COWANSVILLE — (Staff) — Antoine Dupras, 46, of West Brome was killed late Friday morning when the sewer line in which he was working leading to the Cure Petit School Cowansville caved in.

Watch ships

MONTREAL (CP) — Fire department officials in Windsor, Ont., said Friday they are keeping a close watch on two strikebound vessels which union officials in Montreal said earlier were in danger of catching fire.

The Seafarers International Union of Canada, which struck against 32 inland shipping companies 16 days ago, announced it had dispatched men to move and unload two bulk carriers whose coal cargoes were in danger of igniting.

MDs out

QUEBEC (CP) — Another area of unrest on the Quebec medical front came to light Friday as about 2,300 doctors pulled out of the province's medical care for the needy program in a show of solidarity with the striking radiologists who are bogged down in talks with the Union Nationale government.

The doctors, members of the Quebec Federation of Medical Specialists which also bargains for the radiologists, will continue to provide free medical care for people on welfare.

Is not free

NEW YORK (CP) — Efforts to free Hal Banks — at least on bail — failed Friday and the former head of the Canadian Seafarers' International Union remains in custody awaiting extradition hearings next week.

Hearing on the bid of the Province of Ontario to return Banks to Canada where he is charged with perjury was set tentatively for next Thursday in federal court in Brooklyn.

Terrorism on

SAIGON (CP) — Viet Cong terrorists took their campaign against Sunday's presidential elections in South Vietnam into the streets of Saigon Friday night, killing an American and wounding 11 other persons.

The incidents were part of what one U.S. official said could turn out to be the worst week of terrorism in South Vietnam's history.

Manitoba's day

MONTREAL (CP) — The land of the Red River exerts will be honored today as Expo 67 marks Manitoba's special day at the world's fair — a day that promises to be full of colorful festivities.

Premier Duff Roblin and Mrs. Roblin will head the Manitoba delegation at the Place des Nations ceremony where Pierre Du Puy, Expo commissioner-general, will extend a welcoming hand.

Unity issue

TORONTO (CP) — The Progressive Conservative party's stand on national unity is expected to be the dominant issue at its centennial convention here this week and may determine whether John Diefenbaker will seek another term as leader.

Leadership candidate Michael Starr, who with Mr. Diefenbaker opposes any move to have Quebec set apart from the rest of Canada, is expected to start the unity debate at the party's policy meeting Tuesday night. He will be the first speaker.

Push contract

DETROIT (AP) — Bargaining for a U.S. automotive labor agreement went into the stretch today as the United Auto Workers union pushed towards a contract with the Ford Motor Co. that could be used as a pattern in the rest of the industry.

PC paper storm prepares way for leadership fight

As a former Arctic social worker, Gene Rheume is used to battling blizzards, but these last few months, he's been snowed under by more paper than he has ever seen before.

Mr. Rheume is the executive secretary who sits in the centre of the paper storm set in motion by the Progressive Conservative leadership convention at Maple Leaf Gardens Sept. 6 to 10.

Almost ready to go, he shifted his gaze from his cluttered desk and said with reasonable optimism: "It still looks pretty confusing from here, but the people on the outside say everything is going great, so it must be fitting together."

Those on the outside are the 2,343 delegates from across the land who will pick the next leader and the 5,000 or so other Conservatives who are coming to watch.

It is not only the biggest Conservative convention ever, it is the largest convention in Metro in the last two years. And it likely will also be the liveliest as Tories mix festivities with the serious job before them.

See also page 5

WALL-TO-WALL ACTIVITY — Preparing for both sides of the event keeps Mr. Rheume and a staff of 40, plus hundreds of Toronto area volunteers, busy. They work in three small offices with wall-to-wall desks on the 15th floor of 101 Richmond st. w.

Only a few steps down the corridor from the frantic, utilitarian convention offices is the hushed, oak-paneled and broadloomed office of Toronto lawyer Edwin A. Good.

man. He is co-chairman of the convention with Roger Regimbal, MP for Argenteuil-Deux Montagnes.

The task before the delegates is choosing a leader from among nine men who have so far declared themselves. The number may grow to 10 if national leader John Diefenbaker decides to seek the office again.

The nine are: Donald Fleming, 62, former finance minister; David Fulton, 51, former justice minister; Alvin Hamilton, 55, former agriculture minister;

By VINCENT DEVITT

George Hees, 57, former trade and commerce minister; John Maclean, 40, Brockville businessman; Senator Wallace McCutcheon, 61, former trade and commerce minister; Premier Duff Roblin of Manitoba, 50; Michael Starr, 56, former labor minister; and Premier Robert Stanfield 53, of Nova Scotia.

AN URBAN EMPHASIS

Delegates are still being chosen despite an earlier June 30 deadline. This had to be abandoned because convention rules say delegates must represent the ridings created through redistribution.

Mr. Rheume says this has meant complete re-organization and election of new executives for many local associations before they could choose delegates.

But while he moans over the headaches it has caused, he exults that the convention has pushed the party ahead of the other parties in riding re-organization.

It also means delegates will be more representative of Canada's modern, urban character, diminishing the rural outlook evident in old riding boundaries.

Each riding elects five delegates and five alternates at a meeting composed of anyone willing to support the party — that is to take out a membership at the time of the meeting.

To make sure the party is plugged in to the swinging 60s, at least one of the delegates and one of the alternates must be under 30. Women must be chosen in the same ratio.

THE FLAME THAT FAILED — The end of Centennial? The closing of the World Water Ski Championships? A bid by the municipal government to conserve fuel? Nothing of the sort. The Centennial flame which was supposed to stay lit for the duration of the World Water Ski Championships at Lac des Nations simply sputtered and died yesterday because the propane tank that keeps it lit was empty. Yet it only remained extinguished for a few minutes before a patriotic maintenance man installed a full tank which should keep the flame going strong for the remainder of the competition. (Record photo: Gerry Lemay)

Deluge follows drought

Rain prayers perhaps overdone

KARACHI (CP) — Pakistanis who prayed for rain during the recent drought must have overdone it.

A deluge lasting more than a week in late July flooded 250,000 people out of their homes. Thirty were drowned and another 17 died later when a flood-damaged building collapsed.

And while Karachi was struggling to recover from the disaster there were more heavy monsoon rains in mid-August.

Karachi has never recorded such heavy rains before. Understandably, therefore, people took the weather bureau's warning rather casually. Children and grown-ups left as usual for school or work on the Monday morning it started.

Just two hours later they were wading back home through flooded streets and pouring rain. Schools, factories and offices had to close when swirling, muddy water, waist-deep in places, inundated them.

With biblical irony, rich and poor were caught alike. Rich children in a convent school located in a posh seaside area had to be rescued by navy boats after being marooned six hours.

Most seriously affected were the thousands of people living in clusters of shanties in low-lying areas of Pakistan. Many of them had come as refugees from India 20 years ago. With nowhere else to go, they settled in ragtag huts along the sides of the two rivulets that bound Karachi.

During moderate rains these become swollen, otherwise they are usually little more than trickles. At the height of the rain they were angry, destructive torrents.

People who had built too near the edge suddenly found themselves fleeing for their lives. Hardly had they got to higher ground when they saw their huts being washed away.

Some died in the flight to safety. Had the rains come at night, instead of nine in the Reservoir lakes 40 to 60 miles north of here were threatening to dry up and city authorities had begun fretting about getting enough drinking water for the rapidly growing metropolis — its population now around 2,500,000.

"We did not have time to save anything," said one woman. "The water came so suddenly." She pointed to a place that seemed almost in the centre of what now was the river. "Our hut was there."

A few scattered darkish lumps and protruding objects in the water marked the spot where a whole colony of shanties had stood. Closer to the edge of the torrent the water lapped and swirled around the remains of mud huts and one could see clods of the earthen walls crumbling and disappearing in the currents.

"If the boat had not come when it did, one of my babies would have slipped into the water," said another woman with four children. "It was rising so fast."

Those whose babies did slip into the water were too griefed to talk — much as the family of a five-year-old girl whose body was later washed up on a sandbank.

Some of those drowned knew how to swim. Two teen-age brothers gallantly helping people across the swollen Nadi at one place were toppled by the current and disappeared. The body of the 19-year-old was recovered but there was no trace of the 16-year-old. His body was probably swept out to sea where a number of unidentified corpses were later found floating back with the tide.

It would be an understatement to say Karachi is unaccustomed to such heavy rains. The city is perched on the edge of a desert — the excuse for its existence being that it is West Pakistan's only port.

Being on the fringe of the monsoon region, it gets just a sprinkle of the normal mid-summer rains and sometimes years pass without any rain at all.

This is precisely what happened during the last three years of drought. The subsoil water level had fallen so low that it had become difficult to pump it to the surface.

New mood prevails among the slum Negroes

By AUSTIN SCOTT

They use us when they need us." Scenes like this, together with countless others less violent, pointed up in recent weeks what some observers say is a new mood among young American Negroes in the big city slums.

As violence spread in July to cities across the nation in a pattern no one could predict, the big question was whether the angry young Negroes who dominated television screens and headlines really touched responsive chords in large numbers of their friends and neighbors. The question can be answered definitively only as time passes, for the mood on the streets of Harlem and Hough, in the alleys of Detroit and Los Angeles, is constantly changing. But there are signs that unless enormous changes in slum conditions come quickly, the answer will be yes.

The bitter language of Rap Brown would have been dismissed five years ago, even in Harlem, as the inflammatory street-corner preaching of an extremist.

High altitude sickness problem for military and sporting set

By RON MACDONALD

MOUNT LOGAN, Yukon (CP) — An experiment that had its genesis in the Himalayan fighting between India and China in 1962 is under way here at the highest research station in North America.

When Indian troops went into battle against Chinese forces in the southern reaches of the world's highest mountain five years ago the Indian soldiers were horribly afflicted by mountain sickness.

Crippling headaches, nausea, breathing difficulty and feelings of depression and physical weakness drastically cut their effectiveness. The Chinese soldiers appeared to be much better acclimatized to life on the high plateau.

Western military authorities were disturbed. The United States wanted to be prepared for a possible war with China, a war that could involve operations in the Himalayas. The Canadians felt it necessary to prepare eventuality of a peacekeeping or other military operation in any mountainous area.

The problem was to find a way to cope with mountain sickness. Researchers believe a drug called Diamox holds the key to the altitude-and-isolation illness. In order to test it under authentic conditions they are establishing a research station 17,500 feet up on North America's second highest mountain—Mount Logan, 19,850 feet high and 200 miles west of Whitehorse.

WILL HELP ATHLETES

The knowledge gained at the Logan High Camp will be useful not only to military authorities but to mountaineers, aviators and to athletes competing in high-altitude sports such as Mexico City where the 1968 Olympics will be held.

The Logan operation was launched when the Arctic Institute of America invited the Institute of Aviation Medicine in Toronto to participate.

West's weak jump overcall put a lot of pressure on North. Of course North did not have to act over it but he was looking at two aces and four cards in his partner's suit and just did not like to be shut out of the bidding.

South could not tell how weak North was and was interested in getting to a grand slam. His four no-trump bid found out that North held both missing aces but when North showed no kings in response to the five no-trump follow up South settled wrong. The key cards were dummy's nine of hearts and ten of diamonds. The ten of diamonds made it impossible for East to break up the squeeze by leading a diamond after taking his king of clubs and the nine of hearts forced West to unguard his king of diamond at the twelfth trick.

The first three tricks went to South's ace of hearts and a king of spades. The fourth trick went to East's king of clubs. East returned a heart.

South ruffed, ran off the rest of his clubs and trumps and watched poor West squirm. West had to throw his last low diamond to the last spade, whereupon the nine of hearts was thrown from dummy. And low diamond to dummy's ace picked up the king and the queen of diamonds made the last trick in South's hand.

South's hand was so strong that the slam was a very good one. Put the king of clubs in the West hand and South would make his slam easily.

What could be better for children than that?

Innocent or not, Batman is part of the steady diet of violence on the home screen. Nearly every Western and cops-and-robbers series as well as many of the dramatic shows must have a quota of beatings, fights or gun duels.

Director Robert Aldrich, whose The Dirty Dozen has been criticized by reviewers for excessive violence, comments: "Television is a worse offender than movies. Each action series come to a point where it stops telling the story and indulges in three minutes

Pow! Zingo!

The sounds of fisticuffs are spelled out for viewers as Batman and Robin dupe the dastardly thugs of Gotham City. Youthful fans cheer, teenagers yawn, and grownups smile as the heroes inevitably triumph over the forces of evil.

Another outpouring of violence has been added to the evening of television entertainment.

"We always have a fight at the finish of each chapter," says Bat-producer Howie Horwitz, "but nobody ever gets killed or even hurt."

"We don't even show any blood. Ours is a morality play, with good triumphing over evil."

What could be better for children than that?

If the answer to the first two questions is no, and the answer to the third is yes, then we rule out the scene or temper it."

Dorothy Brown, director of broadcast standards for ABC, said the network had its own three principles about violence: 1. Is it shocking; 2. Will it provoke someone to copy it; 3. What is the duration.

"We are guided by the reaction of the public and the press to certain scenes."

OF SMALL THINGS
By IVA DUBOYCE

A tiny flower behind a rock
To send its perfume on the breeze;
The drops of rain to fall each one
To form the oceans and the seas.

A little child with sparkling eyes,
An eager smile upon his face—
A simple lesson taught to him
To make the world a better place.

A thoughtful word of kindness said
To make a neighbour's day more fair;
The little gift to one in need
To prove to him that folks can care.

These are the tiny, lovely things
By which the earth was made and blest;
They are the joys of common folk
On which the hopes of Heaven rest.

THE LIFE SPAN
When I was small and very young
I thought life's span was twenty-one,
But when at last I reached this date
I thought it better at forty-eight.

But when this time comes, feeling fine,
I set the date at sixty-nine
And when I reached seventy-nine
I really thought my life had come
But here I am at ninety-two
Still as lively, and happy too;
Now I have just one thing to say:
I think I may be here to stay.

ONLY A LITTLE FIRE BUT WHAT A COMMOTION

Just like the invincible ship's captain who goes down with his flaming ship, a maintenance man rode his burning tractor into a pond by the sixth hole at the Sherbrooke golf course yesterday afternoon.

Undaunted that the water had no effect on the fire in the engine, the man scurried off his seat, grabbed a couple of blankets he had been perching on and began frantically fan the flames away from the tractor. But it was to no avail.

Still unwilling to be foiled by the flames he got a few little buckets from residents near the golf course, and within a few minutes was back busily swishing buckets of water onto the burning engine.

At this point, Leonard Favreau, 1911 Vermont Street, leaped into view and after sizing up the man's plight, jumped in his car and drove to number two fire station in Sherbrooke.

Once on the scene, an over zealous fire fighter slipped and slid on the muddy bank, and finally slithered waist deep into the water.

But with things finally under control, the fire was put out with a carbon dioxide extinguisher. No one was injured, and the only damage was a few wet clothes.

The Sherbrooke courts of the St. Francis District officially opened the new judicial year yesterday morning with a brief but impressive ceremony at the Sherbrooke Superior Court.

A host of local dignitaries including Mayor Armand Nadreau, Msgr. Georges Cahana, Archbishop of Sherbrooke; Francois Lajoie, head of the Quebec Bar Association; Reynald Frechette, Sherbrooke M.L.A. and Maurice Allard, Sherbrooke M.P. were present as Batonnier Paul Gervais made his annual statement to the Bench of Superior Court Judges.

Mr. Gervais summarized the activities of the bar of the St. Francis District in the past year and enumerated the cases which were pleaded by the members of the bar before the bench of both the sessions of the peace and the Superior Court.

Besides his statement on the progress of the body which he heads, Mr. Gervais also introduced five new additions who are being enrolled this year. The new members are Jacques Anctil, Guy Parenteau, Michel Pinard, Yvon Genest, and Guy Brochu.

Mr. Justice William Mitchell then gave a short talk, thanking the civic, religious, and judicial leaders for participating in the opening ceremony.

"You show by your presence here your awareness of the heavy responsibility of the members of this bar. Your appearance is highly appreciated," he said.

Judge Mitchell then commended the official prothonotary for his part in the smooth workings of the legal processes in the district.

Said Judge Mitchell, "This past year, there has been no more undue delay by the congestion of rules."

He also commended the members of the bar for their healthy and polite approach to the bench during the course of the year.

Judge Roger Bouchard made a short statement, lauding the members of the bar who helped organize the Faculty of Law at the University of Sherbrooke.

Lakeside children's camp, Frontier Lodge, has physical, social, spiritual training

COATICOOK — The verdant rolling hills of Vermont rise up towards the billowy cumulus-cloud-filled sky, while on the lake below a water skier cuts a silvery wake through the sparkling blue water.

Frontier Lodge Children's Camp, located on the Quebec-Vermont boundary, 15 miles east of Coaticook, takes on a picture postcard-like appearance on a warm, lazy summer day. The Lodge is part of the Quebec Camping Association, under the chairmanship of Joseph Ilass, and has been in existence for about 30 years.

August 11 was the final day of the two week Girls' Camp and it soon became obvious that the girls intended to squeeze some activity into every minute that was left.

Down on the waterfront red and green canoes lying in neat rows, were soon launched on Lake Wallis. And, within minutes the lake seemed to reverberate to the sound of carefree, laughing canoeists whose paddles flashed wetly in the bright afternoon sun.

Yet campers (most of whom come from Montreal and the Eastern Townships), really don't have much of a problem thinking of things to do. For each day is carefully planned by the camp administrators.

In the morning there is archery, boating and sports activities, while in the afternoon the campers engage in swimming, boating and handicraft work.

Miss Ethel Muir of Toronto, a 13-year veteran of the camp, is in charge of the handicraft building.

The campers and staff alike are proud of the new handicraft building which was built last June. Before this time all handicraft work was done in the recreation hall which was really inadequate to store the varied supplies needed.

However, in the new building there is ample shelf space and the recreation hall can now be used for its original purpose — basketball, ping-pong, singing and plays.

Throughout this summer there are four different groups of campers who stay for a period of two weeks each. Junior Camp for boys and girls aged 8-11 was held from July 1 to the 15. Next comes Girls' Camp from July 29 to August 12 for girls aged 11 to 16. Boy's camp was held from August 12 to 26.

A Youth Conference from August 26 to Labor Day winds up the summer. Fellowship and Christian instruction is emphasized for all four camps, and the camp is operated on the premise that a young person requires a well rounded program, which will develop physical, spiritual and social sides of his personality.

This philosophy seemed much in evidence on the closing day of the Girls' Camp. Fred Warnholtz, waterfront director for the Girls' Camp, pointed out two well tanned, aquatic-looking young girls by the water.

Both girls, Heather Berry, 15, of Montreal, and Nina Szlamp, 14, also of Montreal, swam the length of the lake and back recently which is a distance of about five miles.

5th CMR Association plans its last reunion

On September 16 and 17 this year many of the surviving members of the 5th Canadian Mounted Rifles Association, a famed infantry unit of World War I, will gather in Sherbrooke for their last official reunion.

The memory of this well-known combat unit from the Eastern Townships has been kept alive for many years by the 5th CMR Association, which was formed to allow members to get together every year.

At last year's meeting, also held in Sherbrooke, it was decided that the reunion of 1957 would be the last due to the passage of time.

Following is the reunion program:

Saturday, September 16: 12 noon, registration at the New Sherbrooke Hotel; 3:30 p.m., business meeting at the hotel followed by the placing of wreaths at the cenotaph 7:30 p.m., reunion dinner.

Sunday, September 17: 10:30 a.m., "fall-in" in front of the William Street Armoury for an annual church parade to St. Peter's Church, where the colors of the unit are deposited; app. 1 p.m., farewells and dispersal from the Legion Hall.

There is a special program for the ladies this year: Saturday, September 16: 3:30 p.m., invitation to tea at the home of Mrs. Guy Bryant; 7:30 p.m., guests of the Association will be having a dinner in the hotel and a film of the 50th anniversary of the Vimy Ridge ceremonies will be shown.

Sunday, September 17: 11 a.m., service at St. Peter's Church.

This year marks the 52nd anniversary of the formation of the unit.

Guy Bryant, District Zone Chairman says that first recruiting took place in early January, 1915 in Sherbrooke and Montreal with the call going out to volunteers interested in a mounted unit. Training was completed in Sherbrooke, Val Cartier Camp and England.

The regiment took over its first front-line trenches at Ploegsteert (Plugstreet) in October of the same year.

Later when trench warfare became an established fact the 5th was reorganized as an infantry battalion. The battle honors of the Battalion include Somme, 1916; Arras, 1917-18; Vimy, 1917; Hill 70, 1917; Ypres, 1917; Passchendaele, 1918; Amiens, 1918; Cambrai, 1918; Valenciennes, 1918; and France and Flanders, 1918-19.

Richmond men appear on robbery charges

Three Richmond men appeared in Court Sessions of the Peace yesterday on three different counts of robbery and illegal possession of tools used for breaking and entering.

Alexandre Riendeau, Fred Matticks, and Paul Labonte, all of Richmond, appeared before Judge Benoit Turmel to answer charges of breaking into the Richmond CNR station and stealing clothes valued at $50, of illegal possession of hardware used for breaking into homes and safecracking, and of causing approximately $100 worth of damages to the station into which they broke.

These offenses were reportedly committed on August 30 and 31 in the town of Richmond.

The three men elected to appear before judge and jury and their case will come up September 14.

Fred Matticks asked Judge Turmel if any arrangements could be made for bail but prosecutor Andre Langlois protested on the grounds that all men had previous records. He produced the records in court. Judge Turmel denied the request for bail.

Gaetan Morin, 18, received a suspended sentence and was ordered to post a $500 peace bond as he pleaded guilty to the charge of breaking into a grocery store in Disraeli and stealing 15 packages of cigarettes.

In handing out his sentence Judge Turmel took into consideration the fact that Morin possessed no previous criminal record.

Claude Robidas, 32, of Asbestos, changed a previous plea of not guilty to guilty yesterday and found himself on the better side of the fence.

The original charge against Robidas was that of writing a bad cheque for the amount of $225.

Robidas, prompted by defense attorney Reynald Frechette, changed his plea and asked for immediate sentencing.

Attorney Frechette pointed out that his client had no previous record and that the sum of $225 would be immediately reimbursed.

Judge Turmel gave him a suspended sentence and ordered him to sign a $500 peace bond.

Ludoric Champagne, of Sherbrooke, was fined $100 and had his license suspended for six months as Judge Turmel found him guilty on the charge of impaired driving.

Orientation is planned at Bishop's

New students attending Bishop's University will be given a few days to get acquainted with their new surroundings and the courses being offered.

They will arrive at the university Sept. 18 and do not have to register until Sept. 21.

During this period the student will be introduced to their new courses through a series of lectures and when registration day rolls around, they will be better equipped to choose their courses.

Registration for second year students will be held Sept. 19, and for third and fourth year students it will be Sept. 20.

Lectures begin Sept. 22 at 8:30 a.m.

Admission figures will be released by the university at a later date.

Grim outlook for Ontario taxpayer

Recommendations of the Royal Commission which has just completed its inquiry into the financial problems of the Ontario government and municipalities may receive loud acclaim for one important suggestion — a complicated plan which supposedly would cut the tax burden on owners of single family dwellings by one-third.

But from there on there is little satisfaction for the taxpayers in any category.

The commission anticipates that on the basis of the present tax structure, the deficit of the province will reach one billion dollars a year by 1975 and suggests a variety of ways in which the gap can be bridged.

Ignoring completely any idea that governments and municipalities should curb their spending, the commission concentrates itself on finding additional sources of revenue.

One way to meet the situation is for increased aid from the federal treasury, either through direct grants or by the transfer of certain tax powers to the province.

But with the federal government facing a financial crisis of its own, little can be expected from the quarter.

In proposing certain radical tax changes, such as making hospitals and universities, and to a limited extent religious institutions, subject to municipal and school taxation and broadening the base of the sales tax, the commission significantly rules out lotteries as a means of raising money.

From an overall viewpoint, the commission report means simply that somehow or another the Ontario treasury will have to get about $100 additional tax money from each citizen to meet its requirements.

Not a pleasant outlook.

September signals end of a season

You can see and hear the signs of autumn. You can catch the fragrance of year's fulfillment. When September arrives, the countryman knows a season is ending.

Crossing the threshold into the ninth month is one of the definite steps in the annual cycle. Tomatoes are red-ripe and plump green peppers shine in the sun. Apples are reddening on bending branches and asters make colorful pictures in beds beneath farmhouse windows. Wild grapes swing in bunches like purple jewels and green poison ivy changes to quilts of scarlet on walls and fences.

Old wives' tales very often make young wives' ears perk up.

Other papers say:

Youth image deliberately distorted

The way in which the antics of a handful of self-conscious "hippy" exhibitionists have been exploited to present a deliberately distorted picture of young Canada was clearly demonstrated in Toronto recently, where the National Film Board admitted having arranged a "love-in" demonstration for its cameras, and an NFB employee instructed young layabouts on how to obstruct police. The National Film Board staged its supposedly "Spontaneous" demonstrations as part of a series of disturbances which resulted in large-scale arrests, and one of its employees, Allison Gordon, incited groups of "hippies" to resist and obstruct police, and demonstrated how to go about it.

All this planning and instruction was designed to bring about a melee between a mob of young scallawags and the Toronto police, which the National Film Board wished to film as a scene "typical of youth today," in the words of its spokesman, and include in a feature film depicting Canada's young people. The fact that the whole scene was contrived and the dress and behavior of the beatniks completely foreign to that of the overwhelming majority of young Canadians, was typical of the deliberate attempts to a clique of CBC and NFB directors to distort the image of the new generation. It is a distortion at which some media distortionist newspapers have also connived in a search for sensation to brighten a dull news day, and it reflects a deplorable dearth of editorial responsibility and integrity among those who direct the coverage of much of our mass media today.

For the truth is that the summer antics of the youthful exhibitionists of Yorkville are no more indicative of the moods and attitudes of young people today than the behavior of the flagpole sitters and goldfish swallows of another era were of the outlook of their parents. It is always the behavior of the eccentric few rather than that of the responsible many which makes news, but it is the responsibility of editors and news directors to ensure that coverage of these sensations is kept in proportion, and the true perspective not deliberately distorted merely to alarm or scandalize.

There can be few responsible newsmen in Canada today who are not disturbed by the influx into their profession of a number of social anarchists, young men who have infiltrated the news departments of TV and radio magazines, and film companies. These rootless young men are obsessed with the urge to shock what they conceive to be a world of stuffy squares, and to achieve this end there is no misrepresentation, distortion or sensationalizing that they will not stoop to. They represent today an erosive force in our society of increasing gravity.

Surely it must be a matter of concern to every Canadian that a servant of the state, an NFB employee, should be inciting violence against other servants of the state, the Toronto police, in order that a state-operated film company can make a film whose distorted values can only further weaken the social structure of the state. All this is being undertaken at public expense, paid for by the taxpayer, so that we witness the spectacle of the state's own organs of communication being used against itself, just as Roger Lemelin boasted was being done by the separatists within the CBC.

There is great acclaim for talent today in the field of communications, but isn't it also time we restored responsibility to its traditional place as the director of that talent?

Adventures with God

Influence of jet age evangelism can't be measured but it's there

Influence, good or evil, cannot be measured, neither can it be curtailed. This is particularly the case when God is the instigator of the influence.

Jet age evangelism in general, and Billy Graham in particular, are suspect. Organized crusades suggest show business to many of the clergy and laymen. But in spite of the sharp and continuous criticism of the higher echelons in the establishment, overflow crowds fill the largest auditoriums in the world and listen with rapt attention to evangelist Graham's biblically founded sermons. Other thousands continue to pour their dollars into the coffers to keep the evangelist on the road and earnest seekers come to hear one of Christ's disciples preach the claims of Christ. But, how many hold out? We shall not know the answer to your question until: "The roll is called up yonder."

But I am convinced it will surprise the critics. I have seen many evidences that Graham's preaching has not been in vain. I was in the Coliseum in 1955 when Toronto businessman Charles Pitts went forward. What he has done since is an amazing story, but what God has done in changing his character is a miracle. Thousands of people have benefited from his conversion.

A strange voice on the telephone asked for an appointment. When I greeted my caller at the door I was surprised to find a happy-faced Jamaican woman. She told me that she had been converted 14 years ago at a Graham Crusade in her native land. Today she is a nurse's aid in Princess Margaret Hospital in the children's ward. She has rounded up a bus full of unchurched children and teaches them twice a week in a local church.

Another minister's daughter greeted me at a service where I was speaking: "I attended church all my life," she said, "but I never understood the truth and the way of salvation until I listened to Dr. Graham preaching on TV one night. I saw the light and my whole life has been changed."

Ben Haden, noted preacher on The Bible Study Hour, was working with the Central Intelligence Agency in Washington when Billy Graham held a crusade in that city. He told his wife Charlene (an interior decorator and model): "Graham is a great showman, and we ought to watch him perform."

They attended the service. That night when Graham announced "I'm going to ask you to get up out of your seat," Haden's eyes bulged with surprise. His wife was rising to her feet. "Don't make a fool of yourself!" he advised her. She pulled away: "I'm going," she said, "and nobody can stop me."

I remember the preacher's text and the charged atmosphere that made it impossible for any to be irreverent, as the earnest evangelist proclaimed his message. Bygone days

TEN YEARS AGO

Fifteen members of the Sherbrooke Rotary Club, each with 25 or more years of service to the club, were honored at the regular meeting of the club at the Hotel Sherbrooke last night in a special program entitled "Singspots".

Among the honored members was Albert C. Skinner, the only active charter member of the club who helped from the local Rotary Club in May, 1919.

The fifteen were toasted by Fred Partison, the newest member of the club, as the makers and builders of the club. He added that the club had been "a love of labor over which many have worked for many, many years."

Albert Skinner responding to the toast, told members of how the Rotary Club first met in the Magog House, once every two weeks. He said: "That first group was keenly inspired by the ideal of service."

The fifteen honored were: Albert Skinner, Dave Salls, Jim Sangster, A. A. Munster, Tom Keeley, Stuart Ball, Lewis Rosenblum, Lee Watson, Henry Downs, Wright Gibson, Bart Holtham, Douglas Stevenson, Emile Levesque, Gordon Armilage, Nelson Lothrop.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

SCOTSTOWN — The Home Helpers meeting of the W.M.S. of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church was held in the Church Hall on August 13, with a large attendance of members and visitors present.

The president, Mrs. A. G. Murray, in a few well-chosen words, welcomed the Home Helpers. Mrs. Philip Boy, Presbyterial president, gave a splendid talk on the Home Helpers work.

The study period was taken by Mrs. Murray. During the business period, it was decided to hold a food sale at MacKenzie's store on August 20. The meeting closed with a hymn and the Lord's Prayer after which a picnic lunch was served.

The members were pleased to have as guests at the tea hour Rev. and Mrs. William Brown, and daughter, Sheila, Miss Jane Farquhar and Mrs. Leckie, all of Melbourn, Quebec.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Bishop's University at Lennoxville anticipated a registration as high as last year which established a record, it was announced yesterday.

A shortage of accommodations for the student residents was forecast. No change in the curriculum is reported and the registration of a bachelor of art and of sciences are the highest ever.

St. Charles Seminary in Sherbrooke also anticipates a higher enrollment.

Harried university officials across the Dominion expect fewer brown-raising problems, although last year's enormous enrollment is expected to be as large again in the coming term.

The reputation which the Sherbrooke Harmony Band has won for itself during the past years as one of the leading amateur bands in the Province of Quebec has spread far and wide, and to the people of Berlin, N.H., good music is synonymous with the Sherbrooke Band.

COMMENT

by Lubor J. Zink

OTTAWA (TNS)— It is taken more or less for granted that elections and other democratic processes in some such far off and chaotic places as Vietnam (I should have said South Vietnam, for there is no trace of any democratic process in totalitarian North Vietnam) are rigged. But in Canada?

Nonsense. Yet anyone half a world away reading the charges made this week about alleged foul play in the selection of delegates for our Conservative Party's leadership convention would have to conclude that the election of the new Tory leader will be far from open, free and honest. Anyone, that is, whose image of Canada is as hazy and as distorted as is the average Canadian's image of Vietnam.

I am pointing this out merely to caution against jumping to hard and fast conclusions about reported irregularities in any voting procedure. Such reports, based on charges made by some of the politicians directly involved, need not amount to more than attempts to discredit the contest before it takes place.

Anticipated frustration

Assuming that some of Mr. Diefenbaker's devotees cannot visualize the Conservative Party without him at the helm and at the same time fear his defeat, should he decide to enter the contest at the last moment, these people obviously need some handy antidote for their anticipated frustration and anger.

What else can they do in this frame of mind but charge that the contest has been rigged from the start by their opponents?

It's an old trick that keeps on cropping up in every election, be it held in Canada, Vietnam or anywhere else where political competition can take place.

The absurdity of it in the specific case of Tory leadership convention can be gleaned from Miss Laura Mann's complaint about the selection of Ontario's 90 delegates at large.

A member of the selection committee, Miss Mann charged that this particular group of delegates was deliberately erately rigged in favor of certain candidates. She refused to reveal who these candidates were but said that Mr. Diefenbaker was not among them.

How could he have been? At the time the remark was made Mr. Diefenbaker was not, and is not now, a declared candidate. Miss Mann was therefore guilty of either an unfortunally lack of logic or an interesting slip of the tongue.

For unless she knew that Mr. Diefenbaker was going to join the race at the finishing line and had her own attempt to load the Ontario group with pro-Diefenbaker delegates been frustrated, her statement makes no sense.

In any event, there is the usual credentials committee machinery for dealing with complaints against the selection of delegates. Any legitimate objections should be voiced there rather than in public statements which cannot but be interpreted as attempts to discredit the convention.

Dief-or-disaster forces

Tory leadership who contend that this is precisely what the manipulators of the Dief-or-disaster forces are after.

I can't bring myself to believe that Mr. Diefenbaker would be willing to go along with such a spitefully ruinous strategy. The continued silence about his intentions is, of course, in itself damaging to the Conservative Party.

Lo, a great multitude, which no man could number, of all nations, and kindreds, and people, and tongues, stood before the throne, and before the Lamb, clothed with white robes, and palms in their hands. (Revelation 7:9)

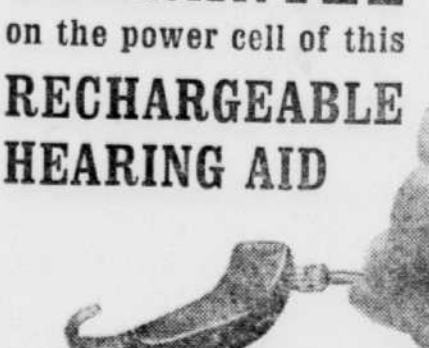

PRAYER: Dear Father, help us keep the vision of brotherhood among men. Strengthen our faith when the shadows of evil threaten us with discouragement and anguish. As we commit ourselves to Christ, teach us to be co-workers with Thee in furthering Thy kingdom among men. In Jesus' name. Amen.

Dief at helm steers at storm on PC policy

OTTAWA (CP) — John Diefenbaker will not surrender the Progressive Conservative leadership without a struggle—first, over the party's future policy and then, maybe, over a renewed leadership mandate.

The 71-year-old leader made this plain Friday at a news conference while delegates were heading for Toronto and next week's policy and leadership meetings.

"I want to know what the policy of this party is going to be," he said when asked whether he will contest the leadership. "That's the first matter. Then the delegates will decide."

His decision to give battle initially on policy matters follows a pattern he has said in retrospect he employed in the 1956 leadership convention which he won.

At that time, Diefenbaker men spearheaded his second bid for the leadership in policy meetings before the convention. He has said their efforts proved to him he could win the convention.

Mr. Diefenbaker said his spokesmen—he didn't identify them—will place his views before the policy sessions Sept. 5-6.

Would he contest the leadership if the convention endorsed policies unacceptable to him? "That is a hypothetical question," he replied.

Did a leadership vacancy exist? "A vacancy doesn't arise by the desire of others."

Still pressing for firmer word on his leadership intentions, reporters asked whether it would be fair to say he hasn't made up his mind yet.

"It would be fair to say that question is an unfair question," he called for careful examination by the convention of complaints about undemocratic selection of some voting delegates.

DENIES SUPPORT
And he denied giving "assistance, inspiration or direction" to supporters who picked up leadership nomination papers and ordered "Keep the Chief" posters and buttons.

Education rights and the two-nations concept, key issues of the convention, were dealt with at length by Mr. Diefenbaker, who said flatly that the conclusions of the party's Montmorency Falls policy advisory conference do not reflect Conservative party thinking.

The conference had endorsed a policy suggestion that French-Canadians be constitutionally guaranteed the right to education in French anywhere in Canada and to the use of French in the legislatures and courts.

It also sent to the Toronto policy meetings a statement that Canada is a confederation of "two peoples (deux nations)." This is a proposition Mr. Diefenbaker had earlier said would destroy Confederation because Canada is one nation, not two.

On education rights, Mr. Diefenbaker repeatedly said the provinces have, and will continue to have, exclusive jurisdiction. Two provinces had recently taken forward steps towards equality of opportunity and forecast similar moves by other provinces.

But again he emphasized this is a provincial responsibility and declined to say whether he would support a constitutional amendment guaranteeing the same access of French-language teaching to French-Canadians outside Quebec as English-Canadians receive within the provinces.

Friends honor Beebe lady at stork shower

BEEBE — Mrs. Richard Eryou was hostess at a pink and blue shower, held at her home on Aug. 16 honoring Mrs. Gary Mosher. Approximately 35 guests attended.

The house was decorated with blue, pink and white streamers.

Mrs. Mosher was presented with a corsage of baby gadgets and was escorted to a decorated chair, beside a table, which was laden with prettily wrapped packages. She was assisted with the opening of the gifts by her mother, Mrs. S. Galazzo and mother-in-law, Mrs. E. E. Carboneau.

A decorated shower cake centered the table at the refreshment hour.

Mrs. Eryou was assisted by relatives and friends.

Guests attending were from Georgeville and the Three Villages.

Hitsville happenings

By JACK CORNETT
of CKTS Radio

HI AGAIN GANG. We're back in business with another review of the hit scene and as usual lets look at this weeks TOP TEN: 1. Ode to Billy Joe—Bobbie Gentry; 2. All You Need is Love—Beatles; 3. Pleasant Valley Sunday—Monkees; 4. Cold Sweat—James Brown; 5. Baby I Love You—Aretha Franklin; 6. Words—Monkees; 7. Reflections—Diana Ross and the Supremes; 8. Heroes and Villains—Beach Boys; 9. Come Back When You Grow Up—Bobby Vee; 10. Apples Peaches And Pumpkin Pie—Jay and The Techniques. That's the top ten friends for now, with a new addition this week by Bobby Vee and another by James Brown.

OUR PICK OF THE WEEK this time around is that new and different sound that is catching on by Paul Revere and the Raiders called "I Had a Dream." There is no doubt about it this song has a new and different sound and could open up a new psychodelic club in hitsville should others get on the bandwagon. Looks like it will catch on and go a long way for this group that hasn't let down its fans yet.

THE BIG MOVERS on the hit list in the past week and picks to go much higher include Donovans "There Is A Mountain," Jackie Wilson's "Higher and Higher," and The Box Tops' great set called "The Letter." Others with an eye toward the top include "Things I Should Have Said" by the Grass Roots, "12:30" by the Mamas and Papas, "Gettin' Together" by Tommy James and the Shondells, "I Make A Fool Of Myself" by Frankie Valli and last but not least "Making Every Minute Count" by

WHEN IT COMES TO SURE SHOTS don't miss out on the action certain to be impressive from the following recent hits: "Museum" by Herman and the Hermits, "I Dig Rock and Roll Music" by Peter, Paul and Mary and "In The Heat Of The Night" by Ray Charles.

IN THE NEW WAY category, a number of platters look like possible future hits. Bobby Darin gives us a disc called "She Knows." He comes up with quite a workout on this tune and could hit home. The Love Generation comes up with a great group package that is a good dance number with lots of rhythm. The hot side should move and is called "She Touched Me."

BEFORE THIS WEEK'S WRAP-UP here's a look at some of the hits that have cooled off considerably. Three we thought would go better are "To Love Somebody" by the Bee Gees, "A Little Bit Now" by the Dave Clark Five, and "Zip Code" from the Five Americans, "Jill" by Gary Lewis we thought would move faster and we also thought "Ha Ha Said The Clown" by the Yardbirds should have clicked better than it did.

THAT'S OUR LOOK into Hitsville friends for another week, so until next weekend keep that radio of yours tuned in on the super survey sound spectaculars and swing swell for the next seven.

Three governments to discuss Expo's future

QUEBEC (CP) — Representatives of the federal, provincial and Montreal City governments will meet in Quebec City after Labor Day to discuss the future of Expo 67 and its pavilions, Premier Daniel Johnson has announced.

"We have to decide what we are going to do and who is going to pay for it," the premier said at a press conference.

Quebec, already burdened with paying $100,000,000 in three years as its share in putting on the world's fair, would have to consider the possibilities before "plunging into another adventure."

The federal government pays 50 per cent of the cost of Expo, Quebec is responsible for 37 1/2 per cent and the City of Montreal for 12 1/2 per cent.

Under world fair regulations, participating countries are responsible for demolition or removal of their pavilions, but several countries have donated their showplaces to Canada.

Several possibilities, including an international city, a youth centre or a university, have been suggested for the Expo site.

DETERMINE COSTS
It would also be necessary to determine how much it would cost to turn the temporary structures into winter-proof permanent buildings and who — Ottawa, Quebec or Montreal — would bear the cost of these improvements.

Mr. Johnson said it would cost $500,000 to make the Quebec pavilion alone into a permanent building and would require about $145,000 a year for upkeep. Demolition of the building would cost $350,000.

The premier said that the authority most interested in all plans for Expo is the City of Montreal.

Asked what the possibilities are for the future of the big fair park for Montrealers, I think that Montreal and Quebec will finish up by reaching an understanding that the space could be used as standing."

campers is not hard to explain. The aroma of cooking turkey wafted from the kitchen as preparations for the Girls' Camp Awards night banquet was under a full head of steam.

Mrs. Peggy Munkittrick, Lennoxville, and Mrs. George Povey, also of Lennoxville, bustled about the kitchen in snow-white crisply starched uniforms. Both women volunteered their services this summer as cooks when a regular cook could not be found.

Throughout the summer about 20,000 meals are served to satisfy the voracious and insatiable appetites of the campers. Then too, the tuck shop, "the most popular spot in camp," fills the gap between meals. Approximately $6,000 is spent on food in a summer, but Mrs. Munkittrick is quick to emphasize that "by the end of the summer there has been very little wastage."

Mrs. A. Hill, of Sherbrooke and director of the Girls' Camp, said there are 85-90 campers "but it may be down a little this year due to Expo."

There is a $55 fee for each of the four two-week camps, which, according to Mrs. Hill, just looks after the expenses of running the camp. The overhead costs are provided by contributions. The counselors are not paid, and the kitchen and maintenance staff receive only a nominal salary.

The fees and contributions are used for the upkeep of the 12 sleeping cabins and other buildings used for the various activities.

Not the sunny smiles and a spontaneous spirit of camaraderie among campers, staff and maintenance people. Indeed, this is evident in the challenge games of softball, volleyball and soccer, which pit the camper against the staff and kitchen help.

Whenever a camper is asked if she's happy to be going home, that seemingly happy, perpetual grin disappears from her face like the turning off of a lightbulb. "I'd like to stay all summer," comes the quick reply.

Guild members, friend, attend annual picnic
ABERCORN — On Aug. 19 members and friends of All Saints Guild met at the Lahue home for the annual picnic. Due to inclement weather, a buffet dinner was enjoyed indoors.

Following dinner the regular meeting was held by members and one visitor. Others attending the picnic played 500.

The painting of the church roof was discussed. A primer coat is needed before the aluminum paint can be applied. The job has been started but, due to bad weather, has not progressed too far.

The September meeting will be held either at the Hancock or the Reid home. Each member is to bring an apron to the meeting.

The chance game was won by Donald McGrath. The game collection netted $4.30.

Witnesses return from convention

The families and delegates from the Sherbrooke region who attended the convention of Jehovah's witnesses, which was held at the Trois Rivieres Coliseum, returned home thankful for the timely Bible counsel received during the four days, declared T. Zieman, presiding minister for the region.

Mr. Zieman added that the theme of the four day gathering, "Disciple Making" was very appropriate when we consider the lack of faith and the apathetic attitude of the people towards the daily application of Bible principles. As an antidote against atheism and materialism, it was suggested to the delegates to study the Bible daily and apply its principles, thus permitting the Bible to guide every aspect of their life.

A series of talks dealing with the moral breakdown and how to protect the home from it was of special interest to parents.

It was demonstrated, according to Mr. Zieman, how the lines of communication between parents and children have been broken, resulting in a lack of confidence within the family circle. Many youths are leaving home because their parents are too preoccupied in their pursuit for the material things of life; consequently, they fail to understand the problems of their children and neglect to help them in time of need.

When youth faces the delinquent world in which they are born without the right training and experience in life they hold their parents responsible and become resentful for the lack of parental care.

BIBLE PROVERB
The Bible proverb, "Train up a boy according to the way for him; even when he grows old he will not turn aside from it" was emphasized. Parents were counselled to look well to the needs of their children in order to ward off the influence of this present delinquent society and to be examples in conduct and habits in the presence of their children who observe them daily.

The highlight of the convention was the public talk which dealt with the theme, "Rescuing a great crowd of mankind out of Armageddon." The speaker emphasized the fact that the Bible clearly indicates that God must intervene in world affairs and put an end to hostilities and divisions existing between nations. Armageddon is God's war to purify the earth.

"We will see the greatest change that mankind has ever known," stated Mr. Zieman, "because world events that have taken place since 1914 such as two world wars, pestilences and earthquakes have unfolded before our eyes like a panoramic view in fulfillment of Bible prophecy. Further the population explosion has created a serious feeding problem to the world. Men who will survive God's war of Armageddon will learn to live intelligently and the desire to dominate others will be a thing of the past."

In Windsor

Local rebels 'blow minds'

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Windsor is a little short on hippies, but there is one local band of rebels without a concrete cause who love "blowing minds" and don't need LSD to do it.

"We love to blow the citizens' minds, their itty-bitty needle-thin minds," said one of the group.

You blow a person's mind by shocking him, doing something he wouldn't have the nerve to do.

But even more than "blowing the citizens' minds," the female companions of The Satan's Choice love riding motorcycles.

The girls in the motorcycle club don't drive bikes themselves; they find riding as passengers thrilling enough.

"The bike is your whole life; you have to have a fever for it in your blood," said one.

I was in a small duplex just off Drouillard Road, the home of one of the members and his wife. Their four children ran in and out.

There were a half dozen girls present. All seemed to be in their late teens or early 20s and most were wearing what looked like dirty drag outfits. They turned out to be both proud and frank.

"Aren't you going to ask me how many children the unmarried girls have?" one of them asked, then answered her own question. "I have one and so does she," she said, indicating another girl.

HAVE NICKNAMES The spokesman called Rebel and said the other girls have nicknames, too—Spider, Snuggly, Mrs. Bubbles.

Rebel said she had been living with one of the club members for a year. "We weren't married in church, but we are married . . . by the Triumph manual. It's read off like the church service, with just a few words changed. And if you decide to get a divorce you just rip up the manual."

She was referring to the maintenance booklet issued by the British manufacturer of motorcycles and cars.

Club members call married women "old ladies," and the term also applies to girls going steady. If "old ladies" wish, they can wear the club colors with the words "Property of Satan's Choice" and their boyfriend's name on it. This means "private property, hands off" to other club members.

Girls who don't go with any one member are called "Mommies" or "slackers." But you're ignorant if you do this, said an "old lady," explaining that this meant you were the club prostitute.

The girls denied being an anti-virginity league. "We don't care if you're a virgin or not, and neither do the guys," said an attractive girl from Grosse Pointe, Mich. "You can come in one, and stay one for as long as you like. I can say that for a fact, myself. Just as long as you let them know the score right off the bat, they won't bother you except to tease you a bit by calling you Virgin."

"WE DON'T HASSLE" The girls insist that the "brothers and sisters" live by the Golden Rule. "We treat people the way they treat us. We just want to be left alone. . . . We don't hassle all that much. All that rape and murder business, I've never heard of stuff like that."

Blowing people's minds doesn't mean hassling them. "One of the girls might kiss another in the middle of the street, or neck with her man in public. That would do."

But better than blowing the citizens' minds is blowing a club member's mind, because that's harder.

"One day one of our guys bit the head off a dead bird and ate it. Another time one picked up a dead cat and started kissing it, blood and all. And at Point Pelee we gave one of the guys a dead fish in a bun and he ate it! That blew our minds."

When asked what they thought of the police they all made faces. "I've talked to some who are all right," said one. "It's the young ones who think they're smart and might shove you a round. Or say you're doing two miles over the speed limit, and people in cars are passing you. The Man will pull you over."

Wedding announcement

The marriage is announced of Mrs. Mabel Bullis, Rock Island, wife of the late George Bullis and daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Hill of Stanstead, to Mr. Clare Brown, of West Brome, formerly of Farnham. The marriage took place August 17, in the United Church, Knowlton, Que.

Beauty Tips

Helpful Baby Oil

Here's a helpful trick borrowed from baby. If hands become tarry or sticky, try using baby oil on stubborn spots and then wipe off. The oil removes most stains without irritation to the skin. Handy for home use is a new antibacterial baby oil which helps prevent rashes and chafing in adults as well as infants.

Face Washing As a Game Many tots love their baths, but often resent having their faces washed. However, a face washing game will soon turn their tears to giggles. With soapy washcloth in hand, sing out, "Where is nose? Oh, there it is!" Baby will be so curious to know where the washcloth is going next, that he'll keep his face upturned for the treat.

Polly's pointers

DEAR POLLY—I am thrilled with a labor-saving Pointer. I discovered while doing some interior painting. This was especially good in my tiled bathroom as it kept the paint from getting on the tile, fixtures, etc. I took one-inch-wide masking tape and put one-half of its width, lengthwise, on a sheet of newspaper and the remaining half around the edge of the tile. I continue with this newspaper on down the tile wall, covering the tub, sink, etc. This gives a tereed effect. It takes little time and is well-worth it as there is no paint removal job when I am finished. I plan to use these newspaper "drapes" on my kitchen cabinets when I paint them and to cover the brick

Beauty Tips

Perfect Vacationers Double-knit cottons for the sport of it should be a must on your summer wardrobe list. You not only play it smart, but cool, too. They are perfect vacationers because they pack wrinkle-free and keep their shape. Tents, A-line shifts, culotte dresses, shorts and pants are the many roles they play.

Culottes in New Role

Culotte skirts, which were originally designed for sports like golf or picnicking or taking small kiddies to the park, appear in a new guise this summer. I could be a silk, dress with divided skirt for town. Culottes skirts demand good tailoring so they look graceful when seated and flowing when they walk.

Questions readers ask

Q—What is the best way to defrost a frozen turkey?

A—Defrosting a frozen turkey in the refrigerator is a time-consuming chore. Thawing at room temperature can cause bacteria to multiply rapidly. Department of Agriculture specialists, however, have just come up with a workable new idea: Thawing frozen turkeys at low enough to protect quality. This method is more convenient than thawing in a household refrigerator or under tap water. If the bird is kept in its plastic wrap and placed in a paper bag at room temperature, the atmosphere inside the bag will be only slightly warmer than the atmosphere in the refrigerator, they say. Thus, the bird can be thawed completely without exposing the surface to temperature higher than 55 degrees. Large birds (20-25 pounds) should be allowed about 16 hours thawing time; smaller ones (8-12 pounds) should be allowed about 12 hours. Be sure to refrigerate or cook the turkey within one to three hours after thawing, the researchers advise.

Clean Leather With Saddle Soap

Leather accessories look better and age gracefully if you clean them with saddle soap. Use a damp sponge and rub gently. When dry, give the item a good, hard rub.

For and about Women

W. I. FAIR BOOTH — The County Women's Institutes yearly project display of saleable articles which include children's and adults' knitted sweaters, aprons, crocheted work and many miscellaneous articles contributed by members of each group, was held in the Palais des Sports at the Exhibition grounds during the week. Groups included in the CWI are Brompton Road, Belvidere, Len-noxville, Milby, and Ascot. Each group supervised the booth for one day. Shown above, members of the Milby W.I., from the left are: Mrs. Alan Sutor, home economics convener; Mrs. William Sutor, fair booth convener; and Mrs. Olive Painter, secretary.

PC candidate's wife lives out of suitcase while accompanying him across country

TORONTO (CP)—It's not that Mrs. Davie Fulton lacks enthusiasm for her husband's campaign for the national leadership of the Progressive Conservative party.

Her support is evident in the fact that she has been living out of a suitcase all summer accompanying him as he criss-crosses the country seeking votes for the party convention here Sept. 5-9.

But Patricia Fulton can't help wondering what will happen to her own interests if, as she hopes, her husband becomes leader.

"I hope I won't be submerged in social duties and can carry on," she said as she sat in a Toronto hotel room surrounded by luggage.

What this articulate, petite blonde is determined to carry out is her active involvement in volunteer social work. She heads the family and child division of the Canadian Welfare Council.

Mrs. Fulton has been involved in social work since before her marriage in 1948. Her appetite has been whetted, however, by the things she has seen while travelling with Mr. Fulton on his political campaigns.

"We've seen places the rest of Canada doesn't know about. In the slums of every city there are people who grow up, marry and die on welfare."

"Living that way it's easy for a person to become thoroughly discouraged. We need crash programs so that when a man falls from the employment stream, our ablest people assist him right back into the stream."

Mrs. Fulton is convinced that her children, Mary, 18, Trish, 16, and Cynthia, 12, will spend a great part of their lives working. That's one reason she says day care centres for children are a proven need.

She is also publicity chairman for the Vanier Institute of the Family.

"It's going to last for 100 years. To maintain its independence the institute needs a good deal of support—$10,000,000 so it can live on its income."

Despite these interests, Mrs. Fulton does not begrudge the time spent on the leadership campaign. She finds it exciting and fun because all the candidates are good friends and closely associated.

Campaigning has not left much time for the Fultons to relax at their British Columbia mountain lodge. In winter they run a ski and shooting resort and in summer they usually all fish and swim in ice cold Lac Jeune.

MUSIC ON RECORDS

By JOSEPH and SUSAN WEARING

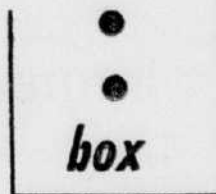

HANNE-LORE KUHSE — A Lieder Recital; Schubert, Wolf, Brahms, Dvorak; Hanne-Lore Kuhse, soprano; Taji-ro Jimora, pianist. (RCA VICTOR stereo LSC 2967) — The songs in this recital were well chosen to display Miss Kuhse's voice and talent at its best in lieder. Here is a glorious, full-throated soprano voice with a slight edge to it — not seriously. She phrases beautifully, and her long sweeping phrases are particularly effective because of her big voice backing her up. The long ascending scale in "Du bist die Ruh" (Schubert) is quite thrilling. Sometimes her characterization tails off after a good start — "Die Forelle," for example, and in "Vergebliches Staenchen" (Brahms) she is not overly imaginative. Generally this is a good performance from a very promising lieder singer.

GLUCK — Orpheus; Ballet Suite; RAMEAU — Castor et Pollux; Ballet Suite; London Symphony Orchestra; Charles Mackerras, cond. (PHILLIPS WORLD SERIES stereo; also playable on mono PHC 9002) — Rameau's ballet suite from "Castor et Pollux" is full of interest, with its great variety of styles and moods. The very spirited "Air de triomphe" — Air your les athletes" is followed by a graceful "Gavotte" from the flutes. The piccolos give the "Air gal" a comic note.

Gluck's ballet suit from "Orpheus," similarly varied, contains the sublime "Dance of the Blessed Spirits" and "Pantomime" as well as an exciting perpetual motion "Dance of the Furies." The LSO are excellent. Charles Mackerras has chosen his tempi carefully with a firm, rhythmic yet yielding and graceful, beat.

It's an ill wind that does not blow some good, and this is particularly true in the case of the United States Treasury Department's decision to remove the $1.29 price lid on silver. One of the hardest hit is the Royal Canadian Mint which has been forced to stop striking silver 50 cent pieces and silver dollars and speed up plans for an early release of nickel 10 cent and 25 cent pieces. Also hard hit are the silverware, film and even dentist's suppliers who are now studying upward price adjustments for their products.

On the other hand, coin dealers in the United States report their business is "booming" as they buy silver certificates by the thousands at 15% to 25% premium from the public which is delighted at the unexpected profit on what, until now, was just spending money.

Some dealers sell the silver certificates to agents who use them to buy silver from the Treasury Department. Other dealers buy the silver bars direct and sell them on the common market. What makes the silver certificates valuable is that the Treasury Department will accept them as payment for silver at $1.29 an ounce and the silver can then be sold on the world or free market at $1.90 an ounce.

The English 1967 gold sovereign is now available in Canada.

Despite the shortage of 50 cent pieces and silver dollars the Royal Canadian Mint is accepting orders until September 30 for the Centennial Coin sets. Recent deliveries of the 6 coin sets and silver medallion presentation set have been made four months after acknowledgement of orders, while the gold presentation set was delivered in six months.

This teen view of life is not the tedious norm

MR. AND MRS. BO JO JONES by Ann Head; Longmans; 252 pages; $6.25.

Usually reading about life supposedly through the eyes of a teenager is tedious, uninteresting or affected, but Mr. and Mrs. Bo Jo Jones is the exception.

Author Ann Head lets 16-year-old July take over. She rambles on in a perfectly natural manner which is appealing even if her reasoning is a trifle mature for a carefree teenager.

July, of the comfortably upper class family, with no economic or emotional problems, finds herself pregnant, the result of the romantic circumstances of a school dance, a moonlit evening and the proximity of the most sought after football player on the school team, Bo Jo, the 17-year-old son of a working class family, his parents only remaining dream of a member of the Jones family becoming a college man. The pathetic part is that two perfectly nice young people have very little attraction for one another.

Well portrayed is the reaction of the newlyweds to their respective families and vice versa, so much so that the reader almost feels as though he were eavesdropping on an embarrassing private affair.

The once carefree Bo Jo out of the football uniform and into a flannel suit goes into a made position in his father-in-law's bank, the child bride is left to her own devices in a one-room apartment where she has no knowledge of interest in her chores. On a diet of hamburgers and ice cream they fret and squabble their days away while the friction between and over their families becomes greater.

July becomes friendly with a young woman who does something about an unwanted pregnancy and July suddenly realizes how very precious the life of her own child has become to her.

Unknowingly the Jones are growing up and are mature enough to weather tragedy when it strikes.

Withstanding, if falteringly, the pressure of their parents, the Jones' work out their own problems and the author doesn't weaken a good story by a hand in hand into the sunset scene.

Mr. and Mrs. Bo Jo Jones would be a good book to place on the library shelves of teenage readers.

Jottings

By GLADYS TAYLOR

Readers of a recent column in which I mentioned the Writers' Congress sponsored by the Canadian Authors Association and held in Montreal in June of this year, might be interested to know that in 1933 the C.A.A. held their convention in Quebec City and part of the program that year was devoted to "Les Cantons de l'Est".

The part of the program devoted to the Eastern Townships was presided over by Dr. Duncan Campbell Scott and Mgr. Camille Roy. A message of welcome was read from Cardinal Villeneuve and the address of the evening was given by Louis Philippe Robidoux of Sherbrooke.

To quote from THE AUTHORS' BULLETIN in which details of the convention were published: "He (Mr. Robidoux) gave an interesting account (published in full by the SHERBROOKE TRIBUNE on July 3) of the literary movement in the Eastern Townships — prepared, naturally, before he could have heard the remarks of M. Leon Gerin at this Convention. To M. Gerin himself he paid a very high tribute for his literary work, the fruit of long and careful research, especially on the life of the habitant. His monographs were models of their kind. The Eastern Townships, M. Robidoux said, consisted of two regions, of which the 'Bois-Francis', largely opened to colonization by French-Canadians, belonged to Quebec rather than to Sherbrooke. In the other region, of which Sherbrooke was the capital, the best lands had been taken up by English-speaking settlers long before the peaceful invasion of the French-Canadians. It was an arduous task, to cultivate one of the most 'accidentee' regions in the Province. No wonder it had not produced so many great men, especially artists, as the Bois-Francis had. Practical labour came before poetry; it was hard to sing on an empty stomach. The men of the Townships had had to play the axe before they could learn to play the harp and the lyre. The first French-Canadian writer of the Sherbrooke region was Abbe J. B. Chartier of Coaticook, who published in 1871 LA COLONIZATION DES CANTONS DE L'EST". Their first poet was Ernest Marceau, born at Danville in 1852. The first French-Canadian poetess, Mme Duval-Thibault, was the daughter of a Townships man who had migrated to Massachusetts, and her volume LES FLEURS DU PRINTEMPS was published at Fall River.

Describing the work of many writers in the Townships from that time to this, M. Robidoux said that the most representative of all their poets today was Alfred DesRochers, whose two volumes of verse were entitled L'OFFRANDE AUX VIERGES FOLLES and A LOMBRE DE L'ORFORD. He noted with satisfaction that in the province of Quebec literary decentralization was operating more rapidly than decentralization of industry and trade.

THE AUTHORS' BULLETIN of that September, 1933, issue went on to report that "Damase Potvin of Quebec, contributed a paper on literary life of the region of which the Provincial capital was centre, and Abbe Tessier, in a paper read at Saturday morning's session dealt with the region centering at Three Rivers, where he is Prefect of Studies in the Seminary."

THE EIGHTH DAY by Thornton Wilder; Fitzhenry and Whiteside; 435 pages.

This first novel since 1948 of the celebrated Thornton Wilder came out last spring.

It is, however, an autumn book; not simply because Wilder is in the autumn of his life, but because Eighth Day is a gentle, mellow, enormously luminous story glowing with the kind of nostalgic sunlight that glints through a lane of orange maples in October.

Gentleness is a difficult quality to sustain in a long novel, and it is one indication of Wilder's talent that he can do so successfully. Too much gentleness, and some writing becomes a mere empty, gray whisper; too much, and other writing becomes maudlin.

Eighth Day is neither pale nor syrupy. It has both substance and almost poetic style. The book begins with a murder case — but one approached from a thoughtful and not sensational point of view. It ends, appropriately enough, with the solution to

Neurosurgeon Penfield lays down scalpel and picks up pen for social dissection

MAN AND HIS FAMILY by Wilder Penfield; McClelland and Stewart; 93 pages; $1.50 paper; $3.50 cloth.

THE DIFFICULT ART OF GIVING: THE EPIC OF ALAN GREGG by Wilder Penfield; Little, Brown and Company; 405 pages; $9.75.

Dr. Wilder Penfield, the author of these two books, is a renowned neurosurgeon. He was the first director of the Montreal Neurological Institute.

In addition to his busy life of practice, research and teaching Dr. Penfield has become a creative writer and a distinguished lecturer.

Penfield's books range over a wide field of interests — medical (Brain mechanisms), historical fiction (The Torch) non-fiction (The Second Career, which was reviewed here earlier), MAN AND HIS FAMILY, may be placed in the last category.

The purpose of MAN AND HIS FAMILY is two-fold. First, this is a series of lectures Dr. Penfield delivered at Mount Allison University, Sackville, in connection with the Josiah Wood Lectureship. According to the terms of the deed of gift by Josiah Wood copies of the lectures "may be sold, in so far as there is a demand for them".

Secondly, Penfield as the president of the Vanier Institute of the Family, writes in the preface, "It gives the late Governor General Vanier a somewhat wider audience for what he had to say. It expresses, also, the thoughts of one who was converted to the Vanier idea".

MAN AND HIS FAMILY endeavours to show how great was the need of this country for the newly created Vanier Institute. The Institute, Penfield writes, is based on the proposition that, through the family, civilization can be controlled and the evolution of society can be directed.

Dr. Penfield describes a crisis of change in human behavior and the relation of this change to society, culture, education, church, and the family of man.

This is a very small book, but don't be misled by its size. Its theme is the importance of the family in today's society. Dr. Penfield shows great skill and knowledge as he incisively dissects the family, locates the cancerous spots, and attempts to recommend the cure.

THE DIFFICULT ART OF GIVING, is a different book from Penfield's previous books. Actually this is a biography of Alan Gregg.

Who was Alan Gregg? What had he to do with the Difficult Art of Giving? This is the story Dr. Penfield tells in his book. And what an interesting and fascinating story it is!

Alan Gregg was born in Colorado, U.S.A., and educated at Harvard University. He began his career as a physician. Later he became one of the Rockefeller Foundation's chief executive officers.

about the story behind the development of the Rockefeller benevolent trust fund, as well as about Gregg himself. In 1937 the Foundation had a budget of eight million dollars. It had to carry on through two world wars. There were the terrible days of the Great Depression. It was necessary for the "Giant" who administered the fund to investigate very thoroughly all requests for aid. The Foundation gave substantial aid to medical projects all over the world. Gregg, because of his special qualifications in the medical field had special responsibilities in this area.

Dr. Penfield relates in detail the fact - finding visit of Gregg to Montreal, as the representative of the Rockefeller Foundation, in connection with the proposed McGill University's Neurological Institute. After Penfield had presented his case Gregg replied: "This is exactly the thing we are looking for at the Rockefeller Foundation — a plan and a lead that gives real promise. We can do no more than help to provide you with the environment so the work can go on. Don't ever thank us. We thank you. You can help us do our job".

The theme of this book is giving. "If you have to say no, don't forget to walk to the elevator", was one of the ground rules of the trustees whose job it was to give away millions — and of course refuse countless demands.

Penfield draws a very warm and friendly picture of his subject. He had access to Gregg's personal papers, letters, diary, and a collection of philosophical observations and conclusions written by Gregg.

His diary reflects his daily work routine of "each day an adventure in friendship, understanding and factfinding".

Autumn murder and gentle musings

the case, revealed by the elder of an unidentified religious sect who could be Wilder himself, commenting not sadly but a little wistfully on the modern human condition.

Between the murder and the solution is the story of two southern Illinois families, neither of which is remarkable for very much apart from the murder (an Ashley is convicted of murdering a Lansing).

On the framework of what happens to the various members of each family, Wilder inobtrusively drapes a view of life.

Wilder's writing is tuned to the sound of vowels. Harsh consonants do not intrude. They are largely absent.

And so, to the last. "History is one tapestry. No eye can venture to compass more than a hand's breadth... there is much talk of a design in the arras. Some are certain they see it. Some see what they have been told. Some remember that they saw it once but have lost it, ... some find strength in the conviction that there is nothing to see. Some".

It is significant that there is no period after the last word in the book, "Some". No one who has read Eighth Day will mistake the omission for a typographical error.

KNOWLTON
Townships

THE ANNUAL MEETINGS of the historical societies throughout the Townships focus the attention of postal history scholars on the early postal system in this important part of Canada. These societies would be very glad to receive any information you may have which concerns the transportation of mail and the post offices of the early nineteenth century. Many of the post offices are no longer in existence and in some instances early records have been lost.

It is possible, however, that much of the equipment and some of the records of these early offices is in possession of Township residents today.

The writer has a stamping device which was used at a Post Office to imprint the Royal Crown in the sealing wax used on registered money packets, this device was in use prior to Confederation. The contents of early letters tell much of life in days gone by and many times important information concerning early stores and places of business can be found. Several letters which a collector showed the writer recently had information about early lumbering operations in the Magog area, and they were very interesting.

Postal history is a field that has been sadly neglected by collectors in our part of Canada. Some of the historical societies have displays of early letters but in most instances they are primarily concerned with the letters and not the postmarks. The letters of early days were picked up along the routes used by the stage coaches and they will bear a "way letter" marking, others were handed the driver by small post offices long since closed. It is a fascinating field and it is hoped that collectors will try to preserve some of these covers and keep them in the Townships.

With the closing of railway mail services the cancellations used on the trains are difficult to obtain and we should have a very special interest in these as the first mail car to be used in Canada was operated on the Montreal-Richmond-Island Pond, Vt., run by the Grand Trunk.

Sea love permeates Chichester's group of adventure tales

ALONG THE CLIPPER WAY by Francis Chichester; Hodder and Stoughton; 256 pages.

Surely no man could be more competent to write of Clipper ships and sailing the seven seas than the famous British yachtsman Francis Chichester whose adventures make his first name more than appropriate. Because of his own intrepid spirit he recognizes courage and fortitude in others, as this present book ably typifies. In it, he lets sea-lovers tell the stories of their adventures, he being a kind of interlocutor.

One of the most amazing stories is told by England's Dr. Bomford who sailed for 65 days, 2,750 miles from the Canary Islands to Barbados, in an open rubber dinghy with only the most primitive equipment and no food or water, to prove his theory that most of the 50,000 people (annually) shipwrecked but brought to safety "died because they thought they were going to die and were attacked by panic and despair."

He thought the deaths unnecessary. They could survive on sea-water, the juice squeezed from fish and the flesh of fish. His diary tells in very graphic manner, of his experiences.

Another fascinating tale is that of Ann Davidson, the only woman who has sailed across the Atlantic alone. Mrs. Davidson's diary is gay, even flippant at times, in spite of the loneliness of her hours at sea, in spite of moments of despair, and ends: "And anyway, we have crossed the ruddy ocean," as though she had managed to make a cake after a rather difficult day.

ALONG THE CLIPPER WAY has an almost endless cast of characters, from Shackleton to Bloody Bill China, from the English Channel to the Antarctic Ocean and from cats to pigeons. In the latter category the tales range from the acidly humorous to the acidly sentimental.

Only people who really love the ocean and all it offers and demands can write of it with the power and simple eloquence one finds in the excerpts from diaries — and from Conrad's exceptional sea stories — Mr. Chichester has chosen.

For old salts or armchair sailors, this delightful and exciting book offers hours of reading and re-reading.

Truth love's strength

COMING OUT by Theodore Isaac Rubin; Munsion; 99 pages.

COMING OUT is a valuable and enjoyable book consisting of two letters between a boy and a girl in which they are as honest as possible with each other. The book's style effectively portrays the author's belief that when a male and female successfully communicate, their chances for a lasting, alive love are greatly enhanced.

In the letters the boy and girl discuss their love for each other, feelings towards others, their past and future. Words and sentences are not set down completely grammatically, but rather as an expression of the letter writer's stream of consciousness. Adjectives are heaped upon each other, giving a rhythmic effect that is pleasant to read.

In their self-analysis and analysis of others around them are embodied theories of psychology. Ideas of why people act in certain ways towards others are expressed simply and poignantly, a manner that is more reaching than a psychology text book. The author is a practising psychiatrist and is also the author of the book, David and Lisa, which became a highly acclaimed movie.

Reading COMING OUT is like meeting two very happy people and understanding why they are happy. It will likely leave readers warm, optimistic and with a greater understanding of themselves and those close to them.

Bro. Frost, on behalf of the Maple Leaf Lodge, who were hostesses for the occasion, extended an invitation to a light lunch in the dining room. Grace was said by Bro. Monahan, and at the close of the lunch, Bro. Ray McMorine Grand Representative, asked Bro. Loken G.M. for a few words. Several others expressed pleasure at being present at such an occasion.

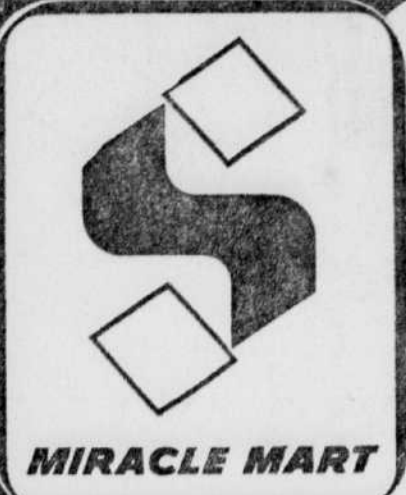

Bro. Roy Monahan, Grand Chaplain of the Grand Lodge of Quebec, gave the invocation. Responsive reading and Scripture were followed an appropriate prayer by Mr. Westman, with all joining in the Lord's Prayer. After which the Prayer of Dedication was given by Mr. Westman.

Floral tributes were placed on the monument by the Grand Master, Bro. Wilhelm Loken, of La Tuque, and by Sister Audrey Wheeler D.D.P. of Olive Branch 39, Richmond, with Mr. Westman pronouncing the benediction.

Asbestos couple feted by family to mark 36th wedding anniversary

ASBESTOS - Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Morrill, Asbestos, were guests of honor at a 36th wedding anniversary party given by their children. The event was held at the Valleyview Hall, Richmond.

Upon entering the hall, the honored couple were met by their grandchildren and presented with a red rose corsage and a white rose boutonniere. The best man, Charles Young, was also presented with a white rose. Mrs. Warren Patterson, the bridesmaid, was unable to attend.

The evening was spent playing cards with the young folk enjoying various games.

Winners at cards were Alden Boneham, Cedric Morrill, Mrs. Stanley Taylor and Mrs. Douglas Livingstone. Consolation prizes went to Don Eaton and Mrs. Ralph Fowler.

Seated at the head table were the guests of honor, with their attendant, Mr. Young, the bride's brother, Mr. Walter Baker and Mrs. Baker and the groom's sister, Mrs. Charles Young.

The table, attractively decorated with pink and white streamers, candles and summer flowers, was centered by a tiered wedding cake, topped with small flowers. The cake was made by their daughter, Thelma, Mrs. Ralph Fowler, who was assisted in decorating it by Mrs. Gordon Healy.

A humorous poem was composed and read by their daughter, Eileen, Mrs. Steve Perkins. Mrs. Clayton McCourt also read a poem. A grandson, Clifford Perkins, played a record entitled, The Little Old Ford.

Mr. and Mrs. Morrill were presented with a leather rocking chair by their children and families. They received cards, gifts and money from relatives and friends.

The evening closed with the singing of For they are Jolly Good Fellows. Happy Birthday was sung to Mrs. Edmond Taylor, who was celebrating her 80th birthday the following day.

The bride and groom were married at St. Ann's Anglican Church, Richmond. They have five children, Thelma, Mrs. Ralph Fowler, Eileen, Mrs. Steve Perkins, both of Richmond; Ronald of Washington, Ill.; Harry at home and Merck of Danville.

Miscellaneous shower held for bride-elect

SUTTON JUNCTION - Miss Cheryl Brown, a September bride-elect, was guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower, held August 10 in St. Aidan's Hall.

The shower was arranged by the Ladies Guild, as a surprise to the bride-elect, who on arriving was met by the president, Mrs. Robert Wilson, who pinned on a corsage of Sweet Peas, and escorted her to a chair and table, decorated with pink and white streamers and white wedding bells. The gifts were attractively arranged on the table.

Seated with Miss Brown was her mother, Mrs. W. Brown, who assisted her in opening the gifts.

Refreshments were served buffet style, while tea and coffee was poured at a lace-covered table, centered by a show-er cake, decorated in pink and white, flanked by white tapers in silver holders. Baskets and vases of summer flowers completed the decor.

Mrs. W. Brown, mother of the bride, poured coffee. In the absence of the groom's mother, Mrs. N. Osborne, Brome, who was unable to attend due to illness, tea was poured by the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Leslie Brown, West Brome.

Miss Brown's marriage to Torrance Osborne has been arranged to take place on September 9.

C. R. MacLean, a past District Governor, on behalf of the Rotarians and Rotary Anns, extended official greetings of the club and said that the club is famous for two things, it was the first international club, and now is believed to be first to have two of its members joined in marriage. $4,650 will be at stake on weekend racing card tonight and Sunday evening, 153 horses are entered

A Preferred Handicap Pace for a purse of $400 will feature the weekend card at the Sherbrooke Race Track. This evening's card it could be lower than that.

Robert Jutras with Anita Adios has the pole with Nobleman Pick in second. Jacques Lefebvre and Julianna Herbert has the third spot with R. Dupont and Allandale Volo next in line while Gilles Jutras and Duke Crain have the sixth spot with Diana's Gem on the outside in sixth.

A total of $4,650 will be at stake in purses on the weekend. This evening the drivers will battle it out for $2,300 while Sunday night, $2,350 will be up for grabs.

Robert Jutras driving Bel River has the pole and last Saturday they finished ahead of Bruno Chabot and Van Dean pulled in second followed by Jerry Robinson and Pine Acres. Scott, Mrs. Bennett's Premium was fourth while Kadiz was sixth and Lynn Ibañ was a poor seventh.

In the rest of the classes this evening all have eight starters except the sixth and ninth classes. With the classes all filled some good racing should be witnessed before the winners emerge.

In the big race Sunday evening only six pacers will go to the gate. Last Sunday R. Belanger with Diana's Gem finished ahead of the field but an accident to Anita Adios, Lancer Hanover and Allandale Volo knocked them out of the running with Julianna Herbert finishing second and Duke Crain third.

This class should be a tough battle the whole way as any of the six could lead the field up der the wire. Last Sunday Diana's Gem was clocked in 2:07 1/5 but if the weather is good it could be lower than that.

Record books receive overhaul as the Giants beat Cincinnati

Gaylord Perry of San Francisco Giants has a scoreless streak of 29 innings and Cincinnati Reds have a drought almost as long.

The record books received a thorough overhaul Friday before a bases-loaded walk in the 21st inning gave the Giants a 1-0 victory over Cincinnati.

Perry went the first 16 innings for the Giants. He gave up 19 hits and struck out 12. Perry has not allowed a run in 29 innings and the night's work lowered his earned-run average to 2.96 from 3.17.

The end came when Jim Hart singled, Ollie Brown doubled, Hal Lanier was walked intentionally and Dick Groat was walked unintentionally, forcing in Hart.

The game will go into the record books under the following classifications:

1. Longest night game in National League history.
2. Most time consumed by a National League night game, five hours and 49 minutes.
3. Longest 1-0 game.
4. Tie for the most innings played without a run. Boston Braves and Pittsburgh Pirates played 20 scoreless innings in 1918 before Pittsburgh won 2-0.

Billy Wilson registers ace at North Hatley

Billy Wilson of North Hatley joined the charmed circle of golfers yesterday afternoon when he potted a hole-in-one at the Massawippi Golf Club in North Hatley.

The 17-year-old youngster registered his ace at the ninth par-three 137 yard hole. He used a number eight iron to accomplish the feat. He was playing in a foursome with Ed White, Bill Sargent and Ollie Knutson.

In other National League action, St. Louis Cardinals blanked Houston Astros 5-0, Pittsburgh Pirates shut out Philadelphia Phillies 3-0, Los Angeles Dodgers beat Atlanta Braves 6-4 and Chicago Cubs split a doubleheader with New York Mets, winning 8-2 and losing 3-0.

Mel Queen went the first 9 1/3 innings for Cincinnati and both clubs had plenty of scoring chances. The Giants finished with 15 hits and the Reds with 12.

Nelson Briles, a graduate of the defunct Western Canada Baseball League, gave up eight hits, but kept the Astros from scoring.

Albany Felt rallies to dump Bruck 10-5 in opening game of softball Series B round

COWANSVILLE — Albany Felt shoved ten runs across the plate to chalk up a 10-5 victory over Bruck in the first tilt of their semi-finals in the Cowansville Softball League.

It was the first tilt of Series B and the winner will move into the finals against the winner of Series A.

Bruck opened in the first when Pete Rondeau and Luc St. Onge singled and they crossed the plate when Luc Bisailion banged out a double. In the third frame Bruck added three more when Rondeau lashed out a double. A sacrifice and back-to-back doubles by Bisailion and Andre Pouliot.

Albany chalked up their first runs in the bottom of the third. A single by Bernie Duval started things off and Fern Beauregard followed with a double and Ted Bouchard connected for a single to score two runs.

In the fourth Albany struck again and shoved five runs across the plate to settle the issue. Claude Cote, Beauregard and Bouchard came through with the hits to do the damage.

In the sixth inning Albany drove three more runs across the plate. Pitcher Franklin helped his own cause with a double while Duval drew a walk and Beauregard connected for a double. Pierre Lussier finished it off after Bouchard had been given a free pass to first on a lousy double.

Olympics meet Athletics

Sherbrooke Olympics square off against the Drummondville Athletics in the first game of their best of seven Quebec Lacrosse League final playoff Sunday night in Drummondville.

The Olympics, who outplayed the Sorel Titans to grab their semi-final title in five games, will be the underdogs in the contest that pits them against this year's league-leading Athletics. The A's, led by Doc Chabot, won the Eastern Canada Lacrosse Championship last year and will be gunning to make it two in a row.

The second game in the series will be battled here Monday night, September 4, at the Sports Palace. Indications point to a recordbreaking crowd since Monday is Labor Day and the fans can expect some of the best action of the season.

The Drummondville squad ran into a bit of trouble in their semi-final contest as they had to go the full stretch of seven games to overcome a stubborn Valleyfield team. The Braves managed to tie the series at 3-3 to force Drummondville into a decisive contest last week which the A's won 9-7.

Things could well shape up into a goaltenders duel in the Sherbrooke - Drummondville clash. The Olympics' Terry Burgess lost out in his bid to grab the goalie's title by a fractional margin to Drummondville's Jean-Paul Tellier.

Two prize late season pick-ups in thick of AL flag scramble

Ken Harrelson and Ed Matthews, prize late-season pickups for Boston Red Sox and Detroit Tigers respectively, found themselves in the thick of the American League pennant scramble Friday night—with different results.

Harrelson, signed by Boston last week after being dropped by Kansas City Athletics, drove in four runs with a homer, a triple and a double as the Red Sox emerged from a hitting slump, pounded Chicago White Sox 10-2 and clung to first place.

Mathews, acquired by Detroit in an inter-league trade with Houston Astros last month, committed two first-inning errors as the Tigers fumbled away a 5-4 decision to the second-place Twins at Minnesota.

The Red Sox still lead the Twins by one half game while third-place Detroit is three games behind and the fourth-place White Sox trail by 2 1/2.

California Angels rallied for two runs in the ninth inning and won a 4-3 victory over Cleveland Indians. New York Yankees edged Washington Senators 2-1 in 12 innings on Mike Hagan's first major league homer and Baltimore Orioles shaded Kansas City 2-1 in other AL games.

PETERS ROUTED EARLY
The Red Sox, who had managed just two hits in Thursday night's 4-2 loss to Chicago, battered White Sox ace Gary Peters for seven runs in the first two innings and breezed the rest of the way behind the strong pitching of Jose Santiago.

The Canadian girls failed to show in this competition as Bonnie Murdison ranked eighth with her best leap of 24 metres and Vailla Hoggan came in, lying 22 1/2 metres.

The high point of the afternoon came when South Africa's Diederne Barnard had some poor luck in her approach to the five-foot ramp and went over the second slot with 4,246 points, edging with arms and legs akimbo.

Ronnie Winter wins Handicap at Dufferin

DUFFERIN — The Dufferin Heights Golf Club staged their handicap championship tournament last Sunday and Ronnie Winter emerged the champion.

Winter won the playoff against Gilles Ledoux and Vic Denney. He posted a 34 on his first round and then back with a 37 for 70 and the honors. It was a close battle.

In the WAG tourney held during the season captain Richard Wing led his squad of Mitch Miner, Pierce Ellis and Bill Pope to victory. The event ended Wednesday evening and a corn roast was held as a climax.

The club championship will be held on the weekend of Sept 9-10 with a round each day. The season will end on Sept 17 with the annual Western Open when the closing banquet will take place Saturday, Sept. 23 when the trophies and prizes will be awarded.

Belleview Golf Club holds junior tourney, 32 players compete in six age groups

MELBOURNE — A junior golf tournament was staged at the Belleview Golf Club here the first such event ever held at the local club.

Mrs. Clara Cleveland, club professional, was in charge of the tourney. She has been giving lessons every Wednesday to the junior members and 32 turned out for the final competition.

The field was divided into six groups according to their ages both boys and girls. In the 16 to 18 group Anne Marie Delaney was the winner with Carole Goulet the runner-up. In the 10 to 14 class Perle Gendreau emerged the winner with Francine Brouillette runner-up.

Charles Rattray posted a 35 to win the 16 to 18 class while Terry Fuller was the runner-up with 43. Richard St. Sauveur took the 14 to 15 class with 46 and Raymond St. Sauveur he runner-up with 46.

Yvan Beaubieau knocked off a 44 to win the 12 to 13 group with Charles Doyle the runner-up with 48. Mark Murphy won the boys 11 years and under with 57 while Larry Martin was second with 58.

WINNERS — Shown above are the winners of the junior golf tournament held at the Belleview Golf Club in Melbourne. Only two elimination events remain in the 10th World Water Ski Championships and the U.S. water-skiing squad has amassed a commanding lead over the 25 other competing nations for team honors here at Jacques Cartier Park.

With a total team aggregate of 7,624 points, the Americans seem destined for another in their long unbroken string of successes in the annual international event. The Canadian skiers hold a distant second with a team total of 6,477 and only a couple of back-to-back miracles could boost the Nationals ahead of the strong south-of-the-border squad.

The two top American girls, Liz Allan and Linda Leavengood, were the main sparks of their team's surge into the top position. Miss Allan and Miss Leavengood placed one-two in the women's slalom elimination yesterday morning, rounding 39 and 38 buoys respectively.

Canada's Bonnie Murdison sneaked under the wire to make the cut as she rounded 34 buoys to place fifth among the 17 girls competing. Vailla Hoggan of Brandon Manitoba failed by two buoys to make the cutoff as she passed 31.5.

May Ward of Australia, Jeanette Stewart-Wood of Great Britain and Luxembourg's Sylvie Hulsemann all earned passes into the finals, placing third, fourth, and sixth respectively.

In the women's jumping elimination, the Leavengood-Allan American duo placed two-thirds behind Great Britain's Jeanette Stewart Wood who earned the 1,000 points awarded to every first with a leap of 29 metres. Sylvie Hulsemann gave her small nation another big lift as she placed fourth while Elaine Borter of Switzerland and Diederne Barnard of South Africa rounded out the list of qualifiers.

THE WORLD OF SPORTS

Somehow, she managed to straighten as she hit the water. Alan Keompton, Chuck Stearns, and Mike Sudyerdhond placed third, sixth, and 11th in the contest and qualify for the finals on Sunday.

The Canadians, however, made the most surprising showing in this event. Sherbrooke's own Jean Perrault collected 3,777 points for a fourth-place finish followed by George Athans, the youngest skier in the event, with 3,758. Toronto's Andy Murdison ranked eighth with 3,627.

Brian Muirhead of Winnipeg suffered his second straight setback as he came in 17th to miss the cutoff. Muirhead, who missed the opening gate yesterday in the men's slalom and was automatically eliminated, will have his last bid tomorrow as the men go through their jumps.

World Water Ski Championships to make Sherbrooke known world over Sherbrooke will be known! The Tenth World Water Skiing Championships being held in Sherbrooke will undoubtedly result in much free publicity for this city of 78,000, though according to a recent wire service story, the population is 90,000.

The Canadian Press, of which 103 Canadian daily newspapers are members, has a staff reporter on the site of the championships at Jacques Cartier Park. The stories by this reporter are carried by wire to the editorial departments of the member newspapers.

United Press International has a correspondent reporting; The Montreal Star has two staff members here; the magazine Canadian Boating, Sports Illustrated, Montreal Le Devoir, Montreal La Presse, the Boston Globe, the Department of Health and Welfare and the National Film Board are all well-prepared at the site for the events.

In addition to these magazines and newspapers, television is also well represented at this world affair.

The most outstanding contribution in this area is that by West German television, Channel 2. A team of three men, under the direction of Hanns J. Friedrichs, United States correspondent for the station, was in Sherbrooke yesterday along with his crew, they were preparing to leave for Montreal, and from there to Germany. Mr. Friedrichs said that a six-minute color tape of events at the championships will be shown on a West German TV Sports Show Saturday night. This show is one of the first that has ever been televised in color on West German television.

By DAVID ALLNUTT (Record Staff Reporter)

The CTV television network has several reporters and technicians on the site, along with a large mobile unit, from CFTO, Toronto, the CTV head station. It will be covering the event for ABC's Wide World of Sports also.

CFOX Radio, Montreal, and CHLT-TV, Sherbrooke are at present on the site. Though it is not yet known whether the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation will cover at least the final events over the weekend, 10 personnel are here with the CBC Information Service.

Besides the mass media that are present here now, various reports have been included in newspapers since the beginning of 1967 reporting on the choice of a site for the event and on the actual warm-up.

Canadian newspapers which have mentioned Sherbrooke as the site are too numerous to mention, but the circulations of these papers vary from 8,959 to 344,000.

On January 25, 1967, the Boston Globe had almost a half-page spread on the event that was to be held here. Other American newspapers with reports have been the New York Times; the Laconia, New Hampshire, Citizen; the Beverly, Mass., Times; the Kansas City Star, and the Long Island Press, Jamaica, New York.

The publicity is not yet over. With the event now in full swing, there will undoubtedly be reports in newspapers across the world.

Remember when...

Sylvanus Apps, 23-year-old McMaster University student and considered the pick of Ontario's hockey amateurs, signed a two-year contract 31 years ago today—in 1936—with Toronto Maple Leafs. The same year, Apps led Canadian scoring at the Berlin Olympics and he was voted the NHL's best rookie in his first season.

Border couple bid farewell at Legion party

STANSTEAD — Mr. and Mrs. James Thomson, of Rock Island, soon to leave here to make their home in Scarborough, Ont., near Toronto, were on August 11, guests at a farewell party held at the Legion Memorial Home.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomson, the latter's mother and sister-in-law, Mrs. Barbara Bogie and Mrs. Walter Bogie, were evening dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Black in Stanstead and were later invited to accompany them to the Legion Home.

It was upon entering that they realized what was taking place when greeted by some 80 friends. They were presented with a corsage of red carnations and a white carnation boutonniere by Mrs. June Leslie, president of the Legion Auxiliary.

The couple was escorted, as music was played by Ed Siles and his boys, to chairs before a table, centered by a cake, decorated in white and encribed with, Farewell Rock Island — Hello Toronto. The cake was flanked by candles and roses.

With Mr. Black as emcee a short program took place. J. Mitchell Thomson, a brother of Mr. Thomson, and Hector Channell, each paid tribute to the couple, who came here a few years ago from Scotland, and have been an asset to the communities. They wished them pleasant memories of the Boundary Villages and happiness in their new home in Ontario.

Mrs. Leslie, on behalf of the Legion Auxiliary, presented Mrs. Thomson with a gift while Jack Heald, president of the Legion Branch, presented Mr. Thomson with a gift from the Senior Branch.

Mr. and Mrs. Black presented an excellent farewell skit, much to everyone's delight.

The evening was spent dancing.

Refreshments were served in the lounge, which was decorated with seasonal flowers.
