Mighty US space trial off to successful start

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Gemini 8 astronauts rode a Titan II rocket skyward today, aiming for the world's first linkup of a spaceship with an orbiting satellite.

After a 105,000-mile pursuit at 17,500 miles an hour, spacemen Neil Armstrong and David Scott hope to catch and hook up with an Agena space vehicle launched from the Cape one hour 41 minutes earlier.

And in the second day of the historic venture, Scott planned to drift out of his hatch and for nearly 2½ hours hurtle through space as a human satellite. This would be a record "space walk."

The 109-foot tall Titan burst into life at 11:41 a.m. EST, right on the button. The target vehicle had flashed across the Cape minutes earlier.

Armstrong and Scott, 1,207 miles behind the Agena as they began the chase, expected to make the rendezvous 168 miles over the Pacific Ocean during their fourth orbit of the earth.

ALMOST PERFECT
An Atlas rocket, also blasting off precisely on schedule at 10 a.m., had drilled the Agena into a nearly perfect circular orbit 185.65 miles out from earth.

"Neil," mission control told Armstrong as the Atlas-Agena r-eleed off its accurate performance. "Looks like we've got a live one up there for you."

"Good show!" Armstrong exclaimed.

The Titan pitched over quickly on a southeast heading and streaked out over the Atlantic Ocean. At an altitude of about 30,000 feet, a shock wave formed around the projectile as it burst through a cloud bank.

Forty seconds into the flight,

Tories drop demands

MP's resume work

OTTAWA (CP)—The opposition brought debate on the Munsinger affair to a quick halt Tuesday after Prime Minister Pearson dug in his heels and rejected demands to change the terms of reference for a judicial inquiry.

An impassioned appeal by Marcel Lambert (PC—Edmonton West) for a seven-man committee from all parties to attempt agreement on the terms fell on deaf government ears.

Instead of prolonging debate that for four days put the name of Canada into the world's press, the Conservatives stopped and asked to return to regular business.

"We have pleaded with the government for justice to be done. . . . But the government is immovable and there is nothing more we can do," said Michael Starr, Conservative House leader.

He said the onus should have been upon Justice Minister Cardin to prove his allegation that Mr. Diefenbaker, when prime minister, mishandled an affair Mr. Cardin said involves two or more members of the Conservative cabinet of the time.

TURN'S DOWN PLEA
A final plea was entered by Mr. Diefenbaker, but the prime minister turned it down.

He said Mr. Diefenbaker had talked about how the government would always back down if the Conservatives took a strong stand.

"I don't mind giving way in a good cause," Mr. Pearson said, but he indicated this was not such a cause.

Playgirl Gerda Munsinger, the 36-year-old German woman Mr. Cardin says was a security risk when she lived in Canada from 1955 to 1961, now is the problem of Mr. Justice Wishart Spence, 62, of the Supreme Court of Canada. He is to hold the inquiry and report with "despatch."

DENIES CHARGES
Gerda, turned up last week in Munich by a Toronto reporter, denies Mr. Cardin's charges that before she came to Canada she was involved in espionage work.

Immigration Minister Marchand has said there is a question about her admissibility. But he would let her into the country on a ministerial permit if she came to testify at the inquiry.

Mr. Cardin has charged that Mr. Diefenbaker, when told by Davie Fulton (PC—Kamloops), then justice minister, about the case, erred in not referring the matter to justice department legal officers. Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Fulton have said there was no need.

Speaker Lucien Lamoureux ruled Mr. Lambert's motion out of order on procedural grounds, although he expressed the wish it had been in order so the issue would be removed from the Commons for a time.

REJECT MOTION
Another motion by H. A. Olson (SC—Medicine Hat), that would have simply asked a seven-man committee to attempt to end the parliamentary

"impasse" also was rejected. Mr. Lamoureux, whose will has relieved tensions many times since the debate began, was accorded a tribute by Mr. Diefenbaker for his handling of the debate.

Mr. Lambert said that by sending the issue to an inquiry the Commons was giving away its right to settle the question of privilege that had been raised when Mr. Cardin said two or more ministers were involved.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Six hundred Negroes rampaged for six hours late Tuesday, leaving at least two dead and 26 injured in a south Los Angeles area still showing scars of last August's bloody riots.

A force of several hundred police swiftly sealed off a 36-square-block section in the predominantly Negro Watts district, then moved in to clear the streets of mobs firing guns, hurling bottles, looting stores and upsetting cars.

Governor Edmund G. Brown flew to Los Angeles, decided against calling out the national guard and announced: "Everything is well under control for the time being."

At the height of the outbreak a white truck driver, Lawrence Gomez, 39-year-old father of five, was shot to death as he pounded on doors seeking refuge from a Negro mob.

Shortly afterward a Negro, Joe Lee Crawford, 33, died as he walked out of a store into crossfire between police and rioters.

There were unconfirmed reports of a third death. Police said 27 persons were arrested.

STARTS WITH INCIDENT
As was the case last August, when the six-day toll was 34 dead and $40,000,000 in damage from looting and fire, the violence was triggered by a minor incident.

Police said a Negro man threw a rock at a car driven by a white man. The white man, slightly injured, stopped and called police.

Negro high school students began accusing the officers of brutality in arresting the rock hurler.

Bricks and bottles flew. Police said Negroes started overturning automobiles and setting them afire.

British Tory chief backs French stand

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's election campaign has risen to an international plane following a statement by Edward Heath, Opposition Conservative party leader, indicating support for France's decision to withdraw from NATO.

Heath's position, outlined at a press conference Tuesday, marked a new policy break with the Labor government of Prime Minister Wilson.

While the Conservative leader did not go so far as to give outright support to President Charles de Gaulle's decision to withdraw French troops from NATO command, Heath said the French leader's moves were helpful in leading to a fundamental study of the future of the alliance.

Heath called for talks between de Gaulle and President Johnson, saying he was sure a compromise could be worked out on the NATO issue.

Dupuis wanted $10,000 for help, witness claims

By KARL KRAMER
(Record Staff Reporter)

St. Jean. "Here is a copy of the letter that I sent to Paul Earl. 'Till I will have something new I shall write you again, Yvon Dupuis."

Q: Have you seen the copy of the letter to Earl?
A: Yes.
Q: Was it the same letter?
A: Yes.
Q: Would you produce it as P-2?

The letter read: "My Dear Paul, 'In the past week, you've received the visit of our devoted Provincial Member Mr. Philidor Oumet, accompanied by Dr. Roche Deslauriers, of St. Johns. When they submitted to you their proposal for the establishment of a Race Track in our St. Johns area, 'I am writing you at this time to recommend to your office a favourable decision for their request. It is their intention to open the proposed project in August next, therefore, an immediate favourable reply would be very much appreciated.

"It is known that in the Greater Montreal district Louis Levesque received a monopoly in that sphere from Maurice Duplessis' hands. He is as you know the owner of Blue Bonnet and Richelleu Parks. It is interesting that it would be reasonable that the corporation applying for this permit be given a favourable reply allowing them to have harness racing in the section above mentioned. There are similar race tracks in all sections of the province of Quebec having similar or less importance than our city of St. Johns.

"Knowing how devoted you are and how generous your decisions are in helping your friends when the request is reasonable and possible, it is without hesitation that I appear to assist with total confidence to the end of obtaining the request for our good friends of St. Johns: Messrs. Roch Deslauriers, Y. Papineau and Albert Arris.

Thanking you in anticipation

ment for a permit to operate a race track.
Q: You were alone?
A: I contacted several friends: Yves Papineau, Guy Lanoue, Yvan Lebeau. The project was well seen.
Q: Did you ask help to get your project?
A: We thought it was necessary to contact the authorities on this affair.

We first of all thought of the federal deputy Yvon Dupuis who had been the provincial deputy. Q: Why did you think of him?
A: He had a lot of influence in Quebec he said. He knew all the ministers and called them by their first names: Jean (Lesage), Paul (Earl), Bernard (Pinard) etc.
Q: Was there a question of elections?
A: When I spoke to him of the race track project he said that it was he who made Lesage win in the 1960 elections and that the government could not refuse him. Without him the liberals would not have been elected.

Q: Dupuis, did he promise his assistance?
A: Yes, he himself called the provincial deputy, Philidor Oumet.
Q: Did you meet the latter?
A: Yes, that same afternoon; he was in favor of our project but was offended because we went to see the federal deputy before consulting him, the provincial deputy.

Q: Did you meet anyone else in Quebec?
A: Yes we met Mr. Oumet. Mr. Oumet said that Gelly was but a civil servant and it would be very soon for a definite answer. We had an interview several days later with a Mr. Earl. Earl was new in the department. He was in favour of the project.

Mr. Bienvenue handed a letter to Mr. Deslauriers: Would you produce this as P 2?
The document was signed by Yvon Dupuis, it came from his office, and was dated May 5,

I asked the provincial government for a permit to operate a race track.

Q: Do you like horse races?
A: Yes. At the end of 1960 I asked the provincial govern-

Roch Deslauriers, St. Johns, Que., chiropractor, was the first Crown witness to give testimony yesterday at the trial of Yvon Dupuis, former Minister without Portfolio in the Pearson administration, charged with influence peddling.

The trial before the criminal assizes of the St. Francis District Court of Queen's Bench opened Monday before Mr. Justice Evender Veilleux. Selection of the jury was completed Tuesday noon and the afternoon session was devoted to the testimony of Mr. Deslauriers. Deslauriers continued his evidence today.

Deslauriers told the court of his desire to get a racetrack permit and he said he decided to go to Dupuis for help.

Dupuis put him in touch with the local member of the Quebec Legislative Assembly, Philidor Oumet. On Mr. Oumet's advice, he approached higher-ups in the provincial revenue department but without result, Deslauriers testified.

Deslauriers said that Dupuis asked $10,000 which was to be handed over to certain provincial politicians to ease the way for the granting of the permit which was never obtained.

Deslauriers said he got the money from several sources. His bank manager lent him $2,000. His mother-in-law provided $2,400. He himself had $600. He got the other $5,000 from a Raoul Gobeil of Brossard, a Montreal suburb, he testified.

It was Mr. Gobeil who accompanied him to Ottawa to hand over the money, Deslauriers said.

In his opening address to the jury Tuesday, Special Crown Prosecutor Jean Bienvenue said he would prove Yvon Dupuis was in an extremely precarious financial position in 1961 and demanded $10,000 for his influence to get a racetrack permit.

Mr. Dupuis, he said, was an ordinary member of Parliament when in 1961 he met chiropractor Roch Deslauriers of St. Johns, Que., who was trying to get a permit to operate a racetrack. He added that Dupuis asked and got $10,000 from Deslauriers in return for a promise Mr. Dupuis would intervene with the provincial authorities to make sure Deslauriers got the permit.

The projected race track was to have been built in the St. Johns area but the permit never was granted.

In 1964, when Dupuis had become a minister without portfolio in Prime Minister Pearson's cabinet, the affair came to light following an inquiry ordered by Eric Kierans, then provincial minister of revenue.

Mr. Bienvenue said Dupuis then fabricated a correspondence dated 1961 with the aim of convincing Prime Minister Pearson Mr. Dupuis had taken no action that was criminal or reprehensible in the affair.

He said the Crown will prove Dupuis received the $10,000, the date he was given it and the denominations in which it was given to him.

Following are excerpts of Deslauriers testimony:
Q: Do you like horse races?
A: Yes. At the end of 1960 I asked the provincial govern-

Poor Butterfly thinks it's spring

GLEN MURRAY — Mrs. Clifford George was much surprised when a large black and white butterfly flew out of the clothes she was folding, after just bringing them in off the clothes line on March 4, and it flitted gaily about the house.

Perhaps Madame Butterfly, who was out a bit early, had heard the weather forecast and was seeking shelter from the downpour of rain which came the following day and the sharp electric storm which occurred Saturday evening.

Now that the weather has turned colder, the butterfly plans to remain indoors until more spring-like weather prevails and appears to be enjoying its new environment.

C of C opposes plans for administrative body

In a press release issued yesterday the Sherbrooke Chamber of Commerce said it opposed Sherbrooke Mayor Armand Nadeau's new plan for an administrative committee.

"The administrative committee, as outlined last week," the release states, "consists simply of a sort of second meeting of the city council each week, with the participation of one less alderman per ward."

five members of the council, one alderman from each ward. These aldermen, the mayor said, would have the same duties of other aldermen, but in addition would look after the administration of the city.

The release from the Chamber was ready to give the plan approval if it carried provision for an administrative secretary.

The plan as it exists now, the statement went on, does nothing more than add unnecessarily to the burdens of councillors.

The release said that the administrative machinery of Sherbrooke is unwieldy and is not able to adapt to changes.

"The future will prove," it said, "that it is necessary to institute an Executive Committee and to establish a clear distinction between the legislative and executive powers of our directors."

Last Friday the members of the Chamber's executive met with W. S. Hooper, president of the Industrial Consulting Commission. The executive offered Mr. Hooper the whole-hearted co-operation of the Chamber in the field of industrial promotion.

RICHMOND — (Staff) — One person was killed and three other people injured when the car in which they were riding struck a lamp post and careened off the road coming to rest against a tree, on the Spooner

Pond road at 8:30 last night. Dead is 17-year-old Paul Emile Gosselin, of RR 4 in Danville. Taken to St. Louis Hospital in Windsor Mills, was Yvan Boucher, 22, the driver of the car and Jacqueline Guyon, 18, of RR 1 in Windsor.

Noelia Guyon, 17, a younger sister of Jacqueline was taken to Hotel Dieu Hospital in Sherbrooke where her condition is described as satisfactory after suffering facial cuts and suspected fractures.

Boucher and the elder Guyon girl are under observation in the Windsor hospital and are expected to be released tomorrow.

According to Richmond Municipal police officials the dead victim died instantly.

Richmond growers claim potato losses

DOLLARS CLAIMED LOST — Lucien Tremblay inspecting the frozen potatoes in the field.

By WILLIAM LUNAN (Special to the Record)

RICHMOND — Richmond county potato growers are claiming a serious loss in revenue from the poor yield in crops last year, due to the climatic conditions during the harvest season.

One such grower, Lucien Tremblay, who operates an 110 acre field on his farm-land at Castle-bar, near Danville, Quebec, has marked-up an estimated $15,000 loss.

A section of land fell afoul of winter weather before the crops could be harvested from the ground and some 7000 to 8000 bags of potatoes rotted in the fields.

Last fall, while Mr. Tremblay and his helpers worked seven days per week, making for the fields between the heavy rain storms which prevailed, early frost and snow slowed down the operation considerably.

Finally, a heavy frost set in and snow covered the fields before the crop was fully harvested.

"Left in the ground was twenty-two acres of yield with no hope of salvage. The losses can not be recovered, the potatoes in the ground are unedible," Mr. Tremblay says. "It will take us three to five years of very hard work to make up this year's loss. No farmer can stand this."

According to Mr. Tremblay there were other farmers affected in the regions of Warwick, Cookshire, Compton, Joliette, Levis and Papineau county.

There is no compensation in the Province of Quebec for potato crop losses. The Department of Agriculture and Colonization considers assistance to farmers under the Federal Provincial drought relief scheme accounting for losses in sugar-beets, hay and grain crops.

Starting out in 1952, Mr. Tremblay operated his farm on a part-time basis and in 1957, commenced experimenting in the growing of potatoes. Planting 50 bags of seed, in a six-acre field, he gradually increased the seeding to 350 bags, in 1960, the work being done by horse and hand plow.

The demand for potatoes on the increase and Mr. Tremblay seeing the opportunity for making a full time business from the tubers, made plans for immediate advancement. He attended school at Ste Anne de la Pocatiere, in 1960, gaining fuller knowledge of the growing techniques of the plant.

Rotarians taken on a slide tour of 'biggest exhibition of all'

There have been other exhibitions like it in some of the great capitals of the world, but Expo '67 will top them all, said Dr. James Tomecko of Montreal in a speech to the Sherbrooke Rotary Club last night at New Sherbrooke Hotel.

"You must know that Expo is big. It isn't just the biggest in Canada or North America; it is the biggest international exhibition ever held in the world," the speaker said.

Dr. Tomecko is general manager of the Kaleidoscope pavilion being jointly sponsored by six of Canada's major chemical producers. The participating companies are CIL, Chemcel, Cyanamid, Dow, Shawinigan and Union Carbide.

The speaker, using a projector and slides, took his audience on a brief tour of the Expo site and showed artists' conceptions of some of the principal pavilions.

"The skeptics have been silenced," said Dr. Tomecko. "The islands that could not be built are now there and bustling with activity as an increasing number of buildings enter the construction phase. Some are nearing completion."

Describing the pavilion of the six major chemical companies, Dr. Tomecko rationalized the theme "color" for these participants.

"Just look around you," he said. "Virtually everything you can see — except the faces of other people — was colored by chemistry. In a very real sense it is chemistry that has allowed man to color his environment to suit his taste. The Kaleidoscope pavilion is dedicated to the enjoyment of color in our daily lives."

Dr. Tomecko described the pavilion as a means of subjecting the visitor to a total color experience in a way that has never been used before. "Images are reflected from surfaces all over the interior chambers, including the floors and ceilings," he said. "You are actually inside a kaleidoscope and I have no hesitation in saying that the effect is spectacular."

Dr. Tomecko invited his audience to visit Expo in 1967 — and, of course, Kaleidoscope — and see what the world has to offer.

"You should remember that the country which is really on display before all the rest is Canada. This is a fact in which all Canadians can take pride, and it is something from which all Canadians will ultimately benefit," he concluded.

The speaker was introduced by Gene Gingras, thanked by Ernie Gilbey.

Says pension plan aim to share risks faced by Quebec citizens

The two most probable questions that Quebecers have been pondering ever since the provincial government came out with its new pension plan are: "What will the plan do for me?" and "What are my obligations to the plan?" Roger Desfosses of the Quebec Pension Board tried to answer both questions for members of the Lennoxville Optimist Club last night.

The object of the plan, he said, is to share among the citizens of Quebec certain risks that face them all, particularly loss of income through retirement, illness or death.

The plan has four characteristics, Mr. Desfosses said: It is universal, compulsory, contributory and portable. All Quebec workers between the ages of 18 and 70 years of age must contribute to the plan. If it were not compulsory, the speaker said, it would be unworkable.

Mr. Desfosses went on to say that the plan was financed by contributions, and not by taxes. "It is a self-financed operation," he said. The plan is portable because no matter where the contributor moves, he will receive the benefits as long as he has made the required contributions. It doesn't matter if he leaves the province or even the country, Mr. Desfosses said.

He explained that if a man contributes to the plan for the required three years but dies before he reaches retirement age, the pension fund will pay into that man's estate 50 per cent of the annual retirement income he would have received at 65.

Furthermore, the man's widow, if she is between 45 and 65, is disabled, or must support dependents, will receive $25 a month, plus 37 1/2 per cent of the monthly payments that her husband would have received had he lived to retire at 65. These payments continue until they cease, or until she reaches the age of 65, at which time she receives 60 per cent of her husband's pension.

If the widow is between 35 and 45, and has no dependents, she receives 10 per cent of her husband's pension. If she is under 35, she gets nothing, as long as she is not disabled.

There is a pension similar to the widow's pension for disabled widowers. This pension is only applicable in cases where the man was supported by his wife because he was unable to work due to illness.

There is also an orphan's benefit for the children of deceased contributors, Mr. Desfosses said. The guardians of the orphaned children receive for the child's support $25 a month for each of the first four children and half that sum for each additional child. This benefit lasts until the child reaches 18, or 25 if he continues his studies.

For the children of disabled contributors, there is a similar benefit plan with the same payments as the orphans benefit. However, these benefits stop as soon as the disabled parent is able to work again.

If disability forces a contributor out of work, he will receive $25 a month plus 75 per cent of the pension he would have received at 65.

Dynamite cap injures boy

ROCK ISLAND — (Staff) — Twelve-year-old David Huitson escaped serious injury when the dynamite cap he was playing with exploded causing him to lose the little finger of his right hand. The boy was playing in the basement of his home located on Lee Street about 6 p.m. last Monday night, when he connected a battery to the dynamite cap which exploded on contact with the electrical current.

Fire levels frame home

A man, his wife and five children all escaped serious injury when fire swept through the frame home, they occupied located at RR 4 in Ascot Corner about 5 p.m. last night.

Sherbrooke firemen from number one station answered the call at 5:07 and when they arrived there was not much to do but save the surrounding buildings, and try to contain the fire. Cause was undetermined in the fire which completely destroyed the house where Mr. Roma Riendeau and his family were living.

Parliament must end shenanigans

Long before the Normans overran Britain following the Battle of Hastings in 1066, the Anglo-Saxons had established the Witagemot, a legislative body supposedly comprising mature individuals selected by the people for their superior wisdom to guide the destinies of the nation.

Following the Conquest the Witagemot disappeared but was revived some years later when King John signed the Magna Carta restoring a semblance of parliamentary government and democracy to the people of England.

The parliament so established was the forerunner for virtually every democracy in the world today.

But if the pre-Conquest Anglo-Saxons were to look at the actions of Canadian parliamentarians during the past few years, and especially during the last two weeks, they would hang their heads with shame at the levels to which at least one of the Witagemot's off-spring had sunk.

Instead of a gathering of mature, wise and dedicated men they would see a gang of primary school agers engaged in infantile exchanges.

They would see the nominal captain of the team yielding to a leather-lunged recalcitrant who gained his way because he threatened to pick up his ball and go home if the game were not played according to his rules — a ball which he should not be allowed to own in the first place if the captain had the qualities of leadership.

Then the game would degenerate into a name-calling affair and a mud slinging contest that had little to do with the merits and abilities of the participants.

But while the early Anglo-Saxons might be shamed at what they had indirectly created, the people of Canada have become alarmed and disgusted.

The twenty-seventh Parliament has got away to a very bad start, which threatens to make it even worse than the twenty-sixth which many regarded as having achieved an all-time low.

But it is only two months old and has ample time to restore itself in the minds of the public.

To do so the party bigwigs must realize that they were elected to run the country and not to play some sort of juvenile game in which lungs replace brains.

A little bit of show acting lends a spice of life to an administrative body which becomes too deeply involved with the serious matters of life, just as a good bash eases the strain on an ardent student.

This should be limited to the odd incident and not become a steady diet, lest the parliamentarian become a verbal alcoholic, demanding more and more pyrotechnics to meet his growing craving.

Canada has many problems requiring solution which can come only from Parliament. The list is long, but a few come to mind almost instantly: The transportation problem, the relations between Ottawa and the provinces, the threats of inflation, mounting costs of government, expansion of social security, the reform of the monetary and credit system, foreign relations.

With the Spencer and Munsinger cases now before judicial commissions, it is to be hoped that the politicians will find time to accomplish something — even if only to make a decision for or against state lotteries.

Redistribution studies effective

In all the hubbub about scandal and security which has been raging at Ottawa a proposal that normally would have created bitter comment has passed almost unnoticed.

Real Caouette, leader of the Creditists, has submitted a bill that would repeal the 1965 bill setting up independent commissions in each province to redraw Canada's electoral map and restore redistribution to a committee of the House of Commons.

Mr. Caouette contends that his retrograde measure has widespread support among government and opposition backbenches, a statement that must be accepted at its face value because 158 Members of Parliament from all five parties have signed 27 separate petitions asking for a debate to air objections to the maps that have been drawn up by the ten provincial commissions.

There may be minor errors in the redistribution proposals made by the commissions, but they can be overlooked as unimportant when one considers some of the monstrosities created when a Government-dominated Commons committee sought to fix constituency lines to ease the re-election of representatives of the party in power and to increase the difficulties of the Opposition.

The intensity with which nearly one-half the MP's representing all five parties are attacking the proposals of the commissioners may be taken as a sign they are effective, or might be effective, in removing many of the inequalities which now exist in constituency representation.

If the criticism had come from opposition party representatives, the non-partisan nature of the Commissions could have been disputed.

None can criticize the desire of an MP to make his re-election easier, but the interests of the politician must not gain precedence over the interests of the country as a whole.

Important intersection forgotten

Once again the City Council is engaged in reorganizing the traffic lights in various areas, but it continues to overlook the dangers to motorists and pedestrians alike at the busy Marquette-Frontenac street intersection.

Crossing this intersection in almost any direction is akin to asking a pilot to navigate a vessel through rapids with all the guidance signals removed.

One factor that makes it difficult to understand the consistent refusal to take any action at this crossing is that the changeover would require very little expenditure.

There would be no need to install a complicated new system. The relocation of two of the existing lights would solve the problem.

TODAY IN HISTORY

William of Orange was proclaimed king of The Netherlands 151 years ago today—in 1815—as a result of the political remodeling after Napoleon's fall. Belgium, once an Austrian possession, was included under Dutch rule. With the Dutch in virtual control of their country, no amount of goodwill or political reform could reconcile the Belgians to their position, and revolution broke out 15 years later. After some fighting, British mediation led to the establishment of the kingdom of Belgium under Leopold of Saxe-Coburg, uncle of the girl who was to become Queen Victoria.

1850 — Nathaniel Hawthorne's The Scarlet Letter was published, and sold out within 10 days. First World War Fifty years ago today—in 1916—German armies at Verdun again attacked Le Mort Homme and Fort Vaux; Admiral von Tirpitz, German naval commander, resigned in protest against the government's timidity; the Dutch liner Tubantia was torpedoed off the Netherlands. Second World War Twenty-five years ago today—in 1941—Allied shipping losses for the week were 27 ships totalling 146, 088 tons; Bristol underwent its eighth heavy air raid; British units in Somaliland recaptured Berbera. The PRAYER FOR TODAY FROM The Upper Room. ...ow, produce fruits that answer to your repentance." (Luke 3:8, Moffatt). PRAYER: From the depths of my transgressions against Thee and my neighbors, loving heavenly Father, I pray the prayer of the psalmist: "Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a right spirit within me." I pray in Christ's name. Amen.

Canadian import policy resented

Canadian customs laws unfair charge exporters in Britain

By GEORGE GRAHAM

LONDON — (TNS) — There is Government is reportedly here over Canada's treatment of British exporters. The British Government is reportedly considering retaliation against Canadian products unless the situation improves.

The British seem to hold Canada personally responsible for the balance of payments problems which plagued their country last year. Officials of the Board of Trade (which over here is a Government department), the National Export Council and the Confederation of British Industry have all emphasized that British exporters are not being treated fairly by Canadian Customs regulations.

One official said British producers were "sadly disillusioned" by Canada's failure to follow up former Finance Minister Walter Gordon's budget promise to give British goods the "green light."

He said hopes here soared after Mr. Gordon's promise against imports from the U.K. There is still discrimination, he charged. "We got the impression at the time it would all work very simple," he said. "But the requirements are more rigorous and demanding than we were led to believe."

The Canadian Government promised that any producer who could show his goods were discriminated against would be allowed a dispensation under Canada's anti-dumping regulations.

But Customs officials—acting with civil service thoroughness—have completely stymied British exporters.

Some 40 U.K. firms applied for relief under the new legislation which was supposed to end discrimination. So far, they haven't received a reply—and they've been waiting since August.

The National Export Council finally decided that official action was called for. The council presented one test case in December and this resulted in exporters in that category being allowed a 15 per cent. reduction in "fair market price" evaluation.

This holds out a ray of hope for British producers poised to plunge into the Canadian market. A senior Canada Customs official visited Britain early this year and left officials and businessmen here feeling that helpful changes would be made.

So far, nothing. British producers have long complained that Canada's anti-dumping regulations hit them unfairly.

For one thing, they contend that patterns of trade differ between North America and Britain, and that Canada's automatic anti-dumping provision is based on the North American system. In Britain, goods are usually sold from the factory to the retailer. The manufacturer absorbs distribution and marketing expenses.

In North America—and many other countries—goods go from the factory to a distributor who pays the distribution and marketing costs. This means that U.S. and Canadian producers can afford to sell their goods at lower prices than the British, officials here argue. "The British say they would be 'delighted' to sell to Canadian distributors at lower prices than they sell to retailers here, but Canadian law calls this dumping. To obtain exemption from the anti-dumping rule, an exporter to Canada must prove he is discriminated against in comparison with a specific competitor. Some British firms fear they will be asked to provide details of the competitor's operation—information which they say will be impossible to obtain. But a Board of Trade spokesman said there are indications Canada Customs may undertake to investigate the competitors cited in discrimination complaints. This would remove a snarl of red tape from the path of British producers wishing to take advantage of the new Customs regulations. Whatever the Canadian position on this and other details, Britons wish they could find out one way or another. "If we knew which firms are eligible and which are not, we could get somewhere," a British export official stated. "But we can't seem to get an answer from Canada." Another sore point is Canada's insistence that an import of a class or kind made in Canada must not undersell the Canadian product. The British feel that often Canadian prices are based on smaller quantities. They want Canadians to allow them to sell in Canada at prices below comparable Canadian products when the size of the British shipment is larger than the sale on which the Canadian price is based. The British Government charges, too, that Canada's official buying policy is unfair to Britain. They list several examples of military materials, aircraft and other officially-purchased articles which Canada has bought from other nations when similar products were available from Britain. Britons are deeply concerned over their trade deficit with Canada. Officials and businessmen here who appear to know amazingly little of other aspects of Canadian business life all display detailed knowledge of trade between the two countries. I have interviewed top officials in Government, banking, financial and commercial circles in London and nobody so far has heard of the Atlantic Acceptance collapse. But they can all quote the fact that Canada's sales to Britain double Britain's to Canada. Canada's exports to the U.K. have risen spectacularly in the past two years. And the increase has been mainly in manufactured goods. British officials realize that they need Canadian raw materials, but they warn that unless Canada's attitude towards Britain becomes more favorable, they may be forced to remove or reduce tariff preferences enjoyed by Canadian manufactured products. This would hit Ontario hard. Most of Canada's manufactured exports are from Toronto and southern Ontario. Last year, Canada sold the British $1.4 billion and bought $600 million in return. "Where are we expected to find money to pay for your products if you don't buy from us?"

Insanity or porphyria? MDs re-examine King George III By TOM A. CULLEN LONDON — (NEA) — Was King George III, the British monarch against whom the American colonies rebelled in 1776, as daffy as a me h' tory books have made him out to be? Most Americans have assumed that George III was mad, which would explain why he deliberately provoked the colonies to rebellion by imposing on them oppressive taxes and the like. He was in fact a manic-depressive, in the popular view, given to walking on clouds one minute and plunging into the depths of despair the next. Or was he? American historians may have to revise their opinion of George III in view of a study made by two London doctors and published in the British Medical Journal. George III was no more mad than any other 18th century politician, according to Dr. Ida Macalpine and Dr. Richard Hunter, who have examined his case history closely. Far from being insane the doctors say, he was suffering from a disease known to modern medicine as porphyria. Porphyria, which is caused by an upset metabolism, has many symptoms, such as delirium, in common with mental illness. It does not however, damage the brain. It might be closer to the truth to say that George III was the victim of doctors who surrounded him. Fortunately for him, the king had the constitution of an ox, or he would never have survived their quackery. Moreover, he took good care of his health. Far from stuffing himself with pheasant and swilling wine like some of his predecessors, George III ate sparingly, hardly touched alcohol, instead, he hunted, rode to hounds and engaged in other forms of outdoor exercise. He lived to be 82. He did suffer from recurrent bouts of an illness which his doctors diagnosed as insanity. It was characterized by colic, insomnia, stiffness of the limbs, dizziness and visual disturbance. As soon as his enemies got wind of his illness they began to invent lies which made him out to be a candidate for the laughing academy. Thus the king, while riding in Windsor Park, was said to have dismounted, approached an oak tree and shook one of its lower branches under the impression he was shaking hands with the King of Prussia. He was also said to howl like a dog whenever there was a full moon. The king's worst "attack" occurred in 1788 when Dr. Francis Willis, who specialized in strong-arm methods, was called in. Dr. Willis liked to boast that he "broke in patients like horses." Certainly he showed the king no more consideration than if he had been a wild beast. Whenever the king refused to eat, or threw off his bedclothes he was put into a straitjacket, or his legs were tied to the bed. Sometimes he was bound with ropes to restraint chair, which he bitterly dubbed his "coronation throne." Typical entries in Dr. Willis's logbook read: "His Majesty quarrelled with His tea and dinner and was confined... He threw off His wig and tie and resisted them being replaced and was restrained."

PLANT TOUR — Shown above are some grade six students of Waterloo High School who were taken on a tour of Slack's Bros. They visited the carnation division and the mushroom division, where they saw processing, packaging, and canning. Grade six teacher John Chapman accompanied the students on the tour which was conducted by plant foreman.

Plant toured by students

WATERLOO — (Special) — On Friday, March 11, students of the grade six class, Waterloo High School, taught by John Chapman, were guests of Slack's Brothers on a tour of the carnation and mushroom divisions.

The trip was made in conjunction with their study of the improvement of plants. It gave them a clear picture of the difference between plants which manufacture their own food and those which must be fed the prepared food.

The students were met by Robert Flood, general manager. After a few words of welcome, Robert Bazinet and Peter Owen plant foremen, took charge of the youngsters.

Divided into two groups, they toured the carnation division where they were first shown the sorting, packaging and shipping rooms. An explanation was given on the qualities of a number one carnation. The students found the varieties and quantities of the blooms stored in the cold room fascinating.

At the greenhouses, they were shown the various stages of the flowers growing. They learned about the growth of the plants from the rooting of the cutting to maturity.

Norbert Tousignant, personnel manager, conducted the pupils on a tour of the mushroom division, beginning with the preparation of the compost. They found especially interesting the machines which did the mixing.

COOKSHIRE — The March meeting of the Afternoon Group of the U.C.W. of Trinity United Church was held at the home of Mrs. Heatherington.

The president, Mrs. O. C. Farnsworth, and Mrs. G. W. Learned conducted the devotional period.

Four names will be sent into headquarters for the Golden Book of Remembrance.

A letter of thanks was received for money sent for postage on bales of clothes sent for Overseas Relief.

A: It was short.
Q: Would you tell the jury what he wanted you to do?
A: Mr. Dupuis told me. Send me $10,000 quickly to my office tomorrow morning or by the latest Monday morning; your track will be envisaged soon or in a few months at the latest.

A: In cash.
Q: Would you tell the jury if the $10,000 was sent quickly?
A: Yes.

A: He said I want the $10,000 to pay three civil servants of the provincial government $3,000 each and Paul Earl $1,000.
Q: The three civil servants and Paul Earl.
A: He said to pay the civil servants two days later he wanted the money at his office quickly.
Q: Reply by yes or no. Did you understand what he ordered.
A: Yes very well.
Q: Aiors, at the end of the phone call on the sixth what did you do?

Q: You have mentioned Mr. Hebert Arris?
A: Yes, a contractor. He was in favour of obtaining money.
Q: Did you tell him what the money would be used for?
A: I told him that Mr. Dupuis told me to get the $10,000 as soon as possible. The track would be a matter of things.

Beavers rally to nip Gauls 4-2

Take 2-0 lead, Real Rousseau paces attack with two goals in wide-open battle, meet again tomorrow night

By LEN O'DONNELL (Record Sports Editor)

Sherbrooke Beavers moved into a commanding 2-0 lead in the finals of the Quebec Provincial Senior Hockey League last evening at the Arena when they posted a 4-2 victory over St. Hyacinthe Gauls before a record crowd of 3,488 fans.

It was an action packed tilt for forty minutes as both clubs were flying for two periods. They say that a hockey game is a sixty minute battle but the Beavers played two outstanding periods only to emerge with the victory. Both teams slacked off in the second frame as they seemed to be waiting for their second breath. The first period was a wide-open affair.

Real Rousseau, the Beavers' hard-working right-winger, paced the attack with two goals while Bill Dupre and Rejean Richer notched the others. For the Gauls it was Gilles Bedard and Fleming MacKell. The series now moves to St. Hyacinthe tomorrow evening and back in Sherbrooke Sunday afternoon.

Andy Payette, Gauls' goalie, was a very busy man for two periods last evening and it was only his outstanding work which held the Beavers down to four goals. In the first frame he blocked 13 shots and in the final frame 13. In the middle he had an easy time with only eight.

Serge Aubry, although he didn't have as many shots, was forced to come up with some terrific saves. He handled only 24 shots during the game while Payette had 47 for the game. This gives a good idea how the game went for two periods. In the middle session Aubry had nine but some were very close.

Right from the opening face-off the Beavers jumped to the attack and Payette was called upon to extend himself but the lanky netminder came up with the top saves. Dino Mascotto went off for interference and during his enforced rest Payette stood out as the Beavers buzzed around.

Yves Cossette was next to get the nod for the cooler as referee R. Forques of Quebec was keeping things under control. During this stage the Gauls just couldn't get a good clear shot on Aubry as the local clearers did a great job.

The line of Rousseau-Carter-Drouin were all around but Payette held on. Cossette started the play with a long pass to Gilles Cartier and he fired it at Payette. Rousseau was in front of the net with Dino Mascotto draped around him when the puck bounced out and he lifted it into the net for the first tally of the game. The second frame was bad for both clubs but the Gauls managed to move to the fore on their two goals. Bedard got the first when he snared a rebound after Aubry had made a couple of saves. The Beavers were in a daze and couldn't get organized.

A minute later Fleming MacKell put the Gauls out in front when he got a loose puck on Aubry's doorstep. The Gauls held the upper hand at this period but following this goal Aubry and his crew tightened up and held them at bay.

At the start of the final frame the Beavers opened with a terrific drive. This was when the Beavers got a lucky break. Dino Mascotto, the Gauls' hard working rearguard, pulled the disc into the net by the surprised Payette. Real Rousseau got credit for the marker. This took the steam out of the Gauls and then the Beavers really opened up.

Bill Dupre broke the deadlock when he caught Payette and company off balance. He dug the puck out from behind the net and just eked it into the meshing with the Gauls standing by. He did it so fast they didn't know what happened until it was over.

Georges Guilbault set up the final tally of the game on a beautiful pass. Cossette, in the second time, got the play started from his own end. He lifted a long pass to Guilbault and he in turn dumped the puck behind the defense with Richer breaking in fast to snare it and banged a high shot into the upper right hand corner of the net. Payette had no chance on it at all.

Coach Savary threw five forwards into the fray but they failed to elicit as the Beavers came up with some smart clearing. They kept dumping the puck in fine fashion and the Gauls just couldn't get organized and when they did Serge Aubry kicked aside their efforts.

Lionel Robidas was back and saw only limited service but he will be ready for a full turn tomorrow. The Sherbrooke defensemen were tough and dished out some tough bodychecks with Jean Levesque and Cossette in the fore. The lines all back-checked well except in the second frame and this was the difference.

SHS Midgels split games in QMHA round-robin, meet St. Jean Baptiste tonight at BCS in final fixture Sherbrooke High School and the Larocque High School Tigers split their round-robin play-off games this week.

Larocque winning the opener 3-0 and Sherbrooke 4-1. Games were played Monday evening and last night at the Bishop's College School arena.

The other team in the round-robin tourney, St. Jean de Baptiste, has yet to win. They dropped 1-0 and 5-2 decisions to Larocque while being edged 3-2 by Sherbrooke High. Sherbrooke meets St. Jean de Baptiste tonight at 6 p.m. at the B.C.S. arena.

In the opening game the difference between the two clubs was Larocque goalie R. Hamel. Time after time he came up with big saves to keep Sherbrooke off the scoresheet. Hamel kept the area in front of his net clear of rubber and stopped every shot which came near him.

R. Jacques gave Larocque a 2-0 lead after the first period capitalizing on passes by linemates P. Doyon and S. Boisvert both times.

The Tigers made it 3-0 with ten seconds remaining in the game on a goal by D. Bouchard.

In the second game Sherbrooke High was out for revenge and completely dominated the play. Right from the starting whistle Sherbrooke pressed until at the 9:43 mark Steve Connor scored after beautiful setups by his linemates Jones and Haffenden.

Connor scored again for Sherbrooke at the 5:45 mark of the second period again capitalizing on passes from Jones and Haffenden.

At the 13:16 mark of the middle frame D. Bouchard scored on a break away for Larocque's only goal.

In the third period Sherbrooke High continued to press and opened a 3-1 lead at the 7:28 mark on a goal by Alan Jones. M. Oxford and D. Haffenden received assists on the goal.

Louis Hendy rounded out the scoring for Sherbrooke at the 13:32 mark with Alfred Bell and Gerry Williard getting the assists.

Maury Wills and Jim Grant quit night club to return to baseball, Bill White paces Phillies to win

Night-club entertainers Maury Wills and Jim Grant have decided there's no business like baseball. Bill White, on the other hand, is giving St. Louis Cardinals the business.

Wills and Grant finally agreed to new contracts Tuesday, ending extended holdouts and leaving five stars, all pitchers, unsigned—Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale of Los Angeles Dodgers, Jim Maloney of Cincinnati Reds and Juan Marichal and Bob Shaw of San Francisco Giants.

White, traded by the Cardinals to Philadelphia during the winter, hit three consecutive home runs in the Phillies' 8-7 exhibition victory over Boston Red Sox.

Wills, who originally sought $100,000, signed a contract for a reported $75,000 plus an extra $10,000 in bonuses. Grant signed with Minnesota Twins for a figure said to be between $35,000 and $38,000.

White was traded one year after the Cardinals won the World Series. The Cardinals were not without power of their own, Tito Francona and Tim McCarver each stroked two-run homers as St. Louis handed winless Minnesota its sixth straight setback 7-5.

Pittsburgh Pirates won their fifth without a loss, nipping Cincinnati 4-3 behind the homers of

Clay — Chuvalo bout getting run around as broadcasters want no part, 41 sponsors withdraw bid

TORONTO (CP)—The heavyweight showdown between Cassius Clay and George Chuvalo is on the verge of becoming a boxing black-out.

Promoters Tuesday billed the bout, scheduled here Tuesday, March 29, as a showdown because it has failed to gain official recognition as a championship fight.

There will be no network radio broadcast of the fight in the United States, as originally planned, because 41 prospective sponsors now want no part of it. The British Broadcasting Corp. also announced it is cancelling plans to televise the fight live via the Early Bird satellite. Meanwhile, the closed-circuit television pool, normally a main income source, continued to dry up.

TERRELL BOWED OUT
Originally, Clay was to meet Ernie Terrell, World Boxing Association champion, but Terrell pulled out in a contract dispute.

Of 170 to 180 closed-circuit TV outlets originally lined up by Main Bout Inc., holder of the ancillary rights, a large number dropped out because of boycott threats from veterans' groups incensed by Clay's stand on the United States role in Viet Nam. And when Terrell bowed out, he took more outlets with him. Officials refused to say Tuesday how many are left.

Estimates in New York placed the closed-circuit gross as low as $100,000 and had Clay's take-home pay after expenses and taxes down to $40,000. Estimates of Cassius' purses in each of his last three fights range from $360,000 to $602,000.

Tuesday Harold Ballard, executive vice-president of Maple Leaf Gardens, said first-day sales of tickets was brisk and the take was about $12,500. A

SUTTON — The first Intra-Zone First Aid competition held by the Eastern Townships Zone of the Canadian Ski Patrol System saw eight teams competing at Glen Mountain Saturday evening.

A man's team from Mt. Orford, headed by Louis Sergeant Jr. took first prize, with Orford girls placing second, and the Mt. Echo entry third. Heading the four girls was Miss Odette Pelchat of Sherbrooke, while the Mt. Echo men were led by Andre Szokoloy of St. Jean, Quebec. The five other teams entered were from Owl's Head, Bromont, Hillcrest and two teams from Glen Mountain. Planned as an annual test of first aid and patrolling skills, the competition was directed by Garth Fields, director of standards and instruction for the zone, and his counterpart in the zone's Western Section, Lorne Sanson of Farnham. Others organizing the tests and examining were: Rupert Whelan of Glen, Edward Vancouver of Bromont, Bryan Whelan of Glen, Edward Vancouver, supervisor of the Zone's central section, and the Zone supply officer, Murray Gratham.

With simulated casualties, each who posed with a broken collarbone and a skis pole penetrating the calf of a leg, the competition taxed the patrollers' and basically held to assist the patrollers in improving their techniques as ski patrollers.

Following the competition there was a presentation of the winners' trophy, which was a celluloid leg with a plaster cast on it, mounted on a smart walnut base on which was an inscribed gold plaque.

Charles Catchpugh, president of the Zone, presented the winning team with their trophy. On the team with Mr. Sergeant were Paul Bergeron, Pierre Bessette and Henri Tourigny Jr.

The competition gathering was concluded with a dance.

Injuries beset NHL All Star defensemen, Pilote latest to join circle, Habs meet Leafs

The National Hockey League's mid-season all-star defencemen are having a season of injuries.

Pierre Pilote of Chicago Black Hawks, selected to the first All-Star squad at mid-season, suffered a broken thumb during a scuffle in a game against Toronto Maple Leafs earlier in the season. He missed six weeks of action.

Then came Doug Barkley of Detroit Red Wings, who made the second All-Star lineup. Barkley suffered a severe eye injury against Chicago Jan. 30 when he was hit with a stick. He is not expected to return to action this year.

Jacques Laperriere, Montreal Canadiens defence man who made the first All-Star team with Pilote, was the next casualty. He suffered torn knee ligaments and is not expected back for the remainder of the schedule.

INJURES KNEE
The All-Star defence corps suffered another setback over the weekend when Allan Stanley

The Canadiens will attempt to halt the Leafs' late championship run of seven wins and two ties in their last 10 games.

However, the Canadiens, winless in their last four starts against the Leafs, have managed only one win and two ties in five games in Toronto and have lost four out of six in Montreal.

Punch Imlach, coach and manager of the Maple Leafs will use Bruce Gamble in goal. Gamble has earned four shutouts in seven games.

Centre Henri Richard will rejoin the Canadiens tonight after missing four games with a knee injury. Richard suffered the injury in Montreal's 7-2 victory over Detroit March 5.

The Bruins have returned winger Wayne Maxner to San Francisco Seals of the Western Hockey League and have recalled Bobby Leter from Hershey Bears of the American League.

Leter has played 125 games over three years with the Bruins. His NHL record is 18 goals and 27 assists for 45 points.

COULD REACH TOP
The Hawks could climb into first place with some help from the Leafs. Should Toronto defeat Montreal and should the Hawks beat Detroit, Chicago would move one point ahead of the Canadiens.

Bobby Hull, who set a record for most goals in a season during the weekend, will be out to increase his points lead with his eye set on establishing another record.

Hull, who has 91 points including 52 goals, is only five points short of tying the record of 96 points in a season set in 1958-59 by Dickie Moore, the former Montreal Star.

The Wings, who snapped an eight-game winless streak with their 8-4 win over Boston Sunday night, have had a bad season against the Hawks, managing only one win and one tie in 12 games so far.

The game will complete Detroit's disastrous seven-game road trip in which they have picked up only one win and one tie. They return home Thursday where they clash with Boston in the only scheduled game.

Construction for Expo '67 heads into the home stretch

Steel frames sprout

MONTREAL (CP)—The steel framework of buildings is sprouting up all over the 986-acre site of Expo 67 despite the handicaps imposed by snow and freezing temperatures.

Seven months ago, much of the location on MacKay Pier and Ile Ste. Helene and Ile Notre Dame in the St. Lawrence River was bare, a mass of mud. The only projects then under construction were foundations of the administration and press building and Concordia Bridge linking the pier and Ile Ste. Helene.

Now the bridge has been finished three months ahead of schedule, the world broadcasting centre is nearly complete and the administration building is due to be completed by May. At that time Expo's 722 employees will vacate crowded, rented office space in downtown Montreal.

Pile-drivers are hammering in foundation piles for a $3,500,000 stadium on MacKay Pier, being sponsored by the Motor Vehicle Manufacturers Association. It is due for completion by August.

It is in the stadium that some of Expo's entertainment program will be shown, including spectaculars such as a military tattoo and a display by La Gendarmerie Française. France's military police force dating back to the 15th century.

RUN BY COMPUTE?
 The control room for Expo Express, the exhibition's $12,000,000 primary transit system, is about completed and automatic control equipment, operated by a computer, will be installed to stop and start the trains at each of the five stations around the fairground.

Track is being laid over the 3½ miles of what officials said will be the most automated modern and safest rapid transit system on the continent.

It will have a capacity of approximately 60,000 passengers an hour on the six trains, and the fare will be included in the admission charge.

Track foundations are 95 per cent complete.

Paved driving is 75 per cent complete for Habitat 67, an apartment block of the future which will look like matchboxes stuck on top of each other and will cost $13,000,000. It is being built by Expo.

Thousands of shrubs have been planted as well as 3,500 large trees, about 40 per cent of the total, giving the grounds a park-like atmosphere.

TUNNEL UNDER RIVER
 Computers plan the $425,000,000 worth of construction projects to be under way on the site by spring, sort out which pavilions or projects are lagging, give priorities, tell steel companies how much will be needed, and scores of other things—making sure construction is never stalled.

The largest pavilion on the site—that of the Canadian government—is 40 per cent complete. It will cost $20,000,000.

Underneath the St. Lawrence River, engineers are working 24 hours a day to drive a subway shaft to Ile Ste. Helene, where a station is under construction and onward to the south shore of the river. This will link Montreal's $275,000,000 subway system to Expo.

Needs youthful ideas to design pavilions

MONTREAL (CP)—Ian Morton is a young architect with youthful ideas. With the job of designing pavilions for Expo 67, he needs them.

One of his main projects is the futuristic African Place, which will fit into Expo's theme of Man and His World. The honeycomb-style pavilion will house a large number of countries; it will give each room for a showcase for its culture without infringing on neighbors.

Mr. Morton, 27, a graduate of the Royal Melbourne Institute of Technology, left Australia in 1962. He went to Britain, where he worked for Sir Basil Spence, designer of the new Coventry Cathedral and architect for the United Kingdom pavilion at Expo.

In 1963 he came to Canada where he helped Moshe Safdie, Montreal architect who designed Habitat 67, a $13,000,000 apartment development of the future now under construction at Expo.

The African pavilion will be built by Expo. Individual countries including Kenya, Togo, Niger, Upper Volta, Senegal, Mauritania, Dhomey, Tanzania and Ivory Coast, will be responsible for their own exhibits.

COST IS LOW
 The African pavilion will be built by Expo. Individual countries including Kenya, Togo, Niger, Upper Volta, Senegal, Mauritania, Dhomey, Tanzania and Ivory Coast, will be responsible for their own exhibits.

One of the attractive factors is that cost will be fixed at about $30 a square foot, including management, maintenance and security services.

Construction will be of plywood and red brick coated with plastic, with a triangular pattern as the dominant feature.

WORK PROGRESSING — Aerial view of Ile Notre Dame and Ile Ste. Helene shows construction work under way on nearly all Expo 67 pavilions. The circular foundation is that of the Canadian pavilion, the cross-shaped one that of Quebec, and immediately behind that the French pavilion. The most advanced building, the Scandinavian pavilion, is on Ile Ste. Helene near the bridge. (CP Photo)

Everyone confident deadline will be met

MONTREAL (CP) — Confidence is overflowing at Expo 67—confidence that the big exhibition will be fully completed before opening day, April 28, 1967.

The atmosphere permeates the temporary quarters of the Canadian Corporation for the 1967 World Exhibition high in downtown Montreal's Place Ville Marie, where most of the executives can see Expo construction five miles away by just looking out the window.

"That bridge was finished three months ahead of schedule using the critical path method of construction," said one executive as he pointed to the $10,500,000 Concordia Bridge linking MacKay Pier to Ile Ste. Helene, both of which along with Ile Notre Dame form the 986-acre site.

Behind their enthusiasm lie the computers that are guiding the course of everything and everyone at Expo.

The computers talk and Expo jumps. "They enable us to keep track of everything, and when they talk we take action," said Andrew Kniwesser, Expo general manager.

The computers' major job is to make sure all construction schedules filed with the exhibition are possible, and if they are that contractors adhere to them.

DELAYS AVOIDED
 "All participants must file a critical path plan to make sure we know how long construction will take, and when regular construction reports are filed the thing is on time."

"When it's not, we find out why and remedy the situation before it gets out of hand." Through constant checks and cross-checks, said Mr. Kniwesser in an interview, all construction is on time and the $425,000,000 worth of building will be underway by spring.

By MICHAEL BLAIR
 (Canadian Press Staff Writer)

The target for completion of all major pavilions and facilities is January, 1967, a full three months before the exhibition opens.

Despite rapidly approaching deadlines, countries, companies and municipal governments are still announcing their participation.

Tenders are currently out for Montreal's proposed $11,000,000 tower project, which will offer about the same attractions as the scrapped Montreal - Paris tower. It will be 1,006 feet high—or 325 metres to celebrate the 325th anniversary of Montreal's founding. Will it be completed on time? Yes, says the computer which has digested the details. Recently Brazil and Kenya announced their participation.

Expo will also represent the two Canadian cultures—French and English—with all 10 provinces participating.

ABBOTSFORD W. I. will read play

ABBOTSFORD — Members of the Women's Institute are looking forward to the meeting on April 6, when a play reading will be presented. The play is entitled The Case of the Missing Handshake. The cast includes Miss Muriel Marshall, Mrs. George Gibb, Mrs. W. B. Honey and Mrs. B. Thompson.

At the recent meeting of the Institute, held at the home of Mrs. Bruce Thompson, the executive elected remained the same, with the exception of Mrs. R. Thompson, replacing Mrs. A. Rowell as president, and Mrs. W. Watson acting as convener of citizenship.

Fair may underspend its budget

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian taxpayer, who has been watching in some fascination as the bill for Expo 67 climbs steadily, may be in for some pleasant jolts. Not the least is that it now seems the fair may actually underspend its latest budget figure.

In the last six months, the over-all budget of the government-established Canadian Corp. for the 1967 World Exhibition has been boosted to $282,000,000 from the previous figure of $244,000,000.

Now Andrew Kniwesser, general manager of the corporation, hints that this latest figure will not be reached and says he hopes to have some financial surprises when Expo's bills are finally settled.

As a moderate start, he revealed Expo has underspent its operating budget for 1965. This budget was $8,000,000, and savings on it are expected to be about $250,000. Other economies are looked for on about $105,000,000 worth of construction contracts let by Expo last year.

DEFICIT MAY DROP
 If Mr. Kniwesser's forecast holds up, it could mean a drop in Expo's big expected deficit. While the spending estimates have been climbing, so have those of revenues—to $221,000,000 from $184,000,000 in the last six months.

This leaves the fair now with a deficit, on paper, of $61,000,000, compared with an original figure of $40,000,000 set by Parliament. The federal government is to absorb half, the province of Quebec 37½ per cent and the City of Montreal 12½ per cent.

Expo has earmarked $200,000,000 for construction, and contracts up to $105,000,000 so far have been let. Mr. Kniwesser, former economic and commercial adviser at the Canadian embassy in Paris and a graduate of Queen's University, said construction costs have been lower than budgeted for in some instances.

Other countries and provinces are expected to spend $200,000,000 on pavilions, and private industry $32,000,000, for a total of $232,000,000 worth of construction. Countries will pay $2

Automation death of weekend?

OTTAWA (CP) — Automation may mean the death of the weekend, says a management consultant Elizabeth Smith.

"The office is not necessarily going to be closed on Saturday and Sunday any more. I think with automation your office job is going to become almost like your plant job. You're going to have shifts."

Mrs. Smith, who manages her own placement agency for women in Toronto, makes the prediction in an interview with the publication Business and Professional Woman.

Rites proscribed by Queen Victoria endorsed by King of Ghana's tribe

ODUMASE KROBO, Ghanaian hood, including a chastity test. (Reuters)—The king of Ghana's Krobo tribe believes puberty rites for girls, proscribed by Queen Victoria but some surviving to this day, are good for his people.

Burly dark Nene Azu Mate Krole, 56, recently discussed the custom of training an adolescent girl for marriage and motherhood, including a chastity test. Although the king has no political power in Ghana he is venerated, and his moral influence is immense among his 180,000 people. His father, Sir Emmanuel Mate Krole, was knighted by Victoria for persuading his people to come down peacefully from their mountain in 1892.

WARSAW (Reuters)—The art of discreet professional match making for a price has shown signs of making a revival in Marxist Poland.

For centuries, the art of matching girls with fat dowries to young men with empty purses was the prerogative of the village crone or of the backstreet marriage mart.

But during the Stalinist 1950s the custom dwindled to practically nothing—together with the dowries.

Recently, as certain trades have blossomed among Poland's new Communist middle class and produced modest family fortunes, the art of professional match-making has also shown signs of revival.

Rewards for the really top match-maker in Poland today are high and discretion is vital if the tax collector's attentions are to be avoided.

Most Polish marriages, however, are of the boy-meets-girl variety, and a high proportion of teen-age weddings were taking place here until the authorities raised the legal marriage age of 20 for boys and 18 for girls.

Shopping by television?
not very likely

By 1975 American housewives will do much of their shopping from home by way of color television. That's one of the predictions made in a report of the Stanford Research Institute.

I wouldn't dare argue with the report, but it's a little hard for me to believe that women in great numbers are willingly going to give up shopping in person.

For one thing, a shopping trip gets a woman out of the house, and that's no small consideration in itself.

For another thing, the shopping trip is often a shared experience for a woman. She calls up a friend; they take off for a day of shopping, have a good visit over a leisurely lunch and it's a fine day—even if neither buys a thing.

Then there's the matter of comparing, which is important to a woman. A man will walk into a store and buy the first suit a salesman shows him if he happens to like it. But a woman wants to look at and try on dress after dress after dress before she makes a purchase.

Only then is she satisfied that she has the most becoming dress available.

Furthermore, a woman likes to use all of her senses when she makes a purchase. She sniffs the face powder; feels the fabric of a suit; insists on taking a fabric to daylight when she is trying to make a perfect color match. She sits in the chair she is considering buying. She runs her hand over a tabletop. How can she know what she likes—just seeing it on color television?

Busy as she is today (and she probably won't be much busier in 1975, how could she?) the American woman still finds time to shop, and even time to enjoy it.

It's a purely feminine pleasure. That's why men can't understand it.

And unless in a few brief years the American woman becomes less feminine than she is at present, it's going to be hard to sell her on the idea of looking at something on television and ordering it over the telephone.

BRINGING UP BABY
 HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF 5

Sometimes we tend to forget the benefits derived from the simplest baby-care routines. Take baby's strolling sessions. Wheeling about in the fresh air reaps wonderful rewards. It invites an appetite and sets a cheek to bloom. It jolles dispositions and makes the sandman welcome. Fresh-airing does all these things for you, too, so try not to skip these jaunts unless the weather is mean.

Fresh-air appetites appreciate the "stick-to-the-rib" satisfaction of Gerber Strained and Junior Meats. Made from government inspected cuts, they're low in fat; easy to digest. Most important, they're cooked by a special method that helps preserve true-meat flavors and assures an unusually smooth, moist texture. Altogether, they're the most succulent foods you can give your baby to aid his growth. Has baby tried the new Strained Chicken & Veal? M-m-m-m.
