two in the same frame after the first.

When a walk to Salkeld and a single by Mike McCormick got Lemon in potential trouble in the sixth, Boudreau came to his rescue by starting a fine dot bl' play on Ed Stanky's grounder. In the seventh an over the head cut, o. Tommy Holmes' pop and in the eighth he was the middle man of a second double play after Torgeson led off with a single.

So far, the series has not been particularly exciting, except for the few tense moments in the eighth inning of the 1-0 opener. Base hits have been few and far between with neither team showing any fence-tumping power.

Bardden concluded an excellent freshman year by notching his 20th victory in the playoff with the Red Sox. It was his seventh straight success. Bickford, also finishing his first year in the major, has an 11-5 record.

These wholesale shifts by Southworth were freely criticized by many during the season. But it's a basic move, one that right-handed power gained the southpaw. It certainly paid off for Billy en route to the Braves' first flag since 1914.

Manager Lou Boudreau of the Indians also shifts his club around plenty, but not as much as Southworth. Of late he has been making only one change with the pitching.

Yesterday against Spahn he had Allie Clark in right field instead of Wally Judnich. In the late innings, after Spahn had given way to right-handers Red Barrett and Nels Potter, he called on Bob Kennedy, a right-hand swinger, who delivered a run-scoring single in the ninth.

Judnich goes back to right against Bickford, but Boss Lou plans no other shifts except his pitcher.

Boudreau was sensational in the second game with his infield play and hitting to back up the steady chucker of Lemon, the converted infielder who developed into a 20-game winner this season.

The Cleveland skipper is solidifying his claim to the most-valuable-player trophy by his brilliant series play. Even before the fall Classic started, he personally boosted the Tribe into the rich money with a pair of playoff homers against Red Sox.

Hitting the ball where it was pitched yesterday, Boudreau sited a Spahn slant to the right-field corner for a double that started the Indians rolling to a two-run rally in the fourth. After that Spahn never was able to catch up with Lemon.

Boudreau's double was followed by singles by Joe Gordon and Larry Doby, who is hitting .375. Each single banged home a run to the dismay of a chilled crowd of 39,633.

Even in the first inning, when Boston scored its lone run on Gordon's error and successive singles by Torgeson and Bob Elliott, Boudreau was the man of the hour.

The Tribe's famous pick-off play, usually worked with Bobby Feller pitching and Boudreau at short, was pulled by Lemon and Boudreau. This was the play that caused the big ruckus in the opener when Umpire Bill Stewart of the National League ruled Phil Masi safe at second after Feller whirled and blazed the ball to Boudreau. A few seconds later, Masi scored the only run of the 1-0 opener.

There was no doubt about it this time. Torgeson cautiously led off

Adj. Cote And Tony Demers Sign Contracts With Sherbrooke Club; Joe Lay Leaves For St. John, N.B.

Adj Cote and Tony Demers, both members of the local club last season, came to terms last night with Coach Ivan Dugre and signed their cards and will perform under local colors for the coming year.

Joe Lay, who held down a centre position last year, had turned out with Dallas in their pre-season training, has been with Sherbrooke for a week and showed his old-time shifty stick-handling, agreed to the terms offered him and affixed his signature to a playing card.

Tony Demers, who possesses one of the hardest shots in hockey, has been undecided about playing, but when the locals opened their training camp Demers was one of the first men to report in and get down to serious training. He has been going great guns and Coach Dugre is looking forward to Demers and his shot, to pay off during the season as the fifth man on the power play. Last year he accounted for more than one goal on the power play.

Joe Lay, who had been working out with the locals, left camp for the East to play in the Maritime Big Four Hockey League. Lay had not been signed by Dugre and when he received a substantial increase over the locals' offer he accepted it and left camp last night, bound for Saint John, N.B.

Paul Duchesne, who replaced injured Leclerc in the nets for the workouts yesterday, turned in good performances and will be carried with the club until Leclerc is ready to take back his job. Blute, the newcomer who signed Tuesday, is a very good man according to Coach Dugre, and he is showing up very well in the practices and should be heard from quite often during the season. He possesses a very hard shot and netminders in the circuit will have their hands full picking off the rubber.

This evening the locals will travel over to Miramichi to tackle the Reds of Providence in an exhibition tilt, that had been postponed, and this will be their first hard test since they started training. Sunday they will play the Juniors of Victoriaville before leaving for St. Joseph d'Alma at the beginning of the week to meet the local team Tuesday and Wednesday.

Coach Dugre is well pleased with the work of Bill Heindl and Phil Metcalfe, who have been working out together as one unit, while Red Gouppile is rounding into good shape. Dugre is on the lookout for another defenceman in case anybody should get hurt when an important game is coming up.

Normie Dussault Tallies Two Goals And Draws Two Assists As Canucks Swamp St. Paul In Rugged Fixture

Winnipeg, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League last night defeated the St. Paul Saints, of the United States Hockey League, by the score of 7-2. Four thousand fans watched the game which was rugged and rough all the way through.

Normie Dussault and Joe Carveth shared scoring honors, both netting two goals. Dussault also got two assists while center ice star Billy Reid had a goal and three assists. Maurice (Rocket) Ritchie scored once, Ken Mosdell and Doug Harvey tallied also for the Canucks.

The Saints, a surprisingly good team, were led by Ian Macintosh and Bing Jukes. Macintosh scored both the Saints' goals and Jukes was credited with assists on both markers.

Play was slow in the first 20 minutes but Canadians took advantage of their few scoring chances and led two to nothing at the end of the period. Carveth got the first goal at 1:05 assisted by Reid and Dussault, and Kenny Mosdell, playing fine hockey, broke away from a St. Paul gangster to score on the unprepared Decourcy at 6 minutes and 55 seconds of the period. Bing Jukes was penalized for tripping and Maurice Richard and Bob Filion were banished for two minutes each for minor infractions.

Canadians scored three times in the second. Carveth, Richard and Harvey scored while Ian Macintosh scored from Jukes to make the count five to one at the end of the second 20 minutes. Elmer Lach and Lin Bend were put off for roughing in the second period which grew more vigorous as time went on.

Coach Dussault kept the ball rolling for the Canucks, scoring off the first face-off of the third session. The time of the goal was :27 seconds and Bill Reid was given an assist. Macintosh scored his second goal at 8:09 with the Canadians playing four men against five. Chamberlain, Harvey and a St. Paul player were in the box at the time. Chamberlain drew his stick on defence.

Trey may have got the idea back in the 1946-47 season when Schmidt, who pivoted the great Kraut line in between Bobby Bauer and Porky Dumart, shifted to defence in an emergency and made a creditable showing. He was out of the game for about half the season last year.

He leaves a big hole up front which may be filled by Jack Quilty.

If it weren't for Big Bill Durnan, little Gerry McNeil probably would be in the N.H.L. by now.

McNeil has been playing sensational hockey for Montreal Canadiens during the Habs Western tour. At times he has outshone Durnan, who is rated by Coach Dick Irvin as the finest netminder in the business.

But it appears the McNeil will spend his fourth straight year with Montreal Royals of the Quebec Senior League. He's almost sure to get the nod, however, when the 33-year-old Durnan hangs up his skates.

Don Raleigh, former Winnipeg speed merchant, potted four goals last night to lead New York Rangers to an easy 11-2 victory over Shawinigan Falls Cataracts of the Quebec Senior League. Eddie Kullman and Tony Leswick got two pieces while Bill Moe, Frank Eddolls and Edgar Laprade collected singles.

Cleveland Barons and Detroit Red Wings threw more fists than pucks at each other in an exhibition tilt last night. Detroit beat the American League club 7-1. Fred Thurier of Cleveland and Bep Guidolin started swinging in the final period and a few minutes later Doug McCaig of Wings and Bob Solinger started swinging. But there were no casualties.

Cal Gardner, ex-Ranger turned Toronto Maple Leaf, will be out of action for three or four weeks. He suffered a broken nose and cheek bone when he collided with Bill Barilko during an exhibition game.

Two other ex-Rangers were sent down to Pittsburgh Hornets yesterday. But both Rene Trudel and Bill Juzda probably will be back if the going gets tough for the Stanley Cup holders.

Third Game May Be Delayed One Hour

En Route to Cleveland, Oct. 8.—(AP)—There was a strong possibility that the start of today's third World Series game between Cleveland Indians and Boston Braves would be delayed for about an hour.

The special train carrying the Indian players to Cleveland left Boston two hours late last night and was not expected to arrive in Cleveland until about 12 a.m. EST.

The train carrying Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler, the umpires and the majority of the 500 newspaper men covering the game, was not expected in Cleveland until about 12.30.

What with the delay in getting proper credentials and hotel space, it was highly probable that the game would be set back an hour from the scheduled starting time of 1 p.m.

"It could be," said William Harbridge, president of the American League, who was among those on the Cleveland special. "I see no reason why we can't push the game back an hour. It is permissible to use the lights in a World Series game, you know. I wouldn't be at all surprised if the Commissioner decided to delay the start about an hour."

Only the Commissioner can decide the playing time during World Series games.

George Robertson, former Winnipeg Monarchs junior star, appears to have the inside track to the left wing slot on Montreal Canadiens' first line vacated by veteran Toe Blake, now retired to coaching ranks.

George Robertson, former Winnipeg Monarchs junior star, appears to have the inside track to the left wing slot on Montreal Canadiens' first line vacated by veteran Toe Blake, now retired to coaching ranks.

George was one of three players on the Flying Frenchmen from New York Rangers in the Buddy O'Connor swap last season.

O'Connor's performance with the Blue Shirts—missing the scoring championship by only one point on the last day of the season—made Canadiens look like poor ivory dealers. Robertson could brighten the picture for this year.

George—six foot one, 179 pounds—counts on a lot of help from Maurice Richard and Elmer Lach. Coach Irvin thinks if he sticks with the pair, Robertson is a good bet for the Calder Trophy as best rookie of the year.

N.H.L. PUCK CHATTER

Pre-season reports say Dit Clapper's Boston Bruins may be the weak sister of the National Hockey League this year. That may be the reason for the great experiment.

They're going to put one of hockey's greatest centres, Milt Schmidt, back on defence.

They may have got the idea back in the 1946-47 season when Schmidt, who pivoted the great Kraut line in between Bobby Bauer and Porky Dumart, shifted to defence in an emergency and made a creditable showing. He was out of the game for about half the season last year.

Montreal Blasts Four Runs Home In Ninth For 7-3 Win Over St. Paul To Even Little World Series 1-1

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 8.—(AP)—Montreal and St. Paul tonight got into the third game of the Little World Series even at one victory apiece after the power-laden Royals waxed the Saints 7-3 last night.

St. Paul's pilot, Walt Alston, has named another right-hander, Mel Himes, to go against the International League Champions.

Himes racked up an 11-5 record this year, but his record of 114 strike-outs was third on the team and contributed heavily to the Saints' capturing the American Association Playoffs.

Charlie Podbielan, a 13-8 pitcher during the regular season, will start for Montreal. Both managers are expected to be ready to empty the bullpen if necessary, since the series moves to Montreal after tonight's game.

In last night's game, the Royals exploded for two big innings to account for all their runs. Jack Banta was lifted in the ninth after St. Paul scored twice in the eighth. Hopper pulled out all the stops and used two relievers, Frank Laga and Don Newcomer, to handle the Saints in their final turn at bat.

Banta looked impressive in striking out seven and giving only four hits, though he also walked seven. He drove in two runs to help win his own ball game.

For the Saints, Barkhead was taken out in the second after two runs had scored. Charley Samaklis, Morrie Martin and Jack Paepke followed in fairly rapid succession and all found the Royals dangerous.

Tonight's game will be at 10 p.m. AST. The teams will then move to Montreal for as many games as may be necessary.

Athletics Meet Eastward Tomorrow Afternoon At 2.30 At Baseball Stadium In Local Q.R.F.U. Opener

Sherbrooke Athletics will be gunning for their first Intermediate Quebec Rugby Football Union victory tomorrow when they clash with Eastward in the opening game of the season here.

Improving in every encounter, Athletics will rule slight favorites to win the game against their Montreal opponents who, like the local squad, have gone winless in three games this season.

Coach Ken Jackson sent his players through another long signals drill last night, working on new plays that will be unfolded in the Eastward game for the first time.

Several key plays are still in the injured list and tomorrow's start- ing lineup won't be known until shortly before game time.

Warren (Pee Wee) Berwick and Bud Jackson, injured in the game against Lakeshore last Sunday, have been unable to practise this week and are on the doubtful list. Berwick has a bruised bone in his elbow and Jackson has an injured knee.

Lorne Campbell, regular quarterback who missed last week's game because of a throat infection, is also a doubtful starter and if he is missing Larry Gallagher and Maurice Everett will call the signals. Lorne Murphy and Lorne Arnold, who missed the Sunday game, will both be on hand.

Jean Paul Ronaldi, another casualty, is still nursing a shoulder injury but he will play.

Athletics are playing their home games at the baseball park this season and the grounds were laid out this week. The 100-yard field runs in from right field. The game will start at 2:30 p.m.

Robertson Has Inside Track For Punch Line

Winnipeg, Oct. 8.—(AP)—One of the biggest pairs of shoes to fill in professional hockey are being tried on for size in fall training this year by a 21-year-old Winnipeg player.

George Robertson, former Winnipeg Monarchs junior star, appears to have the inside track to the left wing slot on Montreal Canadiens' first line vacated by veteran Toe Blake, now retired to coaching ranks.

George was one of three players on the Flying Frenchmen from New York Rangers in the Buddy O'Connor swap last season.

O'Connor's performance with the Blue Shirts—missing the scoring championship by only one point on the last day of the season—made Canadiens look like poor ivory dealers. Robertson could brighten the picture for this year.

George—six foot one, 179 pounds—counts on a lot of help from Maurice Richard and Elmer Lach. Coach Irvin thinks if he sticks with the pair, Robertson is a good bet for the Calder Trophy as best rookie of the year.

Ab Box Changes His Mind About Comeback

Ab Box was never very keen on a football comeback and a couple of practice sessions with Toronto Argonauts convinced him.

The 33-year-old triple-threat star of the 1930's said last night he didn't think he'd make the try, anyway "not this week-end."

Argos tried to recruit him after heavy injuries left them understaffed in the backfield.

His decision left the Dominion Champions still injury-crippled on the eve of what may be the most important week-end in the 1948 football season.

The Thanksgiving week-end marks the opening of the Eastern Inter-collegiate schedule and the 12-game Senior program may decide the playoff story for the Dominion's 15 senior clubs.

In the Western Conference, Winnipeg Blue Bombers play the undefeated Calgary Stampeders and the cellar-dwelling Saskatchewan Rough Riders.

In the Big Four, Argos and Hamilton Wildcats face a two-game set while one of the two Alouette - Rough Rider games was cancelled yesterday. They will play in Ottawa Monday. The week-end or Toronto meets Ottawa in the playoffs.

In the Intercollegiate loon, University of Toronto plays Western at London and Queen's and McGill tangle at Kingston.

Hamilton Wildcats will play Coach Frank Gnuq for the first time this year when they tackle Argos. The Champions backfield ace—Royal Copeland and Joe Krol—worked out in practice and may dress for the game.
