Partially Completed Barrie Memorial Hospital Viewed By Many on May 24th

Gain Idea of the Immense Amount of Work Involved in Such Structure

Many people took advantage of the opportunity of visiting the partially completed structure that will eventually be the new Barrie Memorial Hospital, at Ormstown, on Wednesday, May 24th. It was impossible to estimate the actual number present as everyone was in a different part of the structure, but all were deeply interested.

The various rooms were marked with a sign as to what it would be when completed, as Private Room, 4-bed Room, Operating Room, Doctor's Room and so on. Also attached to many of the signs were the names of those who had contracted to furnish the particular room with equipment. In some cases a full partition had been erected and the rooms were practically enclosed in other cases there was just a doorway and a few pipes to show where the room would be. Upon the whole however, everyone was able to get a very good idea of what the project will be like and what the extent will be. It would be impossible to describe the whole skeleton structure in detail and we do not feel that this is the time to do it.

The main idea was to try and show the work and material that is going into this structure and the amount of work that still remains to be done before the building is completed for occupation. The maze of pipes alone should prove the amount of metal work that will be in the building and yet when completed will never be seen. The fire-proof construction should tend to show that there should be little fear of fire getting much headway if such should occur. The placement of the various rooms also gives some idea of the efficiency that can be brought to bear within the institution. There is a nurses station on each floor and from this point the person in charge can command a view of all rooms on the floor. The ground floor will comprise mostly the offices, operating rooms, entrance rotunda and various storage rooms, etc. In the basement will be the laundry, kitchen and huge storage spaces for various types of supplies. The Board room will also be in the basement and the large heating plant. The heating plant consists of two 1500hp steam boilers which will heat the building. Two hot water tanks will supply hot water to all parts of the hospital and these will be heated by a smaller type of heater. There is also was Dr. J. M. Roussel, Medical Legal Expert for the Province of Quebec, who stated that on March 12th at 5.15 p.m. he went to the Demers Funeral Parlour in St. Chrysostome and conducted a post-mortem on the body of Arthur Sutton. He found the body to be that of a well built man of 6 ft. and weighing at least 185 pounds. The man's skin was very pale, which indicated that there had been a great loss of blood. The only wound, made by the entrance of a bullet, was slightly above and to the right of the right knee. The wound which was 1 1/2" above the joint of the knee, was circular in shape and was 3/4" in diameter. There was no deposit of powder or smoke around the opening which proved that the shot must have been fired at a distance of between 2 and 3 feet away. The right thigh was very swollen—the bullet had travelled upwards from right to left and slightly from front to back and had shattered the thigh bone and severed the main artery causing severe internal hemorrhage. In shattering the bone, the bullet had broken into small pieces. Dr. Roussel told the jury that there was some blood left in Arthur Sutton's heart and he had tested this and found that it was 3.25 per 1000 parts alcoholic which proved that the victim, when he was killed was in a state of advanced drunkenness, and that he was an habitual drinker.

Mr. Crankshaw: "Would the fact of his drunkenness tend to make him bleed to death more easily than if he had been sober?"

Dr. Roussel: "It could have caused him to bleed faster as the blood would not clot but he would certainly have bled to death very quickly anyway."

Asked what percentage of alcohol it would take to render a man ordinarily drunk Dr. Roussel replied "2.75."

Mr. Crankshaw: "How far was the penetration of the artery from where the bullet went in?"

Dr. Roussel: "2 inches."

Mr. Crankshaw then asked Dr. Roussel if he believed that if the bullet had entered the body a little to the right or left, it would have missed the vital artery. Dr. Roussel explained that the artery was about the size of the small finger and that the bullet had entered the leg a little to the right or left could have possibly only caused a flesh wound, as it may have only entered muscular tissue. There was a 75% chance that it would not touch the artery and a 61% chance that it would miss the bone. Dr. Roussel said that he had known of cases where a bullet had entered the abdomen from back to front and the victim had survived.

Questioned by Mr. Crankshaw as to the possibility of saving Arthur Sutton's life after the shot had been fired, Dr. Roussel told the court that if the flow of blood had been checked immediately there was a chance

Kenneth Bevin Sentenced to Hang For Murder of Lucien Brunette, H'don Taxi Driver

Case Heard at Valleyfield Court the Past Week Before Justice Francois Caron — Hanging Set For August 25th

The trial of Kenneth Bevin, 17-year-old accomplice in the murder of Lucien Brunette, 33-year-old taxi driver of Huntingdon, Quebec, on December 11th 1949, opened in Valleyfield on Thursday, May 25th, before Mr. Justice Francois Caron.

Representing Bevin was Mr. Gontran Saintonge, of Valleyfield, and the Crown Prosecutors were Georges Meloche of Valleyfield and John Bumbay, K.C., of Montreal.

Thursday morning was taken up with the selection of the jury. The twelve jurors chosen were Donald Allan, Roy L. Blair, (foreman); William Arnold, Stanley Noreau, Sam W. Cullen, George Sproule, Stuart McGibbon, James Winter, Marvin Barrington, Thos. Gowdy, Sidney Barrington and Duncan Rankin.

At 2 p.m. Thursday, the first witness to be called was Mrs. Lucien Brunette, widow of the murdered man, who stated that on the night of December 11th, 1949, her husband was called out to pick up a fare and left home about 10 p.m. When he had not returned by the early hours of Monday morning, Mrs. Brunette said that she became worried and that she called her husband's brother.

The next witness to take the stand was Mr. J. E. Myers, service station proprietor, of Huntingdon, who identified Patenaude as the person to whom he had lent a hammer on the night of Sunday, December 11th, 1949. Patenaude had told him that he wished to borrow the hammer to repair the brakes on his car as they were stuck and that he would bring the hammer back in a few minutes. The hammer was not returned to Mr. Myers. Shown a hammer in court, Mr. Myers identified it as the one which he had lent to Patenaude on the night of December 11th.

The third witness was Archille Brunette, 23-year-old brother of the deceased, Lucien Brunette. Mr. Archille Brunette stated that early on Monday morning, December 12th, he received a call from his sister-in-law, Mrs. Brunette, to the effect that her husband had not returned home. Mr. Brunette then proceeded to make enquiries and ascertained that the name of his brother's passengers on the previous night had been "Patenaude". He then reported his brother's disappearance to the Chief of Police in Huntingdon, Joffre L'Heureux.

Mr. Brunette testified that his next move was to the home of Mr. Elmer Patenaude on Gore Road, Huntingdon. Seeing a blood-stained shirt in the Patenaude home, Mr. Brunette asked Mrs. Patenaude if she would give it to him and she offered to sell it to him for 75c. Mr. Brunette gave her $1.00. This shirt, which Mr. Archille Brunette identified in court, was the one which he had given to Mr. Saumier at the Police Station in Huntingdon. Mr. Brunette also identified photographs of his brother's car which was a Kaiser 1948 sedan, brown and green.

Asked when he had first seen his brother's body, Mr. Brunette replied that it was when he was called to identify the body at Donnelly Bridge about one mile from Franklin.

Question: "Could you describe the condition of your brother's body?"

Mr. Brunette: "I would rather not, sir."

Mr. Justice Caron then asked Mr. Brunette if he would just say in a few words whether or not his brother's body was badly damaged.

Mr. Brunette: "He was hardly recognizable, his head was smashed in so much". (During all the Court Proceedings, Kenneth Bevin dressed in a blue lounge suit, with blue and white striped shirt and dark tie, sat at the bar looking quite at ease and not at all perturbed.)

Dr. J. M. Roussel, legal examiner for the Province of Quebec was the next witness to take the stand. Dr. Roussel

17-Year-Old Covey Hill Lad Stands Trial For Murder

Evidence Being Heard As First Day of Trial Takes Place at Valleyfield on Tuesday

Mr. Justice Caron presided Tuesday, May 30th, 1950, at the opening of the trial of Earl Sutton, 17-year-old farm hand, accused of the murder of his father, Arthur Sutton, aged 48, at Covey Hill on March 11th, 1950.

Mr. John Crankshaw of Montreal, and Mr. Albert Leblanc of Valleyfield, were the lawyers defending Earl Sutton, and Mr. George Hill of Montreal, was the senior Crown Attorney, assisted by Mr. George Meloche of Valleyfield.

The first witness was Dr. Louis Pilon of St. Chrysostome, who stated that about 11.15 p.m. on 11th March he received a phone call asking him to go to the Sutton place at Covey Hill. Upon arrival there he was taken up to the second floor by Mrs. Arthur Sutton where, in the bedroom, he found the body of Arthur Sutton covered by a white sheet. Dr. Pilon said he noticed that there was blood on the rail of the stair, on the bed, and a little pool of blood on the floor near the right knee of the victim. There was also a bandage on the right knee which had been knotted and used as a tourniquet and which was just below the wound. Asked by Mr. Hill where the bandage should have been applied, Dr. Pilon replied that because the wound had caused the severing of an artery, the tourniquet should have been placed above the wound, but on being questioned by the defending attorney, Dr. Pilon admitted that possibly Mrs. Sutton, who had applied the bandage, would not have known where it should have been placed. Dr. Pilon also stated there was a possibility that the bandage could have slipped. On being asked if he knew the Sutton family at all, Dr. Pilon told the court that he had known Arthur Sutton since he was born on November 25th, 1949, and had complained of pain and heartburn which, the doctor said, he had diagnosed as alcoholic cramps and he had treated Arthur Sutton accordingly.

Paul Henri Talbot, photographer for the Provincial Police identified photographs shown to him as those he had taken on March 12th of the inside of the Sutton home at Covey Hill at 2 a.m.

Provincial Police Sgt. Garcia Leroux, who testified that on March 11th, at the request of the Provincial Police, he went to Covey Hill with other Police Agents and met Dr. Pilon, who directed them to the home of Arthur Sutton. On going inside the house, Sgt. Leroux continued, he found that there were a lot of people gathered in the kitchen, amongst them the accused, Earl Sutton. By this time, it was 5.30 a.m. on Sunday, March 12th. Mrs. Sutton showed Sgt. Leroux where her husband's body was. Sgt. Leroux told the court that the body was in a large bedroom on the second floor and was covered by a white sheet. The victim was lying on his back and was wearing underwear and a red and black squared working shirt, but the lower half of his body was naked. On the inside of the right leg there was a wound about the size of a five cent piece and a knotted piece of cloth near the knee. Sgt. Leroux then re-covered the body and went downstairs where he saw the accused and asked him where the firearm was. Earl Sutton replied "The gun is there behind the stove". Sgt. Leroux identified a rifle shown to him in court as the one which he had found on the wall behind the stove in the Sutton home. Sgt. Leroux was then shown an empty shell which he stated he had found on a bureau in the kitchen and also a box of 30-30 calibre cartridges which he had found in the Sutton home.

County War Memorial to Be Similar to One at Keene, Ont.

Financial Angle of "Old Home Week" Programme Worked Out

On Thursday evening, the Old Home Week Committee heads met in the County Building for the purpose of drawing up a workable budget. While much of the meeting was devoted to the events to take place during the celebration, continual emphasis was placed upon the financial aspect of the undertaking and estimates were given of the cost of each part of the programme and the revenue which might be expected. seems certain of making money for the County War Memorial.

Over the week-end Messrs. J. M. Smellie, Thomas Bell and James Fox motored to Keene, Ont., where they inspected the newly-constructed arena. Migration Miracle

By GEORGE MURRAY (This is the third of a series of articles written for the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association by the editor of the Pictou Advocate). BREMERHAVEN, Germany—The "forgotten elite"—about 25,000 of the ablest, best-trained men and women in Europe, qualified practitioners of all the arts, sciences and professions—present one of the problems of the International Refugee Organization. It must be realized that the displaced persons come from all walks of life and are a typical cross-section of any community. They range from university professors to agricultural laborers, from the old and infirm to the young and strong, even down to infants in arms. IRO can only suggest to accepting nations which categories should be accepted. The actual immigration and selection is naturally up to those nations themselves. Thus accepting nations often want only the pick of DPs. They want persons who are young enough to work, the laborers and not the old and the intellectuals. Since 1947 a great deal of the cream has been skimmed from the milk. Too many of those who boarded ships and trains were men—young, strong, unattached men—men from the DP population by programs of selection designed to fill the manpower needs of the nations rather than to contribute to the solution of the problem as a whole. IRO has repeatedly warned that this must be checked because it is both a denial of the organization's humanitarian aims and an economic heresy. The DPs are a community. Like any community, this one has its economic producers and those who are dependent upon the producers. Like any community, this one will suffer if its workers and producers are taken away from it. They are leaving behind a "hard core" of those who cannot maintain themselves and who may long remain dependent upon the world's charity. And included in this group are not only those who cannot work because they are too young or too old, or too busy with family duties, but also those who are TOO WELL QUALIFIED. IRO's "forgotten elite", the intellectuals and specialists whose talents cover virtually the entire range of human knowledge—victims of an "embargo on brains"—this need not happen. The United Nations General Assembly has urged the nations of the world each to accept into its territory a fair share of all elements among the DPs. A generous response to this appeal would mean that the entire number of non-repatriable persons could be absorbed with ease by the world—those who can work supporting the few who cannot. The days of DP Division in the British Zone of Germany and IRO are numbered, and it is evident that thousands of DPs will be cast upon the German economy next year. How will they fare? IRO is seeking with voluntary agencies, church groups, governments and occupation authorities, to make humane arrangements for the continuing care and legal protection of these tragic persons. Prices are high, and there are many obstacles to the employment of refugees on a permanent basis in Germany. Some who were forced to work for German masters as slaves are reluctant to work for German masters now, and their distrust is reciprocated in many cases by the Germans who, with the enormous pool of unemployment to fall back on, will employ a German in preference to a foreigner every time. It may be that the German authorities will know that the eyes of the world are upon them and will endeavour to curry favor and restate themselves in circles of world opinion through their humane treatment of this problem. Or it may be, with the present swollen refugee problems in Western Germany, that these unfortunate persons will once more be forced back against the wall. The "forgotten elite" include musicians who have studied under some of the greatest masters, historians who have witnessed history made, linguists who can not only teach foreign languages but also know the first-hand experience through the countries in which they are spoken. There are engineers who have been associated with some of Europe's best known firms and projects, doctors who have conducted original research in every field of specialized medicine, geologists who have led expeditions through some of the most remote parts of the world. For example, among these refugee specialists is an agronomist who initiated work on the reclamation of arid wastelands in Macedonia and Serbia; the former prima ballerina of Latvia, a graduate of Moscow's famous ballet school, who has danced before Europe's royalty, a doctor who has had extensive experience with tropical diseases in the Orient; a young pianist whose interpretations of Chopin are brilliant; a novelist whose second book won the Hungarian literary prize in 1947. Their professional qualifications are established by close examination of their documents and special IRO testing commissions, made up of recognized experts who review their educational background, personally examine and interview individuals who have lost their documents, audition musicians, view works of art, and evaluate levels of skill. This process is closely supervised by IRO's Division of Employment and Vocational Training which is headed in Geneva by a former official of the United States Employment Service. A number of refugees with professional training have been resettled under the auspices of IRO and are now making an appreciable contribution to the economic and cultural life of the countries which gave them entry. A prospective employer needs only to contact IRO by writing to any of its branch offices in 31 countries or to its Headquarters in Geneva, Switzerland, to obtain detailed information on refugee specialists who might fit his needs. The Canadian IRO Mission is at 143 Main Street, Hull, Quebec.

50th Anniversary Meeting of National Chapter I.O.D.E. Members of the Julius Richardson Chapter, Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, who attended the opening ceremonies of the 50th Anniversary meeting of the National Chapter of Canada, on Saturday evening in the ballroom of the Mount Royal Hotel in Montreal, were as follows: Mrs. L. H. Melville, Honorary Regent; Mrs. D. F. Davies, Regent; Mrs. E. R. Richardson, Vice-Regent; Mrs. A. S. Friedlander, 2nd Vice-Regent; Mrs. R. L. Craik, Standard Bearer; Mrs. Geo. Elliott, Echoes Secretary; Mrs. L. G. Smith, Treasurer; Mrs. W. J. Davidson, Post-War Work Convener; Mrs. W. J. Reid, Miss Edna Reid, Mrs. J. L. Cameron, Mrs. Ernest Smith, Mrs. I. E. Jones, Miss Muriel Henderson, R.N., was one of the ushers. A Service of Thanksgiving and Dedication for the I.O.D.E. was held in the Church of St. Andrew and St. Paul, Montreal, on Sunday afternoon, conducted by the Minister Rev. R. J. Berlis, B.A., B.D. The service opened with an organ prelude and procession of the choir and minister. The Standard Bearer of the National Chapter preceded the Standard Bearers of sixty-five Chapters and stood at attention at the Chancel while the Standards were placed in position. Rev. R. J. Berlis then received the National Standard and placed it on the Holy Table. The prayer of the order and the special anniversary prayer were repeated in unison. The choir, under the leadership of Mr. Kenneth Meek, B. Mus. L., rendered the anthem, "Blessed Art Thou O Lord God of Our Fathers" (Healey Willan). The hymns sung during the service were, "O God, Our Help in Ages Past", "From Ocean Unto Ocean" "O God of Love, King of Peace", and "Lord of the Lands". In the opening remarks of his sermon Mr. Berlis welcomed the members of the I.O.D.E. and stated that the Church of St. Andrew and St. Paul, Montreal, has an interesting link with the I.O.D.E. as the founders of the Order, Margaret Polson Murray, was a member of the Church as well as the wife of one of the Elders, Professor T. Clark Murray, and Miss Greta Murray is an honoured member of the congregation today. At the close of the service the National Standard was returned to the National Anthem being sung. Additional members who attended this impressive service were Mrs. W. E. Pilborough, Educational Secretary, Mrs. David Lang and Mrs. J. R. Dickenson. Recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Lang were Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Miller and Joan, of Montreal, Mr. and Mrs. George McCammon, Mr. Douglas Christie, Mrs. William Hatcher of Montreal, and Miss Marion Christie of Windsor Mills, Que. At the special re-opening service to be held in St. Andrew's United Church the guest preacher, in the evening will be Rev. A. Lloyd Smith, D.D. of Dominion Douglas United Church, Westmount, Que. Members of St. George's Anglican Church and friends attended the Rally of Anglicans of the Montreal Diocese in the Forum in celebration of the Centenary of the diocese, on Sunday night.

Editorial Notes ...

30 Years of Publication

THE May issue of the Canadian Ayrshire Review, the official organ of the Canadian Ayrshire Breeders' Association which went out from the Gleaner presses last week was marked Vol. 31 No. 1. During these thirty years, this magazine has been published monthly. The magazine had but three editors, the late W. F. Stephens; for a few months interval between the editorship of Mr. Stephens and the present editor Mr. Frank Napier, our townsman Mr. Gilbert McMillan officiated in that capacity. During this 30-year period The Huntingdon Gleaner Inc. has handled the printing.

The Canadian Ayrshire Review is a magazine we are proud to acknowledge as a valued customer of the Gleaner. The magazine has always been well edited and the esteem it holds among livestock men across Canada and in more distant points, speaks well for its editor, Frank Napier, Ottawa, Ont.

The Canadian Ayrshire Breeders' Association is creating a fund with a view to either buying or erecting an office building for the Association business. The current issue of the Review lists a number of calf sales that are to be held across Canada, the proceeds of which will go toward the building fund. A calf sale is to be held in the Ormstown Arena on June 3, 1950. The worth of the Canadian Ayrshire Review in furthering these beneficial sales, in addition to cash subscriptions toward the building fund, will undoubtedly prove to be gratifying. Without this official organ to enhance this cause it might be very difficult to raise the necessary funds without creating a great amount of investment debt.

As printers of the Canadian Ayrshire Review we extend our congratulations to the Canadian Ayrshire Breeders' Association upon this Review anniversary. 30 years of service has been extended to livestock men in Canada through its columns without which it is very questionable if advancements in the Ayrshire breed would have been accomplished in any other manner of endeavour so successfully.

The Vital Framework

AN invitation went out a few weeks ago for people interested, to visit the structure of the new Barrie Memorial Hospital, on May 24th. Perhaps this is a unique innovation, as it is not usual to invite people to view an incomplete building. But there was a great deal of wisdom in the idea as those who paid the visit were able to see the new hospital in its skeleton shape. We have often heard of the skeleton in the closet and there is no doubt that there will be one in the closet of this hospital when the outfitting has been completed.

However, the visit gave the people some idea of what enters into the construction of a building like the Barrie Memorial Hospital eventually will be. If they had waited until the building is completed and furnished it would not have conveyed the tremendous amount of structure that is actually there. One could view the walls and note that several walls were actually required to make the outside wall of the building. These various walls were for air space and proper insulation, but no one ever thinks of them as other than just walls. The maze of pipes that are all over the building — some are to carry water, some to carry waste, some to carry electric wires and cables, some for ventilation and air conditioning and so forth — all point to the cost that has to go into the construction and the vast quantities that are required. Along the ceilings, down through the walls, the pipes go, right to the basement where most of the main connections are made. Everything in the building shows the fireproof construction that is used throughout. The modern arrangement of the rooms for wards, operation rooms, storage, office and administration all make one immediately think of the efficiency that must eventually reign in this institution. One could almost visualize the nurses flitting about the corridors and attending to the various patients; the calls over the public address system as a doctor is wanted immediately for emergency cases and people waiting to visit their friends. So well was the skeleton marked that it was possible to imagine just what this hospital will look like.

There is every reason to be proud of the probabilities of this institution and there is also an eagerness to see it in operation. No time is being lost by the contractor, as the building is going right ahead according to schedule. Meanwhile the funds on hand to pay for the cost of construction are being used up equally as fast. Naturally, opportunity was afforded for all who wished, to make pledges of assistance and all such assistance is badly needed. After viewing what has been done so far and realizing what such an institution will mean to this district, it is almost certain that a different conception will be had of the undertaking. All who viewed this project will no doubt look forward with greater relish to seeing the entirely completed work.

Ormstown Exhibition 1950

FROM the time the snow goes and spring comes forth in all its splendor, thoughts are turned toward the annual event of the Ormstown Exhibition. Preparations go ahead for this event months and months ahead and the officials are busy planning and arranging for everything in connection with this show right up until the days of the actual event. Grounds, buildings and so forth have to be readied for the show and an army of workers is now busy at this particular job.

Next week will see the opening of the Exhibition on Tuesday evening and from then on it will be a steady stream of people flowing in all directions toward the gates of the Fair Grounds. From information we have at hand there will be much that the fans will want to see and plenty for them to do. Most important of all is the high calibre of the exhibits that will be paraded before the public, which is so necessary to a district such as we are in. Farmers in this area should be forever trying to improve their stock and farming methods, and the Ormstown Exhibition provides one source where additional knowledge can be gained. Comparisons can be made while at the show or at the judging ring to decide why one exhibit is so much better than another and what to look for to be able to produce as good. Talking over problems with other exhibitors and persons attending the show is another way in which to learn and make improvements. Perhaps there are some who say they know it all and do not need a fair to help them. This is a wrong attitude. It is possible to learn something all the time and sometimes in the most unexpected places. One never knows it all and one is never too old to learn. Many new methods are being introduced these days and a place like Ormstown Exhibition is the most likely one for them to be demonstrated. You may not agree with all of them, but you may obtain some information that will be valuable to you.

If you want relaxation, you will find it here in the various amusements that are being provided, the midway, the horse-show and the acts in front of the grandstand. The commercial exhibits will provide plenty of information about the latest in cars, machinery and so forth. There is also the horse racing which usually provides a few thrills. It is a time of education, fun and vacation and no one wants to miss at least one day at Ormstown Exhibition.

Mr. Dunton's Lack of Logic

THE radio committee of the House of Commons has been listening to CBC Chairman Dunton's tale of woe about the sorry plight of the publicly-owned radio system's finances. Mr. Dunton makes no bones about it. He says the taxpayers will have to foot the bill for increased CBC deficits.

CBC Board of Governors, says Mr. Dunton, share the view that the Government must bridge the financial gap. Alternative, Mr. Dunton suggests, would be for the CBC to move into the local advertising field, but the Board of Governors want to avoid this because if they did so CBC would be competing with private stations. This would be contrary to the spirit of the legislation which gave birth to the CBC in the first instance.

Mr. Dunton's sudden solicitude for respecting the functions of private radio in Canada is surprising. The CBC, by the Chairman's own admission, already derives about 30 per cent of its revenues from network commercials, competing with private radio. If the Board of Governors want to be logical, they should abandon commercial programs entirely, and cut their financial cloth to fit the suit.

Random Glimpses of The Past Taken From Gleaner Files

Since this column began it has been the policy to recall only the events that might be within the memory of persons still living. From now on, Glimpses of the Past will have a different approach. It will draw from the earliest issues of this newspaper and try to present a Gleaner's-eye-view of the topics and events which created the Main Street conversation of the day, and a record of the developments which made Huntingdon into a thriving, progressive, hard-working community.

September 18, 1863
From the editorial page of the first issue of the Gleaner:

In the course of the past few years, political questions have sprung up vital to the peace and prosperity of Lower and Upper Canada and to the continuation of that bond of union betwixt the provinces which has been of such incalculable benefit to both. There are men in both sections who think by blinking these questions and by decrying all agitation on their behalf, to avoid them and put by the difficulty. Long since, however, the electors of Huntingdon have shown that on these questions they have decided views; that they are ready to grapple manfully with the present difficulties and by fair compromise and concession restore harmony to the country and obviate the dangers that threaten it. It is to represent these views, to defend and advocate them, to answer the imputations and calumnies thrown out by that worthless portion of the press that continues to be a willing slave of a still more worthless clique, against those patriotic men who are now battling for their adoption, that the Gleaner is started.

The hull that has prevailed in the American Civil War shows signs of being at an end. General Gilmore at Charleston is pushing the siege of that city with more energy, and in the west General Rosecrans has again taken the field. The army of the Potomac alone shows no signs of life.

Fire—On Monday night, the barn and stables of Mr. Peter Nelson were consumed by fire. The barn was full of hay and straw and the total loss amounted to $400. The fire was caused by a small boy playing with matches.

October 23, 1863
On Tuesday last the frame of a hall for drill and general public use was raised at Rockburn, in the township of Hinchinbrooke. It is situated on the edge of the grove of David Cain, Esq., adjoining the beautiful picnic grounds. It is with pleasure that we announce the organization of a Division of the Order of the Sons of Temperance, in the township of Havelock by Mr. D. C. Boyce, D.G.W.P., and a number of members of St. Michael's Union Division, No. 1.

On Sunday night last some person paid a visit to the stable of Mr. Wm. Brown who lives about a mile below this village and took therefrom a valuable horse—a very large Clydesdale. On Monday morning they were able to follow the horse's tracks as far as this village on account of the unusual size of the hoofs. While here they saw a man who had met a stranger out on the plank road who was riding a

November 6, 1863
The plowing match for young men took place last Friday on the grounds of the Warden of the County, Alex. Anderson, Esq. The weather was more favourable than it was on the day of the previous match, but the turnout of the ploughs was no larger. The young farmers of the county, it would seem, have become indifferent to these friendly trials of skill, which have in the Old Country and in this proved so valuable in arousing emulation and keeping up the standards of good farming. Only six entries were made.

November 13, 1863
At the council meeting on Monday night a suggestion was made that deserves more than passing notice. It is the establishment of a market-place in our village. To a stranger who visits Huntingdon there is nothing more surprising to him than the fact that there is no regular market. When, moreover, we know that the County of Huntingdon is one of the best-cleared and cultivated in Lower Canada and that the village is situated in an enormous quantity of grain, butter, cattle and wool exported, our astonishment increases. Altogether, the proposal will commend itself to every person possessed of public spirit and who has the welfare of the village at heart, and we trust the council will see that the motion does not fall to the ground.

December 4, 1863
The news of the American Civil War for the past week has been stirring. On the morning of the 23rd, Gen. Thomas issued from Chattanooga at the head of a large force and attacked the Confederate Army in their position stretching from Missionary Ridge to Lookout Mountain. The fighting was severe. Though surprised, the enemy contested every inch of the ground with great determination but the outcome was a great victory for the North.

Feb. 19, 1864
Mr. Mayhew tells us in his book on Germany that Her Majesty's apartments in the Palace of Reinsdorf were the scene of some time last autumn were "neither so decent, so tidy nor so well furnished as those of a lodging house in London"; that the household were lodged in rooms "assuredly not so comfortable as those of an English journeyman carpenter" and that the miserable furniture "would hardly have found a purchaser in a broker's alley."

An accident, by which Mr. James O'Neal, who lives a short distance from this village, had his foot broken, happened in Beathornis on Monday night. So far as we have been able to learn, it would appear that Mr. O'Neal had been the worse of liquor and rather noisy in one of the hotels and so was placed in the stables. During the night cries were heard emanating from the stables and a passerby on entering found that the unfortunate man had his foot smashed—likely by the kick of a horse.

The Week at Ottawa

OTTAWA, (CP)—Canada's defence forces are steadily weeding out those of its members inclined toward Communism and are enacting new legislative machinery to make the tenets of Communism a military crime punishable by a maximum sentence of life imprisonment.

This disclosure came out of a parliament last week that also disclosed that police are investigating a number of people linked with the 1946 Soviet spy trials and with a notebook that carried the name of Dr. Klaus Fuchs, British atom spy, sentenced to a prison term of 14 years.

The tightening up of military defence law is a new departure and indicates broadening out of Canadian statutory machinery to parallel actions taken by other countries against the infiltration of Communist doctrine.

Action to modernize the defence legislation was taken by the Commons Defence Committee, which waded through a husky bill and approved a clause which takes the place of a one-word offence known as sedition. It provides for penalties up to life imprisonment for persons liable to military law who "publish or circulate any writing, printing or document in which it is advocated, or who teaches or advocates, the use, without the authority of law, of force as a means of accomplishing any governmental change within Canada."

Life imprisonment is the top penalty, but there are numerous other punishments which can be imposed, including the dismissal of the soldier, sailor or filer from the service.

The disclosure that police still have probing remnants of the 1946 spy inquiry came from Justice Minister Garson, who asked the House not to press for details, because of the nature of the investigation. He declared, however, that the investigations for the most part did not concern civil servants now in service, although he was vague about the fact about whether they might concern those who had been in service since 1945 and since then have been dismissed.

Freight Rates Club
A new climb in freight rates was authorized last week, bringing to 20 per cent the total increase allowed the railways since last March. Last week's increase of 3.4 per cent was estimated to be sufficient to cover the railways' additional revenue of about $13,000,000 a year. But the freight-rate battle is not over. The next round will be an

Is There a Cure For Delinquency and Crime?

When Kenneth Bevin and Gerwin Patenaude brought horror to the Chateaugay Valley and grief to a widow and six children, public opinion was almost unanimous: the boys should be hung and even the more merciful were inclined to agree. The cry for the most part was for revenge.

Months later, the horror of the deed and the fate of the two youngsters were still a matter of public discussion. Few advocated mercy. The death penalty was the only punishment; life imprisonment was only a waste of taxpayers' money but could hardly change the mental attitude of two boys who had gone so far astray as to crush the skull of another human being for a few dollars. Moreover, delinquency was all too prevalent. The cry was and is: "Make an example of them."

The case of Bevin and Patenaude is similar in many respects to one which shocked the public in 1924 when Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb kidnapped and murdered a small boy by the name of Bobby Franks. Again the public was out for blood and, as many feel will recall, Leopold and Loeb, both of wealthy parents, seemed certain to die and would have, but for the personal courage of one man, Clarence Darrow.

For weeks the Chicago newspapers and those throughout the U.S. had broadcast the horror and brutality of the crime. The young men, despite the fact that they were given all the advantages of a fine home and a college education, had formed a partnership for the purpose of carrying out "the perfect crime." They lured Bobby Franks from his playmates, plunged a chisel into his brain, dislocated the body and then sent a ransom note to the anxious parents telling them that their boy had been kidnapped. Unfortunately for the pair they showed as little skill in the field of crime as Patenaude and Bevin were arrested in a matter of hours. Darrow's defence of the two boys is one of the most remarkable in the annals of criminal law. He showed step by step how Leopold and Loeb, because of their over-protective parents and excessive wealth, were deprived of the opportunity to develop normally. Leopold for instance had been turned into a shy, retiring young man, so afraid of girls that his parents, in an attempt to overcome this, made him even more neurotic by sending him to a girls' school. The minds of both boys were hopelessly warped. Conditions of birth and environment had made them that way. When the account of the trial was published, more than one person was given to wonder whether the guilt lay with the boys themselves or the society in which they lived.

The case of Bevin and Patenaude gives rise to the same question. But what purpose, many are asking, would be served by sending the boys to prison? Our penal system is not noted for its ability to reform. By our present-day methods, it is doubtful that a jail sentence would make much difference; in fact, it is maintained, they might be discharged as an even greater menace to society.

This is the chance which the society that produced these mental misfits should take. A diseased mind should not be treated with less tolerance than a diseased body. Do we execute our insane, our diabetics, our cancer victims? Is the cure for an illness, mental or physical, found by killing the patient? There is a long list of ailments which once meant death but now are entirely curable. It was not very long ago that insane persons were stoned and burned alive because they were supposedly possessed of an "evil spirit." Yet the cause and cure of many types of mental cases has been found. We don't execute these people; we send them to a hospital. How much progress would medical science have made if physicians had taken the attitude that, once an illness appeared hopeless, the patient should be put to death?

The cause of delinquency, by the methods of modern psychology, can be traced to its source just as surely as Scarlet Fever can be traced to a germ. We still have a long way to go in rehabilitating the criminal but is that any reason for branding him as 'evil' and sending him to the gallows?

It may well be more merciful to Bevin and Patenaude to execute them rather than condemn them to years of confinement and later send them into a society in which they would not be welcome. But we are not considering these youngsters alone. We are concerned here with every juvenile who may follow in (Continued on page 5) testified that he had examined the body of Lucien Brunette on the afternoon of December 13th. The body, Dr. Roussel stated, was that of a well-built man of 6 ft. in height and weighing about 160 pounds.

Kenneth Bevin Sentenced To Hang For Murder

Dr. Roussel went on to explain in great detail the condition in which he had found the body. There were bluish bruises on both eyelids, two wounds measuring about 1 1/2" in length and made by a blunt instrument, at the middle part of the forehead. There was also a swelling of the left side of the face and a wound in front of the left ear. A large part of the scalp was gone and the remainder of the skull was crushed.

At this point, Mrs. Brunette became so overwrought that she had to be assisted from the Court Room. Dr. Roussel continued with his description of the body by saying that as well as the wounds already mentioned, there were also circular fractures, 1 1/2" wide located at the right and middle parts of the forehead and numerous other fractures. There were also many fragments of bone embedded in the brain of the dead man and the head was deeply lacerated on the right side and front. When asked if the fractures on the right side of the head were sufficient to cause death, Dr. Roussel replied "They were."

The Attorney for the Defence then asked Dr. Roussel "Could the two wounds on the forehead have caused death?"

Dr. Roussel: "They could".

Dr. Roussel was shown the blue shirt which Patenaude had worn and an undershirt also Patenaude's, which were blood stained, and he declared that he had examined these and found that it was the blood of Lucien Brunette. He also stated that on examining the hammer which had been used to kill Lucien Brunette, he had found hairs which were the same size, colour and structure as the hair on Lucien Brunette's head. The car had also been examined by Dr. Roussel and he testified that the doors were stained with blood, there was a pool of blood on the floor of the back compartment and the cloth on the top of the car had been splashed with blood, all the blood of Lucien Brunette.

The next witness was Mr. René Dorais, official photographer of the Provincial Police in Montreal, who identified the photographs on exhibit as those which he had taken of the body at Donnelly Bridge and of the car at Kyle's Garage, Huntingdon, on December 13th, 1949.

Mr. Elmer Patenaude, 43-year-old father of Gerwin Patenaude, when brought to the stand said that he saw the two boys, Patenaude and Bevin, at his home on Gore Road, Huntingdon, at 5 a.m. on the morning of December 12th.

Question: "Did your son ask you for something?"

Answer: "Yes, he asked me for a clean shirt."

Mr. Patenaude said that his son then exchanged the blue shirt which he had been wearing for the clean shirt which his father gave him.

The next witness was Mrs. Clara Patenaude, mother of Gerwin Patenaude, who stated that her son, Gerwin, had left a blue shirt with her to be washed on the morning of December 12th and that later she had sold this same shirt to a man for $1.00.

Asked when she had last seen the two boys, Mrs. Patenaude replied that it was late in the afternoon of December 12th when they came back to the house but went right out again. Gerwin Patenaude at this time, his mother stated, had a revolver in his hand.

Mr. Arthur Herdman, farm employee, was the next person called to give evidence. He said that on the morning of December 13th he was going to work on the farm of Clarence Henderson when Bevin ran out of a barn and gave him $10, with which to buy food and dry socks for his friend and himself. Mr. Herdman said that he did not buy anything for the boys but went right away and called the police.

The next witness called by the Crown Attorney was Captain Legault of the Provincial Police in Montreal. Captain Legault, 6 ft. 4 ins., gave his testimony in French and for the benefit of the jury this was translated into English sentence by sentence.

Captain Legault said that on the morning of December 13th he had received a call from the police in Huntingdon. He and a number of agents came to Huntingdon and proceeded to the barn on Mr. Herdman's farm, after a call had been received to the effect that the boys were there.

Captain Legault and the agents of the Provincial Police went into the barn and searched in the hay loft. When they were searching, one of the boys let out a yell, and Captain Legault saw a hand appear holding a revolver. Captain Legault ordered him to throw the revolver away and come up out of his hiding place. Patenaude came up and Captain Legault asked him where his friend was. Once more a hand appeared with a revolver. One of the Police Agents then disarmed Bevin and Patenaude and brought them to the Police Station in Huntingdon. Gaston Archambault, another member of the Provincial Police then told the court that he had put the handcuffs on Bevin in the barn.

Another Police Agent, Laurent Roussel then came into the witness box and identified the blood-stained undershirt at the one which he had taken from Patenaude at the Police Station in Huntingdon after his arrest.

The next witness was Willard Patenaude, aged 18, and brother of Gerwin Patenaude, who stated that the last time he had seen his brother and Bevin was on Sunday night, December 11th, in the show in Huntingdon and that they left about 9:30 p.m.

At this point of the proceedings, because of the fact that any point of law must be settled in the absence of the jury, the members of the jury were asked to retire.

Mr. Justice Caron then had to decide whether or not the two confessions made by Bevin could be used as evidence against him.

The first confession given by Kenneth Bevin was before Captain Legault and Leopold Trotter, both members of the Provincial Police, in the Police Station in Huntingdon. Because it was proved that Captain Legault had warned Bevin that what he said would be used as evidence against him and that Bevin gave this confession freely, without being asked, the Judge ruled that it was quite legal to use this statement as evidence in a court of law.

However, the second statement made by Kenneth Bevin at the Inquest of Lucien Brunette in Huntingdon on December 13th was not allowed because the Judge declared that there was not sufficient evidence to prove that Bevin had been warned that his statement would be used against him.

Friday, May 26th, 1950

Captain Legault was again brought to the witness stand and before the jury told of the confession which Kenneth Bevin had made to him in the Police Station in Huntingdon, in the presence of Leopold Trotter. Bevin asked Captain Legault, "Have you found the body?" Captain Legault said the body had not been found and warned Bevin that whatever he said could be used against him. Bevin said he understood that and offered to show the Police Officers where the body was. Bevin then made this statement:—"Last Sunday I was with Patenaude in a restaurant in Huntingdon. We decided to call Mr. Brunette. We asked Mr. Brunette to take us to Franklin Centre. On the road we asked him to stop. After we had stopped, Patenaude hit him on the head with a hammer two or three times. After that we put him in the back seat of the car and we drove to a bridge where we stopped again. Gerwin told me the body of the car and gave me a hammer and told me to hit Brunette. I hit Brunette on the forehead twice, after that we dumped the body."

Captain Legault went on to say that Bevin went with him in the car and told him to stop when they came to Donnelly Bridge, where they found the body. Asked where the hammer was, Bevin replied "I can show you the place". Bevin showed the Police Officers where the hammer was and on the way back to the car, Captain Legault asked Bevin why they had killed Lucien Brunette. Bevin replied "We wanted to take his money. We had to kill him because we were afraid that he would report us to the police".

On the way back to Huntingdon, Captain Legault declared that Bevin also said "Patenaude told me if the Police try to shoot at you, shoot at them and then shoot yourself".

Leopold Trotter, another Provincial Police officer also told of the conversation with the accused and said that Captain Legault had warned Bevin that his words could be used against him.

GERVIN PATENAUDE dressed in blue jeans and a pink shirt was the next witness called by Mr. Bumbury, the Crown Attorney. Before he gave evidence, the Judge told him that he could ask for Court Protection which meant that if he told the truth, his words would never be used against him in any court of law.

Under the protection of the Court, Gerwin Patenaude told his story. He said that he met Bevin in Huntingdon to go to the show. Mr. Bumbury: "Did you call a taxi driver?"

Patenaude: "Yes".

Mr. Bumbury: "Before calling the taxi driver, did you discuss this with Bevin?"

Patenaude: "Just before".

Mr. Bumbury: "What did you say?"

Patenaude: "That we would take a taxi and knock him out."

Mr. Bumbury: "Why?"

Patenaude: "For his money".

Patenaude then went on to say that it was about 9:20 p.m. when they called the taxi and that they asked Mr. Brunette to take them to Franklin. Patenaude told the court that when the car stopped, he hit Brunette with a hammer.

Mr. Bumbury: "Did Bevin hit him?"

Patenaude: "Yes, while I was taking his wallet, Bevin hit him. He was alive when we took him out of the car".

Patenaude said that they took the money to buy shells.

At this point the Judge reminded Patenaude that he could say whatever he wished so long as he told the truth.

Patenaude: "You ask me the questions, you'll get the truth."

Mr. Bumbury then asked Patenaude "Did you ask Bevin to hit the body?"

Patenaude: "I did not ask Bevin to hit him" (Brunette).

The next witness, Miss Mary Traves, was called by Mr. Saintonge, Council for the Defence.

Miss Traves told the court that she was a social worker with the adoption society in Montreal where Bevin had been brought at the age of four months. She had worked with the Society for 23 years.

Miss Traves told the court that she had known Bevin for 17 years and that she and the officials of the home had always found him to be far more easily managed than some children, very amiable, full of fun and as a growing boy he had never gotten into any difficulties. He was unusually easy to discipline, eager to please other people and would fall in easily with other children's wishes. He was scrupulously honest and considerate towards children and older people.

Asked by Mr. Saintonge if she believed Kenneth Bevin capable of the crime with which he was accused, Miss Traves replied that he was a very unlikely boy to do this

Two performers without a nerve in their agile bodies will thrill the visitors to the Ormstown Exhibition on JUNE 6, 7, 8, 9, 10 when the Loof Rio's go into their aerial act. These two daring young men actually defy the laws of gravitation in some of the most daring aerial antics that it is possible to perform.

Their working gear looks like an anchor and high up in the air they make whirling arcs of themselves, using the metal frame as a pivot.

"That's not the half of it though. What really has the spectators chewing their nails is when one of the men, suspended by a mouth-piece, does a wire slide which is interrupted midway by an explosion which sends him hurtling to the ground and his head clears the floor by inches!

There is nothing in the air more dangerous than these young men could do. They work without any safety devices, whatsoever. They rely entirely on their own skill and deftness to keep them in the air and the suave and easy manner in which they do it is what keeps you on needles and pins throughout this act.

The Judge went on to speak of Bevin's confession and said that the accused was quite free to talk or not to talk — because Bevin had been sworn and because he showed the Police where the body was, the Judge said that he believed that declaration was acceptable evidence.

Mr. Justice Caron then spoke of Mr. Saintonge's address to the jury. He said that even though the boy's name had been spelled wrongly, it was on any way the same person. He said that it was regrettable that the boy had no family, but that was no excuse for the act, neither was the fact that he may have had bad friends. Mr. Saintonge had tried to prove, Mr. Caron said, that Brunette was already dead and that the blows given by Bevin might not have caused the death according to Dr. Roussel.

Mr. Justice Caron then summed up Mr. John Bumbury's address and he told the jury that there were three verdicts that they could render —

Guilty of Murder
Guilty of Manslaughter
Not Guilty!

He said that he hoped the jury would be unanimous in their verdict because if they were not the whole trial would have to begin over again.

Before the jury went out, the Judge told them that they were not bound by what the Lawyers for the Crown had said, nor by what the Lawyer for the Defence had said or by what he himself said but he told the jury that after hearing the evidence given, if they did not issue a verdict of guilty, then they would reduce, by that fact, the price of a man's life.

The members of the jury went out for thirty-five minutes and during this time Bevin was seated calmly chewing gum and did not seem at all nervous although he was a little pale.

When the jury returned, Mr. Osguivy, Proto-Notary, read the indictment and asked the foreman of the jury if the jury were unanimous in their verdict. He replied "Yes, we find him guilty of murder."

When the jury rendered their verdict, Bevin stood very straight and made no movement whatsoever.

Mr. Justice Caron then asked the jury to adjourn for a few minutes and although probably expecting such a verdict, the Judge looked very much shaken by it. This can be understood when one realizes that he was presiding at his first case for murder since he was sworn as judge, two years ago, in 1948, after the adjournment. Mr. Justice Caron returned wearing black gloves and black hat and said to the accused at the bar — "My boy, do you have anything to say before you are sentenced?"

Bevin replied in a strong voice "No, your honour".

Then Mr. Justice Caron read the sentence —

"Kenneth Bevin, you had a fair trial, you have been well defended by your council and unfortunately for you, the jury found you guilty of murder. I hope that your case will prevent others from doing what you have done. You will be returned to the Montreal Bordeaux Jail to be detained until August 25th when you will be hung by the neck until you are dead, for the murder of Lucien Brunette."

After he had pronounced sentence the Judge went quickly out of Court and one could see that he was deeply moved.

Kenneth Bevin was escorted out of Court by two Provincial Police-men. He walked straight ahead, never looking back, keeping the same attitude which he had shown all through the trial.

Among the spectators in the Court Room could be seen some who were very much overcome, es- adoption two of the ladies from the adoption society in Montreal, who had cared for Bevin.

It is an interesting fact to note that the last murder case to be heard in the Beauharnois District was twenty-five years ago when a man by the name of McDonald was hung for the murder of a taxi driver called Bouchard, who was killed on the road between Huntingdon and Trout River.

It was now the turn of Mr. Justice François Caron to make his address

ily, but that was no excuse for the act, neither was the fact that he may have had bad friends. Mr. Saintonge had tried to prove, Mr. Caron said, that Brunette was already dead and that the blows given by Bevin might not have caused the death according to Dr. Roussel.

Partially Completed Barrie Memorial Hospital Viewed

(Continued from page 1) hospital proper, that is where the patients will be confined to bed. On each side of the second floor are two flat roofs and these will be used as sun decks for those patients who are able to move around and wish to take the air treatment.

This is a very brief report of all interested in the Barrie Memorial Hospital. We hope that many of you will have visited the new hospital building on May 24th.

As you know the present hospital opened its doors on December 2nd, 1939. During the first year 350 patients were admitted.

After years of planning, in 1947 a campaign was held, as you all remember, to build a 28-bed hospital. This campaign was very generously supported and the objective of $100,000. was reached.

However, on consultation with the Provincial Minister of Health, the Honourable Mr. Albini Paquette, he advised that in view of the increasing need for rural hospital care in this area, that the hospital should be increased to 60 beds plus 14 bassinets.

The Main floor has General Administration, Superintendent's Office, Resident Physician's Bed Room, Kitchen and Dining Rooms, the Operating Room Suites and X-RAY Department.

Two other floors for patients, containing: 8 Private Rooms, Semi-Private Rooms, Four-Bed Wards, one 3-bed Children's Ward, Nursery for 14 infants, the Maternity Department plus all the accessory service rooms.

During the development of the hospital a co-operative feature has been instituted which we speak of as Membership benefits. At the beginning of this privilege, all Members, that is those who subscribe $10. per year and Life Members, those who pay $150., were granted a reduction of 50c per day from their hospital account for themselves and their legal dependents.

You will be interested in the Financial situation at the present time. It is estimated that the completed structure, fully furnished and equipped, will cost at the outside $500,000. for 60 beds and 14 bassinets.

How is it being financed? At the present time $320,000. is in the Building Fund. Included in this amount is the sum of $204,000. obtained from the Provincial Government Grants.

The Governors of the hospital are most appreciative of the very generous support received on all sides in the 1947 Appeal for funds but they are, however, hopeful that those, who for some reason or another did not give or were not reached in the 1947 Appeal, may come forward now with some financial assistance.

While the majority of the patients' rooms have been furnished by various donors, a few still remain. There are, however, many special departments that have not been furnished and a large amount of equipment is yet to be purchased and if any person should wish to donate a special piece of equipment it likewise would be very gratefully accepted.

As you all must appreciate, we feel that this is a very large project for such a small community. However, you have stimulated us to continue and we believe you will assist us to make it possible to complete the hospital this fall.

R. E. Walsh, Chairman.

Sponsors Electrical Demonstration

Braithwaite Bros. sponsored a very pleasing entertainment on Saturday evening, at the Huntingdon High School, featuring "Magical Moments Revue" by the General Electric Family. This was rather an innovation in presenting a demonstration of General Electric products as a certain amount of comedy was introduced through the medium of a clown. A film showing the training of the Leslie Bell Singers was first shown and following this a demonstration of the evolution of electric light and finally the electrical servant in the home. In presenting the various electrical aids to the housewife of today such appliances as Vacuum Cleaners, Washing Machines, Refrigerators and so forth were shown and their many features explained. Interspersed with the demonstration were acts by the clown which tied in with the demonstration. Winners of the door prizes were as follows: Mr. Martin Beattie, an electric kettle; Miss Kimball, Electric Iron and Miss Norma Goodfellow, an English china cup and saucer.

John W. Williams Ordained And Inducted at Ormstown

ORMSTOWN — The Ordination and Induction of John W. Williams into the pastoral charge of the Ormstown-Rockburn Presbyterian Church, took place in the Ormstown Church at 8 p.m. on May 26th in an impressive ceremony presided over by Rev. Q. A. McDowell, Moderator of the Montreal Presbytery.

The Scripture Lesson and the Evening Prayer were given by Rev. W. Harold Brown of Beauharnois. The sermon was preached by Rev. Randolph MacLean, B.A., B.D., of Huntingdon and was a powerful and inspiring address, based on Acts 2, verses 1-4, his text being, "And they were all filled with the Holy Ghost."

Rev. Allan S. Reid, D.D., Interim Moderator of the Ormstown congregation gave the steps leading to the Induction. At this point, Mr. John W. Williams came forward and all ministers present from the Montreal Presbytery led by Rev. Quincey A. McDowell, M.A., Th.D., proceeded to the act of Ordination and Induction by the laying on of hands.

He was followed by Rev. Lorne McKay, B.A., B.D., pastor of Montreal Presbytery Church, who very ably gave the charge to the minister. His address was full of practical advice as to how to meet the problems a young minister must encounter in the course of his ministry and advising him to call on the name of Jesus Christ, the source of all power, for strength and wisdom to overcome all obstacles. The charge was given in a very personal, friendly manner.

The Very Rev. C. Ritchie Bell, B.A., D.D., gave the charge to the congregation. In his inimitable manner, he sometimes serious and at others somewhat humorous, he bespoke for the minister, the loyalty, warmth, friendliness of the congregation, stressing the fact that often a minister's family is the most lonely in the community.

The service closed with the Benediction pronounced by Rev. John W. Williams.

Prior to the service, supper was served the guests by the Board of Managers and Session when the participating ministers and their wives were entertained. Other guests included Rev. and Mrs. E. J. White, Rev. and Mrs. K. Markel, Rev. R. E. Mummia.

A reception followed the service in the Church Hall when arrangements were in charge of the Ladies' Aid. The refreshment table was lit with tapers and arranged with spring flowers. Rev. Marshall of Georgetown, Rev. W. T. Payne of St. James' Anglican Church, Rev. C. L. Taylor of St. Paul's United Church and friends from Beauharnois, Nitro, Montreal, Howick, Rockburn and Aethelstan were among the guests.

Offers 10 Commandments To Induce Good Night's Sleep

CHICAGO—Dr. Paul H. Fluck came forth with 10 commandments for getting a good night's sleep, and he banned reading in bed.

Fluck, of Lambertville, N.J., said some insomnia is caused by bad sleeping habits or lack of regular routine.

Writing in the American Medical Association's magazine, Health, he listed these "10 Commandments" for good sleeping:

1. Go to bed at the same hour every night.
2. Try to get at least one hour of sleep before midnight.
3. Drink no more than a glass of milk or eat no more than a small

4. Never eat or drink anything ice cold before retiring, especially ice cream.
5. Never listen to the radio in bed.
6. Never read in bed.
7. Provide a regular schedule "for the hobby, dog or wife or husband who interferes with your rest."
8. When you go to bed, "Close your eyes and go to sleep."
9. If that doesn't work, try to recall in what position you awake in the morning, and assume that position.
10. "Relax every nerve, muscle and thought. Patience won't kill you. Sleeping pills may."

The United States is now the Nation of the World and it is her duty to lead the polling of the world, as was the duty of Britain for so many years.

Dr. George Fisher, Ormstown spoke briefly through putting in a plug for the welfare of Ormstown Exhibition which opens on Tuesday evening, June 6.

Addressed Canadian audiences from Coast-to-Coast in 1943-44 on Submarines and since his return from a world tour in 1947 has spoken and broadcast several hundred times on such subjects as "Survival at Stake—our individual responsibilities"; "Our last chance to face facts"; "Apathy unlimited"; "Our Canadian Heritage—can we hold it?"; "Greatness thrust upon us"; and "Uniformed or Uninformed?"

1941-43 Superintendent of Ordnance Design to the Forces, working very closely with our General McNaughton and all our Allies including of course the Russians. At this time it is worth of note that he was censured for maintaining rigidly that Russia was fighting solely for survival and certainly not for us and that all policy should be framed accordingly.

1943-44 British Admiralty Technical Mission to Canada, for which work he received the thanks of the Canadian Government. His family crossed at this time and decided that Canada was the place to live.

1944-46 Staff of the Allied Naval Commander in Chief, serving in Germany after Victory to interrogate higher technicians and examine new developments and so back into the house and said "If that fellow comes in tonight I'll blow his brains out." Gordon said that Earl stayed away that night. There was another time in 1946, Gordon said, when his father and Earl quarrelled about a team of horses and Arthur Sutton threatened Earl with a butcher knife and said to him "If you don't leave that team of horses alone, I'll cut you in half!"

His father, Gordon said, used to pick fights with his mother and Earl when he was sober as well as when he was drunk. Gordon went on to tell of another time in 1948 when the dog went out to welcome Arthur Sutton home, it was an ugly dog. Judge: "But you like him?" Gordon Sutton: "Yes Sir." Gordon said that this time his father got an axe and said he was going to kill the dog. Earl stopped him and then Arthur Sutton went into the shed and got a 3 ft. rod and hit Earl over the head with it. Mr. Crankshaw pointed out the mark on Earl's head which could still be seen.

The trial is still continuing.

Chateaugay Citizens Hold School Centralization Rally

CHATEAUGAY, N.Y. — An event of far-reaching significance took place in Chateaugay Friday. At this time citizens of Chateaugay and the surrounding rural areas were called to a rally at which the subject of the centralization of local school districts was discussed. The rally began with a parade at 7 p.m. The marchers were students of Chateaugay High School and members of other civic groups. Martial music was played by the high school band led by "Bud" Patnode as drum major. Majorities twirled batons expertly and both these groups drew much applause with their skill and their trim uniforms of maroon and white, the school colors. Boy Scouts of Troop 2, Chateaugay, in uniform marched with their Scout Master, William Cullen. Members of Protection Hose Co. No. 7, marched as a group in uniform, with the exception of their coats, which were doffed because of the unusually warm evening. A company of boys and girls, on gaily decorated bicycles brought up the rear.

The theme of the rally was humorously portrayed by two contrasting sections of the parade. Donald Jones and his young son (rode) in a Model-T Ford striking in its cleverness, and made up of various groups in sympathy with the cause, was just the right note to summon the citizens to a rally for consideration of an issue of paramount importance to this locality. It is significant of the spirit prevalent among the pupils of Chateaugay High School that the members of the junior and senior classes are wholeheartedly behind the centralization program. They, themselves, will not derive direct benefits since the system will not be in full operation until after their graduation. However, with the appreciation of what the school has given them despite its handicaps, they are extremely anxious to see the fully developed Chateaugay Central School and its increased advantage to those who will follow them.

At the high school, preparations had been made to handle groups of different age levels. Teachers of the primary grades acted as baby-sitters for the younger children, with storytelling, games and light refreshments. In the study hall a motion picture program was given for older boys and girls. Meanwhile the adults had assembled in the gymnasium to witness, and partake in, a three-part program. This began with a series of performances designed to demonstrate the work done for youths of the school, and to draw attention to the present problem. The seniors sang a medley with verses of welcome, the story of the school situation, and a delightful note of pride in the lines, "Vive l'amour, vive l'amour, vive La Chateaugay." The a capella choir sang, "Skip to my Lou." The French class sang popular songs with French translations, and rousing applause was given to a group, led by Gerry Desrosiers, in a lively rendition of "Alouette."

The second part of the program directly with the subject of centralization. Dr. John Mahoney, president of the Board of Education, District 1, Chateaugay, acted as moderator. He first introduced the speakers and later conducted a question and answer period. Some topics discussed were: transportation, districts to be included in the centralization plan and costs to different districts. There are thirty-two districts to be included, as follows: sixteen in the Town of Chateaugay: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17; (8 is joined with another district); seven in the Town of Burke: 1, 2, 3, 6, 10, 13, 14; five in the Town of Belmont: 1, 8, 9, 10, 11, and four in the Town of Clinton: 1, 2, 4, 8. The total enrollment is about 800 pupils.

The first speaker of the evening was Dr. John Harrold, district superintendent of schools in Clinton County. He spoke warmly of the benefits to be gained by centralization when rural children are enabled to share equally with village children in the many different phases of modern education. He stressed the work of the school nurse and dental hygienist, among other details. Dr. Harrold is well acquainted with various facts concerning centralization since while principal of the school at Ellenburg, he was a leader in the centralization of that area and later served as principal of the Ellenburg Central School for several years.

Maurice Finnegan, district superintendent of schools in Malone, strongly advised the voters to give close attention to the subject to find out for themselves the superior advantages of the central school system and to do all they could to obtain for their children the best education possible.

Wayland Livermore, school superintendent of District 1, Franklin County, then gave an outline of the plan as it would affect this area. He explained that any grade school in the central school district could be kept in operation if desired by the residents of the area. He mentioned some of the new services the children would receive, such as access to a well equipped central library, instruction in art, in music and in shopwork. The services of a guidance counselor, medical supervision, cafeteria service, etc.

The financial plan proposed for this centralization project was explained in detail by Francis T. Ryan, Mr. Ryan is a resident of Chateaugay and he spoke as a parent, a tax-payer, and a former teacher at the high school. He called the attention of the audience to the need of a new building to replace the present one which Ryan stated was built in 1879. Though enlarged and remodeled from time to time, it is not adequate to serve the needs of the children under the present-day plan of education. Mr. Ryan is a member of the New York State Education Department, serving in the Transportation Division of the Bureau of Rural Field Service. He emphasized the financial assistance given by the State of New York to Central Schools. The State Aid ratio is higher than for other schools since the state recognizes the fact that the central school is the best means of providing equal opportunities for rural children. To secure, "An Education For All the Children" the state provided additional financial aid to facilitate centralization.

Following these speakers and the subsequent discussion period, the entertainment was resumed with numbers given in response to popular request. The Choral Reading Group presented two selections including the humorous one, "The Kitchen Clock." The older boys then appeared in the ever-popular "Statuettes." The lights in the gymnasium were turned off and the spotlight thrown on the boys, brought out the scenes in sharp relief. Their grace, poise, and dignity were strikingly displayed in a series of poses, one being "Raising the Flag at Iwo Jima." With this scene, the program closed.

The rally drew a fine attendance and a rising vote of confidence promised that the survey soon to be carried out will meet with favorable response.

CHATEAUGAY CELEBRATES MEMORIAL DAY
Memorial Day, 1950, dawned clear and sunny and gave promise of a favorable weather for the several events planned for the day. In memory of loved ones who had passed away, relatives and friends carried flowers to the cemeteries and everywhere there were to be seen gorgeous tulips and gladioli that were at the height of their beauty. Graves of veterans of all the past wars were marked with American flags set up by members of the John E. Harrica Post, American Legion. From public buildings and home Old Glory fluttered in a gentle breeze.

At about 9.30 a.m. a fine parade formed in the center of town and marched to the Evergreen Cemetery where Memorial Service was held at the grave of Arthur Lagrave, a

Find out what makes the criminal behave the way he does, what can be done to make him change his ways and, more important, find out how to recognize conditions in the home and elsewhere which provide the breeding ground for these mental misfits and apply an ounce of prevention before it is too late.

The countries and those States below the border which have abolished the death penalty have not found that their murder rate has increased; on the contrary some have had less homicides than ever before. Execution has never acted as a deterrent. Perhaps it is not too much to hope that, when scientific research, modern methods and social reforms have been substituted for our outmoded system of punishment, tragedies like the Brunette murder will not happen in Huntingdon County again.

St. Upon the death of her mother, Miss Duffy made her home with her sister, Mrs. Charles Sancomb, and when the Sancomb family moved to Syracuse, N.Y., she accompanied them. She was, however, vitally interested in affairs in Chateaugay and was always happy to return for a visit. During the summer of 1949 she, in company with other ladies of the Duffy family, had a delightful reunion in town. Miss Duffy is survived by her brother, James Duffy, the last survivor of the eight children of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Duffy. Besides her brother, Miss Duffy is survived by several nieces and nephews, as well as grandnieces and grandnephews.

DISASTROUS FIRE AT DUFFY HOME

About 10 a.m., on the morning of Wednesday, May 24, fire broke out at the James Duffy home on Church St. in Chateaugay. It was not at once discovered as no member of the family was in the house at the time. Apparently started from an oil-burning hot water heater the fire spread rapidly. Flames followed the various outlets of the furnace with the result that the registers and cold air shaft burned and allowed the flames and hot gases to spread throughout the entire house. At first it appeared that the house could not be saved but when the smoke had cleared away, it disclosed that the building was greatly damaged but not beyond repair. Smoke, soot, seared woodwork, and broken glass was everywhere and the wall surfaces were badly singed. An especially disheartening effect was the fact that the interior had just been completely refurnished for summer and this work must be repeated in addition to the basic repairs to the building.

Occurring as it did in mid-morning the fire caused no injury to the inhabitants except shock and disturbance from the smoke and broken glass. The house has a tin roof, and storm sash had not been removed from the windows, which probably caused the fire to be somewhat checked. The Duffy home stands in a row of dwellings rather close together on Church St. and the manner in which the fire was controlled and no damage done to nearby buildings, is a matter for profound gratitude to the men of

OBITUARY

The late Alexander Leblanc Death came after a lingering illness of two years to Mr. Alex. Leblanc, who, for practically a lifetime resided in this vicinity. He was 68 years of age and was born in Ste. Agnes, on March 12, 1882, the son of Louis Leblanc and of his wife, Mary Richer, both now deceased.

A few years ago, Mr. Leblanc with his wife, the former Leontine Leblanc, moved from their farm on the Ridge Road to the Hospice de Valleyfield. Two years ago, Mr. Leblanc went to Montreal where he underwent a serious operation from which he never fully recovered.

At the time of his death he was a patient in the Hotel Dieu Hospital, Valleyfield, where he had been hospitalized for the past 33 days. His life partner predeceased him last October.

Relatives of the deceased left to mourn his loss are his six brothers, Albert, Joseph, Arthur, George, Olivier and Léandre and one sister, Mrs. Albert Latulipe. One other brother, William, died last summer.

Funeral services were held Tuesday morning, May 23, at 10 o'clock at Ste. Agnes Church with the local pastor, Rev. Father Paul Deguire singing the Requiem High Mass.

Pallbearers were all nephews of the late Mr. Leblanc: Messrs. Fernand Leblanc, Edgar Leblanc, Emile Leblanc, Aimé Leblanc, Leo Latulipe and Aurele Leblanc. Interment was in Ste. Agnes cemetery.

Barbara Brent's BUYS AND WHYS

MONTREAL — If you're a busy housewife — and these spring days seem to be times of great activity around the house — you're sure to appreciate the time-saving qualities of Jell-O. Tempting, tangy desserts can be whipped up in a matter of minutes with JELL-O JELLY POWDERS — and don't think the family won't appreciate the gay and colorful salads that can be quickly and easily prepared, too. The so-called "locked-in" flavours make Jell-O one of the most versatile products on the market. Yet you can enjoy Jell-O for less than 2¢ a serving.

Do You Know that tea once cost $45 a pound and was described as a cure for almost anything? Now tea costs less than a cup of coffee (including milk and sugar)... and we know that, though it won't cure anything—it's one of the most refreshing drinks we can treat ourselves to! From a beverage that could be afforded only by the wealthy... it has become a favourite, economical drink in thousands of homes all over the world. Canadians drink over 22 million cups a day, and those that want a truly good cup of tea drink RED ROSE TEA. Try it today at tea-time and I'm sure you'll make it a medicinal habit! For Red Rose Tea is good tea! Economical, too! — for there has been no increase in price of Red Rose Tea! And remember that Red Rose Coffee is as good as Red Rose Tea.

"I Love Baking," a reader writes enthusiastically! "I used to find it a ture for almost anything... and then I tried CALUMET BAKING POWDER! You're right — you simply can't go wrong with Calumet!" Yes, even "beginning" cooks enjoy successful, satisfying results when they use Calumet Baking Powder! Biscuits and shortcakes are light and tender — cakes and muffins are feather-light and delicious every time with Calumet! You see, Calumet's double action protects baking from start to finish! In the mixing bowl, thousands of tiny bubbles are formed to prepare the mixture for baking. The second action takes place in the oven, where thousands of more tiny bubbles continue raising the mixture to feathery, tender perfection. So you have help all along the way when you use Calumet. No wonder thousands of women say it's the "no-failure" way to bake!

"Something Blue" and gold and white belongs in every bride's kitchen... the brilliant new 1950 Fridgidaire with the new Old-Wall Refrigerator! Nothing else can equal it... shining white and gold, with its smart Ice-Blue interior trim. Has new adjustable and sliding aluminum shelves, extra-deep porcelain Hydrators that can be stacked, and many other wonders I know will make it a joy for any home-keeper. And this new FRIDGIDAIRE De Luxe Old-Wall is only one of four new models in sizes and prices for every home. Take my advice and see them now at a store which displays the Fridgidaire Dealer sign — try them at the refrigerator made only by General Motors.

Such Good News!... your favourite corn starch in a brand new package that's easy to open and close! It's such a pleasure now to open a package of DURHAM CORN STARCH! No need to pry it open with a knife and make a mess. Just break the seal and inside you'll find the Durham Corn Starch neatly protected in a paper bag. Then, when you're finished using as much as you need at the time, replace the top. It fits snugly — keeps out every last particle of dust and prevents any starch from spilling out. You'll be delighted with how much easier it is to reach the top of the package. Try a Durham Corn Starch Lemon Pie soon!... the best you've ever tasted and so economical, too!

That First Salary Cheque is a real thrill for teenagers who've found themselves Summer jobs. And they'll be thrilled to see how much more useful their money becomes when they've put a part of their salary in a Savings Account at the BANK OF MONTREAL! They'll be able to buy for themselves those big, nice things they've been wanting so much. So next time you visit your BoM — take your "salaried" teenagers along with you. They'll be sure of a friendly welcome at "My Bank" and they'll enjoy having a BoM account of their very own.

Planning That Shower For The Bride-To-Be is almost as much fun as having it. One thing above all that you'll enjoy doing is baking this wonderful Marshmallow Gold Cake — made extra tender, extra delicious with the finest of cake flours — SWANS DOWN CAKE FLOUR!... MARSHMALLOW GOLD CAKE (Standard 3 egg-yolk cake) 2 cups sifted Swans Down Cake Flour 2 eggs 3/4 cup butter or other shortening 1/2 tspn. salt 1/2 tspn. baking powder 3/4 cup milk 1 tspn. vanilla, or 1/2 tspn. orange extract 1 cup sugar 1/2 cup cream, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Cream butter, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg yolks and beat. Add milk, vanilla, and sifted flour, beating after each addition until smooth. Add flavouring and beat thoroughly. Bake in two greased 8-inch layer pans in moderate oven (375 deg. F.) 25 to 30 minutes. Frost with a lemon marshmallow frosting.

Around the Home...

TOM GARD'S NOTE BOOK Human nature being what it is, we seem to require an extra stimulus to carry out the annual spring cleanup. A program of concerted action always gets results and members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce are conducting just such a program this year. What a country we'll have when each one does his bit in the national campaign. Examine the slogan "clean up, paint up, plant up, light up" more closely, and you'll be amazed at the number of jobs now awaiting your attention that must be completed before your premises is shipshape. What's more important, you'll be amazed at the improved appearance of your property with two or three days of concerted effort. Why not begin by making a small gadget to ease the burden of washing outside windows. The cleaner illustrated is as effective as it is simple to make. Discourage Flies I dropped in unexpectedly on an old friend of mine the other day and found him making his own window screens for the summer. I was so impressed with the ease with which he turned them out I decided to make some myself for the house. The chief handicap confronting most people is their fear of tackling a new job. In case you have promised to screen that bedroom window this year, you'll find a handy list of material and sizes in the booklet "Around the Home". Flower Pot Covers The beauty of potted plants can often be strikingly enhanced by enclosing the flower pot in an attractive plywood container. The corners are fastened with small finishing nails or laced together with leather thongs or shoe laces. If laced, drill the holes at two-inch intervals, top and bottom between one inch from the ends. B.C. fir with an attractive grain or pattern is excellent. The wood then can be left natural—or painted to harmonize with the colour scheme of the room. The screening can be provided by using floral transfers on the four sides. More about these and many other ideas in the booklet "AROUND THE HOME". Write for your copy to Tom Gard, c/o MOLSON BREWERY LTD., P.O. Box 1608, Place d'Armes, Montreal, Quebec. GARDEN GREENS

The first few weeks after the garden starts producing green onions, asparagus, radishes and tender lettuce we cannot get enough of these fresh growing things. We enjoy huge helpings of them, crisp and raw in delicious salads.

Then it seems that nature gives too great returns or that the rows planted were a bit too long for the abundance of these vegetables is overwhelming and there appears to be so much more than can ever be used.

The home economists of the Consumer Section, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa suggest cooking radishes, lettuce and green onions for variety in the menu. Radishes, cooked in boiling salted water and served with melted butter or cream sauce are like very mild and delicious turnips. The unfortunate part is that they do lose the beautiful red colour during cooking. It takes about three cups of prepared radishes to serve six people. Here are several excellent recipes for cooking "garden greens".

In fact, once upon a time, all business men who advertised were, willing or unwilling, confirmed speculators. They couldn't help it, because in those days they had no way of knowing what they would get for their money. Today, advertising money can be invested on a basis of facts—the information in the reports of the Audit Bureau of Circulations, a national, cooperative and non-profit association of 3300 advertisers, advertising agencies and publishers. The A.B.C., organized in 1914, has established standards for measuring the circulations of newspapers and periodicals, just as there are definite standards for the weights and measures of merchandise. This newspaper is a member of A.B.C. Our circulation is audited by experienced circulation auditors. The information thus obtained is issued in A.B.C. reports which show how much circulation we have, where it goes, how it was obtained and other facts that tell business men what they get for their money when they advertise in these columns. What It Will Cost Individual Farmer In Proposed Levy

"What's this cent-a-pound but-terfat for advertising purposes going to cost me?" is a question heard often enough among dairy-men across Canada these days.

The query is a natural one for it is in line with the active promotion campaign of the Dairy Farmers of Canada to bring the merits of dairy products to the public more forcibly through advertising. A cent-a-pound butterfat, or the milk equivalent, set aside during the month of June will establish the initial budget for this purpose.

Erlc Kitchen, secretary-manager of the Dairy Farmers of Canada, has worked out a few figures designed to serve as a guide to milk and cream producers the country over. For instance, on a hundred pounds of 3.5 milk (3.5 pounds of butterfat) the deduction at a cent a pound would be 3 1/2 cents; on 100 pounds of 4 percent milk, it would be four cents; on 400 pounds of 3.5 milk the deduction would be 14 cents and so on through any calculation simply using the butterfat test as the key.

Once the basic calculation was determined it would then be a simple matter, Mr. Kitchen points out, for the farmer to figure out about what he would be called upon to pay on the June set-aside for advertising purposes in a national way.

For the whole month of June, a man who shipped 400 pounds a day of 3.5 milk would pay only $4.20 as his contribution toward the promotion of greater use of dairy products. The 500-pound-a-day shipper of 3.5 milk would pay $5.25 for the month, while the 300-pound-a-day shipper of 3.5 milk would contribute $3.15.

In the case of the cream producer another rule-of-thumb could be used. If a week's cream production of 30 percent cream, the fat content would be 24 pounds. Four weeks of such production in June would total 96 pounds of fat, or approximately 96 cents of fat, avoid further stock accumulations during the year.

The cut in the support price from 58 to 53 cents a pound, wholesale, could mean bigger sales, they added, but countering this was the fact that living costs were so high that Canadians were using less fat and therefore less butter.

"The net effect of this complex situation may well be that the lower price of butter will tend to maintain consumption at the 1949 level, rather than increase it, while at the same time the consumption of other oils and fats declines."

Meanwhile, the Government has on hand some 17,000,000 pounds of butter which it accumulated from last year's surplus, and which it is trying to dispose of in both the domestic and foreign markets.

Beef High

On other agricultural fronts, the economists say that the price of beef will remain high until grass-fed cattle can be brought to market later this Summer. Marketing of Canadian live cattle in both Canada and the United States touched 402,000 head for the first quarter of 1950 only exceeded by the 413,000 head marketed in the first quarter of 1948.

Hog slaughterings also were up. In the first quarter of 1950, almost 1,200,000 hogs were prepared, 20.5 percent higher than in the first quarter of 1949, but 24 percent below the first three months of 1948.

See More Butter in Surplus As Result Complex Situation

Agricultural economists in Ottawa are saying another year of butter surpluses is in the making this year unless wider domestic and export outlets are found for steadily-increasing production.

The economists, making their forecast in the Agricultural Department's monthly review of agricultural trends issued recently, estimate that Canada in 1950 will produce 340,000,000 pounds of butter and 125,000,000 pounds of cheese.

This estimated increase from about 330,000,000 pounds of butter and 118,000,000 pounds of cheese produced last year results from a climb of 12 percent to 17,000,000 in fluid milk output.

With the export outlook for Canadian fluid milk poor, the economists believe the increase will go into bigger production of cheese and butter.

The estimated production of 125,000,000 pounds of cheese will mean that Canada should with "little difficulty" fulfill the 85,000,000 pound Anglo-Canadian cheese contract, say the economists, but the expectancy of increased butter prices is a totally different problem.

Exports? With production in 1950 presently being estimated as slightly more than in 1949, either domestic consumption or exports will have to be appreciably increased in order to
