SITUATION IN LONDONDERRY IS REGARDED AS VERY GRAVE IN SPITE OF CALM YESTERDAY

Urgent Request To Dublin Castle for Military Reinforcements and Institution of Martial Law — Attorney-General For Ireland Regards the Dublin Situation As the Worst

Londonderry, June 22.—The city was quiet this afternoon. At three o'clock the inquest on the body of William Kane, who was shot and killed this morning, opened, but it was adjourned for a week. Of the persons injured Sunday night two are in grave condition.

A meeting of the magistrates this afternoon decided to send an urgent request to Dublin Castle for military reinforcements and the institution of martial law.

Telegrams were also sent to the Attorney-General urging the necessity of the immediate despatch of troops.

Situation Grave.

Dublin, June 22.—Citizens of Londonderry, including several magistrates, have requested the British Government to send more troops to that city. They urge that control of the city be assumed by competent military authority and that martial law be proclaimed. The situation in Londonderry is regarded as extremely grave.

Belfast, June 22.—The Evening Telegraph issues an appeal to the citizens to follow the example of Londonderry, saying:

"We would appeal to those who may be anxious for reprisals to be patient. Nothing would delight the rebel party more than to see the city turned upside down by disturbances and bloodshed. To play into their hands would be a grave mistake. The bounden duty of every patriotic man is to support the authorities in restoring and maintaining law and order."

Commons Discussed Riots

London, June 22.—Moving the adjournment of the House of Commons for the purpose of calling attention to the rioting in Londonderry, Lieutenant-Colonel Wilfred Ashley, Unionist, declared today that victory rested with the assassins and not with the Government, which appeared powerless to maintain the sanctity of life. The chief secretary for Ireland and the Viceroy, he said, were prisoners in their own houses, the officials of Dublin Castle were equally prisoners and obliged to take exercise in the castle grounds. The nations of the world were pointing the finger of scorn at England's inability to maintain her authority in Ireland. He demanded martial law and more troops.

The Right Honorable Denis Henry Attorney-General for Ireland, replying to the criticisms of Colonel Ashley, and other speakers, threw little new light on the situation. He said the authorities in Ireland had been given full authority to call for whatever was necessary and to adopt measures considered desirable and the police and troops had been given the utmost initiative, their instructions to behave precisely as on the battlefield. He regarded the situation in Dublin as worse than in Londonderry and in this connection he expressed approval of the suggestion made in the course of the debate to invite the assistance of the loyal men of all parties to help in keeping order.

Lord Robert Cecil voiced his disappointment at the Attorney-General's remarks. He declared that the Government should adopt either a course of conciliation or coercion. The motion for adjournment was then negatived without division.

No Railway Strike

Dublin, June 22.—Although some Great Southern Railway men have been dismissed for refusing to drive trains in pursuance of their anti-strike policy, it is not expected a strike will not follow.

The policy of the men seems to be to avoid a strike which they say the Premier is playing for. They announce they will continue in their refusal to handle munitions or drive trains with troops aboard. They are prepared for individual dismissals but they say they will not strike in protest.

If there is to be a wholesale stoppage of traffic, the men prefer it should be by a lock-out.

INDEMNITY AND DISARMAMENT

Subjects Discussed at Boulogne Conference — Allies Next Meet at Brussels

Boulogne, June 22.—(By The Associated Press)—The official communiqué issued after adjournment of the Allied Supreme Conference says: "The Conference was held at the Villa Bella from 10 o'clock this morning to 1 o'clock this afternoon. The question of the German indemnity and its distribution among the Allies was examined further. It was decided that French, British, Italian, Belgian and Serbian experts meet in Paris in order to determine a basis for common proposals which will be submitted to the Allies at Brussels on July 2, where a final agreement must be reached before the Spa Conference.

"The second question discussed was that of disarmament. The Council approved the text of the note submitted by the military experts and also assented to their decision regarding the destruction of war material and the date upon which there may be resumption of construction of airplanes material.

JUDGE COHALAN HURTS IRISH CAUSE

McCarty Accuses Him of Conspiracy to Drive De Valera Out of U. S. A.

New York, June 22.—(By Can. Press)—Dr. Patrick McCarty, "envoy of the Irish Republic to the United States" stated that Supreme Court Justice Daniel F. Cohalan had conspired "with others" to drive De Valera out of the country, according to this morning's World. This statement succeeded Cohalan's statement to the effect that there was no split in the ranks of the Irish workers in the United States, though there might be differences of opinion as to "procedure" and that as far as he was concerned, his interest in the Irish cause was "as an American."

McCarty conveyed the impression that it was not so much what Justice Cohalan had tried to do to De Valera that rankles in the souls of Irish Republicans, according to the World, but the painful knowledge that the justice, privately and on several occasions, had hinted that there was no such thing as an "Irish Republic."

The manifesto declares the Premier and Chancellor are scheming to bring about a strike.

Constable Killed

A police bicycle patrol of four was ambushed today near Bantry. One constable named Brest was killed, a sergeant was shot in the head and another constable was shot in the body.

Declined To Move Train

The Government again today directed that the police board the train at Cloughjordan for Dublin, and the railroad workers again declined, as they did yesterday, to move the train.

Other than this incident no developments are reported in the railroad situation.

LEGAL MIX-UP IN LABRIE CASE

Revolving About Gov. Malepert's Refusal to Obey a Writ of Habeas Corpus

Montreal, June 22.—A new and sensational development was reached today in the case of the Labrie brothers who are serving terms of twenty five years and life, respectively, and for whom writs of habeas corpus are being asked by their counsel. Writs have also been served for contempt of court upon Governor Malepert, of St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary, and it is upon this latter phase of the case that the developments of today arose.

C. C. Cabana, K.C., attorney for the Labrie brothers, took the extreme step this afternoon of proceeding by petition to the recusal of Acting-Chief Justice Archibald and challenged the competency of His Lordship to deliver judgment in the case for the following reasons:

Because he is interested to favor the respondent in the present case (Governor Malepert).

Because he expressed an opinion contrary to the pretensions set forth by the petitioners before the hearing of the present case; and

Because petitioners suffer an irreparable prejudice if the recusal shall not be declared valid.

It is added that the motives for the recusal "only" came to the knowledge of the petitioner after the hearing of the case upon the contempt of court proceedings on Monday last" and therefore it is asked that the delibere on those proceedings shall be discharged.

Communication of the recusal was duly made to the Acting-Chief Justice and His Lordship, in accordance with the statutes, filed a written declaration in reply. In this reply the judge states that none of the reasons given in the petition are true, "except insofar as they may refer to studies and discussions with colleagues either in the Superior Court or in the Court of King's Bench upon the legal questions involved in the issues rising in this matter."

The matter as it now stands will be referred to the judge sitting in the Practice Division (Mr. Justice Bruneau) and he will determine whether the recusal is well founded, "without the recused judge having a right to be present."

The case will probably come before the Court to-morrow or Thursday.

The issue which was taken on deliberation by Acting-Chief Justice Archibald on Monday was whether the Court should declare absolute the rule nisi, which Justice Ducloux issued against Governor Malepert condemning him to twelve months imprisonment for contempt of court for disobedience of a writ of habeas corpus ordering him to produce Emile and Joseph Labrie now held on conviction for manslaughter following their re-arrest on June 5th, after being liberated by judgment of Justice Ducloux maintaining writs of habeas corpus issued in May last on the ground that the warrant of commitment was not complete in essentials.

The machine, when located was found to take Chinamen who were being smuggled into the States. Immigration authorities state that this is only a part of a series of smuggling ventures which have been going on for some time and which they have been trying to detect.

CANADA CEMENT CO. FEELS SHORTAGE OF COAL

Montreal, June 22.—Difficulty in getting soft coal is affecting business so greatly in this city that it is expected that representations will be made to the Government for aid shortly.

Officials of the Canada Cement Company stated that two mills had been shut down for this cause and this had affected their production fifty per cent. Coal merchants have circularized the city to the effect that in view of the shortage only about 50 per cent of the amount ordered can be guaranteed delivered.

TORONTO STREET RAILWAY STRIKE

Practically Started Last Night — Men Demand 60 Cents An Hour

Toronto, Ont., June 22.—The long-threatened street railway strike practically started tonight, but the usual number of cars were run and the crews had orders that when they completed their routes they were to quit indefinitely. The union decided that the night cars should be run until 4:30 Wednesday morning, and official notification to this effect was given to the men on the night routes. After 4:30 tomorrow morning not a street car wheel will turn, but there will be innumerable jitney wheels revolving. For the thousands of workers who have to come down-town in the morning it will be a case of "we walk" or "we jitney" with the possibility of a somewhat prolonged strike.

The Toronto Railway Company made no move today toward averting the strike, and the employees showed an equal determination not to back down on their decision to walk out.

CLOTHING CONTRACTORS DULY COMPENSATED

For Cancellation of War Orders—Army Boots Traded To France

Ottawa, June 22.—(By Canadian Press)—Compensation paid by the Canadian war purchasing commission for cancellation of clothing contracts was the main item before the public accounts committee of the Commons today.

When A. R. MacMaster, (Brome) called attention to the fact that a firm in Hull supplied army socks at an average price of forty five to fifty cents, and received compensation for cancellation of contract at fifty cents per pair, W. S. Leckie, secretary of the commission, promised to look into it. In the face of it, he agreed that the thing needed explanation but he was sure there had been some mistake in making out the report.

Mr. Leckie was on the witness stand all morning.

Dealing with compensation generally he stated that it was less than ten p. c. of the contracts involved and much less than the sums allowed by Allied powers in the war. At one point he stated that prices quoted in Canada for over stocks of army boots were ridiculously low and that the boots were traded to France through the Canadian Trade Commission at a good profit. Valuable rugs or furniture, if any damaged or from Camp Borden would be sold through an Imperial Board.

AMENDMENT TO HOME RULE BILL

Lord Robert Cecil Convinced That Bill Will Not Solve the Irish Question

London, June 22.—In the House of Commons today the Government accepted an amendment to the Home Rule bill, proposing that the Irish representation in the Imperial Parliament should be 46 instead of 42 members or to include four representatives of the Irish universities in the interests of the minorities of South Ireland.

The Government opposed an amendment suggesting that Irish representation at Westminster should cease on the Irish Parliament's achieving union.

Walter Hume Long, on behalf of the Government, expressed the opinion that the northern parliament would never consent to be divorced from the Imperial Parliament. The amendment was rejected by a large majority.

During the course of the discussion, Lord Robert Cecil declared his conviction that not a single member of the Government had the slightest belief that the Home Rule bill would do anything whatever to solve the Irish question.

LOVELY EVENING GOWN.

By Gertrude Beresford.
 The backless evening gown has been much talked of, but in this creation you will find pleasing interpretation of the model. Large, velvety petalled flowers are effectively draped from the shoulder to just below the girdle of green ribbon. The dress is developed in a lovely shade of mauve satin. A very air-like result is achieved by the bouffant overdresses of mauve tulle. These become shorter as they approach the sides, but manage to increase in bouffancy. Tiny wisps of tulle form tender shoulder straps. In place of this fashionable headress are large amethyst ear-drops.

WHILE SUGAR IS HIGH.

By Loreto C. Lynch.
 An Acknowledged Expert on All Matters Pertaining to Domestic Economy.

"What in the world is the housewife to do?" asks a correspondent. "My family demands desserts at the principal meal of the day, and when I do not satisfy this demand they tie themselves to the candy shops to pay the prevailing high prices for sweets."
 It is a problem. And whatever the reason for the present scarcity and high cost of sugar we once bought for five cents the pound, the fact remains that the average housewife is at her wits ends to provide the family with sweets.

Along this line I have been experimenting for two years. I took a very unpromising child from a charity institution and decided to make certain experiments with her diet. I have seen men who were slaves to alcohol, but I have never seen any man more of a slave to alcohol than this girl of twelve was to sweets.

At a single sitting she could devour two pounds of candy costing from $1 to $2. In consequence, her complexion, her digestion and her disposition suffered. And after she had had one of her very sick spells she asked me what she ought to eat so that she would not be so ill again.

Of course, most children have to eat what is put before them, but if you are fortunate enough to get their own co-operation the task is a much simpler one.
 At first, Katie did not like her diet food, but I began serving smaller portions and creating energy taking jobs for her so that her appetite became keener. For breakfast, she had a little fresh or dried stewed fruit, a cereal with top milk, toast and warm milk or cocoa. Sometimes the breakfast was bread and milk and eggs.

And by the time noon came she was ready for the principal meal of the day. Sometimes it consisted of vegetables and meat stew, bread and butter, date pudding and milk to drink. For the evening meal, there was cream egg on toast, baked banana, Boston brown bread and butter, rice pudding and milk.

And after six weeks of a proper diet, I found myself leaving candy carelessly about and it would have almost as much in the box as when I left it unguarded. But because of the proper diet, the girl was being normally satisfied.

Here then is the secret. First of all plan out a proper diet for the family. At your library you will find some excellent books to help you.

And there are some recipes that call for little or no sugar and at the same time are delicious and satisfying.

Date Pudding
 Cereal (1-2 cornmeal and 1-2 farino), 3-4 cup boiling water, 3 cups salt, 3-4 teaspoon chopped dates, 1 cup butter, 1 tablespoon corn syrup, 1-2 cup nutmeg, a few gratings, 1 egg.

Stir the cereal gradually into the boiling water and add the salt. Cook directly over the flame five minutes, stirring constantly. Then cook over water for an hour and a half. Add the other ingredients having the egg well beaten. Pour into a greased mould and bake half an hour in a moderate oven. Time may be saved by using left-over breakfast cereal.

Baked Indian Apple Pudding.
 Cornmeal, 1 cup, Milk, 2 cups, salt, 1-2 teaspoon, ginger, 1-2 teaspoon, molasses, 1-4 cup, apple, 1.
 Stir cornmeal into scalded milk and cook in double boiler thirty minutes, stirring occasionally. Add salt, ginger and molasses. Put into greased baking dish and bake in a slow oven one hour, stirring occasionally. Slice apple and stir into pudding. Bake until apple is tender. Serve hot or cold.

Those Pearly Teeth Learn how people get them

All statements approved by high dental authorities

Millions of people have adopted a new teeth cleaning method. Wherever you look you see pearly teeth nowadays. Let this ten-day test reveal what this method means to you.

End the cloudy film

Most teeth are dimmed by film. A viscous film clings to them, enters crevices and stays. Most tooth troubles are now traced to it.

It is this film-coat that discolors—not the teeth. It is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea, and very few people escape it.

The ordinary tooth paste does not dissolve it, so the tooth brush does not end it. Thus most people suffer from that film.

Now dental science, after years of searching, has found a way to combat it. Able authorities have amply proved its efficiency. Now leading dentists everywhere advise it, and millions of people have come to employ it.

Everyone is welcome

Now this new method is embodied in a dentifrice called Pepsodent. And everyone is welcome to a ten-day test.

Pepsodent is based on pepsin, the digester of albumin. The film is albuminous matter. The object of Pepsodent is to dissolve it, then to day by day combat it.

Pepsin long seemed impossible. It must be activated, and the usual agent is an acid harmful to the teeth. But science has found a harmless activating method, and pepsin can be every day applied.

Two other new-day requisites are combined in Pepsodent. So this method in three ways brings unique results, and everyone should know them.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coat disappears. It will be a revelation.

Do this for your sake and your family's sake. Judge the method by results. Cut out the coupon now, for few things are more important than whiter, safer teeth.

HOUSE OF COMMONS CONCURRED IN THE REPORT ON PENSIONS AFTER A FOUR HOUR DEBATE

Increases Provided For Will Raise Canada's Pension Bill From $25,000,000 to $33,000,000 — 177,035 Pensioners Will Benefit by Average Increase of 50 Per Cent.

Ottawa, Ont., June 22.—Just before rising for dinner recess, the House after nearly four hours of discussion today concurred in the report of the Special Committee on Pensions. Hume Cronyn (London, Ont.) Chairman of the Committee, had first outlined the scope of the Committee's recommendations. Increased pensions under the report, he said, would raise the Dominion's annual pension bill from $25,000,000 to $33,000,000. For the benefit of approximately 177,035 pensioners, the Committee had found it necessary to recommend an average increase of fifty percent over the pension scale adopted a year ago.

Lieut.-Col. Peck, V.C. (Skeena, B.C.), who followed, had an amendment to the formal motion for concurrence which Mr. Cronyn had presented. Colonel Peck moved that the Committee's report be referred back with instructions that it be so amended as to provide for subsidies for fishermen as well as for farmers.

In the ensuing discussion, warm tribute was paid to the work of the Committee. From the Opposition, there came the criticism that the Government should have taken responsibility for refusing cash grants instead of blaming the committee, as Captain Power, of Quebec, put it. And Captain Power declared he could see "the political handwork of a man from Saskatchewan, known the length and breadth of the country, as a man likely to out-rogue Fob Rogers in the extent of pulling this Government out of a hole."

Sir Robert Borden indicated that the Committee had already considered the granting of loans to fishermen among others. He urged that the report as submitted be adopted. Were the Committee compelled to reconsider its findings, it would not be possible this session to give effect to the necessary legislation.

On this, Colonel Peck, speaking with some warmth, declared that rather than run any risk of delaying benefits, he would withdraw his amendment.

"It is not a question of class with me," Lieut.-Colonel Peck exclaimed. "I do not care about technical forms. Perhaps I am ignorant of House procedure. I specified fishermen only as one way of re-opening the matter of the rights of the returned soldiers."

The amendment being withdrawn, the House then adopted the motion of concurrence in the Committee's report, and bills to give effect to the committee's recommendations were introduced.

With few exceptions the increases recommended in the report are in the form of bonuses. The committee points out that they are necessary to meet the high cost of living and, therefore, should take the form of bonuses, but that the increases should be assured as long as the high cost of living continues. To meet the storm of complaints which followed the reduction in some cases of pensions to dead soldiers' dependents on account of their enjoying "ree lodging," the committee recommends that widows and mothers be allowed to take or make an income up to $20 per month without any reduction in their pensions. The increase in the pensions bill on this head is estimated at $240,000. Certain permanent increases in addition to the bonus are recommended by the committee. A totally disabled soldier is awarded an addition of $300 a year for himself and his wife, $180 a year for the first child and $120 a year for subsequent children. On the same basis, widows are awarded an additional $120 a year for each child after the first. The increase in the pensions bill on this head is estimated at $225,000 per year more. Tabling giving details of precise effect of all the increases are attached to the committee's report but were not read. Mr. Cronyn read some figures giving expert opinion submitted to the Committee on the cost of living. The committee, he said, had endeavored to base their recommendations on the minimum of expenditure in the most expensive parts of the country and for obvious reasons, had made the pension scale standard from coast to coast.

After referring to State insurance and additional provision for tubercular patients, Mr. Cronyn stated that many requests which had been turned down, such as cash gratuity, had received equal if not more attention than things which had been successfully sought. He concluded by paying tribute to the faithful attendance by committee members and expressing the hope that the Canadian returned soldier would realize that the committee had done its level best to recompense him for the sacrifices he had made overseas.

Lieutenant-Colonel W. C. Peck, V.C., then observed that returned soldiers must know there was a certain amount of public opinion against them because some of the demands would have been too great a drain on the country's financial resources. There had been a big advance made in provision for widows and orphans, also for the men themselves. He would have liked to have seen more done for students, also along the line of housing accommodation. Turning to re-establishment, he paid tribute to the Minister of the Interior for the success attending the soldier settlement board operations, and urged that after agriculture, the fishing industry should be the first avenue for further re-establishment. If 65 or 75 percent of the men under the soldier settlement board made a success of the help given them, then the country should be well satisfied.

Lieut.-Colonel Peck then moved an amendment to a previous motion by Mr. Cronyn.

Mr. Cronyn had moved concurrence of the House in the report. Colonel Peck seconded by Mr. Turgeon (Gloucester, N.B.), moved in amendment that the report be referred back to the special committee with instructions so to amend it as to recommend that subsidies be granted to fishermen as well as to farmers. The speaker said some doubt had arisen whether such an amendment would be in order. The principle, regarding expenditure of public money, was, however, the same as that involved in the report of the committee. If the amendment was not in order, therefore, it would not be in order for the House to entertain the report of the special committee. In his view, the amendment was in order. Mr. Turgeon then seconded the amendment.

Dr. H. S. Beland, (Beauce) supported the amendment of Colonel Peck. He said if anyone class was entitled to assistance it was the fishermen. The debt of Canada to her returned soldiers and to the dependents of those who had not returned could never be fully discharged, but he thought the report brought in by the Committee had gone a long way toward providing dependents against want.

Captain C. G. Power (Quebec) congratulated the Government on the good work of the committee and denied that there was lack of sympathy. Never had any committee done more for returned soldiers. The Government, however, should have taken the responsibility of refusing cash gratuities instead of blaming the committee. The result was abuse of the committee and loss of the public's confidence. He saw the political handwork of a man from Saskatchewan, known the length and breadth of the country as a man likely to out-rogue Fob Rogers to the extent of pulling this Government out of a difficult hole! Had he, Captain Power, known of the extravagance to be practiced, he would have first voted for a lump sum for returned men. He thought a mistake was made in loaning to farmers any more than fishermen, doctors or lawyers.

D. McKenzie said that the only criticism he would make of the pensions committee was that it sat too long and left Parliament too little time to consider its report. He supported the Peck amendment. Every man belonged to a class and fishermen represented a very large and deserving class.

Mr. McKenzie spoke at length on the grievances of returned men undergoing vocational training in Canada. He read a memorial prepared by the men complaining that the proper hearing to the delegates of the vocational students, nor to their case for increased allowances, and better facilities for training.

Mr. McKenzie asked that the Government give every consideration to the claims of the vocational students when the legislation was framed, following the report of the Pensions' Committee.

He added that security given by fishermen for a small loan would in proportion be as good as that given by farmers for a larger loan.

WHITEWASHED BY BO. OF COMMERCE

Charges Against Wholesale Grocers of Hamilton and Elsewhere Not Proven

Ottawa, Ont., June 22.—(Can. Press). In the case of the wholesale grocers of Hamilton, Ont., and elsewhere, a final decision handed down by the Board of Commerce today finds that the charge of being a detrimental combine for the fixing of re-sale prices was not proved in the evidence adduced before the Board. In an interim report of the Board recently, a similar finding was made and the Board announced its intention of pursuing its investigations of the operations of wholesale grocers from coast to coast. The interim report stated that the charge brought against the wholesale grocers of Toronto and Montreal by the Attorney-General of Ontario had failed in proof and had been withdrawn at the argument before the Board in those towns, but the Board expressed its willingness to grant leave to the Attorney-General to prosecute under the Combines and Fair Prices Act, all associations, and persons concerned, if he considered he could succeed in criminal proceedings.

Final decision in the case recapitulates these points, given at length legal reasons why hearing had failed to reveal an illegal combine on the part of the wholesale grocers, expresses its regret that owing to limitations of staff it has been unable to pursue its complete investigation of the Dominion wide conditions in the trade, and points out that with the resignation of Vice-Chairman W. F. O'Connor from the Board, this final decision must be made while there is still a quorum of the Board to render it. The Board states, however, that since the hearing in Hamilton and Toronto in March, it has pursued its inquiries into the methods of the firms concerned denied and have failed to obtain proof that the grocers operate a combine to the detriment of the public, or that the grocers' association had ever refused to admit to its membership a bona fide wholesale grocer. The Board points out that differences of opinion on the wisdom of its conclusions in this matter may be referred to the Supreme Court of Canada and expresses its willingness to expedite any such appeal which may be brought.

FIVE INJURED IN LEVIS AUTO ACCIDENT

Two seriously injured, and three others slightly wounded, were taken to the Hotel Dieu de Levis on Monday evening, the victims of an auto accident that occurred near St. Henri that same evening. The injured are Mr. and Mrs. Morin, Mr. and Mrs. Hermidas Laroche and Miss Marie Ange Champagne, all of St. Prosper, Dorchester County.

SR HERBERT AMES DELIVERS MESSAGE OF CONFIDENCE IN LEAGUE OF NATIONS' SUCCESS

No Longer a Dream, He Says, and Will Stake His Future on Issue—What Canada Is Now Giving Will Be Returned a Hundred Fold—Thirty-Seven Powers in League

Ottawa, Ont., June 22.—(Can. Press)—A message of confidence in the success of the League of Nations, and of praise for Canada's part therein, was delivered in the Commons tonight by Sir Herbert Ames, Financial Secretary of the League. "The League of Nations is no longer a dream," Sir Herbert said. "It is a reality; it has been born; it has organs; it functions. Many difficulties have been overcome; many dangers avoided. There are still difficulties and dangers in the way, but I am today convinced that ultimate success is reasonably sure, so convinced that I am ready to stake my future on this issue."

The speech of Canada's representative of the League was followed with close interest by members of all three parties. He said he had returned to order a solemn declaration, that in his judgment, in entering the League, Canada had made no mistake. He urged, if possible, fuller co-operation, Canada's position in the League was unique. She had joined not for what she could get but for what she could give.

"Not with hampering reservations, indicative of distrust striking at the very root of the spirit of mutual confidence in which alone a League of Nations can successfully operate. She accepted the pact in its fullness, believing that the interpretation of the obligations involved would be reasonable, willing to trust and to be trusted."

The disappointment over the failure of the United States to enter had turned all eyes toward Canada. Canada would be asked to bear her share of the expenses. For her there would be no immediate return beyond the approval of world opinion, and the esteem of the world, out of the day would come when what Canada is now giving would be returned a hundred fold. Sir Herbert appealed to Canadians to be as generous, as a nation, toward sick and suffering nations, as they were known to be as individuals towards suffering individuals.

International relationships, he declared, should be free, from partitionism. The spectacle of political division on international questions exhibited by "a nation not far from us" should be a sufficient object lesson for Canadians to agree to disagree on home questions only.

MAPLE PRODUCTS EXHIBITION OPEN

Formal Opening Took Place Last Evening at the Exhibition Grounds

The Second Annual Maple Products Exhibition, which opened yesterday evening at the Exhibition Grounds in the Central Palace, and in honor of the occasion, Hon. J. A. Caron made a short speech dealing with the industry. The Central Palace has one end entirely devoted to the Maple Products, and has a very artistic layout of the maple trees and preparing the sugar as compared with the modern-up-to-date way. The attendance was not very numerous, a fact which was commented on by Hon. Mr. Caron but the exhibit is regarded as the finest ever seen. One of the exhibitors, Mr. Goddard, of Waterloo, P.Q., who has been in the maple sugar line for over thirty years, and has officiated in the capacity of judge at all of the big exhibits, said last evening that the exhibition at Quebec was the finest he had ever witnessed. He said that Vermont had always been regarded as having the best sugar display but that the exhibit in Quebec had Vermont beaten easily.

The first exhibition of Maple Products, held in 1918, attracted 45 exhibitors, while the one that was opened last evening saw 59 exhibitors from the Province of Quebec and one from Ontario. In this exhibition there are 150 exhibitors, both maple sugar and syrups, and the hall looks very artistic indeed. Hon. J. A. Caron stated that there were two things that should be developed in the sugar industry. One of them was to get a better price for the farmers, and the other was to increase production. In 1910 the maple industry in the Province amounted to one million dollars, while in 1920 it reached eleven millions dollars. There were only one-fifth of the maple trees in the Province that were tapped, said Hon. Mr. Caron, and if an effort were made to tap them all, in a few years, the maple business in this province would reach the enormous figure of $50,000,000.

The maple trade was special to Canada and particularly to the Province of Quebec. The city of Quebec was the centre for maple products, and thus all products should be first class goods. With granulated sugar at 23 cents a pound, maple sugar selling at 39 cents was not too dear, considering the circumstances. Europe likes maple sugar and syrup, and it is sold in London and Paris. Mr. C. E. Marquis then gave some figures on the growth of the maple industry in the Province, which was heard with the utmost interest, while he was followed by Mr. Grim, of Montreal, who is one of the exhibitors. The latter gentleman complimented the Commission on the magnificent display saying that it was the best exhibit he had seen, and was, in his opinion, the best that was ever shown in the Central Palace. The following gentlemen were present at the formal opening last evening: Mr. Jos. Picard, Chairman of Quebec Provincial Exhibition; Mr. Georges Morissette, Secretary; Messrs Geo. VanFelson, Jos. Savard, N. E. Laplante; Aldermen F. A. Lesage, G. E. Marquis, A. G. Lambert, J. A. Marler, F. G. Goddard, J. Waterloo; J. H. Grim, Montreal, of the side of the road, jumped the ditch, and after breaking a fence overturned.

QUEBEC, JUNE 23, 1920.
HOW NOT TO DO IT.

On Saturday morning last a brief paragraph reported that, at a meeting of the City Council on the previous evening, Mr. A. E. Pfeiffer had been re-appointed to the Protestant Board of School Commissioners on motion of Alderman Collier, seconded by Alderman Bedard.

In the present instance, the Chronicle has no fault to find with the action of the Council as the work of Mr. Pfeiffer during the past year has in our opinion entitled him to another term of office. At the same time we desire to renew an emphatic protest against a system whereby, in a Council upon which Protestant interests are absolutely unrepresented, an important appointment of this kind is made without any opportunity whatever being afforded for the desires of those directly concerned to be expressed.

We are unaware as to the grounds upon which Alderman Collier's motion was based but presumably it was upon an official or unofficial intimation from the Board of School Commissioners. If this was accompanied, as it has been in the past, by a request for the re-appointment of Mr. Pfeiffer, we must also renew our protest against the vicious practice by which that body renders itself practically self-perpetuating and unamenable to the will of those whom it is supposed to serve.

Incidentally—and we suppose it is a minor consideration with a Council of which anything may be expected—the appointment of Mr. Pfeiffer appears to be irregular since, if memory serves, the place of a retiring Commissioner must be filled by the Council and notice received by the Department of Education, according to law, at least fifteen days before the expiry of his term on July first; falling which the City forfeits its right of nomination and the appointment must be made by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council. As the appointment in question was not voted on until June 19th, it could not have been received by the Department within the prescribed time limit, and is therefore irregular. No doubt the difficulty can be overcome by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council again appointing Mr. Pfeiffer, but it seems strange that a long-established and clearly worded law cannot be complied with, and the negligence of the Council might easily lead to difficulty and confusion.

The points that we wish to emphasize as strongly as possible and that will have to be dealt with definitely sooner or later, are these:

It should be the duty of the Protestant Board of School Commissioners to notify the City Council of the expiry of the term of any Municipal nominee sufficiently in advance, but also to permit the Protestant parents and rate-payers to voice any preference in the matter that they may have.

On the other hand, it should be clearly understood that it is improper for the Board to make any representations to the Council as to whom it should appoint. If it should do so it is the duty of the Council to also consult the wishes of the parents and rate-payers before taking action.

The general principle upon which the constitution of Protestant School Boards in this Province rests is that of the representative mandate and not one of irresponsible power. In every school district other than in the cities of Montreal and Quebec, Commissioners are elected by the rate-payers and the appointive system has been substituted in these two exceptions merely to avoid the expense of elections in comparatively large communities. Therefore although the Protestant rate-payers in this city have at present no vote on the appointment of their School Commissioners they have a clear right to a decisive voice in the matter, more particularly because, as has been said, they are by force of circumstances completely unrepresented upon the City Council which is the appointive body.

The Protestant School taxes are high, considerably higher in fact than those assessed in the Catholic panel, and those who have to pay the piper are likely to do so far more cheerfully if they have been consulted as to the selection of the men by whom their money will be administered than if they are entirely ignored, as has been done now for too many years.

NAVAL TROPHIES.

Som time ago reference was made in these columns to the military section of the Imperial War Museum opened this month at the Crystal Palace by His Majesty, the King and it is only right that some account should also be given of the equally important and equally interesting naval section.

The trophies collected are of very varied interest. Historically, the most valuable will probably be the collection of models of ships, many presented by their builders. All types are represented, from the battleship to the trawler, and including the "Q" ship. The whole of the "Dazzle School" collection, showing the designs in camouflage which were evolved by Lieut.-Commander Norman Wilkinson and his colleagues has been transferred to the Museum also. There is to be a large section model of the interior of a submarine, and C.M.B. 4, the small craft in which Lieut. Agar sank the Oleg, and won the V.C., is included as typical of the earliest designs in a class that is destined to develop.

A large model, 73 feet in length, of one of the 18-inch guns used in the bombardment of the Belgian coast is another instructive item.

The relic side is humorously varied. There is the seaplane in which Flight-Lieutenant Rutland made his ascent from the Engadine to spy out the German fleet at the beginning of the Battle of Jutland, and there is the preserved head of the pig that was captured from the Dresden when she was sunk at Juan Fernandez. The models of the German positions at Ostend and Zeebrugge, made for the training of the forces that took part in the great St. George's Day attack, are in the Museum, with the framed original, written by Sir Roger Keyes, of the signal, "St. George for England." Life-boats from the Hogue, the Cressy and the Lusitania, a wooden signal locker from the Good Hope, and the gun beside which Roy Cornwall stood in the Chester are a few of the tragedy-recalling items.

In this connection the official organ of the Navy League observes editorially that it is typical of the national attitude towards the sea, "which serves it in the office of a wall or as a most defensive to a house," that it is only after we have fought a great Continental War, with an army of five million men, that any sort of national naval museum is brought into existence.

The naval section of the Imperial War Museum will do much to preserve for future generations knowledge and understanding of sea life in the Great War. We have reached a stage in human development, indeed, in which the preservation of records promises to be more complete than ever it has been.

To take only one example, it continues, the Fighting Instructions on which naval tactics were based from the Early Tudor period to the time of Trafalgar, were for generations inaccessible. Only a few copies were known to exist, and of those few some were found by investigation to be wrongly dated. The lessons to be derived from them remained hidden even from the Service until the Navy Records Society published them under the editorship of Sir Julian Corbett.

Equally regrettable is the scattered condition of our naval relics. They have no central home. The Museum of the Royal United Service Institution contains much that is valuable, and it has grown in importance in recent years. The Greenwich collection is all but unknown to the lay public. There are items at the British Museum. There are others at South Kensington. But nowhere is there a collection that can be said to give a comprehensive survey of our Navy's growth and development.

"It is now known," concludes The Navy, "that it is the intention of the Government to devote a site on the south side of the Thames, near the new County Council Hall, to a permanent building for the Imperial War Museum. All who cherish the glorious records of the remote past will hope that out of this Museum there may grow an impetus for the establishment of a true Imperial Naval Museum that shall house all the best relics and reminders of 'famous ships, forgotten ships, that once were in all men's speech,' and of the men, known and unknown, who fought in them, toiled in them, suffered in them, and often died in them, building each in his own way a tradition for posterity; adding, each by his own actions, something to our sum of knowledge of the sea and its ways, in peace as well as in war, and leaving to those who come after the intangible but indestructible treasure of Sea Power."

WELCOME THE CZECHO-SLOVAKS.

The plan to have the gallant Czecho-Slovak troops, now quartered at Valcartier Camp, visit this City towards the end of the present week or early next week, is one which will meet with general approval. These brave men, who have won everlasting fame on the battlefields, have not yet visited a Canadian city, so it belongs to the Ancient Capital, renowned for her hospitality, to fittingly receive these splendid troops.

It has been suggested that while the Czecho-Slovaks are in the City they be reviewed by General Landry, G.O.C., M.D.S., and it is hoped that arrangements may be made for the review in question. The best place for such an inspection would be the Quebec Exhibition Park, which affords ample space for such a demonstration, is easy of access by the street cars and has a splendid grand stand where thousands of citizens might assemble to see the review and give our brave Allies a rousing cheer.

A GREAT NEWSPAPER CORRESPONDENT.
(New York Times)

There have been more famous—or notorious—newspaper correspondents than Dr. George Morrison, who has just died, but never one more soundly informed or more trustworthy in his special field. For years his Peking dispatches to The London Times were an original source of accurate knowledge. Dealing often with diplomatic matters, they beat the professional diplomats out of sight. It used to be a common way of attempting to "draw" Mr. Arthur Balfour in the House of Commons to ask him if he had read what Dr. Morrison was saying about future developments in China. Mr. Balfour would say in his languid manner that he never read foreign news in the press, and that the Foreign Office had no reason to suppose that Dr. Morrison was correct. But it would be shown that Dr. Morrison was, in about a week, by the official reports which would by that time catch up with him.

His appointment of general political advisor to the Chinese Government was a tribute to him as remarkable in its way as that paid to Sir Robert Hart in being retained so long as financial expert in China.

Dr. Morrison represented The London Times at Portsmouth in this country, when the treaty of peace between Russia and Japan was in course of negotiation. G. W. Smalley was nominally chief to Morrison, and treated him rather cavalierly. Just one day before the treaty was signed, Smalley telegraphed a column and a half to London masterfully announcing that there would be no agreement, and that the war would be resumed. Dr. Morrison, however, had previously ascertained that Japan was certain to accept even an unsatisfactory treaty, and had so told Smalley. The latter went afterward to the management of The London Times that Dr. Morrison had been insubordinate and had actually sworn at him. When The Times people learned the whole story, they thought the profanity quite excusable.

BRITAIN AND AMERICA.
(Liverpool Post)

A very able man who has been in Canada reports that the Canadians are very dissatisfied with the way in which the British Government yields in every matter to the United States. Especial soreness is expressed at the manner in which the American papers represent that they influence the Irish situation through treading on the tail of the British lion. Ireland is being used as a political text for the Presidential election, and the effect of this very irritating to Canadian susceptibilities. The movement for disintegration from the Mother Country is absolutely infinitesimal, nothing more than the talk of a few individuals. On the other hand, Canada is financially doing well, and if a "slump" comes in America this autumn, as many Canadians believe to be the case, there is expected to be an attempted influx from the United States over the border, which will not be appreciated. It is the deforestation of Canada that is causing such a shortage in paper.

SUBMERGED TREASURE.
(London Daily Chronicle)

Very little is being done to save the ships torpedoed in the war which litter our coasts. There are known to be some 130 vessels lying in less than twelve fathoms of water, a depth at which salvage operations are comparatively easy. But the work is always speculative, and commercial companies will not undertake it unless they can hope for profits proportionate to the risk. The Government flen on excess profits prevents that, so the wrecks are being left where they are to decay and destroy the nets of trawlers.

THE ORIGIN AND DESTINY OF MAORIS

Are Native Race of New Zealand—Inhabited Islands Since 1642.

London, June 21.—The Maoris are the native race of New Zealand which was found inhabiting the islands when first visited by Tasman in 1642. They were not aborigines, being Polynesians who had replaced an earlier Paupuan or Melanesian stock. Maori tradition points to Samoa as a former home of the race whence they migrated to New Zealand about 500 years ago, probably first touching at Raratonga, whence the voyage to New Zealand (2,000 miles) could be made by large canoes with the aid of a trade wind within a month. A good deal of evidence has been brought forward in support of the theory that they originally came from Northern India via Java and the Indonesian Archipelago.

Physically, the Maoris are true Polynesians, tall and well-made, of a darker brown colour generally than the Polynesians of the Eastern Pacific, though fairer Maoris, almost European in feature, are met with. In spite of the fact that they were, previous to the European invasion, addicted to eating the bodies of their enemies slain in battle, an unpleasant custom partly of religious origin and partly, no doubt, due to the absence of large mammals in the Pacific islands and New Zealand, they are a remarkably fine race with many excellent qualities.

Today there are about 50,000 pure Maoris living in New Zealand itself and about 1,000 half-breeds. Of the latter, about half are living as and among the Europeans. Many have attained high positions in the Dominion. There are four Maori members of the House of Representatives and two sit in the Legislative Council, while the Minister who combines the functions of member of the Executive Council representing the Native Race, Minister of the Cook Islands and Minister in charge of Maori Councils, in the Dominion Cabinet is also of Maori race.

At one time it seemed likely that the Maoris would gradually be absorbed by the white population, but of recent years there has been a decline in the number of half-breeds and more distaste towards intermarriage has been shown on both sides. Fortunately for the New Zealand Maori the laws of the Dominion give him every facility for maintaining his racial purity provided that he cares to do so.

EVERYONE THERE NAMED LEVY

There is a peculiarity about Little Tancook island, Lunenburg county, Nova Scotia, which is not generally known. Nearly all the residents are named Levy. In fact, only a few years ago all the residents bore that name. In the majority of cases the given or Christian names are taken from the Old Testament. The Levys claim to be direct descendants of the men who followed the fishermen's calling on the shores of Galilee in the time of Christ.

SWIMMING PROVED GREAT ATTRACTION

DEMONSTRATION ATTRACTED MANY

Y.W.C.A. Swimming Classes Aroused Enthusiasm By Splendid Exhibition

That the Y. W. C. A. is performing a splendid service to the community by its swimming classes was amply demonstrated last evening when a number of young ladies gave an exhibition which created the utmost enthusiasm of the large crowd that filled the balcony surrounding the swimming pool, and without doubt those taking part in the different events deserved the applause which greeted their respective efforts.

With so many of the city's young people spending the summer at the seaside or at the different lakes or rivers surrounding the district, the value of the swimming instruction, by such a capable instructor as Miss Cateley, will gain for them experience that should prove of great benefit from a physical point of view, to say nothing of the immense advantage the acquiring of the art means when accidents happen through boats or canoes upsetting or from other causes, when drowning is likely to occur through ignorance of this important knowledge, which is now within the reach of all to acquire.

Last evening's programme included no less than twenty-five events, all of which were carried out with remarkable ease and confidence on the part of the young ladies, and their performance reflected not only credit upon themselves but also upon their skillful instructors.

The junior boys also gave an exhibition that was in every way creditable to them. The exhibition began with a Grand Swim, in which all the classes took part. The senior classes' demonstration included the long plunge, obstacle race, floating, swimming under water and, with the juniors, gave a demonstration of life-saving that won loud applause from the spectators.

An interesting feature of the exhibition was the "tricks" performed by Miss Ella Tanguay, who proved an exceedingly clever aquatic artist, and her performance received well-deserved applause. The exhibition was one of the most successful yet held by the Y. W. C. A. and judging by the large number of spectators last evening, future events of a similar nature are sure to become popular among all those interested in aquatic sports.

Johnny Wilson, the new middleweight champion, is to meet Soldier Barfield in a five-round bout at Newark on July 1.

Benny Leonard, lightweight champion of the world, has sprained a tendon while acting for moving pictures on the Pacific Coast and has been forced to cancel all boxing dates previous to his meeting with Charley White at Benton Harbor, Mich., on July 5. Leonard was matched to meet Jimmy Duffy at San Francisco; Johnny Shepherd, at Portland, Ore.; and Harry Shuman, at Seattle. The champion's withdrawal from these contests will mean a loss to him of approximately $40,000.

Buffalo, even though they lost a double header yesterday, still cling to the lead in the International League. Their margin, however, is only the barest a team can have. They are half a game ahead of Baltimore, while Toronto are the same distance behind the Orioles.

Cleveland had a batting bee yesterday and scored thirteen runs off three Boston pitchers, pounding them for twenty hits.

Two overtime battles were staged in the National League yesterday. In the first Cincinnati won from Philadelphia in eleven innings, while Boston defeated St. Louis in the same number of innings in the other match.

Frank Moran, the Pittsburgh heavyweight, announces his willingness to take on Georges Carpentier on any terms.

Spike Sullivan is to meet Dumoulin, of Sherbrooke, here very soon. In a boxing bout, if a rumor round town is to be believed.

Johnny Kilbane is to retire shortly, and will turn over his title of featherweight champion to Jack Wolfe, of Cleveland.

MRS. DOBELL WON THE FOY CUP

Defeated Mrs. Handsombody On 19th Green Yesterday After Exciting Match

Mrs. Dobell is the proud possessor of the Foy Cup this morning, having captured that coveted trophy yesterday afternoon after one of the most exciting and keenly contested matches ever witnessed on a local golf course.

The players were all square at the end of the eighteen holes, and an extra hole was necessary, when Mrs. Dobell triumphed.

In the other matches the winners of the various events were as follows: Senior: Mrs. Cecil Thomson; Intermediate: Miss Imrie; and Junior: Miss Margaret Davis. On Thursday a team of eight ladies from the Quebec Ladies' Golf Club will make the trip to Grand Mere, where they will play the Grand Mere Ladies' Golf Club on Friday. The result of this match will be published after the match.

The links at Montmorency are in the very best of condition, and look to be one of the best in the Province.

LOW PERCENTAGE IN THE NATIONALS

Judging From Way Things Are Going, 95 Games May Win the Pennant

Hamilton, June 22—Judging from the way things are going in the National League, it will not take more than ninety-five games to win the pennant. It is very probable that the low mark set in 1914, when Philadelphia won the flag with a percentage of only .52, will be wiped out. There does not seem to be any such thing as form in the old league this season, for clubs are coming up and going down without showing any real stability. This will make a close and interesting race, but an analysis of the factors which are behind this peculiar condition falls to fatter either the league or the game itself. The fact is—and it cannot be dodged—that there still are many players doing service in the National League who, according to the old standard would have found it hard to qualify even for an American association outfit with pennant possibilities. The old circuit is digging high and low, but first-class youngsters are not coming up fast enough, and as a result a lot of old-timers and semi-veterans who never did fit in are holding down regular berths.

This situation is emphasized by the state of affairs in the New York infield. Scouts for the Giants have been on the lookout all over the minors for a couple of infielders who were even better than Sicking and Lear, but they have failed to locate their men. They found nobody at all in the minor leagues, and located

TROPHY GIVEN FOR RIFLE SHOOTING

Recipient from W. C. Macdonald, Reg., Inc.

WITH CASH ADDITIONS

P.Q.R.A. Receives Annual Subscription of $500 To Be Shot for at Pointe-aux-Trembles

A challenge trophy was presented yesterday by W. C. Macdonald, Registered, Incorporated, for rifle competitions in Canada, the prize being accompanied by permanent cash additions to be paid by the company. The challenge trophy is the "Brier" shield, which will be presented to the Dominion Rifle Association, and which is now in course of making here.

This is a sterling silver shield, mounted on a mahogany base, the shield being about two feet high and eighteen inches wide, of decidedly beautiful design, and embossed with rifle competition scenes in heavy relief. It will be a permanent challenge trophy for the Dominion Rifle Association, with a suitable inscription bearing the name of the donors and the date 1920, the whole being surrounded by a wreath along the edges, one side maple leaves and the other laurels, while at the base are two rifles crossed behind a target, while at the top is a scroll, "Macdonald's Brier Shield."

The shield which is valued at $500, will be open for competition as an annual challenge trophy, to be competed for at the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association annual prize meetings at Ottawa, open to all members of the D.C.R.A., and will be held each year in charge of the officer commanding the winning team.

Provision has been made by the D.C.R.A. that each team competing for the trophy shall consist of eight men from any rifle association, to be competed for, ten shots at 300 and 10 shots at 600 yards. In addition to the shield to the winning team, the Macdonald Reg., Inc., will each year donate $1,000, to be divided in prizes among the 152 best competitors, with five team prizes. The team prizes will run from $36 down, while the individual prizes will run from $25 for the best scorers down to $4 for the lower prize winners.

$500 Yearly for P.Q.R.A.

Besides this challenge trophy and series of cash prizes for the D.C.R.A., the W. C. Macdonald, Registered, Inc., have donated to the Province of Quebec Rifle Association an annual subscription of $500, to be shot for annually at their prize meetings at the Pointe aux Trembles ranges, to be known as "Macdonald's Brier Match." To this the P.Q.R.A. has decided to add $75 annually as team prizes.

The "Macdonald's Brier Match" will be shot for annually, with ten shots each at 300 and 10 shots at 600 yards, these matches to be open to all members of the P.Q.R.A.

In recognition of these handsome donations from the Macdonalds, the council of the Dominion and Province of Quebec Rifle Associations have sent letters expressing their warm gratitude to the company.

Two possibilities among the school and college coterie—Lefevre, of Fordham, and Kelly, a second baseman, who has been playing sensational ball with Dean Academy, at Franklin, Mass. Whether they will qualify for schooling remains to be seen. Contrast the present state with that of not so many years ago, when McGraw had such infielders as Shafer, Groh and Stock on the bench. There is no mistaking the signs—particularly when a club offers the sum of $200,000 for an infielder of the general capabilities of Roger Hornsby. And these signs are serious ones for the major leagues. The standard in both majors this year is even below that of last season—and it hit a record low level then.

Lethbridge, Alta., June 22.—The poll tax of $10 to be levied covers every individual, male and female, whose name does not appear on the assessment roll. School teachers, stenographers, miners, clerks, and all engaged in business, trade, and labor, not paying taxes will come under the imposition, and all householders who rent and do not own property.

CHALLENGER WAS WINNER AGAIN

Shamrock IV. Defeated 23-Metre Yacht by Eight Minutes Yesterday

Sandy Hook, N.J., June 22—In the trial races off here this afternoon between Shamrock IV, and the 23-metre yacht, the former crossed the finish line eight minutes, ten seconds, actual time, ahead of the latter.

The race began in a ten-mile breeze, west, northwest, from the Ambrose Light-vessel to Whistler Buoy Four, South Long Beach, and return, ten miles.

The challenger started at 2:10:49, and the trial yacht at 2:12:00. Shamrock IV. doused her club top-sail and set working topsails when the breeze became fresher.

Clever handling on the 23-metre boat in a fairly heavy ground swell enabled her to overhaul the challenger, but Shamrock IV. rounded the first mark at 3:29:38, and the trial boat went around at 3:30:00.

The summary: Shamrock IV. started 2:10:49; finished 4:53:29; elapsed time 2:42:40. Trial boat started 2:12:00; finished 5:02:50; elapsed time 2:50:50.

The Vantile and Resolute now have had three accidents each, during the trial series of races. Resolute lost her mast and her top-mast and broke the jaws of her gaff. Vantile previously has frayed the main boom bridle and picked up a lobster pot.

New port, R.I., June 22—The parting of a shroud on the sloop Vantile today prevented what appeared to be the best weather opportunity yet presented to test the qualities of the Cup defense aspirant yachts Resolute and Vantile.

The yachts were at a line with a 15-knot breeze blowing, a good sea running and a fog which had delayed the start blown away, when one of the strands on the Vantile's star-

GIBRALTAR IS STILL VALUABLE

Recent War Proved That it Remains An Essential Outpost of British Empire.

London, June 22.—The war has proved once for all, if indeed any proof were necessary, that Gibraltar, despite all adverse criticism as to its present-day value as a fortress in view of the revolution in the methods of modern warfare, remains an essential an outpost of the British Empire as it has ever been since it became a British possession over 200 years ago.

The part taken by the Rock in the long days of the world struggle was not merely that of "Sentinel of the Straits", for statistics show that it was almost the greatest of the Allied coaling, victualling, and repairing bases. To say, therefore, that during the greatest crisis in the world's history as many as 150 ships were frequently known to assemble in Gibraltar Bay and to be coaled and provisioned in a comparatively short time without the slightest mishap, is only to reflect a particle of the credit due to the efficiency of those responsible for this excellent work, and especially to the officers and men of the Straits Parol, known as the "eyes of the Rock", who day and night in all kinds of weather kept a vigilant watch of the Straits of Gibraltar and its approaches for enemy craft.

The Gibraltar dockyard was yet another valuable asset contributed by the British Empire to the Allied resources, and the importance and magnitude of the work carried on in this yard during the four years of war will never be sufficiently known to be adequately appreciated. It can, however, be said without exaggeration that the use of an efficient dockyard at Gibraltar was indispensable to the Allies and contributed to the acceleration of many of our operations in the Mediterranean, and above all to the success of our convoy system. Among the ships that made good their battle injuries in the Rock Dockyard were H.M.S. Carmania, which in sinking the German armed liner Cap Trafalgar had the signal honour of being the first of our auxiliary armed liners to go into action, whilst the battle-cruiser Inflexible entered the dockyard in a more or less battered condition soon after the Dardanelles naval action.

The importance of the port of Gibraltar to British commerce is beyond doubt, and the question which is now concerning the local Chamber of Commerce and those interested in Imperial commerce is whether the Government will co-operate in furthering British trade and finally remove whatever restrictions may hinder it.

In view of the exceptional opportunities which Gibraltar offers for the expansion of British commerce, and of its great transshipment trade with Morocco, no effort should be spared to make the Rock even more adaptable for commercial purposes than it is at present. America is actively engaged in attempting to capture British trade throughout Spain, and so far as Gibraltar is concerned it seems not without some measure of success, for in spite of the adverse exchange, which considerably enhances the cost to those whose income is in sterling, the number of American cars seen in the Gibraltar streets has increased considerably of late. Nor is this the only line in which the States have secured if not a monopoly, at least a strong lead. Such other articles as hosiery, toilet necessaries, soap, tooth powder, and endless varieties of tinned food are being sold locally in large quantities.

The appointment of General Sir H. Smith-Dorrien to the Governorship of this historic city and fortress is one on which the people of Gibraltar may congratulate themselves, for his sympathy and interest in all that affects the welfare of the colony, no less than the solicitude shown by Lady Smith-Dorrien in the social and philanthropic field, have earned for them the esteem of all classes. Gibraltar looks forward with confidence to many projected reforms calculated to modernize the system of civil administration, among which not the least important will be that of electing sanitary commissioners, who correspond locally to municipal councillors, by the votes of the ratepayers, instead of, as heretofore, by official nomination.

THAT MYSTERIOUS JUNGLE DENIZEN.

The interesting question may or may not be settled by Capt. L. B. Stevens, now "somewhere in Africa," but the fact that he hopes to settle it revives discussion among naturalists as to whether or not there may be a gigantic animal never seen in any menagerie, and whose nearest likeness is to be found in the drawings of the prehistoric dinosaur. For a good many years so many stories have been coming out of Africa of a seemingly prehistoric monster, that most zoologists and naturalists have more or less accepted them as having a real foundation; the individual attitude of mind ranging from complete denial, that classes the mysterious animal with the sea serpent, to belief in the possibility of survivals, in unexplored parts of the earth, of some prehistoric creature. The most specific description tells of a creature in the general shape of a lizard, probably fifty feet long "with a thick tail like a kangaroo's a hump on its back, and a terrifying horn on its snout, and a body covering of red scales, from which radiated pale green stripes." The weight of opinion is in favor of the actual existence in Africa of an animal to justify the reports, and if Capt. Stevens finds such an animal the question will of course be settled. If he doesn't, the tales will doubtless continue.

He is also a "sun worshipper", living entirely in the open air, and adopting the simple dress of the natives, consisting merely of a "lava-lava" or loin cloth, and when in full dress that is, when he receives visitors, this attire is completed by the addition of a wristlet watch and a walking-stick.

CHARLES LANE FINISHES ON DALTON PICTURE.

After three weeks on location at Charleston, South Carolina, Charles Lane has just returned to New York with Dorothy Dalton, director Harley Knowles and the balance of the supporting cast for her forthcoming Famous Players production "This Woman—This Man." The trip South was made largely to film the famous Magnolia Gardens in Charleston, a privilege never before accorded to any motion picture company. The city officials and other leading citizens entertained the company so lavishly and aided the production in so many ways, that Lane declares he will always remember this trip as his pleasantest location experience.

NO-PROFIT BASIS IN HOUSING URGED

Workers Corporations For Erecting Houses and Making Building Material

New York, June 22—The imperative necessity for adopting some plan by which homes may be constructed for workers is recognized by those who have investigated industrial conditions in this country. While political conventions discuss leagues of nations and the usual generalities of political platforms, labor is beginning to realize the housing for workers is one of those questions of vital importance to labor, which will not be answered until labor speaks.

While plenty of capital, labor and materials are found for construction of great office buildings and for converting great hotels into banks and business houses, practically nothing is being done in the construction of homes for workers. Giant office buildings and hotels in this city are being erected.

No Attraction to Investor.

But worker's housing and apartment shortages continues to exist with out any real attempt to relieve it. Construction of homes for workers does not offer attractions for the investor. The State Labor Party now stands for a housing program at its recent convention, and this program was compiled by expert industrial research workers, architects and labor men after careful investigation.

The cardinal point in this program is not so much stipulation that the State by constitutional amendment, if that be necessary, shall advance building credits at a low rate of interest, as the provision that construction shall be done by non-profit making corporations composed of the actual workers. This provision would eliminate the speculative interest from house-building projects, and elimination of this interest is held to be absolutely essential if any progress is to be made toward a workable building plan.

This point is strongly emphasized by Ordway Tead of the Bureau of Industrial Research and a member of the committee of experts which drafted the housing plan for the state Labor Party.

Need to Reduce Profits.

"It sounds Utopian," said Mr. Tead "and, of course, it is a thing that cannot be brought about at once. But if we are to cut the cost of buildings we must reduce the builders' profits."

"For the skilled workers, the provision of housing has been on speculative basis, and this has always been inadequate. It has failed completely to afford housing in sufficient quantity and of a wholesome or artistic quality. The process has been one of building flimsy apartment houses and filling them with tenants at a rent which promises no return to the owner. The builder would then sell at a considerable profit, and leave the new owner to find that his income was cut almost from the start by repair charges. As a result moderate priced apartments tend to deteriorate rapidly into a condition which makes them undesirable and unsafe.

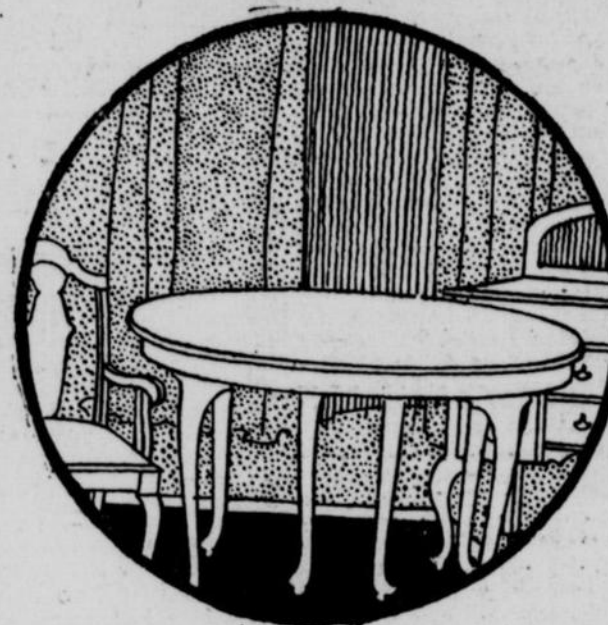

"We therefore, urge the necessity after grants of state credits are arranged, of facilitating the organization of non-profit-making corporations of practical building workers supervisors of construction, and architects, for the purpose of construction and management of houses and the manufacturer of building materials.

"The demand that the state, cities, and towns be enabled to go into the business of building, owning, and renting houses is fundamental. There is no other means of supplying the needed housing, and to meet the demand is a public duty. Only by such a provision can the middleman's profits be permanently eliminated from this public service. It is plain enough that one of the causes of the unnecessarily high price of building material lies in an understanding among manufacturers of these materials by which unreasonable prices are maintained."

FUTURE FISCAL POLICY OF INDIA

Country Unlikely to Gain Or Lose by Moderate Preference in Import Duties

Calcutta, June 22—A short time ago the Government of India appointed a committee to consider whether or not it would be advisable for India to adopt a policy of imperial preference, and also to consider the whole question of the future fiscal policy of India. The committee's report is now published and the conclusion that it has come to is, that India is "neither likely to lose nor gain appreciably on the balance by the adoption of a moderate preference in its import duties." The decision however, is based on the assumption that there is no probability of any retaliation by countries outside the British Empire which now import Indian products.

Dangers of Retaliation.

The committee seems to be convinced that the demand for raw material is such that the apprehensions expressed by Lord Curzon's government are now groundless. The question remains, however, as to what will happen when the present urgent demand for raw materials comes to an end. For instance, the committee admits that there are dangers of retaliation with regard to the export of copra, and some doubt as to the effect which imperial preference would have on the Indian export of oil seeds.

It is felt to be probable that the committee is in the main right, and that under present conditions there is not much danger of foreign countries imposing a hostile tariff on Indian products, because these commodities are just now urgently required. But the matter does not end there. India is progressing and her aim, it is believed, must be to become a manufacturing country herself, and to use her own raw materials and in due time to compete in foreign markets. It will then be greatly to her disadvantage to find hostile tariffs imposed against her on account of some preference from which she gained nothing. Also it is not impossible that the production of raw materials may in time exceed the demand and India would then lose her present favorable position.

Few Advantages.

These then are stated to be the risks of retaliation. What advantages imperial preference offers to India are very few.

The committee was also asked to advise on the question of the future fiscal policy of India, and its decision is that a committee should be appointed to take evidence on the subject from all classes, importers, exporters, producers, manufacturers, and even the poor old consumer! The Industrial Commission did not inquire into fiscal questions and the committee's recommendation is that a similar commission could now go into the subject. The objection is that the two subjects are not parallel. An inquiry into industrial matters is a local one in which industrial firms can give useful help, but an inquiry into fiscal matters cannot be localized, and it is difficult for industrial firms to avoid bias in their opinion on such a matter, which should really be dealt with by experts.

NEW COIFFURE.

The quaint and the unusual are appearing in the new hair dressings. Besides the bobbed hair the contours are showing an adaption of the Grecian knot. With the bobbed hair, we have a covering of the ears, but the latest tendency is to let the lower tip of the ear lobe show below a soft roll of waved tresses. The Spanish style headress has entered the field, and the open filigree of a high backed comb now makes the dividing line between a smoothly brushed head and a large, loose knot in many fashionable headresses for the evening.

HOT DOGS

A book about southern France contains this curious note about a practice of cutlery grinders in the old town of Thiers, an important seat of that trade: "Most of the numerous factories here are paper mills and workshops for polishing saws and knives. Some of the polishers, who work lying flat on their faces, have trained dogs sitting on their backs to keep them warm," which in Canada are employed to comfort the inner rather than the outer man.

Hairs can be easily banished from the skin by this quick, painless method: Mix into a stiff paste some powdered delatone and water, spread on hairy surface and in 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and it will be free from hair or blemish. Excepting in very stubborn growths, one application is sufficient. To avoid disappointment, buy the delatone in an original package.

WOMAN SEEKS TO BE AN ALDERMAN

Mrs. Barnett Second in Election to Fill Vacancy on the Middlesex County Council

London, June 22.—A recent vacancy for the Middlesex County Council brought forth six nominations, one being a woman—Mrs. Henrietta Octavia Barnett, who was nominated by the one woman member of the council, Mrs. How Martyn. The election aroused much interest and the galleries were filled with women identified with public work, who greatly desired that the county should have the benefit of Mrs. Barnett's long and valuable experience in social work throughout England. Each nomination was allowed a few minutes in which to present the claims of the nominee to the suffrage of the councillors. Although the election of a woman alderman for Middlesex would be an innovation, Mrs. How Martyn remarked it would be in harmony with the world's new outlook and new ideas, and it was only just she considered that one of 9 aldermen for the county ought to be a woman.

Qualifications Strange.

The qualifications for the office of alderman, Mrs. Martyn said, were strange, namely: a peer of the realm of long years of service on the council. If Mrs. Barnett had had her deserts she believed that she would have been created a peer of the realm long ago, but long years of service as a councillor did not of themselves apparently seem sufficient qualification for the office.

It savored rather like a Sunday school prize for long attendance, and it was little wonder that the London County Council and the County Council of Manchester were considering the question of abolishing the position of alderman altogether. Mrs. Martyn affirmed that Mrs. Barnett had as fine a public record as any woman in the country. She had rendered many valuable services in education, housing, the welfare of children, and in a literary capacity. If a system of proportional representation prevailed Mrs. Martyn believed that there would be no doubt of Mrs. Barnett's election, for those who did not give her their first vote would certainly give her their second. As, however, the first count was the final count, it would be quite likely that whoever was elected would win on a minority vote.

Election Would Please Everyone.

Mrs. Barnett's election would please some a great deal, and it would please everyone a little. The desire of every councillor should be to search Middlesex for the best citizen to fill the vacancy and the most highly qualified citizen; in the opinion of many representative people Mrs. Barnett was, without doubt, the best citizen for that office. Fitness as well as justice demanded her election, Mrs. Martyn concluded.

Other supporters of Mrs. Barnett called upon their fellow councillors to emerge from the atmosphere of yesterday and move with the trend of modern thought. Some of them could remember the lively meetings that were the rule before the advent of their present woman member, Mrs. How Martyn. It was the same with other councils since women had been elected to them; the meetings were now more orderly and the women members had been able to give men good advice on the matters that came before them.

Public Services Well Known.

The House of Commons, it was considered, was all the better for the presence of its one woman member and councillors could not help but admit that Mrs. How Martyn's advice had been good for the Council. How many of the councillors were known outside their immediate district? Mrs. Barnett was not a local personage; she was known throughout England for her public services.

OLD TURKISH TRADE UNIONS.

Guilds Formed of Members of Various Industrial Vocations Common in Constantinople.

Whatever may be the eventual government of Constantinople, the countless guilds or corporations created by members of the various industrial vocations followed by the population will probably respond slowly to the change. In Constantinople, says a writer on Turkish life, every trade and calling has its own union, many of which are long ancestry; for example, is said to have been granted power to judge and punish its own members for public offenses as long ago as the sixteenth century, in return for some service which it then rendered Suleiman the Magnificent. Organized for the common benefit as traders or workers, the members of the guilds are admitted irrespective of race or religion so long as they follow that particular occupation. The business of the organization is conducted in lodges, the officers of which have been held responsible for the good behavior of members. Although future conditions in Constantinople will doubtless modify them, the esnaf will probably continue their power.

One cannot help admiring the pluck of these women, for a bull is not a sweet-tempered animal at the best of times, and it is not, I fancy, generally known how the poor creatures are made to suffer from the time they are driven from the ranch—where they are bred from a special strain imported from Spain—until the day they are driven into the ring.

On leaving the ranch they are blindfolded and placed in crates, where they are boxed up in such limited space that they cannot turn round, or lie down, and here they stay until they are driven, half crazy with rage, into the strong sunlight of the arena.

Small wonder that the populace chunders loud applause when the women get the best of it, but to the women—and most men—of other countries, the whole thing seems very demoralizing and disgusting.—Answers.

MEXICAN WOMEN LIKE BULL FIGHTING.

Since the revolution in Mexico, the women have become more emancipated, as a whole than those of any other country. Thousands of women are actually armed, and fighting in both armies. This is not remarkable, as all through history there have been times when women made just as good soldiers as men; but it is surprising that women should excel men in such a cruel sport as bull-baiting.

There are at the present time between two and three hundred women in Mexico engaged in bull fighting, either as the slayers, of the wounded bulls, or as mounted attendants in the ring, or in some other position, and they are immensely popular with the people.

Their earnings vary, but on feast days, when hundreds of thousands of people attend a bull-fight, a woman may be paid as much as $100 for entering the ring.

One cannot help admiring the pluck of these women, for a bull is not a sweet-tempered animal at the best of times, and it is not, I fancy, generally known how the poor creatures are made to suffer from the time they are driven from the ranch—where they are bred from a special strain imported from Spain—until the day they are driven into the ring.

JERSEY CLOTH FOR BLOUSES

Slip-Over With Pleatum Said to Still Hold Prominent Place; Silks Desirable.

Jersey cloth in silk, in one of the new blouses that go by various names, is used increasingly for blouses. In spite of everything that has been predicted, the slip-over blouse, with a pleatum, is still the smartest vogue. To be sure, some of the very smart new blouses reach only to the waist-line, but the pleatum is the rule. And it is in these blouses that Jersey in silk weaves is especially desirable. For it has body enough and at the same time suppleness enough to hang well around the hips. It is often elaborately embroidered, sometimes heavily braided in soutache, sometimes worked in machine stitching with colored wool in a way that adds distinction to many of the new blouses.

GERMAN MUNICIPAL BONDS
Latest shipping advices are to the effect that on account of large importations of surplus of German goods, there has been a steady demand for marks at advancing prices.
The German Government has recently appointed a Commission to arrange an International Loan to stabilize the European Exchange and to arrange a definite policy with other countries relative to exports and imports, trade with Russia and a general settlement of economic conditions.
This means that carefully selected German Municipal Bonds purchased on the basis of the present exchange rate will show a considerable profit in the near future.
The following figures give an idea of the present cost and the possible profits should normal conditions be restored.

	Present Value at normal price	Value at rate of Exchange
5,000 Marks City of Hamburg - 4 1/2 %	$172.50	$1191.65
5,000 Marks City of Berlin 4 %	$175.00	$1191.65

Commercial and Financial News

CLOSING LETTERS BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

(By Canadian Press)
New York, June 22.—Dealings in the stock market today were subordinated to strength of international exchange and stringent monetary conditions.
Demand bills on London again approximated the four dollar mark, that quotation being the highest since last April.
French and Italian remittances rose in sympathy and the German mark made a material gain. Rates on Eastern European capitals were not materially altered.
In the money market, demand loans opened at 8 percent, advancing to 10 percent before 2 o'clock, and to 11 percent in the final hour, that price holding at the close.
Brokers reported as much as 9 percent bid for time funds on all-industrial collateral.
The railroad strike was without pronounced effect upon the transportation list, but shares of industrial companies whose operations must inevitably suffer from the freight embargo offered only tentative resistance to pressure.
In general the stock market still lacks bullish incentive or leadership aside from the sporadic trading of pools, in specialties, and drifted idly but almost steadily downward after its uncertain beginning. Prominent industrials, especially steels, equipments, motors and oil, showed net losses of one to two points.
Sales amounted to 400,000 shares.
Insistence in some quarters that yesterday's moderate inflow of gold from Canada bears direct relation to payments on the Anglo-French loan were denied.
Foreign bonds were steady, but Liberty issues and active rails and industrials continued irregular on moderate offerings. Total sales (par value) $11,400,000.
Old United States 4's rose 1-4 percent on call.

CLOSING LETTERS BY THE LOCAL BROKERS

(By BrunEAU & Dupuis)
New York, June 22.—The market has been reactionary today. The renewal rate was higher than yesterday and money again worked up to 11 percent. It is impossible for a stock market to make headway against so heavy a burden.
The general news while of no special importance is not very encouraging. Further labor troubles on the railways, though restricted to a few points, shows the continued restlessness among the men, while the approval of government ownership by the federation of labor in Montreal indicates that the labor leaders still have the ambition to annex the railroads of the united states.
Apparently, there has been a complete cessation in the demand for wool, and this has led to a conference of the wool producers. Foreign conditions also still seem in a tenuous state of equilibrium.
Under such circumstances and with the dullness usual at this period of the year it is not surprising that the market is heavy.

WOMAN MAYOR RULES THE TOWN

Not a Man in City Hall At Jackson—Population About Three Hundred

Cheyenne, Wyo., June 22.—A woman mayor, Mrs. Grace Miller, now rules in Jackson, the population center of the Jackson's Hole Country which was famous in fact and fiction as the resort of the outlaws, cattle rustlers, horse thieves and other bad characters of the west as it was. For what is said to be the first time in history, there is not a man in the City Hall of an American municipality; for a city administration composed entirely of women has been sworn into office as a result of the election in May. There is not a man in Jackson's City Hall.
Jackson is a diminutive city—perhaps a population of not quite 300. Perhaps no other section of the United States is so far isolated from the railroads and from all - year traffic. The nearest railway station is 75 miles away, and from November until May the highway to that station is virtually impassable. Surrounded by the high mountains in the range south of Yellowstone National Park, the residents of Jackson make little or no attempt to travel during the winter months.
It was in Jackson's Hole that the bad men made their last stand against the advancing wave of civilization 30 or 40 years ago. There they stocked after stealing cattle or horses or other robberies or hold-ups and banded themselves together for mutual protection.
To day Jackson, itself, has surrendered to the feminist movement and made a clean sweep of every public officeholder. The only explanation thus far given for the overturn comes from the editor of the Courier, the city's sole newspaper, who says in his paper: "It is thought the novelty of being the first city on record to be governed entirely by women, helped them to secure such a complete victory." The editor who was, himself, a candidate accepts the results without repining but says the women surprised even themselves by the result.
There was no unusual campaigning, no special issue at stake, nor

SAVAGES USE POISON GAS

The Guardians and other native tribes along the Rio Parana, in Brazil, used poison gas centuries ago for military purposes. How they did it was described time and again by early Spanish chroniclers.
When attacking a fortified village they would prepare pans of glowing coals, which they sprinkled with a kind of pepper called "agi". This gave off suffocating fumes; which a favoring breeze would carry over the besieged town.
The fumes did not kill, but were sufficiently noxious to deprive the besieged of all power of resistance—a fact which belatedly discovered to their cost on more than one occasion.
In that part of the world, as elsewhere, the policy of the Spanish invaders when dealing with the aborigines was one of wholesale and systematic cruelty. They specialized in ruthless massacre. But they did not always win, and there survives in the Amazon Basin today a tribe called the Lorenzos, who are nearly white—a phenomenon alleged to result from their capture, centuries ago, of a number of white women as spoil of the successful siege of a Spanish town.

COLOSSAL TRADE BALANCE

Washington, D.C., June 22.—(By Associated Press).—Since the beginning of the war in 1914 the United States has rolled up a trade balance of approximately $17,000,000,000 against the world. This exceeds by several billion of dollars the total balance in favor of the United States from 1875 to 1914.
There was an unusually heavy vote. Mrs. Miller defeated Fred Lovejoy for mayor by a vote of 15 to 28. Four women were elected members of the city council over four men candidates by about the same relative vote.

"IT MADE A WRECK OF ME," STATES ENGINEER

Was Flat On His Back With Rheumatism For 6 Months. Now Well and Strong And Back on Job, Sutherland Says Tanlac Has No Equal

"For over a year I wasn't able to hit a stroke of work of any kind but since taking Tanlac I have gained fully twenty pounds and have gone back to work as good a man physical as I ever was before," said William Sutherland, a well-known civil engineer, residing at 561 McDermott Avenue, Winnipeg. "My stomach got out of order about two years ago and then a few months later rheumatism set in and the two together simply made a physical wreck out of me and I was forced to give up my engineering work. I had about as bad a case of indigestion as a man ever has and many a day I wasn't able to eat a bite of anything. I was slowly starving to death and if I forced down a little something it soured on my stomach and caused me to bloat so bad with gas I felt like I was suffocating. Why, at night I was so short of breath I was afraid to lie down and often had to sit up in bed fighting for air. I hardly knew what sleep was and I fell off in weight until I was no more than a shadow of what I had been. Then the rheumatism set in and for six weeks I lay in bed flat on my back barely able to move. My whole body ached, and in my back, legs, shoulders, and arms the pains were so terrible they nearly killed me. My wrists and hands would swell up and get so stiff I could not raise my hand to my mouth. I wasn't able to brush my hair or tie my tie and my fingers would get so stiff I couldn't even hold a pencil. In fact, I was almost as helpless as a baby and had about reached the point where I couldn't stand the suffering any longer.

"That was the condition I was in when I started taking Tanlac. At first I didn't seem to improve very fast but when the stomach trouble and rheumatism did commence to lose their grip I got better rapidly. And now I have the finest kind of appetite and my big gain in weight shows how well everything I eat agrees with me. My breathing is free and easy once more and at night I sleep as sound as a child. I can't tell now that I ever had the rheumatism and I believe it has left me for good for I never feel a trace of it at all. I am a well man, in absolute as good health as I ever was and have gone back to my old work feeling fine. There is no doubt in my mind as to what Tanlac can do for I gave it a fair trial and it did even more for me than I expected."

Tanlac is sold in Quebec by Martel and Dion; and by Jolicœur's pharmacy; and in Lévis by Maurice Dion under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative.

BIG INCREASE IN PENSIONS FOR SOLDIERS

An Average of Fifty Per Cent. Over the Scale Adopted a Year Ago

Ottawa, June 22.—(By Canadian Press).—Increased pensions to returned soldiers and their dependents which will raise the country's annual pensions bill from $25,000,000 to $33,000,000 were outlined and explained to the House this afternoon by Mr. Hume Cronyn, chairman of the parliamentary committee on pensions. After exhaustive inquiries into economic conditions throughout the country, the committee finds it necessary to recommend for the benefit of approximately 177,035 pensioners in Canada, an average increase of 50 percent over the pension scale adopted a year ago. An interim increase of 20 percent went into effect last September with the result that the increases now recommended present an average of 30 percent over the present scale.

BIG JEWELRY THEFT
Winnipeg, June 22.—Fifteen thousand dollars worth of jewelry was stolen Monday afternoon from the residence of E. F. Hutchings, President of the Great West Sundry Company, police announced today. Search is being made for a negro who was observed to leave the house, but evaded a constable who gave chase.

Ruffianism.
In addition to the cases of ruffianism on the part of Carters recently reported in the Chronicle, it seems that complaint has been made or is about to be made to the proper authorities of the illegal action of a couple of carters on the Upper-Town market stand, who deliberately refused a night or two ago to drive a gentleman at tariff rates. It is due to the large body of respectable carters in this city that striking examples should be made of such cases.

Wreck.
On Saturday, 17th inst., as the Brig Britannia, Cleary, (cleared out for St. John's Newfoundland) was towed by the Lauzon from the steamboat wharf at Point Lévis, she unfortunately grounded on the rocks near the wharf, and being full loaded, and the tide falling, with the utmost exertions it was found impossible to pull her off. The tide leaving her, she of course received much injury. As the tide went down, props or spars were placed to prevent her over-setting, but she suddenly slipped a few inches, and fell over; her cargo consisting of flour and bread, has of course been much injured.

The Crops.
The reports from Montreal speak rather unfavorably of the present state of the crops, owing to the great heat and drought. The same observation has been generally made in this district. There was, however, a slight rain on Saturday afternoon, and a heavy shower yesterday, which will have a favorable effect.
