Break-ins up in 1977 but other thefts drop

By ANDY DODGE

Break-and-entries were up in Westmount last year compared with 1976, preliminary statistics released by the Montreal Urban Community Police reveal.

Westmount's increase—from 401 to 434, or 8.2 percent—defied an overall six-percent drop in the break-and-entry rate across Montreal Island and was exceeded by break-and-entry rates in only seven other districts of the 35 on the island.

Despite the increase, total thefts in Westmount increased only by six, from 662 to 668, or less than one percent, thanks to a drop in the number of armed robberies and of thefts in and of automobiles. The figures do not include shoplifting or other types of simple theft.

The preliminary figures were revealed at a press conference last Friday at MUC Police headquarters, where officials announced the launching of a new statistical monitoring system for better deployment of forces. Each local station will send to the central headquarters a statistical summary of operations on Sunday; these will be analyzed on Monday morning and officers will determine whether or not extra personnel are required for a particular district, or whether special attention to a situation is needed.

Among the lowest

For last year, Westmount ranked among the lowest problem areas both for criminal activity and for traffic, according to the statistical methods used.

Overall, the number of traffic accidents in Westmount last year increased 6.3 percent from 728 to 774, while officials pointed proudly to a 1.9 percent decrease in accidents island-wide. No comparative figures are yet available for types of accidents, though The Examiner has learned that the gross sum included 140 hit-and-run accidents, 112 which required investigation by the accident investigation bureau, and 522 for which normal police reports were taken.

SCOUTING WEEK: Members of the scouting movement in Westmount gathered last Wednesday in Westmount Park Church for the annual service marking scouting week and founder Lord Baden-Powell's birthday. As part of the ceremony representatives from each branch of scouting lit candles. Above 2nd Westmount Cub Savario Fazzari, 660 Victoria avenue, lights a yellow candle for the cubs while Westmount Park Cub Mark Peacock, 53 Belvedere Circle, repeats the cub promise. Looking on are Westmount Park Cubmaster Maurice Hudon, 424 Wood avenue; 1st Westmount Cub Paul Spaniel, 7 Lorraine avenue; and Westmount Park Cub Julien Giacomelli, 379 Roslyn avenue. At the ceremony, scouting's second highest honor, the silver egg horn, was presented to Albert Jones for 30 years' devotion to scouting and a 15-year long service medal was presented to Bob Aiken, scoutmaster at St. Matthias.

By-election set for Oct. 16

Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau yesterday named Oct. 16 as the date for a by-election for the federal riding of Westmount, to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Hon. C. M. Drury last month.

Westmount was one of eight vacant constituencies for which new elections were announced.

Most observers expect the prime minister to call a general election before that date.

Weredale House will remain as youth centre

Directors of Youth Horizons-Weredale House have decided not to sell their building at 6 Weredale Park, The Examiner learned this week, and will use it themselves as a day treatment centre for children throughout the now-merged Anglophone youth care network.

The former boys' residence will be used, beginning this summer, to take in between 24 and 48 boys and girls for educational, recreational and social-adaptation programs, using the available facilities such as Weredale House's library, swimming pool and gymnasium.

The second floor will be made over into offices for the Summerhill Homes division of Youth Horizons, which until now has been working out of a suite at 4444 St. Catherine street west.

Some boarding rooms will be kept as "reflection units" where a maximum of eight children at any one time might live on a short-term basis, perhaps including overflow from detention centres, though the directors are hoping not to use them as such.

The directors decided to keep the building for these purposes for three main reasons, according to Youth Horizons Director Dr. H. Wayne Hanna. First, it is an ideal location for day treatment, since youth who need such treatment come from all parts of Montreal and the Métro is just two blocks away.

Secondly, good recreational facilities are in place, even though probably they will not be used at their optimum level in the immediate future. Thirdly, the directors have found a need for an ongoing

Portable party

Twenty-five bottles of liquor were stolen from a home on Carleton avenue sometime between 6 pm Friday and 10 am Sunday. Thieves entered the home by forcing the lock on an outside rear door, then smashing a window on an inside door. Value of the theft was $300, and damage to the house some $200. The thieves left the same way they came in.

Richard Rhone makes four-way Liberal race

The Westmount federal Liberal nomination race now is a four-way contest with the recent formal announcement of the candidacy of Richard Rhone, an insurance executive who hopes to offer "a fresh approach" to the local political scene.

Lacking in political experience, Mr. Rhone hopes the constituents he talks to between now and April 5—the date of the nominating convention at Victoria Hall—will help him develop a platform, based on their interests rather than his own.

"I want to talk to as many people as I can before the nomination," Mr. Rhone says of his candidacy. "I don't think anyone's ever come to the people."

Dorchester home is hit

Valuable items were stolen from a home on Dorchester boulevard between 9 pm Friday and 1:55 am Saturday by thieves who first tried to force open the front door and finally made their way through a basement window looking out onto Dorchester. Stolen items included a camera, flash unit and filters worth $500, a $200 stereo unit, silver change worth $50, a shaving kit bag and leather briefcase.

STUDENT INITIATIVE: John O'Neil, a student at Westmount High School, is disc jockey at Radio Station WHS, a facility he set up with the help of two friends in the large prop room underneath the stage auditorium. The three also fixed up a spacious student lounge in the room, painting it and getting furniture with the help of school officials to make an area where students can relax during lunch hour. While no smoking is allowed in the lounge, it offers sofas and rugs and even a ping-pong table. It seems to be gaining popularity, even though it has been open only a week. The music and announcements from the radio station are piped into the front foyer of the school as well as to the lounge. John is credited with thinking up the idea, but used the help of David Lintott and Mary Jane Lamound.

Ottawa teens to visit new YMCA program

The newly-initiated "teen community centre" at the Westmount YMCA now has about 25 or 30 active members, according to co-ordinator Russel Graul, and will be sponsoring an exchange program with 15 teenagers from a similar program in Ottawa this weekend. Another general meeting of Westmount teenagers has been organized for Tuesday evening at 7:30 pm to discuss the various programs already set up or contemplated by the center. Included on the agenda are teen exchanges, a survival course, workshops on careers, sports, volunteer programs and the centre's newspaper, new programs such as human awareness and behavior, a program involving third-world countries and other more pragmatic items such as membership and facilities.

Community volunteers from the teen centre have been helping a hospitalized caretaker for an apartment building on Grosvenor avenue, performing chores such as garbage removal, washing floors and windows and clearing snow. The volunteers have promised to help the woman twice a week until she can resume her normal duties. On the weekend, the Westmount teens will welcome the visitors from Ottawa with a spaghetti dinner Friday evening (cooked by the teens), followed by a trip to a movie, tobogganing at midnight, a swim and hot chocolate at the YMCA. Some of the Westmounters might stay with their guests overnight at the "Y," then join in a morning seminar and take them out on the town in the afternoon. The evening has been set aside for sports and a dance. Sunday morning the group might go to Beaver Lake before the Ottawa group

Rehearsals for play under way

By MALCOLM CECIL

The theatre club at Westmount High has begun rehearsals for the school play, "You can't take it with you." The play stars Mike Gliserman and Philippa Spoel and also features Susan Minor, Steve Nunns and Terri Vigneulle. The grad committee has started its fund-raising campaign which is aimed at lowering the price of admission to the graduation ball. They are planning a dance marathon and a lottery in the near future. In addition, auditions for the annual WHS fashion show are being held. Proceeds from the show will go to the grad committee. Representatives from CEGEPs have been visiting WHS to discuss special programs available to students and to try to stir up interest in the future among grads. The school's concert band, under the guidance of Mrs. Garrett, will be a part of an exchange with another band from British Columbia. The visiting band will live with the local students and will perform at WHS before returning home to play host to WHS band members at the end of April. returns home in the afternoon. Also on the docket are teen exchange programs with YMCA groups in Vancouver and Lethbridge later in March. Details about those or any of the programs can be obtained by calling Mr. Graul at 937-3916. Teens wishing to participate in this weekend's exchange are asked to register before 8 pm Friday.

Payable at banks:

MUC tickets now being issued here

Traffic and parking offenders in Westmount are receiving new tickets now, tickets which will be recognizable and usable throughout the Montreal Urban Community but fines from which will continue to accrue to Westmount.

The tickets make life easier both for police officers and for the traffic offenders. Police will be able to use one ticket-book to catch offenders no matter where an infraction might have occurred.

If a driver goes through a red light at Atwater avenue and St. Catherine street, for example, he is technically in the City of Montreal, but now Westmount's finest will be able to use the same sort of ticket for him as they would, say, for a similar offence committed at Greene avenue and St. Catherine.

If the offender is from Lachine, on his way to the Forum but normally not able to get into Westmount to pay the fine, he will be able to pay it at any bank or caisse populaire on the island. Only if he challenges its validity must he appear at the municipal court in Westmount.

At a press conference Friday, police hinted that the municipal court structure might be changed in the future to allow for regional courts more accommodating to out-of-town offenders.

Eight-year-old hit by car

An eight-year-old girl was struck by a westbound car on Westmount avenue at Belmont avenue last Thursday at 1:09 pm. The girl, a resident of Montrose avenue whose name was withheld by police, reportedly dashed into the street and was struck by a gold 1977 Plymouth driven by P. Martineau of Montreal.

The youngster sustained only minor scratches over her left eye, according to police. She was taken home and her parents decided not to seek immediate medical attention.

Valid if wrong

The new tickets add another interesting quirk, specially for drivers in and around Westmount. According to police, if the location of an infraction is identified wrongly—in Westmount when it should have been Montreal or vice versa—the ticket is still valid and cannot be challenged for misidentification. Once Westmount or Montreal clerks discover that the location is in the other's city, they will simply correct the ticket and the appropriate funds will be transferred between municipalities.

Municipal parking commissionaires will also use the island-wide parking tickets, according to police, though they did not indicate whether such commissionaires would be allowed to cross municipal boundaries to ticket illegally-parked autos.

Fines for infractions of the highway code range from $4 to $502, depending on the offence, as established by the provincial government. In all municipalities, including Westmount, moving offences regulated by municipal by-laws now are set at $22. While the new parking ticket allows for fines ranging from $5 to $40, in Westmount parking fines are $5 and $10 for various city parking metres, $10 for all other parking infractions and $15 for "stopping" infractions.

False name a waste

A 13-year-old girl was stopped in a Westmount store last Wednesday and detained for allegedly trying to steal a $33 coat. She gave the store official a false name and address. Police went to get her, brought her to Station 30 and she gave me the same false name and address.

The young girl remained in the jail cells at the Westmount station for five hours while we tried to trace down her family. Finally, after repeated questioning, she admitted her real name and we were able to turn her over to her father.

She told us she had been afraid to give her real name because she didn't want to get in trouble with her family. Yet we must turn her over to her parents—rather than just let her loose—so all that delay did her absolutely no good.

It is hoped she learned an important lesson. As it turned out, she got off relatively easy this time.

We Say

The Tories should try

WITH at least four persons now vying for the federal Liberal candidacy in Westmount and its new St. Henri appendage, we were moved to ask a local Tory figure the other day what was happening in his camp.

"Lots of good people to choose from," he told us with what sounded like bravery but without a hint as to names of even one.

"Anyway," he added, "we're waiting to see who the Liberals pick and then set up the best one of our own guys to lick him."

All of which sounds too cynical to us. We should have thought if the Progressive Conservatives had any confidence in themselves, their policies and their fitness to take over the running of the country, their scenario for this riding would be quite different.

They would not, in the first place, be waiting for the Liberals to call the tune.

They would be in the field now with their own "lots of good people" publicly declaring themselves competitively for the local PC association's nod.

They would be planning now to beat the Liberals to the punch with their own nominating convention.

They would select their man first.

They would have him out on the hustings, now, making himself known to the electorate.

They would be showing a serious effort not only to field their own man but making every effort to use the most-overlooked ally, time, to assure his election whenever the government chooses to call for a new parliament.

The old pols in the party backrooms tend to lose sight of what a general election is really supposed to be about.

That is to provide the electorate with the best men from which to choose the best representative of the constituency and the most effective political brain to sit in the Commons, on its committees and perhaps in the ministry.

The Tories are thinking negatively if the comments of our friend are representative.

The times demand more conscience, more respect for the intelligence of the voting citizen who this time around is going to demand more of his MP than merely the licking of his opponent—something a numbskull, backed by a slick machine, is capable of doing. But he'd go to the Commons still a numbskull.

With the long-sitting member, Mr. Drury, resigned and out of the running, our guess is that this constituency is wide open for the best man, regardless of party.

Popular "wisdom" has it that this is a Liberal stronghold. In the longer perspective this simply isn't so. Old-timers will tell you that this is perhaps more traditionally a Conservative seat, and by the inclinations of the people who reside here.

A Tory of intelligence, specially given the mood of English Quebec, could wrest the riding from the Liberals.

We wonder why they don't mount, now, an honest and straightforward try at it.

For MUC or Westmount?

A recent letter printed on these pages asked whatever happened to the scrapping by the Quebec Police Commission of the Daigneault plan which would have combined Westmount and Ville Emard for police purposes and to an alleged order-in-council in Quebec decreeing a Westmount-N.D.G. link instead.

The order-in-council was reported in this newspaper in July 1976, quoting none other than our own mayor.

Main objection to the Daigneault scheme was that it displayed an ignorance of local geography, whereby Ville Emard is separated from us by two railroad rights-of-way and other inconvenient barriers to traffic and, thus, police manpower.

The N.D.G. tie-up would, on the other hand, be a natural joining of two contiguous areas.

We enquired of His Worship, whose first reaction was that Director Vignola had come up with a plan which combined N.D.G. with its more westerly neighbors, that it was important to effect MUC police economies and that he would hate to see these further delayed.

Mayor MacCallum, of course, now speaks from his new vantage point as a member of the MUC executive committee and undoubtedly is quite correct in wishing to see a speedy resolution of the costly, long-drawn-out integration of the island police resources.

Furthermore, he has on a number of occasions referred to integration as

Bill 101 court ruling 'breath of fresh air'

Sir: Your report of Mr. Feifer's speech to the United Services Club in The Examiner of Feb. 23 prompts me to retort that, in my opinion, it is such pussyfooting attitudes that have caused the present Anglophone situation in Quebec.

I say "Hurrah" to Mr. Johnston and his colleagues. It was the first positive step by Anglophones to assert their legal rights since the passage of Bill 22. The ruling was a breath of fresh air.

City's cheque policy on tickets questioned

Sir: In today's age when you can pay your city taxes, MUC taxes, school taxes, gas, electricity, telephone bills, etc. with a personal cheque, to pay a ticket for an offence under by-law 726 (concerning street traffic, City of Westmount) in the amount of $10.00, you need a certified cheque or a money order or your personal appearance!

Is it not time to grow up and out of mothballs?

Djordje Jotic

WESTMOUNT H3Y 3G2

(Editor's note: Some relief is offered under the new MUC ticket plan which went into effect yesterday in that tickets may now be paid at any bank on the Island of Montreal, not just in Westmount. City hall officials defend the certified cheque policy by noting that the city has one's property as collateral in the event of non-payment of taxes due to an invalid cheque whereas the smaller ticket amounts are harder, and much more costly proportionately, to collect should a cheque prove uncashable.)

Montclair residence for elderly is open

Sir: Through your paper I would like to bring to the attention of elderly persons living in Westmount the existence of the Montclair Residence which provides accommodation for senior citizens.

This was a joint project sponsored by the Montreal Rotary Club and The Salvation Army to convert the former nurses' residence of The Catherine Booth Hospital into 47 rooms to accommodate 58 persons. It is now completed, operating and accepting applications. Unlike the Westmount Rotary project it has not been deemed a "inevitable" and "irreversible." He not long ago characterized a letter of WMA president Dr. Dale Thomson, calling for more local police control and autonomy, as "a waste of time."

Readers of this newspaper will realize that we are not in agreement with the mayor on this issue. We share with Dr. Thomson and, we suspect, a good many other citizens that Westmount and probably other communities have lost a good deal from absorption of our superb local force by that of the City of Montreal—which is what, in effect, integration means. While the best of relations may exist between our city hall and the local commander, there is no doubt that the latter's orders come not from Westmount authorities but from downtown Montreal.

The Westmount-Ville Emard joining was illogical when Mr. Daigneault advanced it and, despite the great promise in Mr. Vignola's appointment in succession, it still is illogical.

And according to the mayor himself, as far back as mid-1976, the Quebec Police Commission and the provincial cabinet thought so, too.

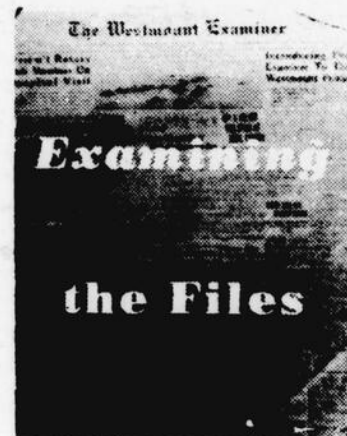

We hope that what may be expedient for the MUC does not take precedence over what is logical for Westmount.

newsworthy event by the news media and many people are probably not aware that it exists.

Accommodation is available either in double or single rooms at $12 and $13 per day for double accommodation and $15 and $16 per day for single room accommodation including three meals a day.

That will present problems of considerable magnitude to our school authorities, problems which will have to be solved. The inaugural address

The Parti Québécois attempted to hide the referendum in last week's inaugural address. Only one sentence of some 26 pages of text concerned the all-important ballot. No one was fooled, however. The referendum is, and will continue to be, the main topic of discussion in Quebec circles up to voting day.

Premier Lévesque stressed economics last week. His solutions were weak, indeed. He steadfastly refuses to admit that his separation goal is what has Quebec in a tailspin. Lévesque's solutions? In an opening gambit last December, the Parti Québécois froze National Assembly members' salaries. The intent of the gesture was to impress upon Quebec workers that individual government members were making a personal monetary sacrifice for the betterment of Quebec.

Naturally, our friend René wants all workers to follow this supposedly noble gesture. But, what the PQ cabinet ministers failed to mention last December was that earlier they had given themselves two cost of living increases. Translated into cold, hard cash, these two increases give the PQ cabinet members $10,000.00 more per year than the Liberal ministers they replaced.

The second round occurred last week. Premier Lévesque's inaugural speech contained words of concern that Quebecers must produce more, waste less and scale down demands. He made a special plea to hospital workers, government employes and teachers. Their response of "Sorry, no dice," was immediate and very predictable.

Settlement will haunt

Last month, two provincial mediators recommended hefty wage increases coupled with the costly 4-3 work schedule for MUC policemen. The men in blue were elated. Civic authorities stalled, but in the end had no alternative other than to accept the expensive settlement as recommended by the provincial mediators.

That police settlement will return to haunt René Lévesque. Rather than confront the policemen's brotherhood furnish the building and The Salvation Army has undertaken to operate it. Along with the 47 rooms which are completely carpeted and have their own washrooms, a common lounge, dining room, recreation room, hair-dressing room and doctor's office are provided and give a very homey atmosphere.

I thought that people might wish to avail themselves of this type of accommodation immediately as the Westmount Rotary project will not be taking in any residents for many months.

An open house with tea being served is planned for Sunday, March 5, from 3:00 to 4:30 pm and everyone would be welcome to visit the residence at this time.

Resolutions of local Liberals fare well at convention

Westmount's federal Liberals returned home from Ottawa Sunday exhausted but jubilant that they had succeeded in having the party's national policy convention pass many of the resolutions proposed by the local riding association.

The economy was a major topic at the convention and resolutions were passed demanding a government emphasis on job creation, particularly among the youth, and that the government curtail spending, the latter a major part of the local riding's resolution on the economy.

Westmount Watergate?

Insiders have not yet ruled out sabotage as a possible reason why the telephone switch-box outside the campaign headquarters of Dr. Dale Thomson was badly damaged during one night last week.

The office building at 1165 Greene avenue was entered, apparently after someone left the door insecurely locked. The telephone switch box is in the upstairs hall, so the actual campaign office did not have to be entered for the damage to be done.

Bell Canada officials quickly repaired the damage and Dr. Thomson's campaign for the Liberal nomination in Westmount was back on track by the end of the week.

Paul Lamontagne and Michel Fortier lobbied with the youth commission for the approval of decriminalization of possession of small amounts of marijuana and won the support of Justice Minister Ron Basford and others before seeing it adopted by a 379-159 vote.

Westmount's resolution calling for the elimination of discrimination against Indian women and their families was presented by Elizabeth Tirkanits and ran into procedural difficulties but another local delegate, Mrs. Winnifred Dunn, was able to sort things out and the motion was passed. Other social reform resolutions passed called for a guaranteed annual income, a charter of individual human rights and adequate compensation for victims of crime.

Laugh and support

A resolution calling for the publicizing of the importance of good nutrition in pre-natal care was presented by Mrs. Virginia Heward who earned a laugh and the immediate support of the workshop by stating that "a quart of milk a day would produce healthy blue-ribbon babies."

Mrs. Heward also persuaded Postmaster General Gilles

Lamontagne to accept as a resolution Westmount's wish that postal codes be listed in telephone directories.

Local delegates Richard McConomy and John Claxton saw that the convention came out in favor of the principles of collective bargaining, including the right to strike, while approving the development of new techniques of dispute.

Liberal Association President Diana Weatherall won the inclusion of the "equality of the status of the two linguistic communities and the multiculturalism of Canada" in the principles adopted to serve as a basis for a new Canadian constitution which was presented by the Quebec policy commission and adopted by the convention.

Candidates active

Two candidates for the local Liberal nomination were also active at the convention. Dr. Dale Thomson chaired a ministerial session at which Minister of Fitness and Amateur Sport Iona Campagnolo, Minister of National Health and Welfare Monique Begin and Minister of Veterans Affairs Daniel MacDonald answered questions from the delegates.

Candidate Donald Johnston chaired the unity workshop "Living together" where Mrs. I. M. B. Dubell, a Westmount alternate, narrowly won acceptance of Westmount's resolution calling for the distribution of information manuals to all Canadian foreign offices describing life in Canada today in the prospective immigrants' own language.

Local association officials were pleased with the effort made by the Westmount delegation which also included Stephen Takacsy, who with Michel Fortier was named to serve on the youth commission, and alternates Mrs. Edythe Germain, Dr. Bruce Mallen and Richard Cowling. Also attending as observers were Rock Chatigny and Roger Forand of St. Henri, which will become part of the local riding when the next general election is held.

Dominion-Douglas topic is approach to pride

"Pride—true or false?" will be the sermon subject at Dominion-Douglas Church this Sunday at the 11 am service.

Dr. Phyllis Smyth will continue the Lenten focus on personal issues with a discussion of the Christian approach to pride. This series on personal issues is evidently filling a need as witnessed by increased attendance the last few weeks.

Appropriate music by the choir of the "church on the hill" will include "Sing we of him who deeply cares" from the Andernach "Gesangbuch" of 1608, "Lord, we beseech thee" by Adrian Batten, and "Bless the Lord, O my soul" by Ippolitof-Ivanof.

The organ prelude will be "Let all mortal flesh keep silence" by John Joubert, and the postlude will be "Prelude and Fugue in E Minor" (The Cathedral) by Bach. Lenten hymn-tunes will be played on the chimes from 10:45 am until the organ prelude begins. The chimes are amplified from the tower and are heard from quite some distance outside, as well as in the sanctuary.

At 6:00 pm Sunday the second "Sunday Sundaes Sing" will be held by popular request. The congregation is invited to come for dessert, to make their own sundaes, and then to join afterwards for an informal hour round the organ, singing favorite hymns, both old and new. Visitors are heartily welcome to attend both of these services on Sunday.

On Thursday, March 9, Dr. Smyth will continue her series titled "Situation Ethics" at the Thursday study group which meets at 1:30 pm.

Reunion set for Israelis living here

A reunion of Israeli citizens now living in Montreal will be held Saturday, Mar. 11, at Temple Emanu-El, 4100 Sherbrooke street west, sponsored by the Montreal Committee of Returning Israeli Citizens.

The committee has been operating since December under the auspices of the Aliyah Centre of the Canadian Zionist Federation, 1310 Greene avenue. The group is now in the midst of "Operation round-up," bringing as many Israelis as possible into the organization.

Their aim is to provide a framework for social and cultural activities involving children of former Israelis who do not attend Jewish schools.

The program for the reunion will include a Hebrew feature film, "Ani Yerushalmi" (I was born in Jerusalem), starring Yehoram Gaon. A Purim party is also planned for Sunday afternoon, Mar. 26, at the Talmud Torah School on St. Kevin avenue.

Day of prayer Friday

The local church service to mark the world day of prayer will be held tomorrow, Friday, Mar. 3, at 10:30 am at St. Matthias' Church, 10 Church Hill avenue.

Guest speaker at the service will be Dr. Letty James, deacon at St. Philip's Church, Montreal West. Stephen Crisp, organist and choirmaster at St. Matthias', will also participate. The service will be led by Miss Vera Jamieson.

Refreshments will be served following the service, to which all are welcome.

CHURCH MARKS ANNIVERSARY: The downtown Church of St. Andrew and St. Paul is celebrating its 175th anniversary this year and events to mark the occasion will culminate next month under the theme, "175 years... to be continued." The congregation's annual dinner and meeting was held last Tuesday and as part of the historical celebration, it was addressed by Edgar A. Collard, second from left, 4643 Sherbrooke street west, editor emeritus of "The Gazette" and local historian. Mr. Collard gave a detailed and vivid historical account of the last 175 years of Montreal's history and the role played in it by the church. With Mr. Collard are, from left, Rev. William Russell, Mrs. Collard and Eric C. Riordon, 646 Roslyn avenue, of the 175th anniversary committee.

Expensive homes sluggish on market

Westmount's more expensive residences are not selling well and are not getting high prices when they are sold, the January list of real estate transfers shows. For middle-priced homes, however, the market seems to be moving smoothly.

Of those homes evaluated by the Montreal Urban Community at more than $100,000, only one sold in January for more than its valuation and for all such homes the average markdown was roughly 10 percent.

One house—at 4313 Montrose avenue—had been on the market since last April, and the asking price was gradually reduced from $125,000 to $89,500 by November. Final sale price was $82,000, some 21.8 percent below its 1978 valuation of $104,850.

A listing of all homes, on the other hand, shows that their MUC valuations are roughly in line with the sale prices they could obtain. Among the middle-priced homes markups ranged around 10 percent, and the average markup for all residential properties was 2.3 percent. The average price of 17 residential sales during January was $82,823.53, about equal to the average sale price of Westmount homes for all of 1977.

Among non-residential sales, one transfer of interest was a double-sale of the Western Apartments, 4216 de Maisonneuve boulevard-267 Olivier avenue, which was in the news recently when a boiler breakdown caused considerable ire among tenants. Despite the controversy, the sale seems only to be a paper transfer, changing hands ultimately to a corporation whose address is the same as the company which previously owned it.

Also of some interest is the sale of the building which once housed The Examiner's office, at 4630 St. Catherine street west, to Gallery Publications Ltd., the business operated by Ald. Brian Gallery.

The listings reveal that 10 residential properties changed hands for a total of $870,750 in recorded sale prices which represented a 1.8 percent markdown on their total valuation of $886,600. Other listings—for which details are not available—show that seven other residences evaluated at $489,100 changed hands for a total sale price of $537,250. The markup among those seven pulls the residential average to 2.3 percent.

Non-residential properties seem to have obtained much stronger markups. With the sale of The Western Apartments counted in twice, as according to the listings, the average markup is 39 percent, though three other unlisted sales bring that down to 31.7 percent.

Top house $150,000

While sale of The Western Apartments represented both the highest price for a property and the biggest markup (46.2 percent), among residences the best price obtained was for a home fronting both on Summit Circle and Upper Bellevue avenue, $150,000, while the best markup, 14.1 percent, was obtained for a more modest home at 455 Claremont avenue.

Lowest price went in the $48,300 sale of a building housing cold-flats at 4138 Dorchester boulevard; the smallest-priced residence was 65 Holton avenue, though that was sold for a strong $55,000.

The volume of transfers registered in January was about average, with 16 listed sales representing an MUC valuation of $1,593,937.50 (including one quarter-share transfer). In addition, four properties with a tax worth of $281,700 were sold for "money"

Date of listing here can be months after sale realtors point out

Real estate transactions reported monthly in The Examiner are generally two, three, or even more months behind the actual sales of those properties, real estate agents point out, since prices often are agreed upon and options closed before title deeds actually are signed.

Monthly listings are for the months in which deeds are registered at the Montreal registry office. These are passed on to city officials between three and four weeks after the month is over.

In fact, say realtors, there has been some interest expressed in recent weeks for higher-priced Westmount properties; thus, they say, the conclusion that high-priced homes are not moving or are obtaining sharply-reduced prices should be looked upon as representing the mood of the market late last year, rather than today.

A sampling of 10 properties for which offers were accepted last week, however, shows that the average sale price of those 10 was $81,430, roughly in line with the average $82,823 for the 17 sales registered in January. In some cases deeds for the sales closed last week will not be signed until mid-summer, after which they will be reported in The Examiner.

The reported prices of homes sold by one realtor last week range from $42,500 to $150,000.

Right now, business is best for those houses which are well-maintained and in good condition, realtors point out; buyers are choosing ready-to-live-in homes over those which require considerable refurbishing.

Continued from previous page and considerations," six more evaluated at $348,700 were transferred but no details are available and three others with a total evaluation of $199,800 changed hands through estates or cessions.

Total volume for the month was thus 29 registrations involving property assessed at $2,424,137.

In January last year 24 realty transfers were registered; the previous year saw 29, and in 1975 the figure was 23.

WEREDALE . . .

summer program for many of the youth, something Weredale House could provide.

Need supervision

There are many children, Dr. Hanna pointed out, that cannot afford to be without some professional supervision at least a few hours each day; if they are left to fend for themselves for a two-month summer holiday season—or even so much as a weekend—they may find themselves in serious trouble.

At present some detention-centre overflow juveniles are living in the "reflection unit" at Weredale House. The directors have asked that this maintenance policy be stopped by April 1, though they have agreed that at least a few rooms can be kept available for extenuating circumstances, and the takeover of the second floor by Summerhill staff is pointed directly at the possible reduction of the semi-detentional role Weredale has served in the past year.

The directors' decision was made early in January, it seems, even though the provincial government and members of the local community were at the time looking seriously at other possible uses of the large residence. A program outline for the coming fiscal year, which starts April 1, is now being prepared.

Late last summer it was announced the building was for sale and since that time the Westmount Municipal Association has explored the possibility of converting it into a senior citizen's residence.

Garment union meeting topic

A provocative look at local trade unionism in the garment industry in the 1930s will be presented at the next meeting of the Jewish Historical Society of Montreal. Speaker will be Lea Roback, well-known syndicalist, who will present the case history of a Montreal local of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union.

The meeting will be held Thursday, Mar. 9, at 8:15 pm in the audio visual room of the Jewish Public Library, 5151 Cote St. Catherine road. Members and friends of the society are invited to attend.

Lancer's 'Joe 70':

Magazine for seniors seeks more funding

By RICK KERRIGAN

A trip to a corner newsstand will reveal that no matter what one's favorite hobby, pastime or profession a publication exists to keep everyone up to date on recent developments and trends.

However, if you're a senior citizen looking for a magazine to give you diet and budget hints suited to your needs, to tell you about special styles and fashions for the elderly or to keep you posted on recent legislative developments concerning seniors, you're out of luck.

Al Fisher, president of Lancer Senior Citizens Foundation, 360 Victoria Avenue, plans to change that situation with the publication of "Joe 70," a magazine aimed at communicating with and informing senior citizens in Montreal and across Canada.

His problem is money. With enough material for three issues already and the first issue ready for the printer, he needs $12,000 before the presses roll to produce the first of the planned 31,000 copies.

The original target date for publication of the first issue was Dec. 15, but he is only now in the middle of a campaign to raise funds from corporate contributors around Montreal. Mr. Fisher sees advertising as a last resort to be used should other funding prove inadequate. He worries about stories becoming buried in the ads.

"We've got stories you wouldn't believe," he says. "We don't want to take up space and lose the good of the stories."

"But," he adds, "you've got to pay the printer."

He estimates that 15 percent of the 48 page bilingual glossy magazine would be used for advertising if necessary.

Will be free

Distribution of the magazine will be free and it will go to all the seniors homes in Montreal as well as being distributed from grocery stores and other places frequented by seniors. Copies will also go to members of the provincial government and requests for the magazine have been received from Calgary, Saint John's, Moncton and Halifax.

As well as diet, budget and legislative information, the magazine will include features on prominent or interesting senior citizens such as "Jack Rabbit" Johannsen, the 103-year-old father of cross-country skiing in Quebec who still skis regularly and makes an appearance at the annual Canadian Ski Marathon. Also, Westmount's former MP Bud Drury will author a piece in the magazine.

The magazine is still looking for a retired person with appropriate skills to edit the English section while former Le Devoir publisher and Quebec Liberal leadership candidate Claude Ryan has helped line up a retired Le Devoir newspaper man to edit the French.

"What we need now," says Mr. Fisher, "is community support."

CHAIRMEN OF PATRONS: Mr. and Mrs. M. Brian Mulroney, 68 Belvedere road, are chairmen of patrons for the St. Patrick's Ball to be held Friday, Mar. 10, at the Chateau Champlain. Proceeds will go to the furnishing of the new seniors' residence of the society due to be completed this year. Chairmen of the 1978 ball are Mr. and Mrs. E. Harold Lawson.

Dance troupe entertains at QE Hospital ball

Close to 200 guests danced and watched some professional dancing Friday evening at the annual dinner-dance of the Women's Auxiliary of the Queen Elizabeth Hospital.

Door prize for the evening in the Ritz-Carlton Hotel was a trip for two to Portugal via TAP Airlines and guests were treated to a sample of that country by the Portuguese Folkloric Group which entertained during the supper.

The troupe of 16, a portion of the group's 90 dancers, performed for 20 minutes in their colorful costumes. Formed 14 years ago, the group has performed at Place des Arts, Man and His World and in New Orleans and is one of the largest such groups in Quebec.

The lucky couple who will get to sample more Portuguese fare is Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Lowe of Lachute, winners of the draw.

Westmounter Mrs. B. Catterill, 628 Grosvenor avenue, was also a winner, being the lucky one in a draw for a lithograph by Louise Scott. Dinners for two were won by Mrs. N. Bakar and Miss Lafleche.

Pre-ball cocktails were served to over 100 guests at the residence of Dr. and Mrs. Michael Moss, 530 Victoria avenue. Mrs. Moss was chairman of the dance. The tremendously successful evening continued until 2:30 am with dancing to the music of Nat Raider and his orchestra.

Westmount High Old Boys' annual dinner next week

The annual dinner of the Westmount High Old Boys' Association will be held Thursday, Mar. 9, at the Caledonia Curling Club. The association, now in its 42nd year, honors a teacher and an old boy at the annual dinner which is attended by male graduates of Westmount High School and its predecessors, Westmount Senior High School, Westmount Junior High School and the Westmount Academy.

This year the guest speaker will be lawyer Richard Holden, QC, and Jules Stracina, head of the guidance department at WHS, will be honored.

Mr. Holden, an old boy, is a well-known lawyer and consumer rights advocate. His current battle is an effort to persuade the Sun Life Assurance Company to keep its head office in Montreal. Mr. Holden recently was able to obtain a list of the company's policy holders and is currently attempting a campaign to contact each of them by mail.

Jules Stracina is known well by all Westmount High School students. His career in Westmount schools spans 27 years and he is now head of the guidance department he has helped build since joining the school system.

The Westmount guidance department began with Mr. Murray in the 1950s at the Senior High School performing group tests and providing information as a one-man effort. Since then the department has grown to a staff of three who, apart from conducting occasional tests, actively help students select courses and plan their careers.

Many teaching jobs

Mr. Stracina has performed the gamut of teaching jobs over the years from being a grade 7 homeroom teacher to teaching math, French, industrial arts and business subjects. In his spare time he and his wife, a teacher at Somerled School, plan long trips to South America, Africa and around the world.

The annual banquet provides an opportunity for all old boys to gather, to reminisce and to celebrate. Proceeds of the evening, earned from raffles, door prizes, presentations and auctions, go to the association's scholarship fund and to provide medals for winners of the school's honor awards, presented annually to the most deserving male graduating student, selected by his fellows.

All Westmount High School old boys, whether residing in Westmount, Montreal or points further afield, are invited to attend the annual event.

Mr. Rhone grew up in the Boston area, attended Jamaica Plain High School and took night courses at Harvard University. After serving in the presidential honor guard during the Kennedy years, he worked with an anti-poverty agency in Boston, then came to Canada and joined the insurance business in the early 1970s.

He started with the firm of Abrams, Peck and Associates, rising to office manager before switching to Great West Life Insurance Co., located in Westmount Square, a year and a half ago.

He lived in the Grazia apartments, 4328 Sherbrooke street west, until late last year. He has since moved to 2054 Sherbrooke west, outside the city limits but still in the federal riding of Westmount.

He claims he decided to seek the federal nomination last July but was not able to enter the race officially until he was granted Canadian citizenship recently.

Crashes down

Good weather seems to have helped reduce significantly the number of traffic accidents in Westmount, with a mere nine (including two hit-and-run accidents and one involving a young pedestrian in the six-day period from last Wednesday to this Monday. During Westmount's snowy January weekly totals were as high as 25 or 30.

Atom Huskies and Bulls seek final playoff spot

By NICK KASIRER

Only one game remains in the regular season for teams in Westmount's novice and atom hockey leagues. The top two teams from each division will advance to a best of three final series set to begin on Saturday, March 11.

The youngest boys involved in the local hockey program play in the novice section, and last week two novice teams secured playoff berths.

The Guards have led the league's standings from the first of the season, and are undefeated in their 14 games played. On Saturday coach Pat Lomasney saw his team beat the Dragons 4-3 on a hat-trick by Jeffrey Kates and four points by Laurent de la Beaumelle.

Despite the loss, the Dragons clinched the playoff spot off the ice when their nearest rivals, the Knights, were upset 1-0 at the hands of the Bears. For their second win of the year the Bears depended on their goalie, Rohit Khanna, who earned the shutout, along with some strong defensive play and a last-second goal by Paul Naylor.

Tight race in atom

A sudden death semi-final might be necessary in atom if next Saturday's matches fail to resolve the tie for second place between the Huskies and Bulls. Last week the two teams met and the Bulls did what they had to to stay in contention as they beat the Huskies 2-0. Mark Peacock recorded the shutout for the Bulls, with teammate Paul Capombassis scoring what turned out to be the winner.

The Mules have long since been assured a spot in the finals atop the atom standings, but this did not stop the last place Broncs from surprising the league leaders with a 3-3 draw. Scott Harper scored twice for the Broncs, with Justin Cantor adding a third, while Paul Spaniel, Paul Branchaud, and Jonathan Carruthers had goals for the Mules.

In other hockey actions, the bantam All Stars played their seventh game last Friday against Chateauguay, with Westmount losing a close battle 4-3. Chateauguay built up a 4-0 lead in the early going, but the home team came back with three, including two goals by Joey Acton. Coaches Bob Aiken and Peter Goddard pulled the minute but their strategy was Westmount goalie in the final to no avail.

HOCKEY STANDINGS

The standings in the novice and atom leagues of the Westmount recreation department with one game for each team remaining are:

Charron to discuss green paper

Claude Charron, minister of youth, recreation and sport, will be meeting with citizens of the western Montreal region next Tuesday at Ecole Emile Legault, 2395 Thimens street, St. Laurent, to discuss his green paper on leisure and other problems of leisure and sports in the various communities.

The public meeting comes at the start of a week-long tour of the metropolitan Montreal area, and is designed to hear the views of citizens from all municipalities—including Westmount—situated west of the City of Montreal.

An abridged English translation of Mr. Charron's green paper, "Take Your Time," was made available recently.

Lifting down; switch to food

The number of shoplifters nabbed in Westmount dropped even further during the past week, to five from eight the previous week and 12 the week before that.

The genre, however, may have changed slightly; at least two of those caught were stealing from supermarkets. One arrested last Wednesday was trying to walk away with $16.06 worth of beef and shrimp.

The five arrests resulted in the recovery of $109.83 worth of products. Individual catches ranged from $7.89 to $41.99.

Of life insurance purchases by Canadians during 1976, cash-value life insurance accounted for 39 percent of the amount of individual policy purchases and term insurance or temporary term additions to existing contracts accounted for 61 percent. By comparison, in 1970 term insurance and term additions accounted for 55 percent of individual life insurance purchases by amount.

Curling final tomorrow

The finals in the Centennial Cup curling draw will be held tomorrow (Friday) evening at the Caledonia Curling Club with the winning rinks from the two divisions of the adult program meeting in a sudden-death final.

In the final, May Caplan's rink of Vivian Manners, Dunn Lantier and Eleanor Cripps will meet skip Bill Hooff playing with Murray Scerf, Marg McManus and Diane McDougall. The runners-up from both divisions, skipped by Bert Leadbetter and Dick Whalley, will also play Friday.

Next Friday the curlers will start their third and final draw of the season. The seven-evening bonspiel will run until Apr. 14. The annual closing party and presentation of prizes will be held Apr. 24.

Warrants net over $900

A total of $929.54 in outstanding traffic tickets for which warrants had been issued was collected by police in West-mount during the six-day period from last Tuesday to Monday this week, after eight persons were arrested for non-payments ranging from $19 to $312.50.

Police have suggested that the number of outstanding violations may be reduced with the new tickets which came into effect yesterday, tickets which may be paid at any bank or caisse populaire on the island.
Since drivers no longer will have to report to local courts or ticket-offices of municipalities in which traffic offences occur, the weekly totals may gradually be reduced.

Also arrested during the last week were three taxi drivers who did not carry the necessary permits.

Beyond Westmount's Borders

in the bigger city surrounding us

By RICK KERRIGAN

Whenever flutist Jean-Pierre Rampal comes to town it is impossible to get decent seats for his concerts if you buy your tickets only a week in advance. The good seats go a few weeks in advance, specially when he is playing in Notre Dame Church where seat location is more important than in acoustically superior halls with better sight lines. Rampal's only concert in Montreal this year will be in the church with the McGill Chamber Orchestra in a Mozart program on March 20 at 8:30 pm. While some critics have complained that Rampal's virtuosity comes at the expense of feeling, the MCO release says he "will charm his devoted fans with his golden flute, his musicianship, his beautiful tone and the mastery the musical world expects of him." The St. Lawrence Choir will join him in two flute concertos by Mozart, the Missa Brevis and Ave Verum. Rampal and the orchestra will also perform the A Major Symphony No. 29. Tickets are available at International Music and Montreal Trust, Place Ville Marie. Don't delay if you want to attend this concert.

A free concert will be presented tonight by the Concordia Chamber Ensemble. They will be performing works by Stravinsky and Poulenc, and will present the Canadian premiere of Alan Crossman's "The Waves," a cantata for soprano, flute, cello and piano. The concert will take place in the Loyola Chapel, 7141 Sherbrooke street west.

The next free concert by Musica Camerata Montreal will be given Saturday, 5:00 pm. at Christ Church Cathedral. In addition to works by Mozart and Brahms there will be a performance of Milton Barnes' "Poème Juif," written in 1977. The concert will be recorded by CBC for replay on "Arts National" on CBM-FM in the fall, so why not get your applause on tape for posterity?

Shakespeare's delightful "As you like it" will be presented by the McGill English department drama program, Mar. 7-11, 8:00 pm, in Moyses Hall of the Arts Building. I would quote some suitably clever lines from the play but my collection of Shakespeare's plays has mysteriously disappeared. Tickets are $2.50 ($1.50 for students) and may be obtained from the University Centre box office, 3480 McTavish (392-8926) or from room 155 of the Arts Building (392-5000). Attendance at the matinee performance, Mar. 10 at 1:00 pm, will only cost $1.00.

The end of winter seems to be bringing out the clever and the witty sides of theatre companies. The Phoenix Theatre is presenting Oscar Wilde's "The Importance of Being Earnest" starting Mar. 8 and running for three weeks Wednesdays to Sundays. The play is in some ways similar to a Marx Brothers comedy where the cleverness (albeit slightly more subtle) comes at the audience so fast one hesitates to laugh for fear of missing the next line. In fact the Phoenix Theatre release describes the play as an evening of fantasy, elegance, philosophical insight and controlled farce. All aspects (with the possible exception of the last one) of the Marx Bros. films. They continue: "It is a return to the lost world of cucumber sandwiches, butlers and romance over teacups." Imagine letting Chico, Harpo and Groucho onto a set like that. Curtain time is 8:00 pm and tickets are $5.00 ($3.00 for students and senior citizens).

They may be reserved by phoning 733-2039. The theatre is at 1339 Canora road in Town of Mount Royal.

In keeping with the light-hearted spirit of the above-mentioned productions, it seems fitting to mention that McGill's Red and White Revue is being revived in its original form of acts and skits after a hiatus of five years. McGill graduates and aficionados of student talent will enjoy turning out for the one performance tomorrow, 8:00 pm, in Redpath Hall (opposite the University Centre on McTavish) to watch a trio imitating the Andrews Sisters, a piper and sword dancer, a parody of 70s rock music and assorted music and comedy acts. The evening will close with a performance of the McGill Jazz Workshop junior band. Admission is 50 cents. Sounds like a bargain.

Two political figures of some import will be speaking at Concordia University. Tomorrow, 3:00 pm, in room H-937 of the Hall building, 1455 de Maisonneuve - west, Yves Michaud, Premier Lévesque's foreign affairs advisor, will be speaking at the end of a week-long symposium on international affairs.

Over at the Loyola Campus, Raymond Garneau, one of the two candidates for the provincial Liberal leadership will be speaking to students and anyone else interested in the Campus Centre, 7141 Sherbrooke west on Mar. 8 at noon. A question period will follow.

Photography critic A. D. Coleman will present a slide lecture on the development of the directorial mode in photography on Mar. 3, 1:30 pm, at the Optica Gallery, 451 St. François-Xavier. Coleman has been a columnist with the Village Voice, Popular Photography, and the New York Times and is currently a contributing editor for Camera 35. His articles have appeared in many other magazines. Admission to the lecture is $1.50.

Camping association holds information week

The Quebec Camping Association, headed by Derek V. Walsh, 4160 Dorchester boulevard, president of the English section, is marking "camp week" from today until next Thursday.

The association exists to insure a consistently high standard in the management, facilities, health, safety and programs of camps in Quebec and during this information week members hope to be of service to parents of campers, the campers themselves and to the over 3,000 persons who will get summer jobs at English camps in the province.

Over 56,000 Quebecers attended camps accredited by the association in 1977 and the 50 accredited members of the English section are now in the process of registering campers for the new season. The association recommends those interested in applying to do so as soon as possible.

Founded in 1937, the Quebec Camping Association is a voluntary organization composed of camp owners, directors, senior staff, counsellors, commercial members and individuals working to develop the highest possible standards

Blood clinic at Dawson

A Red Cross blood donor clinic will be held next Thursday, March 9, at the local campus of Dawson College, 350 Selby street. The clinic will be open from 2:30 to 8 pm. The Red Cross's permanent clinic, just outside Westmount at 2180 Dorchester boulevard west, is open Monday to Friday from 8:30 am to 4 pm.

for Quebec's summer camps. One still-active charter member is Miss Dorothy Percival, 400 Kensington avenue.

The association assures parents that high standards will be met in the accredited camps and they also include camps that serve children with special needs including the learning disabled, emotionally disturbed, blind, deaf and physically handicapped.

The association also operates a camp staff placement bureau to help find counsellors, specialists, nurses, doctors, cooks and maintenance staff for the accredited camps.

Information about the association and about camps is available from Miss Frances Kelly at the association office between 9 am and 5 pm by calling 489-1541.

Watercolors at Library

Nineteen watercolors by Sharon Levin, 97 Hallowell avenue, will be shown at the Westmount Public Library from Monday, Mar. 6 to Mar. 18. The abstract paintings were done with ink and water on wet paper and the minute changes in color come from using a gray mixed from red, yellow and blue and from selectively blotting the ink and from the varying absorption of the colors by the paper. The paintings can be viewed during regular Library hours.

During the last 10 years the Canadian chartered banks' outstanding loans to Canadian farmers have tripled to more than $3.26 billion.

Village shown in slides

A slide presentation on a fishing village in Portugal will be shown at the next meeting of the color division of the Montreal Camera Club on Monday, Mar. 6, at 7:45 pm in the auditorium of the Atwater

Library. The presentation, titled "Nazare," will be made by Miss Yseult Mounsey, honorary life member of the club and a successful competitor in national and international photographic competitions. Slides entered by members in the club's weekly competition will be shown and one of the judges will comment. The meeting is open to the public and there is no charge.

A better Canadian education for your boy

The objective of Stanstead College is to educate boys to the maximum of their potential so that they may successfully continue their education or live in any Canadian province.

To do this Stanstead College has elected to become financially independent outside the enrolment restrictions of Quebec's Bill 101. Thus, your son will join other boys from across Canada and around the world in a worthwhile learning experience.

Located on a 620-acre rural campus, Stanstead is one of Canada's leading multi-denominational private schools for boys in grades 7 through 12. It features a close student-teacher relationship, small classes, rigorous academic standards and unparalleled sport, physical education and extra-curricular activities programmes.

Student applications for the 1978-79 school year are being accepted now. The all-inclusive boarding fee remains unchanged from last year.

20 - Thursday, March 2, 1978

Heavy council agenda:

City to buy more land beside Hillside project

City council is expected to purchase property at 2-4 Hillside avenue during its March statutory session Monday evening, thus extending the city's land holdings to the east of the Hillside Place public housing project.

A resolution to purchase the former Merchants' Coal property for $27,500 is but one of numerous items on the agenda for the formal council session, which will begin at 8 pm in the council chambers at city hall.

Other items of import which councillors will confront include a resolution to call an auction for the re-sale of the Campbell Gardens property on Edgehill road (the sale completed last year was nixed by provincial officials); a resolution adopting an intermunicipal agreement regarding police pensions, which might resolve the five-year-old dispute over integration of suburban police pension funds; and a revision of the budget of the Municipal Housing Bureau of Westmount, which controls the Hillside Place project.

Three traffic control resolutions are to be considered by the councillors: one would decree alternate-side parking on St. George's Place, another would authorize a stop sign on Kensington avenue at Cote St. Antoine road, and the third would establish a yield sign on Rosemount crescent at Mountain avenue.

Finance resolutions

The schedule also includes a by-law to cancel outdated loan authorities, another two to take out loans for general city expenses and those of the light and power department, another to establish a "working fund" and a fourth to make some "housekeeping" changes to the city's general pension fund by-law. Notice of motion is expected for a by-law to enact and authorize the execution of public works, something else apparently requested by Quebec authorities.

Bad debts are scheduled to be written off by resolution of council, though no details are yet available. The councillors will also be called upon to authorize new funds for "overexpenditures" in various projects now under way. Another resolution will allow for the disposal of five rather dilapidated automobiles now in city custody, and tenders for sale of ready-mixed concrete—opened at city hall on Tuesday—will be considered.

Social aspects of engineering discussed

Professor Hugh McQueen of Concordia University addressed the Westmount Rotary Club last Wednesday on the social and environmental impacts of engineering and the seeming "numbing" effect of modern-day technology on today's society.

He pointed out that governments are taking steps toward resolving the difficulties, establishing commissions, ministries and demanding environmental impact statements and technology assessments. While engineering fraternities demand recognition of a social understanding among their members, however, he said that universities are loathe to institute courses on the subject, preferring more technological programs instead.

Prof. McQueen was introduced by Russ King and thanked by fellow engineer Robert Layton, who recommended a recently-published book, "The Crash of '79," as exemplary of the social problems engineers today are facing. Rotary Vice-President George Sklivas presided at the luncheon, at which four visiting Rotarians were present.

Dialogue Night Monday

Monday evening will be Dialogue Night at Westmount High School and the school committee is urging parents and students to attend. The activities begin at 8:00 pm with a short introduction in the auditorium followed by discussion groups.

Vandalism, curriculum, careers, accountability and discipline are just some of the topics the committee has been discussing in their monthly meetings and they hope to draw parents, teachers and students into discussions on these subjects during the evening.

Leaders have been chosen for each group to moderate the discussions. Coffee will be served.

For more information call the school at 933-2701.
