

Youthful faces of witnesses testifying at FLQ inquest

ROGER TETREAULT

Applied for a job at Record
Roger Tetreault, 22, a material witness in the bomb death of army night watchman Wilfred Vincent O'Neill, recently applied to The Record for employment.
Mr. Tetreault was identified at the coroner's inquest as an unemployed reporter formerly with The Gazette and The Canadian Press.
Mr. Tetreault's application letter to The Record dated March 29, 1963 read as follows:
"The present is to apply for a position as reporter with the Record.
"Enclosed is a copy of the magazine CANADA EXPORT REVIEW, two issues of which I edited. It also includes articles under my name and the pseudonym of Lew R. Rodgers. I have also written several free-lance articles for the magazine HOCKEY PICTORIAL.
"I am 22-years-old, single, and I hope to move out to the Eastern Townships. I would like to continue writing as a newspaper reporter.
"Thanking you in advance for your kind co-operation in this matter, I remain, respectfully yours,
The letter was unsigned, but Mr. Tetreault's name, address (5736 Esplanade Ave., Montreal) and telephone number were typed at the end.
Permit deadline is re-extended
QUEBEC (CP)—Premier Jean Lesage celebrated his birthday Monday by extending the deadline for obtaining driving permits until Thursday at midnight.
The deadline, already extended from June 1, was to have been midnight Monday.
Mr. Lesage speaking in the legislature, criticized drivers for not getting permits. "Practically no one" came to various offices during the week to get their permits. There was little mail at the government offices in Quebec.

Relief expressed by tourist trade over the arrests
By MALCOLM REID (Record staff reporter)
A City of Montreal tourist official yesterday expressed relief that the FLQ had not chosen to launch its bombing campaign in the middle of the tourist season.
"If it had gone on to the end of June," said Lucien Bergeron, director of Montreal's municipal tourism bureau, "it would really have hurt." But he felt most Americans would take recent arrests of terrorist suspects as indicating the bombings were over.
Already, however, some tour organizers had cancelled bus trips to Montreal for New England travellers out of fear of the violently separatist Quebec Liberation Front.
Fear was the reaction Mr. Bergeron's office had met, and not the hostility reported by Quebec Tourism Minister Lionel Bertrand, who had received letters from Americans apparently under the impression the FLQ bombs were meant for Uncle Sam. "To—with Quebec!" one writer exclaimed.
Montreal's peak tourist season is June 15 to Sept. 15. Earlier in the day Mr. Bergeron, in Sherbrooke for the Canadian Tourist Association's day-long tourism seminar at the New Sherbrooke Hotel, had jokingly said the current coroners' inquest into an FLQ bomb death was a big tourist attraction.
One of the largest international contingents of newspapermen ever to come to Montreal is covering the inquest.
"The U.S. press played it up every time a bomb went off in Montreal," said Mr. Bergeron. "So people got the idea they were exploding on every street corner of the city."
Quebec is not the only place where terrorism has marred tourism. Portugal and Haiti have experienced similar scares, and the New York Times recently compared FLQ terror to violent tendencies in Negro movements in the U.S. South.
The situations were not comparable, according to Mr. Bergeron. The FLQ was a secret handful of people, while Negro groups were well organized. "Another difference is that in the U.S. authorities are urging integration, whereas here all governments have condemned the terrorist activity."
Racial discrimination is "not in the Quebec spirit," but some takes place in the province's tourist trade anyway.
Marc Hardy, assistant to Quebec's deputy-minister of tourism, who told a Sherbrooke conference on tourism yesterday that tourism should express "the brotherhood of man," gave that summary of the racial discrimination situation in the province's hotels and restaurants.
"We get very few complaints," he said, "but I think perhaps the reason is that discrimination is done delicately. If a colored or Jewish person is turned away from a hotel, he may not have any way of knowing there has been discrimination."
Mr. Hardy said the province's hotel legislation was under review, but he did not know if there would be anti-discrimination provisions in the revised laws.
"It might not be a bad idea," he said.
"I know that many, many Negroes come to Quebec City. And as for small hotels in the country, there is no problem. Let's not have any illusions, the small hotelkeeper wants to make money; he doesn't care about the customer's color."
"In bigger city hotels, you have to worry about offending tourists who themselves, at home, practice discrimination. We might bring in the Negroes only to scare out the whites."

Question need for industry portfolio
OTTAWA (CP)—The Liberal government's proposal to set up a new department of industry was peppered with criticism in the Commons Monday.
Conservative and Social Credit MPs questioned the need for a new department to do a job they felt was already being handled adequately in the trade and commerce department and in other government agencies.
New Democrats welcomed the move, but said they doubted the new department would be given a strong enough hand to coordinate economic planning and implement policy as a super-department over other agencies.
Liberal backbenchers sat silently on the government side of the Commons as opposition MPs voiced their doubts about the usefulness of the new department which will come under the wing of Defence Production Minister Drury.
Spokesmen for all opposition parties said they would reserve judgment until they see the details of the structure and powers of the new department.
Nicholas Katzenbach, deputy U.S. attorney-general, also was assigned to go with them.
Wallace rebutted a personal appeal from President Kennedy, who wired the governor: "I am urgently asking you to consider the consequences to your state and its fine university if you persist in setting an example of defiant conduct and urge you instead to leave these matters in the courts of law where they belong."
Kennedy said there would be little danger of violence at the university if Wallace would stay away from the campus.
In reply, Wallace sent the president this telegram: "My presence here guarantees peace. This is the opinion of all here familiar with the facts, including the legislature of Alabama and the president of the University of Alabama."
WALLACE BACKED
The university board of trustees backed Wallace. After a dinner meeting with him, the board adopted a resolution which said:
"The board of trustees hereby declares that the said presence of Governor Wallace with the state law enforcement officers is desirable under the circumstances to preserve peace and order."
Tuscaloosa was like an armed camp as the climactic moment approached. The atmosphere—despite appeals from all sides for law and order—was electric with anxiety.
The university campus was tightly sealed.
State troopers manned wooden barricades; they checked credentials of everyone who approached and kept a sharp eye on groups that formed nearby.
They patrolled the streets in squad cars and thronged the entrance and the lobby of the hotel where Wallace spent the night.
22 ARRESTED
Col. Albert Lingo, state public safety director, said arrests had reached 22 up to the eve of the arrival of the two Negro students. Those arrested were charged with illegal possession of weapons that ranged from pistols and clubs to bayonets, swords, tear gas equipment and needle-pointed hooks used for moving cotton bales.

Schoeters gave testimony after his lawyer, Gilles Duguay, asked that it be made clear to him he would have court protection. Coroner Marcel Trahan said this means nothing he said under oath could be used against him provided he tells the truth.
Schoeters said the first FLQ bomb was used against a railway line in the village of Lemieux.
"Three of us went there in a car. The problem was that nobody had ever done this operation but all the same it was necessary to see if it would work."
"It was a coincidence that the prime minister of Canada passed over the track. It happened that way."

About Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The triumph of Gerald Q. Wert, Sunday night's NBC dramatic show, was the subject of a squabble between Ernestine Barton, the author, and the show's associate producer, about writing credits.

James Ambandos, the associate producer, claimed to have reworked the script and wanted to share the writing credits. The writers' guild turned him down, but one wonders what the script was like originally. It certainly didn't seem like anything to get excited about.

The hour-long drama was a sentimental and trite little morality play about the importance of laughter. Art Carney played a second-rate comedian in a totalitarian state which had passed a law outlawing humor—a "malignant infection in the human body," a fascist bully called it.

He had been dodging the state cops and giving illegal performances for decades. He was the last comedian left and a dangerous enemy to the regime. But as they led him off to the firing squad, a little boy he had befriended was practicing Gerald's old comedy routine.

We know there's no way to abolish laughter, but there ought to be a way to eliminate shows like that.

Jack Paar is globe trotting with cameras this summer—Tahiti and Africa are on his itinerary—making home movies for use on his fall program . . . Lillian Gish of silent films fame will be the first guest star on NBC's new Mr. Novak series.

Paul Burke, after all these seasons playing one role in Naked City, is back in free lance circulation again now that the ABC series is dead. He's already been signed for a guest-starring part in The Eleventh Hour, which during the past season has been the NBC competition to his ABC show and hastened its demise.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Tuesday Weld is not yet 20 and already she's looking for a new image.

Once the terror of the teenage set, she is dedicating herself to dramatic art. Or at least that's the picture this week.

"If the old Tuesday Weld image was wild, it was because Tuesday Weld was wild," she remarked.

The result? Folks refused to take her seriously as an actress.

"The publicity had a two-fold effect," she said. "People were astonished when they discovered I could turn in a good performance. That was good. On the other hand, producers didn't really think I could act, so they wouldn't consider me for important roles. That was bad."

She has demonstrated that she can act in some television shows that proved that her dramatic talent can match her more obvious attributes.

She is getting her first real chance to prove her worth in films. She is appearing with Steve McQueen and Jackie Gleason in Soldier in the Rain.

Tuesday reported to the film after a soul-searching three months in New York.

Submits petition to council

Claims tavern being constructed

Sherbrooke city council Monday night decided to "seriously consider" a petition from the West Ward citizens protesting the erection of an alleged tavern in the area.

West Ward resident, Roland Fournier, brought the petition, bearing 500 signatures, before the municipal body and asked that the city refuse permission for operation of a tavern on Galt Street.

Mr. Fournier told council that the group "categorically opposed" the building of the alleged establishment, at present under construction on Galt Street between St. Antoine and St. Pierre Streets, because it will be situated facing a public park (Dufresne Park).

In a telephone interview with the Record following the meeting, Mr. Fournier said that "I know that there is going to be a tavern there once the building is built."

"There has not been a permit awarded officially," he added, "but somehow the person there received permission to go ahead and build a tavern."

The petition signed by 500 West Ward residents, a copy of which will be forwarded to the Quebec Liquor Board according to Mr. Fournier, reads in translation as follows:

By JAMES DAVIES
(Record staff reporter)

"Whereas a first request for a permit having been made to the Liquor Board to operate a tavern on Galt Street west, the said permit which was refused."

"Whereas the site where this establishment was supposed to operate was situated near a public park belonging to the city."

"Whereas a new request was made officially through the newspapers."

"Whereas the possible site and the one foreseen by the interested parties to operate this licence is still situated around this same public park, in addition to being a few feet from a theatre."

"And considering that the situation of this tavern or establishment of this nature on this part of Galt Street, does not receive the approval of the citizens of the West Ward, and for the reasons brought to the attention of the board."

"We, the undersigned, declare ourselves categorically opposed to the establishment of a tavern or other business of this nature on Galt Street and ask the competent authorities that serious consideration be taken to retain the refusal of all permits for this end."

Council says its hands are tied

Only if city officials can prove that a parttime job is preventing a city employee from performing his regular duties properly can they ask him to drop the extra job, council decided Monday night.

Otherwise, members agreed that their hands are tied even if they know that their employees are holding down an additional job.

The subject was brought before council last night by Alderman Antonio Pinard who said that he had received requests to prevent some of the employees in his department (recreation dept., which includes parks) from keeping two jobs at once.

Mr. Pinard said, "I can't stop them from doing this as far as I know they do not use city equipment on these part time jobs, and there is nothing that can be done."

Council had previously received a letter from the Joint Committee of the Eastern Townships Building Trades asking for the co-operation of the city to eliminate moonlighting (especially among landscapers and painters).

Penitentiary escapee faces charges

The 23-year-old St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary escapee appeared in St. Francis District Court of Sessions yesterday and was charged with breaking and entering, and assault.

Marcel Talon pleaded guilty to the charges and opted for a trial by jury.

He was remanded until Thursday at which time the date for his preliminary hearing will be set.

He appeared before Judge Redmond Hayes.

Talon was caught by Lennoxville police after a long and painstaking search Friday night and early Saturday morning.

The charges arose out of his breaking into the home of Nelson Andrews at 3 College Street in Lennoxville.

It is expected that further charges will be laid against Talon.

Quebec should present to tourists a 'French face', conference is told

Chamber of Commerce and civic officials of Eastern Townships centres from Thetford Mines to Granby heard unanimous pleas yesterday for showing visitors to Quebec, a "French face."

Laurentian ski resort operator Maurice Paquin ridiculed such neon signs as "St. Anatole Body Shop."

For Laurent Ecroyd of Toronto, secretary of the Canadian Tourist Association, co-sponsor with the Quebec Chamber of Commerce of yesterday's tourism conference at the New Sherbrooke Hotel, "Snack Bar St. Jean Baptiste" was the height of advertising absurdity. Mr. Ecroyd delivered his remarks to the conference luncheon in French. He assured the participants that tourists come to places for what is different about them, and a campaign to "re-Frenchify" the Quebec landscape would pay off in tourist dollars.

Marc Hardy, assistant to the joint deputy minister of tourism, hunting and fishing in Quebec, told delegates not to forget to consult old novels and geography books, or the parish priest, when taking stock of their region's tourist attractions.

Louis-Philippe Demers, Sherbrooke's tourist director, had one modification to make to this campaign for a "French face" in his afternoon speech.

"In the Eastern Townships I don't think we can really talk about 're-Frenchification,' French never existed here until quite recently," Mr. Demers said. His office's new decorative map of the city attempts to point out the English and Loyalist background of the area.

The conference was attended by 28 delegates, including Ernest Pelletier, chairman of the Sherbrooke Chamber of Commerce's tourism committee, and Ald. Robert Gauthier, Sherbrooke council's tourism chairman. Provincial and federal governments were also represented.

"Sherbrooke is the most beautiful city in the world," Mayor Nadeau told laughing delegates at a noon civic reception, "but we recognize there are a few nice isolated spots elsewhere."

All units kept busy from reveille to sunset

FARNHAM — The second day at summer camp for men of the 9 Militia Group was actually their first of the five days training schedule. All eight units were busy from reveille till sunset, and by evening there were few who cared to do other than tuck in for a good night's sleep.

Sleeping was somewhat of a problem, however, for some on Sunday night, as the thermometer dropped to 38 degrees. Those that complained of the cold have taken extra precautions to make certain that chilly nights don't interrupt their comforts again this week. The answer seems to be sleeping bags, or extra covers, and everyone is managing to take care of himself.

As for the days, weather has been splendid, and a slight steady breeze has kept conditions perfect for out-of-doors training. Everyone here is concerned over predictions that nights will continue to keep chilly. However all in 9 Militia Group are far more concerned over the promise of continued good weather for the balance of the week.

VISITS MAYOR
Monday afternoon, Brig. J. P. Gautier, OBE, CD, Commander of 9 Militia Group, and Lt-Col. C. E. LeGros, Camp Farnham Commandant paid an official visit on Dr. Jean Louis Cardin, mayor of Farnham. Dr. Cardin said he was pleased to see the camp re-open for summer training, and extended best wishes to the militia and permanent force personnel stationed at the training centre.

VARIED INTERESTS AT CAMP
Practically every unit in camp has some sort of competition on for their men. However, the most keenly contended prizes will be for the three trophies offered by 9 Militia Group for best lines, volleyball and softball.

Monday evening a Hollywood movie production, "Phedra" was shown in the station drill hall, and was watched by many. Wednesday's movie will be "Road to Hong Kong," and should have plenty of appeal for many of the younger soldiers here.

Although some at the camp have visited Farnham, few others will go to town, and the answer is simple according to WO-2 John Gardiner, one-time RSM. Mr. Gardiner said, "Those who can go away from camp are too tired to do so, and those who aren't too tired have too many interests right here on the base to allow them to leave."

ESPRIT DE CORPS GOOD
Although many phases of militia drill and routine training has changed, there's no difference in esprit de corps. Every militiaman here wants others to know just what unit he belongs to, and beware when you say anything against a man's uniting their bandmaster down, not in the least.

TRAINING PROGRAM
All eight units have a full schedule this week. Taking each unit by seniority, their programs will be as follows:

The Sherbrooke Regiment, RCAC, were on the ranges for small arms practice Monday morning, and practised national survival drill in the afternoon. All day today, Tuesday 11th The Sherbrookes will practise national survival drills, and will continue until noon Wednesday

On Wednesday afternoon they'll start a tank training schedule that will end only on Friday noon. Some of the unit will take part in an extensive radio exercise on Thursday.

The 7/11 Hussars RCAC started working with tanks Monday morning, and will keep the Sherman until they're turned over to The Sherbrookes Wednesday noon. Throughout these schedules lined up, with a little two and a half days, The Hussars will conduct competitions among their tankmen to stimulate interest, which is already extremely high.

Tuesday afternoon the Hussars have planned a joint armoured infantry scheme, involving one of the group's infantry regiments.

Wednesday afternoon is sports break for the Hussars who'll have a reconnaissance exercise Thursday morning, with national survival practice in the afternoon. Friday morning the unit will hold recruits' tests.

The 27th Field Artillery Regiment, RCA, were on the small arms ranges Monday morning, and ended the day with corps training which continued until noon today. This afternoon, Tuesday, they'll take national survival instruction and drill. Both Wednesday and Thursday will see this regiment sticking to special corps training assignments, with possibly a bit of national survival at the end of the second day. They'll also be on their howitzers Friday until noon.

The 46th Field Artillery Regiment RCA spent Monday morning on the small arms ranges, and did a recap of national survival training in the afternoon. All Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday will be devoted to special to corps artillery training, but could be interrupted by another half day on the ranges. The only national survival training this unit expects to do will be on Friday morning.

Both the 6ieme Battalion, Royal 22nd Regiment and Les Fusiliers de Sherbrooke RCIC have heavy infantry training schedules lined up, with a little national survival added to balance out their week.

Probably the most colorful and intriguing task of the week will be the Fusiliers overnight combat scheme, which will commence Wednesday and last through the night till Thursday morning. This exercise will actually culminate the regiment's training program for the year.

Although no definite program had been declared by the 6ieme Battalion at the time of this report, it is expected that they too will have a similar drill.

The 8th Medical Company, RCAMC spent Monday evening field medical clinics. Tuesday, range practice; Wednesday, testing militiamen of other units in first aid; Thursday an all day, all night scheme, and Friday morning corps training.

The 24 Technical Squadron, RCME will spend most of his week doing training in the field, with very little national survival. The unit will likely be called on in various instances to perform their special to corps roll, in view of the night schemes planned.

Manager of investment corporation urges merger of small industries

The many small one-family or one-man industries in Quebec should be amalgamated into several large ones to accelerate economic growth, Gerard Filion, general manager of the General Investment Corporation of Quebec, said yesterday.

He was speaking at the unveiling of the $3,000,000 modernization of the Dominion Textile plant in Magog.

Mr. Filion said that the lesson which Quebec can and should learn from Ontario and the United States is that the path to success is paved with large firms rather than a myriad of small ones.

"The family or one-man industries must be gotten rid of," he said, "they must be incorporated into bigger ones... more financially stable ones."

"We must have fusions, groupings, and amalgamations for a more stable and faster growing economy," Mr. Filion continued.

Mr. Filion stated that it is the express aim of the General Investment Corporation to promote the amalgamation of the small family run business into several larger enterprises.

It was pointed out by the guest speaker that although Quebec has had a similar economic growth rate to Ontario, the population of Quebec has grown much more rapidly than has the population of Ontario and that is the reason for the relatively heavier employment in Quebec.

He pointed out that there are two methods for the creation of more jobs in Quebec. The first is to create more and new industries and the second is to expand the existing industries. The latter method is the best and most rapid manner by which to raise the number of available jobs, he pointed out.

Although Quebec has the natural resources, the geographically advantageous positioning, the labour supply, the electric power, and the will to work it is still lacking in number of jobs available, Mr. Filion stated.

The way out of this paradox, he emphasized once again was to have an amalgamation of the small family run industries into larger more stable ones.

Mr. Oscar Paquette, plant superintendent welcomed the official visitors to the plant, and told the gathering how the textile industry has become "a vital factor in the provincial and federal economy."

Mr. Paquette said that the Total cost of the project is estimated at $1,750,000, of which more than a million dollars was raised in a public campaign. Mr. Munster said that owing to the unsettled condition of building materials, he was unable to offer any tentative date for the completion of the buildings.

Should simplify constituency names

Whoever is charged with reorganizing the Canadian electoral set-up, whether it be a special non-partisan commission or a committee of the House of Commons, would do well to study the suggestion of Jean Chretien, Liberal MP for St. Maurice-LaFleche.

Mr. Chretien proposes that the names of the constituencies be simplified. As representative for a hyphenated constituency, he knows of the difficulties experienced by a Member in identifying himself, either in the House of Commons or on the hustings.

But his troubles are slight when compared with those of some of his conferees. Take for instance Colin Cameron who represents Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands, a British Columbia riding. Then there is the Newfoundland rider who must describe himself as Member for Grand Falls-White-Bay-Labrador.

Even Quebec province can provide a few beauties in the way of nomenclature. There is Berthier-Maskinonge-Delaunaudiere on the north shore or Chateauguay-Huntingdon-Laprairie closer to the Eastern Townships.

A general revision of some of the more cumbersome constituency names might facilitate the redistribution processes. Generally constituency lines are based on municipal counties and often the municipality which gave the county its name originally finds itself in closer sympathy with a neighboring county than in its namesake. But its voters must cast their ballots in a particular riding because it bears the same name as their village.

Simplification of the constituency labels would also remove confusion which frequently arises through the similarity of names between federal and provincial ridings.

Reach for a pin when headache hits

Modern medicine cannot be credited with all the cures. Antiquity seems to have pinpointed a few. In fact, two British doctors, using an old Chinese pinpoint cure, claim to have the answer to the headache problem. It all comes about without conflicting claims of stomach acidity or races into the blood stream.

As reported in the British monthly journal, Medical World, the two practitioners say they were successful with 32 or 42 patients treated this way, a method called Acupuncture.

The Medical World reports that in nearly every disease certain areas of the skin become tender. Acupuncture devotees claim that by sticking needles into the correct points relief can be obtained.

Modern neurophysiology teaches that pain sometimes comes about due to a lack of input into the central nervous system, and that by increasing the input the pain can be removed. An everyday example of this is the irritating tickle, which can be relieved by a scratch. Physiologically, this is simply increasing the input to the brain. Perhaps, Acupuncture, as applied to headaches, at least, is a forerunner of this finding.

So if you suffer from nagging headaches, perhaps you should take up Acupuncture. If it really does work, you can throw away the pills and pick up an old hat pin when pain strikes.

After a man drives a bargain to get a second-hand car he sometimes finds he isn't driving a bargain.

Other papers say:

More dipped lights needed in U.K.

The controversy over driving on dipped headlights in lighted streets needs to be settled. Roadside posters urge motorists to use dipped headlights, a number of Chief Constables and coroners recommend them, and Birmingham has produced statistics which suggest that the dipped headlights campaign there last winter saved nineteen lives and reduced accidents after dark by nearly 17 per cent.

(Manchester Guardian)

Against this the Ministry of Transport is non-committal, police cars (outside Birmingham) frequently drive on sidelights, and the motorist who tries to follow the advice to use dipped headlights is rewarded by being "flashed at" angrily by half the other motorists he meets.

Even when allowance is made for the exceptional weather last winter (which in any case was not confined to Birmingham) the fiercest opponent of dipped headlights cannot easily dismiss the Birmingham figures. The Ministry of Transport is awaiting a further report from the Road Research Laboratory before drawing conclusions.

But even if special circumstances in Birmingham make the figures optimistic it still seems clear that some lives and many injuries could be saved by a nationwide campaign. On the evidence the case for a national experiment in the use of dipped headlights is overwhelming.

Theatre not for the cultured few

Recently, by proclamation of the mayor of Winnipeg, people in Manitoba are asked to recognize and support a remarkable phenomenon. The phenomenon is the Manitoba Theatre Centre which in a few years has completely changed the public view of locally produced live theatre. The observance proclaimed by the mayor is "Theatre Centre Week."

(Winnipeg Free Press)

Less than 10 years ago, theatre in Manitoba was a venture for "the cultured few." It struggled along, kept alive only by the generosity of a handful of guarantors and a small audience of dedicated theatre lovers.

Today, the MTC can properly claim that it is everyone's theatre. Last year, it boasted over 112,000 patrons. In the coming season, it expects to play to a minimum of 125,000 people. And so, each, its circle of new admirers swells.

But the MTC has accomplished more than popularity. It has disproved emphatically that artistic quality and popular appeal are necessarily incompatible. The MTC has succeeded in choosing plays with wide appeal. But its actors and actresses, and all the people involved in the theatre's productions—building on the achievement of its fore-runners, the Little Theatre and Theatre 77—have worked all the harder to bring to its wider audiences more polished and professional performances.

Thus, within less than a decade, Manitoba's theatre has grown from a company of hopeful amateurs, into the "leading regional professional theatre in Canada." It is now in a position, as the Canada Council has recognized, to "set a pattern to be used elsewhere."

Thus, in its current membership drive, the MTC no longer needs to coax people to come and discover its merits. It can now simply welcome Manitobans to come and enjoy themselves. And it can do so many thousands of them will.

Is a policy paper needed

US military officials claiming not enough strategy decisions

WASHINGTON — (NEA)

—High United States military officials feel that the Kennedy Administration's top civilians in national security affairs have been so busy dealing in day-to-day details of military policy that they haven't been making the broad strategic policy decisions civilians are supposed to make.

The criticism is leveled at both the President's advisers in the White House and Defense Secretary McNamara's aides in the Pentagon.

The uniformed officers say that the Kennedy-McNamara team works on each international crisis as it comes up. This they call "the flexible approach." But military men say they can't operate that way. They like to plan ahead, realizing it takes years to develop weapons systems, train officers, develop effective doctrines.

As a result, the military men say they are floundering. They don't know what to prepare for. They have no firm basis on which to develop new types of weapons. They have no answer when McNamara's advisers say a weapons system is not needed. They have a feeling the defense of the U.S. is "drifting."

Both the Truman and Eisenhower Administrations prepared National Security Policy Papers which set out the overall aims, principles and proposed reactions of U.S. defense. These top papers were accompanied by a host of subsidiary papers defining U.S. objectives and actions under differing sets of emergencies and Red aggressions. These papers served as guidelines for the military men whose job it was to make the practical working plans for defense.

The Kennedy Administration has not prepared such an overall National Security Policy Paper and associated papers. This failure is proving a severe handicap to the generals and admirals whose job it is to make practical plans for whatever wars and defense emergencies that may arise.

One high-placed Pentagon general with just such responsibility told me:

"I feel we are drifting. I don't feel I know what the policies are. How can we plan?"

A source close to McNamara counters:

"They can read McNamara's

By COL. RAY CROMLEY

speeches, his budget statements and his classified memorandums."

These top military men do study these documents carefully in an attempt to figure out what the U.S. strategic policy is and how the U.S. plans to react under different circumstances.

"But we still can only guess at our strategy," says one high officer. Other military men concur, saying that they are able to glean from speeches and classified papers leaves them in the dark about such basic questions as how and under what circumstances nuclear weapons will be used.

"I don't even know when we'd shift from conventional to nuclear weapons in the defense of Europe," says one high-placed military man whose responsibility it is to plan for such things.

These military men believe that the President and McNamara make some of these crucial decisions on a day-to-day basis in order to keep maneuverability or "options," in McNamara's favorite word. "But it certainly makes it difficult to program ahead," one officer says wearily.

Because the State Department would have an important role in formulating a National Security Policy Paper, I talked to a high-placed State Department official about the problem.

He also doesn't understand why there is no such paper. He said the delay in formulating such a document and its associated papers was not a result of State Department objections. He said he could understand the problem the generals and admirals faced.

In answer, a McNamara civilian aide said there is a need to wait until Administration strategic policy concepts are better developed. He didn't know when that would be.

Another high government official said, "Of course you can always wait until your ideas are better developed, but that kind of waiting can go on and on forever."

Military men emphasize what they consider a simple fact: if you are going to prepare for different kinds of wars and crises, you have to make your plans years in advance because military hardware and planning takes years to conceive and develop.

Because of the budget cuttings imposed by all administrations, including this one, mammoth quantities of every conceivable type of arms and equipment cannot be built. Ponderous organizations like the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marines can't play by ear. Take the war plans for the defense of Europe. If the Russians invaded Western Europe it is not clear to key military planners at what point the U.S. and NATO would shift from conventional weapons to nuclear weapons. But if this decision isn't made in advance, then military men say the defense of Western Europe could end in a debacle.

Getting an in-the-middle-of-battle decision by the U.S. president and of the other NATO heads of state might delay the shift in weapons for those crucial hours or minutes that would insure defeat.

That is, it would if that decision had not been formulated in advance by a long series of hardheaded policy meetings that would, in essence, formulate a National Security Policy Paper and its associated papers.

Hour-by-hour decision-making without an overall National Security Policy Plan was the flaw in the ill-fated Bay of Pigs invasion of Cuba. It was, at the same time, the method of operation in the later Cuban blockade.

Other very practical reasons exist for a National Security Policy Paper now.

There are within the Pentagon sharp differences or the military practicability of different strategy and tactics under different circumstances. Some of these sharp differences are between the military men and the civilians in the Pentagon and at the White House.

Right now, because key policy decisions haven't been made formally, there has been no resolution of these differences. They lie buried. If the White House decides on a National Security Policy Paper and associated papers, then these honest differences will be argued through and resolved. If these differences continue to lie buried, and Mr. Kennedy and McNamara's civilian aides make military policy decisions on the spur of the moment as emergencies arise, the voice of the experienced military men will not be heard in detail.

"You can work with a policy decision, even if you don't agree with it," says one officer. "But if you don't have a policy decision, what can you do—guess?"

Vatican City State, the 108.7 acre area of Rome belonging to the Holy See of the Roman Catholic Church, was created as recently as 1929 by the Lateran Treaty signed by the Cardinal Gasparri on behalf of Pope Pius XI and by Benito Mussolini for Italy's king.

Canadian Indian operates Parachute Centre in Sweetsburg sky divers come from Eastern Canada, border U.S. states

By PAJ BOUGIE
(Record staff reporter)

SWEETSBURG — (Staff) — For the past month on Saturday and Sunday afternoons amidst clear blue and sunny skies, travellers along Route 52 on the outskirts of Sweetsburg have suddenly pulled their automobiles to a stop and directed their gazes toward the sky.

They were not fixing their intent stares at a celestial phenomenon. They were simply marvelling at the adept manoeuvres of a group of men belonging to a new breed-the sky diver parachutist.

These sky divers people were starting at are guests of the Sweetsburg Parachute Center, a new frontier for the Sweetsburg Municipal Airport, brought to the fore by a 33-year-old British Columbia Indian, Bob "Rocky" Spring.

The Center came into existence last April 1, after Rocky, who had been living in Montreal for several years, met E. J. Persons, of Sweetsburg, and discussed his plan for a parachute center with him.

Mr. Persons gave Rocky the green light after learning that Rocky had been a parachutist in the American Army.

Rocky made his first jump in 1944 with the American Army at age 14. "When they found out how old I was, they kicked me out," he laughingly remembered.

Why was the parachute center opened?

"Well, this is a fast growing sport which the public does not know much about. They think that we (parachutists) are a bunch of fly-wing zombies and bats. "Everyone is invited to come watch us jump and learn about the sport. Also, it is to give jumpers a chance to join in active competition," he said.

The Center at Sweetsburg is not a club. It is a center where various parachuting clubs from throughout Quebec, Ontario, New Brunswick and the border States of the United States are invited to come and practice the sport of jumping.

It is also a center where those interested in sky diving can learn the tricks of the trade.

Rocky is the instructor, and will teach a person who has never been off the ground in his life to jump within three hours. Cost for the first three hours of training is $30.

"I guarantee that within three hours of instruction, the student will take his first jump. We supply all the equipment necessary," Rocky added.

The student will take his first jump without having to JUMP RESULTS are posted on a master score board. In addition to scores, divers can pick up the necessary wear-worry about opening his chute. The chute is attached to a 'static line' (a wire tied to the aircraft) which will automatically open the chute when the diver jumps from the aircraft.

The first jump is made from a height of 3,000 feet. After the first 10 jumps, the amateur diver is obliged to pass a government test. If successful, the diver is then permitted to jump from the aircraft and open his chute ther information needed for the jump. Attending the board here are Miss Judith Craske, left, and Miss Marie whenever he sees fit. "All that is required to jump, is a medical certificate showing that you are a healthy specimen," he said.

"Accidents? We hardly know what an accident is," Rocky said. "During the past five years and 60,000 sport jumps later, the accident rate is less than 0.187 per cent. This is a smaller accident rate than in skiing."

WOMAN JUMPER

This is what led Mrs. Spring to try jumping. At first, Laurette, a French Canadian Montrealer, would shudder when Rocky would talk about jumping.

Today, the mother of five children, Laurette not only jumps, but sails through the air for a distance of one mile down before opening her parachute.

"I love it," she said. Not satisfied with jumping only, Laurette also makes parachutes and repairs all parachuting equipment on hand.

Seasoned jumpers go through free diving just for the heck of it. Instead of opening their parachutes as they leave the aircraft at an average height of 6,600 feet (over one mile up) they leave their chutes closed for 30 seconds in which time they have fallen a distance of 4,000 feet.

During this free flight, the jumpers can control themselves with their arms, and do such things as veering left, right loop, lie on their backs, etc.

take up the sport will pay about $175 for a war surplus chute, boots, helmet, coveralls and goggles. Once he has this equipment, he is ready for jumping.

During a day of jumping, a diver can sky dive between three to four times for an average cost of between $12 to $14.

COWANSVILLE —

NESBITT RESIDENCE

A special dinner was served June 2, to mark the birthday of Mrs. Ada Turner. The guests, members of her family from Montreal, were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Clark, a grandson, Digby Clark, and a great-grandson, Craig Ornell.

On June 4, Miss Edith Richmond spent the day in Montreal.

The residents were delighted to welcome back Mrs. Irene Adams, who reads to them regularly each Tuesday. Mrs. Adams had been ill for the past two weeks.

Miss Myrtle Shufelt, the matron, on June 5, attended a meeting of the Association of Non-Profit Homes and Hospitals. On June 6, Miss Shufelt attended the annual meeting of the American Geriatrics held at the Queen Elizabeth Hotel in Montreal.

The United Church at Knowlton gave a musical concert on June 6, at the Residence. A large group sang selected sacred songs and a variety of old favorites, which were very much enjoyed. Mrs. Tuxen was in charge of the concert.

WATERLOO — (Special) — The staff of Waterloo High School entertained the commissioners of the school and their wives at a buffet supper June 6, at the Granby Golf Club. The Smorgasbord held a most tempting variety of cold meats, salads and desserts. Fifty-two sat down to the small tables attractively arranged.

At the close of the meal Al Thompson, master of ceremonies, called on John Black to introduce the speaker, Bob Millinchamp from Sutton, although Mr. Millinchamp was no stranger to the majority present, having lived in Waterloo many years and always having kept his contacts with Waterloo, particularly the young people of the High School. Mr. Black, as a former neighbour in St. Anne de Bellevue, gave an interesting short biography.

Mr. Millinchamp's talk could be entitled Meditations during Retirement. The speaker retired recently and located in Sutton. His descriptions of retirement were amusing. They proved a man could have a full schedule, even when supposed to be at leisure.

The main theme of his talk to the teachers and parents present was the team work both parties have to accomplish to prepare a child for the world. The parents' hours with a child add up to an amazing figure as compared with the fewer hours a teacher has the charge.

"Therefore," said Mr. Millinchamp, "why feel the teacher is all to blame if the pupil does not succeed?"

It is a great responsibility for both to see that the child has received enough solid training to stand the strain of life. The speaker used as an example MANSONVILLE — A meeting of the United Church Women was held at the home of Mrs. Clifton Jersey on June 3, with a good attendance, the devotional period being taken by Mrs. Guy George.

A card was sent to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Worden and their baby daughter, Karen Jane.

The last meeting of the season will be held on June 19, at the home of Mrs. Guy George, with the Vale Perkins group as visitors.

Power poles severed Weekend accidents plague Waterloo

WATERLOO — (Special) — The record for four years without a fatal accident in Waterloo was nearly broken during the past weekend. Two traffic accidents on Saturday night and one on Sunday night mounted up to quite a loss in property damage and resulted in three being hospitalized with serious injuries.

Saturday afternoon at 5:30 p.m. in front of 955 Main Street a taxi, driven by Jean-Maurice Poulin, struck the open door of a car belonging to Harvey Lagrandeur. Both drivers were from Montreal. Damage to the taxi amounted to $250, to the other approximately $150.00.

Saturday night at 9:15 Lucien Casavant of R.R. 3 Waterloo ran into a Southern Canada Power pole at 39 Taylor Street. His car was a complete loss, estimated at $600. Casavant was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, Granby and required 52 stitches to deep cuts in his head. Dr. Katz rendered first aid and transported the patient by Ledoux's ambulance to hospital.

Sunday night, at exactly 11:00 o'clock every street light in Waterloo went out and also the south end of the town was thrown into darkness by an accident on Foster Square. Two young men, Winston Chadwick, 22, of Waterloo and Serge Sinclair, 25, of Montreal were driving a car belonging to Alain Automobile Reg'd, Granby.

MAY BE PASTORS

Formerly barred from such posts, women now may become pastors in the Evangelical Church of the Rhineland, Germany.

They lost control of the car and crashed into a Southern Canada Power pole, at 27 Foster Square. The pole was broken off and the transformer damaged. The Southern Power crew restored lights within half an hour. Damages to the car were in excess of $2,000 and to the light pole $300. Dr. M. Katz rendered first aid. The two victims were transported to the Hotel Dieu, Sherbrooke, in Ledoux's ambulance.

Sinclair had his jugular vein nearly severed and Chadwick was also seriously injured, as they crashed through the windshield.

of walking back with their chutes, a special truck picks up divers in the drop zone and takes them back to home

MISS SUSAN BLACK BURIED FRIDAY

The funeral was held Friday for Miss Susan Lucia Black, Granby's oldest resident, who died June 3 at the Orchard Manor Convalescing home where she had been a patient.

Miss Black had celebrated her 104th birthday in January.

She suffered a stroke after an illness of some months.

The funeral was in Granby United Church with Rev. C. W. Foggo officiating. Burial was in Pinewood Cemetery.

Pallbearers were Albert Copeland, Bruce B. Payne, Allan Robinson, Chauncey Hawke, Douglas Doe and Kenneth Irwin.

She leaves a niece, Miss Bessie Black of Winnipeg, Manitoba.

Miss Black was well known and well travelled. She always held an interest in current issues and until the last few months, showed increased concern with politics and issues. She was always glad to talk on these subjects and to learn all the goings-on.

She showed interest in television programs and when she celebrated her 104th birthday, she wondered why all "this excitement."

Mrs. Olive Weston, proprietress of the Orchard Manor home said Miss Black would be greatly missed since she had been a patient since March 24, 1958 and celebrated four of her birthdays there.

Announce New Healing Substance: Shrinks Piles

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissue.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most important of all—results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue.

Now Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H. Ask for it at all drug stores—money back guarantee.

Questions readers ask

Q—What dishes are made with tenderloin steak?

A—Chateaubriand: consists of thick steaks cut from the heavy part of the tenderloin, broiled and served with a herb-flavored sauce made of vinegar, butter, eggs and shallots.

Tournedos: thick slices from a tenderloin which has been rolled in suet and tied. The meat is broiled and seasoned to taste, then served with melted butter or perhaps a sauce of wine, eggs and assorted herbs.

FILET MIGNON: prepared from thick slices of tenderloin cut from the small end. Because these end slices are often triangular or irregularly shaped, the meat sometimes is flattened or rolled. The slices are wrapped in bacon, broiled until well done inside and rare inside and served with a garnish or sauce.

Old man sun can be deceptive

A famous line by Noel Coward that "only mad dogs and Englishmen go out in the noonday sun" puts your romance with Old Sol in perspective.

As more of you are drawn to water sports and basking on a beach or near a pool, it is wise to remember that the sun can punish as well as reward.

Treat it with respect and you will come away after a day of fun without looking like a lobster.

Today's recipe

The egg has risen to higher social acceptance. Forty-eight stories above the streets of New York, we enjoyed the famous Sunday brunch in the Tower Suite in the Time-Life Bldg. Tom Margittai, one gourmet director, assured us that serving omelets at parties is now the chic thing to do. They can be plain or a combination of bacon, cheese, caviar, crabmeat, mushrooms, sour cream — any delectable combination.

We chose omelet aux fines herbes. A skillful captain prepared it tableside. It was tender, moist inside, delicate golden brown on the outside. Chic? Maybe, but our interest was in how it tasted. The answer: 100 per cent good.

To toss an omelet of Tower Suite excellence requires French skill. Therefore, we asked the Poultry and Egg

FASHION SHOW — At the Annual Conference of the Advertising and Sales Executive Club of Montreal, which took place on Friday, June 7, at Hovey Manor, North

Hatley, the wives of the executive were entertained at a fashion show. Four Montreal models, presented for the ladies enjoyment a display of furs, afternoon dresses

FRENCH OR PLAIN OMELET

3 eggs, 3 tablespoons water, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon butter. Mix eggs, water, salt and pepper with a fork until yolks and whites are blended. Meanwhile, heat butter in an omelet pan or heavy skillet just hot enough to sizzle a drop of water. Pour in egg mixture all at once. Mixture should begin to cook immediately at the outer edges. With the fork, lift cooked portions at edges so uncooked portions flow underneath. Slide pan rapidly back and forth over the heat to keep mixture in motion and sliding freely to avoid sticking.

When mixture is set, the egg no longer flows freely. The omelet is moist and creamy on top. Let it cook about one minute to brown the bottom slightly. Fold or roll, and serve promptly on a warm platter. Omelet should be tender and light, moist and delicately brown on the bottom. Use a 7 to 8-inch omelet pan or heavy skillet.

mised to contribute $16 a month for the child's support for at least a year. Monthly letters are received and sent to Thai; the letters include the original and the translation. The child reports his progress in school his activities and above all else expresses his grateful appreciation for the opportunity offered to him by his foster parents.

Thai's father has had tuberculosis for the past three years and has not been able to work since June of last year. In an effort to earn a living, the mother hawks bean soup, earning 27 cents a day, a pitiful sum which cannot begin to cover the cost of basic necessities for a family of seven. To keep from starving she has incurred a debt of $61.81. The three elder children are in school but are having great difficulty in meeting their school expenses. Outside help is urgent if the children are to receive their education and have any hope for the future.

The foster plan is non sectarian, non profit and anyone may have a financially adopted son or daughter by contacting Foster Parents Plan, P. O. Box 65, Station B., Montreal.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

IN BRIDGE, DON'T BE MOUSELIKE

In rubber bridge you should take plenty of chances in order to make your contract but in duplicate a player will occasionally decide to play safe for a small set on the theory that other players will be going down more.

This mouselike approach works on occasion, but generally you will do better to gamble for whatever contract you are in.

At the Southeastern championship in Miami, West selected the three of clubs as the least hopeless of all the leads at his disposal. South won the trick and led a heart to dummy's queen.

East won with the ace and led the nine of spades. South's ten lost to West's queen and back came the deuce of diamonds.

At this stage of the proceedings it was up to South to gamble for his contract. He could see that most players would have stopped below game and that it was up to him to take every chance in order to make his three no-trump.

Thus he should have gone up with the king of diamonds. When it held he could run off his clubs and wind up by finessing against the jack of hearts.

However, South decided to play safe. He played a low diamond. East won and led a spade to his partner. West

NEGLECT ONLY COMPLIMENTS VARICOSE VEINS WOES

Varicose veins are among the most common health problems of mankind. In order to understand them, one needs to understand the circulation.

When your heart beats, blood is forced into your arteries under pressure. This causes the arteries to pulsate. There is no pulsation in the veins.

In order for the blood to be returned to your heart it must fall by gravity or be squeezed upward by the contraction of your large voluntary muscles.

This is one reason why exercise helps circulation, but even this action could not keep the blood moving toward your heart unless your veins were equipped with valves to prevent any backward flow.

The hardest part of the job is getting the blood from your feet back to your heart. Most of the time you are standing or sitting, and the blood has to travel uphill.

When the veins of the legs are subjected to the pressure of gravity, as when you stand in one spot for a long time, they may dilate.

When such dilation has been at work over many years, it may reach a point where the valves can no longer prevent the blood from flowing downward. Such valves are said to be "incompetent."

This is one of the hazards of occupations that require standing in one place for long periods, as may be the case with barbers, dentists, bank tellers, and others. Pregnancy and childbirth also favor the development of varicose veins in some women.

When the incompetence is mild there are usually no symptoms, but the condition is likely to be progressive. As it progresses, aching pains, easy tiring, and a feeling of heaviness in the legs may be present.

In the early stages, some relief may be used by keeping the feet elevated on a footstool a much of the time as possible, and by wearing an elastic weave roller bandage, or elastic stockings.

These procedures do not remove the cause, nor prevent the condition from progressing.

On the other hand, in the early stages the veins may be injected with a clotting agent which will turn the incompetent veins into solid scar tissue.

The popularity of this method has fluctuated and it is now generally agreed that to be effective it must be applied early in the course of the disease.

Another important factor is the choice of the clotting agent. Recent studies indicate that sodium tetradecyl sulfate gives the best results.

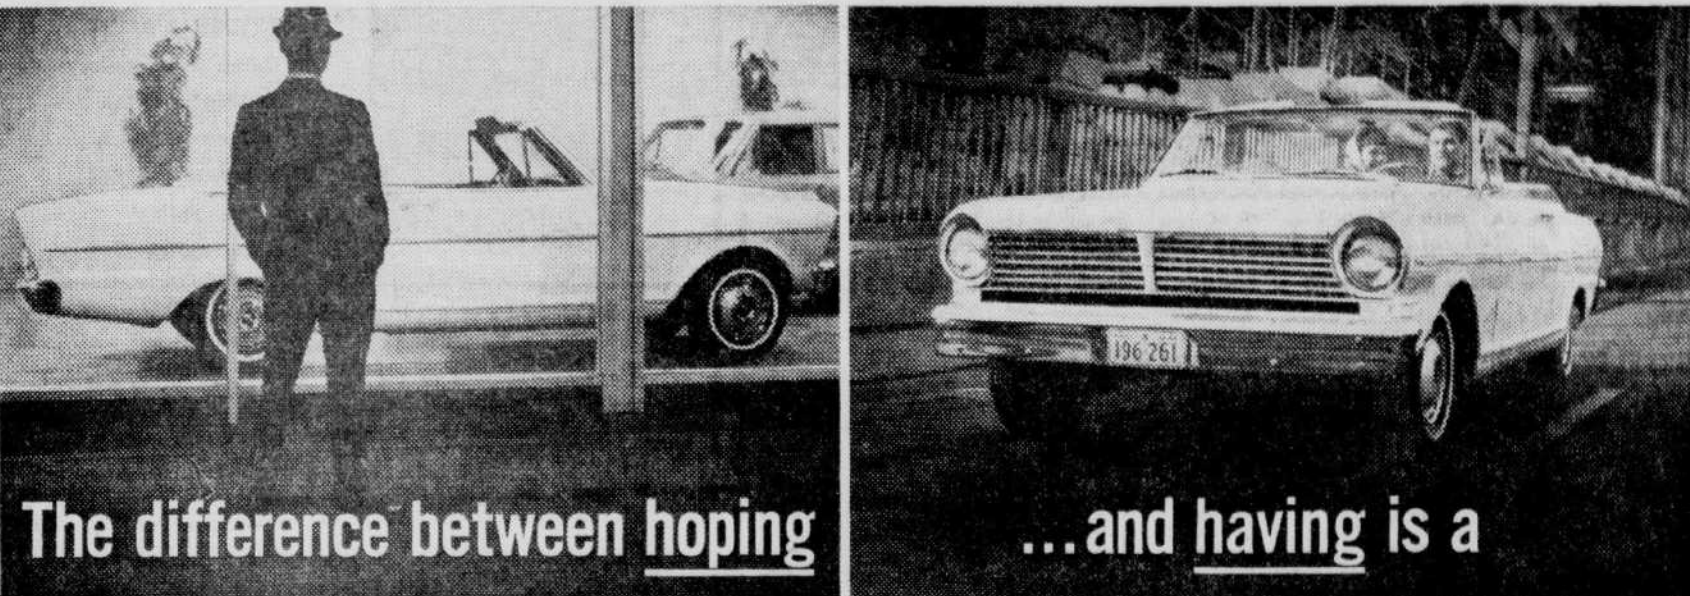

Taking these veins out of circulation, far from interfering with the return of blood to the heart, improves the process because the venous system is an interlacing network with numerous detour channels. The operation also helps to prevent these collateral channels from becoming incompetent.

When varicose veins have existed for many years, such complications as varicose ulcers of the skin and inflammation of the veins may occur. These complications are best prevented by having the varicose veins removed.

If, however, leg ulcers have already developed they must be healed before the varicose veins can be removed. This usually requires a prolonged stay in bed. After the ulcers are healed if the varicose veins are not removed the ulcers will return.

Once the veins are removed, the sooner the patient is allowed to walk the better, but an elastic bandage should be worn for 2 or 3 months after the operation.

Although varicose veins are common, the greatest damage is done by neglecting them and putting off having them injected or removed.

Indians and Red Sox post wins in Little League, Yankees lose close one, two games on tap this evening

Indians and Red Sox were the winners in Little League games played at the Parade Grounds. Red Sox downed Twins 18-12 while the Indians took a close 11-8 win over the Yankees. Tonight's Tigers travel to Lennoxville to take on the Yankees while Indians and Senators clash at the Parade Grounds.

It was two hits only for the Yanks in the opening inning. Indians in their half came up with two runs on hits by Simard, Aubert and M. Morin. Yankees got one of these back in the top of the second. Indians with a big second inning, which saw four runs cross the plate, jumped into a 6-1 lead on hits from Doyon, with a homer, and singles from Fleury, Simard, Aubert and Champagne.

Yankees in the third hit for three runs with Langlois and Garard doing the hitting. Indians went scoreless in the third. Yankees with a single run in the fourth made it a 6-5 ball game as the Indians were kept off the score sheet again.

Cotton and Langlois getting singles coupled with three walks in the top of the fifth pushed the game into an 8-6 score in the Yankees' favour. Indians got back into the lead in the last of the fifth with five runs crossing the plate on five hits in a row and two bases on balls did the damage. This ended the scoring as the Yankees were kept from scoring in the top of the sixth. Indians taking the game on a 11-8.

Orlando Cepeda gets job done for Giants, belts 430-homer to nip Dodgers and move within one game

Professor Al Dark: Give Orlando Cepeda another plus.

Maybe even two. For it was the big, powerful first baseman who got the job done for San Francisco Giants Monday night, shaking Giants out of a seven-game losing skid with a 430-homer in the eighth inning that snapped a tie and led to a 7-3 victory over the National League leading Los Angeles Dodgers.

Cepeda hit .306 last year with 35 homers and 114 runs batted in, but wound up on the wrong side of the ledger in a grading system of plus marks and minus marks kept by manager Alvin Dark. Now Cepeda's out to juggle the books and erase his demerits.

Cepeda hit his game-winning off Dodger relief specialist Ron Peranowski leading off the eighth. The homer, Cepeda's 12th, to go 40 runs batted in and a .308 average, broke a 3-3 tie and ended Dodgers five-game winning streak.

The triumph moved the defending champion Giants, tied for third-place with Chicago Cubs, to within one game of the front-running Dodgers with another clash to go in their two-game series. St. Louis Cardinals, rained out at Pittsburgh, are in second place, now only .002 points behind Los Angeles.

CUBS WIN — Elsewhere, Chicago edged Houston Colts 3-2 on Ken Hubbs' run-scoring single in the ninth inning. New York Mets downed Cincinnati Reds 3-2 and Philadelphia Phillies defeated Milwaukee Braves 6-2 in a game held to 5½ innings by rain.

Cepeda's homer, though decisive was only a part of Giants' 12-hit offensive against starter Bob Miller and a long list of successors. Willie McCovey hit a two-run homer to get Giants started. Willie Mays stroked three singles to keep things going until Cepeda connected and Ed Bailey wrapped it up with a two-run homer in the ninth inning.

Hubbs delivered his decisive hit following a single by Dick Bertell and a sacrifice. The run was the first earned off Colts' reliever Hal Woodeshick in 22

Acton Vale Beavers here this evening

First meeting this season, Beavers selling pace in circuit, Bessette may face Rejean Plourde tonight

Sherbrooke Alouettes will be gunning tonight to knock over the league-leading Beavers of Acton Vale at the Park Avenue Stadium. This is the first meeting this year between these two teams who met last fall in the finals of the league playoffs with the Beavers emerging the victors.

The AIs are two games behind the pace-setters and a victory tonight would help their cause to gain ground on the leaders. Granby is second a game and a half off the pace while Drummondville is tied with the AIs. Coaticook is 2½ behind with St. Johns four in the rear.

In other games on tap in the Leinster loop Coaticook Canadians move to Drummondville to tangle with the Royals while the Pirates will be at home to the Granby Knights in St. Johns. Manager Claude St. Vincent may send his left-handed hurler Andre Bessette to the mound while Rejean Plourde will be his opposition. Bessette in his last appearance hurled a three-hit ball but his mates failed to give him any runs to work on and he lost the decision to Drummondville.

Both these hurlers are known for their ability to hitting the ball as well as doing some fine pitching. Bessette has two home runs to his credit according to the latest league releases and owns a healthy .333 average. Lillas Poole is the leading hitter for the AIs with his .529 average while Chet Wodjle is next with .388 and Andre Bessette has .333. Gilles Robichaud is next with .313 to top the local sluggers.

The Beavers have some good hitters also with Sam Carter, their catcher, setting the pace with three homers to his credit. Dickson is their top man at the plate with an average of .333 followed by Jette with .304. The Beavers are a club which comes up with fine defensive play and although the rest of the team are noted for their slugging they bang out timely hits to help their good hurlers.

Tommy Davis gains on hitting leaders, Groat and Covington, Boston's Malzone leads American

NEW YORK (AP) — Tommy Davis, hitting hard in defence of his National League batting championship, has moved to within 11 points of the lead while spearheading a drive that has lifted Los Angeles Dodgers into first place in the pennant race. The Brooklyn-born outfielder hit at a .400 pace with 10 hits in 25 tries in last week's games. This boosted him into third place in the batting competition with a .329 average. He won the title last year with a .346 mark.

Dick Groat of St. Louis Cardinals and Wes Covington of Philadelphia Phillies are deadlocked for the top spot at .340. Groat slipped one point with eight hits in 24 times at bat while Covington dropped 11 points with a three-for-13 performance.

Ken Boyer of St. Louis moved up one place to fourth at .336 while Carl Warwick of Houston Colts advanced to fifth from ninth at .233.

Boyer gained six points with nine hits in 24 attempts while Warwick climbed 14 points with 8 for 19.

MALZONE AHEAD — Frank Malzone, Boston's veteran third baseman, took a commanding lead in the American League. He increased his average by eight points to .351-19 points higher than runner-up Al Kaline of Detroit, who moved up from the No. 6 spot with a 12-point gain.

Floyd Robinson of Chicago White Sox climbed one notch to third despite a four-point drop to .325. Leon Wagner, co-leader a week ago, slumped to fourth at .323. The Los Angeles outfielder managed only three hits in 20 tries.

Bob Allison of Minnesota Twins slammed two home runs to lift his American League batting total to 15.

Hank Aaron of Milwaukee continues to set the National League pace in homers with 17. He had one last week.

Present major league baseball player doesn't know how well off he is today compared to early-days

NEW YORK (AP) — The major league baseball player today doesn't know how well off he is.

He has a minimum $7,000 annual contract, he cannot be out more than 25 per cent in any year and all his traveling expenses are paid by the club. In addition, he has one of the most generous pension plans to be found anywhere.

This includes a $20,000 life insurance policy and health care benefits not only for himself but all members of his immediate family.

Some of the provisions of the player contract of 1887 give credence to the oft-repeated charge that early-day players were truly chaffs at the whim and mercy of the club owner.

For example: "The player assumes all risk of accident or injury, in play or otherwise, and of illness from whatever causes. If he falls sick, the club has the
