

Impressive Ceremonies Held at Tribute to Dr. Legion Installation of Officers Brian Hooker

Huntingdon (Que. No. 81) Branch was highly honored on Saturday evening, June 22, by the official visits of both the President and the First Vice-President of the Quebec Provincial Command of the Royal Canadian Legion. The occasion of that visit was the installation of Branch Officers for the ensuing year and a Reunion of all those in the Branch area who served in either World War I and World War II. While the number of Veterans and members of the Branch who turned out for that event was not as large as was originally expected, there was nevertheless a very good turnout. The same also applies to the Ladies Auxiliary while the event was also honored by the attendance of several honorary officers including Mr. Leo Cappiello an Honorary Vice-President, Msgr. J. A. David, Rev. Fr. Gareau, Rev. P. R. Stote and Rev. J. M. Grant, Honorary Chaplains of the Branch.

Other welcome guests included Roland and Mrs. Roy from one of the Chateauguays who made their "visit back home", so to speak, after a lapse of several years. It will be recalled that when he was connected with the Bank of Montreal Roland was a valued member of the Executive Committee of the Branch for several years, including the Presidency for a term.

Commencing at 6 p.m., the Ladies Auxiliary Committee for Branch Refreshments and several of the Women Members of the Branch served a delicious Buffet style supper.

At 7:30 p.m. a set of colours was presented to the Ladies Auxiliary by the Branch. After the same had been dedicated by Msgr. J. A. David and the Rev. P. R. Stote, there was a most impressive ceremony with the retiring President, David L. Watson formally handing over the Colours to Mrs. Edith Thompson, President of the Ladies Auxiliary, following which a Colour Party of the Legion went through the ceremony of handing over the Colours to a similar Colour Party of the Ladies Auxiliary, with Past President John A. Thompson as the Parade Marshal.

As already indicated the Provincial Command President, Col. His Honour John Redmond Roche, Q.C., O.B.E., was the Guest Speaker as well as Installer of the Officers of the Branch. His address was a most inspiring one indeed both from a Legion standpoint as well as from a Canadian Citizenship angle. He commended and thanked the Honorary Vice-Presidents and Honorary Chaplains for the interest they have taken and the services they have rendered to the Branch.

Col. Roche was fittingly introduced by Mr. Gerard Lambert, 2nd Vice-President of the Branch, while Mr. David Zubitsky made appropriate comments in moving a vote of thanks which was heartily accorded.

In assistance to Colonel Roche in connection with the installations was Mr. Al Fuller, 1st Vice-President of Provincial Command, as the presenting officer. Here again was a job unostentatiously and impressively well done. In fact, altogether the Installation Ceremony as a whole was one of the most impressive ever staged here.

The proceedings finally wound up with a Social Get-together.

We Have A New Pope

A new Head of the Catholic Church has been named. He succeeds John XXIII, a good natured man with a deep spirit of brotherhood. Cardinal Montini who took the name of Paul VI was of Pope John's era. He seemed destined for this great work as many of the delegations to which he was commissioned were a real preparation for it.

When still a young priest, he was named Chaplain of Catholic students. A little later Pius XII called him and named him his Secretary of state. Very soon he had trials to face, and did so with courage. He became Archbishop of Milan. He was most zealous in looking after the poor and the workers, even though he had come from a well-to-do area. He visited the factories of his diocese to become acquainted with the bosses and the workers and went often to the hospitals where he knew how to console the sick. He was a friend of young workers (Y.C.W.), of the scouts and the guides and came to Canada to visit them in 1951 as representative of the Pope. He knows the provinces of Quebec and Ontario, being the first and only pope to have visited them in part.

We have read and heard much during the past few days about His Holiness Paul VI as a man, but the following paragraph reveals the workings of his mind and his soul:

"I hope that with Christian precept we will form our resolution and our program here in Rome, the center of the Catholic Apostolate. We will love those who are near and we will love those who are far away. We will love our country and we will love the countries of others. We will love our friends, we will love our enemies. We will love the Catholics, the schismatics, the Protestants, the indifferent, the Mohammedans, the pagans and the atheists. We will love all classes of society, but above all those who are most in need of aid, or of help in securing promotions. We will love the children and the aged, the poor and the sick. We will love those who ridicule us, those who scorn us, those who persecute us. We will love those who merit the title of friend, and those who do not merit it. We will love our adversaries: they are men and we do not wish to hold one as an enemy. We will love our times, our civilization, our technique, our art, our sports, our world. We love in forcing ourselves to understand, to sympathize, to esteem, to serve, to suffer. We will love with the heart of Christ: Come to me, all ye (Math. 11, 28) We will love with the fullness of God: "Thus God has loved the world." (Jn. 3, 16).

This is the man that Providence has given us as Head of the Catholic Church.

Dr. Brian Hooker of Ormstown Died in Hospital on Monday

Dr. BRIAN McNEIL HOOKER D.V.M.

It was a shock to everyone in this area, who knew Dr. Hooker, when it was known that he had passed away on June 24th. He had been under treatment and was in the Royal Victoria Hospital in Montreal, where he was receiving further treatment. However, he failed to respond to all that the doctors could do and passed away quite suddenly. His parents were called and were able to speak to him before he passed away.

It is only a very short time since Dr. Hooker graduated from Ontario Veterinary College and began practicing his profession. He was struck down by this illness and which unfortunately caused his death. He was on the threshold of a career and was hardly established, ere he was struck down. The whole community is saddened and sincere sympathy is extended to his parents and his family in their sad bereavement.

THIS and THAT in TOWN

Residents in the area of Chateauguay St. West enjoyed bagpipe music for the second consecutive Sunday afternoon. Mr. Sam Leslie of Vancouver, B.C., uncle of Mrs. Lily McConville, Mrs. John Chambers and Messrs. Mac and Roy Leslie, brought his bagpipes along on his visit East and much to the pleasure of friends and neighbours, played the pipes for a couple of hours on the lawn of Mr. Mac Leslie. Piper Leslie was born at Laquerre and joined the Canadian Army in the First World War and has lived in Vancouver since 1920. He plans to visit relatives in Dundee and Valleyfield before travelling on to Cape Breton Island to visit a son.

Progress re. the new Henderson St. Bridge in Huntingdon appears rapid. After waiting so long for the work to get started, one is astonished at the pace. Rumors circulating last week that the dam would be removed appear to be false and we certainly hope that is official.

School is over for most students for another year and the consensus of opinion is that the examinations weren't all that bad. The weather was extremely cool all week and for that the students were thankful. Now it's off to camp for some summer jobs for others and just two months of leisure for the remainder.

One reads about new highways to be built in various areas in preparation for the influx of motorists expected for the World Fair. Why is Route 4 from Montreal to the U.S. Border at Trout River not mentioned? It certainly can't be because it's good enough as it is!

Did you know that Clément Menard recently purchased a small store in Valleyfield and that he and his family are now living in that city?

Someone might easily have been killed during the wee small hours of Saturday morning when a vehicle went out of control on Henderson St. and smashed into the front steps of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Reg. Daniel.

Astronomers predict a total eclipse of the sun on July 20. Duration of the phenomena will be about 60 seconds and will occur about 5:30 p.m.

Officials of Huntingdon Fair are gearing up for a record year. Mr. Carl Wheeler, President, is a patient in a Montreal hospital at present. His friends and all concerned with the Fair wish him a speedy recovery.

When the new street lights are installed, it would seem advisable for the Town Council and the Municipality of Hinchinbrook to confer on the possibility of better lighting on Fairview Road. Traffic increases daily on this street and the lighting is far from adequate.

The Quebec government approved the design for the 1964 automobile licence plates on Friday. They will carry dark green numerals on a pale yellow background. The word "Quebec" will be carried over the numerals and the slogan "La Belle Province" underneath. To the left of the plate, separated by a line running from top to bottom, will be the fleur-de-lis and under it the figures 64, to identify the year.

Father and Daughter Killed

TRAGIC ACCIDENT AT STE. AGNES DE DUNDEE EARLY SATURDAY EVENING

A tragic accident occurred about 6 p.m. on Saturday, June 22, in front of Mr. Steve Kurchuk's home, one mile from Ste. Agnes de Dundee. Upon turning to enter his driveway the Kurchuk car was hit from the rear by a heavy transport truck driven by Mr. David Goldman of Clarenceville. The car was hurled into a nearby ditch instantly killing Mr. Yamchuk and his daughter Natalie. Mrs. Yamchuk was brought to the Huntingdon County Hospital where she is in critical condition.

Provincial Police and Dr. George Lefebvre, coroner, were called to the scene of the accident.

News of the Lions Convention At Miami Beach, Florida

(By Bernice Cullen)

The Convention started off with pagentry and excitement as the mammoth parade proceeded northward past Convention Hall and Washington Ave. in Miami Beach on Wednesday morning. There were bands, floats, drum and bugle corps, floats, clowns and marching delegates from all corners of the World of Lionism.

The Highlight of the opening session was an address by outgoing International President Curtis D. Lovill, to the members of the 122 nations of geographical locations represented. An estimated 40,000 Lions and their ladies are in Miami Beach this week.

A most colorful ceremony took place on Wednesday evening with the presentation of flags of the Nations of Lionism. 92 Lions Nations were presented as not all the 122 nations of geographical locations have separate flags.

The Thursday session opened with a band concert by the Charleston High School Parade Band. This event was of special interest to delegates, Past President Lindsay Cullen, Bandmaster of Ormstown and Huntingdon. All Canadian delegates were particularly proud on Thursday when the parade winners were announced and it was revealed that the York Lions Drum Corps of Toronto was No. 1 in the Drum and Bugle Corps Contest.

A presentation to Miss Joan Crawford of Movie Fame was made by International President Curtis Lovill, for her part in the outstanding contribution to the CARE program, a member of the state and national projects committee, raising its funds without the help of the Lions Club. It is our Lions program that we should be proud of, staying within the basic concept of Lionism — a service club devoted to the interest of its own community, conferring its activities to that community, raising its funds without the help of the Lions Club. ### Ladies Valdo Bowling League Ends Successful Season With Enjoyable Party

A very successful year of bowling for the Ladies of Valdo Bowling ended on Saturday, June 15th with a delicious turkey supper prepared by the Ladies of the Presbyterian Church. The dining room of the church was very nicely decorated with flowers. Grace was given by Mrs. Gladys Duhome, President of the League. Toast to the Queen was proffered by Mr. John Thompson Master of Ceremonies.

Following the supper Mr. Thompson thanked the ladies of the church and then invited everyone to the Legion Hall, which had been tastefully decorated in a Bowling theme and spring flowers by Mrs. M. Proudfoot, Mrs. M. Pringle and Mrs. G. Duhome. Mr. John Thompson called on Mrs. Duhome to make the presentations.

The first trophy went to Friendship Seven for the League championship. This team, very aptly captained by Mrs. P. Farquhar, received the Helecta Hart Trophy and will also receive crests which, unfortunately, had not arrived. The "Rebels", a team captained by Mrs. M. Proudfoot were second in League play. Each player on this team received a lovely gift.

Friendship Seven were also presented with the Mademoiselle Dress Shoppe Trophy for placing first in the finals. This trophy was accompanied by a small trophy for each player. The "Clinkers" captained by Mrs. G. Duhome were runners-up in the finals, each player received a lovely gift.

Jewellery on a bowling theme was given for the High Average, High Single and High Triple. The winner of these being Mrs. Effie Gordon.

A trophy for the most improved player was won by Mrs. Edith Thompson. A lovely vase, donated by Mrs. G. Duhome, was presented to Mrs. Gwen Duhome for showing the best sportmanship during the year.

Mr. Thompson in his closing remarks reminded everyone what an important trophy this is in any sport. This being the last of the presentations, Mrs. G. Duhome thanked everyone and congratulated them on such a successful year.

Miss Shirley Grant then presented gifts from all the ladies to Mrs. Effie Gordon, secretary of the League, Mrs. Jean Marshall, Treasurer and Mrs. Gladys Duhome, President.

The remainder of the evening was spent dancing to music supplied by Cullen's orchestra. Mrs. I. Laberge, Mr. S. Duhome, Mr. H. Miner and Miss J. Levers were the winners of the balloon dance. Mr. and Mrs. W. Hutching were the winners of the spot dance. This was followed by an elimination dance which was won by Mr. and Mrs. N. Blair. Two drawings took place during the evening. Mr. Oswald Watson winning the first and Mrs. Gladys Duhome the second.

A lapel pin in the form of a Bowling Pin has been ordered for each player but due to an unavoidable delay these will have to be given at the start of the new season in September.

Miss Shirley Grant then presented gifts from all the ladies to Mrs. Effie Gordon, secretary of the League, Mrs. Jean Marshall, Treasurer and Mrs. Gladys Duhome, President.

The remainder of the evening was spent dancing to music supplied by Cullen's orchestra. Mrs. I. Laberge, Mr. S. Duhome, Mr. H. Miner and Miss J. Levers were the winners of the balloon dance. Mr. and Mrs. W. Hutching were the winners of the spot dance. This was followed by an elimination dance which was won by Mr. and Mrs. N. Blair. Two drawings took place during the evening. Mr. Oswald Watson winning the first and Mrs. Gladys Duhome the second.

Notes From The Police Blotter

Accident on Henderson Street
An accident occurred on Henderson Street, in Town, at about 8:40 p.m. on Friday evening. Mrs. R. Corbet was driving from south to north and the brakes of the car failed to act. The car hit a stop sign in the left side of the street and then a car, the property of Mr. E. Demie, which was moving in the same direction. Mrs. Corbet lost control and went onto the lawn of Mr. R. Daniel's house and broke the steps of the house. The estimated damage is as follows: Demie car, $150; Stop sign, $25; Steps at Daniel's residence, $125.

The driver appeared in court at Valleyfield, on Tuesday, on an impaired driving charge, she was fined $50 plus costs and her driving permit was suspended for three months. Her car was a complete wreck.

Dundee
Sunday guests of Mr. Gordon Fraser and Joan were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thorpe, Beverley and Shirley and Miss Bond of St. Lambert; also Mr. Jack Norton who has recently come from England for a short visit. Miss Beverley Thorpe recently received her B. Ed. degree from McGill University.

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadians used 297,500,000 square yards of man-made fibres in 1962, topping the 200,000,000 mark for the first time. Domestic production accounted for 153,500,000 square yards.

general racial misunderstanding showed up in one French Canadian's query. How would the people in Ontario like it if they had control of only about 15 per cent of their own public business?

Mark Waldron's comments were timely and helpful. The opinions expressed by the Quebec farmers who were interviewed showed a practical grasp of farm economy, and their general fluency in speaking English was surprising. An evidence of mental alertness. Hoping I am wrong, I am guessing that too many of our farmers fail to listen to Summer Fall in order to enjoy TV. How fortunate we are to be able to make the choice!

The truth of the adage, He who would have friends must show himself friendly, is exemplified in the worldwide concern over the critical illness of His Holiness Pope John. He has exhibited that greatest of graces, Christian charity and has been an able advocate of peace among the nations. It is said that there has been no precedent for the affection and esteem with which he is regarded by the poorer people of Rome.

Two articles in the May number of the Presbyterian Record make an attractive reading. One states that a doctor from the United Church has been commissioned to work in an Asia. Indian Mission hospital under Presbyterian auspices. This is a striking example of the true spirit of Christian unity when common sense takes a hand and refuses to make a mere matter of form into a stumbling block in the pathway of service to suffering and needy humanity.

The second article described an endeavor which succeeded in giving retarded children a definite measure of happiness and interest through spiritual contacts. It showed that such children could often be led to realize that God loved them and that they were precious in his sight. Bible verses, stories, and pictures, and children's hymns could be used with considerable effect in a great number of retarded cases, both in the home and in Church School work of suitable type.

Dundee
Miss Emily Lewis of Doughton, Pa. and Miss Ruth Goble of Jamestown, R.I. spent a few days last week visiting Mrs. Elizabeth Fleming. On Thursday, the three ladies were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Fleming of Ottawa. While in the capital they were able to visit the parliament buildings and listen from the gallery while parliament was in session.

Miss Laura King of Medina, N.Y., is spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Fraser. Mrs. Junior Lacey, Barbara and Diane of Cornwall spent a few days last week with Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Smellie. Mr. Lacey, Ann and Lynn spent the weekend at the same home.

mirable, the patience of this farmer or the inventive skill of the man who made the first tractor. No doubt they were both impatient at times. Life is full of paradoxes, farm life not excepted. We know that often three generations of a family occupy the same farm and then when labor would seem to have become comparatively easy, due to up-to-date machinery, the young people of the fourth generation desert the land for industrial, or professional life. Of course education and different economic factors enter this picture. Another paradox is that so many urban folk still regard the farmer's life as slavish, and yet these same people just love to spend holiday leisure and rest in the rural scene; but now I think they are losing their superior air to a great extent.

It must have been a doctor who said that a man's heart was only as strong as his legs. But I wonder if he said it before or since automotive power came into use. In any case, I think that though the farmer has ceased to walk the distance he ploughs, he will still find exercise enough for all his limbs, apart from ploughing. Many influences exert stress and strain on his heart nowadays, the dearth of farm help, the worry, hurry, and even mechanical speed of modern life with its keen competition, crowding into six, if not seven, days of the week. Competition is an interesting growth till it becomes a rampant heartbreak, from the kiddie fretting lest she is not one of the first few to discard overboots, all the way to the foolish woman whom I actually heard expressing her satisfaction that she and her husband were ahead of all the other couples of cousins in the funeral procession of a relative.

In a recent series of talks on leadership the very clever speaker spoke of how the leader of a young people's group bent all her powers to having the clever and self-confident members of the club win in a sports competition, while she did little or nothing to draw out and encourage the more backward and shy. Before long the club broke up.

I always loved to go for a walk, but once in a while my walk ended in a retreat. It is so long ago since I was seven that I cannot recall just why it was so late that evening when my sister, four years older, and I started on our long walk to bring the cows home. She was brave for her years, but when we reached the place where we expected to meet the cattle starting down and she realized that a very long field lay between us and the bushlot through which we still would have to hunt for them, the twilight shadows led her to decide to go home without them. We had scarcely turned back when we saw a man sitting on a stone fence between our farm and our next neighbour's. As we looked he raised a gun and pointed it at us. My sister, already nervous about the cows and approaching darkness, grabbed my hand, and ran, reciting the Lord's Prayer, I joining in. On we raced, gasping out the Pater Noster. After a time we reached a clump of sumacs from which we surveyed the scene, but the man had disappeared. He really was the son of a farmer who lived several farms away had been hunting, and amused himself by scaring us. I hear that the Archbishop of Canterbury has recruited a bishop for implying disbelief in a personal God, and I have heard a woman in a radio discussion express the same disbelief. But the faith of two little frightened girls in an Omnipresent Comforter continued unshaken throughout the years. Incidentally both the woman in the radio discussion and the young man children's hymns could be used with considerable effect in a great number of retarded cases, both in the home and in Church School work of suitable type.

At about twelve years I was imposing on my mother's angelic patience to "Come on back to the bush." It was not strange that after a week of hard work she preferred to rest and read on a Sunday afternoon, but my coaxing would prevail. Our own farm contained two lots, one behind the other, so that the bushlot was not quite so readily accessible as the woods of our two next neighbours, and it never would have occurred to us to stroll through them at will. But close to our neighbours' woods and across the back end of our own front lot ran a strip of permanent pasture which we called the Little Wee-Old Pasture, the omission of any one of the three adjectives being unthinkable. I think of it as a piece of Fairyland. In the middle ran a wagon track along which the cows came to a well. The ground was shaped into grassy ummocks, between which, in spring or after heavy rains, lay little pools. Wild gooseberries and currants, and does were waiting to be hunted for. Across one corner a brook took a diagonal course and beside it grew Jerusalem Cross or Lychnis. I knew neither name till about 25 years later when I came across the former name, sent for the seed, and discovered that my brookside wildflower had been Jerusalem Cross, a red blossom with a flock of white at its heart. Whoever first thought of cultivating it perhaps saw in its colours a symbol of Purity in the great sanguinary Sacrifice, and so named it. The water in the brook probably did eventually find its way north to the Outard and join in the gentle lullaby of the rapids at the south side of the Island so-called. At the opposite side of the pasture was a small pond around which grew wild blue iris which brought surprised pleasure the first season we found it.

In Montreal no woods beckoned but on Saturdays I explored unknown parts of the city. I had heard Griffintown mentioned and took a walk there, which would have been dull only for the many children who, like myself were away from classes and on the street. At that time workers had no holiday on Saturday and doubtless it would have been livelier in the evening pay night, and possibly even exciting. Generally the houses had a more drab appearance than further uptown. Early one Saturday evening I walked farther south and east than I realized, exploring unfamiliar downtown streets which were almost deserted by the time I started back. I had been in town only a short time, I liked walking, and rarely even thought of taking a streetcar. But now when I had continued walking till it grew nearly as dark as it would be under street lights, I took the first car and obtained a transfer. Before getting off I asked the young looking conductor about transferring. He must have guessed that his directions left me slightly confused for he got off and walked a block with me to point out where I could get my car uptown. I never forgot his kindness, and all ways feel like disagreeing with the opinion that all servicemen are unaccommodating. That was just about 70 years ago. Now Montreal streets are notoriously dangerous from both traffic and crime. Also in what was sarcastically called Toronto the Good, a woman friend writes, "We are warned not to go on the streets alone after dark. Christian society must need to dig deeper than subways and reach higher than church steeples in order to progress. Back in the country and so situated that railway connection was next to non-existent."

I sometimes took a week end walk of eleven miles, broken by a brief rest at a friend's house or a call at a village store. One beautiful June morning after a rainstorm I started out on such a walk in high spirits. A couple of miles on the road ran along a wood, and a combination of this swampy stretch, the recent rain, and the then hot sun made it an ideal spot for a bloodthirsty band of mosquitoes to ambush me. They attacked in such baffling hordes, and in action so concerted and vengeful as to be maddening. The only way of escape was to chamber over the fence on the other side of the road into a meadow of wet hay. By the time I had waded to the highway my pedestrian's enthusiasm was pretty thoroughly dampened. However it revived as I reached the latter half of my walk which ended at home.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Stewart Honored on 25th Anniversary

A gala party was held on Friday evening, June 14th, at George Erskine's barn in honour of Mr. and Mrs. Cameron Stewart's 25th Wedding Anniversary. The couple, escorted by Mr. and Mrs. James McCoy, arrived to find some 300 guests waiting to greet them. As the bride and groom approached the front of the hall to the music of "Here Comes the Bride", they were met by two little friends, Wilene and Douglas Grant, who presented the bride with a corsage of white carnations and the groom with a boutonniere. The music continued with all joining in the grand march. A reception line consisting of the bride and groom, their bridesmaid and flower girl were on hand with their husbands along with Mrs. Audrey Stephens, sister of the groom, to greet the guests. Dancing was enjoyed throughout the evening with music furnished by the Wilson's Westernaires. At midnight the honoured couple, along with their three children and their friends, and Mrs. Barrie and Mrs. Stewart were seated at the head table which was tastefully decorated and centred with a four-tier wedding cake. After all were served Mr. Franklin Cameron called on Mr. Jack Blake to be master of ceremonies for the occasion. Jack, in his usual jovial manner, amused everyone with his humorous remarks. He then presented the couple with a gift of money from their friends. Both Dorothy and Cameron replied, thanking everyone for making their 25th Anniversary so happy and memorable. Dancing was then resumed until 2 A.M. when all departed wishing the couple many more years of happiness.

At Coteau Landing when the Soulanges Canal was a building one could enjoy a delightful walk along the Lake against the bracing west breeze, and it was not too far to go within sight of the church spire at St. Zotique. Some years later my walks took me through orchard, pasture, and woodland, and picked blueberries and wild grapes. In a strip of pasture in front of the maple woods were hummocks and hollows identical with those in the Little Wee-Old pasture of my childhood. I have wondered if these might be marks left of the early years of settlement and clearing of the land which meant removal of large trees from "the forest primeval" that Longfellow wrote about in his Acadia diary. Or had the difficulty of drainage, something to do with the aspect of my two small pastures? I wonder.

Of course I walked to Robb's Falls, but the day a friend and I walked up and over the top of Covey Hill we both discovered our limitations. I sat down frequently to rest, while my friend stood and rested very patiently. Came the day that the new hayrack was delivered, and extra help for the unloading was required in a hurry. I started running to our always obliging next neighbour for assistance, but my oldish heart rebelled and I will-nilly I was obliged to walk.

Memory's picture of a far-off dark, rainy Sunday evening when, having attended the afternoon church service, my husband and I hastened back to the woods and, not without difficulty, herded the cows out and home, is dimly connected in my mind with a scene in England. It is the picture portrayed in Gray's classic Elegy. There too, it is evening, with a church and churchyard and cows coming home at night. To my mind, a special link between the two pictures is the line, The kine come slowly winding o'er the lea. That word, winding, describes so exactly the curving gait of a long line of kine come slowly o'er the lea. "That word winding, describes so exactly the curving gait of a long line of kine when they are left to their own speed. The Elegy in a Country Churchyard, was probably written in the first half of the 18th century. You remember that General Wolfe quoted it the night before he was killed, saying, "I would rather have written those lines than take Quebec tomorrow." The last line of the verse, — The boast of heraldry, the pomp of power, And all that beauty, all that wealth e'er gave, Await alike the inevitable hour. The paths of glory lead but to the grave. — must have struck the English soldier with especial force, possibly with psychic portent even though not recognized as such.

Presbyterian Church Hall at Hemmingford Dedicated

On Tuesday, June 18, members of the Montreal and District Presbyteries held their monthly meeting in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. At the meeting, the Rev. J. C. Hood of Ormstown, in his address, the Rev. John Allan of Maplewood Presbyterian Church, Chateaugay, spoke on the need for carrying Christianity into everyday life, not just confining it to one hour on Sunday.

A Pulpit Fall, depicting a burning bush on a deep red background, the gift of the Hawkins family in memory of their parents, William Hawkins and his wife Lillian McKerrher was then presented by Rev. Doran to Moderator Rev. Wm. Brown for dedication.

Then followed an interesting account, given by Mr. A. L. Rutherford, Secretary of the Board of Management of St. Andrew's Church, of the steps which had led to the building of the Church Hall. The one person above all others who should have been present at this dedication, said Mr. Rutherford, was the late Dr. Allan Reid, as it was mainly through his encouragement and efforts that we have a Hall today. When the numbers attending the Sunday School began to get too large for the two small rooms available in the church, the problem of accommodation became a pressing one. Many suggestions were put forward but all finally rejected because of their impracticability. At Dr. Reid's suggestion a Hall Committee was formed to make a thorough investigation into type, size and cost of a suitable building.

It was the late Mr. James Kyle who first brought to the attention of the Committee the building which, eventually, was purchased. Intended originally for barn use, when the Committee explained what they needed it for, the architect produced modifications of the standard plans such as a recessed front, windows at the side and various other details. These plans, together with cost, were presented to the congregation and were finally approved and passed. After that, events moved rapidly. Fortin Frere dug the foundation and laid the concrete floor, the contractors erected the building and then the members of the congregation, together with some outside help, took over. The woodwork of the cloakrooms, kitchen, and stage was rapidly erected, the ladies wielded paint brushes and through their strenuous, fund-raising efforts equipped the kitchen, tables and chairs were purchased and now there stands at the side of the Church, a large, almost completely finished and furnished hall, of which everyone is very proud.

After the singing of a hymn, the congregation, led by Rev. Brown and Rev. Doran, repaired to the hall for the Dedication. Quoting the scriptures, Rev. Brown knocked on the door of the hall which was opened to him by Mr. G. M. Kay, Clerk of the Session, who, after bidding all welcome, asked Rev. Brown to lead in worship. Inside the Hall the Covenant of Dedication was repeated in unison by all present and the ceremony closed with a prayer and benediction pronounced by the Moderator. A social hour followed.

William Brown of Howick. A passage from the scriptures was read by Rev. Mr. Doran and the Pastoral prayer was led by the Rev. J. C. Hood of Ormstown.

Congratulations

The many friends and former teachers of Jean Paul Boileau, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martial Boileau of Covey Hill, will be pleased to learn that he has successfully completed the 12th Grade scientific course which he was following at the Edgar Hebert Secondary School in Valleyfield. Jean Paul gained very high marks and passed with 'Great Distinction', leading the entire class. He now goes on to Ottawa University where he will study to become a Chartered Accountant. Congratulations and best wishes for future success.

Around the Town

The Rev. Gordon and Mrs. Ficko, with their family, will soon be leaving on their vacation which will be spent in a cottage at Bonny Doon, near Sarnia. If it's anything like its namesake, it is a beautiful spot. They will be home on the first of August. While Mr. Ficko is away there will be no service at St. Andrew's in Hemmingford or Wesley Knox on July 7. On that date Russelltown Church will hold its Anniversary Service. On July 14, the United Church Women will hold a service at 7:30 a.m. in Wesley-Knox Church. On July 21, the guest speaker at St. Andrew's will be the Rev. C. Coombes and on the 28th, the speaker at both churches will be the Rev. William Holmes, a former Pastor of St. Andrew's.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Weldon and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Weldon and daughter Shirley, of Montreal, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alan Fisher.

Sorry to learn that little Sandra Campbell, the four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alan Campbell, fell and cut, quite badly, her right hand. It needed eight stitches.

Ms. Elizabeth Henshaw recently flew to Fort Churchill and Winnipeg in connection with her work as a scout for the Travellers' Au. Society, Montreal.

Our sympathy goes to Miss Lillian Elliott who, on April 10, suffered a herniated disc in her spine. The intense pain struck suddenly without warning and kept her in bed for a month. She is receiving treatment and is only now being allowed up for a short while each day. Best wishes for a speedy recovery, Lillian from your many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. James Higgins and family of Huntingdon were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Lucien Germain.

Word has been received by Mrs. W. F. Orr, that her nephew Mr. Don McIvor, who operates the U. P. and Down Ranch 15 miles west of Fort Davis, Texas, has won this year's range conservation award presented by the Highland Hereford Breeders' Association. Mr. McIvor's ranch covers 40,568 acres and is divided into 35 pastures. The award is based on many years of brush and erosion control, the building of tanks and grassing over of run-off areas. Most of the ranch is in what soil conservation technicians class as 'good' condition, with 30 to 35 acres per animal unit the year round. Mr. McIvor, who is supervisor of the Toyah-Limpia Soil Conservation District, has had a conservation plan with the S.C.D. district since 1947. In 1962 he built seven stock ponds, dug about 300 acres of brush control work and drilled a well.

Sorry to learn that Mr. Lawrence Hebert is a patient in the Barrie Memorial Hospital, undergoing tests. Best wishes for a speedy diagnosis and recovery.

An adjourned meeting of the Hemmingford Township Council was held in the Town Hall on Saturday at 8 p.m. Presided over by Mayor Alister Somerville, also present were Councillors W. J. Brown, Aylmer Hadley, Martial Bouchard and Hector Poissant. The purpose of the meeting was for the homologation of the revised roll. A large number of taxpayers were present, chiefly those who had filed complaints concerning their previous assessments. All received full information from both the Secretary and two of the assessors who were present. Mr. Boyd Campbell and Mr. Rupert Enderley. After all questions had been satisfactorily answered, Councillor Brown moved, Councillor Bouchard seconded the motion, that the evaluation roll as compiled by the assessors be homologated. This was carried unanimously. Councillor Poissant gave notice of motion that he would introduce a by-law at the next regular meeting of Council to establish the rate for the year 1963.

Carnet de vacances

Ici commence une chronique, un carnet dans lequel seront consignés des pensées à l'adresse de tous ceux qui voudront les utiliser, mais surtout pour les étudiants.

Vous pourrez y apporter vos commentaires signés ou non, vos suggestions même seront bien accueillies. Veuillez les adresser ainsi: "The Gleaner, Huntingdon, Qué." Ce carnet veut être un lien entre tous ceux qui viennent de se quitter à l'école et qui, avant longtemps, éprouveront, sans trop savoir pourquoi, une espèce de nostalgie. C'est que voyez-vous on ne se rend pas trop compte à l'école, alors qu'on se retrouve chaque matin, que le bonheur nous est apporté par chacun de ceux qui nous entourent. Et après que nous sommes éloignés les uns des autres, nous voilà à songer au sourire de celle-ci, à la gentillesse de celui-là, et alors on regrette de n'avoir pas apprécié suffisamment ceux qui nous côtoyaient tous les jours.

Tout d'abord, je veux souhaiter "Bonnes et Heureuses Vacances à tous: professeurs, élèves, parents."

Après avoir travaillé en classe pendant dix longs mois, il fait bon de laisser de côté pour quelque temps manuels scolaires et devoirs. "Voilà pourquoi je dis à tous: "Profitez-en bien pour reprendre avec plus d'ardeur votre travail intellectuel en septembre prochain. Car c'est pour cela que sont faites les vacances: accumuler des forces pour repartir avec un enthousiasme neuf, un ardeur toujours renouvelée."

Mais avons-nous déjà songé, nous étudiants, que pour nous permettre de passer des vacances heureuses et joyeuses, quantité de gens de notre âge ou plus vieux, fournissent un travail épuisant?

Nos parents, d'abord! Notre bon père cesse-t-il son travail parce que l'école finit avec le 21 juin? Notre chère maman va-t-elle laisser de côté la préparation des repas, le ménage de la maison, parce que les écoliers entrent en vacances? Avons-nous déjà pensé à faire goûter aux vacances, à nos dévoués parents? Que nous sommes égoïstes, parfois. Essayons de faire exception à une règle qui semble se généraliser, mais qui n'est pas pour autant la meilleure: celle de s'occuper de "son petit moi"... et de laisser les autres s'arranger. Quand le papa demandera à Pierre, à Marcel ou à Jean: "Veux-tu m'aider à sarcler le jardin?", il ne faudrait pas bien moi je suis en vacances? Et lorsque la maman appelle: "Le pour laver la vaisselle ou prendre soin des frères ou sœurs plus jeunes, ce sera un beau "oui" avec plaisir, qu'il faudra répondre. Et ainsi tout le monde aura la joie des vacances, celle que personne ne peut nous enlever, c'est-à-dire rendre les autres heureux. Et nous aurons de cette manière, les plus belles vacances de notre vie. Dis, tu essayes, Pierre, Georges, Lucie, Jacqueline. Et en terminant je vous répéterai cette phrase de Saint-Philippe de Néri: "Amusez-vous bien, mais n'offensez pas le bon Dieu!"

Bonnes Vacances à tous! Coeur-Joie

Session Nationale de la J.R.C. Au Séminaire de Valleyfield

Près de 200 jeunes se réunissent en fin de semaine au Séminaire de Valleyfield pour la Session Nationale de la J.R.C. Les participants sont les dirigeants d'une vingtaine de diocèses du pays. La présente session veut surtout approfondir l'action du mouvement pour l'an prochain, la nature des équipes qui devront réaliser ce travail et des instruments qui aideront dans la transformation de jeunes et du milieu rural. Une attention spéciale sera donnée à l'étude du programme d'action, du programme religieux et à l'action des comités diocésains.

La rencontre débute vendredi soir le 28 juin pour se terminer lundi soir. Elle terminera lundi midi 1er juillet. Une parade dans la ville est prévue pour dimanche soir en guise de partie récréative. La soirée se continuera ensuite au Pavillon Wilson de Coteau du Lac. Lundi après-midi, une conférence de presse sera donnée sur les résultats de la session.

Nous avons un nouveau Pape

Un nouveau chef de l'Eglise Catholique vient d'être élu. Il succède à Jean XXIII, qui jouissait de ces qualités de bonhomie et de fraternité sans apprêt. Le cardinal Montini, qui prit le nom de Paul VI, vient en son temps. Il jouit d'une préparation adaptée. La Providence sait préparer ses chefs.

Jeune prêtre encore, il passe à la nonciature de Varsovie et amonier des étudiants catholiques. Un peu plus tard Pie XII l'appelle auprès de lui; il sait y faire face. Il devient Archevêque de Milan. Son zèle se manifeste pour les pauvres et les ouvriers, lui qui pourtant est issu d'un milieu aisé. Il se fait tout à tous, visite les usines de son diocèse, pour connaître patrons et ouvriers, fréquente assidûment les hôpitaux, où il sait consoler les malades de toutes conditions. C'est un ami des jeunes travailleurs (J.O.C. des scouts et des guides, puisqu'il vint les visiter en 1951, comme représentant du Pape. Il connaît les Provinces de Québec et d'Ontario, puisqu'il est le premier pape à les avoir visitées, en partie.

Nous avons donc une connaissance extérieure de la Sainteté Paul VI. Mais voici un paragraphe qui révèle sa pensée, son âme: "Je voudrais que de ce précepte chrétien nous fassions notre résolution et notre programme, ici à Rome, centre de l'apostolat catholique. Nous aimerons ceux qui nous sont proches et nous aimerons ceux qui nous sont éloignés. Nous aimerons notre patrie, nous aimerons celle des autres. Celui qui travaille sur les métiers à tisser (looms) s'appelle le tisserand (weaver). On fait aimerons les catholiques, nous aimerons les sismatiques, les protestants, les anglicans, les indifférents, les musulmans, les païens, les athées. Nous aimerons toutes les classes sociales, mais surtout celles qui ont le plus besoin d'aide, de secours et de promotion. Nous aimerons ceux qui se moquent de nous, ceux qui nous méprisent, ceux qui s'opposent à nous et nous persécutent. Nous aimerons ceux qui méritent d'être aimés et ceux qui ne le méritent pas. Nous aimerons nos adversaires: ils sont hommes, et nous ne voulons en tenir aucun pour ennemi. Nous aimerons notre temps, notre civilisation, notre technique, notre art, notre sport, notre monde. Nous aimerons en nous efforçant de comprendre, de compatir, d'estimer, de servir, de souffrir. Nous aimerons avec le coeur du Christ: "Venez à moi, vous tous..." (Mt. 11: 28). Nous aimerons avec la plénitude de Dieu: "Ainsi Dieu a aimé le monde..." (Jn. 3, 16). C'est cet homme que la Providence nous a donné comme Chef de l'Eglise Catholique.

Abbé Marcel Gareau

Attention à ta langue

Comme Huntingdon est un village renommé pour ses textiles, nous pourrions peut-être explorer notre vocabulaire dans ce domaine. D'abord, ce ne sont pas des "moulines" qui sont installés ici mais des usines, comme ce ne sont pas des "moulines de pulpe" qui existent à Shawinigan, Trois-Rivières etc. mais des pulperies; les soi-disants "moulines à bois" sont des scieries. Dans les moulines, il y a le moulin à vent, le moulin à café, qui sont employés pour mouliner quelque chose.

Les usines de Huntingdon, d'après leurs fonctions, ont aussi des noms particuliers — si on y fait la teinture, c'est une teinturerie ("dye house"); si on y file la laine, c'est une filature ("spinning mill"); si on y tisse la laine, c'est un tissage ("weaving"); celui qui travaille sur les métiers à tisser (looms) s'appelle le tisserand (weaver). On fait aimerons les catholiques, nous aimerons les sismatiques, les protestants, les anglicans, les indifférents, les musulmans, les païens, les athées. Nous aimerons toutes les classes sociales, mais surtout celles qui ont le plus besoin d'aide, de secours et de promotion. Nous

Félicitations

Félicitations à M. et Mme Rodolphe Billette de la rue York à Huntingdon, à l'occasion de leur 35ième anniversaire de mariage.

Félicitations à M. Harmel Yelle qui a été élu commissaire d'école en emportant une éclatante victoire sur son adversaire M. G. Faille, à St-Antoine-Abbé.

A cette occasion, tous les parents et amis se sont réunis chez M. H. Roy pour féliciter et fêter le vainqueur. Nous souhaitons un long terme à M. Yelle, le sachant capable de remplir son devoir en donnant satisfaction à tous.

Ces souhaits sont de la part de ses parents et amis électeurs.

ing; le "filling winder" s'appelle une cannetière, une "filling" le "filling winder" s'appelle "Spindle" est une broche, "creel" est une râtelier. Naturellement, tous ces mots — filature, navette, trame, chaîne — nous paraissent étranges, de prime abord; on a toujours employé les termes anglais. Mais pensez-vous qu'en France, on dise "dye-house", "weaver", "robbin"? Alors pourquoi le dirions-nous au Québec? Des termes français existent pour toutes les machines, tous les procédés — faisons un effort spécial pour nous en servir. Jeanne Clément

Nomination au ministre de l'industrie et du commerce

L'Honorable Gérard D. Levesque, ministre de l'Industrie et du Commerce au gouvernement du Québec, annonce la nomination du Dr. Yves Jean au poste de directeur général de la division des pêcheries.

Né à St-Pamphile, comté de l'Islet, le Dr. Jean fit ses études classiques et universitaires à Ste-Anne de la Pocatière où il obtint son B.A. en 1938 et son B. Sc. (pêcheries) en 1942. Il étudia ensuite la biologie marine, l'océanographie et les sciences connexes aux Universités Yale, à New-Haven, Etats-Unis et Toronto d'où il obtint, en 1945, une maîtrise et ensuite un doctorat dix ans plus tard.

Professeur de biologie marine à l'Ecole des Pêcheries de 1942 à 1955, il occupa durant les mois d'été, de 1951 à 1955, le poste d'assistant-directeur à la Station de Biologie marine du département des Pêcheries à Grande-Rivière. Chargé de mission à Ceylan en 1955, section de la pêche expérimentale, il contribua, sous les auspices du Plan Colombo, à l'introduction d'espèces de pêche modernes dans plusieurs centres de pêche de ce pays du sud-ouest asiatique. De retour au Canada en 1957, il fut chargé de recherches sur la morue et les autres espèces de poissons du golfe Saint-Laurent à l'Office fédéral des Pêcheries à St. Andrews, N.B.

Depuis près de 25 ans, le Dr. Jean a été intimement lié aux principales phases du développement des pêches marines de ce pays. Ses recherches, publiées dans des revues scientifiques et gouvernementales, ont porté sur les principales espèces de poisson de nos eaux et l'ont mis en contact étroit avec l'industrie des pêches, non seulement au Québec, mais aussi dans les Provinces Maritimes et aux Etats-Unis. Ayant poursuivi des travaux en haute mer, il connut les principaux bancs de pêche de la côte Atlantique de Long Island Sound au Détroit de Belle-Ile. Il a depuis participé activement à des programmes de recherche au niveau international dans le cadre de la Commission Internationale des pêcheries de l'Atlantique nord-Ouest. Sa vaste expérience tant dans le domaine des recherches biologiques que technologiques (poisson et rendement comparatif d'aiguilles) le prépare à seconder efficacement le sous-ministre adjoint de la division des pêcheries au ministère de l'Industrie et du Commerce.

Le Dr. Jean entrera en fonction incessamment.

Il a pour but de former ou de compléter la formation des responsables des Caisse Populaires. On envisage même d'aider les pays qui ont dernièrement acquis leur indépendance en acceptant que leurs sujets viennent ici, au Québec, apprendre le système coopératif, seul moyen efficace d'accéder à l'émancipation économique.

Ce très bref résumé donne une bien faible idée de l'ampleur et de la puissance du mouvement coopératif au Québec. Son élan et son dynamisme laissent présager des résultats merveilleux sur le plan économique. Joignons tous ensemble ce grand mouvement patriotique qui contribue à nous rendre maître chez nous, et maîtres de notre avenir. M. Happy Anniversary to the Town of Chateauguy.

Maplewood Presbyterian Church News

The annual congregational picnic was held on Saturday, and although the weatherman didn't cooperate very well, everyone enjoyed themselves, some even went in swimming, brave souls!

At the Sunday morning service in Maple School, the Church School took charge. Mr. T.C. Black, Superintendent, gave the Call to Worship. Mr. Ed. Neal led the congregation in prayer and Mr. L. Beckett read the Scripture according to Luke 18: 15-30. The children who had attended Church School regularly throughout the year received their pins and awards and to all of these youngsters we say, well done, and congratulations.

Next Sunday, June 30th, and during the month of July, the service will be held at Maple School at 9:30 a.m., with Mr. J. Allan, conducting the services. During August and Sunday, Sept. 1st, the service will be held at 11:00 a.m., conducted by the Rev. G. Doran of St. Edward's Church Beauharnois. The Church School will reopen on Sunday, Sept. 8th.

Don't forget! Mothers and Kiddies, Daily Vacation Bible School from July 2nd to the 12th in Maple School at 8:50 a.m.

The Women of the Church will hold their regular monthly meeting on Thursday evening at Verville Hall in the form of a "Pot Luck Supper". The ladies are asked to bring something for the supper (anything they wish, whether it be a main dish, salad or dessert) and they are also asked to bring their own knife, fork and spoon. The bazaar item for June is doll clothes. The ladies are also asked to bring in items for supply (new for Indian School Christmas gifts and hospital), as per the list each member has. This is the last meeting before vacation so each member is asked to make a special effort to be present.

Mrs. Blenkhorn, in connection with Bible Vacation School, is looking for the following items, so if anyone has any will they please call Mrs. Blenkhorn, empty spoons, old nylons, paste wax tins or tins that seal tightly, orange juice cartons, egg boxes in one piece, old socks, material, wool (any lengths), cardboard tubes from toilet paper, wax paper or paper towels.

Tupper Party
A great time was had last Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Ed. Neal on McLeod Ave., in the form of a Tupper party. The demonstrator who believes in having everyone enjoy themselves, started off the evening with games such as blowing up balloons and sitting on them till they break, walking with a book on your head and an orange between your knees, and putting on a nylon stocking with oven mitts on while blindfolded.

A few of the ladies that were there were, Mrs. Ivy Lalonde, Mrs. Mary Kaiser, Mrs. Joyce Jewson, Mrs. Mildren Morgan, Mrs. Jessie Robinson, Mrs. Alice Baird, Mrs. Tillie Long, Mrs. Eileen Harvey and Mrs. R. Young. The hostess served a lovely buffet lunch at the end of the evening and everyone agreed that a good time was had by all.

Birthdays

Mr. and Mrs. F. Robinson and young son Grant, spent the week-end at their summer cottage at Stanbridge East. Welcome home to Mrs. J. Robinson of Verville. Mrs. Robinson has been up north for some time now visiting with her daughter and family. Nice to have you back Mrs. R. H.S. and P.H.

A Hymn-Sing and Prayer Hour was held at the home of Mrs. B. Blenkhorn last Wednesday morning. Six ladies attended and Mrs. J. Weston gave a short reading on prayer. This was the last of these friendship get-togethers for the summer months.

Visitors
Mrs. Dean of Montreal, mother of Mrs. E. Bate, of McLeod Ave. was out visiting with her daughter and family for a few days last week. The Hollis family of Duquette St., had a grand family reunion on Sunday. Mrs. Hollis' sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. F. Lapointe and daughter Diane were visiting.

The swimming pool opened this past week-end but due to the cold weather there were not two many patrons until the beautiful weather showed upon Monday. The organizers of this pool deserve a great big hand for the way things are shaping up.

All who attended the highly successful evening at the La-batt Brewery last Thursday had a wonderful time. It was given by Mr. Amyot, Labatt representative for our area, and organized by Mr. A. Taylor.

On Saturday, June 22nd, Miss Stella Pietras and Mr. Joe Pistilli were married at St. Mary's Polish Church in Montreal East. After their honeymoon in the U.S.A., the couple will return to their new home on Champlain St.

Last Thursday the grade 1 pupils of Mary Gardner School made a trip to Granby Zoo. All the children were quite taken by all the animals. The outing was a great success even though the weather was a little wet.

from Edmonton, Alberta, Mrs. Roach and Hazel (Mrs. Hollis' mother and sister) from St. Eustache sur le Lac, Mr. and Mrs. R. Anderson and Nancy from St. Laurent and Mr. and Mrs. H. Roach and Kent from St. Lambert. This is the first time the whole family has been able to get together for about two and a half years, so everyone had a great time. A safe and pleasant trip home to Mr. and Mrs. F. Lapointe and Diane.

Household Hint
After applying paste wax and buffing your hardwood floors, vacuum them right away. A certain amount of dust gathers on the newly waxed floors and causes an uneven surface. This next hint was in one of the Montreal papers. Maybe like me some of you other ladies missed it and I think it is worth repeating. Use an empty deodorant bottle, the kind that rolls on, to stick your savings stamps in the books. Rinse the bottle then fill with water and you're on your way.

See you next week, meanwhile hope everyone enjoys a safe and happy First of July.

The Cockroach Goes On Forever
The lowly cockroach is not only the world's oldest inhabitant — he's been around for 350 million years — but he's also the hardest. Without visible ill effects, he can live a month without food or water. Step on him and his hard, compressible body often saves him — he skitters away when pressure is removed. He can get through cracks that appear impossible to negotiate. Freeze him and he walks away when thawed.

Here to greet the arrival of dinosaurs 170 million years ago, the cockroach was already an old timer when oil and coal were formed. A Reader's Digest article, condensed from The Macdonald Farm Journal, reveals that the cockroach can live anywhere, from the middle of the Sahara to military bases in Labrador. He has been found in cash registers and market sales, has lately found a new home in TV sets where he finds warmth — plus wax and paraffin, an acceptable diet. He eats almost everything, and sips beer, chews through gravel spots on neckties, nibbles at paint, refreshes soap.

Thought filthy because of their fetid odour — caused by scent glands much like those of the skunk — cockroaches are actually quite fastidious and spend hours washing feet, legs and antennae. Although known to carry pathogens of polio, typhoid, and other diseases, they have yet to be securely linked with spreading any of them.

Cockroaches are prolific breeders. Females have produced as many as 180 offspring in 303 days. Because of their hardiness and rapid breeding, they are valuable research animals and are used in cancer and heart-disease research and in nutrition studies.

Useful though he may be, most people prefer not to have the cockroach around. Roach-killing help, but scrupulous cleanliness is about the best weapon the homeowner has against him.

Unity Not Easy
MONTREAL (CP) — Rev. George A. Taward of Pittsburg, Mich., one of North America's leading authors on church ecumenism, says nobody should expect any "sensational developments" in the trend toward church unity. During a lecture tour he said there has been progress but it "is a long and laborious work."

More than 50,000 people attend this big nautical event and the spectators are sure to be thrilled as they see America's fastest boats competing in their respective classes. Flying sleek and clipped wing Great Lakes 2T-1A Special, a small swept wing biplane powered with a 185 horsepower motor that is radial air cooled, Krier has been applauded by millions of people at air shows wherever he has performed. Time after time he has brought his audience to their feet... with his precision hydraulic-smooth flowing airmanship. I wonder how many of our local artists had the pleasure of visiting the Ville-Marie Panorama De L'art last week. Masterpieces of about 50 sculptors and 450 painters were on display and for sale. We in our house enjoyed it very much. It would be wonderful, if all the small art groups in Chateauguy, Ville de Lery up to Valleyfield and outlying districts got together for one huge Art Display and Sale once a year. Surely this could be done. For believe me, there is talent in this Chateauguy Valley, and I think someone ought to look for it. It would certainly give our budding artists a chance to at least display their talent, if nothing else.

Why do we suppose the Canadian motorist allows such a deplorable thing to happen year after year? "That's something police and safety organizations never cease to wonder about" replies President R.C. D'Alton of the Province of Quebec Safety League.

Basically, he says, I suppose that Canadians have a tendency to confuse freedom with license, and the traffic regulations have been written into this free-wheeling attitude can lead to trouble. It all boils down to lack of respect for law enforcement.

The most important part of an automobile is still the driver. He determines how fast he's willing to take and the way he drives, declares the Quebec Safety League. If our Canadians wish to reduce traffic accidents while celebrating Canada's Day, they must be persuaded that:

- 1 - Speed still ranks as the number one highway killer.
- 2 - If you drink - don't drive. If you drive - don't drink.
- 3 - To use extreme driving caution during inclement weather.
- 4 - Be alert when driving at night.
- 5 - To stop driving when tired.
- 6 - Before going on a trip - check mechanical condition of your car.
- 7 - Observe all traffic laws.

The chances will be more than good that a traffic safety record be set on Canada's Day long week-end as long as the motorists observe the Safety League's recommendations.

Do Not Ask For Whom The Bell Will Toll

The summer long week-ends have become the most dangerous period of the year. Despite all warnings, the traffic death rate soars. Furthermore, our national holidays are too often marked by needless tragedy on our Canadian highway and become the most dangerous period of the year. Why do we suppose the Canadian motorist allows such a deplorable thing to happen year after year? "That's something police and safety organizations never cease to wonder about" replies President R.C. D'Alton of the Province of Quebec Safety League. Basically, he says, I suppose that Canadians have a tendency to confuse freedom with license, and the traffic regulations have been written into this free-wheeling attitude can lead to trouble. ### Chateauguy Centre United Church Bids Farewell to Rev. and Mrs. K.G. Purdon

(By Margaret Elliott)

On Saturday afternoon, June 22, the Congregation of Chateauguy Centre United Church Sailor, complete with full face, met to pay tribute to their friend and minister, Rev. Kenneth Purdon and his family. Mr. Purdon will be leaving this church at the end of this month. The proceedings commenced with a sing-a-long led by the bass of the choir, Fred Ryner. It was a little tough trying to sing bass but a little later on when Fred's wife, Joyce, took Mr. Glenn Bonallie, on behalf of the congregation, then presented with two very funny skits - one depicting a talent well gift to Mr. and Mrs. Purdon, a silver tray and silver teapot, coffee pot, cream jug and sugar basin. The tray is engraved to Rev. and Mrs. K. G. Purdon from Chateauguy Centre, June 22nd, 1963. All afternoon Fred Ryner had been promising a feast of strawberries, this finally was forthcoming, and they were well worth waiting for. A sincere thank you is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Ryner, Mrs. Millett and Mr. Bonallie for organizing the farewell party, also all the many people who helped with the catering and the entertaining. Mr. Purdon will be conducting his last service in Chateauguy on Sunday, June 30th. The Purdon family will then be on their way to Lindsay, Ontario where Mr. Purdon has been called to Cambridge Street United Church to serve as associate minister. The many friends he has made in Chateauguy and Chateauguy all unite to say, Godspeed and Good Luck. Our prayers are with you and your family.

Blood Donor Clinic Here July 12 - Plaza Shopping Centre

All the hospitals in the Province of Quebec are supplied with blood for transfusion purposes by the Red Cross, and patients needing blood receive it free of charge. In Quebec province Hospitals require a supply of 4500 pints of blood per week in their blood bank for emergency use. The Red Cross, collecting blood in clinics across the Province, takes it to the central depot in Montreal tests it, and has undertaken the distribution to the hospitals. Depending upon the average need of the individual hospital, weekly deliveries will be made. If for some reason a particular type of blood is needed, and the supply on hand is not adequate to cover it, a telephone call to the central depot will have the required type delivered in a matter of hours.

When asked about the local picture, M. Philippe Berthault, the President of the Chateauguy Branch of the Red Cross, pointed out that although the service to the hospitals and the collecting of blood was done by the staff of this national programme, the recruitment of donors and the holding of a clinic in Chateauguy would be the responsibility of the local Branch. Mr. Berthault went on to say that plans were now being made for a clinic to be held here on July 12th 1963, from 3 to 5:30 p.m. and 7:00 to 10 p.m. at Plaza Shopping Centre and that Dr. Gilles Labarre, the Chairman of the Chateauguy Branch would be in charge of all arrangements.

His Holiness Pope John XXIII has extended congratulations and a special blessing given to Canadian blood donors in a letter sent to Most Rev. Sebastien Baggio, Apostolic Delegate to Canada. The message was forwarded to Marshal Stearns, president of the Canadian Red Cross Society.

The Holy Father learned with great satisfaction, of the echoes of sympathy elicited in Canada by His allocation to the members of the Italian Association of "Blood Donors", received in audience on March 8th, 1959.

It was a source of consolation to His Holiness to be made aware that Canadian blood donors also constitute a flourishing association, whose rivalry in generosity places them proportionally among the first in the world. The Common Father is happy to congratulate them for their efforts and to assure them that this method of helping one's suffering neighbour is worthy of being classified as a kind of apostolate, provided that it be "founded and rooted in Charity". He also exhorts them paternally to be inspired increasingly, from day to day, by supernatural sentiments in the exercise of their fine and courageous devotedness, so that they may be assured of merit, not only in the eyes of society, but also, and especially, in the eyes of God.

His Holiness invokes upon the blood donors of Canada a great abundance of heavenly favours, and with His Paternal encouragement and as a token of His august benevolence, imparts to all a special Apostolic Blessing.

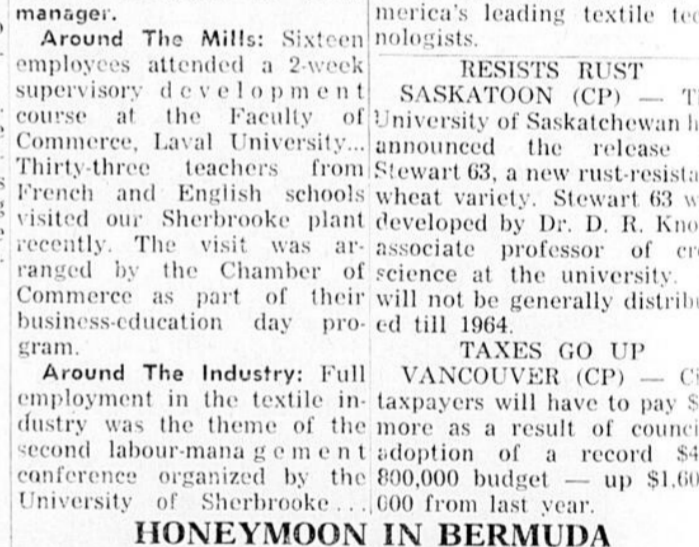

The Holy Father John XXIII is dead now; before death he had the benefit of many blood transfusions given by generous anonymous

New Commissioners elected for Protestant School Board
Following nominations, the election of School Commissioners for seats No. 3 and No. 4, to the Protestant School Board of Greater Laprairie, took place in the Community Hall, Candiac, on Monday, June 10th. Candidates for seat No. 3 were Gordon Pitcher and Andre Courchesne; for seat No. 4, Frank Elliott and John A. Nicholson. Andre Courchesne was the successful candidate for seat 3 and John A. Nicholson for seat 4. Much could be said regarding the outcome of this election, but the main issue now is the erection of a new school and that right away. In spite of the prejudicial remarks of self-centered citizens, we can be assured that every effort will be put forth without any delay, and our children will have a new and suitable building in which to further their education. Many citizens have endeavoured to apply the golden rule and to maintain fellowship within the community during this unfortunate controversy pertaining to the erection of a new school, but a decided lack of dignity and tolerance has been evidenced on all sides. We must now take stock of ourselves and act as worthy citizens and parents and help promote the co-operation that will be needed by those who have undertaken so great a responsibility. Let us NEVER FORGET, there is a little bad in the best of us and a little good in the worst of us, so it behooves the best of us to criticize the rest of us. Here's to Education, and it is Everybody's Business.

St. Andrew's United S. School Closing

On Sunday, June 16th, a special service took place in St. Andrew's United Church combining the Sunday School closing with the regular worship service. Mr. Wm. Hare, Student Minister, conducted the service which was largely attended and Mr. D. J. Burden of St. Lambert, distributed the prizes to the children. George Young, President of St. Andrew's Y.P.S., presented a gift to Mr. Burden on behalf of the young members who are most grateful for Mr. Burden's interest in their activities during the Fall and Winter months. The Junior and Senior choir, under the leadership of Mrs. H. Ball Sr., blended their voices and gave a fine rendition of the anthems, "Gentle Jesus Friend of Children", and "Open Wide Your Windows". Mr. H. Ball Sr. was the organist. Mrs. Marcel Martel, Pres. of The Women's Club of Laprairie, presented two sacred pictures, to be hung in the Christian Education Centre. Mrs. Martel, speaking in the name of the club, expressed the good wishes of the members for the further advancement of Christian Education for the young people.

The Sunday School picnic will be held next Saturday June 22nd, when the children accompanied by teachers and parents, will drive to Park Romain, near St. Johns. Que A happy time is planned for all and good weather is hoped for.

News from Brassardville

The U.C.W. of Brassard United Church sponsored an Ice-Cream Social which was held on the Church grounds on Saturday, June 15th, from 2 to 5 p.m. The various booths were attractively arranged by the ladies who had put forth every effort to make this event a success. It was a great disappointment when thunder showers disrupted the festivities, however, refreshments were served indoors and everyone continued to enjoy themselves. The ladies are to be congratulated upon realizing the amount of $116.00 during the short spell of fine weather.

The Church Anniversary Service was held on Sunday June 16th, when the guest speaker was Rev. J. E. Munson of St. Lambert United Church. Rev. Munson's sermon was both inspiring and challenging, the text, "There being no stragglers in the ranks" outlined food for thought and action on the part of professing Christians. The service was well attended and the Junior Choir, under the direction of Mrs. G. Weston, rendered an anthem, "Solo, 'Open the Gates of the Temple'". It was rendered by Mr. G. Weston, Mrs. Westor officiating at the organ. It was stated on this occasion the members had two reasons to give thanks. The observance of the 8th Anniversary and the fact that this month the final payment will be made to the Church Extension Fund, thus will Brossard United Church be debt free. At the close of the service a period of fellowship ensued and the ladies served tea. We wish this congregation continued blessings as they work in the Master's service.

Candiac United Church
"The Blossom Tea" held by the Candiac United Church Women on June 8 proved to be a success in that the ladies were able to meet their objective towards the Building Fund in connection with the Church, work on which is scheduled to commence shortly.

Candiac United Church Women wish to take this opportunity to thank every one who helped make this seemingly impossible undertaking an accomplished fact. The Group which first organized in September 1962 with a membership of sixteen held their final meeting of the season on June 13th with a reported membership of twenty-five.

Anyone attending the special events during the season which appreciate the efforts which were required, not only by a limited number of members but also the fact that the smallest item required had to be taken to and from the Community Hall before and after each event.

The Group also wishes to thank the Stewards of the Church who were always ready with a willing hand towards helping when the heavy load required physical assistance. Thanks also go to the Candiac Development Corporation for the use of the Community Hall and other space needed to effect these events.

The slate of officers when activities resume in the fall remains unchanged. An invitation is extended to new residents of Candiac to join with us in the mid-week meeting of fellowship and devotion. Mrs. Muriel McPhee, President; Mrs. Shirley Thacker, Vice-President; Mrs. Lorraine Sauer, Secretary; Mrs. Muriel Walkey, Treasurer.

Annual Picnic

Candiac United Church will hold their Annual School Picnic on Saturday, June 22nd, at St. Helen's Island, Site 13. Come and join in the fun and games with the children and feel young again! Contact Mr. John Springer, NE 2-2924 for additional information and Mr. Harry Butler NE. 2-2029 if transportation is required.

Publicity
I wish to take this opportunity of thanking Mrs. Majorie Merti for her talented assistance in the making of the Posters for the Church Group. My thanks to Mr. Keith Howden of the "Gleaner" for publication of the items relating to our Church Group and other activities as undertaken by Candiac Citizens.

Blood Donor's Clinic June 13th

Mrs. Jean Leman, President,

Red Cross Blood Donor's Clinic, wishes to report that the Clinic held in St. Marc School surpassed expectations. A special note of thanks is extended to the Industrial and Commercial Groups for allowing their employees to visit the Clinic and make their donation to this humanitarian cause. It is this spirit and co-operation which makes a Town grow and be a better place in which to live and the giving of blood is a way of life wherein we are privileged towards helping one another when the need is urgent and a life may be saved.

COMBINED HEALTH APPEAL AND RED CROSS

As District Chairman, Candiac, I wish to take this opportunity of thanking all Team Captains, Canvassers and Helpers who so kindly offered their assistance in this Appeal. Through the generosity of our Citizens, Commercial and Industrial Groups, we surpassed our objective of $1250.00. A total of $115.85 was collected with an additional amount of $225.00 being mailed direct in response to personal letters. It is with a sincere feeling of satisfaction and personal gratitude that I have had the pleasure in working with you in the pioneering and creation of this Combined Health Appeal and Red Cross.

Smiles

Each letter I receive from home is signed off with "Keep Smiling" or "Cheerio" and this week it ended with so-long and smile a while — and as you smile another smile, and soon there's miles and miles of smiles — because you smile. Love to all, Dad, Well, when you think of it, it is true. When a child is hurt or he falls or he has had his feelings hurt, we try to help them not only by band-aids and physical aid but by bringing a smile to their tear-stained faces. And that very smile is a sure sign that all is well again. Then we are shown pictures of the hungry in other lands. How sad they look. But when a worker comes along and measures out the powdered milk and the bread — oh the smile is really a mile wide and that is all the thanks we need, just to know we have brought that smile to their faces once more. An elderly person in hospital or confined to home or bed, will reward one with a wonderful smile for a word of hope, love and encouragement. All this goes to prove and to show that a smile is infectious. These days, when the rush of life's days are so hectic, one often finds the load a heavy one, but if we can remember that there is always someone a little less fortunate or with a little heavier load than we, a smile will break through and you know, it really does make a difference. So smile a while — and as you smile another smile — and soon there will be miles and miles of smiles — because you smiled.

Picnic Cancelled
The West End picnic is off due to lack of support and also to so many other activities going on. The response was not as expected, and the money can be used for many good causes, rather than for an event where only a few would be participating.

Last Social

The last grocery bingo of the L.C., until the fall, was held at the Lamp home on Tuesday night. The conveners tried to have prizes that would be useful for the summer and well satisfied. Mrs. Belair was the winner of the big water-melon on the last game. Door prize winner was Gary Rankin and the donor Mrs. Ethel Cherrier. Many thanks to her for the beautiful glasses. Thanks also to all who donated prizes and of course to all who came to enjoy the fun and to help the L.C. We hope to see you again in September.

Leaving

Mr. and Mrs. D. Earl Ness have moved home again to Ville LaSalle. They have been with the Mitchells since May because when June had a stroke in the spring, they had to give up housekeeping for a while.

A Speedy Recovery

Is wished for Mrs. Mary Malloy of Verville. It was a great shock to learn she was so ill and we do wish a speedy return to health.

for an outdoor event and as a result, the turnout was very poor. However, the drawings for the prizes were made and the winners and their gifts included: Mrs. Millie Downing, a car seat; Mrs. Irene Brant, a lounge chair; Miss Marilyn Grace, 50 feet of garden hose; Mr. Lou Essiambre, a wheel barrow and Mrs. Marion Fernandez a Bar-B-Q set. Mr. Dick Rockwell with his accordian provided many pleasant musical moments. My apologies to Andy D'Arcy, he was only eight years old on June 21st, not nine!

This week I'd like to send out happy birthday wishes to Little John Fedorko of Lang Street, who celebrated his third birthday on Monday, June 24th.

I have some disappointing news for those people who have been pestered unceasingly by their neighbours' cats. There are no town by-laws regarding these feline creatures. You can change this, though. We have a Police Force, alderman and a Town Council to whom you may complain, provided you have kindly requested your neighbour to confine their pet. If they give no thought to you or your property, if damage continues, then you have every right to use the ways and means available to tackle this problem. You must be adamant and persistent to get results, though. It is a pity that people should have to resort to this stronger action when things could be so much easier to handle if pet owners would only cooperate and abide by their moral as well as legal laws. Why is it so difficult to understand and appreciate the fact that area residents work hard (mostly through love of gardening and flowers) to bring beauty to their homes, and thereby to our community, and have no desire to see their efforts trampled, defiled, destroyed? One lady who called said that she and her husband have finally given up planting flowers and shrubs because their neighbours' cats damaged seedlings and flower beds to such a great extent. Why should they have to put up with this type of nonsense? To all delinquent pet owners I again appeal to your sense of consideration and urge you to keep your pets tied up. The Bible teaches us to be kind, one to another, so in dealing with this problem, from both sides, keep this old adage in mind.

Most of those Chateauguay residents who viewed the Town's parade on Sunday evening were pleasantly surprised at the scope of it and the talent displayed. The floats were extremely well planned and depicted many scenes of life in Chateauguay, past, present and future, very accurately. Among the bands in the parade was the sight and sound of Richard School Band of Verdun, familiar to so many of us who are former residents of that city. Judging from the applause given to the marchers and floats, and from the overall enthusiastic response by the spectators, everyone seemed to appreciate the work that has gone into this venture which was certainly well worth seeing.

The Old Men of the Gardens softball game versus the Legion Men on Sunday evening at Laberge Park ended in a score of 8 to 6 for the Legion. It was a game well played with much good natural fact that area residents work hard (mostly through love of gardening and flowers) to bring beauty to their homes, and thereby to our community, and have no desire to see their efforts trampled,

HEMINGFORD
The movement of Old Countrymen into Hemingford began soon after the war, when a few took up lots, but they did not remain. The first to stay was William Robson, a Nor-Amberland shepherd, who came to Montreal in 1816, near his family name, to raise a which he rented a farm. In 1818 he bought 70 on the 1st concession of Hemingford from an Irishman, Dady, for $8.00, and an acre of land given by Colonel Seriver, and was first of the great number since interred in what is now the general farm a-piece. All strong-bodied, industrious men they speedily effected a great change in their lots and made a great deal of money by pot-ash. East of them on the some

I came from near Carlisle, Lanarkshire, and was brought up to be a carpenter. Trade being bad, in 1819 I took passage for myself and wife on the Rebecca for Montreal, paying 8 guineas each. We had a good voyage, and on reaching Montreal, I found work at my trade. The following year there was great dullness in business and I resolved to try farming, and bought 142 from a man I happened to meet at St. Johns. In November we started to take possession, and had great difficulty in reaching Seriver's corners, owing to a heavy snowstorm that came on. The schoolhouse that stood where the store of Seriver's brothers now is, had just been finished, and we found shelter in it, and the day following got to my lot, on which was a shanty and a small clearance. The snow all melted and the frost came out of the ground so that my brother and myself were able to delve a good bit of the clearance. The frost did not set in until after the New Year. On the ridge in rear and front of my house was a string of clearances made by American settlers which they had abandoned when the war broke out. These clearances were called "the commons", and farmers in Sherrington sent their cattle to graze upon them. In 1822 my brother-in-law, Archibald Stewart, came from Scotland, when I sold him my lot and took up 179, on which I opened a store soon after, and did a good business. Thomas Stewart took up 97 about 1824. In 1832 I went to town to buy goods, and the two days I was there proved to be the worst days of the cholera, which was then raging. If I buy goods (I said to myself) they may be the means of introducing the infection into Hemingford, and so I returned without making any purchases. I wound up the store and devoted myself to farming. There was no pride in those days. When there was preaching in the old school, Mrs. John Seriver came dressed in a flannel gown of her own spinning, and a square of the same cloth drawn over her head for a bonnet.

The year following that on which Brownlee settled, 1821, arrived Andrew Spence, an Edinburgh printer, who bought 107 and lived and died on it, and two families which have left their mark in the township. John McFee of Russelltown said:

My father and Finlay McNaughton, of Glenelg, Invernesshire, were brothers-in-law. They embarked at Tobermory on the Glen Tanner of Aberdeen, which had a numerous body of emigrants, many of whom became settlers on the Beech ridge and adjoining country. (Continued on page 10)

During this week of celebrations of the 50th Anniversary of the Town of Chateauguay I would like to add my felicitations and wish the Town every continued progress in the years ahead. The festivities got underway on Saturday with the official opening of our renovated Town Hall. C.H.O.A. President Les Harris and Past President Roy Vetland were among the dignitaries present. I understand that several events of the Aquatic Club's regatta had to be cancelled because of high winds. Despite the very inclement weather, people turned out in

GUEST EDITORIAL BY ERIC WESSELOW Hohdays - A Challenge To Parents

A school year has ended. Students are just entering a period of ten weeks free from scholastic exercise. Parents — mothers primarily — will feel the sheer impact of some additional forty hours weekly presence during which time the student was looked after at his school. Do parents make use of this challenge?

Parents are their children's educators first and foremost. Granted, there are exhaustive reasons why, even under ideal conditions, parents have to share this task with institutions of learning. The school system has become a hallmark of civilization. Schools impart basic methods of learning that are useful to a person all through his life. Schools also fulfill an outstanding social function. Yet much of detailed factual knowledge accumulated from instruction at school will have to be revised every fifteen years or so by a person who wants to keep in step professionally with the upcoming generation. Nothing, then, will make a deeper and more lasting impression on the child than the world of his home.

Holidays are an opportunity to make children feel at home proudly and happily. With a minimum of guidance they can be brought to enjoy leisure without being plainly die or even bored. Young people are essentially active and profoundly creative. They enjoy doing things more than they would enjoy talking and watching at length. During their holidays children, according to their own choice, may undertake to do many a thing that they will not be able to tackle in later years once their creativity is suffocated by self-consciousness. Even playing can be creative. If privileged, children may spend a couple of weeks in a camp. But there we are. Is it a privilege to be so privileged as to afford sending children away from home for the whole period of their holidays? It can be a mark of distinction and it can be a mark of parental failure.

While children should be taken to many places of interest (not necessarily at the other end of the globe) it will be important that during this period they receive an additional share of parental understanding, guidance and love. It could be the love promised and assured last Christmas. This, more than anything else, is the background against which youth grows to adulthood. This is the background to which people refer when they ask from where a person does come. Such a rating has priority over that of academic or professional standings and standards.

Holidays from school are a great time for children and a wonderful challenge to parents. Unless parents meet the challenge, I strongly feel that they forfeit their right to criticize teachers and teaching methods. May parents and children jointly benefit from fully sharing a rich and joyous summer season.

Above are members of the Memorial Alcove which has been granted to a gentleman in Glengarry. My father and uncle went with him to see the country, with the result of both buying there. My father bought 99, on which young Starnes was living, and he moved out to make room for us. McNaughton bought 108, a bush-plot, from Judge Sowles of Alburgh, Vt. Had they known enough, they could have gone into the crown reserves and taken up land for nothing. There was a small clearance on our lot but none on McNaughton's, and to provide shelter he bought 50 acres adjoining his lot on 108 with a shanty from Comfort Brayton. We arrived in Hemingford on the 11th September. We had neighbors and a passable road but McNaughton had neither, the path to his shanty being a track that followed the ridge, in order to avoid the swamp. Our dependence was on potash, and if settlers had not timber on their lots suitable for making it, they just went into the reserves.

Police Insufficiently Equipped

THE hold-up of the Bank at Howick last week has brought forth comment by the police that they are at a disadvantage to cope with such crime in the rural areas. That is for the most part. In this particular instance they were alerted several hours before the hold-up took place and men were dispatched to the area.

When the policemen left their posts, contact with them was lost until they should call in by telephone or return. The reason for this is that there is no good radio contact with the men and their particular office except in a round about way which consumes precious time. The police pointed out that under such circumstances they cannot set up efficient road blocks which would be of great assistance in capturing hold-up robbers in a number of cases. In consequence these criminals escape and only by long tracking down are they ever brought to justice.

Take in our own area, the police cars are radio equipped and they can be contacted in a round-about manner, but they cannot contact their local office by this method. If a policeman wishes to contact his local office, he must do so by getting to a telephone and in so doing lose precious time. If more help is needed, the local office must contact by telephone by relaying a message to a radio connection and have that connection call the car in question. In cases of accident this has proven very unsatisfactory and would show the police to be inefficient, when in reality they are unable to do anything different. When a case of hold-up comes up it can be realized that speed and time are important elements of the case. The quicker the police can alert other officers, in the vicinity, the better the chance that a capture will be made. Even if the thieves escape from the point, there is good chance that they will be caught up with. There is no doubt that many of these type of robbers have gotten away just on account of this poor communication system in this modern world.

Our Town police are better equipped in this respect at the moment and there is no doubt but what this has been a beneficial addition. There was much agitation at the time about equipping our town police with such apparatus on account of expense. We believe we could say that it has paid off many times already. The man on patrol can be contacted by the office and he may contact the office. Thus for any trouble in town, he can be sent directly to the seat of trouble without delay. Under the previous system, it would have to wait until the man returned even if that would be in hours time.

The Provincial police are asking for similar equipment in order to combat crime and provide greater efficiency for all members of the force. It would mean considerable expense but we believe it would also mean a greater deterrent to crime of all kinds!

The banks at Howick and St. Chrysostome have been held up numerous occasions and invariably the thieves have gotten away and no trace has been found of them. It would seem that these banks are marked as easy prey by the criminals and that is why the frequency of the robberies. Quite often, as in this last case, men are in the area and could reach the scene in probably minutes, if this could be contacted. But unfortunately this is not possible under the present set-up. It is not much use being efficient in one or two sections, unless there can be a whole link up. Any of the radio equipped cars should be able to reach any office, either to report on cases, or to receive reports, or instructions about new developments. Their own local office should also be able to reach its cars direct by radio contact to give instructions or to recall a man for any reason. This would provide less loss of time, which is a valuable asset in this modern age and it would speed up the work of the police in their important duty of protection. We feel that officers who reported this matter have a right to feeling highly incensed, for it is very frustrating to them and is the cause of many uncomplimentary remarks when the criminals apparently get right away.

Incidentally, such a system should be for police alone and not hooked up with other services which could be in use when it would be wanted. Such other services should have their own systems as independent from all others.

Russia Puts A Woman Into Space

A CERTAIN amount of curiosity surrounds the recent episode of the Russian space efforts. We refer particularly to the fact of putting a woman into space. As far as can be gathered at this time, nothing appears to have been gained. Two people have already met in space under Russian auspices, the only thing being these were two men. The trip was almost the same in both instances, except that the last one was longer and of course the woman was involved.

It has been said that the plan behind the whole idea was to see if it would be possible to establish a landing point in space from where a further launching might be made to the moon. Nothing has been said as to why the woman, however. Taking a long range view it could be that when launchings to the moon become an actual fact, it may be desirable to have both sexes make landings for the purposes of establishing a new civilization on that planet. Russia always claims "First" in all she has done and this would be another way of being first. This last space try may have been for the purpose of seeing if there would be any different effect on a woman than on a man, in space. According to the results it would seem that the woman is as capable as the man and this one is without other flying experience.

The point is will our neighbor, the United States, follow this example and soon put one of their women into space. It would seem that if that is all there is to the experiment, it does not achieve much and does not warrant the expense. We are inclined to believe there is much more to this fact than meets the eye. Russia is very methodical in all she does and she must have very good reason for this latest experiment.

While all the various launchings are in preparation for flight into space that will eventually mean a landing on one of the other planets, we do not seem to have progressed very far yet. It has been established that as far as we have gone, man can exist in space and is capable of handling his machine, sleeping and eating and so forth and of keeping in touch with earth stations. All of this ensures that man can return from such trips when he desires. To our lay mind, we cannot visualize a space ship going to the moon, for instance, and being able to land and then have enough fuel to return. Of course we have no idea of the limitations of space machines, or how much actual fuel is consumed on the flights so far taken. All of this is of course above our heads, so to speak. We can only wonder just as you.

Cigarettes And Cancer

From Canadian Press

DR. Norman C. Delarue, a Toronto chest surgeon, was the most outspoken advocate of a vigorous public campaign against cigarette smoking at the recent annual meeting of the Canadian Medical Association in Toronto.

The adult who continues smoking cigarettes in the face of medical evidence of its causative association with lung cancer and in the knowledge that he is thus influencing young people to do likewise is "intellectually deficient and morally delinquent," he told his CMA colleagues.

Dr. Delarue's concern and strong language are understood when he explains that he sees some 200 cases of lung cancer every year in his practice and he now believes the disease is reaching epidemic proportions in Canada.

However, Dr. Delarue discussed at length the general reluctance of the smoking public to accept the medical evidence and give up cigarettes.

Adults who have ignored the accumulating medical evidence of the last decade may not react much differently to a government-supported campaign of education on the subject.

The doctors seem to think that the chief target of any campaign should be youth, on the ground that "it is easier and

SUGAR and SPICE

By Bill Smiley

Dominion Day is on the way. Let's have a celebration. It may be our last chance, they say.

To mark it as a nation. Yep, according to the gloomspots, this may be our last opportunity to celebrate with our customary fervor that glorious national holiday revered by all Canadians: The First of July.

Such eminent hysterics as Pierre Berton are sounding the tocsin, raising the storm signals, and making like Cassandra. Quebec, they sob, is gonna pull out the confederation. All will be lost. Canada will become a banana republic.

It is rather a paradox that the groans of anguish emerge, for the most part, from the very people who devote a great deal of time, and a vast number of words, towards convincing everybody that Canada is already little more than a banana republic.

They are the people who have unselfishly volunteered to act as the conscience of this country. They are the people who blab endlessly that we are the people who hang, with embarrassing obscenity, on the every word of every foreigner who speaks of this country, its habits and its people.

They are the people who, via Dawson City or Glace Bay or Hayfork Centre, descend upon our cities and set themselves up as arbiters of our taste, our opinions, our morals, our manners. Armed with incredible gall and a facility with words, they are happiest when they are revealing their ineffable scorn for Canadian custom, cooking and culture.

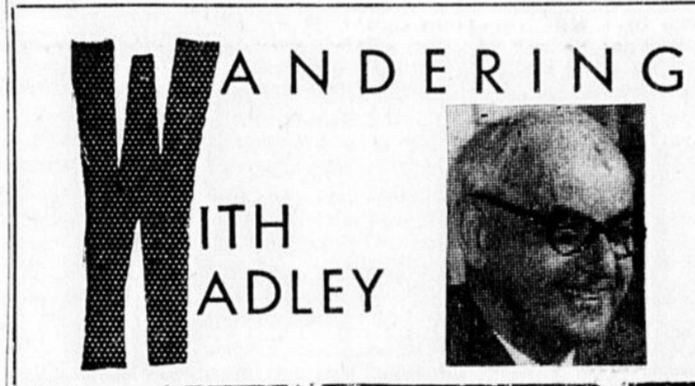

A plague upon them all. In the face of their insults and insinuations, their sneers and their sniping, I remain a cool, happy reactionary. I still believe that the twentieth century belongs to Canada, even with an 11 per cent sales tax on building materials. And furthermore, I fearlessly predict that Quebec will never leave the confederation.

There are a number of good reasons for my opinions. They are not just a lot of off-the-cuff ideas based on a pile of statistical evidence. No, sir, they have a solid base of pure emotion and prejudice.

First of all, our politicians, while comparatively green compared to those of other nations, are internationally recognized as masters of the compromise. Canada, as a nation, has a reputation for horse-trading. She is not one to let any foolish ideas stand in the way of an honest buck. And this, I fear, will present the greatest obstacle to the secessionists of Quebec.

Second, our French-Canadian friends, bomb-planting to the contrary, simply are not wild-eyed Latins, forever cherishing cobblestones and a hurl at authority. They are little more volatile than our British elements, perhaps, but don't forget that they're descended from the shrewd, tough, logical, phlegmatic folk of northern France, for the most part. They are practically stoics compared to some of the exotic strains in our population. The Irish, for example.

Third, they already have as much independence as they can possible use. Don't tell me that a fellow in Riviere

I never thought that I would see the day when I would be embarrassed enough to switch off the radio but it did come to pass. I was driving out in the country and, as is my custom, I switched on the radio to hear some of the inanities which clutter the airways twenty-four hours a day every day. Of course, I was not disappointed. One of those programs was on and in which, in order to pick up a few dollars, the person called on the telephone was asked a simple question. In this case the man at the radio station asked the lady to name the patron saints of England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales. I thought it would be a pushover but no, the lady fumbled and stumbled and did not seem to have a clue and I was so ashamed of such a lack of knowledge that I switched off in dismay. Strangely enough, I have asked several ladies since then to name the four but they all, with one exception, missed out on at least one if not two of the names. The one exception was from "over one" and so there could be no excuse in her case. And it now makes me wonder if you men, who are probably now smirking in an aura of supposed superior knowledge, would have done any better.

her an item in your daily newspapers a few weeks ago which reported the "capturing" of the Tower of London by a large group of university students. It must have been great fun for the students but we can be sure that the tempers of those stalwart guardians of the Tower, the Beefeaters were at boiling point. And their language! Being all retired non-commissioned officers of the various branches of the British armed forces, you may be sure that, at least, they would not be at a loss for words suitable for the occasion but not necessarily printable.

This escapade recalls to me something of a similar nature which occurred in the pre-war years when I was living in London. I believe two groups of medical students were involved. One of the groups owned, as a mascot, a plaster model (full size) of a lion and it was carried around by them to all the functions they attended. At the same time, it was the never ending ambition of the other group to capture this mascot and flaunt it, heavily guarded, before the enraptured faces of its rightful owners. In the incident I reported and it was only the skill and knowledge of the elephants accompanying the lions which prevented some people from getting badly of the route and they had more profitable to discourage the habit before its inception than it is to break the habit once it has become established.

The federal minister of health and welfare, Judy LaMarsh, stole some of the CMA's thunder by suggesting just before the doctors met that a national conference of interested parties should discuss the cigarettes-lung cancer problem.

The doctors gave their tacit blessing to this idea but maintained their appeal for a vigorous campaign of education to be waged by governments at the federal, provincial and municipal levels.

Regardless of the outcome of Miss LaMarsh's national conference, the doctors at least have served notice that they will attempt to combat use of the cigarette if only on a person-to-person level.

du Loup, for example, has any less freedom than I have. Especially if he's married. And I'll never forget a Canadiane I took out in Montreal one night. Boy was she independent!

Fourth, the people of Quebec, should they pull out of confederation, would have to give up one of their primary pleasures in life: blaming everything from the last two wars to the low pensions on the sacred Anglais.

As for my other opinion, that the twentieth century belongs to Canada, this too is based on a bedrock of hope, not a lot of silly facts and figures. The main reason for my hope is that the twentieth century is becoming more and more expensive. Pretty soon, nobody will want it, at any price. But Canadians will buy anything, if the down payment is low enough.

Leaving you with these comforting predictions, I wish you a happy First of July, serene in the knowledge that you will spend it as usual: Reverently explaining to your children the meaning of confederation; listening to fiery orations about our great Canadian mystique; dancing in the streets with your neighbors to express your joy; and decking out your house or store with flags.

And if you have to don water-ski to catch your kids for the reverent explanation, don't worry. If the only fiery oration you can find is Earl Cameron with the CBC news, don't worry. If your neighbors have all bogged off to the beach, don't worry. If the only flags you can find are a couple of Union Jacks, an old Red Ensign, and a tattered Stars and Stripes, don't worry. It will be a good, average, typical Canadian celebration of the birth of our glorious nation.

Provincial Capital Report

QUEBEC (CP) Labor this week began a forceful effort to get full bargaining and association rights for government employees, and appeared to be making some headway.

Voluble Jean Marchand, President of the Confederation of National Trade Unions, and Premier Jean Lesage were the central figures as the Legislative Assembly's Industrial Relations Committee began public hearings on the proposed new Quebec Labor Code.

Both the CNTU and an Independent Labor Group have been recruiting members from among Quebec's 25,000 civil servants, who are not represented for bargaining purposes however.

Mr. Marchand said an article in the New Code appears to give civil servants the right of association.

Premier Lesage replied that it allowed them to form a union but not to affiliate to a parent body such as the CNTU. The Government feared such affiliation because many civil servants had confidential information and might be subjected to pressure.

"I am not accusing a Parent Union, but do not forget there are parent groups that their lion with them. The parents, as a part of their show had three or four elephants and the leader of them, to everybody's consternation and alarm on catching sight of the lion and obviously recalling some incident of it's jungle days, set up a trumpeting of alarm which was copied by the others. They all made a bee line for the group carrying the lion, which, as you may well imagine, did not stay to discuss the matter at any greater length with them. In fact, the situation was completely without humour at the point and it was only the skill and knowledge of the elephants accompanying the lions which prevented some people from getting badly hurt.

They both attacked a clause in the proposed Act — which evidently will undergo heavy rewriting before it becomes law — That would allow the Health or Youth Minister to refer labor contract negotiations between a hospital or school board and its employees to arbitration.

Leopold Garant, President of the Teachers' Corporation, also felt the Government was now in the position of a "partial employer" of teachers.

The teachers expressed fear of an article that would result in labor disputes involving public employees being turned over automatically to a system of arbitration courts.

Mr. Grant said it might become "almost impossible, if not useless" to use bargaining methods under such a system. Management groups concentrated their fire on an article that would make the union check-off compulsory but Mr. Marchand argued that the check-off already is included in 94 per cent of labor agreements in Quebec.

Premier Lesage snuffed out discussion on the article by saying the Committee has heard both sides before and the matter is "a question of principle."

Report From Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Walter Gordon survived six days of blistering attack and opposition demands that he resign following delivery of his budget and revelations that followed it.

Mr. Gordon was being blasted, not so much on the budget itself, but on a series of side effects that provided explosive material for opposition guns.

Mr. Gordon, first elected to the Commons last year as MP for Toronto-Davenport, ran into trouble almost as soon as he had finished delivering his budget address.

The question of the assistance given by the three outside helpers — called "ghost writers" by the opposition — erupted the following day.

The three are David Stanley and Martin O'Connell, who continued on the payrolls of their Toronto investments firms, and G.R. Conway, chartered accountant and post-graduate student at Harvard University.

On Monday, an opposition move to bring about an emergency debate on the part played by the three was beaten down by the Liberal government with voting aid by the Social Credit members.

Opposition leader Diefenbaker charged that Mr. Gordon's action had constituted "a flagrant departure from constitutional budgetary practice," imperilled the secrecy of the budget and had an unsettling effect on the House and on the country.

Mr. Gordon, who said all three had taken oaths of secrecy and allegiance, firmly rejected opposition suggestions that it was improper to allow outsiders access to the secrets of the budget.

Prime Minister Pearson promised to obtain an opinion on the legality of the appointments.

Eric W. Kierans, president of the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges, met Mr. Gordon Tuesday to deliver a stinging attack on the new 30-per cent "takeover" tax on large-scale sales of Canadian companies' stock to foreign investors.

As soon as the Commons began business Wednesday afternoon, Mr. Gordon announced withdrawal of the controversial tax temporarily because of "certain administrative difficulties."

He immediately ran into scathing opposition criticism for having made the announcement while the stock market prices were still open. Stock prices on the Toronto and Montreal markets, which had fallen sharply, suddenly rose and most of the early losses were wiped out.

Roger Provost, President of the Quebec Federation of Labor (CFLC), suggested the negotiations for teachers and hospital employees be done at the provincial level.

They both attacked a clause in the proposed Act — which evidently will undergo heavy rewriting before it becomes law — That would allow the Health or Youth Minister to refer labor contract negotiations between a hospital or school board and its employees to arbitration.

Leopold Garant, President of the Teachers' Corporation, also felt the Government was now in the position of a "partial employer" of teachers.

The teachers expressed fear of an article that would result in labor disputes involving public employees being turned over automatically to a system of arbitration courts.

Mr. Grant said it might become "almost impossible, if not useless" to use bargaining methods under such a system.

Management groups concentrated their fire on an article that would make the union check-off compulsory but Mr. Marchand argued that the check-off already is included in 94 per cent of labor agreements in Quebec.

Premier Lesage snuffed out discussion on the article by saying the Committee has heard both sides before and the matter is "a question of principle."

Former conservative finance minister George Nowlan, who moved a four-part non-confidence motion said "I assume that fortunes have been made on this rise this afternoon."

Thursday, Gilles Greigore Social Credit Financial Critic formally called on Mr. Gordon to resign, saying he had bowed to pressure from financiers in withdrawing the tax.

Earlier, however, Prime Minister Pearson said there was no question of Mr. Gordon resigning. Any house censure motion against the finance minister, he said, would be treated as a challenge of non-confidence to the government.

The week also marked the end of the much publicized Liberal government's "60 Days of Decision" which began April 22 when the Pearson cabinet took office. The slogan was born during the April 8 election campaign when Mr. Pearson pledged a Liberal administration would accomplish more in its first 60 days than had any previous government.

Highlights of the 60 days included early summoning of parliament presentation of a federal budget and introduction of a list of legislative proposals in the House of Commons. Agreement also was announced to Canadian participation in an inter-allied nuclear force within NATO, while Canada would negotiate with the United States to obtain nuclear warheads.

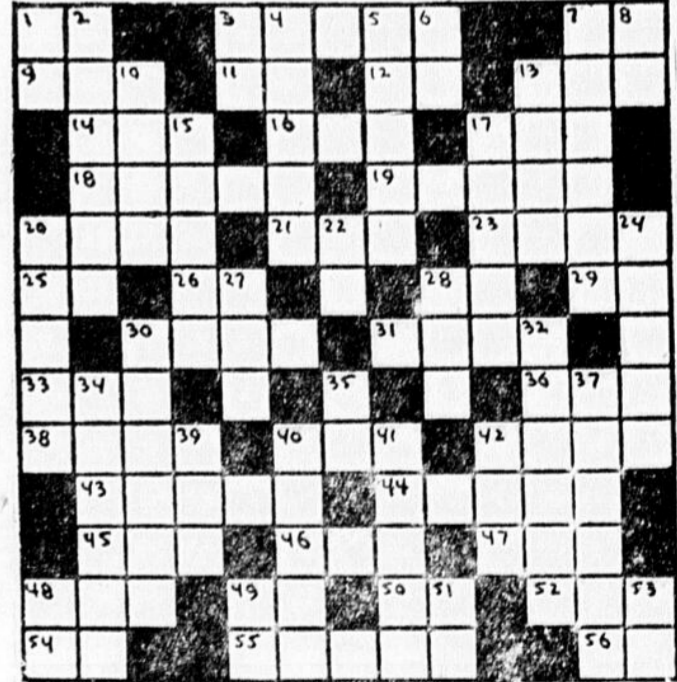

Prime Minister Pearson said he hoped his government will be given the opportunity to continue its action and decisions long after the "60 Days" end. The consensus of Opposition leaders was that the period had started with a bang and then sputtered out.

But just before the period ended, Health Minister Judy LaMarsh had some good news for pensioners. As soon as legislation is passed old-age pensions would be increased by $10 to $75 a month as the first step in a "Canada Pension Plan" that would take 10 years to develop. It would eventually be financed by contributions from employees, employers and the self-employed.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics fifth telegraphic crop report said prairie crop prospects remain good to excellent generally.

The North American Forestry Commission, meeting in the capital, heard conflicting views about the growing competition between industry and the recreation-seeking public for forest space. The Canadian and Mexican delegations warmly endorsed a United States recommendation that the commission set up a temporary work group on forest recreation and wildlife.

Graduates From Textile Institute Needed 3 to 1

ST. HYACINTHE, Que. — Every graduate of the Textile Institute of the Province of Quebec has at least three jobs waiting for him with the Quebec textile industry. By 1970, between 90 and 130 graduates annually will be required to fill technical posts with the industry in this province alone, a leading executive said here today.

"It is obvious that a big gap exists between industry requirements and the number of technical school graduates," said John M. Nodtvedt, manager, Chemcell Fibres Ltd., St. Jean, Que.

Addressing the Institute's graduation ceremony, Mr. Nodtvedt, who represented the Canadian textile industry, advised young Quebec high school students to consider the rewards and challenges a textile education has to offer.

Since foundation, the St. Hyacinthe Institute has trained a total of 277 graduates. "A survey of the positions they now hold, of starting salaries, and of present remuneration, reflects in full the advantages of the education they received."

Discussing an Institute scholarship recently announced by his company, Mr. Nodtvedt noted it was for $1,000 per year for each of the three years of the course, "or more than enough to cover all expenses."

I mention this not by a way of a boast, but just one small example of how the textile industry is endeavouring to help itself and this province by furthering educational opportunities in textile technology. Since the founding of this Institute, companies in our industry have made available scholarships and bursaries totalling over $1,250,000," he said.

In addition to financial sponsorship, the industry had provided undergraduates with summer employment, presented prizes, jobs upon graduation and created many forms of public encouragement and recognition.

Referring to "a new day" that had started to dawn on the Canadian textile industry, Mr. Nodtvedt noted that "Slowly the tempo industry activity is beginning to pick up. There is new optimism and new confidence about the possibility of future growth."

"The textile industry is this province's second largest employer of manufacturing labour, and with over 44,000 jobs, ranks only behind the garment industry. Gross value of production, now in excess of $500 million annually, is spread over more than 100 communities. In short, primary textiles is a mainstay of the Quebec economy," he said.

A recent study had estimated that 3,000 technically trained people will be required by the Quebec textile industry in the next decade. "So I say to those who may be on the threshold of deciding upon a career, 'why not investigate the future that the textile industry can offer. You may be overlooking one of the brightest avenues of opportunity available' today," added Mr. Nodtvedt.

In an accompanying address, Hon. René St. Pierre, Quebec's Minister of Public Works, stressed the importance of the textile industry to the national and provincial economies. Industry conditions had improved in the past two years as markets, employment, and production, began to increase, he said.

Some 20 young men received graduation certificates at today's ceremony, attended by many of this country's leading textile industrialists. The 1963 graduates, all of whom have completed a three or four-year college level course in textile manufacturing, or chemistry and dyeing, have already taken up jobs in the textile industry.

Top student honours went to Richard Moore, of Cote St. Luc, Montreal, who was awarded the Lieutenant Governor's Medal, the Minister of Youth's Prize, and the Institute's Gold Medal for highest marks in the general course. Moore leaves later this year for post-graduate studies at North Carolina State College, under the sponsorship of Dominion Textile Company Limited, Montreal.

Highest student of the chemistry and dyeing course was Yves Sanche, of St. Placide, Que., who also received the Institute's Gold Medal.

Other awards went to Gaëtan Dion, of Ange-Gardien, Que., Institute's Silver Medal for chemistry and dyeing, and the Ciba Gold Medal for work on dyestuffs and their applications to textile fabrics; Denis Hebert, of St. Hyacinthe,

We always have been attracted by windows. They can be any shape or size, plain or fancy, opaque or transparent — it makes little difference, we have an affinity for them all; and if a psychoanalyst should explain this attraction to be a result of pleasant associations, we would be inclined to believe him.

One of our earliest recollections of a window is a stained glass one, common to many Victorian houses, which was at the landing, half-way up the stairs, in our grandmother's home. We don't remember the window so well as the blue, orange and purple squares which marked off the landing like a checkerboard when the sun shone through the glass. They were the most beautiful colours we'd ever seen. We used to play Hop-Scotch on the squares until, one day, we misjudged a hop and ended up a heap of misery, at the bottom of the stairs. After that, Hop-Scotch was forbidden; we had to be content to sit on the top step and watch the colours move across the landing, changing from squares to lopsided rhomboids with the sun's passage until they slipped down the stairs and disappeared.

We remember another window and the good times associated with it. An uncle's house had an enormous red plate glass window in the bathroom which changed the colour of everything outside: greens were a dirty brown and a blue roof across the street was a violent shade of purple. We used to invite our friends up and bet on what were the real colours the women wore, walking below on the sidewalk. Everybody had to "ante up" a marble and someone was designated "run into the next room, quick" and shout the winning colours. It was a grand game until Uncle called it quits. He took a dim view of the daily horde of neighborhood children jammed into his bathroom.

Church windows are our favorite kind. Whether they be the great stained glass wonders in an old cathedral, or the less spectacular but equally beautiful "In Loving Memory

Letter to the Editor

Dewittville, Que.
June 18, 1963.

Editor,
Huntingdon Gleaner Inc.,
Huntingdon, Quebec.

Dear Sir:

The members of the Dewittville Women's Institute recently entertained a group of international students as part of their contribution to the Freedom from Hunger Campaign. I wonder whether Gleaner readers are aware of another way in which Canadians are able to share in this campaign, the Share-a-Loaf Plan. This is a simple idea put into practice by a women's group that involves inserting a quarter each week into a stotted card. When the card is completed, it can be taken to any branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce. Cards can be obtained from the Canadian Freedom from Hunger Committee, Box 2040, Station D, Ottawa, Ont.

Money collected from Share-a-Loaf cards is used to help maintain an international training centre at Mysore, India where students are instructed in heat sterilization, curing, pickling and dehydration. One of the greatest problems facing the one-third to one-half of the world's population that suffer permanent hunger is the loss of local food due to lack of modern food technology. Enough grain to feed three quarters of India was lost in 1959. 40% of her fruit crop rots before it's eaten. Protein-rich sardines caught in the waters surrounding India are used as fertilizer because of lack of means of preservation. Milk supplies never reach the subcontinent due to lack of transportation facilities. Education provides the answer to all of this. As the old Chinese proverb runs — give a man a fish you feed him for a day. If you teach him how to fish, you feed him for many days.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Keitha K. Macintosh

Ness and the late Mr. Ness, Howick, Que., took place on Saturday, June 8, at 4 o'clock in St. Mark's Anglican Church, St. Laurent. The Rev. B. J. Thorpe of St. Mark's Church was the officiating clergyman.

The wedding music was played by Mr. J. H. Meating, Rev. Wm. Brown of Howick sang, "The Lord's Prayer" and "Because" during the signing of the register.

The church was decorated with white gladioli, white mums and palms. Pompoms with chiffon bows marked the pews.

The skirt had a front flange outlined by imported Swiss applique and fell in sculptured folds to an elegant train. The long sleeves ended in points over the hands and her shoulder length veil of tulle illusion was held by a crown embroidered in seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of pink Sensation roses, gardenias and ivy. She wore a strand of pearls, gift of the groom.

The maid of honour was Miss Betty Shaw, sister of the bride. She wore a dress of deep pink sateau with a full skirt, matching flower and tulle headdress, and shoes. She carried a nosegay of pink carnation, in the same shade as her dress.

The bridesmaid, Miss Nancy Ness, sister of the groom, and Miss Elizabeth Moule, friend of the bride, wore matching dresses and head-pieces in petal pink in the same style as the ensemble worn by the maid of honour. They carried nosegays of Sweetheart roses and white pompoms.

The best man was Flying Officer Anthony J. Davis. The ushers were Sub-Lieutenant Robert A. Carr and Sub-Lieutenant William C. Jeffers. The groom, best man and ushers, all graduates of Kingston Military College, wore their dress uniforms with the scarlet red coats.

The bride's mother wore a pale pink shantung sheath with matching accessories and white gloves. Her corsage was a pink orchid.

The groom's mother wore an Alice Blue silk shantung ensemble, matching hat, trimmed with dark and light pink pearls. She carried a bouquet of pink Sensation roses, gardenias and ivy. She wore a strand of pearls, gift of the groom.

The bride's home, where the reception was held, was decorated with baskets of pink gladioli and white mums. A three-tiered cake centered the table.

The happy couple left for a trip to Winnipeg where they will reside. Going away the bride wore a silk sheath dress and matching long coat in cafe-au-lait, a matching Swiss embroidered straw hat, with shoes, purse and gloves in pink brown. Her corsage was of yellow Sweetheart roses.

With more than a month of hard work behind, the Federation of Charities' Campaign is coming to an end. The organizers and door-to-door collectors have performed a great task. It is not easy to cover the municipalities of Huntingdon, Godmanchester and Hinchinbrook. The distances to cover, the great number of homes to visit, finally the prejudiced people may have.

Many are the organizers and collectors who were told this: "We are giving to help people who are lazy, who drink and who pretend they are sick." There is perhaps a bit of truth in this but it remains that kindness has helped more people than bad treatment has. There is also a youth to be saved, if some adults are too weak to shoulder their responsibilities. Also, one gives in the name and for the love of God who shall see to it that Justice is done when the time comes.

Others find that the organizations of the Federation do not function perfectly. It is true, I think that, on one side as well as on the other, each is trying to improve oneself. Enlarge the donations and social services will become better. If they do not, a committee which will soon be established in the area will see that they do.

Congratulations to all who have contributed, in a large or small way, to the success of this Campaign which netted $1771.25 from the citizens of Godmanchester and Huntingdon. Hinchinbrook has shown itself very generous in giving more than $400.00.

And if there be people who did not give and would wish to do so, please contact John Thompson, restaurant owner, Chateaugay Street, Gerard Sources, at 20, Chalmers of Father Gareau, P.O. Box 10, Huntingdon, Que. All three will be pleased to forward your donations to the Campaign Treasurer. The Federation will forward two receipts to you.

NEWS FROM Ormstown High School by DARLENE BURTON

Another school year has come to a close and, for those of Grade eleven with a tinge of regret.

Both academically and athletically the school has achieved great success. Nancy Winter, Bogdan Krawchenko, Andrew Sancton, Marielle Green, Dick McGerrigle and Dee Glover put forth their talents bringing laurels to Ormstown for public speaking.

Debating of high calibre was enjoyed by grades nine, ten and eleven. Drama Night, as usual, was a great success owing to the enthusiastic directing of Mrs. Campbell.

Musically the Glee Club was in full swing this year and O.H.S. was well represented at the Music Festival. The Girls' Basketball Team won the Chateaugay Basketball title. The Boys' Hockey and Basketball Teams did well also. Ormstown won both the C.V.T.A. and Legion Track Meets.

The Students' Council did much this year under the able leadership of Nancy Winter. Officers were: President, Nancy Winter; Vice-Pres., Andrew Sancton; Sec., Marielle Green; Treas., Gary Lang; Grade eight reps., Connie McCaig and John Moore; Grade nine reps., Marielle Green and Mike Keien; Grade ten reps., Andy Sancton and Sheila Stevenson; Grade eleven reps., Nancy Winter and Doug Marshall; Prefects, Bill Blair, Darlene Burton, Cheryl Etienne, Ian Nussey, Carole Cottingham, Carole Hughes, Bogdan Krawchenko and Garry Lang.

Next year the council remains much the same with the exception of Grade eleven's representatives and the addition of Susan Nussey and Kenny Rember. Officers will be: Pres., Andy Sancton; Vice-Pres., Marielle Green; Sec., John Moore.

Powerscourt

POWERSCOURT — Mr. and Mrs. Erskine Morris and family who have lived on their farm for the past seventeen years, moved to Verdun last Saturday where they will make their home. The farm is now owned by Mr. Ronald Wood, who with his family will move there in the near future.

The annual meeting of Powerscourt Cemetery Co. was held last Monday evening in the church with nine people present. Mr. Ronald Wood presided and the Sec. Treas. Mr. Clarence Johnston gave a very satisfactory report.

A number of the local congregation joined with the Athelstan congregation on Sunday morning to hear Rev. Dr. Johnston report on the work of the Bible Society. The need is greater than ever and all those

Ste. Agnes School is Over

STE-AGNES — This week brings a close to the school year, and a sigh of relief from the students who have just completed writing the final set of much anticipated and long dreaded June Examinations. Now the long wait begins — the wait for final marks for Grades X and XI to come in from Quebec. This is an anxious time for both grades, and especially so for Grade XI for it often means the choice of a career hangs in the balance. Entry to many professions today require an average of 65% and with the number of subjects one is required to carry and the type of exam set by the Department it takes a conscientious and industrious student to attain this percentage.

However, exams are over, glorious summer days of vacation are ahead, so even though you do keep your fingers crossed, do relax and enjoy yourselves!

Church Notes

This Sunday morning, June 30th, will be the Rev. Mr. Rutledge's last service in Dundee before he and his family leave for Rainy River in the Great Lakes Region of Ontario. During the past two years the Rutledges have been with us they have made many friends and it is with a sincere sense of loss on our part that we see them leave to take up their first formal charge.

Last summer the Hi-C group enjoyed many good times together, with Mr. Rutledge always around to give a helping hand when needed.

The evening of the farewell party given in his honour, Edward Watterson, on behalf of the group of young people, presented him with a desk set as a token of appreciation for the interest he had shown in their endeavours.

During the program, two young pianists, Gail Watterson and Peter Rutledge, performed for the first time in public, both doing remarkably well. Wendy Sutton and Stephen Rutledge were also to have taken part, but at that time they were both confined to their homes with measles, much to their disappointment.

This Friday afternoon, June 28, at 2 o'clock the U.C.W. will be hostesses at a "Silver Tea" in the Church Hall at which time Mrs. William Black of Huntingdon will be guest speaker. A group of Hi-C girls are preparing a choral offering. All friends are extended a very cordial invitation to attend this annual social event.

On Tuesday evening, July 2nd, the Board of Managers are sponsoring a Strawberry Social in the Church Hall with this luscious, summer fruit being the main attraction on the menu, with other delectable foods to supplement the repast.

During the past couple of months it seems that the Church has been the scene of several social activities, which to my mind is good for the life of the Community as a whole, for it is in fellowship with one's neighbour, and a sense of working together towards one common cause that true Christian brotherhood begins.

Exterior of Church Redone

The Roman Catholic Church in the village has undergone a renovation which has much improved its exterior appearance. The whole building has been redone in imitation stone, and presents a most striking appearance to all passersby.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Fleming of Ottawa spent the weekend at the Fleming and Elder homes. Dawn has received her transfer from the Accounting Department of the Bell Telephone Co. in Montreal to the Assigning Department in downtown Ottawa. She began work on June 10th.

Ronald also reported for work on June 10th, at the Department of Statistics, to find that instead of going right to work he was to spend the next two weeks listening to lectures, visiting several different departments, and having interviews. On completion of the two weeks he found that he could make a choice among a good number of departments, where with his particular background of banking, and his four years of study at McGill it was discovered he would fit in to several different positions, so the decision was up to him.

Timex Watches

HYDE DRUG CO. MALONE, N.Y.

It was rather difficult to make up his mind, Ronnie said, but upon serious contemplation, he decided on the Department of Finance and Economics, because to him this seemed to be the most interesting and most fascinating of all the departments he had observed. It is also one of the hardest to get into so therefore, he reasoned it should be one of the best.

A Little Bit of Gaspé Mr. Clarence Coffin had a taste of down-home Gaspé way this past week, when he received two delicious and delectable salmon, caught, and packed at once in dry ice, by a friend who had it shipped on its way immediately, arriving at its destination at the peak of perfection. There is simply no comparison in the taste of such a salmon as compared to one bought in the meat department of a super market. The only drawback to having this sumptuous fare of ten is in the cost per pound when one figures express charges in addition to the actual cost of the salmon and the packing of it.

Attend Graduation Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Proulx attended the graduation exercises of their son, Mr. Jean Jacques Proulx, who received his certificate from the Institute of Technology, the University of Sherbrooke, graduation with honours in the field of electronics.

Mr. and Mrs. Proulx's daughter, Ghislaine, who attends convent in Sherbrooke is spending her summer holidays with her parents.

Valleyfield Normal Miss Claudette Marchand, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbrod Marchand, graduated from Valleyfield Normal School this past week. She is planning to enter Verdun General Hospital in the fall as a student nurse.

Injures Leg Mr. Joseph Platt has been having a considerable amount of difficulty due to a leg injury which he suffered a couple of weeks ago. Joe was hospitalized last week and a walking cast was applied to the injured leg.

Dies Suddenly Mrs. Florence Morris of Dundee Lines died suddenly at her home on Friday morning, June 14th, at the age of sixty years. She had been in her usual good health and had spent the previous day shopping in Malone.

The late Mrs. Morris was born in Bombay, N.Y. in the year 1902, and for the past eleven years she has been employed by the Shields Slipper Corporation in Bombay. Her husband, the late Allan Morris predeceased her 16 years ago at the age of 47.

Funeral services were conducted from the St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Fort Covington, N.Y. The Rev. Gerald Robertson, vicar, officiated and interment was in Elmwood Cemetery.

Personals Mr. George P. Elder of Athelstan is spending the summer months at the home of Mr. and Mrs. V. N. Elder and family.

On Friday evening Mr. Elder attended the 25th Wedding Anniversary party for Mr. and Mrs. Grant Whyte in the main dining room of the Huntingdon Chateau.

On Saturday he visited with his sister, Mrs. Jessie MacDonald who has been discharged from the Huntingdon County Hospital and is now a patient in Mrs. Cairns' Nursing Home in Huntingdon. While Mrs. MacDonald is not able to see or to get around she is thankful that she suffers no pain.

Miss Gail Watterson is spending this week with her cousin, Miss Wendy Sutton, while her parents are enjoying a holiday in the Marl-tines.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. McPherson of Valleyfield spent Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gregor Leslie.

There were many types of races for young and old, married and single, but no walking ones for ladies - the weather was too cold. There was strong competition in every class, straight races, three legged, shoe kick, shoe race, spider race and wheelbarrow. This one included boys, girls, and some married women. The Sybil Gruer, Rita Plazier combination, converted their wheelbarrow half-way, then picked up some money before the finish line, providing a good laugh for everyone.

ORIENTATION DESSINATEUR (TRICE) DE MODE

Le dessinateur(trice) de modes ou le modeliste crée les maquettes de nouveaux styles de vêtements et prépare les patrons. Il remplit aussi des fonctions de direction et de supervision.

Un(e) dessinateur(trice) de modes peut travailler pour une manufacture, une maison de haute couture ou s'établir à son compte.

Le travail dans une maison de haute couture est sans doute le plus intéressant. Habituellement, le dessinateur est employé par le propriétaire de l'établissement pour rencontrer les clients, dessiner les modèles et en établir les patrons, surveiller les essayages et voir à ce que les clients reçoivent toute l'attention voulue. Son travail est extrêmement varié: il créera tous les genres de vêtements, et devra, dessiner, tailler, ajuster, coudre, diriger, vendre, etc.; il devra aussi traiter avec les clients et les fournisseurs. Les responsabilités étant très grandes, ces tâches ne sont assignées qu'aux dessinateurs de grand talent et ayant une longue expérience dans le domaine de la mode.

Bien que le travail du dessinateur dans une manufacture puisse paraître ternes à côté de celui du dessinateur de haute mode, il n'en est pas moins intéressant. Dans une manufacture le travail consiste principalement dans la copie de modèles illustrés dans les revues de modes et dans l'adaptation de ces modèles aux besoins de la maison et de sa clientèle. Le dessinateur travaille souvent dans le bruit et est constamment interrompu. Généralement, ses heures de travail sont de 9 à 5 heures sans les périodes où les nouvelles modes doivent être mises sur le marché. Le métier n'est pas érigé en syndicat; le dessinateur peut donc négocier son salaire. Il vient en contact avec de nombreuses personnes, discute avec l'employeur, les ouvriers, les clients, les vendeurs, les vitrines, les expositions et les bibliothèques. Le dessinateur devra prendre ses vacances, une ou deux semaines lors de la période la moins chalande.

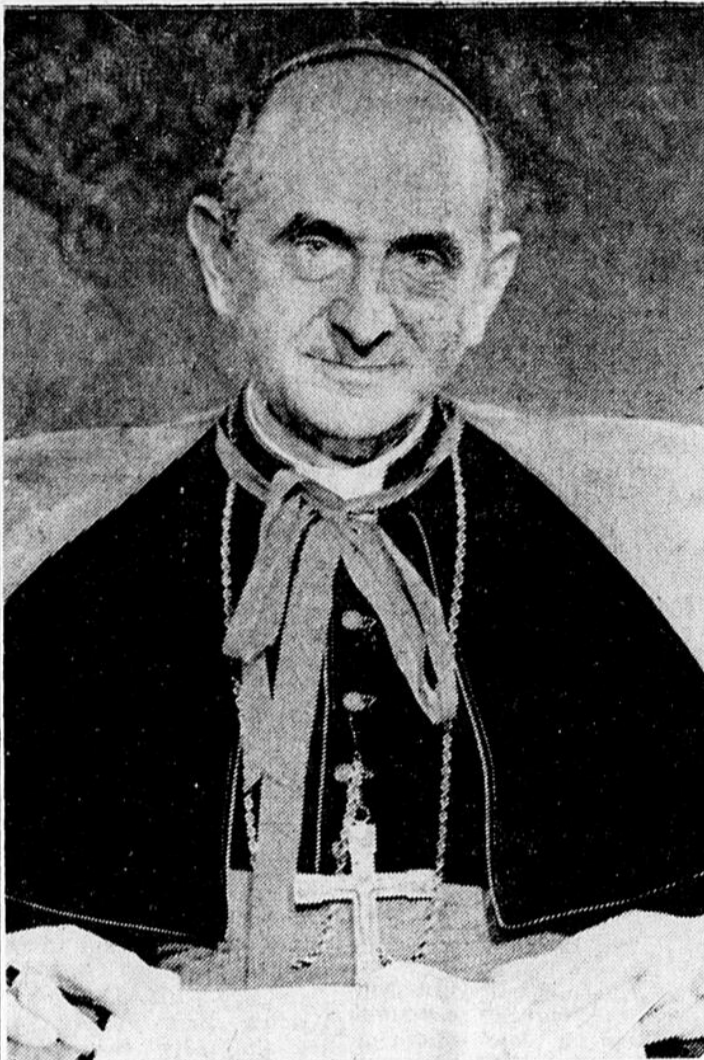

Le dessinateur de mode doit constamment être animé du désir de créer de nouveaux modèles car la compétition est rude en ce domaine. Il doit pouvoir travailler vite et avec précision, avoir une bonne mémoire et la faculté de concentration dans le bruit. Une bonne vue est indispensable. Une santé fragile ne s'accommoderait pas de ce travail. Il doit être très sociale, car étant placé entre le propriétaire et les autres employés, il joue un grand rôle dans l'atmosphère qui règne dans l'atelier. Ses aptitudes à transiger avec vendeurs et clients feront la renommée de la maison autant que les modes qu'il lancera.

L'École des Métiers commerciaux, 1256, rue St-Denis Montréal, offre aux élèves détenteurs d'un certificat de 9e année, un cours de 2 ans dans la coupe et confection pour hommes et un cours de 2 ans de couture professionnelle pour dames; ce dernier cours comprend 2 spécialités: la confection et la haute couture et les élèves dans chacun de ces spécialités reçoivent une formation de modeliste.

Un travail de vacances pendant les études peut fournir une bonne expérience. Plusieurs employeurs exigent que le futur dessinateur commence comme opérateur de machines. Cela lui permet de connaître les problèmes des ouvriers qu'il est appelé à diriger plus tard. Puis, il deviendra assistant-dessinateur; après 5 ou dix ans d'expérience, il pourra devenir dessinateur en chef. L'avancement dépend de ses qualifications et de l'importance de l'entreprise.

La profession convient aux hommes et aux femmes. Pour les dessinateurs et dessinatrices talentueux, cette profession assure une vie infiniment variée et fascinante. Cependant, le travail s'effectue souvent dans le bruit, la poussière, avec maintes interruptions. Le dessinateur doit quelquefois travailler sous pression.

Ci-haut, une photo du Cardinal Giovanni Battista Montini (Paul VI) prise quelques jours avant son élection par le Conclave. Le Cardinal Montini âgé de 65, était archevêque de Milan avant le scrutin. Devenu maintenant le Représentant suprême de Jésus-Christ sur la terre, notre nouveau Pape, Paul VI, promait de combattre pour la PAIX.

PAUL VI Notre nouveau Pape

Conclave. Les 80 Cardinaux de l'église Catholique sont entrés mercredi soir, dans la chapelle Sixtine où ils sont demeurés reclus jusqu'à ce qu'ils aient dans le plus grand secret élu le successeur de Jean XXIII. Peu avant de se rendre en procession dans la chapelle, ils avaient invoqué l'Esprit Saint. Vêtus de violettes, les prélats sont entrés en Conclave à la suite d'acolytes portant une croix et des cierges allumés. Dès leur entrée en Conclave, les Cardinaux se sont engagés à résister par serment à toute pression de l'extérieur dans le choix qu'ils devaient faire du 262ième pape de l'Église.

Origine. Le nouveau pape fut né le 25 septembre 1897, un de trois frères, à Concesio, près de la ville Italienne de Brescia. Il fut ordonné à Brescia en 1920 et entra au service diplomatique du Vatican peu après. Contrairement au pape Jean XXIII, qui inné de famille pauvre, Paul VI grandit dans une maison confortable et culturelle. Son père était un journaliste distingué. En 1952, Montini fut nommé secrétaire de l'état pour le Vatican par Pie XII. Pie XII voulut faire de Montini un Cardinal mais celui-ci refusa ces honneurs, préférant continuer à servir comme il le faisait.

Le cardinal Ottaviano imposa de nouveau le silence et annonça: "Il a choisi de régner sous le nom de Paul VI" à quoi la foule répondit: "Vive le Pape Paul..."

Plusieurs minutes s'écoulèrent et le nouveau pape apparut sur le balcon; vêtu de la robe et la calotte papale de blanc, sa voix vibra d'émotion mais devint ferme et forte. Le nouveau pape chanta le rituel de la bénédiction Urbini et Orbi, à la ville de Rome et au monde entier et levant sa main droite, fit le signe de la croix en disant: "Nous vous bénissons, au nom du Père, et du fils, et du St-Esprit".

Reigne. Le dernier Pape à porter le nom de Paul régna de 1605 à 1621. Comme Jean XXIII, il sera le pape de la paix. Son seul but est de chercher et de créer la paix. C'est un désir qui est très cher au cœur de tous les Chrétiens du monde entier.

L'origine des paroisses dans les Cantons de Godmanchester et Finchbrook

SAINT-JOSEPH de Huntingdon, le Canada fut divisé en deux. On créa, dans les deux, des comtés, dont celui de Huntingdon dans le Bas-Canada. A ce moment, il n'y avait aucun habitant au site de la ville d'aujourd'hui. En 1821, le 13 mai, Mgr. Lartigue écrivait à M. Dufresne, missionnaire à St-Régis, qu'au Canada, venaient d'arriver environ 200 émigrés d'Angleterre dont partie s'était fixée à Lancaster et partie à Godmanchester (St-Anicet). C'était partiellement vrai, car ceux du sud ne s'étaient pas établis à St-Anicet, mais un peu plus bas que le Port-Lewis d'aujourd'hui. Ils s'étaient choisis des lots et s'étaient bâtis des hantiers; ils avaient baptisé leur groupement du nom de Dalhousie. Après deux ans de séjour et de travaux, quelq'un vint les avertir que leurs lots avaient déjà été concédés et qu'ils n'avaient qu'à déguerpir ou acheter. Ils descendirent alors vers le sud et s'arrêtèrent dans cette partie du canton de Hunchinbrook qui est devenue celui d'Elgin. De ces émigrés se détacha, vers 1821, un nommé Hunter

Accident mortel à Ste-Agnès

Un accident mortel s'est produit samedi soir dernier vers 6:00 du soir, en face de la demeure de M. Steve Kurchuk, à Ste-Agnès de Dundee. M. Kurchuk revenait du village de Ste-Agnès et était accompagné de M. et Mme Samuel Yamchuk et leur fille Natalie.

C'est en effectuant un virage pour entrer chez lui, que la voiture de M. Kurchuk fut frappée à l'arrière par un lourd camion de transport qui était conduit par M. David Goldman de Clareville. La voiture fut projetée dans un fossé. M. Samuel Yamchuk et sa fille Natalie furent tués sur le coup.

D'autre part, Mme Yamchuk fut transportée d'urgence à l'hôpital de Huntingdon où elle repose entre la vie et la mort, mais les docteurs ont bon espoir de la sauver.

Les constatations d'usage furent faites par deux de nos agents de la Police Provinciale et le Coroner, Dr. Lefebvre déclara la mort des deux victimes.

Les cadavres furent transportés au Salon McGerrigle à Huntingdon où ils seront exposés.
