NEW JOBLESS PAY FOR SEASONAL EMPLOYEES

Insurance Commission Surveys Possibilities Of Extending Benefits

OTTAWA (CP) — A survey has begun to assess possibilities of fitting seasonal workers into an unemployment insurance scheme of their own.

The survey, it is understood, has been ordered by Labor Minister Starr and is being conducted by the three-man unemployment insurance commission.

About 4,000,000 Canadians now are covered by the existing system, including 250,000 loggers, lumbermen and fishermen who are affected by seasonal influences.

Adequate coverage for that class of worker it is expected, would require either a higher rate of contribution to the unemployment insurance fund or else a government subsidy. Another aspect of the inquiry is how to fit agriculture workers into any scheme.

Bilingualism Desirable Says Dief

MONTREAL (CP) — Complete bilingualism is not essential for the development of a national spirit in Canada, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Friday.

It is desirable as an educational and cultural ideal for Canadians to be able to speak both English and French, he said in a convocation speech at the University of Montreal.

"But I do not believe it is any more essential to the creation of a Canadian nationality that we all speak the same language than that we all belong to the same church or the same political party or have the same racial origins."

PROOF IN HISTORY
Mr. Diefenbaker said the proof is in Canadian history—"a Canadian nation created at Confederation and genuinely united in a common national determination to work out its own destiny."

The prime minister received an honorary degree at the convention.

Mr. Diefenbaker, who spoke in both English and French, said it is a "miracle" that through the years Montreal and the province of Quebec "have maintained their special kind of Canadianism, without which the Canadian nation of today would be so much poorer—without which, indeed, it might very well not exist."

'Bank Employees Shouldn't Get Jobless Pay'

OTTAWA (CP)—Bank employees should not be covered by unemployment insurance, a spokesman for the Canadian Bankers' Association said Friday.

The association particularly objected to including bank workers making between $4,800 and $5,400 in coverage under amendments to the Unemployment Insurance Act being studied by the Commons industrial relations committee.

Sub Sighted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The navy said Friday it had investigated a report of the sighting of an unidentified submarine in the Gulf of Mexico. However, following custom, navy headquarters did not say what, if anything, had been found in the investigation.

TIT FOR TAT
While Able and Baker made history, two monkeys in Vancouver pulled a stunt of their own—they launched a man.

Gardener Alexander Rauk leapt into the air with a surprised yell when he looked up from a flower bed into the grinning faces of two monkeys.

The furry pranksters turned out to be escapees from the home of a neighbor and they were captured by a hastily-assembled posse, assisted by Rauk, after he came down to earth.

ATOMIC PACT
Prime Minister Diefenbaker and President Eisenhower announced an agreement under which Canada's armed forces will get more information from the U.S. about defensive atomic weapons.

Diefenbaker's announcement, made in the House of Commons Monday, said the agreement will enable Canada to obtain some

Immigrant's Son Keep The Union Jack, MP Pleads

OTTAWA (CP) — An impassioned plea for inclusion of the Union Jack in any distinctive national flag for Canada was made Friday by a 56-year-old Canadian of Ukrainian descent.

Nicholas Mandziuk (PC—Marquette) told the Commons that the Union Jack should be on the flag as a symbol of the freedom and opportunity his immigrant father and mother found on their arrival in Canada.

"Throw away the union Jack?" he asked.

"Why not throw away the idea of Her Majesty being our Queen? Why not throw away all the parliamentary procedure we have inherited from the mother of Parliaments? Why not throw away all our freedoms? Why not throw away our tradition of justice and fair play?"

Mr. Mandziuk spoke during debate of a private bill sponsored by Samuel Boulanger (L—Drummond-Arthabaska) for adoption of a distinctive national flag for Canada. Under the bill, the government would design a flag and submit it to Parliament.

RUN OUT OF TIME
The bill, debated earlier this session, was still being discussed

West Looks To Mr. K.

GENEVA (AP) — The Western powers today looked to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev for the word that could lift the Berlin crisis and clear the way to a summit conference.

Secret talks with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko have so far failed to remove the Berlin issue as a barrier to a heads-of-government meeting.

But Western officials think it likely that Gromyko will get new instructions before the Big Four foreign ministers conference here ends.

OUT IN OPEN
Less than 48 hours after going into secret negotiations, the ministers of Britain, the United States and France were headed back today to the semi-public stage in the Palais des Nations at the request of the Russians. They expect a new demand by Gromyko for Western troops to get out of West Berlin and make it a neutral "free city."

The Western powers have emphasized repeatedly that they have no intention of giving up their rights in West Berlin or their lifelines to the isolated city 110 miles inside East Germany.

A return to secret diplomacy was assured, however, for Gromyko has invited the three Western foreign ministers and a limited group of their advisers to dine with him tonight.

PROBING ONLY
These private discussions so far have amounted only to diplomatic probing operations.

In the first two private sessions — on the airplane flight back from the John Foster Dulles funeral in Washington and at British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd's villa — the West tried to find out how much the Russians would be willing to relax their pressure on Berlin.

Informed diplomats said Gromyko did not budge from the position that the West must abandon its occupation of West Berlin.

But they said he engaged in inquiring into Western intentions. They said a change could hardly be expected until his reports have been studied by Khrushchev and he gets new instructions.

Buildings Burned At St. Adrien

ST. ADRIEN DE HAM — (Special) — Fast work on the part of Asbestos firemen, may well have been instrumental in saving the buildings of this small community near Asbestos from total loss.

Called out yesterday morning to a fire in a small wooden, abandoned building owned by Andre Lajeunesse, the firemen were forced to combat flames which spread to a neighboring house owned by Roger Larrievie.

Damage estimates reach between $7,000 and $8,000. No one was injured or burned in the outbreak.

Train Death Toll Is 85
JAKARTA, Indonesia — (Reuters) — Eighty-five persons were killed and 40 were severely injured when a passenger train plunged into a ravine in West Java, Antara news agency reported Friday.

Earlier reports said 195 were killed and about 200 were injured.

IRONIC TOUCH
There was a touch of irony in the fact that the day of Dulles' funeral—May 27—was the day the funeral had marked for a crisis over Berlin.

The Soviet Union's six-month ultimatum to the West to get out of the former German capital ran out on that date. It was, instead, a day of truce in cold war, and of tribute to Dulles, who had died of the ultimatum.

TALKS RECESSED
The Big Four foreign ministers had recessed their Geneva conference on Germany to attend the Dulles funeral, Russian Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko joining Western diplomats in the Washington trip.

Gromyko termed Dulles "an outstanding statesman, outstanding diplomat" and his chief, Premier Khrushchev, also spoke in respectful terms of the former state secretary.

Eisenhower called Gromyko, Selwyn Lloyd of Britain, Maurice Couve de Murville of France and U.S. State Secretary Christian Herter to a White House confer-

Miami Man Claims Theft Deductible

MIAMI (AP)—Sam Kay, Miami Beach real estate operator and money lender, said Friday the 3,767,500 Cuban pesos taken in a Mexico City holdup Thursday night belonged to him — "and I hope I can deduct them from my income tax."

The holdup took place on a Mexico City street. Kay's daughter, Mrs. Marilyn Thal, was reported to have been shot in the arm by the robbers but Kay said "nobody was hurt."

Kay said the pesos were "legitimate." They came to him, he said, from a Cuban combine to which he sold the Biltmore Terrace Hotel in Miami Beach last month.

Mexico City police arrested Mrs. Thal after the holdup. Also arrested was a man police there mistakenly identified as Mrs. Thal's husband. He was A. Karl Beyeff. Kay said Beyeff was an associate.

How the robbers fared was not known.

SUSPECT RING
Mexican police said their investigations also led them to suspect they had stumbled on an international ring dealing in foreign currencies, jewelry and possibly narcotics.

Police said Mrs. Thal's party had brought the pesos to Mexico for conversion at a rate of 36 cents a peso, or a total of $1,356,300, and had left to contact a buyer when the gunmen struck.

Just before the holdup was staged, they said, some tipster telephoned police headquarters to report about operations of a ring dealing in the conversion and smuggling of Cuban money. The missing pesos were reported to be among currency printed and exported during the regime of dictator Fulgencio Batista.

PM Raps Foreign Envoys

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker Friday administered a slap on the wrist to foreign ambassadors speaking in Canada on controversial issues, admonishing them to use greater restraint.

His unusual action was prompted by an equally unusual number of such speeches by diplomats in the last 1½ months.

Mr. Diefenbaker was asked in the Commons by Harry O. White (PC—Middlesex East), chairman of the House's external affairs committee, for comment on an editorial in Wednesday's Toronto Globe and Mail entitled 'Undiplomatic Diplomats.'

The prime minister said he had seen the editorial, adding:

"The only observation I should like to make upon that matter at this time would be that an exercise of greater restraint in controversial utterances on the part of diplomats in general in Canada would not but be regarded most favorably, I think, by Canadians as a whole."

NO NAMES, BUT...
Mr. Diefenbaker mentioned no names but the editorial referred to recent speeches by United States Ambassador Richard B. Wigglesworth, Russian Ambassador Amasap Aroutunian and High Commissioner Robert Kirkland of South Africa.

The editorial suggested some foreign diplomats in Canada were "straying a little far from the diplomatic reservation" by custom they were expected to avoid all public controversy in public speeches. But this wise convention had been "ignored" in several recent instances.

In a Toronto address April 16 the U.S. ambassador said the East-West crisis over Berlin was "artificially created" by the Soviet "while loudly professing its dedication to peace." At another point, he said the Soviet was trying to create dissension between Canada and the U.S.

Dr. Aroutunian replied in an Ottawa address April 20, but without mentioning the U.S. ambassador by name.

He said pointedly that ambassadors "are not appointed for the purpose of making public speeches in the clubs provoking hostile feelings to the third countries."

Strike To End
HAMILTON (CP) — The government has moved to bring an end to the strike at the Studebaker-Packard Limited plant, now in its 16th day. Representative of the company and Local 525, United Auto Workers of America (UAW) will meet Ontario's chief conciliator, Louis Fine, Monday. Both company and union spokesmen welcomed the move.

Today's Chuckle
Too many politicians approach every problem with an open mouth.

Opposition Parties Clash

OTTAWA (CP)—To the obvious delight of cabinet ministers present, leaders of Opposition groups traded political punches Friday as the Commons moved slowly ahead on the government's National Energy Board bill.

In a sidelight to detailed study of the measure in committee, Hazen Argue, CCF House Leader, said the Liberals "got into bed with the government, but then the government embarrassed them by calling a vote on second reading (approval in principle) and putting them on record."

(Liberals voted with the government on second reading.)

"Now they want to extricate themselves from this very inept decision by trying to show how different they are from the government over matters of detail."

PEARSON DEFENDS STAND
This brought Opposition Leader Pearson to his feet with the statement that a series of Liberal amendments to various clauses of the bill is "designed to make the bill a better one."

"Unlike my honorable friends (the CCF) we are not content to make wild, general and vitriolic statements on second reading designed to attract the attention of the press."

Later, Mr. Argue moved that a provision be written into the bill requiring that the board grant pipeline certificates only to applicants that can show not less than 51 per cent of their common stock is held by residents of Canada, or by companies deemed by the board to be controlled in Canada.

ALREADY IN BILL
Trade Minister Churchill said the bill already instructs the board to consider the extent of Canadian participation in any applicant company.

The Liberals voted with the Progressive Conservatives to reject the CCF motion 65 to 3.

Mr. Pearson's Liberals chalked up one victory as the government acceded to their demands that the five members of the proposed National Energy Board have no conceivable financial interest in matters that may come before the board.

However, other amendments by both the Liberals and the CCF were voted down as the Commons in committee studied the bill clause by clause.

Two concerned making public the reports by the board to the cabinet on various aspects of its studies of energy sources.

At one point, Maurice Bourget (L—Levis) proposed an amendment that would have made it mandatory that all the board's reports and recommendations be published. The act says they may be made public with the approval of the trade minister.

to join the European organization since it would almost certainly be strengthened by the growth of trade and industrial power among the new seven.

But there can be no illusions that the proposed arrangement would be more than a second best. The existence of two rival trading blocs in Europe must inevitably limit their economic potential and carried the seeds of dangerous political rivalry.

The greatest benefits can only be realized if the new grouping provides the impetus for a free trade area embracing the whole of Western Europe, Canada and the United States.

OTHER MOTIVES?
Some observers, however, view the action as a bid by the canny British to produce a new Atlantic trading area, to include Canada and the United States, as a counter to the six-nation common market.

A result of this common market — formed by France, Italy, West Germany, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg — is a structure of discriminatory tariffs against outside exporters, including Britain.

Treasury officials, however, stress the lowered restrictions are not intended as a squeeze on the common market.

And it could be little more than coincidence that dollar trade barriers were lowered perceptibly on the eve of talks to set up a "little free trade area" with the Scandinavian countries, Austria, Switzerland and Portugal.

But it must be remembered that Canada and the United States are Britain's best customers and America is Europe's greatest source of outside capital. The British and the Swiss are the great bankers in Europe.

SEEDS OF RIVALRY
Thus the links that could lead to the Atlantic free trade area already exist. There would be no real need for Canada and the U.S.

trip was straight up and down.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker and President Eisenhower announced an agreement under which Canada's armed forces will get more information from the U.S. about defensive atomic weapons.

Diefenbaker's announcement, made in the House of Commons Monday, said the agreement will enable Canada to obtain some previously restricted data regarding military uses of atomic energy.

Eisenhower's follow-up announcement in Washington Tuesday said other, more limited agreements also had been reached between the U.S. and West Germany, Turkey and The Netherlands, the aim being to strengthen the North Atlantic alliance.

The Canadian agreement provides for information on "research, development and design of military reactors."

Couple Of Girl Monkeys Steal The Headlines

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A couple of girl monkeys, with the unromantic names Able and Baker, flew 300 miles above the earth at 10,000 miles an hour—and lived to chatter about it.

The animal astronauts were launched in a Jupiter ballistic missile from Cape Canaveral, Fla. Slung in their nose cone, they soared 1,700 miles southward along the Caribbean missile range to the vicinity of Antigua, where they were fished from ocean waters still alive and well.

Electronic instruments radioed information on how the monkeys reacted during the 15-minute flight. The information will be vitally important to the "mercury astronauts"—the seven men now training to be the first U.S. space travellers.

Able, a seven-pound rhesus monkey, and her pal Baker, a midjet monkey at one pound, are believed to be the first animals to survive a long-distance flight through space.

The Russian dog Laika died after a week aboard Sputnik II at a altitude reaching more than 1,000 miles. Two Russian dogs were sent to an altitude of 281 miles last year and were recovered unharmed. But that rocket trip was straight up and down.

ence in which he emphasized his hope that they would make enough progress at Geneva to justify a summit conference.

RETURN FLIGHT
Before leaving Geneva, the ministers had decided that remaining sessions would be held in secret and the return trip—with all four aboard the same aircraft—provided a unique opportunity to begin.

The 17-hour flight provided the setting for the first full-scale international conference session to be held, literally, in the clouds.

KHRUSHCHEV'S VISIT
Premier Khrushchev, in the midst of a 12-day tour of Albania, urged neighboring Greece to cut loose from NATO and become a neutralist country.

In one of many speeches, Khrushchev said the Soviet Union is ready to set up rocket bases in Albania and Bulgaria to match any the United States may establish in Italy or Greece. He called for a ban on nuclear weapons in the Balkan Peninsula to make it "a peninsula of peace."

Khrushchev's Albanian tour took on increased military significance with the arrival in the small Communist country of Defence Minister Peng Teh-huai of Communist China, on a junket

Show Business

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The 49th and 50th states are going to get their licks on TV sets starting next fall.

Two major film companies that have leaped into television are each planning a couple of telefilm series to feature the new states. Warners is coming up with an adventure, The Alaskans, and detective yarn, Hawaiian Eye.

Twentieth Century-Fox has its own Alaskan series, The Last Frontier, plus James A. Michener's Adventures in Paradise.

BIG, BIG SHOW
I wandered out to the Fox Islands to find out about the Michener series, said to be ABC's big, big show for 1959-60. It's an hour long, has a monumental budget and will come on Monday nights.

Hawaii is not the only locale for the series. It will roam all the South Pacific and subjects will range from a western about a big Hawaiian cattle ranch to a frost-bitten saga of the Antarctic.

Michener was here this week for a lulu of a luau to signal the start of the filming. With 21 script writers working on stories, the question arises: What does Michener do?

"He has written some story outlines," a spokesman said. "He also has complete script supervision."

LAVISH MUCH CARE
I visited the set where the second series chapter is being filmed and found the studio is lavishing almost as much care as on a feature.

The director is Robert Aldrich, who said the first of the series went nine days. That's remarkable for TV—"but you can't shoot fast when you're dealing with wind, water and boats, as well as actors," Aldrich said.

The star of Adventures in Paradise is handsome, six-foot-five Gardner McKay, a New York-born, Paris-educated lad kept under wraps by the studio until now. He's a real sailor, too, and still skips a 96-foot schooner for charter out of Newport Harbor.

MANSONVILLE —

The Woman's Association of the United Church met at the home of Mrs. Guy George. The usual business was conducted by Mrs. George with Mrs. Ernest Bradley giving the devotional reading. The next meeting, on June 3, will be held at the home of Mrs. Robert Young.

Tyrone Power Is Headliner In Premier Drama

A luxury liner sinks in mid-ocean and 26 survivors crowd a lifeboat which can hold only 12. One man must decide who will live and which will die. The desperate decision faces Tyrone Power in "Abandon Ship!" which opens at the Premier Theatre today.

And not far behind him, as far as dramatic honors are concerned, reportedly come co-star Mai Zetterling, as the ship's nurse in love with Power who must stand by and see him give the grim commands that wrench her very soul. Lloyd Nolan also co-stars, as the gravely injured deck officer whose heroic example contributes to Power's final decision. In "Abandon Ship!" a luxury liner strikes a mine in the shark-infested waters of the South Atlantic and sinks almost immediately. The one small boat that can be launched is swamped with the 26 survivors. Power, who assumes command, must resolve at gunpoint the grim life-and-death question of keeping everyone—the sick, the weak and the injured—in the little boat and risking the death of all, or of deliberately casting adrift the excess number so that the rest shall be saved. Once he has pronounced his desperate rules for survival, Power himself ultimately falls victim to them; wounded in a fight with a mutinous passenger, he brings his frail craft safely through a storm and then himself leaps overboard.

Seldom was an individual handed a more extreme dilemma; Power's decision is said to result in some of the most gripping drama ever put upon the screen. "Abandon Ship!" is based on fact. It happened.

Co-starred in "Abandon Ship!"

are Stephen Boyd as the pursuer who carries out Power's orders at gunpoint, until his soul rebels; Moira Lister as a faithless wife whose courage put every man to shame, and James Hayter as the ship's cook with 30 years at sea to help him survive this supreme crisis. Marie Lohr plays a retired opera star, one of those whose fate is in Power's hands.

No Contract Awarded For Garage Ramp

City attorney Albert Rivard, Q.C., said yesterday that awarding of the contract for the ramp from King street west to the Meadow street garage has not yet been made but that the project is being studied by city council members.

Mr. Rivard made this statement following reports that the contract for the ramp had been awarded.

Tenders for the proposed ramp were received by council members at last week's council meeting.

Out of four local companies asked for tenders, only two submitted.

The J. W. Roy construction firm, builders of the parking lot asked $21,463.30 while the Vincent Freres firm asked $22,438.

In last Tuesday's edition of the Record, due to an error amounts called for the construction of the ramp were reversed.

Pleads Guilty To Impaired Driving Count

Robert Pigeon of Montreal was fined $100 and costs and had his driving permit suspended for three months after he pleaded guilty to a charge of impaired driving before Judge Joseph Marier yesterday in Court of Sessions.

A Cookshire policeman, Henri Paul Bouliane, testified before the court that he arrested Pigeon about 11:30 a.m. Thursday morning after he noticed that the accused was driving a car in a zig-zag pattern through the main street of Cookshire.

Dr. Julien Rochefort of Sherbrooke, said that he went to the Court House jail to examine the patient and found that he was definitely impaired.

Gerard Belisle, of the Sherbrooke detachment of the provincial police, who drove the accused from the Cookshire police station to the Sherbrooke jail, testified that Pigeon had trouble to walk, he was so drunk.

Sgt. Eugene Morin of the provincial police at Sherbrooke, corroborated Belisle's testimony.

Pigeon had originally pleaded not guilty to the charge, but, when he found out that the Montreal lawyer he had called to defend him was unable to appear, changed his plea to that of guilty.

Local Fisherman Says:

Tying Own Fly Doubles Fishing Thrills

By NEVILLE HAMILTON

"A fisherman has never experienced the real thrill of his sport until he has seen the fish take the bait."

This was the opinion expressed by Roy Wiggett, local fisherman when interviewed in his den decorated with souvenirs of some 20 years of fishing campaigns.

However, the thrill experienced by Mr. Wiggett is twofold when he sees the silver arch break the water and hit the fly, for he knows that once more his hands, a couple of lengths of thread, a few hairs, wool and a feather have outwitted the fish. Mr. Wiggett ties his own flies.

Roy, as he is known to his many fishing and curling friends, began tying his own flies about 20 years ago. His only guide was a handbook that he picked up.

Since that time he has tied hundreds of flies and passed on his knowledge of the art to more than 50 Eastern Township fishermen.

MOSTLY ORIGINALS

Not all his flies are originals, although for the most part they are. As a rule he will just sit down and attempt to create as near a likeness to a fly as possible.

The average time for making a fly varies from five minutes to an hour, depending usually on the size. The process is not complicated and experienced hands turn out the finished product quickly.

With the hook clamped in his fly tying vise Roy winds a base cord around the hook. Body tinsel comprises the next layer which is all tied in at the back of the fly.

Now the process of building up the head starts. Tightly wound thread dipped in lacquer fills the order. Deer hair and feathers complete the product.

NATURAL COLORS

The colors used by Mr. Wiggett are natural rather than gaudy. He feels that a fish is more apt to strike a natural fly than one dressed up but admits that some fish—like some people—will go after an artificial imitation.

"Fish are quite selective," according to Mr. Wiggett. If there are live flies in the fishing area they will take the real thing.

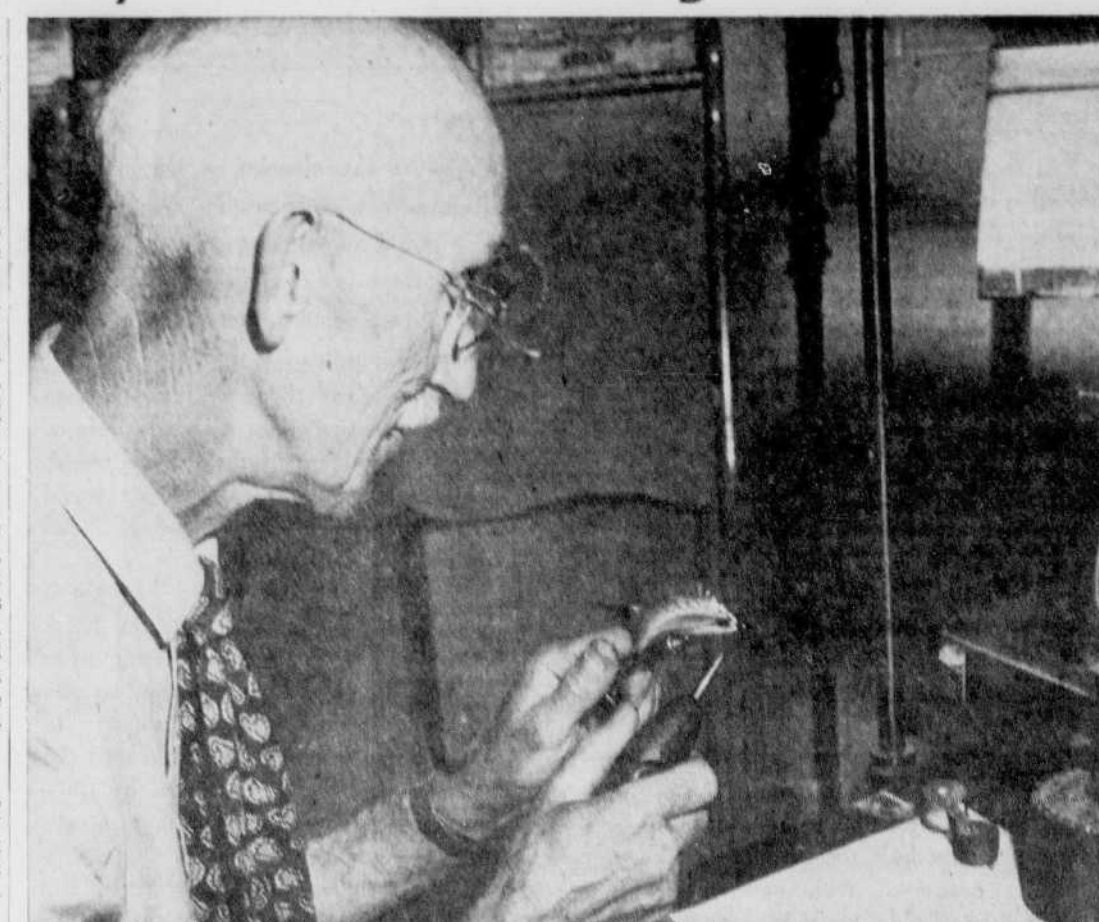

He also pointed out that every fish liked its own particular type of fly. Locally he recommends a streamer fly which is an imitation of minnows.

He also said the fly alone will not do the job. One must have the right pole, the right line and leader, and most of all, a man with know-how on the other end of the rod.

Mr. Wiggett fishes mainly for trout. He is a member of nearly all the local fish and game clubs as well as one up North.

TOO COLORFUL

SWITZERLAND, England (CP)—A house with a purple roof and yellow brickwork, proposed to be built in this Leicestershire village, has been banned by the housing ministry. It said the colors would be out of place and the design would not harmonize with the rest of the village.

Dedicated Team Works To Save Lives

The Sherbrooke Hospital campaign for funds in the Eastern Townships has been extended to allow canvassers to complete their calls. This article, especially written for the Sherbrooke Daily Record, describes some of the work of hospitals across the country. The campaign objective this year is $50,000.

By LUCY FREEMAN

The screech of brakes blasts the early morning quiet. It is followed by the shattering of glass and woman's screams.

Police whistles cut through the air and a few minutes later there sounds the low, warning siren of an ambulance. A man and woman are piled out of the wreckage that is car and tree, carried carelessly to the ambulance.

At the hospital, doctors and nurses quickly prepare to operate. The man has internal injuries and the woman's legs are broken. They are both in danger of bleeding to death from deep gashes.

The clock says 2 a.m. Four hours later the two accident victims are out of the operating room and sleeping quietly in hospital beds. Their lives have been saved by men and women who, not caring what the hour, have given of their skill and compassion so that others might survive.

This could happen daily in any community in Canada, and in many it does. To be ready for such an emergency, as well as to carry on the regular work of caring for people stricken by the thousand-and-one illnesses that plague mankind, the nation's 1,393 hospitals stand ready with lifesaving services from dawn to dawn.

Today more people require more hospital care than ever before. A record 2,721,016 were cared for in the hospitals of Canada last year, more than four times as many as 25 years ago. This figure will undoubtedly be topped in 1960.

Hospitals are big business, one of the country's major industries. They spend almost $500,000,000 a year for the care of the sick. Their investment in buildings and equipment totals $900,000,000. They employ almost 150,000 persons.

In this century too, the concept of a hospital has changed completely.

People once entered hospitals with horror. Today they enter with hope. Cinderella-like, they have changed into modern, spacious centers of health and healing for rich and poor alike.

Because of scientific advances, many persons now come out of hospitals fully recovered from illnesses that would have caused their death only decades ago.

In addition to lifesaving antibiotics, many pioneer surgical techniques have been devised and there are also new methods of detecting illness in early stages which are responsible for saving and prolonging many lives.

This is a nation of small hospitals—80 percent have less than 100 beds and there are only 40 hospitals with 500 beds or more. Each hospital must be a complete unit in itself, although some of the larger ones possess equipment which they share with nearby, smaller hospitals. Some of this equipment may be fabulously expensive, such as a $300,000 linear accelerator for cancer treatment.

So many expensive techniques and pieces of complicated equipment are needed today for physicians to diagnose and treat illness that it would be costly and highly impractical for each doctor to provide all of them in his office. It would cost at least $80,000 for a doctor to set up his own laboratory and facilities. Thus, the hospital serves to bring together in one place all the equipment, personnel and facilities a doctor needs.

The hospital is the most important building in town because it deals with life and death. Many a hospital is a town in itself, containing cafeteria, drug-store, gift shop, beauty parlor, florist, barber, laundry, library, nursery and chapel in addition to the essential services of patients' rooms, operating rooms, research laboratories and diagnostic facilities.

Most of the hospitals in this country are the non-profit, voluntary general hospitals and their government rests in trustees. There are hundreds of trustees throughout the nation, public-minded men and women who give time and energy without pay to improve community health.

Tens of thousands of women volunteers form the organized auxiliaries in Canada. These women help make hospitals more pleasant and efficient by bringing book-carts to the bedside, answering questions, mailing letters, reading to children and doing clerical jobs. They relieve professional personnel for more skilled work.

The dedication of trustees and auxiliaries is matched by those employed in hospitals. The spirit of every hospital, be it a city colossus or small country hospital in the hills, is the same.

Instances of unexplained relapses serve only to inspire doctors to work more ardently to search for the answers to unsolved enigmas of illness.

Still A Bargain

It used to be that economists told their students that one of the natural by-products of greater industrial productivity was a lowering of prices to "spread the market."

But through the long upward swing of prices during and since World War II with occasional dips and plateaus of varying duration — we've not heard too much of that kind of talk. Yet there still are examples around of that old theme song of the economists.

No more striking one exists than that of the long-playing record. This remarkable black wafer of vinyl plastic, roughly 12 inches across, not only gives far more music than one could ever get for the same price in the old days; it has just about revolutionized both popular and specialized appreciation of music and the spoken word.

For about half the price of a bulky album crammed with up to half a dozen breakable records, one gets a disk that offers 20 to 30 minutes of music, drama, poetry or whatever on each side.

In the popular music field, this means instead of listening for three minutes and then popping up to flip the record over, a whole recital of six to eight numbers rolls off on a single side.

New Maritime Wonder

To those who know the Maritimes, it will come as no surprise to learn that Federal government consideration is being given to a "street" that will have low tide on one side and high tide on the other.

The "street" is the oft-mooted eight-mile causeway linking Prince Edward Island with the mainland.

Public Works Minister Green disclosed in the Commons last week that the building of such a roadway would cause a spectacular change in the tidal flows.

"A causeway," he said, "would

As for the classics, a single vinyl often offers two whole symphonies, or a broad assortment of short pieces. Two records frequently cover an opera. Ten or a dozen disks give all the piano music of Chopin.

One, two or three will usually record almost any play, plus all kinds of added adventures in the spoken word. Great performances can be preserved for future enjoyment, indeed, for unborn generations.

The long-playing record brought a tremendous boom to the record field, with countless independent companies coming in. Aside from the strictly economic aspects, this has meant:

1. Appreciation of the best in popular and serious music by millions who never knew it well, or at all, before.

2. To satisfy the appetite of the long-playing record and the many competing firms, a great delving into music to record countless pieces seldom if ever heard before, even in concert halls. This has enlarged musical understanding for both specialists and the general public alike.

So what's this about there being no bargains any more in this price-happy civilization of ours?

completely change the phases of the tide at the crossing, so that high tides on one side would coincide with low tide on the other side, creating a condition where there would be up to 10 feet differential in head on opposite sides of the causeway."

Such a development would rival that other Maritime wonder, the reversing falls at Saint John, N.B.

For the Spud Islanders of Prince Edward Island at least, this would provide sufficient reason for building the causeway apart from other benefits.

Royal, Ancient And Hazardous

The hoarse cry of "Fore" echoes throughout the land these days — that annual and pleasant madness known as golf has hit us again.

Like just about any other sporting pastime, golf has its hazards, but unlike most others, many golfing hazards are built into the game for added "enjoyment."

But there are others, which, while not technically speaking part of the royal and ancient game, are nevertheless peculiar to those who tread the world's fairways and greens.

The other day, for example, a golfer at St. Mary's, Scilly Isles, received first aid at the clubhouse after being bitten by a pig. It bit him when he went to recover his ball from a field adjoining the course.

Not many golfers can match this particular experience, or would want to. But nearly all, from duffer to seasoned pro, can tell just as weird tales involving gopher holes, wild golf balls, cows and of course, the coughing partner.

A few golfers can tour the complete 18 holes without mishap, only to encounter the inevitable hazards of the 19th.

"Now About the Chairs..."

Saturday's Sermon:

Sunrise And.....

BY REV. B. S. MURRAY, M.A.

MAY AND JUNE ARE BEGINNINGS

From my bedroom window each morning I can see the powerful king of the day begin his reign in the east. His name? King Sol though there are those who simply call him "Brother Sun".

LIKE A..... This morning as I watched this daily miracle, I recalled that blind clerical friend of mine who once asked me to describe for him a sunrise and how feeble my attempt was. A fisherman did far better with his depicting the sunrise as "a lobster, boiled, as the sky turns from black to red".

Nor did I stop there. I remembered that time when on an Easter Townships sunnylea, a friend of mine who admired roses referred to the colors of the sunrise ranging from gray to a rosy hue as "like a rose, soft and sweet, large and luminous". Then I shall always remember that morn down by the sea when my companion and I arose quite early to see the sun rise up from the sea. "There!" he shouted, "it looks like a blossoming tree!" And it did! I am aware that the foregoing descriptions are homespunish and limited unlike that of Shakespeare, Byron, Wordsworth and a Thomson. I like Joseph Addison (1672 - 1719) lines referring to "the unwearied sun" which "from day to day, does his Creator's power display, and published to every land the work of an almighty hand". Words however majestic are inadequate; the sunrise must be seen!

WALK WITH GOD How to all such happy adventurers I repeat what their parents and teachers have so often reminded them, namely, that God has a niche for them to fill. Think of it! God has a high plan and purpose for you in life! Walk with Him and learn His ways.

You — no matter what your age — can do just that. In so doing you will renew your youth like the eagles (Psalm 103: 5). Why not resolve to accept this challenge and make your life a tremendous adventure with much that is novel, unspoiled, exciting?

TWO ALL-TIME GREATS

That's the story we glean from the lives of the great and near great, those who walk the green Road of the Never-Old. At the head of this long procession walks the greatest Englishman of all time, Sir Winston Churchill. This great realist — optimist has the spirit of eternal youth tarrying in his heart.

If from the twentieth century we travel back to the first century, we shall meet another all-time great named Paul — the servant of Jesus Christ! who when even in the Mamertine prison at the age of three score and ten years, yet refused to allow Time to outstrip him! His look was forward though he could look backward and recount an impressive list of splendid and heroic deeds. Still he insisted on forgetting those things which are behind" (Phil. 3: 13, 14) and instead anticipate and accentuate those things which are before". And in that habit lies the secret of eternal youth.

I am well aware that one cannot do at seventy the things he could do at twenty but he ought to be able to do things that are better worth doing. Beware then lest we forget that it is always possible for you and me to do something worth while today and to plan for something better for tomorrow and if we do that we can keep young for ever.

"SUN OF MY SOUL" From this meditation on Sunrise, I hope you will be inspired to spread sunshine wherever you go thereby brightening that corner. And don't forget that sunshine is a matter of attitude. Somewhere the sun shines; somewhere the song birds sing, hush! then thy sad repining, God lives and loves and all is well, Alleluia! we have a Saviour whom the Rev. John Keble, 1820, immortalized as "Sun of my Soul" and Malachi as "the Sun of Righteousness" (Mal 4: 2). With Him shining

OPENING LEAD SLOWS NO ONE

West's opening heart bid is not recommended and it did not do him any good. North and South had no trouble getting to game against it.

South took East's king of hearts with the ace and promptly lost the diamond finesse. The four of hearts return accounted for South's nine and West's jack and for want of anything better to do West threw dummy in with a diamond.

South ran the diamond suit and discarded two spades and two clubs from his hand while West let two hearts and two spades go.

South had a pretty good count of West's hand by this time. West was marked with two hearts, two clubs and a spade. South was pretty sure that West's spade was the king so he simply played his ace of spades and was disappointed when the jack and not the king appeared.

However, it made no real difference. Since West did not hold the spade king he had to hold the ace and king of clubs. The queen of clubs put West in the lead and after cashing his two high clubs he had to give South two heart tricks for his contract.

Gerald Waring REPORTING

OTTAWA — Without having to look too hard, you can find some reason for reservations about Prime Minister Diefenbaker's recent statement that "Canada has never been in better shape", and that 1959 will be "a banner year of economic achievement".

But at the same time the PM's optimism deserves more than dismissal as political propaganda aimed at the voters in various provincial elections. So many of the indicators of economic activity show gains that it is obvious the country is in better economic shape than it has been for many months.

The recession is becoming little more than a memory. And Diefenbaker points this up in a peculiar way: by referring to last year's business downturn as a recession.

While the recession was on, Diefenbaker scrupulously refrained from labeling it as such — for psychological reasons, economic and political. Now that the recession is over, he admits it really was a recession — and, of course, claims credit for charting the country's course through it.

Thus belatedly the "pause in expansion", the "breather", the "economic plateau" of yesterday is given official recognition for what it was.

On the bright side, employment has picked up almost spectacularly. At the peak of the winter's economic slowdown one out of every 10 workers was unemployed. By April 18 only 7.3 per cent of the labor force was out of work, and now, six weeks later, the figure may be down to six per cent or less.

Statisticians, who are cautious about interpreting their findings, say the increase in April was "significantly greater" than is normal, and that the increase in non-farm employment is about double what is normal for April.

This obviously reflects higher industrial output, and on checking the index for industrial production we find that it hit an all-time high in February. True, it dropped fractionally in March — perhaps only a levelling out as the pressure of inventory buildup, the main cause of the production boost, eased off.

A willingness of buyers to amass inventory is a certain sign of business optimism, at least in the short range.

In any human heart, any gloom caused by sin, sorrow, need, sickness, unbelief and any other cause will eventually be dissipated.

Often when I remind myself that it is only possible to see the sun through the tapestry of the clouds, I feel disposed to "kiss the cross" and thank God for those temporary "clouds" of suffering, sorrow, and what not, behind which He hides a smiling face (John 13: 7), and on I go across the years smiling through. Shine on then, Thou "Sun of my Soul, Thou Saviour dear"! Thee I will never doubt though Thou veil Thy light. Without Thee, life is dark; with Thee Death is bright; Light of Light! shine o'er us on our pilgrim way at the same time displaying more and more of Thyself "shining to the perfect day".

These and other thoughts, too, seeth through my mind as I meditate on SUNRISE and GOD.

Despite the uncertainties of current base metal markets and future uranium markets, mining production is reported to be up four per cent. Manufacturing is up five per cent, lumber up 11, electricity and gas up 13, motor vehicles up 16, and steel, up 17, is approaching capacity.

Labor income is seven per cent higher than it was in the first quarter of 1958, and this is supporting a six per cent higher level of consumer spending. For example, department store sales were up 6.4 per cent in the first three months.

But despite the upward trend in the economy, the forces of inflation appear to be under control in the consumer field. During each of the last five months the consumer price index has declined slightly — mainly because of dropping food prices — so that last month the index was only two-tenths of a point higher than in April, 1958.

Where inflation is hitting and hurting is in the cost of money. Interest rates are inflated due to heavy government and commercial borrowing, the banks are restricting credit, and full recovery from the recession is being slowed by repressive monetary influences on house building and production generally.

Letter To Editor

The Editor, Sherbrooke Daily Record, Dear Sir:

Good grief! Alderman Antonio Pinard wants Sherbrooke to annex part of Lennoxville! I was in Sherbrooke. Sixty thousand or so people seem to like Sherbrooke; this is their privilege, I don't. Among other things, my wife could be arrested for sweeping the front steps in shorts. I settled in Lennoxville, as soon as I was able to buy a home, to escape from Sherbrooke. Any part of Lennoxville will be annexed over my dead body.

Freedom Lover. (Name Withheld)

Matter of FACT

Although he is always called an Englishman of letters, the 18th century author, Oliver Goldsmith, was born and educated in Ireland. He was born in 1728 at Elphin, Roscommon, Ireland, of Saxon parents. His father was a clergyman. At Trinity College, Dublin, he ranked near the lowest in his class, but he finally earned a bachelor's degree.

QUEBEC (CP) — Production of creamery butter and cheddar cheese during April showed sharp increases from the previous month, the Quebec bureau of statistics reported.

During April 7,806,000 pounds of butter were produced. This compares with 2,738,000 pounds in March and 8,481,000 pounds in April, 1958. This year's four-month total is 13,971,000 pounds, below the 16,154,000 pounds produced in the same period a year ago.

Cheese production totalled 1,334,000 pounds in April, an increase over the 748,000 pounds produced in March but a decrease from the 1,846,000 pounds produced in April last year. Through this April production totalled 3,028,000 pounds, down from the 4,023,000 pounds produced in the first four months of 1958.

Fish Dynamiting Charge Dismissed On Technicality

Lionel and Adrienne Cote, both of Windsor Mills, charged with illegal fishing were acquitted yesterday in Court of Sessions by Judge Joseph Marier.

The charge was dismissed on a technicality but according to Judge Marier a new charge against the men could be drawn up.

The brothers were accused of using dynamite to fish. Charges were dismissed when the defence claimed that they could not be tried for the offence within three days of the signing of the charges because they lived 15 miles from the court house.

The defence also claimed that for every additional five miles from the court house exceeding the original 15, the accused should be granted one extra day.

It also demanded that the CBC adopt precise rules that would assure respect for Quebec's "spiritual, religious, moral and nationalistic traditions."

Among those attending the meeting, called by Le Comité Canadien de Recherches Sociales (Canadian Committee for Social Research) were committee President Gerard Gauthier and Progressive Conservative members of Parliament Remi Paul and Louis Joseph Pigeon.

The meeting asked that a Quebec provincial body be given all necessary powers to legislate in the radio and television field, to oversee all broadcasting stations in Quebec, and to promote the use of radio and television in educational institutions.

COATCOOK — Firemen rushing to the scene of a fire is a fairly common sight and causes little excitement, but the sight of a fire hurrying to the fire station is something else.

This happened the other day when a truck hauling refuse to the town dump caught fire. The driver, hoping to save his truck, drove it, flaming load and all, to the fire station. There the firemen quickly got the blaze under control.

The driver then proceeded to return to the dump with his load, the fire truck following for safety measure. En route the flames broke out again, treating the citizens to yet another strange sight, that of their town fire-fighters pursuing a fire, which refused to stand still to be put out.

Coaticook firemen are paid for every occasion they are called to the scene of a blaze. One wonders if they are paid less when the fire comes to them? Or again are they paid more if they have to chase a fire before they can put it out?

MAGOG — At a meeting of the City Council Tuesday night, the present zoning by-law was amended to permit St. Patrick's School to progress with its expansion program.

The present law states that the building must be at least 10 feet from the town line but this has been reduced to six. The school is adding a new gymnasium.

Following two earlier sessions which ended with no decision, the Council decided to purchase a tractor loader and a back digger from Mussen of Canada Ltd.

A proposal was also forwarded asking the Council to authorize the purchase of pipes and sewer accessories for sewer construction.

The Council members paid tribute to Secretary-Treasurer Roger Boudreau instructing him to record the expression of thanks for his fine publicity work in the minutes of the meeting.

Canada Aids Turks Greeks

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada has supplied 30 per cent of the material strength of the Greek air force and 17 per cent of the Turkish.

These figures were given recently to a United States congressional committee by Gen. Lauris Norstad, supreme Allied commander in Europe, to demonstrate the effectiveness of NATO's mutual aid program.

An RCAF spokesman said Friday that Canada has given more than $73,000,000 worth of air force equipment to Greece and more than $80,000,000 worth to Turkey.

Since NATO was formed 10 years ago, Canada has supplied its European allies with $1,600,000,000 worth of arms. Most of this equipment came out of pre-1950 stocks which were surplus to Canadian needs.

Besides this arms program, Canada under mutual aid has transferred more than 5,500 NATO aircraft in this country. It also contributes to the NATO program in Europe for construction of airfields, pipelines and the like.

Industrial also have fallen into a familiar pattern, swinging ahead in early trading then backing off from their peaks as the session nears the close.

Industrial groups were mainly mixed. Banks and papers had the best gains while pipelines were easier. Hinde and Dauch paper jumped $12.50 to $66.50.

Ogilvie Flour Mills raised its quarterly dividend to 50 cents from 35 and the stock gained $4.87½ to $48.87½. Bank of Commerce added $2.37½ to $64.37½ with most of the rise coming Friday.

Steel Company of Canada added $1.75 to $77.75. The company announced a new iron-making process enabling increased output from present blast furnaces.

The big loss went to Goodyear Tire, down $18 at $170 on a few sales.

Gold was slightly up on the week while base metals were somewhat easier. Uranium were active and lower.

Index changes at Toronto: Industrials up 3.10 to 529.25; golds up 23 to 93.94; base metals off 22 to 174.26; western oils off 3.55 to 124.57.

Index changes at Montreal: Banks up .96 to 66.85; utilities off 1.8 to 156.1; industrials up 2.55 to 313.2; combined up 1.1 to 260.8; papers up 2.5 to 437.1; golds up .98 to 91.44.

Spotlight On Business

Trading was dull and spotty but Canadian stock exchanges, based on the performance of industrials, struggled to a narrow gain in light trading this week.

Some observers felt the markets were in the midst of a period of consolidation, prior to another advance. But others felt investors have become cautious in selection of investments.

On the week industrials at Toronto were up more than three points, their best gain in six weeks. However while New York continues to beat to record peaks Canadian markets lag and the industrial index at Toronto hasn't broken through to a new high since March 5 when it touched 537.14. The index closed this week at 529.25.

Western oils were the week's big losers as they closed at 1950 lows five straight days. They lost more than 3½ points on the week and with an index reading of 124.57.

Industrial also have fallen into a familiar pattern, swinging ahead in early trading then backing off from their peaks as the session nears the close.

Thetford Mines H. And S. Holds Annual Meeting

THETFORD MINES —The final meeting of the Home and School Association was held in the High School auditorium with the president, C. G. Bourne, presiding. The secretary, Mrs. H. Griffiths, read the minutes and the treasurer, W. R. Cooling, gave the financial report for the year.

Correspondence included a report from Frank Thurston on behalf of the committee which had been set up to look into needs of the new school. The suggestion was made that the Home and School undertake the project of furnishing the teacher's room in the new school. After discussion it was decided to leave the question to the new executive next fall.

Lorne Taylor and J. Massant will be in charge of the bicycle tests. A grant was voted towards the dinner for the graduates. In charge are Mrs. Ian Campbell, Mrs. J. McFadden and Mrs. J. R. Power.

The question of school uniforms was also left for decision by the new executive. The nominating committee brought in the following slate of officers, which was unanimously accepted: President, R. J. Merrill; first vice-president, R. Moore; second vice-president, Marcel Michaud; recording secretary, Mrs. O. H. Adams; corresponding secretary, Mrs. R. S. Coleman, and treasurer, G. Kuyt.

In the absence of Mr. Merrill and Mr. Moore, Mr. Michaud took the chair for the closing of the meeting. A vote of thanks to the outgoing executive, C. G. Bourne, George Moad, Miss A. Rahal, Mrs. H. Griffiths, Mrs. F. Cunningham and W. R. Cooling, was tendered by Mrs. O. H. Adams.

How the armor of righteousness enables man to withstand the attacks of evil will be brought out at the services in the Christian Science churches this Sunday.

In the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Ancient and Modern Necromancy, alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced," passages read from the Bible will include (Ephesians 6:11): "Put on the whole armor of God, that ye may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil."

Correlative passages to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy include: "At all times and under all circumstances, overcome evil with good. Know thyself, and God will supply the wisdom and the occasion for a victory over evil. Clad in the panoply of Love, human hatred cannot reach you. The element of a higher humanity will unite all interests in the one divinity."

Beauty Tips

When you want a quick facial pickup, splash your face with cold water. This is an inexpensive way to bring out the glow in your cheeks. And cold water also can make tired eyes perk up.

HEALTHY SALADS

Lettuce for salads provides rich quantities of vitamins and minerals, as well as iodine.

Refrigerator Won't Keep Bread Fresh

Don't put bread in the refrigerator if you want it to stay fresh for a long period.

The best method to keep bread fresh is to freeze it in its original wrapper. If you have a home freezer, and if it isn't crammed full with a dozen other food items, then by all means, freeze the bread.

According to the Bakery Foods Foundation of Canada, keeping bread at the refrigerator temperature is the least desirable method of storing bread.

The best method, next to freezing, is to keep bread, again in its original wrapper, in a metal box at room temperature.

CLEANING HINT

The breadbox should be kept clean and dry to prevent bread mould. For odorless cleaning, use baking soda instead of soap or vinegar in the rinse water.

Frozen bread has many advantages. The bread slices easily with a sharp knife and it toasts well even without thawing.

Frozen bread is ideal too for sandwiches which are carried to work or on picnics. The cool bread helps keep the sandwich filling fresh until lunch time. Bread puddings may also be made successfully with frozen bread.

Cakes may be frozen successfully too. Plain or butter-frosted cakes should be wrapped in moisture-proof paper. Cutting a large cake before freezing will cut down the thawing time considerably.

Cakes with whipped cream or cream filling should be stored in the refrigerator until used.

Frozen cakes should be thawed at room temperature and used within a day or two.

Bread and cake should be fresh when frozen since freezing will not freshen the food.

FOOD MARKING

Would Canadian housewives buy lower grades of food if brands were marked Grades A, B, C and D instead of fancy, choice, standard and sub-standard?

A resolution of the Canadian Association of Consumers calls for a numerical or alphabet marking system for canned and frozen fruit and vegetables.

Marketing experts of the department of agriculture agree with the suggested marking system for such food items as butter, since most of it is top grade. But the officials are worried about the stigma on lower grades of other foods such as beef. They argue that all beef is good for its intended purpose but that the alphabet system infers the lower grades are not as palatable.

The experts also believe that Canadian grade names conform to trade practice on the international market.

Maple Syrup Purchasers Warned to Check Labels

Canadian consumers are being warned to check carefully when making purchases of maple syrup.

The housewife buying maple syrup anywhere, particularly at her door, should be wary of unlabelled or mislabelled products, says F. R. Armstrong of the Fruit and Vegetable Division, Canada Department of Agriculture.

His warning comes on the heels of a conviction under the Maple Products Industry Act.

A Nicolet County, Quebec, man pleaded guilty at Matheson, Ont., to selling a colorable imitation of a maple product which was not marked with the words "artificially maple flavored" and to using the words "maple" on a product other than a pure maple product. He paid a total of $207 in fines and costs on the two counts.

REQUIREMENTS

The Act stipulates that the common name of a maple product shall appear on the main label, together with the name and address of the manufacturing or packing plant or of the sugar bush and, if licensed, the licence number.

Mr. Armstrong points out a

Home Gardener's Notebook —

Forest Giants Offer Overpower Homes

By ALLAN SWENSON

Oversize oaks from tiny acorns may grow — unfortunately. This is all too true for thousands of families whose homes are now dwarfed by towering trees.

American families seem to prefer rambling ranch style and other low-silhouette homes, as a drive through most suburbs reveals. For pleasant proportions in landscaping, little trees suit these homes.

Trees and shrubs grow faster than we think. An elm sapling just 16 feet when planted can top 40 feet in six years. Trim evergreens that grace a doorway can rise to block path and view. Planning can prevent these problems.

Homeowners have a wide variety of small and medium trees available for balance and framing.

Birch and hornbeam, ginkgo and maples can add accents to your lawn. Redbud, dogwoods, crabapples and cherries add color.

All are available in varieties that mature to less than 30 feet. Some trees have appeal for their showy flowers. Some are favorites for their shapes and leaves. Others combine flowering splendor with attractive shapes plus autumn color too.

Even established landscaping needs periodic checks. Faster growing trees or shrubs may need a trim. Others, victims of their natural enemies or storms, should be replaced.

For evergreen foliage, your choice ranges from arbutus to yews. Taller types include the pines and spruces.

Shade trees serve a different need. Some grow quickly, others take their time. A reputable nurseryman can generally help you pick the ones that do best according to your locality.

For gardeners with a yen for fruit, smaller trees are gaining acclaim. Research has developed new varieties, especially dwarf apples which do well in smaller yards. The fruit is its regular size, it's just the tree that's smaller.

All good trees need good care. Periodic pruning, sprays and fertilizer are important.

With fruit trees, bugs can be a problem. But aphids, mites, insects and disease can be controlled with chemicals. But this means more time and closer care to get the best results.

Well chosen trees can grace your home, provide refreshing shade and seclusion. Wise selection will give you many years of lovelier landscaping.

3rd Lacombe Draw Made

National popularity of the Lacombe breed of swine has been emphasized by the fact that a third public draw attracted 441 completed applications.

Of 268 applications for breeding groups—consisting of one boar and three gilts—there were 37 draws. Distribution was as follows: British Columbia, one; Alberta, 12; Saskatchewan, five; Manitoba, six; Ontario, 11; Quebec and New Brunswick, one each.

Eighty-three of 173 applications for single boars were drawn with 41 going to Alberta breeders, 16 to Saskatchewan, 15 to Manitoba, and 11 to Ontario.

This new breed was developed at the Canada Department of Agriculture Lacombe, Alta., experimental farm, from crosses involving Berkshire, Landrace and Chester White breeds. Selection from the hybrid foundation started in 1947 and was climaxed ten years later by official recognition as a new breed with the name "Lacombe."

The first distribution of 50 boars was made in 1957.

Do-It-Yourself

Summer No Time To Relax Those Safety Routines

BY MR. FIN

Something is cooking in a good many garages this summer, and it hots up to a dish of potential, and very real, trouble.

That "something" is the careless way many of us have of stockpiling all our oddments in the garage.

Flammable liquids, chemicals, pressurized bug bombs and sprays, paper, old rags, OILY rags, wood scrap and power mower fuel; all jammed into the unventilated, sun-drenched, fire-prone garage.

Chances are there'll be a few cans of paint and some paint thinner, too.

What to do about it is to have a drastic housecleaning. Rack the foot-puncturing yard tools, get airtight cans for oily rags, scrap the scrap and remove pressure-packed spray-type articles to ceiling-high shelves in the basement, if your garage is a real sizzler.

You might, too, consider installing louver-like ventilators in the roof peaks of the garage for purposes of ventilation.

Ideally, power mower fuel should be kept in a ventilated, locked shed away from house or garage, but perhaps that is too much to hope for. At the very least, buy containers especially designed for gasoline storage. No more of those gallon jugs with a hank of cloth for a stopper.

Your army of efficient chemical garden aids has one drawback: most of the "soldiers" are potentially toxic to humans and animals, too.

Shelve them out of reach of small fry, preferably in locked cupboards, ventilated so that heat won't build up.

Read those labels and DON'T transfer substances to unlabeled containers. In case of trouble

Smoldering summer can cook up a mess of potential trouble if your garage is a catch-all for combustible material.

you'll want first-aid information, fast.

Many crabgrass killers contain phenyl mercury compounds. They're very poisonous, particularly in liquid form. Buy only what you need at one time.

Arsonate-based chemicals require extreme care in handling, too.

Never apply any of the garden chemicals into the wind, either in liquid or powder form. "Drift" of spray or powder can do you no good at all, if you get in mouth, nose and eyes or in concentration on the skin.

Back to that garage, again; long enough to haul the power mower or cultivator out into the cool your own motor. Both procedures are lifesavers.

And keep that spark plug disconnected when the machine is not in use. Protect children and nosy adults, too, against themselves.

Q—What would make a rotary-type electric hand saw swerve away from the cutting line and stall, frequently? — L. K.

A—Could be shaft trouble, but most likely the simplest explanation is the correct one; a full blade. Keep those saw blades sharp. Dull cutting tools are especially dangerous cutting tools.

Y'S MEN'S TRACK AND FIELD MEET SUCCESS

Despite the fact that Physical Director Sam Abbott of Bishop's College School told us last week at the meeting of the Sherbrooke Y's Men's Club that his squad competing in the annual track and field meet would have plenty of trouble in retaining the Skinner Trophy they seemed to have done pretty good.

Sam said that the boys were not taking track serious and he didn't know how they would figure in the meet. From the looks of the results it would appear it is a good thing for the rest of the schools that the boys from BCS didn't buckle down to real hard training.

Knowing Sam we figured that the purple and white squad would cop the honors once again and that was just what they did. They completed it in fine style and almost doubled the count on the second-place Stanstead College team.

Dale Munkittrick of Stanstead walked off with the individual honors in the junior section winning the Sherbrooke General Sports Commission Trophy for the athlete winning the most points in the meet and at the same time he won the J. S. Mitchell Trophy in his own class.

We attended the meet in the morning and at that time it was close but commencing in the afternoon BCS began to pull away from the field. The boys from the Y's Men's Club had everything pretty well under command and they did a wonderful job in running the meet.

It was a hard day's work for one and all but President Don Griffin and his staff along with their extra helpers deserve a lot of credit for their outstanding work. Congratulations to the Y's Men's Club.

We received a little note from R. E. Martin, PRO for the Corporation of Professional Engineers of Quebec, regarding their coming golf tournament. He claims that owing to the large number of entries they had last year it will be held over two days this year.

The event will be played over the Grand Mere Golf Club on Friday and Saturday, June 19-20. It is the sixth annual tourney and another good crowd is expected. So don't forget to forward your entry in plenty of time to be allotted a starting time.

The annual Summer Curling Bonspiel opened last night and will run through until the finals next Saturday. A record number of rinks have entered, in fact 74, which seems hard to believe especially at this time of the year.

This year's event is being run in conjunction with the 100th anniversary of the club's sponsor, the Canada Paper Company. Special committees will be on hand to welcome the curlers and everyone taking part in it will see a souvenir of the occasion. Some of the top curlers of the Province will be on hand and we believe that despite all that some very good curling will be witnessed.

The tourney is a high-plus event with the top rinks meeting next Saturday morning to fight it out for a berth in the finals. A dance will be held for the closing and we are sure that everyone there will have a grand time. So curlers keep tossing and may the best rink win.

The answer to a request regarding coverage on the Provincial Baseball League is simple, no reports. As far as the importance of the circuit that is a matter of opinion but if the teams concerned would send in something on their clubs we would be only too pleased to print it. Trust that this will answer your note.

We received a few samples of the Carling's Fishermen's Guide and we think that it is one of the most useful books we have had the opportunity of glancing through. They are available in French and English and all fishermen should have one.

If anyone is interested in securing one they can contact Carling's Brewery or drop us a note and we will see that they receive one. The Guide will be very handy for the boys who spend their time on the lakes, brooks and rivers.

See where the Nominique Association has taken the lead in Molson's Fishing Tournament by entering twelve fish only. They must have landed some whoppers.

Director Richmond Pelletier wishes to remind all contestants that enter any of the thirteen species listed on the program. Fish caught in derbies and tagged fish are eligible as well. So fishermen don't forget to enter your prize fish they help you to some handy cash.

Two good programs are on the agenda for racing fans judging from the list of starters. Tonight's fixture seems to be a good one with some new horses in the field. Tomorrow's card is the one which was slated for last Sunday but was postponed owing to the poor weather.

Tonight's card is the first one to be staged on Saturday and it looks as though it should be a real thriller. Racing secretary Lionel Racicot is lining up some good classes and the results during the past cards have been very well balanced. There has been no run-aways in any of the classes and some of them have been a battle right to the wire.

This seems to have the approval of the bettors as they have been laying out a little more greenbacks than they did last year. At present the figures are way ahead of last season for the same number of programs and this points to a good year ahead. Post Time is 8.15 and 2.15.

FINSTERWALD'S GOLF ... No. 28

The Five Fundamentals

By DOW FINSTERWALD
PGA Champion

GOLF isn't really a most difficult game.

Players just make it seem that way. There are just five fundamentals to be mastered. Once the player has grasped them, he can make real progress. The fundamentals are the grip, stance, arm action, wrist action and pivot, or body action.

You don't, in fact you shouldn't have to think of all five of these basic things while making a shot, or even spend a great deal of time thinking about them between shots. They should be mastered through practice until they become second nature, instinctive.

Some of the fundamentals will come to you naturally. Others will seem unnatural and will require your deepest concentration in practice until you can do them subconsciously at shot time.

REMEMBER WHEN ...

Horses from the stable of Harry C. Hatch captured three of the first four positions in the 85th running of the then King's Plate 15 years ago today at Toronto. His Acara was the winner, and stablemates Omphale and Sayonara were second and fourth. The racehorse breeder, who died in 1946, altogether won the Canadian turf classic five times with Monsoon in 1936, Goldure in 1937, Budpath in 1941, Acara in 1944 and Uttermost in 1945.

Racing Card Slated For This Evening At 8.15

Several New Horses On Agenda For Weekend Cards; Two Top Juveniles Start Tonight; Sunday's Is Repeat

The first Saturday evening card at the local track will be staged tonight with a full program of ten classes on the agenda. Sunday afternoon another good card will be presented.

The main event tonight will see Fabi's Merrie Darnleyson making her first start. Fern Desrochers will be in the sulky. Sir Tony will also going with Guy Desrochers up. Another top favorite is Silver Connie from Montreal. Larry Chief with owner Cyrille Mathieu of Beecher Falls, Vt., is another which should add plenty of interest to the card. Henri Fillion will be starting Ginger Chips Belle.

On this evening's card two of the outstanding two-year-olds in the Province, Emily Frost and Joy Frost, who will be driven by Bob Duffault. Both these two horses are eligible for the Juvenile Championship Stake this summer and are offsprings of Direct Rhythm.

Joy Frost is a trotter which is something rare as the majority of Direct Rhythm's colts are pacers but despite the fact great things are expected from this top juvenile. This is the first time that such top horses have been seen at the local track.

The Sunday card is the same which was scheduled for last week and was postponed owing to the inclement weather. If the first two programs are any indication then the coming season should be one of the best ever held here. The attendance and betting is up over last year's figures and everything points to a boom season.

The main class tomorrow Able Gallon will face a tough class of pacers in William West Kyer, U.N.O. Boom Boom Bumpas, a favorite among local fans, Dixie's Boy and finally Gettsbourg, who will be driven by Robert Jutra.

Joe Adcock On Spree

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

When it comes to spectacular hitting, Joe Adcock's your man. The big Milwaukee first baseman was the last slugger to walk-pot four home runs in one game in the majors, jolting them against the Dodgers back in Brooklyn in 1954.

He also was the only hitter ever to put a home run over the left field stands in Brooklyn's Ebbets Field, back in 1956. Three years earlier he had become the only power guy ever to reach the centrefield seats at New York's Polo Grounds, belting a 475-foot drive.

Then, just last Tuesday, it was Billy Joe who hit the RBI, rulebook double for the Braves' lone hit as they beat Pittsburgh and Harvey Haddix 1-0 in 13 innings.

Adcock did it again Friday night. This time he reached across the plate to hit a wide pitch as Philadelphia righthander Gene Conley tried to give him an intentional walk in the ninth. The ball bounced to second base, enabling Hank Aaron to come sliding home for a 6-5 victory that gave Milwaukee a three-game lead in the National League race.

St. Louis took care of the second place San Francisco Giants 4-2. The Chicago Cubs claimed third place by beating Los Angeles 9-4 after Cincinnati had spilled Pittsburgh 8-5.

Conley (2-2), gave up 13 hits and was tagged for a triple by Aaron in the ninth. Then Adcock, who had triggered a four-run second inning by hitting his fourth homer with a man on, pulled off the rare tactic.

Don McMahon (2-0) was the winner. Ed Bouchee's two-run homer tied the score and got rid of Milwaukee starter Carl Willey in the third.

Argos Claim Hal Ledyard

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Argonauts Friday claimed Hal Ledyard on waivers from Ottawa Rough Riders as quarterback insurance in case Ronnie Knox flops or is injured this season in the Big Four football league.

Ledyard, with Ottawa, for three years after playing football at University of Chattanooga, comes to Argonauts for the import waiver price of $750 unless the Rough Riders exercise their right to recall their waiver within the required 24 hours.

NEW THEME

CLINTON, B.C. (CP) — Fishing and hunting were the theme of the annual ball in this Cariboo centre 200 miles north of Vancouver. The first ball in 1868 was a full-dress affair.

Killebrew Leads Majors

By ED WILKS

Associated Press Staff Writer
Home run statistics in May can be pretty insignificant come September, but who can ignore those 17 homers hit by Harmon Killebrew of Washington Senators?

Killebrew leads the majors in home runs, crashing a solo shot Friday in a 7-6 victory over Boston that pushed Washington up into fourth place.

With three games left in May, Washington's young third baseman, is within four of tying the major league record for home runs in a single month. The high is 18, set by Detroit's Rudy York in August, 1937. Going into the Memorial Day pair at Washington, Killebrew had 14 homers for the month.

AHEAD OF RUTH PACE
And, yes he's ahead of Babe Ruth's record-60 pace of 1927. The Babe had hit 16 homers through a comparable period (41 games).

In the other AL games Friday, Chicago's second-place White Sox fell a full game behind idle Cleveland, losing 4-1 to Detroit; and the Yankees spilled third-place Baltimore two games back 5-2.

Killebrew, congratulated before the game by President Eisenhower, was 2-for-4 and walked and scored the winning run in the ninth on Hal Naragon's bases-loaded single off losing reliever Murray Wall (1-3). Pete Ramos won in relief, although he gave up Jackie Jensen's homer, a tying three-run shot, in the top of the ninth. Jim Lemon of the Senators also homered.

Duchess Posts 8-2

RICHMOND — Duchess Shoe posted an 8-2 win over Brown Shoe in a Richmond Softball League game Wednesday night. The win squared the current series, Brown taking the first game by a 9-3 count.

Guy Houde was credited with the win as he hurled a nine-hitter. Maurice Paquette started for Brown but was replaced in the seventh by Bob Pariseau. They allowed seven hits.

Brown took a one run lead in the bottom of the first holding Duchess scoreless. Duchess countered in the second with four big ones and never looked back. Brown Shoe added their only other point in the third. Duchess went scoreless until the seventh when they blasted in four insurance runs. Brown managed three hits in the bottom of the seventh and appeared to have a rally going but Gerry Desrosiers made a game-saving catch to retire the side.

No games are slated in the loop until Sunday May 31 when the official opening of the league will take place. Mayor C. W. Armstrong will be in attendance to throw out the first ball.

Duchess 040 000 4 8-7
Brown 101 000 0 2-9
Houde and Vigneault; Paquette, R. Pariseau (7) and C. Pariseau.

All About Stamps

The commemorative set of stamps to be issued by Bermuda to commemorate the 350th Anniversary of the shipwreck of the "Sea Venture" which resulted in the first permanent settlement will be issued on the 29th of July and will remain on sale until the 31st of December or until stocks are exhausted. There will be six values. Bermuda is the collective name of about 150 small islands which lie in the middle of the Atlantic Ocean in the form of a large fish hook. The seven largest of the group are connected by bridges and causeways and make up what is commonly considered the mainland. The Islands are known officially as "The Bermudas" or "Somers Islands," the former name stemming from the fact that Juan de Bermudez, a Spanish navigator, discovered them in 1503. They were uninhabited but the Government of Spain laid no claim to them. The shipwreck of the "Sea Venture" in 1609 resulted in the first permanent settlement of Bermuda three years later. It was the flagship of a supply fleet sent from England to relieve the starving colony of Virginia under the command of Sir George Somers, for whom the islands were also called. Two small pinnacles, "Deliverance" and "Patience" were built out of the wreckage of the "Sea Venture" as well as of native Bermuda cedar, and the two vessels arrived in the tiny settlement of Jamestown on 23rd May, 1610 with supplies for the needy settlers. The Bermudas, which have been under continuous British rule since 1612, are the most northerly group of coral islands in the world. The Old Towne of St. George, located on the eastern end of the Bermudas, is the oldest continuous English-speaking community in the Western Hemisphere. It was founded in 1612, eight years before the Pilgrim Fathers landed at Plymouth Rock. The Capital of Bermuda was moved from St. George to Hamilton in 1815, the latter being centrally located in the middle of the island chain on the shores of a harbour by that name. While Hamilton's population numbers only about 2,500 it is the scene of most of the Colony's business activity. Bermuda is the oldest British Colony and it is also the oldest self-governing colony in the Commonwealth. Its Parliament is the oldest law-making body in the Empire with the exception of England. This Parliament consists of a Governor, who is the official representative of the Queen, 11 members of the Legislative Council, appointed by the Crown, and 36 members of the House of Assembly who are elected by vote, four from each of the nine parishes. The most important industry is catering to the tourist trade on which Bermuda depends for about 70 per cent of her income.

The Australian Postmaster-General has announced a new stamp to be issued on the 15th of July depicting the Waratah, this will be the second in the series of Australian flora. It is also announced that Norfolk Islands intend to make an interim stamp issue pending the completion of designs for the new definitive set to be issued soon.

Ghana has announced details of the new definitive set to be issued in July. These stamps will depict various subjects as follows: Religion, 1/2-d native symbol expressing "God's Omnipotence" and Kente cloth, 3-d the same. Statue, 1-d, Statue of Prime Minister Kwame Nkrumah. Natural Products, 1 1/2-d hardwood logs, one of Ghana's main exports, 2 1/2-d open Cocoa Pod showing the nuts from which cocoa and chocolate are made, 4-d Diamond mine and cut diamond. Landscape, 2-d view of Volta River at the site of the proposed Volta River Project. Birds, 6-d Fire Crowned Bishop, 1/2 Pennant Winged Nightjar, stamp is marked "airmail", 2/ Crowned Cranes, also marked "airmail", 2/6 Giant Plantain Eater. Flowers 11-d, Spider Lily, 1/7 Sheel Ginger, 5/ Tiger Orchid. The 10/ value will feature Fish, Tropical African Cichlid. The stamps will be printed by Harrison & Sons Ltd, on Ghana's watermarked paper, 30 stamps to a sheet, and in multicolour print.

Will look forward to seeing many of you at the meeting of the Coaticook Stamp Club on Thursday June 4th, 8 p.m., in the Superior School Building on King St. West in Sherbrooke.
